The Mystery of Rutledge Hall

"The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER XIII

"Had I not better bring you some wine before Miss Daunt comes?" Bessie suggested, when she had dressed the pretty chestnut hair high on the small head, and surveyed her handiwork with some satisfaction. "You look so pale, Miss Sidney."

"Oh if it does not matter, I am always pale, Bessie. By and by, when I am a great lady of fashion, I shall get some rouge and improve my appearance. No, I won't have any wine. Jessie, I don't make a scene by fainting; you need not be afraid. What is that parcel?"

"It came with the note from Mr. Daunt this morning," Bessie answered, less reassured by Sidney's careless manner than she had meant her to be. "Shall I open it, Miss Sidney?"

"Yes, open it by all means," Sidney answered, indifferently; but for all her indifference her eyes brightened into sudden admiration at sight of the beautiful parure of diamonds that Bessie disclosed, and she opened the little note with trembling fingers. It contained only a few tender lines asking her acceptance of the gems; and Bessie's brow cleared as she saw the girl bend her head and press her lips suddenly to the paper.

Presently Dolly came in radiant in her dainty bride-maid's dress of soft Indian muslin and lace, with a great cluster of many-tinted roses nestling at her milk-white throat, herself as fair a flower as any of the cluster; and then Sidney's bridal dress was donned, and the fragrant orange-blossoms fastened among the chestnut hair and the filmy white veil thrown over churchyard, and stood there to see the bride come. The carriage stopped; Dr. Arnold sprang out and lifted out his daughter and at Sidney's appearance a murmur of admiration broke from the spectators.

She was pale as a lily still; there was not a shade of color in her face or lips, and she kept her eyes down-cast as she walked up the carpeted pathway by her father's side. The sun-shine fell upon her as she passed, lingering lovingly on the flower-crowned head, turning the brown of her hair into gold, shining on the glossy folds of satin, on the flashing diamonds on the throat and on the white wrists. Almost like a royal bride she looked as she passed on into the porch, and then on to where Stephen waited for her, while the rich soft music of the organ filled the church with melody.

Those who were outside could breathe more freely now, and some, having seen what they waited for, were willing enough to disperse; but the first to move was the sailor who had obtained such a good place on the railings. As soon as Sidney's long white train had disappeared within the church, he swung himself down from his perch, shouldered his way through the crowd, and disappeared.

Within the church the marriage ceremony was proceeding with due solemnity. Lady Eva was sobbing a little, holding her faced handkerchief to her pretty blue eyes, but complacently conscious through it all of the exquisite toilet which Worth had sent her for the occasion, and which made her look almost as young as her own daughter, who stood, with tears in her bright eyes as they rested upon her brother, holding Sidney's bouquet and long white gloves; while Stephen's "best man," Lloyd Milner, a young barrister, who had been his great friend at Oxford, found his attention sorely distracted from his duties by the dainty little figure which looked so wonderfully charming in her bride-maid's dress. Very deep and earnest and tender was Stephen's voice as he made his response, while Sidney's was so low as to be almost inaudible even to those very near her, as she stood, so slim and white in her rich satin draperies, with one sunbeam which had stolen through the stained-glass windows falling upon her, and making one vivid patch of red on her spotless white.

In after years Sidney retained only a very faint and dim remembrance of that marriage ceremony; she went through it all mechanically, like one moving in a dream; she never knew quite what passed; two things only remained present with her through it all, the tender clasp of Stephen's hand over hers, and the tone of Mr. Greville's voice as he, with the other guests, wished her all happiness—for he, unlike his daughter, was present at the wedding, in order, as he said, in his cold stern voice, to show his approval of Sidney's conduct.

And then, for the last time, Sidney signed her name as "Sidney Arnold" in her pretty writing, which was not so firm or so legible as usual, and passed out of the church, leaning on her husband's arm, and went back to the old home, which was her home no longer; and thither the wedding-party followed her, and admired the presents and partook of the dainty breakfast, and drank to the health of the bride and bridegroom, as the custom is; and then, as the custom is also, the bride slipped away to put on her travelling dress, leaving the bridegroom to look over the telegrams of congratulation which had been sent to him by his absent friends.

"I am glad you are going only as far as London to-night," Dolly said, gently, as she assisted Sidney to remove all the white bridal stuff and lace. "You look so pale that a longer journey would knock you up. But Stephen will take care of you," she added, smiling. "Oh, Sid, how glad I am that you are my sister at last!"

"Are you, dear? Thank you, Dolly," Sidney said, with her sweet wistful smile. "I am afraid Stephen has made but a bad bargain."

"He does not think so, at any rate," Dolly answered, laughing. "It is the bargain of all others he wished to make."

Sidney's wistful eyes brightened. To think that Stephen really loved her, notwithstanding all her own misgivings, was great and deep happiness; and she went on dressing hurriedly, looking even prettier in her travelling-dress of pearl-gray cashmere than she had looked in her satin and lace.

How Will Companies' Earnings be Affected

BY $65 NEWSPRINT!

A FRANK DISCUSSION OF THE EFFECT OF A TOO LARGE PRODUCTION

This being the case, it looks as if the International Paper Company, which is the largest manufacturer of paper in the world, might be in a position to work out some big plans with a number of producers in the Province of Quebec.

To come back to the price of newsprint, investors can be fairly sure that, although $65 represents a $5 cut per ton, it will be found that in reality the cut will not equal as much as this, when finally worked out in the earnings of the various companies, for, as has been said, some of the companies have already sold at under $70 a ton, whilst others have made freight concessions.

Will the price of paper remain at $65 a ton or will there be further cuts? If there is a real surplus production on the market, it seems probable that further cuts might be in order—indeed, looked at in a calculating way, it might be, that a really large cut than this, say for six months, would go a long way towards clarifying the situation and turning many manufacturers in the United States into the production of other grades of paper. Here in Canada we have practically no small newsprint mills. The situation is different in the United States, where there are a large number of little mills which produce anything up to 80 tons a day of newsprint. These smaller units could not stand a big cut, whereas the Canadian mills, due to their low costs, cheaper production and the financial strength which has been woven into them over the past few years of prosperity, would be able to stand the strain of anything in the nature of a price war.

During the past few years Canadian newsprint companies have been getting themselves into excellent financial shape and have been setting their house in order against any possibility of too keen competition. They are ready to meet it.

Future Not Bright But—

There is no use evading the fact that at the moment the future of newsprint prices looks other than bright, but this does not necessarily coincide with any doubts which investors may have about their holdings in newsprint companies. All that

FOR BIGGER VALUES FOR LOWEST PRICES

Europe have fallen off considerably from 1924; there is also the hope of the trade treaty with Australia, which will open that market to the Canadian manufacturer. As far as the companies themselves are concerned costs have been cut. An example of this lies in the lower cost of ground-wood pulp, which constitutes over 80 per cent of the raw materials from which newsprint is made. This is now selling at about 25 per cent below what might be considered a normal figure. The companies can, therefore, should they desire, take advantage of these lower prices. Again, the prices of everything during the past few years have been falling and this helps the companies also. Wages, too, are lower.

Publishers Are Worried

One other thing—the publishers in the United States are seriously concerned at the lowered prices of newsprint. It does not seem reasonable that it is so. Publishers' advertising rates have all gone up, that is, since the war period, and their circulation rates are higher, too. The publishers know that, should newsprint prices get too low, there will be a definite demand made to them to either lower the prices of their papers or lower the prices of their advertising. This they are naturally reluctant to do, because they realize full well, that should they do so, consumption would increase and the size of the papers would increase also. This means that the newsprint surplus production would be used up and prices would bound up again. All this would react most unfavorably on the publishers, and it is one thing which they are doing their utmost to avoid right now.

Investors in the newsprint stocks who might be inclined to feel downhearted at the indications of a drop in newsprint prices, should remember that a permanent scaling down is hardly to be expected, as it would not really be surprising to see a gradual increase in the price of newsprint when the depletion of the forests is considered. Even such a large and careful buyer of paper as Hearst foresees much higher newsprint prices in time, with higher prices for paper—5 cent dailies and 10 cent weeklies.

BALDWIN'S COAL SUBSIDY LEADS TO ANOTHER DISPUTE

Germany To Discuss Security Pact With Allied Powers—Turkey Sends 4 Divisions To Irak-- World Economic Conference Is League's Next Undertaking.

THE BRITISH FASCIST

LONDON, Sept. 24. British Prime Minister Baldwin has declared that the interpretation of the agreement under which the miners' dispute was bridged over a nine-month period through government mediation, and a National Federation Conference has been called for October 9. The miners' leaders declare there is danger the truce will be broken. In the meantime a most significant movement has taken form in the aim of organizing all loyal elements of British coal into a single body to serve in the event of a general strike of all labor in sympathy with the miners. Lord Hardinge of Westbury is president and many notable names are in the executive council. The movement is non-political but if pressure arises the entire force will be placed at the disposal of the Government.

BALDWIN'S COAL SUBSIDY DISPUTE.

LONDON, Sept. 24. The dispute which has arisen over the interpretation of the agreement whereby the operators and miners in the British coal mines resumed work under the government subsidy pending negotiations recently, was unsettled after conferences to-day between Premier Baldwin and the Miners' Federation Executive. A national conference of miners' delegates will be called to negotiate a security pact.

NEGOTIATE SECURITY PACT.

BERLIN, Sept. 24. Germany will meet the Allied Powers to negotiate a security pact. It was decided to-day at a cabinet meeting presided over by President Von Hindenburg. Chancellor Luther and Gustav Stresemann, Foreign Minister, will represent Germany.

LEAGUE TO CALL WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

GENEVA, Sept. 24. The League of Nations Assembly to-day adopted the French proposal for a world wide economic conference under the auspices of the League.

LEAGUE REPRESENTATION FOR MOSUL.

GENEVA, Sept. 24. The League of Nations' Council, in special session to-day, decided to send a League representative to the Mosul district of Mesopotamia to inquire into the British charges of deportations of Christians by the Turks.

FOUR TURKISH DIVISIONS SENT TO IRAK.

LONDON, Sept. 24. It is reported that four divisions of Turkish troops have been despatched to the Irak frontier, a boundary of the Mosul oil district, the thorny subject of the League's attention.

FRANCO-AMERICAN DEBT CONFERENCE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. The long-pending Franco-American debt settlement negotiations got underway to-day, but conflicting reports were given out by the participants. Caillaux declared he made a definite proposal prepared on the steamer coming over, while the Secretary of the United States Commission said no official proposal was before them. Other American members declared the French proposal unfavorable.

NOVA SCOTIA'S GOVERNOR RESIGNS.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24. His Honor James Robb, Douglas, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, has resigned and Hon. J. C. Torrey, defeated at the polls on June 25, has been appointed to succeed him. The announcement was made here late this afternoon. Hon. Mr. Torrey represented Guysboro County in the local House and is an official of the Sun Life Assurance Company, Montreal, where he resides.

EMPRESS OF FRANCE BROUGHT TO PORT.

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 24. The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, which lost her rudder in the English Channel yesterday, entered port late this afternoon. The passengers landed from tenders.

BIG BOOTLEGGING RING BROKEN UP.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. Prohibition officials here claim today to have broken up what they describe as the biggest bootlegging ring in the country, an international organization in which a number of Canadians are alleged to have had a part. They declare the ring was permitted to operate for five months while a regiment of Federal officers obtained evidence on which they hope to convict twenty-seven men of conspiracy to violate the dry laws.

