MRS. BONINE'S TRIAL

For the Killing of James Ayres in Washington, D. C., Begins Today.

Washington, Nov. 19.-Today at 10 o'clock before Judge Thomas M. Anderson in the criminal court No. 1 of the District of Columbia, will begin the trial of Mrs. Lola Ida Hemry Bonine, under indictment for the murder of mour Ayres jun., in the Hotel in this city on the James Seymour night of May 15 last. The case attracted widespread interest at the time the tragedy occurred, largely on account of the mystery which shrouded the death of the young man, and this interest was augmented while the coroner's inquiry was in progress by the dramatic confession of Mrs. Bonine of her part in the tragedy. She told her story to the district attorney, and to the local detectives, saying that she had been the only person in the room when Ayres was shot, and that he was killed in a struggle with her over the possession of a revolver with which was trying to frighten her into compliance with improper demands on his part. She has been in jail since

MANY HUNTERS SHOT IN THE MAINE WOODS

Five Fatally Injured and Seven Others More or Less Seriously Hurt.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 18.-Although the last legislature passed a law imposing a maximum penalty of ten years' imprisonment or a fine not ex-ceeding $1,000 for negligence or carelessness which should result in the shooting of a human being by hunters, the record of such fatalities in this state during the present season is very heavy. A peculiar feature of the situation is that in several of the accidents the shots have been fired by unknown persons. The record up to the present time shows that twelve persons have been shot by accident and that five of the victims have been either killed outright or wounded so that death followed. In four instances the shots were fired by unknown per-

St. Johns, Nfid., Nov. 18.—Further details of the suffering of the crew of the barkentine Titania, Liverpool for St. Johns, which was wrecked on Saturday morning in a dense fog near Cape Race, show that during the 26 hours of Saturday and Sunday, when they were lashed to the ship's rigging, they were absolutely without clothing, excepting their shirts and drawers. Their rescue was effected with great difficulty. Three men from the shore succeeded, at the risk of their lives, in aiding the shipwrecked men to land. Boatswain Williams, who was drowned, became impatient at the delay in reaching the shore, and, driven by his sufferings, plunged into the sea and tried to swim to land. His lifeless body was thrown high against the cliffs.

In conclusion the Daily Chronicle characterizes the new treaty as "a full acceptance by Great Britain of the Monroe doctrine," and says "it would be strange indeed if the senate should object to such a one-sided bargain."

Castle Square Stock Company.

"Value for their money" is what the patrons of the London Opera, House were promised in the visit of the Castle Square Stock Company, and that is what the large audience in attendance received. The company compares more than favorably with its predecessors, and gave a very satisfactory per formance of the evening's bill, "A Secret Marriage." Mr. Ion Carroll, as Norton Heath, the sturdy old yeoman, showed himself an actor of talent and resource. Miss Bozi Stevens-Evarts, remembered here for her work in "A Cavalier of France" last year, gave a winning presentation of the character wronged girl, Mabel Heath. Mr. Charles H. Perry was sufficiently cynical as the villainous betrayer, Frank The other members of the cast filled their respective roles well. The specialties were good, the notable being the spectacular fire dance of Mme. Ermani, which closes the evening's performance. Mme. Stuart-Harcourt Recital. Last night's recital at the Auditorum, by which Mr. Bertram Stuart and Miss Dolly Harcourt introduced themselves to a Canadian audience, proved an unqualified success. Interest was naturally taken in the appearance of the two young entertainers, who came dart's representation of Lachian direct from English amusement circles Campbell in a dramatization of Ian to enter upon a similar line of work in Western Ontario, and the expectations of the good-sized audience present were amply fulfilled. The entertainment provided by Mr. Stuart and Miss Harcourt consists of dramatic recitals, which, with the stage accessories of costume and scenery, would be creditable playlets. In the two serious recitals, "The Sign of the Cross," and "In the Days of Cromwell," the two artists displayed their possession of elocutionary and dramatic gifts of a high order, while their concluding sketch, "Domestic Squabbles," was a most amusing one. Mr. Stuart and Miss Harcourt fortunate in their choice of assisting artists, who were all local favorites, Alice Calder Stock, who possesses a most sweet, sympathetic and well trained soprano voice, sang several numbers in a finished manner. Mr. A. Garthwaite gained a spirited encore for his singing of De Koven's "Armor-er's Song," and Mr. Cunningham gave the difficult aria, "Total Eclipse," from Handel's "Samson," an artistic rendi-tion. Mr. J. Truman Wolcott contributed a piano solo, and acted as accom-panist. The effectiveness of one of the dramatic recitals was added to by the rendering of "Shepherd of Souls," by a quartet composed of Alice Calder Stock, Miss Minnie Wilson, Mr. Cunningham and Mr. Garthwaite.

Mr. J. H. Stoddart, in the role of Lachlan Campbell, the old sheep farmer, with his rigid and nar-row religious views, but who is ultimately transformed by sorrow and suffering, gives a very illuminative and convincing embodiment of the character. It may, perhaps, be going too far to say that his creation is the greatest triumph of his long career, but it may safely be asserted that it is equal to anything he has given us in this city." Touchstone, the Mail and Empire critic, thus comments on it: "An example of acting more essentially beautiful, more unique in its naturalness, more absolute in its grasp on the heart and brain of every auditor, than any which has been seen by the present writer was Mr. J. MARRIAGE AND NATIONAL POWER

Welfare of Individual Best Served by Marriage.

France's Example—To Marry Youn a Duty to the State-Conditions Favorable to Early Marriage.

[Cyrus C. Adams, in Ainslee's.]

