The UNDOING of Germany.

HOW TO MAKE A SECURE PEACE.
(By the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Compton-Rickett, P.C., M.P., Ex-President of the National Council of Evangelical Free Churches.)

The gloom which gathered over Great Britain and her Allies a year ago has drifted to Central Europe. It is now the German Empire and its dependencies which have lost their former place in the sun. The Power which determines destiny appears no longer propitious to them. "The Lord looked . . . through the pillar of fire and of the cloud and troubled the host of the Egyptians."

This will presently bring about a crisis demanding caution and self-control. It is to this country that Europe will look for a decision. To what ultimate point should our victory be pressed? Now the British are the paymasters to whom the Allies look and without whom further progress would be impossible. We have risen from a modest beginning to be the leaders in the combination—a great naval and military Power whose judgment is decisive. This responsibility imposes upon us a conscientious estimate of the object to be attained in proportion to the sacrifice to be made. We have not suffered as some others have done; our territories are practically intact, and no fear of exhaustion tempts us to make peace.

For the moment we are hacking our way through the hard shell of the German trenches, but all Flanders and Northern France is not honey-combed for defence, and when an evacuation becomes inevitable it will proceed far more rapidly than many anticipate in order that the enemy may save men and material for the defence of the Rhine. A strong man may keep a fever at bay up to the last, but he capitulates more completely than one apparently weaker, and his sudden collapse means death. It is hardly likely that Germany will retain her grip of Belgium at the expense of a German province. When the Russians cross the eastern frontier the western defence must weaken.

With the retirement of the German armies from Belgium a military raid of these islands will have become so remote that it may be left out of account. Our home garrisons will then be available to a greater extent than hitherto for foreign service, and we shall probably not maintain so large a number of men in this country. In spite of our misfortunes in the Dardanelles and Mesopotamia, Turkey must know that she is doomed. Between the upper and nether millstones she will be ground to pieces, thankful for any terms which would include the Calliphate, if indeed it is not late to recover the Holy Places.

With the retirement of Austrian troops from the Balkans, which is certainly imminent in face of the invasion of Hungary, Bulgaria may be expected to atone for her past misdeeds by sacrificing her dynasty and changing her alliance. These developments, which are probably approaching, would set free the garrisons of Saloniki and of Egypt, and bring us reinforcements from the east. But Germany herself will be compelled to concentrate in order to save her reserves. Even when the crisis approaches she will have large armies in the field, and probably a good supply of munitions. But she would never have permitted Austria to invoke the help of Turkey, even temporarily, if she had been in a position to sustain her ally. And in spite of the rumours of Turkey's support it hardly credible that Turkey would suffer herself to be weakened against the advancing Russians.

German Man-Power.

Everything points to an approaching depletion of German man-power. Even if she has still two to three millions whom she can draw upon in her desperation, the waste of war will account for these before many months are over. There can be no doubt that Russia can make good her losses, however long the war may last. Great Britain is on the ascending scale in numbers and efficiency. France is safe with the co-operation of her Allies, and Italy has plenty at her disposal.

Sooner or later, in months few or many, perhaps quite soon, Germany will have to admit to herself that she is beaten and will offer such terms that neutral countries may be impressed, and an opinion favourable to a settlement may crystallise into a limited party of peace within the belligerent countries themselves. This is the time when men of good will must guard against a premature benevolence which would be fraught with future danger to the world. It will be said with plausible effect, "We have done what we undertook to do." The invader has been driven out of Belgium and of France, Poland has been recovered. The Russians are within sight of Constantinople and of Budapest.

Germany has seen the error of her ways and is preparing to make good. She will compensate Serbia and France for the injury done to their civil life. She will throw Alsace-Lorraine into the bargain. She will offer her colonies in lieu of further indemnity. She will assent to new conventions by the gross for maintaining the future peace of the world. We shall be fed up with Hague Conferences hardly worth the paper upon which their conclusions are written. To save her empire, to preserve her territory, she will stay at nothing. Her failures will be attributed to bad diplomacy. She will take care not to enter into any future war at such a disadvantage. Give her time and she will recuperate.

What Must Be Done.

It may be asked, What more can you expect? You cannot destroy a whole people; Germany must continue to exist; to be reckoned with, at last to be reconciled. That is true, but you are dealing with the German Empire and its military organizations. The empire is not fifty years old. Before it came into existence Germany was not formidable, yet the German people were governed according to their own ideas, or so believed. German culture and learning then existed, influenced the civilized world, and has lost rather than gained by the diversion of national energies into more ambitious channels.

We must face the fact that no lasting peace can be secured while the German Empire exists. The service which Greek and Roman civilisation has rendered to the world did not depend upon political aggrandisement, and has far outlasted the political existence of the Greek States and of the Roman Empire. But the German Empire will never be destroyed except by defeat upon German soil, followed by disarmament and a political rearrangement. Relieved from the cost of her enormous armies and of her navy, she will be able to pay her way, readjust her finances, and to compensate the territories she has ravished.

No one suggests that purely German soil or a German people shall be placed under an alien government. But there are territories which she has annexed and Germanised within the last half-century from which she is bound to withdraw. In the west a federation of the little States from Luxembourg to Denmark would form a fairly compact empire commanding the North Sea, while Hamburg and the mouth of the Elbe could probably be neutralised under its supervision. The Slavonic countries on the eastern side, including Poland, the Danubian kingdoms, and the Balkans would fall into independent groups.

Austria-Hungary presents an even less difficult problem. Heligoland might properly be returned to the country which so lightly parted with it and become the northern Gibraltar of this Empire.

If Germany forgoes her former ambitions she may possibly win her way back to the respect of Europe, and so find her true place. A peace which falls short of this will not satisfy the righteous demands of the Europe she has threatened with destruction. It is not retribution but justice; and the dead will rise in judgment against us if we fall short of it.—Daily Mail.

The Real Friend In a Large Bottle.

The greatest friend to sick people is the one that helps them toward health. But nearly every human friend had heretofore suggested a different means of regaining lost health due to nervousness, overwork, debility and worry. Now there are dozens of friends right here in your own town who will agree that the best friend to their health is Zoetlic—the health tonic. This already famous remedy for "nerves" and their consequent ailments is a combination of glycerophosphates—the actual elements of the human body—with Cod Liver Oil and delicious tonic wine. A short two weeks of faithful trial will put you fair and square upon the path of bounding health. We know this so absolutely that if you cannot report real progress at the end of that time we will refund the purchase price. You who suffer and suffer and suffer should not delay beyond to-day. Sold by T. McMurdo & Co., Sole Distributing Agents for Newfoundland.

PUT OFF THE TRAIN.—Saturday evening as the Trepassey train was leaving the station a man belonging to the Southern Shore who was greatly under the influence of strong drink, started to make matters lively in a second class car, much to the annoyance of the other passengers. Conductors Lee and Penney were quickly on the scene and removed the disturber to the station platform.

The Other World.

It lies around us like a cloud
A world we do not see;
Ye the sweet closing of an eye
May bring us there to be.

Its gentle breezes fan our cheek
Amid our worldly cares;
How lovely and how sweet a love,
And mingle with our prayers.

Sweet hearts around us throb and beat,
Sweet helping hands are stirred;
And palpitate the vein between,
With breathings almost heard.

And in the hush of rest they bring
"Tis easy now to see
How lovely and how sweet a pass
The hour of death may be.

To close the eye and close the ear,
Wraps in the trance of bliss,
And gently laid in loving arms,
To swoon to that—from this.

Scarcely knowing if we wake or sleep,
Scarcely asking where we are,
To find all evil sink away,
All sorrow and all care.

