ACCLAMATION FOR MAYOR WENIGE IS PROBABLE

James Gray Unopposed For Vacancy On Hospital Trust

SEVEN FOR MAYOR'S CHAIR, 6 ENTERED IN UTILITIES RACE AND 27 FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Opinion, However, Is That Wenige's Opponents Will Not Qualify.

ONE ACCLAMATION

James Gray Elected to Hospital Trust Without Opposition.

MAYORALTY.
George Albert Wenige, merchant, nominated by Peter J. Watt and A.
R. Throver.

Herbert James Childs, insurance agent, by T. W. McFarland and J. W.
Cunliffe.

John A. Greer, manufacturer, by T.
E. Robson and William Arthur Wilson.

William Arthur Wilson, traveler, by E. H. Johnston and James Gray.

Albert Meredith Judd, barrister, by W. A. Wilson and Bryden Campbell.

Frederick Richard Watkinson, carpenter, by Caesar McLeod and Ernest Langford.

John Pringle, gentleman, by James Granger and L. H. Douglass.

HOSPITAL TRUST.
One To Be Elected.

James Gray, merchant, nominated
by Col. W. M. Gartshore and E. H.
Johnston (returned by acclamation).

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION.
(Two To Be Elected.)

Jared Vining, barrister, by James
E. McGuffee and J. C. Hooton.

Philip Pocock, merchant, by James Granger and Bryden Campbell.

Dennis James Tallant, traveler, by E. H. Hessel and R. H. Hessel.

Peter J. Watt, gentleman, by Mayor
George A. Wenige and B. F. Brighton.

Melville S. Cator, traveler, by Edmund Hayden and R. H. Hessel.

Henry Kenzie McCormick, merchant, by R. H. Hessel and J. W.
Cunliffe.

Acclamation Likely.
In another 24 hours George Wenige will be declared mayor of London again if city hall predictions can be accepted at face value. The general trend of opinion at today's nomination proceedings indicated that no opponent for the mayor can be induced into the fight.

Six others were nominated this morning with Mayor Wenige, four of whom are freely acknowledged as being amongst his most consistent opponents since his entry into public affairs three years ago: ex-Ald. H. J.
Childs, his defeated opponent of last year; Ald. Albert Judd, who is waiting the appointment as crown attorney; Ald. John Greer, who stated last night that in all probability he would not be in the race, and Ald. W.
A. Wilson, who promised several weeks ago that he would run if he could.

Ex-Ald. Fred Watkinson's name is on the list, and City Clerk Baker relates that he did not last night that he would run. But the opinion was general this morning that he would not qualify. The seventh nomination, that of John Pringle, is also of a complimentary nature.

In fact, prominent members of the "Citizens' Committee" practically conceded at noon today the mayor's election by acclamation. Candidates must qualify before 9 a.m. Tuesday.
Mayor Wenige did not, but was frankly

Ald. Wilson Unframed.
"You will have to live up to your promise and run if no one else does," Ald. Wilson was warned at this morning's proceedings.

"You fellows are just trying to get me into trouble," was the reply.
However, if I do not run it will not be because I am afraid."

Questioned seriously, however, in this connection, Ald. Wilson said:
"I wouldn't want to say right now that I won't enter the field. Wait until tomorrow night."

Ald. Wilson thought the mayor would be opposed, but was frankly
turn to page 5, column 2.

THE WEATHER
FORECASTS.
Today—Moderate winds; fair.
Tuesday—Southwest winds; fair and a little milder.

THE ONLY ACCLAMATION.
James Gray, merchant, nominated
today without opposition, to succeed himself as a member of the Hospital Trust.

His Election Very Popular

James Gray is again the popular choice for the London hospital trust and his election today by acclamation meets with the undivided approval of the citizens of all walks in life.

"Thank you, gentlemen," Trustee
Gray stated when City Clerk Baker announced at 11 o'clock that there would be no election for the hospital trust.

Then as the applause subsided, Trustee Gray departed with the hearty promise, "I'll keep a warm bed for you down at the hospital."

"That's fair enough," chorused the crowd.

WAS LONDON RESIDENT MORE THAN 50 YEARS

John Kennedy Passed Away in Lambeth Sunday, Aged 75 Years.

John Kennedy, for many years a resident of London, died suddenly yesterday at his home in Lambeth, in his 75th year. For more than 50 years Mr. Kennedy lived in London and was one of the original letter carriers of the local post office. During the latter period of his life he was a bricklayer in Lambeth where he had lived for the past 17 years.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the funeral parlors of N. J. Griffith, interment will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

There are no immediate survivors.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ELECTS ITS DIRECTORS

Seven Elected to Succeed an Equal Number Who Retire
This Year.

