SIGNS OF TROUBLE IN GREECE

Fear For Venezelists in Athens and Allies May Occupy Capital—Taking Over of Guns Resisted

London, Nov. 29.—A London Times' despatch from Athens says that Admiral Du Fournet, in audience with King Constantine, drew His Majesty's attention to the gravity of the situation. The French admiral subsequently visited Venezelists who had been threatened and promised them protection if the designs of the reservists should work out. Telegrams from Larissa state that reservists resisted the removal of guns at the station and having seized two of them, dismounted them and conveyed them to the public square, where speeches were delivered and the rioters swore not to allow the guns to be surrendered. The guns were then handed over to the commander of the third army corps, who has likewise sworn not to deliver them. Shots were fired by reservists during this demonstration, and when the Venezelist newspapers arrived by train, these were burned. Admiral Du Fournet has demanded an explanation of works executed on hills that surrounded the station. He has been assured that they are not in the nature of fortifications and retained. The Greek crown council has voted to support the government in opposing the allies' demands for the surrender of arms and munitions, according to an Athens despatch to Reuters of yesterday's date. The despatch says this decision was reached after a session of an hour and a half, which was presided over by King Constantine. London, Nov. 29.—According to special despatches from Athens, the greatest uneasiness prevails among the adherents of M. Venezelos in the Greek capital, who, although reported to be strong in numbers, are virtually unarmed. It is feared serious harm may come to them through some sudden outbreak of rioting. Read Admiral Du Fournet made a tour of inspection about the city on Monday morning and observed glaring circles of red paint with which the loyalists during the night had marked houses and shops belonging to persons whom they regarded as hostile. The mayor's was one building thus marked. Admiral Du Fournet, the despatches continue, visited the mayor later in the day and spoke of measures proposed for the protection of the supporters of M. Venezelos, particulars regarding which have not been published. It is reported in responsible quarters that the admiral will occupy Athens if any excesses should be attempted but that the supporters of the Venezelos party are not satisfied, demanding measures to render excesses impossible.

JELlicoe NOW IS FIRST SEA LORD; BEATLEY GIVEN FLEET COMMAND

London, Nov. 29.—Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, commander of the British fleet, was today appointed First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, being succeeded in command of the Grand Fleet by Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty, who commanded the British battle cruiser squadron in the Jutland naval battle.

In being appointed First Sea Lord, Admiral Jellicoe succeeds Admiral Sir Henry Bradwardine Jackson, who had held that post at the admiralty since May, 1915, when he took the place vacated by Lord Fisher. Admiral Sir Henry B. Jackson has been appointed president of the naval college at Greenwich. The announcement of the change in command of the British grand fleet was made this afternoon in the House of Commons by A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Admiralty. Mr. Balfour said there would be consequential changes also in the board of the admiralty.

HAVE GREATEST CONFIDENCE IN GENERAL HAIG

Earl of Derby, in House of Lords, Sets at Rest Rumors of Friction

London, Nov. 29.—In the House of Lords last night the Earl of Derby, under secretary of war, set at rest rumors in circulation that there was friction between General Sir Douglas Haig, the British commander in chief in France, and the home authorities. Alluding to Lieut. General Sir Frederick Clayton's relinquishment of the post of inspector general of the lines of communication in France, the Earl of Derby said there was no connection between his retirement and the appointment of Sir Eric Geddes to superintend all questions of railway docks and inland transport, leaving to the administration the rest of the lines of communication as heretofore. The secretary of war said the Earl of Derby, in order to satisfy himself as to the adequate means for the transport of the ever-increasing amount of ammunition to the front, sent Sir Eric, with General Haig's consent, to investigate the matter. General Haig was greatly impressed with Sir Eric's report and requested that Sir Eric be appointed to carry out his own suggestions. The Earl of Derby said that he had been imposed upon by General Haig who was absolutely false. The army council, the greatest confidence in line with all his suggestions. Rumors that friction existed were untrue.

BASEBALLS AND GOLF CLUBS JOIN IN THE SKYWARD LEAP

Prices of Both Are to Be Largely Increased for Next Season

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Baseballs will cost from 10 to 50 per cent more next season than last, depending upon the market price of the materials. Local sporting goods dealers so announced today. The general manager of a large sporting goods house compiled figures to show that certain material entering into the manufacture of baseballs and golf clubs has increased in price from 60 to 400 per cent within the year. Sporting goods dealers said that with the prices of raw materials increasing rapidly they could not quote figures on goods for future delivery and that few of them are issuing catalogues for that reason.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS BY KAISER TO PRESIDENT WILSON AND THE POPE.

Geneva, Switzerland, via London, Nov. 29.—Emperor William will send to President Wilson as a Christmas present a de Luxe set of American authors specially prepared, printed and bound at the royal printing works in Berlin, according to the Budapest newspaper Az Est. The German submarine Deutschland, the newspaper says, will carry the gift to the United States on her next trip across the Atlantic. Emperor William's Christmas gift to Pope Benedict will be a Bible magnificently illuminated and bound.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF ORANGE FREE STATE DEAD

Bloomfontein, Union of South Africa, Nov. 29, via London.—Martinus T. Steyn, president of the Orange Free State from 1894 to 1900, died suddenly today while addressing a women's congress.

CHIGNECTO ARRIVES

The Royal Mail Steam Packet liner Chignecto arrived this morning from Bermuda and the West Indies with more than 8,000 tons of sugar and 800 passengers, including mail and forty passengers; the first twelve second and twenty-three third class.

Further Grinding Of The Belgians

Paris, Nov. 29.—The German authorities have issued a decree imposing a further payment of 10,000,000 francs a month on Belgium, according to a Havas despatch from here. This is additional to the existing levy of 400,000,000 francs. The despatch says that the provincial councils have been convoked for December 2 in order to approve the new imposition.

GERARD TO CARRY BACK MESSAGE OF BELGIANS

Washington, Nov. 29.—Representations to be made to Germany by the United States on the deportation of Belgium civilians was a topic of discussion at a conference arranged for today between President Wilson and Ambassador Gerard, who will sail on Tuesday to return to his post in Berlin. The administration has determined to express to the German government its apprehension over the movement of Belgians, in more positive form than by the inquiry which the United States charge at Berlin recently made on instructions from Washington.

SENDING PEOPLE OF LILLE BACK HOME?

Germany Gives Out Announcement That Only Those Who Wish to Stay Will Be Kept

Berlin, Nov. 29 (via wireless to Sayville).—The following semi-official item was also announced for publication today: "According to promises given to the inhabitants of Lille and other towns in occupied territories in France the following number of persons have been transported back there. 'Up to August 1, 1916, 1,998 persons who were either incapable of working or whose removal from their homes had proved especially severe. 'From the beginning of October until the middle of November, 6,671 persons, mostly women, whose work was no longer required. 'The competent military authorities have received an order to transport back to the end of the year all persons with the exception of those who wish to stay in their new residences."

Showery.

Maritime—Moderate winds, generally fair. Thursday, fresh southerly winds, showery.

New England—Probably rain tonight and Thursday, followed by clearing and colder. Thursday, moderate to fresh south winds.

Believe They've Caught Aeroplane Which Made Attack On London

War Writers Think Germans Will Plan to Send Many More and Urge Great Britain to be Prepared

London, Nov. 29.—It is generally assumed that the aeroplane brought down at Dunkirk was identical with the London raider. Its unchallenged arrival apparently was due to the haze over London and the fact that the roar of the street traffic drowned the sound of its motors. Some persons say they saw it, but the height at which it soared was so great as to make it impossible to distinguish it from one of the British machines, which are now as familiar sights as the clouds or the sun. The bombs dropped seem to have been very small and filled with shrapnel. The walls of the houses in the neighborhood where they fell are marked with small holes. Three bombs fell on an upper room under the eaves, were not hurt. The furnishings of the room were not disturbed. Nearly all the other damage consisted of the breakage of windows. Notwithstanding the insignificance of the raid itself, there is a common opinion here to regard it as a warning. The editorials in the London morning papers suggest that it is but a prelude to further similar visits on the same or a greater scale. It is pointed out that now that the destruction of Zeppelins in the north has shown the Germans that measures which proved dangerous to airships invading the London area have been extended to other parts of the country, they are likely to inaugurate daylight airplane raids on a large scale, and it behooves the British to prepare to meet them. "If," says one commentator, "German airplanes may, as we believe, attack London in thousands, we must be prepared to defend by building machines in tens of thousands and by creating an air service which will be as great a weapon as the navy already is." It is further urged that Great Britain's refusal to imitate the Zeppelins on such a scale as the Germans have built them has been further justified by the latest events. Zeppelins, it is said, are beaten out of the field for military purposes, being vulnerable beyond all parallel in the history of war weapons. On the other hand, raiding by airplanes which are relatively cheap and elusive has far more dangerous possibilities than raids by huge and costly airships. The London raid has re-awakened the typical cry, and Premier Asquith is urged in the House of Commons to notify the enemy that any recurrence will be followed by reprisals in the bombing of German towns.

ALLIES VICTORIOUS IN SERBIA; ONLY ROUMANIAN REPORT COMES FROM BERLIN

Paris, Nov. 29.—The war office announced that the French are advancing to Hill 1248. The Italians made progress in the region of Travena Stena Height, west of Monastir. "On the left bank of the river Vardar, British troops were successful in a surprise attack upon a trench of the enemy to the northeast of Mucukovo. East of the River Cerna Serbian troops, after a brilliant advance, occupied a height to the northwest of Grunishite and retained this position in spite of furious Germano-Bulgarian counter-attacks. The enemy suffered heavy losses without accomplishing anything. "In the region to the northeast of Monastir French Zouaves, continuing their successes, occupied a height to the east of Hill 1050. "To the northwest of Monastir there has been violent fighting, in the course of which our troops made progress in the direction of Hill 1246, which the enemy defended with great ferocity. "Italian forces also have made progress in the mountainous region of Travena Stena."

BRITISH REPORT

London, Nov. 29.—Artillery and trench activity in some sectors of the Franco-Belgian front is reported in today's official statement on military operations as follows: "There was intermittent enemy shelling in the neighborhood of Guedecourt and south of Arras. Considerable trench mortar activity developed near Maquisart and Neuve Chapelle areas. Otherwise nothing of importance occurred."

