GERMAN MINISTRY FAVORS MILITARY ACTION TO CHECK POLISH INVASION

TURKS IN WITHDRAWAL FROM CAUCASUS REGION CONTINUE ATROCITIES ON ARMENIANS

Enemy Disregarding Terms of the Armistice — Individual Turks Announce Intention To Deal Final Blow at Unfortunate People.

London, Jan. 3.—It is authoritatively announced that evidence has been received that the Turkish army, in withdrawing from invaded territories in the Caucasus region, has continued to commit outrages on the Armenians, in spite of the terms of the armistice. It is reported that individual Turks have announced their intention to deal a final blow at the unfortunate race.

An eyewitness reports having seen Armenians cruelly beaten and says that at one place he found the bodies of more than sixty women and children. Tortures were inflicted upon the living, he says, and the Turks have endeavored to carry away all available food, clothing and household goods, so that the fate of those who will escape immediate death appears to be certain. Homes are reported to have been destroyed and inhabitants of many districts have been driven away by the thousands. Grain taken by the Turks was allowed to rot in the rain and starving Armenians were prevented from even touching it under penalty of death, it is said.

ARMENIANS THROWN BY TURKS INTO THE SEA

Saloniki, Friday, Jan. 3.—Nazim Bey, former prefect of Kharput, in a letter to the Sabah of Constantinople, declares that he was removed from office by Talaat Pasha because he protested against the manner in which the Greeks and Armenians of Asia Minor were being exterminated. Nazim Bey adds that one of the methods used to exterminate these peoples was to throw them into the Black Sea and force them to drown. He says this was done by order of the Turkish Government.

AUXILIARY PATROL SERVICE PERFORMED GREAT WAR SERVICE

Hazardous Duties Carried Out in Heroic Manner.

KEPT THE SEAS

Crews Were Rescued From Boats Torpedoed or Wrecked.

London, Jan. 3.—Following is an extract from a message sent by the admiralty to the auxiliary patrol service:

"From the commencement of the war, the auxiliary patrol service was charged with the sweeping up of mines, and in this hazardous duty has saved many ships and earned the gratitude of the navy and the mercantile marine. By escorting convoys, it has brought safely to port hundreds of ships whose services were of supreme value and concern to the British Empire and its allies.

"When ships were mined, torpedoed or wrecked, auxiliary patrol vessels have been untiring in their efforts to rescue crews, and their seamanship, pluck and determination have resulted in the salvaging of many badly-damaged ships. When an enemy submarine was reported, it fell to the auxiliary patrol to attack by every available method, more involving the correct use of highly technical apparatus which the crews trained to handle with the greatest efficiency.

"In all their varied work around the coasts of the United Kingdom, in the Atlantic, on the African coast, in parts of the Mediterranean and Persian waters, members of the service have shown adaptability and readiness, both for hazardous deeds and monotony, arduous effort. This new navy of small craft created by the special needs of the war, has proved the vitality of the British instinct for the sea and has helped to bring the war to a victorious conclusion."

RUSSIANS WOULD WELCOME AID TO FIGHT BOLSHEVIKI

General Semenoff in Interview Declares Help Is Needed.

RECOVER FROM WOUNDS

Trouble Between Semenoff and Kolchak Remains Unsettled.

Chita, Trans-Baikalia, Sunday, Dec. 29.—By the Associated Press.—Defying the orders of his physicians, Gen. Semenoff, who was quite seriously wounded by fragments of a bomb thrown in a crowded theatre here recently, received the Associated Press correspondent today. With him he discussed briefly the crisis in Russia, declaring that Russians would welcome American troops in the battle against Bolshevism.

Asked if his differences with Admiral Kolchak had been adjusted, he replied in the negative.

"Admiral Kolchak sent troops to Irkutsk," he said, "so I cannot say we are friends; but my Cossacks will always work for the best interests of Russia."

British Parade Streets.

British troops have been paraded through the streets, and the belief that American forces are coming seems general. A strong force of Japanese is encamped in the suburbs and is apparently sufficient to control the situation.

The attempted assassination of Gen. Semenoff caused a temporary reign of terror here. He was attending the opera, and was seated in a box with a party, one of whom was a lady. Suddenly a man rose in the gallery and threw a bomb, which exploded at the feet of the general. The lady was unhurt, but another woman seated nearby was badly injured. A few others received wounds. Wild scenes followed. Cossacks rushed into the gallery and suspects were arrested. A few shots were fired during the excitement. The people were dispersed by Cossacks, assisted by Siberian cavalrymen. Sympathizers with Admiral Kolchak are accused of the crime by some of Gen. Semenoff's followers, but there is no proof that the charge is true.

AMERICANS ARE WELL PREPARED FOR WINTER CAMPAIGN IN RUSSIA

Official Report Shows Only 85 Deaths in Contingent.

Washington, Jan. 4.—An official report received from the American military attache with Ambassador Francis in Russia announced today by Gen. March, shows total deaths from all causes in the American forces in the Archangel region up to November 25, to be 85.

Later official reports, Gen. March said, shows that the military situation at Archangel is entirely in hand and that the troops are adequately fed and clothed for winter campaigning in that section.

IRISH SITUATION IS DAILY GROWING WORSE

Attention Must Be Given to Problem Soon Is General View.

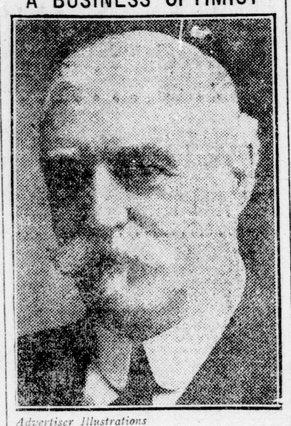

London, Jan. 4.—The Daily News, in an editorial discussion of a letter "from a highly-placed Englishman in Dublin," relative to conditions in Ireland, says:

"We have to choose now between a recognition of Ireland's rights, or the loss of our hardly-won union with America, and all that means to ourselves and the world. That is a cardinal fact in the menace of the Irish situation."

The newspaper "earnestly appeals" to Englishmen to "use all their influence to avert the disaster to the world which this threatens," and concludes by saying:

"A little longer will be too late."

ROME'S HISTORICAL SPOTS ARE VISITED BY PRES. WILSON

U. S. Executive Will Leave Italian Capital Tonight.

Rome, Jan. 4.—President Wilson took occasion early today to visit some of the historical spots in Rome. The president went to the Pantheon and laid wreaths upon the tombs of King Victor Emmanuel II. and King Humbert. His itinerary took him thence to the Lyceum Academy and the Roman forum.

This afternoon's program includes the president's visit to the Vatican and later his reception of the Protestant bodies of Rome at the American Episcopal Church. His visit to this capital closes tonight, with an informal dinner at the palace. His departure for the north is set for 9:30 o'clock.

PRESIDENT WILSON IS RECEIVED BY POPE AT VATICAN

Rome, Jan. 4.—President Wilson today was received at the Vatican by Pope Benedict.

The president's arrival was announced by the master of the chamber to the pope, who awaited the president in the throne room, where two gilded armchairs had been placed. The president was admitted immediately to the presence of the pope, who was gowned in white.

On his way to the throne room the president was accompanied by a procession of Vatican servants. As the president entered the antechamber to the papal apartments he was preceded by the pontifical chamberlain. Gendarmes in immense busbies and the Palatine guard, and the noble guard in their red tunics were drawn up to greet him.

WILSON BECOMES A ROMAN CITIZEN

Rome, Friday, Jan. 3.—President Wilson became a citizen of Rome tonight. The ceremony took place in the historic capitol, designed by Michael Angelo, and replete with suggestions of ancient and mediaeval Rome. Assisting in the services were King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, members of the Italian cabinet, members of the diplomatic corps, and municipal and military authorities.

ITALIAN DEPUTIES WARMLY RECEIVE PRESIDENT WILSON

Rome, Friday, Jan. 3—(By the Associated Press).—It seemed as if all Rome had turned out to cheer President Wilson on his drive from the Quirinal to the Parliamentary Building for the delivery of his address to the Chamber of Deputies, while his arrival in the Chamber was the signal for a notable ovation in which the distinguished gathering in the galleries joined. It was the first time in the history of the Parliament that a foreign guest had been greeted inside the Parliament Building by the Senate and Chamber assembled in joint session. All the members of the Parliament joined in the ovation as the president was ushered in by the presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies.

The cheering on the president's entrance lasted five minutes on the part of the eight hundred members and the thousand or more invited guests. In the tribunes, besides King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, were the Duchess of Aosta, the Duke of Genoa, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson and the diplomatic corps.

The League of Nations was foretold by Plato, while the spirit of Christopher Columbus exults today over the Italo-American union, said Giuseppe Marcora, president of the Chamber of Deputies, in addressing President Wilson.

JAPAN WILL WITHDRAW 24,000 OF HER TROOPS FROM SIBERIA; CLAIMS INTERVENTION FAILED

Tokio Dispatch Is to Effect That Smallest Possible Japanese Force Will in Future Be Maintained in Northern Russia.

London, Jan. 4.—Announcement that 24,000 Japanese troops will be withdrawn from Siberia is reported by a Tokio dispatch to the Express, quoting an official statement issued by the Japanese war office on December 27. The statement, according to the dispatch, says that Japan intends to maintain henceforth only the smallest possible forces in Siberia.

"Public opinion here," says the dispatch, "deplores the withdrawal. Allied observers, Americans as well as British, speak bitterly of the intervention as being, relatively, a failure, owing to disunity among the allies and their mutual jealousies."

ACROPOLIS EXPRESS WILL BE ESTABLISHED AT AN EARLY DATE

Completion of Railway Is the Initial Step to Larger Project.

PARIS TO ATHENS LINE

An Important Move Made in Work of War Reconstruction.

Paris, Friday, Jan. 3.—Announcement that the "Acropolis express," connecting Paris and Athens, will soon be established points to one of the most important steps in the work of reconstruction following the war. It is the first connection between Western Europe and the Near East, and is the initial step to the larger project of extending the railroad further east through Constantinople and northward to Odessa.

Ultimately it is planned to realize a Bordeaux to Bagdad route, which will take the place of the Teuton scheme of a railroad from Berlin to the city of Haroun-Al-Raschid.

Austrian control down to the Adriatic has hitherto prevented the completion of the line, except under German supervision. The creation of the new Jugo-Slav state, however, now permits the building of the entire line under allied influence.

It will run through Milan, Venice, Trieste, Agram, Belgrade, Nish, Larissa, Uskup and thence to Athens.

The name of the new express is a tribute to the greatest monument of ancient Greece. Further extension of the line is being studied by the French ministry of commerce.

LAST OF WOUNDED ARE REMOVED FROM STRANDED STEAMER

Soldiers Aboard Army Transport Conveyed to Hospital Ship.

Fire Island, Jan. 3.—Removal of 200 wounded, the last of the army transport Northern Pacific's soldier passenger list aboard the stranded liner, was begun early today under clearing skies, and in an even sea. Submarine chasers and naval launches, carrying the men to the hospital ship Solace, were expected to complete the operation before noon.

Four naval launches drew alongside the ship, which developed a heavier seaward list during the night, and the hospital ship Solace took a position closer in-shore in preparation for the rescue of the wounded veterans of European battlefields. Many of those remaining on board are litter cases, thus adding to the difficulties of rescue.

Friendships Will Be Cemented by Visits of Fleets

Admiral Rodman Declares the King Approves Heartily of Idea.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Admiral Rodman, commanding the United States fleet on the North Sea, said the proposed annual visits of the British fleet to this country and of the American fleet to England would help greatly to cement the feeling of friendship between the nations.

On one occasion when King George visited the American ship New York, Admiral Rodman said, "he heartily approved my these proposed visits, saying that they would tend towards making permanent the feeling of friendship which is infinitely more binding than any treaty that could be signed. The King suggested that part of the fleet accompany the Prince of Wales when he comes to the United States next spring."

NOTHING TO DRINK BUT SOUP, SWEARS SOLDIER WHO CAME ON THE NORTHLAND

Inquiry Into Army Transport Conditions Is Resumed.

STEAMER IS HELD

Delay, It Is Stated, Will Cost About Eight Thousand Dollars a Day.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—"I never heard so much kicking in my life," was the way in which Company Q. M. S. Flood of Toronto summed up conditions on the Northland, when the investigation was resumed before Judge Hodgins this morning. During the first few days a number of the men were sick, and unable to take food. As rations were drawn for all, there were then no complaints about insufficiency. But later there were complaints at every meal. Ventilation in the men's section was also bad.

The Northland was due to sail for England at 10 a.m. today. She is being held, however, to enable her officers to give evidence at the inquiry. While the terms on which the admiralty took over the Northland on a time charter have not been made public, it is stated that the delay will cost in the neighborhood of $8,000 per day.

Staff Quartermaster-Sergt. Harry Gibbons told of having been handed a subscription list, which he was instructed to circulate among the non-commissioned officers so that they could contribute something for the chief and second stewards. At the head of the list it was stated that the money was contributed because the non-commissioned officers were receiving first instead of second class meals. Sergt. Gibbons had collected £3 or a little over, which he handed to the conducting sergeant-major, Parker. He did not know what was done with the money.

Company Quartermaster-Sergt. Flood of Toronto said that for the first two or three days the men appeared to have enough to eat. There were a number of seasick, and as rations for all were drawn there was enough. Later, however, there were complaints by the men at every meal.

"I never heard so much kicking in my life," Sergt. Flood added.

"Did that go on to the end of the voyage?" Mr. Orde queried.

"I never noticed any improvement. There were constant complaints at every meal."

He said that at dinner the whole ration—soup, meat and pudding—would be served at once.

"Did they have anything to drink?"

Nothing to Drink But Soup.

"Nothing to drink but the soup."

"What do you say as to the quality of the food?"

"I would say it was as good as the army supply."

About the fourth or fifth day out the men began to complain about hav-

PEOPLE'S COUNCIL IS FORMED TO COMBAT THE POLISH MENACE

Germans Prepare To Meet Invasion of the Poles.

Copenhagen, Jan. 4.—"A people's council to combat the Polish danger" has been established at Danzig, and a military force will be recruited, according to reports from Berlin.

In Southern Posen, the Poles have occupied the frontier town of Skalmierzyse and destroyed the fortress there. The German garrisons at Ostrovo and Krotoschin, west of the frontier, are threatened seriously.

FIRE AT PAPER PLANT CAUSES $100,000 DAMAGE

Montreal, Jan. 4.—Damage estimated by the officials of the company at $100,000, was done by fire at the premises of the Belgo Canadian Pulp and Paper Company, Shawinigan Falls, yesterday. The fire is thought to have started through a defective electric wire in a shed used for depositing paper to be shipped. There were fifteen cars loaded with pulp and paper in the shed, and these with the shed were destroyed.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT IS SAID TO HAVE DECIDED ON ACTION TO CHECK POLISH INVASION

Socialist Newspapers Voice Indignation Over What They Term Unjustifiable Attitude of the Poles—Possible Irruption of Russian Bolshevik Troubles Teutons.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—By the Associated Press.—The German cabinet today continued its consideration of the Polish question, but no announcement has yet been made.

The Tageblatt says it learns that the pessimistic view of the situation held by Minister Ernst, who has just returned from Posen, is not shared by the Government, which is believed to have decided that military action is necessary in order to check the Polish invasion. The cabinet also is reported to be considering military measures to prevent the irruption of the Russian Bolshevik across the eastern frontier.

Poles Capture Junction.

Special dispatches to the Berlin newspapers report that a Polish invasion is feared in the coal mining region of Upper Silesia. The Poles, it is declared, have captured the railway junction of Nakel, west of Bromberg, and the invaders also threatened Schneidemunt and Beutscher. In Southern Posen the Poles threaten Kosten. Further north they have taken Mogilno and Znin.

The Socialist Vorwaerts and the Bourgeoise papers join in voicing indignation over what they call the unjustifiable attitude of the Polish Government. The organs of the Independent Socialists and the Spartacans are the only papers to oppose military action against the Poles.

The newspapers comment favorably on the alleged order given by the British Government to a British officer to accompany Ignace Jan Paderewski to Warsaw.

BOLSHEVIKI LEAVE TRAIL OF MURDER, ROBBERY AND ARSON

Enemy Troops Are Reported On the Outskirts of Vilna — Throngs of Refugees Arriving in Warsaw.

Warsaw, Jan. 2.—(By the Associated Press).—Bolshevist forces are reported in the outskirts of Vilna and towns on the railway between Minsk and Brest-Litovsk, and are said to have been occupied by them. The Bolshevists are reported to be burning buildings and robbing and murdering peasants as they advance. Throngs of refugees are arriving here by railway, carts and on foot. The baggage belonging to them has, in many cases, been stolen en route.

Locomotives and cars are being brought westward from the path of the Bolshevist forces by the retiring Germans.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA GROWING WORSE UNDER BOLSHEVIK REIGN

Peasants Are Butchered.

Warsaw, Jan. 4.—(By the Associated Press).—The retiring German soldiers are selling their arms through Soldiers' Councils to the peasants, and the Bolshevik, according to Count Wankovics, a landowner in the Government of Minsk, who has arrived here with his family. The German officers, he reports, are helping themselves to the armored automobiles, horses, wagons and other material. In one instance, 30 automobiles were sold for sixty thousand roubles.

Countess O'Brien de Lacy, who has arrived in Warsaw from Baronovichi, declares that existence in that region is impossible for those of the well-to-do classes. Private property no longer exists.

The countess told of the murder of a family with which she was acquainted. The only one of ten persons who escaped alive was the wife. The rope with which she was hung broke and she dropped to the floor, where, feigning death, she saw her husband and eight children butchered by the peasants.

According to all reports reaching here, conditions in Russia are growing worse. Released Russian prisoners coming out of Germany remain in Poland rather than continue the journey into Russia. The correspondent saw a group of former prisoners beating up a Bolshevik agent at the railway station. The Russians declared: "If we had the chance we would gladly fight the Bolshevik."

GERMANY IS NOT STARVING, DECLARES HERBERT HOOVER

Teutons Need More Fats, But Otherwise They Can Manage.

Paris, Jan. 4.—Herbert C. Hoover, United States food administrator, in a statement on the food situation in Europe, says that since his arrival he has been co-operating with the officials of the allied governments in an investigation of the food situation, and has ascertained that the population of Germany certainly has enough stocks of food to carry on for awhile, with the exception of fat supplies, which are undoubtedly very short and are developing some condition of disease and a great deal of social discontent.

"The determination of conditions and measures necessary to relieve the liberated territories, however, must be our first concern," said Mr. Hoover. "These territories comprise Belgium, Northern France, Trentino, Serbia, Montenegro, Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, Poland, and Finland, and the Baltic states of Russia; and Armenia and Syria, comprising altogether populations aggregating probably 125,000,000 persons."

BOLSHEVIK GOVT. DELEGATE GOING TO PEACE CONFERENCE

Adolphe Joffe Will Claim Admission to Meetings.

Paris, Jan. 4.—The Bolshevik Government of Russia intends to send Adolphe Joffe, the former Bolshevik ambassador at Berlin, as its delegate to Paris to claim admission to the peace conference, according to the Echo de Paris today.

170 U-BOATS UNDER CONSTRUCTION WILL GO TO THE ALLIES

Newest Battleship, the Baden, Will Be Surrendered at an Early Date.

London, Jan. 4.—One hundred and seventy submarines, all under construction, were found when the inter-allied naval commission visited Germany to make arrangements for the carrying out of the terms of the armistice, according to the newspapers here. These U-boats it is said, will be turned over to the Allies.

BATTLESHIP BADEN WILL BE SURRENDERED AT A BRITISH PORT

London, Jan. 3.—Germany's newest battleship, the Baden, will be surrendered at a British port within a few days, in accordance with the terms of the armistice, according to announcement here.

The Baden is a battleship of the very latest type. It has a displacement of 28,000 tons. Owing to the fact that this ship was completed after the war began, little is known as to its armament. It has been reported that ships of this class had been armed with 16.5 or 17-inch guns, but information on this point has been meagre and unreliable.

BRITISH FORCES HAVE NOT BEEN LANDED AT THE PORT OF LIBAU

Admiral Commanding Squadron to Remain Until Gulf Freezes.

Warsaw, Thursday, Jan. 2—(By the Associated Press).—The Russian Baltic port of Libau, according to reports received here, is protected by one British cruiser, three destroyers and one gunboat. The British warships, however, have landed no forces.

The admiral commanding the squadron visited the Lithuanian committee at Vilna and promised to remain at Libau until the Gulf of Riga had begun to freeze.

CITY SUNDAY SCHOOLS WILL HEAR TOMORROW OF ARMENIAN NEEDS

Two Million Will Be Raised On Continent For Relief.

Tomorrow is Sunday school visitation day, when every Sunday school on the continent will be canvassed in order to raise $2,000,000 for Armenian and Syrian relief work. The International Sunday School Association is working hand in hand with the Armenian and Syrian relief committee of New York, which is endeavoring to raise $30,000,000. Both the International Sunday School Association, which has its headquarters in Chicago, and the Ontario Sunday School Association, have chosen Ed. Reid, of this city, and Frank Whitehall of London Township to carry out the work in this section of the province. A meeting of the Middlesex Sunday school teachers in order to organize for the campaign was held in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon.

