SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

LOOK HERE FRIEND! Do you have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back? Do you feel dull and sleepy? Do your mouth have a bad taste, especially in the morning? Is your appetite poor? Is there a feeling like a heavy load upon the stomach? Sometimes a faint all-gone feeling in the pit of the stomach, which food does not satisfy? Are your eyes sunken? Do your hands and feet become cold and feel clammy? Is there a giddiness, a sort of whirling sensation in the head when rising up suddenly? Are the whites of your eyes tinged with yellow? Is your urine scanty and high colored? Does it deposit a sediment after standing? If you suffer from any of these symptoms, USE SMITH'S CHAMOMILE PILLS.

Poetry.

Wise. How wisely ordered are our lives! The influence of God survives Our follies and our faults, and all And saith through the journey here, With many a slip and many a fall, And many a sad, repentant tear, Sorrow, and pain, and care, and we, Is good discipline, but we but know, Is it not wise that we should bear Something of poverty and care, And by our troubles learn to find A sympathy for all mankind? Is it not wise that we should see The harsh and stern reality Of wrong and evil, that the good By us we better understand? And thus through envy, malice, hate, Life's many trials, must we wait; Learning with patience, hour by hour, The lessons that omniscient power Has taught us from the dawn of time, That all who read may understand, That evil deeds have good behind them, And love the torch with which to find them? That noble thoughts have had their birth In most unlikely spots of earth; That noblest of all things, the soul, Where least expected to be found; That life, though hard and full of care, By love is made divinely gay; That he who reads the truth aright, Finds good in all, in darkness light.

THE two engaged people had no regular meeting place, and it was the best of friends in the town, but they never met for two months. He went to his office, and she to her home, and they were as strangers to each other as if they had never been engaged. The minister took a card from his pocket and wrote upon it: 'I am Adoniram Martin. She is Miss Hetty Yule.' The old minister took it, smiled and said: 'I noticed you didn't mention your names in the town. I used to know your father, Adoniram Martin. I christened your elder brother, who died at six months of age.' 'Yes, I have heard mother speak of him,' said Adoniram. 'And I suppose that's why you've come to me to get married,' said the man. 'I went to Scotland five years ago to see my mother, and I only stayed there for two months ago. Well, well; stand here, my dear, beside Adoniram. Betsy Jane, where are you? I shall have to ring the bell. Betsy Jane, bring them in. Witnesses are necessary you know.'

THE result was that she became Mrs. Martin in the course of twenty minutes. While Adoniram was fishing in the depths of his pockets for a $10 gold piece, which seemed to him a proper return for the minister's services, a great wagon brought the expected bride party to the door, and the newly married pair remained to witness the ceremony and were offered seats in the wagon at the conclusion. As they rode along Mrs. Martin was still quite speechless. She glanced at the face of her own house like a woman in a dream, and was led into the parlor not yet fully conscious that all this was true. But she heard Adoniram say: 'Cousin Sally, here's the dress. It's a present from me. And I've brought this nice blue home—my wife, Hetty and I are married.'

THE De Sancy Diamond. Some of the most curious losses and recoveries of which we have any record are related in regard to famous jewels. Among these is the De Sancy diamond, which is supposed to have been discovered in the East Indies. The first known owner of this gem was Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy, who is said to have worn it in his helmet. It was lost in the battle in which his own son was killed, and was picked up by a Swiss soldier, who sold it to a priest for a florin. The priest, as ignorant as the soldier of its real value, imagined that he had made a good bargain when he sold it to the king of Portugal for a florin and a half. The profit of the king, however, was somewhat larger than that of the unworthy priest, for he received not less than 100,000 crowns for it from the wealthy Harley De Sancy, in whose family it remained for several generations. Finally one of his descendants, wishing to pawn it in order to lead Henri III some money, sent it to a Jew broker by the hand of a servant in which was recognized as that of the missing servant. An attempt at robbery had evidently been made, and the faithful fellow had remained true to his master's interests to his last moments; for on the surgeons examining the body the diamond was found in his stomach, he having swallowed it as the only means left to him of outwitting his assailants.—Chicago Herald.

STUFFED BEFOREHAND.—James P. Booth of Chicago, believes in bringing up children the way they should go. 'I know how it is myself,' he said the other day, as he spoke of this matter. 'When I was a boy,' he continued, 'I had most ravenous appetite, like all healthy boys. My dear mother was great on training and etiquette, and she had me at her afternoon tea. Now, tea was a little thing for me then and the knew it, so just before the tea she would quietly lead me back to the pantry and fill me up with milk pudding until I couldn't wink. Then I would participate in the afternoon tea. Of course, loaded as I was, I could find no room for anything else, and when the tea and cake came round I said: "No, thank you." The ladies present would regard me with amazement and cry: "What a well-behaved boy!" They didn't know that I had been stuffed beforehand.'—Chicago Herald.

