Explosion Exaggerated.

St. Catharines, Aug. 15.—The account published of the accident at the Kinleith Paper Company's mills at St. Catharines is said to have at St. Catharines is said to have been grossly exaggerated. It was not the steam boilers, but a small boiler used for cooking rags under low pressure that exploded. As this boiler was contained in a separate outbuilding, very little damage was done, except to that building, and the adjoining wail.

May Be Murder.

Quebet, Aug. 15.—News was received in the city Saturday to the effect that Auguste Fortin of Cape St. Ignace, County of Montmagny, was found in the woods there dead, with his throat cut almost from ear to ear. While the man may have taken his own life, murder is suspected. Fortin was a well known farmer.

MUSTFALL AT ANY COST

Mikade of Japan Has Ordered the Taking of Pert Arthur.

Reports of the "Cutting Out" of the Eyeshitelni Do Not Agree But the Cruiser Will Be Return

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—The Bourse Gazette has received the fol-lowing from its Liaoyang correspon-

"It is stated on trustworthy au therity that the Mikado has ordered that Port, Arthur must be taken at any cost, even if it necessitates the suspension of operations in Man-churia, and it is quite possible that the main Japanese force will proceed to Port Arthur within a few days. Rain has stopped all operations."

To Ask Nea-Combatants to Leave.

London, Aug 15.—A despatch from Tokio Saturday, says: "Another sign that a general assault on Port Arthur is imminent is found in the fact that the Emperor of Japan has notified Field Marshal Yamagata, chief of the general staff, of his desire that non-combatants—women, priests, merchants, diplomats and officers of neutral powers—be allowed an opportunity to leave the lowed an opportunity to leave the fortress. The chief of staff consequently instructed the Japanese company of the contract of mander at Port Dalny to accord the necessary facilities for their removal.

DUSS AND JAPS DIFFER. Meanwhile the Captured Cruiser Ryeshit

London, Aug. 15.—The Che Foo correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, under date of Aug. 13, says: "Admiral Sah states that the Japanese promised to return the Ryeshit elni to-day."

The Russian Report

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—The Emperor has received a telegram from Capt. Shestakovsky, commander of the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshiteini, in which he relates the attack of the Japanese cruisers and says his ship was unarmed.

As Told in Testic.

Tokio, Aug. 15.—The Navy Department has issued a statement covering the Che Foo incident. It states that Capt. Fujimoto, anticipating its escape during the night, if pos-sible, to attack merchant vessels, en-tered Che Foo with the two destroyrs and found the Russian destroyer Ryeshitelni remaining undisarmed. Lieut. Terashima was then sent to the Russian vessel with a message to the effect that the Japaness commander expected him to leave by dawn or surrender. The Russian commander refused to comply with either demand, and while the conference was mand, and while the conference was still going on he was heard instructing the men to blow up the ship. While this was progressing the forward magazine exploded, killing one and mortally injuring four of our men. We then captured the destroyer and retired. Lieut. Terashima and 'ten others were wounded.'

France Asked to Act.

St. Decembers Asked to Act.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—By command of the Emperor, Foreign Minister Lamsdorff has instructed the Russian Ambassador at Paris to rethat France, on behalf of Russia, shall lodge a strong with the French Minister at ogainst what is described as an out-rageous violation of Chinese neutral-ity and of universally recognized principles of international law. The foreign powers have also been in-formed of the Russian declaration. British Cabinet Interested.

London, Aug. 15.—The cutting out of the Russian torpedo boat destroy-er Ryeshitelni by the Japanese tor-pedo boat destroyers at Che Foo has eclipsed for the moment in the pub-lic mind the steamer Knight Com-mander incident. Both, however, are receiving the earnest attention of the Cabinet.

Must Pay Indemnity.

London, Aug. 15.—Besides restoring the Ryeshitelni, the Russian Embassy here says Japan will have to apologize to China and promise to pay an indemnity to the families of the Russian seamen killed in the fighting at Che Foo.

London, Aug. 15.—General Booth, who has begun a great evangelistic tour by automobile, is meeting greater enthusiasm than has been known er enthusiasm than has been known since John Wesley rode through England on a similar mission. It is likely to be the same during all his journey to the north, for since the King and Queen put their stamp of approval on the social and religious work in which the general is engaged, his path has been strewn with roses. He started the tour at Penzance. A few years ago he was actually stoned in these same Cornish ally stoned in these same Cornish villages, where last week he was fet-ed.

Sealers Carried Firearms.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 15.—A letter from Dutch Harbor, received Saturday, states that the sealer Teresa was seized on the 27th ult. for carrying firearms. The Teresa was followed by five other Victoria schooners and all are supposed to have beer treated similarly.

CHICAGO WAS CHIGAGOED

ecumseh's Upheld Canada's Sporting Maurelo in Great Style-Splendid Game.

The Tecumseh lacross team returnd last evening from their trip to Chicago, and they can now say what no other lacrosse team can say that they won a game before the crowd that ever witnessed a lacrosse game. The trip was a most successful one in every way. Everyone had an excellent time and can say nothing but good of the Chicago team and their supporters.

The Tecumsehs left Chatham Friday at moon and arrived in Chicago at eleven o'clock Friday night. They at eleven o'clock fr'.day night. They were met at the station and escorted to the Saratoga Hotel, by Mr. Donnelly, president of the Chicago Club, and a number of the Chicago Club, and a number of the Chicago players. Every possible want was looked after while they were there and they could not be more royally received or more pleasantly entertained. The game was played at 2.15 on the South Side baseball grounds as an opener to the big International baseball game between Chicago and New York. When the lacrosse teams I med up for the face off, there were 30,000 people in the grand stand and bleachers. Of these 5,000 were Canadians who are now living in Chicago.

bleachers. Of these 5,000 were Canadians who are now living in Chicago, so that the Tecumsens had plenty supporters to cheer them on to victory. All of the Canadian sympathy was with the Tecumsehs showing that if a man is born a Canadian he is a Canadian at heart until he dies, no matter where he lives.

