Love a Conqueror —OR— WEDDED AT LAST!

CHAPTER XIX.

"I was proud of my conquest, one which others had attempted in vain; but I did not love Sir Henry Proctor, whom I had known three months when your father, Shirley, came to Dumfries, and Gilbert invited him to Fairholme. He was very gentle to me, but very cold; he disapproved of my conduct, and reproved me more than once; but I loved him with all my heart and soul and strength. I loved him; and there was no woman on earth so happy as I when, one day, a danger to which I was exposed, and from which he rescued me, forced him to betray the love for me which he had hitherto kept concealed, because he was not wealthy enough to aspire to Miss Fairholme. Ah, how happy I was!"

"My brother did not receive the news of our attachment very cordially. Mr. Ross was not rich, and his profession was seriously against him, in Gilbert's opinion. Still when he saw that my happiness was involved, he consented to an engagement between us; but we were not to be married until I was twenty-one—a condition to which we both agreed willingly. Shortly afterwards Rowland went to Rome to continue the study of the art he loved.

"I missed him greatly, for I loved him with my whole heart; but my love did not prevent me from continuing my flirtation with Sir Henry Proctor. My engagement, the news of which he had received very calmly, did not seem to trouble him at all; he was just as devoted as ever, but he did not put his devotion into words and so I was off my guard. I thought he was willing to look upon me as a friend. He often met me in my rides and walks and he was a most agreeable companion.

"One day—ah, how clearly I remembered all its details afterward, although they made so little impression upon me at the time—we were riding together at some distance from Fairholme. I was unattended, for I rarely rode with a groom, but Sir Henry's servant was with him. A sudden and violent storm came on, which frightened the horses and compelled us to seek shelter. We found it in a wayside inn where they were able to accommodate the horses, and Sir Henry and myself were glad to dry our clothes by the kitchen fire. We were laughing and chatting merrily over the mishap, when the innkeeper's wife came in to ask if we would take any refreshment. Sir Henry answered at once, 'Yes; my wife would like some tea, if you please.' 'And what will you take, sir?' 'Some toddy,' he answered, laughing; then when she had left us, he turned to me, merrily asking how I liked the position I had assumed—or rather which he had given me—as his wife.

"We were very merry over it; and when the woman came back, Sir Henry spoke frequently of his wife, and I laughed and coquetted and called him my husband, and told the landlady that we had not been married long, and said many other foolish things. I dare say, Sir Henry said laughingly that I had been engaged to some one else, but that I preferred him; so I had thrown the other fellow over and had married him. And the landlady laughed too, and said she did not wonder, for Sir Henry was handsome enough to make any girl false. And all this time Sir Henry's groom was standing in the kitchen, a distance from us, but where every word reached him distinctly.

"Well, the storm ceased, and we rode away, and I thought no more of our adventure. Sir Henry came daily to Fairholme—and he was too agreeable and pleasant not to be missed; he did not come—and the month passed on until I was approaching my twenty-first birthday; and I began to look forward to Rowland's return.

"But one day—oh, Shirley, shall I ever forget the day?"

Shirley had been reading attentively and without a pause for some time when she reached this part of the mother's narrative, and during the last few minutes she had grown terribly pale, and an expression of intense horror was creeping slowly in to her wide dilated eyes. Now she stopped, pushing the sheets of paper from her with a quick passionate movement; and, as she rose from her chair, the letter fell fluttering down at her feet. She did not heed the falling sheets as she moved away from the fire, pushing back her hair from her face with a wild trouble gesture almost of despair. She did not know what horror had come upon her; she was trembling from head to foot in an undefined agony of fear her breath was coming in quiet gasps of terror, and the throbbing of her heart might almost have been heard in the stillness of the room. For a few moments this terror held her, then it passed away, and she forced her stiff livid lips to smile at the pale, horror-stricken face as she saw in the looking-glass as she passed on her way back to the fire.

She stooped, lifted, with little remorseful tender fingers, the fallen sheets and smoothed them out, pressing them, with a passionate revulsion of feeling, to her lips; then, still trembling a little and very pale, she sat down and recommenced to read.

"But one day—oh, Shirley, shall I ever forget the day?—your niece came into the room where I was writing to Rowland, and, with a sternness he had never shown to me before, handed me a letter from Sir Henry Proctor, claiming me as his wife. I remember how I laughed, and said gayly that Sir Henry must have taken leave of his senses; but Gilbert's gravity never changed. He sat down and desired me to tell him all that had happened at the inn. I made light of it; but he interrupted me. 'Marian,' he said sternly, 'this is no jeering matter. In this country there are marriages called irregular marriages which are as binding in law as any others. Persons with no intention of marriage may become married, even when they do not know that they are legally held to be so. If the facts are as Sir Henry Proctor has stated them in this letter, there may be the greatest difficulty in proving that you are not his wife.' I looked at him in surprise, with a feeling of intense horror creeping over me. 'May I see the letter?' I said steadily; and, when he gave it to me, I was able to read it calmly, and to acknowledge that Sir Henry had merely related what had occurred at the inn where we had sheltered during the storm. But I could not believe, even when Gilbert assured me of it, that that could possibly constitute a marriage. Of course legal assistance was sought immediately and the eminent lawyers whom my brother consulted gave conflicting opinions. One said that I was Sir Henry's wife, another that it was no marriage; but I saw then the danger to which I had exposed myself. Heaven only knows how I suffered during that terrible time! Of course Rowland had to be told; and, as soon as he came to Fairholme, Sir Henry pressed his claims upon me, and all my entreaties were in vain. At first Gilbert, anxious to avoid scandal, and firmly refused to have the case referred to the law-courts; but my passionate pleading—I threw myself at his feet, Shirley, until he consented—last succeeded. Shall I tell you the result, my daughter? A few words spoken in jest at a wayside inn in the presence of witnesses made me the wife of a man whom I had never loved, but whom now I abhorred. I was Sir Henry Proctor's wife. It was a matter that I had not given my consent, that I was ignorant of the boniface marriage law in force in the country I loved so dearly; I was his wedded wife. I think they believed that I had been a consenting party and that I was willing then to accept a richer suitor than Rowland. Ross had that I had consented to this irregular marriage to avoid the blame which a suit so justly incurs. But so that as it may, I was his wife. A long period of darkness followed Shirley. I was very ill—sick unto death—and I was better when I went home to Sir Henry's magnificent estate—a wife who hated her husband and despised him for the treachery at hand caused her misery, who loved another man with all her heart.

"Shirley, how can I tell you this? How can a mother confess to her child what will perhaps make her espouse her and hate her for the same she has brought upon her name? How can I tell you how my endurance failed under the misery and wretchedness which were my constant companions? My health ve way; a terror of death without seeing Rowland again came over me. I struggled against it in vain. I could not feel that I was married in the sight of Heaven; and one day I left Sir Henry's house and traveled away and night to come, where I knew Rowland was. I remember seeing him gitated, startled, rapturous face; then consciousness left me.