It is a mere truism to say that the welfare of the individual, of society, and of the state, is best served by marriage, and by early marriage, too. The fact has been established for 40 years that the death rate among all married men over twenty years of age is less than that among unmarried men; and that the death rate among all married women over twenty-five years of age is less than that among unmarried women. home being the corner stone of civilized life, society is enriched by the multiplication of homes, and impoverished when they are not in normal proportion to the total population. Only within the last few years has Sons, bed and mattress cleaning fac-world-wide attention been drawn to tory, 593 Richmond street north. Telethe startling fact that the well-being of a mighty nation is menaced by the preponderance of celebacy. More than half the men and half the women of France are unmarried. The foreign immigration into France is today greater than the natural increase of its own people. The excess of births over deaths in any years among those many millions amounts to only about onehalf of the population of Newark, N. J. The result is that while other nations of Europe are rapidly increasing in population France is almost stationary. While a century ago French-men comprised a fifth of the European population of the world, they now form only a tenth of it. The impor-tance of their country as a worldpower is not growing. Their international commerce lags far behind that of other leading nations. How empty France some day gloriously avenge Sedan when she can add only 300,000 conscripts a year to the army, while 500,000 recruits are annually enrolled across the Rhine! France is today an object lesson from which the whole world may derive warning and instruction on the question of marriage and the family, those greatest of social influences. In no other country are circumstances so favorable for early marriages as in the United States. and salaries are the highest paid anywhere. Trained labor of all sorts is so highly skilled, its superiority in the handling of machinery so pronounced, that, taking as the producing capacity of the average British workman, that of the American workman is estimated at 24, the German and the Swiss artisan coming between the Briton and the American. Incompetency lags behind, but most Amercans are competent and earnest, and nowhere else are efficiency and earnestness so quickly recognized and so rapidly promoted. And while we command the best of wages, the purchasing power of our money has vastly increased. Lumber and gold are practically the only com modity in our markets that have not declined in price in the past twenty years. The cost to us of all the cotton and woolen fabrics we use has been declining for thirty years. make most of the silk goods that are consumed, at a great saving to our purses. The price of boots and shoes, kerosene, tinware, iron and steel products, furniture, and nearly everything we use have been cut in two American genius for inventing machinery and economic processes of production have wrought these wonders. As we are the largest consumers of sugar in the world, it interests us to know that we are not paying now for a pound of sugar quite half as much as we paid in 1871. As the cost of bringing commodities to us is added to the price, the fact is important that freight rates are only about one-third as high as they were thirty years ago These are among the blessed results of recent progress. All of them help to smooth the way for the young mar and woman who must begin their housekeeping on a very modest scale. riage a day longer than the time when. future, the prospect of a comfortable home is reasonably assured? senseless to wait for the coming of affluent days. Why should lovers defer their mar as far as we mortals can discern the united, and each in his way should help times, if they are ever to come. It is foolish to wait for a larger income than is really required as it is for parents to slave and drudge that their children may enjoy a degree of afflu-ence they have never known. This is the rock upon which the French nation has split. They are frugal and a thrifty people. It is interesting to know that many of the tasteful, artistic and coefficients. tic and costly products of France are made almost exclusively for the for-eign trade. Two-thirds of the best chinaware of Limoges, for example, comes to the United States. A well-to-do Frenchwoman is likely to use a preparation of rice flour as a cosmetic leaving the delicate perfumes and other toilet articles of Paris for her American and British sisters, who are willing to spend more money for such things. But the father, unfortunately. conceives it to be his duty to leave his children richer than himself, if, on the other hand, he be a poor tiller of the soil, it is disgraceful not to educate his son to a trade or a profession, so that the family name may have a higher place in the social scale. This deplorable ambition fixes upon the family a burden almost too great to be borne, and parents deliberately restrict the number of their children. In large districts, particularly in North-ern France, families of more than two people, seeing the hard lives their people lead defer their own marriage in order to better their fortunes, till at last, even the desire to marry is ex-tinguished. Parents and children of all lands may well heed the lesson in sociology that France is now teaching, Nearly all self-made men in the United States, leaders in the professions and in business, married young, and on very modest incomes.

SOLUTION OF VEXED PROBLEM

Council Evolves Way Out of McClary Difficulty.

Will Submit Question to Vote of Entire Electorate.

Progress in King Street Tar Macadam Is Blocked by Legal Techni-

The city council gave another illustration last night of its ability to work rapidly. The same amount of business coming before the council a year or so ago would have occupied a very much longer time than was consumed last night, and who shall say that the work was not done as well as in the old days of after-midnight debates? The council dealt with more than one matter of importanceforemost among them being the Mc-Clary assessment. Fortunately for the preservation of councilor peace and for the safeguard of candidates' interests when on the hustings, Ald. Parnell had conceived a simple plan, by which it appears that all difficulties are solved, and the aldermen, or catarrh of throat, bronchial tubes, however divided in opinion before, could vote in the assurance that they were accomplishing the desired ends and satisfying their consciences at the same time. The difficulty had been that while the McClary proposition had seemed a reasonable one, it could not be accepted without either endangering the desired legislation by putting it to the property owners, or by ignoring the property owners altogether and trusting to special legislation to legalize the fixed assessment, thus overriding the statute and denying the rights of the people-a very serious thing to do at any time, but more than ever serious on the eve of a municipal election campaign. Ald. Parnell's plan was to let everybody vote on it-not property owners alone, but everybody that has a vote in the municipal election-and then take the big majority that will assuredly result, and present it to the legislature with an urgent request for the required legislation. This plan would few changes made, among them, one Valenciennes Laces. & lessen the danger of an insufficient that provided for the employment of vote, such as might result from leaving it to the property owners only; it solved the question of placing the matsolved the question of placing the mat-ter before the people, and it will serve passed. No. 2 committee recommended that the control of all stock buildings on Queen's Park be placed in the hands of the Western Fair Board on the understanding that that body give the city a guarantee to keep them in repair as long as they remain in their

Ald. Cooper objected to this plan, and wanted the clause passed over until the subject was better understood. The recommendation was considered advantageous to the city, and Ald. Cooper's proposal was not entertained. Until the change is made the rental for the stalls will be 50 cents per stall per month.

W. R. Boyce was granted $40 in settlement of his claim for damages because of injury received by having his throat caught by the rope strung the night before the Duke of York's reception.

Ald. Cooper and Ald. Jolly both thought that the city engineer was responsible for the mishap. No. 3 committee recommended the adoption of the proposed bylaw respecting the sanitary construction of buildings, prepared by the board of health, and approved by the city engineer and the master plumbers of the city. The council recorded its approval of the bylaw and left over consideration of it until the bylaws were brought in. BYLAW COULD BE QUASHED. Notice was given by No. 2 commit-

CAUSE OF DEAFNESS

The Most Common Cause Only Recently Discovered.

It has been stated on good medical authority that nine-tenths of cases of deafness are caused from cataerh or from some throat trouble.

The little tube which leads to the ear from the throat is lined with a sort of velvety structure called mucous mem-brane. This membrane is simply a continuation of the mucous membrane lining the throat. When disease of any sort attacks the mucous membrane of the throat it is very liable to extend into the Eustachian tube and up

The history of nearly all cases of deafness is like this: A cold is contracted and neglected, other colds are taken, the throat becomes sore and inflamed, which is aggravated by particles of dust and germs from the air. This condition causes the disease to spread into the tube that leads to the

It seems a little far-fetched to say that most cases of deafness are caused from catarrh, but it is certainly true, and anyone who has had a severe catarrhal cold must have noticed how the hearing was affected while the cold

With catarrh sufferers this impairment of hearing becomes chronic and grows worse the longer the catarrh is

You can cure catarrh and deafness by the regular use of an excellent new preparation called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, composed of antiseptic remedies which act both on the mucous membranes but principally and most effectually on the blood, eliminating the catarrhal poison from the system. People whose hearing is defective may think it a little remarkable that a simple and harmless tablet would very often remove all traces of deafness, but when it is remembered that catarrh causes the deafness and that the catarrh is easily cured by the regular use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets there is no mystery about it. If you are subject to nasal catarrh or catarrh of stomach and liver, the safest and most effective treatment is the new catarrh specific, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, sold by all druggists at 50 cents for full sized package.

advise the council as to the possibility of the city being held liable for damages if the contracts for the work were given. He did this because he had been informed that there had been technical irregularities in connection with the matter, and that Mr. A. B. Aylesworth had stated that as it now stood, the bylaw could be quashed and city held responsible. Ald. Greenlees and Ald. Jolly favored this mode of procedure, as there was no hurry and it was better to be safe.

