THURSDAY EV'G, AUG. 6, 1868.

THE IRISH CANADIAN.—This paper re-appeared on Wednesday morning after a compulsory silence of twelve weeks. Its editor, Mr. Boyle, feels hard, and, of course, writes rather savagely about his arrest and the circumstances attending it.

A party of thieves broke into the station building of the G. W. Railway at Galt, on Friday night last, with the design of forcing the safe, but were alarmed and fled before accomplishing their work, leaving a kit of tools behind.

THE HAMILTON FUGS.—The Police Magistrate of Hamilton has dismissed the charges of perjury and obtaining money fraudulently, preferred by Mr. Howie against Capt. Nicholls, and has taken further time to consider some points in the charge of malicious libel entered against Howie by Nicholls. All things considered they have a "high old time" of it down at Hamilton.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. HOGG.—On Wednesday, 5th inst., the Rev. J. B. Muir, B.A., of Galt, waited upon Mrs. Hogg at the Manse, and in the name of the members of the late Presbytery of Guelph, now, by decision of Synod, united to the Presbytery of Hamilton, presented her with a very elegant Silver Cake Basket, as a token of respect for her uniform courtesy and kindness to them during their meetings in Guelph. In concluding a very feeling address, Mr. Muir hoped that she would be long spared to strengthen the hands and to encourage the heart of her esteemed husband, and that the Giver of all good would abundantly bless her in her "basket and in her store." The Rev. Mr. Hogg, in the name of his good lady, made a neat and appropriate reply.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—DILAPIDATED SIDEWALKS.

We believe the attention of our Councilors has been called from time to time to the wretchedly dilapidated and dangerous condition of the sidewalks in this town. In some instances they have received the necessary repairs, while in others again the warnings given have been entirely unheeded. Oxford-st. of late has been the scene of many minor accidents from holes in the sidewalk and the frequent uprisings of loose planks, but last evening a very serious one occurred, which might have been fatal. Mrs. Dr.
McGuire, in company with another lady, were coming down that street, and in stepping upon a plank at the corner of Dublin street it suddenly tilted up, throwing Mrs. McGuire with great force to the sidewalk. Her right temple struck a nail which projected from a plank, inflicting a very severe wound, and fearfully lacerating her right eye and cheek. She lay for a time quite insensible from the concussion received, but fortunately assistance was soon at hand, and consciousness was quickly restored. She was carried into the residence of Mr. W. Stewart, carpenter, and it was not until late in the evening that she was able to be removed to her home, a short distance off. We hope this warning may have a salutary effect upon the powers that be, and the present disgraceful state of our sidewalks may be wiped out by placing them in a state of repair becoming the dignity of our good town, as well as the safety and protection of the lives and limbs of its inhabitants. We would respectfully suggest that the crumbling plank walks be replaced with gravel, which will certainly be found to be not only the safest and cheapest, but the best that can be laid.

SOMEWHAT EXCITING.—They have had lively times at Parkhill lately, a man having been tarred and feathered, and a girl of fifteen having run away with a showman. O, well, anything to break the monotony. One Mr. Comfort, who has been for some time married to his third wife, went away to look for work, as times were rather slack at Park- hill. One David Hunter, a school teacher, visited the house so frequently in his absence that the matter became subject of gossip. When poor Comfort returned the people supplied him with the cold comfort of a tale of his wife's infidelity.

There was a row in the camp, and Com-fort's comforts were no comforts at all—At length he removed to Widder, and on the night he left, a party of male Park-hillites went for Hunter to a tavern where he was drinking, took him to the door of Comfort's late residence, stripped him and invested him with a coat of tar and feathers. He knew some of the parties, and has taken an action against them. On Sunday the 28th ult., a cook and bar-maid, aged fifteen, eloped from a hotel in the same village, with a travelling showman, in order to follow the elevated profession of danceuse. She was some on the fling, and longed for an opportunity of exercising her abilities to the utmost. She there, slipped quietly from her bed-room window, and was in the show business some time before she was discovered, but at length somebody saw her who knew her, and information being given she was arrested and returned to her parents.

