George Bryar has a number Of Inventions

BELONGS TO BATHURST

A Company with $100,000 Capital Organized In N. S.

A company with $100,000 capital is being formed in the States to exploit the inventions of a brainy New Brunswicker, George Bryar, of Bathurst, whose inventive genius has led him to turn out a number of contrivances considered of much value in the industrial world. For ten years Mr. Bryar, who is a Frenchman but thirty-three years old, has been giving his time and ability to working out a number of ideas. Though handicapped in his work by the loss of an arm in a saw mill some time ago, he has kept to his task. Dr. J. M. Smith, of St. John, seeing the value of his inventions, has been financially interested in Mr. Bryar's work and now has taken into the exploiting of the inventions several men across the border. Dr. Smith returned a few days ago from Boston where he had spent some time on his mission. The result he told a reporter yesterday, was that $25,000 capital had been paid in for promoting and patenting Mr. Bryar's genius which are being put forward number nine.

First comes a machine for boring square holes in iron. Dr. Smith said they had with this machine bored a two inch square hole in a piece of wrought iron an inch thick in half an hour, an operation that would take a man a day to do under the ordinary process. The machine is adjustable to any machine shop and works automatically. An offer for the rights to this, he said, has been made but is not closed as the man making the proposition wants the world's rights and the company do not want to dispose of it that way.

Another contrivance is a set screw, which is operated by hand and which it is claimed will hold better than the ordinary ones with which a wrench is used. An offer for the rights to this has also been made. It is claimed for it that it will apply to a quick acting wrench and screw brass pipes without marring.

Another invention is an oil can which permits of no waste of oil lubricating machinery.

Another is a quick acting wrench. A fifth is a radius cutter for ploughing out iron bars. Dr. Smith said he had seen this done in twenty minutes what it would have taken a day to do by the present process.

GASPE FISHERMEN

Dr Lemieux, M. P. P., ably Defends their Rights.

During the fish and game convention which was held in Montreal Windsor Hotel on December 13th and 14th, Dr. Lemieux, member for Gaspé county, strongly opposed every resolution presented by members of the convention tending to deprive the Gaspé fishermen who hold Salmon net license.

Some of these salmon nets are the only means that some fishermen have for their living. Dr. Lemieux was loudly cheered when he got up and eloquently defended the Gaspé fishermen's rights.

MIRAMICHI PRESBYTERY

Chatham, Dec. 18.—The Presbyterian congregation of Douglastown and Nelson have decided to extend a call to Rev. J. H. Hattie, of Nova Scotia. The new Presbyterian Church at Millbank will be formally opened for divine service on Sunday, the 31st inst. The minister and choir of St. Andrew's church will assist in the morning and Rev. J. Morris McLean and choir of St. John's church in the evening.

At a congregational meeting in St. Andrew's hall tonight to appoint delegates to represent the congregation at the meeting of the Presbytery tomorrow in reference to the resignation of Rev. D. Henderson, a motion that the resignation lay on the table for a year was carried, an amendment that it lay over for three months being lost by six votes.

EQUITY COURT

Judgment was given this forenoon in the case of Duncan vs. the Town of Campbellton. The plaintiff asked for an injunction to restrain the defendant from submitting to arbitration the value of a piece of land which the plaintiff owned, and which the town appropriated for the purpose of extending its water works. The ground on which the plaintiff asked for the injunction was that the Council of the town of Campbellton had not authorized the extension of the water works. Judgment was given for the defendant. Mr. W. A. Mott, of Campbellton, and Mr. A. S. White, of Sussex, for the defendant.—Globe 10th.

OBITUARY

Mr. J. Malcolm Jennings of Lower Brighton N. B., who was staying with his brother F. L. Jennings, Manager of the I. C. S. on the North Shore, died at the residence of Miss Murray on Saturday, Dec. 9th. The deceased young man had been ill for the past two years of diabetes and he was 25 years of age. The body was taken to Lower Brighton for interment.

His brother has the sympathy of the community in his sad bereavement.—Advocate.

A key way cutter is another idea which has been worked out by Mr. Bryar and is held to be a great labor saver. He also has invented a lock nut which is declared perfect and not expensive. Washers are dispensed with.

In plumbing Mr. Bryar also has a process of plumbing without the use of solder. He has also perfected a patent trap and tank without ball cock. This and the plumbing without solder are being taken up by two leading architects.

In Providence a shop has been opened and there Mr. Bryar is superintending manufacture of all the devices, some of which are to be put on the market by the company being organized, while the rights of others will likely be sold to other companies. Dr. Smith is enthusiastically speaking of the value of the inventions and the success with which he has met in interesting capital in them. Of the future he is most confident. He and Mr. Bryar are the only provincial men interested.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Hudson Downs of Kempt Road Killed in Michigan

The news of the sudden death of Hudson Downs, nephew of W. K. Downs of Kempt Road, has just been received here.

Manistee, Mich., paper has the following in reference to the sad event:—

Hudson Downs, an M. and N. E. brakeman, was accidentally killed on the 18th ult., at Wexford station on the River Branch, while switching. The accident happened about one o'clock, and as soon as reported by wire to the general office in this office in this city, a special train was made up to carry an undertaker to the scene. It is expected that the inquest will be completed by the Wexford county coroner so that the special can return with the body early this evening.

Hudson Downs was a man of about 30 years, and was well and favourably known in this city and on the railroad. He formerly worked on the M. and G. R. A few months ago he was married to the daughter of Charles Dieffenbach of East River street.

GET THE RIGHT TIME

The Western Union propose sending the special signal this year at six o'clock on the evening of Saturday, the 31st inst. The signal will be exactly the same as is transmitted each week day morning to all railway offices, and is automatically and electrically sent from the delicate transmitting clock or the St. John Observatory. The signal consists of dots and pauses. Commencing at 5 hours and 58 minutes the clock makes dots each second up to and including the 57th second, then a pause of two seconds and a dot at 5 hours and 59 minutes exactly. Another pause of two seconds is followed by dots up to 5 hours 59 minutes and 50 seconds, when a pause of ten seconds take place, followed by a dot at 6 o'clock exactly. Thus the ticks of the Observatory clock of precision will be audibly and instantaneously transmitted by the magic of electricity to nearly all portions of the Maritime Provinces by the Western Union wires. The Western Union will in all their offices afford those interested the privilege of this signal, and the Meteorological Service trusts that those in charge of public timepieces and watchmakers' regulators will use the signal to correct their timepieces.

MARRIED AT MANN'S SETTLEMENT

On Tuesday Dec 19th at two o'clock in the afternoon, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mann was the scene of a happy event, when their daughter Ida May, was united in marriage to Mr. William Harvey, son of Joseph and Florence Harvey of Mann's Settlement, by the Rev. C. A. Hardy. The bride was very becomingly attired in navy blue and cream colored silk and wore a chain of pearls. The guests were many, the supper excellent, the presents numerous and wisely chosen.

Fine Finish

The farmer manufactures beef, pork, milk, etc., and he must properly handle his live stock machinery to get the greatest and best finished production.
Just as he is careful to put oil on his harvester bearings, so should he be as careful to keep his live stock machinery in good working condition.

Clydesdale Stock Food is the oil to ease the load on your animal's digestive machinery, because it increases the digestive fluids owing to the food being made "tasty."

It also makes the feeder bristle with activity and vitality, making the blood circulate better, thereby distributing the flesh more evenly over the body instead of into the paunch for tallow at 4c. per pound.
It makes the hide and coat soft and glossy, giving that "fine finish" that fetches from 25c. to 50c. per hundred more than from ordinary feeding.

David S. Melanson, Car Inspector, run over by Locomotive

Mr David S. Melanson, I. C. R. car inspector, was run over by a locomotive while at his work in the Moncton yard yesterday afternoon and sustained injuries which resulted in his death a few hours later. Mr Melanson was employed in the west end of the yard and upon the arrival of No. 6 freight train, Conductor Willard Broad and driver James Cook, from St. John, a few minutes after four o'clock, he, in company with Messrs Peter Dawson and R. M. Graves went out to make the customary inspection of the cars.

Brakeman John Cormier, who came in on No. 6, called Mr Melanson's attention to a loose brake rod on one of the box cars and the two started out to locate it. They walked down the side of the train towards the rear end, brakeman Cormier in the lead. Both were examining the cars as they passed along in search of the loose rod. Owing to the snow between the tracks car inspector Melanson walked very close to the adjoining track. It was while engaged in this occupation that the lamentable accident occurred. Mr Melanson was in a stooping position, intently examining the brake rods and was apparently quite unaware of the approach of the engine of No. 6 train, which was backing down the track next to his train to go into the round house.

