Mr. Edgar Stirs Up the Nest of the Bribery Brood.

A Motion Censuring the Postmaster-General Discussed.

Caron's Interest in the Subsidized Lake St. John Railway Demonstrated— Mr. Curren Defends: His Colleague.

[Special Correspondence of the ADVERTISER

by Telegraph.] OTTAWA, March 22.-In the popular belief founded on the charges brought by Mr. J. D. Edgar, member for West Ontario, last session, against Sir Adolphe Caron, it was essential to prove his connection with Mr. H. J. Beemer, contractor for the Lake St. John Railway Company. It turned out in the debate which arose to-day, on a motion by Mr. Edgar in amendment to supply declaring the Postmaster-General unfit to remain an adviser of the crown, that the man chiefly interested in the $1,000,000 of subsidies granted by the Dominion Government to the Lake St. John Railway was not Mr. Beemer, but the late Senator Ross. The fact and the existence of a construction company furnish the key to Mr. Edgar's whole case. The Hon. J. G. Ross was president of the construction company, formed for the purpose of building the Lake St. John Railway, and Sir Adolphe Caron was and is still a director Adolphe Caron was and is still a director of that company. At the time of the events referred to in the charges, the construction company, of which the Postmaster-General was a director, had a claim amounting to $450,000 against the Lake St. John Railway Company. Another highly important fact is this: Ross had large private financial transactions with Beemer, and these immense subsidies were assigned by Beemer to Ross as socurity for moneys advanced by him. Thus Ross was doubly interested in these subsidies, both past and to come; interested in Beemer's financial success as the contractor of the road, and interested in the profits of the construction company as its president. He was interested also in maintaining the Government of which Sir Adolphe Caron was a member in power, being a prominent Conservative in the Quebe district. Ross and his brother held more than half of the entire stock of the construction company, and the evidence was that unless more subsidies were obtained and the road completed the $450,000 due the construction company by the railway company would have been lost. Ross, who gave Sir Adolphe 225,000, would on this one item have lost $113,000. It was, therefore, of the first importance that Sir Adolphe Caron should secure at Ottawa lurther subsidies for the road, and he had every interest, Mr. Edgar said, in bribing those who had the giving of the subsidies. To show that Mr. Ross was the very man to look to for campaign funds, it is only necessary to quote from the blue book the following extract from Sir Adolphe Caron's evidence before the commission:

"I had occasion to require some funds for the campaign, and I called on Mr. Ross. I got from him personally an amount which I would not be absolutely precise about, but it was between $5,000 and $10,000 on the first day. From his office I drove up to the office of the Hon. Thomas McGreevy—a witness examined in this invostigation. of that company. At the time of the

He was one of a committee composed of three, the Hon. Sir Hector Langevin and myself being two of the three and Mr. Mc-Greevy being the third, and the treasurer for the purposes of that campaign. I took the money which I had received from Mr. Ross and handed it over personally to Mr. McGreevy, who received it from me. He gave me a receipt for the amount, and in a period of time extending probably over seven or eight days, or ten days possibly. I drew out at different periods the different amounts up to the $25,000 which had been pionised by Mr. Ross through me, and these different amounts I placed in the nounts I placed in the hands of Mr. McGreevy, as I had done the first installment and got receipts from him. These amounts were distributed after a discussion between the three members of that committee—Sir Hector Langevin, myself and Mr. McGreevy. They were distributed for what we consider

000, and after that he got back in additional subsidies from the Ottawa Government no less than $262,000—a pretty good investment, Mr. Edgar said, for Ross. All these facts Mr. Edgar recited in his speech to night. Sir Adolphe Caron, he charged, in distributing the huge corruption fund of the campaign of 1887, violated the law, which as an adviser of the crown he was sworn to maintain. Mr. Edgar spoke for two hours to empty benches on the Ministerial side, about a score of Government supporters remaining in the chamber.

evidence taken by the toyal commission appointed last session to inquire into certain charges made against Adolphe Caron, K.C.M.G., M.P., which was reported to the Government on the 24th of November, 1892, and is now laid before us, establishes facts which should have prevented the subsequent appointment of Sir Adolphe Caron to be an adviser of the crown, and also renders it highly improper that he should continue to hold such office."

Mr. Curran, Solicitor-General replied. Mr. Edgar was bound to make out of this transaction something disgraceful. The Prime Minister before calling Sir Adolphe Caron to his Ministry had no doubt read the evidence and reached the conclusion that the charges were disproved from beginning to end. There was no evidence to show that Dominion subsidies had been diverted from their purpose and corruptly applied. Mr. Edgar had drawn too many inferences and tortured the evidence. They should not endeavor to wring from that evidence a gloss it did not supply in order to blacken the character of a Minister of the crown. Mr. Edgar had, however, been confounded by the royal commission which gave the broadest scope to the investigation. Analyzing the evidence, Mr. Curran declared that Sir Adolphe Caron took no part in the management of the construction company. He had only attended three meetings of the construction company, of which he was a director. The railway company called on Sir Adolphe Caron for assistance in obtaining subsidies simply because he was the member for the county through which the railway ran. He did not use his position as a Minister in a wrong way. Mr. Curran read from the evidence to show that all the subsidies granted to the Lake St. John Railway went into the road and that Mr. Beemer even put some of his own money, $83,000, into the road. The road was inspected by Government engineers and the subsidies were only paid after certificates had been given in due form. The notes given by Mr. Beemer to Mr. Ross for the $25,000 were not given with the knowledge of Sir Adolphe Caron. There was no evidence to connect Sir Adolphe Caron with any corrupt transactions.

Mr. Costigan moved the second reading of the Civil Service Bill, which provides for of the Civil Service Bill, which provides for the appointment of a supervisor and a civil service board. He announced that he would amend the bill in committee. Mr. Laurier held that no necessity existed for the creation of these officials, and moved the six months' hoist. This was a measure extremely obnoxious to every member of the civil service. Mr. Laurier objected to the proposed supervisor, whose duties would be those akin to a police officer or spy on the various departments. Sørely Ministers and their deputies were competent to look after their cierks and employes.

Mr. Foster thought this was curt treatment, inasmuch as the bill would be amended if allowed to go into committee. Mr. Laurier said he objected to the bill in toto and to the principle of the bill, and therefore he could not consent to the second reading, which was the proper occasion for objecting. Col. O'Errien advised the Government to abandon the bill, which was wrong in principle, impossible in practice, and would degrade and disorganize the civil service. Mr. Costigan—"I will if the leader of the Opposition does not object to withdraw my motion for the second reading." Mr. Laurier—"Certainly." The motion was withdrawn, and the bill is probably dead. ment, inasmuch as the bill would be Auticipating the result of the vote, Mr. Edgar contemplated the scorn with which Great Britain would regard a colonial Parliament if they whitewashed a Minister guilty of such conduct as the Postmaster G. neral was clearly, proved to be guilty of. The Electors Deal a Heavy Blow at the High Taxationists—Adverse Voters' Lists to Fight Against—A Triumph for Liberalism.