TO POLISH NEW SHOES.—A bootblack, who takes pride in his 'art,' was asked why it was that new shoes could not be 'shined.' He replied: 'New shoes can be "shined" if you know how. But I guess not one in a hundred knows the secret. Go to the average bootblack with a new pair of calf shoes and after he has daubed them with blacking he will rub with all his might, some times peeling off a corn. Now this is all wrong. New shoes should be rubbed very softly, and the brush should skim over the surface of the upper. For if the brush is put on hard the oil in the upper goes on the brush, and you can't get a good shine to save your life. With good blacking and good brushes I can shine any shoe in five to ten minutes. I don't care how new it is.'

YOUR wasted cheeks may have all the plumpness and bloom of youth through your use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This honored remedy still leads the way. It imparts digestion, purifies the blood, and invigorates the system. Give it a trial.

HE expects a couple who wants to get married that they are not the couple, painted Hetty. Adoniram took a card from his pocket and wrote upon it: 'I am Adoniram Martin. She is Miss Hetty Yule.'

THE most puzzling task at Christmas, says Mary V. Warstell in St. Nicholas, is to select presents for fathers and brothers. Two years ago, a certain young woman (this way of reminiscence) failed to find anything she thought suitable for her father. But after much perplexity a coffee cup and saucer, daintily decorated, was selected, and it was gratefully used at about three hundred and sixty breakfasts during the following year. The next year a cut-glass salt-cellar and pepper-box were given. Besides these and similar articles, one might try canvas or linen slipper-cases, made to hang against the wall, inkstands, and other articles for desks, silver matches, boxes, razors (for which the traditional penny should be exacted), shaving glasses, cases of shaving-brush, or, at all times welcome friend, a case for carrying collars and cuffs when travelling, a useful present for many. The outside may be of any material available, and the lining should be of silk; but a stiff interlining of buckram should be inserted. To make it like a music-roll, but not so wide, and fasten it with a fancy leather strap and buckle. Decorate the outside with some pretty device, the initials or monogram of the prospective owner. I shall make no further suggestions of articles especially suitable for the stern sex, but among the presents which will do equally well for either father or mother, brother or sister, may be mentioned umbrellas; umbrella-cases; chairs of more or less elaborate workmanship, from the wicker or rattan chair to those which are profusely carved or richly upholstered; opera-glasses, gloves, handkerchiefs, gold pens, fountain pens, card-cases, napkin rings and books.

MANY of the large publishing houses keep on sale pictures of authors. Twenty-five cents will buy the portrait of almost any well-known author. These are usually wood-engravings and excellent of their kind, well-printed on good paper, in size about ten by twelve inches. For the same picture on India paper (which, of course, is more durable and admits of a finer impression) one dollar may be asked, and the extra money will be well spent. A neatly framed portrait of the favorite author of a friend will make a charming gift at but small cost.

THE mothers—the housekeepers—are the saddest to enter for at this season of puzzled shoppers. There are hundreds of dainty articles which the true home-maker will welcome. Anything to beautify the home can hardly fail to please—silver, china, articles of cut-glass, or choice nary for the table, a Japanese umbrella-stand, a work basket prettily fitted up, and with perhaps a silver or gold tinsmith in its own little pocket, a linen scarf for the sidewalk, embroidered or plain, a choice napery for the table, a shopping-bag, or embroidered scarf of the pretty China silks now so much used in decoration. Other gifts might be vinaigrettes, silver glove-buttons, crocheted slippers, dainty aprons, ivory brushes and combs, stationery, pocket-books, card-cases or address-books. In presenting any of the latter gifts it will show an added thoughtfulness on the part of the giver to have the name, or at least the initials, of the recipient printed in gilt letters on the article, if it be of leather. The added cost for this work is very trifling. In the same way the value of a box of stationery is much enhanced if the giver has had the address of the recipient stamped upon the upper right-hand corner of the paper.

A new process of art decoration in wood is a German invention. It is known as the Dalurs process and produces very beautiful effects. It consists in impressing upon wood any kind of art designs, which stand out in relief. The impression is produced by a small machine having two horizontal steel rollers which are heated internally. The pattern is formed around the top roller, and can be changed for a different design whenever desired; the bottom roller is made of plain wood, and the rollers are slowly revolved, and the wood to be ornamented is passed between the under pressure. The surface of the wood is compressed, and the design transferred to it in various degrees of relief, according to the requirements of the case. By regulating the heat and the speed of working, a rich brown tint of any shade can be imparted to the wood as a background, the design standing out in the natural color of the wood, but slightly toned here and there, as desired. It is claimed for the decorated wood that it is waterproof, and that the pattern is not distorted nor its sharpness destroyed by moisture.—Banner Journal.