"The land where Christianity had its birth," said Mr. Whitehall, "is asking for a practical demonstration of that Christianity now. All the denominations have united to answer this call from the east, and a campaign has been launched to raise two million dollars from the Sunday schools of North America. Every Sunday school is asked to give a Christmas season offering to Armenian and Syrian relief work.

Hope of Western Asia.

"These people, who are the hope of civilization in Western Asia, have endured, and are enduring, such suffering as our American minds cannot conceive. They have been massacred and deported. Men have been separated from their families and ruthlessly murdered. Attractive women and girls have been sold as slaves or taken by the Turks. The rest of the women and children have been driven into the mountains and the desert, and the path over which these refugees have gone is strewn with the dead. In the past two years over one million have died from massacre, deportation, exposure and disease. But the dead no longer challenge us; it is those who live and can yet be saved.

"The ravages of war the past year have added to the horror. The Turkish armies have destroyed everything in their wake. Four million people destitute of home, clothed only in rags, are facing the cold of winter and starvation. One million of these can be reached by relief agencies. Four hundred thousand of them are orphans. The relief agencies can do nothing unless North America furnishes the money.

"The Armenian and Syrian relief committee have already done a wonderful work in ministering to these suffering people and have been enabled to save thousands of lives. The committee is directed by leading men of the continent, and its work has been highly indorsed by President Wilson and Sir Robert Borden, the premier of Canada, and by ex-presidents Roosevelt and Taft. One feature of the work of the committee is unique. It is enabled to devote all money collected for relief work to the immediate cause for which it is given. Expenses for collection, printing, postage and administration and the transmitting of funds, are met privately. Distribution of all supplies is cared for by the American consular forces and American missionaries, whose services are loaned for this ministry."

SUSPENSE HASTENED DEATH OF MRS. WATT

Had Not Heard From Son, a German Prisoner, Since October 8.

Mrs. P. J. Watt, wife of Peter Watt, died at St. Joseph's Hospital on Thursday morning. Mrs. Watt had been in ill-health for some time, but it was thought by her attending physician that the anxiety over her son, from whom no word had been received since October 8, has hastened the end. Her son, Corp. Bob Watt, has been in Germany as a prisoner, for over three years, and after the signing of the armistice, when no word of his release came, Mrs. Watt broke down under the suspense of waiting to hear word from him.

Mrs. Watt was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Inkson of Hamilton, where she was born. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Capt. John Watt of the firm of Watt & Blackwell, architects, and Corp. Bob Watt in Germany, and one daughter, Mrs. Bradford of Vancouver, B. C. Mrs. Bradford had come to spend the holiday season with her mother, and was with her at the time of her death.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon from the family residence at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. Canon Tucker will conduct the services. Interment will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

LONDON BIRDMAN SAFE IN ENGLAND

FLIGHT LIEUT. BERT PERRY

LIEUT. BERT PERRY, AFTER YEAR IN HUN CAMPS, IS SAFE IN ENGLAND

After being in the hands of the Huns for over a year, Flight-Lieut. Bert Perry of this city has now safely arrived in England. This welcome news was received in a cable to his father, George E. Perry, 400 Burwell street, yesterday, which stated that he had landed safely at Liverpool, and was with relatives there.

"Jinx," as he was known to his friends and thousands of readers of The Advertiser sport page, of which he was for years editor, enlisted with the 180th Sportsmen's Battalion at Toronto in March, 1916, transferring to the Royal Flying Corps in November of that year.

He was not long in France before he was taken prisoner. He was out one day with a party of small scout machines, when a group of German machines was encountered. These the British fliers attacked and put to flight. Proceeding, they encountered a party of more powerful German machines, and a terrific fight took place at an altitude of approximately 16,000 feet.

Lieut. Perry's machine was riddled with machine gun bullets, and as a result his engine soon went "dud."

He piloted his machine down, and though it was wrecked, neither he nor his observer were hurt. The Germans continued firing on them after they landed, and they were soon prisoners.

From the day he was captured, October 18, 1917, until his release after the armistice was signed, he was located in three prison camps, the last time at Schweidnitz in Silesia.

STARTLING STATEMENTS OF IRREGULARITY IN CANADA'S PENSION LAWS MARKED MEETING HELD IN ST. ANDREW'S HALL

Major Hume Cronyn Was Speaking on "Our Soldiers' Pensions"—Borden Government Condemned—Medical Boards Declared To Be Improperly Constituted.

"It seems to me that the country should learn as much as possible on the subject," said Major Hume Cronyn, speaking in St. Andrew's Hall last night, on "Our Soldiers' Pensions." "The more that we know on it, the better the chance of improving the system. The pensions law affects everyone, not only beneficiaries, but everyone who contributes to it.

"It appears to me that Canadians are always going to be willing to bear any burden of the war," he said, mentioning as an example of this spirit the recent granting of gratuities.

"Heretofore," he continued, "Canada has had no pension legislation. Britain looked after the South African men. After that there was a short act dealing with the men of the permanent force." Mr. Cronyn explained that the widows of these men received only $150 per year. "Most of the pension enactments since the war have been by order-in-council, which contains sections that are ambiguous, and others which contradict each other.

No Comprehensive Act.

"That there was no comprehensive pensions act," was his assertion. He declared that there should be "a comprehensive act based on Canadian experiences, and we all should express our opinion on it."

Up to June 1, 1918, 35,000 pensions were awarded and $1,000 per month were considered. In 1916 there had been $2,000,000 spent for the purpose; in 1917, $8,000,000; in 1918, $15,000,000, and this year it was expected that last year's amount would be doubled. "We've got to carry the burden year by year as it comes up," he said.

According to the speaker, a totally disabled man receives $600 per year, $96 if he has a wife, and $96 for every child. A widow of a soldier receives $480 per year and $96 for every child. The following sums were paid to totally disabled men in the following countries: New Zealand, $505; Australia, $375; United States, $360; Great Britain, $351; Italy, $243, and France, $240. In the United States, he remarked, insurance money was also paid.

Favored English Method.

The difficult problem, the speaker declared, was to deal with those who were partially disabled. They, he said, were divided into 20 classes. The following points were mentioned as determining factors in the amount of the pension granted: (1) pre-war earnings; (2) value of men on untrained labor market.

One of the things in connection with the pensions system which, he said, was of great importance was that no deduction was made in the pension if the man began to earn more money than he had when he received the pension.

The English method of dealing with the problem by means of local committee was a good plan, he thought, because more interest could be taken in the man receiving the pension, because those on the committee were acquainted with him. "I would like to see something of that kind established here," he remarked.

The insuring of the men by municipalities ceased, the speaker said, because Canada would be swayed by the immediate payment of so much insurance money, in the United States, he said, the soldiers were insured for amounts as high as $10,000. The insurance is paid to dependants in twenty monthly installments. In one year $36,000,000 insurance had been written; $170,000,000 had been paid out to dependants of "flu" victims. Those who are totally disabled receive money for the remainder of their lives.

Many of the complaints in Canada resulted from the findings of the medical boards. In mentioning the fact that men received no money for disabilities which they had had before entering the army, and which had been aggravated by service, but only for the aggravation, he said, "I don't believe a board or any person could tell how much that disability was aggravated by service."

Mr. Cottam Criticises.

At the close of the speech John Cottam declared that the way in which the returned private soldiers were treated by those who had to do with the carrying out of the pension system should not be tolerated, and declared that officers were not treated in such a manner. Mr. Cottam thought some outside body should be appealed to to determine questions of pensions.

"What excuse have you for a totally disabled soldier receiving $8 per month pension?" asked Mr. Cottam.

"I would not like to express an opinion," said the speaker of the evening.

When capitalists lost money through the war, remarked Mr. Cottam, they were asked to send in their claims, but when men returned crippled, nothing was done for them. "The Government has got to see that these men are educated and fitted to make a living. It must be done, and the Government knows right well that it can be done. These men have no right, he said, to be dismissed from the pay roll of the country, even if they are discharged from the army. "I say to you, Major Cronyn, not personally, but in your official position, that you ought to answer to your heart," he concluded.

Municipalities Could Help.

John Laughton, who was in the chair, thought that the municipalities should do something to help some of the cases. He mentioned a case, which appeared in the paper recently, of a woman whose husband had died, after he had been discharged from the army, from a disease which he had contracted while in the army, as one of the cases that should be looked after by the municipality. The wife of the man, he said, had been forced to go out washing for a living, as she received no pension.

After the Civil War, he declared, the soldiers went in rags for eight years until the Sons of Veterans Association was organized and the men's rights were secured. He said that all who had blood in this war ought to get behind the men.

A returned man arose and declared that, although he could not use his right arm, and so was unable to earn anything, he was only given $7.50 per month pension, and his wife was only given $1.20. He said that the medical board told him that that was all he was worth.

"It was an insult," declared a man in the audience.

Major A. Calder declared that men who had not been overseas were on the medical boards, and they had a tendency not to look upon a man's case in the same light as a doctor who had been overseas.

Major Cronyn said that a medical board should not be recognized unless there was a returned man on it. He said that there should also be a civilian on each board.

Another returned man said that he had been recommended for a pension of 25 cents per month, and was told that he was just as fit as he ever was. He said that he couldn't see how a man could be the same after he had been to the front.

A civilian in the audience declared that these complaints had been heard since the first of the war, and that the Government had had plenty of time to remedy them. Some of the men, he declared, had been rated as 2 per cent disabled, when they should have been rated as 95 per cent. All kinds of promises had been made to the men when they went away, he said, but the Government was not living up to its promises.

THREE BABY CLINICS WEEKLY FOR CITY IS PLAN OF NURSE

Will Be Held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The well baby clinics, of such importance as preventive and educational work in reducing infant mortality, will be inaugurated in this city, beginning a week from Monday. Miss Bertha Smith, child welfare nurse, made this important announcement to an enthusiastic general meeting of the London Child Welfare Association, the first in several months, held yesterday afternoon in the Western Fair office, Dominion Bank Building. Three well baby clinics will be held each week for the present, Dr. W. J. Tillmann, Dr. Lindsay and Dr. John I. Ferguson volunteering to take charge. A clinic will be held each Monday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Talbot street school; at Chesley avenue school on Wednesdays, from 3 to 5 p.m., and in Riverview school on Fridays, from 3 to 5. Dr. Tillmann to take the first, Dr. Lindsay the second and Dr. Ferguson the third.

Miss Smith stated that the services of volunteer helpers will be required. Miss Friend, the public health nurse, helps every way in her power, but still more assistance, not necessarily of trained nurses, will be needed. Inspector C. B. Edwards stated that he would see what could be done about having the school nurse for the district present at the clinic, and Mrs. Gemmill, representing the Union Mothers' Club, stated that arrangements would be made to have assistants from the mothers' clubs to help each week.

Meeting the Expense.

The mothers' clubs are furnishing the money for the initial expense of establishing the well baby clinics, about $100 for the three.

In view of the supreme patriotic importance of reducing the death rate among little children and saving them for healthy, vigorous and useful citizenship, an educational campaign is to be launched by the association, which will involve the bringing of speakers of experience in child welfare work to address public meetings. Among the names suggested were those of Dr. Hastings, M. O. H. of Toronto; Dr. Allen Brown, a recognized authority on child welfare; Mrs. Lowell Putnam of Boston, president of the American Amalgamated Child Welfare Association; Miss Kelly of the Burnside Hospital, Toronto; Dr. Josephine Blake, professor of child hygiene for New York State, etc.

A committee composed of Public Librarian F. Landon, Inspector C. B. Edwards, Mrs. George S. Gibbons and Miss Jennie Fidlar was named to get in touch by correspondence with some of the child welfare authorities, and if possible arrange for them to speak in London. The co-operation of other organizations will be sought in the matter.

The name of Dr. David Arnott was suggested to succeed the late Dr. Norman Beal as convener of the milk depot committee, and to meet with the committee and bring in a report re a pure milk supply for children, not only in summer, but during the winter as well. Mrs. David Williams quoted an eminent authority on the care of children, to the effect that the freezing of milk causes it to depreciate in nutritive value.

Total is Growing.

Miss Smith reported that 67 children have been added in the past six months to those brought to the children's clinic held each Tuesday morning in Victoria Hospital. At the present time there are 79 on the roll, and there is a growing tendency upon the part of mothers to take their little ones regularly to the clinic to have them weighed, for advice re feeding, etc. Since September 1 she has had 112 consultations and paid 300 visits, helping the mothers, demonstrating the preparation of food and the proper care of the children. She suggested the advisability of having "Little Mothers' Clubs," or something of the kind, formed in connection with domestic science classes in the school, in order to give the growing girls instruction in the care of babies and small children.

The London Child Welfare Association unanimously decided to affiliate itself with the American Association for the Prevention of Infant Mortality, in view of the benefit to be derived from receiving literature, copies of lectures and useful statistics.

The Child Welfare Association is joining the Union Mothers' Club in asking the council that a woman be appointed on the board of health, and have indorsed Mrs. W. S. Partridge, a graduate nurse, and woman of exceptional ability, as candidate. Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore, president of the Child Welfare Association, was appointed to appear before the council in support of such a measure.

Association's Aims.

A copy of the bylaws drafted for the guidance of the well baby clinics, as adopted, will be forwarded to each of the doctors in the city. Special attention is drawn to the fact that the aim of the association and clinics is to co-operate with and support the doctors in every possible way. This is brought out in the section which states, after giving a list of defects for which children are to be examined: "Any such defects to be brought to the notice of mothers, and mothers advised to have them remedied, either by referring to the family physician, or, if unable to pay for medical attendance, to the outdoor department of the hospital."

The bylaws are as follows:

Article I.

The clinics are for infants and children of pre-school age.

Article II.

The object of the clinics is not to treat disease, but to keep babies well by

(a) Advice.
(b) Encouraging breast feeding.
(c) Supervision.
(d) Instruction of mothers in the rules of hygiene.

Articles III.

The children brought to the clinics are to be examined for defects:

(f) Mal-nutrition.

Any such defects to be brought to the notice of mothers and mothers advised to have them remedied, either by referring to family physician, or, if unable to pay for medical attendance, to the outdoor department of the hospital.

Article IV.

Recognition of incipient diseases:

(a) Tuberculosis.
(b) Syphilis.
(c) Functional or organic diseases.

If any diseases detected, the mother to be advised to consult family physician, or, if unable to pay for medical attendance, to be referred to the outdoor department of the hospital.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

FROM AN INDIGNANT VETERAN.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

With our soul overwhelmed with righteous indignation, we have just read an account in the 'Tiser of how Gunner Talbot, a returned veteran, asked a biped clad in clerical garb the way to the L. and P. S. Station, and was told to take off THAT UNIFORM and go and work on a farm.

The cause of our indignation is twofold. First of all, the disrespect shown to the God-honored uniform, and secondly, the irreparable disgrace brought on the wearers of the ecclesiastical cloth.

May we claim a few lines space to express our views. It is not necessary to recall the unfading glory of the khaki uniform of the British Empire; history has stamped its seal of approval upon it. And when an alleged preacher of the Gospel publicly casts aspersions on that uniform, we feel that unless the Ministerial Alliance publicly disciplines the culprit, they become accessories after the fact.

The case of Dr. Knowles, found guilty of heresy, proves that the church has power to discipline its clergy, if circumstances warrant it. We are prepared to admit that we have occasionally indulged in good-natured banter of the L. D. A., etc., but deep in our inmost soul we honor and reverence the church and its representatives, for on the list of our "midnight friends" we proudly carry the name of Rev. Arthur Carlisle of Windsor, Ont., who transformed the blood-soaked front line trench into a sanctified altar, by administering the Holy Sacrament in the name of the Christ of Calvary.

But we are voicing the sentiments of hundreds of war-broken soldiers when we demand that the Ministerial Alliance publicly announces the name and address of the recalcitrant who insulted a returned hero on the public streets of London.

Unless this is done, it will be useless for any member of the alliance to expect to occupy a place of respect in the hearts of men who have suffered and bled for our glorious Union Jack.

In our recent peace parade the Ministerial Alliance occupied a too prominent position, and they got away with it. But, as Abe Lincoln put it, "It is hard to fool all the people all the time."

Our interest in Gunner Talbot's experience is intensified by the fact that recently we observed another biped clerically garbed, pass two returned heroes on Dundas street, one minus an arm and the other minus a leg, with his nose disdainfully stuck in the air. We do not desire fulsome flattery for our returned heroes, for we know that it would be decidedly obnoxious to them, but we feel that a human demonstration of the spirit of Calvary on the part of some of the ministers of this city would do more to fill the churches than all the dissertations as to whether St. Paul was a married man or not.

Indignantly yours, FRED YOUNG.

TWO RESIGNATIONS IN SOLDIERS' ASSN.

New Secretary and Treasurer Appointed Friday Night.

A report was made at the Honorably Discharged Soldiers' Association meeting, held in its club room last night, that the association was instrumental in getting the men who had done service here a C badge, the same as any other man who had done service in Canada.

A resolution was made and adopted that a committee of five members be appointed to assist the secretary and treasurer. Everything which is done by the association will have to go through the hands of this committee. The committee is composed of three men, two more to be elected at the next meeting.

The resignation of James I. Fullarton, treasurer, was accepted. A. J. R. Ramsay, secretary of the association, also resigned, although he was hard pressed by the other members to stay. Mr. Ramsay said that although he was dropping out from the position of secretary, it did not mean that he was dropping from the association. G. Stevens was appointed secretary, and P. Lawson treasurer to fill the vacancies.

The concert that the H. D. S. A. is putting on in Duffield Hall on February 7 is well underway. The committee to look after the concern is A. Russell, P. Lawson and R. A. Beland.

Mr. Rogers has not regained consciousness since the accident, despite all efforts of those attending him.

IN INTERESTS OF S. A.—A big meeting is to be held in the city hall at St. Thomas Monday night in the interests of the Salvation Army campaign which is being urn throughout Western Ontario under the direction of Dr. H. A. Knowles, campaign director for the Salvation Army, in the third week of January.

ANNUAL BANQUET ARRANGED. —Preparations are being made for the annual banquet of the Men's Brotherhood of Askin Street Methodist Church, which will be held on Friday evening, January 17. The speaker for the occasion is Rev. D. C. MacGregor, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. On the Sunday evening following there will be a special service for men with a special speaker, to be announced.

MAGISTRATE IS ILL.—Owing to the illness of Magistrate Graydon, who is confined to his home with a slight touch of Spanish influenza, there was no session of the police court today. The case of Pierre Williams, charged with deserting from the W. O. R. last February, will be heard on Monday. A homeless girl of 23 summers, who was arrested as a vagrant Friday night, was also remanded to jail until Monday.

SECOND PLACE FOR DRAKE.—Owing to an error in marking down the returns of subdivision 50 in ward 3, Ald. G. B. Drake was given third place. He should have been given second place, according to the correction. He was credited with 25 votes in this subdivision, but according to City Clerk S. Baker, who consulted with the deputy returning officer, the figures should have been 55. Thus he received 624 votes instead of 594. The standing of the candidates in that ward now is: J. Colbert, 681; G. B. Drake, 624, and F. R. Watkinson, 600.

WEEK OF PRAYER.—The world's week of prayer is being observed in a number of the city churches next week, though not as universally as in former years. In West London, arrangements have been made for union services of the St. Paul's Presbyterian, Empress Avenue Methodist and St. George's Anglican Church. Only three services will be held, on Tuesday night in the Presbyterian Church, Wednesday in the Methodist and Thursday in the Anglican. Among the subjects for the week of prayer services are "Thanksgiving and Repentance," "The Church Universal," and "The Missionary Obligations of the Church."

CAPT. CARPENTER COMING. — Capt. Carpenter, hero of the Vindictive raid on the Zeebrugge Mole, will come to London on January 11 to address both Canadian Clubs. Capt. Carpenter has been in the United States for some time and has included Canada in his tour. It will be recalled that he "skippered" the old warship in her perilous voyage through the rain of shells that poured from German guns upon the British attacking forces. Many of the crew of the Vindictive were killed, and she was shattered from stem to stern. Capt. Carpenter was one of the few officers who escaped. Needless to say his story of what is regarded by many as the most spectacular incident in a war of daily thrills will be one of the most dramatic ever heard by London audiences.

JUDGE DISMISSES ACTION AGAINST CITY OF LONDON

Toronto, Jan. 4.—Justice Rose has dismissed the action of J. J. Alexander of Pottersburg, a former suburb of London, against the city and the public utilities commission of London for damages to his goods through a fire on February 5, 1918. He claimed his loss due to failure of the water supply, the mains for which had been laid under an order of the Ontario railway and municipal board annexing the suburb to the city.

His lordship held the district was in a better position than any other part of London, which would have no claim under similar circumstances. The fire occurred when the temperature was 25 below zero, and the frost had extended six feet into the ground, causing the water mains to break.

ASSISTANT INSPECTOR OF LONDON'S SCHOOLS MUST BE APPOINTED

One of the first tasks of the new board of education will be the appointment of an assistant inspector for London. The matter has been under consideration for some time, in fact for the greater part of last year. There are several applications for the position, and representatives of the department of education have been in touch with the local board, but nothing definite has been done yet. While it is under the recommendation of the department of education that the local board is taking the action toward appointing an assistant to C. B. Edwards, members of the board are of the opinion that there is too much work here for one inspector to handle.