Before he was aware of his peril Mr Melanson was struck by the tender of the engine and knocked down on the track, his limbs falling across the rail. The trucks of the tender passed over both limbs and the right leg was almost severed between the knee and the body. The left leg was terribly crushed between the knee and the ankle. The engine was being backed down slowly, but the unfortunate man's danger was not observed in time to prevent striking him. The engine was brought to a standstill after the trucks of the tender had passed over him.

Brakeman Cormier, who was just ahead of Mr. Melanson also had a narrow escape from being struck. He discovered the approach of the engine just in time to get out of the way, but had not time to warn or pull his unfortunate companion from the track.

The unfortunate man was picked up and as quickly as possible tenderly conveyed to a nearby building and medical aid summoned. Doctors Bourque and Ferguson were soon on the spot and did all that was possible to relieve the injured man's sufferings while awaiting the ambulance to have him removed to the hospital. The accident occurred about half way between the old station and the west end.

Mr. Melanson remained perfectly conscious all the while he was being cared for after the accident until he was removed to the hospital and heroically bore his suffering. At the hospital, after a further examination of the injuries it was decided to amputate the right leg at once. The operation was performed by

THREE Trying Times in A WOMAN'S LIFE

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

are almost an absolute necessity towards her future health.
The first when she is just budding from girlhood into the full bloom of womanhood.
The second period that constitutes a special drain on the system is during pregnancy.
The third and the one most liable to leave heart and nerve troubles is during "change of life."
In all three periods Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will prove of wonderful value to tide over the time. Mrs. James King Cornwall, Ont., writes: "I was troubled very much with heart trouble—the cause being to a great extent due to 'change of life.' I have been taking your Heart and Nerve Pills for some time, and mean to continue doing so, as I can truthfully say they are the best remedy I have ever used for building up the system. You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of other sufferers."
Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Doctors Bourque, Ferguson and price and limb was taken off near the body. The left leg was also found to be terribly crushed but the injured man was so weak that it was decided to postpone any further surgery in hope that his life might be saved.

The terrible shock, however, proved too much for the injured man and death relieved him of his sufferings shortly after ten o'clock, last night, about six hours after the accident.

Deceased was about 29 years of age and is survived by a wife and family of five young children, who reside on Lower Robinson street. The news of the shocking accident was a severe blow to Mrs. Melanson who is prostrated with grief. Mr. Melanson had been in the employ of the I. C. R. for some years and was well liked by his fellow employees. He was a neighbor and friend of Mr. John Cormier, brakeman, with whom he was inspecting No. 6 train at the time the regrettable accident occurred and needless to say Mr. Cormier feels the sad affair very keenly.—Times 15th.

A Successful Horseman

Never allows his horse to suffer pain. He always uses Nerviline which is noted for curing stiffness, rheumatism swelling and strains. Nerviline is just as good inside as outside. For cramps, colic, and internal pain it's a perfect marvel. In the good racing stables Nerviline is always used, because it makes better horses and smaller veterinary bills. Twenty five cents buys a large bottle of Nerviline; try it.

ST. ADELAIDE NOTES

Death is making frequent calls in our vicinity Wednesday last passed to be with Jesus a young man of 31 years of age in the person of Louis Darache. In August he was in perfect health and left the place for Ottawa where he worked until a fortnight when he returned to his old mother sick. His relations gathered around him to try to cure him, but in vain. His funeral took place Friday morning and was largely attended. He leaves to mourn his loss his old mother four sisters three in Montreal Mrs. J. Brisson, Mrs. H. Marchand Mrs. J. E. Marcell, one in Pabos, two brothers Liboire in Ottawa Charles in Duluth.
He will be missed by all the community for his kind disposition endeared him to the hearts of all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

ENGLISH AFFAIRS.

The political situation in England has not yet been cleared, but Mr. Balfour evidently is doing his best to bring matters to an issue. He has stated as plainly as language could express it that he is for free trade and against protection. Mr. Chamberlain has been silent for a few weeks, but his announced platform for some time past has been down with free trade, up with protection. How will these two leaders of the unionist party work together in the coming contest? What will the unionist free traders do? While there is so decided a difference of opinion among the party that so long held the reins of power it is conceded by even unfriendly critics that the liberal prospects are improving. The London correspondent of the New York Tribune now admits that Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is a "more clever leader than he was generally reputed," for "he has shown astuteness and flexibility in forming a strong ministry, with men of administrative capacity where they are needed and the least practical leaders where they will do little mischief." The same writer makes the point that the counter attack on the revival of home rule—upon which the conservatives seem to place some reliance—will be less effective than the unionists have hoped, while the liberals have not repelled the home rulers and have encircled the labor party. Therefore, the liberal canvas looks more promising than it did two weeks ago. When Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has spoken, as he will in a few days, and when Mr. Chamberlain has been heard from, it will be possible, however, to more clearly analyze the situation. Meanwhile, the drift of public opinion unmistakably favors the new government.—Globe.

The attention of the Board of Health is called to the carcass of a horse which is lying about four miles out on the Tobique road in close proximity to the brook that supplies water for the I. C. R. shops. If left there until spring it would very likely endanger public health, if indeed a serious outbreak of disease were not the result. The carcass should be removed now, and as it is outside the town limits, it is a matter for the County Board of Health to deal with, although we hope the Town Board will see that it is done.

"Be generous, this Christmas," remarked a cheerful citizen yesterday, adding "next Christmas you may be dead or broke."

THAT INJUNCTION.

The news that the application of Mr. Mott, on behalf of Mr. R. L. Duncan, for a supreme court injunction on the arbitration proceedings undertaken by the town, has been refused, will be learned with considerable satisfaction by our citizens generally, and particularly by those who have been criticized by the Tribune for daring to oppose its opinion in the matter. There is now a free course for the arbitration proceedings, and it is to be hoped that the matter will be pushed along as speedily as possible and an award given on the merits of the case.

We were rather expecting to see an extra issue from the Tribune office with the latest news in regard to that injunction case. Something's gone wrong.

A NICE DISH OF CROW

The following from the Tribune of Nov. 14th, needs no comment, in the light of the recent decision in the injunction case:—

"The ratepayers of Campbellton will feel somewhat relieved now that Mr. Robt. L. Duncan has procured an injunction restraining the town council from proceeding further in the way of arbitration in the taking over of his land. Mr. Duncan could have, as the Tribune has already stated, allowed the arbitration to go on, and if the award suited him, accept it, if not, refuse it. If he choose the latter, the result would have been heavy costs to pay on the part of the town—and that for a useless procedure. Mr. Duncan is certainly to be commended on the very manly way in which he is proceeding. Very few would have taken the course Mr. Duncan has considering the most shameful way in which he has been treated by the council.

Now, that Mr. Duncan has procured the injunction, it should conclusively prove to the members of the town council that they have not proceeded legally."

Meanwhile we can never be too thankful that we live in Canada where the red flag stands for nothing more than an auction sale.

CHRISTMAS TIDE

Only a few more days before Christmas—only a few more days in which to do your shopping and make other preparations for the holiday. Make your purchases at once and avoid the rush on Saturday night. Consider the overworked clerks at this season of the year. You will get better attention by buying now. And where to buy? Look through our columns, all enterprising merchants of our town have a space there.

King Knocked Out by Dying Pheasant.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The King has met with another shooting accident. Scarcely recovered from a sprained ankle, got while tramping across the turnpikes, he has been temporarily laid out in the following curious way. On Wednesday—the facts are but just now learned—he was shooting with the Duke of Portland's house party at Waldbec Abbey. The Earl de Grey shot a pheasant, and the bird in its dying flight plunged full into King Edward's face.

So severe was the blow that the monarch was stunned and thrown heavily. Fortunately no serious results have followed, but the day's shooting was stopped.

GRAND GREVE

What has become of our correspondent that he has not given us any news of late.

Winter has now set in in earnest and every one is busy cutting his firewood.

The schooner Arnold of Halifax sailed on the 17th inst for that port with a full cargo of codfish shipped by Messrs Wm. Hyman Sons and C. X. Kennedy of Anse a La Louisie. The Arnold is likely to be the last vessel to sail from Gaspé this season but it is rumored that another schooner has sailed from Halifax to Fox River for another load of codfish.

Miss Emma Bartlett teacher of school No. 1, of this district with the aid of Miss Esauoff and Mr. John Lemassurier took the lead of a Concert which was held on the 12th inst in the Church Hall which proved a success. Many others also took part.

HORACE GREELY.

The Gentle, Braggish and Welcoming Farmhouse Intruder.