Gore Bank Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Gore Bank was held in Hamilton on Monday afternoon. The chair was occupied by Thos. C. Street, Esq., President of the Bank. In the report the Directors regretted that they were obliged to meet the proprietors under discouraging circumstances, as during the past year events in the history of the Bank of of ordinary nature had occurred. The sudden stoppage of the Commercial Bank had the effect of deranging the business of the Gore Bank, and causing most disastrous consequences. Distrust in the institution began to manifest itself in October, and then and afterwards assistance was received from several other Banks. The Bank of Montreal contributed $150,000, and the Banks in Ontario $204,600.— These advances were made on the discounted paper of the Gore Bank. A comparative statement of Deposits and Circulation at 30th June, 1867, and of same date in 1868, shows a decrease in deposits of $761,000, and in circulation of $335,- 000—together $1,096,000. The statement of the present value of the various assets, and of the probable losses on over due paper, &c., at the head office and branches, shows a deficiency, after deducting the rest, of $232,570 07. The statement of Profit and Loss Account for the past year shows that bad debts amounting to $60,- 742 67 have been written off, and that the loss on the conversion of United States Bonds, and sale of Bank of Upper Canada Certificates amounted to $16,550 32. These, with the dividend paid in January last, the expenses of management, &c., upon circulation, interest, and exchange reserved, leave a balance of $9,865 34 at debit of the account, but which is included in the above mentioned deficiency. In the altered circumstances of the Bank it was considered expedient to reduce the discount business of the branches, and as no new business has been done for some time past at Guelph, London and Paris, if it be deemed advisable these branches can be closed almost immediately.

The discussion which followed the statement of the Bank's affairs was very warm, and the management was spoken of by some of the gentlemen in terms the reverse of complimentary. The balloting afterwards resulted in the choice of the following Directors:—Calvin Mc-Question, Emilius Irving, Edward Martin, John Walde, Thomas McLivraith, Wm.
Hendrie and William McMillan. C. Mc-Question, late Vice-president, is the only member of the old Board re-elected.

Brant Lacrosse Club—Grand Match.

The Brant Lacrosse Club, assisted by the inhabitants of Paris and vicinity, has decided to hold a grand Lacrosse Tournament in Paris, on the 9th September and following days, on which occasion approximately $500 will be distributed in prizes. Clubs will be divided into two classes. Clubs entering for the first class will not be allowed to compete in the second class. Two prizes will be allowed in each class, as follows:
For First-class Clubs—1st prize, $100, (or piece of plate equal value at option of winning club); 2nd prize, $50.
For Second-class Clubs—1st prize, $70, 2nd prize, $30.
The following individual prizes will also be offered:—1. Accurate throws at 100 and 150 yards, $10; 2. Throwing the ball the greatest distance, $10; 3. Dodging, carrying the ball past the greatest number of players without losing it, $20; 4. Checking; $15; 5. Goal Keeping, $5; 6. Greatest number of variations of pretty feats with ball on the Cross by two players, $10; 7. The same by one player, $5; 8. Best general play, $10.
Other prizes will be offered which have not yet been decided on.

EMIGRANTS.—Five car loads of Scotch and Norwegian emigrants passed through on the Grand Trunk this morning.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.—Mr. Ross has been very successful in negotiating for a loan for the construction of the Intercolonial Railway, in England, at a moderate rate of interest.

NEW OATS.—The first new oats of the season were brought in to-day (Thursday) by Mr. Ewan, of Pilkington. They weigh- ed 35 lbs. to the bushel, and were bought by Mr. A. Crichton, at 56c. in bill.

CRICKET.—The Guelph Cricket Club will play Hamilton on Tuesday next. A challenge has also been sent to Dundas for the succeeding day, which has been accepted.

BIG CRADLING.—A subscriber writing from Minto states that John and Peter Campbell cradled 20 acres of fall wheat, a good crop, for Mr. James Brews, on Monday and Tuesday last; that was five acres per day for each man. They are not thinking of introducing reaping machines into that section for some time.

PROBABLE MURDER.—The Hamilton Times of Tuesday says:—A party of ladies proceeding along the Dundas road near the Catholic Cemetery, were wit- nesses of a brutal attack upon a young man by a gang of the wretches infesting the locality known as Beasley's Hollow. The party assaulted, a well-dressed and respectable appearing person, was first intercepted on the road by three miserable creatures of female kind. He tried to escape when one of the number struck him down with a stone tied in the end of a handkerchief. Two soldiers who were with the females joined in the attack, and the unfortunate man was kicked and beaten with stones by the whole five with shocking brutality. The victim managed to scramble up and rolled down the bank on the side of the road, when he ran a short distance, staggering as if in great distress. He was again over- taken by the murderous gang and beaten about the head and body with stones, lying on the ground in an insensible state. The soldiers and female wretches were seen to rifle the pockets of their victim and drag him into the bushes. The parties who witnessed this affair were quite overcome by the horrid brutality exhibited, and feel fully convinced that murder was committed.