Good News for Ailing Women

Much has been said for and against proprietary medicines by the medical profession. It will interest every woman to know that in a recent country-wide canvass of over 121,000 purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as to the results received from its use, the replies received showed that ninety-eight out of every one hundred women had been benefited by its use. Therefore every sick and ailing woman owes it to herself to give this remarkably successful remedy a fair trial.

Wedding Bells

WILSON—PARSONS.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday morning, Sept. 22nd, at the home of the bride's sister, 4 Devon Row, when Violet Louise, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Parsons, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Alfred McDonald Wilson, son of the Rev. James and Mrs. Wilson. The ceremony was performed by the groom's father, assisted by the Rev. Ewart Cochran, of Bell Island.

At the appointed hour and to the strains of music played by Mrs. Eric Chaffa, the bride entered the drawing room with her father and attendant, Miss Eugenie Parsons and Miss Elsie Wilson, while Mr. Harry Wilson supported the groom. The bride was attired in a tailored costume of lawn with French hat and white furs and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and fern. The bridesmaids wore dresses of lemon and green respectively, with brown velvet hats, and carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemum and sweet peas.

At the close of the ceremony a dinner by luncheon was served and the customary toasts honored. The spacious rooms were profusely decorated with flowers and ferns and were very effective. The table decorations and color scheme throughout were of yellow and orange. With recently the bride was a staff nurse at the St. John's General Hospital, attached to the operating room, and her popularity there as elsewhere was amply shown by the numerous gifts and choques received.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left on Tuesday's express for Corner Brook, where the honeymoon will be spent. The Telegram joins with their hosts of friends in wishing them many years of happiness.

WHAT DO YOU QUARREL ABOUT?

What do you quarrel about, you husbands and wives who love each other so dearly and sometimes for a few passionate moments hate each other as dearly, what do you quarrel about? Did you ever by any chance analyze it?

You never quarrel, you say, you have never in 30 years, said a cross word to each other?

They Belong In A Museum.

Oh, but I did not mean to speak to you. You do not belong in daily life reading a newspaper, you belong in a museum. I speak to flesh and blood people, you people who though you love each other deeply yet have individual and sometimes conflicting likes and ideals and tastes and opinions.

What do such people as you quarrel about? Did you ever analyze your subjects of contention down to their residue?

Try it sometime and I think you will be surprised to find how often it is not so much one individual quarrel with another as the basic point of view of man quarrelling with the basic point of view of woman.

For instance, it is not you, Richard Barnes, quarrelling with your wife, Molly Barnes, as to the need of an oriental rug in the living room. It is the instinct of man, the provider, the one responsible for old age, fighting the instinct of woman, the home maker and home adorer. It is man, the earner, versus woman, the purchasing agent.

The Quarrel About That Woman.

Or, again, it is not you two individuals who quarrel over his carelessly expressed interest in the new woman in the neighborhood, it is woman's instinct for monogamy, the only safeguard for herself and her children, up in arms against a hint of man's polyamous instinct.

It is not just you, an individual woman, expressing an individual and unusual bitterness because your husband has a strange unwillingness to go out with you in the evening. It is woman, the home-wearer, struggling against man, the world-weary. It is woman, eager at night for the outside world, against man, tired at night of the outside world and eager for rest and the relaxation of his home.

It is not just you who quarrel with your husband because he cannot understand why you want to pay so much attention to your family. It is the family instinct of the typical woman who is "a daughter her whole life" against the individualistic instinct of the man who "is only a son until he gets him a wife."

The Quarrel About The Old Sait.

It is not an individual thing, that quarrel of yours as to whether you shall give away his old suit; it is an instinct in him as old as the man who had to kill the animals to get the fur to keep himself and his family warm and who feared the supply would give out, fighting against an instinct within you as old as the woman who had to keep that cave cleared out and livable.

So the next time that you suddenly find that for a few minutes your deep and genuine love has turned into antagonism and hate, don't be too much discouraged. Remember that after all it isn't you who are fighting each other, it's just all these instincts your ancestors have provided you with.

THE SEND-OFF.

Doc Dingbat was a worthy wight, his stay in Pikersville was long; he always strove to do the right, and looked with scorn upon the wrong. He did his work, he paid his debts, he often paused to dance and sing; he bilked no friend, he placed no bets upon a sure and certain thing. And after many years of peace he found himself alone and old; he'd lost his wife and aunt and niece, and he had little store of gold. A married daughter wrote to him, from some cheap village far away, "Oh, come and live with me and Jim, my husband, and forever stay." So old Doc Dingbat packed his grip to leave the town he loved so well; and when we learned about his trip a sadness on the village fell. We all went down to see him off, to see the old gent on his way, and every dame and every toff had something kind and sweet to say, "God bless you, doc," the people cried, the wives, the children and the men, "and when the other town you've tried, we hope you'll soon come gack again. The welcome sign will always hang for you upon our big front door, we'll wait for you,

Rev. Father Dee and his people of Red Island were favored with delightful weather for their Garden Party on Sunday last. The brilliant sunshine turned all outdoors, and crowds wended their way to the scene of merriment. There were many visitors to the Island from the nearby settlements to whom a right royal welcome was extended.

A full sport programme was prepared by a committee appointed by Father Dee, and this together with the atmosphere of pleasure customary on such occasions made the Garden Party very enjoyable for all.

Nearly Everybody Can Use A Motor

IN NEARLY every shop or store there is some place where a small motor could be used to save time, trouble and money. Electricity makes power in small quantities just as efficiently as for the owner of the big factory who uses many large motors. One should certainly give a thought to the possibility of using perhaps one such small motor in his own place. And Westinghouse men will be glad to talk to you about it and recommend just what little motor would be best for you.

It is to the greater development of the fisheries and to improved methods of curing that our attention should be given, and any money spent in that direction will not be in the nature of a speculative venture, but an investment from which returns are absolutely certain.

Work on Hotel Progressing

Considerable progress is being made at the new Hotel at Fort Williams, and it is anticipated that by the end of the year the structure will be closed in. The first floor is now rising above the foundation, and from the street the reinforced concrete pillars to support the second story can be seen above the fence enclosing the works.

Science in Industry

In a lecture delivered before the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, a prominent Boston business man pointed out that the success of an industry to-day depended, not upon the raising of a tariff wall against those countries which had by their enterprise become serious rivals, but upon devising new methods by which the industry might be made more profitable.

"Wild Oats Lane"

HARKINS' PLAYERS WIN FRESH LAURELS IN LAST NIGHT'S PERFORMANCE.

A sample in souls, where a son of the Church sits in and calls the devil's bluff. Such is a sentence in the story of "Wild Oats Lane," the three-act melodrama staged for the first time in St. John's at the Casino last night by the talented Harkins' Players, and it was the one and only play in their repertoire, it would be sufficient to make the reputation of the troupe, so intensely gripping are the various situations, so human are the passions displayed, and with such dramatic skill are the parts taken.

Playwright Aired 11 Aids Sick Fund

The first contribution to the $1,500 fund to aid the care of sick children at the Johns Hopkins Hospital was made yesterday by Anne Furness Watson, eleven, who wrote and staged a play and presented the proceeds to the Johns Hopkins Half-Century Committee, 603 Keyser Building.

Personal

His Lordship Bishop Renouf, who has been for the past three weeks making an Episcopal visitation of the Fortune Bay Parish, arrived in the city yesterday from Placentia. It was a source of great pleasure to the Bishop to visit the scene of his early missionary labors of thirty years ago and all classes and creeds are making his visitation as pleasant as possible. Mrs. J. P. Kiely and Miss Joan Kiely are returning by the Rosalind tomorrow en route to Montreal after a very pleasant visit. Senator H. W. Laird, Vice-President of the Ontario Equitable Insurance Co. of Canada, and also Vice-President of the Re-Insurance Co. of Canada, arrived by the Rosalind yesterday on a business and pleasure visit to Newfoundland.

Annual Meeting

THE SERGEANTS' MESS OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

The Sergeants' Mess of Newfoundland held their annual meeting at the Sterling restaurant, last night, at which business was combined with an evening of much pleasure. There was a large attendance and all at first sat down to a partidge supper, served by Sterling's, which, needless to say was much enjoyed. The business of the evening was then taken up, and all the reports for the past year were read and adopted.

Magistrate's Court

A resident of Duckworth Street, employed as timekeeper for the W. I. Bishop Company at the Quarry on the Southside was arrested this morning and charged with obtaining by a certain false pretence the sum of $36.60 of the property of the W. I. Bishop Company on the 18th September last.

Interment at Barhaven

Special to Evening Telegram. HARBOR BUFFET, Sept. 25. The remains of Miss Beatrice Pico who died in St. John's was brought to Cypress Hill Cemetery, South Island, for interment. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Francis Caccola, Barhaven. Miss Pico left her home at Swift Current, Placentia Bay, some years ago to enter business in St. John's.

Magistrate's Court

A resident of Duckworth Street, employed as timekeeper for the W. I. Bishop Company at the Quarry on the Southside was arrested this morning and charged with obtaining by a certain false pretence the sum of $36.60 of the property of the W. I. Bishop Company on the 18th September last.

The accused agreed to a summary trial and entered a plea of "guilty." The facts of the case as submitted showed that the accused was timekeeper with the Company, and on the 18th of September, he received a cheque from the paymaster of the Company amounting to $48.45 made out in favor of Wm. Ralph, one of the workmen at the Quarry. The cheque was to be delivered by the accused to Ralph, but the latter claimed he never received it. The paymaster of the Company recovered the cheque after it had been cashed, and it was found endorsed in the name of William Ralph. The latter also swore that it was not his handwriting. The accused had nothing to say in his own behalf. Judge Morris in summing up, stated that there was no doubt that the defendant had deceived his fellow workman and that forgery had been committed. He sentenced the prisoner to three months in the Penitentiary without the option of a fine.

Magistrate's Court

A labourer who has served several terms in the penitentiary for various offences, appeared before court on a charge of stealing an overcoat, the property of a boarder at the Seaman's Institute. The evidence showed that the coat had been stolen from the boarders room, and was recovered a few hours later by the police in possession of defendant on George Street. He was sentenced to three months imprisonment with hard labor.

Magistrate's Court

The case of the police versus the taxi driver "Clawell" which was begun in the Magistrate's Court yesterday concluded to-day after the hearing of two witnesses for the defence. The charges laid against the accused that he was intoxicated while in charge of a motor car, and that he motored over the Topsail Road prior to the collision at extreme danger to the public was not proved by the evidence submitted, whereupon the case was dismissed.

Majestic Theatre, St. John's, September 24, 1925. To the Public of St. John's: We, the undersigned Managers of the Majestic Theatre, take this early opportunity to announce that on next Monday and Tuesday probably one of the greatest stories ever screened, will be filmed under the title of "A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST." Gene Stratton-Porter's greatest novel. To show the popularity of this famous novel, it might be stated that fully 11,000,000 copies of her book have been sold throughout the world.

Recently, we succeeded in booking a number of super-special pictures. One of the first was released last week—"Judgment of the Storm." In our contract, we have arranged to present the same class of pictures that are being shown in the big theatres of New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, and Montreal.