It was a great victory for Robert Boston and tariff reform. High taxation, professional manipulation of the voters' list, and incidentally Alexander Gray, of Lobo, were utterly routed in the battle fought yesterday by the electors of South Middlesex. The friends of Mr. Boston and progressive legislation were certain of success; but they hardly expected such a triumph. It was the open boast of their opponents that the Conservatives had beaten them on the ast revision of the list to the extent of 500 names and that the Liberal majority in South London would be wiped out. The first assertion was universally credited; the Liberals had paid little attention to the work of the Franchise Act and Conservative lawyers had taken full advantage of its slippery possibilities. Yet despite this and the over-confidence which caused many on the winning side to stay at home, the grand old riding placed at the head of the polls the representative of trade freedom and Liberal principles by a majority larger than that at the general election, in which the conditions were more equal. The candidate of the defeated party, too, was admitted to be the strongest they could bring out. In the face of these facts the result is significant as indicating the overwhelming sentiment in favor of the strong, clearly defined platform upon which Mr. Boston stood. Yet despite this and the over-confidence sentiment in favor of the strong, clearly defined platform upon which Mr. Boston stood.

A big crowd flocked into the Advertiser office, where the returns were received and bulletined. The first report, from South Lendon, giving a Liberal majority of over50, showed the way the wind was blowing. Then as sub-division after sub-division came in from the rural districts, rolling it up into hundreds, the crowd smiled a satisfied smile and took occasion to congratulate Mr. Boston, M.P., who dropped in to see how things were getting along. His friends insisted on a speech, and escorted him to South London.

It was a rough day, but a very good vote was polled for a bys-election. Had it been got out in full the Liberals say they would have had 1,000 or more majority. The Conservatives worked hard, and brought in a considerable number of non-resident voters. The Liberal gains were general, though the most pronounced was in Lobo, where both candidates live. Westminster did nobly, and Delaware showed an improvement. In Caradoe Mr. Boston's majority was slightly less than Mr. Armstrong's. Altogether he has reason to feel proud of the honor the constituency has done him, and of his espousal of a cause which his constituents have pronounced so emphatically to be the right one.

The vote by sub-divisions in as complete a form as they could be obtained is appended. It will be seen that the majority is 661 with one sub-division to hear from, which will increase it by 10.

"To-day London South has done her duty nobly," he said. "She becomes the banner ward of the Liberal party of the city of London. (Hear, hear, and applause.) You have a majority here that you can always depend on, as has been proven to-day. I hope that at any future time, when a Liberal candidate shall come out in South Middlesex, you will do even better than you have done to-day." (Hear, hear.) In conclusion Mr. Jones called upon Mr. Boston to address the gathering.

Robert Boston, M.P.

"I thank you most heartily," said Mr. Boston, "for your very hearty reception. I am sure it gives me a great deal of pleasure to meet you here to-night after such a glorious victory. It is a very glorious victory, indeed, in the face of so very many things we had to contend against. I have been in municipal life for a long time and have met many men, some of whom may not perhaps have agreed with me in everything, but I want to bury the hatchet and let bygones be bygones. I hold the very kindest feelings to all.

A voice—And to the enemy also.

Mr. Boston, continuing—"Yes, and to all the human race." The speaker went on to refer to the short time that they had had to work in and the amount of work that had been done. "Of course, you will believe me," he said, "when I say I have not slept over three hours a night during the whole campaign."

Mr. Boston, continuing—"I do not intend to make a political speech here to-night, but I can tell you that our friends in Ottawa will feel very kindly to South Middlesex to-night. We have a party there that is fighting for reform, and every Liberal should be true and vote on principle. It has been said by some that there is no use in sending an Opposition man to Parliament. They say, 'if you want any favors send a man who is right with the Government.' I am very glad that you did not do that to-day; we are independent freemen and are not going to vote that way. (Hear, hear.) I am a farmer myself and know whereof I speak and the returns of to-day will bear me out when I say that the farmers of this country are in splendid trim now to meet this glorious cause of tariff reform that we have been advocating. If the members of Parliament should go to the country to-day I believe that we would sweep this country in the interests of reform." In conclusion Mr. Boston thanked the voters of London South most heartily for their support.

for their support.

Mr. John Macpherson.

Mr. Macpherson thought they could afford to celebrate the victory. "We can afford to be merry," he said, "because we made a strong fight and a hard one and can congratulate ourselves. It has been a triumph of principle. I believe as Mr. Boston has said, that the people are with us and that at the next election we will sweep the country." (Hear, hear.) The speaker went on to speak of the heavy work done by the Liberals in the constituency. He paid the chairman a tribute, to whom, he said, the victory was very largely due. There were many circumstances working against them, chief of which was the votera' list, which he hoped to see changed as soon as Mr. Boston got into power. They were fighting for the great principles of reform, he said, and had triumphed.

MR. LAURIER'S CONGRATULATIONS.
In conclusion Mr. Maepherson read a telegram that had been received from the Liberal chief. It was addressed to Mr. J. D. Clarke as follows:
"Many thanks for the good news: give Mr. John Macpherson.

D. Clarke as follows:
"Many thanks for the good news; give

The telegram was received with prolonged cheers. Mr. E. R. Cameron.

Mr. E. R. Cameron.

It gave him heartfelt joy, Mr. E. R. Cameron said, to be able to congratulate his friends and Mr. Boston on the great victory that had greeted the Liberal principles in South Middlesex that day. He was greatly delighted and surprised at the result under the adverse circumstances in which they were placed. The lists had not been revised, and men who had not lived in South London for five years voted just the same, as also did outsiders from Detroit, Toronto, Buffalo and other places.

