PREFACE.

In issuing this first edition of our Trade Directory and Gazetteer the publisher takes pleasure in placing in the hands of Canadian business men a complete classified list of the business and professional people in over three thousand cities, towns and villages in the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland. It is not merely a list of the leading firms or principal towns, but a complete Directory of all the people engaged in business in these places. Each town and village is complete in itself, the business houses under classified headings following immediately after the descriptive matter in each case. Thus when a town is looked up every line of trade engaged in it is before the inquirer, under their business headings.

The information in each place has been furnished by a resident thereof, thereby assuring completeness as can be supplied only by one having an interest in and being familiar with the community.

In the "Buyers' Guide" section will be found the advertisements of many of the largest and most reliable firms in the Dominion. The index to this section will be most convenient for buyers, for whom it is especially constructed, the goods themselves, and not merely the trades, being mentioned over the advertisers' names, and a reference given to the page where details may be found.

I take this opportunity to thank my many advertisers and subscribers for their generous encouragement and support, and trust that my endeavor to furnish a complete Directory in convenient form and without unnecessary repetitions will be appreciated.

THE PUBLISHER.

DOMINION OF CANADA.

The Dominion of Canada has an area of about 3,379,000 square miles, or, including its water surface, 3,519,000 square miles, is about 3,500 miles from east to west and 1,400 miles from north to south, and consists of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec (formerly Upper and Lower Canada), Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba, British Columbia, Prince Edward Island and the Northwest Territories. It, therefore, comprises the whole of the northern half of North America, with the exception of the United States Territory of Alaska on the west and Labrador, which is under the control of the Government of Newfoundland, on the east. It is bounded on the north by the Arctic Ocean, on the west by the Territory of Alaska and the Pacific Ocean, on the south by the United States and on the east by the Atlantic Ocean.

The origin of the word Canada is obscure, but the derivation now generally accepted is that from an Indian word "Kannatha," meaning a village or collection of huts, and it is supposed that Jacques Cartier, hearing this word used by the Indians with reference to their settlements, mistook its meaning and applied it to the whole country.

The principal physical features of Canada are the Rocky Mountains and the Laurentian Range, the plains of the Northwest Territories and the great inland lakes.

The great inland lakes, which are five in number, and are remarkable for their size, form a complete system of navigation from the head of Lake Superior to the Atlantic Ocean, a distance of 2,384 miles. Lake Superior is connected with Lake Huron by the Ste. Marie river and the Sault Ste. Marie canal. Lake Huron flows into Lake St. Clair by the St. Clair river, and Lake St. Clair into Lake Erie by the Detroit river. Lake Erie flows into Lake Ontario by the Niagara river, fourteen miles from the mouth of which are the renowned Niagara Falls, 160 feet in height. The two lakes are connected for the purposes of navigation by the Welland canal. The St. Lawrence river, flowing out of Lake Ontario into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, forms the outlet of this system. These lakes contain more than half the fresh water of the globe, and the following table gives their length, breadth, area and height above the sea:

Lakes.	Length. Miles.	Breadth. Miles.	Area. Sq. Miles.	Height Above Sea. Feet.
Superior	390	160	32,000	602¾
Huron, with Georgian bay	400	160	24,000	576¾
St. Clair	25	25	360	570¾
Erie	250	60	10,000	566¾
Ontario	190	52	6,700	240
Michigan	345	84	22,400	578¾

Lake Michigan is in the United States, but is connected with Lake Huron by the Strait of Mackinaw.

Originally the British possessions were divided into various provinces, with separate Governments, but in 1867 these divisions, though retaining a large portion of their autonomy, were consolidated into the "Dominion of Canada," and the whole has been placed, for general purposes of common interest, under one governmental administration. Besides the general administration, each province has power of self-government within its own limits.

The separate provinces thus joined are Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Northwest Territories and British Columbia.

Canada is now profiting by the advantages of consolidation and union. She has become a country for investment, and has taken a place among the capitalistic nations. Her wonderful boundary line extends from the Atlantic along the great St. Lawrence and great lakes, from thence by an air line to the Pacific and Vancouver's Island. Her climate, except in the extreme north, may be strictly characterized as "temperate," and, although variable in some localities from various causes, it is often mild and genial in unexpected places. The extreme dryness of the atmosphere makes both cold and heat less acutely felt than the readings of the thermometer would lead people to expect. In the Northwest Territories cattle graze at large all through the winter months, and on the Pacific slope west of the Rocky Mountains the climate is milder than in any other part of the Dominion, and considered by the inhabitants as unsurpassed in the world. Public progress is now satisfactory, whereas not many years back the country was proverbial for the slowness of its administration. The public expenditure indicates the growth of humanitarian and enlightened liberalism. Agriculture, justice, science, charity, progress, material and moral; railways and public works, sea and river navigation, with other customary charges of government, show that "The Dominion" means to keep abreast of the times.