The Chicago team are very popular in that city and the game is being rapidly introduced. As the teams ran on the field the air was rent with cheers and applause and this applause was one continual proformance during the game. The crowd became so in-the game. The crowd became so in-terested and excited that they almost torested and excited that they demost forgot about the big ball game and when the game was finally over they yelled for more herosse.

The game itself was a hard one and was very closely contested. The score—8-2—for the Tecumsehs was by no means an indication of the play. Everyone of the Chicago team are stars and it was only the superb team work and condition of the Tecumsehs that won the game. All through the work and at was only the superb team work and condition of the Tecumsehs that won the game. All through the game the Chicago home who are composed of such men as Sewell, Culbertson, Barrett and Rubidge, made repeated attempts to pass the Chatham defense, but only twice did they land the ball in the nets. Ellott was on his man, Picketing was watching his, Francis checked hard and well, and O'Doherty had his eye on both man and ball and both of them stopped when they reached him. Mr. B. brock has certainly got a star in O'Doherty, of Ottawa, the new point player. The home worked like Ightening and it was their splendid work that won the game. The Chicago defense was like a stone wall and any brilliant individual playing on the part of the Tecumsehs was promptly broken up and they had to work together and depend on each other. Collins, the Chicago point player, stopped many a shot! Morrison, Baston, Stevenson, Muligan and Hayes formed possibly a shot; Morrison, Beaton, Stevenson, Muligan and Hayes formed possibly the strongest defense the Tecumsehs have had to deal with this year. Two or three times, however, they played a little loose and the Tecumsehs took advantage of these spots and put in the goals

MacFarlaine and Stewart played Macrariane and Stewart played faultlessly and half the time the spec-tators who had never before seen a lacrosse game, couldn't keep track of the ball. Their excitement knew no bounds when a player would dive into the scrimmage, secure the ball and duck out from under a canopy of lacrosse stricts of lacrosse sticks.

The game was played in halves in-stead of quarters with eleven men

The Tecumischs remained in Chicago until Sunday at noon, when they started for home, and arrived here at 12 o'clock hast evening.

The following are a number of comments on the game from the Chicago papers:

ments on the game from the Chicago papers;—
In a fast exhibition of lacrosse between the Tecumsehs, champions of Western Ontario, and the Calumets, of Chicago, on the South Side ball grounds yesterday the Canadian players defeated the local team by the score of 8 to 2. The contest was the curtain-raiser for the Chicago-New York ball game, and was witnessed by the largest crowd that has ever saw a lacrosse game in Chicago. The second half was full of brilliant plays, and time after time the bleachers rose to their feet and cheered as if they were at a champonship footers rose to their feet and cheered as if they were at a championship football game. The game of lacrosse was received by the crowd, many of whom had never seen a contest, in a manner that promises great things for its future in Chicago.—Chicago Herald-Riccord.

In the meantime Lord Minto, wno had properly sized up the situation, had a serious conversation with his chief adviser, in which the Governor General used some strong British language, and Sir Wilfrid, with great reluctance, finally consented to disappoint his Quebec following, and allowed Canada to act as a portion of the British empire. Had it not been for Lord Minto's strong words the Government would not have moved in the matter, and the result would have been that Sir Wilfrid would not now be in office. He was saved against his own will, and can well afford, now, to speak pleasantly of the man who saved him.

RENTING A NEWSPAPER.

"Have you anything like that in America?" the London newsdealer demanded, putting his finger on a line on his billhead which read, "Times to end for hire."
"What does that mean?" queried the

"Why, it means I have some custom ers who instead of buying the London Times every morning rent it from me. You see, the paper comes pretty high, threepence a copy, and there's some that wants to read it who really can't afford to pay that price for a morning paper. Threepence, you know, is equal to about 6 cents American money." "And you rent it for how much?"

Wretched Art.

With a noble devotion to a cause which shows no signs of progress the Tailor and Cutter continues year by year to lecture the portrait painters of the Royal academy on the subject of their treatment of clothes. It seems utterly impossible to make painters understand that they should paint things not as they see them, but as the tailor sees them. They simply refuse to do it.

THE LIFE OF A MOTH. The Beautiful Promethen in Its Pilgrim on Earth From the Cradle to