New directors of the London Chamber of Commerce elected last week to fill the positions of those whose terms of service had expired were:

R. H. Dowler, Col. W. M. Gartshore,
Ray Lawson, E. S. Little, T. W. Mc-Farland, Gerald F. Pearson, and Jared Vining. The full directorate of the chamber now consists of these new members and F. S. Ashplant, Col. W. J. Brown, Arthur Ford, G. F.
Ingram, John S. Moore, C. R. May,
and R. J. Webster.

The chamber has been conducting a membership drive in the last few weeks with a view to strengthening the association and adding to the influence of the chamber in the city.

With a number of prominent speakers at a view to strengthening the association on hand to promote the interests of London, the chamber is aiming at a new level of achievement in 1924.

SAILINGS AND ARRIVALS.
Hong Kong, Nov. 17.—Sailed: Empress of Canada, Vancouver.

Plymouth, Nov. 18.—Arrived: An-dania, Montreal.

Liverpool, Nov. 18.—Arrived: Doric, Montreal.

Twenty-Seven Citizens Named To Contest Six Educa- tional Seats.

NO EXCITEMENT

Expect Ten Prospects To Qualify by Tuesday Night—Only Two May Run Again.

Nominations for the six seats on the board of education, made this morning, broke all previous records, according to City Clerk Sam Baker.

When nominations were declared closed at 1 p.m., 27 names had been handed to the city clerk.

All the retiring members of the board were nominated, but it is doubtful if more than two of the six will contest the election. Two women were also named as candidates.

It is expected that some ten of those nominated will qualify before 9 o'clock tomorrow night, thus doing away with an election by acclamation.

The nominations were made in the regular manner, no excitement or enthusiasm being apparent. In fact, at 12:40 the council room, where Mr.
Baker was receiving nominations, was empty, except for representatives of the press, and at the time when Mr. Baker adjourned the meeting until December 3, the room was still empty. All the nominations were made before 12:30 p.m.

The nominations were as follows:
Ward Alfred Casselman, 498 Dufferin avenue, merchant, nominated by Thomas Howe, seconded by W. A.
Udy. Mr. Casselman is one of the retiring trustees.

Charles Edward Carruthers, 22 Cove road, city editor, nominated by Bryden N. Campbell, seconded by J. F. Young.

George Fletcher Copeland, 825
Richmond street, insurance agent, nominated by Thomas Rowe, seconded by W. A. Casselman.

Mrs. Mattie Crawford, 178 Tecumseh avenue, housewife, nominated by Lila Robson, seconded by James Gray.

David Eggett, 571 Ontario street, steamfitter, nominated by A. N. Udy, seconded by J. E. Wright.

John Irwin Ferguson, 141 Wortley road, physician, nominated by John H. Anderson, seconded by Thomas Rowe.

Clifford L. Gray, 385 Queen's avenue, manager, nominated by A. N. Udy, seconded by A. A. Langford.

Wendell H. Gray, 92 Windsor avenue, merchant, nominated by W. A.
Udy, seconded by James Gray.

William Robert Jarman, 9 Horne street, merchant, nominated by Bryden N. Campbell, seconded by A. N.
Langford.

Arthur N. Kennedy, Sherwood avenue, editor, nominated by A. N. Udy, seconded by Bryden N. Campbell.

Frederick Landon, 846 Halmutt avenue, university professor, nominated by A. A. Langford, seconded by A. N. Udy.

Robertson Orr, 330 St. James street, manufacturer, nominated by A. N.
Udy, seconded by J. E. Wright.

Adam W. Palmer, 479 Adelaide street, real-estate dealer, nominated
turn to page 5, column 3.

PLAN TO ADVERTISE CANADA IN STATES

Suggestion That Million Be Spent To Dispel American Ignorance.

BADLY NEEDED Statement by Lecturer in Toronto Draws Action From London.

A movement which has for its object the launching of a $1,000,000 campaign to advertise Canada in the United States has been started in this city. The idea was born through a story which appeared in The Advertiser this morning, giving a summary of an address by Miss Amy Woods in Toronto. Miss Woods, who is a woman of eminence in the United States, was reported to have been agreedly surprised to discover that Canada was not inhabited by a brutal race.

When public-spirited Londoners saw the article they were alarmed.
The result is that the Chamber of Commerce, acting on the recommendation of the local American consul, has given assurance that it will take the question up. Ultimately, it is expected, a resolution will be submitted to Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of immigration, urging that the government launch a big advertising
turn to page 2, column 6.

More Lovely Children

FROM NEW HAMBURG, ALVINSTON AND DENFIELD.

