CHAPTER IV.

He did not tell Lady Marcia that Lady Cecil had boasted of the beauty of Lady Gladys—had spoken of her as the future Lady Stanhope. He did not tell her that he had been brought to the bazaar against his will to appraise his beautiful niece. Much in the same way as he would have done some handsome horse, or special breed of dog.

"And are you sorry you came?" demanded Lady Marcia.

Sir Charles looked at her doubtfully for a moment; then his eyes wandered to Gladys, and he said, most sympathically:

"No, Lady Marcia, I am not sorry that I came."

She smiled to herself when she saw the rapt look in his eyes. She had seen the same glance fixed upon herself five-and-twenty years ago; she remembered the fierce declaration of Edgar Emden. He would never give her up, in spite of fifty fathers! He was angry with her because she refused to marry in secret, but he returned, and they kissed with tears.

Five-and-twenty years ago, and no word had been heard of him since. People believed that he was dead—murdered by Sir Charles Hastings, his brother-in-law; killed in a quarrel and his body cunningly hidden away.

The most eminent detectives had failed to trace him from the hour that he was seen to step from a French window at Emden Hall, in angry dispute with Sir Charles Hastings. Sir Charles had been acquitted by a legal tribunal, but few doubted his guilt. That was twenty-five years ago!

CHAPTER V.

"Five o'clock, and the tea-bell is ringing!" cried the happy, boisterous voice of Lord Cecil Stanhope, as he pushed his way to Lady Gladys' stall. Lady Gladys' father followed closely upon his heels.

"Forgive me for deserting you, Hastings, but I see that you are in good hands. So many people here that I know, and Lord Howard has been simply besieged right and left."

The earl smiled pleasantly. He was living again for the first time in many years.

"Do not fatigue yourself, Gladys," he observed to his daughter. Her heightened color did not escape his quick eyes. "You have been standing a long time, and the weather is oppressively warm."

"I am not at all tired, papa. Oh, we have been so busy! Mademoiselle Lamartine and I. Auntie commenced very well, but for the past quarter of an hour she has been quite lazy! We have taken nearly fifty pounds!"

"If I have been lazy it is Sir Charles Hastings' fault," laughed Lady Marcia. She glanced at the young baronet significantly. "But we have had a pleasant conversation."

"Let us adjourn to the pavilion," suggested the earl. "And Mme. Lamartine will take charge of the stall for half an hour. Three cavaliers and only two ladies. I will give place to youth and beauty and walk in the rear. What lovely heartiness, Gladys! Your taste is perfect."

Lady Gladys blushed prettily, conscious that the eyes of both Sir Charles and Lord Cecil were upon her. A glad thrill shot through the baronet's heart.

He had not noticed that the earl's daughter was wearing his flowers until now.

"To the pavilion, by all means," said Lord Cecil. "Lady Gladys, will you permit me to escort you?"

He seemed to elude her by right, and Sir Charles could not help a slight frown contracting his brows, and a pang of jealousy sending a sudden dark flush into his cheeks.

Gladys gave him a swift glance, as she stepped to Lord Cecil's side, and Sir Charles fancied that it was almost one of reproach.

"You need not give way altogether to youth and beauty, my lord," went on Stanhope, jestingly. "I forgot to tell Hastings that Miss Ada Craythorne is waiting for him." He turned to the frowning Sir Charles, adding: "We have just left the Craythornes, and Ada informed us that you were to be her cavalier!"

He glanced knowingly at his friend, and Sir Charles mentally conigned Lord Cecil and Ada Craythorne to the South Sea Islands. But he was forced to be outwardly polite, at least, and started in quest of Miss Craythorne.

At sight of him her black eyes gleamed with pleasure, and the disappointment that had been slowly spreading over her handsome face gave way to gratification.

"Oh, Sir Charles!" she cried, "ten minutes behind time! Mamma and Flossie have gone, you see!"

"I am sorry," apologized the baronet, "but I had no idea it was so late until I heard the tea-bell, and then I could not come at once without breaking from my friends."

He did not tell her that he had quite forgotten any appointment.

The knowledge of his remissness propped him to make some amends by a far greater show of gallantry than he intended, and Miss Ada Craythorne's heart was in a whirl of delight. Her mamma and her sister Flossie had seated themselves near to the Earl of Swinford's party, and when she and Sir Charles entered the pavilion, Lord Cecil winked enviously in the direction of Lady Marcia and the earl, and declared that it was love at first sight!

Though a gentleman by birth and education, Lord Cecil's sporting proclivities had brought about his class of people whose loudness and vulgarity he had unconsciously adopted. Never before had his defects been so apparent to Lady Gladys, and she felt that she almost disliked him.

And his remarks concerning Sir Charles were in very bad taste.

She looked across at Ada Craythorne, and regretted that she had been so foolishly impulsive as to accept flowers from a gentleman who was practically a stranger. Not only that, she was wearing them. And the baronet was bending toward Miss Craythorne, his face smiling as though he were paying her some pretty compliment.

"Why so pensive?" exclaimed Lord Cecil. There was a tender infection in his tones, and Lady Gladys smiled brightly, although in her heart she resented his only too apparent air of proprietorship. "Isn't Hastings enjoying himself? I told him five minutes after his introduction to Ada Craythorne that it would be a match, she is very handsome, and all that, but I do not admire those very dark women."

He looked at her meaningly, and his voice sank to almost a whisper.

He had spoken to the earl about Gladys that very afternoon, and the earl had encouraged him by saying that his daughter's choice of a husband did not rest with him. It would be time for him to interfere when she mediated some piece of egregious folly.

"Do you know, Lady Gladys, that those heart's-eyes are the very color of your eyes? Who gave them to you?" Then conscious that the question was somewhat rude, he added: "I beg your pardon."

He had seen a sudden flash in Gladys' eyes, but it passed away as quickly as it came, and she smilingly took the knot of flowers from her throat, saying:

"As you admire them so much, Lord Cecil, you may have them, if you choose, I can get plenty more."

Stanhope's face flushed joyously, and in a moment the lovely flowers were in one of the lapsels of his coat. What more favorable token could he have of Lady Gladys' sentiments toward himself. Had they been alone he would have promptly declared his passion.

This little scene had been witnessed both by the earl and Lady Marcia, and the latter was pained and surprised.

In a short time Ada Craythorne found her way to her mother's table, with Sir Charles in attendance. She could not afford to let the world remain ignorant of her latest conquest. Everybody wanted to know who and what the distinguished-looking fellow was, and Sir Charles accordingly found himself, much against his will, the center of attraction among a dozen or more lovely women. The fact of his being a guest of Lord Cecil Stanhope, and a friend of the Earl of Swinford, placed him in the front rank of desirable acquaintances. The Craythornes, too, were people of undeniably good standing, though not tolerably poor.

Lady Craythorne was making much of Sir Charles Hastings. Would he accompany her and her daughters home after the bazaar, unless he had a prior engagement? Ada endeavored to subjugate him with a flash of her magnetic black eyes, but Sir Charles would have pleased a prior engagement, had his eyes at that moment not rested upon his flowers, the heart's-eyes he had given to Lady Gladys, stuck jauntily in the button-hole of Lord Cecil Stanhope. There were pain and fury in his heart. He felt that he hated the man who professed to be his friend. He could never take his hand in friendship again.

THE WHALE'S TWO HUNDRED TONS OF FLESH.

It is an erroneous idea that the animals of past ages—mammoth, mastodon, and the gigantic reptiles whose fossils have been found—were far bigger than any living creatures of to-day.

The mammoth was not bigger than its living representative, the great elephant of Africa, which often stands eleven feet high at the shoulders and weighs five tons.

Again, the skeleton of a species of reptile of past age, which has been given the name of diplodoca, and which can be seen in the Natural History Museum in London, is eighty-four feet long—almost three times the length of the biggest crocodile.

Misleading Measurements.

But, as Sir Ray Lankester points out in "Secrets of Earth and Sea" (Methuen), we must not be misled by this measurement as to the creature's actual bulk, for the tail is forty feet long and whip-like, whilst the neck is twenty-three feet long, and carries a small head not bigger than that of a horse. The body, apart from the neck and tail, was really only a little bigger than that of a large elephant.

No extinct animal approached the existing whale in either bulk or weight. He is eighty to ninety feet long, and has neither neck nor any length of tail. His outline is egg-shaped. He weighs two hundred tons—forty times as much as a big elephant—and is supported without any strain on his structure by the water in which he floats.

Probably he cannot exceed some ninety feet in length and two hundred tons of bulk on account of the relatively great increase of proportional size and power required in the heart to propel the blood through such a vast mass of living tissue and keep him going as a warm-blooded mammal.

Medium-sized bags of cheesecloth are nice to put vegetables in when they have been prepared, and are to be kept in the refrigerator.