GET YOUR MOTOR TAG BEFORE JANUARY 15

Auto licenses for the year 1919 for touring cars and all other motor vehicles except trucks are for sale. Over 5,000 licenses were sold here in 1918, and this number of licenses has already been secured. The markers for the trucks are here, but they cannot be issued until the cards for keeping account of them arrive. Although the touring car and motorcycle license fees will be the same as last year, it is expected that there will be a change in the scale of fees for truck licenses. The licenses can be secured from Arthur H. B. Keene, secretary of the Ontario Motor League.

All motorists who have not their license after January 15 will be required to contribute $5 to the police court coffers, if they are caught.

PRIVATE DAWSON LOSES RIGHT LEG

Advertiser Illustrations

Word has reached the city that Pte. Kenneth A. Dawson is on his way home from overseas.

Pte. Dawson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Dawson, 194 Duchess avenue, and a grandson of the late John Pope, city treasurer. He enlisted on his 18th birthday and went overseas with the 24ist Battalion, Scottish Borderers, April, 1917. He was wounded in both legs at Arras, September 1, 1918, necessitating the amputation of the right leg.

176 DEPENDENTS TO ARRIVE ON MONDAY

Provision Being Made For Housing Them at Queen's Park.

In co-operation with the military authorities, the soldiers' aid commission has been busy during the past few weeks making provision at Queen's Park for the lodging of the 176 women and children who are returning from England on H. M. S. Tunisian, and who are expected to arrive in this city about Monday evening.

These soldiers' dependents will be lodged in the officers' quarters, where blankets and other equipment have been provided. Ald. F. Harley of the executive committee of the commission has been in charge of the work. Secretary Ed Lance said that if the commission is notified in time there will be autos at the station to meet the wives and children of the soldiers.

According to John Puddicombe of the patriotic fund, all those in the party who are soldiers' dependents and who belong to London will receive patriotic money if they put in an application for it.

PUBLIC UTILITIES MAY HAVE CHANGE IN CHAIRMANSHIP

Commissioner Mitchell May Replace Philip Pocock.

Will there be any change in the chairmanship of the public utilities commission this year is the question that is being asked by citizens? For nine years, Phil Pocock has held the position and there are some who say that it is time that it was passed along to one of the other commissioners. Commissioner F. G. Mitchell, in the opinion of many, should be the next in line for this honor. It is known that he would not turn it down if it were offered to him. One year he made a bid for it, but the chairman broke the tie vote by voting for himself, so it is said.

Mayor C. R. Somerville will attend the organization meeting when the question of chairmanship will be settled. He would not say this morning whom he would support for the position. It is supposed that T. W. McFarland will support the present chairman. Prophets are not so sure as to whom Commissioner J. Vining will support, if he gives Mr. Pocock his vote, the present chairman will fill the chair for the tenth term. If, however, he supports Commissioner Mitchell, it may be up to Mayor Somerville to break the resulting tie.

The appointment of members to the parks board will also be made at the organization meeting, which will take place shortly after the organization meeting of the city council. J. Vining was chairman of this board last year, with the following members: W. E. Saunders, S. F. Wood, E. B. Saunders and W. T. Lawrence.

RECRUITING NOT RAPID FOR MOBILE COMPANY

Major H. Irvine, in command at the mobilization centre, stated today that recruits for the mobile company of the C. G. R. are not being taken on as rapidly as he had expected. He said that a very large number of returned soldiers had applied for re-enlistment in the company, but that the majority of those who had so applied up to the present had been unable to get the medical test. Major Irvine expressed the opinion that, after the holiday season was once well past recruiting would improve. He could not understand, he went on to say, why more young men did not take the opportunity offered to secure splendid physical training.

REV. W. E. PESCOTT REGARDS VERDICT IN HERESY TRIAL AS MOST UNFAIR

Methodist Divine Comes to Defence of Fellow-Clergyman.

USES HISTORIC PHRASE

Regards One Agreement To Have Been Treated as "Scrap of Paper."

Several ministers of the Methodist Church in the city have today expressed themselves as strongly of the opinion that more light should be thrown on the subject of Rev. Dr. R.W.Knowles' heresy case, following the report which appeared in local papers on Friday of the reading of the verdict of "guilty" by the president of the conference, at a meeting called for the purpose, on Thursday evening, in the Petrolea Methodist Church, of which Rev. Dr. Knowles is pastor. They consider it only fair to Dr. Knowles that his side of the case should be made known, and certain facts concerning former trials, which did not appear in the reports. Some have gone so far as to use the word "persecution" in connection with the whole business.

Call Verdict a Farce.

The statement is made that the verdict of guilty was given at the last trial by default. Dr. Knowles' witnesses did not appear in the trial, and he, himself, refused to testify. Further, it is stated that while he admitted himself as guilty of indiscretion in speech on a certain occasion, at no time did he admit the heresy charges.

"The complainants were only able to get the verdict by minimizing the charges," said one minister. "In other words, they compromised. They asked to have the charges made minor instead of major. Found guilty on a major charge, a man would be obliged to leave the church. On a minor charge he retains his pulpit and provision is made for admonition, or something of the kind, such as was provided for in the verdict of guilty pronounced on Dr. Knowles. The thing is a farce, because if heresy is anything it is a major charge. Under the circumstances the verdict of guilty has been a farce."

Was Once Acquitted.

It is pointed out that Dr. Knowles was acquitted of the charges by two former committees, and attention is drawn to the personnel of these, made up, as they have been, of outstanding men in the conference, well and highly known in the city. The first committee which acquitted Dr. Knowles was made up of men of such integrity and standing as Rev. J. E. Holmes, president of the conference; Rev. G. N. Hazen, for many years a minister in London; Rev. Dr. F. L. Barber, minister of Colborne Street Methodist Church, and Rev. W. J. Ashton of Wellington Street Methodist Church.

Realizing how well known is Mr. Hazen's sterling character in London, his unswerving loyalty to duty, and uncompromising attitude where truth and right are involved, one minister says: "Everyone who knows Mr. Hazen realizes that he wouldn't let anything that looked like heresy go by."

"A Scrap of Paper."

Rev. W. E. Pescott, pastor of the Dundas Centre Methodist Church brings considerable light to bear on the subject of the arbitration which, according to the report of the meeting at which the verdict was pronounced "was attempted in the spring of 1918, which was contrary to the discipline of the Methodist Church."

Mr. Pescott says: "Arbitration was arranged on request of the complainants, I, for one, refused to act on the committee when we were approached to do so, for the reason that there was no provision in the discipline of the Methodist Church for thus deciding a case.

"To the objections raised, the complainants declared they were prepared to abide by the decision, whatever it was. Further, they signed a document to this effect. One of the last assurances they gave us just before decision was rendered was that they regarded us, the members of the arbitration committee, as gentlemen, and that they would accept our decision, whatever it was, and abide by it. They treated these pledges and the document as a scrap of paper.

Repudiated Decision.

"When the decision was given against them and Dr. Knowles once more acquitted of heresy, they immediately repudiated the decision.

"They tried to spring the case on the conference again last June and get a snap judgment.

"Failing this, they resorted to the general conference court of appeals to get an order for another trial, with the results announced. In my judgment, they couldn't possibly have obtained such a decision in a court of law."

The members of the arbitration committee, like those who formed an earlier committee, which acquitted Dr. Knowles, it is pointed out, are all widely known, some of them, indeed, for many years among the outstanding men of the conference. Rev. S. R. Muxworthy and Rev. Dr. Thomas Manning are both former presidents of conference in recent years. Associated with them were men who stand high educationally, Rev. Dr. Peever, Rev. W. E. Pescott, both of this city, Rev. Dr. Warner of St. Thomas and Rev. J. C. Reid of Strathroy.

May Hear From Dr. Knowles.

Two or three ministers have stated that they have been expecting a statement from Dr. Knowles to appear in the press as they had understood that he had said he hoped as wide publicity would be given in the press to his side as to that of the complainants.

Dr. Knowles is described by brother ministers as a man of "most commendable character," who is appreciated and supported by a large proportion of his own congregation.

CARLING HEIGHTS HOSPITAL QUITE SUFFICIENT FOR CONVALESCENTS; IS WESTMINSTER NOW REQUIRED?

Alleged That the Situation Means a Waste of Public Money.

The signing of the peace armistice brought about changed conditions in regard to the accommodation required for men at Carling Heights, with the result that hutments will be transformed into a convalescent hospital, having accommodation for 600 patients. At the same time work goes on at the new Westminster Hospital, and it is said that the contractors will not have completed their tasks until well into next fall. Those in a position to judge, state that by that time all the convalescent men will have been cleared to the invalided soldiers' commission or have been given their discharges. As a consequence, citizens are asking why the two hospitals should be provided.

The hospital at Carling Heights will be ready to receive convalescent men by the end of this month. It will have, it is claimed, ample room for all the men who will require treatment, and at least as many beds as provided for in the plans of Westminster Hospital before it was anticipated that the Carling Heights hutments would not be required for troops in training, and could be utilized for hospital purposes.

One theory is that the Westminster Hospital may be transformed into some sort of permanent hospital, but at the present time a serious waste of public money is alleged.

WOMEN NOT ELIGIBLE FOR CITY COUNCIL, SAYS MUNICIPAL ACT

Cannot Be Candidate Until Legislature Amends the Rules.

City Clerk S. Baker says that, according to the municipal act of 1913 women are barred from becoming members of the council. With the election of women to the board of education and the campaign to have one appointed to the board of health, there has been some agitation to have women candidates for the city government at the next municipal elections. In fact, there have been several inquiries as to whether women could qualify for the position of alderman or should it be written alderwoman, or for a position on one of the commissions which will be elected next year if the Legislature gives its consent to the change in the form of the elections.

Must Be a Male.

In reference to the qualifications of candidates for municipal councils, the act says that the candidate must be a British subject of at least 21 years of age and a male. Mr. Baker says that the only hope for the women who may be aspiring to the position of commissioner in the new city government is for them to urge the changing of the act to allow them to take their places on the commissions. Until the act is amended there is no possibility of women occupying the seats of the mighty in the council chamber nor the chair of the mayor.

NOTHING TO DRINK

ing no fresh water, Lieut. Brown had told witness he said, that all the drinking water on board had turned black, and there was none to drink. "We had no drinking water in the first-class saloon for a couple of days, from the same reason, I believe," the witness said.

For the first two days the men were not allowed on the promenade deck. Then they were permitted to use one side of this deck. The other side was reserved for officers and passengers, about 100 in all. Guards were put on to see that no one else used the officers' and passengers' side.

In reply to Judge Hodgins, Sergt. Flood said the men complained about one side of the deck being reserved for officers and passengers. He understood complaints had been made to the conducting officer.

"With what result?" Judge Hodgins asked.

"There was no change."

Ventilation Was Bad.

Ventilation was bad. There was a great lack of fresh air. The men complained that portholes were not opened until the boat was in Halifax harbor.

Referring to Christmas Day, Sergt. Flood said there was bitter disappointment among the men at not being able to go ashore.

The men did not want to do their fatigue duties. Lieut. Brown, said witness, with a corporal and two or three men attempted to do some cleaning up.

Mr. Holden: "When part of the promenade was given up to the men, did they not get a little more than half?"

"Yes."

The witness said that in saying there was a shortage of rations, he was comparing what the men received on board the Northland with rations given to reserve battalions in England. He had expected up to 11 o'clock on Christmas Day that the men would get ashore for dinner.

PENSION SCALE INCREASES FOR THE DEPENDENTS

New Schedule Will Be Retroactive To September 1 Last.

An increase in the scale of pension allowance payable in respect of children of disabled soldiers and of soldiers' dependents who are in receipt of pension, has been announced in a telegraphic message received today by Donald Campbell, the local pensions officer, from the board of pension commissioners at Ottawa. The message, which includes a request that the new scale be made public through the newspapers, specifies that the increases shall be retroactive to September 1 last.

Until now the allowance for children of deceased soldiers, or in the case of a pension being payable to the parents of the soldier, the latter's brothers and sisters under the age of 16, has been $8 a month each. Under the newly-modified scale these allowances are graded as follows:

The New Schedule.

First child, brother or sister, $12 a month; second, $10 a month; third, and subsequent children, brothers or sisters, $8 a month each.

First orphan child, $24 a month; second, $20 a month; third and subsequent orphan children, $16 a month each.

All children of disabled soldier pensioners are similarly increased on a sliding scale in proportion to the disability of the pensioner. Thus a man drawing a total disability pension receives additional allowances for his children on the same scale as is allowed for the children of dependents receiving pension; in the case of a man drawing an 80 per cent disability pension, the allowance for the children would also be 80 per cent of the amounts given above.

The announcement is expected within a few days of a 20 per cent increase in the pensions of dependents of soldiers who have died or been killed while on active service. This will bring the pension for a soldier's widow or dependent parents to $48 a month, with additional allowances for children according to the scale already outlined. A soldiers' widow with three children, therefore, will receive, when the expected increase goes into effect, $78 per month.

SEARCHING QUIZ FOR CLAIMANTS OF GRATUITIES

Declaration Form Requires Detailed Information Along Many Lines.

The form of declaration which is required from soldiers claiming war service gratuity, which was provided for under an order-in-council dated December 21 last, to take the place of post-discharge pay, is a formidable and complicated document when completed. Twenty-seven questions in all must be answered. The preamble to the form specifies that every question must be answered, and that there must be no blanks or dashes. If any questions are not applicable, the words "not applicable" must be written. The declaration must be sworn to before a justice or commissioner for oaths and returned to the district paymaster in the district in which the applicant was discharged.

Great Variety of Questions.

The applicant is required to give his name, rank, regimental number and the unit with which he originally enlisted. Then follow spaces for information as to dependents who are, or were, immediately prior to the soldier's discharge, drawing separation allowance, and particulars of address, etc.

The details of service are required with great exactitude. The claimant must say whether he was at any time on the strength for pay and allowances of any unit of the C. E. F. which was out of Canada or the United States at the time when such pay and allowances were issuable, giving particulars of service with one such unit; whether he was on the strength for pay and allowances of the Clearing Services Commend, having at any time been on duty outside of Canada or the United States; whether he reverted to lower rank overseas, and, if so, for what reason; whether he served at any time at the front in an actual theatre of war; or whether he was on active service only in Canada or the United States.

Must Give Record.

The total length of time served on active service, with particulars of units, must be given, and the soldier is required also to state whether at the time of enlistment he was a civil employee of the Dominion Government or a member of the permanent force, and whether he is at the time of the application in receipt of pay or allowance from any Canadian naval or land force, or whether he is entitled to receive any post-discharge pay or gratuity from the Imperial forces.

Any previous payments of post-discharge pay or war service gratuity must be set out, as well as details of discharges and re-enlistments. The claimant is required to state whether a War Service Badge has been issued to him, and if so, of what class. Also he is asked to state whether he is receiving treatment from the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, and if so, whether he is in receipt of full pay and allowances from that department. There are many other questions, most of them of an obvious nature to be answered.

MANY ARE COMING IN FOR THEIR DISCHARGES

Men who were allowed to go on harvest leave from the Western Ontario Regiment last October, and who were still on leave when the signing of the armistice made their recall to the service unnecessary, are beginning to come in for their discharges. Altogether some seventeen hundred men were temporarily released for the purpose of helping to get in the harvest, and in almost all cases the leave was extended until a date later than November 11 last. Up to the present about two hundred of these men have since been discharged, but arrangements have now been made to materially increase the speed with which these cases are disposed of, and it is expected that all of the men still on harvest leave will have been discharged within a few weeks.

These men are not bound to come to London for their discharges. It, however, they desire to make their application in person, they are provided with free transportation for the purpose, and a good many have taken advantage of this opportunity.

SCHEDULE OF HOURS FOR SOUTH BRANCH OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Commencing on Monday, the south branch of the public library will be open on a definite schedule, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. and on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 7:15 to 9:15. The boys and girls of the public schools will be expected to get their books at the afternoon sessions so that the evening sessions may be less disturbed for older readers. It is to be understood that the collection of books at the south branch is not large at the beginning, though it will be steadily increased by the addition of the newest and best books appearing. It will, however, it is believed meet a very distinct need on the part of many people in South London, who cannot conveniently get to the main library and who will thus be privileged to get reading matter nearer home. For anyone working in any special field it will be necessary, of course, to use the main library on account of the greater variety of material there.

HERO REFERRED TO BY LECTURER IS DISCOVERED IN OTTAWA AUDIENCE

Lieut. Walker Encouraged Men, Although Arm Had Been Shot Off.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Capt. Carpenter, V. C., in the course of his lecture at the Russell Theatre last night, referred to an officer whose arm was shot off and over whom the men had to walk to get from the Vindictive to the Mole. The officer called to them to keep on and waved his stump in bidding them godspeed. Capt. Carpenter was later surprised to find that the officer he referred to was a listener and seated in Lady Kingsmill's box! He is Lieut. H. T. C. Walker and is a guest of Lady Kingsmill, having arrived from New York late yesterday.

Herewith will be found the picture of an Aviator who has just dropped a bomb on a pile of Shells. At first glance the Aeroplane and the Explosion appear to be all there is in the picture, but by careful study the faces of several soldiers will be found. There are 7 of them in all. Can you find them? It is no easy task but by patience and endurance can be accomplished.

You may win a cash prize by doing so. Many have done this as will be shown by the names and addresses which we will send you. If you find the faces mark each one with an X, cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words "I have found all the faces and marked them." Write these nine words plainly and neatly, as in case of ties, both writing and neatness are considered factors in this contest.

This may take up a little of your time but as TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS in cash and many merchandise prizes are given away, it is worth your time to take a little trouble over this matter. Remember all you have to do is to mark the faces, cut out the picture and write on a separate piece of paper the words, "I have found all the faces and marked them."

WE DO NOT ASK YOU TO SPEND ONE CENT OF YOUR MONEY IN ORDER TO ENTER THIS CONTEST

Send your answer at once; we will reply by Return Mail telling you whether your answer is correct or not, and we will send you a complete Prize List, together with the names and addresses of persons who have recently received over Four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars in Cash Prizes from us, and full particulars of a simple condition that must be fulfilled. Upon receipt of your reply we will send a complete list of the names and addresses of persons who have won $4,500.00 in Cash Prizes in recent contests held by the publishers of this advertisement. Although these persons are entirely unknown to us, they are our references. An enquiry from any one of them will bring the information that our contests are carried out with the utmost fairness and integrity. Your opportunity to win a good round sum is equally as good as that of anyone else, as all previous winners of cash prizes are debarred from entering this contest.

BALANCE OF POWER MUST GO, DECLARES PRESIDENT WILSON

U. S. Chief Executive Speaks Plainly in Italy.

WORLD MUST CHANGE

Council of Nations Must Be Guided by Purity of Motives.

ROME, Jan. 3.—In Parliament House a joint reception was given President Wilson by the members of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies. The function was an impressive one. The large and distinguished gathering gave the president an ovation. The president spoke as follows:

"Your majesty and Mr. President of the Chamber:

"You are bestowing upon me an unprecedented honor, which I accept because I believe that it is extended to me as the representative of the great people for whom I speak. And I am going to take this first opportunity to say how entirely the heart of the American people has been with the great people of Italy.

Only Seem Indifferent.

"We have seemed no doubt indifferent at times to look from a great distance, but our hearts have never been far away. All sorts of ties have long bound the people of our America to the people of Italy and when the people of the United States, knowing this people, have witnessed its sufferings, its sacrifices, its heroic action upon the battlefield and its heroic endurance at home—its steadfast endurance at home touching us more nearly to the quick even than its heroic action on the battlefield—we have been bound by a new tie of profound admiration.

"Then back of it all, and through it all, running like the golden thread that held it together, was our knowledge that the people of Italy had gone into this war for the same exalted principle of right and justice that moved our own people. And so I welcome this opportunity of conveying to you the heartfelt greetings of the people of the United States.

World Must Turn Over.

"But we cannot stand in the shadow of this war without knowing there are things which are in some senses more difficult than those we have undertaken because, while it is easy to speak of right and justice, it is sometimes difficult to work them out in practice, and there will be required a purity of motives and disinterestedness of object which the world has never witnessed before in the councils of nations.

"It is for that reason that it seems to me you will forgive me if I lay some of the elements of the new situation before you for a moment. The distinguishing fact of this war is that great empires have gone to pieces. And the characteristics of those empires are that they held different peoples reluctantly together under the coercion of force and the guidance of intrigue.

Hotbed of Intrigue.

"The great difficulty among such states as those of the Balkans has been that they were always accessible to secret influence; that they were always being penetrated by intrigue of some sort or another; that north of them lay disturbed populations, which were held together not by sympathy and friendship, but by the coercive force of a military power. Now the intrigue is checked and the bands broken, and what we are going to provide is a new cement to hold the peoples together. They have not been accustomed to being independent; they must now be independent.

"I am sure that you recognize the principle as I do—that it is not our privilege to say what sort of a government they should set up. But we are friends of those people, and it is our duty as their friends to see to it that some kind of protection is thrown around them — something supplied which will hold them together.

The Tie That Binds.

"There is only one thing that holds nations together, if you exclude force, and that is friendship and goodwill. The only thing that binds men together is friendship, and by the same token, the only thing that binds nations together is friendship. Therefore our task at Paris is to organize the friendship of the world—to see to it that all the moral forces that make for right and justice and liberty are united, and are given a vital organization to which the peoples of the world will readily and gladly respond.

