LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Summer Millinery at a fraction of its worth.—A. Brown & Co.

Mrs. Jas. Craig has returned from a week's visit in Port Huron.

A license, costing $1.00 is now required for those operating radio receivers.

Mrs. Neil McLean, Sarnia, spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Neil Bennett.

The closed banks was the only indication that Saturday last was the King's birthday and a statutory holiday.

The local post office will be closed every Wednesday afternoon during the summer months but mail matter will be received and despatched as on other days.

On Sunday, June 11th, at the morning service in the Watford Presbyterian church, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed. The Preparatory Service will be held in the church Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Several opponents of the waterworks system changed their views about its value when they witnessed the rapid subjection of what promised to be a bad fire at Atcheson's vulcanizing shop on Saturday morning.

Miss Margaret Forster, daughter of Rev. J. C. Forster pastor of Burns church, was successful in passing her third examination in the six year's course in medicine at the university of Toronto, the examination results show.

The Lower School examinations begin June 13th and end June 20th. The Middle School, including Pass Matriculation, begins June 19th, and ends June 28th. The Upper School, including Honor Matriculation begins June 15th and ends June 28th.

The tall wheat recorded last week brings forward another record of remarkable growth. On Monday a specimen was left at this office grown on the farm of Calvin Hodgins & Sons, con. 5, Plympton, which measures fifty inches and has a good full head.

Writing from the Normal School, Calgary, Mr. Lorne J. Williams renews his subscription to the old home paper and adds:—"We appreciate your weekly line-up of news from the old home town. Spring has been somewhat backward here but there has been an exceptional rain fall and farmers are expecting a heavy crop."

A representative party of weekly newspaper men met in the Chamber of Commerce Sarnia on Friday to discuss an amalgamation of associations. The members of the St. Clair District Association met; J. M. Denholm of Blenheim, president; A. W. Marsh, of Amherstburg, secretary, and R. V. McGuire of Thamesville, all of the Essex and Kent Association, and passed a resolution after some discussion, that the St. Clair District enter into the Essex and Kent Association under a new name to be the Essex, Kent and Lambton Printers and Publishers Association. A meeting of the larger association is to be held in Chatham about the middle of October. A revision of the Lambton price list for job work was ordered, to be made by Whitcombe, of Sarnia; Ellis of Petrolia, and Dunlop of Forest.

One of the benefits of the Waterworks was vividly demonstrated on Saturday morning at 9.30 when fire broke out in Cecil Atcheson's vulcanizing rooms on Main street. While Cecil was working on a tire an imperfect valve on the gasoline tank came apart allowing the fluid to squirt out which immediately ignited and in less than a minute the room was enveloped in flames. Four minutes after the fire alarm was sounded the firemen had a length of hose attached to the hydrant on the opposite side of the street and the water turned on, and in less than two minutes after the pressure was applied at the power house the fire was extinguished. It was the quickest and most effective work ever done at a fire in this town. The loss on the building will not be very serious, the badly charred joists being the chief damage but Mr. Atcheson's damage to his new machinery and the loss of stock and material is considerable as he had not yet put any insurance on his goods, having only been in business a few weeks. Under the old system before the waterworks installation it is doubtful if the block could have been saved, the fire had such a rapid start.

Mr. Clark was a former Warwick boy, and is at present making a change of business from Hamilton, Ont., to Port Chester N. Y., where he goes to superintend a manufacturing plant in that city.

"Never sprinkle the flower beds or garden plot," says a wise horticulturalist, "unless you can make the watering thorough enough to soak the ground to a depth of several inches." A light sprinkling is worse than none. It brings to the surface the little feeding roots, and after the sun has dried up the surface the rootlets are worse off than before.

The next sittings of the county court and general sessions of the peace will open at the county court house, Sarnia, on Tuesday, June 13, at one o'clock. Present indications point a fairly heavy criminal docket as well as a number of civil actions.

The Ontario Government pays 20 per cent. for Township Roads, 40 per cent. for County Roads, 60 per cent. for Provincial-County Highways and 80 per cent. for Provincial Highways. Many improvements are being made in the residential part of the village, citizens generally seeming to be anxious to keep their homes in tidy and attractive shape. A commodious modern two-story dwelling is being erected by Mr. James Coke on his property near the High School which will be quite an improvement and attractive addition to that part of the village. Mrs. Marwick is having an extensive veranda added to her home on Huron street, which will greatly enhance the value of the property. Mr. Isaac J. Hastings is having a neat modern-style veranda placed on his residence on Wall street. Mr. L. R. Kinnell has also placed a snug veranda on the west side of his home on Ontario street, and many others are making attractive improvements to their premises.

I. W. Gilliland of Duluth, Minn., an old Watford boy, in renewing his subscription to the Guide-Advocate, says: "We surely do appreciate the dear old home town paper. It keeps us in touch with all old friends and neighbors. Things have been very dull here the past year but are now beginning to pick up." Mr. Gilliland sends well-wishes to all old friends.

Mr. Geo. D. Lee of Yucaipa, California, will be the special speaker in the Congregational Church on Sunday evening at 7 p.m. All the old friends of Mr. Lee will be glad to have this opportunity of hearing him speak. A cordial invitation to all. The pastor, Rev. T. DeCourcy Rayner, will preach at the morning service.

CLOCKING A BRIDE AND GROOM

A good number of the members of the Y.P.S.C.E. and choir of the Congregational church, Watford, met at the home of the secretary, Miss Gladys Lamb, on the 4th line, on Friday evening last for the purpose of making a presentation to two popular members of the Society and Choir, Miss Jean Williamson and Russell Duncan, a bride and groom of this week. The presentation was made by the pastor, Rev. T. DeCourcy Rayner, and the President, Miss Maude Marwick, and took the form of a beautiful parlor clock bearing a card with the following inscription: "To Jean and Russell from the Congregational Y.P.S.C.E. and Choir, wishing them 'bon voyage' as they embark upon the Sea of Matrimony, and praying that ever their home may be a Haven of Happiness."