Mr. J. D. Clarke

was present as an old friend of the memberelect to help him celebrate the victory, a great deal had been said about the farmer and the manufacturer, the speaker said, and an endeavor had been made during the campaign to show that their interests were antagonistic to each other. The interests of the legitimate manufacturer and the interests of the farmer were, he held, identical, and they were both hand in hand in the tariff reform movement, and would be more so. The speaker then congratulated Mr. Boston, paid a glowing tribute to Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, the Liberal chief, and strongly advised the electors of the south riding to look closely after the voters' list. He was glad that Mr. Laurier had been notified of the victory, but there was one other member of Parliament that they should not forget, that was Hon. D. C. Fraser—(applause and cheers) — who did such noble

Mr. Brenton, continuing, thought that if a fair show had been given the majority would have been 800.
A Voice—We have got them running around loose, but they are not on the voters' list.
Mr. Brenton went on to impress upon his hearers the evil of taking toe much for granted. Some good Grits, he said, had at alway daway from the polls that day because they knew Mr. Boston would have a majority anyway.
"But," continued Mr. Brenton, "if were all like that, Mr. Boston would never have been elected." The speaker pointed out the great necessity of forbearance and sheene of harsh feeling if success was courted in a political campaign or anything else. He illustrated his point with a love story, which Mr. Jones remarked was very appropriate, "because," he said, "this is a love feast anyway." (Laughter.)

Radical Changes Proposed by Prominent Politicians.

Report of the Special Committee of the Reform Club-Crude Metal and Breadstuffs Free-Manufactured Articles on the 25 Per Cent. Schedule,

New York, March 22.—The special committee of the Reform Club of this city consisting of E. Ellery Anderson, Chas. S. Faitchild, Thomas G. Shearman, David A. Wells, John DeWitt Warner, and Everett P. Wheeler has completed a draft of a bill which when perfected will be urged on Congress as a substitute for the present tariff laws and a fulfillment of the pledges under which the Democracy has obtained control of the National Government.

This special committee was appointed immediately after the election of Mr. Cleveland. Its report, which is the product of much labor assisted by competent expert knowledge, has been submitted to the regular tariff reform committee of the club for suggestions and criticism. The bill drawn in accordance with the recommendations of the report will be presented to Secretary Carlisle for his information and assistance in the work of formulating a measure which shall constitute the Administration scheme for reforming the tariff.

The general principles of the tariff being framed are in main as follows:
Crude material to be used in the process of manufacture is in general made free of duty. In taxing other articles the general object has been to fix such rates as would produce the largest amount of revenue in a series of years consistent with large importations. The purpose of obtaining the largest revenue has, however, been limited by consideration of the welfare and necessideration of the welfare and neces largest revenue has, however, been infinitely consideration of the welfare and necessities of the people at large, and especially the poorer classes.

The purpose of obtaining revenue for the Government having been made the sole reason for levying any of these duties, is has not been thought necessary and hardly proper to reduce rates merely for the purpose of avoiding some incidental protection to domestic producers.

All duties have been made strictly advalorem except some of those which have been levied as compensatory for internal revenue taxes upon similar articles produced at home.

In the bill, marble is considered a luxury and a higher duty is put upon that than upon ordinary stone.

and a higher duty is put upon that than upon ordinary stone.

As to liquors and tobacco, the duties should be made with a view to obtaining the greatest possible amount of revenue without concern as to whether we give or withhold protection to domestic producers. Silks and silk yarns and threads are rated 20 per cent., raw silk free. The 25 per cent. schedule is the most important of any and is purposely made the most sweeping.

The duty upon woolens and worsted, and

The duty upon woolens and worsted, and manufactures of every description, leather gloves and all other gloves except silk, are placed in the 25 per cent. schedule.

All forms of crude metal, not merely in ores, but in pigs, ingots and bars, with the exception of iron and steel, are made free. Most provisions are made free, but some which partake in a mild degree of the nature of luxuries are put in the 20 per cent. schedule, while breadstuffs are mostly for the statement that the President does free. Potatoes are left subject to a duty of

All articles upon which the revenue col-lected is too small to pay for collection, and upon which it is not probable that re-duction of rates would produce substanduction of rates would produce substan-tial revenue, have been placed on the free list.

The committee say they are satisfied that the proposed tariff would produce an immediate revenue of $120,000,000, if not

THE LATEST PROJECT.

The C. P. R. Securing an Entrance Into New York.

Construction to Begin Very Soon-Shortest Route from the St. Lawrence to New York,

New York, March 23.—The Times says:
"A railroad project is being quietly pushed along which is designed to let the Canadian Pacific Railway into New York independently of the other trunk lines which terminate here. Men with money and credit behind them have organized the New York-Canadian Pacific Railway and Hudson Decking Company, with a capital of $10,500,000. Surveys have been made and most of the right of way seeared for a line of railroad from Ogdensburg via Schenectady to points on the New York and Newark bays, and it is proposed to begin the work of construction very soon. The New York, Ottawa and Northwestern will be made the cornecting link, The new line will be a New York extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Prescott, Ont., just across the river from Ogdensburg. The distance from Ogdensburg the terminals in New Jersey is about 350 miles, which will be much shorter than any other route from the St. Lawrence River to New York City.

DRUNKARD'S DEMONIAC DEED.

A Miner Rills His Wife and Sister-in Law, Mutilates His Child and is Lynched. Albia, La., March 23.-William Frasier

ALBIA, La., March 23.—William Frasier was a drunken miner living with his wife and babe at Carbondale, near here. A few days ago, on account of Frasier's drunkenness, his wife taking her babe, left him and went to Hilman to stay with her sister, Mrs. Smith. Monday he walked into the Smith house and plunged a knife into his wife's heart, killing her. Mrs. Smith was entering when Frasier, with a cry of a demon, drove his knife to the hill in her breast. She died in a few minutes. Frasier then nearly severed a few minutes. Frasier then nearly severed one leg from the body of the child and cut it in other places. He was captured and lynched by a mob of miners.

Mrs. Ewing's Sixth Cooking Lesson-All Sorts of Palatable Dishos.

That the above lesson would prove popular was fully demonstrated yesterday. When the vote was taken between "roasting" and "fancy dishes" nearly the entire class signified their preference for the latter by rising. Certainly the large attendance verified the wisdom of the choice, and as the dishes were not specified, the mystery that surrounded the lesson all were eager to solve, and expectation was high.

Fully two hours before the time the best seats were being rapidly filled, and every movement of the enchanters who turns the most commonplace articles of diet into food for the gods was eagerly scanned. Mrs. Ewing proved herself also mistress of this department of her art, and "chicken croquettes," "rice" ditto, "creamed potatoes," beautifully shaped into little balls, "mock terrapin," "mock hique" and various sauces were in turn manufactured as Mrs. Ewing only can, and submitted to the growing fastidious taste of the class. The practical generallinformation that Mrs. Ewing manages to dovetail in between the various disbes is marvelous, and the perfect silence and usaninous attention when she speaks attests the weight that is given her every word.

Unearthed In Exico-A Box of Gold Buried a Century Ago.

DURANGO, Mex., March 23.—While workmen were excavating here Tuesday on the property of Francisco Otes, near Durango, they came across a large earthen box buried five feet under the surface. The box was found to be filled with old Spanish gold coins. The amount of the treasure will reach fully $100,000. It is supposed the money was buried by a Spaniard more than a century ago, as a large colony of them were employed here in working the mines.

