OR

Lord Somerton's Ally.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"Certainly, my lord. Why should I not? A bargain is a bargain! I shall be here this day week."

Ten minutes later they parted, and Mr. James Castlemon proceeded to enclose a somewhat bulky packet which he had taken out of a leath satchel, in a large linen envelope, and addressed it to NOEL CAMPBELL, Esq., Barrister, Temple Chambers, Temple Court, London, E.C.

This done, he sent it by registered post, a satisfied smile on his dissipated but handsome face.

"I don't like Lord Somerton," Mr. Bingley said to him, confidentially. "He looked more like a devil than a man when he went away."

"I had to be cross with him over some financial matters," explained Mr. Castlemon, with a smile. "We shall not complete our business until next week. Keep my apartment intact, Mr. Bingley; I am going to London to-morrow to try and replenish my wardrobe, but shall be back here again in the evening."

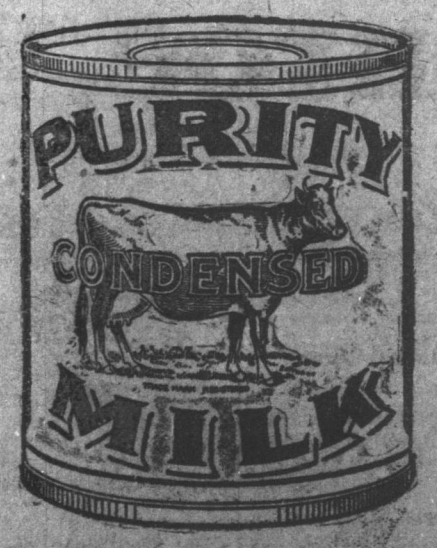

"Thank you, sir, I will attend to your orders," the landlord replied, warmly. "And," he added, to himself, "I'll see that he comes to himself, at the hands of that smiling little villain, Lord Somerton!"

In the meantime, his lordship had stepped briskly toward the Park, his quick, nervous movements, compressed lips, and glowing eyes indicate of strong internal emotion.

"Ah, my astute friend," he hissed. "So you propose being an old man of the sea about my shoulders, eh? Of course, I shall win Miss Sterne—I am determined to win her, but the price is a little too heavy to pay. You are clever, but not clever enough. I can believe the story about the hatred, the vengeance, etc., but it strikes me very forcibly that you are Harry Campbell, and that the farce is nearly played out! A week will decide it. I am not going to lose Sir John's fortune, also in favor of your son! But, ah! that accursed scene in Zeba's cottage! He has me there!"

He smashed his teeth with impatient fury, and muttered:

"Next week—next week solves the problem!"

CHAPTER XXV.

Quite unconscious of the cloud that hung over her young mistress, Annette Moffette chatted almost gaily while preparing for their journey to London.

The pleasure was so unexpected that she was flushed with delight at the prospect of seeing all the beautiful things in the windows of the shops in Oxford and Regent streets.

"If you can spare me just a little while, madam," she said, "I want to make a few purchases—little presents for—for William. He is giving me so much, and I want a surprise for him."

"Certainly," her mistress replied. "I have no doubt that I can remain in Mr. Grant's office for an hour. But won't you be afraid to walk in the bustling streets by yourself?"

"Oh, no, madam," Annette replied, with confidence. "I have spent most of my life in the heart of the great city, and know every street. It is perfectly safe in the day time. William has never been here, and I am going to take him soon," she laughed, blushing prettily. "He wants to buy the things for our home in London, believing that they cannot be had anywhere else half so good. I did not know that he had so much money, for he showed me quite a bag full of gold this morning!"

"I am very glad to hear it, Annette," her mistress said, "very glad, because matters are very unsettled with me at present. I may have to dispense with your services for a time. I may be in no position to keep a maid. It is difficult to explain, Annette, but the affairs of the estate are in great disorder. Poor Mr. Vallance was one of the executors, and his power has devolved upon Lord Somerton, a man whom I dislike extremely. It's unfortunate for me—unfortunate for those who are faithful to me; but I will not be subject to the dictates of Lord Somerton, and shall be guided by one whom I can trust, even if I leave the Park until my father returns home."

Perhaps You Need a Tonic

A tonic is necessary in all run-down conditions, after colds, fevers and illnesses of all kinds. When a person is anemic, undernourished, nervous, tired, listless, he needs a tonic. If you can't sleep, have no appetite, feel miserable and depressed, a tonic will fix you. The tonic best suited for general use is Carnol. It can be given with perfect safety to a delicate child, a convalescent, or to an aged person. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician. Hundreds of doctors prescribe Carnol in their practice. Here's what Mr. Davis says about Carnol:

"We have sold Carnol for two years. During those two years we have seen many other so-called tonics tried out, but they did not repeat, and people did not advise their friends to buy them. Carnol has been bought by people who used it before. It has been recommended by people to their friends and has enjoyed a good sale. We believe that it has the ingredients that go to make up one of the very best nerve and body builders ever put before the public."—Davis the Druggist, Columbia and 6th Sts., New Westminster, B.C.

Carnol is sold by all good druggists everywhere.

Annette stared at her young mistress with wide-open eyes.

"But I will stay with you, madam, if you will permit me," she said. "until Sir John is back again. William can wait, though he has been urging me to be married next Christmas. Surely, Sir John will be home before then. I do not want to leave you, at least while you are in trouble. It would be unkind and ungrateful of me. You have done so much for us!"

"What I have done, it is in the power of Lord Somerton to revoke, Annette, unless I listen to his love-making, and that is impossible. He has threatened me, and I am afraid he will resort to any cruelty to bend me to his wishes. I have told you this, so that you may be prepared for any change. If your lover has money enough to start a home, it will perhaps be wise for you to leave me if the trouble I fear cannot be averted."

"I will tell William what you say, mistress"—there were tears in Annette's eyes—"I will tell William what you say, and I know that he will be willing to marry me at once, he is so impatient. Jones has left the lodge and William has taken possession today. He is going to fill it with new furniture! But, oh! don't let us speak of it yet. Let us be sure that you can do without me first. I could not bear to be happy while you are unhappy!"

Still Annette could not help thinking of her lover with many happy little thrills—thinking of her lover and the prospect for a beautiful home of her own.

At eleven o'clock the carriage took them to the railway station, and when they passed Blairwood Arms, Annette remarked upon the manner in which a strange man stared at her young mistress.

Elsie said nothing, but she remembered him instantly. It was the stranger she had seen in the Park with the Earl of Somerton.

They left Blairwood station soon after eleven o'clock, and arrived at Waterloo about noon.

From Waterloo station they were taken to Mr. Grant's offices in a cab, and when Miss Sterne's name was announced the lawyer was just upon the point of going to lunch.

"My dear Miss Sterne," he said, "I am delighted to see you, but why on earth do you spring these surprises upon me?"

As a matter of fact, Mr. Grant had in his pocket at that moment a telegram from Lord Somerton, informing him that Miss Sterne was coming to see him that day, believing that he would fall in with her caprices. He had previously had an exhaustive conversation with his lord about the baronet's headstrong daughter, and was prepared to treat her merely as a willful child which knows not what is best for it.

"Use your tact," the telegram said, "in telling her sufficient to make the way easy for me to control her."

"I ought to have written, perhaps," Elsie admitted, "but I do not think that my business will detain you long, Mr. Grant, and, oh! it is of vital importance to me!"

"To be sure," smiled the lawyer. "I never saw a lady yet whose own affairs were not pre-eminent! For instance, my wife and daughter expect me to reach Delmatto's in the Strand promptly at twelve-thirty. It is now twelve-twenty-five, and they will never forgive me. We are to dine together at Delmatto's, and then I have to do the usual paternal business of finding funds for an afternoon's shopping."

Wisdom From the Reviews

(John O'London's Weekly.)

HAVING A ROOT.

After all it is a great thing for a man to belong somewhere: to have a real root in the earth.—Stephen Gwynn in "Blackwood's Magazine."

THE BUHL.

What is really certain is that neither M. Poincare, however great the hatred of Germany which animates him, nor M. Millerand, who himself is of a very different sentiment—he is said by his familiars to advocate a rapprochement with Germany—would have dreamed of undertaking the Ruhr expedition if they had not felt that public opinion favoured the enterprise.—Joseph Callaux in the "Fortnightly Review."

THE PATHWAY OF ARMIES.

No hand has ever written the story of the sea as the pathway of armies. The military strategist has failed to investigate, save in his broad outline, the facts and theories of maritime lines of communication; the naval authorities have confined discussion to the influence of sea-power or to the role of the Navy in protecting trade and troop movements.—"Pari-scope" in "Blackwood's Magazine."

CATS.

The very fact that cats have divided the world into two hostile and irreconcilable armies is quite the strangest thing about them. These curious insignificant little creatures play so small a part in modern life, they are so demure and self-effacing, that few people, one might have imagined, would bother to form an opinion about them one way or another.—Geoffrey Howard in the "Cornhill Magazine."

THE DIFFERENCE.

Speaking generally, dogs are the friends of those who act, and cats of those who dream.—Geoffrey Howard in the "Cornhill Magazine."

THE CRYING NEED.

The failure of democracy is already written large across the face of Europe, and it looms on the horizon of the United States. The Fascist movements resemble the efforts of Nature to shake off disease, for, let us repeat, good government, not democratic government, is the crying need of our time.—The English Review.

HOUSES WITH SOULS.

That there is a reasonable soul in houses, those only will deny who have lived in such houses as themselves deny it, and so confirm the truth by their own heresy. Even in those houses which the late century spawned in streets there was a soul, albeit mean and wringing, the soul of a Tadpole or Forwidge as Sir Thomas Browne would call it; yet conscious of itself, pretentious and eager. Eyes it had to see; and with time it took to itself legs to leap, and organs and a voice; behold the Progeny of the new Democracy.—Helen Waddell in the "Adelphi."