A MOVING PICTURE ALBUM.

Will it ever become practical and common, I wonder, for people to have records made of their speaking voices, and moving pictures of themselves in some characteristic act, as keepsakes for their family and posterity? Of course some people do that now. But I mean the ordinary, well-to-do person.

I do not see why it should not come within the reach, not only of the class that has had his portrait painted, but also of that class which has artistic photographs taken at $40 or $50 a dozen. I know a family in moderate circumstances whose bill for pictures of the children taken at Christmas was $90. Surely the day will come when $90 would buy a moving picture of the children playing together or clustering about mother in the Children's Hour, and a record of their voices.

And think what an interesting, fascinating keepsake such a film and such records would make!

Old Fashioned Dances.

Then instead of the set pictures of mother as a girl and a young wife there would be half a dozen pictures—mother in her first dance gown dancing some of the old-fashioned dances (such as the fox trot and the Sally); mother in her wedding dress walking up the aisle; mother at the head of her table when the table was only set for two; mother bending over her first baby or bathing his royal highness, mother going to walk with a cluster of youngsters; about her; mother in her rose garden.

Think what a joy it will be to be able to so fully recreate this young mother in the days when mother has become a grandmother with white hair and whatever style of dress grandmothers will wear in those days!

Will Love It.

And what a joy not only to grandmother's children and grandchildren but also to grandfather and to grandmother herself! And then imagine the fun of seeing one's younger self in action. Just the old pictures are fun enough but how much more amusing these vital moving pictures would be.

As the generations roll by every family will presumably accumulate in place of the family album a collection of films in which the children will be able to see their grandparents and great-grandparents wearing the quaint dress of the older days and following its strange customs. Doubtless, in course of time, these pictures will be done in colors and other improvements that we do not now dream of will probably be made. One prophet promises that they will be so taken as to give a sense of depth instead of flatness.

Too Fugnant!

The possibilities of records of the voice do not open quite so many fascinating vistas but if you will im-

Agree how strongly your heart's desire would be pleased if you could see the voice of some dear friend speaking from the victrola you can imagine how precious such records might be.

Perhaps all this might be somewhat too distant. There are records that bless and burn. I will admit there is an element of the macabre in the whole idea now. But I fancy you should soon get used to it as we are to all the wonders man plucks from nature. And doubtless turn our eyes eagerly toward new wonders that we have not the imagination to even dream of to-day.

Yesterday's Outbursts.

FIREMEN RECEIVE TWO CALLS

A piece of smouldering rag, thrown carelessly in a cupboard was responsible for calling out the Central and West End Fire Companies yesterday forenoon. Shortly after 11 a.m. an alarm of fire brought the firemen to the residence of Mr. Crumney, Hamilton Street. On arrival at the scene an investigation discovered a piece of burning rag which had been used in cleaning a stove, and which had been thrown in a cupboard. After the cause of the trouble was removed the all out signal was rung in.

TO CLOSE MINES.

At 5 o'clock last evening the Central and East End Fire Companies were called to Bannerman Street where a slight fire was discovered at the residence of Mr. John White. Sparks from a chimney igniting the roof caused the blaze. Very little damage was done.

Runaway Horse.

WAGGON CONSIDERABLY DAMAGED. Two young men and two ladies had a nasty spill near Bowring Park yesterday afternoon, when a horse owned by Mr. Dowden, truckman, took fright. The party were driving in a dog cart and when coming out of the Park the horse took fright and dashed along the road. The spring of the vehicle broke and the occupants of the carriage were thrown to the ground, but fortunately they were not injured. The horse was stopped near Dr. Parson's residence by the mounted police. Besides having a broken spring the wagon was otherwise considerably damaged.

BAIT PLENTIFUL.

Herring in abundance struck at Topsail yesterday, but very few were taken, as at present there is no market for the fish except a little for bait. Caplin are still very plentiful at Holywood and residents are hauling them for manure.

"Unseen Forces"

ABOUNDS IN DRAMATIC INCIDENTS. LARGE AUDIENCES WITNESS HOLIDAY PROGRAMME.

"Unseen Forces," a powerful screen story abounding in dramatic and pictorial values, which opened an engagement at the Nickel last night, is one of the most fascinating motion picture entertainments ever offered to the amusement loving public of this community.

The story is new to the film world, for it concerns the experiences of a beautiful young woman who is possessed with an uncanny power which enables her at times to foresee future incidents. It is wholesome and refreshing, and more than that, it brings a comfortable message to many. A childhood romance between Miriam Holt and Clyde Dranton develops into a real love affair. Then Clyde seeing Miriam in the arms of Joe Simmons, a distant cousin, he leaves, broken-hearted, not knowing that Miriam's father had just died, and that the relative was merely trying to assuage her grief. Clyde later marries another woman, but it does not take him long to realize that his marriage was a mistake. Nevertheless there is a most beautiful ending which gives the picture the finished touch. One of the cleverest comedies seen in a decade is, "Dining Room, Kitchen and Sink." It's a scream.

The Horseless Carriage.

This column should have been started again about the first of June, which is practically the opening of the Motor season for each year, even if now the City Council is going to open it under the new Charter, on the first of April in future, even if it should be busy freering. However, we are a week or two late because we didn't want to "pad" entirely with clippings from other papers and the local matter Dave has handed us to date is quite unprintable. (Yes, we have heard that one twenty two times but there's nothing doing!) As it is, we are using a certain number of clippings this week but more cars are getting out every day now, and somebody is sure to run into the "copy" on the Cross before long or do something else original which will provide "copy" for this column so here's letting her go!

Next we have to do up a new name for the column and also a new "nem-de-plume." The first because the quotation "Horseless Carriage" is absolutely incorrect, the correct version being "Horseless Cart" and secondly, because the original "Mr. Dunlop" (of pneumatic tire fame) has passed in his checks since this column last published and the column is certainly not going to be conducted by a "dead one." Any suggestions regarding a new column title and a new nem-de-plume will be gratefully received also, right through the season, any local matter of interest to motorists will always be welcome.

Everyone will remember the trouble caused a certain prominent motorist by getting filled up with kerosene (his car we mean) in error for gasoline one day last season. Apparently, we are not the only ones who have "gas" troubles as vide the following from the Motor Column of that highly respected English family paper "The Winning Post":

"Nobody looks after the health of the poor little motorist, only his marials and the things he doesn't give a about. Otherwise, somebody would be down like a cartload of bricks on the clever folk who are out to rob him. Once upon a time at a certain garage on the Portsmouth road every motorist who came for motor spirit asked for a different brand and all were given it out of the same cistern. Last of all a "Lizzie" set itself on fire in the process of opening its tank and they put out the flames by squirting the rest of the contents of the cistern on it!"

Now, as we said, we are not as a regular thing, going to fill this column with cuttings from other papers, but during the winter, cuttings have been sent us for the column, all the way from Halifax to New South Wales, which shows two things—one that the Telegram has a foreign circulation, and two, that some people apparently read this column last year. Where these cuttings are lengthy we have cut them down a bit but they are all worth reading:

LICENSES FOR IDIOTS.

"Any person over a certain age can pay five shillings and get a driving license, whether deaf, dumb, blind, or an idiot," said Mr. George Whyte, the coroner, yesterday, at a Luton inquest.

"Judging from the appalling number of motor accidents," he added, "it seemed time to alter the laws. No license should be granted unless a competent authority were satisfied of the applicant's ability to drive and knowledge of the road."—New South Wales' Colonist.

That method of licensing, of course doesn't apply in Newfoundland; a cause of motor accidents which does apply, however, is covered by the following from the Halifax Herald under the caption of

BLAMES JAY-WALKERS FOR AUTO MISHAPS:

"In discussing the recent automobile accidents which have happened in this city, and in which pedestrians were injured, Chief Detective Kennedy stated that although there was no record kept, he felt safe in saying that in the great majority of cases, the pedestrians were at fault.

"Looking at the question from the standpoint of a man who drives an automobile, and I do," said Mr. Kennedy, "I believe that 'jay-walking' has reached a point in this city where something should be done. The average person walking the streets, doesn't even take the road traffic into consideration, they don't think drivers have nerves. They cross the streets when and where it pleases them and dash out from behind parked cars on the busiest thoroughfares, without even a glance to right or left. I have often expressed surprise that more people are not injured on the streets. They don't stop to think that they are endangering their lives and creating a situation in which, even if an accident does occur, a car driver cannot rightly be held responsible. The only solution for city motorists, Mr. Kennedy claimed, was to abide by the ruling given out in a 'Safety First' campaign in an American city—to drive as though every man, woman and child on the streets was bent on suicide under their wheels."

Most of the clippings sent in seem to have to do with "Safety First." However here's one a little different:

DIYING FOR HIS RIGHTS.