MOTHER DIES ON VOYAGE, VESSEL WRECKED; LITTLE ONES ARE BROUGHT HOME

Norwegian Steamer Bringing Them Last Part of Mast—Did Submarine Do It?

Baltimore, Nov. 29.—The Norwegian steamer Borghill, which arrived at Quarantine Station today, from Oran, Algiers brought shipwrecked persons from the American schooner Georgietta, which sailed from New Bedford, Mass., on November 12 for the Cape Verde Islands. Among them were two small children whose mother had died on the voyage. The Borghill lost part of her foremast. She was detained at quarantine for fumigation. Dr. Thomas Richardson, the boarding physician, could give no particulars concerning the Georgietta. The master of the Borghill said nothing about meeting any submarines nor did he explain the loss of the steamer's foremast, the appearance of which, as the vessel passed in the Capes yesterday, suggested to shore observers that it might have been shot away. Dr. Richardson thought it had been carried away in a storm.

NURSES COMING HOME

Dr. Margaret Parks and Miss Donville, who have been doing efficient work as nurses in No. 1 General Hospital, Etaples, France, are reported to be coming home to spend a two months furlough.

NEARLY LOST AMBULANCE GIFT

New York, Nov. 29.—The World says that with a fully equipped $4,000 ambulance about to be turned over to them as a gift, the Infantile Paralysis Appeal Committee yesterday lost their opportunity to obtain the machine with the arrival of a telegram from Canada. The telegram, from the Canadian Red Cross to Emerson McMillan, banker, and donor of the ambulance, read: "Thanks very much. We will be happy to take it."

FRANK H. SMILEY A SUICIDE; LOST MONEY IN SPECULATION

New York, Nov. 29.—Unsuccessful speculation in Wall Street, by which he said to have lost most of an inheritance of $50,000, was attributed by the police as cause for the death of Frank H. Smiley, a lawyer, whose body was found in his office after he had shot himself in the head.

A WHEAT RALLY.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Wheat prices today showed decided power to rally. Opening prices, which ranged from two cents decline to one and seven-eighths cents advance, with December at 168 to 169 3/4 and May at 174 1/2 to 176, was followed by a moderate general setback and then a sharp upturn to well above yesterday's finish.

PROMINENT SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKER IS DEAD IN ENGLAND

Pittsburg, Nov. 29.—George Shipway, statistical secretary of the World's Sunday School Association, is dead at his home in Birmingham, Eng., according to information received here by H. J. Heinz, chairman of the association. He was one of the most prominent Sunday school workers in Europe.

MATTER OF ARMING THE BRITISH MERCHANTMEN

London, Nov. 29.—With reference to the much discussed question of arming all British merchant steamers, it is said that the admiralty in some instances has recommended that owners arm cargo steamers and offered to provide a gun and gunners for them on the condition that the owners undertake the cost of strengthening the decks, but the owners preferred to take their risks rather than incur the expense.

ENGINEERS TO QUEBEC

Moncton, Nov. 29.—Several recruits, who recently signed with the Canadian Engineers in St. John, passed through Moncton en route to St. John's, Quebec. The party included Robert J. Southern, Mansore Zakarya, Frank D. Perkins, Frank Vanwart, James Geddes, James G. Troy. The latter is a brother of Lieut. A. Troy, of the 182nd Battalion.

MILITARY WEDDING IN OLD LONDON TOWN

The photograph shows Mrs. Levita, a cousin of Prince Arthur of Connaught, and Capt. Maurice Wingfield, who were married recently in the British capital.

EARTHQUAKE DOES MUCH DAMAGE IN JAPAN

Tokio, Nov. 29.—Considerable damage has been caused by an earthquake in middle Japan. Many houses have been destroyed in Kobe, Osaka, and Kyoto. The railway station at Kyoto was damaged and several pedestrians were hurt by falling walls and roofs in that town and in Kobe.

DUTCH OFFICIAL SENT TO WASHINGTON ON A SPECIAL MISSION

The Hague, Nov. 29.—H. A. Van Goeben, Dutch Consul-General in San Francisco, who has been here in conference with the Netherlands government has been ordered to Washington on a special mission to confer with Secretary of State Lansing. He will sail for the United States on next Tuesday on the Holland-American liner Noordam.

REQUIEM MASS IN WASHINGTON TODAY FOR THE LATE EMPEROR

Washington, Nov. 29.—Pontifical high mass celebrated by Cardinal Gibbons and attended by President Wilson, Secretary Lansing, Baron Zwiadnick, charge d'affaires of Austro-Hungary; Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador; members of the staffs of the Austro-Hungarian and German embassies and members of the diplomatic corps, was said here today in memory of the late Emperor Francis Joseph.

FAMILY OF SEVEN BURNED TO DEATH

Neighbors of New Jersey Farmer Discovered Flames to Late

Fought Fire With Buckets—Believed the Victims Were Suffocated While Asleep—Find Bodies in Ruins

West Cape May, N.J., Nov. 29.—The smell of smoke and the crackle of flames roused neighbors of Lewis Wilson, a farmer, shortly after daylight and they ran from their homes to find the two and a half story frame farmhouse of Wilson blazing from cellar to roof. They knew that Wilson and his wife, her mother, and two sons and two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had been in the house and realized, when they could not find one of them, that all seven were still inside the blazing house.

There is no fire department in this town and the first fire fighting progress that the farmers could not check it with the little water they were able to draw from the well and throw on the flames from buckets. It was impossible for anyone to enter the place, though they knew that the Wilson family was dead or dying inside. So neighbors were forced to stand by helplessly until the farmhouse burned to the ground.

When only a part of the brick chimney and a heap of embers remained to mark where the house had stood, the heat made it still impossible to search for bodies, and it was late in the morning when the bodies of Wilson, his wife, Margaret, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine Gibson, were found. Even then there was no trace of the bodies of the children, Gertrude, 11 years old; Thomas, 9; Lyman, 8; and Beatrice, a year and a half, and it is supposed that they were consumed.

How the fire started could not be told, of course, but it is supposed that an overheated stove caused it. The house was heated by wood stoves, and apparently one of these, on the ground floor, started the blaze. The flames spread rapidly, it is supposed, but still it is believed that some of the family would have escaped by jumping from bedroom windows, unless they had been suffocated by smoke.

Arthur Wilson, a brother of Lewis, and Charles Jacquette, who were first to reach the house, believe Wilson and his family were made unconscious by smoke before the flames reached them. When Arthur Wilson and Jacquette opened a window on the ground floor, hoping to be able to enter, they were met by a rush of smoke and flame that drove them back, but Wilson says that, as he peered in, he saw the second floor full of, and thinks he saw the bodies of his brother and his family tumble down with it.

The three elder children were members of the community Sunday school, and the session this afternoon was made a sort of memorial service for the dead children.

Wilson was well to do. Like his three brothers, he was a prosperous farmer, and his farm was well known in lower Cape May county.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

When Constipated or Bilious Give "California Syrup of Figs"

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath foul, has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the food accumulated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without gripping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any who are harmless and children love them.

THE BAPTIST MINISTERS

(Maritime Baptist.)

Rev. A. F. Brown has been engaged in special services at Middle Southampton. In this he has had the assistance of Rev. C. P. Wilson, Home Mission Evangelist.

Rev. F. P. Dresser, who lately resigned of the pastorate of the church at Martinsville, in the same state. Mr. Dresser will be remembered as a pastor in these provinces for several years.

Rev. J. H. Jenner of the Charlotte street church, St. John West, is now attending the Sunday meetings in Boston. Other pastors who have passed through this city on their way to hear the famous evangelist are Rev. M. Addison, Rev. C. E. Pines, pastor of the Millville field, has been receiving some valuable and much appreciated tokens of esteem from his people. At Middle Hainesville he recently received a new set of harness, while friends at Springfield, not to be outdone, contributed to his comfort by presenting a new fur coat.

In a recent list of casualties these appear the name of J. B. Amos, of Doaktown, N.B. Being a member of the military, for several years his name has stood first on our list of enlistees.

Rev. H. G. Mellick, after nearly eight years of diligent and fruitful service, has resigned at Lawrenceville, N.S., to accept of a call to Springfield and Alberton, P. E. I.

Mrs. Thomas Hill, whose address at our recent convention will be recalled, crossed the Atlantic from New York to Bordeaux by the liner Rochambeau. She will rejoin her husband, a missionary under the American Baptist Missionary Union, at Lukunga, Lower Congo. Mrs. Hill is a sister of Rev. J. Z. Gosline, of Grand Harbor, N.B.

The First church of Moncton, which has been without a settled pastor for some months, has extended a call to Rev. Bowley Green, pastor of the Central Square Baptist church of Portland, Me.

On account of the serious illness of his wife, Rev. A. T. Dykeman has resigned the pastorate of the Glace Bay church, and has moved to Bridgetown, where he and Mrs. Dykeman will spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. G. C. Warner.

Not the Bull-Dog Type.

A Presbyterian minister in Newcastle, Eng., has been making a careful study of the photos of the men who have won the Victoria Cross, the Military Medal, and other decorations for valor. His conclusions (says the London Daily Chronicle) are very interesting. He finds that the bull-dog, bull-necked, aggressive type of face has hardly ever been represented. Almost invariably the heroes have the features of men of kindly and benevolent aspect.

PABST TALKS TEMPERANCE

Thinks Brewers Should Be Leaders of a Truce Crusade

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 29.—Gustave Pabst, president of the Pabst Brewery and retiring president of the United States Brewers Association, said that the brewers were in favor of true temperance and were working for laws that would bring it about. He has just returned after a brewers' convention in Cleveland.

"It is not worth while spending any time in holding post mortems over wet and dry elections, unless it be for the purpose of guiding our judgment as to the future," said Mr. Pabst. "Logically, we are on the side of temperance, and we ought to be leaders in the true temperance crusade. We have plenty of evidence that the thoughtful men and women of the country are not opposed to the reasonable use of beer, and we believe that the people are willing to meet us half way in establishing conditions that will promote the welfare of the community."

"We, as brewers, must not only put ourselves abreast of public sentiment, but must be willing to lead it wherever the conditions are such as to make our action of practical value."

"The question for thoughtful men is

THE PEOPLE AWAIT

The careful housewife must regard with alarm the daily increase in the prices of necessities. These she must provide out of the government pledges which the man of the house brings home of a Saturday night, or a Friday if it may be.

