The Lusitania's Record-Making Trip

LONDON, October 11.—The latest performance of the steamer Lusitania is hailed with delight throughout Great Britain, this being, as one of the writers puts it, a "proud day for Mrs. Britannia." All the evening papers publish long accounts of the passage and comment with satisfaction on the Lusitania's supremacy, which was lost to Germany a decade ago. To make the victory complete, they say that the Lusitania repeat on her homeward voyage what she accomplished on her outward passage. Excited on her outward passage, she is said to have sailed in the time between Dant's Book and Sandy Hook lightship, saying that she will not have any difficulty in averaging the 24 knots required to gain the full government subsidy.

Three hundred and twenty-three women fed the furnace between 500 and 1000 tons of picked British navy coal each day in order that the Lusitania might become the first four day ship to cross the Atlantic.

On Tuesday night when the Lusitania's turbines were working at top speed, the heat in the stoke hole was so intense that a fireman became crazed with the heat, and the strength required to carry him to the ship's hospital. That evening each record of the Lusitania's speed was made by rolling off 415 knots and made an hourly record of 24.75 knots. The fireman roared to his that night, which they laughingly asserted, counted for a slower day's run of 200 knots on Wednesday.

Death of New Brunswick Bishop

FREDERICTON, October 11.—Right Rev. Hulingsworth Tully Kingdon, D.D., S.C.L., Church of England, Bishop of the diocese of Fredericton, died at his home here at 11.45 o'clock to-night in his 72nd year. Since June, 1906, Bishop Kingdon had been in poor health, and in October of that year Canon Richardson, of St. John, was appointed coadjutor and had assumed the greater amount of the work of the diocese. Since he was first taken seriously ill, Bishop Kingdon has had several attacks, but never failed to be able to drive out.

During the last few days he suffered from intestinal trouble and weakness, and at 8 o'clock to-night his condition became very serious. His physician, Dr. Crockett, was hurriedly called and remained with him until the end, and about the dying bishop's bedside were members of his family and Coadjutor Bishop Richardson. For half an hour after dissolution came, the bell of Christ church cathedral was tolled, and in this way the news of the bishop's death became known throughout the city.

Bishop Kingdon, who was born in London, England, was a student of St. Paul's, London, and Trinity college, Cambridge, and Cuddesdon college. He was, after ordination, curate in a number of parishes, and was created coadjutor to Bishop Medley, of Fredericton, Metropolitan of Canada, in 1891. On Bishop Medley's death he became the head of the diocese. Bishop Kingdon was a noted scholar, a great book lover, and possessed a very fine library, which he recently gave to Trinity church, St. John. Among his writings was "Fasting Communion," published in 1878.

The Coal Strike Settled

Springhill Miners and Company Reach an Agreement. The Ten Weeks Strike Means Loss of $200,000 to Men.

SPRINGHILL, October 14.—The strike that has continued for ten weeks and a half, which has involved 1,600 men and which has cost them in wages not less than $200,000, was called off to-night at a special meeting of Pioneer lodge, P. W. A. There is great rejoicing in the town that this result has been accomplished, for a continuation of the struggle would have been a serious matter. It is serious enough as it is, and the ill effects will not be forgotten for a long time.

THE LOSS IN WAGES MORE THAN $200,000.

The loss of $200,000 to the men and the loss to the company of the profit on about 80,000 tons of coal, which would have been raised in those ten or more weeks, is something that can never be recovered. The loss of the wages is a dead loss forever. Supposing that amount of $200,000 were now available for investment by the miners at 5 per cent, it would mean $10,000 of an income to them for all time—a pretty good enjoyment. But it is gone now and what remains to do is to get to work and make up for lost time.

THE AWARD ACCEPTED.

The decision to call off the strike and to accept the award of the board, as explained and interpreted by Mr. Justice Graham, was made by a very large majority of the men assembled at the meeting in Pioneer hall. The vote was on a secret ballot, and it may be stated it was much more heavily in favor of the resumption of work than was the vote for the strike more than ten weeks ago.

MANAGEMENT WILL BE WAITED ON TODAY.

The managing committee of the lodge will wait on the company's management tomorrow to inform them of the decision of the lodge and

MOST OF US Are looking for the very best values we can get.