New Foundry.—The Temperance Hall in Fergus, has been purchased by Mr Thos. Muir, and Mr. Lamson, of Guelph, who intend converting it into a foundry.

The total expenditure for educational purposes in British India last year amounted to £760,834, $440,088 was expended by Government. There were 18, 563 educational institutions, and an average attendance of 559,316 pupils during the year.

August Fair.

The fair on Wednesday was the poorest and duldest we have ever seen in Guelph. There were no first-class cattle brought in, and very few of any kind.
The want of grass, caused by the dry weather, has reduced the supply of beef.— Buyers were inactive, and some of them quietly disposed themselves on the ground at the back of the fence, waiting for a bargain to come to them, instead of hurrying as heretofore at a break-neck pace to look for one. Another remarkable feature of this fair was the entire absence of working oxen. There was not a yoke of oxen on the ground, but what was offered for beef. Prices were low, and it is to be hoped that our butchers will take the hint, and govern the price of steaks accordingly. From $2.50 to $3, live weight, were the figures commonly paid, but it was said that some went higher. We quote the following sales: S. Falconbridge, a cow for $20; John Carroll, a cow for $39; John Black, Puncheon, four head at $3 per cwt.; Mr.
Spence, Elora road, a cow for $32; Duncan Morrison, Nassagaweya, four head for $150; and Walter Laing, five head for $176. John Moffat, Nassagaweya, sold three head for $90.

Disorderly.

We are sorry to say that the "boys" did not get quietly into harness yesterday after the excursion on Tuesday. They took two holidays instead of one, and some of them misbehaved themselves on the second. Probably there will be more about this hereafter. A chunk of a fight took place in the afternoon in the yard that is common to several of the shops on the corner of Wyndham-st. and Market Square. Some parties had congregated in Mr. Denis Bunyan's saloon, and a pair of them suddenly fell to fighting.
The room being too small they took the yard for it, and the battle ended after one had been knocked down and satisfactorily kicked. Mr. Brown, shoemaker, and one of his men, tried to suspend the booting operation, but the bystanders ran their fists up against the noses of the would-be peace makers, and threatened a flattening of those organs if the fun were not allowed to proceed. Mr. Brown went for a constable and met one, who suddenly recollected that there were pigs to be taken to the pound, and so the pounding process in the back yard continued until one chap had got an ugly lip. Almost simultaneously with this fight another occurred at Casey's Hotel. Two or three fellows "half sprung" asked for liquor, and Mr. Casey denied them. One of them then brought a heavy cane down on the counter with such force as to indent it pretty deeply. Mr. Casey went to put him out, but the rough caught him and, assisted by a friend, threw him, and choked him until he was black in the face, and the blood came from his mouth and nostrils.— Others took a hand in, the melee became general, and a head was hit wherever it had the hardihood to appear. The row subsided almost as suddenly as it began, and all congratulated themselves that matters were no worse. After condemning the rowdiness of Woodstock, what sort of work is this? But, as we hinted above, we have not heard the last of it yet.

Fenian Impudence.

The Brockville (Ontario) Canadian says: "On last Wednesday the G. T. R., & V. C. ferry boat, on a pleasure trip from Ogdensburg with a large number of excursionists, the majority of whom were ladies and children, visited Brockville.
Old's celebrated band was on board, and played several of the old national Irish airs, and the vessel was decorated with the Stars and Stripes, and a large flag above all floated the green flag, with the harp of old Ireland on one side and the Fenian emblem of the 'sun-burn' on the other. Several well known Fenians were on board, and when the vessel reached the wharf it was somewhat curious to witness the cordial reception and salutation they met with from several of the lookers on, and the winks and nods exchanged when they smilingly directed their optics to the well known emblems of the Irish republican floating proudly and as it were, defiantly in British waters. Amongst the number of persons on the wharf there were officers of the volunteer force, members of the Orange institution, and some of the town authorities, who evidently felt somewhat riled at this rather injudicious manifestation of Fenian impudence on Canadian territory. Fortunately, however, the presence of so many females prevented any audible symptoms of dissatisfaction; otherwise, disagreeable results might have followed. In fact, the freight saved the vessel, and she was allowed to proceed on her trip without opposition.
Her Majesty's gunboat Revere was anchored out in the river, and strange to say, never interfered on this occasion, although to our own knowledge, some years ago, a gentleman's yacht was overhauled by one of Her Majesty's ships, lying opposite Quebec, because the yacht had the temerity to carry a pennant in the presence of a man-of-war. In the evening the ferry boat returned to take off some of the passengers left in Brockville, and in conversation with one of them he did not deny that he was a Fenian, and said that only for the d—d Orangemen in Canada he would have been here long ago; but, although their chance was almost gone, he and others had now better prospects before them, only waiting for orders to proceed to Nova Scotia and assist Howe and his party to break up Confederation and become annexed to the United States.