Mayor Rumball and several of the aldermen thought that no harm would be done if tenders were called. In the meantime, the city solicitor's opinio could be obtained. It was decided to defer action until Mr. Meredith had stated his opinion. The specifications were read and a sessment of $150,000 on personal property assessment for a term of ten years. Ald. Parnell submitted a motion, seconded by Ald. Greenlees, to have the bylaw given its first and second readings, and defer the third until after the next session of the Local Legislature: then at the next municipal election to ask an abstract question as to whether the voter were in favor of the fixed assessment of $150,000 for ten years, this to be submitted to a general vote of the whole people; and that the city solicitor prepare a bill to legalize the bylaw, subject to the vote had been wise to lay it over. Not only was this action going to affect the Mc-Clary Company, but others, whose assessments would fall due this year. The result might prove disastrous to the city's best interests. If the bylaw were submitted to the people, as the statute provides, it would be well-nigh impossible to set a vessict that would be any vorable. But, the statute was there, and if the council went to the sovern-

and if the council went to the govern-ment without asking the people at all if they approved of the proposal, he thought that it would be impossible to get the desired legislation. That left them with no alternative but to secure the vote of the whole peo-

and he was sure that it would show that a large majority would favor the proposal. Everyone acknowledged, Ald. Parnell continued, that the McClary Company was a great benefit to the city. He understood that it was their purpose to enlarge their premises, provided that their assessment was fixed first. The ultimate result would be a very large increase in the company's yearly pay roll.

Ald. Greenlees said that he fully con-curred with what Ald. Parnell had said. He had first considered that the proposal should be put to the people according to the statute, but upon looking into it, he had seen that this was practically prohibitory. Therefore, he felt disposed to modify his views, and thought that he would be doing his duty to the people by putting the question to them as Ald. Parnell suggested. They would thus get a fair majority, could then go to the government with some chance of securing favorable legislation. He would not favor a fixed assessment if the question were not submitted to the people. Ald. Winnett also favored Ald. Farnell's plan, and said that he hoped that at the next session of the legislature the law would be changed so that the tax would be on property, instead of personalty, which would be more in the interests of such firms as McClary's. Ald. Cronyn said that it had not appeared to him that the council had a sufficient understanding of the matter to know whether it was a good osition or not; but as Ald. Parnell's motion distinctly referred it to the people, he could see no objection to voting for it.

Mayor Rumball gave Ald. Winnett pleasure that the worthy alderman hopes to have at greater length next year-that of sitting in the mayor's chair, while he explained his views up on the subject.

His worship said that he was anxious to get the voice of the people upon this question, to learn what they thought of exemptions generally. had been trying to get manufacturers to come to London, but when asked inevitable question as to what would be given them, he had to answer in glittering generalities that didn't tempt them much; while other places were getting around the law and giving bounties to companies to go to them. If London wanted factories, the mayor said, it must do something. He was heartily in favor of the proposal as made by Ald. Parnell. This was the unanimous opinion, and no vote against Ald. Parnell's motion

London, Tuesday, Nov. 19.

At last we have the Conservative new geography.-Toronto

To be entirely fair, the new Opposition policy should read: A new geography and more ginger.

The Hamilton Presbytery thinks a meeting of the general assembly every two or three years would be sufficient. The idea probably is to throw more of the routine work from year to year upon the synods.

The question at Ottawa just now is whether the Dominion Parliament shall be called to meet on Feb. 6 or Feb. 13. If on the latter date, the lawmakers will miss a holiday, for Ash Vednesday next year comes on Feb.

In the London, England, Times of a hundred years ago appeared this item: "In consequence of the late melancholy accident at Kilmarnock, all the church doors are to be made to open outward. There is seldom any danger of any struggle to get in." Can it be that, though the improvement has been made, religious zeal has not materially heightened during the century?

There has been some alarm in recent years lest the increasing demand for rubber in the manufactures of the world would result in a scarcity of the article and in largely increased prices. We learn, however, that the indications are that the production will likely keep pace with the demand. South America is to have a formidable rival in the yield of rubber in India, where the government has experimented with the cultivation of the tree, and found the soil and climate admirably adapted for its growth. It is a good thing for India and a good thing for the rubber-consuming public.

interesting series of interviews in yesterday's Advertiser, there is a strong feeling in favor of the formation of a society for the beautification and improvement of this city. The main function of such an organization ic opinion on such matters. What is everybody's business is nobody's business. We would strongly recommend that the gentlemen interviewed should take steps to create an organization for the purpose indicated. We are persuaded they would find a cordial response. Let it be done, and let it be done now.

The Case Against the British Government.

It is not our business in Canada to enter into the detail of British political life. In this country the Boer war has not been a party question. On the general ground that the empire was attacked, Canada decided with substantial unanimity to take a share in resisting the attack. Kruger's insolent ultimatum, and the march of armed troops into British territory had much to do with the strength and unanimity of feeling. Questions as to the origin of the war and the conduct of it, as a whole, we have not discussed very freely, because we have no direct control of those who are responsible for these things. In Britain. however, these things have been fiercely discussed, and as part of the Empire we are interested in such discussions. There is an educational value in trying to follow the main trend and the chief variations of public opinion in England. Especially ought we at the present time to note what Liberals have to say for them-Liberals of high standing deliberately declare that they have been unjustly treated. In what way? Let us see. Liberals do not deny that many in what may be called the imperial reporters of the Government have been is no patriotism in refusing to see Tories, he said, tried to keep all op- upon a new phase-distinguishing feaponents out of Parliament as being al- tures of which will be a united agita-

"They went so far, that if one might but it told for the moment, as Mr. sole Shibboleth by which to disthat Ministers were everywhere acclaimed as the representatives of the patriotism of the people, because, according to their own account, they success despite the machinations of their rivals at home, but brought it, within a reasonable limit of time, to Colonial Secretary in particular-upon taking all credit for the war. Not for a moment would they discriminate between the small faction of pro-Boers and men whom in their hearts they knew to be just as loyal and patriotic as themselves."

But now the view is growing that the present Government can neither make peace nor war; it is weak, though violent: numerically strong, but practically ineffective. We cannot discuss this state of feeling in detail, but it is well to be acquainted with it. as out of it something may grow much sooner than seems possible just now.

Can the Sea Be Fished Out?

This interesting question is discussed by W. B. Marston in The Nineteenth Century and After. Sometimes we have been frightened lest the coal supply will soon give out and there would be no fire of that kind to fry our fish. This is a different question. Can the sea be fished out, so that there will be no fish to fry? The harvest of the sea is immense. A correspendent of the Pall Mall Gazette, at Antwerp, writing recently, says: "Few realize that eight millions sterling is extracted from the North Sea in fish, and fewer still, perhaps, that more than half this great sum is secured article appropriately quotes Spenser:

'Oh! what an endless work has he in hand progeny,, Whose fruitful seed far passeth that on land. But also theirs that roam in the azure sky. So fertile be the floods in generation So vast their numbers, and so numberless their nation."

Modern science bears out the poet cod in roe meant the destruction of looks like inspiring the life chances of the progeny of another cod. Formerly it was considered that the fish production of the sea was a fixed quantity, which was being constantly decreased by man's inroads upon it. Now it would appear to be an organism on which the attacks of man can make no real impression. It seems probable, indeed, that in every second every minute, every day, more fish is produced in the sea than all humanity combined could devour at the same time." This is good news, and what is more, it professes to be based upon the latest scientific investigation into the subject of marine biology.