It is of necessity that the women and children of Canada, of St. John, bear so great a part of the burden of war?

London announcement of yesterday giving to German submarines the record of seventeen more vessels sunk adds to the belief that the sink-them-all policy has triumphed in Germany and that ruthless war at sea is to be waged in hope of crippling transport of supplies for Britain and her allies.

There are some who are growing wealthy out of the needs of the people and the circumstances of the hour. But is it all just? An anxious and expectant public awaits further action at City Hall.

If this problem is to be looked squarely in the face a line must be drawn clearly between local conditions which are subject to local control on the one hand and general conditions which no civic or municipal action can affect.

Another day nearer the crisis in Greece.

City Hall, of course, should investigate local conditions in order to ascertain how much can be done by purely local authority, and how much can be accomplished by utilizing the round-about machinery which the Federal government has placed at its disposal.

At a subsequent performance the Duke and Duchess of Connaught were present and complimented Major Regan and Sergt. Roberts on the excellence of their performance.

NORWEGIAN REACHING OUT FOR WORLD TRADE

Two Hundred Vessels Being Built for Them in United States.

New York, Nov. 27.—Christoffer Hansen, a prominent ship owner of Norway, arrived here this week on the Danish vessel Frederik VIII for the purpose, he said, of looking over the hundred of more freight steamships, ranging from 2,000 to 12,500 tons, being built in American shipyards for interests represented by him.

He asserted that as many more ships for other Norwegian interests are under construction here, and confirmed reports that a company of his countrymen is planning to start a line between Pacific ports and the Orient.

Other lines, he added, would be started by Norwegians between United States and South American ports.

BUILDING NEW SHIPS.

A bulletin issued by the United States Department of Commerce, giving statistics of shipbuilding in the United States and Great Britain during the nine months ending in September, has created the impression in some quarters that the Americans are rapidly catching up with the British in this line of industry.

It gives the number of ships "under construction" in the United States as 417, with a total of 1,454,270 gross tons, and in the United Kingdom as 469, with a total of 1,780,016 gross tons.

In other words, only sixty-two more vessels, with a gross tonnage of 334,784, were under construction in British shipyards than the Americans were building.

But the figures will bear examination. To begin with, a careful study of the bulletin reveals the fact that seventy of the American vessels, with a total of 216,045 gross tons, were designed solely for service on the Great Lakes.

to be more favorable from the American point of view.

The bulletin gives other statistics that are of striking interest at this time. For example, it shows that the Allied countries and the United States, as well as Norway, Denmark, and Holland, have felt a tremendous advance in their ocean borne commerce since the beginning of 1916.

The British increase during the nine months to September was more than $988,000,000, the total value being $1,882,000,000. French commerce increased from $110,000,000 to $179,000,000. The gain in trade under the Italian flag was from $77,000,000 to $116,000,000.

As usual, Japan was not to be outdone, and her trade showed an expansion from $98,000,000 to $144,000,000, or about 260 per cent.

Notwithstanding Norway's disastrous losses from submarines, her increase was from $145,000,000 to $223,000,000, approximately fifty per cent. The American increase was from $236,388,000 to $451,297,000, or roughly seventy-six per cent.

These are remarkable gains, but they are likely to be surpassed during the next nine months, whether the war goes on or not.

London announcement of yesterday giving to German submarines the record of seventeen more vessels sunk adds to the belief that the sink-them-all policy has triumphed in Germany and that ruthless war at sea is to be waged in hope of crippling transport of supplies for Britain and her allies.

ON THE TIGRIS

(From The London Poetry Review.) Here, in the dim grey dawn, 'neath the rushing of myriads of sea fowl, Hurling in shadowy ranks out to the breast of the deep—

Here, where the curlew's cry wails out o'er the desolate mud flats, Mingled with clamorous gulls, calling each other from sleep.

Here, where the red rose climbs on the golden lattice of Eos, When the first sunny smiles o'er the glistening foam—

Here, 'mid the great bare flats where the dunlin pipes and the redshank, Here is the heart of the wilds—here, O my heart, is thy home.

LIGHTER VEIN.

Johnnie on The Spot.

The young teacher had been having a trying time with her nature study class because Johnnie had discovered he knew more than she did about birds and frogs and had assumed a decisive attitude in consequence.

Rapid Degradation.

The playwright's own latest play was being produced. Sitting in the last row, in the orchestra stalls he listened to its leaden phrases.

Looking Ahead.

The lady visitor was kindly and well meaning. As she chatted with a principal who had been sentenced to six months' imprisonment, she thought she detected signs of reform in him.

London, Nov. 14.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The saying that woman's place is in the home has little application in war time. There are now in the British Isles 8,219,000 women employed outside their own homes. During the first two years of war the increase of women workers, exclusive of purely feminine occupations, was 865,000. Of these 766,000 directly replaced male labor. In other words, more than three-quarters of a million women left their homes to replace that number of men for military service. In most instances the women went into the munition plants, where a considerable number of them have given up their lives in "doing their bit."

There seems to be no limit to the class of work women can do. At first it seems strange to see girl conductors on the buses, girl window cleaners, van drivers, and messengers. But as the war progressed the field broadened, and now even in building, mining, and quarrying scores of women are employed.

In most of the factories and shops, the breweries and the railway yards, jumpers and regulation overalls are the approved costume. The bus and tram conductors are jaunty in their neat blue tunics, and skirts reach just below the knees—low enough to overlap close-fitting black leather puttees. There is seldom a glimpse of stocking. The bus companies issued an order recently that no silk hosiery should be worn.

The number of women employed in railway work has increased more than 200 per cent. There are women ticket

Coalition Discussed.

The talk of a coalition Dominion government for the duration of the war is steadily growing. Some of the Conservatives are praising for the change and hint that they would be willing to see Sir Robert Borden step out and Sir Wilfrid Laurier assume the premiership. The suggestions have not been taken very seriously by the Liberals so far.

26th Officers to Headquarters? Two recruits yesterday but five casualties reported—Sergeant-Major Holder receives Commission

It is understood that several well-known officers of the 26th battalion who have returned home from the front after being wounded, and having done their bit in France, will be given military appointments of prominence in the province. The new policy, it is understood, is likely to result in changes at headquarters.

The men of the No. 9 Siege Battery were vaccinated yesterday. Several of the newer recruits were inoculated.

Only Two Two recruits were secured in the city yesterday. One for the Canadian Engineers, who did not wish his name mentioned and the other was Albert Coyle, St. John, for the 62nd detachment.

Five Casualties The names of five New Brunswick men appear in the midnight casualty list: Previously reported missing, now prisoners of war in Germany, E. Baker, Little Sheinogue; Lance Corporal Augustus Campbell, Bass River; G. L. Lawson, Mundeville; wounded, William Tomlinson, Stanley, Tay Creek; and Sergeant G. B. Alexander, Fredericton.

Mrs. Gordon Holder of this city received word yesterday from her husband, Sergeant-Major Holder, who is a member of the 11th Battalion, to the effect that he has been promoted to a lieutenant. Lieutenant Holder joined the 11th Battalion as a private and has been climbing steadily until he finally won his commission. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Holder of Mecklenburg street. Prior to enlistment he was in the employ of the Canadian Express Company.

Home From Front Sergeant-Major Norman Fawcett, son of C. W. Fawcett, of Sackville, was in

The city yesterday. He was involved home as a result of being wounded by a bursting shrapnel. Sergeant-Major Fawcett held the rank of captain in the militia prior to the outbreak of the war and dropped his rank in order to get overseas.

Naval Recruiting At a meeting held in the naval recruiting rooms yesterday afternoon it was decided to entertain the marines passing through the city and the arrangements for the concert to be held in the Imperial Theatre on Sunday night were completed. It is proposed to hold the first concert in the recruiting rooms tonight should the marines arrive in the city on the West Indies boat.

Soldiers' Graves J. E. Secord of this city has received about 200 post cards from Captain Rev. G. A. Kubring, formerly of St. John, which shows the British cemetery at Boulogne, France, in which many Canadian soldiers are buried.

Soldiers Entertained Members of St. Mary's A. Y. P. A. entertained the soldiers at the Parks Convalescent Home, Tuesday evening. The programme included a solo by Mrs. Patterson, solo by Miss Robson, a Highland dance by Mr. McDonald, and solos by Miss Dalzell, Miss Craft, Miss Oran, a reading by Miss Ross, and duets by the Misses Pitt and Wilkins and the Misses Lane and Willet. W. T. Ingraham presided.

Lieutenant Dennis Honored Ottawa, Nov. 28—Lieutenant Eric Reginald Dennis, who has won the Military Cross, is a son of Senator Dennis, of Halifax, and Ottawa. He belongs to the 2nd Battalion and gets the coveted decoration because he "rescued men buried under intense fire and later set a splendid example under very trying conditions."

It was at the sign of the three golden balls, and the grubby little urchin entered his portals, carrying in his hand a large frying pan.

"Muvver wants three pence on this!" he said boldly, handing it across the counter to the proprietor. The man of hedges took it, then dropped it with a howl.

"Eiang it all," he exclaimed, "the beastly thing's hot!"

"I know," said the youngster, "Muvver's just done the liver and bacon on it, and now we want thrippence to get the beer wiv!"

Another Dividend Up

Canadian General Electric was a member of the very select band of Canadian industrial companies which succeeded in maintaining common stock dividends when business came almost to a standstill in the early months of the war. It omitted in 1914 and 1915 the bonus of 1 per cent that had accompanied the final dividends of the year immediately preceding. But there were few Canadian concerns paying as much as the 7 per cent that Canadian General Electric distributed in regular dividends in the depressed period. In the circumstances, with the company's business sharply stimulated in the past year, the extra 1 per cent that is to be paid with the final dividend of the current year will be regarded as conservative. There are reasons to believe that it is not in the nature of a bonus but marks the beginning of a 2 per cent quarterly rate. Until 1908 the company paid 10 per cent for a long period of years; the dividend fell that year to 7 per cent, which has remained the regular rate since, with bonuses in two years. Apparently the company is working back to the higher rate paid in the old days.

ANACONDA COPPER

Anaconda is producing at the rate of about 300,000,000 pounds of copper a year. With the average price of 25c a pound and a 10c cost, this indicates earnings of $24,000,000 annually or more than $23 a share. Anaconda thus far in 1916 has paid dividends of $7 a share, or $16,318,750.