"When my senses came back, I was lying in a strange room, with a strange nurse bending over me. I had been ill many days, she told me; but he would not answer any questions with wide, unseeing eyes, then the white lids sank, a ghastly pallor over-spread the lovely face, and all grew lark as she fell back in a merciful unconsciousness.

—only soothe me to sleep; and I was too weak to be very curious, or to feel anything deeply. But, as days went on, my strength came back, and with it my recollection; and I suffered an agony of distress when I thought of the shame I had brought upon a name hitherto honored and unstained, and that I myself had sunk to the lowest level and was worthy only of contempt. I was almost quite strong again when I saw Rowland, and the sight of his pitying compassionate face, so altered and sorrowful, almost broke my heart, and I longed to die. But I was well enough then to hear the news which he brought me; and he told me in his grave tender voice that I was free now—that Death had freed me. Sir Henry Proctor, on his way to Rome in pursuit of me, had been one of the victims of a terrible railway accident in the south of France.

"You know the rest. Your father loved me enough to share my shame and misery, and we were married. With what intense love, what heartfelt humility, I became his wife you cannot guess, my child; how earnestly I prayed for his happiness is known only to the Healer of Prayer and my own heart. That he was happy I believe, and I think I helped to make him so. But of his goodness, his patience, his unflinching love for the erring woman whom he made his wife I cannot speak, even to you. You were not too young when you lost him to appreciate his nobility, and, my child, that you will always reverently remember is my truest wish.

"And now, my darling, I must cease. I am very weary, and I have told you all. Forgive your mother, Shirley, and think kindly of her, if you can. She has sinned much, but she has suffered; for all the love and peace of so many years of her life have not blotted out her regret for that irrevocable past. May such love be yours, my daughter, but not such regret! Heaven forever bless you, Shirley!"

That was the end; the piteous confession was finished, the last words were read; and Shirley's hazel eyes were raised slowly from the pages over which she bent. For a moment she stared straight in front of her

Mrs. HANNAPORD, of 43, Aspland Grove, Hackney, says:—"I am writing to tell you the greatest benefit my little girl has derived from Virol. In March last she had a very serious illness which reduced her to a mere skeleton—so bad that the bones came through her skin. The doctor who was attending her said the only thing that would pull her up was Virol. Before starting her on it, her weight was 1 stone 7 lbs. 2 ounces, her age being 5 years 7 months. She is now 6 years old, and her weight is 3 stone 2 lbs. 3 ounces. Her illness left her so weak that for three months she could not keep a particle of food down, but the Virol—that seemed to feed her and strengthen her chest. She is now a picture of health. I shall recommend Virol everywhere, in cases of wasting or delicate children. It has been my little girl's true friend."

Ladies' Dress with or without Chemise and with Long or Shorter Sleeve.
Brown checked gingham with trimming of tan chambray is here shown. The design is appropriate for all wash materials, and will develop equally well in silk or cloth. Green linen with white embroidery for trimming would make a cool dainty frock. Blue and white wash silk finished simply with stitching, and worn with a chemise of fine lawn would also be pleasing. The fronts of the waist are cut low and finished on one side with a smart revers. The neck opening reveals the chemise, which may be omitted. The skirt shows a new back, with dart tucks, the fullness of these tucks may be arranged in gathers. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. It requires 6 yards of 36 inch material for a 36 inch size.

The Dog-in-the Manger Woman.

By RUTH CAMERON.

If her husband neglected her, that would be one thing; or if before marriage she had not had share of the masculine attention which every woman craves as her inalienable right. But her husband is really much nicer to her than the average run of three-year-wedded husbands; and before marriage she had rather more than her share of masculine attention. So you can't account for it on either of these grounds.

And now I suppose you want to know very well then. "She" is the dog-in-the-manger woman and "it" is her habit of trying to annex every nice young man she meets, despite the fact that she is successfully married and has no right to distract their attention from marriageable girls.

As I write, I am thinking of a young married woman in our neighbourhood, but I am sure there is one in yours too, for the type is very common.

This particular woman has a younger sister living with her—a very sweet and very pretty little girl, but not so vivacious and instantly attractive to men as herself. Now if this woman would stand completely aside and give the younger girl a fair chance, I know the young men of the neighbourhood would soon come to appreciate the latter's quiet sweetness and charm. But the married sister insists on occupying the foreground and so outshining and outsparkling the younger girl, that by contrast the latter seems lifeless and uninteresting.

A young married woman is always attractive to young men. In the displace, when a man is looking for a wife he goes about with a chip on his shoulder (so a young man once expressed it to me). That is, he is constantly watchful lest the girl who attracts him should in some way fail to measure up to his standard. But when he is with the young married woman he is not looking for a wife and hence he admires more easily because his critical faculty is not on the alert. Again, a great many young men of to-day are terribly afraid that some girl is going to marry them before they know what is happening. With the married women they are more at ease because they need have no such fear. And yet again, the unmarried woman who is, consciously or unconsciously, waiting for a husband, is often so anxious to please that she defeats her own purpose and becomes unnatural and hence less attractive. The young married woman, on the other hand, is free to be perfectly natural, and in being so doubles her charm.

Of all these facts the dog-in-the-manger woman takes advantage, consciously or unconsciously, in her campaign. I call it a campaign, but, of course, she really never wins anything except, at best, an empty and useless admiration, a cheap excitement and an undesirable stimulus, bought at the cost of vitiated powers of normal enjoyment; and, at worst, deep unhappiness perhaps for herself alone, perhaps for two other people.

Perhaps after all it is the dog-in-the-manger woman I should pity more than the little sister she outshines. I wonder!

Household Notes

Bake a small portion of beans in a little earthen jar the size of a tudeup and put it in the children's lunch boxes. Such a cup is good used for custards scalloped potatoes or a favorite pudding.

Get a nickel's worth of stick glue at your druggist's and put three or four pieces at intervals in the soil around your fern. Do this three or four times a year, and you will notice a marked improvement in it.

To soften brushes that have become hard, soak twenty-four hours in raw linseed oil and rinse in hot turpentine. Or they may be washed in hot soda and water with soft soap.

If new enameled saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water, allowed to come to the boil and then cooled, they will be found to last much longer before either cracking or burning.

A pair of long, wooden knitting needles are most excellent for draining doughnuts. As the doughnuts are fried slip them on a needle, and when it is full, rest it on the top of a pan to cool. The doughnuts do not crush and the lard drains off.

Maple sugar frosting will make a plain cake into something extra fine. Use one cupful each of maple and granulated sugar, a teaspoonful of butter and three teaspoonfuls of cream. Boil five minutes and stir till slightly thickened. Dip the cakes in.

To restore scorched linen, peel and slice two onions and extract the juice. Add to it half an ounce white soap, cut up; two ounces fuller's earth and half a pint of vinegar. Boil together, then cool and spread over the scorched spot. Dry, then wash the linen.

