This will involve a delay of eight months. Sickness among the force is increasing.

In deference to the influence of missionaries the Hova deserters from the Malagasy army are shot instead of being burned alive when captured.

The information from the Sudan includes painful uncertainties, but the energy, courage and perseverance conspicuously displayed by General Gordon in the successful defence of Khartoum deserve my warm recognition.

The advance of my troops to Dongola has had for its object the rescue and security of that gallant officer and those who have so faithfully co-operated with him.

THE NOR-WESTER.

WARNER & SON, Proprietors.

CALGARY, TUESDAY, NOV. 4, 1884.

AFFAIRS LOCAL.

Now that incorporation is almost an accomplished fact it would be well for those interested in the welfare of the town and who are here as an earnest of their confidence that some definite ideas should be formed as to what the municipality should do, as a corporate body. We do not hesitate to say that if good common sense men be elected incorporation will be productive of incalculable benefit. Every one knows that Calgary is expected to be the capital of the intended Province of Alberta, but it is not necessary that our townsmen should rest upon expectation. There are rival towns in the field and vigilance, enterprise and constant activity are needed to keep the town to the front. It is to be regretted that those who are likely to be most benefitted by the advancement are doing the least. The town proprietors are doing little or nothing for us. This is strange but true, and if this should meet the eye of Mr. Scarth as we hope it will, we trust that he will take the hint. It is most unfair the practice which town site owners in the Canadian north-west have pursued. They make a splurge, at first get people to come to their towns, encourage them to start numerous kinds of industries, and on a sudden their interest collapses. Mr. Scarth will agree with us that this is not encouraging, nor is it fair to leave the battles of progress to be fought by the handful of struggling pioneer citizens who at the invitation of town proprietors, are induced to invest their all and settle down in the town, the owners of which do not live in the place, and who seldom or ever visit it. It is manifestly unjust to leave a handful of people, most of whom are only small lot owners to do the heavy work, to encounter the obstructions which rival towns put in the way, and in brief, to do all the hard work. It is not only manifestly unfair, but it is unbusiness like: it is a very short sighted policy, and its effects are after all most injurious to the proprietary interest. We make these observations in a friendly spirit, and we hope they will make an impression in the quarter towards which they are directed.

If there has been any back-stairs influence working against incorporation we now hope there is an end to it. Incorporation is needed. It will give the town government. Calgary will have a status. As to the lavish expenditure of public monies which certain sapient people dread that is a mere bugbear, because the municipal act does not confer anything like absolute powers on a Council: There can be no appropriation of any amount worth speaking of, unless it is voted upon and carried by the taxpayers. A little more attention from the town site owners, a little more substantial help should be extended. A lift of this description is needed, and we trust that it will be promptly given.

With characteristic stupidity and more than the usual perversity the neutral organ endeavours to belittle the geological investigations in this district. As a matter of fact there is no better mountain geologist in America than Dr. Dawson and the able staff which has been working in this district under his directions have accomplished a great deal of useful work during the present season. The cost of a staff in this district is three times what it would be in the older portions of the Dominion, and it does not appear from the records that the report of a parliamentary committee composed largely of Ontario members who are unfavorable to geological expenditure in the Northwest has made much impression on the Government. The eagerness with which our contemporary seizes upon the text which the committee furnishes is quite suggestive.

In a few days we will give our impressions on the lease question from our own standpoint. While much that has been said in this respect here is entitled to careful consideration we are satisfied that there is yet a good deal of uncovered ground. Impressions hastily and superficially formed are not the best guide, and in pursuing our own enquiries in the ranche country we shall follow our usual practice of collecting information from sources that are likely to command respect from all parties.

The Grits are unnecessarily exercised because of the probable admission of Jamaica into the Confederation. The Manitoba Free Press is afraid of the "niggers." The Toronto Telegram, which claims to be an independent journal, is apprehensive lest the United States should gobble it up. Both of these objections are not tenable. There is nothing to prevent Jamaica from becoming a useful and necessary member of the Confederation.

Our beloved contemporary actually publishes an article on the leasing system, and in accordance with its usual practice it supports both sides of the question, and then incontinently dashes off at a violent curve and declares that it would be better if the lease system was entirely and forever abolished. That is "free ranging" in downright earnest.