THE LEVY ON ENERGY.

People who are shocked at the idea of any levy on capital should be more angry at the levy on energy which is imposed every day on business activities, on brains, and on the industry of wage-earners by people who are in a position to impose a charge for the mere permission to carry on our trade and social life.—Right Hon. J. R. Clynes, M.P., in the "English Review."

GENERAL SMUTS.

He (General Smuts) is probably endowed with better brains than any Minister holding office within the Empire to-day, and as a former foe, a war-tired friend, a present ally, he is an incomparable Imperial asset. It was he who bade us remember that, in an age of "Fordism," you could not standardize parts of the Empire, and it may be his mission at the Conference yet further to reconcile Dominion nationhood with loyal partnership in the Britanic Alliance.—The Empire Review.

H. G. W. AND INDIA.

We British have not sufficient natural moral and intellectual superiority to the Indian peoples; we have not a sufficiently organized educational system nor a sufficient surplus of highly educated men to justify our continued usurpation of India's right to think out and work out its own role in the confederation of mankind.—H. G. Wells in the "Empire Review."

and the average weight of each bird is about 85lb.

Owing to the fact that they are extremely timid and can fly very quickly, bustards have always been difficult to hunt on land; so the novel idea of shooting them from aeroplanes was hit upon.

Sometimes the aviators follow the birds until they drop from sheer exhaustion, but another method is to shoot at them from the machines as they rise from the ground.

To hit the birds while the machine is rushing through the air requires considerable skill, as the hunter is hampered by the limited range of the gun, due to the many struts and wires on the aeroplane. However, many bustards have been shot in this way.

Old Grab Bag in New Stunt

The grab bag is not a new idea, but here is a new way of utilizing it which worked well in the store who tried it, though it might not appeal to the most exacting clientele. It is pretty generally recognized that the ordinary human likes to take a chance and when the proprietor of a popular-priced store decided to introduce a new line of goods via the grab bag, instead of the special price, he found plenty of patrons.

He placed in the store windows samples of the merchandise he intended to sell in the grab bag way. The articles were numerous in quantity and varied in shape, style and use. The public could see just what went into the bags, though entirely in the dark as to what each individual package might contain.

A large sign in the window read: "Take a chance for a quarter; you cannot lose, because you see what you are buying, but are not sure what you will get."

Inside the store on a large table were a number of each of the articles, that appeared in the window. These were all wrapped in a heavy paper, which concealed their identity.

The patron would take his pick, pay his quarter, and then anxiously open the parcel to see what it contained. Some people seeing in the window one particular article they want might take two or three chances to obtain it.

All the articles appeared to be worth considerably more than a quarter, and the customers seemed well pleased both with the idea and the goods received. In this way the Silver, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the International Fisherman's Trophy Race which two persons were killed and one hundred and fifty injured, on Saturday. POLICE STRIKE CAUSES TROUBLE IN MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 4.—The Cabinet at a special session today issued an order to all fit men of military age to enroll as special constables in consequence of the rioting growing out of the police strike, during which two persons were killed and one hundred and fifty injured, on Saturday. Fifty-five persons were arrested during the disorders. The suburban train service has been curtailed. It is the intention to raise five thousand special constables and reinstate any of the striking policemen.

BODY OF BONAR LAW CREMATED.

ALBERTA VOTES ON LIQUOR QUESTION TO-DAY.
EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 4.—Prohibition goes on trial in Alberta to-morrow. For close to seven years the sale of liquor as a beverage has been forbidden in the Province, and during the latter part of the period importation has been against the law. The voters have four options to vote on, namely: (a) continuance and development of existing liquor legislation; (b) sale of beer in licensed hotels and other premises under a bill prepared by the Hotel Men's Association; (c) the sale of beer by or through a Government vendor for consumption on private premises; (d) sale of all liquors through Government vendors on a permit system and limited quantities of beer to be consumed on licensed premises. It is expected one hundred thousand votes will be polled. Only first choices will be counted Monday night, and if the result is close, the result may not be known for some time.

NOT WORRYING OVER CRISIS.
BERLIN, Nov. 4.—Neither President Ebert nor Chancellor Stresemann appear to view the existing parliamentary crisis, precipitated by the Socialists as demanding quick solution, and the information given out at official quarters to-day, was to the effect that the Chancellor and the Rump Cabinet was just now more deeply concerned about remedies required to combat Socialist and Economic complications.

THE HUDSON BAY QUESTION.
WINNIPEG, Nov. 4.—Declaring that the question of a Hudson Bay port should be settled once and for all, D. B. Hanna, former President C.N.F., suggested the appointment of a Commission of experts to make a report on the whole problem. He considered a year's examination necessary.

A HINT TO GREECE.
ATHENS, Nov. 3.—Newspapers quote British Charge d'Affairs Bentinck as saying that while Great Britain does not wish to interfere in Greek internal affairs, the British Government would view with serious uneasiness any movement aiming to overthrow the dynasty. A despatch from Athens, Oct. 31st, reported that at an important cabinet meeting, it had been agreed that the time was ripe for a change in the form of Government. The Greek newspapers drew from this inference that a Republic was to be proclaimed, but it was semi-officially stated that some thirty leaders who attended the meeting opposed the change, but that all concurred in approving the overthrow of King Constantine.

A ROYAL WEDDING.
LONDON, Nov. 3.—Before the ancient altar of the British throne, King George V. and Queen Mary were united in marriage. The bridegroom was accompanied by his brother, the Duke of York, and his sister-in-law, the Duchess of York. The bride was accompanied by her father, the Duke of Devonshire, and her mother, the Duchess of Devonshire. The ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

ARANMORE LANDED SUPPLIES.

LLOYD GEORGE SAILS FOR HOME.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—David Lloyd George, former Premier of Great Britain, sailed for home on the Maestic to-day, after a triumphant tour of Canada and United States cities, with his wife and daughter.

Soldiers Bonus Bill May be Passed by Congress
Washington, Nov. 1. (By Canadian Press).—Still battling against the soldiers bonus, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will in all probability be flatly turned down by Congress when it meets in December. Moreover the impression is strong here that President Coolidge will not veto a bonus measure if one is passed by the two houses. Secretary Mellon was the chief Cabinet influence that induced the late President Harding to veto the bonus bill. Now, Secretary Mellon has made it clear that he is still adverse to the bonus unless a method of taxation to raise the required revenue which is satisfactory to him is appended to it.

Man's Finger Goes Up as Pinch Hitter, Replacing His Nose
Sydney, N.S., Nov. 1.—The successful grafting of a new nose on to the face of a human being has been made possible by the wonders and triumph of modern surgery. It was demonstrated here recently when the operation was performed on Thomas Kilcullen at Sydney hospital.

Kilcullen lost his nose through an operation. Surgeons expressed the belief that they could graft a nose to his face, using the middle finger of his left hand for the missing organ.

The delicate and painful operation took three weeks. The finger, still attached to Kilcullen's hand, the skin had been prepared to make the grafting possible. His left hand and arm were bandaged so that they could not be moved and in that position Kilcullen remained until the graft was completed, when the finger was severed from the hand.

The surgeons said that Kilcullen will be able to breathe through the transplanted finger and will even be able to blow it. They could not guarantee that it would serve as an organ with which Kilcullen could distinguish various odors.

SILVIA SAILS—S.S. Silvia sailed for Halifax and New York at 10.45 Saturday, taking a large freight. The health workers, Miss M. Hall and Mrs. McIntyre were amongst the passengers.

Canada Should Adopt the English Rugby

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 29.—Under the caption "International Rugby Prospects," the Ottawa Citizen continues to boost the English style of rugby for adoption in Canada. "There does not seem to be any likelihood of Canada's hold on the world's hockey championship being seriously challenged. Canadian hockey players would be the first to welcome challengers from any other country," says the editorial, which continues: "In the other nations under the British flag, however, young players have no such opportunity for learning the wonderful winter game on the ice as they have in Canada. It is probable that Canada would still hold the championship for lacrosse, too, but for the element of roughness that so detracted from the pleasure of the game that it finally departed." This country of the lead in the truly Canadian outdoor game. Rugby football, as played in Great Britain, is the game that is also played in every other British country excepting Canada. Because Canadian schools have been led to follow the American style of rugby, Canada is unable to participate on an equal footing with Australia, New Zealand or South Africa in the great international years that are made by the rugby football teams with in the league of British nations. It is stated that the New Zealanders intend to tour Great Britain again next year. In the tour they made in 1905 they were beaten only once when Wales furnished an international team that won their game against the New Zealanders. The Springboks of South Africa similarly made a victorious tour of the British Isles. Canada has the men who could win similar renown or Canadian football, but until the Canadian universities and colleges become inspired with the broader vision of playing the game as it is played elsewhere in the British Commonwealth, nobody outside of this country knows that Canada is a football players' country—as a young man's country should be. The Rugby Union game would attract a great following in Canada. Perhaps as the public interest grows in such efforts as are being made in Ottawa, Montreal and other Canadian cities to promote the great universities like Toronto, McGill and Queen's, and the R.M.C. at Kingston, may be inspired to adopt the British game, so that visiting teams from other nations in the Commonwealth, as well as from the Mother Country, would find foesmen worthy of their steel in Canada. Before many years Canada promises to be in the first rank among the Association football countries. The youngsters are taking up soccer with enthusiasm. They would go in for the Rugby Union game with just as much enthusiasm, given the opportunity.