If one manifestation of nature's ways can be more marvellous than another the chief distinction must be given to the transformations of the given to the transformations of the insect world. The beautiful promethes moth emerging from a grey slikes cocoon that has been lying inerent the deak far weeks cannot fail to appeal to the spirit of wonder. A ripping, cutting sound is the first indication of awakening life, as the knives with which the shoulders of the coming insect are armed are used to make a passage through the hard, tough cevering. Soon the head, with its feathery antennae, comest forth, and the queer, misshapen, clongated insect vigorously extricates itself from its shell. It misses the lilac bush, where, in its previous incarnation, it went to sleep last fall. It runs eagerly about hunting for some point of suspension, for without the sid of gravitation those bulbs on its shoulders would never develop interpret aid of gravitation those bulbs on its shoulders would never develop interperfect wings. A book learning against a shelf affords the needed perch and there the process of transformation goes on with strange oelerity. The attenuated body begins to enlarge and shorten and to take on its normal texture and rich colors. One joint after another from the thorax rounds out into shape. While this process is going on the bulbs on the shoulders are forming into wings. The change commences near the body, and the pulpy mass is gradually transformed into beautifully marked, velvety wings. The transformation continues till the pulp is but a marginal band on the wings, but this is still capable of considerable extension before the thin membranes are really completed. Then the beautiful promethes, a female, poses and surveys promethes, a female, poses and surveys a new and strange world, while the newly-formed wings, four inches across, are moved gently and timidly as if to make sure of their existence. This large and beautiful moth is the mature development of the great, thick worm that crawled about last summer and nibbled the leaves of the lilac, witch hazel, ash and a few oth-rer trees. Then it feasted leisurely, a crawling worm. Now it is beautifully equipped for flight, but it can no longer eat, and its life mission will be fulfilled perhaps within the coming night. This moth can scarcely be regarded as the worm transformed, for she excretes in fluid form all the vital, internal organs of her larga existence. Before lapsing in the inert pupa state she casts off her legs and all external organs, including even the head. There is a deepening of the mystery of identity in this casting off of all parts of a previous existence. When the promethea larva decided to retire for the winter she selected a convenient illac leaf and began by winding silk industriously around the twig where it grew. From this foundation she proceeded down the stem er trees. Then it feasted leisurely, s twig where it grew. From this foundation she proceeded down the stem of the leaf, winding it round about and thus spinning a tenacious silk cord. On reaching the leaf she began to fold it about herself, drawing it in gradually at various points until it became a closely enfolding overcoat. Within this covering the exuded thread of silk was wound and wound until it formed a complete strong cocoon cemented securely to ed thread of silk was wound and wound until it formed a complete strong cocoon cemented securely to the enfolding leaf. Thus protected the inert chrysalis slept through the winter, oblivious to frost, snow and rain. Some day we shall discover a means of dissolving the gum with which our moths cement the silk of their cocoons, and then we shall have the raw material for a silk industry. With the approach of evening the promethea begins to manifest great promethes begins to manifest great activity, trembling and pulsating with abundant life. Her beauty is not destined to perish unappreciated, for the closing darkness brings several suitors to the open window. The males are darker and of different form, and live but to fulfill their reproductive mission. Away goes the beautiful lady with dizzy, irregular light, perhaps to fall a victim to promethea begins to manifest beautiful lady with dizzy, irregular flight, perhaps to fall a victim to the night-hawk calling out of the darkness overhead, but more likely to sparingly distribute her eggs on the library with hearly and the series with the series of the series lilacs, witch hazels and chok cherry trees for many miles along her nocturnal course. That purpose achieved, her transient life goes out. But every egg that escapes the para-sitic insects and the nimble warblers gleaming among the leaves hatches out a perfect larva, to complete the same strange metamorphosis.—To-

Lord Minto's Daughters.

Lerd Minto's Daughters.

The English papers, to hand by mail, bring particulars of the last Court for the season, which was held by the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace on June 22. The interest of Canadians naturally centred in the presentation of the eldest daughter of the Governor-General and Lady Minto, and it will come as a surprise to most Canadians to note that Lady Ruby was also presented. It will also be surprising to notice that in the official account of the Court, published in The Times, the only mention of the presentation of the daughters of the Viceroy of Britain's greatest colony was "Ladies Elliott (2)." The Standard, however, had this description, which will interest the many Canadian friends of their Excellencies' daughters: "Among the debutantes were the two elder daughters of the Earl and Countess of Minio, the Ladies Eiliem and Ruby Elliott-Murray, who were dressed alike in white satin mous seline, trimmed with cream chiffon roses and touches of palest green.

Aged Norwegian Settlers.

A rather humorous case has come before the Department of the Interior respecting a Norwegian who came to the immigration agent at St. Paul. The man, whose name is Gilbertson, gave his age as 73, and stated that he was on his way to Wetaskiwin to take up a homestead, so that he could make a home for his mother, whose age was 103. The lady is said to be hale and hearty and able to take care of a home, and Gilbertson himself is a man who would not be taken for more than 55 years of tion to America One of the most interesting features of American immigration is the large increase of Finns arriving on these shores in recent years because of oppression at home by Russia. In 1898 the number of Finn immigrants to America was less than 3,000. In 1899, when the czar issued the fatal decree depriving the people of Finland of their constitutional liberty, the number increased to 12,000, in 1900 to 25, 000 and in 1903 to 50,000. Since 1898. more than 150,000 Finns have come to the United States, and there are now over 200,000 Finns under the American flag. In 1898 Finland's population was 2,000,000, so that 10 per cent of all Finland's inhabitants in the year previous to the czar's decree are in the United States today. As many more have sought freedom in other countries.

FINNISH EXILES.

An Interesting Feature of Immigra

According to a writer in Everybody's Magazine, these exiles were the flower of their nation. They have found employment here in varied industries, A few are goldsmiths and silversmiths; many are "bridgemen" in steel construction work. In Michigan, which has the largest colony of them, they work in the iron and copper mines. There are 1,000 who are fishermen and miners in Alaska. Some are farmers in the middle west.

In New York, Jersey City, Hoboken, Brooklyn and Newark there are fully 15,000 Finns. Of these nearly all the women-in the peasant class, of course are in domestic service, while the majority of the men are carpenters, ironworkers and bridge and house builders.

A Unique Coin.

A four dollar gold coin, probably the only one of its kind in existence, is on exhibition at the Germania National bank in Milwaukee. It belongs to Dr. s valued by the bank officials at $200, although this is only approximate. The piece of gold is of the same diameter as a five dollar gold piece, but thinner. On its face is the well known "liberty head," without the cap, however. Around this are thirteen stars interspersed with the let-ters "6 G 3 S 7 C 7 Grams." The exact meaning of these letters none of the bank officials has ascertained. On the reverse of the coin is a five pointed star, into which is cut the inscription "One stella-400 cents." Around it are the words "E Pluribus Unum. Deo Est Gloria," and around these, forming the rim of this side of the coin, are the words, "United States of America. words, "United States of America. Four Dol," About fifteen years ago this coin was sent to Washington by the Merchants' Exchange bank of Milwaukee, according to the Sentinel of that city, but the only information obtained was that the coin is genuine.

