Sheriff Believes He Has Got Out of Washington State.

Seattle, Wash., July 21 .- The story that Tracy had his supper at a farmhouse Friday night near Eumenclaw has been proven to be a hoax invented by a newspaper man of this city. There was a report Saturday afternoon that a man answering Tracy's general description, accompanied by two other men, all heavily armed and mounted was seen in Chelahalis, on bicycles, bound south. It is the firm belief of the sheriff that Tracy is out of the country.

RESTORATION OF TIEN TSIN

Powers' Conditions Accepted by Chinese Officials-Jamaica Planters Feel Insulted.

Pekin, July 21.-The Chinese officials ave formally notified the ministers of the powers of the throne's acceptance of the conditions for the restoration of Tien Tsin to the Chinese. REFORM IN CHINA.

Prince Chen, of the imperial family of China, coronation envoy to London, and his principal secretary Liang Chen Tung, the newly-appointed Chinese minister at Washington, who are making a thorough inspection of the educational system, civil and military, of France, have visited the military school at St. Cyr. Liang Chen Tung says that the voyage of Prince Chen is of great significance, as it is the first time in the history of China that a prince of the reigning house has ever visited foreign countries and acquired foreign languages. Liang Chen says this indicates a decision to completely revolutionize the present educational system of China, and bring it up to date. In fact, he declares, the Chinese Government has already undertaken etducational reform on a large scale. When questioned on the present situation in China. Liang Chen said that, owing to the fresh taxation imposed to raise money throughout the country for the oreign indemnity, revolts and fanatical prisings already had occurred, and were ikely to become general. The outlook he likely to become general. The outlook he considered very gloomy, indeed. Prince Chen and Liang Chen will inspect schools and colleges until they sail from Cherborg, on July 26, for New York on the Philadelphia. They intend to pass one week in the Eastern States, visiting Washington, West Point and Annapolis, and probably Harvard, Yale and Princeton before resuming their journey home.

FEEL INSULTED. The planters in Jamaica, West Indies, are greatly dissatisfied with the imperial offer of f10,000 to help the sugar industry. Robert Craig, a Scotchman, a former legislator, and one of the largest sugar planters, in a statement published today, says: "The offer is insulting, and will increase the clamor on the part of the increase the clamor on the part of the planters for annexation to the United States. It has appeared to me for many years that the home government has been deliberately playing into the hands of the Americans. Its every act would appear to show this, and that annexation will come sooner or later I do not doubt." AN EIGHTEEN-KNOT SERVICE. The Liverpool Journal of Commerce is authority for the statement that the Canadian Government has invited Messrs. Allan, Holt, Jones and other Liverpool shipowners to make tenders for a service of 18-knot passenger steamers between Vancouver, Australia and points on the Pacific, and also for a service of commodious and quick passenger steamers.

LEFT NO WEALTH. The announcement that the late Lord Pauncefote's family was left with prac-ically no estate save a small home seat n Gloucestershire, is expected to result Professor Rudolf Virchow is seriously ill at Harzeburg, in the Grand Duchy of Brunswick. He is suffering in part from debility, due to old age, and is also subject to fits, which seem to have a grave aspect. He is, however, in no immediate danger. Rudof Virchow, the celebrated German Rudof Virchow, the celebrated German pathologist and anthropologist, was born at Schrivele, in Pomerania, Oct. 13, 1821, and studied medicine at Berlin. He became the leader in independent research among the younger men of France, and took a great interest in scientific knowledge among the people. He is the author of many works.

But now there will be a rush back to town by those who went away, for the earl marshal has sent notifications to those concerned that they must begin forthwith the rehearsals for the coronation ceremony, which will be altered to some extent from the first rehearsed, the pruning knife having been applied to the programme.

There is some talk, however, of cutting down the religious portion of the ceremony. New York, July 21.—British trade unionism has offered a helping hand across the sea to the American mine workers in their fight with the anthracite operators. At the time of the accident the Primus was crossing the river channel at Blankenese from the southern into the northern fairway. According to witnesses aboard the Hansa, the movement was made too precipitately. The Primus struck the tug's engine room, and the Hansa endeavored to push her ashore, but the tug grounded soon and the ships parted. The Primus then sank. In the interval, however, about 50 of her passengers were able to reach the Hansa by means of ropes and ladders. Seventy more were picked up by the tugboats, while others swam ashore. FIFTEEN DROWNED. Kieff, European Russia, July 21 .-

Fiften persons were drowned yesterday by a sudden inrush of water into the basements of various houses in the lower portion of the town. A torrential rain storm, accompanied by violent winds and hail, broke over Kieff during the afternoon and turned the streets into veritable torrents, flooding cellars and drowning occupants before they were able to escape. Large trees were uprooted and railroad embankments were washed away, necessitating the suspension of traffic. Windows were broken by hailstones, which were the size of hazel nuts. Mrs. Sidgwick, who was Miss Eleanor Balfour before her marriage to the famous Cambridge professor, is the lady principal of Newnham College, which was founded by her husband. Lord Rayleigh, next to Lord Kelvin, even "Baby Alice," the new premier's hostess and housekeeper, has shown by her clever book, "Twelve Hundred Miles in a Wagon," that she does not lack the literary tastes and talents of Lady Blanche's children.

A FINELY-MOLDED CHARACTER. Lady Blanche Gascoigne Cecil was

widow at an early age, Lady Blanche devoted herself to the education of her children and the management of the large estate—for the Balfours are wealthy. But the want of a father's authority was never felt by the Balfour family. For Lady Blanche Bal-four's authority in her family and household was unquestioned. She was indeed a woman fully corresponding to Wordsworth's ideal:

"Nobly planned, To warn, to comfort and command." From their first years her children learned of her self-control, and if in public life, they have been commended for this characteristic, they owe it in no small degree to their mother and her training. A woman of strong religious feeling, though of broad views, she each morning gathered her family about her and gave them a Bible lesson. Anxious that each should acquire the power and habit of literary expression, for many years she edited a family newspaper in manuscript,

Mrs. Sidgwick tells a pretty story of the early life of her family. The cotof whom holds a notable position in said of his books that they were strong face, with delicate features, and ton famine in Lancashire during the same wonderful blue eyes that English life and has achieved distinction in more than one field.