Excursions from "A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST" are used in public schools, thus millions of school children are acquainted with this story. The cast includes some six well-known stars, including Gloria Gades who plays the title role. If you like real people in a story that is intensely human, this is your picture. If you like big drama resulting from natural events you will certainly like "A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST." If you like thrillers, they are waiting for you. "A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST" is jam-packed with tremendous drama—a situation that is far-reaching in its results. Look out for the facts as contained in the regular advertising columns of this paper and keep in mind a human story of real people "A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST" which will be shown on next Monday and Tuesday at the Majestic Theatre.

Sincerely yours, T. H. O'NEILL, THOS. COADY, Managers Majestic Theatre.

EPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Sept. 25th.—Mr. Peel tells me this day what great interest he takes in my journal, which it pleases me mightily to hear, being that there is no man, no matter how modest, that is not pleased to hear his praises sung. Anon abroad, and do buy me a brace of ptarmigan, cost $1.40, for my dinner this night, and have them sent to my house for my wife to have cooked. Calling at my banquet about the matter of my overdraft, do find the manager mighty unreasonable, and thinks I should make it good at once, which I did tell him I could not do and so leave him. Meeting there, Mr. de Champlain, do have discourse with him concerning the Labrador, and he tells me divers things which he would have me keep to myself for the present. But one thing do seem obvious to me from all I have heard of late, and is that the Cabal of Quebec is mighty anxious to secure the Labrador, and for the matter of that I do not blame them, since 'tis indeed a valuable possession which we would fain fain to let go. Anon home, and my wife in a great rage, having bought some chops to our dinner this night, and do rate me for sending her ptarmigan. I did use a little gentle exhortation on her, however, with good results, since she did at length promise to cook the ptarmigan for me. Povey tells me a good tale this day, being the best example of poetic justice I have yet heard of. Anon a woman that he did sharpen a pencil with her husband's razor, and did then ask him to shave the back of her shingled neck. By despatches out of London this night, news how labour trouble is expected through all England, and a volunteer force is in course of formation to act in an emergency.

Looking for Heirs

By recent mail the Inspector General received an enquiry from a North Shields solicitor concerning the whereabouts of a family named Hush of which there are four beneficiaries under the will of James Hush, deceased. It is believed that the four beneficiaries, Ethel Hush, Elizabeth Hush, and two brothers, Nat and Dan, surviving children of John Hush, brother of James Hush, deceased, are somewhere in this country. John Hush is supposed to have been married in St. John's. So far no one of the name of Hush can be located. If anyone interested would apply to Head Constable Byrne, they might hear of something to their advantage.

The Coal Commission

NO RESTRICTIVE TERMS OF REFERENCE.

The terms under which the Coal Commission has been appointed have been given in the London Gazette.

The commissioners are given power to call any persons they think fit to give evidence, to demand information in writing, and also to call for and have access to and examine all books, documents, registers, and records that may afford them information.

They are also authorized to visit any places they may deem expedient.

The commissioners are at liberty to report from time to time, and it is requested that the final report be presented with as little delay as possible.

The Close Season for Inland Fishing

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir—With reference to a letter and your editorial, in an issue of August last Evening Telegram, about certain points connected with rod-fishing for salmon; may I point out that there are certain rivers on the West Coast which have late "runs" of fish, as late as the end of October in one case, and where it would be reasonable to extend the rod season at least another month. In the case of Scottish and Norwegian rivers, of nearly every latitude to this country—seasons are made applicable to different winters, according as the Autumn and Fall run commences, and often the season is extended 5 weeks in case of late rivers. It is scarcely reasonable to lay down a fixed date for all rivers, regardless of the movements of the fish; as is the case in this Colony.

Another point I should like to mention is that guides could be given more authority and responsibility, with the added attraction of a little recognition from government sources, in order that they, being on the river more than most persons, (and certainly more than most game wardens) could exercise a certain amount of authority in dealing with local (and in some cases very apparent) illegal methods.

I understand that game wardens are only appointed for the period of the "rod season"—the most critical and important time, that of the "spawning season," quite overlooked. Spawning beds should be carefully watched if possible and interference with same checked with a heavy penalty.

Naturally the increased powers I suggest, would be given to guides of experience, most of whom are men of intelligence who would welcome additional interest and protection for their means of livelihood.

Perhaps this would entail the gradual merging of guides and wardens, and continuation of their services during the close season, which many people consider a real necessity for the protection of inland and also Coastal Salmon fisheries.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
J. M. BARRETT,
Commander R. N. (Ret'd.),
St. George's, Nfld., Sept. 21, 1925.

Heart Found in Casket, Old Relic

LONDON, Sept. 16.—A leaden casket containing a heart has just been found during excavations at the ancient house of the Grey Friars at Cardiff. Five mural vaults and two skeletons have also been discovered.

J. P. Grant, F.R.I.B.A., who made the discoveries, has advanced two theories about the heart. The casket was found lying on a female skeleton. One theory is that the heart was removed from the body.

The other theory is that it was the heart of the husband, who may have been killed in the Crusades.

It is stated that the burials must have taken place between 1280 and 1358. The Rev. J. M. Cronin, in his book on the Grey Friars, says that they were founded in Cardiff in 1280, and that they surrendered to Henry VIII in 1538.

A Quaint Saying

For the origin of the phrase, "Mind your p's and q's," several solutions have been offered, but Dr. Brewer thinks the following is the most likely to be correct:—In the reign of Louis XIV., people were much more ceremonious in their manners than they are now, and it was the custom to bow to each other with great stateliness and formality. The correct society consisted of a step with the feet and a low bend of the body. Wigs of very unwieldy size were worn in those days, and they were apt to get disarranged and even to fall off when wearers bowed low. Hence the constant instruction of the French masters of deportment to their pupils was to mind their p's and q's (pleads and feet) and q's (queues—wigs).

U.S. to Import Welsh Coal

WILL BRING IN 50,000 TONS IF STRIKE PROLONGED.

New York, Sept. 16.—Arrangements will be made to import 50,000 tons of Welsh coal per month if the anthracite strike continues to the end of September, Sanders A. Wertheim, a prominent coal dealer, announced recently prior to sailing for England. Adequate supplies of steam coal and bituminous are on hand for the normal domestic commercial needs of the country, he said, "so there is no danger of freezing."

Mr. Wertheim said he did not expect the strike to continue much longer but that prices inevitably would be raised unless some importations were received.

Slices of banana, dipped in melted currant jelly, and sprinkled with chopped, blanched almonds make a delicious filling for tarts.

Personals

(Nfld. Weekly)

We were glad to welcome at the office of the "Weekly" during the past week:

Mr. E. E. Hawkins of Harvey & Co., Ltd. of St. John's, who has been on a four weeks' vacation to New York and different points in Massachusetts. Mr. Hawkins is accompanied by his wife and they have had an enjoyable visit to their many friends and relatives in this country. They left for New York on Wednesday on the return journey to Newfoundland.

Mrs. J. G. Hodder, wife of the Deputy Minister of Posts and Telegraphs of Newfoundland, who has been visiting relatives and friends in the Hub. Mr. Hodder, who accompanied his wife to Boston, returned to Newfoundland some three weeks ago, and Mrs. Hodder leaves by the S. S. Newfoundland sailing next week.

Mr. J. Fitzhenry, of Walpole, Mass., who returned from a short but well-earned vacation to Montreal last week. Mr. Fitzhenry is a Newfoundland-lander who has done credit to himself and to Terra Nova in the land of his adoption, as the recognition of his activities in the public life of the town of Walpole shows.

A few weeks ago he was elected President of the Chamber of Commerce, of Walpole, and he is also a member of the Town Planning Board and Editor in Chief of the Walpole Times.

Mr. Fitzhenry's interest in his native land is lessened not a whit by his long residence in the land of Uncle Sam and he still keeps up an active connection with Newfoundland affairs in Boston. Last year he was President of the Newfoundlanders' Mutual Benefit Association.

Mr. Peter Maher, electrician with the Commercial Cable Co. of St. John's, who arrived with his son, Peter, about two weeks ago on a visit to relatives and friends in Boston. Mr. Maher and his son have had a very pleasant holiday and have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Fitzhenry of Walpole. They were interested visitors at the N.M.B.A. outing at Norumbega Park on Labor Day, and Peter, Jr., shared the honors with the winning team in the Field Regatta.

While here Peter received word that he was successful in passing the Intermediate Grade with honors in the yearly examinations of the schools in Newfoundland, a very creditable performance for a young lad of 14 years. He is a pupil of St. Bonaventure's College. Mr. Maher and his son are returning to Newfoundland by the S. S. Newfoundland Sept. 22nd.

Famous Trappist Monastery Burns

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—Part of the famous Trappist monastery at Oelenburg, near the Swiss frontier, has been destroyed by fire. A number of the monks, who are sworn to silence and isolation by the rules of their order, were driven by the flames from their cells for the first time since they had taken their vows.

The monastery is one of the richest on the Continent. Fortunately, the main building, which contains relics famous throughout Europe, was saved by the work of firemen, who were aided by the monks themselves.

A former employee who had been dismissed is suspected of causing the fire in revenge. He has been arrested. The damage is estimated at £40,000.

The order of La Trappe, to which the building belongs, follows the severest ascetic rules. Its members, except for the morning reciting ("Remember death"), communicate with each other only by signs. They live on the coarsest of fare, use bricks for pillows, and sometimes sleep in their coffins.

Season codfish timbales with a little minced onion and pimento, serve with tomato sauce, and garnish with watercress.

Remember that cinnamon is soothing to the nerves. Cinnamon sugar sandwiches of Graham bread are nice at tea time.

Zane Grey's Novel "The Last of the Duanes"

TOM MIX AT THE MAJESTIC TO-DAY.

For big pictures, go to the Majestic Theatre that is what lovers of the screen in St. John's are saying to-day after seeing "Judgment of the Storm," "That French Lady" and others shown recently. To-night Zane Grey's celebrated novel "The Last of the Duanes" is the feature, with the ever popular Tom Mix as the star and his famous horse Troy to the front.

The plot is so eventful and elastic that many fans could see and enjoy the picture a second time, and, incidentally, probably find something new.

CAST.
Buck Duane Tom Mix
Jenny Marion Nixon
Cal Bain Brindley Shaw
Euchre Frank Nelson

STORY.
To-self-defense Buck Duane kills Cal Bain, a bad man, and is forced to flee from his hometown in Texas. On the dodge from Texas rangers he befriends a cattle rustler who is shot by a posse. Before his death the rustler

Municipal

WEELY

The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held on Tuesday evening, September 22nd, at 8 o'clock.

Mayor Cook presided. Present: Councillors Martin, O'Connell, and Dowden were absent.

Mr. R. Watson, Church Warden, called attention to the fact that the Municipal Council had not yet completed the matter of the extension of the water supply to the vicinity of the Market Square. A number of applications for water had been received for the past few weeks, and it was suggested that the Council should consider the matter at once.

The following subject was also brought under the consideration of the Council:—The Engineer, at whose instance the extension of the water supply to the vicinity of the Market Square was undertaken some time ago, has now completed the work, and the water is being supplied to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square. The Council was informed that the water was of good quality, and that the supply was sufficient for the requirements of the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square.

The Council decided to continue the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square, and to consider the matter of the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square at its next meeting.

At the meeting of the Council on Tuesday evening, September 22nd, the following resolutions were passed:—

Resolved, That the Council do thank the Engineer for the completion of the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square, and for the good quality of the water supplied to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square.

Resolved, That the Council do continue the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square, and do consider the matter of the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square at its next meeting.