"When Horace Greeley was first married and brought his bride home on a visit," said an old acquaintance, "a sugar party was given in their honor on a neighboring farm. All the guests had arrived, and we were looking out watching for the belated bride and groom. At last saw something appearing in the distance. As this same object came nearer we discovered it was the old white horse of the Greeleys slowly picking his way through the mud. On his back sat the bride in a brilliant yellow frock, with a green velvet belt, and behind her, wrapped in his famous white overcoat, sat the editor of the New York Tribune. It was the funniest sight ever saw and set us off in fits of laughing. I remember that I simply lay down and rolled upon the floor in a spasm of mirth.

"Mr. Greeley came home every year and after a day or two on the farm would start out to walk miles and call on people. He was never known to knock at a farmhouse door. No matter whether he knew the inmates or not he would push open the door, walk right in, sit down by the fireplace and fall to discussing crops and other topics dear to the farmer's heart. Everybody was glad to welcome this gentle, braggish intruder."

AFRICAN SANDSTORMS.

The Conditions Which Bring About These Deadly Blasts.

The sandstorms of African deserts are caused by the great power of the sun's rays, the extreme dryness of the air and the small conducting power of the sand. The superficial layers of sand in the deserts of Africa and Arabia often become heated to 200 degrees F. to a depth of several inches. The air resting on this hot sand becomes also greatly heated, thus causing ascending currents. As a result air flows in from all sides, and, different currents meeting, cyclones are formed which are swept onward by the wind prevailing at the time. Since the temperature of the air, originally high, is still further raised by the heat of the sand with which it is loaded, it rapidly increases to a most intolerable degree. In the shade it has been known to reach 120 degrees. It is to the parching dryness of this wind, its glowing heat and its choking dust and not, as is sometimes supposed, to any poisonous qualities it possesses that its destructive effects on animal life are to be ascribed. The effects of sandstorms are most terrible, large caravans being frequently overwhelmed and destroyed by them. It was by their agency that the armies of Calixtus and Senacherib were annihilated.

DEEP SEA ANIMALS.

How These Who Live Below All Vegetation Get Their Food.

"Naturally the fish of the deep portions of the ocean are carnivorous, no vegetable life being found below 200 fathoms," writes W. S. Hoar in Harper's Magazine. "In the Atlantic ocean the vast Sargasso sea, containing 2,000,000 square miles of surface—a great marine prairie as large as the whole of the United States exclusive of Alaska and dependent islands—affords vegetable food for uncountable animals, which in their due time die and are precipitated to the depths, their bodies in turn to be eaten by the animals which live far below all vegetation. So it is throughout the whole ocean; animal life is constantly falling from the surface waters for the support of the animal life of the abyss. A very large number of the deep sea animals are exceedingly tenuous or translucent in form—so to put it—having no special organs of nutrition, but taking in their nourishment through the walls of their bodies, appropriating from the water the food which suits them. Some of them have a bony structure, a skeleton, which they form also from the water, silica and carbonate of lime being the chief skeleton forming materials."

Good Cause For Sorrow.

An uncle who has just lost his only nephew is in despair and cries continually: "What kills me is the knowledge that no one now will be sorry when I die. It's horrible, horrible, to think of!"

Naughty Willie.

Dorothy—Mamma, Willie Primly keeps staring at me all the time in church. Mother—Where does he sit? Dorothy—Right behind me, mamma.—Chicago News.

A Strong Part.

Soubrette—Yes, the understudy says he used to have a very strong part on the stage. Comedian—So he did. He used to be a scene shifter and lift the mountains and castles.

Mr. F. A. Dixon a former principal of Sackville High School has been appointed Inspector of schools during the absence of Maj. Mersereau who has obtained a year's leave of absence. Mr. Dixon will enter upon his new duties early in January. It is said that Maj. Mersereau is to work for the Foresters in the North West during the year.

About 10 to 30 a. m. Sunday fire started in the upper department of I. C. R. pump house and in less than an hour the building at Bathurst was completely destroyed. Mr. Joseph Gautier who runs this pump house soon noticed the flames but nothing could be done to save it. Mr. Gautier had several valuable moose heads and stuffed birds within but all were lost as his sole attention was on saving the building.

A young merchant of our town has by an ingenious method made provision for the saving of his books in case the building should take fire. He has no safe in which to keep records of his business. A board placed so as to form steep inclined plane, the lower end being placed against the lower window pane. The books are tied in a tin box and placed at the top of the board and held there by a piece of tight wrapping twine. In case of fire the twine would be burned and the box slipped to the street below.

The small fishermen on the Que. side of the River Restigouche will be pleased to hear that Thos. Young, F. O. for that district has received communication from J. Hall Kelly M. P. P. stating that he has succeeded in having the license fee lowered to two dollars, the same as that paid by the N. B. side of the river.

Mr. Kelly has shown his interest in his constituents by his prompt action in the above matter. This effort in their behalf is greatly appreciated by the fishermen.

Harry Sears is home to spend Xmas with his parents. Our readers will remember that Harry was one of the Campbellton boys that so worthily represented Canada during the Boer War. He was in several of the hottest scraps and came out unscathed. Camploops B. C., has been his home for the last few years. He is much pleased with that part of Canada and talks interestingly of British Columbia, and of the Restigouche boys he met and worked with there. He has lately been ill with typhoid fever and is now taking a rest. He returns to B. C. next week.

Yesterday W. H. Harrison, provisional liquidator of J. W. Dumas & Co., Ltd. returned from a trip to Gloucester county where by order of the court he took possession of the estate and effects of the Dumas Co., Ltd. The company did business as general dealers in Grand Anse and Shippegan. Both stores are now closed and stock is being taken at Grand Anse, so that an estimate of the company's assets can be made. It is thought the liabilities of the company will exceed $30,000 while the assets are not over $18,000.

This afternoon the provisional liquidator gives security in the sum of $2,000, with two sureties in the sum of $1,000 each and on January 1st and the creditors' meeting will be held and permanent liquidators appointed.

The Adventure of the Empty House

T was in the spring of the year 1894 that all London inexplicable circumstances. The public has already learned those particulars of point of the matter, which I read that great interest some months later, I ascertained that the wall was sheer. It was not literally true. A few small holes formed by the action of water there was some indication of a ledge. The cliff is so high that to climb all was an obvious impossibility, and it was equally impossible to make any other way or path through the moving some tracks. I might, it is true, have reversed my boots, as I have done in similar occasions, but the sight of three sets of tracks in the direction of the water would have suggested the notion. On the whole, then, it was at that I should risk the climb. It is not an pleasant business, Watson. I was full of the thought of the beautiful person, but I give you my word that I seemed to hear Moriarty's face screaming at me out of the abyss. My mistake would have been fatal. I have to tell you that I was not in my hand or my foot slipped in wet notches of the rock I thought I was gone. But I struggled up, and at last I reached a ledge several feet above the ground, and green moss, where I could lie down in the most perfect comfort. There was stretched when you, my dear Watson, followed me, and I was investigating in the most sympathetic and inefficient manner the circumstances of my death.

"At last, when you had all formed your final conclusions, the total and monstrous conclusion, you departed for the hotel, and I was left alone. I had imagined that I had reached the end of my adventures, but a very unexpected occurrence showed that I was far from safe. I was still in store for me. A huge rock, falling from above, boomed past

He struck the path and bounded over it like a chamois. In an instant I caught that there was an accident, but I did not know what it was. At the next moment later, looking up, I saw a man's head against the darkening sky, and I saw a woman's face, pale and large upon which I was stretched through a foot of my head. Of course I was not hurt, but this was obvious. Moreover, I had not been hurt. I was not hurt and even that one glance had told me how dangerous a man that confederate was. I saw that the man who had attacked me. From a distance, unseen by me, he had been a witness of his friend's death and of my escape. He had seen me running, making his way around to the top of the cliff, he had endeavored to succeed in my escape, and he had failed. "I did not take time to think about it then. Again I saw that grim face peering over the cliff, and I knew that it was the man who had attacked me. I scrambled down on to the path. I did not think I could have done it in cold blood. It was a hundred times more

"I was sitting up, and I felt like I was being pulled back to the stone sang past me as I hung by hands from the edge of the Vice.
 I waited, and I waited, and I blessing of God, I landed, torn and bleeding, upon the path. I took to my heels, did ten miles over the mountains in the night, and I found myself in Florence, with the certainty that no one in the world knew of my flight.
 "I had only one confidant—my brother, Mycroft. I owe you many apologies, dear Watson, but it was all impossible. I was alone, and I was alone, and it is quite certain that you would not have written so convincing an account of my unhappy end had you known of my flight. I have, on several times during the last three years I have taken up my pen to write to you, but always I feared lest your reconstruction of my flight would lead you to some indiscretion which would betray my secret. For that reason I have never written to you. I have given you up, my books, for I was in anger at the time, and any show of prize and emotion upon your part might have been interpreted as entirely and led to the most deplorable consequences. As to Mycroft, and to confide in him in order to reach the heart of the matter.