But surely and the substance of the husband her father selected for her, James her father selected f to the starving operatives. All agreed enthusiastically. After a few lessons from the retiring cook, Eleanor was installed as chief cook, with Evelyn as first assistant, while the boys were assigned certain duties about the house and garden. The experiment SALADA TEA COMPANY. proved an unbounded success, for besides the practical experience gained, a neat sum was sent to Birmingham as a result of the sacrifice. Expansion of Its Trade in Ceylon Tea Has Been Marvelous---Now Located

The example of a noble mother has been followed in the homes of the children. The daughters are as lovely in their domestic relations as they are brilliant in their intellectual attainments. Mrs. Sidgwick is the idol of the Newnham girls, and Lady Rayleigh the beloved chatelaine of an army of tenants on her husband's great es tates. "No wonder Balfour never married when he has a sister like that to preside over his household," remarked one of Arthur Balfour's political "cronies" after a visit to Whittinghame.

A CHARMING PLACE.

A charming place to visit is Whittinghame. The manor was built in the simple, almost severe, style which prevailed in Scotland early in the last century. But shortly after coming of age and succeeding to the property Mr. Balfour made various changes in the building, and with Grecian pillars, broad bay windows and a terrace with an ornamental balustrade, the house has lost all its original austerity. It has the charm of some of the prettiest scenery in the south of Scotland, the wooded banks of the Firth of Forth on one side, and on the other the picturesque Lamermoor country, familiar to all lovers of Scott. A large park now entirely uninclosed surrounds the house, its entrance marked by two fine stone pillars. The gardens of Whittinghame are celebrated.

ACRES OF FLOWERS.

an acre of beds of flowers, giving constant employment to ten or a dozen skilled gardeners. Everything about the gardens, as in the house, is under Miss Balfour's supervision. She is passionately fond of flowers, while her brother cares absolutely nothing about horticulture, and seldom goes near the gardens. Neither does he ever enter his fine game preserves, which furnish plenty of sport for his guests. Whittinghame possesses two famous trees-one an Australian gum tree planted 70 years ago by the second Lord Salisbury, Mr. Balfour's grandfather, and the other a wonderful old yew under whose spreading branches the conspirators plotted the murder of

DEVOTED TO THE BICYCLE.

Every visitor to Whittinghame remarks upon the two bicycles placed side by side in the hall. Both the master and mistress are devoted to the wheel. Opening off the hall is a large. handsome, but little used, library. Mr. Balfour works altogether in his study. Indeed, most of the time spent indoors is passed here in this characteristic den, where both the "Foundations of Doubt" were written. The Island of Ceylon produced black tea exclusively, and its product could, therefore, practically compete only with the black tea trade Upon the initiative of the Salada Tea Company the Tea Planters' Association of the Island of Ceylon interested themselves in experiments in producing green tea, with such great success that they have been enabled to produce a green tea that is as much superior to the green teas of Japan as their black teas have been to the black teas of China. I am of the opinion, from what I have already learned, that it is our inability to handle the freight that has sent it through American channels. This I hope to change so that in a few years Canadian shippers can patronize the vessels and railways of their own country, to the advantage of all con-

I am looking further, as I think that in a short time we will be able to compete in the European markets with our American friends in the way of shipping goods. According to my calculations this trade will naturally come to us when we can handle it, and I have been devoting a great amount of time to the subject for the past four years. There is a vast trade bound to be carried on between the American continent and Europe, and if we can secure a portion of the carrying of this trade, it will be for the benefit of every person in the country.

The French-Canadians.

The Toronto World thinks that "in the meantime there is no reason why the province of Newfoundland should not be added at once to the Dominion." But there is a reason, and a very serious reason. The French shore complication still exists, and we do not think it would be wise for Canada to take that over so long as this country is governed by people whose hearts are governed by people whose hearts are in France.—Hamilton Spectator.

One of the reasons why it would be advisable to have the French shore' question eliminated before Newfound- Mr. Whitney at Holland's Landing. land entered confederation is the at- The people have settled down to the titude of journals like the Spectator. The notion of a change of political allegiance nevers enters the mind of the average French-Canadian; all his affections are centered in Canada. It was the people of Quebec who saved Canada for the British Crown by refusing to join the American revolu-tionists, although the French allies of the thirteen colonies appealed to their years, Oi'm thinkin'. instincts of race. It was the French-Canadians again, who prevented Quebec from being overrun by the enemy in the war of 1812. Cartier and Lafontaine did great work for British parliamentary institutions, and we know what Laurier has done in our own day, to make this a united country and strengthen its attachment to British ideals of government. The French-Canadians can point to history for their vindication, and it is a poor kind of Canadianism which asperses such Canadianism as theirs has been.

An Energetic Minister.

While other cabinet ministers are enjoying a well-earned holiday, Mr. Tarte is touring the inland waterways, and inspecting American and Canadian ports. Mr. Tarte's master passion is transportation. He has unbounded faith in Canadian waterways. and his dream is to see the oceanbound commerce from the west diverted to the St. Lawrence route, with Montreal as the great national port. His enthusiasm has carried him so far as to lend support to the Georgian Bay Canal scheme, but he admits the country is not prepared for the outlay, and is concentrating his energies on the improvement of the present canal system, of the St. Lawrence channel and of the harbors. He is especially engaged during his present tour in examining the dock facilities at the American ports, and no doubt the Canadian points of trans-shipment will get the benefit of the data he has gathered. Transportation is Canada's greatest practical problem at the present day and it is fortunate the minister of public works is so deeply interested in it and combines with this interest, a rare energy and practical ability. It was this official zeal and the desire to study everything at first hand that took him on a canoe trip down the French River last summer, to look into the possibilities of the canal scheme. Mr. Tarte's gluttony for work amounts almost to a defect, as he is apt to overtax his strength, and his health is none too robust. He should let the steam out of the boiler once in a while.

The British Cotton Industry

The increasing alarm of the Lancashire cotton manufacturers and their desire to secure other sources of supply than America for their raw material are easily accounted for. The American supply is a diminishing quantity, for the reason that an increasing proportion of the American crop is required for home manufacture. The cotton crop of the Southern States this year is 10,000,000 bales, of which 40 per cent, or 4,156,000 bales, is retained for American consumption. It is also interesting to note that the cotton industry of the Southern States is fast overtaking the Northern. This year the Southern mills will take 1,865,-000 bales and the Northern mills 2,290,-000 bales, the proportions seven years ago being 852,000 and 2,019,000 bales respectively. The same tendency of the cotton factory to seek the cotton field is seen in India, which has now become a serious rival of Lancashire, as a seat of cotton manufactures. Cotton factories are also springing up in Egypt. It will be a marvel if Lancashire, thousands of miles from the source of supply, can long hold the supremacy which it has always enjoyed since the rise of the factory system. The Canadian cotton manufacturers are clamoring for higher protection against English cottons, and Australia's policy is to foster home industry, so that the idea of an Imperial preference holds out little hope for the Lancashire interests. But British industry has falsified The Leading Medium for Advertisers every prediction of ruin, and though a few lines, cotton among them, are now depressed, the present is a time of great prosperity on the whole for Great Britain. The cotton manufacturers are bestirring themselves, and are seeking to extend the area of cotton cultivation within the British Empire. so as to be less dependent on the failing American supply. With their present lead, with the advantage of buying everything in the cheapest markets, and with the accumulation of generations of experience, they should be able to hold their own in the neutral markets of the world, even if they lose their relative position.