"In other words, our task is no less colossal than this; to set up a new international psychology; to have a new real atmosphere. I am happy to say that in my dealings with the distinguished gentlemen who lead your nation and those who lead France and England, I feel that atmosphere gathering, that desire to do justice, that desire to establish friendliness, that desire to make peace rest upon right; and with this common purpose no obstacles need be formidable.

A Task for Brave Men.

"The only use of an obstacle is to be overcome. All that an obstacle does with brave men is not to frighten them, but to challenge them, so that it ought to be common purpose to overcome everything that stands in the way.

"We know that there cannot be another balance of power. That has been tried and found wanting, for the best of all reasons, that it does not stay balanced inside itself, and a weight which does not hold together cannot constitute a makeweight in the affairs of men.

"Therefore there must be something substituted for the balance of power, and I am happy to find everywhere in the air of these great nations the conception that that thing must be a thoroughly united league of nations.

"What men once considered theoretical and idealistic turns out to be practical and necessary. We stand at the opening of a new age in which a new statesmanship will, I am confident, lift mankind to new levels of endeavor and achievement."

Editors Reach His Heart.

Representatives of the Italian press were received by President Wilson at the Quirinal this afternoon. The editors-in-chief of the thirty leading newspapers of Italy were in the party.

In his address of greeting, Andrea Torre, president of the Press Association, emphasized the necessity for a league of nations and for the settlement of all national or racial questions.

In response President Wilson said:

"Let me thank you, gentlemen, very warmly for this stirring address, because it goes straight to my heart, as well as to my understanding. If I had known that this important delegation was coming to see me I would have tried to say something worthy of the occasion.

His Purpose Expressed.

"As it is, I can only say that my purpose is certainly expressed in that paper, and I believe that the purpose of those associated at Paris is a common purpose. Justice and right are big things, and in these circumstances they are big with difficulty.

"I understand, I am not foolish enough to suppose that our decisions will be easy to arrive at, but the principles upon which they are to be arrived at ought to be indisputable, and I have the conviction that if we do not rise to the expectations of the world and satisfy the souls of great peoples like the people of Italy, we shall have the most unenviable distinction in history. Because what is happening now is that the soul of one people is crying to the soul of another, and no people in the world with whose sentiments I am acquainted want a bargaining settlement. They all want settlements based upon right."

15,000 BRITISH PRISONERS GIVEN UP FOR DEAD ARE FOUND TO BE PRISONERS

British Records Show Only 20,000 Left in Germany, Whereas Enemy Returns Indicate That Thousands Were Never Reported by the Teutons.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(Associated Press.)—There are 15,000 more British prisoners in Germany than the British records show, so that a number of men previously given up as dead or missing will return to their homes, it was stated here today.

The British had contemplated getting the last 20,000 prisoners out of Germany within a fortnight, but the German records show that there remain in Germany 35,000 men, of whom 15,000, through the failure of the Germans to report their capture and the men's failure to communicate with friends, had been listed as dead.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS WILL PASS THROUGH THE PANAMA CANAL

Men For British Columbia Will Sail All Way Home From England.

MONTREAL, Jan 3.—To the strains of patriotic music played by military bands of the imperial army, 1,500 officers and men of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces who enlisted in British Columbia and Alberta embarked at Liverpool yesterday afternoon on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia for the direct voyage to Vancouver via the Panama Canal, this being the first and probably the only time this steamer will travel to Canada this way.

The Empress of Asia, which was diverted to Atlantic waters in order to facilitate the transport of American troops to Europe, will return to commercial service between Vancouver and the Orient after disembarking her contingent of Canadian soldiers.

CREDITON SOLDIER AMONG THOSE KILLED IN QUEBEC WRECK

CREDITON, Jan. 3.—Pte. George Smith, who was one of the three Canadian soldiers killed in the recent troop train wreck on the way from Halifax west, was a Crediton boy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, of this village.

The soldier, who was 25 years of age, had spent three years in the trenches, and his family were planning a warm welcome home in his honor, including a fowl supper. Instead of festivity and a happy reunion their home was plunged into grief and mourning.

Another brother recently returned from the front, having been wounded.

CLEMENCEAU IS SHOWING HEAT OVER WILSON

French Premier Asks Who Woodrow Represents in America.

BY WADE CHANCE.

(Copyright, 1919, New York Tribune.)

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Premier Clemenceau is giving the world his understanding of open diplomacy. He spoke quite frankly to my informant, a high British Government official who has just returned from Paris.

"Clemenceau said he wished to know whom Wilson represented in America, and repeated the remark of Australian Premier Hughes at the recent elections in England that Wilson represented less than half of American public opinion, while Lloyd George seemed to represent not only the entire public opinion of Great Britain, but more than half of that in America."

My informant also added that M. Clemenceau expressed himself absolutely opposed to admitting Germany into a league of nations.

Russia, about which there is the greatest concern in high quarters, will be the first problem tackled by the Allied leaders in Paris. The difficulties are very great, especially since Mr. Wilson now wishes to withdraw the American troops from Siberia and the Archangel district.

My informant believes that Mr. Wilson is largely responsible for the present conditions in Russia, since he refused to co-operate with England and France, and opposed their joint plans for intervention, which were furnished to him as early as last May, when he was finally persuaded to send very small forces, which he had to do in order to make good his intention of having Marshal Foch made generalissimo of the Allied armies. He actually had little to do with the appointment of Foch, which was first opposed by Haig on the ground that England had a larger army in the field than France. President Wilson supported the contention by Lord Derby, then minister of war, and Chief of Staff Sir William Robertson, who favored Foch, whom he had known for ten years.

7,158 DEATHS FROM SPANISH INFLUENZA IN PAST 3 MONTHS

This Is the Toll Taken by the Epidemic in Ontario Alone.

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—During the last three months influenza and pneumonia took a toll of 7,158 lives in the province. In October the death rate was the highest, 3,105 persons succumbing to the malady. In November the number fell to 2,608, while last month there was a further decrease to 1,568.

"The continued prevalence in some localities would indicate a recurrence of the epidemic," says the monthly report of the provincial board of health, which was issued today. The cities and towns reporting the greatest number of deaths, including some late returns for November, are as follows:

Toronto 222, Hamilton 183, London 26, Sault Ste. Marie 28, Ottawa 15, Windsor 38, Kingston 13, St. Catharines 39, Peterboro 32, Port Arthur 23, Fort William 30, Niagara Falls 11, Guelph 27, Welland 21, Sarnia 11, Sudbury 77, Kitchener 12, Wallaceburg 43, Uxbridge 15, Huntsville 15, Midland 11, Collingwood 12, Hespeler 11, Fort Francis 16, Rainy River 8, Dunnville 11, Dundas 8, Kenora 9, Trenton 8, Pembroke 8.

The statistics are compiled from the returns of the undertakers.

ARE YOU LOSING YOUR GRIP ON HEALTH ?

Your Blood May Be Starving for Want of Iron—Making You Weak, Nervous, Irritable and Exhausted.

Nuxated Iron increases the Red Blood Corpuscles and builds up the strength, energy and endurance of delicate, run-down people in two weeks' time in many instances.

Thousands of men and women are impairing their constitutions, laying themselves open to illness and literally losing their grip on health, simply because their blood is thinning out and possibly starving through lack of iron.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, says: "Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable. To help make strong, keen, red-blooded Americans there is nothing in my experience which I have found so valuable as organic iron—Nuxated Iron. It often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time." Nuxated Iron is now being used by over three million people annually, including such men as Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury, and ex-governor of Iowa; former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee, Charles A. Towne; United States Commissioner of Immigration Hon. Anthony Caminette; also United States Judge, G. W. Atkinson of the Court of Claims of Washington and others.

The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. Nuxated Iron is dispensed in this city by Standard Drug Co., Limited, and all other druggists.

WORLD WILL BLEED AGAIN UNLESS POLAND IS GIVEN CHANCE TO GROW STRONG

Barrier Must Be Raised Between Germany and Russia or New Outbreak of German World-Ambition Will Bring On Another Struggle.

By Frank H. Simonds

Author of "The Great War," "They Shall Not Pass."

(Copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—In this article I shall try to review the Polish question, as it must come before the Versailles conference, where it must prove one of the most intricate and important that will have to be settled.

At the very outset it is well to recognize the international importance of a Polish state. We have seen that the erection of strong Latin and Slav states in Southeastern Europe promises a substantial and enduring barrier against a new German effort to restore the Mitteleuropa of other days and crossing the Straits to lay hands, first upon Asia Minor, Syria and Mesopotamia, and later upon Egypt and India. Two Slav states with Latin Rumania, each of the three nearly as large in area as Italy, and in the main homogeneous together with a friendly and enlarged Greece on either side of the Aegean, would constitute a bulwark capable of holding up the German flood. Moreover, bound to the western powers by sympathy, their numbers, would make a new alliance against Germany which would prove irresistible.

But there were two German perils, dimly perceived at first, but ultimately fully grasped, the peril inherent in the German design to reach the Golden Horn and the Persian Gulf, and the German menace expressed in the treaty of Brest-Litovsk, which reduced Russia to anarchy, tore from the Slav mass all the border races, and strove to erect each of these border peoples into a state, presumptively independent, but actually dependent upon Germany, alike for political and economic existence. Lithuania, Poland, the Ukraine, these were three of the states which were to be as subservient to Germany as the old confederation of the Rhine was to Napoleon, and through them Germany was to be able to enter Russia when she chose.

Germany May Gain Ally.

It is therefore essential to erect between fallen and anarchic Russia and Germany a barrier behind which Russia can regain her health without German molestation. If the millions of Russians ever come under complete German control, a new outbreak of German world ambition will infallibly bring on another struggle, and with Russian millions Germany will make a new bid for world power like that of the recent years, when she had at her command the millions of Slavs and Latins, as well as the Germans of the Hapsburg dominions. A permanent peaceful organization of Europe demands a barrier along the Vistula, as well as on the Danube, and in the Transylvanian highlands.

For such a barrier the solid block of Polish people inhabiting the Vistula River supplies the racial and the historical material. There was a Polish nation for centuries; it was only abolished in the latter half of the eighteenth century, and it survived in the shape of the Grand Duchy of Warsaw until the congress of Vienna. Today there are at least 20,000,000 Poles in regions once a portion of a Polish kingdom, and these people have preserved a vivid memory of their old glory and possess a keen and compelling desire to become citizens of a new Poland.

At the outset of the present war both the central powers and Russia recognized the necessity of making temporary concessions to the Poles, but both made them with no honest intent to fulfill them. After Russia's defeat Germany did organize a Polish state out of the Russian districts belonging to the old Kingdom of Poland, but she never for a moment considered ceding to this state her own Polish districts, instead she looked forward to a future acquisition of more Polish territory at the expense of the Poland she had permitted a provisional independence. Nor did Austria consent to surrender her Poles, but urged the alternative proposition that Russian Poland be joined to Austrian Galicia to make a Polish state which should be an integral portion of the Hapsburg monarchy, with something like the status of Hungary.

A Golden Opportunity.

With the collapse of Russia and the defeat of the Central Powers the Polish problem passed to the western nations for settlement. It is now for the Versailles Conference to draw the frontiers of the new nation, since Germany and Russia cannot longer resist the cession to the new state of their own Polish regions, while Austria has ceased to exist. Recognizing that it is essential for the future safety of Europe that there should be a strong Poland, we can now consider the elements in the problem.

There are many Polands, and the first step must be to examine them in the light of present conditions. The greatest of all Polands is the one which extended from the Dwina to the Oder, and from the Baltic to the Carpathians, a country larger than any contemporary European nation save Russia. This Poland for a brief time even touched the Black Sea, but early withdrew to the middle Dniester and Dnieper. This was the Poland for the first partition in 1772, but it was not a Poland of Poles merely. On all the fringes of this vast country were alien subjects, Lithuanians, White Russians, Ruthenians and Rumanians on the east and south, Germans on the west.

By contrast with this Poland of history, there is the Poland of fact; in the main, but not quite, the Poland of the last partition in 1795. This is the true Poland of the Poles, and includes the whole of Russian Poland, the western half of Austrian Galicia and all or portions of the German provinces of Posen and West Prussia and Silesia. Actually the Poles are in a minority in all provinces save Posen, although constituting a majority in many subdivisions. In this area dwell some 20,000,000 of Poles, 11,000,000 in old Russian territory, 5,000,000 in Austrian and approximately 4,000,000 in German.

The Polish Ambition.

For themselves the Poles claim all of this region, so far as it is Polish—that is, except in certain limited areas where the German and Slav can be easily separated without injuring the larger solidarity of the new Polish state. But in addition they lay claim to outlying districts in which there is a strong Polish minority. Thus, Polish and Lithuanian claims conflict in Grodno and Vilna, Ruthenian and Polish in Cholm and Eastern Galicia, where Lemberg, the capital, is a Polish city in a Ruthenian region. At Brest-Litovsk, the cession of Cholm to the Ruthenians—that is, to the Ukraine—led to violent Polish protest, while we have recently seen fighting for Lemberg. Again, the Poles claim large regions east of the Bug, as far as Minsk, in which the population is White Russian, but has, so far as one can say shown no opposition to incorporation with the Poles.

It is the dream of the Poles that the Lithuanians will seek a new federation with the Poles, such as existed in the past centuries, when the great Jagellon family of Lithuania supplied Poland with her kings. But the Germans undertook to prevent this by creating a separate Lithuanian state, and the desire of the Lithuanians for independent existence seems unmistakable.

Between the Ruthenians and the Poles the struggle is even keener. The Cholm district can only be bestowed by Versailles, since neither side will concede it to the other, although the claims of the Poles seem better founded in history and in geographical fact, for it is the River Bug which supplies the only natural frontier in this quarter.

In Eastern Galicia the decision is harder. Lemberg is an old centre of Polish culture and population, but the surrounding districts, with a few notable exceptions, are Ruthenian, and the Ruthenian element dominates east of the San, beyond Przemysl of consonantal memories. It also crosses the Carpathians and dips into Hungary, while it covers the northern half of the Bukovina, claimed by Rumania, and now occupied by garrisons of the latter power.

No Insuperable Obstacle.

But despite certain heartburnings, there is no insuperable obstacle to an enduring settlement of the disputes between the Poles and the Ruthenians, and any settlement insures a well-defined Polish frontier on the east, while together Russian and Austrian districts certain to be included in the Polish state will supply a population of above 17,000,000, in a very large measure Polish. Such frontier drawings as must take place will, moreover, offer no eccentric projections. Really considerable natural frontier between the races it is impossible to find, save at the Carpathians, and for a certain district along the Bug, since this region is a portion of the great plain, roughly speaking, Poland will hold the vast valley of the Vistula, the cradle of the race.

It is on the German side that the main difficulties occur. To begin at the south, the upper third of the Prussian province of Silesia, which had been Prussian since the days when Frederick the Great stole it from Maria Theresa and started the German system of larceny on the grand style, is purely Polish in its population. This is the region, too, of great mineral and industrial development. If Germany loses, as she is now bound to lose her other great region of Alsace-Lorraine, she will be deprived of the greater part of the material out of which she erected her great economic edifice in the last half century. Yet, if the frontiers are drawn here on race divisions, aside from a small dispute between the Czechs and the Poles in the Teschen region, there will be no more than justice done the Poles, and the question of making new frontiers involves no great puzzles.

As one proceeds northward, however, real difficulties are encountered, those of Posen and of the Danzig extension. Westward from the solid mass of Polish speaking peoples there extends about and beyond the Prussian city of Posen to the Oder and the Wartha, a point hardly a hundred miles from Berlin, a great wedge of Polish speaking people. This wedge is shaped rather like an irregular triangle with its point northward. In this region, comprehended in the Prussian province of Posen, not only is the population overwhelmingly Polish, but here the general level of education and of race consciousness is perhaps higher than in any other Polish section. Here, too, fighting Prussian brutality, the Poles have for more than half a century made a gallant struggle, crowned with large success.

Wedge Between Prussians.

But if Posen passes to Poland, as it must on any basis of self-determination, then a great wedge is driven between the Prussians to the north and south of Posen. But this is even less an obstacle than that supplied by the Polish situation in East and West Prussia. Here, on the west bank of the Vistula River, a relatively narrow arm of Polish speaking districts extends straight to the Baltic, west of Danzig, with some fifty miles of sea front north of the Gulf of Danzig. Danzig itself, once a purely Polish town, has been Germanized in recent decades, but still contains a Polish minority.

If this Polish arm is to be allotted to Poland, then at least a million and a half of Germans between the Vistula and the Memel, with Konigsberg as their capital, will be separated from the main mass of Germans to the westward, isolated politically and economically, hemmed in by Poles and Lithuanians and occupying a thin facade between the Baltic and the solid block of Poles to the south. This was the situation when Frederick the Great engineered the first partition of Poland in 1772 to obtain land communication with his East Prussian territories.

By contrast, if this Polish arm, with Danzig, does not fall to the new Poland, there will be created a state with at least 25,000,000 of people within its frontier, highly industrialized, capable of indefinite economic expansion, but lacking any outlet upon the sea. Such a nation will be wholly at the mercy of the Germans occupying the narrow strip between the Baltic and the new Poland and thus holding the lower watches of the Vistula, which is to Poland what the Mississippi river was to the region between the Alleghanies and the Rockies before the era of railroads.

Poland Requires Danzig.

It is quite plain that if Poland is to be a strong independent nation, economically and politically, it must have an outlet upon the sea, it must have Danzig. It can only have this outlet by isolating East Prussia and Polish possession of Danzig and its restricted seacoast would be wholly insecure, just as long as Prussia cherished the hope of reclaiming her landward connection with East Prussia.

We have here, then, one of the most difficult of all problems. The basis of self-determination does not suffice, because if you followed race boundaries merely, Poland would reach the Baltic and the separation of the Prussians would be achieved, but Danzig would remain Prussian and Poland would have no seaport, for the shore of the Polish strip on the Baltic is sandy and inhospitable. Therefore it is plain that Danzig must return to Poland, that the whole of the Polish-speaking west bank of the Vistula must be included in the new Polish state. It is equally plain that Posen must be restored to Poland; it was not safely included in Prussia until the Congress of Vienna, which partitioned Napoleon's Grand Duchy of Warsaw, the surviving remnant of the Polish Kingdom, nor it is less necessary that Poland should have Polish Silesia. Thus constituted with only Polish-speaking regions included, Poland would become a nation of at least 25,000,000 people, far larger in area than modern Italy. Were it conceivable that the various disputes between other races, notably with the Lithuanians and the Ruthenians, were settled by the inclusion of large areas of territory once Polish, but inhabited by other races now in part, at least, then the new Poland would have an area as great as that of France and no less than 30,000,000 of people.

Danger of Future Wars.

But this really great state would still have on the sea only a frontage of some 50 miles, with Danzig as its sole port, and between the Vistula and the Memel a narrow strip inhabited by Prussian Germans, with German sympathies, would separate the Poles from the sea. Here would be the inescapable cause for new wars, for rivalries and for ambitions. It seems to me that for this situation there can be but one solution. Not to include the whole seacoast from the Polish strip to the Memel in the new Poland would be to hold out new temptations for another Polish partition.

This particular problem will be long debated, the claims of the Germans and of the Slavs are both imposing. All depends upon whether it be the purpose at Versailles to follow abstract principles rigorously or to erect living and enduring nations, with all proper regard for conflicting claims, which do not stand in the way of this larger object. Whether the future of 20,000,000 of Poles, whose race have seen for two centuries the victims of the grossest wrongs, is to count, or that of 1,500,000 Germans, themselves invaders in the far-off times, this must be the real question.

Aside from the problems of the Prussias, however, the Polish question is relatively simple. A new nation is going to rise, on the ruins of the old, with a population as great as that of France a century ago, and an area which may equal that of contemporary France and will exceed that of reunited Italy. What the final frontiers of this new state to the eastward will be, no man can accurately forecast. But, on all other sides, the frontiers of language and the principles of self-determination supply reasonably safe guides.

Great Opportunities.

Within this new state the population will be overwhelmingly Polish, the possibilities of economic expansion, with the inclusion of the mineral districts of Silesia and the restoration of the old manufacturing centres of Lodz and Warsaw, are definite. Poland, Russian Poland, was the factory of Russia before the war, the new Poland may easily possess itself of the Russian market to the exclusion of the German, who dreamed to dominate stricken Slavdom, at the end of the present war and expressed their purpose at Brest Litovsk.

All is, however, conditioned upon the erection of a real Polish state. Compromises which sacrifice the future will easily spoil the whole and leave Poland once more a prey to the cupidity of surrounding nations. A strong Poland will be a guarantee of the exclusion of Germany from Russia, it will be a bulwark behind which Russia can rise again, and it will remove from German control the last of the subject nationalities and provinces, for the possession of which Prussia and Germany have dragged Europe through two centuries of war.

The destruction of Poland was one of the most sordid crimes in all history. For it there was no other defence than that of the German doctrine of force. Poland was weak and shaken by internal dissension. Frederick the Great, desiring to join East Prussia to his kingdom by land routes, and hoping to avoid new attacks from his old enemies by luring them into a project to despoil a neighbor, planned the first partition.