The Manitoba Free Press has discovered that the only thing heretofore in Winnipeg that has not been exaggerated is the civic rascality. This sounds odd. What has the Free Press been doing that it did not sound the note of warning before? The steed has gone, and the door is now being trebly barred.

Professor Goldwin Smith saw the Northwest from the rear platform of a Pullman car at Brandon, and yet he is accepted as infallible authority on Northwest affairs simply because he is Goldwin Smith. It would have been the same had he seen it from a balloon stationed off the Bay of Biscay.

The Conservatives of Calgary do not intend to be behind their brethren of other places in the Dominion, in honoring the occasion of Sir John A. Macdonald's fortieth anniversary into public life. An appropriate address is being prepared and it will be duly forwarded to the chieftain.

Some tyro writing in the Herald says that British Columbia has not over 12,000 "whites." This is probably the same medical authority who has discovered that the "kidneys" of the Blackfoot Indians are unsound. We would advise this writer to apply for a medical certificate.

Rot like the following needs no comment:—"The Conservatives and Reformers of the eastern provinces forget here their peculiar differences, and in their desire for their country's good they unite their influence and blend their opinions into one harmonious whole."—Herald.

Mr. Bourlier's Impressions.

H. Bourlier, Esq., Agent of the Allan Line of steamers, who was recently here, has sent us a Toronto Word with the following:

"H. Bourlier, general passenger agent of the Allan line for Ontario, has just returned from an extended trip throughout Manitoba and the Northwest, and has visited all the principal towns, and reports good signs of a return of business throughout the whole country. The harvest was very good, and very little wheat has been damaged; and the price only been up to the usual figure, the farmers would have nothing to complain of; but of course this is a matter that cannot be helped. Some farmers are holding on for prices. A number of costly buildings and stores are going up in Winnipeg, and as soon as Main street is block paved (and this work is being pushed as fast as possible) the city of Winnipeg will have a street that will favorably compare with any business street in Detroit or Chicago.

The very nature of the black rich soil naturally caused the Winnipeg streets to be almost impassable in rainy weather, but sewers, planked streets, broad sidewalks have been constructed and now the block paving of Main street will make a complete transformation. Mr. Bourlier visited Minneapolis, at present the terminus of the Manitoba and North-western railway, (a line which runs from Portage la Prairie and which is being extended some eighty miles further). The farming lands between Portage la Prairie and Minneapolis are being well settled, and no wonder, as this district is conceded to be the garden of Manitoba. The farms along the line show every sign of prosperity, and strangers attending the agricultural fairs held at the different little towns would be amazed at the richness of the products from the soil, in the shape of wheat, oats, barley and all kinds of vegetables. The exports of grain will be large from this district. No less than 100 cars of wheat will be shipped this winter from Gladstone, one of the little towns on the Manitoba and Northwestern railway.

Mr. Bourlier after visiting Brandon, Moose Jaw, Regina, Medicine Hat, Swift Current, etc., pushed on to Calgary, a very pretty situated town on the Bow river, and in sight of the Rockies. Calgary is said to possess a beautiful dry climate, and the chinook winds which prevail at intervals during the winter bring about a mixed, pleasant atmosphere, which no doubt is of great service to the owners of the immense stock farms which are dotted all over the neighborhood.

Calgary is a locomotive station on the Canadian Pacific, and as the railway traffic developed so will the increase in the railway staff, and additional machine and engine shops be put up. It is an important station for the mounted police, also the freighting front for Fort McLeod, where a large business is done. The train service on the Canadian Pacific is excellent. The track sidings, stations and rolling stock show that nothing has been spared to make this line one that will rank with any American line now running to the Pacific.

THE "CROW'S NEST PASS."