A Picture of Mystery and Surprise
IS TO-NIGHT'S FEATURE AT THE CRESCENT.
A mixture of laughs, thrills, suspense, romance and intrigue plus a brilliant characterization by Mildred Harris make "The First Woman," at the Crescent to-night, one of the fastest sure-fire screen hits of the year. A wallowing finish with a surprising twist leaves you almost gasping for breath at the end. Miss Harris appears as a bewitchingly beautiful star of the New York musical comedy stage. She was ambitious to do more serious work in the theatre, but couldn't get the managers to accept her. The element of mystery—of suspense—is well sustained until the end when one of the biggest surprise conclusions ever flashed on the screen gives a delightful change to the story. Mildred Harris' moves brilliantly through a bewildering series of lavish scenes—amid all the glitter and glamor of the show world.

British Squadron Coming
TO HALIFAX ON THEIR AROUND-THE-WORLD CRUISE ON AUGUST 5—WILL BE HERE FOR 16 DAYS.
London, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—The British Admiralty has issued the programme for the forthcoming world cruise in which the battleships Hood and Repulse and a light cruiser division will take part. The squadron will leave Davenport, Nov. 27, and will proceed some times at full strength and some times in divisions around Africa, calling at the principal ports. Thence they will go to Ceylon, Straits Settlements, Australia and Fiji. The light cruisers will arrive at Esquimaux on June 21, and will stay there twelve days, while the battle cruisers will put in an identical period at Vancouver and Victoria.

The entire squadron will then go to San Francisco, after which the light cruisers will steam around South America, calling at the chief seaports. In the meantime the battle cruisers will pass through the Panama Canal and after a visit to Jamaica will arrive at Halifax on August 5, remaining there ten days. A fourteen days' stay will be made at Quebec, beginning August 13, and Nova Scotia or Newfoundland will be visited from September 4 to 17. The battle cruisers will afterwards rejoin the light cruiser division and the entire squadron will make home ports on September 28.

Nail in Boy's Brain Removed
Philadelphia, Oct. 27.—Paul Griminger, eleven, has had a fourpenny nail removed from his brain at Jefferson Hospital here.
Paul and his uncle, Paul Kraiser, also eleven, were playing with an air rifle when it was discharged accidentally and the nail with which it was loaded penetrated the lad's face below the left eye. Paul was hustled into an automobile and hurried to the hospital.
It is estimated that there are now enough chances for easy money to keep our jails occupied until 1927.

British Squadron Coming
TO HALIFAX ON THEIR AROUND-THE-WORLD CRUISE ON AUGUST 5—WILL BE HERE FOR 16 DAYS.
London, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—The British Admiralty has issued the programme for the forthcoming world cruise in which the battleships Hood and Repulse and a light cruiser division will take part. The squadron will leave Davenport, Nov. 27, and will proceed some times at full strength and some times in divisions around Africa, calling at the principal ports. Thence they will go to Ceylon, Straits Settlements, Australia and Fiji. The light cruisers will arrive at Esquimaux on June 21, and will stay there twelve days, while the battle cruisers will put in an identical period at Vancouver and Victoria.
The entire squadron will then go to San Francisco, after which the light cruisers will steam around South America, calling at the chief seaports. In the meantime the battle cruisers will pass through the Panama Canal and after a visit to Jamaica will arrive at Halifax on August 5, remaining there ten days. A fourteen days' stay will be made at Quebec, beginning August 13, and Nova Scotia or Newfoundland will be visited from September 4 to 17. The battle cruisers will afterwards rejoin the light cruiser division and the entire squadron will make home ports on September 28.

ABOUT IS FAIR PLAY.
 Siki has "Battling" Siki called upon in court to answer to some charges "made up" in short order. The charges were the result of Siki's ex-emplary behavior in the case.

FULL OF "NEAR BEER,"
 Siki remains old world in his behavior.

COURTESY.
 Siki's behavior in court was a model of courtesy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Battling Siki weathered some rough moments in the courtroom. The charges against him were that he had been drinking beer in the courtroom and that he had been talking back to the judge.

The judge fined Siki $100 for each offense. Siki paid the fine without a word.

MALEAN RECEIVES OFFER FROM LALONDE.
 FREDERICTON, N.B.—Fred MaLean, the local hockey player, who was with Quebec in the National Hockey League several years ago and has since been playing amateur hockey again until his recent disqualification, has received an offer from the famous New York Lalonde to play for his Saskatoon club in the Western Canada Hockey League. Several other clubs have been angling for the services of the former Fredericton policeman, who some years ago was prominent in amateur and semi-pro hockey in Cape Breton.

DESCAMPS TAKES BRITISH BOXERS.
 LONDON.—George Carpentier's manager, Francois Descamps, is to take a hand in training British boxers and already has under his tutelage one whom he hopes to mold into a heavyweight champion, says The Daily Mail.

Lamenting the present dearth of boxers of championship class in this country and pronouncing the British outlook in the fight game as "very gloomy, whichever way it is viewed," the newspapers say there are multitudes of boxers in Great Britain but no managers with enough skill to convert them into champions. The Daily Mail therefore welcomes the decision of Descamps, who, it says, believes the British make the best boxers in the world when properly handled.

PITCHING TO BABE RUTH.
 A Major League pitcher has a pretty hard life, all fairy stories to the contrary notwithstanding. He may work only once in three or four days, but he makes up in worry for the days he doesn't work. For he is always tormented by thinking of what might have been if he had pitched the ball that somebody hit for a three-bagger just a little more outside and a shade higher. Besides, even if he doesn't hear the criticisms that are made behind his back, and some of them are not always behind his back, a pitcher reads the newspapers and they have a plain way sometimes, those newspaper boys, of telling him just how rotten he is.

CZECHO WOMAN HOLDS RECORD.
 The world's mark for women for 100 yards is 11 2-5 seconds, and is held by Miss B. Melzikova of Czechoslovakia. She also holds the record broad jump of 17 feet 4 1/2 inches.

GODDARD AND BLOOMFIELD FOR BECKETT'S TITLE.
 Jack Bloomfield and Frank Goddard have signed articles to box 20 rounds for the heavyweight championship of Great Britain at the Albert Hall on Nov. 2. Both men have deposited $200 as a guarantee of their appearance. Harry Mason and Ernie Rice will box 20 rounds on the same date at the Albert Hall for the lightweight championship of Europe. The Bloomfield-Goddard contest was originally arranged as a 15-round eliminating bout, to take place at an earlier date, but was postponed owing to the indisposition of Bloomfield, who has now fully recovered, and, owing to Beckett's retirement, the contest has been altered to one of 20 rounds for the vacant title of heavyweight champion of Great Britain. Bloomfield is already in Carpentier's training quarters at Shoeburness, while Goddard will train at the Air Force Gymnasium, Exbridge. Mason is training at Brighton, and Rice at Wembley.

DAVE MAGILL BEATS PENWILL.
 In a 15-round contest at Doncaster Guardsman Penwill (Penge) snared an otherwise splendid display against Dave Magill the "cruiser" and heavyweight champion of Ireland, by carelessness in the delivery of several right crosses. The culminating point came in the 12th round, when the ex-Army champion hit Magill low with a long right and the Irishman went down in pain, the referee thereupon disqualifying Penwill. Magill was examined in his room by the doctor, who stated that the Irishman had obviously been fouled, but that he was "all right." Penwill showed himself in a much better light than he did in his fight with Gipey Daniels at Olympia. He was much more forceful, the features of his display being his accurate delivery of the left hand, which he used as a "prop" whilst he lashed in right hooks to the body. Many of these latter blows fell on Magill's left arm, but he was always ready in thrilling attacks after Magill had planted his well-known left-hand "lead" on the soldier's face. Magill was shorter in reach than Beckett's sparring partner, but, being much lighter, was also the quicker. Magill is the ex-cross-country four miles champion of his country.

"BERMONDSEY BILL" LOST HIS CHANCE.
 New York, Oct. 26.—Dave Shade beat Bermondsey Billy Wells, the British fighter, in their 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden to-night, and he will lay claim to the welterweight championship and defend it against all-comers, his manager, Leo Flynn announced last night. Wells had been offered a bout with Roland Todd, English welterweight, if he had won to-night. This was Wells' and Shade's first bout and it was also the first appearance of Wells in New York. The bout went the full 15 rounds, Shade winning the judges' decision.

WORLD SWIMMING RECORD.
 In the 100 yards race, Miss Hilda lowered the ladies' English record to 12 mins. 51 1/2 secs. and the world record to 12 mins. 47 1/2 secs. She covered 100 yards in 12 mins. 47 1/2 secs.

pitcher was taking no chance with Babe. He was keeping them outside and they strayed a little over the line. A pitcher hasn't perfect control and can't always put the ball exactly where he wants to. It's never safe to groove the ball for Babe and you can't always hook the corners when you want to, particularly when you are in the hole. Babe used to hit at all those things once. Now he waits and takes his base.

I don't mean to say that Babe is never passed deliberately. On the contrary this happens more often in his case than with any other batter. I don't usually pass him deliberately myself, but I do sometimes. There are times when it would be foolish to do anything else. But Babe sometimes interferes with your plans even when you are trying to pass him. I will remember an incident which happened two seasons ago. It was the best kind of good policy to pass Babe and I was trying to do that very thing. I shot a ball over way wide of the plate, at least a foot outside. But Babe was in hitting mood that day so he reached over, caught that ball with his long, heavy bat and drove it into the centerfield bleachers for the longest hit ever made on the ball field.

Babe isn't hitting as many home runs this season as he has done before. But he's a much better ball player than he ever was before and he's a better hitter.