Another Kind of Combine.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 23.— Detectives of the Pennylvania and Big Fourlines have uncovered a gigantic combine that has been robbing railroad cars and stealing thousands of dollars worth of goods in their transit through the States of Ohio and Indiana. As a result it is said W. H. Bailey, the leader of the Lake Erie and Western strike at Muncie, will be arrested as soon as his time expires at Noblesville. Devoured by Wolves.

Ottawa, March 23.—Alexander Beliiveau, of Lower Town, has received information from Michigan that his son was eaten by wolves a few days ago. The unfortunate young man was foreman of a gang working on the construction of a railway in the northern part of the State. He and a friend while out hunting were attacked by a band of wolves, and although they discharged their rifles into the puck the wolves overpowered them. Belliveau's companion climbed a tree to escape them, and from there he saw his companion torn to pieces by wolves at the foot of the tree on which he was perched. For several hours the wolves kept around the tree and did not leave until a number of men from the camp came and drove them away.

Under the present system there is an unjustifiable waste of men, means and effort. The differences between most of the existing denominations are most of the existing denominations no greater than the differences, natural to thinking men and women, to be found in every congregation. Even those Christian bodies supposed to be the farthest apart, the Protestant and the Roman Catholic, have more of belief that is common than of belief that is antagonistic. To the laity the difference ences between the various Protestant denominations are microscopic. For various reasons the clergy, even when, as is true of the best of them, they favor Christian Union, are not in a position to be as outspoken as the laity. There ought to be at least a federal union, right off, for large common purposes; with denominational home rule, if necessary, meantime.

-[BROWNING

London, Thursday, March 23.

RAPID transit for the city is slow. Get a move on, Messieurs Aldermen !

LE MONDE, a Montreal Conservative journal, last night remarked: "Prof. Foster is not a success as acting Prime Minister and leader of the Commons. So far he has committed dozens of blunders, the Franco-Canadian treaty and the debate upon Clarke Wallace being the most complete." "Oh. what a tangled web." etc. "Oh, what a tangled web," etc.

THE Toronto Telegram, discussing the French treaty with Canada, which gives the Western Ontario grape producers such a bad deal, says that the Dominion Government "will hate to bear the edium of accepting a treaty which gives Canada the worst of it, but it would hate still more to reject it and so convert the Tuppers into of Mr. Carling, which, however, the foes of its own household." The doomed to signal failure despite the fact trouble, indeed, lies in the confession of that voters were brought from Detroit, trouble, indeed, lies in the confession of that voters were brought from Detroit, Mr. Foster that the treaty is not, in many, Chicago, Toronto, Hamilton and elsewhere respects, a benefit to Canada, whereas Sir to swell the vote in favor of the high tax Charles Tupper asserts that he only signed It because it was approved by our Government! Why is it that in the international was straightforward and clear from begin-contracting parties?

IN THESE days, when the best material for street pavement is being sought, the discovery of the Toronto city engineer, or a recent tour through the States, is of importance. He finds that vitrified brick for paving costs, if laid on a concrete foundation, from 10 to 20 cents per yard more than cedar blocks. It is valued for its cleanliness and in some places is used on all streets, but in other places it is laid only on those streets where there is no heavy traffic.

What an amount of flummery and snobbery it seems to take to run a "Queen's Drawing-Room." At the recent drawingroom, according to the Times' report, in official attendance on her Majesty were Olicial attendance on her Majesty were Viscountess Downe and Lady Ampthill (ladies of the bedchamber in waiting), Miss McNeill (woman of the bedchamber in waiting), the Hon. Ethel Cadogan and the Hon. Bertha Lambart (maids of honor in waiting), the Marcoin of Breedelbane (lord steward). Marquis of Breadalbane (lord steward), Lord Carrington, G.C.M.G. (lord chamber lain), Viscount Oxenbridge (master of the horse), the Earl of Chesterfield (treasurer of the household), Mr. G. Leveson-Gower, M. P. (controller of the household), the Right Hon. C. Robert Spencer, M. P. (vice-chamberlain), General the Right Hon. Sir H. F. Ponsonby, G. C. B. (keeper of the privy purse and private secretary), Lord Camoys (lord in waiting), General Sir M. Biddulph, K. C. B. waiting), General Sir M. Biddulph, R. C.B. (groom in waiting), Major General Sir J. C. McNeill, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., V.C., and Major-General Sir H. P. Ewart, K.C.B. (equerries in waiting), Major-General the Right Hon. Sir John Cowell, K.C.B. (master of the household), Mr. H. D. Erskine of Cardross (groom of the robes), and Mr. Geoffrey Stewart and Mr. A. E. Stanley Clarke (pages of honor in waiting).

"YOU TAKES YOUR CHOICE." "You pays your money and takes your choice." If you are in favor of home rule, you are in favor of it. If you are against it, you are against it. Against it: Mr. William Johnston, M.P., of Ballykilbeg, recently wrote the Archbishop of Canterbury, requesting an assorted lot of printed prayers against home rule. The archbishop replied as fol-

"LAMBETH PALACE, Feb. 27 .- My Dear "LAMBETH FALACE, Feb. 27.—My Dear Sir,—There are difficulties, as you are aware, in the way of enacting a new form of prayer such as you suggest should now be put for use at the present crisis, but there could be no objections, I think, to the clergy who were so disposed using special collect, as that for the fifth Sunday after Trinity, or those for the sixteenth Sunday and the twenty-second Sunday after Trinity, with particular reference to the present anxiety."

That's one view. The Newcastle Liberal Association have passed the following reso

"That this meeting records its unqualified "That this meeting records its unqualified and grateful appreciation of the home rule measure submitted to Parliament by Mr. Gladstone, and is of opinion that, whilst certain details may be properly reconsidered, it presents as a whole a thoroughly statesmanlike settlement of the long-standing difficulties between Great Britain and Ireland, and is deserving of the most strenuous public support with a view to its becoming law.

Here are two views. If you do not like the one you can take the other.

The return of Mr. Robert Boston, reeve of Lobo, as M. P. for South Middlesex, by a majority so large as is recorded in our news columns, is an event of national im-

This result was achieved in face of very strong opposition and under circumstances that are not again likely to prevail.