At the Congress of Vienna, Alexander of Russia long nourished the noble idea of restoring Poland under Russian protection. While he held to the idea, there was a hope for Poland, when he surrendered it, Poland was lost, although all the sovereigns at Vienna signed a solemn compact, agreeing to preserve Polish liberties within their own domains. Even this last shred of liberty, Poland lost before long, and then passed into the hideous slavery which endured up to the hour when Germany surrendered. In the last war, now ending, Russian Poles fought against German and Austrian Poles. Russian and Austrian Polish regions were swept again and again by destructive invasion.

Poland Is Emerging.

Today, in some fashion, Poland is emerging. Russian and Austrian Polish districts have already united, there is a provisional government in the old capital of Warsaw, and Cracow is once more Polish. Only the other day Polish troops entered Danzig and Poland, and the Polish element is rapidly obtaining control in upper Silesia. The great task is virtually accomplished, it remains for the western powers to fix the frontiers, with a full appreciation of the needs of the new state, which is thus created and thereafter to assure to it protection in the future until the dangerous days of beginning are over.

That the first years will be dangerous must be recognized. A new and strong Poland will deprive Germany of not less than 6,000,000 of people, two-thirds of them Poles, to be sure; it will take from Germany an area three or four times as great as Alsace-Lorraine, with mineral wealth at least as great. It will inflict a wound which Germany will long resent, although it will be in fact, merely a belated act of justice returning to the Poles their ancient heritage stolen from them by Hohenzollern might a century and a half ago, and held from them by brutal tyranny ever since.

President Wilson has already officially expressed America's sympathy with the Poles. Polish liberation is one of the soundest of the fourteen points. The western nations have given European sanction to Polish aspirations, while Polish troops, fighting on the allied side in France and elsewhere, have contributed materially to the common victory, thus renewing the old association when Poland gave France a marshal and Napoleon thousands of his best troops.

Example of Poetic Justice.

In all history there has never been a finer example of poetic justice than the resurrection of Poland supplies. Her three old oppressors, Austria has disappeared; Russia has gone to chaos and ruin; Prussia is at the mercy of the great western powers. Beaten, mutilated, destroyed in all save spirit by a century and a half of agony, Poland is rising again, as Belgium and Serbia have risen from a bondage far more recent and shortlived. Thus is being vindicated again the vitality of national consciousness, the immortality of races. Before America began its independent history at Concord and Lexington in 1775, the fall of Poland was in sight and the spoliation had been opened by the partition of 1772. Yet if America has become a world power, Poland has lived, and by virtue of this fact, is now rising to her old estate as one of the free nations of Europe.

In addition to the Polish problem, the Congress of Versailles will have to decide both as to Finland and the Baltic provinces. As to Finland the decision will be easy, through all the Russian period, lasting for just over a century, Finland preserved its character and a semblance of autonomy. With the collapse of Russia the Finns aided by the Germans, sought to achieve independence. Under German influence a sovereign was chosen from Germany and Finland seemed destined to become one more of the outlying dependencies of Germany.

With the fall of Germany, Finland will regain complete independence. That it will return to its old Swedish association is utterly improbable, rather we are likely to see one more independent nation, larger in area than the British Isles, with a population in excess of three millions, emerge from the shadow of Russian slavery and take its place among the Baltic States.

Still Another Problem.

South of the Gulf of Finland and along the shores of the Baltic still another complication must be faced and solved. In the three Baltic provinces of Russia, Livonia, Esthonian and the Kurland acquired by Peter the Great in 1721, and in several Russian governments east of the Niemen are some six millions of people, Esthonians, Letts, Lithuanians and Germans, with Polish and Russian infusions, who, under German direction, when Germany was victorious, were to be erected into a nation in which the German minority was to exercise dominant influence.

Of the several groups of people making up the population of this region, the Lithuanians are most numerous, counting more than 3,500,000; the Letts, who are Slavonic, and the Esthonians, who are Finns, each exceed a million, while the Germans do not number more than 100,000. Yet Riga, the largest city, is an old centre of German culture, with a very marked German character. Indeed this whole shore has something of the same alien quality as the Adriatic coast. In the north the culture and the tongue is German, as in the south it is Italian, but in both cases the population of the Hinterlands is Slav.

Long before the present war the Slavs of the Baltic provinces revolted and sought to escape the Russian rule, itself no more than a consent to the systematic plundering of the country by that German nobility, which maintained its influence through the aid of the Russian court, always Teutonic in sympathy. Since Russia fell, Germany has had her hour, seeking to rule through the same agent who had transferred their allegiance to Berlin. Now, with Russia and Germany both fallen, the provincial authorities are seeking to prevent the invasion of Bolshevism and have already invoked the aid of an allied fleet.

It seems to be the common expectation that a new state will be framed out of these Baltic provinces, with the addition of certain Russian lands to the southward. As to Esthonia, Livonia and the Kurland, the problem is simple and the frontiers of race and of geography easy to draw. But to the south, where Pole and Lithuanian claims conflict, it is otherwise. Yet if the Polish dream of a reunion of Poland and Lithuania fails, then one may expect to see the Lithuanian, Lett and Esthonian districts united in a single state, occupying the whole Baltic littoral from the Niemon to the Gulf of Finland, with Riga as its capital.

Finland, Lithuania, Poland, these are the three states to be created or recreated in the north, in all of them the German effort to dominate has failed; but to make the German failure complete and close the road to the east to the Teutonic tribes, it is essential that all three of these states shall be built upon a solid foundation. Nor is the danger now threatening less menacing than the German since Bolshevism is planning a westward advance, that can hardly be stayed without the prompt and effective intervention of the allied fleets and armies.

Thus the new Poland, which is to save Russia from the German may have as its first mission to save Western Europe from Bolshevism as the Poland of Sobieski saved Europe from the Turk.

A WINDSOR DOCTOR TRAPPED.

TWO METHODIST ministers went to the office of a Windsor physician, informed him that they were ill and asked for prescriptions to obtain liquor at the licensed vendor's store. The physician complied with their request. They straightway went to another physician, had him give them physical examination and secured his decision that they were in good health. Then they laid an information against the first doctor and had him up before the magistrate. The case has been adjourned for a week.

The Advertiser hopes, in the interests of temperance reform, and for the good of the community as a whole, that the great Methodist Church of Canada will repudiate the action of its ministers. If it will arise to this appeal it will be doing the cause of temperance a mighty service, and it will add respect to the men of the cloth.

But if it fails to repudiate the stealthy action of its ordained representatives, it will have added more force to the whispering campaign of the liquor interests than any other influence could possibly secure.

These ministers traded on the very reputations for veracity vested in them by their holy calling. They acknowledged themselves to have spoken untruths in order to tempt a man to disobey the law, perhaps unconsciously and unwillingly, but certainly in the letter of that law. They took the sanctified cloth which covered them and asked the physician to give them liquor as medicine in the name of that cloth. Could these ministers ever open their mouths to speak the charge that has been thrown at the Jesuits?

Whose word could any physician accept if he could not accept the word of these ministers? Even though he had examined them and found nothing wrong with them could he justify himself in a refusal to minister to the ailments they said required whiskey? Can any doctor prove a man to be lying when the man says he has stomachache?

One can conceive of some persons being so anxious to find crime that they would set diamonds in the path of a confirmed thief, but the tempter would be regarded as a queer sort of man. And the ministers who sought the downfall of a physician, no matter what his record, by conspiring to trap him, must be queer sort of men.

They cannot represent the real spirit and feeling of the Methodist Church. The Methodist Church is alive to the need for a rigid enforcement of the liquor law, but the Methodist Church would not place itself in the position of catching a man with a snare. It would leave to the men appointed by law the task of proving that the law was being violated.

The Methodist Church can do the cause of temperance untold good by using its influence to have a charge, established by such methods, wiped off the books of the police court.

A PRIVILEGE WITHDRAWN.

DURING THE WAR the railways of Canada granted single fare certificates to all soldiers on leave for a period of fifteen days. This privilege has been cancelled, and regular fare is charged to all men on leave.

It is a regrettable thing that the railways did not see fit to continue the practice, and it surely must have been with the knowledge of the Canada railway war board that the certificates were cancelled.

The carrying of troops during the war, whether for the Government or for men on leave, was so much "found" business to the railways. Especially is this true of the man on leave, who is never travelling in such great numbers as to cause the addition of extra coaches. The soldier who is going from a district headquarters to his home seldom has much money to spend, and the single fare certificate was of great assistance to him. Why the practice should have been carried on during the war and stopped now when returned men are to be dealt with should be explained by the railways. The railways may have a good case, but it is certain that the soldiers will regret the necessity, if such it was, of the change.

THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE O. IN C.

ORDER-IN-COUNCIL government was again brought into disrepute when the department of justice decided that Arthur Skidmore, imprisoned and fined at Stratford for carrying a prohibited Socialist publication, should be released and the fine remitted. The Advertiser does not mean that Mr. Skidmore should not have been released, and if public opinion had been asked to decide, he most certainly would never have spent an hour in jail, but the impoteney of the regulations for public conduct framed in the secret council chambers at Ottawa is revealed and "the majesty of the law" held up to scorn.

The people of Canada have observed and will observe the laws that are passed by Parliament and placed upon the statute books, and any law which the Government desired to have passed could have been placed upon the statute books in a regular way. But for the order-in-council practice, which was epidemic even while Parliament was in session, the public has little respect.

And should they have had any respect for order-in-council government when they saw the weak and faltering manner in which almost all of these sudden perversions of British justice were administered? The orders-in-council framed to prevent newspapers from full freedom of expression were for the most part unnecessary. The chief censor will testify that almost without exception the newspapers exercised a voluntary censorship in all matters which might interfere with the prosecution of the war. But there were at least two exceptions. The one was Smith, of Sault Ste. Marie, editor of an English language newspaper, who was clapped into jail for a single offense against the cause, and the other was Bourassa, of Quebec, who offended daily for years and never had to disturb himself over consequences. Order-in-council government struck only where it dared.

As in the case of the western railway strikers who were imprisoned, and the thousands of other strikers who went scot free, the Government, after trying out its miserable instrument to prevent workmen's organizations from expressing their will, withdrew the force of the strike order-in-council when it was seen that workmen would not be coerced.

In the case of Mr. Skidmore the Government has succeeded through the medium of its order-in-council in embittering a large industrial class, depriving the man of his liberty, and countermanding the decision of the local magistrate. The Government did not respond on grounds of clemency, but because it realized that its weapon of order-in-council crumpled like tea-lead upon the solid rock of public opinion.

This is what brings law into contempt and detracts from the influence of government.

MAYOR JOHN M. ELSON.

MANY OF HIS friends and acquaintances in London will be pleased to read of the election of John Melbourne Elson, editor and publisher of the St. Catharines Journal, to the mayoralty of the city in which he resides. Before purchasing a newspaper of his own, Mr. Elson had a broad journalistic experience in this city, Toronto and Montreal. He has been closely identified with public affairs, serving in the St. Catharines council and taking a high-minded, independent attitude in his civic deliberations with the result that he often suffered from attacks and misrepresentation. He had a hard fight in the recent campaign, but the manner in which he dealt fair treatment to his opponent in the columns of his own (Elson's) newspaper must have been disarming and a magnet to attract votes. His large majority gives him a clear pathway to carry on an advanced and substantial program for his city. It will also give him a new place in public life, and probably lead to higher places of trust. Such men as "Jack" Elson, students of public affairs, above petty politics and willing to serve for the sake of serving, are always needed in public life. They are the antidote required for self-seekers, great promisers and clowns in high places.

Mr. Elson's friends, and especially those who remember him as a working newspaper comrade, are much elated at his success, and he numbers his well-wishers in all parts of the Dominion.

Word has been received in the city that W. D. Love, C. A., eldest son of the late Francis Love, police magistrate, has been admitted into partnership in the well-known firm of F. C. Turner & Co., chartered accountants, of Winnipeg. The Advertiser wishes Mr. Love continued success.

His many friends in London will be pleased to learn that Charles Macdonald is now sheriff of the city and county of Vancouver. Mr. Macdonald, a native Londoner and for some time a practicing barrister in this city, at Ridgetown, and at Windsor, and candidate in the Liberal interests at the last Dominion election for the Shaughnessy Heights Division of Vancouver, received his appointment a short time ago. Mr. Macdonald was unfortunate in the loss of his only son through the war, which probably induced his withdrawal from practice, and his acceptance of the position as sheriff. Mr. Macdonald's friends will wish him many years of health and usefulness in his position.

"DOPE" ON DECLARATIONS.

[Halifax Chronicle.]

There were in the war fifty-two official declarations of war and twenty-eight notices of severance of diplomatic relations. The declarations of war were made by twenty-seven countries, and four countries which did not declare war subsequently made declarations severing diplomatic relations, these being Bolivia, Ecuador, Peru, and Uruguay. The last country to enter the war was Nicaragua, which, on May 6, 1918, declared war on Germany and on Austria. Germany was at war with seventeen States, Austria with fifteen, Bulgaria with seven, and Turkey with three, apart from a general declaration of a holy war against all Allies, made on November 11, 1914, at which time many subsequent belligerents had not entered the war. Only Great Britain and Italy formally declared war on Turkey, and Turkey formally declared war on Rumania, Belgium, France, Greece, the United States, and Russia only severed diplomatic relations with Turkey.

[Ottawa Citizen.]

As the ships built in the old country are costing the British Government less than $100 per ton, and in Canada the Canadian Government is paying $188 and upwards per ton, while wages of labor are the same in both countries, it is of course more clear than ever that there is nothing extravagant about the marine department contracts.

President Wilson and Ruins

By H. F. Gadsby

The cable dispatches indicate that President Wilson has been viewing the ruins. The French took him there so that he could approach the Peace Table in an adequate frame of mind. He can have no illusions now as to what German frightfulness means.

This German scar across the fair face of Northern France averages twenty miles in width, although it is twice that at certain points. It is what those gloomy old prophets had in mind when they spoke of the abomination of desolation. It is Ezekial's vision of dry bones, with this difference, that the bones, shallowly sepulchred, are not yet dry, and the tortured earth is rotten with millions of dead.

The French Government is preserving certain of these stricken spots as "historic sites." Which means, we suppose, that they will be cleaned up and memorials erected. For instance, the ruined Hotel de Ville at Arras is set aside for this purpose. A new Hotel de Ville will probably take its place, and all there will be to recall the wreck the Hun wrought will be a tablet on the wall. As in Arras, so in the other partially ruined cities and towns—the public buildings will rise again on the old sites, new houses will take the place of those destroyed, and those not too badly shattered will be put in shape. So far as outward appearance goes the wounds of war will be healed and France will be her own beautiful self again.

If the French are wise they will not restore everything. They will leave enough evidence to warn posterity of the tender mercy of the Hun. For example, they will preserve certain of the battlefields intact, not only for the tourist trade, but also as a monument of Hun Kultur. The French need nothing to harden their hearts, but there are quite a few people in this world who would let the Hun off before he works out his sentence. As his sentence ought to run fifty years, a battlefield or two, preserved as far as possible with the original horrors, will be useful to keep the lesson before people's eyes. For many years to come the battlefields of France will be visited by persons bereaved or unbereaved in the Great War, and when they go home and tell what they saw, it will not be possible for the world to forget. It's a safe guess that President Wilson has a different idea of justice to the Hun—now that his eyes and his soul are seared by the sights he has seen—to what he had when he left Washington.

Of course France cannot preserve all her battlefields—that would put too much of the land out of tillage—but one or two might well be kept as they stand. And one of these battlefields should be Vimy Ridge, not only because it shows what mortal man can do by way of storming the gates of hell, but also because it is the most compact and typical example of desolation that I know. Here is a composite picture of all the horrors of war—the blasted landscape, the scabbed and pitted earth, the shell holes full of slime and putrescence, the dark and gruesome dugouts, the graveyards with their sagging white crosses, the sodden trenches with their ghastly memories, the heaps of rubble that were once villages, the mangled steadings that once meant farms—in short, all the infamies the Hun and his kultur brought to a smiling countryside. One hopes that President Wilson saw it on a bright, sunny day, when an unblinking sky revealed its dreadful sores in all their nakedness.

Yes, Vimy Ridge is the typical battlefield. It can be "done" in a day by the tourist, though it took three years, thousands of men, millions of shells and mountains of explosives to make it the deadly spectacle it is.

If President Wilson had a mind for further horrors after he saw Vimy, they probably took him along the valley to Lens. For a long time that valley was the favorite bridle path for the Pale Rider on the White Horse. He galloped furiously up and down, and wherever he rode thousands were trampled. The Valley of the Shadow of Death! More than that, the Valley of the Substance of Death! It is all around—Death is—in legions. Twenty thousand Frenchmen fell at Notre Dame de Lorette alone. Death has sown this stripped, barren valley with countless brave men. It fairly quivers us with its ghosts. They stretch out their hands and ask that their sacrifice shall not be in vain—that the Hun shall not go unpunished for this crime, that the War Lord, skulking now in Holland, shall not cheat the justice of mankind.

Perhaps the French showed President Wilson Vimy Ridge and that dreadful valley first, but more likely they did not. The French have an instinct for effect, and they do not spring their climaxes at the beginning. Vimy Ridge and the valley ride to Lens is a climax, so it probably came last. No doubt President Wilson was put through a crescendo of horrors, and Vimy Ridge was the ultimate trumpet note.

As an investigator of ruins, President Wilson was probably taken to Arras, which is a fairly good example of what the Germans can do to a city that has not fallen into their hands. Although the Hun never got nearer than three miles, the place is a sad wreck. As usual, the Huns made a special strafe of the cathedral, which is a complete ruin, likewise the old Abbey of St. Vaast, which adjoins it. The cathedral is a dangerous place to explore. While I was stumbling over its shattered altar a pigeon flew in through the roofless transept, alighted on a half-ton stone block teetering precariously on one of the great columns, and promptly pushed the thing over. It fell with a cataclysmic crash not far from our little party. One hopes that the president viewed the ruins of Arras Cathedral from an airplane, or that special measures were taken to keep the birds from upsetting things while he was going the rounds.

Another thing that must have interested President Wilson at Arras is Robespierre's house. This house fronts a public square, and from its balcony Robespierre witnessed the executions in which his black soul delighted. All the houses around it are shot to spillikins by German shells and bombs, but Robespierre's house stands unscathed. It almost looks as if the Huns, recognizing one of the old masters of frightfulness, had spared his habitation out of a fellow feeling for murderers.

No doubt President Wilson visited Amiens. Like Arras it never fell into the hands of the Hun, but the apostles of kultur did a neat little bit of ruining just the same. The fact that one house in every 27 was damaged by German shell-fire does not tell the whole tale. The average was one in twenty-seven, but the destruction was bunched in the business section of the city. The cathedral received comparatively little injury, but not by any favor of the Hun. He tried hard enough. In fact, he put every building in the square, but somehow or other the catedral managed to escape.

The Advertisers' Daily Short Story

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

A NECKLACE OF PEARLS.

"Go! Leave at once! You need not come again! Here is your ring. Must I call father?" Rosetta had risen from her chair, her chin raised and her eyes blazing forth indignation. Rosetta was very pretty when she was aroused, and Billy Wright longed to kiss her, but instead he took the ring she was extending to him, and with just the faintest shrug of his shoulders started for the door. He looked back just before he went out.

All the fire of a pent-up firebrand soul was in the glance she gave him. The sense of the ridiculous seized him and he could not refrain from winking at her in the most tantalizing fashion imaginable just before he passed out. That was the last straw. She flung herself on the rug before the grate and wept hysterically. It was all ended—Billy and she were strangers.

He had dared dictate to her and she would not allow him to do that until he was her husband. He had said she was spoiling herself with cosmetics and her gowns were not sensible. The wretch! The beast! She would never speak to him again. Never!

For two weeks Rosetta was unhappy. She had told herself that she hated Billy, but gradually she had begun to think that she did not. She could have forgiven anything but the wink.

He had openly defied her—the girl he had said he loved. She had been too angry, though, and had shown him that she could not control her temper. No wonder he had lost his love and respect for her, she acknowledged at last.

If only he would telephone to her, or do something to show that he was anxious to take up things where they left off, she would never quarrel with him again, she resolved. She would follow his advice in everything—cosmetics and clothes included. Billy was a better judge than she was, anyway. But he did not care, she could see plainly.

Billy did care. His peace offering came in a neat little box, and when Rosetta opened it and discovered a pearl necklace shining up at her she forgot all about the quarrel and was ready to take Billy in her arms at any time. She started for the telephone to ask him to come right over, but before she reached it Madeline Pratt, her chum, was announced.

"Come up and see the necklace Billy has just sent me, the dear old soul," Rosetta cried in delight, before Madeline had a chance to speak. "He says it is a peace offering."

The two girls raced up the stairs to Rosetta's boudoir, where she had left the necklace on a dressing table. Madeline held it up to the light instantly.

"Why, Rosetta, it's a cheap imitation," she exclaimed in wonder. "He has done this for a joke."

Rosetta snatched it from her and examined it closely. So it was. She had not looked at it critically before, but now she could see it was a worthless string of beads with a cheap brass fastener.

"Oh!" she cried as she flung it from her, "the cad!" It required all Madeline's skill as a sympathizer to bring Rosetta back to her senses.

"Send it right back to him. I'll compose a letter to go with it. We'll show him." Madeline declared when Rosetta's flood of tears had been stopped.

