RAN AGROUND IN A FOG. The Modjeska on the Sandbar at Hanlan's

The fog on the lake yesterday morn ing was so dense that it was with much difficulty that the incoming boats could make the harbor, and many of the outgoing steamers thought it safer to wait until the mist had lifted a little before leaving their accks. The water is very shallow in the lake for some lawy weights of linance as Woering. distance out, and it is dangerous for any of the lake steamers to deviate even a little from their course. The fog rendered correct steering exceedingly difficult, and the boats in the vicinity of the harber ran at a mini-

The Modjeska Aground.

Not so, however, with the Modjeska coming from Hamilton. She got slightly out of her course, and ran aground on the sandbar, off Hanlan's Point about half-past 10 o'clock. Although running at the slowest possible rate of speed, she stuck hard and fast, and all efforts to get her off the bar were unavailing. When the fog had cleared semewhat the Garden City let; for Whitby to take an excursion party across the lake, and she observed the Modjeska in trouble, and wen, to her the same and two years ago, and, like the last one, from which he never returned, was designed to allewaste his constant sufferings.

Hyams was a peculiar man and very difficult to become acquainted with. He had few friends, and these were mostly of old standing. He spent his time upon one of the blue cushioned settees in the corridor of the Gilsey House, and would not stir from there sometimes during the entire day and evening, except to get his meals. On such occasions he would except to get his meals. His many-sidedness in the commission of crime is something before which Dr. Buchanan would doff his hat, were he still on earth. As the head and front of the A B C Copier Company he incurred an indebtedness of $100 to the Safeguard Account Company of this city. The account was placed in the hands of Kerr & Barr, 189 LaSalig-street, for collection. Holmes told them to present the bill to Thomas B. Bryan. After they had done so they wrote to the A B C concern.

Bolmes' Chicago Home.

Chicago, July 22.—The detectives found much to baffle them on the second and third floors of the house occupied by fishers, 199 North Halstedstreets. The wildest romance Poe ever wrote, the mysteries of Reade, the imagination of Verne furnish no parallel for the plan by which Holmes constructed on these floors a house within a house. Osterishly in 1889 he came to this corner to build a large flat and store building. Four years the workmen toiled on it, and then it was not completed. Each new financial difficulty of Holmes bred in him some new device by which within the building he might hide all trace of his paratuse. He was mysterious in all that a did. Who Got the Letter?
While the detective was here he look ed up another point of interest. This Blow Crushed Him.

But the crowning sorrow of his life and the blow which had probably more to do than illness with his sudden and untimely death was the disgrace brought upon an old and honorable family by his two nephews, Harry P. and Dallas T. Consumering of the standard of the special stream of the speci themselves of it is so incomprehensible to people of other large cities, who cannot by any stretch of imagination regard such a state of things as the outcome of a lervent spirit of "morality" on the part of our citizens, but as something rather less creditable, that I am impelled to drop you these lines, in the hope that they may be read and considered by those opposed to Sunday cars. It is well known, Mr. Editor, to those whose duties call them much abroad that many tourists and others would spend Sunday in Toronto but for its puritanical quiescence. As it is, numbers who cannot get to Montreal prefer to put the day in at Hamilton. There is no use in talking, human nature is human nature, and a citizen of London, Eng., New York or Bulfalo, on recreation bent, is no more going to sit in his room at a Toronto hotel with his hands folded and engaged in meditation all day on Sunday than he is any other day. Consequently the knowing ones go where they will not be forced to adopt such a course, and Toronto is accordingly side-tracked by the great bulk of the best class of tourist travel. Montreal, I judge, benefits largely by this. Thus, commercially speaking, there is no money in the celebrity that we have acquired as the "City on the Hill," while the value of the "moral" reputation following there. "City on the Hill," while the value of the "moral" reputation following there-from may be at least termed dubious.

However, it is rather with reference to the uses to which the Sunday cars in Montreal are put that I wish to address you. The cars there run all day on the Sabbath, with no curtailment of the organization of the rect. During church hours they are fiberally patronized by those going to and for divine service; out of these hours they carry many people from one end of the city to the other, visiting friends and relatives, a liberal number of sightseers and thousands of others who merely take a trip as is done on the Toronto Street and Salvanian and the city That a such and monotrony of the city. That anyone's sensibilities could be shocked by the cars running on any and every day in the year, Montrealers would find it difficult to believe. That hard working men confined closely indoors during the week the fail wee was the highest price offered, but, as this fell beneath the value placed upon the country, and that fhey start their next week's labors refreshed reap great benefit from the cheap means of getting to the country, and that flay start their next week's labors refreshed and reinvigorated in many ways, without anybody having been hurt, goes without saying. And there is not the attraction of an open tavern, nor is it required, at the end of Leach route to impel the people to make these frips. There is in the East End of Montreal a summer garden run under French-Canadian aux pices, with daily concerts, etc., and fiberally patronized on Sunday attention of an evenings. "Lager beer" can be obtained there. I visited this garden he obtained there, it visited this garden he been the end of the excellent music rendered by Lavigne's famous band, many smoking, others qualfing their mild beer, everybody good-natured and happy and the utmost decorum maintaining on all sides, and no sign of excess visible. Never before in the history of the Tonto Industrial Exhibition have entries been so numerous thus comparatively early in the season. It is six weeks yet to Exhibition time, but all the buildings devoted to manufactures and machinery are already allotted, with the exception of some space in the galleries of tha up for revision at 7.30 to-morrow at the Town Hall.

Enquiries from the street railway employes elicit the fact that a drunken man on Sunday is a rara avis in Montreal. If, Mr. Editor, some of the opponents of Sunday cars in Toronto would pay a visit to the eastern metropolis, where the cars have been in operation for so many years, without any of the attendant evils being apparent, so often fanciedand only fancied by the majority here as the inevitable result of cheap Sunday transport, I am sure they would all come back converted.