During the evening games and music were enjoyed, and then, as darkness fell, the happy company gathered around a bonfire to indulge in a weiner roast.

Before the party broke up a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Harrower and Miss Gladys Lamb, the host and hostesses, for their kindly hospitality in entertaining the young people.

Among the many improvements made at Lake Valley Grove, Summer Resort, this year, is the cutting down and grading of the hill at the entrance to the grounds. The unveiling of the soldiers' memorial at Nairn on May 24th took place before a very large gathering. The Petrolia Town Council will take up with the Grand Trunk in regard to having an electric bell or some other safety device placed at the Blind Line crossing. Conan Doyle's detective stories are interesting but do not seem to be as good fiction as some of the stuff he is now writing.

Speaking of names, we heard of an old colored mammy who called her eldest boy, "Prescription," because she said it cost a lot to get him filled.

The wool raiser is certainly not responsible for the high price that is still asked for a suit of clothes, if one considers the low price he gets for his wool.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Western Ontario man shot at a cat and hit his wife. The cat had been worrying the chickens. This is not the first time chickens have got a man in wrong with his wife.—Sun.

Horse-drawn vehicles in Toronto must carry lights in future. The lamps are needed, but not so much as on the roads of the country, where every driver without a light risks his own life and that of motorists.

The Conservative members of the Legislature presented their leader Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, with an address and a purse containing about $2,000 as an expression of their esteem and good-will.

Stratford Herald:—How much longer will it take the bituminous operators and miners to come to an agreement, both sides lacking the concerted action that exists among the anthracite people? If they should commence conferring tomorrow and proceeded no more rapidly than the anthracite conferees they would find themselves in the first week in August no nearer a settlement than they are today.

Premier King has been made a member of the Imperial Privy Council, and, while this honor always has come to the Premier of this country, he was the recipient of many congratulations. He will henceforth be known as the Right Honorable Mackenzie King. The only other commoner having this title is Mr. Meighen. Both leaders will now be addressed in the House as the "Right Honorable member."

Owen Sound Sun-Times:—However, we celebrate Victoria Day, it should heighten our enjoyment and deepen our gratitude to remember how worthy she was for whom the day is named and in whose honor it continues to be celebrated—"Victoria the Good." Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and of her overseas Dominions and Empress of India who reigned from 1837 to 1901, a period which is generally and popularly known and referred to as the Victorian Era.

Abolition of the contract system under which rural mail carriers have been losing on an average of $326 per year, and the substitution thereof of a mileage rate of 70; consideration of claims for money lost on these rural routes since 1917, and a betterment of other conditions, are some of the things for which the Canadian Rural Mail Contractors and Postoffice-to-Railway Association are asking the Dominion Government.

During the twelve months of 1921 there were 4,826 deaths from cancer in Canada (exclusive of Quebec), according to figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Deaths from all causes totalled 37,717 during the year which gives cancer a ratio of one death in every 14 from all causes. There were more deaths from cancer than from all forms of tuberculosis, the latter totalling 4,773 for the year.

H. A. Stevenson, Labor member for London, introduced in the legislature an amendment to the Motor Vehicles Act which, if passed, would increase the speed limit in the country to 30 miles an hour. It would also permit the use of parking lights on the rear left fender of an automobile, and make inoperative the penalty clause relating to failure to slow down to 12 miles an hour at intersections. It would also give municipal councils the right to close parks to motor cars.

Pope Pius has ignored the conventions of centuries, by installing his old servant, Signora Linda, with in the precincts of his apartment, appointing her his housekeeper and wardrobe maid, says the Rome Giornale d'Italia. Signora Linda has been with the Ratti family for forty years. Since this was the first time a woman has been admitted to such a position some of the conservatives in the Vatican ventured to make respectful remonstrances.

Did you ever stop to think what a reasonable thing our taxation system is? For instance, John Jones is content to live in a hut and puts his surplus earnings in the bank he receives interest on it and it is not assessable by law till he is a very rich man. John Jones and the banking institutions are the only two benefitted. Let his brother, William, put his surplus earnings in a home and improvements, thereby making the town more beautiful and increasing the valuation of real estate generally throughout the municipality say nothing of environment the assessor in accordance with law comes along and assesses him for his enterprise and good works and practically establishes a life-long obligation. Is such a system just?

The department of highways has decided to take over the section of the Longwoods Road passing through the village of Thamesville.

The bill introduced in the Ontario Legislature with reference to the holding of municipal elections at an earlier date than now prevails, passed the House. This means that the new conditions are really law. Of course the matter of a change in the date for holding municipal elections is left optional with the municipalities. For years it has been asserted that the holiday season was not a good time for holding the municipal elections. It was contended that the last Monday in December and the first Monday in January did not attract people to consider the many municipal questions in the light in which such questions should be considered.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE BABY

Nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets as a medicine for little ones. They are a laxative, mild but thorough in action and never fail to relieve constipation, colic, colds and simple fevers. Once a mother has used them she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Saluste Pelletier, St. Damas des Aulaines, Que., writes:—"I always keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They are the best medicine I know of for little ones and I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BONDS AND BOOTLEGGERS

"Landed a $22,000 order for bonds on Saturday," remarked the bond dealer, radiant smiles of satisfaction on his face.

Now $22,000 orders for bonds are not so common that they are taken as a matter of course. Usually on an order of that size a bond house has to shave its price to the absolute minimum, but the bond man gave assurance that he made his full profit on this deal.