ACCIDENT IN MANCHESTER.—The cable has brought news of a terrible accident which occurred in Manchester on Satur- day evening. During a performance in Lang's Music Hall an alarm of fire was raised, and the entire audience immedi- ately rushed for the doors. The passage way was completely blocked up, and for a time the wildest excitement prevailed. When order was at last restored, it was discovered that twenty-three persons, mainly women and children, had been crushed to death, and a large number of others seriously wounded. The alarm was a false one.

The patent on Hoo's rotary press expired last Saturday. An application for its extension for seven years was not accepted upon by Congress, owing to the lateness of the time at which it was introduced.

The Nova Scotia Difficulty.

The Halifax special correspondent of the Globe says: It is understood that Sir John and his colleagues have yet made no progress with reconciliation. The absence of the Local Ministers from Gen. Doyle's dinner much commented on, as indicating an unwillingness to meet Sir John, even to hear what he had to say. General Doyle had a dinner party last night, at which Mr. Howe and Mr. McDonald, Lunenburg attended. It is becoming more apparent that the Unionists look with suspicion upon the proposed Coalition. The Reporter (Union) this evening says the Unionists must not be sacrificed to satisfy the antis, and doubts the efficacy of conciliation. The Unionists have been much vexed and disheartened by the blunders of the Ottawa Government during the past year. Mr. Howe made a speech setting forth the difficulties of the anti-Union but it is said that he avoided committing himself as to the course to be pursued. There are some rumors that he and other Dominion members are disposed to adopt a moderate policy, and the Unionists are very suspicious of what they call the timidity of the Dominion members.

Many of the members of the Local Legislature talk very bitterly, and scorn all idea of moderation and conciliation. Still many repeal politicians feel that there are grave difficulties in their way.

It is understood that Mr. Howe opposes extreme measures—that he advises the Local Legislature to attend to the ordinary legislature of the country; to maintain its attitude of hostility to the Union, if no satisfactory terms can be made, to appeal again to England; and he discommenced annexation or revolutionary measures. It is tolerably certain that a majority of Dominion members will go with him, and would, perhaps, go further if they could. Local members are more violent, and very many of them are said to demand some measure declaring Nova Scotia out of the Union. Still it is much doubted whether such course will actually be adopted. Some antis are beginning to discuss terms of conciliation. They want more money—say the remission of the interest on the excess of the debt of the Province over the eight millions, and as large a representation in the Commons as in the Senate. There is a flying rumor that the Dominion Ministers propose two year trial of the Union, with the understanding that it be dissolved then if still unsatisfactory to the people.

RUSSIA.