The beads were carefully put back in the box, which was really a handsome one, and a note inclosed. It was brief and to the point. "Your peace offering is as worthless to me as yourself," it said. No wonder poor Billy packed up to start out for some place where he could forget when he got that icy note.

The two weeks since their quarrel might have been unhappy, but they were nothing to the next few days that Rosetta put in. To cap it all was the startling news in the evening paper. Rosetta thought she had gone crazy.

SOCIETY MAN, WM. WRIGHT JUN., SWINDLES JEWELER; FLEES FROM POLICE,

was the heading, and then the story told of Billy's purchasing an expensive necklace of pearls from a leading jeweler and returning it a few days later. After his money had been refunded the jeweler opened the box to find that a string of cheap beads had been substituted for the pearls and the young society man had decamped. Detectives were then on his trail.

Poor Rosetta; she did not know how much she loved Billy until that story came out. It had all been her fault. She had allowed him to spend money on her because she thought he could afford to do so, but apparently he could not, and had had to steal as a result. Why had he sent those worthless pearls to her? She was too excited to dwell on that.

How he must hate her, she thought. She would go to him, share his dishonor, for she had been to blame for it. She realized that she did not know where to find him, but love would find him, she was sure. Where the detectives had failed she would be successful. It was late at night when she came to this resolve, but she hastily packed a few things in a club bag and started out. On the stairway she hesitated.

Perhaps she would never come back. She had not said good-bye to anyone—not even to baby sister Ruth. Oh, she could not go away without doing that.

Stealthily she crept into the nursery, where the little sister was sound asleep. She risked the light, for she could not go away without a last sight of the dimpled face and golden curls. She knelt down and kissed the little mouth. The child turned restlessly—as a tear dropped on her cheek—displaying the doll clasped in her chubby arms. Rosetta cried out in surprise and slipped the doll from under the child's arms. A string of pearls was around its neck—it was the genuine necklace.

It dawned upon her instantly. Billy had sent her the real necklace. In her brief absence the child had innocently exchanged it for her doll's. Billy was wrongfully accused. He had not intended to swindle the jeweler—he was not a thief.

Rosetta was on her way to the nearest police station, the necklace clasped in her hand, before she realized it. She was out of breath when she arrived, but managed to gasp out an explanation. It all seemed a dream to her until the officer had sent for someone, and then she saw who that someone was.

"Billy!" she cried, as she flung herself into his arms. "Billy!" She sobbed out the story bit by bit.

It was not difficult to arrange for bail after that. The jeweler was communicated with, and when the facts were laid before him, withdrew the charge and promised to exonerate Billy through the press.

The next day Billy found Rosetta in the nursery with baby Ruth.

"She has cried herself to sleep because her dollie's necklace was lost," Ruth smiled. "Poor little pet does not know what unhappiness she has caused me, but she did show me that I really loved you, dear."

"That is all that matters," he said, as he took a necklace from his pocket. "Here's another one for Ruth's doll and here is one for you."

"I would much rather have my ring," she whispered.

It was just like being engaged all over again. He took the ring from his pocket, held out his hand to take hers, and when the ring was on her finger kissed her just as tenderly as if it were for the first time.

MISSION TO LEPERS HOLDS MEETING TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Letter From Canadian Secretary Makes Plea For Worthy Cause.

The members of the Mission to Lepers held their last meeting of the year. Mrs. George Wood was elected president for 1919, with Miss Mary Fraser honorary president, Mr. Donald Campbell and Mrs. J. W. Jones, first and second vice-presidents; Miss Davis, secretary; Mrs. J. Stevenson, treasurer, and Miss Rogers, pianist. The society is undenominational, and new members will be gladly welcomed at the next meeting, which will be held the first Tuesday in February at 510 Wellington street at 4:30 o'clock. The following letter from Miss Lila Watt, secretary for Canada, will be of interest:

"In our gratitude for the approaching end of the war and the safety of our men, might we not remember the lepers? The Christian lepers in India have been with us every day in our prayers for our men. They have prayed every day, not only for their own Indian soldiers, but for all the British army, Canadians, Australians, and the soldiers from all the Dominions of our empire, and the Allies. The untainted children of lepers have taken up collections to send to the Belgian children, and the lepers themselves have asked that their own Christmas presents be given not to them, but to the soldiers.

The lepers know very well where the kindness comes from that gives them comfort in their pain. The Canadian missionaries tell us that at one asylum the lepers pray every day by name, for all those they know of who are interested in them. It makes a long list, but they go over it carefully, and sometimes a missionary, very hot and tired, who may have dropped into the lepers' prayer meeting, wishes that the list were not quite so long—but they never leave anyone out, and then, lest they may forget someone, they say, "and all those who are praying for us, all those who are giving for us." Surely if our Master hears anyone's prayers, it must be the prayers of these poor people. Someone has said, "Which one even of the war-sufferers would care to change places with a leper?" It is still, in its worst forms, the most terrible disease from which men suffer—and it is still incurable, though much can be done to lessen its ravages. One of the objects of the Mission to Lepers is, besides preaching the Gospel to them, relieving their sufferings, and supplying their simple wants, finally to rid the world of leprosy. This by means of segregation, can be done.

"As the appeals for the various Red Cross funds are about over, could you not divert what you are accustomed to giving to these objects to this most needy work? In our rejoicings at the end of the war ought not "the least of these" to have a share? Praying that for any time, or strength, or help, you may give to our lepers, you may be abundantly blessed and repaid in your own soul. We are reaching about 11,500 lepers and children. The cost of providing for a leper for a year, Christian teaching, medical attention, feed clothing and shelter is $25; for a child, tainted or untainted, $20."

Jimmy Coon and His Friends

The Adventures of the Little People of the Great Forest.

A WONDERFU L ESCAPE.

You never in your life saw such scampering by the Wood Folk as before that leaping Fire in the Great Forest. All the little people of the Great Wood who lived near saw the fire, and they escaped, because they could run faster than the fire. But you remember that the Beavers were sound asleep in their little houses of wood. And the Great Forest Fire was coming nearer and nearer to the Beavers' houses every moment.

It certainly did look as if the Beavers would lose their lives in the Great Fire! There was no one to wake them from their sound sleep, and the flames now were leaping in the dry, tall grass around their little houses. And soon the sparks fell on the dry roofs of the Beavers' houses; and the roofs were now on fire!

But no one could see anything of any of the Beavers. Soon the flames burnt up every house in Beaver Dam Village, and nothing was left but a mass of flames. And soon all the trees and all the grass on the west side of Mirror Pond were burned up, and nothing but ruins and blackness were left.

Out of the Back Cellar Door and Out Into the Big Pond.

And then that great Forest Fire worked around both ends of Mirror Pond and set fire to the trees and the meadows on the other side of the Pond; and soon the east side of the Pond were ruined, too.

And instead of Green Forests and Green Meadows, there was one vast stretch of black logs and black smoking grass. It was a very black and dark picture. And Beaver Dam Village was ruined, and every little house was ruined.

Everyone thought that all the Beavers were burnt up in their houses. But suddenly little brown heads were seen swimming in the big Pond; and soon it was discovered that every Beaver and all the little Beavers were safe and sound.

How did they possibly save their lives in such an awful fire, when they were sound asleep, and their houses burned up so quickly? It was this way: Father Beaver always sleeps with one ear open. (He has done that wonderful trick for years). And he heard the sparks of the fire burning the roof of their house; and he gave one tremendous signal of danger with his strong tail on the floor of the house, and it echoed in every bedroom, and all the Beavers awoke, and dived out of their beds, down the cellar stairs, into the deep water in the cellar; and they all swam out of the back cellar door and out into the Big Pond.

And they all gave the danger signal with their powerful tails, and this noise woke up the Beavers in the other little houses in the Village; and all reached the Pond by diving into their cellars and swimming under water.

ADVOCATES VOTING FOR REPRESENTATION, NOT MERELY PARTY

Margery Mills Again Discusses Evil Influence of Badly Used Franchise.

The question facing the U. F. W. O. this new year is "How shall we get farm women in general to see WHY they need the organization almost more than it needs them?" As one woman expressed it—if they only could see their duty, privileges and responsibility in the matter. And it is for those of us who do see, to make our clubs so attractive, and to so work together that the others simply can't stay outside. I like the order in which those three words were used—they form a climax, do they not?

To most of us, however, conscientious we may be, the word duty is not a very attractive term. We have used it too often to mean some necessary and disagreeable task, and it has lost to a great extent its real meaning—what is due or owing.

The Franchise Granted.

Yesterday you and I—the farm women—belonged almost entirely to our homes or at best to the domestic interests of our families and community. We were really not responsible citizens. Minors, idiots, and women like the three classes, which had no vote, and with our lives full to overflowing with farm duties, we made no special effort to have this state of affairs altered.

Others wider awake to our rights in this matter, than we ourselves, have brought about a new era. Now we have the provincial franchise, and municipal franchise, and when the war-times election act is rescinded, as it will be some day, the federal vote, too, is ours.

Today, therefore, we belong to the nation, and two lines of action are open to us—just two. The first and easier is to join the already large army of voters who vote without knowing or caring a fig about the questions upon which every election does or should hinge—and there surely is something of national moment that is kept in the background, while the mooted question is "Down with this party and up with the other one."

Voters Lists Studied.

I challenge contradiction to the statement that the voters' list receives a week's study for every hour given the record of any candidate for public office. Yet such records are kept and accessible. Upon this wilful blind ignorance of the average citizen, hinges the fact that no one seems to want to deny, that the unthinking, loose, marketable vote, is the power that sways this country, and that thinking men are so in the minority that if they all stayed home on election day the outcome of the vote would be just the same.

Study Citizenship.

Now, are we women going to vote from that standpoint? If we are, I wish someone would tell us how the franchise will add to our dignity. The other course for us to take is to find time somewhere to study civics or citizenship. What is the actual condition of this country of ours, socially, morally, commercially? What cause or causes have tended to produce these results? Are they satisfactory or desirable? If not, wherein are they deficient?

No man who cannot talk with me along these lines need ask for my vote, for he won't get it. If there is no other reason for my going to the polls than to put Mr. Brown into power and keep Mr. Jones out, I won't vote. I'll find something worth while to do instead. But I am expecting Mr. Smith to come along with something definite for the benefit of my class, and I'm going to consider his proposition.

Will Study Farmers' Platform.

As a farm woman, I'm going to study this farmers' platform. I may or may not agree with all or any of its planks, but I'm going to understand them, for their aim is worth my consideration since it is the betterment of the condition of the class to which I belong—the class which operates the basic industry of this country, the class upon whose prosperity the real prosperity of the nation depends.

Will Vote for Representation.

I may or may not vote as my husband does. If I do, I vote because his views accord with my ideas on the questions upon which the voting hinges. But if I vote that way because he does, he has two votes, and I have none. My vote is given me as a means of self-representation. If I do not use it that way, every time I vote, I help very materially to undermine the democracy which our forefathers came here as pioneers to establish, and which we, their children, are letting slip from our grasp while we sleep.

It's time for a change, and the change is at hand.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Chown spent the Christmas holidays in Toronto with their son and his family.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Newton, 183 Tecumseh avenue, when friends to the number of 40 spent a most enjoyable New Year's eve in dancing, singing and cards. Miss T. L. Marsh sang "Perfect Prayer," while Mr. McCulloch's rendering of "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" was much enjoyed, as was the dancing of Miss Noreen Baker and Master Francis Howard, in Scotch and Irish reels. Miss Sangster and Mr. McCulloch rendered a musical number. A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Newton. The party broke up at 4:30 a.m. with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," everyone having spent a most enjoyable time.

Mrs. Jack McGill of London is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Gibson, Toluca, Ill.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Cook was the scene of a pretty wedding on New Year's Day, when the marriage of their daughter, Florence, to Floyd Adams of Eaton Rapids, Mich., was solemnized. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Hiles of Highgate.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Cameron, near Weldman, was the scene of a pretty wedding when their only daughter, Ila Mae, became the bride of William Earle Simpson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Simpson, near Glen Rae. Promptly at 12 o'clock the bride entered the drawing-room leaning on the arm of her father and took her place beneath an arch of evergreens. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Hugh Cameron. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. Loveday of Inwood in the presence of about forty friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride wore her traveling suit of navy blue serge with blouse of ivory georgette crepe, and carried a white Bible. Her only ornament was a cameo pendant, the gift of the groom. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Jean Zavitz, of Wallaceburg, gowned in sand crepe de chine, trimmed with blue. Mr. Hugh Simpson, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman. During the signing of the register Miss Mabel Zavitz sang "O Perfect Love," after which a wedding luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson will reside on the groom's farm near Glen Rae, on their return from a wedding trip to eastern points.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on December 18 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Kernohan, 82 Colborne avenue, Elmwood, when Mildred M. Anderson, of Wyoming, was united in marriage to Mr. Howard Jamieson, Winnipeg, by the Rev. D. N. McLachlan. The bride wore a charming gown of embroidered sand shade georgette over silk and carried a sheaf of American Beauty roses. Little Elizabeth Kernohan, acting as flower girl wore a dainty frock of hand-embroidered batiste and carried a basket of pink and white carnations, in which reposed the ring. After a short honeymoon spent in western cities, the happy couple will take up their residence at Suite 9, "B" Maple Leaf Apts., Fort Rouge. The bride is a daughter of Mr. J. D. Anderson, Second line, Plympton, and a sister of Mrs. Leslie Canton, London road.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS FOR THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY JANUARY 5, 1919.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION
(By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.)
Pharaoh Oppresses Israel.—Exodus, i., 1-14; ii., 1-25.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

17. Verses 16-20.—What is the significance of the truth that every man should be an actual priest in his own household?

18. What lessons may we learn from the hearty hospitality of this priest, or prince of Midian?

19. Verses 21-22.—Did Moses do well to take a wife, and why would you say, or not, that every normal man should marry?

20. Verses 23-25.—How do you know that God hears and answers the cry of all who are in trouble?

Golden Text: He will save the children of the needy, and will break in pieces the oppressor.—Psalm lxxii., 4.

GOD DESTROYS ALL OPPRESSORS.

Historians give learned and exhaustive reasons why the ancient nations were destroyed, and in so far as they point out the reason for their extinction they describe the methods which God used to destroy them. The reason why these ancient civilizations, once powerful, are no more, is because God destroyed them. He blotted them out from the face of the earth because they oppressed the people, and especially oppressed the working classes, the poor and the needy. The world is just beginning to learn that when the weak, the poor, the helpless, are badly treated, or even neglected, that such a nation cannot continue to exist. Russia is a striking modern example of this statement, and the once powerful nation Germany is staggering from the blow of God because of her oppressive iniquities to the weaker nations.

"Contented."

"Contented"—Several parcels of clothing are already at The Advertiser Office, and if "Contented" will call for them or send her address they will be handed over to her.

Favorite Fruit Rocks.

"Clematis" sends a request for a stockingfoot pattern, and in return incloses a favorite recipe for fruit rocks. "They are dandy for special occasions," she says: Three eggs, 2 cups brown sugar, 2½ cups flour (sifted), 1 teaspoon soda (dissolved in a tablespoon of water; 1½ cups raisins, 1 cup walnut meats, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves. Drop in small spoonfuls in a pan and bake very slowly.

A Happy New Year from CLEMATIS.

Heroine In Our Midst.

Dear Miss Grey,—May I be a star of your crown? I wrote to your charming circle once before and received some nice quilt patterns from Comic, and thank her very much. Hope some day I will be able to repay her for her kindness. Isn't it a grand thing to know this terrible war is over, and our brave boys are marching home once more? And what a grand sensation it will be for the parents at home to have their dear ones back again.

Here is a good way to serve the left-over chicken. Make a biscuit crust the same as for old-fashioned shortcake. Spread the chicken between and pour gravy on the whole. I am sixteen years of age, and would like to correspond with some girl of about that age if she will write first. I would like to get the words of "Roamin' in the Gloamin" if you or any of the kind pageites would send it to me. As before,

GRACE DARLING.

Ans.—We're glad to have such a heroine as yourself among our members. Grace's two requests are referred, and I shall retain her envelope, pending a response.

Cream Goes Frothy.

Dear Miss Grey,—Can any of your readers kindly tell me how to make butter? I have made butter for years, but lately (and each time it is the same), it gets into one mass of froth, and I can do nothing with it, but put it out for the pigs. It seems too bad with so much cream. Shall be glad if some one could tell me what is wrong. I use a barrel-churn, and have the cream at about 50°.

Thanking you, I am, SILLY SALLY.

Ans.—Quite likely a number of the farm women readers will be pleased at an opportunity to give "Sally" helpful suggestions. In the meantime, may I quote this from the Farmers' Advocate of December 26, being a reply to a query very similar to your own: "There may be several causes for the butter not gathering. Having the churn too full prevents the proper contact; in other words, becomes frothy. Having the cream low in fat is another cause of difficult churning. Cream from cows well advanced in the lactation sometimes causes difficulty in churning. Having cream too rich will cause it to thicken, or "go to sleep" in the churn. It is possible that this is the cause of your trouble. Sometimes the cream contains a gas-producing ferment which causes the foam. A handful of salt and a little water at about 80 degrees will frequently settle the foam. If this does not do so, remove part of the cream and raise the temperature about ten degrees. If the trouble continues it might be advisable to pasteurize the cream, which may be done by setting the can in a tin of water on the stove and bringing it to a temperature of 140 degrees and holding it at that for 20 minutes, then cooling off to churning temperature again.

The Quick Way to Stop a Cough

This home-made syrup does the work in a hurry. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

INGERSOLL PREPARING FOR OPENING HOCKEY GAME NEXT TUESDAY

London Intermediates To Play Ingersoll Puck-Chasers Next Week.

INGERSOLL, Jan. 3.—There will be no end of ceremony in connection with the opening hockey game of the season here on Wednesday night with the London Intermediates. The old-time hockey spirit is again in evidence and keen ice will doubtless mean a bumper crowd. Ingersoll's new band, the Boy Scouts and the War Veterans will take part in a parade to the Mason Arena, and the puck will be faced at 8:15 by Mayor Buchanan. Several of Ingersoll's hockey veterans will again be in action, and while the strength of the Cockneys is an unknown quantity, the locals are determined to make it a battle royal.

Owing to the trouble experienced in making ice up to yesterday the junior games with Paris, scheduled for tonight has been postponed.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE FOR DOMINION BEING FORMED

MONTREAL, Jan. 3.—Following the lead of the Metropolitan A.A.U., amateur athletic authorities here have organized a basketball league for tournament championship play. The formation of a league was accomplished at a meeting held recently at the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, which was attended by representatives of the M.A.A.A., Shamrock A.A.A., McGill University, and several branches of the Y.M.C.A.

Efforts are to be made to attract representation from Toronto, Quebec, Ottawa and other cities, making the Dominion league almost national in scope. If these efforts fail, the title will be the Montreal Basketball League, but if the officials succeed in getting representation from other cities, the league will be known as the International Basketball League.

GUELPH HOCKEY TEAMS WITHOUT GOOD RINK

GUELPH, Jan. 3.—The unexpected collapse of the roof of the Royal City Skating Rink has rather complicated matters with respect to the hockey situation. It will probably have the effect of ending all local hockey as the Victoria Rink is not available for that purpose. The only other rink is that at the O. A. C. The college team will play its home games there, but it is not likely any other teams will use the ice at the college.

RACING ASSOCIATION TO PAY HEAVY REVENUE BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Racing associations which enjoyed a prosperous season last year will be hard hit by the new federal revenue bill, according to expert accountants. That some of them may have to pay a tax approximating $100,000 is declared to be not improbable.

Provisions of the pending bill will apply to racing associations in Maryland, Kentucky and Louisiana, as well as New York State, and it is estimated that half a million dollars will scarcely cover the total amount of their contribution to the treasury. Racing at fairs is not subject to the tax.

BOSTON JUDGE WILL NOT ISSUE WARRANT AGAINST FIGHTER

Young Frankie Britt Released After Judge Refuses To Make Charge.

Boston, Jan. 4.—Judge Albert Hayden of the Roxbury district court refused today to issue a warrant charging manslaughter against Frank Pacheo of New Bedford, a boxer known in sporting circles as "Young Frankie Britt," who was engaged in a bout with "Terry McGovern" of Philadelphia Monday night, when the latter was fatally injured.

Britt, who was held in $2,000 bond by the police, was immediately released.

In announcing his decision Judge Hayden said that no evidence of brutality had been produced. McGovern's death, he said, had been ascribed by the medical examiner to a hemorrhage in the head resulting from the bursting of a small blood vessel, which caused a small leakage, but that this might have occurred on some previous occasion.

McGovern was knocked out in the sixth round of the bout, and as he fell struck his head heavily on the floor. He died Tuesday at a local hospital.

Lawless Says He Was Nearly Down and Out When He Began Taking Tanlac.

"When I first began taking Tanlac I only weighed ninety-seven pounds, and was just about down and out," said O. D. Lawless, the well-known Omaha produce merchant, residing at 604 South 28th street, recently, "but I now weigh one hundred and thirty-seven pounds, and so far as my health is concerned, I couldn't ask to feel much better.