"I sold them to a bootlegger on the Essex frontier," he explained. "The bootleggers and rum-runners are the richest people in the country today."

Here evidently is a bootlegger who is salting away his wealth for the time when the harvest season will be over. But all bootleggers and rum-runners are not convinced that their era of prosperity will be of short duration. Some of them are making their plans for an extended occupancy of their positions of affluence. Witness the action of the "king of the rum runners" in one border community who offered his regular business for sale. His advertisement was laconic. It read:

"Owing to the Pressure of Other Duties, My Garage is For Sale."
 "The Pressure of other duties" is good, as Ring W. Lardner would say.—Financial Post.

LINGERING WEAKNESS FOLLOWING DISEASE

Due to the Fact That the Blood Has Become Thin and Watery

In almost every case the victims of la grippe, influenza, fevers and contagious troubles, are left weak, ailing and despondent after the disease itself has disappeared. They do not pick up strength as they ought, and remain tired, listless and discouraged. The only reason for this is that the blood has been impoverished by the ravage of the disease through which the victim has passed. Strength and full activity will not return until the blood has been restored to its normal condition. The blood can be enriched and purified, quickly and surely by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. To enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves is the whole mission of these pills, and thousands have found them beneficial after disease had left them weak and run down. Among those who have proved the value of these pills in cases of this kind is Mr. Charles A. Turner, light-keeper, Thrum Cap light station, N.S., who says:—"In January, 1917, I took a severe cold which I neglected until it developed into pneumonia, which confined me to bed for some weeks. When I was able to get up and sit around the house, I found that I was not regaining my usual strength; in fact I seemed to be growing weaker and was reduced almost to a skeleton. I took an emulsion, but it did not help me. Then one day a friend who came to see me said, 'Here's some Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; just the thing to put you on your feet again.' I took them and then got six boxes more and soon could feel they were helping me. By the time the last box was empty I was doing my work again and feeling fine, and I had gained in weight. My health has since continued good, and I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SENT TO TRIAL

Alleged Robbers of Wyoming Bank Committed for Trial at County Court

All Identified by Witnesses. Ring-leader of Bandit Gang Has Hearing at Watford. The Other Three at Sarnia.

Identified by the first three witnesses called by the crown as one of four bandits who held up the Bank of Toronto, at Watford, on October 20, last, and escaped with $10,000 in cash, Edward A. McMullen, 28, a London mechanic, was committed for trial at the June sittings of the supreme court for Lambton County, following the preliminary hearing of the charge heard at the Watford town hall Wednesday afternoon by Magistrate J. J. Jarvis, of Courtright. Crown Attorney F. W. Wilson prosecuted and J. M. McEvoy of London defended McMullen.

Bank Manager Testifies
Crown Attorney Willson called his first witness, Harry E. Lambert, manager of the Watford branch of the Bank of Toronto.

Witness said he remembered the happenings of October 20 last, very vividly. At 2.55 in the afternoon McMullen poked a revolver in the door of his office in the bank and ordered "hand up."

The man then advanced to the room and covered witness who was sitting in his chair, with the revolver. Alpheus McKay was in the room talking business. The prisoner was unmasked when he entered the manager's room. McKay rose, saying that he thought he would be going, the bandit replying that he thought otherwise. Advancing, McMullen placed the muzzle of the revolver against witness' stomach and told him to lie on the floor.

Mr. Willson asked witness if he did see down. "I certainly did" was the reply.

Witness, continuing, described how Miss McIntosh, who had been held up outside came into his room and lay down on the floor beside him.

Mr. Taylor, the teller, was then brought in and ordered to the ground. Witness heard men ransacking the cage, and rifled boxes dropped to the floor. He lifted his head and one of the robbers put his foot on it and ordered him to keep it down threatening to "drill" him. He thought he was five or six minutes on the floor.

One of the men came in then and demanded that the vault be opened. He could not say which man it was.

Witness told Mr. Taylor, who was kicked by one of the robbers, to go and turn the vault combination.

Witness was compelled to hand over the key to the inner vault which the men entered. The men obtained $8,200 from the inner safe and about $2,300 from the teller's cage.

Locked in Vault
The men then ordered witness to the vault and also McKay and Miss McIntosh.

They were locked in the inner vault and the robbers attempted to lock also, the outer vault, but failed to lock it properly, as the electric light arrangement went amiss. In reply Mr. Willson's question witness said he recognized McMullen.

Mr. Lambert was cross-examined by McEvoy for 45 minutes. "You don't pretend to be able to identify the men who were masked?" was the first question to which witness gave a negative reply.

He identified McMullen by his face and eyes.

McEvoy:—Did you give out any information to anyone?
Witness:—Plenty of it.

Mr. McEvoy:—Did you tell anyone the men were masked?

Witness:—Yes, I told all the people.

Mr. McEvoy:—Now, when it is convenient, you say McMullen was not masked.

Witness:—He wasn't when he came into my office. He put on the mask when he ordered Taylor to get down to the floor. He pulled a handkerchief up to his nose.

Identified in London
Questioned further, witness said he told the London police the amount taken by the robbers was $11,000. Mr. McEvoy suggested $13,000 had been mentioned, but witness denied this. Witness had seen three men in Toronto who were suspected of complicity in the robbery, but didn't know them. He saw the prisoner's a week ago in London.

Mr. McEvoy:—When you got there they called McMullen out?

Witness:—They did not.

Mr. McEvoy:—How many were in the cell?

Witness:—Five or six.

Mr. McEvoy:—Were there any elderly men?

Witness:—They were of various ages.

Mr. McEvoy:—You saw these men longer at London than at the bank? could you identify any of the others?

Witness:—No.