If we know enough about TEA, we insist on having report of the conference was placed before the membership.

The award of the board had been generally understood as finally deciding against the men's claim for payment for stone in pillars, and the last clause in the document which says: "The claims and contentions of the men in respect to the local stone should be rejected," was looked upon as barring any claim for payment from all over the mines.

WHAT THE COMMITTEE TOLD THE MEETING.

Misunderstanding existed on two points, first in respect to the company's contention that an agreement was entered into some time ago, that the 38 cents per box agreed upon for 35 chutes was on the 2,000 foot level and the 36 cents per box agreed upon for 9 chutes on the 3,200 foot level, was settled all the way out to the slope, and that these rates included payment for stone in pillars.

"We find that this construction put upon the meaning of the decision was erroneous," said the committee. "Judge Graham did not decide that the company had proved their claim in either case. He referred to the company's contentions in his summary of the case, and mentioned that, as there was a conflict in the findings of the board, the findings of the board applied only as far as No. 35 and No. 9 chutes respectively, because it has not been proved that an agreement is yet entered into in respect to the districts outside. These districts outside are still open questions."

LETTER FROM THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

This is the declaration of Judge

Graham," the committee contended, "and the opinion of several legal gentlemen in Halifax, and also of the government, as shown in the following message from the attorney-general:—

"To W. Watkins, secretary Pioneer lodge, No. 1, P. W. A.:—

"In regard to the twenty-eight hundred foot level, Judge Graham did not decide that the rate of thirty-eight cents was agreed upon from thirty-five chutes out to the bottom; and in regard to the thirty-two hundred foot level, the judge did not decide that the rate of thirty-six cents was agreed upon from thirty-five chutes out to the bottom; and in regard to the thirty-two hundred foot level, the judge did not decide that the rate of thirty-six cents was agreed upon from thirty-five chutes out to the bottom. These disputes between the company and employees have not been decided. This is clear. Read the judge's decision. These questions are open for trial. Writing you.

(Signed) "W. M. T. PIPES."

EXHAUSTIVE DISCUSSION ON THE REPORT.

An interesting and exhaustive discussion on the report then followed. It took some time to convey a correct conception of the situation, as it now presented itself, to the meeting. Eventually, after very careful and full treatment of the question, it was decided to accept the board's decision as explained by Judge Graham and the several persons present at the conference. This decision was arrived at by secret ballot and carried by a large majority.

The men are to be congratulated on the action taken and the hope is entertained that there will be a long reign of peace at the collieries.

The Home Circle.

With Tessa as Proxy

"Tessa," said Miss Mason, with decision, "you are not making that bed properly."

Tessa, tucking in the sheet of the doll's bed, raised limpid, inquiring eyes.

"I told you I wanted hospital corners."

Tessa wavered, curled a small red lip and overfrowned.

"Don't cry—oh, Tessa, don't cry!" Miss Mason expostulated as the small pink aproned atom flung herself at full length on the floor.

Tessa did not move.

"Well, I shall have to let Mary Brannigan do it," said Miss Mason. Mary Brannigan and Tessa Votoldi being sworn rivals in the affection of the settlement teacher, the small Italian-raised calculating eye, Mary every red curl bobbing, every freckle radiant, already had hold of one corner of the infinitesimal sheet.

Then Mary pulled and Tessa pulled. "Perhaps you'd better let Tessa finish it, Mary," said the teacher wendy. Mary blazed wrathfully. "Aw, she don't know how!"

"Oh, well," Miss Mason sighed, "see if you can make it, Mary. Tessa can watch you and tell you if you don't do it properly."

Tessa, sobbing a soft accompaniment to Mary's bedmaking, squeaked suddenly:

"She's gotta be hum out a side."

"Oh, Mary," said Miss Mason reproachfully. "I thought you could do it."

"An' I can," said Mary, "but I won't," and straightway, like a small fury, she tore the bed to pieces and flung the mattress on the floor.

The twenty small girls of the little housekeeper's class looked at the teacher with expectant eyes.

"Oh, Mary!" quavered Miss Mason. She felt unequal to discipline. It was very hot, and the room was close, and the children had been restless and fussy all the morning.

"Oh, Mary," she quavered again as a young man in a Panama hat and round clerical collar poked his head in at the window.