The vast world of Russia is again attracting the attention of both hemispheres. Baffled by united England and France in its efforts to escape from its inland confinement through the Dardanelles, it is steadily pushing its way out towards the Indian Ocean by way of Turkistan. Already it has reached Bokhara, the chief city of the independent State of that name, the population of which numbers more than a million on an area of 235,000 square miles, lying directly between the Russian dominions and Southern Asia. The City of Bokhara has completely dwarfed its old rival, the famous Samarcand, whose great colleges are ruins, whose public edifices are in decay, whose ancient walls inclose gardens instead of marts, and mosques instead of civilizing institutions; whose streets are trodden by the worshippers of a glory departed, not by merchants or traders, save when an occasional caravan startles the quiet around Timour's grave. Bokhara is a great city of some 200,000 inhabitants. It has hundreds of mosques, but also hundreds of schools and colleges. It is a celebrated seat of learning. It is the centre of a flourishing and increasing traffic. Merchants from Russia and Tartary from Persia and Turkey, from India, China and Cabool, crowd its twelve gates and make busy its numerous markets. The possession of that city and region is of immense importance to Russia. From that point to the seaboard, where the Arabian opens into the Indian Sea, the road for such a power would be short and easy, but for the neighborhood of India, where jealous England crouches ready to spring at any competitor for the spoils of the East. But England is far away from India, war would be costly and precarious, the memory of the Crimea is fresh, and even to that haughty power prudence may suggest the policy of allowing the Titan to march unmolested to the ocean. For Russia herself is not what she was. The Titan is a brute no longer. The interesting and important letter from our special correspondent, written a month ago at St. Petersburg, conveyed information respecting the social changes that are going on there which gives assurance of the presence of a living soul in that enormous bulk of dominion—a soul worthy of the body, and capable of animating it all through with human energy. In respect of vital power, that organizes and impels an empire, there is no comparison whatever between the Russia of today and the Russia of even ten years ago. The emancipation of the peasantry from the bondage of the soil to a fatal state policy doomed them the regenerating currents of social reform flowing thro' all possible channels towards the general welfare, as the loosening of ice in the spring-time sets the brooklets scampering over the fields. Education is becoming diffused among all classes. The common school system, maintained for the people by themselves, finds favor in all the communities, the peasantry liberally contributing to its support. The great landholders talked about instructing the peasantry as our own slaveholders talked about educating the slaves knowing it would cause revolution. Revolution was effected by other means; but the rapidity with which education followed it justified their apprehensions. Intelligence is obliterating distinctions, and making of separate populations a people. Uniformity of justice is another consequence of uniformity of condition. No more serfs, no more arbitrary local tribunals, but equal laws for all men, trial by jury of peers, honest magistrates, judges of the peace representing the rights of the people.

These reforms suggest representative governments—and representative government is more than a dream in Russia. The communities are learning what it is to live under self-chosen officials, instead of under officials placed over them by an authority that was interested merely in keeping them down. So powerful, our correspondent informs us, are these "Provisional Parliaments," that the Supreme Government is careful to avoid unnecessary collision with them.

WHEAT IN WESTERN NEW YORK.—The Rochester Union of Saturday, says: The harvest is progressing in this and adjoining counties, favorably, with excellent weather. There is but one expression in regard to the quality of the grain and the yield. All say that the wheat is excellent, and the yield large. In some localities of Genesee and Ontario counties, where the storm raged on Wednesday last, the grain is lodged. This, however only makes it more difficult to harvest—neither involves a loss of grain or injury to the crop. A week of pleasant weather will place all the fall wheat safely in store.

RUSSIA.

The vast world of Russia is again attracting the attention of both hemispheres. Baffled by united England and France in its efforts to escape from its inland confinement through the Dardanelles, it is steadily pushing its way out towards the Indian Ocean by way of Turkistan. Already it has reached Bokhara, the chief city of the independent State of that name, the population of which numbers more than a million on an area of 235,000 square miles, lying directly between the Russian dominions and Southern Asia. The City of Bokhara has completely dwarfed its old rival, the famous Samarcand, whose great colleges are ruins, whose public edifices are in decay, whose ancient walls inclose gardens instead of marts, and mosques instead of civilizing institutions; whose streets are trodden by the worshippers of a glory departed, not by merchants or traders, save when an occasional caravan startles the quiet around Timour's grave. Bokhara is a great city of some 200,000 inhabitants. It has hundreds of mosques, but also hundreds of schools and colleges. It is a celebrated seat of learning. It is the centre of a flourishing and increasing traffic. Merchants from Russia and Tartary from Persia and Turkey, from India, China and Cabool, crowd its twelve gates and make busy its numerous markets. The possession of that city and region is of immense importance to Russia. From that point to the seaboard, where the Arabian opens into the Indian Sea, the road for such a power would be short and easy, but for the neighborhood of India, where jealous England crouches ready to spring at any competitor for the spoils of the East. But England is far away from India, war would be costly and precarious, the memory of the Crimea is fresh, and even to that haughty power prudence may suggest the policy of allowing the Titan to march unmolested to the ocean. For Russia herself is not what she was. The Titan is a brute no longer. The interesting and important letter from our special correspondent, written a month ago at St. Petersburg, conveyed information respecting the social changes that are going on there which gives assurance of the presence of a living soul in that enormous bulk of dominion—a soul worthy of the body, and capable of animating it all through with human energy. In respect of vital power, that organizes and impels an empire, there is no comparison whatever between the Russia of today and the Russia of even ten years ago. The emancipation of the peasantry from the bondage of the soil to a fatal state policy doomed them

The Braes of Yarrow

An Historical Tale of the Sixteenth Century.