That's because he isn't staking everything on his home run record. He hits singles and doubles now. Sometimes he even bunts. And if you are feeding him bad balls he waits you out. He'll take his base and when he is on first he's by no means a bad base-runner for he's tricky and takes chances.

There are a lot of good hitters in baseball. There are even a lot of sluggers these days and many of them home run specialists. But there is only one Babe Ruth.

To Photograph Clouds

A few weeks ago the French Meteorological Office invited photographers to submit photographs of the sky taken in varying circumstances, with a view to making use of the pictures in the study of weather conditions.

Clouds are said to be difficult to photograph, but this is only the case when one wishes to photograph a landscape at the same time. When the object is to make negatives of clouds only a quick exposure with an ordinary camera will do the work.

Amateurs with cheap cameras which have only one snapshot speed can get over the difficulty by stopping down the lens to less than half its usual opening. Then they must be careful to develop the film or plate until the image of the clouds is just beginning to show on the back, when it will be time to put the film in the fixing bath.

Those with better class cameras may use self-screen plates, stopping down to F16 and making an exposure of one-fiftieth part of a second. Even better work may be done by using ortho-chromatic plates and a colour screen on the front of the lens. When using a three-times screen, the lens may be stopped down to F11 and an exposure of one-tenth second, or, if the weather is bright, one-twenty-fifth second may be given. The rule for development—mentioned above applies in all cases.

Why do I like to pitch to Babe? Because he is a never-ending puzzle. You always have to extend yourself to the utmost when you face Babe. Sometimes he looks very easy, but there is one thing it is never safe for a pitcher to bank on. Any time he figures that he has Babe's number he is feeding himself a liberal dose of misplaced confidence.

There is one thing that Babe can always be counted upon to supply. He gives the opposing pitcher a thrill no matter what happens. If you strike him out you get a very pleasurable thrill, as long as it lasts. If he hits you for a solid smash you get another kind of a thrill. Why do cowboys ride wild steers and risk their necks on bucking broncos? It's a dangerous sport but it gives them a thrill. I suppose, to think they have conquered something which was strong and reckless and hard to handle.

I have struck Babe out as many as three times in a single game. That made me feel pretty good. Babe has also fattened up his home run average at my expense and that didn't make me feel so good. But there's never a dull moment when pitching to Babe.

Babe is a batter who cannot be fooled very long with anything you give him. He isn't supposed to like slow curves, but if you keep on feeding him slow curves, sooner or later you will find a ball coming back at you in a straight line of Babe's bat and there won't be anything slow about his action either.

Two or three seasons ago Babe would hit at anything he could reach. Now he won't do that. He has grown too feisty. If you give him bad balls he will let them go by.

It always makes me crowd sore when you pass Babe. But very often he isn't passed deliberately. The BRITISH GOVERNMENT URGED TO TAKE OVER LAND IN DOMINIONS.

LONDON.—The taking over by the British Government of some of the wealthy, but undeveloped portions, of the Dominions as a means of remedying unemployment in Britain was urged by A. Somerville, M.P., in a speech at Ascot.

Mr. Somerville said he had just returned from a trip to British Columbia, where Premier Oliver was ready to place sixty million acres of suitable land at the disposal of the British government, for settlement.

"If the people from this country settled in British Columbia," Mr. Somerville said, "it would not only relieve the unemployment situation here, but would help home industries."

Traffic Regulations.

A great deal has been accomplished during the past season to improve the traffic in our streets, and to make them safer both for the pedestrian and the driver. In this connection the Chief of Police and his capable force are deserving of the highest credit for the manner in which the regulations have been carried out, and a large share of the credit is likewise due to drivers of vehicles for their cooperation with the police.

It is true there have been several regrettable accidents, two of which were fatal; it is also true that much still remains to be done before we can consider that our regulations are adequate, and that the rules of the road are respected.

Accidents are bound to happen in the best regulated families; in the best of systems flaws are certain to appear sooner or later, and there are black sheep in every flock. All that can be done is to go on improving, basing our actions on past experience, and to try to eradicate the "black sheep" by strict regulation. When it is said and done, better by far in every way, and more effective by far than all the rules and regulations ever conceived will be a stronger spirit of fellowship and a due regard for others. If every driver of a vehicle, be it a long cart or a Rolls Royce, decided that it was "up to him" to see that the rules of the road are observed, there would be no need for stringent regulations, and the money expended on traffic police would be available for other purposes. Nor must it be taken for granted that pedestrians have no responsibility in the matter. A great many of our drivers are carrying out this simple rule every day. They are not suffering any hardship in consequence and they have gained the respect of the public. The greater the number who observe it, the less inclination will there be on the part of the irresponsibles to violate it.

There is no time more suitable to consider a revision of the rules than at the end of the season, when the flaws that have appeared are still remembered, and can be rectified before another season begins. The adoption of the traffic officer has proved very satisfactory, and has not only prevented accidents but has also been the means of relieving congestion. Might we suggest that not only motor drivers, but all drivers of vehicles shall be made to give the required signal when approaching a point where an officer is posted or when they intend to cross to the opposite side of the street? We would also suggest that certain points on Water Street should be fixed as recognized turning points, and that no vehicles should be permitted to turn elsewhere. In many places it is a rule that cars, which are standing, shall face in the direction in which traffic is proceeding. Nothing is more perplexing, particularly on a dark country road, to be faced on your side of the road by two glaring headlights, and many a car has landed in the ditch by trying to keep them to the right—a practical impossibility which is only realized afterwards.

Most of our streets are too narrow to place "islands" in them, but certain places might be selected and marked as recognized crossings. Pedestrians would soon learn to appreciate the advantages of using them, and drivers, to respect them. There are altogether too many pedestrians who wilfully or through ignorance take chances which by a margin of seconds might easily become a serious accident. Compared with other countries our record is low in street accidents, and it should be our object to maintain the record.

With regard to the lights regulation, there is one omission which is peculiar: all cabs, bicycles, and motor vehicles are compelled to be properly equipped with lights, but apparently the regulation does not apply to trucks, long carts and other vehicles of that description. There is no greater menace on a country road at night than such an unlighted conveyance, and as it is only reasonable to conclude that they were inadvertently omitted when the measure was drafted, the wording of the Act should be altered so as to include them as well.

The Spirit of Sportsmanship

All of us were disappointed, and our Canadian friends have cause to regret, that the International Schooner races were called off under such regrettable circumstances.

As far as can be gathered, a breach of the regulations was made by the captain of the Bljenose, and in consequence, the Committee decided that the race should be given to the Columbia, and that the "who shall" should be sailed on Saturday. With this decision of the judges, Captain Walters would not agree, left the scene in a rage, and only realized, too late unfortunately, that his own feelings in the matter were by no means the first and only consideration.

Canadians both at home and abroad will resent the position that they undeservedly have been placed in by the ill-considered action of one man. He has redeemed himself to some extent by his prompt confession of his error, but there is an undefinable difference between the spirit of sportsman which is spontaneous, and that which may be prompted merely by public opinion.

Slight Blaze at

STANDARD MANUFACTURING CO. Shortly before six o'clock Saturday evening, a slight fire broke out in the boiler room of the Standard Manufacturing Company's premises. The Central and East End fire companies were quickly on the scene and, in conjunction with the automatic sprinkler system installed in the building, the fire was subdued. The engineers' bench and some tools were destroyed. The blaze was supposed to have been caused by some used pieces of waste.

Accident Near Holloway Street

TROLLEY CAR IN SMASH-UP.

Shortly after ten o'clock this morning, Street Car No. 6 in charge of Conductor W. Short and Motorman W. Mackay, left the track at Holloway Street and ran into a concrete fence at the western end of the Seaman's Institute. Several passengers, including Mr. Percie Johnson, were in the car. He was thrown from his seat but fortunately only suffered a slight shake-up. The fence was partly demolished. The cast iron fittings under the front part of the street car were badly smashed and one of the car windows was shattered. The car was coming down Holloway Street and was about to take the turn to proceed up Water Street, when the brakes gave out, and it shot clear of the rails. Motorman Mackay stuck to his post and attempted to reverse the power, but through some cause this was not effective and the car continued until the wheels hit the curb. An examination after the accident showed that the threads on the coupling of the brake had been stripped. It was fortunate that no person was on the sidewalk when the car struck or a fatal accident would have resulted. Mr. Johnson was driven to his office in a motor car by Mr. Eric Chate. His car had a narrow escape from being demolished as it had been stopped but a few feet from the rail, waiting the tram to pass.

Train Derailed

While the Trepassey train was proceeding citywards on Saturday, a derailment occurred at 12 o'clock near Hell Hill. All the freight cars with the exception of one left the rails, but none toppled over. There were no passengers riding in the coaches at the time of the accident. A special train with the necessary wrecking apparatus on board, was quickly despatched to the scene. The trainmen had a difficult task to place the cars on the track again, and the special train which went out did not reach the city with the mails and passengers until 9.20 Saturday night. The derailed train arrived at 12.30 yesterday. Considerable damage was done to the road bed. A gang of men are busy making the necessary repairs, and everything will be in readiness for the regular train leaving at 11.30 to-morrow.

Met With Accident

A young lad named White, an employee of Dicks and Co., Duckworth St., had a narrow escape from being killed on Saturday afternoon, when a heavy type form fell from the lift to the floor below. The heavy metal struck the lad a glancing blow on the arm, bruising the member severely. Had he received the full force of the blow serious consequences would have probably followed.

Workman Injured

A workman named Greene, an employee of Messrs. C. H. Hubley Co., fell off a ten foot scaffold in the Normal School Building on Saturday afternoon, and had two fingers of his left hand broken, besides being otherwise badly shaken up from the heavy fall received. Greene was engaged sitting in a piece of heavy piping at the time, when the scaffold on which he was working tipped back and precipitated him to the floor. Dr. Falcon attended to the man's injuries.