To the Editor of THE NON-WESTER:
Sir,—I notice by an editorial paragraph in your last issue that Mr. Goddall, of Fincher Creek, has written a letter to the McLeod Gazette, in which he takes exception to my explanation of the origin of the name of the Crow's Nest, as applied to a mountain in that vicinity, and states that I draw upon my imagination for my facts. One thing is certain that no one would ever accuse Mr. Goddall of drawing from such a source for his facts or anything else.
I went over to the Fincher Creek country for the purpose of obtaining all the information I could as to the practical working and present condition of the Lease system for the benefit of your readers, and as the reading of statistics is "rather dry work" I endeavored to embellish my letters with little bits of descriptive scenery and such anecdotes and traditions as I could pick up. Among other things I was told the "Crow's Nest Mountain" took its name from its resemblance to a gigantic nest, which is certainly the case; but I did not venture for it, although this explanation is quite as reasonable and probable as the one given by Mr. Goddall that the Crow Indians were once driven to a "corner or nest" (it must have been a very uncomfortable and hopeless one) by the Blackfeet. He goes on to assert that what is now called "Turtle Mountain" (a very appropriate name in my opinion) is the real "Crow's Nest." Well, Mr. Goddall may be right and I may be wrong, but it will certainly take more than his mereipse dixit to make me believe it. After all whether it derived its name from "Old King Crow" or the "Three Black Crows" immortalized in song, or from the warriors who, according to Mr. Goddall, made their nest there, is a matter of very little consequence, and had very little to do with the more practical object I had in view in writing my letters. There is a certain amount of license allowed to all newspaper writers, and they often have to draw a little upon their imagination to embellish their facts and to make their communications readable and interesting to those for whom they cater.

Meanwhile I have no further "crow to pick" with Mr. Goddall.
Yours,
FITZ COCHRANE.

By-Stander and the Northwest.

The following contribution written by an occasional contributor to the Week, was refused publication by the editor of that journal, because he alleges the writer went beyond his data, and that Bystander did not criticize what he did not see. The fact that Bystander did not come any further west than Brandon, and yet undertook to give his impressions of the northwest, is the text of the paper. We give it publication here at the request of a few constant readers of THE NON-WESTER:
It is not, perhaps, too late to offer certain objections to Bystander's impressions of the northwest. It is a matter of regret that Dr. Smith came to a halt at the threshold of the northwest—that he did not enter the confines of that vast prairie which stretches westward from Brandon to the Rocky Mountains. How far then Bystander's impressions of a country he has never visited may be correct it is difficult to conjecture. They are not likely to be any more correct than those of a stranger who has never seen the country he is describing.

Bystander has been as far west as Brandon. He has seen Winnipeg, its phenomenal mud, and no doubt he has taken in the Archbishop's palace and the Louise Bridge, but that is not visiting the northwest. The day has gone when Manitoba can lay any just claim to be the northwest. It was once the boast of the tyro Winnipegger, but the claim is no longer allowed. When Earl Dufferin arrived in Winnipeg in 1877 he said he had only arrived at the door of a territory whose extent "at once defied the calculations of the mathematician and confounded the verifications of the surveyor." The most enthusiastic Winnipegger does not any longer believe that Winnipeg is Manitoba and Manitoba the great northwest. This position was stoutly maintained for a long time, and I think there are some Winnipeggers who would still maintain the ground but for the fact that the Ottawa representatives of the province on a memorable occasion in the House of Commons, during the reign of Mr. Mackenzie, when an order of expenditure was under discussion, conclusively established that Manitoba was not the northwest. The item was for the greater part really chargeable to the northwest territory, consequently its appearance in the public accounts charged to Manitoba alone was an injustice that was promptly repudiated by the Manitoba representatives in the House, and I think this was the only occasion on which a Manitoba delegation showed unanimity. Had the item been a credit to Manitoba plus I have a suspicion that not one of the delegates would have admitted the circumstance that the northwest was not getting its share. Bystander must pardon me for being plain spoken. I like to read what he writes, but one does not feel interested in perusing the impressions of a writer who has not visited the country he has undertaken to describe. Seeing Manitoba is not "doing" the northwest. Had Bystander but covered the ground over which Hon. Mr. Mackenzie traveled in August last I think his impressions would be more correct than they are. I am quite sure some of his perceptions about the northwest would have had to yield to those more reasonable impressions which are to be derived from actual experience.