A New Leader In Ireland. The cause of local self-government in Ireland has gained a good deal recently by the adhesion of Mr. T. W. Russell, who has been M. P. for Tyrone since 1886, and who until recently was Parliamentary Secretary of the Local Government Board. In the days when Gladstone was promoting his home rule measure, Mr. Russell was one of the strongest opponents of it, and he was regarded as the ablest and most powerful of the Ulster advocates of the present condition of things. Mr. Russell has now printed a book-"Ireland selves. Taking only one point now, and the Empire"-which shows a remarkable change in his attitude on the subject of government of his adopted country, for he is a native of Scotland, though he has lived in Ireland for over their own party have failed to realize 40 years. "LIVES OF THE HUNTED." Ernest Seton Thompson is among Intense Suffering, Great Weakness, us again with one of his delightful books "Lives of the Hunted," published by George Morang & Co., Toronto. If Mr. Thompson enjoys preparing his books, half as much as other people enjoy reading them, he must be a very happy man. To spend an afternoon reading his stories is like a half holiday from school. One cannot but think how Robert Louis Stevenson would have enjoyed the story of "Krag the Cootenay Ram," and 'Johnny Bear." In his spirit of daring adventure and boyish fun, the teller of racy sea yarns, and the author of "The Pacing Mustang" have much more in common than at first appears. Each in his own way tells his story of wild, free creatures, often hunted, sometimes trapped-only, for some reason or other, it is the hunted animal who makes the more poignant apcreature has his hours of respite from care, but for the wild animal, to quote as a gentle decline in old age. After reading about that coyote, I never dared to think I disliked an animal again. If Mr. Thompson should some day see fit to write up "The Sorrows of a Skunk," I for one expect to be in the front rank is a well told, well thought out story of a woman not in her first youth, who has lived a life of quiet repression, in the country, with an elderly relative, from her girlhood. Esther, the heroine, has just reached her 37th year, when the book opens, and a mystery which has been hanging over the old house for years, slowly develops itself. "Cousin Becky," the elderly relative, who is the strongest character in the book, has laid the train in her early youth, for a series of events, startling enough to engage the entire attention of the reader from the first chapter to

Henry Austin Clapp, the famous theatrical critic, concludes in the November Atlantic his remarkable series of Reminiscences. These papers have grown month to month in interest and value, in wealth of comment and of anecdote. The concluding number covers the period of Fechter and Booth, whose greatness can hardly yet be realized by us-they are so recently re-membered-but who, with the disappearing of the present generation, will soon pass like their predecessors into the realms of unremembered tradition. Booth especially was the last great in-terpreter of Shakespeare on the stage, and the greatest Hamiet of the century. Mr. Clapp closes his papers with a strong appeal for an endowed Ameri-

Charley Steele. "Beauty" Steele, as he is at this time commonly called because of his pink complexion and foppish airs, is a riddle for his friends to read as best they may; "acquaintances" were perhaps a more correct word, for this man chooses to wear a shell of reserve which makes friendship impossible. He is intemperate, and he exasperates his fellows with his enigmatical phrases, his puzzling questions, his cynical philosophies, and the ever-present monocle with which he inspires confusion in the brain of the man surveyed. Many men stand in awe and admire; none can be wholly indifferent, while a few are filled with a smouldering dislike. At present every man in this chamber of law is compelled into admiration; and one woman-one woman who was before wavering and uncertainnow is moved by the power of his oratory to make decision regarding certain important matters. She is tall and nobly planned, perfectly molded, but with a heart-if she has onethickly incased in ice. But this mar-velous pleader at the bar has done, en to accomplish but failed. He has caused the statue to thrill with something like life.

The scene changes to the home of the beautiful Kathleen, and things happen which perhaps might better never have happened. Who can tell? -as Charley himself would ask.

The great advocate, and the beautiful woman are married, but they prove uncongenial. He becomes more than ever intemperate, and more than ever a scoffer. One day he goes to an inn to drink, and while there haughtily antagonizes the crowd, who become enraged, attack him, and leave him apparently dead. He is carried away by the man whom he defended on the charge of murder to the little village of Chaudiere, and is resuscitated. But his memory for some months is en-

Lingering Misery---Cures Effected by

Dr. Chase's Kidney - Liver Pills.

Most people are familiar with the symptoms of kidney disorders-pain in the back, deposits in the urine, loss of flesh, smarting when passing water, indigestion and constipation. Kidney disorders are too painful and too fatal to be neglected. The most prompt and thoroughly effective treatment that was ever offered for kidney disease is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. That this is true is proven by such evidence as the following:

Mr. Thomas A. Embree, general merchant, Springhill, N. S., writes: "As the result of a severe cold settling on the kidneys, I contracted kidney disease which lingered for years, causing me much suffering from terrible pains in the back. For some I was entirely unable to work, peal to our sympathies. The human and although I tried several physicians I could only obtain slight temporary relief.

The November number of Queen's coming to. University Journal has reached us, and in makeup and matter quite eclipses the Journal of former years, which is saving a good deal considering the excellent volume of last year's issues. The present number of the Queen's University Journal is much enlarged, containing altogether eighty pages. The subject matter is of more than local interest, for which reason the Journal should have a large circulation among the graduates all over the country. The first article is an historical sketch of the university and is seasonable, considering the fact that Queen's is undergoing a period of expansion. number contains full page portraits of the university and medical buildings (frontispiece), Principal Grant, C.M.G., Duke and Duchess of York, Sir Sanford Fleming, chancellor of the university, Professor John Watson, the New Arts Building and proposed convention hall. New York Sun: Germany seems to be paying a heavy price for its rise into a world-power. Travelers have noted for a long time the disappearance in the large cities, at least, of the simplicity and homely ways that were once so attractive, and lately "This is to certify that the virtues formerly regarded as specifically German have apparently been endangered. The recent exposures of the conduct of banks and great industrial enterprises have cast a cloud on German commercial honesty, and a conference of societies held a short time ago took a gloomy view of Ger-man morality, the Deutsche Tugend that the poets are so fond of singing. The societies were associations for combating vice that met at Leipzig and they listened to some startling statistics. Dr. Stocker, the Jew-baiter, once court chaplain at Berlin, asserted that in eight years crimes against morality had doubled, rising from 7,400 to 14,700 cases, and that in the same time offenses against girls under 14 years of age had trebled. He declared that if such a state of affairs existed there must be something rotten among the people. Dr. Stocker's authority might be open to doubt, but his statements were vouched for by many other speakers. The very existence of the societies shows that something is wrong

OPENING UP THE WEST.

Canadian Northern Railway Construction-The Connecting Link-Movement

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—The link con-necting the Canadian Northern lines east and west will be completed to Gladstone today. In a few weeks the Canadian Northern will have a through line from Port Arthur through Ontario and Manitoba to the Territories, a distance of 800 miles. Messrs. J. R. Armstrong, C.E., W. F. C. Parsons, C.E., and party of assistants left yesterday for Prince Albert, from whe e they will commence to stake out the new Canadian Northern section to Edmonton. The party expect to be on the ground all winter, finishing about April next year, when construction will start. There now remains about 130 miles to be constructed from the terminus of the line being built towards Prince Albert from Dauphin, and it will be in this locality where the Canadian Northern will do the heaviest construction work during next summer.