Balloons and Rife Balls Some interesting experiments have just been conducted at Bienne, France, for testing the practical utility of captive military balloons against infantry or machine gun fire. The Paris corre-spondent of the Newcastle Chronicle states that at a height of 800 yards a few volleys sufficed to shatter the balloon, the range, it should be stated, being known in advance. At an unknown altitude varying from 1,100 to 2,000 yards no fewer than twenty-two trial shots were needed to fix the range that shots were needed to fix the range, it was only the sixty-fourth volley that hit the balloon, without, however, doing it any apparent damage. The experiments are regarded as showing that rife fire is not very effective, even against captive balloons, at uncertain ranges and still less so against balloons that are not captive loons that are not captive.

Tom Matthews' Decision

By CYRUS DERICKSON

Copyright, 1903, by K. M. Whitehead

His name was Thomas Matthews, but everybody around the store called him Tom. He had come to the business of Haines & Co. when a boy ten years old, and in fourteen years he had gained the position of bookkeeper and cashier. At every stage he had been complimented on his honesty and fidelity, and the day he took charge of the books and the cash Harris, the active partner, said to one of the

"Well, Johnson, I feel a load off my mind. Tom is as straight as a string, and we need not worry about him. I don't believe that he could be tempted to do a crooked thing." to do a crooked thing."

Never did a young man carry a cleaner record into an office. There had been a thousand chances for peculation, but Tom had not been tempted. If any one had whispered in his ear that temptation was going to get the best of him he would have smiled at the idea. He had put in another year when it came and during that year had married and established a home. The firm had made him a liberal present in cash, and up to the hour of his temptation, had his books been examined and his cash counted, they would have been found correct to a

To oblige a friend he took $50 from the cash account for three or four days. The friend repaid the loan and put Tom on to a "sure thing" in the stock market. Tom invested his week's salary and made $200. It was his first speculation, and the thing seemed so easy that he gave it a whirl a month later and came out several hundred dollars to the good.

The man who wants to speculate can run across "sure things" every hour in the day. Tout had known of scores of men in trusted positions going wrong through speculation, but his name should never be added to the own money, and not a penny belong-ing to Haines & Co. should be put in

That was the policy he pursued for six months, sometimes gaining and sometimes losing; but, of course, there came a day when the market was upset, and he found himself on the wrong side of it and had to "borrow" from the firm to make good his margins. Such a step is always called "borrowfeels himself thoroughly honest. The market continued to drop, and in four or five days Tom was closed out and owed the firm $500 besides. He could have raised that through friends and squared things up, but he had lost by the market and he meant to make good by the market.

"WHAT AM I TO DO?" WAILED TOM.

There must be cashiers who borrow the firm's money and are lucky enough to return it, but no one ever hears of them. It is of those who would re-turn it if they could, but find it impossible, that are held up to public gaze and sent to prison. The $500 became $1,000 and then had $500 added to it a larger sum than he could raise out side. The end of the year was drawing near, and if his books were overhauled he must surely be branded as an embezzler. He had "covered" the shortage in a way, but an expert would un-cover it in half an hour.

The trusted cashier who goes wrong has a choice to make. He can face the music and take his punishment or he can flee the country or commit suicide. He puts off his decision to the very last hour, hoping he knows not what, but the hour comes at last when he must make it. That hour came to Tom Mat-thews, and he remained behind in the office to decide what step he should take. He fully realized that he must choose between the three evils, but the hours went by and he could not make hours went by and he could not make up his mind. He should have left the store at 6 o'clock, but he was still there at 9 and at 9 was yet undecided. As he sat with his face in his hands and the office only disally illuminated by a single gas let something touched him on the arm, and he lifted his head to find a stranger standing beside him.

"You must excuse me for calling so late" observed the man, 'that the fact late," observed the man, "but the fact is I had some difficulty in getting into "Who are you, and what do you want?" asked Tom, more puzzled than startled.

"Oh, as to my name, you can pick out any old thing, but as to what I want, I dropped in to do a little busiess with you.

"But the store is closed." "Yes, I know, and that's my best time for doing business. Don't you savey?"

"You don't mean that you are a bur glar-a robber?" queried Tom, after oking the man over for a mo man who stood before him.

"That's pretty close to it," laughed the man as he sat down on the nearest chair and brought out a cigar and lighted it. When he had taken a few ouffs he resumed: "I've had my eye on this plant for some time, and when I got in tonight I didn't expect to have your company.

How does it come that you are here.

and what's the matter that you look so seedy? I'd been spying on you for half an hour before I entered the office, and I think you've got a peck of trouble on your mind. Let's hear what it is." It was a strange situation, but the cashier was in a strange mood. The caller had said that he was a burglar ind had come with designs, but yet there was a touch of sympathy in his Tom hesitated for a moment and then told him all. The man listened, nodding or shaking his head now and then, and when he had heard all he said:

"Look here, my boy, there's only one way in this thing. You've got to be either all good or all bad. You can't be half and half and make a go of it. I'm all bad, and I get along very well. What are you going to do?"
"For God's sake, what am I to do?"

wailed Tom. "Want to turn bad?"

"Is there money enough in the safe to take you out of the country?" "There's about $800 in there, but I wouldn't touch a penny of it. I've yielded to temptation, but I'm no

"And if you were given a chance?" queried the burglar after awhile.
"A chance! Why, man, I'd live on crusts before I'd put myself in this position again. Think of my fourteen years' record! Think of my wife and relatives!" "Yes The game wasn't worth the Suppose you give me your home address."