Canada has shown her enterprise and energy in the matter of improved internal communications by her activity in promoting and carrying out her railway system, which already comprises 16,550 miles completed. Her crowning work of thrift and enterprise is found in the Canadian Pacific transcontinental, from Halifax, N. S., to Fraser's river, on the Pacific coast, at which latter port a line of steamers transport passengers to their destination in Australia, China or India.

Canada has done much in the way of internal water communications, with much more under consideration; though canals are of less account in these days of railroads than they once were, especially in winter, and where the waterways are liable to frosts during a portion of the year.

The visible steady development of Canada is somewhat overshadowed by the amazing progress of her mighty neighbor—the prodigy of the modern world—nevertheless, Canada has not been standing still in growth, both of population and wealth. In 1871 the population was returned at 3,635,024; in 1881 at 4,324,810; in 1891 at 4,833,025, and in 1897 at 5,185,990.

Export and import tables are a fair exponent, as far as they go, of the growth and progress of a country, especially of a new one. In 1897 exports were $137,950,253; imports were $119,218,609.

As an illustration of progress and enterprise in the people, it may be mentioned that there are no less than 9,191 post offices in the Dominion, with an aggregate revenue of $4,311,243, and a cost of $4,897,783, in 1897.

The constitution is modeled on the Governmental and Parliamentary system, which prevails in Great Britain, with the great exception that there is no privileged Upper House. The Governor represents the Crown; the Upper House is known as the Senate, and the Lower House is the House of Commons, the members of which are elected directly by the people, on the basis of population in the several constituencies. The suffrage is based on a low property or "dwelling" qualification; also a qualification by earnings or fixed income of $300 a year.

The Indians of Canada are in somewhat better care than those in the United States. It appears that there is a total of 99,364 persons. They are in various stages of civilization; many hold property and are of settled habits, so much so as to vote at elections—and to vote intelligently. Over 103,000 acres are cultivated by Indians with the usual agricultural appliances. On the whole, however, it is to be feared that the task of redemption is a long and not very hopeful one, especially taking into consideration the influence of low whites.

Canadian products may be broadly classified as agricultural, in which she has attained no mean position; and also mineral, in which, with her immense capabilities, she ought not to be second to any in the world. In wheat alone, after deducting an estimated home consumption of 23,000,000 bushels, Canada exported 13,141,338 bushels and 481,764 barrels of flour in 1897. Her exports of other farm produce bear a fair proportion to her breadstuffs. The annual agricultural produce of Canada may be valued at about $500,000,000. Add to these forest, fisheries and many miscellaneous products. The leading manufacturing industries, principally in Ontario and Quebec, are works for making all kinds of agricultural implements in iron and wood, wagons, carriages and railroad rolling stock (including locomotives), cotton factories, woollen factories, sawmills, tanneries, machinery, iron and hardware works, wax works, furniture, paper, soap, woodenware, boot and shoe, cloth and linen, door, sash, stave, tobacco, meat and food preserving and cheese factories. Sugar refining is extensively carried on in Halifax and Montreal. The value of the fisheries product in 1897 was about $21,000,000.

The capital invested in the manufacturing of agricultural implements is estimated at $8,528,535. The home demand is very great, and that from foreign countries is steadily growing. Implements to the value of $761,842 were exported in 1897, principally to Great Britain, the Argentine Republic and Australia.

With the exception of Prince Edward Island and the Territories, lumbering prevails to a considerable extent in all the provinces, especially in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia, and some idea of the amount of lumber annually produced can be found from the fact that the exports in this one line in 1897 amounted to $23,808,562.

But it is in her mineral wealth that Canada stands conspicuous. All that is needed is capital, which, as in the railroads, will come with time. The enormous range of mineral deposits, with their quantity and quality, is the theme of scientific critics and inquirers. An experienced writer, commenting on the resources of the country, says: "There appears to be a good field for skill, enterprise and capital in connection with our industry." Besides iron, there are copper, silver and even gold, and the last has been mined in no inconsiderable quantities, its value in 1897 being $6,190,000. Value of silver mined in the same year, $3,322,905; copper, $1,501,660; nickel, $1,399,176; lead, $1,396,853; coal, $7,286,257; petroleum, $1,011,546. Coal is naturally of the highest significance, and it is to be found in incalculable volume. The total value of minerals raised in 1897 was $28,789,173.