It is upwards of 700 miles from Brandon to Calgary, but not a foot of these 700 miles has Bystander traveled. So far, then, as his impressions of the northwest are concerned they have not been derived from personal visitation. Three hundred miles of a flight through Manitoba and a short halt at Winnipeg and Brandon may be sufficient to form superficial impressions of Manitoba, but what impressions of the northwest a flying trip like this would furnish I am not prepared to conjecture. Certainly, if the visit had been made the impressions would have some weight. Nothing was seen or heard of Bystander at Regina, Battleford, Prince Albert, Calgary or Edmonton. A number of the hospitable citizens of Calgary would have been delighted to meet Bystander and show him the attractions which the Canadian Denver can offer to the tourist. They would have shown him the clearest and the purest streams in the Dominion, and he might have whipped those streams for the finest mountain trout in British America, and caught them too. They would have shown him plenty that was at once novel as well as interesting to the dweller in the eastern provinces.

"It is true," says Bystander, "that every public writer in Canada should see the northwest." If every public writer is to see as little of the northwest as Bystander has seen I fear the impressions will be shaly indeed. Let the writer come in, in propria persona, not in his imagination, and perhaps his impressions would be different from those drawn from fancy. Compare Hon. Alexander Mackenzie's impressions with Bystander's and mark the difference! The one actually visited the country, for I met him in Calgary; the other looked towards the setting sun from the rear platform of the last Pullman. His imagination would have named to those snow capped rocks which form such a picture in the landscape of the Bow River district, but his form was invisible in that latitude and longitude. Not an acre of the northwest territory has the distinguished professor seen nor a square inch of the famous grazing lands of this district has he witnessed. His eyes have not rested on those everlasting snows which mantle these cold granite rocks from base to apex—in short, he has not been here, and therefore his impressions of the northwest are derived wholly from hearsay and imagination.

Longfellow described Grand Pre in his immortal Evangelina, and his description preceded his visit to the Basin of Minas; but I have a suspicion that Bystander has not been so fortunate as the author of Evangelina. Second sight may be the gift of poets, but I hardly think it is the prerogative of professors.

To the resident of the eastern provinces Bystander's impressions of the northwest may sound with the correct intonation, but to the resident of the northwest there is something wrong in the accent. The press has made liberal extracts from these impressions and in some instances it has ventured to comment and favorably too. The eastern press has, however, a great deal to learn about the northwest, and a great deal to learn about the impressions based upon an imaginary trip, or a trip that was cut short in its infancy, are hardly the kind that are likely to be correct. A good deal is said by Bystander about the tax on coal. Had he visited the district of Alberta he would have found not a railway at every man's door, but a coal mine. Months ago, a leading journal I had the honor to urge upon Bystander the necessity of his visiting the North-West. I then felt sure and I feel sure yet, that after visiting the territory about which he has written very much his views would be altered materially.

I trust it is not an apprehension of this kind that caused him to point eastward as soon as he had arrived at Brandon. It is perhaps pleasant to retain old impressions even if we discover them to be erroneous, but it is our duty to abandon them when we find them no longer tenable.

I have a suspicion that were a newspaper correspondent to give his impressions of a country that he had never visited; and these impressions turned out to be wrong, the public would feel that they had been imposed upon, though the crime would be less of an offence on the part of a newspaper correspondent than it would be if committed by a distinguished publicist.

Bystander yet owes the North-West a real visit. Let him come in the form and manner of the first person, and then there will be less fiction and more fact in his impressions. He has not yet seen the North-West, nor has the North-West seen him.

Calgary, Alberta, Oct. 16th, 1884.

The following we clip from the McLeod Gazette. It will be seen that it is a flat contradiction to a falsehood deliberately made by the Morning Glory in its issue a few days ago. It is meant of Mr. Campbell to take the credit away from the Grit Club, but facts are ineradicable.

To the Editor of the Gazette.
Sir,—I notice in the Calgary Herald of the 15th instant, that the prompt action taken by the Government in proclaiming the sheep raising district, is credited to the resolution forwarded by the local Agricultural Society of Calgary. The South-Western Stock Association had forwarded a resolution to the Government on the sheep question, some time before the Calgary Agricultural Society did, and I received the following reply, which I think will satisfy all that the credit of having the cattle and sheep districts defined is on truly due to the South-Western Stock Association. In future, Mr. Calgary Herald, you would do better to give credit where credit is due.