All types of lovely children are coming to The Advertiser these days in the search for the Loveliest Child in the western counties. On the left above is 5-year-old Mabel Appel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Appel of New Hamburg. She is the granddaughter of Dr. J. C. Bell of Merlin. In the center is Maxwell Delmer Kearney, 4-year-old son of Mrs. M. D. Kearney of Alvinston, and on the right is Lillian Gladys Beattie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Beattie, R. R. No. 4, Denfield, Ont. She is four years old.

SUES FOR PAYMENTS MADE MANY YEARS AGO

Mrs. Mary Craig Files Interesting Action Against Huron & Erie.

NOW IN COURT

Action Involves Money Borrowed From and Repaid to Dominion Savings Co.

Fifty years ago Samuel Craig borrowed $5,000 from the Dominion Savings Company, which, at his death, his widow, Mary Craig, 368 Dufferin avenue, paid. Now Mrs. Craig has filed a suit against the Huron and Erie Company who have taken over the Dominion Savings, charging that she was not legally obliged to pay an amount subsequently advanced and charged to the mortgage account amounting to about $5,000. She therefore demands that the $5,000 be given back to her.

The case was the first which came before Mr. Justice Kelly at an acceding of the supreme court this morning. Jarvis and Vining acted for the plaintiff and Cronyn, Betts and Black for the defendant. The case was not completed at noon today and will be continued this afternoon. Eleven cases are to come before the non-jury court either this afternoon or tomorrow.

Robbers, who broke into the gen- eral store of F. W. Moedlinger, Sparta, on Friday night, and who left a quantity of jewelry in the motor car of Samuel Harris, which they had stolen Thursday night in London, abandoned more of their booty in a field by the Hamilton road, just out- side the city limits.

Acting on information received, Detective Bolton and Down proceeded to the field Sunday afternoon, and discovered 7 watches, 15 signet rings, as well as bracelets, cuff links, scissors, brooches, forks and spoons and knives.

The Harris car was discovered at the corner of Price street, and the Hamilton road early Saturday morning, covered with mud and containing some of the proceeds of the Sparta robbery.

Local detectives had nothing to divulge regarding the Sparta affair today, which is believed to be the work of semi-amateurs, and possibly a London gang.

The Hatch jewelry store robbery in St. Thomas the same night has been connected with the same gang, although police are inclined to believe that the robbers who got away with the St. Thomas jewelry are the same as those who got away in Chatham. They are not connected with the Sparta gang in local police circles.

SEVERAL PERSONS KILLED IN SANTIAGO EXPLOSION

Associated Press Despatch.
Santiago, Chile, Nov. 19.—Several persons were killed and more than a hundred wounded, many seriously, by an explosion this morning at the army ammunition factory in the southern suburb of Santiago.

CHINESE OFFER REWARD FOR RESCUE OF PRIEST

Associated Press Despatch.
Canton, China, Nov. 19.—The Chinese authorities have offered a reward for the rescue of the French priest who was captured by bandits several days ago near Chang-Li, Shantung province. The priest, whose name has not been learned,
was taken captive while on a preaching tour through the district. A second priest was also taken prisoner, but was released.

SOUTH AFRICANS LEAD BY THREE CONSTITUENCIES

Associated Press Despatch.
Capetown, Nov. 19.—The returns of the elections to the provincial council for Cape Colony are complete, and are payable for showing few changes. The Nationalist Labor party helped the Nationalists in a few constituencies, but the net result is indicative. The South African party has even a small margin over the Nationalists individually, but the final standing of the parties is:
Nationalist, 24; Nationalist, 21;
Labor, 4; Independents, 2.

MOTOR ACCIDENT CASE ADJOURNED TWO DAYS

Frank Steele was charged in police court today with not stopping his motor car after being in an accident.
The case was adjourned till Wednesday, at the request of Chief Birrell, who told Deputy Magistrate Gladman that Magistrate Graydon had proposed the adjournment.

R. C. Angus, the owner of the other car in the accident, on Saturday said that the fender of his car had been bent. The two men left court together to effect a settlement, the case being adjourned till Wednesday.

LOOK FOR HOT FIGHT FOR SEATS IN COUNCIL

Aldermanic Nominations Tonight Will See Contests in Every Ward.

GREER TO RUN

Will Seek Re-election in Ward 1
If He Does Not Enter Mayorality Race.

Ald. John Greer notified The Advertiser early this afternoon that he would be a candidate for re-election in ward one in the event that he did not run for mayor.

Members of the "citizens' committee" were responsible for the assurance at the city hall that he would not enter the mayorality race.

Ald. John T. May, ward one, is still undecided, but he can be expected in the running by tomorrow night. It is also understood that Ald. P. J.
Watt will retire from public life if he does not accept the utilities commission nomination.