Resolved, That the Council do continue the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square, and do consider the matter of the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square at its next meeting.

Resolved, That the Council do continue the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square, and do consider the matter of the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square at its next meeting.

Resolved, That the Council do continue the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square, and do consider the matter of the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square at its next meeting.

Resolved, That the Council do continue the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square, and do consider the matter of the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square at its next meeting.

Resolved, That the Council do continue the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square, and do consider the matter of the extension of the water supply to the houses in the vicinity of the Market Square at its next meeting.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.

The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held yesterday afternoon.

Mayor Cook presided and Counsellors Martin, Outerbridge, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present.

Mr. R. Watson, on behalf of the Church Wardens of St. Thomas' Church, called attention of the work undertaken some time ago in the vicinity of the Mall which was not completed. A committee of Council will visit the place with a view to considering the several suggestions contained in Mr. Watson's letter.

A number of applications were received for the position of Plumbing Inspector. These were ordered placed on file.

PLANS.

The following plans were passed, subject to the approval of the City Engineer, at whose office permits may be obtained on application:—
Extensions to dwellings, for Messrs. Steans, Field Street, and Keefe, Job Street.

In the matter of the plan submitted by M. & E. Kennedy, Contractors, for erection of garage rear of Mrs. Stewart's dwelling, Water Street, permit was granted conditional upon the building being erected of unflamable material (as it is in the fire zone) and also that ventilator is installed.

The City Engineer reported that work of relaying the pavement, Water Street, by the Newfoundland Light and Power Company was not according to specification, and that in many cases the native blue stone is being replaced by an inferior quality imported granite. The Company is to be written and informed unless the Engineer's requirements in this respect are carried out work will have to be discontinued.

The Engineer then submitted his usual weekly report on the work of the Water, Roads and Sewerage Departments. He referred to the fact that the extension of water and sewer mains, Cockpit Road, will be completed in the course of a day or two; and that with regard to the realignment of LeMarchant Road West, the Telephone and Electric Light Companies had moved their poles to the new line of street.

In connection with the complaint made by the Department of Public Works of surface water entering the Departmental Building this, the Engineer stated, was largely due to the bad condition of the pavement fronting the said building. It was decided that the Minister be written to that effect, and also that the Engineer's recommendation for the construction of a new sidewalk and curb at this place be communicated to him.

In reporting on the Watering of Shipping at A. H. Harvey's premises, the City Engineer called attention to Section 110 of the Municipal Act which clearly defines the position of the Council who may at expense of owners erect a hydrant on any premises for fire protection purposes. It was decided that the Company be written and that the estimate of cost of such work, as submitted by the Engineer, be given them.

A lengthy report was read from Mr. T. J. Foran, Supervisor of Enumeration of Voters in connection with the forthcoming Municipal Election. This report dealt with the many drawbacks experienced in connection with the above work and pointed out the advisability of the Council in the near future making some amendments to the Act in respect to same, as also several improvements which he thought worthy of the Council's consideration in the conduct of Elections. The several matters mentioned will receive the attention of the Council.

The List of Voters have now been transferred to the City Clerk, and the Revision of same will commence as soon as the necessary preliminaries are arranged.

With reading of reports of the Sanitary Supervisor and other departmental heads, granting of regulations and passing of weekly accounts, the meeting adjourned.

Nfld. Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club

The formal closing of the courts and the presentation of prizes took place yesterday at the Club grounds, Forest Road. Mrs. Herbert Outerbridge very graciously presented the prizes to the fortunate winners. Mrs. B. C. Gardner; Miss E. B. Bartlett and Miss M. Rogerson were the hostesses for the afternoon and served a delightful tea to the many members and guests present. The tournaments during the season were very keenly contested and the winners deserved their victories. In the Ladies' (Singles) Champion, Mrs. B. C. Gardner, who has been playing a most consistent and energetic game throughout the season, both in town and at Corner Brook, emerged triumphantly, but only after a very hard struggle with Miss E. B. Bartlett, the scoring going to 12-10 in the final set. Miss Cynthia Marshall - 1/15, one of the youngest players and one who gives promise of greater tennis in the future because of her energy and perseverance, won the Ladies' Singles (Handicap) from Miss M. Hutton - 1/15, after a very close and well fought game. Mr. Eric Jerrett won the Gentlemen's Singles Championship, defeating Mr. H. B. Hatch in the fourth set. Mr. Jerrett - 1/15, also won the Gentlemen's Singles (Handicap). The Mixed Doubles (Handicap) were won by Miss B. White and Mr. H. S. MacDonald and the Gentlemen's Doubles (Handicap) by Mr. H. P. Carter and Mr. H. Foster - 1/15; the Gentlemen's Doubles Championship by Mr. H. Foster and Mr. B. Dunfield; the Ladies' Doubles (Handicap) by Mrs. B. C. Gardner and Miss B. White - 1/15.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Outerbridge for presenting the prizes and also to the hostesses. The donors of the prizes were Mrs. H. Outerbridge, Mrs. B. C. Gardner, Miss Alldryce, Mr. E. Fox, Mr. A. J. Harvey, Mr. Hatch and "The Boys", to whom the President, Mr. Angus Reid, extended many thanks.

An Appreciation of Kindness

Mrs. T. J. Cooper, formerly of the South Side, St. John's Nfld., who left here recently on a visit to Boston, has decided to make America her future home. Mrs. Cooper wishes to extend a fond farewell to all relatives and friends in Nfld., until she meets them again, which she trusts may be soon. Mrs. Cooper also wishes to sincerely thank Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Moore and son, also Miss Winnie Kent, for their very welcome and interesting telegram and for their great kindness on many occasions before leaving Nfld. She also wishes to ask Mrs. Hector McNeil, on behalf of the Women's Suffrage Alliance, to accept her sincere thanks for her very beautiful farewell letter and letters of introduction to the Suffrage Ladies of America. She also wishes Miss Mary Stafford, of the South Side, to accept her sincere thanks for being so exceedingly kind to her husband and boys since leaving Nfld.

Mrs. Cooper was joined by her husband and two boys on Thursday, Sept. 17th, and after a complete rest Mr. Cooper will enter in business with his brother-in-law, Mr. T. Harris.

The Evening Telegram wishes Mr. and Mrs. Cooper and family a very successful future in the land of Uncle Sam.

The Greatest Attraction for Monday Night

CONWAY TEARLE AND ALICE TERRY IN "THE GREAT DIVIDE."
One of the biggest film events of the year is Reginald Barker's production of "The Great Divide," William Vaughn Moody's famous American play. This Metro-Goldwyn picture is coming to the Nickel Theatre on Monday and we wish to remind you of the date.

You will not want to miss this. Think of Alice Terry and Conway Tearle in the two principal roles, and a supporting cast that includes Wallace Berry, George Cooper, ZaSu Pitts, Allan Forest and Huntly Gordon. You can't beat that by much!

The story of a woman's gradual awakening to love for the man who has bought her with a chain of nuggets, was filmed mostly in the Painted Desert of Arizona, and presents a marvelous background for the love drama.

And—a word to the wise—ladies, bring your husbands; they're sure to like this one.

See to-morrow's Telegram for further particulars of this truly wonderful photoplay which is to receive its Newfoundland premiere at the Nickel Theatre on Monday.

How the Coal Strike Strikes the Public

(The Literary Digest)

Angry suspicion that neither the operators nor the miners really tried to prevent the deadlock that closed the anthracite mines on September 1 finds expression in many an editorial and news dispatch. The consumer of hard coal, confronted by the prospect of paying a higher price for his winter's supply, reads with smoldering resentment of the rich profits predicted for the operators and distributors from the large surplus supplies of anthracite already above ground. Nor does he feel any profound thrill of sympathy when the correspondents describe the "festal spirit" in which miners welcome their enforced vacation. They "are leaping into their holiday in a joyous mood," reports Robert T. Small in a Scranton dispatch to the Washington-Star. Many, we are told, are joining the rush to Florida, lured by news of the land boom in that State. Others are starting on motor trips. Still others are withdrawing their savings and preparing to return to Europe. To quote Mr. Small further: "This is the biannual vacation they have been waiting for and they intend to make the most of it. Clothing merchants and haberdashers throughout the region reported today the usual brisk trade which always follows an order to quit the mines. The miners, expecting to spend much time above ground, are 'dolting up' for their holiday."

The anthracite companies, declares President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, are using the strike "to unload at enhanced prices a greatly augmented tonnage of inferior coal." The miners, retorts an official spokesman for the companies, are using the strike to force a wage advance which would have to come ultimately out of the public's pocket. Another charge hinted at by the operators is that the United Mine Workers-Union is sacrificing the anthracite field to serve its purposes in the soft coal industry. But while each side is accusing the other of forcing the suspension for ulterior motives, disinterested journals are blaming them both for this "strike against the consumer." "The period of coal strikes of recent years have been manifestly directed primarily against the public, and this is ever more true of the present strike than of previous struggles," remarks the Buffalo Express. "Both miners and operators have surrendered all claims upon public sympathy," declares the Albany Knickerbocker Press, which denounces the strike as "excusable and senseless." "Remarkably that neither side of the controversy has shown the right spirit," the St. Louis Star points out that the operators, in a position to profit whichever way the situation developed, "have been arbitrary," while the miners, "demanding a 10 per cent. increase and the check-off, with wage adjustments for those employed by the day, have refused arbitration."

"Discussing 'The Art of Skinning Coal Consumers,'" William A. McGarry states in Mr. Ford's Dearborn Independent that "the record of all previous suspensions in the anthracite industry shows that when all the surplus stock in the yards is exhausted the miners and operators get together, hold a three-hour session, and sign a compromise agreement—generally the identical agreement over which they had deadlocked during the earlier stages of the negotiation." To quote Mr. McGarry further: "If no other evidence were available it would be sufficient to arouse at least a strong suspicion that unsold anthracite has something to do with a suspension of work in the mines. The Government is slowly showing signs of recognizing how the game is won. The miners are becoming impatient and therefore more outspoken. And even the consumer is learning. He is not stampeding as easily as in former years. "When the mines closed in 1922 competent observers estimated the unsold hard coal above ground at thirty million tons, and most of that—nearly a half-year's normal supply—was moved in four months. It didn't move with nearly enough rapidity to suit the operators. In earlier suspensions the artificial demand had been even more rapid. This year the growth of suspicion is evidenced by the fact that even a concerted campaign of newspaper, street-car, direct mail, and billboard advertising, all making use of the strike threat, has failed so far to create a 'panic market.'"

Glancing back over the present controversy, which had its official beginning in the conferences between representatives of the operators and the miners in Atlantic City early in July, the New York Times finds the attitude of both sides "cynically unimpaired" of the interests of the consuming public: "Both sides have ample time to compose their differences in peace, had there been a genuine will to peace. Two months ago negotiations for a renewal of the wage agreement were begun. The proceedings dragged on in the most leisurely way four weeks to their final collapse. Neither side has presented its case fully and frankly. The public has no real knowledge of the basic facts at issue in the present dispute: The conferences at Atlantic City were held behind closed doors and the press statements from each side appeared to have been issued primarily to achieve some tactical advantage over the other. The public authorities have also had ample time to use their good offices to bring both parties together. But nothing has been done and the strike is upon us."