"Can't you and the little girls come over and have lunch with my boys in the parish office?" he asked.

A sigh of blissful anticipation issued from twenty throats.

"They have been so naughty!" Miss Mason hesitated. "I don't know whether I should let them."

Twenty pairs of eyes approached her, and the young rector said, "No one ought to be naughty on such a day."

"Well, if you will promise to be very good," Miss Mason finally decided. And, like lion and lamb, Tessa and Mary led a decorous procession.

The young rector's class in wood-carving were having sandwiches and cakes and lemonade, provided by the ladies of the parish. There was a big pitcher of lemonade, and the ice-tickled it busily as the biggest boy filled twenty glasses for the twenty little girls.

The young rector, beaming with enthusiasm, sat down beside the little settlement teacher. "It's lovely work, Miss Mason," he said.

Marion shook her head. "Oh, no, it isn't," she said, "it's horrid. They are so ungrateful. I wish I was out on a hotel porch in my best linen frock, with my hair marcelled and with the waves beating a soothing accompaniment to the conversation of some intelligent masculine."

With a twinkle in his eye, the young rector asked, "Can't I masquerade as an intelligent masculine?"

"Oh," Miss Mason conceded, "you might. But I'm not dressed for the part. Shirt waist and serge skirt."

and tan shoes, and dusty ones at that—she poked out a small foot in a shabby shoe—"are not the attire of attractiveness. We planted vegetables in the school garden all the morning—beans and things—until we were grubby."

"I don't believe you would be really happy on that hotel porch," asserted the young rector as he sat on the edge of his desk and looked down at her.

"I should! I want to be care free and frivolous—and to forget the problems of the suffering and the submerged people. I want to go where every one is clean and the air is pure and I can breathe."

As she caught her breath sharply he bent over her with a sudden tender light in his eyes. "Poor little woman!" he murmured.

"Don't pity me," Miss Mason said, with flaming cheeks, "but I do like pretty things. Why, I am a different creature in my pink dainty. You've never seen me in it, have you?"

"He smiled down at her indulgently. "No," he said slowly, "but I saw you once in an old white linen that had been torn and trampled, and you held in your arms a little child that you had saved—and you were beautiful!"

"Oh, that was Tessa," Miss Mason said quickly. "The morning the fire on the horses ran away. It was a wonder we weren't both killed."

"I saw you for the first time, and I knew then that I had found what I had been looking for all my life."

Tessa, sobbing at the meaning of his "Oh, no, no," she protested, "I am not good enough. I am vain and frivolous—and I long for the hospital."

He went on steadily. "I have seen you since that every day teaching your little girls to be tidy and sweet and good, and I have wondered at your bravery—when you might be in luxury, cool and comfortable."

"So might you," she reminded him. "How many times your talent and influence would have chosen a downtown church?"

"Oh, that," he put it away lightly. "I like it, and I am a man—but not many women would do it."

"Don't," she said tremulously, "don't praise me." And she rose and went to meet Tessa, who was coming toward her, sobbing.

"Oh, Tessa! Crying again?"

"It was discovered after some questioning that Tessa's conscience was hurting her. She was sorry, she whispered, that she had been bad."

"Poor baby!" Miss Mason crooned as she gathered the small culprit in her arms. "Dear heart! And the wet cheek lay against her own."

As they sat in the alcove the stained glass window of the parish office made a background of sapphire light, against which Miss Mason's fair hair shone like a halo. Tessa, smiling and forgiven, lay with her limpid eyes shut.

The rector, still seated on the corner of his desk, looked at the pair with thoughtful eyes.

"Do you really think you would be happy on the hotel porch?" he probed. "It would be cool," Miss Mason said wistfully, "but I should miss the love," and her eyes went toward the children playing peacefully at the end of the room.

"Whom love?" he asked boldly. "Tessa's eyes opened sleepily. "I love you!" she murmured fervently. The eyes of the rector held the eyes of the little teacher masterfully.

"You say it like that!" he commanded. "Oh, I can't," she breathed, all pink and white and tremulous, "but Tessa shall be my proxy!"

FOOD FOR NERVOUS PERSONS.

Feed the nerves as you would a baby. Go on a milk diet. Drink at least a quart of milk a day, and take no tea or coffee, spirits, beer or wine.