In all probability there would have no opposition to Mr. Boston but for the appreciation of these difficulties by the Conservative party. Because there was no prospect of an election in the riding on the lists compiled in 1891, the Liberals prac tically neglected to see to their revision. On the other hand, Mr. Chisholm, the former Conservative candidate, spent hundreds of dollars in revising the the people in public questions, apart through the people in public questions, apart from persons, would be increased, and that something would thereby be done turned out, for the benefit of Mr. Gray and his backers. Mr. Chisholm was as jubilant his backers. Mr. Chisholm was so jubilant over his exploits that he openly boasted that, in the township of Caradoc alone, he ment, but more democracy in governe had increased the Conservative vote from 200 to 300. At the same time, he telewiser than anybody. Get closer to the graphed to Mr. Carling at Ottawa, and Mr. Carling conveyed the momentous informa-tion to Parliament, that, by manipulation of the lists, he had secured a Conservative majority in the South London divisions.

majority in the South London divisions.

Then, not taking notice of a few domestic difficulties that prevailed in the party of tariff reform, the fair reviewer must take note of the fact that in his canvass Mr. Gray posed as a Patron of Industry, and therefore, as committed to work for a tariff for revenue only and for the undering of the garrymander. By this the undoing of the gerrymander. By this means, doubtless, he obtained many votes of Liberals not strong in their party leanings, though he lost the votes of independ-ent Conservatives in some districts when it became known that in South London, in obedience to the behests of the London Conservative lawyers who managed the cam paign, he openly repudiated the Patron

In the canvass and on election day also, Mr. Gray had most energetic assistance from agents of monepolies, and from customs and other Dominion Government officers, especially in South London, where He pandered to no class in Administration there is always some hiatus—some sharp turns, some accusation of falsehood against one or other of the the campaign nailed their colors to the "tariff for revenue only and no special privileges to any one" mast. They de-nounced so-called "protection" as an injury to farmer, independent manufacturer, an city workman alike. They held to the principle that every man has a right to enjoy his own earnings, and should not be mpelled by law to put money in the pockets of his fellows, no matter how rich and powerful these men may be.

The triumph of these principles-the return of Mr. Boston by a majority larger than that attained by the able and popular Mr. Armstrong at the general election demonstrates beyond the possibility of doubt the trend of public opinion. It is decided appeal to Parliament in favor o radical tax reduction, and that immedi-

We congratulate Mr. Boston, M.P., or his signal triumph. We congratulate able men who helped him to achieve success, and we congratulate the constit nency that has stood true to sound princi ples in spite of many attempts to seduce it from the right path.

MEDICINE MONOPOLY. The opposition to the act to "Further Amend the Pharmacy Act," which it is proposed to introduce into the Ontario Legis lature next month, strengthens as the effect of the proposed enactment is understood. Some of the provisions, as, for example, those requiring a higher standard of education to pass an examination as druggist, are not very objectionable, but the attempt to prevent a medical man from making up selling his own drugs will be resented, as will also the attempt to secure a monopoly for the druggists for the sale of ordinary articles as castor oil, salts, senna, turpentine, patent medi-cine, horse medicine and many other simple remedies that have been sold in country stores ever since this country was first settled. There are less than 150 drug stores in this Province, and 3,300 general groceries, nearly all of which sell these simple medicines, and as there has been no general demend for legislation of this description, it may reasonably be taken for granted that the people are satisfied with the protection they now enjoy. An arbitrary change would not be for the benefit of the many, but for the financial advantage of a few. The legislators will do well to seriously consider the effect of the proposed restrictions, and refuse to indorse such as are shown not to be called for, and are likely to be injurious to the public. So far as can be seen, the press of the Province are generally against the increased powers asked for by the druggists, and the Patrons of Industry also take strong grounds against any change not required for the safety of the general public.

PUZZLE, (Buffalo Courier.)

(Buffalo Courier.)

Here's your missing word, or, rather, missing words. The puzzle is to supply the word needed to complete the sense and the rhyme of the following verses. More than that, the rhymes on the first four lines are the same, and those on the second four are the same—that is, there are two rhymes. Still more, the missing word of the second line is the same as that of the first, with the first letter dropped; the third the same as the second, with the first letter dropped, and so on. For example, if the missing word to the first line was "cheat," the next would be "heat," the next "eat," the next "wat." Blaze away, children!"

THE OXFORD-CAMBRIDGE RACE.
LONDON, March 22.—Of the 49 annual London, March 22.—Of the 49 annual boat races that have been contested by the universities of Oxford and Cambridge, six only have been rowed on days of the week other than Saturday. The selection of Wednesday this year caused disappointment to many thousands of people who were unable to leave their occupations upon any day but Saturday. The absence of these disappointed spectators was not, however, apparent to-day, the crowds who lined the course being so immense that a few thousands more or less made comparatively little difference.

The Light Blues struggled manfully to overtake them, and passing through the Osier Beds, their sturdy strokes began to tell a little in their favor. Inch by inch they gained, but the Oxford crew, with all their reserve strength brought into play, swung backward and forward fairly lifting their shell from the water. Both crews struggled desperately for the mastery, but the Oxford crew, despite the 22 pounds heavier weight in their boat, pulled the more powerful and telling stroke and passed the finishing line half a length ahead of Cambridge.

BROKE THE RECORD.

The official time was 18:47 the best time ever made over the course, the best previous time made by Oxford last year having been 19:21.

The scene at the finish was one of great excitement. The victors were greeted with a tunuit of applause which was answered by counter cheers from friends of the vanquished, to whom the cry of "Well rowed, Cambridge," was offered in recognition of their gallant fight.

The race thus ended was the 50th of its kind, only that of 1889 resulted in a dead heat. Of these races Oxford has won 27 and Cambridge 22. Oxford has now won four years in succession. For the four preceding years Cambridge was the victor.

The Detroit News has this to say of the London canines: "Tom Davey, of London, who has been president of the Canadian Kennel Club, has the champion pointer, Lady Gay Spanker, that has beaten all the cracks in the champion class in half a dozen shows this season in the lightweight class; Josic Brocks, a heavyweight pointer that has never been beaten, and Miss Rumor, a little sister of Lady Gay Spanker, that has never been beaten except by the latter. R. Gibson, of Delaware, has the collies, imported Scotsman and Dawn, Hello and Vanity; also champion fox terriers Bechannal and Beaver Rasper. Gibson's kennels have produced more prize-winning collies than any other in America."

ATHLETICS.

THE DEAD SQUIRE.

New York, March 22.—Charley Mitchell, Jim Hall, Teddy Bailey, the private secretary of the late Squire Abingdon, and the faithful valet of the squire, Monk, sailed to-day for England on the steamer Majestic in charge of the body of Squire Abingdon Baird, who died in New Orleans of pneumonia. There was a large crowd of sympathizing friends gathered at the dock to see them off. The dining saloon on the boat was literally covered with flowers sent by friends of the deceased sporting man.