THE Electric Light. It is a matter of small importance compared with other applications of electricity. By this agency Edison's Nervine is made to penetrate to the most remote nerve—every bone, muscle and ligament is made to feel its beneficent power. Nervine, pleasant to take, even by the youngest child, yet so powerfully reaching in its work, that the most agonizing neuralgia yields as if by magic. Neglect no remedy for Nervine. Buy to-day a ten cent trial bottle and be relieved from all pain. Sold by druggists and all country dealers everywhere.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

FOR Lung Diseases, for which I believe it to be the greatest medicine in the world.—James Miller, Canaway, N. C. 'My wife had a distressing cough, with pains in the side and breast. We tried various remedies, but none did her any good until I got a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which cured her. A neighbor, Mrs. Glenn, had the measles, and the cough was relieved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have no hesitation in recommending this medicine.'—Robert Horton, Foreman Highland, Morrilton, Ark. 'Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of a severe cold which had settled on my lungs. My wife says the Pectoral helps her more than any other medicine she ever used.'—Enos Clark, Mt. Liberty, Kansas.

THE United States militia are being instructed in a code of rules for 'first aid to the injured,' which, in the event of war, will be as useful in its way as any other portion of the regular drill, and in the absence of a war will be of great practical value. An article on the subject in Scribner's Magazine for this month says: 'The "practical" aid to the injured, which is now being drilled for a war which he is convinced will never occur can readily see some advantage in an organization which has constantly under training a number of men who will be able to save the life, perhaps of his wife or child, in case of an accident. By a judicious system of rotation from year to year, the benefits of instruction can be extended to a large number and, in a big in every community where there is a representation of the citizen soldiery, the presence of a body of men educated to meet any accident which may occur. The National Guard thus becomes not only the bulwark of the nation in time of war, but the protector and rescuer of the helpless in time of peace.' It is suggested that it would be wise to adopt such a plan in connection with the Canadian militia. Every regiment has its medical officers, who have nothing to do in the absence of hostilities, except to look ornamental. There is an opportunity to make them useful. It would be an easy matter every year when the annual drill takes place for the surgeon to give the men some practical advice in connection with the first aid to the injured. A little simple instruction of this sort might often be of the greatest value.

THE four divorce cases before the Halifax Court last week give the appearance of a boom in matrimonial dissolution, so to speak. But while applications for divorce may be on the increase in this Province we are still far behind the United States in this matter, and we wish to move along very briskly, and we wish to catch up to our neighbors. In illustration of the subject we may mention that according to a recent report from the National Bureau of Statistics at Washington there have been for the twenty years ending with 1887 no more than 325,000 couples divorced in the United States, 25,000 of the number in 1887 alone, an increase in proportion to marriages more than double as compared with 1867. The ratio of divorce to marriages is highest in New Hampshire—one to eight; in Connecticut it is one to thirteen. France and Germany are but little ahead—each with six thousand divorces per annum—but the United States is in no wise in the rear.

AMONG the many curiosities in Machinery Hall, is Captain Slocum's South American boat or rather raft, La Liberdade, in which, with his family, he sailed from the coast of Brazil more than 7000 miles to the United States. The voyage of the "Liberdade" has no parallel among sailing craft anywhere approaching her size. Captain Slocum, it will be remembered, was in command of the bark Aquidneck, which was wrecked at Parangana. The Captain being in some straits how to reach home, conceived the idea of building a small craft, which he rapidly put to execution. Stowing away his wife, two boys and a load of provisions, the craft put to sea and made the voyage successfully, weathering many dangers that large crafts have succumbed to.

SHILOH'S Consumption Cure. This is beyond question the most successful Cough Cure we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the most cases of Cough, Croup, and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a Cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10 cents, 50 cents and $1. If your Lungs are sore, Chest or Back lame, use Shiloh's Pectoral Plaster. Sold by Dr. deWitt & Putnam, Bridgetown, and Dr. Morse, Lawrenceville.

A COMPRESSED AIR COMPANY.—One of the most important enterprises in Paris is the Compressed Air Company, which distributes power throughout the city. It began with a pneumatic clock system, and this business grew until there are now about 8,000 pneumatic clocks, public and private, driven from a station about four miles east of the city. The company distributes power for any purpose. There are about 200 motors, varying in power from one-eight horse power to fifty horse power, for all sorts of purposes, all driven from the central station. The system used is that of Victor Popp, and is being extended with great rapidity.—Paris Letter.

THE New World. Eupragia is derived from the Greek, and means a condition of perfect digestion. This condition is always attained by those who use Burdock Blood Bitters, the only guaranteed medicine for all forms of dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, rheumatism, scrofula and all blood diseases. Of gold may make a man rich, but it cannot make him healthy. If afflicted with any form of dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, scrofula, bad blood, kidney complaint or skin disease, the remedy that will make you well is Burdock Blood Bitters. It is the best blood cleanser known.