There will be a sharp contest in every ward for the aldermanic board.
Numerous candidates have already announced their intentions, while several "dark horses" are promised for tonight's nominations.

Two members of the council from ward two seek re-election, Leonard Douglass, chairman of the board of works, and W. A. Wilson. Two other candidates have announced themselves, Frank Jones and L. J. Burke.

It is expected also that ex-Ald. L. S.
Holmes will also be in the field.
Two of ward four aldermen seek re-election, Edmund Hayden and Ernest Shaw. Ald. George Burdick is retiring. Ald. John Colbert has been elected by the Labor party to contest this ward in lieu of ward three, which he now represents. Edward Smith, recently resigned from the board of education, also seeks election in this ward.

Labor presents a solid front in ward three, with Ald. Frank McKay, ex-Ald. John Ashton, and Clayton Depotie. Ald. Gordon Drake is also coming back for another try, while "Red" Warren's name will be asked submitted. No doubt ex-Ald. Fred Watkinson will again be asked to make the run if he retires from the mayorality race as expected.

DRUNK UNDER WRONG IMPRESSION, IS FINED

Thought He Could Buy Groceries From Gas Station
—On Sunday, Too.

"I been drunk a little bit," opined
a foreign gentleman in police court today.

Constable Ross and Sergeant Percy Last stated the man was considerably drunk. Sergeant Last said the man was arrested on Ridout street, near King, Sunday night, and insisted that a gasoline station nearby was a store, and that he wanted to buy some groceries.

After hearing this evidence, the court lost no time in imposing a fine.

"You must have been drunk if you wanted to buy things at a place on Sunday," was the comment of
Deputy Magistrate Gladman.

COOLIDGE NOT EXPECTED TO SUBMIT QUESTION

Associated Press Despatch.
Washington, Nov. 19.—President Coolidge is not expected to submit the question of the United States' adhesion to the world court to the senate. In fact it is believed that the matter will be postponed so long that it will be impossible for that body to act upon it.

"You must have been drunk if you
wanted to buy things at a place on Sunday," was the comment of Deputy Magistrate Gladman.

Richest Man Was a Beggar

Associated Press Despatch.
Munich, Nov. 19.—The richest man caught here in the recent raids of the local cafes for foreign currency was a professional beggar who specializes in seeking alms from foreigners.

In his pockets the police found 300,000
Austrian kroners, 150,000 Czecho-Slovakia kroners, 20 Swiss francs, 100 Italian lire and a dollar bill.

Begging and beggars have become so common now that the public generally carries small bills to meet the pleas of all sorts of mendicants, who stand on street corners with extended hats and hands.

Another inspection will be made by
Mr. Bolton before he issues any license to a proprietor.

LONDON BOYS' RIFLE TEAM MAKES NEW WORLD MARK

Anzac Club of Five Members Win Provincial Title—
Score 1,390 Out of 1,400.

TRURO DEFAULTS

Seven Teams From Every Corner of Canada Compete in Finals.

In the recent Dominion championship marksmanship contest at the Y. M. C. A., the Anzac Rifle Club won the provincial championship, from Truro, N. S., by default.

In winning the provincial championship they made a most remarkable score, 1,390 out of 1,400. This creates a world's record for a five-man team, at 25 yards.

This team is composed of the following boys: W. James, score 70, 70, 70, 70, total 280; James Kerr, score
70, 70, 70, 70, total 280; F. Kerry, score 70, 70, 70, 70, total 280; F.
Welch, score 70, 70, 69, 69, total 278;
E. James, score 70, 69, 67, 66, total 272.

In the Dominion championship the standing of clubs was as follows:
London Anzac Club, London, Ont., score 1,390, total 99.2; Truro Colchester Academy C. C., Truro, N. S., score
1,390, total 99.2; Calgary High School,
Calgary, Alberta, score 1,371, total 97.9;
Victoria High School, Victoria, B. C., score 1,367, total 97.6; Rothesay Collegiate Institute, Rothesay, N. B., score 1,360, total 97.1; Montreal
Ladies' Rifle Club, Montreal, Que., score 1,307, total 93.8; Winnipeg 381
Troop B. S., Winnipeg, Man., score
1,282, total 91.5.

YOUTH IS HELD IN JAIL WHILE STORY IS PROBED

Sydney Fox Claims He Came From Ingersoll to City Looking For Work.

Sydney Fox, a pleasant and bright-featured youngster of 17, appeared in police court today charged with vagrancy, being picked up by the police last night shortly after arriving in the city from Ingersoll.

Asked to tell his story by Deputy Magistrate Gladman, Fox stated he had been working for a farmer named Herb Lyons near Ingersoll, Ont., a small place near Woodstock. He had quit there Saturday night to come to London. He didn't get paid some $25 for a week, he said, and there was a doctor's bill of $20.