The course of events in London did not run as well as I had hoped, for the trial of Mr. Mycroft was a failure. The numerous members, my own most valuable ones, at liberty. I traveled for two years in Tibet, therefore, and in the course of my travels, I was sending some days with the head of the mission. You may have read of the remarkable case of a young English man, Sir Sigerson, but I am sure that you have occurred to you that you were the saving news of your friend. I then went to the capital of the country, and received and paid a short but interesting visit to the khalfat at Kharum, the results of which I have communicated to you. I have also received your assistance, I spent some months in a research into the coal tar derivatives, traveller, in the south of France, having concluded this to my satisfaction and learning that only one of my friends remained in London, I was about to return when my movements were hastened by the news of this very remarkable Park lane mystery, which I only appeared to me by its own merits, but which seemed to offer some peculiar personal opportunities. I came over at once to London, called on my own friends, and was met by Mrs. Hudson into violent hysterics and found that Mycroft had preceded me and had the papers which, as they had always been. So it was I found Watson, that at 2 o'clock I had found myself in my old room, and that in the afternoon I was only wishing that I could have seen my old friend Watson in the other chair which has so often adorned."

My rooms and my papers exactas they had always been. So it was, dear Watson, that at 2 o'clock today I found myself in my old armchair in my own old room and only wondering that I could have seen my old friend Watson in the other chair which has so often adorned."

YORK CO. L. & S. CO.
Shareholders Advised to Discontinue Payments.
COMPANY HAS ASSIGNED
National Trust Company is Appointed Liquidator. Expert Investigating.

A crisis in the affairs of the York County Loan Company was precipitated on Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Justice Teetzel granted an order for liquidation on the assignment of the company, and the National Trust Company was appointed liquidator. The impatience of some shareholders in issuing writs against the company made this action necessary, since the writs were generally returnable Monday, and it would have been unfair to grant some shareholders
a preference over the others.

Mr. W. H. Cross of the firm of Clarkson & Cross, accountants, has been appointed by the Attorney-General to conduct an investigation into the company's affairs in the public interests and on behalf of the Government. The investigation will be assisted by the liquidators, and will, it is believed, be facilitated by the assignment.

Mr. W. T. White of the National Trust Company, was seen by the Globe, and his remarks, while conservative, left the impression that affairs were by no means so bad as some had anticipated. Very careful handling of the assets, which are chiefly in real estate, would be necessary to do the shareholders justice. It was quite too soon, he thought, to commit himself to any definite opinion on the value of the property.

"Late on Saturday," he said,
"the National Trust Company took over all the securities of the York Loan Company and received a large sum of money from agents who had balances on hand. On account of the immense amount of detail work and the large number of shareholders who are sending in pass books it will be necessary to continue a portion of the staff of the York Loan Company for a time
under the control of the Trust Company."

"The National Trust has arranged to take possession on Monday of the offices of the York Loan in Sydney, Halifax, St. John, N. B., Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton, London, Winnipeg and Vancouver through their own officers and correspondents. All these officers have been notified by wire of the

A FELINE DITTY
—ON—
DIAMOND DYES.

My kittens three, were white and gray,
'Twas hard to keep them clean;
No matter how I worked each day,
The kits looked very mean.
They'd go out in the morning clad
So tidy and so trim;
At night, they'd come home looking sad,
With clothes so soiled and grim.
I could not keep them tidy, neat,
One hour of the day
When they were in the field or street,
With other cats to play.
I then procured the DIAMOND DYES
And made a dye bath hot,
And to my kittens great surprise,
I dipped them in the pot.
To-day, my kittens are all dressed
In black so rich and deep;
I mourn no more, and now am blessed When'er I roam or sleep.
The moral of my song is plain,
To women bright and wise;
If you would please, profit gain,
Just use the DIAMOND DYES.

liquidation, and requested to announce in the newspapers that no further payments be made to agents. Printed notices have been sent out to 500 agents of the York Loan notifying them also of the liquidation, and that their employment has terminated. They are asked to remit balances in their hands, their collection books, stock registers, lapse registers and all other documents and papers belonging to the company. They are also respectfully requested as old employees to expedite the closing out of their accounts and other matters.

"Agents have been further advised that the public will be kept informed of the progress of the liquidation through reports in the press, as this is the only feasible way on account of the number of shareholders, which is estimated at 70,000.

"A great number of pass books have been sent in. As received they are classified and filed, and receipts given to their owners.
Inquiries of a general nature cannot be answered.

"Mr. Joseph Phillips, the manager, has been at the office and has given any information required to the liquidators.

"We hope to make a report showing all the securities taken over on Wednesday by the official referee, Mr. Neil McLean, appointed by Justice Teetzel. A map is also being prepared showing the holdings of the company, and a valuation will be made later.

"The assets are of a substantial nature," Mr. White stated, but he would not be led into any estimate of their value. He believed it would pay the shareholders to preserve their interests.

"They should not be stamped into parting with their rights until a valuation is made and the position of the company more fully disclosed."

The statement was brought to Mr. White's attention that the National Trust Company was understood to be interested in the York Loan Company as a creditor, a loan of $55,000 having been made to the City Realty Company an allied corporation.

"The National Trust Company," he replied, "is not and never has been a creditor in any shape or form of the York Loan Company, and has no claim whatever against it. Six months ago a loan was made by the National Trust Company in the ordinary course of business to the City Realty Company, which is a separate corporation or entity, from the York Loan Company. The York Loan Company appears in the chain of title, as it doubtless does in connection with most of the recent mortgages or transfers of property in that district."

Mr. R. Home Smith, who, had charge of the very satisfactory winding up of the Atlas Loan Company, and who is manager of the estates department of the National Trust Company, will have charge of the real estate affairs of the York Loan. The Trust Company has also retained the service of Mr. John Mackay in connection with the liquidation, his experience being considered of great value in such matters. Many new points are likely to come up, and not a few precedents may be established.

The liability of existing shareholders and their rank in relation to the assets is a matter of interest to most of the 70,000 concerned.

Creditors of the company have first preference, of course. It is believed that after them will rank shareholders of the terminating class. If there be any balance of assets left over after satisfying these claims the permanent shareholders would then benefit. If, however, there should not be sufficient assets to cover the claims of the terminating class of shareholders, it is a nice question whether the permanent shareholders could be called upon to pay up any unpaid balances on their shares.

Should they be held liable, however, it is not probable that any effort would be made to realize such an asset, considering its value and the cost of collection. Those shareholders who obtained loans amounting to half their deposits will, of course, be liable for the amount for which they have given their notes.

It appears to be the belief of the liquidators that nothing of a fraudulent nature is to be expected in the dealings of the York Loan Company. Errors of judgment and possible mismanagement may be found, but nothing more worthy of censure.

One of the gentlemen connected with the liquidation said that Mr.
Phillips had evidently a genius for organization as this part of the company's system was perfect, but that it lacked financial imagination or apprehension, or he could not have tied all his assets up in real estate which was unrealizable in a crisis.

The assets are chiefly the real estate in the Roncesvalles avenue and High Park district; then mortgages payable by installment, and stocks and debentures of other companies. The real estate may be handled to much advantage if the liquidators can provide a sewerage system and a car-line-service on the property. This they will try to do. A cash offer for the entire real estate was made by a New York and Toronto syndicate to Mr.
Phillips, but too late for acceptance.
The offer was based on an equitable valuation and might have realized
a million and a half.

GENERAL STRIKE.

Russian Government in Crippled Condition.

SITUATION GROWS WORSE

Hunger and Cold May Lead to Uprising.—More Outrages.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 20.—On account of same confusion the general strike was proclaimed at Moscow to-day at noon instead of to-morrow, and was inaugurated there with a complete suspension of street railroad service. The government enters on the new struggle greatly crippled. The situation in the Baltic provinces is growing steadily worse, and in the Caucasus the renewal of the outbreak of the Tartars and Armenians has produced another reign of terror.

The inhabitants of Tiflis and other cities are begging the authorities to furnish them with arms for the purpose of organizing a militia for self-protection. At Sebastopol new mutinies have occurred, and 1600 soldiers have been disarmed and are under guard. The troops at Kharkoff have revolted and the inhabitants are still administering the city.