"What for?" as he wrote it down. "Just to know where you live. Supose that we also go out now."
"Yes, but—but"—

"Just to get out, you know. I'd like that $800 in the safe, but to get it I'd have to crack you on the head and add to your troubles. If I were you I'd go home and manage to keep this thing to myself for a day or two longer. Come, let's walk out together. Your way is up the street, and mine is down. So long to you."

Before Tom left his house next morn ing a messenger brought a package containing $1,500 addressed to him. An hour after the package had been delivered the senior partner of the was saying to the burglar of the night before: "Well, I'm glad he took it that way, and he shall have his chance. Tom's honest, and we have got to have honest men about us. I don't think he'll meddle with stocks again, and on Thursday when his books are overhauled they will be found all O. K. All right, Simpson; all right. You worked it beautifully."

Stopped a Leak With Sawdust. To stop the feakage of a boat by th use of sawdust appears at the first suggestion ridiculous. It is a method however, employed by backwoodsmer of the Adirondack region.

One day a party having considerable baggage discovered upon loading it in-to a scow at the end of one of the reg-ular "carries" that the boat leaked badly. To delay for repairs would occ sion considerable annoyance, and without repairs to proceed seemed impos-

At this juncture one of the guides said: "I think I can fix it. Just unload the boat again." This was done, and then the guide brought from a sawmill near the spot a quantity of sawdust. This he sprinkled thickly upon the water on either side of the boat.

"Now," continued he, "load up again." This was done, and when the weight again sank the boat the influx-of water through the sides and bottom sucked in the sawdust, which finally accumulated in the crevices, swelled accumulated in the crevices, swelled under the action of the water and actually stopped the leakage.

WASHING DISHES.

The Right Way to Go About Doing This Disagreeable Task, The dirty dishes and plates should be put into a dish tub of warm water at once when taken from the table. By this means half the trouble of washing them will be saved, as it will prevent the gravy juice, mustard, etc., from cooling and drying on the plates and dishes. When you commence washing them add sufficient boiling water to make it very hot and with a dishcloth or mop wash on both sides, one at a time. Then rinse in a pan of hot water or under a running tap. This makes them clean and bright looking and removes any little grease that might re-main. Now put them in a rack or on one side to drain; then polish them.

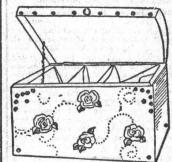

The saucepans and pots which have been used for cooking should be cleaned next. The proper plan is to fill them with warm water as soon as the food has been taken out of them, and whatever may hang about the sides cannot stick or dry on hard, and they will clean much more easily. Clean the insides with soda, and if very dirty the soda should be boiled in them. They should afterward be well rinsed with boiling water and made perfectly dry by being placed upon the kitchen range. Pay attention to the rims of saucepans and the rims and insides of the lids.

If tin saucepans are not completely dry they will soon get rusty, and if per ones are not perfectly cleaned copper ones are not perfectly cleaned and dried they are apt to become poisonous. Never leave food of any kind in a saucepan to become cold. Pittsburg Press.

A Strong Cement.

A strong cement which may be used for mending stone jars, stopping leaks in kettles, to fasten in lamp tops and for all sorts of other purposes is made of glycerin and litharge made to the consistency of thick cream. This cement will resist the action of hot and cold water and is well adapted for the mending of all sorts of things which are intended for use as well as for orment and therefore are supposed to be fit for hard wear. The one point to takes a long time to dry. So after the repair has been made it is well to set he jar or whatever it may be away on a shelf for a week or more that the ce-ment may become perfectly hard before it is used.

Emergency Eag.

An emergency bag is in reality a collection of compartments which the mother of a young family will do well to keep where it can be got at readily. In one all the soft, wornout linen handkerchiefs should be tucked. Another may contain absorbent cotton. Cord of varying thickness is neatly rolled up in balls in another, and one tiny pocket contains court plaster as well as sharp little round bladed scissors to cut it with. A rolled bandage or two of sterilized gauze, and then she is ready for any of the cuts and bruises which come into the daily experience of romping, healthy youngsters.

The glass teapot finds considerable favor among expert tea makers. These pets come from England. They are of stout tempered glass and are delicately trinmed with bands of silver. Beside the pot itself a hollow bull of silver rolls about and by prompt acceptance of the heat of the boiling water pre-veuts the glass from cracking. The charm of the crystal pot lies not wholly in its beauty, but in the fact that the tea maker can see just what she has on hand and the strength thereof.

The German fashion of cleaning knives is much simpler than ours and saves much manual labor. Take a stout cork, dip it into the knife powder, which must be previously mo stened. Place the knife flat and rub it with the cork. In a few seconds the knife will be quite clean and polished and only requires wiping with a duster.

the majority of the crowd had never before seen the Indian game played. The curosity of the spectators soon turned to that of keen interest as the twenty-four hard athletics lined up for the face-off. The Canucks proved their superiority over the local boys in all departments of the game, their teamwork standing out particularly strong. Furthermore, their condition seemed perfect, whereas several of the Calumets were still on the ailing list as a result of their recent hard game at St. Paul.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The Tecumsehs, of Chatham, Ont., entertained thousands of early comers at the White Stockings-News baseball game yesterday by defeating the Calumets of Chicago 8 to 2 in a well played lacrosse match. The Calumets were outplayed both in the attack and in the defense, and the weakest spot of all was in goal, where Collins often left his net absolutely unprotected while trying to do work that belonged to his point or cover point. The visitors profited by this several times.

Tecumseh had things all its own way in the first half, scoring four goals to the locals' nothing. In the second half the Calumets braced a bit and put two balls in the net, but the visitors added four to their total before the finish. The great crowd, only a small part of, which had ever seen the Canadian game played, took to it like small boys to a deserted the good plays.—Chicago Tribune.