Sweet souls around us, watch us still,
Press nearer to our side;
Let our thoughts, and our prayers,
With gentle helpings glide.

Let death between us be as naught—
A dried and vanished stream;
Your joy be the reality,
Our suffering life the dream.
Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe.

The School Girl Prophetess.

Mr. John Masefield, the poet, on a visit to the United States, recently offered some prizes for literary work done by students of Westover Girls' School at Middlebury, Connecticut. The poem here printed won the prize for poetry, and is surely a very remarkable national indictment—the utterance of a prophetess while a schoolgirl. The subject of her poem is her own country—America.

She goes and listens thrilled. She thinks it fine
That men should give their lives for honour sweet.
She tells her friends, "The lecture was divine—
I love it so!" and all the time her feet
Are beating out the measures of a dance.

The music teems with cries of dying men,
And still she dances on. She casts a glance
Outside. Good God! A moment only pauses, then
She dances on, that light and froth-like thing.

Ah, to those feet that lightly tread this floor
Soon may the whirling years their sorrow bring,
And leave their mark of misery evermore;

That her great luxury and vice forgiven
She may at last stand with all Europe shdiven.

Banks Must Advertise.
David Speer and Fleming Nevin, of Pittsburgh deserve the thanks of the newspapers fraternity for the stir they have made about the advertising by banks of funds left in their hands without claimants. It appears that these amounts are far longer than the public suppose; that it is only just and reasonable that the banks should be obliged by law to advertise for heirs or claimants and, failing to find them, to turn the funds over to the State.

It might at first appear that the advertising involved would be trifling for any individual paper, yet Mr. Speer claims to know that it would total $250,000 a year for one county, probably Allegheny County, in which Pittsburgh is located. And for all Pennsylvania it is estimated that the banks would have to advertise annually 2,000,000 accounts, from which they had not heard in two years, each item containing name, address and amount or character of property, which at two lines, for four insertions, figured at an average of ten cents a line, would make $1,600,000, as the amount receivable annually by Pennsylvania papers alone for this one sort of advertising. No wonder the banks are fighting the law. So much notoriety has been given the matter that probably all the States will sooner or later adopt some such law.—Newspaperdom.

Man Jumps From Train
As the Trepassey train was leaving Waterford Bridge, Saturday evening, a fisherman named Williams, of Bay Bulls, who was loaded up with fire-water, jumped from the train but fortunately escaped serious injury, with the exception of a few small cuts on his right cheek and forehead. The train was immediately stopped, and on picking up the victim he was placed on board the incoming express which happened to be passing at the time and landed back in the city. The Reid Nid. Co.'s officials are determined to carry out the rules relating to persons boarding the trains under the influence of liquor.

Yesterday's Accident

Providence clearly resides on Theatre Hill, but providence may be called upon once too often and fall to respond. Accidents are inevitable once and again on any railway or tram line, but which in the same place some half-dozen accidents of almost precisely the same nature occur, it is time to cease calling them accidents and look for a cause. It is not far to seek in this case. Either the gradient at Theatre Hill is too steep for safety or the street cars are inadequately supplied with brakes; or it may be that both statements are true. We appreciate the difficulty of avoiding dangerous inclines in a city built as St. John's is, but that difficulty or inconvenience cannot be considered where the public safety is concerned. The remedy so often suggested, of extending the line to Queen's Street, might or might not prove efficacious. Obviously it would not remove the cause of the trouble, and is at best a doubtful expedient for avoiding its effect when it does occur, but it would undoubtedly be an improvement on the present state of things. What is needed, of course, is the elimination of the cause itself, either by the abandonment of the gradient altogether or the provision of stronger and more reliable brakes. It is a matter which calls for a thorough examination by the Government Engineer, whose recommendations should be strictly followed.

The suggestion of 'Citizen' that the service should be carried westward along the old projected line on Le-Marchant Road is a good one, and often made. We think it is unquestionable that it would be of greater use than all but the Water Street section of the belt line. But it would not solve the Theatre Hill difficulty, for it is hard to see where the circuit could be completed without including an even more precipitous incline. That, however, is a matter for expert engineers. The present necessity is the safeguarding of the public against the possible occurrence of a serious disaster, and it should be met satisfactorily and without delay.

Roumanian Tactics.

Events in the Balkans are running a peculiar course. The movements of the many military units engaged there exhibit on the map a strange maze of eddies and cross-currents. Russia drives southwest through the Carpathians, Roumania west through Transylvania, the Allied armies in Macedonia generally north, and Bulgaria and Russia north and south to meet in eastern Roumania. All these movements are natural enough in the present situation, but the last named has an interest all its own. It is a fight behind a fight, a sort of back door combat. Roumania is clearly falling in with higher instructions in bending all her strength upon Transylvania. It seems to be the Allies' policy to let Russia, and not Roumania, form the upper arm of the nut-cracker that is closing upon Bulgaria. It is well chosen, for the Bulgars have little inclination to cross swords with their Russian quarrelsome friends, and they have not yet had occasion to do so. The occasion will soon come upon the banks of the Danube, and if matters are going ill for Bulgaria elsewhere, there may be need of strong discipline in the ranks of her army. One thing is certain—Roumania herself is offering little resistance to the Bulgar invasion, and her quiescence can only be explained by the presence of a very large Russian army in Dobruja. It looks as if the back-door fight will soon usurp the place of first importance, if only because it is a very short passage-way to another and far greater door, Constantinople. What is at present an episode may in a few days become part of a great plot of Russia's making, centering round the greatest prize of the war. Time will soon show whether this surmise is correct, but it is hard to find any other explanation of the situation.

The London Banks

Finance Sugar and Meat

Purchases of Meat in Great Britain Limited to $2,500,000 a Month.

London, August 31.—The Treasury announced last night that new arrangements have been made for financing the purchase of meat and sugar abroad on behalf of the government. Instead of the purchases being financed by the government, they will be financed by the banks in the same way as the latter finance ordinary trade purchases. The effect will be to arrange an ordinary banking credit for the government, which will enable it to regulate its payments for such purchases as it may make to defer them for periods up to 12 months.

The government purchasing agents—namely, the royal commission on the sugar supply in respect of sugar and Messrs. Anderson, Anderson & Co. acting for the beef and trade in respect of meat—are authorized themselves to draw or to instruct such banks and other firms as may be approved from time to time by the treasury to draw bills not exceeding six months after sight as may be arranged upon such London banks or banking houses as may from time to time be nominated by the treasury. The total amount of such bills to be drawn for meat purchases in any one month shall not exceed £2,500,000, and the total amount outstanding at any one time (including renewals) shall not exceed £10,000,000 in respect of meat purchases and £5,000,000 in respect of sugar purchases. The bills may be renewed from time to time, but in no case shall bills be drawn or renewed so as to mature later than October 31, 1917.

The chancellor of the exchequer proposes that the accepting banks with which such arrangements are made shall receive by way of remuneration ¼ per cent. on the amount of all three months' bills and ½ per cent. upon all six months' bills, whether originals or not.

The government will transfer funds to a special account at the paymaster-general's office to meet the bills as they fall due.

Two ordinary drunks were released on payment of $1.00.

A drunk and disorderly was also let go on depositing a similar amount.

DUE TO-DAY.—The Peri-Marguerite, the new steamer lately bought by A. H. Murray, is due to arrive here some time to-day. She is a ship of about the size of the S. S. Adventure.

Washout on the West Coast.

A terrific rain and wind storm swept the West Coast on Saturday and yesterday, resulting in a large number of washouts along the railway from Deer Lake to St. George's, affecting about one hundred miles of the road. Section crews are at work from both ends of the damaged division repairing bridges and rebalasting the track, and early this morning were within eleven miles of each other. They are expected to meet late this afternoon, when the express which is now held at Humbermouth will continue on her way east. Hundreds of small bridges crossing streams in the District of St. George's have been swept away, which will cost thousands of dollars to repair.