Horse Takes Fright

A horse driven by a lad named Casey, took fright on Pleasant Street yesterday afternoon, and in dashing down over that thoroughfare the victor, to which the horse was attached struck a telegraph pole. The heavy impact threw the cabman from his seat to the roadside, but he escaped uninjured. The horse broke clear and was captured a short distance from the scene of the accident. The victor was badly damaged and was later carted away for repairs.

Paterston, O.B.E., took over the Brigade and officially passed over the command to Lt.-Col. W. H. Herder. Lt.-Col. Paterston, addressing the Brigade, expressed his regret that owing to his professional duties calling him away from town so frequently, he felt that it was in the best interest of the Brigade that he retire from active command.

Other Separatists are awaiting trial. It was announced Sunday that the Separatists planned to retake Aix La Chapelle and other places.

NAVAL REVIEW AT SPIITHEAD.

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 5. In the grey mists of early November the Dominion Premiers on Saturday reviewed the Atlantic Fleet. There was the greatest assembly of warships of Spithead since the Royal review of 1914, and as the fleet steamed out to see the long line from the first marine to the last battleship stretched nearly fifteen miles. It was significant of the naval development that not one of the vessels present in 1914 was there.

MURDERER BEING HUNTED.

CALGARY, Nov. 5. With her limbs horribly mutilated and partially burned, the body of Miss Minnie Tollestrup, aged seventeen, daughter of F. C. Tollestrup, a well known farmer of Raymond District, was taken from the smoldering straw stack on the farm of Arthur Dahl, two miles from Tollestrup Farm, by a search party Saturday night. Two hours later members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Provincial and Lethbridge police were scouring the country for Joe Blackhorse, alias T. Wosab, suspected of the murder. The whole south country was greatly stirred, every farmer carrying a gun and armed men closing in on the suspected murderer.

FOUR CHILDREN PERISH IN FLAMES.

EDMONTON, Nov. 5. Four children were burned to death in a fire which broke out in the west end of the city early Sunday morning and levelled Mount Ross, a three story apartment, as well as consuming flats occupied by twelve families. Eva Campbell is in hospital suffering from serious burns.

DISTINGUISHED VETERAN DIES IN N.Y. HOSPITAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. James H. Walter, a British war veteran, the wearer of five medals for bravery who as machine gunner in the Flying Corps, was in the machine with McCauley and fired the fatal shot that brought down the celebrated German ace Immelman, died last night in hospital here Saturday from the effects of being gassed in the war. He had been a butler in a Fifth Avenue home. The War Veterans will give him a military funeral. WINCHESTER, Mass., Nov. 5. S. W. McCall, Governor of Massachusetts from 1910 to 1913 and representative of the Eighth Mass district in Congress from 1893 to 1913, died at his home here yesterday from pneumonia. He was seventy-three. A SIMPLE FUNERAL BEFORE A DISTINGUISHED GATHERING. LONDON, Nov. 5. The ashes of Andrew Bonar Law who was seven months Premier of Great Britain, but perhaps the most modest man upon whom the honor was ever conferred, were entombed to-day in Westminster before a vast and distinguished gathering of the foremost people in Great Britain, but with little pomp or glitter. Ten pall bearers walked behind the casket which was borne by Non-Commissioned Officers from two regiments to which Bonar Law's sons belonged when they fell in action. The honorary pall bearers were the Prince of Wales, Premier Baldwin, Hon. John Whiteley, Speaker of the House, former Premiers Balfour and Asquith, Viscount Pitzalan, former Governor General of Ireland, Lords Carson and Beaverbrook, Austin Chamberlain and Ramsey MacDonald. PAPYRUS SOLD FOR $80,000. LONDON, Nov. 5. Guessing the identity of the new owner of Papyrus and the amount paid for the famous colt, is the latest diversion of the followers of racing in England. Latest reports is that the buyer is Basil Jarvis, or some member of the Jarvis stables force, and that the price is in excess of thirty thousand pounds. Magistrate's Court. A foreign seaman belonging to a vessel now in port was arrested by the police Saturday night for being drunk and threatening to stab the captain of another ship. Owing to the captain not being present in court the case was held over. A resident of Cuddly Street, charged with being drunk and disorderly; second, maliciously breaking three panes of glass in a shop window on New Gower Street, was convicted and fined $12.00, with the option of 20 days' imprisonment. Two ordinary drunks were released on deposit. A 17-year-old domestic who was found wandering about the streets by the police in the early hours of Sunday morning, was charged with being a loose and disorderly person. The hearing of this unfortunate girl's case was held over for further enquiry. An old offender from the Battery, a blacksmith by trade, was arrested for drunkenness, and was granted his release. A laborer from the Battery, who was also charged with being drunk, was fined $10.00 with the option of 5 days. A truckman for cruelty to his horse, was let go on payment of $5.00. The case of the Finance and Customs vs. husband and wife, residents of Flatrock for a breach of the Customs Revenue Act, 1905, will be continued before Judge Morris this afternoon at 3 o'clock. While a number of section men were engaged discharging a shipment of coal at Lewisports, on Friday last, one of the workmen named Ball, met with a painful accident which necessitated his removal to hospital for treatment. The unfortunate victim, it appears, was in the act of grasping one of the loaded tubs to be emptied over the ship's side into a large tunnel, when another tub came from an opposite direction, and in attempting to avoid it he became jammed between the two, with the result that both legs were badly crushed. The injured man was placed on board Saturday's incoming express, and upon arrival the ambulance in waiting removed him to hospital. THE T. Children's Entertainment at Masonic Temple

A kindly disposed Pied Piper visited St. John's on Saturday, and some three hundred children followed him pell mell to the Masonic Temple, where they found awaiting them everything prepared for their entertainment.

This annual event is eagerly looked forward to, and the first question of the many asked afterwards was "When will it be again?" The spacious building was filled with eager, laughing faces, and even the tiniest forgot their timidity when they discovered what a wonderful treat that had been prepared for them. The time was fully occupied with games, singing, music, pictures, and by no means of least importance, a feast of good things, where the most difficult question was which to choose; there was no reproving glance at sticky fingers, and no one to utter the warning—"Don't you think you have had enough!" The ladies who had gone to so much trouble to prepare the sumptuous tea had their reward in the look of absolute content on the youngsters' faces afterwards. Games were not resumed, but all assembled in the lower hall where a picture show, manipulated by Mr. Gordon Oke, and explained by Mr. Llewellyn Colley, kept the children fully engrossed until time to depart. At 7.30 the National Anthem was sung, and then came the parents' perplexing job of sorting out the various members of their respective families, and persuading them that it was all over. Fortunately the Masons had anticipated some such difficulty and had arranged by the exit, barrels of apples and bags of confectionery towards which each kiddie instinctively gravitated, received a parting gift, and tumbled, tired, but contented, was on the way home. Those who were in charge of the arrangements, and helped so much in the amusements are to be complimented on the success of their efforts.

Future Swedish King Takes as Bride Lady Louise

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 5.—(A. P.)—The marriage in London on Saturday of Lady Louise Mountbatten, great-granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria of England and second cousin to King George, the present sovereign, to Gustaf Adolf, crown prince of Sweden, is received with deep interest here. The Swedes are eager to meet the woman who some day will become their queen, and England is believed to be gratified at the new royal ties that bind Stockholm and London into still closer friendship.

Lady Louise is a sister of Lord Louis Mountbatten who last year married Miss Edwina Askey, said to be one of the richest women in England. Lord Louis and his bride spent part of their honeymoon in the United States. It was an eventful wooing which led to the wedding in the Chapel Royal of St. James Palace. Scarcely had the news of Gustaf Adolf's engagement been announced when it was reported that certain authorities in Sweden opposed the marriage on the ground that Lady Louise was not of sufficiently high rank to marry the Crown Prince. Then, while the genealogical experts were settling this question in favor of the bride-to-be, came the startling news that the press of foreign lands was broadcasting the tale that Lady Louise had changed her mind about becoming a crown princess anyway, and was going to marry an obscure English painter of modest income. But as the summer passed by these rumors were gradually discredited by the fact that Lady Louise and the Swedish Crown Prince were often seen together in England and France. Lady Louise's father was Prince Louis of Battenberg, later known as the Marquis of Milford-Haven. The Battenberg family has sprung from Germany by way of Austria, where the title of prince was bestowed, and because of strained feeling in England during the war, the name was anglicized to Mountbatten. Lady Louise, who is about 35 years old, is a typical aristocratic Englishwoman, gracious, generous, alert, fond of dancing and outdoor sport, and graced with genuine charm. She will capitate Sweden as she did the officers and sailors of the Swedish squadron visiting British waters when she came abroad the flagship escorted by the crown prince. The Swedish Crown Prince, whose full name is Oscar Fredrik Wilhelm Olaf Gustaf Adolf, has been married before, his first wife having died some three years ago. Crown Princess Margaret, daughter of the Duke of Connaught and princess of Great Britain and Ireland, had borne Gustaf Adolf five children, and her death was a great bereavement to the Swedish people. Gustaf Adolf is now 41 years of age, more than six feet tall, as are all the men of the Swedish royal family, and victorious as an athlete. Indeed he is the possessor of the "athletic medal" awarded only for high proficiency in at least five different branches of sport in Sweden. This is perhaps not strange, nor is it strange that he is a military leader, and that he should have commanded one of his country's armies in the field maneuvers which ended only two weeks before the wedding. But it may surprise many to learn that the Swedish crown prince is also a serious archaeologist, with several expeditions to his credit. Last year he spent nearly two months personally directing the excavation of the buried Greek town of Asspe, and unearthed many precious relics that shed light on the civilization of 3,000 years ago. He is, moreover, a collector of paintings, especially of the work of modern artists, such as Anders Zorn and Carl Larsson. Gustaf Adolf is very democratic and, consequently, popular with the masses in Sweden. His political aims and principles, like those of his father, are sound and constructive. The wedding in London will be attended by both King George of England and King Gustaf of Sweden. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Italy.