The weather has become very cold. Deep snow covers the country so far south as Kiev, and it is believed that a few days' hunger and starvation will easily drive the people to desperation and provoke uprisings and attacks on strikers, and perhaps general pillage.

Alexandrov, Russian Poland, Dec. 20.—A message received here from Warsaw to-day says that the president of the Warsaw Railroad Union has been arrested, and that the union consequently has decided to order the employees of the Vistula railroads to begin a strike on Friday.

Advices from Bielsk, Russian Poland, say that the recruits there are planning an anti-Jewish outbreak.

Constantinople, Dec. 20.—The massacre of Mussulmans by Armenians was still in progress at Tiflis and throughout Caucasus. Dec. 18, according to a despatch from Tiflis on that date. The Mohammedans were being hunted down like deer, no distinction being made between Persians, Tartars or Ottomans. About two thousand Mussulman families of Tiflis had sought refuge in neighboring villages.

The Cossacks and other troops continued to plunder the houses of Mussulmans at Batoum.

Warsaw, Dec. 20.—The Polish nationalists have come to the decision that the Jews in Poland must be transformed into Poles, and the nationalists therefore have issued a proclamation calling on all Israelites to discontinue speaking Yiddish and to learn the Polish language.

Cossaks surrounded the offices of the Socialist organ, Kurier Codzinnny, at midnight, arrested the editorial staff and sealed up the offices.

BALMORAL NOTES

The Telephone connection with Dalhousie was established here to-day and the first message was sent by D. A. Arseneau to Hon. C. H. LaBelle and the system works well and is a great success.

Several messages have passed between Dalhousie and Balmoral and one would think Dalhousie was but right at hand although 11 miles away from the furthest box.

Mr. Nesbit, local manager, was in Balmoral and superintended the putting in the phones. The system is a grand success and a great convenience to the people of Balmoral.

Mr. Young of Bonaventure Co. and Mr. Nesbit's brother was in Balmoral in connection with placing the new phones.

Miss Minnie LeBlanc of Maple Green is visiting friends in Balmoral.

Rev. Father Whelan was in Campbellton on Monday.

Dennis A. Arseneau was in Campbellton on Tuesday.

The roads are good here and everywhere on the quiver.

A Solemn Dance.

They have a singular kind of dance conducted on the greens of country villages in Russia. The dancers stand apart, a knot of young men here, a knot of maidens there, each sex by itself and silent as a crowd of mutes. A pipe breaks into a tune; a youth pulls off his cap and challenges his girl with a wave and bow. If the girl is willing, she waves her handkerchief in token of assent. The youth advances, takes a corner of the handkerchief in his hand and leads his lassie round and round. No word is spoken and no laugh is heard. Stiff with cords and rich with braids, the girl moves heavily by herself, going round and round and never allowing her partner to touch her hand. The pipe goes droning on for hours in the same sad key and measure, and the prize of merit in this "circling" as the dance is called, is given by spectators to the lassie who in all that summer revelry has never spoken and never smiled.

A Widower's Susceptibility.

A widower is a tame animal and stands without trying. No woman can scare him. He is overconfident, and that is his great weakness. He has been through it all and is not to be caught a second time. He feels impervious to the approaches of woman in any form or guise. The widow finds him really a rather knotty problem. He presents difficulties that are wholly absent in a man who has never felt the matrimonial halter draw. He looks up on the widow with amused indifference. But a young and attractive woman who has never been married quickly arouses his sympathies. He in nine cases out of ten shows remarkable endurance of her sieges of his heart, and we all know that it is but a step from endurance to pity and thence to embraces. His doom is quickly sealed.

The Simple Life Expensive.

And, really, the simple life is frightfully expensive. At a recent entertainment in this city a great luxury in the serving of the second supper was the introduction of country sausage and back-wheat cakes with maple syrup. But the sausage came from the farm of the host and represented a small fortune, as the pigs from which the piece de resistance was made were blooded animals with pedigrees. The back-wheat was grown in special fields which cost ever so much a foot, and the maple syrup was taken from trees in the most expensive Adirondack tract. In all, these can thousands of dollars be spent on the simple life, while trifles, pate, terrapin and such other rarities of a former generation are left for the tables of the middle classes with moderate means.

Picture in Disguise.

Many and strange have been the disguises of some of the world's greatest pictures, and a fine painting which now graces Lord Leigh's residence in Warwickshire has an interesting history. This remarkable picture, which for so many centuries has been a painting of flowers, was pronounced by an art dealer to be merely a mask for some other picture, and on his receiving permission he gradually cleaned off the flowers, discovering underneath a very fine portrait of Charles I. by Van Dyke. It is supposed that the portrait was thus disguised in order to save it from destruction by the Roundheads at the time of the Commonwealth.

Where We Are Udderless.

We are most particular about cleanliness in our houses—many servants must keep them sweet and sanitary for us—and about cleanliness in our food, eating only of first class materials, daintily prepared. But with all this delicacy of habit the most greasy average is scrupulously clean compared to us in the matter of air. He breathes pure air rich in oxygen. We get together in vast herds, deplete the air with all manner of disagreeable and revolting matter, including disease germs, and then contentedly breathe it—Charlotte Perkins Gilman in Good Housekeeping.

Doctors and Cellbary.

There was once a time when doctors were doomed to cellbary. It was at the conclusion of the medieval period, when medicine was in the hands of the monks. In France the habit of cellbary persisted long after the practice of medicine had passed into lay hands. For two or three centuries the doctors protested, but in vain. The matter was finally laid before the pope and toward the end of the fifteenth century the vow was abolished.

Two Points of View.

"I think," said an exasperated old deacon as he slowly elevated himself from the pavement to a perpendicular, "the full grown man who throws an orange peel on the sidewalk is no Christian." "Well," said a bystander, "what do you think of an orange peel that throws a full grown man on the sidewalk?"

Justified.

"I wish they'd invent a new expression occasionally," said Top as he peered the account of a recent wedding. "It's always 'the blushing bride'."

After the Consultation.

"Well, Mrs. Brown and Smith are going to operate upon old Gutroxy." "Is the operation necessary?" "Why, yes; Brown has a note coming due, and Smith wants an automobile."

The Leak.

"Say, waiter, this plate must be cracked; the table is wet." "No, sir; there's a leak in the soup."

How a Chinaman Smokes.

Of all smokers the Chinaman goes to the greatest trouble and obtains the least result. "He carries," says an observer, "a little box almost twice the size of an ordinary silver cigarette case. This is half filled with water. In one end is a removable tiny tube to serve as a pipe. At the other end is the pipestem. First of all he takes out the tube and blows through it to remove all blockage. Then he fumbles through his awkward clothes, searching for tobacco, and produces a bit of rag, in which it is wrapped. Carefully he extracts a wad of tobacco, puts away his rag and slowly plugs the tube, which holds perhaps the tenth part of an ordinary cigarette. But he never has any matches, so he has to borrow or hunt out a brown paper stem and light it. It glows for a long time and can be puffed into flame again. He gives a long draw, slowly enjoying it to its full extent for a minute or two, then back again through the old routine to find his tobacco, fill his pipe and get it lighted."

Remarkable Escapes.

One of the most remarkable escapes from drowning on record was that of a man whose name was picked off from a vessel, washed into the sea off Lunby Island, near the Devonshire coast, England, and then returned to his ship. But it was not so remarkable a case as that which is suggested by an epitaph said still to exist in Jamaica: "Here lieth the body of Lewis Gaidy, Esq., who died on the 22d of September, 1727, aged 30. He was born at Montpellier, in France, which place he left for his religion and settled on this island, where in the great earthquake, 1672, he was swallowed up and, by the wonderful providence of God, by a second shock was thrown out into the sea, where he continued swimming until he was taken up by a boat and thus miraculously saved. He afterwards lived in great reputation and died universally lamented."

"Esquire" and "Gentleman."

The words "esquire" and "gentleman" are among those which fall from our lips daily, and yet most of us would be rather puzzled to say in precise language what we mean by them. In a country court case a schoolmaster was ruled out of the "gentleman" list. Legal distinctions on the point have not been anomalous. The following are not "gentlemen": A buyer of silks, a solicitor, a man between twenty and thirty years of age to be a footman and underbitch in a great family. He must be of the Church of England and have had the smallpox in the natural way. Also a woman, middle aged, to wait upon a young lady of great fashion and fortune. The woman must be of the Church of England, have had the smallpox in the natural way, very good in her behavior and well understood dress, getting up lace and fine linen and doing all things necessary for a young lady that goes into all public places and keeps the best company. Inquire of the printer of this paper.—Oct. 1, 1774.