"I came to London to find work, and I have never been in trouble before," said young Fox, who went on to state he had been brought out to Canada from England by the Catholic Home of Ottawa.

The young chap was remanded to jail for a week, while Chief Birrell gets in touch with the authorities at the Catholic Home.

MORRIS LEARNS SPEED NOT POPULAR HERE

Detroit Fined $5 for "Stepping On 'Er" While Driving
On the Highway.

Morris Slenin of Detroit had an idea Sunday night that it was more or less of an easy matter to evade Canadian speed laws, and he merely "stepped on the gas" when told to stop on the Lambton highway by Provincial Officer T. Y. Stratton.

Slenin at the time was making 38 miles an hour, and increased his speed to 55 before being stopped by the constable, who put him under arrest.

The Detroit man appeared before Deputy Magistrate Gladman this morning and was fined $5 and costs.

DISTRICT HOTELKEEPERS HAVE LICENSES GRANTED

The 36 hotelkeepers of London and Middlesex County, who all applied for standard hotel licenses, have had their applications granted. License Inspector Bolton stated this afternoon.

The inspector visited all country and city hotels early in the fall, found them all in good condition and reported to the license department accordingly.

Another inspection will be made by
Mr. Bolton before he issues any license to a proprietor.

LOCAL ALLIANCE TO AN APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL

CITY MINISTERS ADD IN CAMPAIGN FOR FINAL AWARD

Dominion Alliance To Take Manitoba Decision to Empire's Highest Court.

FACING REAL CRISIS

The local Ministerial Alliance, meeting this morning, volunteered to give every support possible to the present campaign set in motion by the Dominion Lord's Day Alliance to obtain a decision from the privy council of England which will give the alliance a weapon with which to protect the laws now enforced with respect to the Lord's Day.

The proceedings have come about as a result of a decision handed down by the Manitoba court of appeal, and which according to Rev. Dr. W. M. Rochester, of the Dominion Alliance, who explained the situation to the local clergy, has precipitated a crisis in every province of the Dominion.

Sensational Decision in Clause.
The Manitoba decision, Dr. Rochester said, has rendered the federal law invalid, and at the present time Manitoba is governed by those laws with regard to the observance of the Sabbath which prevailed in the time of Charles I.

All the trouble has come about by means of one particular clause, "except as provided for in a provincial act or law now or hereafter enacted." At the time the bill was presented to the government, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier was premier, Dr. Rochester said, this particular clause was noticed with alarm by the legal counsel of the alliance as one which might at one time give the federal government power to either delegate or abdicate its power to the provincial legislature. It was impossible to have the clause omitted, and just the very situation feared has now arisen, as the result of the Manitoba case, which was brought about by a plea for Sunday train service.

Will Go to Legal Limit.
If the decision of the Manitoba court of appeal is proved to be correct, Dr. Rochester stated, it would be necessary for the alliance to go to the highest court of the empire in order to have the situation righted. He pointed to the present time as the most tremendous crisis the alliance ever faced—a time when it was necessary to press the case to the utmost, in order to preserve the sanctity of the Sabbath from the encroachment of private business. The alliance, he said, was prepared to face the enormous expenditure of taking the case to the privy council for a decision, and of securing the best legal experts in the Dominion to offer them, in order to ascertain just what the law was, and to what extent the federal government could delegate or abdicate its power.

FOURSOME ADJOURNED IN DISORDERLY CASE
Chief Birrell Will Further Investigate Sunday Party—Bail Refused.

John and May Carr, Henry Donnelly and another boon companion, appeared on the Sunday night quiet until early this morning at 91 Barker street, and were given a moonlight drive to the police station by Sergeant Middaugh and his merry men. All members of the party were charged with disorderly conduct in police court today.

Chief Birrell ordered an adjournment for two days, as he wanted to gather a little more information regarding the foursome. He got the adjournment.

That the party had a dark and gloomy background was intimated by the chief when Mr. Carr asked for bail, submitting that the charge of being disorderly was not particularly serious.

"No, but the part I'm investigating is serious," declared the chief, and Mr. Carr's chances of bail vanished into thin air.

NOTED SPEAKER TO GIVE ADDRESS ON WORLD PEACE

Dr. Thomas Nightingale Will Deliver an Address Before London Organizations
Tomorrow.

WIDE EXPERIENCE

Few men are better qualified to speak on such a subject as "Great Britain and International Peace" than Dr. Thomas Nightingale, secretary of the Free Church Council of Great Britain, who will address the Canadian Club and the London Chamber of Commerce tomorrow in the Tuxedo House at 12:15. He will be accompanied by Rev. T. G. Brierley Kay, Dr. Thomas Nightingale is one of those supernaturalistic men who never seems to tire and, whether speaking—which is his happiest medium—or whether carrying out the routine of his position, he attacks every confronting problem with youthful energy and vigor.