BASEBALL

Fred Pfeffer will not captain the Louisvilles this season, as he has purchased a saloon and retired from the diamond.

Johnny Ward and Mike Tiernan will be greatly benefited by the placing back of the pitcher, as they will be able to bunt more successfully than ever.

THE TURE.

PORT HURON, March 21.—The Port Huron Driving Park Association has prepared the following programme for their June races:

First day, June 6—2:50 trot, purse $200; ATHLETICS.

June races: First day, June 6-2:50 trot, purse $200; 2:28 trot, $300; one half mile run, two in three, $150.
Second day, June 7-2:50 pace, purse $200; 2:24 trot or pace, $300; 2:35 trot.

$200; 2:24 trot or pace, $300; 2:25 tot, $200.

Third day, June 8—3:00 trot, purse $200; 2:30 trot $300; five-eighths mile run, $150.

Fourth day, June 9—2:40 trot, purse $200; 2:35 pace, $200; free-for-all, trot or pace, $300.

Efforts will also be made to have a band tournament here in connection with these races.

THE WHEEL

The famous Herne Hill track will soon be relaid with a surface of planks fastened together, with buffers of cork between each to allow for swelling. Exciting Scenes in the Reichstag. Berlin, March 22.—Upon re-assembling the House Count Von Ballestrem com of the House Count Von Ballestrem communicated to the Reichstag the resolution adopted by the committee appointed to examine Herr Ahlwardt's alleged incriminating documents. The resolution declared that the documents contained nothing that would cast a slur upon the present or former members of the Reichstag, the Diets or the Imperial or other German Governments. When Count Von Ballestrem had finished reading the resolutions Ahlwardt protested that the action of the committee deprived him of the chance of proving his case. The House laughed at him.

of the most exciting that has been witnessed in the Reichstag.

The intense interest of the people in the proceedings of the Reichstag suggested the popular excitement in Paris during the first exposures of the Panama scandals. Thousands gathered before the building this morning and clamored for information as to the progress of the debate. Dozens of policemen were occupied constantly in pushing the crowd back from the entrances and clearing the way for the ingress and egress of members. The house was so crowded that many deputies were unable to get to their seats. The passages and galleries were filled to suffocation. Chancellor Voa Darrivi and all his colleagues were present from the beginning to the end of the sitting.

Ahlwardt was treated with such contempt as has not before been shown by one wirputy toward another in the Parias mentary precincts. He entered, apparently elated with the cheers with which the crowd outside had greeted him, and he approached several deputies with outstretched hand. Most of them turned their backs upon him without giving a sign of recognition. Others faced him, but utterly ignored his remarks.

A statement is made this evening as the result of the examination of the Ahlwardt documents. They were simply receipts given to the Diskonteogelleschaft, of which General Demand for More Wages by Chicago Operatives.

T. V. Powderly, master workman of the K. of L., in regard to the statement of the Rev. J. G. White that Powderly was plotting with the Roman Catholic Church against the United States Government, asks that Mr. White place his "proofs" in the hands of four ministers, not Catholics, and names the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, Dr. Lyman Abbott and M. C. Lockwood as three of them. In their hands he will in turn place every document he has and let them judge. He says this willie" has followed him all over the country, and is by no means new. In thanking Mrs. Stevens, editor of the Vanguard (Chicago) for her defense of his reputation, Mr. Powderly says: "I am heart weary of the fruitless task I have so vainly endeavored to perform, and would lay down the burden for the good of this country. I want to do this for the conviction has forced itself upon me that my days of usofuluess for the people are ended."

TROUBLE BREWING IN CHICAGO.

The union painters will begin their fight for higher wages this week. Their agreement with the Master Painters Association remains in force till April 10, and until that time no action is to be taken. They will begin, however, with the smaller shops that are outside the organization. The journeymen demand 35 cents an hour. There are about 3,700 union painters in Chicago, three-fourths of whom are employed by 250 out of the 800 shops here. There is a disposition on the part of the boss painters not to grant the new scale and a strike would be an extensive one.

On April 1 a large number of the building trades unions of this city will make a general move for an increase of wages. The trades are all in favor of striking if necessary. At the last meeting of the Building Trades Council speeches were made in favor of asking an increase.

The demands of the journeymen pattern-makers for an advance from $3 75 to $4 per day has been refused by the Master Patternmakers' Association. Another demand will be made. The workmen asked that preference be given the union members, regardless of skill in employment, the scale to be 35 cents an hour, and also that the number of apprentices should be governed by the rules of the organization. The bosses refused to grant any of the demands. The carriage-makers expect that the trouble with the Studebaker Company will be settled this week. Nearly all of the men that went out last month have secured employment in other factories, so that they are fully able to support those who have not obtained work.

THE QUEEN'S DRAWING-ROOM. Something Like a Football Scrimmage

A Trying and Tearful Ordeal.

Something Like a Football Scrimmage—
A Trying and Tearful Ordeal.

[From London Truth.]

The first drawing-room was a very large one, but there was exceedingly little beauty among the company. The dresses and jewels were magnificent. The Queen was punctual in entering the throne room, and Lady Spencer at once commenced the function by presenting the "females." of the diplomatic corps, after which Sir Christopher Toesdale brought up the "males." One of the foreign Ministers wore a blue uniform, entirely covered with gold embroider, with numerous orders, and a huge gold key fastened on to the back of his coat. The Queen then sat down on her State chair and proceeded to receive the entree people, who were headed by some members of the Government who wore the Privy Councilor's uniform. There was a great crowd of entree company, as an exceptionally large number of special permissions had been granted by the Queen, but her Majesty stayed on for a few minutes after the general presentations had commenced and then retired, when her place was taken by Princess Christian, next to whom was the Prince of Wales, and then the Dukes of York and Edinburgh.

The crushing and corewding at the various barriers were worse than ever, and there were some violent altercations and furious appeals to the bewildered officials. Several ladies had their trains dashed from their arms, with the result that they came in with the train extending in front for some yards, and two or three marrowly scapped awkward falls. Others had their bouquets utterly destroyed, and many entered the throne room with disheveled heads, torn veils, broken feathers and crushed sleeves. Some ladies, indeed, presented as lamentable an appearance as if they had been engaged in a free fight. Two had most papable bruises on their arms, and another complained, with pardonable acrimony, that she had received a severe blow on the neck from the cocked hat of "some savage" who had attempted to push past her. The saloons in which the company wait were dreadfully cold, for t

MARCHING ONWARD.

Mr. McCarthy's tariff resolution is very much like the body of the lamented John Brown, for although it now lies mouldering in the grave its soul goes marching on. The outward form, sure enough, has been destroyed, but the principle, or essence, remains. It is idle to suppose that a movement for reduced imposts can be stayed by a vote of the House of Commons. Parliament does not create public opinion, on the contrary, public opinion creates and guides the Parliament.—[Toronte Mail.