Always take a glass of hot milk or a cup of bread and milk, or some farinaceous food when in bed at night.

Take porridge or some such food for breakfast in the morning—an egg or fish, brown bread and butter, honey if you like it, or a good marmalade. Eat no bacon or ham, or the flesh of the pig.

Your dinner should be fish, chicken or game, no flesh meat, plenty of cold fruits, simple milk puddings. Avoid pastry, made-up dishes, or sauces. Drink mineral waters. Have a glass of milk at 11 in the morning.

At 4.30 have milk, brown bread and butter, a light wholesome cake, and your supper or late dinner should be a replica of the midday meal in kind, lighter in bulk. Try this for a month and you will be amazed at your steeper nerves, your more equable temperance, and happier frame of mind.

TRY TO LOOK DAINTY.

Don't fall to look dainty. It is the most expressive word which can be applied to a woman.

A woman may be stylish, well dressed, good looking, and lots of other things, without any considerable expense, but to live up to the requirements of "daintiness" means something more. It means absolute freshness of mind, body, and soul.

Women who would be shocked at the idea that a stranger should see them in dishabille, inferior undies, hideousness upon husbands and sons, fathers and brothers, should see to it that they are clean and fresh.

Every day and night, every hour and second, new children are coming into the world. Out of the great herd of mysterious eternities they come in thousands and millions. They stay here for a while, doing the work for which they were set, and then go back to the same mysterious unknown silence.

The only really important thing in the world is the human baby. A human baby a drop in the ocean of humanity. The greatest work done in the world is that of the mothers who supply the children, giving to the world the power, the thought of the future.

Are we behind the age in the care, or lack of care, and cruelty we bestow upon dumb animals? A recent visitor upon us appears to think so. That there is far too great a difference to the comfort of our dumb friends we cannot deny, but we should be loath to admit that our lack in this respect is so pronounced as our correspondent would imply.

Referring to a report in a late issue of the Monitor that the book, "Black Beauty," (attributing the authorship to Miss Marshall Saunders) was to be dramatized and played in Boston this winter, a subscriber in Marshfield, Mass., writes as follows: "Though Miss Marshall Saunders has written many delightful stories, 'Black Beauty' is not one of them. That was written by Miss Anna Sewall. Pardon me for making the correction. I wish every man and child could read the book, and see the play. They teach the beautiful lesson of kindness to all our helpless dumb creatures, and the book should be in the hands of every boy. On my last visit to Nova Scotia, I saw many cases of cruelty to animals. Had they happened here, I should have had the guilty ones arrested in short order. In fact, I felt that my visit was spoiled and that I never wanted to see the place again. It is a subject in which I am deeply interested, and I have been working for the S. P. C. A. many years."

WRIGHT-CURTIS—At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curtis, Wednesday, 9th inst. Mr. C. H. Martell, George Mar. Wright, Princesdale, and Miss Curtis, of Clementsvale.

Annual S. S. Convention.

The annual Convention of the Nova Scotia and Bermuda Sunday School Association will be held at Windsor on October 29th, 30th, and 31st. This is a gathering of very practical value to all engaged in the Sunday Schools of our Province as well as to those who will soon become officers and teachers. All departments of the Sunday School will be treated by round tables and addresses, while the reports of the various Superintendents of Departments will be suggestive of advance steps in the individual Sunday Schools.

All delegates attending will be given reduced fares on the railroads on the standard certificate plan. Purchase a single first class ticket to Windsor and secure, at the same time from the ticket agent, a standard certificate. This, signed by the Secretary of the Convention, will entitle the holder to a return ticket free. When delegates cannot purchase a through ticket to Windsor, a second certificate must be obtained where the second ticket is bought. Homes will be provided for all delegates. Names of delegates desiring entertainment should be sent to Mr. James O'Brien, Windsor, not later than Oct. 23rd.

Tuesday, October 19th, will be devoted to an Institute for teachers of the primary and junior grades. Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, International Field Worker, who will be present during the whole Convention, will give several addresses and will be assisted by leading Sunday School workers from all parts of the Province.