MR. CANN'S LETTER

An Exeter Man Who Expresses His Opinions Freely in the Local Newspaper.

Exeter, Nov. 18.—(Special).—Lorne Cann, a laundry man of this town, has sent a letter to the Advocate stating that Dodd's Kidney Pills have changed him from a sickly, delicate, run-down man to a strong, hearty and robust one.

Nothing could be plainer than the statement made by Mr. Cann. He says he was in such a terribly rundown condition that the least exertion would leave him tired and breathless. He tried many medicines, and was under physicians' treatment for over three months, but got no better. Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and the results of the first box so encouraging that he continued the treatment, and in the end was completely restored to good health and stronger than he has been for years.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—The Dominion Women's Christian Temperance Union has elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Rutherford, Toronto; vice-president, Miss Dougall, Montreal; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bascom, Toronto; recording secretary, Mrs. McLachlan, Montreal; treasurer, Mrs. Odell, Ottawa. A communication from Lady Henry Somerset was received during the meeting, announcing that the world's convention would meet next year in Ottawa. Mrs. Rutherford was warm in her admiration Rutherford was warm in her admiration Rutherford was warm in her admiration for the courage of the temperance workers across the water, where even many of the "temperance" people themselves had yet to learn that the thing to be fought against was not the "abuse" of alcohol, but alcohol liself. Temperance people there were looking for help to Canada, where large sections of country are already under prohibition.

Armour and the Reporter.

Some years ago a dispatch was re-ceived by a New York editor from the editor of a Chicago newspaper which had a reputation for spotlessness, but which frequently published some start-ling truths. The dispatch gave the out-lines of a reported Wall street scheme in which the Armours were deeply concerned, and it asked the co-operation of the New York editor in ascertaining the facts. A reporter was assigned to this work, and he called upon the late H. O. Armour, who was in charge of the Armour interests in this city. When the reporter's errand stated Mr. Armour was furious. He denounced the story of the receipt of such a dispatch from Chicago as a lie, and the reporter's errand as part of some malicious stockjobber's scheme to affect the Armour properties. The reporter replied that when he said that such a dispatch had been received at his office he meant exactly what his words indicated; and he requested Mr. Armour again to tell him something about the story the dispatch contained. or to say whether that story was false.

But Mr. Armour wouldn't do it. He only inveighed against the reporter's chief and reported that the gentleman had not received any such telegram. "I'll bet you $1,000," Mr. Armour exclaimed, "that your editor cannot show me such a dispatch, and you tell

"Mr. Armour," was the reply, "I do not carry $1,000 or a check book, but if you will hold that bet open fifteen minutes I will go out into the street and come back here and take it up with cash. It will only be necessary for me to see one of my nearby friends."

Mr. Armour mellowed somewhat after looking intently at the reporter for a moment. Then he said: "Your word for it. The bet is good."

The reporter went back to the square of the printing houses and recited his experience. He also made a strong request to be permited to teach Mr. Armour a lesson, as he put it, not by printing anything about his experience, but by showing him the telegram and forcing him to pay the bet. The request was granted, and when Mr. Armour saw the dispatch he turned and wrote a check for $1,000 forthwith and handed it to the reporter. Then he said that the dispatch lied. And at any rate the reported scheme did not materialize in Wall street.

From that day Mr. Armour was a constant friend of the reporter, and in turn had a friend in him; but no fiery denial of the genuineness of his errands ever again met the newspaper man in Mr. Armour's office, and he had often to go there.-New York Sun.

WHEN A LOCOMOTIVE BLOWS UP. "I am one of the very few persons who ever saw a locomotive blow up," remarked an old railroad man to a reporter of the Sun the other day. "Generally the men who witness the explosion of a steam engine are so dead when the smoke is cleared away that they are never able to give an account

"Like many other accidents, the one I saw was the result of carelessnesslow water in the boiler, for the engine had just come from the shops and was in complete repair. It was on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in West Virginia a number of years ago. I was on a locomotive some distance behind the one which exploded, and was looking ahead out of the cab window, so that the ill-fated engine was immediately before my eyes. Suddenly I saw the machine rise in the air; it seemed to me to be about as high as the telegraph poles beside the track, which, as you doubteless know are not as high as telegraph poles in the city. Then came a cloud of dense black smoke and dust, which hid the engine from view, and almost simultaneously I heard the roar of the explosion. "Both the engineer and the fireman were killed, and the locomotive was fit for nothing much but the scrap heap when it fell to the ground. The crown sheet over the fire box had blown out. "The strange thing about the explosion was that no white steam was seen. You know that perfectly dry steam is invisible, being like the air, and before it had time to condense it was probably smothered by the cloud of smoke and dust raised by the bursting of the boiler."-Baltimore Sun.

TO BIRD OWNERS

Claws.

A Sixth avenue bird dealer when asked how to care for the frail claws of the canary, said: "In handling a handkerchief, or you will find after a moment when the party could have few moments that the bird will rest been held in line by such a man as limp in the hand. This is not because it is tame, but you have drained its vitality by contact with the hand. A silk glove on the hand is even better than the handkerchief. While the bird is lying on its back in the hand, the claw can be inspected by holding it between the thumb and forefinger, and the nails can be carefully trimmed with sharp scissors. Care must be taken to hold the nail up to the light and avoid cutting near the little vein line that extends some way down. If the claws are allowed to get too long they will curl up and trip the bird, and probably cause sore feet.

"To provide salt and keep the bill sharp and prevent it from becoming too long, a piece of cuttlefish should always be kept in the cage. Care must too high, especially in a room where the gas will be lighted at night, as the air in the upper part of the room be-comes exhausted and the bird is weakened. Even in summer weather the cage should be covered at night, as birds are sensitive to draughts. bird will peck at it, and unless the trouble is serious the pork will cure it. Do not have the birds sleep in a lighted room; they are accustomed to darkness at night. The cage, perches, etc., should be cleaned every morning. While the bird may enjoy a bath every other day during the summer there is danger in too much bathing during the cold months. Twice a week will sufficient then. If the bird is not inclined to take a bath after the perches have been removed, and the bath put it shows, if he has been in the habit of bathing, that he does not need it, so let the bath pass for that day. Under favorable conditions a canary should live for twelve or fifteen years.' -New York Tribune.

Bible Down to Date.

Americans have wasted no time in getting their revised edition of the Bible upon the market, immediately following the expiry of the fourteen following the expiry of the fourteen years in which they were pledged not to publish. We have not yet had an edition in England, but many are on the way. Some extracts of the new version have come over by cable, and not all will find unequivocal approval here. "The way of the transgressor is hard" has passed into a proverb of everyday use; we shall scarcely recognize the Americanized variation: "The path of the treacherous is rugged."

Many of the alterations undoubtedly make for greater clearness and lucidity, but, after all, do we want a Bible

y version of "The Faerie" but Spenser is still an undicentury version of minished joy to reading men and women. The old worldness of the Bible is one of its greatest charms. Its Engish is held up as a pattern to writers. But America must have a twentieth century Bible in twentieth century It is to be hoped that the example of the professors will not be emulated by less scholarly men. It will be interesting to note how the new edition sells. The old Bible still sells ten to one better than that published last in England.-London Black and White,

RUSSIA'S GRAIN AREA.