Ontario Politics.

The midsummer calm which has settled over Ontario politics remains undisturbed by the wind-jamming of belief that the affairs of this province ning along nicely, New Ontario is booming, settlers are pouring into support of the House and the country.

To the cottage and the castle
The Scottish pipes are dear—
Sweet sounds the ancient pibroch
O'er mountain, loch and glade;
But the sweetest of all music
The pipes at Lucknow played.

Louder, nearer, fierce as vengeance.
Sharp and shrili as sword at strife
Came the wild MacGregor's clan-call,
Stinging all the air to life.
But when the far-off dust cloud
To plaided legions grew,
Full tenderly and blithesomely
The pipes of recue blew! Day by day the Indian tiger Louder yelled, and nearer crept;
Round and round the jungle-serpent Near and nearer circles swept "Pray for rescue, wives and mothers—
Pray today!" the soldier said;
"Tomorrow, death's between us
And the wrong and shame we dread."

Oh, they listened, looked and waited
Till their hope became despair.
And the sobs of low bewailing
Filled the pauses of their prayer.
Then up spake a Scottish maiden,
With her ear unto the ground:
"Dinna ye hear it?—dinna ye hear it?
The pipes o' Havelock sound!"

Hushed the wounded man his groaning; Hushed the wife her little ones;
Alone they heard the drum-roll
And the road of Sepoy guns.
But to sounds of home and childhood But to sounds of home and child The Highland ear was true— As her mother's cradle—crooning The mountain pipes she knew.

Round the silver domes of Lucknow,
Moslem mosque and Pagan shrine,
Breathed the air to Britons dearest,
The air of Auld Lang Syne.
O'er the cruel roll of war drums
Rose the sweet and home-like strain:
And the tartan clove the turban,
As the Gomtee cleaves the plain.

The piping of the clans!"

Dear to the corn-land reaper
And plaided mountaineer—
To the cottage and the castle
The piper's song is dear.
Sweet sounds the Gaelic pibroch
O'er mountain, glen and glade;
But the sweetest of all music
The pipes at Lucknow played.

DEATH OF JOHN W. MACKAY

Last Surviving Member of Four Bonanza Kings.

Rose From the Position of Day Laborer to Millionaire.

San Francisco, July 20.—The news of the death of John W. Mackay in Lon-don, caused quite a shock here not-withstanding the public was in a measure prepared for it by the pre-vious announcement of his illness. Mr. Mackay was the last surviving member if the four bonanza kings, Flood, O'Brien, Fair, the other three, having ong since died.

For the past eighteen yet idenMackay had not been actively identified with the life of this city, but had passed most of his life in the east, making annual visits to the coast to London. For the past eighteen years Mr. early this summer, Mr. Mackay com-pleted arrangements for a landing place for the new Pacific cable, a project that he was much interested in.

During a visit in 1892 Mr. Mackay was shot and slightly wounded by W. D. Ripley, who had a fancied griev-ance against him, dating from the stock broking days of the Comstock. WIELDED A PICK.

Mr. Mackay came to California in 1851 via Panama. He at once entered a mine, working with pick and shovel in the placers of the American River and at Downieville. In 1859 he went to Virginia City, Nev., and began mining on the Comstock with varying ing. success. His first real start towards success was made when he became superintendent of the Kentucky mine in Gold Hill. In 1863 Mackay formed a partnership with Flood, O'Brien and In 1871 this famous mining quartet purchased the site of the Bo-nanza territory north of the Ophir on the celebrated Comstock

They began work on a lode abandoned by Sharon and other large operators. The enterprise was a fruitful source of ridicule in mining circles, nothing but financial diseaster being freely predicted. Without losing heart or patience the four men continued, expending half a million dollars in prospecting operations. The ledge was struck and over $110,000,000 were added to the world's stock of precious metals. No accurate estimate of Mr. Mackay's holdings in this state and Nevada can be made, but it will run up into the millions. He was the owner of valuable real estate in this city and had interests in throughout the state and Nevada.

A DUBLIN MAN. Mr. Mackay was born in Dublin, November 28, 1831. With his parents he came to New York in 1840, and he was among the first to start for California when the discovery of gold was made which caused so much excitement in the late forties. His money did not come from speculation, water-ed stocks nor gambling, but after years of hard service. He began work with a pick and rose because of his ability and industry to the position of superintendent of several mines and then to the owership. After his op-erations in Nevada he was given the title of "Bonanza King," which clung to him through life. Later he became interested in the telegraph business and through this means added to his immense wealth.

Two Brothers Drowned.

Chicago, July 21.—By jumping into the Calumet River to escape an explosion which they feared would follow the break of a gasoline tank on their launch, Charles Kenny and his brother Duffy were drowned last night. Companions attempted to rescue the two men, but the current of the swollen stream baffled their efforts, and the bodies of the brothers were swiftly carried down the river and out of sight. The accident occurred at One Hundred and Forty-first street, and was caused by a projecting edge of the gasoline tank coming in contact with an abutment of a bridge.

which were so severe that he was almost laid up.
Plasters, oils and liniments on the outside and doses of all kinds taken internally, seemed to have no good result. Several doctors tried to cure him, but failed. He says:

ESSEX FARMERS LOOK BLUE

Rains Have Ruined Crops-Fruit Raisers Are in Luck.

Windsor, July 21. - Essex county farmers who came to Windsor Saturday say that, owing to the continued wet weather, they will be unable to realize sufficient from their crops to pay for the seed and cultivation. The hay crop is almost a total failure, as it was impossible to cut and cure it properly. The fall wheat also suffered, as the straw became rusted from the dampness of the atmosphera and the grain did not head out prop-

Corn will be less than half a crop. Only farmers having their ground properly underdrained will have even fair crop. The potatoes have suffered along with the other crops, and in many cases the farmers plowed under the first crop and planted new seed, but without securing any better results. Potatoes on Saturday sold on the market at $1 a bushel, and if the weather does not clear up it will not be many weeks before the crop of new potatoes in the county will be used and the dealers will have to import their supply. Many kinds of vegetables are included in the list of products ruinboarded, all of which were sold except 75; 995 were white, 1,202 colored and 49 American; the Canadian sold at 9%c and ed by the rain, and the garden farmers will have hard work breaking even on the year's crop.