Train Notes.

The incoming express is held at Humbermouth owing to washouts. The outgoing express left Bishop's Falls at noon to-day.

The local from Carbonear arrived in the city at 12.30 p.m.

The Placentia train will not reach town till 3.30 p.m. to-day.

MOTOR TRUCK RUNS AMUCK.—Messrs. Ayre & Sons' motor truck was going up Water Street Saturday afternoon when the axle broke and the machine dashed towards the window of Steer Bros., but fortunately struck the pillar of the window and brought up. Several people who were around at the time barely escaped being run over. The motor truck was damaged by the collision.

BASEBALLERS RETURN.—The members of the city baseball team who were visiting Grand Falls returned to the city to-day having made the journey by freight train to Brigus Junction where they connected with the local from Carbonear and arrived in the city at 12.30 p.m. Owing to the heavy downpour of rain the second and third game which was scheduled to take place Saturday was called off, the city team winning the first and only game by 13 runs to 9.

Health Officer Figures in Double Accident.

Dr. R. A. Brehm, Public Health Officer, met with injuries Saturday night. He left town in the afternoon with a gentleman friend, each on a motor cycle, for Topsail. When returning at night, one of the wheels of Dr. Brehm's machine struck something on the Waterford Bridge Road and he was thrown violently to the ground and rendered semi-conscious. Dr. Duncan, of the Lunatic Asylum, placed his motor car at the disposal of his brother physician. Both were coming to town when the steering gear refused to act properly and the car crashed into a telegraph pole. Fortunately the occupants were not hurt this time.

As a result of the first accident Dr. Brehm was cut and bruised, though not seriously.

Aged Woman Injured By Falling.

About eight o'clock Saturday night, Mrs. John Ryan was going home from the R. C. Cathedral quickly as a heavy shower of rain had come on. When passing by the Synod Hall she slipped on a banana peel and fell to the ground. As a result her right leg was broken below the knee. After being picked up by friends and conveyed to her home on Theatre Hill, she was attended by Dr. C. Corebtr, who ordered the patient to Hospital, where she was taken.

Boy Killed by Motor Saturday.

A formal charge of Manslaughter Against Driver, who was Released on Bond.

At 5.50 p.m. on Saturday Mr. Hawvermale, Manager of the Imperial Tobacco Co., Ltd., in company with Mrs. Hawvermale and Mrs. Benedict, wife of Mr. J. S. Benedict, the American Consul, while coming east on the Topsail road and passing through Kane's Valley, accidentally ran down and instantly killed a little 6½ year old boy named James Byrne. It happened that at the time of the accident the car was proceeding very slowly to allow three country carts to pass without frightening the horses, when approaching the third cart on which were Messrs. C. and Edward Hynes, of Kelligrows, Mr. Hawvermale observed a small boy standing about twenty yards ahead in the middle of the road, apparently watching the departure of two motor cycles that were dashing along the road at high speed, but unaware of the approaching automobile. With his feet on the brake and disengaging pedal Mr. Hawvermale further reduced the speed, until the car barely moved, tooting his horn all the time. His eyes were fixed on the boy in the middle of the road, when suddenly from behind the rear cart he saw another little boy rush in front of his motor. Instantly he shut off the power and applied the brakes but too late to save the child's life, for in the meantime the big front wheel had passed over the poor little fellow's body, the car stopping within a few feet, as the hind wheel was several inches from the child's head. On picking up the victim, they found him breathing, but unconscious, and he passed away shortly after. Mr. Hawvermale rushed with all speed for Dr. Duncan, who on arrival found his services of no avail. After removing the body to his home, he came to town and reported the matter to the police. Magistrate Morris was summoned and after hearing the particulars as related by Mr. Hawvermale, charged him with manslaughter, but allowed him bail at $11,000, his sureties being Messrs. R. H. Trapnell and Dr. Mitchell in the sum of $3,000 each and a personal bond of $5,000. Mr. W. J. Higgins is counsel for him and arranged for his release. Saturday night the body of the boy was brought to the morgue by the police, where Dr. Mitchell held a post mortem examination. Mr. and Mrs. Hawvermale have expressed their regret to the family and are feeling badly over the affair. Mrs. Benedict, who was in the front of the car and witnessed the accident also expressed her sorrow to the bereaved family.

Last Holiday.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—As the letter in this morning's Daily News points out, Wednesday next will be the last holiday of the summer, and as the fishing season closes on Friday, Wednesday will be the last occasion for this year on which troutmen may enjoy a day's sport out of town. I believe if the Reid Newfoundland Co. ran a troutmen's train to Placentia to-morrow night, or if they altered the schedule of the Placentia train and instead of running it to-morrow morning, or Wednesday morning, ran it to-morrow night, a great favor would be conferred upon the large number of anglers who are looking forward with more or less pleasure to Wednesday next. I feel sure that Mr. Johnston, with his usual kindness, will consider this proposition sympathetically, and I believe if there is any way of accommodating the sportsmen who view with regret the closing down of the season's fishing, that he will not pass it by. Commending this request to him.

Yours very truly,
"ANGLER."
St. John's, Sept. 11th, 1916.

Indian Island Notes.

The spirit of patriotism is astr and the ladies of the community are doing their bit. Quite a lot of old white spotted material has been collected and forwarded to Mrs. Browning, one of the Red Cross workers, St. John's.

On Sept. 4th several ladies from the north and south side served tea in the Orange Hall for the benefit of the wounded soldiers. The sum of thirty-three dollars and forty-seven cents was realized, which will be sent to headquarters as soon as convenient.

The results of the C.H.E. exams. are to hand. In this place Perry's Island school again leads; five sat, three passed two in intermediate and one in primary. This is not a bad showing considering the school did not open until the first week in November of the educational year.

The codfishery is practically over and the voyage on the whole is a poor one. Quite a number of our fishermen are gone to Grand Falls; they were offered two dollars and fifty cents a day before leaving here.

VIENNA, To-day. The Russians have made a further advance in the Carpathians but have been checked in their efforts to break the Austrian lines southeast of Lemberg above Halicz. The War Office announces the Russians suffered heavy losses in engagements below Lemberg, including 1,000 men captured.

RUSSIANS ON THE BORDER.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch to Reuters from Copenhagen says that the Russian cavalry occupied several points on the Bulgarian-Roumanian frontier.

FIGHTING IN THE WEST.

LONDON, To-day. A British communication issued shortly before midnight says: South of the Ancre there is no change in the situation. About noon yesterday the enemy counter attacked north of Ghinchy but was repulsed. In the last 24 hours more than 250 prisoners and 3 machine guns have been taken since Saturday. The progress of our attacks has also been closely followed by our airmen, who at times engaged the hostile troops with machine gun fire. As the result of many aerial combats three hostile machines were destroyed and others driven down and damaged. On the remainder of the British front there was the usual trench warfare. On Saturday night our troops entered the enemy's trenches south of Neuve Chapelle and inflicted severe casualties on them.

IN MACEDONIA.

LONDON, To-day. The following British communication concerning the operations in Macedonia was issued last night: On the Salonika-Struma front during the night we shelled Jenikof and Nevoljen. Enemy parties and working parties were dispersed by our machine gun fire. A successful raid was carried out on the Doiran front.

GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED.

PARIS, To-day. Two German attacks southwest of Berney were repulsed, according to an official statement issued by the War Office last night.

THE TROUBLE WITH SWEDEN.