"Why do you turn out for every road hog that comes along?" said the misuser rather crossly. "The right of way is ours, isn't it?"

"Oh, undoubtedly!" answered he, calmly. "As for our turning out, the reason is plainly suggested in this epitaph which appeared in a newspaper recently:

"Here lies the body of William Jay, who died maintaining his right of way. He was right, dead right, as he sped along. But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."—Bermuda Gazette.

An anonymous friend from Montreal sent along a long cutting from the Montreal Gazette, containing a lot of good dope but we are just cutting from it a portion headed

MOTOR HEADLIGHTS.

"The general committee of the Royal Automobile Club and Association of Great Britain has passed a resolution expressing the opinion that the practice of switching off electric headlights when meeting other traffic on the open road, is fraught with considerable danger, and urging motorists to discontinue it. The committee considered that the possible risk of accident through dazzle is considerably less than that involved by switching off headlights."

The last cutting received gave an account of the Annual Dinner of the Nova Scotia League which appears to have been a most cheery affair and embraced several ideas the local Association might consider, adopting for their third annual jamboree at the end of this season. Some parodies sung of popular songs, were quite good. We have taken the liberty of localising them a very little:

"There are roads that make us happy, There are roads that make us blue, There are also highways that are splendid. But for 'pot holes' every mile or two, There are all those roads that we've been promised. That the eyes of hope alone can see, But the roads that fill my life with gladness Are the roads Tom Soper built for me."

"There's a long, long road a-winding into the land of the West Where the highways are improving And the scenery's of the best. There's a short, short time of waiting 'Till our road dreams come true, 'Till the day that I'll be speeding 'em down 'The old 'Cow-Path' with you."

So much for the contributions. Many thanks, Messrs. Contributors.

We hear the Prime Minister got off a fairly bright one at one of the famous Board of Trade meetings. The railroad was under discussion and the possibility of the Government running it, when a member, present, holding the view that the Government couldn't afford to run the railroad, put the query, "How's the Government going to run the railroad; how's a person going to run a motor car if he cannot afford it?" "I don't know," said Sir R. A., "but I notice he generally does!"

We are afraid that this year's number plates are so brightly colored that no amount of oil placed on them will collect sufficient dust to totally obliterate the figures when one wants to "let her out." That's the worst of having an up-to-date City Council, and how the Dickens, by the way, is a man going to serve two masters?

Mr. Wm. White, by the way, on behalf of the Motor Association, undertook to inaugurate a "Safety First" campaign, having school children particularly in mind, and the public hope that it will soon be convenient for him to get going as, already, there have been two accidents to youngsters, one of them unfortunately, fatal. Harry Thompson came out in the press recently with some excellent suggestions in this regard. Personally, we always understood that once Harry had fitted one out with glasses, there was no further need of sign posts to see what was approaching, but, cutting the comedy, his letter was absolutely to the point. Now, Mr. White, it's up to you!

There will be a certain very "swanky" looking green car going about this season. And, incidentally, thereby hangs a tale. It appears that a certain individual who is the possessor of a summer cottage, was very anxious to have the doors of said cottage painted an especial shade of green. Many local painters were called into consultation, but after much mixing, could not arrive at the desired shade, whereupon the special shade of green was especially imported. Unfortunately upon arrival of the consignment, through a series of errors, the paint got into the hands of a garage man who was overhauling a certain car—the property of a certain individual not remotely connected with the owner of the cottage. The garage man being of an enterprising nature, spread the green paint over the car till there wasn't enough left to paint as much as the door knob of the aforesaid cottage. The car looks fine but the cottage door doesn't! The painter is looking green, the air is blue and when the murder is eventually out somebody is liable to be seeing red!

MR. D.

The Faith Cure.

A young doctor took his best girl to the opera. The curtain was late in rising, and the young woman complained that she felt faint. The doctor smiled sweetly upon her, and took something from his pocket.

"Here," he whispered, "keep this in your mouth. Don't swallow it." Shyly the girl placed the object on her tongue and rolled it over and over, but it would not dissolve. She felt better, however, and soon she took the tablet from her mouth and slipped it in her glove. She was curious to examine this tasteless little substance which had given her such relief.

When the happy couple were outside the opera-house the girl stopped under a lamp.

"That thing you gave me made me feel ever so much better," she cooed, gratefully, wrestling with her glove. Suddenly she gazed at something white and round in her palm. She looked up at his face.

"D-D-Dick!" she stammered, in a choking voice, "why it's nothing but a pearl button!"

Tenant Evicted.

BUT DEVIES SUPREME COURT ORDER.

An incident which excited the curiosity of a number of people, occurred at the Ladies Tailoring establishment occupied by Mr. J. Burstein on Water St., near Goodridge & Sons yesterday morning. Acting on an eviction order from the Supreme Court the Bailiff proceeded to the place early, and placed all the goods and chattels of Mr. Burstein outside the premises. After the bailiff's men had finished their work the goods were again removed into the building. Further developments are awaited with interest, and it is not unlikely that the issue will be serious. The incident arose out of an application for the recovery of land by a landlord from a tenant. The trial took place on May 21st before the Chief Justice. Mr. Burstein was represented by Messrs. McGrath and McGrath. Judgment as follows was handed down by the Chief Justice: "Alfred Francis Twyden and James

JUDGMENT OF THE CHIEF JUSTICE.

In my opinion this application should be accepted. The case falls clearly within the terms of O. V. III. 7. It is taken by the plaintiff, the husband of Mrs. Geran, under the lease of a term of which had expired before the Will was issued against the defendant, whose title is derived through Mrs. Geran, the plaintiff, lease for possession of the devised property. It is therefore an action for the recovery of land, by a landlord, against a person claiming under his tenant. Neither the title of the plaintiff nor the relation of landlord and tenant between them and Mrs. Geran under whom the defendant claims, can honestly be denied.

Following this judgment Mr. Burstein entered an appeal, appearing in person. The appeal was dismissed, and the order for possession by the landlord given.

Mr. Moore—To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries if traveling delegate Boone described in messages to the Advocate as holding meetings of the F.P.U. in different northern settlements is the Rev. Francis Boone of Medford, Mass., who was connected with the purchase of a lot of furs from the Department of Marine and Fisheries last winter; and if so, is it correct that he is engaged in the purchase of furs at the present time, and if so, is he purchasing these furs on account of the Department of Marine and Fisheries or on his own private account, and if he is purchasing them on behalf of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, it is proper to have an employee of that Department holding meetings of the F.P.U.

Magna Charta Day

Over seven centuries ago, or to be precisely accurate on June 15, 1215 (though some authorities give the date as June 19), a gathering assembled at the little village of Runnymede on the River Thames, that was both formidable and determined. The barons of England had foregathered at that almost unknown point for a set purpose, and they came, clad in all the panoply of war as it was known in that age. They had come to make a demand of the King and were prepared to back up their request by force of arms if necessary. Fortunately for the future of England it was not required that blood should be shed in compelling the Sovereign of the realm to grant the demands made, though it was with the greatest reluctance that King John placed his signature and affixed his seal to that document then presented to him, and ever since known to Englishmen as Magna Charta or the Great Charter, styled by Hallam "The Keystone of English Liberty."

From this day the rights of the people were conserved, and it might be well said that on June 15, 1215, in that meadow at Runnymede, the first Parliament had birth, and the people for the first time had a say in the making of the laws of the land, curtailed in a measure to be sure, but yet the beginning of the Salus populi. Magna Charta was the initial step toward making the will of the people the supreme law, as it is to-day. Its great underlying principle was "that the King—the first Estate—must keep the law. Prior to the signing of the Charter the King was a law unto himself—was the law in fact—and in him was vested the power of life or death. Magna Charta changed that. The Monarch became amenable to the laws of the land, and possessed no longer the autocratic power held by his predecessors. Later in English history a King who sought to reign by Divine Right was found guilty under this very act of Magna Charta, and expiated his arrogation of title with his life. Students of English history of the date of the signing of the Great Charter will at once realize and admit that though the verbiage of the document which John, under compulsion of the barons, signed, gave certain rights to the people, yet it took centuries to prove and cement their rights and liberties. Historians disagree on certain of the points raised, and from out the literary fogs of ages it is difficult to make dovetails of certain points disputed. At the same time it is recognized by all that a new era was ushered in by the royal sanction of Magna Charta, and the initiation of many privileges hitherto denied the people, resulted. Perfection only came after years and years of political combat and only the real meaning of this revolutionary proceeding on the part of the barons, seven hundred and seven years ago, is coming to the perception of the people of to-day. So far as Newfoundland is affected by the present Government—it should have written afflicted—it is necessary that a new Magna Charta should be signed, even though it should be compelled, under arms, as in the days of King John.