"I have not gotten all my lost weight back yet," he continued, "for I had dropped down sixty-one pounds. But I am still taking Tanlac and expect soon to tip the beam at one hundred and fifty-eight, my weight before my troubles began. I began suffering from stomach trouble and getting into a run-down condition five years ago, when my appetite went back on me. I lost all desire to give up my coffee and many other things I like best, as I could not retain them, and the only thing that half-way agreed with me was fruits. There were terrible pains in my right side, which would almost cramp me double two or three times a week. I became uneasy, fearing appendicitis, and no one seemed to understand my case or do me any good. I just kept suffering and losing weight until it looked like I would shrink up to nothing.

"My condition had become noticeable to all who knew me, and while talking over my case with a friend one day, he asked me why I didn't try Tanlac. Well, this put me to thinking there might be something in Tanlac for me, and there certainly was, for I have already picked up forty pounds, and my old-time strength and energy have come back to me. I hadn't finished my first bottle until the pains, which I feared were caused by appendicitis, had disappeared. I can drink coffee now and eat just anything I want, and never have the least trouble with my stomach. So you can see why I'm so strong for Tanlac. It has made life worth living for me, and I feel like I ought to pass the good word along."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

WOODSTOCK JUNIORS DEFEAT ATHENAEUMS IN EXHIBITION GAME

Queen City Hockey Team Defeated on Woodstock Ice Last Night.

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 3.—The local juniors defeated the Athenaeums of the Toronto senior Beaches League here tonight by 11 to 5. The score about indicates the play. The game was fast in spots, but the ice was in poor condition and spoiled attempts at combination. The contest satisfied the fans that the locals are a well-balanced outfit. They are fast skaters, stick-handle nicely, and tonight rained shot after shot on their opponents' goal. Bell and Frank Carson accounted for most of the goals. King and Shea worked nicely on the defence, while little Johnston at centre proved a find. The visitors showed up well in the final period, when they held the red and white to one goal. McBurney, Rowe and L. Goldsmith were the best for the Torontos.

OLD FOLKS' COUGHS, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS QUICKLY CURED

This Tells of a Method That Cures Without Using Drugs.

Elderly people take cold easily. Unlike young folks, they recover slowly. That is why so many people past middle life die of pneumonia.

Cough Syrups seldom do much good because they upset digestion. Any doctor knows that a much more effective treatment is "CATARRHOZONE," which heals and soothes the irritated surfaces of the throat.

In using Catarrhozone you do not take medicine into the stomach—you simply breathe into the throat, nose and lungs rich, piney, balsamic vapor, so full of healing power that colds, catarrh and bronchitis disappear almost instantly.

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

A Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket or purse enables you to stop a cold with the first sneeze. Large size costs $1.00 and supplies treatment for two months, small size, 50c; trial size, 25c; all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Canada.

If your skin is sensitive and burns and smarts after shaving, or if it has a dry, puckered feeling, you can immediately relieve this by using just a little of Seely's After-shave after washing the lather from your face.

Delicately perfumed—is not greasy nor sticky—dries quickly and leaves the skin smooth and soft. Heals and closes up any little cuts or scratches from the razor. All druggists have Seely's After-shave in 25c and 50c bottles.

How Science Is Conquering Disease With Preventives

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D., (Johns Hopkins University.)

Unless you are a sailor or a soldier, the chances are you will some day be ill in bed with the high fever of typhoid for six weeks or more. Typhoid fever is practically preventable, yet it cannot be cured. The vaccine of anti-typhoid does away with every chance of "catching" this dire disease, "whose ruthless power withers beauty's transient flower."

You have the knowledge and the facts and yet you still go unvaccinated—unless you are in the army or the navy. Your "human nature" disinclines you to save yourself?

A new and powerful preventive vaccine has just been prepared at the request of the United States army by the physicians and immunologists of the great John D. Rockefeller Institute of Preventive Medicine in New York. This vaccine was first administered to 12,000 soldiers who offered to volunteer at one of the army cantonments when pneumonia was epidemic.

When Germ Meets Germ.

Anti-typhoid vaccine is made of typhoid germs. These are encouraged to thrive and multiply faster than rabbits, the bacilli are boiled to death to form the vaccine, which, injected into the muscles, causes the individual to manufacture anti-typhoid fluids ready to pounce upon and imprison any live typhoid disease germs which may penetrate the vaccinated person's anatomy. Thus it is a sure preventive, but is never a cure for typhoid.

The anti-pneumonia vaccine is more complex. There are at least eight different bacteria associated with pneumonia, while there is but one kind in typhoid bacilli.

The Anti-Pneumonia Vaccine.

The new Rockefeller vaccine, suggested by the discoveries of Dr. I. Cole of that institution, was composed at first of a billion or so of four types of pneumococci. Since the recent plague, however, four other streptococci and influenza-plague bacilli have been identified as causes of pneumonia, so now the anti-pneumonia vaccine contains perhaps two million germs each of pneumococci type 1, 2, 3 and 4, bacillus influenza, bacillus plague, bacterium streptococcus hemolyticus and bacterium streptococcus iddidens.

Of the 12,000 soldiers who placed themselves willingly at the disposal of the army doctors, not one fell ill with pneumonia.

Typhoid formerly killed more men than shot and shell. In civil life it is still near the head of the death list.

Pneumonia has become the new scourge of the army. This new vaccine very likely will allow the future armies to defy it, as we today defy typhoid.

When the plain every-day man and woman begins to understand that many diseases can be prevented and hardly any can be cured, it will be gratifying evidence that human nature has changed.

Answers to Health Questions

M. E. J. A.—Please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your query repeated and I shall be glad to give you the information you desire.

ANXIOUS READER. Q.—Kindly give me a remedy for falling hair and a dry scalp.

A.—Massage a little of the following into the scalp three times a week:

Quinine	1 dram
Pilocarpine	2½ grains
Salicylic acid	15 grains
Lanolin	½ ounce
Petrolatum	½ ounce

A READER. Q.—Kindly let me know why people talk to themselves and what is the cure for it.

A.—A lack of education, wide reading and study often weakens the will and control of the muscles of speech. The cure is to take up night study and work at the Y. M. C. A. or other gymnasium.

MRS. R. S. Kindly advise me what to do for a severe throbbing in my temples.

A.—You do not appear to need medicines nor a doctor, but work. Put your interest and attention upon pleasant and useful things and forget your own troubles.

G. R. M. Q.—Kindly advise me what to do for bronchitis.

2. Kindly advise me how to gain weight.

A.—Tuberculosis is often associated with bronchitis, and, therefore, an examination must be made to determine the seriousness of your bronchitis. The non-serious bronchitis usually disappears in about three weeks. Emulsion of cod liver oil is very good, and two or three drops of creosote in an empty capsule after meals is also very good. Vapors of steam, camphor and nitre also help.

2. Your weight may be increased by 10 to 12 hours sleep in the 24 in a well ventilated room, by eating sweets, starches, butter, puddings, fatty meats, rich soups and gravies. You must drink copiously of water and milk. Take but little exercise, but be in the open air and sunlight just as much as possible, and keep the intestines open an active.

Smart Evening Wrap of Crimmer and Black Velvet.

Furriers are efficiency experts. Ask them whence come the myriads of furs we see on the street, and they'll smile a knowing smile and won't say a word.

Crimmer is particularly popular this season and never looks better than when combined with black velvet, as you will observe in this evening wrap. A deep collar of crimmer really becomes a cape, to which the velvet is gathered. The armholes are faced with blue charmeuse.

A deep band of crimmer encircles the generous folds of the cape. Skirts are narrow and capes are wide. This is one of the inconsistencies of fashion.

Good Night Stories

MAMMA'S MAGIC FUR COAT.

"Don't you wish mamma's fur coat were a wishing rug!" laughed Dotty to her brother David as she spied mamma's sealskin coat over the couch.

"Let's play it is!" exclaimed David. "Let's see where it takes us."

Hand in hand they climbed upon the couch and sat down on the coat.

"Isn't that funny!" cried Dotty. "I can almost feel it quiver. Don't you wish it would take us to the place it came from?"

"Wouldn't that be funny!" laughed David.

Then, before the children knew what was happening, the sealskin coat raised right up into the air and floated out of the window, carrying the two children with it.

Over the housetops it flew, over mountains and seas, so fast that Dotty and David had all they could do to keep from tumbling off. And never stopped until it reached the land of ice and snow. Here, on a strange shore the sealskin coat floated to the ground, and Dotty and David found themselves standing before Mamma and Daddy Seal, surrounded by a crowd of baby seals.

Daddy Seal came forward to greet Dotty and David, holding out his black-gloved hand. He measured about seven feet from the tip of his nose to where his tail should have been, if he'd had one. He was very fat, and wore two fur coats. One of straw-like, shining over hair, and the other of soft under fur, which he told Dotty was used for jacket making. His head was very small, but his eyes were large and wistful as he looked at the sealskin coat.

Over the Housetops it Flew.

"Well! well!" he laughed with a funny roar. "Mamma, here are our three children made up in a sealskin coat."

"So it is!" laughed Mamma Seal as she saw her three baby seals hop out of the sealskin coat. "And how glad I am to see you!"

Mamma Seal kissed them all.

"Why, I never knew that it took three seals to make one coat!" exclaimed Dotty.

"Yes, indeed," replied Mamma Seal, with a merry chuckle, "and if it took ten I'd only be too glad to give them, for that's what we're put here for—to give help and comfort to other folks. These little fellows were all four years old before they were taken from us, and Daddy and I had almost lost heart."

"Lost heart!" exclaimed David, who didn't understand.

"Mamma Seal means 'tis almost a disgrace in Seal Land to have one of your family die on the ice. We raise our families to be useful to other folks. If they die at home they're no help to others. Now, these three children nearly broke their necks trying to be caught that day, and mamma and I were the happiest seals on the place when we found they'd been chosen to travel into the other lands."

"Why, I'm only too willing to give every one of these babies you see here as soon as they're old enough," said Mamma Seal.

"Well, we're all three happy," said one of the seals, "for we're made into this nice, warm coat. And every time Dotty's mamma puts us on we snuggle around her neck and keep her comfy. But, come children, I heard your mamma say she was going downtown this morning, so let's be going."

Before Dotty and David could count ten they were standing in their own house, and across the couch lay mamma's sealskin coat.

"I always felt sad seeing that sealskin coat," said David. "But now I'll feel better. Mamma Seal is right. What's the use of living if you can't save other folks?"

The ringing of the telephone made a fortunate diversion for me. I didn't wish to arouse my mother-in-law's anger by disputing her dictum concerning the propriety of my summery costume, neither was I inclined to agree with her, for if I had done so I knew that she would have insisted upon my changing from my "garden party" attire to the "simple black silk suit" she for the meeting at Howard's Hall.

"Pardon me," I said courteously as I passed her, but a sniff was the only answer I received, and I realized that something had put her into one of her nose disagreeable moods.

I went to the downstairs telephone, but upon my recognition of the voice at the other end of the wire I wished devoutly that I had mounted the stairs to the branch phone upon the second floor.

A Familiar Voice.

For the voice was that of Major Hugh Grantland—I knew it instantly—and I realized that my mother-in-law was in just the mood to be captiously critical of the fact that the young officer was calling me upon the telephone, even if he had just returned from active service.

But there was no way out now except for me to go on with the conversation, although I was conscious of the fact that Mother Graham was no doubt taking in every word I uttered. Her ears are very acute for so elderly a woman.

The knowledge of her espionage made me embarrassed, self-conscious in my replies to the young officer. With a perversity of spirit I resolved to keep my mother-in-law guessing as long as possible as to the identity of the person calling me.

"Is Mrs. Graham there?" This was the first question that came over the wire in the well remembered intonations of Captain—I had hard work to think of him as 'Major'—Grantland. The voice was not so deliberate as when I had heard it before. Indeed, there was a distinct nervous haste in the syllables ran together.

"This is Mrs. Graham," I was careful to keep recognition of his voice out of my own.

"This is Grantland, Mrs. Graham"—I guessed that his modesty had made him omit his new rank.

"Oh!" I crammed all the surprise possible into the monosyllable. "How do you do?"

I had a mischievous mental photograph of my mother-in-law turning her head toward the telephone, listening with all her ears in her endeavor to find out who was calling me. That my feeling was ridiculously petty I knew, but Mother Graham had ruffled my feelings more than I was willing to admit in her strictures upon the costume I had chosen for the meeting.

"I've Been Wounded Again—"

"I'm fairly well, thank you." Major Grantland replied. "And you?"

"Oh, I am disgracefully healthy," I assured him, lightly. "When did you get back?"

"About a month ago," then hesitatingly he added. "I know I should have called you when I landed, but I thought that for many reasons, the strongest of which you probably can guess, I ought not to do so. But I find that I am scheduled to speak this afternoon in your home village, and in fear you might be there, and that we should meet unexpectedly, I wanted to be sure you knew beforehand of my expected presence there."

For a long, helpless moment I stood, utterly dumfounded. Then my anger began to rise against Major Grantland despite all the wonderful memories I had of his chivalry and kindness.

Why should he think that he must guard me so carefully against a sudden recognition of him? Did he imagine that my romantic interest in him had been so strong that an unexpected meeting with him would upset me, draw critical eyes toward me?

My cheeks burned hotly in humiliation at the thought, and another, the fear that something in my own attitude toward him during our brief melodramatic association should have led him to this exaggerated precaution.

I dared not wait long to answer him, however. Something I must say, and that quickly.

"I am already very well informed," I said airily. "You see, I am to be a member of the reception committee this afternoon on the strength of my acquaintance with you. So I trust you will be a nice lion and roar prettily."

The persiflage was utterly unworthy of me, and of the gallant gentleman to whom it was addressed. I acknowledged that to myself even as the words left my lips, but a perverse spirit seemed to urge me on.

But Major Grantland paid no attention to either tone or words, save for the information that I was to serve on the reception committee.

"I am glad, indeed, that I called you," he said hastily, "for I'm afraid your kind heart will be shocked by my appearance. So see, I have been wounded again and—"

A buzzing noise in my ear, a disconnected murmur of voices told me that the wires of our telephones had been crossed with others.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS AND AN ALL STAR CAST IN "ARIZONA" SHOWING AT THE MAJESTIC ON MON., TUES., AND WED. NEXT

Famous Screen Star Appearing in Play That Gives Him Wide Opportunity to Display His Ability as an Actor and an Athlete—Conceded To Be "Doug's" Greatest Photoplay.

The fact that "Arizona" was picturized four years ago by its author, Augustus Thomas, did not discourage Douglas Fairbanks from doing it himself and reviving the attractive character of Lieut. Denton. It will be shown at the Majestic Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Like the typical Shakespearean actor that he is, Douglas has been spouting the lines of "Arizona" to such an extent that his office staff have found it necessary to memorize cues and sacrifice their routine labor to "act out" with Fairbanks.

Ever since he first saw the play "Arizona" it has been his dream—his one great ambition—to produce it, and when the opportunity arrived to do it it was a happy day for Douglas Fairbanks.

All-Star Cast.

An all-star cast was organized, which includes Theodore Roberts, Marjorie Daw, Frederick Burton, Kathleen Kirkham, Frank Campeau, Marguerite de la Motte, Kate Price, Robert Boulder, Raymond Hatton and Albert McQuarrie. The latter appeared with Mr. Fairbanks in "He Comes Up Smiling" and "Bound in Morocco." This is said to be as fine a cast as has been assembled in any motion picture.

The salary list of this exceptional cast was amazing. Several members of the company were brought specially from New York to California, their salaries starting the day they left, and continuing until their return to Manhattan.

A Familiar Story.

The story is familiar to most playgoers, and it will be unnecessary to repeat it here, and, indeed, much of the pleasure to those who do not know the plot will lie in their inability to guess the outcome of the twisted story. Suffice to say, it deals with affairs at a ranch and an army post at the period of the Spanish war, and the love affairs of the officers present a tangled skein which is only unravelled at the end. The unjust suspicious attaching to Denton, the trickery and villainy of Hodgeton, the ingenuousness of Bonita and man, the characteristic fineness of the Colonel and of Canby are all phases of delightfully enacted character parts. The story has the martial atmosphere that is certain to be so popular today, yet is of a bygone period before the khaki distinguished the American soldiers. It was then, still, the "boys in blue."

"THE SQUAW MAN" CECIL B. DE MILLE'S GREAT PRODUCTION SHOWING AT THE MAJESTIC NEXT THUR., FRI. AND SAT.

All-Star Cast Appears in Superb Picturization of Edwin Royle's Famous Stage Play—Thrills, Pathos and Romance.

One of the most thrilling scenes ever photographed in a motion picture is the battle fought by Henry, Earl of Kerhill, with a great lion in which the Englishman is slain, and which is graphically pictured in Cecil B. De Mille's superb picturization of Edwin Milton Royle's "The Squaw Man." This photoplay, which is said to be one of the best ever produced by this sterling director, will be shown at the Majestic Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The battle scene is laid in an African jungle. The Earl of Kerhill is an embezzler whose crime has been shouldered by his cousin, Jim Wynnegate, to spare Henry's wife Diana, whom Jim loves, disgrace and suffering. After her husband's death in the jungle, Diana traces Jim to Wyoming, wher he is living on a ranch with his squaw, and after some exceptionally tragic scenes, they are reunited in their mutual love.

The lion used in the picture is perfectly harmless except in a film scene. Assistant Director Sam Wood played hide and seek with the big cat at rehearsals, but Thurston Hall who plays the part of Sir Henry, who battles with the lion, entered into the contest with no little misgivings. The lion was lazy and preferred dozing to acting. But when the camera clicked, the animal was there with both feet as it were, and Hall was realistically mauled by the king of beasts.

The various roles are in the hands of stars, including Elliott Dexter, Ann Little, Theodore Roberts, Jack Holt, Tully Marshall and others.

Chaplin is shown at the Majestic Thursday, next week, in "A Hotel Mix-Up." A great scream of laughs and gasps.

KUBLICK IN VAUDEVILLE

New Screen Weekly Film and Other Features on Today's Program.

Bryant Washburn, the popular star who has been secured to appear in a series of Paramount productions, will appear at the Majestic today in his first Paramount picture, "The Gypsy Trail." The story of the photoplay is one of rollicking comedy, with beautiful scenes, splendid photography, and a cast which makes the production as nearly perfect as possible. Beautiful Wanda Hawley plays opposite Bryant Washburn.

The story circles around the adventures of Edward Andrews, who is in love with Francis Raymond. Francis is romantic, but Edward is slow and methodical. She tells him he lacks something, but refuses to say what is his defect. He surmises that he lacks dash, and believes she wants to be kidnapped.

Michatel Rudder, a reporter, visits the Raymond home to get a story. Andrews asks Rudder to kidnap the girl for him, arranging in the meantime for his grandmother to chaperone the kidnapping. Rudder carries out the plot boldly, and she thinks he loves her. He tells her he is acting as agent for the real kidnapper. She falls into his arms, telling him she intends to marry him, as she has been hypnotized by his boldness. Rudder realizes that a marriage would take him from the open roads, and makes his escape. Andrews consoles Frances and sets out to find the kidnapper and bring him back. When Rudder returns, Frances realizes she really loves the quiet Andrews; she rejects Rudder's suit and accept Andrews.

Roscoe Arbuckle in "The Rough House," Another Big Feature on Today's Bill at Majestic.

Roscoe Arbuckle, that fat mountain of jollity, who never fails to cause gales of laughter in his comedies, appears at the Majestic today in one of his greatest comedies, "The Rough House."

PLAIN TALKS ON INVESTMENTS

By Mark Harris

Fifteen years ago Canada did not have even one gold mine worthy of the name—today we have the greatest individual gold mine in the world (Hollinger Consolidated) and fully a dozen others that belong in the front rank.

Today we have no oil wells that can be described as "gushers," but who can say what will happen in the next few years?

After silver was discovered in Northern Ontario it did not take long to change that bleak wilderness into a thriving, prosperous community, and before we knew it Canada was the largest producer of nickel in the world, as well as the producer of nearly one-fifth of all the silver.

Many well informed mining engineers predict that in time Canada will produce the bulk of the world's supply of gold, while other engineers, after a careful study of our oil resources, agree that several immense oil pools will be uncovered in the near future.

The development of the Canadian oil fields is now going forward in earnest, and if there ever was an opportune time to share in that development it is today.

As it is expensive to drill for oil in these days of high prices an individual cannot afford to take the risk of developing a new oil field, but every individual can do his part by investing in the shares of Canadian companies that are now making history in the oil industry of the Dominion.

After a painstaking investigation of the Canadian oil fields, I have no hesitation in saying that every dollar invested today in meritorious Canadian oil companies should be returned many, many times during the next ten years.

By this I don't mean that you can purchase any stock simply because it has oil tagged to its name and wind up with a profit—certainly not—because it takes capital and brains to win out in oil just as it does in mining, commerce or banking. What I do mean, however, is that a dollar invested now in the right kind of an oil company should bring you more profit than you could possibly secure from any other source.

When I refer to the right kind of a company I have in mind an oil enterprise that has already accomplished something worth while—a company modestly capitalized and honestly managed—one already earning money with prospects of doubling these earnings many times as development proceeds.

Naturally such companies are scarce, but I know of one that answers all these requirements and more, and yet you can purchase the shares at par, one dollar, each.

This is a Canadian oil company with properties not only in Canada, but also in three of the best oil states in the United States, Kentucky, Wyoming and Louisiana.