Those who are lucky enough to own fruit orchards will be better off than others, as there promises to be an abundance of peaches, pears and grapes all over the country. Oats have been damaged to any extent by the rains, but the straw is long and rank, and as the grain is now heading, sunshine is needed to fill out the heads and ripen the grain.

The men went into a bottling establishment and took a drink of brandy. Ormrod immediately became ill, and died a short time later in convulsions. Leekan was also seized with convulsions, and the physicians have little hope of saving his life. It is believed that some person put strychnine into the brandy, and an analysis is now being made.

DROWNED AT DUNNVILLE. Buffalo, N. Y., July 21. — Samuel Evans, a well-known Buffalo business man, was drowned Saturday afternoon at Dunnville, Ont., while swimming in the river. Mr. Evans was one of a party of Buffalonians who went to Dunnville on a little fishing trip. Mr. Evans and a friend named Sunderman went for a swim. Almost immediately after striking the water they started to swim across the river. Mr. Sunderman was a few feet ahead of Evans, and had already reached the other side, when a man on the bank yelled to him, "Your partner is sinking." Sun-derman immediately turned and looked behind, but Evans was nowhere in sight. He had sunk suddenly and without giving any warning. Samuel Evans was 36 years old and was born in England. He was a member of the Buffalo Gymnasium, and at one time was a member of the Buffalo Ramblers' Bicycle Club.

Have to Capitulate or Litigate—The Mayor's Trip.

Tonight's session of the city council will be an important one, as it is expected to bring to a focus the longdiscussed street railway dispute.

It will be remembered that at the last meeting of the council the select committee which had previously been ineffectually conferring with Manager Carr, was empowered to meet the city solicitor and have him prepare a new bylaw. This bylaw will come before the council tonight, unless in the meantime the company, seeing that the aidermen mean business, capitulate to an extent deemed reasonable by them.

Otherwise, it looks as if the new bylaw will pass. It, of course, does not refer to Rectory street, as the Rectory street line is a portion of the system, as it is now. The new one is a compulsory bylaw, touching only upon the extensions that the city claims it is entitled to-the South street line, and the extension on the Hamilton road. Such England in the morning.

Street Railway Company May a bylaw requires a two-thirds vote of the council, and, once passed, gives the company a year in which to do the work. Several of the aldermen were at the city hall today discussing the situa-tion, and, from their expressions of opinion, seemed to see nothing before the company but capitulation or liti-gation. The company may choose to fight the case in the courts, in the belief that the city is not entitled to what it demands. On the other hand, the aldermen say that the city solicitor claims the city has a right to the ex-tensions asked. They say that they have tried every means to get an ad-justment of the existing difficulties, and that public opinion demands a continuance of the course they have taken. The mayor hopes that the matter will be settled one way or the other to-night. He wants to leave for England tomorrow, and would like to see things ship-shape before he goes. They do say that his worship has had passages

The child was asleep on the floor, when a rat attacked her, biting off her little finger and badly chewing her nose. Blood-poisoning was feared at first, but it is now likely this can be avoided. The shock to the little one's nerves has been severe, and it is doubtful whether she will ever fully outgrow the effect of the scare.

A MARVELOUS ILLUSTRATION

Of the Solidity of British Institutions.

THE SHIP OF STATE GLIDES ON

Change of Captains Created Scarcely a Ripple-Personality Counts But Little.

London, July 21. - It is impossible to withhold just at the present moment some expression of admiration of the wonderful solidity of British institutions. The Spectator describes exactly the situation when it says:

"Almost in silence, without a jar, with an uproar in parliament, and no popular demonstration, the command of that huge bark, the British Empire, has been transferred from one hand to another. The ship moves on undisturbed. The crew are all at their stations: there is no sign of alarm, no thought that the course should be altered, the speed decreased, or the destination changed. It is a marvelous testimony to the order which reigns on board, and all the more so because the captain who has disappeared was no more than a figurehead. PERSONALITY DOESN'T COUNT. Nothing could be more impressive than the circumstances of Lord Salisbury's retirement as prime minister, and demonstrated how little personality counts in the operation of the greatest machine for human government which the world has known. The Spectator's metaphor is much truer than the short-sighted view taken by the Saturday Review when it

"The declaration of peace and the ilness of the King seem to have exhausted the nation's capacity for emotion. Nothing else can explain the indifference with which the momentous changes of the last week have been received by the public.
"Now that the war is over and the coronation has not come off, what can it matter who is the prime minister or hancellor of the excheque. It is apparently the people's mood. It is childish enough, no doubt, and is parentle amongst the hancellor of the exchequer? This is ticularly conspicuous amongst business section of the community. LITTLE EFFECT ON BUSINESS.

"The news that the King had undergone an operation sent funds down three - quarters per cent. The an-nouncement that the Marquis of Salisbury had retired as prime minister and that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach would do likewise as chancellor of the xchequer in a few weeks was actually followed by a rise in the commercial barometer, as if some incubus had been removed. Yet, of course, the sovereign had nothing to do with the government, while the prime minister and the chancellor of the exchequer fill two of the most important posts in the ministry."

The fact is simply that, especially in times of peace, the coming or going of any man is the merest trifle in effect on the welfare of the British sonal interest to the individuals con-

The public at large certainly is interested, but there is not a single political principle involved and popular feeling is confined to curiosity in regard to the qualification of individual ambitions. The lack of agreement on almost every point on the question of the reconstruction of the cabinet is pretty good proof of the unreliability of all these rumors.

CHAMBERLAIN AND BALFOUR. It is necessary to repeat what has been clearly set forth in the dispatches heretofore, that there is not the slight-est friction between Mr. Chamberlain and Prime Minister Balfour. The closest personal friendship has long existed between these two men, whose dissimilarities of temperament and methods seem to form a basis of mutual sympathy and attraction.

MRS. LATIMER'S LOVE

It seemed to take a long time, and indeed all bandaging is a process requiring patience and dexterity. Lord Holyhead thought that was a very artless, pleasing face that looked up so kindly in his own, and "noped it didn't hurt him"; also that a man might have a worse attendant, if he was really in a bad way, than a fresh-hearted, goodnatured girl, helpful and unaffected, and comely, too, besides. It came across him more than once, as he rode back into London, how neatly she had bandaged him up, how prettily she had behaved, how "that daughter of Jones" was a deuced nice girl."