Mr. Miller's suspicions were aroused and he refused to make the payment, telling the men to call again to-day. One of them then proceeded to prepare for a fight and not until the police were notified did they leave the office, nor did they return to-day. On inquiries it was found that coupons bearing the name of James Annett, East London, had been forged. They escaped the police. Going to the World's Fair.

To P. C. Robert Egelton is due the credit for the arrest of the young man Richard C. Evans, who was wanted for the larceny of $70 from his employer, Wm, Harris, of Innerkip. Evans hed changed his clothes, and therefore it was more difficult to pick him out. Only a small portion of the police force had received any notice that Evans was wanted, or he might have been captured sooner. P. C. Egelton recognized him sauntering leisurely along Richmond street at 8:30 this morning and arrested him. In his pockets were found the Chicago ticket and $37 50 of the stolen money. He said he was going to the World's Fair. The case is a county one, and will be handed over to the proper authorities. authorities. In the Meshes of the Law.

Ollie Scofield, the 13-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mary Scofield, who was arrested a few days ago charged with being an inmate of a disorderly house kept by her mother, appeared before the police migistrate this morning on a charge of vagrancy. The girl had been sent to the Protestant Orphans' Home, but on account of her utter depravity she was deemed unfit to associate with the other children, and was discharged from the institution. Chief Williams awore that he knew her mother and sister to be prostitutes. The girl was sent to the industrial school at Mimico.

Edward Fitzsimonds and John O'Brien, two big able-bodied men, arrested by P.C. Campbell, came up on a charge of vagrancy. They arrived in the city on Sunday evening from Goderich. O'Brien said his home was in Detroit and that he was a tainior. They were found begging from store to store along Dundas street. The magistrate remanded them for a week.

Wm. Carey, a young man 18 years of age and a carpenter by trade, said he came from Windson. He pleaded guilty on a charge of vagrancy and was let go on suspended sentence. P.C. Egelton arrested him on March 15, and since then he has been on remand.

The North American Canal Company Asks Incorporation.

A Scheme that Will Cost $150,000,000 to Carry Out-Great Canals To Bo Built in Canada.

OTTAWA, March 23.—In the railway committee this morning the bill to incorporate the North American Canal Company was discussed. It is the biggest scheme of the session, a colossal enterprise in fact, to complete which will cost $150,000,000. Power is given to construct a canal system from Port Colborne on Lake Ontario via the Niagara River, in part, thence by way of Lake Ontario to Dickinson's Landing. where another canal from Corn. from Port Colborne on Lake Ontario via the Niagara River, in part, thence by way of Lake Ontario to Dickinson's Landing, where, another canal from Cornwall was provided for, also another canal from Lake St. Francis to Lake Champlain with a branch starting in the county of Beauharnois, and to Lake St. Louis and another canal from Lachine to Montreal harbor via the Hudson River. The navigation runs to New York City. This entire navigation is to be of sufficient dimensions to admit of two of the largest vessels drewing twenty feet passing one another in the channels at full speed. Mr. Dutton, of Pittsburg, Penn, said that the aim of the promoters was to take the traffic of the great interior of the continent which now found an outlet to the east through Lake Erie.

X X Controller Wood being challenged by Mr. Mulcok to declare the Government's policy regarding this great undertaking which he compared with the C. P. R. in magnitude, said the Government had no objection te the scheme. At Mr. Edgar's suggestion, as clause was inserted prohibiting the operation of the Lake Champlain end of the scheme, until the whole navigation was complete and operative. The capital stock of the company was fixed at $20,000,000. The bill progressed satisfactorily, but there was not time to finish it, and it will be taken up again to-morrow.

"You know him intimately, of course," said the bishop, after a short pause, alluding to Gerald Wygram. "You can give me

"give me your exact opinion of this young man."

A deadly silence followed. Now or never the unfortunate curate felt was the moment in which to break into laudatory phrases about Dulcinen's lover. But none would come. He opened his lips; he tried to focus his thoughts. In vain!

"I think I never met so good a young man," he said in a tone so solemn, it might have come from the dead. To the bishop the sound was earnest, to Dr. Ball it meant despair.

nan," he said in a tone so solemn, it might have come from the dead. To the bishop the sound was sarnest to Dr. Ball it meant despair.

"Indeed, indeed!" said the former, who was fond of reiteration. He said it impatiently, and got up and began to pace the floor. He was a good-hearted man, and something within him seemed to warn him sgainst forbidding the happiness of two people praised by the best man in his diocese. "It is a great responsibility," he said, striding slowly up and down the room. "He—this Mr. Wygram—has a bare subsistence, no prospects; and she has close up-or £5,000 a year. She ought to marry a title. Her father was bent on it; he as good as said so to me just a mouth before his death. This, that you speak of, is not a thing to be lightly done. But you give me such a high character of Mr. Wygram—you have bestowed indeed such unqualified praise on both him and Miss Vane—that you make me hesitate about refusing my consent. Who am I, that I should take it upon me to make or man two lives? You have no coubt in your mind about their suitability to each other, have you? You, who know them, you think highly of both?"

Again that concentrated gaze fell upon the luckless curate. Again he felt that he must speak when speech was denied him. The bishop was waiting?

"I believe it would be hard to find two such good young people," he said at last; and then he covered his face with his hands, and felt that now indeed it was all over, and that he was on the verge of tears.

There was a long silence. Then—"Well, well, well," said the bishop, "I promise you to think it over. Worth, such as you have ascribed to this young man, should count before anything." It really did seem to the bishop that Dr. Ball had uttered unlimited words of commendation about Gerald Wygram. "And he is of good birth undoubtedly. That is always something, even nowadays. Yes, I'll think it over. When you return home, Dr. Ball, which," courtenally, "I hope will not be for some time yet, tell Dulcinea from me that I shall come and stay with and the oursie, finding his voice at that when it was too late. But was it too late. But was it too late?

"I hope it will continue to be good news al her life," said the bishop with a sight le knew he would be glad to get rid of his uardian duties, and for that very reason has afraid to get rid of them. But now for snother topic," he said cheerfully, laying his hand on the curate's shoulder. "You have the rector of Dreena is dead,—", in fact he offered our little friend a rectory, with an income that quadrupled his present salary. But the doctor shrank from him when he mentioned it.

"Nay, nay, my lord," said he, "give it to some better man."