Each session of the Convention Programme will be devoted to some one department of the Association, namely, Adult, Educational, Temperance, International Bible Reading and Home. These departments will be treated by experienced leaders. There will also be several helpful addresses by able speakers, and the whole gathering aims to be of service to the Sunday Schools. Superintendents should all endeavor to be in attendance themselves and, besides, have their school represented by at least one delegate. It would be a good investment for any Sunday School to pay the expenses and send a number of their teachers to this Convention. The Convention is open to everyone, and all are cordially invited to come.

GRAHAM-GESNER.

One of the prettiest of church weddings, was solemnized at the Church of St. Mary at Belleisle on Wednesday the 9th inst., at 10 o'clock a. m., when Miss Lucy M. Gesner became the wife of Joseph T. Graham, of Parker's Cove. The Rector, the Rev. Ernest Underwood, officiated. Mrs. A. Lyle presiding at the organ, on the moment, to the delightful strains of the wedding march, the bride—dressed in white—walked up the aisle on the arm of her uncle, L. D. Gesner, Esq., who gave her away. She was attended by Miss Cora Graham, sister of the groom. The groom, attended by Frank Gesner brother of the bride, awaited her at the altar. Soon the solemn and impressive marriage service of the Anglican Church, made them husband and wife until death should part. The bride was in all verity one of the fairest of Belleisle's fair daughters. She was beautifully attired in white silk muslin, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and insertion, with conventional veil. Her bouquet was of bridal roses, heliotrope and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid was daintily gowned in white organdie. The chancel of the church was most beautifully decorated for the occasion, conspicuous among the flowers being many beautiful lilies. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Graham repaired to the home of the bride, where a dainty collation was served. From thence they drove to Bridgetown to take the steamer for Halifax, where they are spending a brief honeymoon trip. Mr. and Mrs. Graham on their return will reside at Parker's Cove, on the homestead farm of his ancestors. Both are very popular and have very many friends who wish them many long and happy years.

WHERE MUNICIPALITIES CAN GET MONEY.

One effect of the scarcity of money is seen in the postponement of many municipal enterprises. This is neither an unmitigated good nor an unmitigated evil. Where the municipality is inclined to go ahead too fast on borrowed money—as Montreal was some years ago before the war was put up by the Legislature—then it will be a good thing to have the money lenders apply automatic brakes. But where the municipality really requires more and better equipment to meet the demands of the "growing time," it may inflict serious injury upon it to be compelled to go without.

In such a case, it is doubtful whether most municipalities might not get enough money to go on with from their own citizens, and let the professional financiers "go hang." Many of the people who live in most towns and cities and country districts have money in the banks which is drawing the lousy rate of three per cent. The banks say that they cannot afford to raise the rate, although the rates they are charging have been raised a great deal recently. They are getting much more, but they tell us that they cannot give more.

Very well. Why should not the municipalities borrow directly from their own citizens, and give them at least a better rate than the banks' three per cent? Of course, the citizens would have to withdraw this money from the banks in order to lend it to the municipality. Such a policy would not increase the volume of money. It would lessen the power of the banks to lend—or it might have the effect of inducing our Canadian banks to bring home some of the money that are so kindly lending to foreigners. Put it would at all events do two things: it would give the municipalities money which they actually need to go on with, and it would give their citizens a fairer share in the profits of the "dear money period" through which we are passing. The loans might be made for short terms so as to enable the municipalities to redeem them when the cheaper money comes.—Montreal Star.

MORE THAN ENOUGH IS TOO MUCH.

To maintain health, a mature man or woman needs just enough food to repair the waste and supply energy and body heat. The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will be glad to see the result.

Some of our farmers wonder why their sons have a desire to quit the farm, preferring city life. The cause is with the farmer himself. With the boy on the farm it is perpetual toil in good weather all through the busy season, and perpetual loneliness in bad weather and most of the winter season. The time when the farmer has leisure is at the very time when they cannot get away from home on account of their isolation and bad roads. The boy hungers for company and his heart revolts against this unendurable loneliness, and to free himself from it, he walks miles through the mud to spend an hour at the country store. We are glad to note that in some sections of our country the young people of both sexes have broken through these barriers and established farmers' clubs and girls' societies of one sort or another, where they can gather once a week, at least, and spend a profitable as well as social evening. This should be encouraged and will prove a great tonic to keep young people on the farm and make life to them worth the living.