CHAPTER XXV.—THE PILGRIM'S REVELATION.
"Then sth ye needs" quoth he, "will know my shame."
And all the ill which chaunt to me of late, I shortly will to you rehearse the same,
In hope ye will not turn misfortune to my blame."

The pilgrim lay upon a simple palliasse.—His face was haggard and his eyes were dull. At his feet knelt one of the friars, who held up a large oaken cross, upon which the eyes of the apparently dying man were fixed. The chamber was dimly lighted by a single lamp, which sufficed to show the severe simplicity of the furniture and to inspire a sense of awe in the prevailing cold silence of the place.

Father Michael and his marked companion had entered the room and had been standing several seconds beside the pilgrim's couch before he showed any sign of having observed their presence.

"You are devout, my son," said Father Michael softly.
The man slowly, and, as it seemed, reluctantly, withdrew his gaze from the sacred emblem and turned his dull eyes upon the speaker. His eyes seemed to brighten, and he made a feeble effort to extend his hand.

Father Michael took the hand.
"Do not exert yourself—you are too much exhausted. I have brought the friend you desired to see."

"Ah, holy father, I am indeed sorely exhausted; but I have found much strength from your prayers and the prayers of the good man you left with me. I am very weak, and I feel that my last minute is close at hand, else I would try to tell you all the gratitude that fills my heart."

"We have our return if we have given your last moments some Christian comfort."

"You have, you have"—a hollow cough stopped his utterance.
The cough continued several minutes and appeared to leave him utterly helpless, for he lay with arms outstretched and a vacant glazed look in his eyes, as if he had spoken his last.

Father Michael regarded him anxiously; and after a brief silence spoke—"My son, I dare not hide from you what is written upon your face—your end is near.—Wherefore, say quickly that which you may desire to have done, for time passes swiftly."

The man made several efforts to speak and, failing in that, he made a feeble motion with his hand, the meaning of which was not intelligible. The friar bent down and placed his ear close to the invalid's mouth.

"Leave me—good father—leave me—for a little time with the friend who brought me here," were the words which were spoken so faintly that they were with difficulty caught.

"Do you fear to speak before us?" queried Father Michael, surprised.

"No, no, I will tell you all, good father—but—fears confuse me—I can explain—it is the prayer of a dying man—you will not deny it."

"Would ye not be shriven?"

"Yes, but not in the presence of other than yourself—grant my prayer."

"As you will."

Father Michael beckoned to his brother monk, and together they noiselessly quitted the chamber.

Spens had been standing hitherto a little in the background, but obeying the motion of the pilgrim's hand, he now stepped close up to the couch. He noted that the man seemed startled on looking up and observing the black mask which covered his face.

"Are you he who lured me from the road and carried me hither?" was the faint query.

"I am he," answered Spens, marvelling what could be the nature of the mysterious communication he was evidently called upon to receive.

"Why do you hide your face?" gasped the dying pilgrim.

"I have reasons."

"You will not trust me with them?"

"I cannot."

The man drew a long breath which might have been accounted a sigh of regret. He seemed to be regaining strength rapidly from the instant the friars had left the room.—This, however, did not strike Sir Walter as particularly notable.

"Water."

A jar stood close at hand, and the parched lips of the invalid were speedily moistened.

"Thanks, thanks, my friend—I am better now. But bend near to me, for my voice is feeble, and the effort to speak exhausts me."

"Delay then till the morning."

"The man shook his head hopelessly.
"The morning will be too late."

"Nay, nay, you will recover."

"I cannot trust to that. I must find some friend whose hand is strong and whose heart is generous—I must find him at once. Are you the man?"

"My hand is none of the weakest, and as for my heart—well, it has never yet refused pity to the unfortunate. But before pledging myself to you I must know the nature of the service you would have done."

"It is honorable."

"Without doubt, and I divine by your eagerness it must be of import."

"Ay, it is of high import, for it concerns the good name of a noble lady—perhaps concerns her life."