What Bella thought, I cannot take upon myself to say. She certainly did not scold the parrot for his outbreak, but rather caressed and coaxed him, venturing her own pretty fingers without compunction; but Bella had a good many other matter just then to distract her attention from Polly and his misdemeanors.

She was no blinder than the rest of her meanors.

She was no blinder than the rest of her Sex. What physical powers of vision are theirs as compared to ours! Muffle up the keenest-eyed detective of the force, in a widow's bonnet with a double crape in a widow's bonnet with a dout like an well, and he will blunder about like an owl in the daylight; but watch the bereaved one herself in the same head dress, her eyesight seems to be rather timulated than impaired by that impervious material, and she is as well aware and a serious material, and she is as well aware the serious material. vious material, and she is as well aware of your glances of curiosity, perhaps admiration, as though her brow were bared in shameless defiance, rather than masked in the dense draperies of insidious design. Their moral sense is equally acute. Try to deceive a woman about your feelings, your likes and dislikes, your little prejudices and foolish whims. She looks through you at a plance. She detects your secret ere you have hardly told it to yourself; well for you if she do not abuse her power, and make it public to the whole circle of her acquaintance. Therefore it is a wholesome maxim to have no secrets from a woman; or if the former be indispensable, to determine that the latter is not. Bella know there was something wrong; so she counter-ordered the carriage and stated all the morning, resolved to have she counter-ordered the carriage and waited all the morning, resolved to have some explanation before Mr. Gordon went. It would be so much easier, she thought, to ask him than papa; and Mr. Gordon, of course, would satisfy her curiosity; he was so frank and honest, and always so kind to her. Nothing could be easier than to get it all out of the counter of the course.

could be easier than to get it all out of John Gordon. Luncheon was announced and suffered to get cold. What a long confabulation that seemed to be in papa's room! Would It never be over? At last a door opened, ominous sound to nerves strained with expectation; a footstep crossed the hall toward the drawing-room. John Gordon entered with his usual cold and unem-

It did not seem half so easy to crossquestion him now.

Bella rose from her chair, felt her knees trembling, and sat down again.

John stood Anglice with his back to the important subject in the most indifferent tones.

"Miss Bella Jones." he began, "is there now. anything I can do for you at Sydney?"

I don't believe she knew where Sydney was. From his manner she might have inferred it was a little farther off than Regent street.

"At Sydney!" she gasped. "What! are you going a way?" I don't understand."

won't take long to settle. What shall I bring you back? A couple of kangaroos would be very nice pets. I shall be home in a year, or eighteen months at the farthest."

A year or eighteen months! And Bella was barely twenty. It seemed a lifetime. She snatched up some needlework, and stooped busily over it to conceal the sily over it to conceal the were falling thick and fast upon her hands. John observed rate, he thought it advisable to place it on some other score than his own departure; so he resumed his conversation in a kind and brotherly tone.

Your father's business has been much neglected in Australia. It is possible that everything might be lost in consequence of a failure there," (John had a discretionary power from the alderman, who dreaded breaking the matter to his daughter himself) "Some one who is intimately acquainted with our affairs should be on the spot; and that is why I am going over at such our affairs should be on the spot; and that is why I am going over at such short notice. If worst comes to worst. Bella," he added, taking her hand, "there will still be enough saved to live upon; and you will have your father left. You don't know how fond he is of you Bella."

The tears were falling unconcealed your Mingled feelings were forcing them The tears were falling unconcealed now. Mingled feelings were forcing them to her eyes. She loved her father very dearly; and it was dreadful to hear worldly ruin thus spoken of as no improbable contingency. How touching, too, was John Gordon's sympathy and brotherly kindness; he had never spoken to her in such a tone as this before; and to her in such a tone as this before; and yet her woman's instinct told her that it was a tone of protection rather than attachment; that it was not thus he would have alluded to his departure had he been exactly what she wished. What did she wish him to do? Poor girl! she hardly knew herself, and, having no more pertinent remark to make only more pertinent remark to make, only sobbed out:

Such a long way off!-such a long ohn Gordon was not easily softened He was sorry for her; but that was all. "Bella," said he, still retaining her hand, "you have a duty to perform. We have all our different tasks in a difficulty like the present. Yours is to comfort your father, to keep up his spirits and attend to his health. Mine is to lose no attend to his health. Mine is to lose no time in making preparations. I shall scarcely be able to see you again. God bless you. Bella, and good-bye!"

They were cold words, though they were so kind. In honest truth, they were kinder for being cold, but each by each sank very chill upon the girl's heart. Yet, even then, her thoughts were less for her own disappointment and loneliness than for his coming voyage. She seized his hand in both of hers and pressseized his hand in both of hers and pressed it affectionately.
"Good-bye," she said, looking up with a face all blurred with tears. "You'll sail a lace an ordered with tears. "You'll sail in a safe ship; and promise me. Mr.

Gordon, promise me, you won't go without a lifebelt!"

John could not forbear a smile. One "good-bye." one more tight clasp hand, and he was gone. Then the alderman came in, and Bella Then the alderman came in, and Bella had her cry out comfortably, sitting on her old father's knee, and leaning her forehead against his shoulder. To him it was an immense comfort that he could talk matters over with his child; that there was no longer any concealment between them; and that new, even if the blow did fall, it would not fall unexpectedly upon Bella. It strange how the old dread worldly ruin for their children far more than for themselves; that though they have lived long enough to dren far more than for themselves; that though they have lived long enough to learn the low value of rents and consols as promoters of happiness; though they have discovered that "hon eher neque aurum," overlaying the roof of a palace, is to be compared to the humble heart's-ease that can flourish well enough beneath the bottage wall; though they have seen the rich weary and dissatisfied, the poor hopeful and entented; they should still covet for their dearest that which they are too well aware has never profited themselves. The alderman that which they are too well aware has never profited themselves. The alderman could have lived on two hundred a year in perfect comfort for his own part, but he had dreaded breaking to Bella that they might have to manage between them on something less than thrice that income. Now they could talk it over unrestrained. Now he could tell her of Lord Holyhead's magnanimity, and John Gordon's good management, and the business, and the losses, and their past mistakes, and their prospects for the Rain Plays Havoc With Many Sporting Events-Saturday on the Ria Race Tracks.