The following were the players:

That these are not the light hot weather Suits, that we have had this ummer, is a merit rather than a fault in the middle of August. They will serve men, who secure them, right through the fall months. Yet they are exactly the suits the great majority of men wear all summer. They were formerly sold at $12, 13.50 and 15. The materials were carefully selected from our regular stock. The coats are in single and double breasted sacks, and are nicely lined and fluished. There is quite a variety of styles to select from, and the sizes are pretty well assorted from 34 to 44. The collection includes 175 Suits in which every fabric is absolutely pure wool and the making done by Canada's foremost Manufacturers, They are prizes for the men that secure them for $9.99, that's sure.

Saturday night from eight until tw lv. o'cloca was devoted to one grand celebration of the Brieau season, by the residence of the bar. The summer citizens of this popular resort are a reval crowd and each year they devote one evening to a general gashering of all for a good time. Generally a bon fire on the beach and corn roast or taffy pull has been the feature. This year, however, owing to the lack of band concerts, it was decided that a hop would be much appreciated. The Driftwood Club, of which Mrs. A. C. Woodward and Miss Greening were the prime spirits, took on Saturday Night. Cayuga, Aug. 15.—An electric storm of great violence passed over the vil-lage Saturday evening. Several places were struck. Mrs. Edmund Cousins was sitting in her house when an electric bolt struck the window, and piercing the glass killed her in-stantly. The bolt apparently struck her arm and neck. Her baby, about one month old, was in the mother's arms at the time and escaped, apparently unhurt.

IEN on the morning of her departure from Boston Alice stood beside the train ex-changing the usual goodby words with her brother, she was sur prised at being joined by Blanch and Frank. The former brought her a basket of lunch, sent with her mother's compliments, and the latter an elaborate bouquet of flowers.

"I want to kiss you goodby," said Blanch, and when the two had em-braced, Alice kissed her brother and took her seat. No one apparently no-ticed that Frank was not on the platform when the train started, and when it was well under way Alice was astonished to see him enter the car.

"You will not object to my company home, will you?" he asked. "I thought you might be lonesome, and as I have not had a chance to talk to you since you came to Boston I decided to go up with you. I can come back on the night train, or if you prefer to ride alone I can get off at the next station."

"Oh, no: I am very glad of row

"Oh, no; I am very glad of your company," she replied, "and it was good of you to think of it. It is a long ride, and I have had such a nice time I should have been disconsolate. You did not know," she added archly, "that one reason I came to Boston was to look at flats. Bert wants us to come here and keep house for him—Aunt Susan and me."

"And are you going to do it? I hope so, for that would give me a chance to take you to the theaters." "No, the plan is off for the present," she answered. "Not but that I would like to, but we think it is not best for Aunt Susan."

For an hour they trundled along through the snow clad country, chatting commonplaces, and then Alice said, "Did you meet the island girl last summer that you told me Bert had last summer that you told me Bert had fallen in love with?" "Only once. Bert invited her and the old lady on board the Gypsy and introduced them. They remained only long enough to look the yacht over. I

"How was she dressed?"
"Oh, I haven't the least idea," was "On, I haven't the least idea," was the answer. "She might have worn calleo for all I could tell. The only thing I can remember is that her dress was tight fitting and very plain." Alice smiled.

"Those faraway eyes must have entranced you, your description is so lucid," she replied sarcastically. "How long did Bert stay there after you came

"Only a few days. I never asked him. I told him to keep and use the Gypsy as long as he wanted, and then cut stick for Blanch and—Sandgate."

He seemed to dwell upon the little outing, and Alice, noticing this, fought me the first time I met you."

"I am sorry if I did," replied Frant.
"I did not mean to. Mother fell in love with you the night you sang, and I knew she would. That is why I almost begged you to sing."

When the hills of Sandgate were visible he said, "I have an hour before the returning train and just time enough to see you safely home."

Alice looked at him with surprise.

"And that is your dea of my hospitality," she exclaimed, "to let you go was like that? The morning train is away like that? The morning train is the earliest one you can escape on, and if I am not good enough company for you this evening, you can go and call on Abby Miles."

What a surprised and glad old lady Aunt Susan was when the two stepped off the train. "Don't mind me, Aunt Susan," Frank said with easy familiarity. "I am not a visitor, I am a big brother escorting a lone sister home." How kindly that wrinkled face beamed on him behind her spectacles while he insisted that she stand by and let him unharness and see to the horse as she directed. And how willingly he carried baskets of wood in and started the parlor fire. "I did not know you could make yourself so useful," Alice observed. When supper was over he asked her all manner of questions about her school, when she meant to open it again, how the old miller was, what had become of the boat, how the mill pond looked in winter, and had she been there since the des she gathered ilies. "Alv. ys back to that spot," she thought. When he asked her to sing "The Last Rose of Summer" she exclaimed with a pretty pout: "I do not want to sing that. It reminds me how scared was when I sang it last." "But you brought tears into most of our eyes that night."

"Do you want to weep again?" she asked archly, looking up at him and smiling. "If you say you do, I will

"No," he answered, and then hesitating a moment added: "I do not feel that way tonight. I may when train time comes tomorrow."

Her eyes fell, and rising quickly, like a scared bird anxious to escape, turned away. But a strong hand clasped one of ers, and then she heard him say: "Am I to go away tomorrow happy or miserable? You know what I came up here to ask. You know what I have worked and studied and waited for all the long year since first I saw you and for whom I have tried to become a useful man in the world instead of an idler. It was to win you and to ask this that I came here today," Then she felt an arm clasp her waist

HE winter had passed and March returned when one morning Albert received a bulky envelope bearing the tockholm postmark and contain numerous legal papers and a lengthy letter. He did not notice Frank when he came in or even hear his greeting, and well might Albert be keenly ab-sorbed in those documents, for they made him the emissary privileged to lay at the feet of the girl he loved-a

Then, for the first time, he noticed Frank watching him with smiling in-

When Frank had perused the most interesting of the documents he gave a low whistle and said:

"Now, methinks, somebody will be taking a wedding trip to the Land of the Midnight Sun in the near future, I congratulate you, my dear boy, and you can have the Gypsy when you are ready." Then he added shyly, "Maybe it can be arranged so there can be four in the party."