Mr. Lambert said he recognized McMullen by his eyes more than anything else, also his smile. He noticed McMullen's eyes were snappy. He again refuted the suggestion of counsel that McMullen was addressed by an official at the London identification proceedings.

Miss McIntosh
Miss McIntosh was the next witness and appeared to be nervous when first called. She gave her evidence in clear concise answers. Her statement very closely corroborated that of Mr. Lambert.

Asked by Mr. Willson if she could recognize the man who flashed the revolver, witness replied, "Absolutely. He is the second man," and pointed to McMullen. His face was visible when she first entered the manager's room. The handkerchief was round his neck, but she did not see him raise it.

Later, Miss McIntosh said the man had bright dark, sparkling eyes and no mousache or whiskers. She could not say whether he wore coat or collar or tie. "All I am sure of are those sparkling eyes," she added.

Mr. McEvoy:—When did you first know McMullen's name?
Witness:—When Mr. Lambert came back from London.

Mr. McEvoy asked witness a number of questions as to when and how she first recognized McMullen in the court room, receiving the reply that it was when the magistrate asked McMullen to stand up.

Alpheus McKay
This witness said on the afternoon of the robbery he saw the men pull up in a car outside the bank and get out. He stood and gazed at them as they left the car. "All at once the blood seemed to freeze in my veins and I said 'they are a band of crooks'". At this the court burst into laughter and order had to be called. He watched the men get out of the car and had a good look at McMullen. Asked if he could point out the man who entered the manager's office, McKay immediately picked out McMullen from the four prisoners. He watched the men walk up the street from the car and noticed that they gazed at the overhead hydro lines. "Then I thought they were hydro men," he continued.

Questioned by Mr. McEvoy he said he could swear to McMullen's identity from what he saw of him outside of the bank, apart from what he saw inside. He had not seen McMullen since until today.

Mr. McEvoy:—When did you first hear this man's name?

Witness:—I don't know his name any more than I know yours.

Mr. McEvoy:—Why did you have so many interviews with the manager in his office?

Witness:—Why shouldn't I have? I do my banking there.

Mr. McEvoy suggested that witness and Mr. Lambert had collaborated in regard to the identification and this McKay vigorously denied, adding, "I am not going to say anything but what is true and you can't make me." He shook his head confidently at counsel, and court again roared.

Lively Exchanges

During the cross-examination A. I. McKinlay suggested that Mr. McEvoy was badgering his own witness to which the latter replied, "I know he is your witness. You seem to be as anxious about this as the crown." Mr. McKinlay retorted that he was. His clients had paid the money. This was the second tilt of the afternoon between Mr. McEvoy and Mr. McKinlay.

At this point McKay said to counsel "You've got about all I know and so its no use going any further. Besides I've got a young married couple down there that I'm looking after." Mr. McEvoy retorted that he thought witness was an undertaker and looked after the dead ones, and again the court could not restrain its merriment.

McKay was undoubtedly the star witness of the afternoon. He was quite emphatic in his answers to counsel, and pointed out that he had been around the courts quite a bit and they couldn't make him say anything that wasn't true.

Witness was allowed to go and the magistrate asked McMullen if he had anything to say to which no answer was made. The magistrate said it appeared to the court that the evidence was sufficient to warrant accused being committed for trial to the next general court, and the other cases would be adjourned to Friday morning at the Sarnia court house at 10 o'clock.

Sarnia, June 2.—George Anderson, John Yohn and William Ayres of London were identified late this afternoon, before a court room at which standing room only prevailed, by several witnesses, as being three of the four men who, last October, entered and robbed the Watford branch of the Bank of Toronto of $10,942. Following three separate hearings, that lasted throughout the entire day, the trio of Forest City men were bound over for trial without bail by Police Magistrate J. J. Jarvis of Courtright, who intimated that they would come up for trial at the June sessions of the Lambton

County Court.

Scores of residents of Watford and Sarnia, along with representatives from the surrounding country for a 20-mile radius, were in court.

Ernest S. Taylor, teller of the bank identified Anderson as the bandit who first entered, and after receiving change for a five dollar bill at the cage, produced a revolver and ordered him to throw up his hands.

Miss Pearl E. Bailey, clerk of the Watford postoffice, who was making a deposit when the bandit pulled out a revolver after asking for change, said that she could positively identify Anderson as the man.

Mrs. Koehler admitted having given information leading to the arrest of the four men, and said that she intended to claim the reward if they were convicted.

FALLS INTO WELL - KILLED

Parkhill, Ont., June 4.—Russell Bodfield, aged 23, fell 40 feet to the bottom of an old gas well near here at noon on Saturday and was instantly killed. Lexie Barr, of Blanshard, who was working with Bodfield, and who tried to bring the body to the surface, was overcome by gas and unconscious for more than three hours. Bodfield's body was finally secured by grappling irons.

The well had been reported leaking and Bodfield went down to repair it. The gas at the bottom proved too strong for him and he signaled to be drawn to the surface in a rope sling. Just before reaching the top he slipped out of the sling and fell back 40 feet, fracturing his skull. Death was practically instantaneous.

Barr went down to try to secure the body, but the gas was too much for him, and he had to be drawn to the top. Bodfield was unmarried and a son of Alonzo Bodfield of St. Marys.

FIND SNAPSHOT OF BANK BANDITS

Sarnia, June 5.—After a search they have been conducting since the Wyoming bank robbery on October 20, 1921, H. B. Gadsden of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company and Provincial Detective Aitken of this city, while in Watford tonight, secured a photograph of the bank robbers as they were entering their car to make their getaway from the Bank of Toronto, where they secured $10,492.

While Detective Aitken and Gadsden were investigating the robbery a few days after it happened they heard rumors that a snapshot had been taken by an amateur photographer.