Tomorrow afternoon the annual tournament of the Western Ontario Bowling Association will open on the green at the London Rowing Club. Never in the history of the local club has greater interest been manifested in the opproach of the event. This yearly gath. ering of devotees of the "ancient and gentle pastime" is an event of some importance. Whatever the cause there exists, a bond of sympathy between men who frequent the bowling green, a brotherhood that flourishes without the aid of mystic symbols. That is and sprained his shoulder and had to to say, if the weather permits-do not let us forget the weather. The green is already pretty thoroughly soaked, and if the rains should continue tonight, it is possible the opening will have to be postponed.

Just why the Paris lacrosse team failed to come to London Saturday is not altogether clear. It has been given out that the weather frightened the Parisians, and that they wired the London club that unless their presence was urgently required, they would prefer to take tea at home. Considering the condition of Tecumseh Park it is probably just as well that they did not come, and yet there have been lacrosse matches played in the rain before is in condition.

Manager Dale Gear, of Kansas City, has released Pitcher "Monk" Foreman in Milwaukee, after having given the veteran a fair chance to make good, "At Sydney!" she gasped. "What! are you going away? I don't understand."

Cornwall, July 21.-The senior championship lacrosse game here Saturday resulted in a splendid game and clever victory for the Torontos, who Burns, Dixon, Adamson and Stollery, showed wonderful activity around the great surprise, as Cornwalls are considered invincible on their own and the Queen City team won the deciding goal just before time expired. The match was clean throughout, only one man being ruled off, McMillan, of Cornwall. The early stages of the match were easy going and listless, but both teams played like demons towards the final. The reason for the discontinuance of the Detroit Derby this year is the fact that the meeting comes-later than usual this season, when all the 3-year-olds are tired out, and Secretary Parmer substituted a condition race which will bring winners and losers together on something like an equitable basis. The result is that there is a prospect of a big field, bigger in fact than has ever gone to the post in

AT WASHINGTON PARK.

Chicago, July 21.—Flying Torpedo, with the impost of 110 pounds, won the Wheeler handicap Saturday afternoon at Washington Park. Next came the 3-year-old Lucien Appleby, and then Wild Pirate, as winner of third money. The finish was not as exciting as those who came out to see the final great fixture of the Washington Park meeting would have wished. Flying Torpedo and Lucien Appleby had a fairly good finish through the stretch, but the older horse was a half length in front when the winning line was passed and going easily. Wild Pirate was several lengths back. Otis, the pacemaker in the American Derby, proved the pacemaker in this event, and he came down past the stand the first time a length in front of Odnor, who was an added starter to the race. Odnor led Wild Pirate by a length at this point with the remainder of the field, headed by Aladdin, close up. At the half-mile pole Otis still led, but Flying Torpedo was only half a length away and he passed the youngster before the turn for home was reached, and then came away. In the stretch Lucien Appleby made one of his famous charges, and soon he and Flying Torpedo were far in front of the others and began a battle to the wire, which resulted in the success of the older horse. Wyeth, the Derby winner, finished back in the middle of the trailing field.

The other stake feature of the afternoon was the Lakeview handicap for 2-year-olds over the 6-furlongs course. Only seven of the original field went to the post, and the winner turned up in J. W. Schorr's Gold Bell, it being the only stake won during the meeting by the Memphis horseman, who has been so successful in former years. kin's Overton finished second and Tom pacemaker and turned into the stretch

There is no denying the fact that Fitz is a great hitter, but the fact that Jeffries is equally as hard a slugger, if not even a harder one, must not be overlooked, says the Buffalo Times. No one has ever stood up after Jeffries landed on him, but so much cannot be said of Fitz. He swung with all his might on Jeffries when they fought for the championship the last time, the blow catching Jeff on the head. It never caused him the slightest trouble, however. But when Jeff swung his right on Fitz's temple he went down and out. > Joe Choynski, the blonde Californian heavyweight, is opposed to having people refer to him as the "old man." Choynski says that he is far from being an old man and that the reason so many persons have this impression is owing to the fact that he has been in the boxing game ever since he was 14 years old.

> He has, therefore, been fighting for the past nineteen years. He was champion of the Pacific coast when he 17 years of age. Since that time he has fought every boxer of any note who ever put on a glove, says a writer in the New York Journal. In an interesting interview the other day Choynski said:

"Do you know why so many people call me the old war horse? Well, I have been boxing since I was 14 years of age, and as I am not 33 you can see that the public naturally has an impression that I am an old man. I am still as good as ever as far as training and fighting are concerned, but when I issue a challenge to fight one of the big fellows the cry is at once set up that I am too old. Thirteen Lives Lost in Baitimore City and Harbor.

MANY BUILDINGS WRECKED

Eleven Persons Drowned-Others Killed by Falling Trees and Prostrate Wires.

Baltimore, July 20 .- A flerce tornado accompanied by thunder, vivid lightning and a heavy rain, suddenly burst upon Baltimore at 1:30 p.m. today, coming from the southwest. Eleven persons lost their lives, hundreds of houses were unroofed, trees in the public parks and streets were torn up by the roots, many buildings were damaged and several people injured. The storm exhausted its fury in less than 15 minutes.

The damage done in the business part of the city was comparatively slight. It was in the residence portions of the city, along the river front and in the harbor, where the wind spent its violence. Of those who perished nine were drowned in the bor from open boats, one was killed by a falling tree and one by a live wire. The following is a list of

THE KILLED.

Drowned in the harbor: Roy Pateman, 21 years old; Joseph Cain, 10 years old; John Cain, John Carroll, 21 years old; Harry McCormick, 19 years old; Mrs. Mary Schuler, 28 years old; Harry S. Schuler, 10 months old; Olive Schuler, 4 years old; Chas. Schuler, 7 year old. Killed by falling tree, Wm. Cornish (colored)

Killed by live wire, Chas. Schefer. The three first victims on the above list were out in a rowboat on the river with three other companions. When the storm broke the boat was capsized.

PATHETIC INCIDENT.