[From Leslie's Weekly.] The trans-Siberian road has been engineered so that it runs through the richest part of the territory. The name Siberia stands for all the Asiatic dominions of Russia except Trans-caucasia, Transcaspia and Turkestan. be taken not to hang a canary's cage It is at present divided into the following provinces: Western Siberia, including the governments of Tobolsk and Tomsk, in the basin of the Obi River. Its area is 42,000 square geographical miles. The southern part of these regions, lying immediately east birds are sensitive to draughts. If a of the Brais, stretches far south to-bird catches a slight cold this can wards the Khirgiz Steppe Borderland usually be remedied by hanging a and the region known as Baraba. Over an area twice as large as Japan, this West Siberian plain is composed of black earth, and has scarcely a rock or stone. This black earth, or chernoziom, is the real treasure of Siberia, and makes the western plain the granary of Russia. Wheat, rye, oats and barley are grown in large quantities; crops of many fold were reaped last year. The two things that against the crops are the late frosts and the want of snow in winter. But when I rode through the wheatfields in June the land seemed as rich and prosperous as Dakota. For hundreds of miles, even up as far north as Tobolsk at 50 degrees, I saw nothing but grain fields growing green. Winter wheat is seldom sown, but spring wheat is sown from April 10. Frosts in the wheat area generally begin in September. The land is tilled by the fallow-land sys tem, that is, one section is sown without fertilizing for ten years, and then allowed to lie fallow for ten years.

Something That Should be Rubbed. Whenever pain is felt in the limbs or back, take Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; pour a little in the hand, and applying it to the surface beneath which the pain lies, rub briskly. If the first application does not afford relief, which is not usually the case, keep rubbing. The oil will gradualy penetrate to the affected part and relief will come.

Mr. Fred J. Fewings Awarded Damages for Injuries.

Was Injured in Street Car Riots at Duluth and Brought Suit Against the Company.

During a street car strike in Duluth, Minn., in 1899, Mr. Fred J. Fewings, formerly of this city, then private secretary to the general manager of the D., M. and N. Railway, was struck on the head by a stone, while riding on a car, and received very serious injuries, which necessitated a long absence from his duties and several months recuperation here. Finally he had to resign his position, and expert medical men have pronounced his injuries permanent. He had boarded the car in West Superior, a suburb of Duluth, before knowing that a strike was on, and was struck immediately upon entering the city. Mr. Fewings sued the street railway company for damages, and in the first trial the jury disagreed. In the second he was awarded $4,400 damages, but the company appealed to the supreme court of Minnesota, claiming that it was not bound to safeguard its passengers at such a time, and making other technical objections. On these latgrounds a new trial was granted, lowed. At the new trial, which com-menced on Monday, Nov. 11, and lasted until last evening, some important depositions made by local physicians were put in, and proved favorable to the plaintiff's case. The trial has just ended, and a message received in the city today stated that Mr. Fewings had been awarded $10,383 33. It is under-stood that there can be no further ap-

Suggestion That Involves Frontage Tax in Certain Area Which Will Be Considered.

A reader of The Advertiser, having paper regarding the beautification of the city, asked if the snow-cleaning problem might not be solved by dividing the more congested portion of the the census department: Toronto Cen- city into districts that could be given to the care of old men whom the city has to help anyway, they to keep the streets clear and be paid by the residents by a frontage tax. To a number of the aldermen who considered the suggestion this morning the scheme seemed feasible, though it was pointed out by one that there exists a deeprooted aversion to a tax of that kind. It should be remembered, however, that a more deeply-rooted aversion to slush and streets running with water exists, and is expressed more often and forcibly. The merits of the idea will be considered at the next meeting of the board of works.

The difficulty that confronts the aldermen is one that we all labor under more or less-mostly more-lack of it can do this year to get through within their allowance, and the mem bers, while equally anxious with other condition, can see no way to do it, unless it be that the experiment with the frontage system is made. Otherwise, they must, of necessity, wait until provision for such work is made in the estimates of next year, which would mean that there would be no improvement this winter. It is to be hoped that the aldermen will tempt Fortune, and do something now. No citizen wants the streets as they were last year, a menace to health and the cause of endless discomfort, and the board or individual alderman who betters conditions in this respect will merit the applause of his

PROPOSITION NOT FAVORED

Little Chance of Park Avenue Land Being Given Away.

Aldermen Do Not Look Graciously Upon the Christie-Douglass Scheme of Improvement.

Mr. John Christie and several other property owners have petitioned the city council to grant them the free use of 30 feet of public property along Park avenue to Kent street, upon the understanding that handsome twostory brick residences would then be erected, and convert a disreputableappearing route of out-sheds into a handsome thoroughfare. As it appears on the surface, the proposition is a pretty one, but there are considerations which make the granting of the petition extremely improbable. How it is viewed by several of the aldermen may be judged by the elegant remark of one member of the council, who said yesterday: "Well, you can just put this in your noddle—they won't get it." The aldermen appear indisposed to sell the property, much less give it away. Many prominent citizens have interviewed those in authority, protesting against granting the petition, not alone because it might establish an unwise precedent, observed the suggestions in last night's but for practical reasons, as well. For instance, they ask what would the effect be if Mr. Christie, ex-Ald. Douglass and a few others erected houses that jutted out upon the street, while their poorer neighbors were unable to do so. It is possible that this might happen. One gentleman, who is interested in the scheme, while trying to inject some enthusiasm into an alde man, was asked why the prop owners did not buy the land desired and his answer was that some were too poor to do so. If that is so, how many handsome two-story brick houses will these peopleerect? Judging by the view of the request taken by many aldermen, who have spoken of it, the Christie-Douglass proposition has little chance of being entertained by this Possibility That a Corps of 600 Picked Canadians May Be Raised for Service in South Africa.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Nov. 19.-Hon. Dr. Borden returned this afternoon from Boston, being called back on account of the cables which are passing between the Dominion and the Imperial Governments, in regard to the possibility of recruiting another corps in Canada for South Africa. Nothing definite, however will be done about the matter until the premier returns. He is expected this evening, and a council meeting has been called for tomorrow, when no doubt a statement will be given out by the government in regard to the whole matter. If the imperial authorities accept a mounted corps, such as was embodied in the Merritt offer, then there will be no difficulty in equipping and outfitting the same. It is likely it would be comprised of 600 picked men, principally good shots and horsemen from the west, and that the imperial authorities would pay the cost of outfitting and transport as well as horses However, it has not yet been made clear what the British Government desires, but whatever is wanted, Canada will certainly give.

CHAPTER XXXV.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Rosa Stanly was very kind to Elsie!

Happy herself in the prospect of her approaching wedded bliss, she could well afford to be generous to this girl whose beauty, grace and indescribable charm had formed a talisman so powerful that Dwen had become first bewildered, then attracted, then fascinated, and afterwards deeply in love with her, penniless and nearly friendless as she was.