Both officers believe that without a doubt the enlargement of the snap will aid them materially in solving the mystery that surrounds the Wyoming bank robbery.

He was driving along the road on the sixth line of Warwick, and had just passed over the bridge and turned into Forest, when a tug became unfastened and caused the animals to run away. Greenlaw was thrown from his seat, and his foot became entangled in the machine, and he was dragged along the road for nearly half a mile, before the horses stopped by coming in contact with a telephone pole. The only thing that saved him from death was the fact that he kept a tight hold on the lines, which kept his head off the ground. As it was, he was badly cut in one leg by the disc plates and had to have several stitches inserted to close up the wound.

Two years ago Lillian married Charles R. Watson, a street car man. Her husband grew cruel, the hullo girl alleged in a bill for divorce filed last week.

Saturday Lillian and her attorney Frank A. Ruddy, appeared in circuit court to apply for temporary alimony. Judge Joseph Patton awarded her $10 a week pending the outcome of the suit. Lillian and the lawyer left the court room.

No sooner had she reached the corridor than she swooned dead away. Ruddy and his bystanders rushed for water and smelling salts. Pretty soon Lillian opened her big eyes. She straightway filled with tears.

"Oh, she cried, "I want my husband back! I want him back!" "It's all right," soothed Ruddy. "The judge has given you alimony." "I don't want alimony," wailed Lillian. "I want my husband." "Can you beat it?" remarked the attorney as he led his sobbing client to an elevator.

OIL SPRINGS 10—WATFORD 6

The locals went down hard before Oil Springs in the County League game here on Monday night. Suddenly finding themselves short of regular men the locals threw in a few substitutes and bravely tried to save the day, but the visiting "Ump" apparently had all eyes for his own men, and let two runs in on a clear foul. We would suggest that the local manager draw the attention of the visiting umpire at each game to the line flags, so there can be no possible argument or wrong decisions.

Watford plays in Forest Wednesday, but as we are going to press earlier than usual this week, report of the game is impossible.

Waubano plays here next Wednesday.

FACILITIES FOR EXPORT OF GARDEN PRODUCE

In order to facilitate the export to the United States of market garden produce from Ontario, on which an embargo now exists on account of the European Corn Borer, officers of the Dominion Department of Agriculture will be stationed at convenient points in the Province of Ontario, who will be empowered to issue certificates. At present none of the following can be sent across the border from Ontario points unless accompanied by a certificate showing freedom from the pest: celery, green beans in the pod, beets with tops, rhubarb, spinach, oat and rye straw, chrysanthemums, asters, cosmos, zinnias, hollyhocks, gladioli and dahlias.

Intending shippers of these products will obtain prompt inspection by notifying the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Port Stanley, Ontario, which is the headquarters for the work.

"PIGGLY WIGGLY" GROCERY STORES

The Piggly Wiggly Canadian Corporation has been organized to open up chain stores in Canada of the type of the "Piggly Wiggly" stores which have been in operation for the past six years in the United States. It is planned to open up considerably over 100 stores in the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario within the next three years. The start will be made in Montreal very shortly and a number of stores will be opened in Toronto almost immediately. It is proposed to provide funds for the opening of these stores through the sale of $1,000,000 of stock, preferred and common, which will be offered to the public. These stores although only a short time in existence have increased to 752 in the United States with a turnover in a year of $76,000,000. They started at Memphis, Tenn. The general plan is a self-service grocery store, the customers being handed baskets as they enter the store, going round and picking out any goods they choose that are prominently displayed, and then paying their bill as they reach the other end of the circle. There is no delivery system and the average number of clerks in each store has been kept down to three.

ANNUAL AGRICULTURAL RETURNS OF CANADA, 1922

Farmers throughout Canada are reminded that this month (June) the Dominion and Provincial Governments will make their annual collection of the areas sown to field crops and of the numbers of farm animals alive on the farm. For this purpose, following plans which have been in annual operation since 1918, a simple cardboard schedule, with instructions signed jointly by the Dominion Statistician and the Deputy Minister or other officer of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, will be issued to as many farmers as can possibly be reached through the agency of the teachers and children of the rural schools. The returns received, when compiled, will form the basis for the estimation by provinces of the areas sown for 1921 to the principal field crops and the numbers of farm animals alive on the farm at the date of enumeration on or about the 15th of June.

The returns thus requested by the Dominion and Provincial Governments are intended solely for the purpose of estimating agricultural and live stock production, first in the interests of the general body of Canadian farmers; secondly for the information and guidance of other interests allied to and dependent upon agriculture (interests represented by statesmen, economists, bankers, grain dealers, transportation agents and others); and thirdly for reporting to the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome (to which Canada is an adhering country) in return for reports on the production of other countries and of world totals which influence prices, and consequently affect the interests of Canada, now the third largest wheat-growing and the second largest wheat exporting country in the world.

Farmers who do not receive the cardboard schedules for returning their acreages sown and their numbers of farm live stock by the middle of June should make immediate application for same to either the school teacher of their local school district, or the Department of Agriculture of their province (in Quebec the Bureau of Statistics at Quebec) or the Dominion Statistician at Ottawa. Positive assurance is given by the Dominion and Provincial Governments that the returns asked for are not used in any way for purposes of taxation. Only totals are used for the purposes of estimation, and all individual returns are kept inviolably secret. In cases where farmers may prefer to do so, the returns may be mailed free under seal direct to the Dominion Statistician at Ottawa, no postage stamps being necessary.

One of the most effective vermifuges on the market is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only clear the stomach and bowels of worms, but will prove a very serviceable medicine for children in regulating the infantile system and maintaining it in a healthy condition. There is nothing in their composition that will injure the most delicate stomach when directions are followed, and they can be given to children in the full assurance that they will utterly destroy all worms.