OKLAHOMA PRODUCING CO.

The Oklahoma Producing and Refining Company has declared its regular quarterly dividend of 2 1/2 per cent, payable Dec. 23 to stock of record Dec. 13.

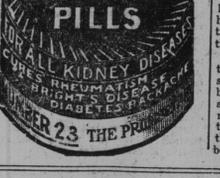

British Troops Are Not Favored

The Australians, in the recent fighting, were denounced today at the Australian headquarters as false. That the Australians have been in hard fighting is true. They have the honor of being considered among the best troops on this front, and have been used the same as the other famous divisions.

The official representative of the Australians told the Associated Press correspondent today that they would have been aggrieved if they had been treated as inferior in organization, personnel or material. He added that the recent attacks had their natural difficulty, but that the Australians and British had been side-by-side and that the heaviest fighting fell upon the shoulders of the English, Scottish and Irish divisions.

New Porcupine Merger

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Colonel Hay president of the McIntyre Porcupine mine, states that an option has been obtained upon the McIntyre Jupiter and McIntyre Extension properties. A merger basis has been agreed upon that will first have to be considered by the shareholders, respectively, of the McIntyre Extension and McIntyre Jupiter, and if approved will be submitted some time next month to the shareholders of the McIntyre Company. Colonel Hay states that the details of the arrangement were not shaped definitely enough to give out at the present time.

Painful Swollen Veins Quickly Relieved and Reduced

Mrs. R. M. Remter, of Federal, Kansas, writes an interesting account of her success in reducing a severe case of enlarged veins that should be encouraging to others similarly afflicted. She suffers with badly swollen and inflamed veins (in fact one had broken), for more than seven years before she became acquainted with Absorbine, Jr., and used it. Absorbine, Jr., was faithfully applied for several weeks and, to quote from her letter, "The large knots in the veins left. It was all nicely healed, and has not bothered me since."

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know someone who is troubled with head noises, or Catarrhal Deafness, cut out this formula, and hand it to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Recent experiments have proved conclusively that Catarrhal Deafness, head noises, etc., were the direct cause of constitutional disease, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporize with the complaint and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure. This being so, much time and money has been spent of late by a noted specialist in perfecting a pure, gentle yet effective tonic that would quickly dispel all traces of the catarrhal poison from the system. The effective prescription which was eventually formulated, and which has aroused the belief that deafness will soon be extinct, is given below in understandable form, so that any one can treat themselves in their own home at little expense. Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmit (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home with you. Add 1 1/2 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. The first dose should begin to relieve the distressing head noises, headache, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns to normal. Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness, or catarrh in any form, should give this prescription a trial. Important Note: In ordering Parmit always specify that you want double strength. Your druggist has it or he can easily get it for you. If not send 75c—postal note or money order—to the International Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine St., Montreal, Que., Can., and they will supply you.

A Smooth, White Skin That Defies Weather

During the coming months of biting winds and intense cold, you who would keep your skin smooth, white and velvety, should turn your attention to the marvellous soap. Nothing else will so effectively remove a chapped, roughened or discolored surface. By gradually absorbing the weather-beaten cuticle, the complexion is kept in perfect condition, and even the freckled complexion appears more pronounced. If your skin is blotchy, pimply, or covered with sallowness, or over-red, why not wash it with a few ounces of ordinary soap? It will completely transform the most ugly complexion in less than a fortnight. Use the wax slightly, like cold cream, washing it off mornings. If weather, age or poor health has marred your face with wrinkles, here's good news. You can quickly remove every line by using a harmless, refreshing face lotion prepared by dissolving one ounce of powdered sazonite in a half pint which will completely transform the most ugly complexion in less than a fortnight. Austria Suffering And People War Weary But No Real Sign of Collapse

Food Question the Prominent One There—The Call on the People of Both Central Nations to Bring in Their Gold in Exchange for Iron War Emblems

Dr. Thomas Curtin in London Times, Nov. 4

In the following article Mr. Curtin describes the internal conditions of Austria, the heavy losses she has endured, the dependence of the country upon Germany, and the war weariness of the people, but says there is no real sign of a collapse.

It is rather more than two years ago that I was constantly informed in London that the collapse of Austria was imminent. According to the Allies, Austria has been collapsing ever since I have been in Austria several times during the war. She is suffering severely and sick of the war, but I have seen no real sign of this much wished for and eventually inevitable occurrence.

Food conditions in Austria are much more varied than in Germany. The organization is not so good, so that in certain areas supplies are comparatively abundant, while in others there is a scarcity approaching, though not yet reaching, very real hardship. The situation resembles the situation in Germany in this respect, that the great towns act as sponges, absorbing all the nutriment in a zone twenty or thirty miles from the city. In these areas and in the great cities the food conditions are always worse than in the remote districts, where the inhabitants can hoard more effectively and can make use of their own produce. Vienna, which I did not visit on this occasion for personal reasons, but with which I kept in touch almost weekly while I was in Germany, is not so well provisioned as Berlin. The municipal kitchens have not Prussian perfection. The richer classes, however, are not suffering. Money is more powerful. The rich land owners are living very much their ordinary life, to the extreme dissatisfaction of their poorer brethren. The Germans are doleful, but the Austrians and Hungarians, are even more so, and the whole of Austria is dominated by Big Brother Prussia.

Food Question. According to Austrian and Hungarian friends who came to say "Good bye" to me just before I left Berlin, the food question is the one universal topic of conversation throughout Austria and Hungary. In Vienna there are three meatless days a week; in Budapest two; and this state of affairs is worse than it sounds, because although meat is allowed to be sold on other days, it is often unobtainable. The rise in prices is greater than in Germany; the shortage of fat, if possible, worse. The population are cursed with innumerable taxes and with regulations which annoy and irritate, and to which they do not take so easily as the Germans. Great bitterness is caused by the tyrannical conduct of the German Supply Association, which, by agreement, compels the Austrians and particularly the Hungarians, to supply great quantities of eggs, vegetables, lard, and butter each month. Austrian and Hungarian newspapers appear with whole columns obliterated by the censor. It is evident from the context that many of these excisions have to do with food problems. From some portions of Lower Austria came the first murmurings I have ever heard of anything approaching real starvation. The rivers and lakes are netted night and day for fish, the wheat crop in several places (but not in Hungary) was threshed and ground at the first moment for the purpose of making flour. Food regulation schemes are in a state of chaos.

The Austrians, before the war, were almost the greatest coffee drinkers in Europe. Their supplies of real coffee lasted longer than those of the Germans, but they are now complaining bitterly, for they drink either an acorn or burnt barley coffee substitute.

The Hindenburg Interview. It must have occurred to many students of the situation as remarkable that the periodical piece of big propaganda just issued came from Austria in the form of an alleged interview with Hindenburg by Dr. Goldmann, the well-known Viennese journalist. It was published, not in a German newspaper, but in the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna. Why? The interview is partly intended for world circulation, of course. It is aimed at the United States, Great Britain, and France. It contained all the regulation details of propaganda interviews, such as, in effect, "England will fight to the last Frenchman," but it was principally designed to allay Austrian fears in regard to the war. Hindenburg is just as much a well-advertised idol in Austria as in Germany. If anything, the Austrians look up to him more reverently than does the average German man in the street. He has in Austria none of the cynical critics who are to be found in the military cafes in Berlin, for people in the Prussian capital know Hindenburg the man, as well as Hindenburg as he has been invented by the German Press Bureau.

One who knows about the preparation of these interviews gathered from the lips of the men who write them, I may explain the procedure as follows: The interviews are prepared in the German foreign office. The favored journalist, in this case the really able Goldmann, is then invited to re-write the statements in his own style. He then usually, but not always, has an actual audience of the mouthpiece—sometimes von Bethmann-Hollweg, sometimes the crown prince—anybody who has not been too recently used. Whether Dr. Goldmann saw Hindenburg or not, I do not know. It does not matter. What I do know is that Hindenburg repeated in this interview remarks made to me in the press department of the Wilhelmstrasse in Berlin some five weeks ago. That portion referring to the battle of the Somme I have seen in actual printed documents—the assumption being that the present stage of the Somme offensive is the last bluff of France and England on the western front, that the Allied losses are immense and the German losses inconceivable. I know nothing about the Allied losses, but the losses of the finest German troops of all (no second-rate soldiers were sent to the Somme) exceed those in any other theatre of war at any other period, except for a short time around Ypres. Those losses are skilfully veiled in every manner possible, just as were the losses in front of Verdun.

German Losses. Now that I have been in England for some weeks, it is easy, mixing with people here as freely as I did in Germany, to compare the losses of any particular class of society here and in Germany. What applies to Germany applies little to Austria, except that members of the Austrian aristocracy have taken little part in the war, being employed for the most part in the safe task of guarding bridges far from the firing line, and at office work in uniform.

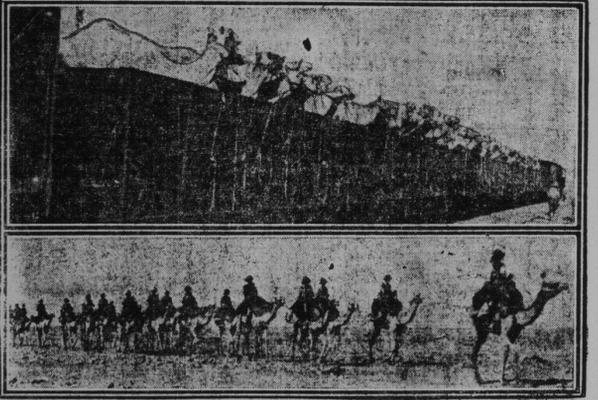

Take, as an example, the legal profession. I saw a good lot of it in Berlin, and I have seen quite surprised when I tell them that the whole legal firms in Germany have been wiped out in the war. I have read the figures of Oxford and Cambridge, whose patriotism is proved by their rolls of honor, but these yet list do not approach those of German universities. I had an English acquaintance at the University of Bonn—Professor Price, who had become a naturalized German. I ran over one day in August from Heidelberg to call upon the professor, and found that he had been called up for the army, and had been either killed or taken prisoner in Russia. Other calls in Bonn gave me astonishing figures. The Somme offensive had been only some weeks in operation. Practically no names of the Somme killed had appeared in the cunningly arranged casualty lists. Yet everywhere in Bonn that hot August day did I meet with the printed phrase, which at length the Germans have had to make prominent, "so quietly everywhere, for the wounded are in all parts of the city."