When winding a skein of wool, try starting the winding on the tag which comes attached to each skein. Then when the ball is used up, you have the tag, giving the maker's name, quality, etc., and there will be no difficulty in finding out where and how to match the wool.

Choosing the Cuspidors

Had a Stroke of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mrs. R. Bright, 215 Booth avenue, Toronto, writes: "Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

Choosing the Cuspidors

Rev. Alexander McGillivray, the well-known Presbyterian minister in Toronto, is credited as being the regulator of an amusing story concerning an actual incident in a Canadian kirk.

It seems that in this particular church there were some careless young fellows who got into the bad habit of expectorating on the floor. The nuisance had continued for some time when the pastor's patience finally came to the breaking point.

He attended a meeting of the church session and explained the situation to the pillars of the kirk.

"I am afraid if this expectoration continues we will have to have a couple of cuspidors," said he.

Up rose one of the aforesaid pillars and gravely asserted that immediate action should be taken on the request of the minister.

"I move," said he, "that we nominate David McPherson and Sandy Campbell as cuspidors." — Canadian Courier.

"Boats for All" Main Idea for Safety at Sea.

Pontoon Rafts Agreed On Where Full Use is Made of Available Space.

London, Dec. 21.—The Committee on Life Saving Appliances appointed by the International Conference on Safety of Life at Sea has agreed upon the recommendations which will come before the full conference early in January.

The principle of boats for all has, according to the Times, been accepted subject to the proviso that where fullest use has been made of the space available for fitting davits pontoon rafts may be provided for 25 per cent. of those on board, with life-boats of a recognized type for the remainder.

On the initiative of the American delegates, an important recommendation is made relative to the danger from fire, namely, that no passenger vessel should ship a cargo of such a nature or stow it in such a manner as might be calculated to endanger lives or the safety of the ship.

Other recommendations relate to patrols for the detection of fire and steam pumps for extinguishing it; regulations for the manning of passenger vessels and the number and qualifications of boat hands. On the latter point a great divergence of opinion was shown.

The American delegates suggested one year's service at sea as the qualification, while other delegates favored three years' service. Eventually recommendations were adopted in accordance with the current practice on large steamships.

As the committee comprised thirty experts, representing all the nations participating in the conference, it is believed the Congress will adopt the recommendations.

Fifty-Five Canadian Farmers Leave For Australia.

London, Dec. 23.—An interesting sidelight upon the problem of imperial migration is presented by the increasing number of Canadians and Americans who are emigrating to Australia.

To-day's despatches from Sydney report the arrival of a further party of 55 Western Canadian farmers on their way to the Victorian irrigation settlement. The reasons assigned for their migration are the superior climate of Australia, which removes the necessity of feeding stock during the winter, the higher returns from land, greater marketing facilities and cheaper land.

There is also an increasing number of irrigationists who are taking advantage of the excellent facilities at the new irrigation settlements in New South Wales and Victoria, and are transferring their capital and energies to Australia.

Rev. O. G. H. Lloyd Ordained at Brockville

The O. G. H. Lloyd son of Mr. G. B. Lloyd of this city was ordained deacon on Sunday Dec. 21st, 1913. The ordination service took place at St. Peter's Church, Brockville. This was a return to the custom of holding ordination from time to time in parish churches, and the people much appreciated the selection of St. Peter's for the purpose, and the rector, wardens and lay delegates presented an address to the Bishop, who held the Ordination, who is the Rev. E. J. Blinwell, D.D., the Lord Bishop of Kingston, Co. of Ontario. Rev. O. G. H. Lloyd was one of three deacons ordained. At the same ordination a deacon was raised to the priesthood. The Rev. The Harmsworth Enterprise.

The news that Lord Northcliffe will on the advice of specialists, owing to some affection to his eyes and ill-health, give up his newspaper responsibilities will be received with regret in Newfoundland. We hope, however, that the news is ill-founded and that he will not find himself forced to sever his connection with journalism. His one-time great rival, Mr. Cyril Arthur Pearson, once the proprietor of the London Standard, was forced to give up his newspaper activities on account of an affection of the eye. It would be a singular coincidence if such should be the case with Lord Northcliffe. Mr. Pearson was trained under Sir George Newman and became his manager of Tit-Bits and other publications. After four years of management he started Pearson's Weekly on the style of Tit-Bits, and then started the London Express, and branched out widely in newspaper enterprise, obtaining eventually control of the London Standard. Alfred Harmsworth started "Answers" with Mr. Beton, the President of the Anglican Newfoundland Company at Grand Falls. Its immense success led him into newspaper enterprise, and he then started The Daily Mail, on the lines his brother, Harold Harmsworth, had started a newspaper in Glasgow. It proved an immense success. This led to other enterprises in the magazine and newspaper line and eventually he obtained control of the London Times. It would be very singular, if his activities in these directions were brought to a close from a cause similar to that which curtailed Mr. Pearson's activities. So singular would it be, that it is highly improbable and we hope untrue. The efforts of the Harmsworth group is to control also the paper and ink supply. This led to the Grand Falls enterprise, and to the Imperial Paper Co. factories. While Northcliffe is looked upon as the journalist of the group, Sir Harold Harmsworth, who was raised to the peerage last week, is regarded as the financier.

Here's to You and Me and POSTUM

—the pure food-drink that meets the desire of young and old for a palatable table beverage which is wholesome and satisfying.

Postum is made only of clean, hard wheat and a small per cent of New Orleans molasses. It has a delicious, snappy flavour, but is absolutely free from caffeine, the drug in tea and coffee, which causes so much headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, nervousness and heart trouble.

Tea and coffee drinkers can learn something of value by a 10 days' change to Postum. Then, as the poison, caffeine, is eliminated from the system, the brain works clear, nerves become steady, and the gradual return of peace and comfort will show plainly.

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be boiled 15 to 20 minutes.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A scant teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water dissolves instantly.

The convenience of Instant Postum is apparent. But, when prepared according to directions, both kinds are exactly the same. The cost per cup is about equal.

The Wrestling Challenge.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—In a letter signed "One interested" which appeared in your issue of the 3rd, concerning a wrestling challenge there is a paragraph which runs—

As the Public are aware the championship has since changed hands and we all should like to see Andy (O'Keefe) once again try to regain the laurels.

Now Mr. Editor, what I wish to explain is this, that in the event of O'Keefe defeating Hammond this would not give O'Keefe the title, as neither Hammond or O'Keefe are Bantam weight the championship which O'Keefe once held, and it is questionable whether either of them could weigh in as Featherweights.

Yours truly, ANOTHER INTERESTED. Jan. 5, '14.