LAWYERS AND THEIR WILLS

It is a remarkable and even astonishing fact that some of the most eminent British Judges have been incapable of making a valid will.

Lord Halsbury, who died the other day at the age of 98, and who as Lord Chancellor for nearly 20 years was called upon to determine cases of appeal of all sorts, left a will on three half-sheets of notepaper so faulty and defective that it was only after various kinds of circumstantial evidence that the Court would admit it to probate.

Lord Brougham and Lord Lyndhurst, both of them Lord Chancellors made wills that gave rise to great litigation, while Lord St. Helier, who for years was the presiding judge in this very Probate Court, was deplorably remiss about his own will. The list of Judges is quite long whose testamentary dispositions have caused endless trouble.

One of the most striking instances of the faultiness was that of the first Lord Grimthorpe, a leading lawyer of his day. His hobby was clock-making, and "Big Ben" at Westminster was due to him. He left some twenty million dollars, and instead of limiting his will to one document he set down his desires on odd sheets of paper, about 200 in number, together with 400 minor documents explaining his wishes. This is how a writer describes the result:

Whenever a thought struck him on the subject he would scribble it down on a pad, initial it, date it, and file it away for future reference. The sorting out of all these scraps and data from among the huge masses of his papers entailed no end of trouble and confusion. Two years elapsed before it was possible to determine therefrom and by means of corroborative evidence, what he really wished to have done with all his money. It was in that sense the Court of Probate ultimately directed the settlement of his extensive property.

It is puzzling to ordinary people why these eminent lawyers failed to observe the most ordinary rules governing valid wills.

If one be troubled with corns, he will find in Holloway's Corn Remover an application that will entirely relieve suffering.

FINANCIAL VALUE OF FRUIT STORAGES EXPLAINED

W. J. Bragg (Durham West) presented an important report to the Legislature Thursday afternoon on the apple industry. Heading a committee, which for the last year, has been investigating this question, and coming mainly from one of the leading apple producing counties of the province, his resume of the report created a great deal of interest.

A feature of the investigation was that the important thing about storing apples is to get them chilled to slightly above freezing point within from 24 to 36 hours after they come from the trees. This is more important than that they should be kept cold later on. This means small cold storages close to the orchards instead of big storages near the markets. A storage plant was conducted at Brighton last summer with excellent results, not only financially, but in getting apples to the consumers. Apples shipped from it gave good satisfaction.

It turned out that celery kept better when chilled immediately after being taken from the garden. Five thousand baskets of plums were kept in the storage for over a month, the market price advancing in that time from 20c to $1.25.

The report urges the Federal Government to take steps to assist in scientific handling of fruit, better shipping facilities and steps to counteract unfavorable conditions in the British market, suggesting that the Provincial governments of the Dominion co-operate in this.

The thanks of the House were expressed to Mr. Bragg by Hon. Howard Ferguson, H. H. Dewar and Hon. Manning Doherty. Mr. Doherty said he had been in communication for some time with the Federal Minister of Agriculture to have the subsidies now given to cold storages extended to those owned by co-operative companies of fruit growers. He had every confidence that the act would be extended to provide for this.

Mr. Doherty said he was convinced that the only way for Ontario to deal with the apple industry is to organize first strong co-operative companies of fruit growers to guarantee the grading and proper storage of the fruit. Then the most adequate shipping facilities and the best time for shipping should be worked out. Finally, when this had been put on a strong basis, they should attack the adverse circumstances in the British market. The great difficulty over there is that there is no way of regulating the supply. The minister explained that the day he visited the exchange in Liverpool, 10,000 barrels of Canadian apples were thrown into the market. He had arranged to place Ontario apples in cold storage in England this season, when Canadian shipments are heavy, and so avoid a price slump.

The presence of some British Columbia and Western States apples in the fruit stores of Ontario cities to the exclusion of fruit from this province has caused no little concern in the Ontario apple districts. This was evidenced in the discussion.

A FAMOUS SWINDLE RECALLED

One of the most picturesque and successful of swindlers of the Nineteenth Century was John Ernest Worral Keely, who induced the credulous public to part with five million dollars in the belief that he had solved the problem of perpetual motion, and had invented a motor that would revolutionize industry. Like most of the other fakers, Keely died poor, owning only the house he lived in. Like them, too, he did not have to wheedle their savings from the investors. They fought to give him their money. Police were summoned to keep them in line. At length he had to announce that only a certain limited number of shares would be sold each day. People stood in line to buy their allotment, like people stand in line to buy tickets for famous hockey or baseball games. The stock was issued with a par value of $50. Swiftly it soared to $200. Then it dropped to a dollar a share, and after that became worthless, except as waste paper or as a souvenir.

The Keely motor was an utter fake, but it fooled scientists, or rather, Keely's amazing patter dumfounded them. He had a smattering of knowledge of various sciences, and an expert in one branch would be deluded by Keely posing as an authority in some other branch. He impressed the electrical engineer with the idea that he was physicist, and the physicist was left under the impression that he was an electrical wizard. One noted man he failed to bamboozle, Thomas Edison, on no account would he permit to examine his invention. Edison offered to give any bond demanded that he would not steal any of Keely's ideas, and asked merely that he be permitted to examine the wonder, so that he might give the inventor assistance in making it practicable. Keely barricaded his house when the Edison visit was impending, and announced that only over his dead body would Edison be permitted to enter.