With regard to the German losses everywhere the Social Democrats and a great part of the public decline to believe the figures given, saying that the real figures are probably twice those yet admitted. Certainly the Somme and Verdun losses are greatly under-estimated here. The terrible Allied bombardment

GERMAN U-BOATS TORPEDO SEVENTEEN VESSELS

Announcement of the torpedoing of seventeen vessels by Hun U-boats was made yesterday at London, and another, the Ernstadt, previously reported sunk, has arrived safely in port, badly damaged by a torpedo. Among the number is the United States steamer Chemung, which went to the bottom with the Stars and Stripes at the masthead, the captain having refused to lower it after an altercation with the German raider.

IN FIVE MINUTES NO SICK STOMACH, INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the Quickest and Surest Stomach Relief

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of refuse, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fulness, nausea, bad breath, mouth-stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on the fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomach, or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, does not irritate, does not disarrange the system, and it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.

has often achieved the annihilation of supply columns and whole battalions of men, and has been the cause of many of these incidents are never reported, and your artillerists do not (apparently) know of them.

The Austrian losses, which are issued in the most fragmentary form, are known to be terrible, and are one of the causes of the depression that, under the name of "the Austrian crisis," is to be found everywhere.

Without in any way desiring to detract from the noble spirit of our Russian Ally, it should be understood that the government, the ruling classes, and many entire regiments with their guns, ammunitions, and, above all, officers, who have surrendered en masse, the Bohemian regiment being warm sympathizers with the Allies, and much more anxious to fight against Germany than against Russia. The Hungarian losses have been appalling—I doubt whether any other nationality has suffered as heavily. Despite the terrible death-roll of Hungarians, the German flag, which before the war was rarely seen in Hungary, is now prominently displayed, and on my last visit to Hungary I frequently noticed it framed by the red, white, and green of the Hungarian tricolor. The Hungarians firmly believe that Hindenburg will win the war for them.

They have taken themselves to be fine fighters, which is a surprise to the average German, who regards the Hungarian as a musical baritone, and who is certain to be very barbaric perhaps. But his treatment of the English in Budapest at about the time I left Germany had been admirable. The Hun was not a naturalized German. They are not numerous in Germany, and if a Prussian were in charge of the prisoner department in England, holding the great number of hostages you do, I venture to think that Buda-Pest would be clear four or five weeks, though not on your recent exchange basis of 600 Englishmen for 7,000 Germans. That basis will be entirely misunderstood in Germany, and there will be attempts to use it as a precedent.

War Profits. One of the paradoxes of the situation, both in Austria and in Germany, is the coincidence of the great gold hunt, which is clearing up the trinkets of the humbled, with the roaring trade in jewelry in Berlin and Vienna. As an instance, I can vouch for the veracity of the following story:—A Berlin woman went to Worners, the well-known jewellers in the Unter den Linden, and asked to be shown some new clear-cut diamonds. Her examination selected one that cost 40,000 marks (£2,000). The manager, who knew the purchaser as a regular customer for small articles of jewelry, ventured to express his surprise, remarking, "I well remember, madam, that you have been coming here for many years, and that you have never bought anything exceeding in value 100 marks. Naturally I am somewhat surprised at the purchase of this necklace." "Oh, it is very simple," she replied. "My husband is in the leather business, and our war profits have made us rich beyond our fondest hopes."

Throughout Austria and Germany in every village and townlet are appearing notices to bring in gold. The following notice is to be met with in all parts of Germany:—

Let Every One Worthy of the Name of German Do His Duty Now. Our enemies, after realizing that they cannot defeat us on the field of battle, are striving to defeat us economically. But here they will also fail.

Out With Your Gold. Out with your gold! What is the value of a trinket to the life of the dear one that gave it? By giving now you may save the life of a husband, brother or son.

Bring your gold to the place designated below. If the value of the gold you bring exceeds five marks, you will receive an iron memento of "Die grosse Zeit."

Iron chains will be given for gold chains. Wedding rings of those still living will not be accepted.

From every rural pulpit, Lutheran and the rest of them, is preached the wickedness of retaining gold which might purchase food for the men in the trenches.

The precedent of the historic great ladies of Prussia who exchanged their golden wedding rings for rings of iron is drummed into the smaller folk continuously. The example is being followed by the exchange of gold trinkets for trinkets made of iron, with the addition of the price paid at the central collecting station—paid, of course, in paper, which is at a 80 per cent. discount in Germany and 47 per cent. discount in Austria. Every bringer of a trinket worth more than 6s. receives a small iron token of "die grosse Zeit," (the great epoch).

The gold hunt has revealed unexpected possessions in the hands of the German and Austrian lower classes. To me it was pathetic to see an old woman tremblingly handing over treasures that reached extremes in Austria unknown even in Germany, and if you can prevent these and other commodities from sneaking into the countries of your enemies, you are shortening the war and lessening your casualty lists. The Germanic powers pretend that they do not particularly need copper; that they have sufficient in store for three years. If this is so I would ask them why they have stripped the copper roof of the beautiful Rathaus in Bremen. On the other hand there are tons of copper in the telephone wires in Germany and Austria, and in the power houses. These have not yet been touched as far as I am aware.

The effect of all these hunts and requisitions, especially upon Austria, has been bad. The causes of Austrian dissatisfaction with Germany do not seem to be understood in England. They are not voiced because the Austrian Reichsrath has been silent since the beginning of the war. It has been kept closed because the government, the ruling classes, and especially the Emperor Francis Joseph, dare not trust a meeting of the Reichsrath in that polyglot empire. The Austrians, who are placing entire reliance upon Prussian leadership, feel that they have been used as a catapult to pull the chestnuts out of the fire. This is how an Austrian officer put it to me quite lately:—

"We smashed Serbia for the Germans, and all we got in return was a few pigs. We smashed Montenegro. We have captured northern Albania. We have borne the brunt of a great part of the Russian attacks. We have lost thousands of our best troops against the Italians, and it is about time we came to terms with Russia, and if necessary with Italy."

A Hungarian deputy told me that the Austrians would be only too glad to give Italy the Trentino if they could retain Trieste, but Austria is in a mood to give up anything, and that is part of the reason of the Hindenburg interview.

Commercially the Austrians are bolstered up with the idea that they will share part of the great profit to be derived by the opening up of the East; by the annexation of Turkey and the development of the Baghdad Railway and by the realization of their intentions at Salonika. Austrian eyes have always been turned toward Salonika. Germans, however, pretend to be well satisfied with the Salonika position. They speak of it as their "biggest international camp, with no expense of feeding the prisoners, of course, being the British, French, Italian and other troops there. They say it is unhealthy as the Dardanelles, and they predict that it will eventually provide another Dardanelles catastrophe.

So strong is the feeling of many Austrians against Germany that the frontier, which formerly was practically non-existent so far as the passage by travelers was concerned, is now quite as close to that between Germany and Holland or Germany and Switzerland, the ostensible reason given by the government being a check on spies passing, the real reason being to prevent the passage of Austrian malcontents into Germany, and vice versa.

The constant attacks on the censorship, both in Berlin and Vienna, really refer, not to the non-publication of war news, which is fairly freely given, but to the non-publication of matter likely to let the world know of internal discontent, and of the great bluff that Germany is putting up in regard to her material condition, a condition, as I have remarked before, slowly, very slowly, but certainly changing for the worse.

"Hold Out" Talk. When Hindenburg is made to talk of 80 years' war he knows quite well that what the Central Powers wish is a 30 weeks' war.

The cry, "Hold out, and we shall win," hardly agrees with the words Dr. Goldmann wrote for Hindenburg. The Austrian grand dukes, and their innumerable connections, find no difficulty in urging the rank and file of the various Austrian peoples to hang on, and most of this "hold-out" talk comes from the military producers, who desire the war to last as long as possible, and the National Liberals, who think that the war is won.

The German army, though not the Austrians, has made active protest against the use of the words "hold out" as likely to convey to neutrals and the Allies the impression that they have not won the war.

Significant of the situation in Austria are the facts that practically all the Austrian and Hungarian leaders of public opinion are now carefully guarded, and that the never idle octogenarian Emperor Francis Joseph, who is frequently still and who has had a long and ordinary personal professional life of more than a year past.

Big Brother Prussia holds the Austrians in extreme contempt, which may be gathered from the fact that German officers frequently fail to return the salutes of Austrian officers, and I can hardly say anything stronger than that. Germany affects to regard Austria as a millstone round her neck. In reality, Austria has been the buffer state that has received most of the blows.

Austria is utterly weary of the war.

Good Shoes Need Protection From Wet, Like Good Clothes!

High Price of Shoes, and Low Price of Rubbers and Overshoes, Spreading This Commonsense View

Many a man, and woman, too, who would never think of letting a good suit get damp, will thoughtlessly splash through slush and water with an expensive pair of shoes, caring little so long as the feet do not get too wet.

This treatment takes it out of shoes just as much as it would out of clothes, for none but the heaviest waterproofed leather, unsuitable for general wear, can stand repeated wetting and give more than half the service it should. In these days, with shoes costing two to five dollars a pair more than before the war, no one who is at all in sympathy with the Empire-wide movement for thrift will deliberately continue such waste.

Fortunately, indeed, rubber has not followed the upward trend of almost every other necessity of life, but in the raw state is even cheaper than before the war. So, though labor, fabrics and chemicals cost more, and a war tax is paid on crude rubber as well as on the other materials, rubbers and overshoes, except in a few cases, have not advanced in price.

Thus a pair of rubbers, costing perhaps one-fifth as much as your shoes, will practically double their service and save you repair bills. At the same time they will be protecting you from colds by keeping your feet really dry and comfortable in any weather.

BAD COMPLEXION Its Cause Impure Impoverished Blood

Its Cause. Impure, Impoverished Blood. To have a soft, smooth skin free from eruptions and unsightly blemishes, the blood must be maintained in a healthy condition.

Preparations, lotions and other toilet preparations may for a short time cover up the multitude of wrongs in the blood, but they cannot remove these disgusting pimples that are the bane of so many young ladies' lives.

Why not use Ferrero's? It is an unfailing cure for the worst kind of skin disease, the most effective of all blood purifiers, and cures bad complexion by removing its cause.