A CURSE OF CHILDHOOD.

Where is the father of a family who would be content to know that his children are visiting the slums of a great city, not once or twice, or occasionally, but almost every day? Could the conscience of such a parent rest quiet under these conditions? Would he not feel that his dear ones were entering a path which leads to sin and sorrow, and would he not make every effort to reclaim them and turn them away from scenes and examples of crime which could not but be ultimately disastrous to their souls and their reputations?

And yet every day many young people visit the slums of the great cities and apparently with the implied consent of their parents. How many children read the daily papers with their stories of sin and crime? How many, alas, feast on the sensational details furnished by yellow journalism—without conscience, without even a sense of decency! And yet even Christian parents seem to be indifferent to stand idly by while the souls of their children are tainted.

What is the reading of many of these papers but a daily visit to the slums? What is it but inhabiting pure souls to the vision of vice? Many who compulsively read the sensational papers would shrink from actual contact with persons and incidents so vividly portrayed in the columns of the press. But the influence of this daily contact with sin and vice cannot but be seriously injurious. It fills the mind with images and notions that should be strangers to the heart of innocent childhood. It excites a prurient curiosity which is difficult to allay. It familiarizes the soul with vice and thus takes away the horror of sin which is one of the special graces of youth. It opens up a pathway into the domain of vice and already exercises a certain sway over the faculties. It gradually robs the soul of innocence and substitutes a precocious knowledge which is a prelude of many temptations. It produces a thirst for sensations which drains away the calm and peace of the soul. It unites the mind for serious study, distorts the sense of truth and begets a habit of exaggeration, detrimental in after life. It often begets habits of secret sin.

In fact, the reading of sensational newspapers, with all their disgusting details, with all their ornate familiarity with crime, is injurious to the soul, the mind and the body of children. Conscientious parents will guard their children from this curse of childhood. They will exercise the most exacting scrutiny over the literature which is to fall into the hands of their children and mould their young impressionable souls. This is indeed a serious duty for Christian parents, and yet many of them, otherwise of tender conscience, seem to be blind to this responsibility. Keep your children from a daily visit to the haunts of vice and sin: from soiling their souls in the slums; from burning the viocs of the rich and the ways of the criminal. Keep them from the perusal of the sensational newspapers.—The Freeman.

There are two ways of spending a dollar. You may spend it at home, gain an easy conscience, make another friend, and perhaps get the dollar back to-morrow, or you may send it away, feel that you have sinned; offend the home merchant, and forever lose the dollar and the blessed influence for good to yourself and neighbor.

Strip the bishop of his apron, the counsellor of his gown, and the head of his cocked hat; what are they? Men, mere men. Dignity, and even holiness, too, sometimes, are mere questions of coat and waistcoat; than some people imagine.

CHARADE.
My first oft makes a suit;
My next a suit when made;
And in my whole, when put together,

Full many a suit is laid.
GEOGRAPHICAL REBUSSES.
What English city, curtailed, becomes the connecting link between birds and beasts?

What part, curtailed, becomes a bird?
What city, beheaded, names a woman?

When it is a skylight,
Bottle.
Because trains run over sleepers.
Because the worse people get the oftener they visit them.

THE RULE OF ACHIEVEMENT.
"What shall I do?" My boy, do not stand asking.
Take hold of something, whatever you can.

Don't turn aside for the toiling or tasking.
Idle, soft hands never yet made a
man.

Grasp with a will whatever needs doing;
Still standing ready, when one work
is done,

Another to seize, and onward pursuing.
In duty, your course, find the victory won.

Do your best for today, trusting God
for tomorrow.
Don't be afraid of a jest or a sneer.
Be cheerful and hopeful, and no trouble borrow;

Keep your heart pure—your head
cool and clear—
Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind, do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous. Everyone knows that pneumonia and chronic catarrh have their origin in a common cold.
Consumption is not caused by a cold but the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs that would not otherwise have found lodgment. It is the same with all infectious diseases. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough are much more likely to be contracted when the child has a cold.
You will see from this that more real danger lurks in a cold than in any other of the common ailments.
The easiest and quickest way to cure
a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The many remarkable cures effected by this preparation have made it a staple article of trade sale by W. A. Warren, Pharm. B.