Starting his ministerial career in Herne Hill, one of the suburban churches in old London, he progressed in his service and experience through membership in executive council of Leeds. He was transferred to Walthamstow in 1905, and later succeeded Dr. David Brook in the Duke Street Church, Southport. Here he worked for seven years before answering a wider call and became secretary of the Free Church Council. His work with every great movement and with all the prominent men in Europe. He has at his finger tips every detail of international work in the direction of peace and more than any man perhaps can speak with authority on the subject which he has chosen for his address.

Has Extensive Information.
Rev. M. E. Aubrey in an essay on Dr. Nightingale says: "The present writer has had a considerable opportunity of studying the subject of this article at close quarters. The first impression is that of irresistible energy. He may be dealing trenchantly and occasionally on a platform with some matter of public concern, or hurrying between distant parts of the country, carrying encouragement and counsel to local councils, or tackling arrears of work in the office of invading

JAMES GRAY'S REJOINDER CREATES AMUSEMENT

Following the announcement of his election by acclamation to the hospital trust, James Gray, president of the chamber of commerce, afforded a hearty laugh by his clever rejoinder at the meeting of the Rotary Club today.

"Thank you, gentlemen," he said, "I go to prepare a place for you."

INTEREST GREAT AS CANDIDATES TELL PLATFORMS

Aspirants to Boys' Parliament Busily Engaged in Lining Up Supporters.

THREE IN FIELD

Interest in the election for the boys' parliament is unabated at the "Y" and all the candidates are engaged in presenting their platforms and disputing with unbelievers their theories of government. Last year, when the parliament met in Toronto and held their council, the legislative chamber they opened a new door to accomplish a step further in the march of education among the youth of the country.

The platforms of three prominent candidates in London and their history are as follows:
Frank M. Adams has had three years' experience in boys' work in Owen Sound and four years in London. He has been mentor of the Gordon Trail Ranger group for three years, and is grand preceptor of the Nikator Club of Dundas Centre.

Elections take place at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.
His platform is as follows:
1. That a Dominion parliament be promoted by our Ontario parliament, consisting of the leading young men of each province, and so on for the rest of the world, to get some good work done when they get together.

2. That instead of having a Trail Ranger uniform, such as the Boy Scouts have, they should have a banner something on the order of the small "V" shaped banner, with "Trail Rangers" on it, to be used by the Trail Rangers. When the graduate into Junior Tuxis a little later, they should have a banner of the small one, and so on for the rest of the world.

3. That the boys' parliament assume a larger responsibility for financing the provincial work for boys.
4. That an effort be made to improve the calibre of C. S. E. T. work through encouraging more groups to be formed for white, blue and red honors.
5. That the annual charting of Tuxis boys be stressed.
6. That insignia, caps and regalia be emphasized for Tuxis groups and that every C. S. E. T. group take an active part in the work of the chamber.

7. That a standard uniform be established for the Rangers.
8. That the competition for all-around proficiency be encouraged, particularly in the larger towns and cities.
9. That a member of the Askin Street Methodist Church and Sunday school, Askin Meteors, Tuxis Group (immed.)

10. That the C. S. E. T. group take an active part in the work of the chamber of commerce, and that every C. S. E. T. group take an active part in the work of the chamber of commerce, and that every C. S. E. T. group take an active part in the work of the chamber of commerce.

11. That the C. S. E. T. group take an active part in the work of the chamber of commerce, and that every C. S. E. T. group take an active part in the work of the chamber of commerce.

URGES TRUSTEES HOLD CONFERENCE ON SCHOOL ISSUES

Mrs. John Rose, Candidate For Board, Makes Interesting Suggestion.

WOULD CALL EXPERTS

Mrs. John Rose, candidate for the board of education, offers an interesting suggestion which she believes might lead to a satisfactory solution of the secondary schools problem facing the city of London at the present time. Mrs. Rose recommends that the new board, early in its term of office call a conference of the interested men of the city and a departmental expert from the provincial government to discuss the whole situation as it confronts London economically and educationally.

"The vital question which next year's board will have to decide is 'What shall be done in regard to the secondary schools?' says Mrs. Rose. 'London and other cities are under a financial strain at the present time and the wisest thing to do is to face the situation squarely and try to find a feasible and economical scheme for carrying on.'

"Because we have been told that in multitude of council there is safety and because many of our citizens of the board of education are not the time to devote to regular work on the board, are vitally interested in this question and would be willing to serve in an advisory capacity, I would recommend that early in the term of office, the new board invite experts and a departmental expert from the provincial government to discuss the whole situation as it confronts London economically and educationally."