The Railway.

THE PUBLIC KEPT IN DARKNESS. Conferences are continually going on in connection with the settlement of the railway problem, but no definite result has yet been arrived at. It is unlikely that the Prime Minister will have anything to say in this connection in the House this afternoon. A pronouncement may be expected next week. The Municipal Bill will probably occupy the attention of the House for the whole of to-day's session. The Parade Grounds is the bone of contention and a division is expected to result in a strictly party vote.

Gunning Accident at Botwood.

YOUNG MAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT. A message to the Justice Department received yesterday from Mr. J. W. Atkinson, J.P., Botwood, reported the accidental shooting of a young man named Sidney Pearce, Magistrate Fitzgerald, who held an investigation into the accident, also sent a message to the same effect, which reads as follows: "Sidney Pearce, 18 years old, of Flurry's Blight, New Bay Head, accidentally shot himself at noon Wednesday, whilst on the way to Botwood. He was reaching for his gun to shoot a seal when it went off and the charge entered his chest. The unfortunate young man was crossing North Arm in a boat, and was accompanied by a younger brother and a girl named Budgett."

In Statu Quo.

There were no new developments in connection with the Burnstein case to-day. He is still in possession of the premises and has opened up for business. The Sheriff's warrant, which was dated June 3rd, was duly executed. Further action depends on the complainants in the case. It is understood that Mr. L. E. Emerson, who is counsel for the Tyssden estate, will take action for trespass against Burnstein, and a writ will be issued this evening. Two other courses are open, viz: an arrest for house breaking and the same for contempt of court.

Judge's Warning.

DELINQUENTS GIVEN NO MERCY. Judge Morris has issued a warning to all who have not paid their Poll Tax. No further withdrawal of prosecutions will be permitted when there are any cases of non-payment before him. In future all who are brought before his court will be fined. The twenty cases called for yesterday were withdrawn as the delinquents paid up at the last moment.

After Car Owners.

The police are now after all car owners whose licenses have not been renewed this season. Since yesterday there has been a rush in the Council's office for driving and car licenses. A warning was given that after that date, prosecutions would commence. Up to the present 384 drivers' licenses, and 354 car licenses have been issued. These are large numbers, considering the stress of the times. Motorists are evidently of the opinion that it's cheaper to run a car than store it.

A Correction.

A mistake was made in taking a telephone message yesterday announcing the Preliminary Notice for the Killbuck Garden Party. It should have read Tor's Cove Garden Party. The Killbuck Garden Party will take place on July 19th, as previously announced.

In the Realms of Sport.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME. The Star-C.E.L. will try conclusions to-night in the fourth game of the League series. Both are presenting entirely new lineups and an interesting clash is looked forward to.

BASEBALL. His Excellency the Governor and a number of distinguished citizens attended the opening game of the baseball series yesterday afternoon and saw the Cubs bite the dust, the Lions routing them out by one run after an exciting contest. Promptly at 2:30 Mayor Cook put over an "underarm" which declaring the season formally open. Stump O'Riicola was in the box for the champions, with Albert Martin as battery mate, and after the sixth was replaced by Walter Callahan with Coke Cahill in the harness. Not to be outdone by the Cubs' solitary run in the initial frame, the Lions, by dint of heavy slugging got four. Nothing daunted, the Hall gang netted three in the second, while the Cian-de-Duff got one, following it up with one in the fifth. The third innings found the Cubs scoreless but they piled on the agony in the fourth, fifth, and sixth, securing an aggregate of 6 runs. With a two-run lead at the sixth, things looked a-kinde good for Claude's collection of young bears, but the kings of the forest came back in great style in the seventh and shoved four across. With a Lion lead of one run the fans were on their toes, particularly as at the finish of the eighth stanza the official scorer had nothing to record for either. Then amidst great jubilation the Cubs scored the equalizer. Canning vainly tried to hold them but Kiely poled out a beauty scoring Callahan, thus leaving the champs victorious by 1 run. The game was really a thriller and the fans were well satisfied. Two very pretty double plays were recorded, Ellis to Callahan and Gosse to Demers. The Lions got only 5 hits of Canning whereas the Cubs smote Josh for 6 and Walter for 4. Charlie Quick had a great evening all to himself and in the outer gardens pulled down some very pretty ones in a fly Cobb—that king of swamis—the Babe Ruth—promise to be outdone by ironclads "Pat" Hall and as the result of his three-bagger he is to-day treating his friends to "Belt-boys." If yesterday's performance is a forerunner of what the baseballers will hand out then there is no doubt but that the season will be a most interesting and successful one.

FOOTBALL. It brought joy to Freddie Brian's heart last evening when as treasurer of the League he received from the gatekeepers $228.98, which is the record amount the fans paid to see the clash between the Pelidians and the B.I.S. Though the atmosphere was decidedly chilly there was very little wind, and the close score of 1 to 0 in the champions favor kept the excitement at fever heat throughout the progress of the game. Though playing excellently, yet the Pelidians in the first half succeeded only once in getting the ball behind the touch-line. A corner resulted but nothing materialized. The Irish forwards were unable to find the net in this period, though they had several excellent chances. In the second half the Pelidians became decidedly more aggressive, and the Irish goalie was called upon to save repeatedly which he did in good style. After twelve minutes of play the Irish forwards through clever manoeuvring worked the ball in the vicinity of the blue-and-white's goal and by an intricate piece of work, Freddie Phelan saved the ball from reaching the touch-line. A short pass to Harty enabled him to score the one and only goal for the evening. The Pelidians redoubled their efforts but the Irishmen's back division was working with machine-like precision, and their centre half, Burke, seemed to be here, there and everywhere. Shortly before the close Ewing scored but was ruled off-side. A delightful feature of the game was the fact that at all times the ball seemed to be under control and there was a pleasing absence of touches.

THE 1920-21 champions appear to be in fine fettle to get through successfully a little more accurately in shooting is needed in their forward line. The players were: B.I.S.—Goal, J. Phelan; backs, G. Higgins, Doc Power; halves, S. Constantine, W. Burke, F. Brian; forwards, F. Phelan, E. Phelan, Walter Callahan, E. Halley. Pelidians—R. Velsey; goal; backs, R. R. Tait, F. Rendell; halves, A. Martin, R. Martin, Duke Winter; forwards, H. Goldstone, E. Ewing, M. Johnson, T. Pava, Eric Chafe.

BURKIE. The Irish centre-half, Bill Burke, is a hog when it comes to hard work. He covers the plain, like a shower of rain. Yes, Bill is some terrible Turk.

TOO TRUE. There may be fish which cannot swim or cats which turn from cream. But never have we seen a man who was a real and rabid fan. That couldn't tell the manager. Just how to run the team.

ST. BONA'S SPORTS. Yesterday afternoon nearly 4000 persons saw the most interesting of the annual St. Bona's Sports, among whom were His Excellency the Governor and suite and His Worship the Mayor and lady. Raymond Halley with an aggregate of 23 points won the senior gold medal for the best all-round athlete with Dug. Muir a close second, being only 2 points astern. Larry Furlong and John O'Neil tied for the Intermediate medal with 17 points each. The Junior medal went to Willie Cotter with 17 points. A local record of 5 feet 4 inches for the high jump was set by Bob Callane in 1895 some very nearly being shattered by Cyril Egan. The 2 mile turf race (open) was very exciting and was won by Bill Thorburn with Baily

REPRIMANDED CONSTABLE SUMMONS MOTORIST. A curious Police Court case was heard to-day when a constable, who had been told by a motorist that he would be reported for incompetence, brought a charge of a breach of the traffic regulations against said motorist. The case was important as it threashed out the question of the traffic regulations on Raylins' Cross. The constable claimed that he had signalled to the defendant to stop but the latter said the signal was to go ahead. Accused had been coming up Military Road and signalled to the traffic constable that he was going in Monkstown Road. He carried on as a result of the signal he received and, on turning into Monkstown Road, he found several cars coming towards him. Accused stopped the car and, calling the constable, told him he would report him to the Inspector General. The result was a summons for a breach of the traffic regulations. Mr. W. J. Higgins was very outspoken on the dangers of the enforcement of the present regulations in that section of the city. The Judge suggested that the Inspector General should confer on the matter with the Motor Association. The case was dismissed.

TRAFFIC REGULATIONS. Nine O'Clock Clerk. Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—There appeared in the Daily News the other morning a letter from a civil servant attacking brother workers for alleged late hours in getting to and from business. It would be much better if this simple-headed individual devoted more of his time to doing the work for which he is paid by the taxpayers instead of scribbling foolish letters for the public press. If he wants something to do to occupy his spare moments I would suggest to him that he "keep sober and watch."