THE McLeod Gazette does not like the tu quoque system. After throwing all the mud it was able to clutch at THE NON-WESTER, it is now squealing because we met it with its favourite weapons. It is too attenuated, young man—too attenuated.

THERE WILL BE a meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian church next Wednesday evening. We are pleased to hear that steps are being taken to give the late incumbent, Rev. Old time Winnipeggers please paste this in your scrap books.

IT IS an old trite saying that good wine needs no bush, but judging from a very long winded article in a recent number of the MacLeod Gazette it would appear that there has been too much "bush" in McLeod whiskee, a circumstance which has been charged to the Gazette, but this impecunious is equivocally denied by the aetioic editor of that omniscient journal with his usual display of pre-eminent egotism.

THE display of beef in Sparrow's meat market last Saturday evening was the finest we have ever seen west of Chicago. Quantity and quality were both represented. Emerson's famous steer when dressed weighed 1,600 lbs, and the heifer was quite a leviathan too. Such a display of beef is the best proof of what this country is for stock. It is to be regretted that some of the eastern visitors who were here during the summer could not have seen some of the prime beef of the country as it appears when dressed.

THE bowling alley was opened on Saturday afternoon with more than a royal salute. The first full strike was made by Col. Herohimer and the alley was declared open for business. It was, however, a free house for Saturday, and far into the night the heavy roll of the lignum vite denoted that the enthusiastic ten pinners were at it with a persistency worthy of imitation by others. The room is spacious and the alleys superb. Munros is running the bar and there has been an incessant rush.

WE HAVE received a letter from Mr. Chisholm, Mr. Burgess' Private Secretary dated at Ottawa, Oct. 24th, and we regret to learn that at the date of the letter Mr. Burgess was lying in bed quite ill. He was suffering from a severe attack of neuralgia and rheumatism. At a later date he was improving but still very weak. We are sorry to hear that he is still lame from the effects of the accident which occurred to him while here, though his shoulder was slowly improving. Mr. Burgess' many friends here wish him a speedy recovery from his present afflictions, and they will always be pleased to hear of his prosperity.

LT. COL. BARVIS who was here some weeks ago in the interests of a colonization scheme, which he has perfected, recently sent us a Montreal Gazette containing a very interesting letter on this particular district, and what he purposes doing with his colony next season. He has secured a considerable tract of country south of this, and next spring we hope to greet him with his fellow Canadians from Quebec who contemplate making new homes for themselves in Calgary district. The copy of the Gazette sent us by Col. Barvis has unfortunately been mis-laid, which will explain why the letter has not been re-published in THE NON-WESTER.

For the information of our readers we extract from the new Municipal Act the qualification of voters at the first election for Mayor and Councillors.

Clause 10. Provides that all residents of the municipality shall be entitled to vote at the first election.

The following oath may be put to any voter by the candidate or his agent: "I do solemnly swear that I am a male British subject over twenty-one years of age; that I am a freeholder (or householder as the case may be) in this municipality; and have been such for a period of three months next preceding the date of this election." The above named franchise is the suffrage universal.

THIS IS the day for the "population of Boonerville." The free American citizen will be at it early and often. THE NON-WESTER has already made the forecast. It believes that Blaine and Logan will be raised to the top of the liberty pole—that the white plume of the down east man will wave triumphantly over fifty millions of excited humanity. Let us hope for the sake of the ashes of those grand old parties that framed the Republic that there will be no bad blood, and that "They will with gony hand divide a heritage of graves, Or rend in twain the starry flag that o'er them proudly waves."

THE prize entertainment at Calgary Theatre to-morrow evening will be largely attended. The local talent that will take part is, we feel justified in saying, a sufficient guarantee that the concert will be a good one. Miss Roberts, Miss Mable Gouin and Mr. Rogers are down on the programme for songs, while that knight "With a chivalry romance," And with love and honor frantic."

Capt. Boynton, will close the musical programme with a hunter's song. Then the drawing and the distribution of prizes, which is an attractive feature of the evening, will take place.

THE Moose Jaw News, while accepting our congratulations, says that it has always been independent. We do not think it was under Mr. Wells' management. We may be permitted to say in reply to the News that there are two kinds of independent newspapers. The first are those that are published in large cities, and who maintain more or less of an independent attitude towards the present political parties. Their names are few. The second is that class which are published in small towns, and the possible circulation being limited the proprietors are anxious to please everybody, and yet seldom or ever please anyone. No doubt the proprietor has to live, but give us a community that is not afraid to have its political parties. A place without politics is, as a rule, of not much account.