A Curious Advertisement.

An old London paper contains the following curious advertisement: "Wanted, a man between twenty and thirty years of age to be a footman and underbitch in a great family. He must be of the Church of England and have had the smallpox in the natural way. Also a woman, middle aged, to wait upon a young lady of great fashion and fortune. The woman must be of the Church of England, have had the smallpox in the natural way, very good in her behavior and well understood dress, getting up lace and fine linen and doing all things necessary for a young lady that goes into all public places and keeps the best company. Inquire of the printer of this paper.—Oct. 1, 1774."

The Madness of War.

So wars are begun by the persuasion of a few deluded, harebrained, poor, dissolute, hungry capitalists, parasitical fawners, unquiet hotspurs, restless innovators, green heads, to satisfy one man's private spleen, lust, ambition, avarice, etc. Eros hominum, proper men, well proportioned, carefully brought up, able both in body and mind, sound, led like so many beasts to the slaughter in the flower of their years, pride and full strength, without all remorse and pity, sacrificed to Pluto, killed up as so many sheep for devils' food, 40,000 at once.—Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy."

Gory Dew.

In appearance gory dew is a dark red, slimy film, which is frequently seen on damp walls and in shady places. It is in reality one of the lowest forms of vegetable life and is closely allied to the plant to which the famous phenomenon of red snow is chiefly due. Its botanical name is Falmella cruenta. At times patches of it may become quite large, and it will develop into a tough, gelatinous mass.

Ungrateful.

"Some people never thank you, no matter what you do for them," said a small boy. "A feller put a bent pin on the teacher's chair the other day, and when the teacher was about to sit down I pulled the chair out from under him to save him from the pin, and if he didn't lick me for it!"

The First Erie Canal Boat.

The William Tell was the first boat to pass over the Erie canal from Buffalo to Albany and down the river to New York. Her cargo consisted entirely of hogheads, barrels and bottles of Lake Erie water, part of which was mingled with the waters of the bay of New York on the occasion of the great fete in celebration of the opening of the wonderful waterway. Her passengers included Governor De Witt Clinton, the leader in the canal enterprise, and a delegation of statesmen and distinguished persons from foreign lands and various parts of the United States.

BARTIBOQUE RUINS

Mr. John Connell Sheds
Light on the Mystery

Mr. John Connell, who was commissioned some years ago to interview old residents of the Bartibogue and gather information respecting the first settlements on the river, tells us that a log cabin, on the site of the ruins that Dr. Baxter lectured about before the Natural History Association, was once occupied by a man named Hollihan, and the name suggests that he was not Scotch but Irish. The first trail from the Miramichi to Bathurst, he says, was opened between Newcastle and that place in 1810, and it crossed the Bartibogue at Hollihan's. This accounts for the selection of that isolated place as a residence. Mr. Hollihan's was called the Halfway House, and refreshment for man and beast was obtainable there. He probably lived in it at the time of the great fire, but it is not known that he did.

A horseback trail between Chatham and Bathurst, which subsequently became the post road, known as the Bathurst road, was opened in 1832, and the older trail was abandoned at some subsequent date.

The Bartibogue settlement was founded where the Connells now live in 1820, the site being eight miles above tide-water and twenty-two miles (by the river) below the Hollihan's Half-way House. The great fire of 1825 swept over the settlement, and twenty-seven of the people perished in it.

The first grant of land in this settlement was made to John McCarthy in 1826.

Lumbering was going on there at the time of the fire, as the remains of three big piles of partially burned timber, two miles east of Connell's, testify. Keary, father of the late Thos. F. Keary, was yarding timber with oxen for Currie the day before the fire. The oxen were burned, but Keary and Currie stayed in the river all night and were saved. Mrs. Robt. Wall, whose maiden name was Currie, gave Mr. Connell a graphic description of that awful night. She was ten or twelve years old at the time. Her family—father, mother, three boys and herself—took refuge in the river, ducking their heads to cool them and to avoid showers of fiery particles, and stayed there till morning. Wild animals she didn't know what they were, stayed in the water near them. It was very cold next morning, notwithstanding the smoldering woods, and they were glad to crawl out and gather around a fire.

Mrs. Green, who lived at Green's Point, a quarter of a mile below the Connell place, fled before the fire with three children, trying to reach Neville's a mile away. She was found dead within two hundred yards from her own home. The body was in a sitting posture, the back against a stump, and the remains of the little ones were at her feet.

Mrs. Hickey, who lived about a mile west of the Connell place, took refuge in a green house (a clay roofed excavation in which roots were kept) and was smothered to death with smoke.

A half a mile up river a man named Carrell, who lived alone, started for the river to escape the fire, but was knocked down and pinned to the ground by a tree that was blown over by the gale that prevailed. His remains were found in that position.

A family named Fleming lived about a mile below the Connell farm. When the fire occurred the father and mother were in Chatham, having walked down the river bank to tide water and made the rest of the trip by canoe, a journey that would take two days.

Their children, boys of five and eleven, were at home. The remains of the youngest were found in the ruins of the house next day by the surviving settlers, but there was no trace of the others. As they searched through the bed of ashes and desert of charred stumps that had been a forest the day before they heard, or fancied they heard, groans, but could not determine from whence they came. Three days later they found the lad's body under a fallen tree, with scarcely a mark of fire on it. He had evidently started to go to Currie's and had been caught by a fallen tree and held fast till he died.—World.

FISH AND GAME CONVENTION

Argument on the Imposition of License Fees on Non-Resident Sportsmen

MONTREAL, Dec. 15.—At the afternoon sitting of the Fish and Game Convention on Wednesday the report of the committee on big game was admitted.

The recommendations were as follows:

Clause 1. That if the government cannot see their way to put a license on all guns, the committee recommends that the possession of guns, decoys, or other implements of shooting or hunting at a time and in places where the game birds or animals above named are found, shall be prima facie evidence of pursuit thereof with intent to catch, kill or destroy the game.

Clause 2. That the carrying of guns of a calibre No. 8 or larger, also automatic guns, be prohibited.

Clause 3. That it be forbidden to pursue wild ducks with yachts or boats propelled by sail, steam or other mechanical power.

Clause 4. That the sale of woodcock be prohibited the same as partridge viz., to 1908.

Clause 5. That each woodcock or partridge found in the illegal possession of any person shall constitute a definite offence, and the fine shall be $5. for each bird, and in a second offence the minimum fine shall be $100.

Clause 6. That game found in sold storage warehouses, private or public, one month after the close season shall be confiscated by any warden, deputy warden or inspector, and such game shall be given forthwith to charitable institutions; and no person shall sell, expose for sale or buy any animal, bird or fish included in the definition of a game or fish until after a lapse of three days from the end of any close season, under a penalty of five dollars for each offence, and each bird or game bought, sold or exposed for sale shall constitute an offence.

Clause 7. That the shooting of spring ducks be entirely prohibited. Clubs in Quebec offered strenuous objection to the clause referring to spring duck-shooting, but it was finally adopted.

Among the visitors to the Fish and Game Convention is Mr. A. B. Smith, of Woodstock Ont., a member of the editorial staff of the well-known Canadian sportsman's magazine, "Rod and Gun in Canada." The efficient preservation of fish and game finds a foremost advocate in "Rod and Gun" and Mr. Smith will deal with this conference, and its possible result as affecting Quebec, in a special article in the January issue of the magazine.

COLLISION ON VICTORIA BRIDGE

MONTREAL, Dec. 16.—A collision took place on Victoria Bridge about 8.30 o'clock this morning, which had the effect of delaying the traffic for some time. An incoming freight train was standing on the bridge waiting to get into the yard at Point St. Charles, when the Central Vermont local from Chamblay came along and struck the rear end of the freight. The accident was attributed to the

PAPER READ ON GLIMPSES OF 'FRENCH CANADA'

By the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux Before the Society of Arts

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Hon Rodolphe Lemieux, Solicitor-General of Canada, read a paper on glimpses of French Canada, before the colonial section of the Society of Arts last evening, Lord Strathcona presiding.