Mr. O'Keefe Replies.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—As many of my friends are anxious to see me take up the challenge recently issued in your paper, by Mr. Hammond, I would like to say, before formally accepting that challenge, that I would like to know what class and what weight Mr. Hammond expects to enter with; in other words, is Mr. Hammond challenging me for the Bantam Championship of King Charles, of Roumania, recognizes that the existing conditions of the Jews in his country are untenable, and has resolved to alleviate them, he to-day so informed the leader of the Jewish movement. His Majesty declared that he had reached this decision after taking into consideration the fact that so many Jewish soldiers had participated in the recent Balkan war. As a constitutional monarch, he said he must first come to an understanding on the subject with the legislative bodies. The question of persecution of Jews in Roumania, of whom there are about 270,000 in a population of 7,250,000, has given rise to discussion in various parliaments of Europe, and in the American Congress. The last occasion on which the subject was brought forward was in the Austrian Parliament on Dec. 17th, 1913. Count von Berethold, the foreign minister, then said that there was no likelihood of foreign powers taking any direct action on a matter which he regarded as a purely domestic one for Roumania.

3-Reel Feature AT THE CRESCENT.

The Crescent Picture Palace opens its fourth week with the dramatic bill yet produced at this very popular and up-to-date movie house. The principal picture illustrates the advantage Lincoln J. Carter's most wonderful production, "Bedford's Hope," and a surprise is in store for the Crescent patrons on Monday and Tuesday afternoon and night. It was at some considerable expense the management succeeded in securing Bedford Hope. The comedy, Foolishness Hypnotized is very laughable. David Parks, Baritone, sings: "Not till then will I cease to love you." The above programme will only be presented to-day and to-morrow. The Crescent never repeats but gives three entire changes of bill including song every week, providing also a special bill for the special matinee on Saturday afternoons. Every night makes new friends for the palace which is well lighted, heated, ventilated and absolutely fireproof.

If Meals Hit Back And Stomach Sours.

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends Indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in five minutes.
If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes. Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation. This city will have many "Pape's dyspepsia, or any stomach misery. Yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.—Oct 10

Sent Home Incurable.

The ambulance was called out Sunday morning and conveyed a man named Snow to Bowring's wharf where he took passage by the S. S. Prospero for his home to the northward. The unfortunate man was recently discharged from the General Hospital as incurable, having lost the use of both legs as the result of a chill he received last year.

The Storm.

The streets of the city were practically deserted yesterday, owing to the incessant downpour of rain. During church hours citizens resorted to the street cars wherever possible.
The storm was not felt up country to any extent, and very few of the telegraph lines were interrupted.
A heavy sea ran across the mouth of the Narrows which hindered shipping from entering or leaving port.
INSTALLATION.—Atlantic Lodge, No. 3, I.O.O.F., will hold its installation this evening, in their hall, after which a banquet will be given. A good time is assured all those who attend.

On next Sunday an address will be given on the "Land of the Rising Sun."

Rough Trip.
The Red Cross Liner Stephano, Capt. Clarke, arrived in port at four o'clock this morning from New York and Halifax, after one of the stormiest trips on record. From New York, which was left on Tuesday last the ship had a favorable time to Halifax, but from there until this port was reached heavy gales and mountainous seas were continuous. The run took 2 days and 17 hours. In fact it was the roughest ever experienced since the ship came on the route. Early this morning fog was met and the ship had to be carefully navigated to port. She brought a full general cargo and the following passengers: From New York—G. N. Stephens, Miss M. Roberts, Miss E. Roberts and four second class. From Halifax—G. A. Bennett, C. A. Eastbrook, W. G. Parsons, R. D. Adams and three second class.

The Missouri River.

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Slivash."
The Missouri River is a multigay-colored stream which rises in Montana and infests seven states before it finally joins the Mississippi, which loses all its morals after meeting it and becomes a nomadic river of highly irregular habits.
The Missouri is almost 3,000 miles long, and is generally about half a mile wide. It is composed of sandbars, snags and water in equal parts. It is navigable as far as Omaha by steamboats, and above that by craft, canoes and large cottonwood trees.
The Missouri River is now chiefly used as a boundary line and is almost a total failure in this respect. This is because it has no fixed place of residence. The Missouri is always moving around from township to township. It is more restless than a flat-headed woman in a large city. It is one of the few rivers in the world which not only drinks but eats. The Missouri lives on banks and cornfields. It is harder on banks than careless cashiers. It is forever sidling up to a nice clay bank and eating about three miles of it. After it has taken a few mouthfuls of bank it begins on the cornfields back of it. The Missouri can eat a 100-acre corn field in a week, and show no ill-effects—that is, it will look no worse than before. But the cornfield will.
As the Missouri grazes upon the country like a gigantic cow, it moves rapidly from place to place, leaving neglected and deserted behind it. The government has attempted to improve the river by fixing lights on its banks and removing the snags, but as soon as one section is improved the Missouri moves out and flows happily through a forest ten miles away, acquiring several thousand brand new snags. If Iowa and Nebraska move their state line as often as the Missouri does, citizens along the banks would have to look in the weather reports each morning to discover which set of laws to obey.

When the Missouri isn't eating cornfields, it is dodging slyly around the end of some railroad bridge and compelling the company to build a new span. The government requires the railroads to maintain draw bridges across the channel of the river, but has neglected to provide detectives to keep track of the channel.
The Missouri is a grand and peculiar sight, but the man who finds a use for it will be one of the wonders of history. We should like to see the Panama canal gang try its hand at keeping the Missouri in the same place for a few years.

Healthy and Unhail by Lighting.
Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—
"Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.
He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and venting had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.
I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which in the old days was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three-hour dinner, but which with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter been employed, with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of apoplexy.—Vivian B. Lewis, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—Nov 8, tf

Here and There.
FISH CARGO.—On Saturday the schooner Lief, left Marystown for Operto, with 3,168 qrs. of codfish.
SIX ARRESTS.—On Saturday evening, the police made six arrests. The offenders were all ordinary inebriates.
ORE FROM BELL ISLAND.—About a fortnight hence, the big ore carriers will stop running to Bell Island. This season's ore shipment will be the largest yet.
AT ST. PATRICK'S.—Rev. P. Kelly sang last mass at St. Patrick's yesterday, after which he delivered a practical sermon exhorting the congregation to begin the New Year and to continue in their good resolutions.

Put a "V" in Your Re-s-olutions Instead of an "S."

Have a few "Revolutions" this year instead. There is something pitiful about a Resolution anyhow. A resolution is merely a comrade of the week. Making a resolution simply means a striving to get back to where you were. A strong man or woman ought to be ashamed to make one.

But a REVOLUTION means getting forward from where you are. It means taking another step. It means advance. Put a few Revolutions down on your calendar and in twelve months more you will be laughing at this Hoo-doo year just passed.

What kind of Revolutions? Every kind? Whatever we are doing to-day should be changed to-morrow. For, if what we do or what we are is perfect, then all that is left for our friends to do, is to inscribe our tombstone with the final date.

Yes; Revolution is the thing—the mighty thing. If you have been living from day to day and from hand to mouth, start a revolt in your home and a Savings Account in your Bank. If you have been living on hopes and aspirations and the things that are going to be, start a revolt against dreams and fight for the accomplishments of to-day.