There is no State church in the Dominion, and no State assistance is given to any denomination.

The educational statistics for 1897 give the total number of public, high, normal and model schools in Canada at 18,303, attended by 1,067,035 pupils. There were 27,123 teachers, and the total expenditures for the year amounted to $8,338,555.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO.

SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, TORONTO.

Ontario is at present the most important province in Canada It is in immediate contiguity to the United States, and has the advantage of both competition and reciprocity with its great neighbor, the State of New York. It is the wealthiest and the most populous of the several provinces, and is undoubtedly the leading political division. Its boundary line alone bespeaks its importance. It is encircled by the mighty St. Lawrence, the Lakes Ontario, Erie, Huron and Michigan, holding a geographic position of the highest commercial significance, opening out all means of transportation and intercourse. The forests by which it was, within an old man's memory, covered, have almost disappeared, though there are still some patches to carry remembrance of their extent and importance. It is alleged that they have been taken off too rapidly for advantages of drainage and farming purposes. But, though this may be true to some extent, the denudation of great timber has made farming possible, and so has given immediate occupation, as also increased the wealth of the country in other respects. The climate of Ontario is much the same as the rest of Canada, 90 degrees in summer to 10 or 15 degrees in winter being the extremest. But men can live wherever free timber thrives, and Canada has been, and still is in parts, a mighty timber land.

The Province of Ontario contains more inhabitants than any other of the provinces. It is a great farming region, and is intersected in all directions by railways, furnishing all facilities for both passenger and commercial traffic. At the same time it has all needed facilities for water conveyance. It has within its borders a large number of goodly cities and villages, among which are the important city of Toronto and the city of Ottawa, the seat of Government. The population of the province is given at 2,112,985 by the census of 1891. The city of Ottawa is the political capital of the whole country, but Toronto is the capital of the Province of Ontario. The province has the advantage of being the best equipped part of the Dominion in regard to its internal communications. This is naturally due to its superior age as a seat of authority and its earlier settlement, allowing also for its contiguity to the United States and to the natural influence of example and competition. The ordinary highways are also in fair condition, which is of considerable importance to local, and especially to farming interests. Outside of the larger cities, farming is the principal interest of Ontario, as, indeed, it may be said to be of the other provinces, except those which lie on the seaboard, where fishing and sea traffic predominate. As a matter of course, there is here, as everywhere, a considerable variation in the returns for the different sections, dependent as all farmers are on local weather variations. Still there is nothing worse than "neighbors' luck" in Ontario. As already remarked in relation to Canada generally, there is an active market for live stock, both for exportation and for home consumption. Dairying has been found profitable; in fact the whole business of farm life is decidedly favored and prosperous in Ontario.

The control of education in Ontario is vested in the Minister of Education, and, subject to the approval of the Provincial Government, all regulations for the public and high schools are made by him. These schools are under the control of local boards of trustees, elected by the ratepayers, and are allowed to have none but certificated teachers. Education of children between the ages of 7 and 13 is compulsory for not less than 100 days in the year. The following figures give particulars respecting the public schools of Ontario in 1897: Number of schools open, 5,996; number of pupils, 481,984; number of teachers, 8,988; expenditure, $4,149,207; average cost per pupil, $8.61.

The following are particulars concerning the high schools in Ontario in 1896: Number of schools, 130; number of pupils, 24,567 number of teachers, 574; expenditure, $749,970; average cost per pupil, $20.53.

The average attendance was 56 per cent. of the number of pupils.

There were 5,996 school houses in the province, of which 2,201 were of brick or stone, 3,115 frame, and 680 log. The log school houses are fast disappearing.

According to the returns, there was 1 teacher to every 65 pupils in the public schools and 1 to every 61 in the separate schools and 1 to every 43 pupils in the high schools.

The total receipts for public school purposes in 1896 amounted to $4,886,112, derived from the following sources: Legislative grant, $310,851; municipal school grants and assessments, $3,415,647; clergy reserve fund and other sources, $1,159,614.