Elsie had not robbed Miss Stanly of Owen's love, for the heiress had never Owen's love, for the heiress had never awakened one spark of passion, nor even one flutter of tenderness in the young man's breast The more she thought over the past the more Rosa wondered at her former self, and at the manner in which she had accepted Owen's scarcely civil attendance on her as the devotion of a lover, the assiduities of a future Ausband. How rough, and cold, and car less he had always been of her! He nover paid her a compliment in his life. He had blundered most awkwardly when he had proposed to her; he had blushed and stammered. and hesitated, and repeated himself, and unsaid part of what he had been saying; and she had set down his shame at his own act of fortune-hunting as an evidence of his timid, boyish love for herself!

Self!
She understood it all now, and she forgave him freely—and, what was more, she forgave Elsie also; but the wounds her heart and her vanity had received were healed by this time. She knew that Eldred Barker loved her honestly if not passionately, and that soon she would be one of the happiest wives in the wide world.

world. And meanwhile she dared not think what Elsie—pale, beautiful child—would suffer during those months when Rosa afterwards her blissful honeymoon passed afterwards her blissful honeymoon passed saw, first her wedding-morning, and under Italian skies, painted as it were, in colors of vermition and gold against the glowing horizon of her own future. Poor unhappy Elsie! her lover would lie buried in a felon's grave under prison walls! Life would have lost its sweetness and youth 4ts brightness; the world ness and youth its brightness; the world would be as a waste, howling wilderness. She loved the imprisoned man—around whom a hideous network of evidence was daily being woven—with the love that saps the strength of youth when it is doomed to disappointment. She would never, never forget him! She would never give her hand or heart to another; the horor of his ignominators and would the horror of his ignominious end would always hang like a funeral pall between always hang like a funeral pall between her bright eyes and the sun. She would be no companion for Rosa in her cheerful future home when all these horrible preliminaries of trial, and condemnation, and evidence were over—when the sentence was spoken and the last dread penalty of the law was paid.

"She ought to go to her father when it is over," her well-wishers said. "Complete change of scene and the long sea voyage might help her to forget the past."

If not," Rosa would say, with tears in her eyes, "she will enter a sisterhood, or something, and starve and work herself to death in twelve months! And it is a pity! she has has such an amiable tem-per! she is so unselfish, and she used to be so lively!"

be so lively!"

Elsie did not give many thoughts to her dreary, desolate future. After that day was past she hoped that she would be able to rejoin her father.

And then one morning she received a letter from him, in which he announced his marriage with a wealthy American widow. He sent Elsie a present of twenty pounds. He told her he hoped to be able often to send her presents. But his wife was young, and Elsie was told for her comfort by her aunts, who wrote her a long and rather bitter letter, that she must expect in the course of years that her father and his second wife would be surrounded by numerous olive-branchesshe had henceforth lost all right and all hope of sharing her father's exile or his home.

"I would not go to him now if he asked me!" she wrote, in answer to her aunts' stiff and prosy letter. "I could not submit to a strange woman in my mother's place. Besides, he does not even hint at such a thing. I shall qualify myself as a hospital nurse. I am not cheerful enough to be a governess."

Elsie received a very angry letter from her aunts in reply; but she did not answer it.

her aunts in reply; but she did not answer it.

"Cheer up," said Rosa Stanly. "I think you will cheer up when it is all over."

She whispered the last two words, and Elsie started as if she had been shot; then she seized Rosa's arm in so vice-like a grasp that the stout little heiress was quite alarmed at her excitement.

"I pray," she said, "that if that happens I may die before the day; but if not, I have chosen my, career among the sick and the suffering. Henceforth," added the beautiful girl, her slender frame quivering with the intense emotion that she strove to repress and control, "I shall cast in my lot among the miserable. I shall have no synspathy with the gay and the happy: I should be as a 'death's head at the wine. You will be anxious to be rid of me."

"No, no, dear Elsie! I should like you to come abroad with us! I should like you to come abroad with us! I should like you to see you forget, if you could, poor. Owen. If in a desperate rage he really did kill his cousin, as everything now seems to prove he did, what can they do but find him guilty? You know, Elsie, that if money could purchase his release, my father and myself would gladly spend thousands to secure it."

"I know that," said Elsie, gloomily.

thousands to secure it."
"I know that," said Elsie, gloomily,

"and I know that he is innocent. I can't prove it," she added, after a pause, "but I know it all the same. Still, there seems no means of proving anything in his favor. If mortal skill could get him of Basil Byrne could; but he gives me, oh! so little hope!" She clasped her hands as she spoke, and looked piteously upward.

as she spoke, and looked piteously upward.

"After all," said Rosa, trying, but rather clumsily, to comfort Elsie, "it's not as if you had been properly and happily sngaged to Owen. You had only met at chance moments; and though he contrived to make such passionate love to you, how do you know that if this dreadful thing had not happened that you would ever have been happy together? If Lord Hammond had Ilved, Owen would have been poor and struggling all his life; and you—"

white, worn, strange face that I saw last week, standing, looking as mysterious as a man who has lain in the tomb and awakened again to life, and who dares not reveal the secrets of the dead! Rosa Stanly was dull one evening. Her curate lover was called away to the deathbed of a distant relative in Yorkshire, who had suddenly resolved to make a will in his favor. What was Rosa to do with herself? She had no engagements that evening. It was July, and nearly everyone was out of town. In three days more she, with her father and Elsle, were to return to Bracebridge Hall, previous to starting for Switzerland.

"I know what I will do," Rosa said to herself. "I will go to the house of that Pauline Bracegirdle, just for curiosity's sake. She said she had something to tell me about somebody. I wonder if I can possibly persuade Elsie to come."

She sought Elsie, who she found seated in a corner of the library, vainly trying to fix her mind on a novel.

"All the trials of these heroes and heroines," she said to herself, "are pigmy trials compared to mine. Most of them make their own troubles, and admire them afterwards." She flung down the book impatiently, and Rosa advanced and told her what she wanted her to do them afterwards." She flung down the book impatiently, and Rosa advanced and told her what she wanted her to do.
"It does not matter very much," said Elsie, with a hopeless smile on her pale face, a smile which Rosa did not like. "You know that this woman and her father contrived to get me sent off to Paris by means of a faise telegram, and they know that the work was the work of the Rosa did not like." they kept me there until Mr. Basil Byrne released me. I don't thin: they will like to receive me uninvited; but if you wish

Paine's Gelery Compound DOES THE GOOD WORK.

A Cured Man Says: 'It Would Mean the Use of Pages to Tell One Half of What Paine's Celery Compound Has Done for Me."

That great and noble genius, Professor Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., the discoverer of Paine's Celery Compound spent years in perfecting his precription before he gave it to a world of suffering and disease. Years of severe tests and tens of thousands of precious lives saved, have all combined to make Paine's Celery Compound the sent day popular family medicine. Paine's Celery Compound has til umphed over numberless cases of foul and deep-seated blood diseases. It effectually cleanses the blood, braces the weak nerves, builds up flesh and a constitution capable of resisting sickness and disease. Mr. A. E. Hammond, Masonville, P. Q., cured by Paine's Celery Compound, writes thus:

"Some five years ago it was my sad misfortune to be afflicted with scrofula sores, of which I hall five on one leg and three on the other. These were

THE WORLD OF SPORTS.

FISTIC.