Old Collegian Clinic Campaign

TO START ON TUESDAY.

The Old Collegian Association Membership Campaign will commence on Monday and continue on Wednesday. A canvass of about 50 members will be made into divisions and teams, and leaders and captains, will canvass city and collect the membership of $1.00 from the present roll of members, and also, if possible, to engage the membership roll up to $1,000. The chief need for funds is to help establish the Clinic Department in connection with the Methodist College, where every scholar will be the benefit of medical examination and advice. As the canvassers are giving two days of their time to this work, it is hoped that all members will have the necessary amount and give the canvassers their hearty support. At the annual meeting on Wednesday night, reports will be submitted and prizes will be given to the division leaders and captains, to secure the largest number of membership fees.

Drunkenness in Evidence

A man under the influence of liquor armed with a full bottle, caused a commotion on Bannerman Street yesterday afternoon. The inebriate challenged all and sundry to a fist fight, and it was not until a policeman put in an appearance that he was restrained. In the afternoon a sample of citizens, apparently delighted with the progress being made by the erection of the base of the Soldiers' Monument, selected the site for a celebration. After they had consumed a bottle of booze, a police officer came along and ordered the affair to be quieted.

Miss Mary Ryan is also helping us at St. Mary's. Hear her—she's great.

An Interesting Fact.

An honest and thorough test was made in Canada to prove that RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE was superior to Pure White Lead. A mixture of 100 lbs. of RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE and 5 gallons of Boiled Linseed Oil was matched against a mixture of 100 lbs. of Purest White Lead and 4 gallons Boiled Linseed Oil.

NOTE—RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE stood 1 gallon more Linseed Oil, therefore more economical for painting.

A wood surface was painted with a heavy black line in the centre, then two coats of RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE was applied, the black line was completely hidden.

A like wood surface and black line was covered with four coats of the Pure White Lead, and the black line was still noticeable.

NOTE—RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE only took two coats to hide the black line, the same amount of paint in each case was used.

THE RESULT—RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE is superior to Pure White Lead because it takes 25 p.c. more oil and spreads with a greater hiding power a much larger surface, it stays white much longer.

There is nothing better made for painting Churches, Schools, Houses, etc.

An Old Oarsman Heard From

A friend in this city of Mr. Edward Cooper, who left St. John's with his family, about six weeks ago, received a letter from him in which he states that immediately after their arrival in Roxbury, Mass., U.S.A., he and his two sons procured remunerative employment in their new home, and are delighted with their surroundings. They have had very warm weather up there for some time, and had to keep their windows open. Mr. Cooper was in the employ of S. H. Parsons, and Sons, Photographers, for over 30 years. He was for years one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the Annual Regatta, and was never absent from the green. For many years he stroked boats in the Amateur Race, and was recognized as one of our best oarsmen. He is determined to visit his native city next year, if only for a day, should everything go well, to view the contests on the waters of historic Quidi Vidit Lake. Mr. Cooper wishes to be remembered to all old friends in St. John's.

Passing Inebriate's Narrow Escape

The promptness of a motorman saved the life of an inebriate yesterday shortly after noon hour, when the latter attempted to cross in front of a car proceeding west along Water Street. The man was well along the influence of liquor and had made his way along the sidewalk to Baine Johnston's when he retraced his steps to Parker & Monroe's premises. Here he suddenly started to run across the street. Whilst crossing the car track he was hit by the fender of a west-bound car and knocked senseless to the pavement. A number of people ran to his assistance and subsequently two police officers took him in charge. Those who witnessed the accident say the man owed his life to the promptness of the street car driver.

Armistice Dance

G.C.C. HALL, NOVEMBER 13th, 1923. The annual Armistice Dance, which is being held in the G.C.C. Hall on Tuesday, Nov. 13th, promises to be a most entertaining function. The G.W.V.A., assisted by its Ladies' Auxiliary and lady friends are enthusiastically in perfecting the arrangements which include several new and unique novelties. A camouflage dance, the lighting effect being produced by a large glass-ball will be one of the many features, while special twilight waltzes, a march past to the strains of the "Regimental March" will also be included. New and striking head dresses have been imported which should add to the enjoyment. The music will be rendered by the Prince's dance orchestra who have reserved several new dance hits. Announcement regarding the receipts of the sale of Flanders Poppies will be made by the committee in charge. His Excellency and Lady Allarday, accompanied by their suite will be in attendance while many other distinguished citizens have signified their intention of being present. The object is a very commendable one, viz., the G.W.V.A. Relief Fund to assist ex-service men, widows, orphans and dependents. The Nfld. Highlanders have very kindly allowed their decorations which were used in connection with its recent dance to be used. Those will be supplemented by the G.W.V.A. colours, etc. Uniform is desired to be worn by those who are in possession of same, otherwise dress will be optional. Celebrate the Armistice with the War Vet's and their friends. A warm welcome is assured all.

Memories of Gallipoli

DARING EXPLOIT OF A BRIGADE-MAJOR RECALLED.

Many stirring memories of the Gallipoli campaign were recalled at a lecture given in London by Col. H. M. Farmer, D.S.O. of the Lancashire Fusiliers. General Sir George F. Milne, who presided, stated that the Turks had the greatest admiration, and strangely enough, the greatest love, for the British soldier. They understood that they had been thoroughly beaten on the peninsula and, although the Allies did not get through, the Turkish losses must have been enormous. Colonel Farmer declared that the landing at Gallipoli was carried out in accordance with naval ideas, which were opposed to the principles of military tactics. In regard to the attack, there was supposed to have been great secrecy, but during the preliminary preparations in Egypt, so much was found out by the secret service of the enemy that the reports that reached the German headquarters in Athens were extraordinarily accurate. The Turks were even in possession of the names of regimental officers, as instanced after the landing, when two colonels were called by name one night and shot dead in the darkness. Sufficient attention, he continued, was not paid to the details of organization, and the private soldier had to carry a total weight of 85 lb. He mentioned in this connection that in the recent Turkish Greek operations, the commander's policy was to allocate two men to carry necessities with each rifleman; in this way the Turks had a light time, and easily defeated the Greeks. Relating incidents of heroic endeavor, Colonel Farmer made particular mention of the feat of Brigade-Major

Franklin, who, leading a flank attack, was first at the top of the cliff, and, surprising the Turks, seized the rifle of the nearest man, and shot dead seven of the enemy, and thus creating the demoralization that gave success to that particular movement. The speaker also paid a tribute to the wonderful signalling of the Post Office personnel, and characterized the 2nd Royal Fusiliers as a "wonder" battalion. Several times after being severely mauled, the latter sorted themselves out, junior officers were moved up, and the new commanding officer carried on just as did his predecessor. There was not a shadow of shakiness in the whole battalion throughout.

Balkan States

NOW RELIEVE TOURISTS OF ALL SURPLUS CASH.

Athens, Nov. 1. (A.P.)—Currency is so distressingly scarce in all the Balkan states, that not a single government will permit a traveler, no matter what his nationality, to carry away with him more than the government concerned thinks he needs to get him to his next stopping place. In most cases this is 1,000 units of whatever the currency may be; anything over this sum is confiscated. This means the owner of the money will never see it again, and the procedure is legal, for the law making it so is down clearly in the statutes of virtually every country of southeastern Europe. The despoiled individual has no recourse.

Many naturalized Americans, natives originally of some Balkan country, have come home since the end of the war bringing with them wealth in dollars. Now they are beginning to get enough of the old country, and again turn their faces to the new world. Their dollars meantime have been exchanged into drachms, or dinars, or lei or liras, and they want to carry away what is left. But the government says no; only 1,000; the rest stays here.

Thereupon the naturalized citizen turns to the nearest American diplomatic representative and claims protection. The situation presents so many difficulties that the American ministers to the Balkan states have met in conference to discuss what best to do. They are warning all citizens, and particularly naturalized, not to come over here with more money than they actually need. Also they may take the matter up with Washington.

None Better at Any Price

This expression has been used so often that it can almost be considered hackneyed, but still it has a real meaning when applied to Ivory Soap, for no matter what price you pay you cannot obtain a purer or more satisfactory toilet soap than Ivory. You can prove this by trying Ivory next time.

Devolution

WARNS AGAINST PRACTICE OF TRANSPORTING GLANDS.

Buenos Aires, Nov. 1.—The practice of monkey gland operations, should it be extended and carried down the generations, may change man back into the monkey from which he evolved, warns Professor Clementi Onelli, director of the Buenos Aires Zoological Garden. In an article published in the Bulletin of the Sarmiento Society for the Protection of Animals. Moreover, removing these glands from monkeys is cruelty to animals. Professor Onelli appeals to the local society to call an international congress of organizations for the protection of animals not only to take steps to stop "this new form of scientific cruelty," but "to avoid the alteration of the natural laws of human society with its consequent danger to modern civilization."