An Irishman was seen one hot day laboriously turning a windlass which hoisted a bucket of rock from a shaft.
A clergyman who was passing said with concern: "My friend, why don't you cover your head?" "This hot sun will affect your brain." "Brains, is it?"
said the man, as he gave the windlass another turn. "If I had any brains, I'd be pulling up this bucket!"

"Do what?" asked Jones, rubbing his nose and feeling rather frightened.
"Why," exclaimed the Irishman,
"how did your honor dodge the collector-man?"

"Oh," said Jones, smiling, "I sup-
pose I was allowed to pass on account
of my good looks."

"By me soul, thin, you'll not be travelling far," was the crushing report.

HER AIM.
A man who runs a truck farm in Virginia tells of the sad predicament
in which a colored man named Sam Moore, who is in his employ, recently found himself. Sam had had considerable difficulty in evading the onslaughts of a dog from a neighboring farm. Finally, the dog got him. Sam kicked at him.

Sam's wife, hearing a tremendous rattle, rushed to the rescue of her husband. When she came up the dog had fastened his teeth in the calf of Sam's leg and was holding on for dear life.
Seizing a stone in the road, Sam's wife was about to hurl it when Sam,
with wonderful presence of mind,
shouted:

"Mandy! Mandy! Don't throw that stone at de dawg! Frow it at me, Mandy!—Youth's Companion."

PAT'S SAFETY.
A farmer was one day walking over his farm, when he called out: "What on earth are you doing at the top of that tree, Pat? Don't you see it's a hanging out down?"

"Yes, your honor, but the last time
I've had a tree cut down, it fell on top of me, and, begorra, I'll be safe this time!"

Mrs. Slinney—"What do you want to leave us for, Nora? I'm sure we've treated you as one of the family."

Nora—"Indeed, an' you have, an' an an' I've stood it long enough."

SEASONABLE JOKE.

The game warden of Colorado was walking out in the mountains the other day, when he met a hunter with his gun. The officer suggested that that ought to be a good country for hunting.

"It certainly is," said the hunter, proudly. "I killed one of the finest bucks yesterday. I ever saw, and he weighed over 200." It was the season when deer may not be shot without subjecting the hunter to a heavy fine.

"Well, that is a fine one," said the warden, "and do you know whom you are talking to?"

"Being assured that he did not, the officer said:
"Who, I am the chief game warden of Colorado. The hunter was only taken aback a moment, when he said:
"And do you know whom you are talking to?" The warden did not know.

"Well, sir," said the hunter, apparently relieved, "you are talking to the biggest liar in the whole state of Colorado."—Kansas City Star.

PAT'S OPINION.
There had been a very destructive fire at an East-end clothing establishment, and when the insurance company's inspector arrived on the scene, a good deal of discussion arose as to what could have been the cause of the conflagration. Both gas and electric light had been used in the place, and finally it was agreed that the outbreak was to be attributed to one or the other of these.

"Well," said one partner, "it strikes me it is the electric light."

"But," said the other, "not about the gas lights?"

And so the discussion started again, and the inspector decided to have an outside opinion. The Irish porter of the establishment was called. "Now, Pat," said the inspector, "we want your idea as to the cause of this fire.
Mr. Kotak blames the gas lights, and Mr. Tirkloff the gas lights. What is your opinion?"

"Faith, sir," said Pat, reflectively,
"if an indolent to think it must have been the gaslights!"

A SHORT JOURNEY.
A gentleman whom we will call Jones entered a carriage on one of the Clyde side lines the other day, and found that his travelling companions for the next twenty minutes were some half-dozen Irishmen, evidently "just over." At a certain stage of the journey tickets were collected,
but the collector did not interrupt Jones, whom he knew to be a season-ticket holder, in his reading of a newspaper.

When the train was in motion again
Jones was started by receiving a resounding slap on the knee from the man opposite, who at the same time
exclaimed:

"And how did you do it?"

"Do what?"

"Why," exclaimed the Irishman,
"how did your honor dodge the collector-man?"

"Oh," said Jones, smiling, "I sup-
pose I was allowed to pass on account
of my good looks."

"By me soul, thin, you'll not be
travelling far," was the crushing report.