McNeil, Secretary, have forwarded telegrams to the Provincial Veterans' Organizations and to Herbert Marier, Chairman of the Special Parliamentary Committee on Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. Col. Epoch Making Event.

ANNIVERSARY OF ALCOCK AND BROWN'S ATLANTIC FLIGHT.

Three years ago to-day, June 15, epoch-making event of crossing the Atlantic in a heavier-than-air machine was accomplished. The men who made the daring trip from Newfoundland to Ireland, Capt. Alcock and Lieut. Arthur W. Brown, in a Vickers-Vimy bomber plane, made the landing near Clifden, Wireless Station, Ireland, at 8:40 a.m. Wireless summer time, or 8:40 a.m. Newfoundland time. The trip over the 3,000 miles of ocean was made without accident, in 16 hours and 12 minutes. The following is a brief description of the event given after the flight:

BEST NON-STOP FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC.

The final goal of all the ambitious flying men have ventured to since the Wright Brothers first flew from the earth in a heavier-than-air machine, was realized. Sunday morning, June 15, when the young British officers, Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur W. Brown, made the landing near Clifden, Ireland, after a non-stop flight across the Atlantic Ocean. Their voyage was without accident and without unforeseen incident, so far as can be learned. It was a straightaway, clean-cut flight, covered in sixteen hours and twelve minutes, from Newfoundland to Clifden, Ireland, a distance of more than 3,000 miles. But the brief and most interesting description which comes from the men at Clifden tells of an adventurous and amazingly hazardous enterprise. Fog and mist hung over the North Atlantic and the Vickers-Vimy biplane climbed and dove, struggling to extricate herself from the clutches of the worst enemies, the clouds, to 11,000 feet, swooped down to the surface of the sea, and times the two navigators found themselves flying upside-down only a few feet above the water. Before reaching the earth near the Clifden wireless station, Alcock selected the wireless aerials, seeking the best place to reach the earth. But no suitable ground was found, so he changed his log. The wireless staff rushed to the aid of the aviators. They were dazed and Alcock temporarily deafened by the force of the wind. As soon as they were able to be escorted to the wireless station they telegraphed the news to their friends, then they had breakfast.

Late Miss Frances Bonia.

There was laid to rest on Monday at Placentia, one whose death caused a void that will take a long time to fill. Miss Frances Gertrude Bonia, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frances Bonia of that town. The deceased lady, after the death of her mother, which event occurred many years ago, had suddenly assumed the place thus made vacant and practically rear the young members of the family. She lived to enjoy her reward, by seeing them achieve success in positions of honor and responsibility. She was the best known member of her community, and her outstanding characteristic was the saintliness of her life. She was a "good woman" in that the term implies—a good mother, a good daughter, and an excellent neighbor wherever there was a word of charity and kindly ministrance. When the good women of Placentia united with their men-folk to beautify the beautiful church that now stands in their town, Miss Bonia was among the most enthusiastic when the church was completed. She spent many days and much money in beautifying the altars of the temple. It was her happiness to devote for many years to the consolation for all her spiritual needs. She presided at the tabernacle and her fervor and piety were a source of education to her friends and neighbors. She is survived by several brothers, some of whom may be noted every day by the general Capt. Tom Bridges, Inspector of Outport Roads, and Capt. Joseph Bonia, the well known fitter of Gloucester, Mass. Mr. Patrick Bonia, one of Placentia's leading business men, a brother, Rev. Father Maurice Bonia, a Priest of the Redemption, who was noted for his piety, his potency as a preacher, his remarkable success as a confessor, in the confessional, died some years ago, universally mourned both here and in the city of Newark. He was the father of some time ago, will miss, as her friends and neighbors do not, the kindly presence of Miss Bonia, and many a prayer for the eternal repose of her soul.

Harbor Grace Notes.

There has been a little stir in town of late, occasioned by the different Labrador crews making preparations for the fishery, although the matter of supplies is not an easy matter this year and, no doubt, many who came under the heading of fishermen last summer when the Government Guarantee was in vogue, will this year have to be content with a back seat so far as getting supplies is concerned.

Mr. W. A. Munn of St. John's was in town to-day.

Mr. E. Simmons spent last week in the city and returned by Saturday night's train.

Mr. Thos. Thistle spent last week at Wabana and came to town again on Saturday.

Miss Elsie Murphy arrived from St. John's by motor car yesterday, (Sunday) morning, and spent the day here, returning to the city in the evening.

Mr. Ernest Bartlett of St. John's was in town yesterday.

Through a telegram received in town on Friday last, we learn that the stork had arrived at the home of Rev. Ernest and Mrs. Davis of Curling, Bay of Islands, and left a son—Congratulations.

Lots of fresh salmon have been in evidence within the last few weeks and meet with ready purchasers, the price sold for in the stores being 12 cents per pound.

Mr. C. A. Jerrett's sdr. Clarence B. Capt. Gushue, which had been here for dockage, left port on Friday afternoon for Brigue.

The Yacht Pawnee was docked Friday morning, and came off again in the afternoon. She made her first trip of the service just inaugurated, at 7 a.m. Saturday.

Recently the tower for the Fire Bell at the head of the public wharf has been rebuilt. Mr. Robert Tetford had the contract for doing the job; the material used was of good class and the work is substantially done. The size of the structure is about that of the old one, built about 1870.

The flies during the short spurt of hot weather last week, seemed to come out in abundance. Friday, on hearing a party who had just driven out of the country remark that "a swarm had struck him on the way down and actually held his horse up (7), made us really think that the flies were "going some" in that direction, and, as the wind took such a sudden change that afternoon we wonder what course did this particular swarm in question pursue, and what other traffic they came in contact with?

ARMSTRONG-RYAN.
 A very pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at St. Patrick's Church, by the Rev. Dr. Kitchick. The contracting parties were Mr. F. J. Armstrong, of the Commercial Cable Co.'s staff and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Armstrong, of Circular Road, and Miss Rita Ryan, daughter of Mrs. and the late James Ryan, of Hamilton Street. The groom was ably supported by his cousin, Mr. Gerald Carey, whilst the bride was attended by her sister Miss Monica Ryan, with the Misses Jackman, little daughters of W. H. Jackman, Esq., acting as flower girls. The bride carried the church leaving on the arm of her uncle, Mr. D. J. Jackman, of Bell Island, whilst the wedding march was played by Miss Agnes Armstrong, sister of the groom. The bride was very neatly attired in a costume of grey with hat to match. Immediately after the ceremony the party proceeded to Bowring Park and from thence to the home of the bride's mother where a wedding supper was prepared for the guests who numbered one hundred. W. H. Jackman, Esq., was toast master. The health of the bride and groom was proposed by Mr. D. J. Jackman and responded to by Mr. T. F. Armstrong. At 5 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong motored to Bay Bulls where the honeymoon will be spent. Many congratulatory messages were received from friends abroad, testifying to the popularity of the happy young couple. That their voyage on the matrimonial sea may be a pleasant one is the sincere wish of the writer.—B.

Report of the Fish and Salt Enquiry Commission

His Excellency Sir C. Alexander Harris, K.C.M.G., C.B., C.V.O., Governor.

Your Excellency.

On the 21st of January last a Royal Commission issued directed to the Hon. M. G. Winter, C.B.E., Eli Dawe, Esq., and George T. Carry, Esq., setting forth that in the year 1920 certain quantities of fish and salt were purchased by and on behalf of the Government out of the public funds of the Colony; that it had been alleged that the Hon. W. F. Coaker, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, purchased on behalf of the Government a quantity of fish, which was afterwards shipped to market in a vessel named the "President Coaker"; and further that it had been alleged that a certain quantity of salt was purchased and stored in the premises of the Fishermen's Union Trading Company, Limited, at Port Union; and whereas the said Commission directed the Commissioners to make a full investigation and enquiry into the matters and things referred to therein, and to submit findings thereon; the Commissioners now beg to report that they held a preliminary session on the 3rd of February last, the formal opening taking place in the President's Room, Colonial Building, on February 5th, when Mr. Arthur Mews, Deputy Colonial Secretary, and the Hon. W. F. Coaker were examined, and placed in evidence certain documents bearing on the matters under investigation. On February 7th Mr. Hazen A. Russell, the Assistant Manager of the Fishermen's Union Trading Company, Ltd., was examined, and recalled on the 8th on which day Mr. J. S. Keating, Deputy Minister of Finance, and Mr. H. V. Hutchings, formerly Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, were also examined. On February 10 the evidence of Sir J. C. Crosbie was taken, and on February 13th that of Messrs. J. C. Hepburn, H. R. Brookes, and E. A. Bowring. On February 14th Mr. Brookes was recalled, and Mr. W. H. Caro, Minister of Shipping, was also examined as well as Mr. J. Sellars. On the 15th of February Messrs. Brookes and Coaker were recalled. On the 21st Sir R. A. Squires was examined and Mr. Hutchings recalled. The Committee then adjourned awaiting the return to the Colony of Messrs. R. B. Job and F. C. Borteanu, Comptroller and Auditor General. These gentlemen were examined on the 4th and 5th of May last. No other witnesses were called.