LONDON, To-day. Three further notes, rather sharp, have been exchanged between Britain and Sweden with regard to the difficulties brought about by the Allied blockade and Sweden's retaliatory seizure of mails in transit between England and Russia. The British Foreign Secretary, Viscount Grey, insists that as a condition of submitting the matter to arbitration Sweden must promise not to interfere again with the English parcel post and matter in transit across Sweden. The Swedish Government apparently is determined not to make such an engagement; and now the correspondence has been conducted almost wholly between Viscount Grey and the Swedish Minister at London, Count Wrangel, but Viscount Grey's latest note to Count Wrangel says Count's communication is not understood, and that the British Minister at Stockholm is being directed to present the matter to the Swedish Government. Count Wrangel has now gone to the continent, where it is announced he will stay for several weeks.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day. Continuing their advance in western Dobruja the German-Bulgarian forces have captured the old Bulgarian fortress of Silistria which lies on the eastern bank of the Danube about 25 miles northeast of Turtukal and 60 miles east of Bucharest, the capital of Roumania, and about an equal distance south of the Constanza-Bucharest railway line. The capture of the fortress is announced by the Berlin War Office. In Banat, north of Orsova, however, the Roumanians are keeping up their advance against the Austrians, having compelled the Austrian right wing after it had pushed them back 2½ miles to withdraw to its former position under strong counter attacks. Attempts by the Roumanians to advance against the heights west of Czik Szerda were repulsed. In southern Bukovina, near the junction of the Hungarian and the Roumanian border, the Germans are in contact with the Roumanians. Berlin and Vienna concede a gain of ground to the Russians in the Carpathians near Seabie to the West Shygot. The Russians, says Berlin, are on the offensive from Baltic to the wooded heights of the Carpathians but everywhere except near Shygot their attacks have been repulsed. An attempt by the Russians to break through the Austrian lines southeast of Lemberg near Halicz failed, according to Vienna, with severe losses. The Vienna statement mentions Turkish forces are fighting with the Austrians in the district east of Votrenik, while the British have shelled Jenikof and Nevoljen and made a raid on the Doiran front. In Albania the Italians in the Avlona sector have taken without opposition several Austrian points of vantage. The usual artillery activity continues in the Austro-Italian theatre.

SPANISH SHIP SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. The Spanish steamship Mayo has been sunk; the crew were saved.

A CORRESPONDENT'S STORY.

LONDON, To-day. General Brussloff in an interview with the correspondent of the Daily Chronicle at the Russian front predicts the end of the war by August next. The Austro-Hungarian army, assailed from all sides, he said, won't be able to stand much longer before the hordes of enemies who are hurling themselves against it and preparing to increase the vigor of their blows. The intervention of Roumania is an event of the first order. I am no prophet of the future; it is in God's hands, but if I had to make a hypothesis, I should be inclined to think that the month of August, 1917, might see the end of our memorable work. The present war is one which it is impossible for the Allies to lose, although a great deal remains to be accomplished. A successful result is already in our hands; the game is already won.

BELGIAN AVIATORS.

HAVRE, To-day. An official statement issued by the Belgian War Office says: A Belgian aviator flew over Brussels on Wednesday night and dropped copies of a proclamation. Another aviator performed a similar mission over Antwerp.

NORWEGIAN TORPEDOED.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. The Norwegian steamer Landborg, from London for Rotterdam, has been sunk by a submarine. The crew of the submarine stripped the steamer of all copper objects before blowing it up. The crew landed.

GERMANS REPULSED.

PARIS, To-day. Five times last night the Germans attacked the positions newly won by the French on the Somme front. The War Office announced that they were repulsed each time with heavy losses.

A GERMAN OPINION.

BERLIN, To-day. Hallibry, Turkish Minister of the Interior, arrived here to-day from though nothing had been officially announced, the closing of the clubs of the Reservists League, a step demanded by the Entente was begun on Sunday evening.

BRITISH HOLD GINCHY.

LONDON, To-day. Two efforts were made yesterday by the Germans to recapture Ghinchy on the Somme front from the British, but it is announced officially that the attacks were beaten off. The enemy made two more counter attacks on Ghinchy yesterday, which were repulsed. Several small detachments of hostile infantry attempted to attack our line near Mouquet farm, and the vicinity of Pozieres, but were driven off between Neuville St. Vaast and La-Basse Canal. Our troops entered the enemy's trenches at several places, taking some prisoners.

BRITISH ATTACK BULGARS.

PARIS, To-day. British troops on the front in Greek Macedonia took the offensive last night. They crossed the Struma River, the War Office announced to-day, and attacked the Bulgarians who are resisting desperately. The British troops crossed the Struma under fire. Having gained a footing on the eastern bank at a point about 40 miles northeast of Salonika, they attacked the villages of Neyalyn and Karababes.

ITALY'S BLACK LIST.

LONDON, To-day. Italy is compiling a black list of firms in neutral countries who are in close business relations with enemy countries, according to a Rome despatch to the Times.

BULGARIA AND GERMANY.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. According to the Berlin Tageblatt, the King of Bulgaria's visit to the German Emperor was a sequel to the entry of Roumania into the war and a proof, if any were needed, of the firmness of the alliance between Bulgaria and the Central Powers.

HORRIBLE CONDITIONS IN ARABIA.

NEW YORK, To-day. Conditions in northern Arabia are horrible beyond description, according to a letter from a missionary in that district made public yesterday through the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. He writes that thousands have dug their own graves and lie in them to await death. Cannibalism is by no means unknown and green locusts have threatened every green thing, the refugees are eating the locusts. The Turkish gendarmes are absolutely heartless, the missionary says, and use the lash unmercifully on women and children too much exhausted to drag themselves further along the roads.

La Milady's Boudoir.

THE MORNING AFTER.
We are often caused to wonder how so many women manage to look young all the time, and yet they attend all the social affairs of the season just even as you and I, and their daytime habits are conducive of no rest than that nightly gaiety.

The whole secret revolves on a very tiny and well defined pinnacle—that of taking good care of themselves the morning after the ball.

When you awaken and you observe in the mirror that your eyes are enclosed in rather a baggy network of wrinkles, you feel a bit of resentment for the previous evenings which have robbed you of your beauty. Don't regret what is over and done, simply go about a method to rectify matters.

The best way to freshen up the face quickly and effectively is to go into the bathroom, turn on the hot water faucet and the cold water faucet. Dip two towels into the hot, wring them out, and hold them over your face for a minute. Now take two more and do the same with the cold water. Then the hot again and finish with the cold.

You will feel refreshed and your nerve lines will have disappeared. This little treatment is simple and not injurious.

It is always best to plan ahead for any evening which will require an immaculate toilettes and pose. Begin to dress long before the guests arrive. When you have glanced for the last time in your mirror and are satisfied with the image which smiles back at you. Sit quietly by the window and relax. Gain control of your thoughts. Think of the pleasant evening before you. You will be surprised at the easy grace with which you will receive your visitors.

One Submarine.

A submarine dish, conceived by Jules Richeco, French chef of the Vanderbilt Hotel, New York, who has no sympathy with the undersea craft of the Teutons, has met with success at dinners in that hotel. Several persons recently through sheer curiosity ordered "one submarine." It is similar to a deep dish grill and is served on a large, oblong plate of ocean blue. The contents of the dish are one-half baked lobster, one baked soft shell crab, two oysters baked in shells, one stuffed clam in the shell and one baked potato.

Stories, Lost and Found.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The department of lost and found stories is thriving. Two of my own lost stories have been found by reader friends. The story of the little boys who lived in the packing cases is "Teddy and Carrots." The story of the two girls in the closet is "The Avenger," by Thomas DeQuincy.