"I couldn't," said the bishop.
"Give it to some better man," said the curate earnestly. "I could not leave my present place, indeed. They could not get on without me; they are, for the most part, so old and so cross. I beg you will leave me there, with my old men and women. They alk know me and I know them; and it is too late for me to begin the world afresh, with new faces and new interests."

The bishop said nothing further then, but took his arm and led him into the drawing from, where presently he drew his wife saide and told her all about it. After which, Mrs. Craik made a great deal of the little doctor, and treated him delicately, as if he was of extreme value; as indeed he was.

At the end of two days he went home, and told Dulcinea all the news, and she, on hearing it, took him around the neck and kissed him tenderly.

"I knew it," she said. "I felt it. Something told me you were the one person in the world to win my case for me. Dearest, sweetest, leveliest Dr. Ball, how shall I thank you?"
"My dear, if you only knew," faltered the dector.

"I do know. Don't you think I can appreciate you after all these years? You are so clear, so convincing. You can some so directly to the point. You can say so much

"Ido know. Don't you taims I can spreciate you after all these years? You are so clear, so convincing. You can come so directly to the point. You can say so much that is good."
"I can indeed," groaned the curate, desolated by dismal recollections. The little I did say was all 'good!"
"Tm sure ofit," greatefuily. Your fluency, you know, is your great point. How I should have liked to have heard you parrying successfully every one of those horrid old bishop's attacks upon my Gerald. But, indeed, it seems to me that I can hear you—running through all his good qualities (and what a number he has) in that nice, eloquent, self-possessed manner that belongs to you."

"Dulcines, hear me," said the curate, in desperation; and then and there he made his confession. But he failed to convince Dulcinea; she steadfastly athered to her belief that his eloquence alone had won the bishop's consent.

"And really he can't be such a very bad old man after all "she said, "or he would not be capable of appreciating real worth such as yours—would he, Gerald". For Mr. Wygram had stolen up to them in the twilight, and secured the doctor's other arm. Miss Vane looked upon his right one in the right of a free-simple property.

"It is the one redeeming point in his character," said Mr. Wygram, promptly. "And another thing, Dulcie, nobody shall marry us but Dr. Ball. En?"

"Nobody, indeed," firmly.

"My dear girl, nonsense!" said the doctor. "You must have your rector, if not the bishop himself. And—of course, by-the-by, being your guardian, it will be the bishop. I am a mere nobody. It would not do at all; and you, the most influential—that is, at least, the largest proprictor in the country round."

"You may call yourself a 'nobody' or any other bad name you like," said Dulcines earnestly, but I can tell you this—no one but you shall ever miske me Mrs. Gerald Wygram."

"Nothing can alter that decision—not even the archibishop," said Mr. Wygram emphatically. The doctor protested, but in his soul he was pleased, and went to be as—I was goi

The Queen Pawned Her Jewels.

Queen Isabella of Spain pawned her jewels to raise money to fit out the expedition that discovered the new world. Her sacrifice was not greater than is made by many women of America, who deny themselves many things in order to have money to buy Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for their sick husbands or children. This "Discovery" is more important to them than the one made in 1492. For all diseases of the Lungs, Liver, Throat or Stomach, the "Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. A trial convinces, its continued use cures. It purifies the blood, invigorates the liver and strengthens and builds up the whole system. Guaranteed to benefit or ourse in every ease, or money paid for it returned.

Talk on the Bright Side of Things by the Brooklyn Preacher.

Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, the famous Brooklyn preacher, faced a magnificent audience at the Auditorium last svening. His subject was "The Bright Side of Things." The closing section was a thrillingly eloquent description of the end of the world and the triumph of truth. These are some of the epigrams with which his stories were pinned together:
The most repulsive face on the earth is the fault-finder's.
The heart right, all right; the heart wrong, all wrong. the Brooklyn Preacher.

"My Colleen" at the Grand.

Tony Farrell and his excellent company appeared at the Grand last evening before a good-sized house, and established himself as a favorite deeper than ever in the best wishes of a London audience. Since his last appearance in this city his improvement has been well advanced, and he can now rank as one of the best Irish comedians on the stage. The play is a bright Irish comedy, and is interspersed at intervals with laughable incidents and charming Irish songs. Farrell had to respond several times to encores. Several members of the company are capable supporters, and allend a hand in giving a good performance. On account of the successful engagement last night, and next week being a week off, Manager Roote announces that they will resurn to London on Good Friday for two performances, matinee and evening. "Jane."

The members of Charles Froham's company will make their bow in "Jane" at the Grand Monday night. This vehicle of introduction proves particularly felicitous for the players, for the parts assumed in this comedy could not be presumed to need serious consideration on the part of the audience; rather one is pleased at brazen burlesque, fantastic foolishness, and comical complications, all like imps darting in and out, rushing upon one another, untiall is complete tangle and mess. One is whirled away in the vortex of farcical situations until, having enjoyed several good hearty laughs, we think we begin to see the end of it all, when more and almost endless complications come rushing in upon the aiready burdened sense of the ludierous. There is material for several comedy farces, all wrapped up in this breezy comedy.

A Vienna correspondent writes: "At a special meeting of the Bayham council Tuesday afternoon, the bylaw granting the Port Eurwell harbor to the railway syndicate was amended in accordance with the wishes of President Miller, so as to give the syndicate a deed of the harbor as soon as the railroad is built, a covenant being inserted in the deed binding the syndicate to repair the harbor, so that twelve feet of water will be secured. The harbor is also to be exempted from texation for a period of ten years from the date of the passing of the bylaw. Who or where the syndicate is that is being represented by Mr. Miller is tan yet one of the unsolved mysteries, but we in this little burg are not very particular as to who is at the helm so long as the affair is piloted safely through." The Boston poet who wrote about clasping "the two tremulous hands" of his lady love, and saw it in print "the two tremendous hands"—this is a fact—will commit suicide as soon as he can find a dry spot in the river where the water isn't cold.

The creat lung healer is found in the arms.

the river where the water isn't cold.

The great lung healer is found in the excellent medicine sold as Pickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, pain or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

"Brace Up"

Is a tantalizing admonition to those who at this season red all tired out, weak, without appetite and affective and affective and affective and affect and appetite is really winderful. So we say, "Take Hood's and it will brace you up."

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills.

Important Addition to Toronto's Population—The First Monkey Born in Canada.

TORONTO, March 22.—A monkey war born at the Musee last night. The parents are Brazilian monkeys, and came from New York some months ago.

In all the history of the simian race in Canada there is no other recorded instance of a monkey having been born.

Untold Misery—What a Well-Known Commercial Traveler Suffered, and How He Was Cured.—Gentlemen.—About five years ago I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time traveling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co. Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovers, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovers, believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of dyspepsia. (Signed.) T. S. McIntee.