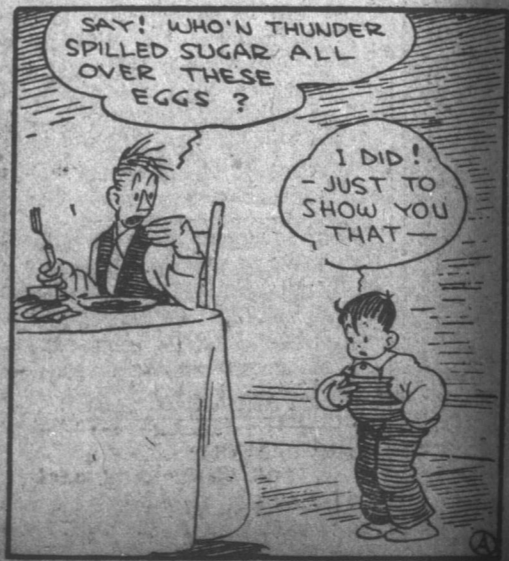

"In the desire to postpone as long as possible the decrepitude of age," Professor Onelli writes, "the time may come when the substitution of the secretions of such inferior animals as monkeys, will become more widely practiced, and so many monkey-men produced that, after a few generations, the characteristics of the human species would show variations. The forehead might become flattened, and should the scientists succeed in combining the secretions of the orang-outang with the chimpanzee, for substitution in man, a genus of satyr might result."

"THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH"

A Big Human Story with a Splendid Cast

A Dashing 1923 Melodrama with many Thrilling Scenes

Does for the Father what "Over the Hill" Does for the Mother

Admission : : : : 30 cents

BY Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

Under a spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stands;
The smith, a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands;
And the muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands.

His hair is crisp, and black and long,
His face is like the tan;
His brow is wet with honest sweat,
He earns what'e'er he can,
And looks the whole world in the face,
For he owes not any man.

Week in, week out, from morn till night,
You can hear his bellows blow;
You can hear him swing his heavy sledge,
With measured beat and slow,
Like a sexton ringing the village bell,
When the evening sun is low.

And children coming home from school
Look in at the open door,
They love to see the flaming forge,
And hear the bellows roar,
And catch the burning sparks that fly
Like chaff from a threshing floor.

He goes on Sunday to the church,
And sits among his boys;
He hears the parson pray and preach,
He hears his daughter's voice
Singing in the village choir,
And it makes his heart rejoice.

It sounds to him like his mother's voice
Singing in Paradise!
He needs must think of her once more,
How in the grave she lies,
And with a hard, rough hand he wipes
A tear out of his eyes.

Toiling—rejoicing—sorrowing,
Onward through life he goes,
Each evening sees it close;
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose.

Thanks, thanks, to thee, my worthy friend,
For the lesson thou hast taught!
Thus at the flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought;
Thus on its sounding anvil shaped
Each burning deed and thought.

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT OF CHIEF AGENT FOR WEEK, ENDING NOV. 3RD, 1923.

Attended to the landing of 140 head of cattle, 8 horses, 100 sheep and a quantity of pigs and poultry from the Canadian Sapper. One cow was in a very bad condition. I had Dr. McNeill's opinion. The animal was taken away on a sloop. I attended to the landing of 22 head of cattle, which came in by train. There have been comments made during the week about cattle being taken through the streets. I find most persons are trying to handle them in the easiest way possible. These animals taken off a steamer and driven through the strange streets, usually show nervousness and are easily frightened. They are sold on Water Street in the centre of the city and one can't help driving them on Water Street, where all the traffic is carried on. I don't think it is any more cruel to tie a rope around its neck and lead the animal than to tie a rope to the ring in the animal's nose. When you tie it to a cart it makes another trouble on a wet, greasy pavement, and it is almost impossible to keep animals from falling. I know that Mr. Halliday and his men do all they can for the comfort of the beasts. I was called on Wednesday evening to the West End, where a beautiful dog had been run over by some unknown motor car. I think it a great shame and a disgrace for any driver to be guilty of such a thing, to motor off and leave the animal to suffer. I am now making enquiries, tracing the owner of the car. I was also asked to humanely put to death a dog for a lady on Monroe Street, and another for a lady on Quidi Vidi Road. I was asked on Tuesday night to humanely put to death a horse for a west End farmer. The animal had hurt its leg, and it could not be cured. I hope that now the cold weather has set in, farmers will not have their horses clipped for the winter months, as it is a cruel treatment. Nature grows heavy coats of hair for protection in cold weather. We have a number of pictures of "The Horse's Prayer," which we would like to dispose of. The pictures are fifty cents without the frame and $2.50 with the frame. I will look after the shipping of two horses on the Prospero, going to White Bay. They were put in horse boxes covered with tarpaulins, and were made as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. All friends of animals are asked to phone me any reports of animals left out in pasture at night, as all animals should now be housed. Telephone 863 for all complaints.

FLIVERS.

The people who ride in the flivers from trouble and worry seem free; they junket along by the rivers, they teeter along by the sea; they stop when they're through by shaken, they put up their tent in a grove, and cook sundry rathers of bacon upon a collapsible stove. They always are joking and chaffing, though covered with road dust and grime, they always are joshing and laughing and having a bully good time. The people in sumptuous coaches are never so gay as they ride; whenever a grand car approaches I look for some sore-heads inside. Oppressed by their opulent splendor and bored by the sameness of days, they haven't the spirit to render an anthem of pleasure and praise. They've aches in their hearts and their livers, they've pains in their blue-blooded toes; they look with disgust on the flivers that journey in choo-chooing rows. But happiness goes with the buses all rusty and battered with scars, and most of the soul-weary cusses are riding in sumptuous cars. The air of the countryside quivers with laughter, again and again; the people who ride in the flivers are making their camp in the glen.

Mystery of the Moon

Although the American view is that the moon is composed of a number of small meteoric masses flying through space, British scientists still share Sir George Darwin's theory that the moon is a piece of the earth which flew off fifty or sixty million years ago owing to the terrific speed at which the earth was then rotating. Now the earth is slowing down: if the speed of rotation could be increased to what it was when the moon was supposed to have been flung off, every loose thing—chimney pots, for instance—would be sent flying. The moon's action of raising the tides, both in the oceans and in the earth's crust, has a retarding effect on the speed of the earth's rotation. The moon is getting farther and farther away from the earth. Therefore, by calculating backwards, we come to the time when the moon must have been touching the earth. It is for this reason that a great many British scientists think the moon is composed of matter that once formed part of the earth, and was separated from it in the region which is now the Pacific Ocean.

HE'S NEVER BEEN SIXTEEN BEFORE.

We marvel that he does such things And is so keen to try his wings— Blind youth that feels the thrill of joy With all the daring of a boy Who violates without concern The precepts we were made to learn— He should know better, should know more Who never was sixteen before!

He was not here when we were young; Dead is the past to which we've clung 'Tis his to face the world to-day, To live, to dream, to be, to play, Nor as we were in the by-gone years But as the world this hour appears. This boy, so different, at life's door, Has never been sixteen before.

'Tis vain to talk of wrong or right Which marked an age long taken night. Our youth to him is foreign land, Its ways he cannot understand; What life was once he cannot say, He knows he must be young to-day— He smiles at customs we deplore Who never was sixteen before!

These manners which to us are grim Are very natural to him; Our time of youth has passed away And he is being young to-day. To this great truth old age must bow: Youth only knows what life is now. A world this, he must explore, Who never was sixteen before.

DON'T PLAY TWO HANDS AT ONCE.

Suppose you were playing cards and played a hand badly, what would you do? Would you say to yourself, "I didn't do that as well as I should. I'll do better next time" and put your full attention on the next hand? Or would you sit through the next thinking of how much better you had come out if you had led your sonner and hadn't tried to be that queen when you might have known the king lay in the fourth? Or would you think no one would be so foolish as to be thinking of what had been played when he was trying to play another hand. I wish you that there aren't many who are so foolish—in a card game, in life—well, that seems to be true. Apparently people don't seem to be so vital to use their brains in their judgment on the game of Mulling Over Misplays. Over and over again we find mulling over past misplays they ought to have, their eyes fixed on the present hand. A day or two ago a woman came to me in a mood of bitter depression. She was passing through that year of life which is called misapprehension when it should be called misapprehension. I'll let you guess which from your own experience.

Perhaps someone will tell me that it is only by studying our past mistakes that we learn to play better in the future. Absolutely true. But studying the mistakes in a hand is a very different thing from this Oh-I-should-only-go-back-and-do-it-over state of mind.

London's Ugly Duckling Scoffs

AT KINGSWAY'S SMUG RESPECTABILITY.

London, Oct. 29. (Canadian Press). This month saw the 17th anniversary of Kingsway and Aldwych. Those who regarded it as practically certain that this great development would have a direct and almost immediate effect upon the neighboring Strand have been doomed to disappointment, says a writer in the Observer. He continues: Even as Kingsway and Aldwych have become, month by month, more gleamingly respectable, and increasingly uninteresting, so has the Strand worn its tattered garments with an ever-growing shamelessness. The most famous street in the world seems to take a positive delight in being disreputable. It is no exaggeration to describe the Strand as the most famous street in the world. Its name is as full of magic to the Briton as the stranger in all parts of the earth as is the conjurer's wand to the child eager to be fascinated and mystified. Its story is a large slice out of the history of England, yet it is the ugly duckling of London's thoroughfares.