Also I have received several lost notices to insert. Here are two of them:

But The Roses Bloom Just The Same.

"My 'lost story' is a little newspaper poem supposedly written by a colored man. The gist of it was that no matter how backward the spring or how cold or stormy the weather, the roses would bloom just the same, when it came time for them. It was written in dialect and was a very sweet little poem. And this year more than ever it came to my mind, as of course you remember how discouraging the weather was, but the roses bloomed just the same."—A Lover of Roses.

Can't You Middle-Aged Folks Find This!

"About forty years ago, when I was a little girl," writes another friend, "a novel came into our house and was enjoyed by the whole family. Later, in talking of the story, it was discovered that not one of us could remember the title. The book was of the type written by Mrs. Oliphant and Miss Braddon.

A Real Old-Fashioned Novel.
"Here is the outline. An Englishman and his daughter are on a journey. At an inn they meet two men who are cousins. Both men fall in love with the girl, who is very handsome. A few nights later one of the cousins, who profits financially by his death, proves an alibi and marries the girl. They go to live on a large estate. Soon a band of gypsies come and camp in the grounds and the lord of the manor seems helpless to oust them. His wife cannot understand why she should have to put up with these people. The gypsies threaten the gentleman and some stress is laid on a handkerchief they possess in evidence of his crime. Finally, just as detection is imminent, the owner of the estate goes for a horseback ride and is brought home dead. I believe the wife never knew the truth about him."

I trust other reader friends will be able to help these two out. And why not send along your own lost notice.

Farewell to S. A. Officer.

On Sunday, Aug. 20th, the S. A. Corps of this town extended farewell to Capt. Parsons who laboured with them the past year.

A year ago Capt. Parsons came to this town with orders from Divisional Headquarters to open a Corps here, and, if necessary, build a S. A. Hall. He has successfully accomplished both, having organized a splendid Corps and also erected and completed a fine hall.

The farewell meeting was presided over by Mr. F. J. Dove, of this town, who in very choice language referred to the Captain's work.

An address from the Corps was read by the Chairman:—
To Captain Parsens, Bishop Falls.
Bishop Falls,
Aug. 20th, 1916.

Dear Captain,—
With feelings that we cannot fully express in words, we, the undersigned, in behalf of the S. A. Corps, of Bishop Falls, do hereby tender our sincere regards, and, highest esteem, and thanks for your untiring labour in behalf of our Army Corps the past year.

We feel that we are losing more than a friend, more than a leader, and although we sincerely regret to have you go, we know that our loss is others gain.

We shall always cherish the kindest remembrances of your faithful devotion amongst us, and, we wish you God speed and every success in your life's work until you hear the words from our Master:—"Well done, thou good and faithful servant enter thou into the joy of Thy Lord."

Signed,
EDWARD WARREN, S. M.
DAVID CURRIE, Treasurer.
The Captain thanked the members of the Corps for their very beautiful address, and assured them that during his absence he would ever remember them in his prayers. After which the very interesting meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

THE HUGHES SPINACI.

Though holding it a dandy date that saw Charles Hughes a candidate, he's in the wrong, I swear, to hide his facial scenery behind a stack of upland hair. Ah, long have I been laboring, to get men hearing, sabering the handdowns from their chins; I've argued long and clamantly to show the human family that spinach never wins. For men who balk at barbering all kinds of germs are harrowing, among their swath of hair; said germs will be attacking us, with painful ailments racking us, which surgery isn't fair. I view C. Hughes admiringly; to station high, untrilling, he climbed the weary way; I'd whoop for him, uproarious, if he, with courage glorious, came from behind the hay. He's strong and hale and vigorous; in battling wrong he's rigorous; his race I might endorse, with fervor editorial, if he, in joint tonsorial, would shear away the gorge.

An Australian soldier struck dumb by shell shock in France, and now in the hospital, has recovered his speech as the result of a further shock—a trick played on him by three other wounded soldiers, with the connivance of a physician. A hammock had been stretched between two trees on the river bank, and the dumb soldier was persuaded to occupy it. As he was doing off in the summer sun the rope near his head was suddenly cut, with the result that the occupant turned a somersault and fell into the water. As he clambered to the bank he called out irritably: "Who did that?" The man now talks in a hoarse whisper.

Canned Grayfish (Dogfish) on Market.

Samples of canned grayfish (dogfish) packed in Gloucester under the supervision of a representative of the Bureau of Fisheries by the Gorton Pew Fisheries Co., has reached New York. According to the legend on the tins, this new variety, which the bureau is seeking to introduce as a new fish food, has been packed under methods approved by the chemists who are in direct charge of the propaganda.

Canned grayfish is offered at 80 cents a dozen for 14 ounce tall cans. The appearance of the fish is no less inviting than other accepted varieties. To the acute taste it is somewhat different than most canned fish, the flavor being somewhat salty and strange.

The tins bear the following: "Grayfish has never before been utilized as a food fish because it was not adaptable to the methods of curing in general use. The developments of the canned fish industry has made it possible to place on the market in this deliciously flavored and highly nutritious fish at low cost."

Of course there is no demand in New York for canned grayfish at present, and it is the belief of operators that it will be some time before it is accepted by the New York trade. The flavor of the fish, however, it likely to recommend it to certain consumers who have heretofore used quantities of bonito, yellow fin and inferior grades of albacore or tuna. Factors in New York have evidenced some interest in the new variety of canned fish and many have taken occasion to sample it.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette, Aug. 26th.

Your Boys and Girls.

Quite often the upholstery of a baby's carriage becomes faded, worn or soiled, but a new one can be made very easily. Cut a paper pattern the size and shape of back and sides of carriage and make a cover to fit out of white pique or a natural colored linen. Bind with a wash braid and make buttonholes along the edge. On the upholstery of the carriage sew pearl buttons and button the cover on.

Little children especially those nervous or highly strung are disposed to keep on crying when they get started. When you wish a child to stop sobbing get him to take a good drink of cold water. It almost always will stop the sobbing immediately.

Don't forget that children are more seriously affected by impure air than grown people. Don't forget that lowered vitality makes children more liable to catch any infectious disease. Don't say "don't" to your little ones. Remember to tell them what they are to do, not what he is not to do.

A Sickly Wife No Fit Mate For Any Man

GIRLS AND WOMEN SHOULD LOOK WELL TO THEIR HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

Never before was physical health and vigour so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as to-day.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone quickly follows a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus energy so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive vitalizing tonic.

It is specially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct from The Cattarhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

BRITISH OCCUPY GINCHY.

LONDON, Sept. 10. The British statement officially says that Ginchy was wholly occupied last night, as well as the territory between the village and Leuze Wood. The Austrians are retreating before the Russians, blowing up forts and bridges. The French have assaulted and taken a section of German trenches east of Fleury. German counter attacks were repulsed.

SUCCESSFUL RAID.

LONDON, Sept. 10. British aviators carried out another series of raids, directed against German aerial establishments in Belgium. The latest attack is described officially as follows: Our aeroplanes attacked the enemy's aerodromes at Chistelles and Handzame. A large number of bombs were dropped with satisfactory results. All the machines returned.

The Russians have occupied some of them. The great bridge across the Dnieper, it adds, has been blown up. The Russians hold the left bank of the river and are cannonading the retreating Austrians. THE WATERMELON.

The watermelon is a pleasing and harmless beverage which is 20 per cent. water and 80 per cent. seeds, much on the order of Sunday-school lemonade. Owing to the lack of alcohol in the watermelon, it is much in favor with the clergy and can be shipped into a dry state without requiring the customer to swear that it is bought for medicinal purposes only.