In addition to the public and high schools, there were 60 county model schools, with 1,645 teachers in training; 75 teachers' institutes, with 9,383 members, and 7 normal college and provincial normal and model schools, with 1,384 students. There were also 68 art schools in operation. In connection with and under the control of the Department of Education were 323 mechanics' institutes and free libraries, with over 658,696 books and 93,436 members. Their property was valued at $817,972.

The total number of pupils attending public, separate and high, normal and model schools in Ontario, not including colleges and private schools, was 507,899.

There is one notable fact in which, so far as known to the writer of these remarks, Ontario is unique, unless possibly as to some other part of Canada. That is, any man of family can have "free" grants of timber, and besides being invited to take up selected sections at the very low price of half a dollar an acre. It is believed that this inducement is offered by the Government in absolute good faith and without any design on the inexperience of an intending settler. In fact, with the numerous Government guide books issued under Government authority, there is no need for any intending settler blundering unless hopelessly ignorant or careless.

HAMILTON—With a population of 50,000, is the second largest city in the Province of Ontario. It is beautifully situated at the head of Lake Ontario, on Hamilton (formerly Burlington) bay, and has a very fine harbor. It is 40 miles from the city of Toronto and 45 from Niagara Falls, on the Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific and Michigan Central railways, which give as good shipping facilities as any city on the continent. There are also a number of electric roads connecting the suburbs and nearby towns, all of which make Hamilton a very desirable and pleasant place to live in. There are a large number of manufactories, including stove foundries, agricultural and wheel works, air brake works, steel, bridge, smelting works, rolling mills, and nail works, etc.; in fact, Hamilton is known as the Birmingham of Canada. There are many lovely residences in all parts of the city; and two incline railways carry thousands of pleasure seekers up to the top of the mountain, a favorite and a very refreshing spot during the hot weather. The public buildings are the court house, city hall, Ontario Normal school, Market hall, post office, churches, and schools, and are of an order seldom equalled in cities of this size.

It has railroad connection to all parts of the United States and Canada via Michigan Central Railroad, and is surrounded by fine fruit and agricultural country. The finest of peaches and all kinds of large and small fruits are extensively grown, also a good quality of tobacco, 800,000 pounds of which was grown and shipped during 1897. It has great natural advantages, owing to natural gas wells and two artesian flowing wells, which supply the town with gas and water, thus doing away with the payment of taxes. LONDON—An important city on the G. T. R., situated on the River Thames, county of Middlesex. It is regularly laid out, having wide streets, lighted by electricity and gas, and well built upon with handsome buildings. By bestowing on its streets, bridges and surroundings familiar names to former residents of the metropolis of the world—such as Pall Mall, Bond, Piccadilly, Oxford, Waterloo and Clarence streets, Westminster and Blackfriars' bridges, etc.—it endeavors to cluster round it fond recollections of its great namesake. Its situation has justly earned for it the title of the "Forest City." It is surrounded by a rich agricultural district, which furnishes it with a large trade in wheat and other produce. In the city are a number of manufactories, mills, machine shops, foundries, breweries, petroleum refineries, etc. Distant from Toronto 121 miles. Population, 36,500.

NIAGARA—An incorporated town on the Canada Southern Ry., at the mouth of the Niagara river, on Lake Ontario, township of Niagara, county of Lincoln. It is one of the oldest places in Ontario, and was the scene of many stirring events in the early history of the province. It was burned down in December, 1813, by General McClure, of the American army, in his retreat from the north. Owing to its picturesque and healthy location it has become, of late years, a very popular summer resort, many of the merchants in Toronto and other cities having villas here, at which they spend the summer months. Steamers run regularly to and from Toronto. Distant from The Falls 14 miles, from Toronto (by water) 34 miles. Population, 1,500.

NIAGARA FALLS—An incorporated town on the G. T. R. and Canada Southern Ry., situated on the west bank of the Niagara river, township of Stamford, county of Welland. It is situated at the celebrated suspension bridge, which crosses the river about one mile below the historically known Niagara Falls, and which connects western Canada with the State of New York by railway. This bridge was the first to be constructed across the Niagara river, and was then onc of the most scientific public works on the continent. It is suspended 250 feet above the river, from towers 75 feet in height, by means of four wire cables, each 10 inches in diameter, the distance between the towers being 822 feet. The total length of wire in these cables is computed at 4,000 miles. There are two roadways, one above the other, the upper one being exclusively for railways, the lower one for carriages, pedestrians, etc. Besides this there are two other bridges crossing the Niagara; a foot bridge at the Falls and the cantilever railway bridge, about half way between the two former. Distant from Toronto 54 miles. Population, 3,500.