SALT.
The Commissioners find that at a meeting of the Executive Government held during the last week of April, 1920, owing to representations made to the Government by Mr. R. B. Job acting on behalf of the Salt Importers (commonly known as the "Salt Pool") the Executive, to quote the evidence of the Prime Minister, Sir R. A. Squires, "Realized the seriousness of the possibility of an insufficient supply of salt for the sea-fishery and the responsibility of seeing that there was a sufficient supply of salt for the fishery was especially placed on the shoulders of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, whose duty it was to see that there was a sufficient quantity of salt imported. Mr. Coaker in pursuance of this general authority to deal with the salt situation attended a meeting of the "Pool" on the 17th of June, 1920, and at this meeting informed the "Pool" that he was negotiating for a cargo of from four to five thousand tons of Hamburg Salt to be shipped to Newfoundland, and he offered to allow the St. John's importers about one-half of the cargo, the other half to be delivered at Port Union. This offer was not clearly accepted. No evidence of acceptance was obtainable from the Minutes of the "Pool" or from the four members of the "Pool" examined.
The members of the "Pool" assert that Mr. Coaker made a clear and distinct offer to deliver 2,000 tons at St. John's. Mr. Coaker states he made no arrangement to discharge any of the cargo at St. John's and that the offer he made concerned a cargo of 4,000 tons which he was negotiating for, and which fell through, as he wanted to lighten the ship at St. John's before sending her to Port Union. He says the importers thought the supply at St. John's was sufficient and he believed he would have to take 4,000 tons, and believing this built a new store to take 1,500 tons. The Salt, consisting of 4,000 tons, arrived in the steamer "Tuckahoe" late in the month of July, 1920, and was landed at Port Union and stored on the premises of the Fishermen's Union Trading Company, Ltd. The misunderstanding between the "Pool" and Mr. Coaker was satisfactorily settled after the exchange of telegrams between him and Mr. R. B. Job, when the St. John's importers withdrew their claim for half the cargo, and allowed Mr. Coaker to have it all.

The Commissioners cannot find any direct authority from the Government to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to import this salt on Government account, other than that contained in the general authority to deal with the salt question, but it is clear that Mr. Coaker believed he had such authority (and this is confirmed by the evidence of the Prime Minister) for the salt was ordered on Government account, consigned to the Government, and was paid for by a credit established in London by the Deputy Minister of Finance through the Bank of Montreal, St. John's. There is no authority anywhere, either in the evidence or in the documents produced, for the assertion that the "Tuckahoe" cargo was ordered by Mr. Coaker for the Fishermen's Union Trading Company, Ltd., and afterwards passed over to the Government when it was found that the salt was not required in the fishing season of 1920. All the negotiations leading up to the purchase and shipment were conducted by Mr. Barr with the Minister of Marine and Fisheries on account of the Government. It was disclosed in the evidence of the Salt Importers that a prolonged strike existed at Cadiz in the Spring of 1920, which continued well into the month of June of the same year. No salt was procurable there and it seemed a fortunate chance that the Minister of Marine and Fisheries was able to obtain a cargo at Hamburg, but when the "Tuckahoe" arrived at Port Union the salt was not required, as there had been a good early fishery but a poor fishery in June and July. The "Salt Pool" had secured 11,000 tons and that was sufficient to supply the requirements for the fishery at that time. Consequently, only 1,100 hogsheads of the "Tuckahoe's" cargo went into consumption during the Fall of 1920. This was sold at the then current price of $4.00 per hogshead to the Fishermen's Union Trading Company, Ltd., and the proceeds paid to the Government on the 15th of April, 1921. In the same month the balance, estimated at 13,000 hogsheads, was taken charge of by the Shipping Department, and subsequently disposed of by orders through the sub-collector at Port Union. This portion of the "Tuckahoe's" cargo was sold at prices varying according to quantity from $1.80 to $2.20 per hogshead. The salt situation became quite easy before the Spring of 1921, hence this drop in price from $4.00 in the Spring of 1920 to $1.80 in the Spring of 1921. No charge was made for storage of the "Tuckahoe's" cargo by the Trading Company, Ltd., at Port Union. The salt was purchased at 68% C.I.F. and with additional landing charges cost $4.40 per hogshead stored at Port Union. Compared with the cargoes of salt from Liverpool imported shortly before the "Tuckahoe's" landed cost was not high. The percentage of loss in weight was described as exceptionally low by one competent witness; the loss on 14,000 hogsheads being only 170 hogsheads. It was a very heavy salt running 3 1/2 hogsheads to the ton.
We indicated above that the evidence adduced by Mr. Coaker and the members of the "Salt Pool" showed no binding agreement on the part of the former to deliver or the latter to accept half the "Tuckahoe's" cargo at St. John's, but the Commissioners are of the opinion that the Minister of Marine and Fisheries showed poor judgment in discharging the whole cargo at Port Union, thereby causing a loss to the Colony of about $16,000.00. The total loss on the cargo, which cost landed about $4.40 per hogshead, and sold at an average price of $1.90 per hogshead, amounted to $33,136.00.

FISH.
On November 19, 1920, His Excellency the Governor confirmed a Minute of Council passed on the previous day allocating a sum of $500,000 for the purchase of 50,000 qtls. of Labrador fish at $8.00 for choice and $7.00 for prime. On the same day power was conferred on the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to purchase and sell 50,000 qtls. Labrador fish of 1920 catch, either directly or through an agent. Mr. Coaker elected to do this through Agents, and these Agents had no authority to disclose their principal's name. He explains this method was adopted principally to encourage the Fish Exporters to buy some of the large numbers of cargoes awaiting sale at St. John's and other ports, Labrador fish being almost unsaleable in the Fall of 1920, and because he did not want the impression that the Government was buying to become general, fearing it such case the Government would be swamped with Labrador fish. He made Messrs. R. B. Job, George M. Barr and Joseph Sellars his Agents. The Minister states he advised the purchase to relieve the local and to steady the foreign market. He clearly employed Mr. Sellars to purchase a cargo for the "Jean Wakely" then in St. John's. Mr. Sellars produced the written authority from the Minister to do so. It is not so clear that he employed him to purchase the cargo for the "President Coaker." There is here a conflict of evidence. Mr. Sellars said he was not so employed, Mr. Coaker is positive he gave Mr. Sellars authority to buy the cargo at Port Union and when Mr. Sellars was unable to go there the Trading Company purchased from schooners in the port sufficient to load the "President Coaker" viz: 7,500 qtls. There is no written authority from the Minister to Mr. Sellars as in the case of the "Jean Wakely," but an inference that authority was given may be implied from the fact that Mr. Sellars chartered the "President Coaker" as well as the "Jean Wakely" on the 18th November, 1920—the day on which authority was given the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to purchase and sell 50,000 qtls. of Labrador fish—and by the further fact that on the 28th November when the "President Coaker" was loaded and ready for sailing the Trading Company sent the bill of her cargo, export tax, freight, and insurance to the Department of Marine and Fisheries per Joseph Sellars, and that cheque was made out in favour of Joseph Sellars for $32,675.00, which he accepted and paid into his Bank account, and then gave the Trading Company a cheque for a similar amount. The Commissioners are of the opinion that the weight of evidence on this point is in favour of Mr. Coaker. The Commission took particular pains to ascertain that the fish loaded on the "President Coaker" was purchased directly by the Fishermen's Union Trading Company from schooner owners harboured in Port Union during the month of November, 1920, at the price of $8.00 per quintal. On this point the Commissioners are fortified with the direct evidence of Messrs. Coaker and Russell, President and Assistant Manager respectively of the Trading Company that such was the case. This evidence has been corroborated by the list sent to the Department of Marine and Fisheries, giving the names of schooners, masters, residence, and quantities of fish shipped, and particularly by the production of the copies of "Fish Receipts," showing date of shipment amongst other details, 4,471 qtls. of the "President Coaker's" cargo were purchased from dealers of the Trading Company, the balance of 3,029 qtls. from fishermen dealing elsewhere.