The Natural Cure
For Rheumatism

"Fruit-a-tives" remove from the blood the poison
which causes Rheumatism.

Rheumatism means poisoned blood. The kidneys, bowels and skin should rid the system of waste matter. If either of these vital organs
become weakened or diseased, the body cannot throw off this waste fast
enough.

One of these body
poisons is UREA,
which is eliminated
both by the kidneys and skin. If the skin action is poor
—if the kidneys are inflamed
—urea stays in the system—
is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to the nerves and joints—and causes Rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Rheumatism because they eliminate urea, by increasing the action of bowels, kidneys and skin.

This is the only possible way in which Rheumatism can be cured to stay cured. And "Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world
that completely eradicates the disease from the system.
"Fruit-a-tives"
are fruit juices in which the natural medicinal action of fruit is many times
increased by the process of combining them.
Then tonics and antiseptics are added and the whole made into tablets, one a box—4 for $2.50. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa. 111

New York Minister Scores Fellow Clergymen's Lack of Charity.

NEW YORK, October 11.—Dr. Madison C. Peters, in a sermon spoke at some length on "Why the church has lost her hold on the people." Dr. Peters said in part:—"Churchly interference with personal liberty and the sacred privacy of home life has recently been emphasized in the matter of Vice-President Fairbank's luncheon to President Roosevelt, which has to a certain extent been made a political issue by the churches of the Middle West. Vice-President Fairbanks has been savagely attacked in hundreds of sermons all of them lacking that Christian charity which, though supposed to cover a multitude of sins, is not as practiced by these bigots, large enough to cover a single cocktail. The church to which Mr. Fairbanks has given a lifetime of service, after a most bitter campaign, defeated him as a lay delegate to the general convention. In this defeat his church has but disgraced herself."

Would Go to War Tomorrow if Dignity Were Insulted, Says Count Okuma.

YOKOHAMA, October 11.—Japan, although financially depressed, would go to war tomorrow with any power if her national pride was insulted, says Count Okuma, leader of the opposition. Her citizens, he declares, would spend their last penny to uphold her national dignity. Okuma says it is difficult to understand the transfer of the United States fleet to the Pacific, but he believes the matter can be settled amicably.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, October 12.—The body of Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, who died at the Ohio penitentiary, was taken last evening to Woodstock, Ontario, the place of her birth, for burial. The body was accompanied by Emil Hoover, son of Mrs. Chadwick, and Mrs. J. W. Weston, a sister, who arrived from Woodstock, during the day.

MONCTON, October 11.—Percy Carroll, of Pictou, the relative who is noted for the capture of more than one criminal and particularly so in this locality for capturing "Jim," "Buck and Jim" fame, has been appointed chief of police in the city of Nelson, B. C. Detective Carroll went west a few months ago, having obtained leave of absence from the I. C. E. police force, by which he was employed. He has had a checkered career, being in the Klondike for a couple of years, while twenty-one years of his thirty-eight have been spent in police work. His capture of "Jim," the desperado who was associated with "Buck," the murderer of Coleman Steadman, in the Denbigh locale here, is well remembered.

VANCOUVER, October 11.—Out of the five hundred Hindus arriving on the C. P. R. steamer Tartar the Dominion immigration agent rejected one hundred and fifty. Over one hundred had not sufficient money and the remainder were physically unfit. All will be deported. The balance made a unique impression in their varied colored costumes, running like frightened sheep through the streets. None could speak English. Superintendent of Immigration Scott saw the foreigners landing and is reserving his official opinion for Ottawa. He left this afternoon, having completed his investigation.

VIENNA, October 11.—This night is a critical one for Francis Joseph, the aged king of Austria-Hungary. His majesty's physicians are visibly becoming more anxious. The fever which has lasted ten days, seems to have exhausted the wonderfully trained system of the monarch, and the symptoms of inflammation of the lungs are growing. Five times during the course of today, his majesty remained half an hour in a state of almost complete apathy, while at other times he was in a state of somnolence. Depression has taken hold of his majesty's endurance, and he is watched with the greatest anxiety.

The doctors are trying everything in their power to prevent more serious complications. They say that everything depends on how he passes this evening. If he is able to rise as usual to-morrow morning it will be a hopeful sign, but otherwise the outlook of a serious malady must be feared.