The drowning of Mrs. Schuler and her children was the most pathetic incident of the hurricane. Michael Schuler, with his wife and three children, accompanied by his brotherin-law, Jos. Cooper, and his wife, had gone out into the harbor for a sail. When the storm came Schuler and Cooper took in the sail. Schuler sent his wife and children into the little A sudden gust of wind threw the boom of the vessel around, knocked Schuler down and pinned him to the deck. Another gust capsized the boat, releasing Schuler, who, with Cooper and his wife, were thrown into water, leaving Mrs. Schuler and her children pinned in the cabin. Cooper saved himself and his wife by hang-ing to the bottom of the overturned boat, and Schuler saved himself in the same way, after making frantic efforts to get at his imprisoned wife and

KILLED AT CAMP MEETING. A colored camp meeting was in progress in Paradise Grove, near Powhattan. A huge oak tree fell upon the tent. Several of the worshippers were caught beneath it as it fell, and William Cornish was crushed to death The others were not seriously injured. The Sea Catholic Church, in South Baltimore, was damaged to the amount of $7,000. At the foot of Concord street the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation Company warehouse was unroofed, with small damage to the building, but the rain poured in on the valuable cargo stored therein, doing damage which is estimated at from $100,000 to $300,000. The gas reservoir, in South Baltimore, containing 300,000 feet of gas, was blown over, the gas exploding without injuring anyone, the damage being placed at $15,000. The damage to the shipping in the harbor was general, but not of a serious nature. The weather bureau here that it was more in the nature of a whirlwind than a tornado. The wind blew at the rate of 64 miles an hour. and the rainfall was 56-100ths of an inch. Reports from outlying districts are meager, but so far as known the storm was confined to Baltimore and suburbs.

MORE CASUALTIES.

At Tolchester, Md., James B. Pose, aged 20, and Theodore C. Parker, 21 years old, of Baltimore, who were on an excursion, were drowned today. They, with four companions, were rowing in the bay. A wind squall overturned the boat. The others were rescued.

THANKS TO L. O. L., NO. 152. L. O. L., No. 152, of Dorchester, at a recent meeting passed the following resolution: "That the thanks of this lodge and its sympathizers is due the G. T. R. and its officials for the very efficient service they rendered to the excursionists to and from Tilsonburg, on July 12, and we would specially emphasize in this our expression of gratitude the kind and generous treatment accorded us by the employes who had the train in charge."

The annual excursion of the employes of the McCormick Manufacturing Company and the D. S. Perrin Company took place Saturday to Port Stanley. The enjoyment of the occasion was greatly marred by the wet weather, but nevertheless the large crowds who took advantage of the exursion managed to squeeze some enoyment out of the trip. The picnickrs took a philosophical view of the situation, and cheered themselves with the thought of the worse plight of the Niagara Falls excursionists. DIED ON SUNDAY.

A FAMILY OF FOUR PERISHED

Their House Swept Over a Bluff and Dashed Into a Ravine-Great Damage Done.

Binghamton, N. Y., July 20 .- The neavy rains which have prevailed in this city for the past few days reached a climax last night, when three cloudbursts occurred within the limits of Broome County alone, and several in the surrounding territory to the northward, breaking mill dams, washing out railway tracks and highway bridges, and doing much minor damage, as well as delaying trains. As a result of the water's mad work, four were killed and two seriously injured, and $200,000 monetary damage has been done. The dead-James Cook, drowned at Afton, Chenango County; Mrs. James Cook, wife of the above; the 6-monthsold child of Mr. and Mrs. Cook; Michael J. Ryan, of this city, killed in washout cloudburst occurred in the town of Coventry, on the watershed drained by Bump Creek. The downpour soon sent this creek out of bounds. The mill dam of I. W. Seeley's mill, two miles west of Afton, went out, carrying with it a great quantity of laths, sawlogs and sawed timber to the Chenango River, two miles below. The water from the liberated mill pond rushed down the narrow valley in and an old furniture factory, located the kind of work, wages and arrangeabout a mile above Afton, stood on the ments for transportation. water. The bodies of the Cook family were found today a mile below the scene of the flood.

The railway men mentioned in the list above were on train No. 91, of the Delaware and Hudson River, which ran into a large washout two miles this side of Harpersville, about 11 o'clock Sunday night. The train, a heavy freight, rolled down a 30-foot embankment.

STORM IN CLINTON. Plattsburg, N. Y., July 19 .- A tornado swept over Moffatsville, a small village near Dannemora, in Clinton County, wrecking G. G. Goodale's starch factory, Henry Duncan's carding mill, the Chateaugay Ore and Iron Company's sawmill, Joseph Bathler's blacksmith shop, and the offices of the Russia Cash Store, and damaging the highway bridge and unroofing numerous barns and dwellings. Pedestrians could not stand during the storm, and the roofs of some of the buildings were carried an eighth of a mile. The storm also destroyed the fine cottage owned by Frank Sawyer, of Chicago, located near the Seth Thomas cottage, on Upper Chateaugay Lake, severely injuring one man. FEED THE CHILDREN

People with weak children should look to food for making the youngsters stout and hearty. Scientific selection of food is the true way to health. A mother speaks of her experience in feeding children. She says, "About two years ago our little 2-year-old Isabella was taken with stomach and bowel trouble. She was so low at times that we despaired of her ever recovering.

She could not digest the lightest kind of food. She lingered along from August to November in that condition when quantities three times a day. I poured boiling water over them and let them stand five minutes to soften, then added sweet cream and a very little su-

COAL MINERS' CONVENTION OPPOSED TO GENERAL STRIKE

The Working Members As| ly established in a great majority of the United the bituminous fields of the United sessed Ten Per Cent.

AGREEMENT WAS UNANIMOUS

Statement of the Miners' Side-An Appeal Made to the American Public for Support.

Indianapolis, July 19. - At 1 o'clock this afternoon the convention of the United Mine Workers adjourned after declaring against a general strike, providing for the raising of a fund with which to aid the striking anthracite miners, and issuing an appeal to the American people for support:

The recommendations unanimously adopted by the convention are:
1. That the national treasurer be authorized and directed to immediately appropriate $50,000 from the funds of the national treasury and place it at the disposal of the officers of the dis-tricts Nos. 1, 7 and 5. (These are the

2. That all districts, sub-districts and local unions be appealed to, to donate place. from the surplus in their treasury as large amounts as they can afford. 3. That an assessment of 10 per cent be levied on the gross earnings of all members of local unions in districts Nos. 6, 8, 12, 19, 23 and 25, and an assessment of $1 per week on all members of local unions in districts Nos. 2, 5, 11, 13, 14, 15, 20 and 21. The members of districts now on strike, which may resume work before this assessment has been removed, shall be assessed either 10 per cent of their gross earnings or $1 per week, whichever the district may decide, from the time that work is resumed. 4. The assessment shall be paid direct from the local unions to the national secretary and the local unions will be held responsible for the payment of the 5. An assessment of 25 per cent. will be levied upon the wages, salary or percentage received from the organization of all national, district and subdistrict officers and organizers. 6. The assessment shall begin on 16, 1902. All contributions made from the 7. All contributions made from the national office to the anthracite region will be divided pro rata to each anthracite district in accordance with the number of miners and mine laborers in each of them, as shown by the most recent coal reports.