"The deliberations of such a meeting might result in a line of procedure followed by the board of education could efficiency and at the same time bring out their own work with the co-operation, sympathy and approval of the general public."

Mrs. Rose states that she is entering the municipal field as a candidate for the board of education because she has been strongly urged to do so by the business men of the city. She believes that there is a place for women on the board of education. At the same time, she is of the opinion that women should be in the minority on that body. Women have a recognized and approved place in the organization work in the city, why not on the board of education? Women trustees, past and present, have met with public approval, and little public criticism. Women's viewpoint is different from a man's. A woman has an eye for detail, a man for the larger issues.

Both Have Specialties.
Hence both are needed to obtain the best results. Men trustees as a rule are busy outside of school affairs. The public press frequently mentions that it is difficult to get a quorum at board of education meetings. It is only natural and justifiable that a man's own business should come first. Women, having more time at their disposal, might carry out the detail work of the board, thus leaving the men free for the larger issues.

student at the London Central College. He is a member of the L. C. S. E. T. group. His platform: 1. That more stress be laid on the spiritual, social and educational sides of the four-fold program, and that every C. S. E. T. group take an active part in the work of the chamber.

2. That the use of the letters C. S. E. T. be restricted to groups that are prepared to carry on the four-fold program.

Miss Woods, who is a cultured speaker and secretary of the women's International League of Peace, said yesterday that millions of Americans regard Canada as a bleak country, "inhabited by an ignorant, brutal race. She said she had never before heard that Americans had waged war against Canada.

To overcome this view, which is evidently a common one across the border, G. R. Taggart, local American consul, advises that the Chamber of Commerce or Western Ontario United Boards of Trade, draw up resolutions urging the expenditure of $1,000,000 by the federal government to advertise Canada in the United States.

When questioned this morning as to whether the chamber would act on this suggestion, Secretary Gordon Philip gave assurance that it would receive earnest consideration.
"Advertise Canada—that's a great idea," Mr. Taggart said. "It would prove of tremendous benefit to this country. Before I came here, myself I was of the opinion that Canada was an extremely cold land. Many people in the states do not think flowers can bloom in Canada owing to the climate. A vigorous educational campaign in the leading periodicals of the United States would doubtless be of much advantage to Canadians."

Advertise Canada.
"It does seem ridiculous that a man like Miss Woods should have held such outlandish views of this country. But there are unquestionably millions of Americans who are no better informed. American school histories and text books hardly mention Canada. I would suggest that the Chamber of Commerce get behind a movement to advertise our nation. If sufficient public pressure is brought to bear on the national government, I feel confident a big advertising campaign could be got under way. It would be a big thing."

A number of members of the chamber, questioned today, were heartily in approval of the suggestion. It is likely that the London Chamber will draw up a recommendation to present to the Western Ontario trade boards, who, in turn, will submit a clear-cut advertising policy in connection with the United States to the immigration department.

CHARGED WITH STEALING LUMBER IN MANOR PARK

Charged with stealing lumber valued at $6 from the partly built home of J. H. Brown, Manor Park, William Burton was arrested today morning by Provincial Constable T. Y. Stratton and lodged in the police cells.

According to the constable Burton used the lumber for keeping a fire going in another man's house. Mr. Brown stated he had been missing lumber for some time.

Tilbury, Nov. 18.—Tilbury East farmers who had not their land leased before the big oil well was struck on the Shanks' farm are now securing $3 and $4 per acre annually for leases, and also a royalty of one-eighth of the output. Before the Shanks' well came in the regulation price for leases was $1 per acre.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD POSITIONS BY ACCLAMATION

Doubt as to Whether There Will Be Contests For Four Seats.

THOSE IN FIELD

If this year's members of the separate school board do not seek re-election it is expected the four citizens who have already been named as candidates will be returned by acclamation. E. J. Heslop, announced today that nominations will be received between 12 and 1 o'clock Wednesday next.

Those who have placed themselves as candidates are: William T. Groom, Ward 1; E. Secker, Ward 2; Dr. P. J. Sweeney, Ward 3; Thomas J. Kiley, Ward 4. These candidates will probably get in without a fight if the old members of the board, R. P. Rana-han, J. F. Nolan, William Regan and M. F. Forstall do not run again as anticipated.

The eight members of the board are elected for two-year terms, four being put up each year. Messrs. Rana-han, Nolan, Regan and Forstall have served for periods of anywhere from six to 36 years, and if they retire Catholic citizens will lose the services of educationalists whose experience has made them eminently fitted to carry on. At all times the retiring members have kept the welfare of the separate schools at heart.