The British North America Act, said Mr. Lemieux, has given the several provinces control of their local affairs: civil, religious, educational and municipal. In Quebec, as well as in the other provinces, the majority rules, but our English Protestant fellow citizens who are there are in a minority have always received most generous treatment at the hands of the majority. Having obtained the right to govern himself the French Canadian takes great interest in political affairs, especially those which concern his province. He knows the value of responsible government. He loves the land of his ancestors, as it is not an adopted country for him, it is his own country. Occasionally he will emigrate to the New England States in order to pay off his mortgage, but he never bids final adieu to his province. There are some imperial problems looming up in the political horizon to the ultimate solution of which the French Canadians are by no means indifferent. What may appeal strongly to their fellow-citizens of English Origin on account of the ties of blood with the Mother Country may not appeal so strongly to my fellow-countrymen. The reason is quite obvious. The French Canadian belongs, and that for many centuries and generations, to Canada. He has no connection except intellectually speaking, and that in a qualified way, with France. His estrangement from France is manifold, the French-Canadian having received under the flag of Great Britain, his rights, liberties and franchises, the enjoyment of which is the birth-right of every British subject. He cannot expect, and in fact does not look for a better status. Any annexation movement would find in him an uncompromising opponent. He knows full well how soon his nationality would be merged in the American union.

ST JOHN PRINTERS STRIKE

Book and Job Men who have Demanded 8 Hour day

ST JOHN, Dec. 17.—The printers in the seven job printing establishments went out on strike this morning, when, in response to their ultimatum the employers refused to agree to an eight hour day. The establishments affected are J. & A. McMillan, Jas. Barnes & Co., Geo. E. Day, George A. Knodell, Patterson Bros., E. A. Armstrong and Richard Heans. About 20 men are out. The offices affected are all working through with greatly reduced staffs. The men are confident of forcing the employers to the terms.

ENVELOPE GIFTS FOR OUT-OF-TOWN.

The simplest way for a girl to remember her out-of-town girl friends at Christmas time, when she does not wish to send card or photograph, is with an envelope gift. Some small token which can be sent through the mail has often as much significance, especially if it is something hand-made, as a bulky present, which requires a large postage or express fee to take it to its destination. And there are no end of pretty gifts which can be made to fit easily into an envelope.

Of these is a chiffon or liberty silk scarf or fashion-made tie. One deft-fingered girl is turning out a fascinating scarf from net. She is using a silky quality of white net and scattering over its surface small silver spangles. These tiny paillettes she is putting on rather sparsely by hand, while the raw edges of the net are being caught and bound in broad liberty satin ribbon. When finished the scarf will measure two and a half yards in length and almost a yard in width but its suppleness will admit of its being folded into a foolscap envelope.

Then there are many lovely stocks which are soft enough to go in an envelope without destroying their freshness, and every girl appreciates a bit of new neckwear among her Christmas presents. Among the long stocks a lace cravat which is made easily shows a single neck band of finely tucked muslin with narrow insertion of Valenciennes lace running through the middle. Valenciennes edging finishes the upper and lower edges and the trimmest of muslin covered buttons line the middle of the front and fasten the stock at the back with thread loops. The long tab that ends in a short loop, composed of three lengths of muslin with lace in section each length surrounded with Valenciennes edging except at the top where it is attached to the tab above. The top tab being joined at the neck band beneath the lace edging.

Another soft stock is built of Hamburg medallions two inches in width having an opening at the centre. A line of delicate lace, one below the other, constitutes a long tab at the front. Through the openings in the medallions is inserted sky blue velvet or satin ribbon that ends in a short loop. Narrow Valenciennes lace is applied scantily around the neck band and tab.

Still a third suggestion is to buy an inexpensive Hamburg or lace stock and outline the pattern with gatherings of delicately tinted tulle ribbon. Care should be taken that the ribbon is not put on with too generous a hand, the largest motifs only showing the colored outline. Instead of using the ribbon the design can be outlined with colored silk floss, using a simple button-hole stitch.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

"There is no other medicine manufactured that has received so much praise and so many expressions of gratitude as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is effective, and prompt relief follows its use. Grateful parents do not hesitate to testify to its merits for the benefit of others. It is a certain cure for croup and will prevent the attack if given at the first appearance of the disease. It is especially adapted to children as it is pleasant to take and contains nothing injurious. Mr. E. A. Humphreys, a well known resident and clerk in the store of Mr. E. Leck of Alice, Cape Colony, South Africa, says: 'I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to ward off croup and colds in my family. I found it to be very satisfactory and it gives me pleasure to recommend it.' For sale by all druggists."

SACKVILLE TELEPHONE SYSTEM CHANGES HANDS

Some time ago overtures were made by the Central Telephone Co. to the Sackville Electric Light and Telephone Co. in regard to purchasing the Sackville Telephone system. Negotiations at length assumed definite shape, and a formal offer was made by the directors of the Central Co., and was accepted by the Sackville Co. On Monday a well attended meeting of the shareholders of the Sackville company was held, and the contract of directors was unanimously ratified. Although the transaction was technically a sale, yet as a matter of fact it was really an amalgamation, inasmuch as many of the shareholders of the Sackville Co. will become shareholders in the Central Co.

The actual transfer of the telephone system will take place on January 1st. T. H. Estabrooks of St. John is president of the Central Co., while J. P. Robinson of Sussex is the manager.

The Sackville Telephone and Electric Light Co. will continue to operate the electric light plant as formerly.—Globe

The Origin of Santa Claus.

Santa Claus is of German origin. This is true if only because that is the German name for St. Nicholas. That he is an old man is because in the ancient pagan feasts in celebration of the decay of the old year and the birth of the new an old man played the principal part. Among the Greeks and Romans it was Saturn, the father of all the gods, and among the Norsemen it was Thor, who was long bearded and white haired. That the saint is St. Nicholas is due to the fact that that venerable personage's feast day was celebrated at about that period. St. Nicholas was a bishop of Myra, who flourished early in the fourth century. He is the patron saint of children and schoolboys, and hence it was natural that he should be a part of a celebration when the children received gifts and when they were allowed to be "hoaxed" as well as seen.—New York Mail and Express.

Christmas in Rome.

A characteristic sight which precedes a Roman Christmas is the so called cotto, or sale of fish by auction, which is held at San Teodoro, near the forum, in the small hours of the morning, and every year attracts large crowds of buyers and sightseers. It is a sight worth seeing, the vast circular market literally packed with row upon row of baskets, in which the scaly fry are carefully arranged, the light glancing off their many colored scales in a thousand prismatic reflections, while the owner of each stall shouts at the top of his voice and the merry crowd goes round laughing and bargaining and trying to cheapen the fish, for at Christmas time it often reaches fabulous prices, and one is reminded of the extravagance of the ancient Romans, one of whom is said to have paid 20,000 sesterces for a single gray mullet.—London Mail.

A Recipe For Plum Pudding.

Crumble a pint of breadcrumbs from the center of a stale loaf and pour over them a cup of scalded milk; when cool add three-quarters of a cup of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt and the yolks of four eggs beaten together; chop a half pound of suet and thoroughly mix with it a half pound each of raisins, currants and almonds; add a teaspoonful each of cinnamon and nutmeg, a third of a teaspoonful each of cloves and mace and the whites of the four eggs stiffly beaten; serve with hard sauce.

Encouragement.

Jack (bitterly)—I suppose that young Richman who comes to see you so often will give you such an expensive Christmas gift that you won't want the trifling present I can afford to buy you?

Marie (coolly)—No. I think you had better save your money for—future contingencies, Jack.

What Constitutes an Assault.

"If a man comes into your house," said the Liverpool stipendiary magistrate, "and picks up a poker to strike you, you are entitled to pick up the tongs and fence with him, and if you hit him with the tongs he cannot complain of being assaulted, because he would have struck you first if he could. But if, on the other hand, you take the poker out of his hand and strike him with it you are guilty of an assault, because you struck an unarmed man. That is as clear a distinction as I can make."

TURBINE MOTER

Eastmore Boat Travels
Fifty miles an hour

EXPERIMENT in FLORIDA.

Economy as well as Great Speed tests to be made
In Northern Waters

(New York World.)

By his discovery of the national reversible turbine moter, Thomas Eastmore, an inventor of Jacksonville, Fla., proposes to supply a motive power on water that will revolutionize existing transportation facilities. By actual test of a small boat built after an Eastmore model, the inventor has developed a speed of fifty miles an hour on the St. John River, Florida.

When new models are completed he expects to show a maximum speed of seventy-five miles an hour under favorable conditions. In brief, if the Eastmore turbine moter with reversible gear comes anywhere near fulfilling the hopes of the inventor trans-Atlantic greyhounds will cross the ocean in three days, and with one-half of the present fuel supply.

Like all inventors, Mr. Eastmore has met with many discouragements. Last winter his boat-house on the St. John River was destroyed by fire, and all the models, boats and motors were consumed, and the inventor and his family barely escaped with their lives. Now he is at work upon new models, and a new boat will be constructed in time for a trial demonstration of high speed off Palm Beach, Fla., during the motor races next January.