Like enough, I saw only those who, for the good of the cause, should never have been allowed to wander forth into society. They one and all professed loudly to be in the rudest physical health. It seemed to me they lacked the prope scenic accessories. A floral pillow with "Rest" on it in immortelles, say about here, and a sheaf of wheat tied with purple satin faced ribbon over there would have seemed more natural and suited their complexion better. As to their mental vigor, after I had heard them talk awhile I gave right in to their most cardinal doctrine: A man is what he eats. If he eats beef he becomes of the beef beefy; if he eats

THE PURSUIT OF ANNE.

Jerome Internoscia's Statement of Claim That Is Unique in the His.ory of Breach of Promise Suits, Breach of Promise Suits.

A remarkable bill of costs, with attached declaration, has been made public at Montreal in the suit of Jerome Internoscia, an advocate, of that city, against Vincent Bonelli of Vicksburg, Miss., seeking to recover $2,322.49 for money that the defendant alleges to have spent in pursuing the hand of the plaintiffs daughter, Anne. Internoscia urges that Bonelli interposed between him and the girl, to whom he had become atlianced, and finally drove her to break the love ties; that had been tenderly woven thereby, completely discounting all the effect of the money spent in entertainment and in bestowing presents upon the scenaringly respondent maiden.

The declaration sets forth that the plaintiff became engaged to Miss. Bonelli on August 1, 1902, 2014.

ledge, became a Roman Catholic.

Bonelli fell out with his daughter over her change in faith, although Internoscia did not object, and was agreeable to a Catholic wedding. Finally Bonelli became so much incensed at his daughter's religious obduracy that he is alleged to have banished her from his home. Then Internoscia took Miss Bonelli to the Sacred Heart Convent and agreed to "pay all the expenses of his finance." He also moved at considerable expense into the Belmont Park residence, which had been bought for the appy couple, and stayed there until notified to leave when he returned the keys to Bonelli's son.

Internoscia is a gr, duate of McGill University, and has practised law in Montreal for several years. At one time he was acting Italian Consulhere. The case will likely be tried at St. Scholastique, near the scene of the courtship during the September term of the court.

Mr. Bonelli has filed his answer to the plaintiff's statement of claim. He says that Internoscia cannot charge $2 an hour for time lost in the courtship, because his own letters show that he derived full compensation for his time in the enjoyment of the wooing. In any event, he declares he was not responsible for "the whims and fancies of Anne," the lady in the case, or the lovesickness of Internoscia.

"I first began writing nymns when I was twelve years old, and I wrote under the signature of 'Little Albert' to the penny magazines."
"What is your opinion of childlife to-day compared with your early days?"

Oh," he remarked, "there appears to be a deplorable lack of reverence. It seems to me that the children in the early days of my life were kept closer under parental control. Discipline was more strict. ferent age, competition is much keener, and so forth; still, I cannot help thinking there is far too much time spent in the pursuit of pleasure. Life is not regarded so seriously as it ought to be."

In conclusion Mr. Midlane said he was grateful that his health still permitted him to conduct services on Sunday at the Mission Hall; and he added that he had been a Sunday school teacher for over sixty years, and that if spared until Jan. 23, 1905, he would be 80 years of age. Mrs. Jemims Luke.

The authoress of the favorite children's hymn, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old," was visited the other day at herpleasant home in Newport, Isle of Wight. A representative of Lloyd's found the lady, who is in her 91st year, well and cheerful, though her lot is lonely, as she has survived her husband and all her children. She is gentle and refined, and speaks with a clear, musical voice. Her face lights up with the sunniest of smiles when she is talking about the work which lies nearest her heart—the work of foreign missions. On this subject Mrs. Luke is an enthusiast. In her early days she longed to engage in it.

"When I wrote the hymn in 1841 to which you have referred I was intending to enter the wasting and it."

gage in it.

"When I wrote the hymn in 1841 to which you have referred I was intending to enter the mission field," she said. "At this time I attended the Normal Infant School in Gray's Inn road, and it was there I first heard the air to which my hymn is sung. In 1843 I married a Congregational minister, and went to Chester. Subsequently we removed to Orange street Congregational Church, Leicester square, a church which is historically associated with the coming of the Huguenots as French refugees to the city of London. When I was quite young I was a prolific writer of verse, but as soon as I came to read good poetry I was so disgusted with my efforts that I threw the verses away."

In answer to a question, Mrs. Luke said: "I attend the Congregational Church on Sunday morning, when it is fine. I go in a bath-chair. I can hear the minister best in his prayers. I suppose it is because he is more deliberate. I have sometimes thought I should have to get some kind of ear trumpet for the sermon, but I don't really think I shall, because it must be a little disconcerting to the minister," she laughingly remarked. "How do the little folks of to-day" compare with those of your early years?" was asked.

"Well, I don't know that I can give any opinion," she said, "but I think children are to a great extent what their parents make them. If they have cause to respect their parents then so much the better for the children, but as I say I am not very much in touch with children."

The venerable lady remarked, "When I was young we used to sing the hymns of Jane and Mary Taylor, "Hymns for Infant Minds, as well as those of Dr. Watts, but I think I like the former better than those of Dr. Watts—they are more refined, and I wish they were sung now."