THE "COFFEE COOLER" SETTLED London, Nov. 19.—At the National Sporting Club in London last night, Jack O'Brien, of Philadelphia, defeated Frank Craig, the "Harlem Coffee Cooler," after seven rounds of a ten-round bout. The "Harlem Coffee Cooler" was disqualified for falling without a blow. O'Brien was ill last week, and Charles McKeever, a Philadelphia welter-weight, offered to take his place, but yesterday O'Brien decided to meet Craig. He was a strong favorite in the betting, and in spite of his bad condition, did almost all the scoring in a farcical and disappointing contest. Craig made several wild rushes, and repeatedly fell without a blow. Kid McCoy and McKeever have challenged the winner, and it is probable that a match will be arranged between McKeever and O'Brien.

HIS BLESSINGS. Thanksgiving Day is drawing near, The proclamation has been made,
The proclamation has been made,
The turkey seeks the highest tree,
Of fatal accidents afraid.
I'm thinking of the festal day,
As it approaches, more and more,
And it occurs to me to ask What have I to be thankful for?

Well, first of all my debts are large—
I'm thankful they're not larger still!
Three children have the measles now—
I'm thankful that the rest aren't ill!
I lost my job a week ago—
I'm thankful that it held so long!
My wife is in the hospital—
I'm thankful I am well and strong!

My dearest friend is far away-

I'm thankful that he did not die! My brother passed away last week— I'm thankful that it wasn't I! But why prolong the grateful list?
To cite them all would be a bore,
I have so many, many things
This autumn to be thankful for!

FORMER LONDONER DIES Mr. Wm. Smith, 565 Richmond street, has received word of the death of his brother John at Belly River Ranch, N. W. T., on Oct. 23 last. In August last he was kicked in the head by a horse and subsequently underwent the operation of trepanning, but succumbed to his injuries. He was well known to many citizens, having held the position of secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Mutual Fire Insurance Company, of this city, for several years. About 18 years ago he left for the Northwest.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING. A Delaware dispatch says: Morley Forsythe went shooting with his friend, George Hawes, this morning, and on going alongside of a hill they came to a brush pile, Hawes taking the upper side and Forsythe the lower. Before coming to the brush heap the latter took hold of the trigger and cocked it, and seeing no game in the brush heap, Forsythe took hold of the trigger, and in doing so his foot slipped, at the same time losing hold of the trigger, and the gun was discharged, shooting Hawes in the neck, killing him instantly. Dr. Mitchell, coroner, made an investigation and decided an inquest not necessary.

DEATH OF POPULAR YOUNG MAN Herbert W. Steer, son of Wm. Steer, toria hospital yesterday morning. Deceased was 19 years of age and had contracted a cold while shooting last Monday, which developed into typhoid fever of such a serious nature that he was removed to Victoria Hospital Sunday, where all efforts to save his life were of no avail. The young man had een actively connected with the All Saints' Church, and was especially identified with the choir and the athletic association of the church. The concert projected by the association has been postponed on account of his death. The pastor of the church, Mr. Spence, offered prayers on Sunday for his recovery. DEATH OF MARCUS BURRIDGE.

Western British-American: The profoundest regret is felt in both Sons of St. George and Ancient Order of Forester circles in Lake Forest and Chicago at the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Marcus Burridge, at his home in Lake Forest, Ill. The deceased was a native of Plymouth, England, 40 years and 3 months old. He had been connected with the Order Sons of St. George for over six years, and was a past president of Jasmine Lodge, No. 409, being one of its charter members He had held office in that lodge continually for the past four and a half years. He had been a member of the Ancient Order of Foresters for some fifteen years, having joined that ganization at London, Ont. Mr. Burridge had been sick only two weeks, the disease being typhoid fever. The deceased leaves a widow and four children, two brothers, and a sister to mourn his loss, all of whom reside at Lake Forest. At the funeral a member of the Illinois Central Guard carried the Stars and Stripes, alongside another member, who carried the Union Jack, both flags draped in black.

THE MINISTER'S COFFEE

Hurt Him Worse Than the Devil Did

"I used the old-fashioned coffee from my babyhood, and like many others, thought I could not live without it. Was in the army four years during the Rebellion and came out very much broken in health. I was compelled to quit the active work of the ministry for more than a year at a time, suffering terribly from stomach and intestinal troubles and torpid liver, with the onsequent nervous headache and prostration, lumbago and rheumatism.

"Four years ago, being confined to bed with these troubles and ulceration of the liver, my physician positively forbade the use of coffee and brought me some Postum Cereal Food Coffee. Since that time, myself and family have used no other coffee. All my intestinal trouble has been greatly re-lieved, and I no longer suffer from rheumatism and very little from torpid liver or biliousness.

"I am fully convinced that coffee is very largely responsible for the greater part of all stomach, intestinal and liver troubles from which pepole suffer. I am now 58 years old, and my health has been so much improved that I do as much work as I ever did, and with about as much comfort. I can conscientiously attribute it chiefly to the use of Postum Cereal Food Coffee. There are several friends who have had valuable experience with the leaving off of coffee and the use of Postum Food Coffee. It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to help humanity to understand that the very general cause of sickness is, I consider, largely attributable to mistakes in the use of food and drink." Rev. J. A. Flickinger, pastor of the Lutheran Church, Ray's Hill, drink." burne: piano, solo, Miss Eleanora Edwards; solo, Miss Myra Pickard; sol

THE TRADING

Being Argued Before the Court of Appeals.

Is the Act of the Legislature Constitutional or Is It Not ?-That Is the Question.

Toronto, Nov. 18 .- Argument is being held this afternoon by the court of appeal in "the trading stamp case," specially submitted to the lieutenant-

The simple question is-had the legislature power to pass the act allowing towns and cities the right to pass bylaws preventing business being conducted by means of "trading stamps, coupons, or other similar devices?"

The exact wording of the act is: "For prohibiting the giving, selling, distributing or receiving of trading stamps, coupons or other similar devices; and for prohibiting the giving, selling or dealing therewith by any person, firm or corporation engaged in trade or business." The act further says: "No such bylaw shall apply to any merchant or manufacturer who places in or upon packages of goods or delivers to the purchasers of goods sold or manufactured by him, tickets or coupons to be redeemed by such merchant or manufacturer either in money or merchandise."

W. R. Riddell, K.C., for the Ontario Government declares that the act relates to property and civil rights and is therefore within the right of the Provincial Legislature to enact.

J. B. Clarke, K.C., for the Dominion
Trading Stamp Company, says: "It is in effect criminal law, and is therefore beyond the power of the legislature, and if not criminal law then it is an attempt to regulate trade and is therefore also solely within the power of the Dominion Government." The use of trading stamps, Mr. Clarke contends, is merely an incident to the business, a mode of keeping account of the business done by the merchant. The act, he contends, does not attempt to prohibit the offering of the "induce-ment" to customers to deal with particular merchants, for it allows merchants to give such induce-ments on their own account. So the stamps themselves are not an independent business, but merely an inci-dent to the business. A "receipt" for cash received would have the same effect as a stamp as is now the mode adopted in some cities in New York State. Similar legislation, he says, has been held to be beyond the power of legislatures in Massachusetts, Louisiana, Illinois, Rhode Island and other

The argument was not concluded at adjournment.