"This blind drifting toward widespread public inconvenience—perhaps actual suffering, if the contest is prolonged—is exasperating the American people as it has never done before. But it will serve some useful purpose if it arouses them to a disciplineless drift with deliberate mastery. There is need of intensive public consideration of the whole process of mining and distributing coal. Premium prices for coal will bring a general appreciation of the fact that more is at stake than a wage dispute. The idea which emerges in the public mind with each recurring stoppage is that coal is 'affected with a public interest' to such an extent that some sort of government regulation is essential for the public welfare."

"Unless all the outward indications are grossly misleading, remarks the Detroit Free Press, both miners and operators were content to have the strike called at this time. But 'no reasons have been given by either side which excuse it,' declares the New York World, which reminds us that: "Two years ago the miners received more than they expected in the agreement for a 10-per-cent. increase and a strict eight-hour day. The operators' business is in a healthy condition. No mines are closing down, as in the bituminous field. No owners are losing money. The industry could have been expected to settle its disputes over the anthracite tabs or through arbitration without tramping over public interest. That it has failed so completely to do anything of the sort indicates something more than gross mismanagement of the negotiations; it indicates a selfish desire on one side or both to precipitate a strike for what can be had from it."

In the opinion of the Albany Evening News and Journal: "The time is coming when the 100,000,000 will refuse longer to be the Belgium of this war between owners and vases. The people may learn, indeed, they are learning, that hard coal may be a luxury instead of a necessity. New England has moved to educate the people to soft-coal substitutes. And there is oil."

The miners and operators "have sown the whirlwind," and "they are now confronted with the prospect of reaping what they have sown," says the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger, which sees the operators losing their market and the miners losing public sympathy. The public, we are told, is already beginning to break itself of "the anthracite habit." It is learning the use of substitutes. According to the Williamsport Sun "the demand for anthracite in the United States in a few years has fallen off 40 per cent. because of the high price of the article and the uncertainty of a steady supply on account of periodical strikes." conditions growing out of the forced Western consumers to turn from anthracite to soft coal and all the St. Louis Star reminds us. And since the present strike loomed on the horizon, a conference of New England Governors unanimously advised a temporary boycott of anthracite. Says the St. Louis Globe Democrat of the proposed boycott: "Monopoly is at the bottom of most complaints as to hard-coal prices. Should New England attempt to do by concerted, organized means what the West has already done as matter of individual choice and convenience, and should it persist in the attempt, the result might be rather important in restoring the law of supply and demand. At any rate, a revolt on the part of New England is a revolt in one of the fairest of anthracite's provinces and may mark a turning-point in a domination that has resisted all opposition for more than twenty years."

In an editorial headed "The Revolt Against Anthracite" the Kansas City Times comments as follows: "Pennsylvania operators and miners have furnished New England the bulk of its heating coal for an indefinite past. To lose that market would be a hard blow to an already declining trade. Only a few years ago great quantities of Pennsylvania coal were used in the central West, a good deal even west of the Mississippi. This trade has fallen off primarily because of prohibitive prices. In 1923, 29 per cent. of the coal-using population burned hard coal. This year, according to recent Washington reports, only 17 per cent. is used. And yet, while this precipitous decline on consumption goes on, operators and miners quibble over margins in their wage-scales and haggle about the old perplexity of the check-off, again placing before the coal dealers, and coal consumers the uncertainty of a winter supply. "It all looks like a suicidal policy, especially as the soft coal mines are overmanned and the operators are wrestling with the problem of overproduction."

The public, notes the Newark News, is learning to look upon anthracite as "luxury coal." Its use, we are told, "is principally in a restricted area north of Washington, and east of the Mississippi River." More than 5,000,000 tons of various grades of bituminous coal in prepared sizes will be distributed in the Middle Atlantic and New England States monthly in an effort by the bituminous operators to invade the normal anthracite market, says a Philadelphia dispatch to the New York Herald Tribune. Other substitutes for anthracite mentioned, in addition to the smokeless grades of bituminous coal, are coke, fuel oil and gas.

But the use of substitutes is not the only thing proposed for the discipline of the anthracite industry. When Congress convenes, suggests the Baltimore Sun, it should consider carefully the recommendations of the United States Coal Commission, which was appointed two years ago to look into the coal situation. Its recommendations were as follows: "1. The operating and financial reports of the coal companies should be given publicity. "2. In case the operators and miners can not agree on wages and conditions, the President should have power to run the industry. "3. The land-owners should voluntarily reduce the royalties per ton which they now receive for their coal." (Continued on page 11.)

The anthracite freight rates should be reexamined by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Steps should be taken to avoid shortages, which cause increases in the price of coal. What do the operators and the union leaders say concerning their responsibility for this strike that affects 185,000 workers and $25 million a day additional for day men, and the check-off, by which the operators would deduct union dues from the pay envelop and hold them for the union. The operators announced that they would not consider any demands which increased the cost of mining.

ences held for the purpose of drawing up a new agreement, the demands of the miners were: A 10 per cent increase in tonnage rates; $1 a day additional for day men, and the check-off, by which the operators would deduct union dues from the pay envelop and hold them for the union. The operators announced that they would not consider any demands which increased the cost of mining.

and they suggested arbitration work to continue at the old rates in the meantime. This the miners refused. "Let us listen first to the operators," according to W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' scale committee, to grant the miners' demands would have added from $2 to $3 a ton to the price of anthracite to the consumer. In a letter to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, Mr. Inglis says further:

"The operators refuse to disclose their profits. They refuse to make known the amount of the enormous salaries that are paid to their officials and charged up against the consumer who buys their coal. They refuse to disclose the gigantic fees which they pay to lawyers, and which must come out of the pockets of the consumers. They refuse to tell how many hundreds of thousands of dollars they spend for publicity and propaganda in order to defeat the miners, if possible, and cover up their profits. Yet they ask the miners to arbitrate the measure wages which they are to receive. Such a proposal is brutally unfair."

"If the anthracite mine workers' wages were below a fair and reasonable level, we fully realize that there would be no justice in asking these workers to sacrifice themselves in order that an industry, however useful, might survive. The fact is, however, that by reason of successive increases of wages since the war 17 per cent in 1920 and 10 per cent in 1923—the anthracite mine worker is enjoying wages far above those of other comparable employments, the average for the actual miners being $2,870 a year and for all workers in excess of $2,000 a year. Lower earnings that have from time to time been reported are not those of full-time, but of part-time, workers."

"That we have not been unmindful in the past of our responsibilities for continuous production is shown by the fact that in 1920 differences between the operators and miners as to the terms of a new contract were arbitrated. In 1922 and 1923, as now, we offered arbitration and proposed that production should continue without interruption. The representatives of the miners refused. We respectfully submit that this is not the attitude of a group of employers who seek to hold up the public by encouraging strikes. It is, rather, the attitude of those who seek by every means at their disposal to avoid strikes. May we repeat that we are ready at all times to submit the issues in dispute to any impartial arbitrator in the expectation that this method of settlement having been adopted, suspension of mining may be avoided in the future?"

Turning now to the miners' side of the controversy, we are assured by President Lewis of the United Mine Workers that "the wage rates of anthracite mine workers are far below the wage rates of men employed in other industries in the anthracite region and throughout the country. Moreover, their work is extremely hazardous, as evidenced by the fact that more than five hundred anthracite miners are killed each year by accidents in and around the mines, and more than twenty-five thousand are seriously injured." The operators would arbitrate the miners' wages, says Mr. Lewis, but "they do not propose to arbitrate their own profits." According to Mr. Lewis, the wage increase it grants need add nothing to the cost of anthracite to the consumer, but could be deducted from the profits of the operators without any hardship or injustice. He says further, as quoted in The United Mine Workers Journal:

Wedding Bells

MORGAN-HANNEBURY. A very quiet wedding was solemnized at South River, on Tuesday evening last, the ceremony taking place at the handsome new church of All Saints, the officiating clergyman being the Rector of the Parish, Rev. H. V. Whitehouse. The contracting parties were Hannah, daughter of Emmeline and the late Benjamin Morgan, and James Hannebury. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. C. T. James, the matron of honor being Mrs. Fred Morgan, sister-in-law of the present Mr. Hannebury, the best man being Sergeant Inspector Noseworthy, with Mrs. S. J. Shepherd, of Bell Island, aunt of the bride as chief bridesmaid. Following the nuptial ceremony a luncheon to the immediate relatives only, was given at the home of the bride's mother, after which, the usual toasts being honored, the bridal party motored to town, where at the residence of the groom, an informal luncheon was partaken of. The presents were many and varied, including a string of Japanese seed pearls, given in memory of one of whom the bride was very fond. Mr. and Mrs. Hannebury now take up residence at Boncloddy Street, where they will be pleased to receive their friends at any time. A sincere wish is offered by all who know the bride and groom that their matrimonial voyage may have a happy ending in that port where all mortals hope to arrive, after enjoying all the earthly bliss that is given on this mundane planet.—COM.

Little Jack Rabbit
by David Cory

"Mother, mother!" shouted Little Jack Rabbit, as he hopped up the winding path through the brambles. "Where are you?"

"Why, what's the matter?" asked Lady Love, looking out of the doorway of the Little Red Barn.

"There's to be a Cross Word Puzzle in to-morrow's Bunybride Bugle. And the names of lots of Rabbitville people will be in it," answered the bunny boy, all excited, his pink nose twinkling like a diamond star.

"Well, that will be interesting," laughed his pretty bunny mother. "Did you get the Water Cress?"

"Yes, a knapsack full," replied the bunny boy. "I told the Little Fresh Water Crab to solve the puzzle. I've told everybody I've met. Dear me, I wish to-morrow were here."

Just then the bunny boy spied the top of dear Uncle Lucky's old wedding stovepipe hat above the bushes. "Here's Uncle Lucky," he shouted, and the next minute the old gentleman rabbit hopped up on the back porch. "What's all this I hear about Cross Word Puzzles?" he asked, with a merry twinkle in his eye. "Mother, Magpie ought to be good at cross words," and tummy Uncle Lucky gave a snicker and then an exclamation under his breath, for at that very minute Grandmother Magpie herself lighted on the railing of the back porch.

"I was just passing Old Mr. Dog's log cabin," she began in a pleasant voice, evidently not having heard Uncle Lucky's speech. "And he told me that his Cross Word Puzzle will be printed in to-morrow's paper. The names of quite a number of Rabbitland people are in it. I hope to find mine. If not, I shall give the editor of the Bugle a piece of my mind," and away flew Old Mother Mischief, as she is often called by the Sunny Meadow and Shady Forest folk.

"What you take me out for a ride in the Luckymobile?" begged the little rabbit. "Please do, Uncle Lucky. We can tell a lot of people about the Cross Word Puzzle."

"Goodness gracious, meagus!" exclaimed the old gentleman rabbit. "They'll see it in the paper. What's the use of taking all this trouble?"

"I'll tell you a secret," whispered the little rabbit. "If everybody buys the paper the editor promised me to give Old Mr. Dog a lettuce leaf dollar bill for the puzzle. Now that's why I want everyone to buy a paper."

"All right," laughed obliging Uncle Lucky. "Kiss your mother and hop into the car. I'll take you around. Goodby, Lady Love," and the dear old gentleman rabbit hopped into the Luckymobile, followed by his small bunny nephew.

The names of quite a number of Rabbitland people are in it.

Up Strawberry Hill sped the Luckymobile. With dear Uncle Lucky at the steering wheel.

While the bunny boy looked now here and now there.

For folk clad in feathers and folk dressed in hair.