Watermelons are grown largely in the south and are used to sustain and inflate the colored brother. When a greedy, wabble-jointed cotton hand has wrapped himself around a thirty-pound watermelon and settled back for a sonorous nap, he will look as if somebody had attached a tire pump to him and forgotten to shut off the engine. The look of perfect contentment which fastens itself upon the face of a Georgia darkey who has eaten six or eight two-story watermelons, seeds and all, is enough to cause a hardened dyspeptic to jump off the lake front.

The watermelon has been grown in this country for a hundred years and thousands have been eaten by our college professors and other shining intellects, but nobody has ever discovered a way to prevent it from running to seeds and clogging up the windpipe of the trustful northerner. The watermelon would be served at polite social functions more if it were not for the harrowing fear on the part of the hostess that some nervous male guest will get a few seeds upside down in his neck and have to be operated on with a pair of duck-bill pliers. To a country which boasts the incubator baby and the non-corrosive banana the presence of the watermelon seed is a standing reproach.

Watermelons intended for shipment are picked before they have had time to get ripe anywhere except on the surface, when they are sent into the far north and bought unsight and unseen by people who hope for the best. All such purchases are usually followed by disappointment and a rebellious uprising in the stomach. Economical housewives try to get even by manufacturing the watermelon pickle, which is fed all winter to cowed husbands who are too broken-spirited to resist.

The watermelon is a great delicacy when it is allowed to stretch out and get ripe internally. If there were more of this kind of watermelons to be had, the average grocer would not wear such a hunted look.

Liquid Catarrh Remedies Useless Only Relieve—Never Cure.

They go direct to the stomach, have very little effect on the linings of the nose and throat, and entirely fail to cure. Only by cleansing the air passages, by relieving the inflammation and killing the germs is cure possible. No combination of antiseptics is so successful as Catarrhozone. In breathing it you send the richest pine balsams right to the seat of the disease. Irritating phlegm is cleared out, hoarseness, coughing and hacking are cured. For a permanent cure for Catarrh, nothing equals Catarrhozone, get it to-day, but beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhozone.

All dealers sell Catarrhozone, large size containing two months treatment, costs $1.00; small size, 50c.; sample size, 25c.

Austria Now Ready to Make Peace With Allies

London, Aug. 31.—An event of supreme importance, far transcending that of the intervention of Rumania and the prospective entry of Greece into the war, is awaited now at any moment by the Chancelleries of the so-called coup d'etat by Hungary.

The formal separation of this kingdom from the Austrian Empire is affirmed in authoritative circles in Italy, where relations with Hungary of an informal kind have during the last few weeks been quite close, to be now inevitable and of imminent occurrence. It was only able diplomatic work on the part of the Austrian statesmen which prevented a break before now.

The vitally interesting fact in this connection is that Hungary is expected at once to make separate peace. Another extraordinary feature of the event which is being watched for is the fact that the chief burden of responsibility for it will be placed on the shoulders of the statesmen of Prussia.

Treachorous Deed's Retribution. Prussia, the Tribune says, is likely bitterly to reject the treacherous deed which it has committed against Austria in supporting the leaders of the separatist movement of Hungary.

But in taking this action, the Rome newspapers adds, Prussia was guided by dictates of the great General Staff which, in its bewilderment over the dangers which face it on all sides and over the lack of success of all its military efforts, was induced to throw itself into the arms of the strong Hungarian leaders.

The latter recently made several trips to Berlin and threatened and bulldozed the Prussian war chiefs until they adopted a course which desperation seemed to them to make necessary.

It is expected that the very powerful party led by Count Karoly already has completed all the necessary measures for the sudden cutting loose from the Austrian empire. When the hour for the coup d'etat arrives it first will be accomplished, and then application will be made in the Hungarian Parliament for its formal legalization.

The step taken will be a formal demand that Hungary take charge of her own defences. With Russian military forces in the Carpathians and with Rumanian troops over the border in Transylvania, the Hungarian constitution will be invoked in behalf of the action decided upon—namely, the recall of all the Hungarian Hottveds into Hungarian territory and under the direct command of Hungarian military chiefs.

Doing Their Bit.

We have heard in this country a little now and again of the speeding-up of the output of munitions in England. But Boyd Cable in his little volume "Doing their Bit" outlines the story of what is being done and gives vivid glimpses of the work that make it seem like some tale of magic. Mr. Cable, with the approval and assistance of the Ministry of Munitions, traveled all through the country to find out just what was being done, and he has written this account of it primarily as a reassurance for the men at the front. In explaining this side of the book's reason for existence he tells rather more than was known before, at least in this country, of how the British lines in France have suffered and been held back by lack of ammunition. He made his observations and wrote his account of them last winter, so that his references are to conditions at the front during the first sixteen months of the war. After telling how grimly the troops held on during the first winter in the hope of plenty of munitions in the spring he says:

"And I know too well the bitter disappointment and black rage that filled the front (Mr. Cable was with the front as a soldier in the trenches during all that time) when the spring came and brought us not a plenty of munitions, but tales of a great shortage, stories of strikes and shirkers, woe of a wasted winter. And when the spring dragged on into summer and the summer crawled past and brought us face to face with the certainty of another winter in the trenches. But these things are past, and, with the front, I am glad to leave them and let bygones be bygones."

There is all the satisfaction of a long half-starved man set down before an endless vista of square meals in the floating, deep-lying pleasure with which he sees the miles upon miles of plants and the armies of employees turning out a vast stream of shells and shrapnel and bombs. And there is revelation beyond words in the mingled patches and joy with which he tells "you men who cling to your battered and water-logged trenches that winter while the German shells pounded them and you to pieces and our own guns were making a cruelly feeble reply, that "we are never, never, never going to be short again."

It is an impressive picture Mr. Cable gives of the mobilizing of industry all through England to provide these huge streams of munitions and one that will have much interest for American readers, in view of our own tentative thoughts in that direction. The firmness and comprehensiveness of the grip which the Ministry of Munitions has taken on the whole industry of the country is no less than amazing. Mr. Cable says that it is "wide and strong beyond the widest dreams of the craziest autocrat." It seems to be quite as efficient as that portion of the German war machine under stress, and less cumbersome. It knows or learns about every barrow-load of old iron that is for sale, every lathe or machine for working metal that is imported, every new or second-hand machine that is for sale, and if it needs any of these things for making munitions it commandeers them. Mechanics are taken from their jobs and set to munitioning. If a factory for making motor cars is needed for making shells, the Ministry Inspector orders it to stop the work and make shells. In short, Mr. Cable declares that "the engineering resources of the country are mobilized and efficiently organized and turned full force on munition making."

Local business men were called on to organize their communities, form committees, and get the last ounce of munition work out of their districts. These committee men, chairmen, secretaries, works owners, managers, inspectors, are working twelve, fifteen, eighteen hours a day. To help erect and organize and run the hundreds of huge plants men have been called in from their jobs in Canada, the United States, Africa, railway surveys, in Brazil, oil fields at Baku, from bridge building, well boring, tunneling, dumped down at home and set to "planning, estimating, figuring, tearing up the foundations of the earth" all to increase the output of munitions.