This condition of things is all the more remarkable when one remembers—and it is, easy to forget sometimes, what architectural treasures the Strand possesses. Streets Law Courts! For all the abuse that has been showered upon this wonderful mass of Portland stone by the anti-neo-Gothic folk there is not one of us who is not secretly, or openly, proud of it. Wren's Middle Temple Gateway is just without the Strand, but yet seems of it. Westward there stands, sentinel-wise, the Wren-Gibbs Church of St. Clement-Danes, something to prepare the eye for the exquisite church of Mary-le-Strand, by Gibbs. This island church has for companionship Somerset House, one of the rarest examples of eighteenth century architecture ever built. Bush Building is the most fascinating block of offices set up in London during the present century. Australia House, the Morning Post Office, and the new Gaiety Theatre with its "most decorative blank wall in Europe," are all fine structures which should save any street from the fate which seems to have overtaken the Strand. Beyond Wellington Street are vast hotels, popular theatres, well-known restaurants, a famous hospital, and a great terminal railway station. Add to all this the fact that the Strand is the great historic highway that carries the Court to the City, and the lawyer and the business man to their clients in the West End, and what more do you want?

As a shopping thoroughfare the street has taken on an adventitious character that would bring blushes to the cheek of the Edgeware Road. Importune traders stand by their doorways soliciting the custom of the passers-by. Cheap clothing, passport photos, surplus stocks, picture post-cards—anything is good enough to sell in the Strand to-day. The old-fashioned shops with tradition behind them can be counted on the fingers of one hand, leaving the thumb out at that. To all intents and purposes the Strand to-day is three-quarters of a mile of penny-gaff.

But now, at last, some real improvements are about to be effected which should radically alter this state of things. The widening opposite the new Tivoli was but an earnest of what was to come. In a week or two the housebreaker will be busy on two large sections of shabby old buildings possessed of no architectural merit, and in their place will rise up magnificent blocks of offices and shops, set fifteen feet back from the present street-line, and built of Portland stone. The elevations will follow a definite architectural idea, and fortuitous building will be, as far as possible, avoided.

"Seeing Canada" Boosts the Dominion

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press)—Canada's beauty spots, her home life, industries and sports are becoming known to the world over through the activities of the Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau, where information films in the "Seeing Canada" series are being constantly turned out for world-wide distribution.

It has been estimated that these "Seeing Canada" films are shown to a monthly audience of five million persons in the United States alone. These films are in great demand in Great Britain and are also being shown in France, Belgium, Switzerland, South Africa, India, South America, China, Japan, Australia New Zealand, the Straits Settlements and elsewhere. So great is the demand for pictures of this series that the Department has been compelled to enlarge its laboratories. Recently it moved into new quarters and with added equipment is able to turn out almost four times its previous output. Now the department is capable of an output of almost 200,000 feet of motion pictures a month while its output of still pictures number nearly 10,000 a year.

Empire Exhibition

VISIT BY THE DOMINION PREMIERS—$10,000,000 SPENT BEFORE GATES ARE OPENED.

In the palatial hall which is the dominating feature at present of the exhibition grounds at Wembley Park, a representative company gathered the other day to meet the Prime Ministers of the Dominions. The occasion was a luncheon given by the Board of the British Empire Exhibition and presided over by the Duke of Devonshire, the Colonial Secretary, who is also chairman of the executive council. It was evident from the various speeches that the Dominion people are keenly interested in the venture and that the choicest specimens of the arts and products of the Empire will be on view within the enclosure of 240 odd acres when the Royal Inauguration ceremony takes place in April, 1925. Over $10,000,000, the Duke announced, will have been spent on preparations before the gates are opened. The thoughts of such an assembly naturally drifted towards the Prince of Wales, whose stay in Canada has drawn to a close. To him a cordial message was cabled in the name of the Duke of Devonshire. The first response to the toast of "Our Great Imperial Project," came from Mr. Mackenzie King, Canada's Prime Minister. "Our great Commonwealth project" was his preference for the title of the toast. "It better describes the purposes of the exhibition," he went on, "because above all else it is aimed at demonstrating to the world the common weal of all the members of the great family of the British Empire." General Smuts described the exhibition as a great co-operative effort on the part of the greatest Empire that ever existed. During the afternoon General Smuts laid the foundation stone of the South African pavilion.

Something Big at the Nickel To-Night

An attraction of unusual interest is "Quincy Adams Sawyer," which can be seen at the Nickel to-night. Based on a widely read novel of real life which is considered a classic, interpreted by an unusual cast consisting entirely of players whose names have wide reputation, telling a story which combines quaint people character studies, comedy, heart interest and melo-dramatic thrills, and possessed of other ingredients that make the film one of the best of the current season.

All the elements of the story have been cleverly dovetailed, handled so that a good runaway scene, a snappy fight where science gets the best of minutes in an unusually effective climax where the villain is killed by his dupe, and the blind girl is being carried downstream on a raft and rescued by the hero just before it reached the falls. The raft scene provides a fitting climax to this highly interesting and entertaining picture. It is not a subtle story and everything turns out as you would wish it, but it is a vastly entertaining picture containing all the elements that good showmanship has shown audiences desire and should please all St. John's picture lovers. It's a production similar to such masterpieces as Griffith's "Way Down East." See it at the Nickel to-night and you'll agree that you've seen something that strikes right at your heart.

An Important Purchase of Newspapers

$6,000,000 DEAL—PUBLIC ISSUE OF DEBENTURES IN ABOUT TEN DAYS.

An important purchase of newspapers and periodicals has just been completed. The Daily Mail Trust, Ltd., has acquired the business of Messrs. Edward Hulton and Co., of London and Manchester, for the sum of £6,000,000. The papers taken over include:—The Evening Standard, published in London. The Daily Sketch, published in London. The Sunday Herald, published in London. The Daily Dispatch, published in Manchester. The Evening Chronicle, published in Manchester. The Sunday Chronicle, published in Manchester. The Empire News, published in Manchester.

All these papers will be under the management of The Daily Mail Trust, Ltd., except the Evening Standard, which will be controlled by Lord Beaverbrook. It is proposed to offer to the public in about ten days' time a Debenture issue secured on these properties and on the other assets of The Daily Mail Trust, Ltd., which include 300,000 Deferred Shares of the Associated Newspapers, Ltd. The issue will be seven per cent. Guaranteed Mortgage Debenture Stock at 240 per cent. The Daily Mail Trust was formed in September, 1922, to acquire Lord Northcliffe's newspaper interests, which include The Daily Mail, the Evening News and the Weekly Dispatch. It is common knowledge in the City that The Daily Mirror and Sunday Pictorial are largely interested in The Daily Mail Trust.

New Rail Route to Save Time

WILL CUT DOWN DISTANCE BETWEEN TORONTO AND WINNIPEG BY ONE HUNDRED AND TWO MILES.

Montreal, Que.—Within 30 days a new railroad link will be completed shortening the trans-continental route through Canada to be known as the Lord Lake Cutoff. This new line, 39 miles in length, will join up the southern and northern trans-continental routes of the Canadian National Railways and will cut down the distance between Montreal and Winnipeg on that system by 70 miles and the distance between Toronto and Winnipeg by 102 miles.

The saving in time between Montreal and Winnipeg and Vancouver will be three hours and between Toronto and Winnipeg and Vancouver more than four hours by the operation of this cutoff the Canadian National Railways will have a new direct line from Montreal to Winnipeg 56 miles shorter than that of any existing railway from Toronto to Winnipeg. The distance will be shortened by 25 miles as against present routes. Work on this cutoff, which has been constructed at a point about 200 miles east of Port Arthur, was begun early this year and the laying of steel on the last 15 miles is now proceeding.

ROLLING TRIP IN BRITAIN'S MOST POWERFUL ENGINE—81 MILES AN HOUR.

The thrills of travelling on the foot of the Caerphilly Castle, Britain's most powerful locomotive, at a rate of eighty-one miles an hour, has been experienced by the Daily Mirror correspondent, who tells the story of a journey from London to Paddington—seventy-seven miles—which was accomplished in 72½ m., an average of 81 miles per hour. The train was an ordinary one, but it was scheduled times, and it had to slacken speed in order to keep within its schedule. It started off smoothly enough, but the correspondent, Dr. J. H. Osborne, who had been in the cab, and Mr. P. H. Osborne, who had been in the engine, observed with a suspicious wrinkle in his eye, that I should have an opportunity of testing the speed of the much-boomed tip-up provided. The guard's whistle sounded, and the driver moved the throttle. For a moment we hardly seemed to be moving, with a tremendous roar of steam, the giant engine swung round the station. In two minutes we were doing fifty miles an hour. Seven miles from the station our speed had increased to sixty miles per hour. Between Wantage-road and Didcot, C. A. Collett, the designer of the engine, and myself recorded by independent checks a speed of over 81 m. per hour.

Dr. Banting, O.M.?

NATION'S DUTY TO DISCOVERER OF DIABETES' CURE—CANADA'S LEAD.

There is a strong feeling in certain political circles that the time has now come when this country should officially recognize the genius of Dr. Banting, the world-famous discoverer of the insulin cure for diabetes, writes The Daily Mirror political correspondent. Statesmen, sailors, soldiers and men of letters have been awarded this most coveted honour in the Orders of Chivalry. A vacancy in the Order has been created by the death of Viscount Molyneux, is not Dr. Banting, the greatest benefactor of mankind for a generation, entitled to membership? Already he has earned a place with Pasteur, Jenner and Harvey.

Thousands of sufferers, whose lives had been despaired of, have been restored to health and vigour by his marvellous discovery.

A few months ago Mr. Mackenzie King, the Canadian Prime Minister, moved a resolution in the Dominion House of Commons acknowledging the nation's gratitude to this brilliant doctor and authorising the vote of an annuity to permit Dr. Banting to devote his life to medical research. Dr. Banting is a Canadian, but he is, of course, a British subject. At the moment he is, according to his friend, Professor Henderson, engaged in blood research, and Dr. Godfrey, the Minister of Health for Ontario, has publicly announced that Dr. Banting has "something better to offer the world" than his insulin discovery. Whatever the result of his research may be, no honour is too great for him now for his noble services to humanity.