And some of them almost hopped out of their shoes.

When they learned of the Bugle's Cross Word Puzzle news.

And in the next story, Little Reader, you shall hear more about the excitement in Rabbitland over the wonderful puzzle that Old Mr. Dog wrote for the Bunybride paper.

(Bill proposed to be submitted to the Legislature)

A Bill entitled "An Act respecting Nfld. Light & Power Co., Ltd."

4. The Company is hereby authorized and empowered to make, do or perform the Acts and things hereinafter mentioned:—

Sec. 4 Sub-Sec. 6.—For the establishment and operation of the said Company is hereby granted an exclusive franchise on all streets and highways within the city limits, for a period of fifty years from the date of the passing of the St. John's Street Railway Charter, 1896, and no lines or services of buses or motor-cars running on regular routes and accepting individual passengers (commonly known as jitneys) shall be operated in competition with the Company's railway on streets or parts of streets upon which the Company is operating its railway; provided that the said Municipal Council or other municipal body having charge of the municipal affairs of the town of St. John's may, after the lapse of fifty years from the date of said charter, purchase the said railway and other property and rights of the said Company as a going concern, upon giving to the said Company twelve months notice of their intention so to do, and in case the said municipality shall decide to exercise the right reserved by this section, the value of the said railway, property and rights of the said Company shall be appraised by three experienced arbitrators, one to be appointed by the said Company, one by the said Municipal Council, and the third by the said two so appointed; and in the event of the said two arbitrators not agreeing upon a third, then such third arbitrator shall, upon the application of either party within one month after due notice, be appointed by the Supreme Court, and the award of any two such arbitrators shall be final and binding between the parties; and provided that in case the said Municipal Council shall not, after the lapse of the said period of fifty years, exercise the rights of pre-emption hereunder, the rights and privileges hereby granted shall continue until the said Municipal Council shall exercise the said right of pre-emption. (1896 Act Sec. 29 amended).

5. The following conditions and provisions shall apply to the conduct of its undertaking by the Company in exercise of the powers hereby granted:—

(1) The Company shall have full power to make and from time to time alter tariffs of fares, to be paid by passengers conveyed by the Company's cars, motors and other vehicles, and tariffs of rates for the transportation of freight, express and mail matter and regulations determining the intervals of time between the running of the Company's cars, motors and other vehicles, the time during which, within each day, the Company's cars, motors or other vehicles shall run, the speed of running the Company's cars, motors and other vehicles, and generally governing all matters in connection with the operation of the Company's services and the conduct of its undertaking, subject always to the following conditions, viz:—

(a) The Company shall be entitled to charge any rate not exceeding seven cents for the conveyance of a passenger by its street railway from one point to another (either going or returning) within the city limits. A passenger, on paying his fare, shall, without further charge from any of the Company's cars to another, at a point where routes connect or intersect so as to enable such passenger to make one continuous trip from one point to another. This subsection shall apply only to fares within the city limits.

(7) The Company may, so as to enable it to operate its cars, employ sweepers, ploughs, levellers, appliances, tools or other means for clearing snow and ice from its tracks without thereby incurring responsibility for any damage or inconvenience due to the reasonable employment of any such sweepers, ploughs, levellers, appliances, tools or other means, or for the removal or levelling of any snow or ice thereby deposited on streets or highways.

(17) As a consolidated license fee and tax for the franchise privileges and exceptions enjoyed by the Company in the Municipality of St. John's under this Act, the Company shall pay to the Municipal Council annually, on the 31st day of December in each and every year, the sum of $5,500, and shall be exempt from all other or further taxes, assessments, dues or payments to the said Municipality of any kind whatsoever which otherwise would be or might in the future become payable and without limiting the generality of the foregoing the Company shall be exempt from Municipal sewerage and water rates and Municipal rates and taxes of all kinds, and from responsibility for the cost of snow removal and of street maintenance and construction, and of street property repairs except when due to damage caused by it as elsewhere provided in this Act.

6. (1) All plant, machinery, rolling stock, implements, apparatus, tools, utensils and materials necessary in connection with and used, or to be used, for the construction or improvement of the lighting, heating, power and tramway system of the Company, and extensions thereof but not for purposes of current maintenances and operation, shall be exempt from duty and other taxes payable on import. (3 Geo. V., C. 4, Sec. 20 amended).

(2) Upon production of a sworn declaration by the manager or other officer of the Company familiar with the facts that any such plant, machinery, rolling stock, implements, apparatus, tools, utensils or materials are necessary in connection with and to be used for construction or improvement as aforesaid, the same shall be admitted into the Colony free of duty and other taxes payable on import; and upon production of a similar sworn declaration that any such plant, machinery, apparatus, tools, utensils or materials, imported since January 1st, 1924, or to be imported, and in respect of which duty or other taxes have or shall have been paid, have been used for construction or improvement as aforesaid, then the Company shall be entitled to rebate of and the Government shall repay to the Company the amount of any such duty or other taxes which shall have been so paid. (New).

The Act as passed, "An Act respecting the St. John's Street Railway," Be It Enacted by the Governor, the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly in Legislative Session convened, as follows:—

1. Rails, rolling stock, cement and all other material imported during 1925 by the Newfoundland Light and Power Co., Ltd. for reconditioning, improving and extending the St. John's Street Railway, within the City of St. John's or lines exclusively used for transmission of electric power for the

6. (1) All plant, machinery, rolling stock, implements, apparatus, tools, utensils and materials necessary in connection with and used, or to be used, for the construction or improvement of the lighting, heating, power and tramway system of the Company, and extensions thereof but not for purposes of current maintenances and operation, shall be exempt from duty and other taxes payable on import. (3 Geo. V., C. 4, Sec. 20 amended).

(2) Upon production of a sworn declaration by the manager or other officer of the Company familiar with the facts that any such plant, machinery, rolling stock, implements, apparatus, tools, utensils or materials are necessary in connection with and to be used for construction or improvement as aforesaid, the same shall be admitted into the Colony free of duty and other taxes payable on import; and upon production of a similar sworn declaration that any such plant, machinery, apparatus, tools, utensils or materials, imported since January 1st, 1924, or to be imported, and in respect of which duty or other taxes have or shall have been paid, have been used for construction or improvement as aforesaid, then the Company shall be entitled to rebate of and the Government shall repay to the Company the amount of any such duty or other taxes which shall have been so paid. The Act as passed, "An Act respecting the St. John's Street Railway," Be It Enacted by the Governor, the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly in Legislative Session convened, as follows:—

1. Rails, rolling stock, cement and all other material imported during 1925 by the Newfoundland Light and Power Co., Ltd. for reconditioning, improving and extending the St. John's Street Railway, within the City of St. John's or lines exclusively used for transmission of electric power for the said railway, both within and without the said city, shall be free of duty and sales tax, upon importation.

2. Upon any such material, so imported, and not used for the purposes aforesaid during 1925, there shall be a lien for the amount of duty and sales tax which would have been payable thereon upon importation but for the preceding section, and the said Company shall be liable for the said amount of duty and sales tax, and may be used therefor by and in the name of the Minister of Finance and Customs.

3. Notwithstanding anything in 60 Vic. Cap. 20, entitled "An Act to incorporate the St. John's Street Railway Company and for other purposes," the speed of the said railway may be such as shall be permitted by the St. John's Municipal Council, by regulation made from time to time.

4. Upon the reconditioning, improvement and extension of the said railway, in 1925 to the satisfaction of the Governor-in-Council, and upon the passing of a Minute of Council to that effect, the Company shall be entitled to charge any rate not exceeding seven cents for the conveyance of a passenger from one point to another (going or returning) within the city limits.

EXTRACT FROM FINANCIAL POST, JUNE 5, 1925.

Newfoundland Light Has Had A Successful Career For Many Years—Earnings Put Back Into Property.

The Nfld. Light and Power Co. has a good contract with the City of St. John's. It is a perpetual franchise, with the alternative of the city buying out the company as a going concern. It has proved a money maker for the original owners.

Since it passed into the hands of its present owners, interests associated with the Royal Securities Corporation, the policy of ploughing back into the property of a good proportion of the earnings has been continued.

Interest charges are easily earned and the bondholders have an equity which assures the payment of principal.

A consistent increase in consumption of light and power in St. John's is anticipated and can be met as required by a further development of the company's waterpower resources.

Earnings.
Earnings from the properties after deducting operating expenses and maintenance charges, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1925, were $183,384, equivalent after deducting interest of $1,000,000 First Mortgage Bonds, to cover 3 1/2 times the annual interest requirement of $35,000 on $500,000 Mortgage Debentures. For eight years, 1916 to 1923, inclusive, net earnings averaged $151,116.

Correspondence

under answer) entered into an agreement with the Company on the terms mentioned in that letter. The space intervening between the eastern end of the King's Wharf and Rendell's premises, a matter of about eight feet, was all that remained of what was formerly known as Gill's Cove. It is a fact that the King's wharf itself is built over the main portion of what was originally Gill's Cove and for very many years the only use made of the small space referred to has been a location for the discharge of a sewerage pipe. Although, so far as public utility and convenience were concerned, it did not appear to the Government that there could be any objection whatever to the Company connecting up the extension of Rendell's premises with the extension of the King's Wharf, yet as already intimated in the Deputy Colonial Secretary's letter to the Clerk of the City Council (referred to above) the Government had no authority to grant permission for the closing of the remainder of Gill's Cove. The City Council took action against the Company to restrain them from closing up the remaining portion of the Cove, which action was not continued after members of the City Council had visited the vicinity and come to an understanding with the Company. The present position is that the space remains as it was, the piling terminating at the eastern end of King's Wharf and at the western end of Rendell's premises. In view of the fact that the Government, through the Department of Marine & Fisheries, as regards the extension to the waters of the harbour of Rendell's premises, and, by the agreement referred to, as regards the extension of the King's Wharf in a like direction, had granted permission for the erection which you have alluded to as "an encroachment on public rights," His Excellency considers that it would be neither reasonable nor proper for the Attorney General, who is a member of the Government of the day, to give the shelter of his office to an action which has as its avowed object the removal of those selfsame erections. If the Company's erections had exceeded in extent what is allowed to them in virtue of their agreement with the Government or of their permission from the Ministry of Marine & Fisheries (there might have been cause for the Attorney General to allow an action such as you have sought; but it does not appear that the Company has exceeded these limits nor have you made any suggestion that such is the case. It is a point to be observed that in St. John's, technically speaking, every extension of a water front might be regarded as an "encroachment on public rights" or in other words: "a public nuisance," for there is no evidence that any Act of Parliament has ever been passed granting express permission for the extension of all the different waterfront premises that have been made during many years past. There is no Harbour Commission in St. John's and the practice has been to have any erection subject to the acquiescence of the Department of Marine & Fisheries, working in conjunction with the Harbour Master. The facts of the case being as above described it is His Excellency's opinion that the Hon. the Attorney General pursued the only course open to him in refusing your request for permission to take action in his name against the Marine Agencies, Ltd.

2. That Mr. Higgins the present Attorney General and Minister of Justice is not a proper person to decide or to pass upon questions where the rights of the public are involved by reason of his own or members of his law firm's connection with—

- (a) The W. I. Bishop Co. Ltd., or its local subsidiary Company;
- (b) The Newfoundland Light and Power Company.