Mr. Cable tells of one huge plant that he saw in process of erection, the area of its works covering a section twelve miles long and at no place less than a mile wide. It has water, drainage, and lighting systems, powerful pumping stations and a great reservoir, a big power house to carry electricity throughout the area, streets of workshops and workers' houses, stores, shops, churches, clubs, all solidly built of stone, brick, steel and wood. And all of this huge amount of construction, which ordinarily would have required at least three or four years, was being done inside of six months. Compare with this an instance he gives showing how eagerly the people of England are now "doing their bit" for the men at the front, of a "factory" in a top floor, back bedroom in which an old man runs a knockneck, rheumatically lath making fuse parts out of a brass rod. The room not being long enough to hold the lathe and the brass rod, the old man had knocked a hole in the wall through which the end of the rod sticks out until it works in again through the lathe an inch at a time. And the old man's old "missus" takes her place at the lathe and keeps it going when he leaves it to eat or sleep. Tobacco factories and gramophone works, motor works and boiler-makers, any and every kind of factory, little or big, whether or not for the making of machinery, have been set to the making of munitions "throughout the length and breadth of Great Britain." And as to the efficiency with which all this vast network of factories works together, Mr. Cable says:

"Every scrap of work turned out by every firm or factory is done to gauge, and a screw made in a back room in Bermondsey and another turned at Clydebank will fill and fit a screw-hole bored in a Birmingham shop just as exactly as if the one man or machine had made the lot."

Perhaps the most wonderful part of the whole magic tale is the rapidity with which expert munition makers have been made out of all manner of men and women drafted from every imaginable occupation in so short a time. It is even more wonderful than the feat of Lord Kitchener with his raw recruits. Mr. Cable dwells at some length upon this phase of his story. He devotes a chapter also to the work of the British women, going into it with some detail, and giving many interesting incidents. In these munition works it is evident that the spirit of democracy is as steadily and efficiently "doing its bit" as are the workers themselves.

Mr. Lloyd George, former Minister of Munitions, contributes a foreword consisting of half a dozen lines which express in a single sentence the hope that Mr. Cable's book will be informing for both the public at home and the men on the battlefields.—Sydney Daily Post.

The Street Car Service

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—For the fifth or sixth time a street car has run away down Theatre Hill and brought up in Soper & Moore's shop and for the fifth or sixth time there has been no fatality. The question suggests itself—when are we going to have a change in the system or route? Since the street car lines were laid seventeen years ago the town has altered very much. The area from the top of Long's Hill half a mile north and west is thickly populated now but was vacant ground seventeen years ago. The street cars to-day serve only a small portion of those who are entitled to the use of this public convenience and it seems to me that the time has arrived when a change should be made. Rails are already laid along LeMarchant Road and they might be linked up with the new belt line very easily. I feel sure that Mr. H. D. Reid, the Vice-President of the R. N. Co., will give this his consideration. Yours truly, CITIZEN. St. John's, Sept. 11, 1916.

Household Notes.

Never allow soiled clothing in a bedroom. Old velvetene makes very good polishing cloths. When the skin is sun scorched give it a milk bath. If the fern drops its fronds, it is probably rootbound. Cereals and fruit make a good summer luncheon dish. Sifted flour is good for dusts because it leaves no lint. Scrambled eggs on toast make a very good breakfast food. Try browned breadcrumbs and cream for a breakfast food. The best nerve tonic in the world is a long walk out of doors. If it is necessary to keep beef for a time immerse it in beer milk. It is wrong to allow silver to stand over night without washing. When cooking beef in the fireless cooker, do not salt it until it is done. If the dahlia stalks are cut back now you will have better blooms later.

Memorial Service at Cochrane St. Church

For the Late Hon. H. J. B. Woods.

A very large congregation assembled in the Cochrane St. Methodist Centennial Church last evening at the memorial service held in memory of the Hon. H. J. B. Woods, P.M.G. The pulpit, communion rail and choir gallery were neatly draped in black. The service opened with the singing of that well known hymn, "Now I have found the ground wherein," followed by prayer by a former beloved pastor, the Rev. Dr. Cowperthwaite. The scripture lesson, the 14th chapter of St. John, was read by the Rev. Dr. Penwick. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Bond, introduced the first speaker, Alex. Robertson, Esq., of the Presbyterian Church, who spoke of Mr. Woods' work from a Sunday School viewpoint, beginning with the history of the very small school in the old Temperance Hall and then branching out to the large and flourishing school of to-day. In 1883 a Sunday School Association was formed at a meeting held in St. Andrew's Church, and Mr. Woods had the honor of being elected President at the hands of such well known men as the Revs. Beaton, Percival, McNeil, Boyd and Messrs. G. W. Lewis, J. E. F. Peters, Barnes, Archibald, Punney, Martin and others. The Sunday School makes the church, and Mr. Robertson exhorted the workers to be faithful and loyal, and to work earnestly in the sowing of the seed of the Gospel amongst the young and rising generation. The choir followed by singing the anthem, "Vital spark of Heavenly flame"; seldom have we listened to this well balanced choir to better advantage than in the rendition of this touching and beautiful anthem. The next speaker was the Hon. Robert Watson, representing the Anglican Church, who paid a tribute to the late Mr. Woods from the standpoint of a public official who served the State for a period of twenty-seven years. First as a member of the Executive Government holding the portfolio of Surveyor General during which, Punter, Martin and others. In 1902 was appointed Postmaster General; during his term of office the increase of business in this department was over one hundred per cent. The speaker quoted some very interesting figures concerning the number of post offices, postal telegraph offices and the immense quantity of letters posted annually, showing how the work had increased. Mr. Watson being the then Colonial Secretary had ample opportunity of knowing how faithfully the late Mr. Woods served the State. In closing the speaker said he had admired the life work of one who sacrificed ease and comfort and his days of rest for imperative religious duties. Mr. Watson, on behalf of the Rector and congregation of St. Thomas's Church, expressed sympathy for the loss the Methodist Church had sustained in the passing of his honored friend the Hon. H. J. B. Woods.

The last address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Bond, a life long friend, who spoke of his late friend, when he was a young man, telling of his striking qualities and character, eager and energetic and of strong convictions. The learned Doctor's tribute was very touching and spoke of the help he had received from his friend in his boyhood days and of the loss he had personally sustained through losing the Superintendent of his Sunday School and the oldest official in connection with his present charge. The hymn, "Rock of Ages" was sung, after which the Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. James Wilson. While the congregation remained standing the choir rendered as a "Vesper" hymn, "Now the laborer's task is o'er." A fitting close to this memorable service was the administering of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

During the Sunday School session held in the afternoon, loving tributes of esteem were paid to the memory of the late Superintendent by the following teachers: Messrs. Parsons, Soper, Burt and Millie.

Wonderful Film at Nickel Theatre.

One of the greatest pictures ever presented by the Vitagraph Co. will be shown at the Nickel Theatre to-day and to-morrow. It is entitled "The Sins of the Mothers," and is a wonderful story. Anita Stewart and Earle Williams who starred in "The Godless" are in the leading characters. Included in the cast also are Julia Swayne Gordon, Paul Scordon, Logan Paul, Ralph Lee and Lucille Lee. It is a thrilling tale of high life gambling and the acting is perfect. "The Strange case of Mary Page" will be continued. The chapter is entitled "Reconciliation" and is most interesting. On Wednesday there will be a grand holiday bill.

The War

By
The strange absence of any important events that preceded Roumania's action seems to have been merely a hush before the storm, which is now broken with redoubled force. Henceforth we may count on intermittent activity in every theatre of war, for the policy of the Allies demands it, and it is the Allies who now dictate the course, if not the result, of the fighting. The struggle of the Somme goes on with even greater fury, Russia is on the move against Galicia, Italy keeps up the pressure in the Trentino and on the Isonzo while the near East bids fair to become the scene of a more desperate conflict than has yet been witnessed anywhere. Or, if not more desperate, at any rate attended with far more vital consequences.

Last week saw two of the greatest victories achieved by the French since the opening of the Somme offensive. Under the eyes of Hindenburg himself, the picked troops of Prussia were hurled back by the French and met on a sanguinary hand to hand encounter at le Forest and Oulchy which has had a twofold effect. It has first of all advanced the Allied line so that Combes is virtually rounded, as Guilleminot, and secondly, it has demonstrated the reduction only a question of time and, secondly, it has demonstrated the certainty of the French soldier over the German in the field and on equal terms—a very comforting augury for the future. The operation seems to have been brilliant to the extreme, and its value will soon be apparent.