Keely was a Philadelphian and a kind of jack of all trades. He was a cabinet maker and had a talent for machinery. He was conductor of a small band, and at one time traveled with a circus where he specialized in sleight-of-hand entertainments. He found an angel in Mrs. Bloomfield Moore, of Philadelphia, who financed his earlier experiments with his motor, and who was afflicted with a religious mania. It was her belief that what Keely had discovered and succeeded in harnessing was "the will of God." She advanced him money, and every now and then he issued an announcement that the work was progressing. The newspapers published these announcements, which appeared for some time before the motor was completed, and by that time Keely declared that he was satisfied, he had thousands of people believing in him.

Keely had a magnificent presence, if one disregarded his shirt and huge hands, which were usually dirty, but he had a noble commanding manner, and an astounding flow of words that nobody could understand. When uttered with the greatest emphasis, they simply dazed the ignorant, while the better educated were ashamed to admit that they did not understand what the great inventor was driving at. Keely never applied for a patent, but carried his great secret locked in his massive brain. Nobody ever learned anything about his motor. He habitually used a jargon. Asked after an incomprehensible demonstration to explain the theory of the thing, he said gravely: "It is simple, very simple. Simply the interchange of polar and depolar sympathy. Is that clear?" If it wasn't, it was as clear as any other explanation he ever offered.

Foiled Business Men. Men prominent in finance and the world of business were Keely's first victims. When he announced his discovery, a distinguished group of New Yorkers employed a patent solicitor to examine the machine. He reported favorably, and they at once gave him money to purchase Keely stock. This started the boom.

It took three years and expenditure of $60,000 to build the first large machine. Then it was declared a failure. There were several other failures, but eventually a machine was produced with which Keely gave a demonstration which was considered a success. Stock was sold all over the United States and in Europe. But as time went by no machine capable of working was turned out. The stock holders demanded to know the secret. The courts held that Keely should divulge. He refused and was committed to jail for contempt of court. Little more stock was sold and there was no machine. Keely died of pneumonia in 1898, and if he had any secret, save that of extracting money from the credulous, it died with him.

LEVEL CROSSING ACCIDENTS The railways of the United States and Canada are planning a campaign to reduce accidents at level crossings. It will begin next week. The grade crossing was comparatively innocuous until automobiles became numerous, and late parties—joyriders often—became popular. Now there are a thousand accidents a year at level crossings. In 1921, four thousand persons were injured in them. All the precautions in the world by the railways would hardly avail to prevent some of the accidents, because these arise from sheer carelessness by travelers on the highway; but most of them would be preventable if adequate alarm systems were installed. Electric bells, semaphores, and other signals are used on crossings near cities and towns, but in the country the "Stop, Look, Listen" sign is about the only warning, and it becomes stale. On many lines, there may be only one or two trains a day, and perhaps very few travelers on the road, yet a horrible smash-up occurs one day because no one had thought of an accident at that spot. Constant vigilance is the price of safety. It must be said for the railways that they have reduced accidents and fatalities on their own lines to far below automobile score, and in grade crossing accidents, the automobile drivers are as much to blame, on the average, as anyone. A "safety" campaign might help, but as long as automobiles are as common as they are, and driven carelessly, as they so often are, accidents at crossings are not likely to be much diminished.—Toronto Mail and Empire. HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Kiever.

Vancouver, B.C.—"I am pleased to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a lot of good. I can now walk about without the aid of a support and feel real strong again. A nurse advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and it is certainly helping me. It seems like Heaven to be relieved after months of pain."—Mrs. H. W. BAKER, 8874 10th Ave. West, Vancouver, B.C.

Albert Co., N. B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and they have done me a lot of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as we live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this may help some one else."—Mrs. Wm. B. KIEVER, Upper New Horton, Albert Co., N. B.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

A Prime Dressing for Wounds.—In some factories and workshops carbolic acid is kept for use in cauterizing wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. Far better to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not scar the skin or burn the flesh.

TO ABANDON THE RIGHT OF PRIMOGENITURE

The Law of Property Bill now before the British Parliament will at last give younger sons a fair chance. Great Britain seems now at the point of abandoning the right of primogeniture, by which the family property goes to the eldest son.

The bill is before the House this week. The provisions simplify the law of real property and inheritance. All English lawyers are apparently agreed that the reform is long overdue, but it has been impossible heretofore to get two successive Lord Chancellors—one in office and one presiding—to co-operate in bringing about this step.

The bill will simplify law relating to mortgages and conveyances. It will necessitate new editions of all text books on property law. It is noteworthy that the radical tendencies of the bill, it has received no opposition from the Bar Council of the Law Society.

THE SLAVE

He was a young white slave and he occupied the berth in the sleeping car over mine. He swung himself down from the "top shelf" in the morning with an unlighted cigarette between his teeth. I will give him credit for not lighting it before he reached the door of the lavatory; but he could stand it no longer, and before he washed his face, he smoked his cigarette. His hasty ablutions performed, he had to steady his nerves with another cigarette before he could shave even though he used a safety razor. The operation concluded, he smoked another, which he jocosely but with considerable truth, called his "coffin nail."

A short time afterward we reached our destination, and we happened to breakfast together at a restaurant where smoking was allowed. He began his meal with a cigarette, smoked another between his oatmeal and fried eggs and coffee, and wound up with a third cigarette.

Was not that young man bound hand and foot by the cigarette habit? He had been a soldier, and I had no doubt had been a brave one but no German jailer could have held him in a tighter bondage than that of those innocent-looking, little white nicotine containers. The ruthlessness of this slave driver is one reason why I am against him.—Christian Endeavor World.

DO WE APPRECIATE OUR BLESSINGS?