The "President Coaker's" cargo consisted of 7,500 qtls. at $8.00 (60c. extra per qtl. was charged for storage and labour) making $67,500.00. Added to this were insurance and export tax $9,175.00 plus half freight 9,750.00, making a total of $82,675.00, the amount of the cheque paid to Mr. Sellars. The "President Coaker" arrived at Genoa on April 21, 1921, and her cargo turned out according to the account sales furnished by Ponsacca Araujo & Co., Ltd., on November 16, 1921—7,239.88 qtls. Labrador Codfish made up as follows:—

Regular and Medium	4,206.75
Seconds	2,332.83
Thirds	43.91
Damaged	546.39
Total	7,239.88

The vessel was compelled to return to Gibraltar twice for refitting, having been caught twice in a hurricane in the Mediterranean. The Commissioners consider the loss in output under these circumstances not excessive. It was in cold storage from the 15th of February to the 15th of October, 1921. The proceeds of the cargo remitted to the Government amounted to $25,949.43. The total cost to the Government was $82,675.00, leaving a loss in realization of $56,725.57.
The Minister of Marine and Fisheries whose actions are the subject of this enquiry is also President of the Fishermen's Union Trading Company, Ltd., and it is suggested that he used his position as Minister of Marine and Fisheries to the advantage of the Trading Company. A most searching enquiry has been held by the Commissioners, all the evidence available in connection with the purchase of the fish and the salt in question, and the storage of the latter, has been obtained and all documents bearing on these matters have been put in evidence. After the fullest consideration the Commissioners are unanimously of the opinion that there is no foundation for the suggestion of charge that the Minister of Marine and Fisheries has been guilty of wrong doing, or has used his public office for the benefit or advantage of himself or the Company of which he is President.
Herewith is a transcript of the evidence taken at the Enquiry and the original exhibits produced.
We also return the Commission. Respectfully submitted,
M. G. WINTER, Chairman,
E. DAWE,
GEORGE T. CARTY.

Pick-me-ups from Broadway's crack shops.

A GREAT TRIP! A BIG NECKWEAR MANUFACTURER CLOSES OUT HIS COMPLETE LINE AT A SACRIFICE. NEW GOODS! SPICY, BRISK, SPICK AND SPAN.

Ready for Summer! Ready, aye, ready! No longer need a man look at a dollar with astance. A dollar looks bigger to us than to any store on the street. It was a blue town, but listen! There's nothing like the chink of the good old rhine to make a man think quick. That's what happened when I got over—something like this:

"I want Neckwear, old boy; something good, neat and full-ranged. Want a thousand dozen. I'll buy it all here if you make a price, if not I'm going. What's for this lot?" Quick! make a price."

That's how I bought the Neckwear. Wait, it's not opened yet. It's a big, big surprise.

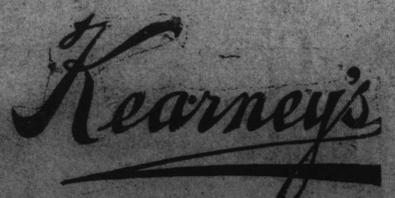

SHIRTS that flow before your eyes in a long vista of exquisite patterns. Tap your chest—here's where your long-suffering pocketbook chortles with joy. You'll want some. There's plenty for all—wait!

COLLARS with many new ideas and some old ones popping up in new garb. The new Semi-Soft Collar that grew famous in the States over night. Here, too! The best of many shapes in stiff and soft from where men wear the latest.

CAPS—a startling new idea. A Cap that will fit any size head. Loosen or tighten the strap—that's comfort. Won't shrink—won't stretch. See them here—they're not elsewhere.

STRAW HATS that grip like velvet. Silks predominate in beautiful Summer Pyjamas, Socks that ease weary feet and charm the eye, Handkerchiefs of exquisitely blended tones. Novel, new and bracing, Summer has given us a bracing impetus to show the latest and best.

Watch for what Kearney shows every day. Kearney's first with the latest and only a step behind Broadway. Good Goods don't come back—"tell me on the floor."

The Foreign Office acknowledged receipt of the protest, but was not foolish or reckless enough to make any demand on Chang. Instead, it informed the British Legation that the government had decided to make Mukden, instead of Peking, the principal airbase and to keep the airplanes there.

Hat That Caused a Riot

FASHION FREAKS' UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCES.

The first person to screw a glass in his eye was a Dutchman named Jonkheer Breele, whose monocle started the diplomats assembled for the Congress of Vienna.

It is generally understood that the late Mr. Joseph Chamberlain wore a monocle for use, and not for fashion.

History in Uniform. Who first put a black band round the arm as a sign of mourning? It is an amazing fact that this band is a sign that the Navy has not yet come out of mourning for Lord Nelson.

Everyone is familiar with the three rows of white tape around the edge of the blue collar, and the black silk scarf, which form part of the sailor's uniform.

The former commemorates Nelson's three most famous victories, while the scarf was first adopted by Nelson's seamen as a mark of mourning for their dead hero, and has been retained ever since.

John Hetherington, a Strand haberdasher, was the first man to wear a stiff hat and his appearance in this headgear caused a miniature riot.

He was followed by a surging crowd and taken to the Guildhall, where he was bound over in £500 to keep the peace. Was the hat worth it?

The first man in England to carry an umbrella habitually was Joseph Hanway, but the idea of an umbrella, more probably for keeping off the sun than the rain, is very ancient.

At the same time, it was Hanway who, carrying his umbrella, along Fleet Street, faced a jeering London mob.

HERE ON THE HEARTH. Here is where the blows are struck, Here is where the wrong is done, Here are fathers in the muck, Here beneath the shinning sun Pain and hurt and sun abide, Here is where our souls are tried.

What's beyond I cannot say, Save my faith that all is well; There the wrongs are cast away, There in peace the angels dwell. But this life on earth and sea Holds so much that need not be.

I would not remain afar, Thinking only of my soul; Here where hungry children are, Thought and time and strength I'd give Bettering this life we live.

Not tomorrow but to-day, I would serve another's need, I would smooth another's way, I bind the cruel wounds that bleed; Death will soothe the weary brow, But my hand would soothe it now.

Life has need of kindly men, Just, courageous, true and brave, But that need is ended when Comes the sexton to the grave; Let me then, my duty face, Making earth a happier place.

Let me serve the living here, Not the dead across the bar, Let me carry hope and cheer Where the sad and hopeless are; Let me smooth the path men tread, Angels wait upon the dead.

The Wedding Ring.

Mystic significance has been associated with the rings from the earliest times. In its circular continuity it was accepted as a type of eternity, and hence of the stability of love.

The Greek and Roman rings are often inscribed with sentences typical of this feeling. "May you live long;" "I bring good fortune to the wearer;" were usual inscriptions.

Motto or "post" rings were very common in England from the middle of the sixteenth to the close of the seventeenth century and are alluded to by Shakespeare more than once.

The word "wed" is Anglo-Saxon and means "a pledge"; hence it has come about that the ring is popularly supposed to be the pledge given by the man to avouch that he will perform his part of the contract.

Used as a Seal.

But the wedding ring has a far greater significance than this. It dates from ancient Egyptian days, when a ring was used as a seal by which orders were signed; and the delivery of a ring was a sign that the giver endowed the person who received it with all the power he himself possessed.

The "ring" originated in a cylindrical seal made of agate, which had a hole bored in the centre through which a spindle was threaded.

It often had a handle and is known as the "garden roller seal," upon which the sign manual of the King was engraved in intaglio. The seal used to be rolled over wax which took its impression and in that way it may be regarded as the King's Privy Seal.

Gradually the "garden roller" resolved itself into a signet ring and as the ancient Egyptians were unacquainted with the use of locks and keys, we find that they employed their seals for the purpose of securing the doors of their granaries and storehouses. A wooden belt was used which was ingeniously tied up with string, the ends of which were sealed. Our modern post bags are secured in much the same way.

Government storehouses were in charge of officials who kept them under their seal. Nebul (circa 1500 B.C.) for instance, proudly boasts that the treasury of the Temple of Osiris was kept "under his signet ring."

Made Keeper of Seal.

When Pharaoh said unto Joseph, "See I have set thee over all the land of Egypt. And Pharaoh took off his ring from his hand and put it upon Joseph's hand (Gen. 41: 42-43). It meant that Joseph was made Chancellor of the Exchequer, or Keeper of the Privy Seal.

In Egypt, the nation's little string of seals has its direct lineal descendant in our modern housekeeper's bunch of keys. At first, the man used to present his wife, on her marriage, with a seal which she was to use for sealing up her stores of provisions, etc. This she was accustomed to secure to her finger by a piece of string or wire. Gradually the wire and seal developed into the signet ring.

Thus, the placing of the ring upon the bride's finger came to symbolize the endowment by the bridegroom with all his worldly goods and the woman who had the ring could issue commands as her husband, and was in every respect his representative.

At the present day, in England, if the ring is not forthcoming at a wedding, the key of the chancel door can be used instead.

The ring is placed on the third finger of the left hand because it was believed that a very delicate nerve ran straight from that finger to the heart.

No Wonder He Hurried.