At the same time General Foch carried out with equal success a considerable movement south of the Somme. This has as its primary object the envelopment of Peronne. It also effects a great extension of the offensive which will combine with the draft on Germany's main-power to the East to add to the difficulties of a problem with which she is faced. Large forces have evidently been engaged. If this sort of thing continues it is certain to have speedy and important results. Nothing could so convincingly demonstrate the superiority, not to say superiority, of the Allies' artillery preparation and equipment. For this is essentially the combat of big guns, and that the French should be able to force his way an attack over so great an area was engaged as they are north of

The strange absence of any important events that preceded Roumania's action seems to have been merely the hush before the storm, which has now broken with redoubled force. Henceforth we may count on unremitting activity in every theatre of war, for the policy of the Allies demands it, and it is the Allies who now dictate the course, if not the result, of the fighting. The struggle on the Somme goes on with even greater fury, Russia is on the move again in Galicia, Italy keeps up the pressure in the Trentino and on the Isonzo, while the near East bids fair to become the scene of a more desperate conflict than has yet been witnessed anywhere. Or, if not more desperate, at any rate attended with far more vital consequences.

Last week saw two of the greatest victories achieved by the French arms since the opening of the Somme battle. Under the eyes of Hindenburg himself, the picked troops of Prussia were hurled back by the French bayonets in a sanguinary hand to hand encounter at Le Forest and Clerf, which has had a twofold effect. It has first of all advanced the Allies' line so that Comblès is virtually surrounded, as was Guillemont, and its reduction only a question of time; and, secondly, it has demonstrated as certain the superiority of the French soldier over the German in the open and on equal terms—a very comforting augury for the future. The operation seems to have been brilliant in the extreme, and its value will very soon be apparent.

At the same time General Foch has carried out with equal success a very considerable movement south of the Somme. This has as its primary object the envelopment of Peronne, but it also effects a great extension of the offensive which will combine with the drain on Germany's man-power to the East to add to the difficulties of the problem with which she is faced. Very large forces have evidently been engaged. If this sort of thing continues it is certain to have speedy and important results. Nothing could more convincingly demonstrate the completeness, not to say superiority, of the Allies' artillery preparation and equipment. For this is essentially a combat of big guns, and that the French should be able to force home an attack over so great an area while engaged as they are north of the Somme and at Verdun is as encouraging to us as it must be disquieting to the Germans. So fierce has been the fighting from Barleux to Chaulnes that it seems to rival the terrible tug-of-war around Comblès and Thiépval. This new direction of the attack may simply be the next step, as we have said, towards Peronne, but it may also be inspired by the knowledge that the German lines are becoming thinned, in which case we may possibly see the fighting extended still further or even break out at other points far removed. The British have followed up the capture of Guillemont by that of Ginchy, a fitting climax to one of the best weeks on this front since the drive began.

The struggle in the East is for the moment following a rather peculiar course. Roumania and Russia are clearly acting in concert, pressing Austria hard from two directions, while Bulgaria, assisted by German troops and under German leadership, has made a considerable drive into southeastern Roumania in what may be a sound strategic counter-stroke, or may be mere desperation. The Russians have taken a long step forward towards a decisive victory in Galicia. The Austrians appear to be on the point of abandoning Halicz; if they do the siege of Lemberg will begin in earnest, and it can only end in one way. At the same time the fighting for the Carpathian passes is proceeding fiercely, for it is of premier importance.

The Austrians are clearly falling back before the Roumanian advance to a shorter and firmer line of defence in Transylvania; but once the Russians force their way through the Carpathians they will seriously threaten the flank of this line, which would need to be very strong indeed to hold back both armies. The Galician campaign thus becomes a more vital one than ever to Austria, for success to the Russians there will be the avenue to this twofold invasion of Hungary which she dreads so much.

With the status quo little changed on the Macedonian front, Bulgaria has found time for a diversion which amounts to a serious threat to the Allied operations, unless it has been foreseen and permitted. Her troops have seized the important Roumanian fortress of Turtukal, taking the entire garrison prisoners, and claim in addition to have taken Silistria, some distance eastward. Both places are on the Danube, and well inside the Roumanian border. The chief significance that we can see in this movement for the present is the evident apprehension of the Central Powers of the Russo-Roumanian invasion of Bulgaria, and through it of Turkey, which this success may do much to anticipate and impede. It is extremely unlikely that Bucharest can be aimed at, though it is not far distant. The advance seems to be essentially defensive, but it will not do to let it go too far. It is here, in southeastern Roumania, that we may look for heavy fighting very soon. Meanwhile, violent artillery engagements on the Struma and Vardar fronts seem at last to herald the great advance by General Sarrail's army, or groups of armies, which is to begin in earnest the redemption of Serbia and the eventual settlement of the whole Balkan question in the only way in which it can be settled, by force of arms.

He has since been in our hospital for a term, but a cure could not be made of him.

Street Car Breaks Loose Coming Down Theatre Hill

Smashes Through Soper & Moore's Window.

What might have been one of the worst accidents in the history of the West End was only averted by the act of Providence, when at 1.30 p.m. yesterday street car No. 2, bound west over Theatre Hill, got beyond control of Motorman Edward Cooper and dashed at lightning speed down the steep incline to the foot of Adelaide Street, where on striking the curve it jumped the rails, cut off a telephone pole as if it were a slender reed, crashed through the two front windows of Soper & Moore's grocery store, and entered the next building occupied by Mrs. Carrigan and Yee Lee's Chinese laundry on the corner of Holdsworth Street. Owing to the big downpour of rain, the rails were in a slippery condition, making it difficult for the brakes to act, and despite the efforts of the motorman who did his best to check the onrushing car, it was seen in an instant that an accident could not be avoided. Cooper remained at his post and shouted at the top of his voice to people passing, expecting at the next moment to be dashed to death, but fortunately escaped with several cuts on his head, as the result of falling glass. There were seven passengers in the car at the time, who escaped serious injury, as also did Conductor Squires. Added to the small party was the danger of live wires which snapped when the pole was cut off and lay along the ground. Child-like, a little 10-year-old boy named James Mason, grasped the end of a broken wire and was badly burned. Dr. Campbell, who arrived on the scene, attended to the lad's injuries and also dressed the wounds of Motorman Cooper. Soper & Moore's store was badly wrecked, the contents of the shelves were scattered all over the store, while part of the goods stored in the west window were forced into the next building, which was moved about eighteen inches. A Mrs. Walsh of Adelaide Street, in company with her daughter, a young woman, was visiting Mrs. Carrigan and was sitting in the front room at the time of the accident. The young woman received a nasty cut on the forehead from flying splinters of glass, while her mother became unconscious, and was removed from the building by Messrs. J. T. Meaney, Pike, Dormady and others, who had to force an entrance on the ground floor. Dr. Tait, who arrived early on the scene, attended to the two women. Mrs. Carrigan, who was ill in bed, received a severe shock but otherwise escaped injury. A Mrs. Pittman, who was sitting in the same room as Mrs. Walsh, also had a narrow escape. Had the car struck the house first a more serious accident might have occurred. The damage done amounts to several hundred dollars, part of which is covered by insurance. This corner is now becoming famous, for accidents of a similar nature have occurred there about six times since the street car service was inaugurated in the city. Many are of opinion that the track should be extended to Queen Street before turning to Water Street; in any case something must be done to prevent the recurrence of a similar accident.