And above all start your Revolutions against the trivial wastes of Time and Money and Energy—the uttering of life.

If you have been spending thirty minutes a day in getting shaved, start a revolt against that waste of Time. Buy a Safety Razor. Come down in the morning with a clean chin and twenty-five minutes of relief to your fighting day.

If you, Madam, have been wasting your day with Eighteen Century ultiles in your home, remember that Twentieth Century Utilities and Implements are here, waiting for you. This is the day of gas and electrical appliances, of washing machines and Vacuum Cleaners and a hundred other new conveniences. This is the day of prepared foods that help you to be something more than the family drudge.

And for you, Sir, this is the day of business efficiency, where a new office case or a new office device or a new system of activity may mean a bigger forward step for you than any revolt in history.

And above all, our revolt should be against that lethargy of mind which lets us go on from day to day half seeing half hearing, half thinking—half alive.

If there are new things in this paper for us to-day, new methods, new ideas, let us take them and annex them to ourselves. Let us weigh CONSCIOUSLY all things that are offered for our betterment, and refer them to our WILL for decision NOW.

Father Shot His Son Dead.

Paris, Dec. 10.—An extraordinary tragedy occurred in Paris to-night. A popular English vaudeville performer, known on the stage as Harry Fragon, was shot and killed by his 84-year-old father, Victor Pott.

Fragon had dined at a restaurant, and on the way to the theatre at which he has been appearing, called at the apartment which he occupied with his aged father in the Rue de La Fayette. He found the door bolted, and was kept waiting a long time before it was opened by his father.

High words ensued, and suddenly the father seemed to lose all control of himself. He drew a revolver and the son fell with a bullet in his head.

The report of the revolver brought to the scene those living in the adjoining apartments and the police. The son was hurried to the hospital, where he died, and the father was taken to a police station.

The feeble old man was greatly shaken, and trembled as he told in a somewhat rambling way his story to the police commissary.

He had bought the revolver, he said, with the intention of committing suicide because life had become unbearable. His son had brought a woman to the house in spite of repeated protest. To-night, he declared, he had been waiting for his son, and he meant to kill himself and draw the pistol. What passed he did not understand, but instead of putting a bullet in his own temple he fired at his son. Why, he could not explain.

The janitor of the apartment house and neighbors informed the police that they had often heard the father and son quarrelling, but never dreamed such a tragedy possible in view of the great age and feebleness of the father.

Joke Enjoyed By all Paris.

Paris, January 1.—Everybody in Paris, except the city councillors, is still enjoying a New Year's joke played on the city by an enterprising newspaper. Suspecting that the city budget involving the expenditure of $88,000,000 would not be passed before the hour of midnight on December 31, as required by law, the editor of the newspaper posted a lawyer in the city hall where the councillors were in session and when the final vote was taken at a quarter to one this morning, the lawyer drew up a statutory declaration duly signed to that effect, thus rendering invalid all expenditures made by the city in the event of anybody testing the point before the courts.

The newspaper magnanimously announces to-day, however, that it will refrain from bringing the entire civic system of Paris to a halt by obtaining the nullification of the budget, and says it merely publishes its declaration of the facts for the edification of its readers.

Reveals Jewels For Freedom.

Brandon Man., December 29.—Edward W. Murphy, born in Toronto, who was sentenced in October, 1909, to seventeen years imprisonment for stealing jewellery worth $5,000 from the store of W. H. Mallett here, has been released on parole under unique circumstances, while still having six years of his sentence to serve.

Though Murphy was arrested shortly after Mallett's store was entered by a window, the jewels were never recovered.

Murphy at the trial offered to reveal them in return for his liberty and repeated the offer when Captain J. C. Ponsford, formerly of St. Thomas, Ont., took charge this year of Stoney Mountain penitentiary where Murphy was confined.

Find Jewels Intact After Eight Years. The authorities at Ottawa finally agreed to grant Murphy parole on condition that he recovered the valuables and he was brought here under guard. After a long search many landmarks having been removed in eight years, the jewels were found, barely hidden under the earth, close to the C. P. R. roundhouse.

Murphy says he will return to Toronto.

NEW SOUTH WALES LOAN. London, Dec. 29.—The Standard understands that New South Wales will shortly issue, in London, a loan of fifteen million dollars. No further particulars are yet given.

Port Elgin, N.B., December 26.—The Port Elgin Fish Company have exported 35,000 boxes of smoked blotters, containing about 100 fish each, to New York. It required 15 cars to carry this one consignment. Over nine thousand dollars was spent here for these fish, which were all taken in about three weeks' time. The highest catch made by one fisherman amounted to $280, which is not bad pay for about twenty days' work.

The W. S. Harkins Players

ARRIVED HERE YESTERDAY.

The members of the W. S. Harkins' Company, arrived here last evening. Evidently Mr. Harkins is not superstitious as he has a company composed of thirteen. To-night they will open their engagement in the great New York and London success, "Bought and Paid For." The advance sale of tickets indicate that the house will be filled to capacity. One thing the theatre-goers of St. John's can look forward to to-night and that is that "Bought and Paid For" is one of the greatest plays ever presented on any stage, and those who attend to-night will agree with this statement when the curtain falls. Mr. Harkins has not chosen "Bought and Paid For" as his opening play, because of the fact that it is his strongest play, because he has many others just as strong in his repertoire, such as "All-as Jimmie Valentine," "The Master of the House," "The Confession" and others which are to be presented later on. Seats are now on sale at the Atlantic Bookstore. Book yours early to-day.

The New Year.

The year is young and joyous, the year is glad and gay, no gloomy doubts annoy us, as we jog on our way. We've shaken all bad habits, we're righteous as can be, and so, as bithe as rabbits, we gambol in our glee. No more from brimming flagon we'll blow the creamy foam, no more, with Alpine jag on, we'll go at midnight home. The despatches are deserted, we scorn the demijohn, the jugs with which we flirted are banished now and gone. We've fired the old rank briar that caused domestic strife; we're striving for the higher, the better, nobler life; we've joined the moral fogies who are in virtue versed, and shun the long black stogies which smell like wienerwurst. No more to buck the ponies our footsteps will be bent; the bank will get our monies and pay us three per cent; we'll dodge the stale devices that every spend-thrift knows, and swallow cherry ices instead of tangletoes. Our pledges are not shallow, they're founded on the rock; and every man a halo will wear around his block. Now may the gods who guard us from their siesia rouse, and brace us and reward us with strength to keep our vows! Oh, may our lives be holy while this glad New Year stays, and may we never slowly drift back to evil ways!

Juvenile Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Juvenile T. A. & B. Society, was held yesterday, a large number attending. Seven new candidates were enrolled, and the membership was reported to be now over 400. It was announced during the meeting that a valuable prize has been given by Inspector O'Brien to be awarded to the best all-round boy for 1914, which announcement was received with great enthusiasm by the members. The Guardians also stated that arrangements were being made for the annual track, which will take place in the Armoury towards the end of the month.