This company has sixteen producing oil wells at Mosa, Ontario, and the production from these wells is more than ample for the regular dividend of 4½% quarterly (at the rate of 18% yearly), therefore, as the company brings in new wells at Shetland (Ontario), St. Mary's Dome (Wyoming), or Pine Island (Louisiana), it is only logical to anticipate either larger dividends or a stock bonus.

This company has made a wonderful record in the past few months by drilling no less than seven new wells, all of which are producers, but wonderful as this record is, it should be outclassed in the next few months, as the management has no less than five new wells now drilling.

No one can make a mistake by investing money in a company that has already "made good" with less than 5% of its properties developed, especially when we know that the company has a big development program outlined, which should result in doubling or tripling present earnings.

Drop me a line asking for full details of this remarkable Canadian oil company, and I in return will send you a handsome booklet, free of charge, giving the company's history from the day is was organized.

As a straight out and out investment, I honestly believe it is in a class all by itself, but wait until you have the facts and then you can decide for yourself.

Faithfully yours,

Mark Harris

Educationists of the city, as well as the manufac...ers, look upon the opening of the Technical School as a great epoch in the history of the city of London. The many advantages that are placed before the boys and girls of the city are not fully appreciated by the general public as yet, say those who know. Classes are provided where the youth who has passed his entrance examinations may take up the work of the Collegiate Institute. Thus he can round out his general education before he starts to particularize on any of the technical courses provided. In fact, great results are expected from the work of the school, and the far-seeing men of the city predict that in the Technical School London has one of her greatest assets.

MUST HAVE SNOW TO MAKE SKATING RINK FOR VICTORIA PARK

Many Inquiries From Big and Little Folk—Pray For Snowfall.

General Utilities Manager E. V. Buchanan is receiving a number of inquiries these days about a rink in Victoria Park.

His method of answering is to turn the tables with the query: "Have you been in touch with the weatherman?"

Certain skating enthusiasts announced today they had put the weatherman turned on the "fair and cold" tap, and wasn't the mercury shivering at just six degrees above zero?

But the general utilities manager smiled a superior smile and replied: "No good, unless he will promise some snow."

Must Have Snow.

The popular conception had always been that frost made skating rinks. All very well for inside rinks, this frost business, but not quite equal to the occasion for an open air rink, such as has delighted the hearts of devotees of skating in Victoria Park the past two winters.

It seems that a nice coat of snow is first required as a foundation, a generous blanket, to cover the somewhat uneven ground. When the snow has been rolled tight and pounded down to a proper smoothness and firmness, then the hose is turned on, and after that, Jack Frost is left to finish up the rink.

To be sure, if the snow isn't forthcoming shortly, some effort will be made to obtain a rink without, though no very happy results can be anticipated just from flooding the bare ground.

Watch for Signals.

After this announcement, doubtless scores of small boys and small girls, big boys and big girls, and even so many people old enough to know better, will be squinting at the skies for furry, snowy-looking clouds, the signal of hope for a real worth-while skating rink in the park.

The quicker the snow comes the better, because, in truth, the season is getting on. By the time February arrives, the sun at midday is getting so hot that even with low temperature it is inclined to play hob with an otherwise perfectly good manufactured ice rink.

DELIVERY AUTO IS WRECKED BY ENGINE

Advertiser Driver Has a Remarkable Escape at Wellington Crossing.

Miraculous was the escape from death of Stephen Berryhill, who was driving an Advertiser delivery auto, at the Wellington street crossing about 6 o'clock this morning, when it collided with Grand Trunk yard engine 1399, in charge of Engineer George Graham. Mr. Berryhill's coat was torn off, and he sustained several bad bruises. His left hand was very badly bruised. "I was going south on Wellington," he said. "The gates were up, and there was no one flagging at the crossing. When I got on the tracks I could not see anything because of the steam from the engine." After that he did not, he said, know what happened until he was getting out of the wreck.

The hood of the auto was completely smashed, the front axle was bent, one of the tires ripped, and the windshield smashed. The iron steps leading to the engine were broken off.

The Grand Trunk claims that as the gates were not in working order, the night gateman, F. J. Flynn, and another employee, were standing on the road flagging, but that the auto passed them and crashed into the yard engine, which, they claim, was standing astride the crossing. It had, they said, been coming from the west.

The cables of the gates were broken, and this morning, when the reporter arrived on the scene, they were being repaired. They were said to have been out of order for over a year, and new gates were expected to be installed.

Although Flynn is said to have been on the railroad for over four years, he has only been on the gates for about two months.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, Jan. 4.—Oats opened ¼c to ½c higher for May at 80⅝c.

Flax opened unchanged at $3 42¼ for May.

Inspections on Friday totaled 347 cars for all grains. The contract grades of wheat were 198 cars.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Opening: Corn—January, $1 43⅜; May, $1 37⅜.

Oats—January, 69⅞c; May, 71¼c.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Speculative demand from local traders gave an upward swing today to the corn market. March delivery sold at a new high price record for the season. Some increase of arrivals here was reported, but the bearish effect quickly disappeared. Opening prices, which varied from the same as yesterday's finish to ⅛c lower, were followed by a decided general advance.

Oats, like corn, turned up-grade, despite a little weakness at the outset. After opening ⅛c off to ⅜c to ½c higher, the market hardened all around.

WALL STREET.

New York, Jan. 4.—The brief session of the stock market today was featureless, aside from renewed weakness in local utilities, and made selling for profit in other speculative issues recently distinguished for their strength. Brooklyn Transit, Interborough Consolidated preferred, and Consolidated Gas broke 1 to 2½ points, oils reacted 1 to 3½, and prominent industrials and metals, including United States Steel and American Smelting, averaged 1-point recessions, rails also yielding on small offerings. Sugar and tobaccos and distilling issues reflected pool activity on the bull side. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 250,000 shares. Bonds were irregular. Liberty issues shaded slightly.

New York, Jan. 3—Wall Street, 10:16 a.m.—Fractional reactions in equipments, rails and coppers at the opening of today's stock market were more than balanced by substantial gains in shippings, oils and specialties.

10:30 a.m.—Profit-taking of the usual week-end character probably accounted for the hesitant tone at the opening of today's stock market. Equipments and oils recorded moderate declines with kindred issues, while shippings, tobaccos and distilling shares rose from fractions to a point. The only noteworthy change in rails was the 1-point decline in Texas Pacific. Oats strengthened before the end of the first half hour, but otherwise their tendencies became more pronounced.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

New York, Jan. 4.—The week, which witnessed the expiration of the old year and the advent of the new, was replete with interesting and significant developments in the financial market, sentiment undergoing unmistakable improvement.

Reactions of the last days of December, which assumed severe proportions in many instances, were largely, if not wholly, regained, while numerous specialties, notably oils and kindred shares, registered spectacular advances.

Rails and industrials participated extensively in the rise, particularly some of the low-priced speculative issues of roads traversing western and southwestern sections of the country. The activity and strength of those shares was again ascribed to foreign accumulation.

Disregarding the statements of trade authorities that cancellations still exceed new business, United States Steel and affiliated issues developed unexpected strength, coppers also coming forward, despite adverse conditions in that industry.

The extent of the new year's investment demand may be gauged from the fact that already in the first few days underwritings approximating $100,000,000 have been financed by banking syndicates. Foremost among these are the $65,000,000 of new securities by the American Telephone Company, and $25,000,000 of Anaconda Copper bonds, the latter being over-subscribed in the first day's offering.

Liberty bonds also made rapid recoveries from the low levels reached a few days ago, when these issues and other prime securities were being liquidated to adjust income tax accounts.

CLEARING HOUSE REPORT.

New York, Jan. 4.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week (five days) shows that they hold $61,538,120 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $18,733,780 from last week.

RAILWAY EARNINGS.

Montreal, Jan. 4.—On the basis of weekly returns, gross earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway established a new high record in December, amounting to $15,604,000, an increase of $2,677,000, or 20.7 per cent over the December total a year ago. The previous high record based on weekly returns was $15,514,000 in October.

Earnings for the last week in December aggregated $1,613,000, an increase of $334,000 over the corresponding week a year ago.

Earnings of the Grand Trunk for the same week were $1,866,004, an increase over the corresponding week last year of $354,709, or 23.4 per cent.

TWENTY OF BRANTFORD'S VETERANS LAND HOME; NO NOTICE OF COMING

BRANTFORD, Jan. 3.—Twenty veterans of the great war arrived home here at various hours of the night Thursday and made their way to their homes without welcome, civic or otherwise, at the depot. No advice of their impending arrival was received, and no reception awaited the heroes. Some of the wounded required conveyances to get home and had difficulty in procuring the same.

OFFICER REPORTED AS KILLED IS ACTIVE AND CONFINED TO HOSPITAL

BRANTFORD, Jan. 3.—Capt. W. B. Torrey, brother-in-law of George Sigman of this city, previously reported killed in action while serving with the United States forces, is now reported as having been dangerously wounded.

Official advice was received today by Mr. Sigman that Capt. Torrey was n a hospital.

SIR ARTHUR PIERSON CANNOT ATTEND THE BRANTFORD BANQUET

BRANTFORD, Jan. 3.—The board of trade has received word that Sir Arthur Pearson would be unable to attend the annual banquet of the board on January 8. President Wood of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind advised that Sir Arthur's visit has been shortened because of his appointment to an important commission in England, and that he could only include in his itinerary Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and Montreal.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC HEAVY.

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 5.—After over two weeks of an exceptionally heavy run of passenger traffic a relaxation is now reported on the railroads passing through this city. Passenger transit through here this Christmas and New Year has been, despite the fact that there were no holiday rates, the heaviest in years.

For January funds, we advise Investment in Government and higher-grade Municipal Bonds.

A list of such Investment Suggestions gladly furnished upon request.

METHODIST PASTORS REFUSE TO COMMENT OVER WINDSOR CASE

Nothing To Say As To Peculiar Act of Brother-Divine.

Methodist ministers in the city refuse to give an opinion for publication regarding the case of two young Windsor ministers of the church, who, according to a dispatch from Windsor, obtained liquor from a Windsor doctor on the grounds that they were ill and required it, using this as evidence to bring him into court, after having another physician pronounce them in good health.

Rev. Arthur Spracklin, who was ordained at the meeting of the Methodist Conference in Kingsville in June, 1916, is well known to a number of brother ministers in the city, several also knowing Rev. George Kersey.

Would Not Make Statement.

Each minister approached on the subject replied: "I would not feel it the right thing to make a statement for publication in regard to a brother minister unless I had all the facts before me. I haven't sufficient in the short newspaper dispatch."

One minister said if he had the evidence given in the trial he would be in a better position to say what he thought on the subject.

NEW ALDERMAN WANTS CAR SERVICE IMPROVED

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 3.—Ald.-Elect Dr. J. D. Curtis wants to improve the service of the street railway. He wants the ratepayers' approval of any policy decided upon. He holds that the question of raising some thousands of dollars to put the road in a paying condition should be discussed immediately. He favors a crossing at William street and believes that a subway could be constructed there at less cost than it would require to maintain a crossing.

He is also of the opinion that all city utilities should have a reserve fund such as large corporations have, in case of emergency.

MINOR CHANGES IN VOTE TOTAL ARE RECORDED

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 3.—There are few changes recorded in the total number of votes received by candidates in the municipal election. The official returns have been made by City Clerk Doherty, and while the figures do not change the standing of the aldermen or school trustees, they do alter slightly some of the counts. Ald-Elect John Lane, in place of 818 votes, was found to have 813; Ald. John Handford, instead of 795, should have 794; Ald. C. A. Walker, in place of 653 had 651. Ex-Ald. Patrick Meehan's total should have been 651 instead of 653. In the school trustee race, Trustee F. W. Wright received 1,022 instead of 1,023 votes as first recorded. All others are correct. This is the official count and the figures are final.

LIQUOR PROBE MAY SHAKE UP VANCOUVER POLICE DEPARTMENT

VANCOUVER, Jan. 3.—A reorganization of the Vancouver police department "from top to bottom," which may include the dismissal of certain officials and the suspension of others, was forecast today by Mayor Gale.

"The fact of so much liquor having been brought into the city illegally without the knowledge of the city police, proves that there is something radically wrong," he said.

IN MEMORIAM.

JOHNSTONE—In loving memory of Margaret Irene, who died at Victoria Hospital, Jan. 4, 1918, aged 8 years and 6 months.
It was hard to part with her, so young and fair,
So full of promise bright;
But God to her a crown has given, and garments pure and white.
Short and sudden was the call,
To her we loved and loved by all;
Great is the loss, but we sustain
And hope to meet in heaven again.

SINN FEINERS CALL "FIRST PARLIAMENT OF IRISH REPUBLIC"

Will Demand That Ireland's Case Be Heard at Peace Conference.

DUBLIN, Jan. 3—(Associated Press). —The Sinn Feiners will assemble here probably next week for what they describe as "the first parliament of the Irish Republic." They will declare, it is asserted, that the recent elections show Ireland's self-determination as an independent republic and will demand that Ireland's case be heard at the peace conference. It had been supposed that the proceedings would be limited to this form of demonstration, but this week's principal Sinn Fein organ says: "The national assembly can issue its edicts and the people must obey them."

ENTERTAINMENTS AT HENSALL

HENSALL, Jan. 3.—New Year's Day passed over quietly in this village, but there were a large number of visitors, and the Christmas tree entertainment held in the Methodist Church in the evening helped to brighten the opening of the New Year.

Municipal matters are engaging the attention of ratepayers in earnest, and there promises to be a lively contest for the reeveship.

The annual Christmas Sabbath school entertainment of Carmel Presbyterian Church was held the other evening notwithstanding the prevalence of the "flu" in many parts of the surrounding country, and the fact that the same evening was nomination night, there was a large attendance. The proceeds amounted to over $50, which is devoted to missions. The program consisted of dialogues, readings, recitations, drills and choruses. In addition to the program put on by the Sunday school, a humorous reading was given by William Craig and short addresses given by the Revs. Doan and Garrett, and G. J. Sutherland. Rev. Mr. McConnell, the pastor, was chairman. Miss Jean Chapman from Goderich, added to the interest of the program with a fine solo.

On Time

We keep almost 300 watches on the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways running on time. The great majority of these watches do not vary more than 30 seconds in two weeks. It is important that railway watches be good in the beginning, and also be kept in good order.

If your watch has been lying idle because of some little thing being wrong, bring it in and let us make an estimate of the cost to repair it. If it is not worth doing, we will tell you so.

Bring it in and see; it costs you nothing.

LITTLE CHANGE TO BE EXPECTED IN COUNCIL COMMITTEES OF 1919

Indications are that there will be little more change in the personnel of the committees of the city council this year, as far as the old members are concerned. There are two vacancies on No. 1. Ex-Controller C. W. Merryfield and Ald. H. B. Ashplant were members of this committee last year. Ald. F. E. Harley, chairman, E. Little, W. A. Wilson and S. R. Manness were the other members last year. It is understood that Ald. Wilson would like to move into No. 2 committee. Ald. G. B. Drake and L. S. Holmes, it is said, are looking for a place on No. 1 committee also.

There are four vacancies on No. 2 committee on account of ex-Controller J. M. Moore and ex-Controller J. H. Saunders, and Alds. H. Winnett, P. J. Watt and J. J. Harding being out of the council. Of the new members it is understood that O. I. Cunningham has his eye on a seat on this committee. J. Colbert also may be another candidate for this committee.

LONDONER BUYS CLANDEBOYE STORE

CLANDEBOYE, Jan. 3.—John L. Simpson of London has purchased the general store and dwelling owned by E. A. McKenzie. Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie have been here for nearly eight years, and were well liked by all. Their many friends are sorry to see them leaving. Mr. Simpson is well known here, having lived here many years before moving to London a few years ago.

Miss I. Bice, trained nurse, was called to attend a case at the Toronto General Hospital recently.

The rumor, unconfirmed yet, that the south-bound morning train is to pass through here at 10:13 instead of 9:13 is not being received kindly by the residents here.

With the good sleighing of the past week or ten days, grain came in large quantities.

The Rev. Mr. Garrett of St. Paul's Church has secured the Munro children entertainers of London for a concert in the town hall on Friday evening, January 10.

SNAPPY THIS MORN, BUT NOTHING LIKE THIS DAY YEAR AGO

Coldest Day of Winter For Mercury Dropped Only to Six.

The coldest day of the winter has arrived. At that, the lowest reading of the thermometer at the meteorological bureau during the night was only six above zero, and at 8 o'clock this morning, 10 degrees above zero. People hustled along the street this morning, collars enveloping their ears, as if it were at least 30 below. More than one household found its plans disorganized through the discovery of a frozen water tap. It was the last thing anybody dreamed of, the necessity of turning off the water, even if one did let the range out to conserve coal. The first frozen water pipe of the season is no joke. It is such a silly, senseless thing, according to one man who bemoans his lack of foresight.

Nothing Like Last Year.

While today is considered a cold day by reason of contrast with the remarkably open winter up to the present, it isn't a circumstance to a year ago, when the thermometer stood at five below zero.

It was a day something like today, with mild flurries of snow, according to the persons who keeps an accurate record of weather doings.

During the month of December, the "hottest day" was a beautifully mild and sunny one, on December 14, when people wanted to start planting bulbs again and hinted at gardening all because the mercury had run up to 55 degrees. The lowest for the whole month was the day after Christmas, 16 degrees.

In 1917, the highest mark which the thermometer reached in December was 41 degrees on the 24th and the lowest, 11 below on the 30th.

A year ago, most people were doing considerable scrimmaging for coal.

The Rainfall.

The rainfall for December, 1918, was 1.68 inches, as compared with only .5 inches for the preceding December. In 1917, however, the snowfall beat all to pieces the snowfall for 1918, 22 inches in 1917, as compared with 14¾ inches in 1918.

With the arrival of a cold snap, a great interest has been awakened in skating. There has been a regular boom the past few days in skate grinding, and lucky is the individual who can ferret out a pair of skates attached to wearable skating boots, not much the worse for wear. One of the first skating parties of the season took place Friday night, and numbers of young people were seen hieing themselves down the street with skates slung over their shoulders.

A number have been heard announcing they are going to wait till the rink gets started in Victoria Park before beginning to skate this winter.

In any case, there is an indication that individuals of all ages are planning to participate this year in winter sports.

SEND OLD BLANKETS TO KEEP BABES WARM

Required For the Coming Well Baby Clinics.

Wanted, old blankets and old sheets. Such an appeal was made by Miss Bertha Smith, child welfare nurse, at the meeting yesterday of the London Child Welfare Association.

The old blankets and old sheets are wanted for a most important purpose, as a part of the equipment of the well-baby clinics to be started week after next. The babies must be kept warm and comfortable while waiting to be weighed and examined, after they have been undressed, hence the need of a supply of babies' blankets. The old blankets can be cut up into these baby blankets and the old sheets into smaller pieces to lay on the tables and on the scales, etc.

Anyone willing to donate old sheets or old blankets for such a worthy cause, can leave them at the Child Welfare Association headquarters in the Western Fair offices, Dominion Savings Building.

He was wounded at Hill 70 in France with shrapnel, and was in the hospital for some time. When he recovered and returned to France he was there only a month when he was wounded the second time with gunshot. Pte. Wilton is visiting his uncle, G. R. Cobban, 572 Adelaide street, this city, before he leaves for the home of his father, Arthur Wilton, at Mount Carmel, Caradoc. A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cobban here for him recently.

Quality, Cleanliness and Service
Are the three great essentials in the sale of any article of foodstuff in these modern times. An article may have any one of the three and yet not receive public favor. For over thirty years it has been the aim of the Parnell Company to attain the maximum in Quality, Cleanliness and Service. We know we have been successful on account of the thousands of people of London and Western Ontario who use our Breads daily.
Made Clean Parnell's Bread Delivered Clean
Is the work of skilled bakers in a sanitary bakery, with Purity Flour, Fleischmann's Yeast, Granulated Sugar Pure Malt Tonic (a special flavoring of our own), and Filtered Water. But that is not all that should commend Parnell's Breads to you. Every delivery man employed by us is specially instructed to take the greatest care in delivering the Bread from door to door in order that it may reach the home clean and pure as it left us.

Remember the Sick and Wounded
Our debt to the brave defenders of our country is not cancelled—never CAN be. We can never pay these boys in full, but at least we can pay them in part. Let us do it promptly and ungrudgingly.
For many of them the war is not yet over. Thousands of them have a grim war of their own to wage against disease, wounds, debility and death. We can rush to their protection as they rushed to ours in 1914 and since. We can amply provide for their friend the Red Cross, so that it shall be able, for their sakes, to go on with its great work.
Make No Mistake---There Is
NO ARMISTICE FOR THE RED CROSS!
Some people are prone to imagine that, with the cessation of the fighting, the need for Red Cross work comes to an end. No such happy condition exists, however. There are 40,000 sick and wounded Canadians—CANADIANS—over across the seas, thousands of miles from home, every man of them longing for his native air and friends and familiar scenes. We must look after them while there, look after them on the voyage home, look after them here, look after them in the words of Col. Noel Marshall, "Until the last Canadian soldier who offered himself as a barrier between us and destruction is discharged from hospital."
Is that sweeping enough? Is it comprehensive enough? Do we all understand what it entails? It is! We do!! As far as the local Red Cross is concerned, the work, instead of lessening, will become heavier and heavier, as the men come back. The workers are willing enough. All they ask is the funds to carry on. Let us MORE THAN supply their needs on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week.