It is a pertinent question to ask: "Do we in Lambton County appreciate our blessings?" I doubt if we sufficiently do. When we read this spring of the many floods prevalent in different parts of the continent that did irreparable damage to the property of those living in their path; of the cyclones and tornadoes, earthquakes and famines, fires and strike areas, and then compare them with the quiet and freedom from strife of our own immediate district, the scarcity of severe storms, the immunity from floods and the stability and solidity of our populace, what a host of blessings we have to be thankful for and which many of us fail to take cognizance of while pursuing the even tenor of our ways. We have become so used to peace and security that we, perhaps, fail to realize the handicaps and uncertainties under which some of our fellow men labor.

We have, indeed, many things to be thankful for, while residing in this part of Ontario.

CATARRAL DEAFNESS

is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing; and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions. Circulars free. WHERE HAPPINESS DWELLS AND BEAUTY EXCELS

A summer day is long in Algonquin Park, inviting to out-door pastimes of all descriptions. The nights are cool and restful, with clear lakes reflecting the great stars that hang low in the Northern skies, and there is silence except for an occasional fluted call, the dip of feeding trout or bass and the subdued song of water and stirring leaves. If you would experience such summer days as these, visit Algonquin Park, drink in with your lungs the air of its heights, with your eyes behold its manifold beauties and you will become a lover of this big unspoiled forest of the Ontario Highlands. "FRONT"

New York newspapers are telling of a prominent society man there who provided a bootblack and a manicurist with fashionable clothes, smuggled them into a dance hall occupied by a party of Gotham's 400, had them do a simple dance and saw them lionized for three hours.

He did it, so he told the newspapers, to prove his theory that all one needs in New York is "front."

The incident reminded Brian G. Hughes, well known New Yorker, of two hoaxes which he perpetrated years ago. In one case he purchased a street car horse, groomed it carefully, bedecked it in ribbons and sent it into the exhibition ring of the Madison Square horse show with his daughter, attractively dressed, in the saddle. The horse won first honors. In the other instance an alley cat was fixed up and sent to the cat show in a gilded cage. It was awarded the championship, and the secret was not revealed until a cat enthusiast offered $700 for the animal.

Mora recently at Cornell university a student was disguised as an Anstrian professor, introduced at a meeting of professors and students with great ceremony, and talked for forty minutes on psychology, a subject about which he knew nothing. His remarks were taken in good faith until the secret leaked out. A similar hoax was perpetrated at Oxford university some time later and learned professors left the hall without an inkling that anything was wrong.

The incidents, and many others which probably could be found, suggest that even the most sophisticated are too prone to accept superficial impressions. "Front" does count for much more than it should, but it ought, perhaps, to be noted that occasions of this kind are sufficiently rare to attract wide notice, and that in each instance the secret was soon out.

"Front" gets so far, sometimes, but no farther.

SCRAPING THE FLOOR OF THE OCEAN

One of the greatest undertakings in salvaging treasure from the ocean's bed ever recorded has been made public recently in connection with the Laurentic, sunk off the coast of Donegal, Ireland in January, 1917. This great White Star liner was carrying a cargo of gold ingots worth between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. Persistent attempts have since been made to recover the wealth, operations being carried on in the summer, and with considerable success. Ingots to the value of between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 have already been recovered and it has been decided to attempt the recovery of the remainder during the summer months of this year.

Descriptions of the operations, published by the London Sphere, show the Laurentic lying on her port side on a sandy bottom in 120 feet of water. This compares with 285 feet in the case of the Lusitania, efforts to salvage which will shortly be made. In March, 1917, divers entered the Laurentic through the starboard side making their way for 40 feet athwartships, then proceeding forward for another 15 feet. In the summer of that year bad weather hampered operations, and many weeks had to be spent blasting a way to the gold store.

Work was not resumed until the middle of the summer of 1919, when the wreck was again found. In the summer of 1920 great masses of wreckage and sand had obliterated the wreck, and various pumping schemes had to be adopted. In the following year the wreck was found to be broken up still further; the boilers had broken loose and were rolling about on the sea bottom, but when work ceased late in the season it was thought that the situation was promising for the struggle that is to be recommenced this summer.

GENERAL RILEY'S ARMY

Tramped to Ottawa and Are Now Tramping Back To Toronto With Little Accomplished

Ottawa, June 5.—Following official notification from Mayor Plant that Howick Hall, where they were staying, must be vacated, that the meals being furnished there would stop, and that the Government blankets and mattresses served to them would be collected, General Frank Riley and his army of 267 unemployed veterans started at 9.30 to-night to march back to Toronto. During their stay of 33 hours at the capital they appear to have accomplished little.

The veterans refused the Dominion Government offer of a train to convey them back to their homes.

Premier King and Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, arrived at Howick Hall, where the men have been quartered since Sunday noon, at 8.30 p.m., and addressed them.

Mr. King explained that he had not heard the request Riley states he made of the premier to address the men as a body. Had he heard it he would have already consented.

The prime minister spoke for 15 minutes and Hon. Mr. Murdock for 10 minutes. Afterward the two ministers, with Riley, held a low-voiced conversation, in which both Mr. King and Mr. Murdock asked for the names and regimental numbers of his men, promising that their grievances would at once be investigated and relief afforded where such was indicated.

After the two ministers had left Riley addressed the men and got from them a declaration that they would march to Toronto rather than take the train offered by the Government.

"We will march until we drop in our tracks or starve," was Riley's oft-reiterated theme.

Finally at 9.30 Chief of Police Ross reminded Riley that the time for vacating the hall was up. Riley then asked if any man wanted to take the train to Toronto. Not a man wanted to, and the column was then quietly formed up and the men marched out into the dark, taking the same route through Ottawa as they had entered the city 33 hours before. The men were quiet and orderly and were accompanied by a large number of city, Dominion and Provincial police and a large number of plain-clothes men.

Did you ever stop to think what a reasonable thing our taxation system is?