Ferrero's invigorates and purifies enfeebled blood. Makes it strong, rich and red. Ferrero's puts power into the blood to nourish the body and all its organs. It is a regulator of acknowledged merit and is quite unrivaled as a remedy for female disorders.

Mrs. Shanly, of Pittsburg, Ont., says: "For five years my face was disfigured by raw, bleeding eruptions that resisted all treatment."

"Three Kingston doctors did their best for me and when they acknowledged themselves beaten, I tried Ferrero's. The first box helped me quite a little and by the time I had used six boxes I was cured. Ferrero's is a fine remedy for women's disorders of all kinds and I can highly recommend it." (Signed) Mary Shanly.

Growing girls, women, men, in fact everybody can derive untold benefit from Ferrero's. It is a tonic for the blood, brain and nerves, and worth its price ten times over to everyone who uses it.

Three weeks' treatment contained in a box of sixty-three chocolate coated tablets, costs 50c. or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by all druggists.

Germany To Be A Republic?

One of Three Ways to Permanent Peace

Views of U. S. Statesman

Says Vindication of Justice is More Important Than Peace—Would be Inconclusive Without This

New York, Nov. 29.—James A. Beck, formerly assistant attorney-general of the United States, declared that the birth of a German republic was one of the only three possible means through which permanent peace could be established. "It could be one of the noblest republics of the world," he said, "and as such it would be welcomed, despite the present bitterness, into the full fellowship of the free nations."

More Deeds, Less Words

As to Mr. Schiff's acceptance of the opinion that the United States is trustee of the interests of humanity, Mr. Beck observed: "We have clothed our moral neutrality with unctuously self-complacent platitudes, as though we were the only nation in the world that had any lofty conception of the rights of humanity and that we were in a peculiar sense its trustee and guardian, England, France and Russia felt—and what fair-minded man blames them?—that if we did a little more in deeds and less in words to vindicate our position as the peculiar champion of the rights of humanity, it would be a wider acceptance than is unfortunately the case at the present hour."

Mr. Beck criticizes the American government for not taking further steps to protest against various acts of the Central Powers, and asserts that England, France and Russia would regard any attempt at American interference as a hostile act. The only prospect of a durable peace, "independent of the growing military power of the Allies," he thinks lies either in "the co-operation of the American republic by deeds and not by words only to maintain the majesty of international law," or in the establishment of a republic in Germany.

Mr. Beck's statement follows in part: "In making any reply to Mr. Schiff I must first, to avoid any misinterpretation, express the great respect I have for him, any opinion he expresses upon public matters. He is a man of large vision, and his sincerity and humanitarianism are abundantly verified by his long and conspicuously honorable career as a banker and philanthropist. "If I and many others are not in accord with him in this vital matter, it should be remembered that in a period of passionate strife, through which the world is now passing and which is not restricted to the belligerent nations, men of equal sincerity and a common desire for truth may reasonably differ. "Mr. Schiff quotes some London daily as recognizing America as 'the trustee of

Germany To Be A Republic?

Individuals Do Much.

"If America in the last two years has acted as such 'trustee for the interests of humanity,' then I should like Mr. Schiff, or any one who thinks with him to point out in what respect individuals have done much, but what has our government done? It is true that our government did, at first with some vigor, and subsequently with an ever-increasing diminution, attempt to vindicate by idle words the rights of non-combatants upon the high seas, but even this convention, which gradually became, through its insincere ineffectiveness, a subject of ridicule throughout all the world, gradually diminished into a feeble suggestion that at least the lives of American citizens should be spared, and even that small remnant of our moral protest was altogether extinguished when, with the tacit approval of our government, German submarines recently compelled American women and children, on fifteen days' notice, to embark on the high seas sixty miles from our mainland and made our own warships 'accessories after the fact.' "As to all the other outrages upon humanity committed in the last two years, America, through the supine weakness of its government, has been completely silent as a political entity, and if we are to regard ourselves as the trustee for humanity, let us beware that the court of last resort of posterity may not hereafter regard us in this crisis as a faithless trustee.

Justice More Important.

"The trouble with this well-meant spirit of pacifism which has in the past enfeebled and is still weakening the moral fibre of the American people, is that it fails to take into account the great moral truth that the maintenance of justice is of infinitely more importance than the maintenance of peace, and this world will not be worth living in if through the meddlesome interference of the United States or any other cause this war shall end in an inconclusive peace, which will leave the sacred cause of justice without vindication and the principles of humanity at the mercy of that school of political philosophy which asserts the supremacy of might over right. "If there be any prospect of a just and durable peace independent of the growing military power of the Allies, it can only lie in two possibilities, one that the United States or any other cause this war shall end in an inconclusive peace, which will leave the sacred cause of justice without vindication and the principles of humanity at the mercy of that school of political philosophy which asserts the supremacy of might over right."

ROYDEN FOLEY, ST. JOHN, IS EXPERT AVIATOR

Royden Foley, a St. John boy, is making a name for himself in the states as an expert aviator and mechanic. He is a son of Mrs. James W. Foley of Westport, and is now residing at 100 Westport road, East St. John. A story which recently appeared in a Philadelphia paper, told of William C. Ocker, sergeant in the United States army, ascending in his $11,000 Marconi biplane and performing a series of beautiful evolutions 8,500 feet in the air. Sergeant Ocker said it was almost a perfect day for flying and his mechanic and testing expert, Royden Foley, heartily agreed. "Foley, a bright-eyed young man with cheery smile, was doing his last bit of work for America for a long time. He is a licensed aviator—one of the best at the great station in Minas—and an expert in aeroplanes, construction and testing. He has applied for enlistment in the British aviation service and the British government has accepted him." Royden Foley is a mechanical engineer, having graduated from the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn. He received his training as an aviator at Minas and on the Pacific coast.

"Ian Hay" Heard in Montreal

Famous War Writer Lectures Before Canadian Club

War Now in Final Phase

Amateur British Troops More Than Equal to Germans, and at Last Better Equipped

There was so large a crowd at the Canadian Club yesterday at a special luncheon to hear Capt. Ian Hay Beth, author of "The First 100,000," that when the usual rush came some of the crockery was broken and tables were displaced by the anxious guests. It was the largest gathering of the season, upwards of six hundred members being present, the main dining room being filled while overflow tables had to be arranged at the lobby. The address proved worthy of the large audience, and Capt. Beth was repeatedly applauded during his friendly chat with the gathering as to his experiences at the front, which was freely garnished with anecdotes that told more than any formal address could attempt of the attitude of the men at the front. Capt. Beth was particularly impressive in his reference to the gradual improvement in the supply of munitions, until today, he declared, the British were not merely men for man superior to the enemy, but backed by a marked superiority of artillery and munitions. His description of the day at Ypres when the British first impressed the Germans with this fact was a dramatic episode in a speech full of material for thought.

This period lasted while the thousands of men and women at home worked day and night making munitions, until the signal came, "Ready, full speed ahead." "His qualification for this task, he modestly remarked, was that for eleven months at the front he had succeeded in loading the shells, and gained some sort of connected idea of the progress of the war. "The third phase came at what was known as the Christmas attack on Ypres salient. With dramatic intensity Capt. Beth described the tremendous German bombardment which preceded the expected attack—an attack which, before had been insufficiently answered by British artillery. Then came the sudden cessation of fire, the loosening of poison gas, and preparation for infantry attack, while the British donned gas helmets and grimly prepared to hold out. "Suddenly our artillery spoke out," said Capt. Beth. "We had 600 guns back there, of which 200 were heavy. Within three minutes they had each fired fifty rounds rapid, so that within those three minutes no less than 80,000 shells burst on and around the enemy parapets. (Cheers.) "The result was that great Christmas attack was never delivered. Very few of the enemy got over the parapets at all, and those who did were taken care of by our machine guns. That was when the Germans at last learned that the balance of the supply of shells and munitions had turned to the side of law and order." (Applause.)

The real war, he said, began on July 1st, 1916, when, after two days' preparation the Allies were ready, and then began that tremendous push which was still going on. It was then that the iron armies of Germany, trained for forty years, found that these amateur British soldiers, raised hastily and trained quickly, were given equal chances, more than their equals, and since then we had taken more than 84,000 wounded German prisoners, besides immense supplies of war. No more gallant lesson could be taught those Germans, who regarded war as a sacred and serious business, than to be beaten by British, who regarded it as the greatest of all sports, and went into battle singing songs and kicking footballs ahead of them.

"Recently I have heard many rumors of a near approach of peace," concluded Capt. Beth. "These rumors were circulated in the United States. It is easy to understand why they were circulated by a people who have just begun to learn that it is possible for a nation which waltzes down the sword to perish by the sword. Terrible as war is, and terrible above all others as this war is, I think you will agree with me when I say there is only one way to end this war, and that is to finish it and fix it such a way that it can never happen again." (Loud cheers.)

PASSING OF OLD BOWERY

(New York Times.)

How the old-time Bowery of the saloons and dives has gone, to be replaced by a new Bowery, cleaner, but still poor and in need of help, is told in the annual report of the Bowers Mission, made public yesterday.

End of the Month Bargains Brought Us Big Business Today, and So They Should! Plans had been made in providing large quantities of wanted and seasonable merchandise at attractive prices in anticipation of exceeding all former month-end records, and today's business has justified our efforts. It will help you and help us if you start early tomorrow. But, whether you find it convenient to come in the morning or not, be sure to come before closing time, for never has there been a time when the economy of these month-end savings has meant so much. Come as early as possible, stay as long as you can.

thing that staggers most of us today is not its vice but its poverty. "Here the Bowers Mission is making good. Its work is so organized that it meets the needs of the men who have simply got to the end of things. It's often a 'last chance' when they come to the mission. And the mission doesn't fall them." "The report says of the mission's famous bread line: "Every night in winter, from Thanksgiving to Easter, 1,000 men, shelterless and famishing are taken into the brightly lighted and warm breakfast room and receive a breakfast of hot, stimulating coffee and a substantial roll. The bread line men are there through no fault of their own. They are unfortunate rather than shaming. The report recited that the mission is dependent upon voluntary contributions, and in its appeal for support says that $1 will provide shelter for a homeless man for a week, or will feed twenty; that $2 will help give food and lodging for a week to a man while work is being found for him; that $3 will help clothe the man after work has been found, and that $25 will provide meals for 1,000 destitute men in the bread line. In the year ended June 30, 1916, according to the report, there were held in the mission 1,969 meetings, attended by 150,284 persons. Lodging was supplied to 25,923 persons, and meals to 176,714. Employment was found for 6,045 men.