"And you can save her?"

"I could have saved her had not this illness come upon me. But now—you see how powerless I am."

"Then you would have me undertake the work?"

"That is what I would implore you to do."

"You cannot understand the circumstances that hamper my actions, and I cannot explain them. But to this I pledge myself that, these circumstances permitting, I will do the service you desire."

"I cannot thank you enough for that pledge; but you will know how much I feel when I tell you without your promise my death would have been miserable, my spirit would never have found peace."

"Be satisfied, I will not be easily turned from the accomplishment of your desire."

"I believe that—I believe that."

"Who is the lady?"

"Give me your hand."

Spens obeyed, and somehow as the pilgrim grasped his hand, he felt a chill as if a cold draught of wind had passed through the chamber. At the same time a strange fancy flashed upon his mind—that a diabolical gleam of triumph had been for an instant faintly visible in the dying man's sunken eyes. But he endeavored to thrust the fancy aside, and in the endeavor he remembered with some surprise the titanic exhausted condition of the man only a few minutes previous, and contrasted it with the comparative ease with which he spoke now. That, however, might be accounted for by the great anxiety of the man to relieve himself of a matter which evidently weighed heavily upon him.

TO BE CONTINUED.

THE FREE GRANTS.—A correspondent of the Grillia Examiner writes as follows: "The Government if a little tardy in attending to the colonization roads and general internal improvements of the country, must be awarded great credit for their kindness, liberality, and promptitude in following up the Muskoka-Territorial District Act in such unmistakable good faith, by providing very efficient public officers, Registry books &c., and for the immediate construction of a Court Room, Registry Office and Lock-up. The establishment of the Crown Land Agency is proving to be a signal success. The beneficial results are already most marked. Of the hundreds who have visited the District this summer in search of land, there has not been a solitary instance of complaint. Indeed, a large proportion of the locations take place by candle light, in order to impose as little sacrifice of time upon strangers as possible. Hotel accommodation is kept

Matters in Nova Scotia.
The Globe's Halifax correspondent telegraphs that paper as follows on the 3rd inst. — On Saturday evening Gen. Doyle entertained a large party at dinner to meet Sir John and the other Canadian visitors. The members of the Local Government were invited, but did not attend. There was no demonstration when the Macdonald or Carrier arrived, and the subscribers about coming to organize the Militia, &c., are laughed at. The prospect for conciliation is rather poor, even the Unionists admit there is too much violent feeling on the part of the anti-Unionists to admit of any satisfactory compromise at this time. The Anti-Union members of the Local Legislature and of the Commons are holding a caucus this evening to decide upon the course of action. There seems no possibility of the caucus favoring a compromise with the Dominion Government. There is some difficulty about the policy to be proposed to the Local Legislature, to maintain an attitude of hostility to the Union. They must do something. Some extremists are even proposing to refuse to pay Customs and duties. In some quarters an appeal to the United States is suggested. More moderate sections, however, are casting out for some plan of continuing the fight within the limits of allegiance. Another appeal to the Imperial authorities is proposed. An appeal to the people, to still another measure suggested. The press this evening has a significant article warning the Dominion Government not to ignore friends who have supported Union throughout. The conciliators have a difficult task upon them.

MISERIES IN THE CAPITAL. — The Canadian, of Quebec, says, that the want of labor there is such that many families in Roches and St. Saurveur have no food, and that they have actually no means to migrate and look for work elsewhere. This is truly deplorable, and the more so as it is difficult to devise any means of relief in such cases. The government cannot procure work nor find means for forwarding away all its subjects. The carpenters of Quebec were for the most part, at one time, farmers of the neighbourhood, who attracted by the exorbitantly high wages have sold their land and stock to come and enjoy city life and don city dress. This shows the great danger to a population of exercising only one kind of industry. The laboring population of Quebec are entirely dependent upon the building of wooden vessels; and that diminishing, they find themselves, without it being actually their own fault, in the truly alarming position our contemporary has depicted in vivid terms, but without being able to suggest a remedy. — Witness.

Mr. H. L. Bastien, one of the parties concerned in the late murder at Hamilton, was admitted to bail on Saturday. Efforts are also being made to get Slater jailed out.

The value of blooded horses owned by private gentlemen in New York is stated to be over $20,000,000.

There are at present seventeen lines of steamers, making 1,322 voyages per annum between England and America.