Mother Is Child's Stomach Sour, Sick?

If tongue is coated or if cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine! Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

ROADS BAD.—The different country roads are in a wretched condition as a result of yesterday's rain storm.

Sale of Work.

The ladies of the congregation of the Church of the Good Shepherd, under the presidency of the teacher, Miss Irish, held a tea and a sale of work on the 29th inst. The sale was opened by the Incumbent, the Rev. G. S. Templeton, at 6 p.m. There was good exhibition of very useful articles and in a very short time after the opening of the sale all the goods were disposed of. As for the children they had a tree from which they purchased such things as suited their tastes. Without any doubt both old and young enjoyed what may be called a "good time." The gross proceeds amounted to $37.50.

A Matter of Understanding.

"Hallo, George, you are looking pretty fit. The last time I saw you, you were limping quite painfully and you had an inflamed corn."

"Right enough. I'd forgotten about that, but it was bad while it lasted."

"How did you cure it?"

"My druggist noticed I was limping and recommended me to try Zylex, which I used according to directions. That fixed it up in quick time. Removed the inflammation and made it possible to deal with the corn. Oh! Zylex is a good thing right enough. It's good for many skin troubles, too. We always keep a box in the house. You can get it at your druggists' for 50 cents a box.—dec29,14

Coastal Steamers in Port.

The coastal steamers of the Reid Newfoundland Company have closed operations in the northern and western services for the season and are all now in port except the Meigs which is due here to-morrow, having left Humbermouth yesterday. They will undergo a general overhauling during the coming two months to fit them for next season's work which will begin again early in the spring.

Smallpox at Belleoram.

Dr. Brehm was apprised on Saturday evening of an outbreak of smallpox at Belleoram. The number of persons who are down with the malady was not given, but as the report said that the disease had shown itself in five different houses, it is not unlikely that there are a dozen persons, at least, suffering from the ailment. Dr. Fitzgerald, of St. Jacques, is attending to the smallpox patients, and is enforcing the strictest regulations in order to prevent the disease from spreading. This latest outbreak of smallpox is supposed to have been brought to Belleoram from either English Hr. East or English Hr. West. At both these places the disease made its appearance recently, and even at present, there is a patient at English Hr. West not fully recovered.

Meeting of H. N. Society.

The meeting of the Holy Name Society, held yesterday in the Aula Maxima, of St. Bon's College, was largely attended. Rev. Fr. Sheehan, the Spiritual Director, explained the object of the meeting and was followed by the President, Mr. T. J. Walsh, who made a brief address. The reports from the various branches of the Society were read and adopted, after which the election of officers was conducted by Mr. J. P. Grace, and resulted as follows: President—T. J. Walsh, re-elected. Vice-Pres.—Jas. Whalen, elected. Treas.—J. P. Stapleton, re-elected. Secy.—J. C. Chafe, elected. Asst. Treas.—T. A. Murphy, elected. Librarian—W. Miller, elected. Marshal—D. Clatney, elected. Asst. Marshal—G. Lynch, elected.

After the officers were installed, each thanked the meeting for the honor conferred on them. Mr. J. Ryan then spoke at length on the general work of the Society, and was followed by the Spiritual Director, who sincerely thanked the members for their past kindnesses, and requested their hearty co-operation with the newly elected officers and himself, to make the coming year the most successful in the annals of the society.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The alteration or misprint of a letter in my note re Mr. P. Narcott's accident, would seem to infer that Mr. P. was injured, instead of injured. We hope he has not suffered two ways. Apologies to Mr. Rogers.

The C.B.B. Society, accompanied by its flourishing Juvenile Branch held the annual parade on New Year's morning, and attended Divine Service at St. Paul's Church. Rev. Canon Noel preached a most suitable sermon from 10th chap. of Numbers and 29th verse. On returning to the hall, a unanimous and very hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Canon for the excellent sermon and service generally. The singing of the National Anthem brought the 1914 annual church parade to a close. The day was very suitable to the occasion and the turnout was very enjoyable.

Miss Annie Fogarty passed away this morning after a long illness. The funeral takes place to-morrow from the residence of Captain Maurice Fleming, with whom this old lady lived for a number of years.

"What a small bottle of Stafford's Essence of Ginger Wine can do."

From the 10th of this month up to the 24th we sold 1,000 bottles of Essence of Ginger Wine.

This is an average of 66 bottles a day. One 10 cent bottle of this Essence of Ginger Wine makes 3 quarts. Now "Just a minute," please. 3 quarts makes 120 ounces. A wineglassful holds 3 ounces. Therefore you obtain 60 glasses of Ginger Wine from one little 10 cent bottle of the Essence, so that by our having sold 1,000 bottles we have provided 60,000 drinks for persons, supposing that only one drink had been taken by every person. This is utterly "impossible" we mean (one drink for each person) because once a person having taken one drink nothing in this world would prevent them from having 5 or 6 more.

The reason is simple. "They know a good drink when they taste it!"

The sales for Stafford's Essence of Ginger Wine has exceeded all other previous years, just the same as:— "Stafford's Liniment," "Stafford's Prescription "A" and Stafford's "Phoratorns Cough Cure" have done.—dec26,14

THE EASTERN TRUST COMPANY.

The business of the The Eastern Trust Company is to administer Trusts. In this work it specializes, and it does no other. But no kind of trust is foreign to its scope or beyond its power to administer efficiently.

The Eastern Trust Company never speculates. It invests. It depends for its prosperity upon the efficiency of its management of its clients' business and upon the security of its investments.

The Eastern Trust Company executes the office of executor or administrator with unexampled efficiency, and its usefulness in this field is becoming rapidly more availed of.

For instance:—In St. John, New Brunswick, where it has quite lately established a branch, the estate of James Ready, of Fairville, which has been sworn to under $651,300.00, is being administered by The Eastern Trust Company as one of the joint executors of Mr. Ready's will.

In Halifax, Nova Scotia, again, The Eastern Trust Company has just been chosen to administer the estate of Captain William Fleming, which is valued at more than half a million dollars.

The Company now administers many estates which is value amount to several millions of dollars. Particulars will appear in later advertisements.

The Eastern Trust Company can execute this function of executor or administrator as efficiently in Newfoundland as it can in Nova Scotia, Quebec, or New Brunswick.

The Eastern Trust Company requires commodious offices on Water Street. Apply to ### Retirement of Lord Northcliffe.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, Jan. 4. Lord Northcliffe, newspaper publisher, who has been suffering severely from weak eyes for some time, will on the advice of specialists give up much of his newspaper responsibility and go abroad. Several operations have been performed. Northcliffe suffered intensely, and his health generally is bad. According to the gossip of Fleet Street, Lord Northcliffe has got rid of all his immense newspaper holdings, including the Daily Mirror and the Daily Mail, while other publications controlled by him have been acquired by his brother, Sir Harold Harmsworth, Bart., who was made a Baron at the New Year's honors this week. It is believed Lord Northcliffe will retain control only for a time.