Mrs. Luke settled in the Isle of Wight in the hope of prolonging her servant's life. She was suffering from consumption, and the change did her a great deal of good. In kindly tones the old lady spoke of her servant: "She is an intelligent woman," she said, "and often tells me how the struggle is going on between the Japs and the Russians, and about many other questions of the day."

V.C. HERO.

How the Cross Was Won in Somaliland by Lieut, Smith. For conspicuous bravery in Somali-land, the King has conferred the cov-eted Victoria Cross on Lieut. Cle-ment Leslie Smith of the Duke of eted Victoria Cross on Lieut. Clement Leslie Smith of the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry. Thrilling, indeed, was the act that won the cross. Hospital Assistant Rahamat Ali was hit early in the fight with the dervishes at Jidballi on Jan. 10. Lieut. Smith and Dr. Welland went out to his assistance, and endeavored to bring him out of action on a horse. But Ali was killed, and his two brave would-be rescuers were surrounded by the enemy. Helping the doctor on to his horse, Lieut. Smith turned his head to the lines of safety. Fate was against the two; the beast went down with a crash. A passing mule was caught. There was another attempt to mount; the mule was killed.

Then Dr. Welland was speared, but his dauntless companion stood by him to the end, pouring the contents of his revolver into the surrounding foe.

I was much astonished to find he had escaped with his life," reported Lieut. Stevens to the major-general. Inmate's Legacy to a Workhouse.

At a recent meeting of the Birming-ham Board of Guardians it was an-nounced that a legacy, worth £150, had been left to them by an inmate of the workhouse infirmary. This bald but interesting announcement has, on inquiry, ripened into quite a singular story.
The testator is a man of culture.

The testator is a man of culture. Years ago he was a prosperous merchant, and executed large orders for helmets for the army; indeed, he once fashioned a Life Guards helmet for the King. He spent a good deal of time in traveling on the continent, and was an ardent student of French licerature. He was, however, something of a misanthrope, and lost touch with all his relatives and friends. Of late years he has earned his living as a metal worker, but failing health and lack of energy caused his trade to leave him.

Lying neglected in a squalid lodging, the thought came to him a few weeks ago that he would be much better off in the workhouse infirmary, and a messenger was sent to the relieving officer. The official immediately decided that it was a suitable case for admission, and, incoherentle case for admission, and, incoherently muttering his feelings of gratitude, the old man was removed to the institution. The following day he called on the relieving officer, and handed to him his will, legally drawn up, Few dead-and-gone sovereigns are more liberally represented by relics than Mary Queen of Scots, whose harp was so keenly bid for at Edinburg on a recent Saturday. At Newby Hall one may see the massive fourpuster in which she slept for two nights at Nepne, the historie seet of Paster in which she slept for two nights at Nappa, the historic seat of the Metcalfes, of Yorkshire, and at Low Hall, Yeadon, is treasured a pair of hawking-gloves presented by the Queen to Lord Scrope, her jailer at Bolton Castle. A few years ago Sir James Naesmyth presented to the Peebles Museum a hawk's lure, of wonderful workmanship, which was once her property. At Oxford is preserved a dainty leather glove, embroidered with silver wire and decorated with flowers worked in varicolored silks; at Dunrobin Castle is a cast of her face; and at Hardwicke Hall are tapestries of her working. The Duke of Devonshire has 2 pahe of glass taken from an old hall at Buxton on which the unhappy Buxton on which the unhappy Queen had scratched these lines: Buxton, farewell; no more perhaps my feet Thy famous tepid streams shall ever greet.

And in an old moated house near Alfreton is another pane, on which she inscribed this sad legend: "Trop heureuse en toi; Malheureuse en moi."—Westminster Gazette.

The Earliest World's Fair.

In the centuries before the nine-teenth the nearest approach to an international exhibition appears to have been the Frankfort fairs of the sixteenth century. Henry Estienne, the scholar, describes this institution as "the epitome of all the markets of the world." But it is from an event within the memory of many persons now living that the fairs at Philadelphia, Chicago, Buffalo and St. Louis trace their genealogy. The mother of all such displays was the axhibition held in a palace of glass in Hyde Park, London, in 1851. It ewed its existence to the Prince Consort, and was enormously successful trom every point of view. The Earliest World's Fair.

Routine of a Chinese School. Each Chinese schoolboy must fur-nish his own stool and table for school work and the "four precious articles," which are the ink slab, a cake of india ink, a brush for writing and paper. With these he begins his weary task of learning to write and read the thou-sands of Chinese characters. These are to open the way to the Chinese classics, and a knowledge of this ancient literature and wisdom means education to the Chinese. At the opening of a Chinese school a paper on which is written the name of Confucius is pasted on the wall. Before this honored name the pupils and teachers burn paper money and joss sticks and their heads three times to the floor. The teacher then tells Confucius the day, the month and the year and begs for his favor.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—Rear-Admiral Withoft, who was in command of the Russian naval forces at Port Arthur, was killed during the engagement on Wednesday. The Emperor has received a telegram from Tsingchou, signed by Capt. Matousevitch, the rear-admiral's chief staff, reporting that Withoft met his death aboard the flagship Czare-vitch. Both his legs were blown of. Capt. Wanoff of the Czarevitch, Commander Samoff and several officers were wounded. Several officers besides the rear-admiral also were killed. The battleship sustained severe damage. Her rudder was broken beyond hope of repair.

Five Badly Damaged.

Tokio, Aug. 15.—Admiral Togo reports that five Russian battleships appear to have been badly damaged in the engagement of Aug. 10. The Pobieda lost two masts and one of her heavy guns was disabled. The flagship Retvizan, which was hit several times at a distance of 3,500 vards, seems to have ascertained the greatest injury. The damage inflicted on the Russian cruisers was comparatively slight. The Bayan has not appeared since the engagement

The damage sustained by the Japanese vessels has been temperarily repaired.