HOUSEWIVES TO PUT BAN ON COSTLY EGG

New York Women Backed by Officials and Dealers.

Plan Embargo Till Prices Drop—Butter on Blacklist Then—First of Series of "Fasts" Each to Last Two Weeks at Least

(New York Times, Monday.) A household embargo on eggs, the authors of the movement expect, will be inaugurated in New York City tomorrow.

The National Housewives' League and other consumers' organizations, also of Commissioners of Foods and Markets Dillon, representing the state, and Commissioner of Weights and Measures Hartigan, representing the city.

This is said to be the first food boycott which has had the support of dealers. The suggestion for the embargo, as planned by Commissioner Hartigan, came in this case from a representative of one of the largest grocery firms in this city.

The National Housewives' League, which forced down the price of butter and meat, two years ago by a boycott, will be joined in the present movement by the Consumers' League, the National Woman's Movement to Reduce the Cost of Living, and other organizations of consumers.

Other Blacklists to Follow. The plan, which is a development of that worked out by the Housewives' League and State Commissioner Dillon, calls for placing eggs on the housewives' blacklist for two weeks, followed by two weeks' blacklisting of butter, and similar treatment for two weeks each in potatoes, poultry and other food products.

News of similar blacklisting movements in other cities promises that this winter will test the power of the housewife in all parts of the country to combat the food speculator by co-operative action.

After the suggestion had come from one of the largest retail grocery firms in this city that the public and the wholesale and retail grocery trade should combine for a battle with speculators, Commissioner of Weights and Measures, Joseph Hartigan, called to his office the heads of the twelve largest firms in the retail grocery business in this city and held a general discussion of the cause of the rise in the price of eggs and other products.

The grocers contended that they were as hard hit as the general public by the rising prices, and that, in spite of increased gross monthly incomes, their profits had fallen off rapidly. One of the biggest grocers in the city said his income had shrunk 25 per cent. in the last few months.

Some grocers were quick to endorse the idea of successive embargoes on eggs, butter, and other products. They said they were weary of complaints from customers, who held the retail grocer personally responsible for every jump in prices, and that they would be glad to have their trade in eggs cut all to pieces

TALK OF COALITION GROWS; SIR WILFRID STANDS OPPOSED

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—Talk of a coalition government for the duration of the war has been in the air for some time in various parts of the dominion and, it is understood, has, of late, been urged upon Sir Robert Borden by Conservatives, who see in the proposal a possible chance of securing a way out of the government's difficulties without recourse to the authorization of an election while, at the same time, they think it might secure greater unity of war effort and more effective national leadership.

There are said to be several of the ministers ready to accept seats in a coalition government, thus continuing themselves in office at the expense of others of their colleagues whom they are quite ready to sacrifice. It is even rumored that they were prepared to see Sir Robert Borden step out and Sir Wilfrid Laurier assume the premiership as long as they themselves were permitted to stay in.

On the other hand, it is stated on authority that Sir Robert is receiving also strong advice from another section of his supporters to hang on to power for the Conservative party and pressing system of the war has been, from the first, that there should be only one party in regard to united and wholehearted effort towards its successful prosecution.

With the exception of Henri Bourassa and his diminishing group of Nationalists, he believes there is no division of opinion in Canada in regard to Canada's participation in the war, if need be, to the last man and the last dollar.

Nervous Headache

Pain is a blessing in disguise. It is Nature's danger signal to warn you that there is something wrong in the system.

While headache may result from a variety of causes, it most frequently denotes a starved condition of the nerves.

The brain is the headquarters or "central" of the nervous system. Here nerve force is consumed at an enormous rate. If there is any lack of rich, red blood from which to form new nervous energy the brain is first to feel it and the head aches.

Headaches may be stopped by powerful drugs, but that is like breaking the semaphore which warns the engineer of danger.

The only wise way is to increase the amount of rich, red blood in the human body by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and thereby feed the starved nerves back to health and vigor.

Not only will the headaches disappear, but you will sleep well, feel well and gradually regain strength and confidence. The Nerve Food will sharpen the appetite, improve digestion and build up the whole system.

In this way the headache will prove a blessing. It has warned you of approaching nervous collapse while yet there is a foundation on which to build good health.

MONTREAL TO PROTEST AGAINST INCREASE

Montreal, Nov. 28.—Milk dealers here announce that commencing December 1, the price of milk in pails will be six cents. The price per quart will remain at ten cents as heretofore.

Scarcity of milk is given by dealers as the cause for the increase, but most people find it difficult to figure out why this scarcity should affect the smaller measure and not the larger.

The general opinion is that the increase is not justified.

STOCK MARKET PLOT IN LYRIC FEATURE

Richard Bennett, Famous Broadway Star in "Philip Weston-Waster"—Comedy Dramatic Sketch

A man who could never understand or appreciate the value of the dollar mark, who never entertained for a single moment an idea of just how far 100 cents would go, but who, when an opportune time arrives corners the stock market and places falling investments on a par with the best in the financial world and outwits his brother, who was considering one of the powers on Wall street, makes known the fact that sleeping dogs usually keep one eye open. Such a character is Philip Weston, known to the society-world as a waster.

He forms a plot of an intensely interesting comedy dramatic feature, released under the banner of Mutual masterpieces entitled "Philip Weston-Waster." Mr. Richard Bennett in the title role presents a character portrayal which is indeed clever. The blue, optimistic author whose one ambition in the world is to write poetry is very well conceived by this sterling actor of international fame. For many years Mr. Bennett wore the laurels of success which were given him by the over-critical audiences of Broadway. The vein of comedy running through the production enhances its value as a feature, while the dramatic scenes are well produced.

The picture was a pleasing get-away from the usual stereotyped story of the eternal triangle or the love question and mad as strong appeal to those who saw it.

The vaudeville programme was supported by Dunn & Marlowe who were seen in a pleasing Irish comedy drama sketch entitled "The Foundling," Miss Marlowe, in a light sonnet role reminded one of a Pickford, A. Minter or a Clark. Her acting was never overdone and was indeed a source of great delight. Mr. Dunn, as the old Irish lad, was also good. A commendable feature of the act is the absence of any of the chin whiskered ideas which vaudevillians are wont to display in offering a study in Irish character to the public. Clayton & Russell in a comedy musical act are billers for the last three plays of the week.

"SHIELDING SHADOW" WIERD AND STARTLING

Ninth Installment of Mystery Serial at the Unique—Charlie Chaplin Also

Disclosures of a startling and somewhat wierd nature predominate in the 9th episode of the wonder serial "The Shielding Shadow" which will be shown for the last time at the Unique tonight. It is called "The Incurable Captive" and deals with the mysterious manner in which Ravenger appears and disappears.

A channel for new developments in the continued story is opened by the sudden reappearance of Jerry Carson. Many are of the opinion that Carson and Ravenger are one and the same person, but there is much room for doubt in this connection, as the 9th episode of the serial shows. There is rather a spectacular, thrilling scene presented when Leontine endeavors to make her escape through a secret water passage and is blocked by Bianca and the band of conspirators. Two of three fist battles are shown which add materially to the success of the Unique tonight.

As an additional feature of the programme this evening the Essanay comedy farce "Work," featuring the star of all comedians, Charlie, will be shown.

K. C.'S HONOR MEMBERS HOME FROM THE WAR

Entertain Them at Banquet—Lieut. Col. McAvity and Sir Thomas Gratian Esmond Among the Speakers

An enthusiastic welcome home was given by St. John Council, 997, Knights of Columbus in Bond's last evening to Major Cuthbert J. Morgan, Capt. George Keeffe and Capt. E. J. Mooney, all members of the council, who, having well played a man's part in the war, are back to Canada to recuperate after terms in hospital because of wounds.

Grand Knight Broderick, when honours had been paid to His Majesty the King, read letters of respect from His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc, and Lt. Col. D'Algie of the 165th and announced that one of the guests of honor, Major Morgan, was unable to be present, having left for Pacific coast on a recruiting mission for the Killites.

The Speeches John Keeffe proposed the City of St. John and His Worship Mayor Hayes responded in an address that was much enjoyed. He paid a tribute to the men of St. John and the maritime provinces who were filling positions of importance in other places, among them many of the Catholic faith. He expressed the opinion that the war, in which all were doing so good a part would be found to have been a great factor in uniting all our people as had never before.

De Broderick proposed Our Guests in an able speech. He welcomed Messrs. Keeffe, Mooney and Morgan, spoke of others of the council still overseas doing their share and feelingly referred to some of the members who had gone never to return.

Captain Keeffe, Capt. Mooney and Major Legere responded in interesting speeches in which reminiscences of the battlefield were recalled. Capt. Mooney and Major Legere, at request, told of a meeting each had experienced with His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

As Lt. Col. McAvity arose to respond he was given a thunderous reception. For fifteen minutes he held everyone keenly interested, as he recounted incidents of the participation of the 26th in the war. He had words of high praise for Major Morgan, Captain Keeffe, Captain Mooney and Major Legere, the latter formerly of the 26th. Major Morgan's commanding officer had told him that the young officer had done splendid work and had been recommended for the Military Cross. The custom is for three names to be submitted and the decision is made by those higher up. In this case one of the others was given the distinction.

Lt. Col. McAvity spoke of conditions at the front, his trenches, the 26th had a strenuous time from September, 1915, until last April. His address gave all a new insight into the soldier's life and he was followed with deep interest.

R. O'Brien in a graceful address proposed the health of another distinguished guest, Sir Thomas Gratian Esmond.

Sir Thomas was most heartily greeted by the council. He spoke of the war and as a born in France, of the large part played by that nation and people in the combat. He complimented Canadians for what they had done. As to peace he said in a glowing peroration, that could never be until the sacrifice of the flower of our youth was proven not to have been in vain.

During the evening there were excellent solos by M. T. Morris, accompanied by Arthur Godson, and renditions given in mastery style by S. C. Hurley. At eleven o'clock the happy proceedings closed with the singing of the national anthem.

SUFFERED WITH BACK FOR TEN YEARS

Women are the greatest sufferers from weak, lame and aching backs owing to the continual stooping, bending and lifting so necessary to perform their household duties.