To attempt a discription of Niagara Falls were but to essay a hopeless task. Writers whose pens were guided by genius, painters whose brushes have been illumined with that "light which never was on land or sea," have struggled courageously with the great question, only to find in the end that the English language was to poor and the scope of human ekill too narrow to render justice to so sublime a theme. In all the wide range of creation there is nothing which approaches it in magnificence or grandeur, nor any other object which inspires the beholder with such a grasping wonder, and reveals so grandly the immensity of the work of the hands of the Creator of the universe.

The Niagara river, thirty miles in length, is the channel through which the waters of Lake Erie and its three great sisters—Huron, Michigan and Superior—flow into Lake Ontario, thence into the St. Lawrence and on to the broad Atlantic. The total fall of the river is 334 feet, the greater part of the descent being confined to the distance of eight miles. Three distinct cataracts form a trinity of wonders. The Horseshoe Fall (Canadian side), the largest, in the direct course of the river, is 2,000 feet wide, with a descent of 154 feet. The American Fall is 980 feet wide, the Central Fall 243 feet wide, each having a cadence of 163 feet. The two latter are separated from each other, and the former by Goat Island. The aggregate width of the descending water is 2,900 feet, and the torrent is computed to rush into the depths below at the rate of 100,000,000 tons per hour.

Other points of interest connected with the Falls are the Cave of the Winds, the Burning Spring, the Whirlpool Rapids—recently notorious as the scene of swimming feats of foolhardy adventurers—the suspension bridges and the great cantilever bridge.

OTTAWA—The capital of the Dominion of Canada and one of the chief cities in Ontario, on the C. P. R. and Canada Atlantic R'ys, is situated on the south shore of the Ottawa river, 87 miles from its confluence with the St. Lawrence, and at the mouth of the Rideau river. The two principal sights of Ottawa are the Government buildings and Chaudière Falls. The former are finely situated 150 feet above the river, and measure 472 by 572 feet, thus comparing in size with some of the largest buildings of their class on the continent. Their architecture is more harmonious and in better taste than is generally found in American buildings. The style is Italian-Gothic, and the materials employed are cream-colored sandstone, Ohio sandstone, red Potsdam sandstone, and marble. The Parliamentary Library building is particularly noticeable, and contains a remarkably large and valuable collection of books relating to Canadian history. The Museum of Geology and Natural History is filled with interesting objects, chiefly gathered by the government or agents of the fur-trading companies in the far Northwest. Rideau Hall, the official residence of the Governor-

General, is only a short distance out of town. A short distance west of the city are the famous Chaudière (Caldron) Falls, where the Ottawa river dashes over a ledge of rock 212 feet wide by 60 feet high. The principal article of commerce is lumber, of which immense quantities are shipped to all parts of the world. There are also a number of foundries, machine shops, flour mills, etc., which give employment to a large force of men. The city is lighted by electricity and gas, and contains many handsome public and private buildings. Distant from Toronto 281 miles, from Montreal 120 miles. Population estimated at nearly 50,000.

SAULT STE. MARIE—An incorporated town and port of entry of Ontario, capital of Algoma district, on the St. Mary river, by the rapids of the same name, about 10 miles east of where the river issues from Lake Superior and 60 miles from where it empties into Lake Huron. The St. Mary rapids have a descent of 22 feet in less than a mile, and form the natural limit of navigation. A canal has been in use on the United States side past the rapids since 1856, the one now used having been opened about 1883. It consists of one lock, the finest in the world, it was said, until surpassed by the lock of the new Canadian canal, which was opened for traffic in September, 1895. A second canal has been built on the United States side, which consists of one lock also, still larger than the lock of the Canadian canal. It was opened for traffic in 1896. The Algoma branch of the C. P. R. from Sudbury Junction connects the town with the east, and the International bridge over the St. Mary river opens up railway communication with the west. The town is also the terminus of several local lines of boats, and also a port of call for through boats. It is pleasantly situated in the midst of a territory limited somewhat in its agricultural possibilities, but of great mineral and timber resources. A water power canal, built by the town, is now owned by an American syndicate, who have developed the same and erected an immense pulp mill, which is now in operation, besides an extensive machine shop and foundry. Another large pulp and paper mill is to follow. There are over 50 stores, saw mills and planing mills, fine public and separate school buildings, and 5 churches, Episcopalian, Roman Catholic, Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist. The town is well lighted by electricity and supplied with water from the river by a splendid system of waterworks. Population, 4,000.