The New Pantomime.

JACK AND THE BEAN STALK. This week's pantomime will be all fun and lots of it, at Rossley's. We know when we hear its all fun, we can prepare to laugh. Jack and the Bean Stalk will bring back to our minds how we followed the hero Jack in the story to the Giant's home where the Great Giant held his captives until rescued by Jack. Mrs. Rossley has all new costumes for the children with lots of novelties introduced. Jack Rossley will play the role of the Giant's Cook, and we all know what that means. The Rossleys have also gone back to their original policy and are giving two shows nightly. How the children will revel in this pantomime: It will be one great big laugh. The Imperial Ballet have another new dance while the Bunny troupe have also another great act, that is just twice the price of admission. A word to the wise, be in time and be prepared to laugh.

Wedding Bells.

MECHAN—BLACK. At five o'clock Saturday evening in the Chapel of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Mr. John Meehan, eldest son of Mr. Charles Meehan, was united in matrimony to Miss Mary, daughter of Mrs. and the late James Black. The Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, V.G., officiating. The bride, who was handsomely dressed, was attended by her sister Miss Helen, who was also neatly costumed. The groom was supported by Mrs. J. O'Flaherty. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the Railway Station and joined the train en-route to St. John, N.B., Montreal and Halifax on their honeymoon tour. A wedding supper was held at the residence of the bride's mother, Freshwater Road. The newly wedded couple are very popular and were the recipients of numerous valuable and useful presents. On their return from Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Meehan will reside at 63 Military Road. The Telegram joins in the congratulatory extended.

This same unfortunate man was in the Lunatic Asylum before.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, Jan. 5, 1914. In this changeable winter weather, when a comparatively frosty day is followed by a raw chilly one, and that in turn by a mild day, the care of the skin becomes a problem not easily solved—unless you keep a crock of Cream of Lillies at hand all the time. Then the matter is simple enough. No steady user of Cream of Lillies and of Cream of Lillies Soap bothers much about the weather so far as the complexion and skin are concerned, because these preparations take care of them sufficiently well. Why not try them yourself? Cream of Lillies, 25c. a pot; Cream of Lillies Soap, 20c. a cake; 50c. a box of 3 cakes.

An Expedition Into the Arctic Regions.

THE STORY OF AN ADVENTUROUS TRIP FROM ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND, TO BAFFIN'S BAY.

The lure of the wild has a fascination for A. W. Scott, born in Owen Sound, known in many parts of the world as "Lucky Scott." The title was partly gained by the fortunate ending of many thrilling experiences, and partly because of good fortune in experiences in numerous mining districts. His early life in the house of his father, a Methodist minister, gave little indication of his restless disposition. His blood, however, inoculated with the adventure microbe, life in ordinary civilization becomes irksome to him after a short stay. He is the typical pioneer, one of the class of men who have wrested from the wilds the wealth of the civilized world. Their reward is chiefly in the zest of so doing; the feeling of power which men gain, whose lives are spent in a never-ending battle with nature, and the dangers that attend it.

"Lucky Scott's" adventurous spirit has taken him into many parts of the world, and his experiences have been filled with that danger which merely adds a zest to the exploits of the true wanderer.

(G.B.G. in Red and Gun for January)

"LUCKY" SCOTT and some of the arguments that went with him early in the summer of 1912, in quest of a golden fleece that was supposed to be hidden up in Arctic regions drifted back to New York, and reported that no gold was found, at least of the sort that could be taken away with profit, but there were whole heaps of adventure, including the rescue of a ship's crew from the ice and a few narrow escapes of the sort that Mr. Scott has grown accustomed to; and such a store of furs, ivory, whalebone, and other valuable commodities were brought back, that the leader of the expedition figured out there ought to be a handsome profit for "Northern Ventures, Ltd.," as the company interested is called.

Incidentally the members of the expedition did missionary work of a certain kind while in the northern latitudes. They taught the Arctic belles the American turkey trot, to the accompaniment of ragtime tunes from phonographs, and it is anticipated that this winter many an igloo will lose its smollient characteristics, and echo with Eskimo endeavors to perpetrate the "poultry of motion" as some one has termed the dance, admitting, of course, that an igloo can echo.

Of course, Mr. Scott is not "Lucky" by name. He is A. W. Scott of Toronto. "Lucky" is a characteristic that has been his in mining and other ventures. His companions—and most of them, it is understood, were picked them up at Button's Point on August first.

"We left St. John's, July fifteenth, and struck ice just as we were entering Davis Strait. According to the old sealers we had on board, the Neptune was the first ship that ever went north through the Middle Baffin's Pack. We bucked the ice for six hundred miles, and several times it looked as if we might be stuck in a pack for eighteen months. The only diversion in this time was afforded by polar bears, of which we killed many. It was on this part of the journey that we got a young polar bear that Osgood Pell brought home for the Bronx Zoo. We had killed his mother and I lassoed the cub while it was swimming."

"We were nineteen days in the ice, clearing it at Pond's Inlet. There Vassar and myself left the ship and went ashore to prospect for gold. We took no provisions, intending to depend upon our rifles. We made the journey with a small dory, a sledge and dogs. It was twenty days before we could get back to the ship, and those on board thought we were lost and spent the time in trying to reach us, but the ice kept them away. We had expected to get back to the ship in three or four days. The journey ashore had to be made over ice thro' open spaces of water. It was twenty-six miles to the shore, and it took us from early in the morning to night-fall. We had taken Eskimos on board, and with us on the journey to the shore were four of them, two men and two women.

"We found the country thereabout inhabited by Eskimos, and we traded a good deal with them, getting many furs and much ivory, and some valuable whalebone. The biggest animal in the region is the polar bear and there are lots of duck on which we practically had to live.

"We spent the whole time ashore in prospecting along the banks of the Salmon River. The country proved to be of a gneiss and granite formation which gives a slim prospect for gold. In fact, there is no gold in the region. We did find copper, and immense deposits of bituminous coal.

"While we were on shore, the men on the ship became alarmed for us as they knew we had taken nothing to eat, and outfitted two expeditions in the attempt to reach us. They kept trying to drive the Neptune in our direction, but the pressure of the ice was too much. Then one day Vassar and I and one of the Eskimos made an attempt to get back to the ship. It was a terrible journey. One of us or another was overboard most of the time. Night came on and we had left the dogs ashore and carried the boat over the ice and paddled between the floes. Every few minutes it filled with water and we had to bail it out with but our hats. A heavy storm came up when we had got within a mile of the ship and we could get no further, but we had to make our way back to the shore. I have had many narrow escapes, but that night I guess I was closer to the last day than ever before in my life.