8. That the following circular be issued to the American people. (This circular is printed below.) The following amendment, submitted by President Nichols, of anthracite district No. 1, was included: "That each local union in the regions that are at work select a committee which shall secure work for as many of the men on strike as possible and the locality where the local union is situated, and that the local unions inform secretaries of the strike disa wall ten feet deep. > same proposition be submitted to all local unions in the American Federa-9. That the circular to our local unions shall include a recommendation that committees be appointed to canvass the business men and other citizens of their localities for subscriptions. APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC. The address to the public is, in chief, as follows: "We, the representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, in convention assembled, fully appreciating the great responsibility we owe to our constituents and the vast community of which we are a part, hereby state, for the information of all who desire to know, the line of action we have determined to pursue in the present crisis of our affairs, and the reasons that have impelled us to this decision.

"As miners of coal, we view with the exalted pride of a parent, the wonderful industrial development of the past fifteen decades, with all the attending influences upon the civilization of the present, which it has pro-

"But when we look upon the enormous fortunes that our labor has made possible, with the innumerbrings to the people at large, and then examine wages for the labor we have to perform, the dangers we undergo, the dampness we must endure, the foul air we must breathe and the peculiar rheumatic and lung troubles superinduced by these conditions which we must bear, we naturally feel that we are being unjustly dealt with, in the small amount of this world's every delegate being on his feet. goods which we receive in return for so much labor and so many sacrifices.

UNIONS ARE NECESSARY. "The great combinations of capital which control the coal industry have become so powerful that no miner can hope, through his individual efforts. to secure a just share of the wealth which his labor his produced. The history of industrial development in the past has shown that when capital combines, the workers must associate, else they fall, one by one, un-pitied, sacrifice in the struggle for existence. For many years the coal miners of America have been imbued with the truth of this position "The extremely low wages paid to anthracite miners, the refusal of the coal companies to have the coal properly weighed, or permit the miners to see the coal they have mined weighed, measured or credited; the great number of hours the miners must work each day in the most unsanitary conditions; the cruel and unjust manner in which they have been treated by petty bosses, clothed with a little brief authority; the arbitrary assumption by the employers that neither the miners nor the public has any rights that are entitled to consideration by them, have forced us to organize, not for the purpose of taking from the operators that which belongs to them, but for the purpose of securing, by business methods, better treatment than we have received in the past and fair recompense for our labor.

STRIKES A LAST RESORT. "We have sought to accomplish this end by conciliatory methods, by submitting disputed points to arbitration and by a refusal to work upon the terms offered us, commonly spoken of of have failed. As proof of our sincerity, we point to the joint convention system of adjusting the wages and conditions of employment from year to year, which we have, by our persistent efforts, introduced and firm-

States.

"For five years we have annually made contracts in this manner with many of the bituminous coal operators, and notwithstanding the allegations that are persistently made that we are that while it may have of the fact that, while it may have been to our financial interests on many occasions to cast them aside, and we were under no legal obligations to anyone, we have faithfully lived up to the letter and spirit of every contract we have made, nor shall we violate

"The hundred and fifty thousand of them now. our craftsmen in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania have sought to secure better wages and relief from many galling conditions under which they have been compelled to labor in the past. They have tried by every honorable means known to civilized men to adjust the grievances with their employers without resorting to a strike. In this they have failed because the employers have assumed to be the only parties interested in all the questions involving the operation of the mines, a position that has not been sustained by the conditions existing since a stoppage of work has taken

"Some of the coal operators have been quoted as saying that the question is not one of wages or other conditions of employment, but that they believe it to be an opportune time to destroy the union. Whether they have made this statement or not, their ac-tions indicate that their purpose is to destroy our organization. "If it is the purpose of the coal operators to destroy the union, then upon the principle that self-preservation is the first law of nature, we would be fully justified in taking drastic measures to prevent the accom-plishment of their designs. We believe we have within our reach the means by which that purpose can be thwart-ed. No legal power can compel us to work if we desire to remain idle.

WILL NOT VIOLATE CONTRACTS. "We believe that our interests in the community of which we are a part, and our obligations to the operators, with whom we have agreements, require that we shall not inaugurate a general suspension of work in the coal trade. They may destroy our union, but they cannot make us violate our contracts.

"The struggle in the anthracite region will be continued until our demands have been granted, or a competent board of arbitration has de-clared that we are wrong. No class of men realize more than we do the great power of public opinion. Its influence is potent for good or evil, in accordance with the manner in which it is used. No right can be secured and maintained without its support, and no wrong can long exist which meets its concentrated opposition. with Realizing this fact, we appeal to the people at large to bring all possible pressure to bear on the officers and cite coal interests, to treat consider-ately the appeals of their employes for APPEAL FOR AID. "The care of 150,000 men and their as this is likely to be will require the expenditure of a large sum of money in the purchase of food. Our own re-sources are limited. We have levied large assessment on those of our members who are at work to assist in caring for those who are on strike. 'We need more money for that purpose, and we appeal to every trade union and trade unionist, to every citizen, whose interests are involved, and to every lover of fair play to assist us in raising one million dollars per month from outside sources as long as the strike may last.

"We believe that with this amount of money, together with the amount received from our own members, we can continue the struggle until justice has been secured for the anthracite miners.' RECEIVED WITH APPLAUSE. The reading of the report of the ommittee and the appeal to the country was listened to in absolute silence, but as the voice of Secretary Wilson ceased there came a tremendous cheer from the delegates that foreshadowed their unanimous adopable comforts and luxuries that it tion, which followed in a few minutes. Some amendments were offered, the most material of them being that the assessment of the officers be cut from 25 per cent to 10 per cent. All the amendments were voted down, and a motion declaring debate closed passed. The question of the adoption of the report of the committee was then put and carried by a rising vote,

STATE CONTRIBUTIONS. The miners of Illinois announced they have appropriated $50,000 from their treasury for the support the anthracite strike. Ohio gave $10,000 and Iowa and Indiana promised contributions to be made later.

President Mitchell declared that there was approximately $1,000,000 in the treasuries of the various local unions and that his construction of the clause directing the unions to contribute what they could was one-half of this money. The convention was then adjourned by the singing of "America.

A Wilkesbarre dispatch says: President Mitchell's address, in which he urged that immediate aid be given the anthracite strikers, was well received throughout the Wyoming regions. The employ a man at their own expense to strikers now feel confident that with the assistance they receive from their bituminous brethren they will be able to hold out until the coal operators are forced to grant the demands. It is reported that the coal companies will take the aggressive next week, and attempt to operate one or more collieries. At strike headquarters the report is not credited. It is claimed that no single company can secure a sufficient number of men to operate a colliery.