What I have been directed to say with relation to paragraph 2 in this letter, very largely rebuts the suggestion under the heading (a) of this paragraph. Further it is to be observed in this connection that the contract for the re-construction of the Dry Dock was made between the Government and the present Company, that is to say the Company incorporated in Montreal under the name of W. I. Bishop Company, Limited. The contract followed the form always used by that Company, and was not prepared in St. John's. It was submitted to the Deputy Minister of Justice and to the Government Engineer, before being considered by the Executive Council. The preliminary discussions in connection with the Dry Dock took place between Mr. Bishop, the principal of the W. I. Bishop Co. Ltd., and the members of the Railway Commission of which the Hon. the Attorney General is not one. Further, particular care was taken by the Government, before entering into any arrangements with respect to the Dry Dock repairs, to have an absolutely impartial pronouncement on the subject, and for this purpose the services of one of the foremost authorities in the employ of the Canadian Government at Ottawa were secured.

(b) Your complaint under this heading is that the firm of Higgins, Hunt & Emerson, incorporated in the Newfoundland Light & Power Co. Ltd., that the sole members and shareholders appearing in the Registry in St. John's are the members of the above mentioned firm; that the Hon. the Attorney General appears as president of the Company which (to quote your words) "immediately proceeded to apply for wide rights and concessions." I am to point out to you that this Company was incorporated on the 17th February, 1924, at a time when both the Hon. the Attorney General, Mr. Higgins, and his partner, Mr. Hunt, were members of the Opposition in the House of Assembly. Such a method of incorporation, it appears to His Excellency, was purely a matter of convenience for registration purposes; indeed, Mr. Hunt had been retained to do this by those who were sending the capital. His Excellency is assured that Hon. Mr. Higgins very far from being President of the Company, is not so much as a shareholder in it nor has any interest whatever in its operations. The Bill which you have referred to as being one proposed to be submitted to the House of Assembly was, in fact, never put before the House. It was prepared by solicitors in Montreal and was forwarded to St. John's for the consideration of the Government. It was practically a modification of all the Acts concerning the St. John's Street Railway which it was thought desirable to have embraced in one Act after the transfer to the new Company. Two sections only were new, one as regards compensation by trolley traffic, which was not agreed to, and to which Hon. Mr.

Higgins was well known to be one of the strongest objectors, and the other the right to increase the fare from five to seven cents, which right it is to be observed in the legislation which was put through the House of Assembly, which only became effective when the Governor-in-Council is satisfied that the proposed improvements in the system have been carried out. The only other concession, namely that of the free entry of material was but putting into effect an undertaking given by the previous Administration, following the "Railway Settlement Act." His Excellency is satisfied that there was no impropriety in the manner in which the short Bill was put through the House. It was introduced by the Prime Minister and submitted to a Select Committee of both sides of the House. The Bill was eventually adopted unanimously by the House. It is further to be observed that there are no contractual relations between the Company in question and the Government.

Having thus gone deeply into the points raised in your letter with regard to Hon. Mr. Higgins' association with these Companies, His Excellency is satisfied that there is no reason for him to take the steps which you suggest.

As regards the questions of general policy raised in your letter, His Excellency does not feel called upon to make any pronouncement.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) J. L. Sliam,
Major,
Military Secretary & A.D.C.

J. A. W. W. McNelly,
Duckworth Street,
St. John's.

St. John's, Sept. 18, 1925.
Sir William Allardyce, K.C.M.G.,
Governor.

May I please Your Excellency. I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter of September 14th, and to thank you for the consideration that you have given to my communication of August 21st.

I regret that Your Excellency has not seen fit to accede to my request that the Hon. the Attorney General be relieved of his office and his seat in your Executive Council, and respectfully submit that the reasons given by Your Excellency for not taking the course suggested by me do not justify his retention in these offices.

With regard to your justification of the Attorney General in refusing me the right to take action against the Marine Agencies, Ltd., I have to say:

- 1. (a) The Marine Agencies, Limited could not have approached the Government for permission to build an extension at the eastern end of King's Wharf or have obtained permission from the Department of Marine and Fisheries to occupy the portion of the Harbour they have taken before the Attorney General's firm had any connection or knowledge of the Company because Higgins, Hunt & Emerson themselves incorporated the Company, and were its Solicitors from its inception.

(b) Whilst the Department of Marine and Fisheries has certain control, management regulation of the Harbour of St. John's under Chapter 11 of the Consolidated Statutes, this Chapter gives them no power to give any portion of the same (not to speak of a property 125 feet x 80 feet worth $10,000 to $15,000) to any person.

I note from Your Excellency's letter that Messrs. W. & G. Rendell get a "considerable annual rental" for their portion of the property, but no compensation is made to the public for the taking of their valuable property and rights.

I would also point out that, apparently, up to July 9th, sometime after the formation of the Company, no arrangement had been made with them other than permission to extend the eastern portion of the King's Wharf. (See letter from Deputy Colonial Secretary to J. J. Mahoney, City Clerk).

In fact from this letter of July 9th, it would be inferred that any further authorization was disclaimed.

(c) Your Excellency admits that in St. John's (technically speaking) every extension of a water front might be regarded as an encroachment on public rights, or in other words, a public nuisance.

The practical effect, therefore, of Your Excellency's decision is:—
(A) That in such matters the Attorney General and not the Supreme Court is the interpreter of the law of the land.

(B) That he can exercise this office of a Judge, even where his client and a person from whom he is receiving remuneration is one of the parties.

(C) That public rights can be appropriated by private parties and held not under the authority of an Act of the Legislature, but by the grace of the Attorney General.

3. Your Excellency has, apparently, misunderstood my letter when you infer that my second cause of complaint is:

"That the Attorney General's action in refusing your request was actuated

I may not have made my position as clear as I should have, but I now state that it is immaterial to me what the personal motives of the Attorney General or his partners were, or whether they were financially interested in the Marine Agencies, Ltd., and/or the Company carrying on the construction work.

my reply to your paragraph 2. With regard, however, to W. I. Bishop Co. Ltd., or its local subsidiary Company, I would point out that the Attorney General or Minister of Justice is the person responsible for the giving of proper and formal legal effect to any arrangement entered into by your Council, while his partner as Law Clerk is responsible for giving proper legal forms to any amendment effected in the Legislature.

The draft contract was, apparently, submitted to the Deputy Minister of Justice.

Surely the fact that because of his position with W. I. Bishop, Ltd., the Attorney General had to leave such an important matter to his Deputy is a complete justification of my contention that because of such relations he cannot properly do justice to the public, and should be relieved of his office.

BERMUDA CRICKETERS BEAT MONTREAL TEAM.

The Bermuda cricket team, now on tour here, defeated an All-Montreal team at New York Oval yesterday by a margin of 120 runs on totals of 186 to 76. Among the interested spectators was the British Consul, Sir Henry Gloster Armstrong, who presented two silver cups to the contestants.

Bermuda was first at bat, C. Philpott contributing a well played 64, while A. Hunt was also in good form, with the bat for 33. C. Kirkwood, E. Durrant and C. Fox also adding doubtless. F. T. Goodman with 18, was high score man for Montreal. W. Rehner and T. B. Probyn, with respective scores of 11 and 10, being the only other double figure men on the Canadian side. W. Simmons, captain of the Bermudians, and W. Knight performed all the bowling for their team, the former capturing 6 wickets for 33 runs, and the latter 4 for 33. For Montreal, C. P. Potter, who took 4 wickets for 39 runs, had the best analysis.

Rotary Luncheon

MR. SMITH SPEAKS ON "FUNCTIONING OF A MERCANTILE AGENCY."

The weekly luncheon of the St. John's Rotary Club was held at Sterling Restaurant yesterday. Chairman, Mr. B. C. Gardner, introduced Stanley Smith, who delivered a very practical address on the "Functioning of a Mercantile Agency." Mr. Smith's address is as follows:

ADDRESS.
I am very pleased indeed to have this opportunity of speaking before this representative group of St. John's business and professional men. I have been requested to deal with the functioning of a mercantile agency, but first allow me to give you an idea of the proportions in North America of the company I represent, which I believe are similar to those of our competitor—179 offices operating in North America, with employees running into the tens of thousands. The confidential nature of our business has given rise to an impression that our methods are mysterious, or of a detective nature, such is not the case—our business is an exacting one requiring simply intelligent work. Confidence and co-operation of the business world has grown with the growth of our organization in the seventy-five years of its existence—once confined to a few large cities in the United States, it has extended not only throughout all the North American Continent, but into Mexico, Cuba, Europe and Australia. During all this long period, and on the wide territory covered, its motives have never been impeached and its good faith questioned. Its errors have been only those consequent upon all human actions.

HISTORY.
In primitive times, man added to his possessions by force or theft; with the advance of civilization this gave way to an era of barter, and with world progress production increased with wider and more flexible trade relations. For many years goods continued to be delivered for immediate cash, but with the growth of commerce came credit transactions, and also a demand for some system of investigation to serve as a guide in handling the increasing number of credit transactions. Out of this need came the Commercial Agencies. At first they had to contend with strong prejudices, but after many years of effort they have become an indispensable part of the world's business machinery.

Though established in the late forties and in competition with other agencies for some years, the credit of originating a system and first issuing of a book of commercial ratings belongs to The Bradstreet Company, which I have the honour to represent. The pioneer volume was issued in August, 1857.

Executive Offices are located in New York City and are separate from the reporting office at that point—they lay out the broad general plan upon which the work is to be conducted and issue minute instructions to reporting offices.

Each office is allotted a carefully selected territory, accessible to it geographically and of which it is the logical trade centre. Each office in the connection does not have on file reports upon all merchants in all parts of North America, as this would mean a great deal of costly duplication. Should a subscriber in Montreal desire to report on a Newfoundland merchant, request is made by the Montreal office to the St. John's office, who forwards a late report, and continues to keep the Montreal office advised of change in the affairs of this merchant. Duplicate of St. John's files are kept at Toronto and Halifax, thus saving considerable delay in furnishing reports to our American offices from Halifax, and Canadian offices from Toronto. Certain other offices are regarded as established trade centres for particular lines of merchandise, and have on file reports of merchants engaged in that particular line of business, for instance, Boston everything on shoes; Providence and Attleboro on jewelry.

Revision of ratings in country districts is secured through the medium of travelling reporters. In his work the reporter calls on merchants requesting statements and references, and later consulting leading authorities regarding the individuals under investigation. The investigations are made by trained men, accustomed to interviewing and sizing up merchants and their places of business. Reports made on this basis are more complete and of greater value than those compiled from correspondent's information.

A trained credit man can usually tell from the wording of a report or based upon information obtained from other sources. In some of the larger cities, reporters are given charge of certain trades, and in N.Y. City there is one man who handles nothing but cases on Wall Street. In some cities it is found advantageous to combine both systems to some extent and have some reporters handle only the larger cases.