He kicked off his wet boots, slid his tired feet into a pair of carpet slippers, lit his pipe, sat down in the easy-chair, and declared that nothing could make him stir from the house till next morning.

"Henry" said his wife, "you posted that letter I gave you this morning, I suppose?"

"I did, my love," he answered, un-bushily.

"I asked my mother to postpone her visit for a while," his wife went on. "You see—"

Henry did so. His wife saw, too. What she saw was the tired man jump from his chair, kick off his slippers, put on his boots, and skip out into the murky street.

And when, five minutes later Henry returned with the tale that he had just been to see how the thermometer outside the post-office stood, she smiled.

His Boost.

Sir Edward Clarke, K.C., who celebrated his eight-first birthday the other day, can claim that, acting in accordance with humanitarian scruples, he was never, in the course of half a century at the Bar, instrumental in securing the death penalty against a prisoner.

He tells of a young barrister, who came home from circuit and boasted that he had saved a man's life.

"You defended him on a charge of murder, I suppose," suggested Sir Edward.

"No," was the answer; "I prosecuted him."

S. A. Farewell Meeting.

POPULAR OFFICERS TRANSFERRED.

On Tuesday evening a large gathering of Salvationists took place in the S.A. Chapel, Adelaide Street, to attend the farewell of Adjutant and Mrs. Tucker and Adjutant and Mrs. Woolfry, who are being transferred from Newfoundland to Canada. The meeting which opened at 8 p.m., was presided over by Colonel Martin. After a brief address in which he eulogized the work of the officers being transferred, a Scripture lesson was read by Brigadier Prescott. The latter gave a short address and was followed by Commandant Sainsbury, who on behalf of the Field Staff wished the farewelling officers God speed. Adjutant and Mrs. Tucker, Adjutant and Mrs. Woolfry, spoke briefly, thanking their friends for the many kindnesses shown them during their term as officers in Newfoundland territory.

A very pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation by Bandmaster Moore of a gold watch pendant suitably engraved, to Bandmaster James Butler, who is leaving shortly for Toronto. Mr. Moore paid a high compliment to Bro. Butler's abilities as a bandsman and expressed regret that he was leaving. Bro. Butler made a suitable reply.

At the conclusion of the service the congregation sang "Hail" "we meet beyond this river," and the Colonel committed the departing comrades to the keeping of God in a dedicatory prayer. The best wishes of a host of friends go with the above mentioned officers who are very popular wherever known.

Personal.

His many friends will be glad to learn that Mr. Leo P. O'Reilly of the Reid Co. purchasing department who entered the General Hospital last week, has had a successful operation for appendicitis performed on Tuesday.

Friends of Mrs. E. A. Smith will regret to learn that she was taken seriously ill yesterday and removed to the hospital, where it is expected she will undergo an operation to-day.

The Mystery People.

STRANGE HISTORY OF THE GIPSY TRIBES.

Of all the strange peoples of the world, gipsies are perhaps the most interesting and the most mysterious. Who are they? From what country did these wanderers upon the face of the earth first set out? They could not tell you themselves, though their tradition has it that they are descendants of the inhabitants of ancient Egypt, the word gipsy being a corruption of Egyptian.

Until recently no one knew much more about them than this. Their language and their appearance showed that they were not Europeans, but that is as far as our knowledge went on the subject.

Investigations of old documents showed that gipsies first appeared in this country in the reign of Henry VIII. They soon crossed the border into Scotland, for in 1540 we find the ruler of that country giving John Faa (a famous Romany name) permission to punish those of his followers who were disorderly. Faa is called in this document "Lord and Earl of Little Egypt."

At first the gipsies were welcomed by the Scots, but their lawless acts soon led to their being ordered to leave the country on pain of death.

Magicians and Snake Charms.

And so, step by step, their history was traced back for more than two thousand years. It was found that whatever else they might be, they certainly were not Egyptians. But how did they get the name? This was for some time a knotty problem, but at length the answer was found.

There was a tradition among Christian peoples that, as a punishment for having kept the Israelites in captivity, the Egyptians were condemned to wander for ever through the lands of the world. Seeing these strange, dark-skinned travellers, who spoke an unknown tongue, wore quaint, gaudy clothes, and dealt in fortune-telling and other forms of magic, superstitious folk of the Middle Ages recalled the old story, and concluded that they must be Egyptians. The name stuck fast, and the Romany tribes adopted it, as well as the tradition.

Here is the strange story of the Romany people as it has been pieced together after years of patient labor. Some time before the opening of our era, there lived in the north of India a weird, fanatical people who were renowned as jugglers, snake charmers, and magicians. Their extraordinary religious beliefs brought them into violent contact with other tribes, and finally they resolved to set out in a body to seek lands in the west.

For years they travelled, carrying their goods in wagons, and driving their beasts before them. Eventually they settled in Armenia. They embraced Christianity, but grafted on to it some of their own strange beliefs. Eventually they became such a nuisance that the whole tribe was removed to Roumelia, where they were settled on the land as slaves. It was while living in Roumelia that they began to call themselves Romanies. Some of them stuck to farming, but others felt the travel-call in their blood again, and before long they were moving along the great Roman roads to all parts of Europe.

Families Sold by Auction.

To-day there are about a million of them altogether, three-quarters of the whole number being in Hungary, Turkey and the Balkans. Sixty thousand of them live in Russia, forty thousand in Spain, and thirty-five thousand in Italy. In this country we have a gipsy population of about twelve thousand.

It is a mistake to suppose that gipsies from any part of the world can understand each other's speech. Originally they all spoke the same Indian tongue, but now their language consists of countless dialects, which are so different from one another that English and Spanish, or French and Hungarian gipsies could not exchange two words.

The farmer gipsies who remained in Eastern Europe continued to be slaves until the middle of the last century. In 1845 two hundred families of gipsies were sold by auction at Bucharest, the average price fetched being about five pounds a head.—Tit-Bits.

MAKING THE BEST.

John Jacksonson, of Boulderside, made a post-hole for the trade; and all the users testified. "The finest postholes made." He started making them by hand, one post-hole at a time; but soon there rose a great demand from every shore and clime. And so he hired a hundred men to help him at his chore, and still his trade increased, and then he hired five hundred more. And now his factory extends for half a mile, or so, and all his customers are friends who boost him high and low. For every posthole from his works is perfect as can be, inspected by a dozen clerks, who any flaw would see. We know that in the posthole trade there's many a tawdry trick; a lot of worthless holes are made, by skates who'd get rich quick. But when they come from Boulderside no fears disturb our souls, for Jacksonson, he takes a pride in selling perfect holes. And so, while other makers claim that trade is on the bum, this Jacksonson, who plays the game, sees mighty orders come. Each day he sees his business grow, and grow, and grow again; and every other week or so he adds five hundred men.

WALT MASON

Not Smart Enough!

A group of men were sitting down at dinner when one of them named Jimson produced a pack of cards. Putting the cards on the table, he said: "I will bet any man in the company a shilling that I can cut the ace of diamonds first time."

"That's on," said Brown.

Jimson asked for the loan of a sharp knife, with which he cut the pack of cards through the middle.

"There you are, Brown," said Jimson, "you have lost your shilling."

"No, indeed. I have not," said Brown, "for I put the ace of diamonds in my pocket while you were borrowing the knife."

The Dove Was Disguised

An amusing story is told of a revival meeting held in a church attended by Negroes.

In order that the revival spirit might be quickened, it was arranged that the preacher should give a signal when he thought the excitement was highest, and through a hole cut in the ceiling over the pulpit the sexton was to throw down a pure white dove, whose flight around the church and over the heads of the audience was expected to cap the climax.

All went well at the start; the church was packed; the preacher's text was "In the form of a dove," and as he piled up his eloquent periods the excitement was intense.

Then the opportune moment arrived, the signal was given, and the packed audience was scared out of its wits on looking up to the ceiling and beholding a cat, with a clothes-line round his body, being lowered over the preacher's head.

The preacher called out to the sexton: "Where's the dove?"

"Inside de cat!" was the reply.

A Great Adventuress.

Many of the famous women of history are said to have been not really beautiful, but where this was lacking there was in its place that indefinable quality known as "charm," to fascinate the souls of men. The most celebrated of these women was, beyond doubt, the beautiful Lady Hamilton, who owed her fame chiefly to her associations with Nelson and Romney.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

There is a demand for practically all kinds of houses at reasonable prices.

The Home Estate Co., Ltd., charges 2 1/2 per cent. for service in selling houses; that is the only charge; there is no charge if no sale is effected. Thus to sell a house for $1,000.00 through the Company, it costs the owner $25.00, and so in proportion to price realized.

The Company makes no charge to purchasers of properties, unless an understanding is openly arrived at between the owner, the purchaser and the Company.

We are looking for houses now to offer to those wishing to secure them.