A MAN named McCormick, a prisoner who attempted to escape from jail, was brutally flogged in the jail yard in Winnipeg the other day. The unfortunate man received twelve lashes on the bare back with the cat. Attorney-General Miller gave the order for the lashing. The Free Press and Times both condemn this act of brutality. During the whipping the Attorney-General, the Minister of Agriculture and other officials stood by and enjoyed the man's agonies. A coat of tar and feathers ought to be administered to the Legree who was present in the person of the Attorney-General, for a more brutal piece of business, administered in the name of the law, has seldom been recorded. We are glad to note the vigorous way in which the Free Press deals with this heathly exhibition of brutality, directed against a man who was only guilty of making a dash for liberty.

AN enterprising freighter the other morning who left with a heavy load for the far north took the liberty of appropriating a whiffle tree which "was 'at his'n." He departed on his journey no doubt thinking that the owner would not discover the thief. The owner, however, is a coon who didn't believe in being tressed in that manner. Missing the whiffle tree his suspicion was at once aroused, and engaging a man to accompany him the pair went north in hot pursuit after the whiffle tree expropriator. At the distance of twenty miles they overtook the kleptomaniac and found as they expected the whiffle tree in possession of the hyperborean bound teamster. He was not ordered to throw up his hands, but he was politely asked to unhook the whiffle tree and take it back to the place where he found it. There being no extra Mexican saddle immediately convenient the whiffle tree hypotheater had to ride back to Calgary bare-back. On his arrival there, and after returning the whiffle tree to the place where he found it, he was requested to pay the expenses of his pursuers and for the use of the whiffle tree which he did to the tune of $30.00. He could have bought a couple of josen for that, and no doubt he is now sorry he didn't go into the wholesale trade at once in a legitimate manner. North-westerly bound teamsters, unless traveling by the compressed air route, should not take other folks whiffle trees. It does not pay.

OUR respected contemporary the Regina Leader gets off its base in its last issue. It reads its northwestern contemporaries a certain lecture about sensational reports, the recent rumour of the shooting of Louis Riel being the text. Now we feel justified in whispering in Editor Smith's ear that it was no "idiot" or "idiote" near the foot of the Rocky Mountains that originated the late reports that Riel was shot. The rumour came from Duck Lake, and the first person to spread it here—as only a rumour—was a Roman Catholic priest who Editor Smith will admit is not an idiot but a devout and popular clergyman. As a matter of fact there was such a rumour, but it neither orig-named at the foot of the Rocky Mountains nor was it given other than a rumour. As a matter of fact the local papers here gave it as such, and the Calgary correspondent of the Winnipeg Times in a special despatch mentioned the shooting of Riel as a rumor, saying that he could find no foundation for it. To prevent the circulation of rumors is impossible, and the Northwest is no exception. The editor-in-chief of the Leader, himself, is an excellent hand at originating rumors which often have a baseless fabric, as witness his occasional Ottawa telegrams. News rumors are, however, quite fashionable, and the license which applies to the poet in one way is in another allowed to the news vendor when there is an unusual scarcity of news items. The remarks of the Leader do not appear as Editor Smith's style. They are somewhat bilious, and have not the stamp of geniality which we know Brother Smith is capable of giving to his compositions.

"The Peterboro Review says that the Hon. George Brown left no man in his party able to fill his shoes." This is quite true, but it is only fair to the living to explain that Mr. Brown wore fourteen.

To the Editor of THE NON-WESTER:
Sir—"One who left" has a communication in the Herald of last week, and I notice that he commences his letter by using the editorial "we," leaving a strong suspicion on the mind of the person who can read between the lines that the communication is the production of the office. There is a special school boyishness in the construction which is quite familiar to those who are intimate with the many-pamphlet which is such a conspicuous feature in the compositions which grace the columns of your local contemporary. I know nothing of the truth or untruth of the assertion made by "one who left," but that it is the product of the united talent of the Herald office I am perfectly sure.