The cause of the backache comes from some derangement of the kidneys; for were there not something wrong with the kidneys the back would be strong and well, and without a pain or an ache Doan's Kidney Pills will take out all the stiches, twinges and twinges, limber up the stiff back, and give perfect relief and comfort to all poor, weak backed, suffering women.

Mrs. Chas. Thibeau, Church Point, N.S., writes: "For ten years I suffered with my back, and was so weak I could not do my washing or any hard work just a little around the house. One day a friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and they helped me so much that after I had taken two boxes I could do my washing and since then I have been in perfect health."

Doan's Pills are the original kidney pills. Do not accept any substitutes put up under similar names. See that you get the oblong grey box, the trademark a "Maple Leaf."

The competition will be along similar lines to those followed when automobiles were awarded to the most valuable players in the National and American Leagues a few years ago.

According to cable advices received today from England, Trooper George Box, who played last season with Victoria, was one of the most promising young players in the Coast Hockey League last year.

Canadians to Play in Detroit Detroit, Nov. 27.—Applications for games with Detroit hockey clubs for 1916 are coming in rapidly from Canadian cities. Among the teams which will be seen here this season are: Riverside, of Toronto, senior champions of the O.H.A., who will be given dates on January 1 and 2; the Toronto R. A.A., Aurs Lees, of Toronto, who won the junior O.H.A. championship in 1915-16, and split even in a pair of ice contests in Detroit, also want to come here, as well as the Aberdeens of Ottawa, McGill University, of Montreal, Preston and Kingston.

Big Offer for Dillon It is probable there will be a big battle in New Orleans in January to definitely the status of Jack Dillon of Indianapolis with one or two of his nearest rivals.

Dominick Tortorich, leading promoter of the Southern circuit, has wired to Chicago to his representative to get into immediate touch with Dillon and submit him two propositions.

One is for a 20-round battle in New Orleans in January, the bout to be a referee's decision, and Mike Gibbons to be Dillon's opponent.

The second calls for a meeting of 20 rounds, also to a decision, between Dillon and Battling Levinsky.

On the Wrong Foot. The Switchboard, which describes itself as "the leading illustrated magazine of the B. E. F.," contains plenty of good stories. One of the best reads:—"We came out of the trenches one bitterly cold night, and were billeted in a farm, where we were packed like sardines in a tin. Though numbed with cold we were soon asleep. I was awakened in the night by one of our chaps trying to put his boots on. After he had been trying for a minute or two I heard the fellow next to him say—"What the — are you doing?" "Putting my boots on," was the reply. "Well, that's my foot, you fool!"

MRS FANNIE R. ADAMS

The death of Miss Fannie R. Adams occurred this morning at her residence, 124 Queen street, West St. John. She was a native of Oxford, England, and is survived by two nieces, Miss S. Adams and Miss E. R. Adams, of Salem, Mass. The funeral, private, will be on Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

BOY MISSING

Alva Parks, an eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Parks of 40 Brook street, has been missing from home since last Friday. He was last seen in a theatre on last Saturday afternoon. If any fear keeps him from home he is asked, if this notice comes to his attention, to return home at once. He will be gladly welcomed.

REQUIEM FOR SOLDIERS

A solemn requiem high mass was celebrated in the Cathedral this morning for the Catholic soldiers of this city who died either here or at the front. Rev. William M. Duke was celebrant, with Rev. Miles P. Howland as deacon and Rev. H. Coughlin as sub-deacon. His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc gave final absolution.

T. OSCAR CLARKE

The death of T. Oscar Clarke of this city, occurred on Tuesday evening at the Home for Incurables. He was a son of the late Thomas Clarke of this city. Mr. Clarke at one time conducted a store in King street. He was forty-two years old and is survived by one brother, A. E. of this city, and one sister, Mrs. A. Moffat, of England. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

CONGREGATIONAL REUNION

The annual congregational reunion of Queen Square Methodist church was held last evening and was attended by many. Rev. Hammond Johnston, pastor of the church, presided. Addresses were given by Rev. Thomas Hicks and Rev. Dr. Steel, after which a pleasing musical programme was carried out. Solos were given by Mrs. Stenhouse and Mrs. Gerry, and Mrs. Gerow and Mr. Belding were heard in a pleasing duet. Refreshments were served.

LIEUT. DARYL PETERS IS ON WAY HOME

He Won Honor and Promotion— Comes to the Kilites—Other News of the 236th

Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 28.—Captain T. H. Rand McNally of this city who was invalided home after a strenuous campaign with the 1st Ontario Battalion is now an officer of the 236th Kilites, second in command of A Company, the position which Lieut. Erma J. Welch who was killed in action the day he was to have left the trenches to come to the Kilites, was to have occupied. Captain McNally is now in Ontario taking charge of the publicity branch of the Kilites' recruiting campaign in that province. He was in newspaper work in New York when the war broke out. Lieut. Frank Meahan, the latest officer for the Kilites to return from the front is now at his home in Bathurst and will probably remain there for some time on recruiting work.

HOTEL MAN RELEASED

Habeas Corpus Proceedings in Fredericton Successful

Fredericton, Nov. 29.—Judge Wilson delivered judgment today in habeas corpus proceedings in the case of the proprietor of the Waverley Hotel, now serving a jail sentence for Scott act violation. His honor ordered the discharge of the prisoner.

The application was made on the ground that the order taken at the hearing was not read over and signed by several witnesses.

At the annual meeting of the Fredericton Curling Club last evening the following were elected: President, W. S. Thomas; first vice president, N. C. Dougherty; second vice president, W. L. Limerick; secretary, H. H. Hagerman; treasurer, L. C. MacNutt; chaplain, Rev. D. W. Roberts. Ten members were admitted and two resigned. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Walker left this morning for Halifax en route to the West Indies where they will spend the winter.

E. M. Trower of Ottawa, secretary of the Dominion Retail Merchants' Association, and Robert Field of St. John, secretary of the New Brunswick association, addressed the local retail merchants association last evening. The recent order-in-council in regard to the cost of commodities was denounced by Trower as class legislation.

RAMBLERS AND SWEEPS TIE

The standing of the teams in the City Bowling League has been compiled and shows the Ramblers and Sweeps tied for leading honors, each having won twenty-two points and lost two. The standing follows:

Team	Won	Lost	P.C.
Ramblers	22	2	818
Sweeps	22	2	818
Nationals	18	10	648
Beavers	17	11	607
Specials	12	12	500
Wanderers	11	18	459
Whips	8	16	383
Amateurs	8	28	342
Elks	1	28	342

A. W. Covey holds the record for the highest single string, 129; T. Cosgrove has the highest three strings, with 348; the Nationals have the record for the highest pin fall, with 1,484, and the Sweeps the highest single string with 826.

TWO FINES FOR FORESTALLING

S. Donovan and W. H. Bell Pay $20 Each — Court Discusses High Cost of Living

In the police court this morning S. Donovan of West St. John, and Walter H. Bell, proprietor of the St. John Creamery, King street, were convicted of forestalling. Each was fined twenty dollars. Both paid.

Upon the complaint of Deputy City Market Clerk Stephenson, they were charged with purchasing with the intent to sell provisions in the city market that had not been exposed for sale for three hours or more. He testified that on Nov. 28, Donovan purchased chickens and turkeys from Frederick Reid, and later sold them to the British Admiralty. The articles in question, he said, had not been on sale for half an hour when purchased by Donovan.

The defendant asserted that he was not aware of the three-hour provision, and had bought the poultry under pressure of time, as the Admiralty had named the time for the delivery of the articles. The magistrate was inclined to be lenient with a first offender, but said the by-laws did not allow for any variation of the fine. "Forestalling," he said, "is something that must be stopped. I know of two cases where men go into the market and buy goods that have just been brought in, and then take them to stores in other sections of the city and sell for five and ten cents more a pound. People talk of the high cost of living. I know of no other way to break it up."

W. H. Bell, charged with the same offence, but for buying quantities of eggs, pleaded guilty, and the fine was imposed. H. Blackhouse, a coachman, was obliged to pay the usual fine for leaving his horses without a foot strap on Charlotte street.

LETTER FROM HOLLY TURNER, PRISONER OF WAR IN GERMANY

Mrs. Letitia Turner of 161 Rodney street has received a letter from her son, Private Holly Turner, of a New Brunswick battalion, who was taken prisoner at Courcelles. The letter is written from a German prison camp and reads as follows:

"I am a prisoner of war in Germany. Am in the best of health and have good living quarters and am well treated, for which I sure am thankful. So don't worry, I am sure God has been merciful. There are several Canadians in the camp, some have been here several months and all looking well. I am in a good place to live in and am enjoying the best of health."

GEORGE HOPE FINED $100 OR JAIL TERM OF THREE MONTHS

A case that furnished considerable amusement for the spectators in the police court today was that of George Hope, colored, of Union Alley, charged with selling liquor without a license. He pleaded not guilty. Fred Lopez, colored, a neighbor, testified that he had in several instances bought liquor from Hope, and had played cards in his house. Hope, according to the testimony of the police, said, when Hastings was giving instructions to Policeman McNamara, "Do you have to take orders from the likes of that?" Daley denied the charge, declaring he said to the patrolman: "Here comes the man who will dictate the law to you." The magistrate impressed the defendant with the majesty of the law as represented by its officers and permitted him to go. James Sullivan, arrested in Mill street by Detectives Barrett and Briggs, charged with drunkenness and suspected of stealing a pair of tailor's shears from M. Mitchell, Brussels street, was found not guilty. Seven offenders for drunkenness were sentenced.

THE FIELD AMBULANCE TRAIN

The Field Ambulance Train today took over the hospital wagon which heretofore has been looked after and driven by the Army Service Corps. The horses have been stabled in Kelley's barn in Lester street.

Now that the members of the Field Ambulance Depot have the military hospital under their charge and also the ambulance wagons, it will keep the members busy and at the same time give practical training which will be of benefit to them when they arrive in France.

Whether or not the Field Ambulance will cross England as a unit is not known at present in military circles but a military official, in speaking of the unit, said that he was of the opinion that the Ambulance Train would likely be used as a recruiting depot from which drafts will be sent as needed. It was expected that the Fifth Canadian Brigade would be authorized and that this ambulance train would then be attached to that brigade.

BOTH FINED

Two prisoners were before Stipendiary Magistrate Allingham this morning on drunkenness charge. Each was fined $4.