"The next day the ship managed to get into a harbor but she could not make the place where we were. She was cornered by the pressure of the ice to Eclipse Sound, about twenty miles away from us, and some of the company and some of the Eskimos made their way over the ice to us. Then the Neptune managed to get out again, and took us aboard, together with several Eskimo families, and fifty dogs. We attempted to reach Vassar and I to the north, as we wanted to take a look at the reported copper strike, but we encountered such heavy ice in Admiralty Inlet that we were forced back, and had to run south for shelter.

"At Admiralty Sound we met the most northerly Eskimos. They came on board, and proved to have a good deal of fur and ivory. We traded liberally with them, giving them everything they wanted, such as tobacco, flour, biscuit, hard wood, iron and fox traps. Also we let them have guns, ammunition, and phonographs. These people are very fond of music and have much talent in a musical way. If you hum over a tune once an Eskimo can immediately play it on a concertina. The women are good waltzers, too, and immediately learned the turkey trot, which some of the younger members of our party taught them, and dancing helped us to while away some of the evenings. We took the Eskimos on board to scrape the animal skins and make us fur clothes.

"We encountered a great many icebergs on the way back to Pond's Inlet, some of them further south than we had seen bergs on the previous trip. We had once to tie to a pack and wait for the weather to clear, but the ice forced itself around us to such an extent that it looked as if we should get jammed. We made an attempt to reach the musk ox country, though our coal was running short, 550 tons having been burned already, but every time we were turned back by heavy ice, until finally we ran to Button's Point for ballast and water. Here, on account of heavy sea, we could not take either on board, so we decided to come south, and left September 2nd for Blacklead Island, about one thousand miles from where we then were. This

Any Letter Any Moment.

Have you not often found it of vital importance that some letter, some quotation or some record should be promptly obtainable? By the adoption of the Globe-Werkolce system of filing and transferring papers any letter of any date can at any moment be instantly produced. Is not this pretty near perfection? island is the most northerly point where a missionary station has been established. There the Rev. E. W. T. Greenshield, a Moravian missionary from England has been working for twelve years, and if ever a missionary has served his Master faithfully, Mr. Greenshield has, according to the evidence about there. He wanted some supplies, and asked to be allowed to pay for them, but we gave him a boatload of things, and threw in a phonograph and fifty records.

"I was almost forgetting that while attempting to make Blacklead Island we went on the rocks. We were steaming when we struck. We had an Eskimo for pilot, named Tom, and I want to tell you that those people know a lot about charting. Why, they can draw a coast line three hundred miles long, and not miss a single inlet. While on the way down we were in a fog, and Tom came to us and said we were too near the shore. The Captain was on the bridge.

"Tom squatted on the deck, took a piece of chalk, and drew on the deck a crooked line, showing the coast line. 'Over there,' he said, pointing ahead, is this headland. We are almost on it.' I rushed him up to the bridge, and the Captain handed the wheel over to him. Tom threw the helm hard down. Just as we turned, sure enough, an enormous jagged cape rose out of the mist in the course we had been steering.

"There were twenty-eight feet of tide at Blacklead Island. It was about eight o'clock in the evening, when we attempted to make it, and our skipper misjudged the tide, and the first thing we knew we were up on the rocks. All our false keel was carried away, and by forming an endless chain of men we shifted the ballast, and, having put out a kedge anchor, we worked the vessel off when the tide came in.

"The missionary at Blacklead Island had only one white man there with him, a Dundee trader, and this recalls that just as we were getting ready to leave the island, a boatload of Eskimos arrived there and reported the loss of a vessel called the Sedni Satni, belonging to a Mr. Grant of Dundee, Scotland, and commanded by Captain Cannon, with a crew of eighteen, and sixty Eskimos. This practically wiped out a settlement of Eskimos, who had been taken on board to hunt for Walrus. The Sedni Satni broke down in a gale and nothing was seen of her afterward but wreckage. She is supposed to have gone down in June. This story was shouted to us by Mr. Greenshield from his boat as the Eskimo craft came alongside of him.

We had a rough passage down to St. John's arriving there September the fifteenth. No, I do not consider this expedition a failure. We brought back between ten thousand and fifteen thousand dollars worth of furs, three thousand pounds of ivory, which is worth two dollars a pound; two hundred and fifty pounds of whalebone worth five dollars a pound; about one hundred white and blue fox skins, five thousand five hundred feet of moving picture films, and one thousand six hundred photographs.

"There is much talk up in those regions about Peary and Cook, and the controversy is still fresh among the Eskimos. No, I won't tell what they are saying. I don't want to get into an argument. But I do want to say that everybody who has gone up there and traded with the Eskimos has robbed them, and I will exclude none. The natives have had no incentive to hunt. I simply turned them loose

Chas. H. Billings, of 248 W. 17th St., writes: "For years I have been suffering from asthma and bronchitis. A week ago I purchased a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief and have taken a teaspoonful in water before retiring each night. The relief I have experienced is marvelous. I most heartily endorse R. R. R. CURES ASTHMA. The specifics for this disease are the Ready Relief, the Resolvent and Radway's Pills. The Relief must be rubbed on the chest and throat until a burning sensation is produced, and the Pills must be taken frequently to keep the bowels thoroughly open. The Resolvent must be given at short intervals, in small doses, and a demulcent taken at night. Give a teaspoonful of the Resolvent whenever a paroxysm occurs. RADWAY & CO.

among my stock, and let them take what they thought was fair in exchange. Yes, I had a few gum drops, but not many. I took up what was useful. I had eight hundred pounds of tobacco for them. They all went this, and men, women and children smoke. Why, I met a man who had once made a journey of six hundred miles to the south, accompanied only by his dogs, just to get a supply of tobacco. When we got to Admiralty Inlet, old Chief Nassau, a fine old man nearly one hundred years old, greeted us with the remark, "Heap hungry tobacco."

"We passed a great many whales up there, and there is no question that whaling will be revived. There will be two or three ships going up after whales next year.

"An Eskimo can do with a match what no white man can. He can split one safety match into four good matches. Then when one quarter is burned, twenty people can light their pipes from it.

"One night, while going up the Salmon River we saw two birds, of which I had never heard before. They were so big we took them for polar bears. The sun was up at the time, and we could see well, though by the clock it was night. We followed those birds for miles. They did not attempt to fly, but the nearest we got to them was half a mile. The Eskimos called them "deer birds," and they say they come from the south. They are afraid of these birds. The two we saw were fully five feet tall, were white, and had a red splash down the back.

"No, you couldn't call our expedition a failure, when you take into consideration the fact that we saved the lives of twenty-four men. The crew of the Algerine had remained practically in the spot where their ship was lost. They had few blankets, and most of them were suffering from cold. They were living on an allowance of four biscuits a day. A day or two before we reached them, three of the party had started to find the government cache at Albert Sound, and if they could have brought provisions back from this they could have subsisted two months. They had planned to head for the south in small boats, but if they had started they would never have got through the ice. We picked up the three men after we had got the main body.

"One curious result of the report of gold in Baffin's Bay was that when we got to St. John's we found a lone Swedish prospector who had come all the way across the continent from Nome to try his luck up there."