By his invention Mr. Eastmore claims that he can save one-half of the present cost of fuel, one-half to three-fifths in space, make fewer revolutions and double the horse-power with a given head of steam. He claims an ability to do away with all vibration, to gain ten per cent, and to save from one-half to three-fifths in the present cost of manufacture. And, to crown all, he declares that he can reach and maintain a speed of fifty miles or more an hour.

The turbine engine patents granted to Eastmore three different types of reversible compound steam or gasoline engines. There are three principles on which they can be constructed. First, the screw principle; second, the old over and undershot waterwheel principle; and, third, the spiral or windmill principle. All three of these are comprised in the Eastmore inventions and gasoline is the fuel used.

A 75 feet speed launch has been designed by him, to be equipped with twin screws driven by two 100-horse-power reversible engines.

There's one—and only one—sure test of unshrinkable underwear—that is the wash tub. It's the test that "Stanfield's Un-shrinkable" stands—not once,
but all winter long.

Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear is absolutely unshrinkable. We guarantee it—and best dealers everywhere sell it.

The launch will also be equipped with the Eastmore propeller under the bow, a new departure in engineering, as well as any ordinary propeller at the stern, and a speed of over fifty miles an hour by this craft is expected by the designer. The speed of the motors will be regulated at 2,000 revolutions a minute.

From practical experience it has been found that two and three-bladed stern propellers work better with higher speed attained than a four-bladed propeller shows for the reason that the four-bladed propeller creates more vacuum than the two and three-bladed propeller. The bow propeller used in the Eastmore works in a solid body of water constantly.

The turbine engine is without centre and takes the steam on the run. When the diameter is doubled, the same head of steam will be doubly effective. To explain: If the piston twelve inches in diameter develops thirty horse-power with a two-inch steam feed, the twenty-four inch piston will, with the same two-inch feed, develop sixty horse power.

Eastmore intends to develop 60,000 horse-power from 1,500 to 2,000 revolutions per minute.

A company has been organized to handle the motors. Mr. Eastmore is the president, and James G. Burns, of Narragansett Pier, R. I., is secretary and treasurer. After the Florida trials a speed test of the motor boat will be made in New York waters and off the New England coast.

EDISON PROPHECIES END OF STEAM POWER

Epoch of History will begin With Decreased cost of Electricity.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Thomas A. Edison today predicted the end of steam power within twenty years, attributing as means of conveyance before he dies, establishment of great electrical power houses at the mouths of coal mines, with the elimination of freightage and a consequent decrease in the cost of electricity to such an extent that it will be used universally for heat, light and motive power in all public places, on all railroads, both for freight and passenger service, and in the homes of the residents of cities, great and small. He said:

"Everything indicates that in the near future electricity will be produced for general consumption in great power houses at the mouths of the coal pits. That is the logical and common sense outcome of present events.

"It will cost a third less to transport electrical power by wire than to carry it in the form of coal by railroad cars.

"Assume the price of coal to be $1 at the mouth of the mine, and assume the freight to be $1.90.

"Now, we can turn that coal into electricity at the mine and convey it by wire at less than half the cost of the freightage of coal.

"I believe firmly that all great trunk railroad lines will go to electricity inside of fifteen years.

"I don't mean simply passenger traffic, but heavy freight traffic also.

"Within twenty years steam will be as much out of fashion for railways as horses are for street cars today.

"Electricity will take the place of horses. It will solve the vehicle traffic problem in cities.

"My new electric storage battery itself will make electricity cheaper than horses. Well, in the spring we will be ready to furnish the new batteries."

CHRISTMAS IN THE VAL DI ROSE

By
WALTON WILLIAMS

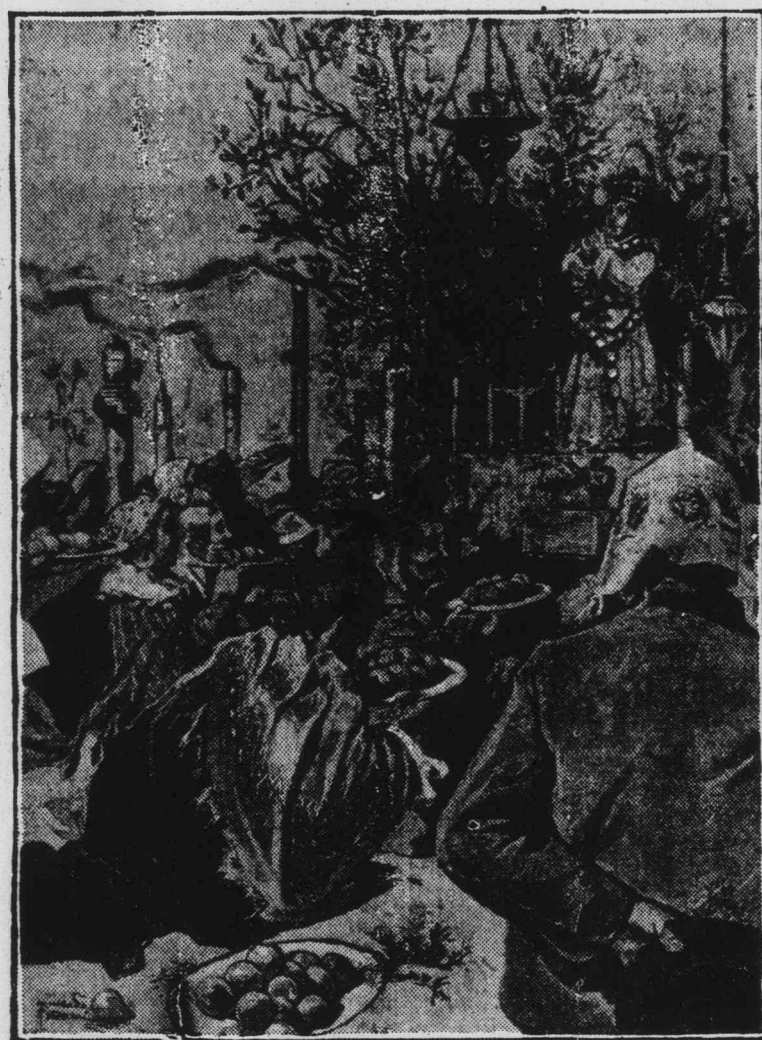

In mediæval times, when learning was rare and confined mostly to the regular clergy living in monastic communities, it became the fashion to illustrate the gospel narratives by means of more or less realistic dramatic representation. This method of instructing the unlettered was borrowed from the old heathen mysteries, and the monks and nuns who devised the pious scheme made every effort to impart a reverential understand of the subject illustrated. This is the origin of the mystery or miracle plays and also of the sacred tableaux vivants which in time were enacted in the rural churches. These living pictures always illustrated some Biblical subject and were probably of great spiritual benefit to those who could not read.

It was thus that the great features of the Christian religion were made intelligible to the public. The practice began early in the tenth century and grew in favor for at least 200 years. In the thirteenth century, however, the custom had become so subject to abuse that the clergy began to frown upon it, and finally they prohibited all forms of Biblical representation in the churches. In time most of the Easter mystery pictures disappeared from the churches, but many of the Christmas illustrations had acquired such a firm hold upon the popular heart that they remained and have been brought down to the present day in a somewhat modified form. Such is the "Bambino," which is seen today in all parts of the Christian world and which has come to possess almost a ritualistic significance.

Another Christmas mystery which still survives, although its perpetuation is confined to a limited region, is the quaint and decidedly impressive Christmas ceremonial known as "the offering." This custom has been repeated for centuries on Christmas day in the churches of the Italian highlands. It is illustrative of the visit of the magi

O MISTLETOE

By NINA PICTON

What could I do?

THREE times she passed beneath the mistletoe, With face so arched and eye of blue, And I, distraught, what could I do? Rank coward—I turned round and let her go.

From every nook and corner blazed the light; Eyes gleamed like stars in matchless ray. Yet ne'er an eye of black or gray shone full and soft as hers that old year night.

Each one waxed bold as forth she came again, And o'er her golden hair the bough Of witchery hung. My hour came now. I caught and kissed her like a man insane. O happy swain!

She neither screamed nor smiled nor chid me then, But brushed her cheek like chisledown. And then a tiny, childish frown came 'twixt her brows. "At last!" cried she. "Oh, Ben, slowest of men!"

No ear but mine heard that imperious blame. The crowd had passed. We twain stood there In perfect bliss, without a care, And o'er and o'er I breathed her perfumed name—O Rose a flame!

The joy bells rang. The old year crept away. Lusty and young the new year stood. Aglow with promise, life and blood. Ah, never was such night or holiday— For all they say!