A COLLECTOR OF INFORMATION.
A commercial agency is a collector of information, its function being to report conditions as ascertained from posted authorities and not to give advice or offer opinion as based on personal knowledge. While appearing as the enemy of dishonest traders, it strives to act as a conservator of solvency and as far as possible to protect equally the interests of reputable merchants and of those extending credit. All investigations are made by men with a general knowledge of business and possessing those qualities of mind essential to gathering and analyzing facts and concisely stating them. Tact and patience play a big part in obtaining a direct statement from a merchant; statements are verified not that the maker's veracity is questioned, but as a matter of business prudence. It is usually found that real estate has been somewhat overvalued, which is not taken as evidence of deceit, but, in some instances, more particularly in the matter of residence property, may be attributed to sentiment, a man's home naturally possesses for him a higher value than it would for a real estate man concerned only with the dollars and cents, which might be realised from its sale. Many concerns when asked for references, name their bank first. Bankers will confirm statements at the request of their customers, but contrary to the popular idea of some, bankers do not advance us information, nor would we insult them by requesting them to betray the confidence of their clients. If statement and reference are declined, investigation proceeds, though the reporter may have to exercise a little more ingenuity and perseverance. When information is assembled into report form, ratings are assigned by men who have had years of experience in that class of work and who have a thorough knowledge of their field and its conditions, the ratings are then subject to revision by their superiors. Ratings are divided into two parts—capital and credit. The capital rating is not, as a rule, a difficult matter, providing no unusual obstacles have been encountered. With corporations, it is important to consider whether those interested are concerned in making money from stock operations or from stock jobbing and manipulation. Examination of liabilities requires consideration of how much is owing to open account and notes, if scattered, or held by a few concerns able to carry the subject in case of emergency. Only tangible assets are considered in arriving at an estimate of the credit worth, not that the intangibles have no value, but that the credit man is obliged to look to the ultimate security. The credit rating is governed by a number of factors. It must not be assumed because a merchant is a prompt pay for this reason alone he is entitled to a first grade credit. Other things that might affect his grade of credit are, his commercial record, character, general business ethics, proportions of liabilities to quick assets, etc. The price cutter is not overlooked. He is bad for business and even though he eventually fails he exercises a demoralizing influence while in business—by price-cutter I mean one who regularly cuts a standard price on regular merchandise. Commercial Agencies are particularly concerned in preserving the interests of general creditors. A corporation's net worth as shown by its books is the amount of its paid up capital plus its surplus.

Surplus is really a liability owing to stockholders, and care is sometimes necessary in rating upon it, unless the officers declare in writing that it is to remain at the risk of the business;—suppose a corporation's surplus contains a large amount of cash or receivable which might be quickly converted into cash, the directors, in that event, could legally withdraw any or all of it in dividends. Of course judgment must be exercised here.

BLANK RATINGS.
Every effort is made to eliminate this class of rating and to some estimate of worth. Upon small concerns, there is sometimes a temptation to report the responsibility as limited, when some extra effort would show that the subject represents a capital of $300 or $400, we have a rating which covers even this small capital. Much attention is now paid to the Moral Risk. Experienced credit men no longer take the attitude, "Never mind the man so long as he has the means." The efficiency of the methods employed may be judged from the failure record statistics of North America. Of the 22,024 business failures in 1924, Bradstreet's reported 95.9% with very poor or no credit rating, 3.7% in good credit and 1.4% in very good credit. Regarding giving statements to us, we leave that with-out argument, to the man himself, but I want to point out that a merchant's most valuable possession, aside from his actual assets, is a good reputation as a credit risk, and also to remind him that the giver of credit is a contributor of capital and becomes, in a certain sense, a partner of the debtor, and as such is entitled to complete information on his financial position at all times. Commercial agencies are not obliged to request from the merchant a financial statement, but do so out of fairness to him, because we feel they should be given an opportunity to set forth his side of the case. The Agencies have no financial interest in the matter, receiving a uniform price for reports, regardless of whether or not they contain statements. A merchant submitting a signed statement creates a favorable impression by his frankness, and its absence in a report causes a slight feeling of disappointment, and temporarily at least, a lessening of confidence. Our reporters have not the power of obliging a merchant to submit a statement and must avoid undue pressure in fact they are instructed to engage in no altercation over a matter which is more important to the other individual than to them. Even when statement is declined and rebuffs taken, the results of the investigation are reported, without prejudice and in good faith. Endeavor is made to have reports written in simple language using guarded expressions, setting forth the essentials from which can be reached an intelligent conclusion as to the subject's responsibility. Our business is, in itself, a work of such detail that notwithstanding our thorough system, errors will occur and reports appear meagre and unsatisfactory. I ask our subscribers to remember that the obstacles we must overcome, and to soften their judgment. We invite intelligent criticism and seek the co-operation of the trade in attaining greater degree of accuracy. I have described the operation of mercantile agencies, their aims and accomplishments. In St. John's they have branches. You people know best your own credit conditions, and know best if you can use our facilities to a greater extent than in the past. We have some enthusiastic subscribers in St. John's, who know the value of our service, but not nearly the number warrant us doing the work on a larger scale. Improvement in service means additional expense, it is for the wholesale trade to say if we expand here or not. Before closing I wish to point out that for the year 1924 the credit losses of Newfoundland were 74% greater than the fire losses. And what was paid Mercantile Agencies approximately to try to stop this loss is not over 2% of the premium paid to protect against fire. If $1000 worth of stock is lost in a fire, what happens? It is true that the goods do not come into use, and that the instant money is received, but the real reaction is the stimulus given to foreign industries by orders to replace stock. The effect is felt chiefly by insurance companies and foreign manufacturers. Now what happens when $1000 is lost in a failure, due to the merchant having given credit too freely. In this case the goods come into use, but my! what demoralizing effect it has for workmen to get goods without paying.—It is inviting them not to work, thereby reducing power of any country, besides this someone is out the first cost of the goods.

Mr. Smith was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his interesting and practical address. Included in the guests were Mr. C. F. Taylor and Mr. J. Harvey.

To-Night's Attraction
AT PRINCE OF WALES' RINK.

For the promenade band concert which is being held in the Prince's Rink to-night, under the joint management of the C.L.B. and C.C.C. Bands, a special programme has been arranged, including two big races. The evening will open with a selection by the C.L.B. Band, followed by one from the C.C.C. Band, after which the usual dance programme will commence. At 9 o'clock there will be a three-mile race which is an open event and for which, amongst the entries are Clifford Stone, W. Linegar and J. Johnston. This race will be followed by a 1 Mile walking race in which Grant Burnell and T. Piercey will compete, amongst others. Both races promise to be interesting, especially in view of the showing made by Stone in the Belvedere track race, when he kept within a couple of yards of O'Toole for the first three miles. Linegar won the 5-Mile race at Torbay a short time ago and is said to be in good form, whilst Johnston, who is making his first appearance here, has many supporters who are confident that he can make a strong bid. The walking race should also be a good one, as Piercey has been doing well all the year and at the N.A.A.A. Sports kept with Burnell almost to the end. Piercey defeated Burnell in the 1-Mile Walk at the N.A.A.A. Indoor Sports on December 7th, 1923. He took the lead at the start and maintained it to the end, winning out by twenty yards. Piercey showed wonderful form on that occasion and his performance was all the more remarkable when he set a local record for a board track in 7 min. 55 3-5 seconds.

O'Toole, in a 5-Mile race on the same night, passed the 3 mile mark in 16 min. 2 sec. This is splendid time for the competitors to make an effort to lower to-night. For the 3-Mile race, Mr. George Marshall has kindly donated a beautiful silver cup, and Mr. J. Tobin, a handsome medal, and for the 1-Mile walk Mr. Harold Hayward has also donated a beautiful silver cup and Captain T. J. Bennett, of the C.C.C. Band, a very pretty medal.

Mr. J. M. Tobin has kindly consented to manage both the above events, which alone ensures competitors and patrons a "square deal."

The C.L.B. and C.C.C. Bands have asked us to express to the above mentioned gentlemen their sincere thanks for the wonderful interest displayed on the Bands' behalf by presenting such prizes and they appreciate the competitors coming forward to help out their work and trust that others will enter during the day. We predict for the "Bands" a bumper house to-night.

Harbor Grace Notes

The time for picnics, parties and all-door attractions of this nature will very shortly be over, as Autumn with us, and we must bid "farewell" to the Summer of 1925. Tuesday last marked the close of the trouting season—the day was very unfavourable, and some of our ardent sports went westward, and on Wednesday members visited Bannerman Lake and enjoyed themselves at that delightful spot. The weekly holidays will conclude at the end of this month, and we trust the weather will be fine for the remaining holidays.

The death of a respected resident of this town, in the person of Mr. Francis Martin, occurred at his home, Water Street West on Friday night. Mr. Martin had been suffering from internal malady. Early in the summer he was to the hospital in St. John's for treatment, but very little could be done for him, and since returning home, he gradually weakened, until the end came. He is survived by a wife and son, Henley. His daughter, Elsie, predeceased him about four years ago. Mr. Eugene Martin, of this town, and Mr. Charles Martin, of Carbonear, are brothers of the deceased. To the bereaved, we tender our sincere sympathy in their year of sorrow. The funeral was held on Sunday and was very large and attended. In the procession were representatives of the S.O.E.B.S. and E.B. Societies, L.O.A. and H.G.V. Fire Brigade, all of which he had been a long standing and loyal member. Service was held at St. Paul's Church, Rev. Mr. Templeton officiating. At the graveside a verse of hymn "Abide With Me," was very solemnly sung. He was laid to rest in the C. E. Cemetery.

We regret to chronicle the passing of another of our citizens—Mr. Michael Thomey, whose death occurred at his home, Water Street, on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Thomey had been ill all the summer, and confined to his home for some time. He was very much respected, and his recovery, but the end came peacefully shortly after dinner hour on Saturday, and it was very much unexpected that his passing would come so soon. He had been doing duty for H.M. Customs, at the Straits of Belle Isle last year, but through ill-health, was unable to return there this spring. Mr. Thomey had reached the age of fifty years, and leaves to mourn their sad loss a wife and six children, four sons, Nicholas, working at Corner Brook, Kennedy, at Strapp's Pharmacy, Roger and William and two daughters Nellie and Bridget at home. One sister, Mrs. (Capt.) Ellis, residing in England, and one brother, Mr. Samuel Thomey. Our deepest sympathy goes out to the family in their sad bereavement. The funeral was held today (Monday) afternoon and was very well attended. Service was held at the R. C. Cathedral and interment made in the R. C. Cemetery.

Miss Emma Cron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cron, has resigned her position as accountant with the Conception Bay Clothing Co., and has taken charge of the senior room in Victoria Street School. Miss Cron has the good wishes of her many friends for abundant success in her new position. Miss Doris Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Heath, succeeds Miss Cron at the Clothing Co's Office.

Mrs. Grant Paterson and little daughter, Lenora, left here on Thursday for St. John's, having spent the summer here at the "Gracian House" and had a very pleasant stay.

Mrs. Arthur Tapp and little daughter Ruth, went to St. John's on Thursday, where she will visit friends.

Mr. F. J. Sullivan, accountant at Mr. E. Simmons, went to the city by Saturday morning's train, where he will spend part of his vacation. He was accompanied to St. John's by Mrs. Sullivan.

Mr. Eric Hinton arrived from Corner Brook on Monday, to spend a holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hinton.

Miss Reta Parsons, who is teaching at Bay Roberts, spent the weekend here with her mother, Mrs. R. S. Parsons, and returned again by this morning's train.

The Danish schooner Hasting, Capt. Bangoe, 43 days out from Dyrt, Scotland, arrived here on Sunday week, with coal, which she is discharging at McRae & Sons premises. After discharging she will load coal off at Murray & Crawford's for that firm in England.

Schr. J. W. Miller, Capt. Hornwood, was docked here during last week and was towed to Carbonear on Thursday.

Schr. Admiral Drake, Capt. Benson, which has been docked here, is now waiting to sail for Sydney, where she loads coal for this port.