Should the old members decide to run again, however, it will be necessary to hold an election, and this will be the first time since the consideration that Catholics will vote for the separate school board by secret ballot. The new system was chosen in preference to the old, because it gives each citizen an opportunity to register his opinion as to which men he believes are best fitted to direct Catholic education in the city. Previously the candidates were selected without an appeal to the people.

According to incumbent members of the board the change will be welcomed and the procedure adopted by which taxpayers are called together in the different wards for the purpose of deciding on their own representative, has created much interest.

The other members of the separate school board whose terms do not expire until next year are: E. V. Heslop, Albert H. Murphy, Jeremiah O'Loughlin and R. M. Burns.

LOYD GEORGE OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR GREAT BRITAIN

"PEER GYNT" WINS THE PLAUDITS OF GRAND AUDIENCE

Basil Sydney and Fine Company Present Dramatic Satire Clever Fashion.

SPLENDID SETTINGS

With a brilliance of characterization, acquired only after a thorough analysis of his role, Basil Sydney once more won the plaudits of London theatre-goers when he played the lead in that dramatic satire from the pen of Henrik Ibsen, "Peer Gynt," at the Grand Theatre on Saturday night.

The Theatre Guild Repertory Company of New York made its final bow in this city, after offering three plays, each entirely different, yet each presented in a manner that bespoke not only the extreme versatility of the company as a whole, but the fine, artistic dramatic ability of each of the several members.

When, in the final scene, the deep crimson glow of the Norwegian twilight deepened into purple and grotesque shadows crept over the rugged hills, and Peer, after a lifetime of wandering, again greeted the little old woman, who was the sweetest of year years, an applause, that unmistakably expressed the delight of the audience was heard.

Clever Part.
As the irrepressible Peer Gynt, who flees from his native hills in disgrace and amasses a fortune by trading on the seven seas, Basil Sydney is at his best.

Mr. Sydney's ruggedness of stature and intelligent features lend themselves to the part so well that often one almost imagines that the Peer of Ibsen has been conjured out of the pages of the nineteenth century legend, and that he is with us, reliving the carefree, roaming life that in the end caused him the most passionate of sorrow, even as simultaneously he dwelt in the most intimate heights of joy when he returned to his mountain hut to find Solveig, the girl he had ever cherished, awaiting him.

Thoroughly pleasing was Zita Johnson as Solveig. Blonde and of delicate features, with a voice naively beautiful, she enacted with equal ease, the diffident, trusting young girl, and the aged lady, bowed with years of sorrow, but her face still shining with the hope that her lover would return.

As Asa, Nannie Griffen is Peer's loving mother, and one extremely clever acting is revealed.
But Peer, for all his discrepancies, for all his impetuous and rash decisions, for all his apparent selfishness, for all his egotism, is still a beloved vagabond to the audience. His dominant personality and his capability of realizing after all that the precious years of his life have been those of a spendthrift, wills it so.

The settings of the drama are elaborate and bizarre, one must admit, but so picturesque are they, with lighting effects so soothing, that on every side the Norwegian grandeur seems to blend with the mood of the moment.

POINTS OUT THAT SALARY 'BOOSTS' NOT SO STARTLING

When spread over the tax rate, the contemplated city hall salary "boosts" of about $10,000 do not appear so startling, City Treasurer James Bell pointed out today.

He estimates roughly, taking this year's tax-rate as a basis, that a person with $1,000 assessment would be called upon to shoulder an additional 16 cents and a fraction; probably 17 cents.

FINE ARTISTS TAKE PART IN THE SERVICE OF PRAISE

The assisting artists taking part in the Service of Praise to be given in St. Andrew's Church tonight will be Madame Frederica Alden, the favorite soprano of Detroit, and the Hausch instrumental quartet, who will render two groups of artistic selections specially arranged for violin, cello, flute and piano. Another feature will be the choral numbers by the choir and soloists under the direction of Mr. C. B. Wheeler. The program to be presented will be one of interesting variety and artistic merit.

Was Constipated for Several Years.

If you have suffered from constipation for years, tried all kinds of remedies without getting relief; if you have been subject to all the miseries associated with constipation, wouldn't you consider it a blessing to be able to keep the bowels regular and in a good, healthy condition, and prevent disease getting a foothold on your system?

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are indicated just for this purpose, their regular use relieving the worst cases of constipation.

Mr. M. Hecican, Sudbury, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with constipation for several years. I began to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and find them to be the best remedy I have ever used for regulating the bowels and liver. I always keep them now, and recommend them highly."

BRITISH POLITICAL GUNS WHEELS INTO ACTION

Lloyd George Enters Fray With His Full Old-Time Vigor.

DERBY DISTURBED

Asquith Picked As Best Man in "Familiar and Boring Business."

Associated Press Despatch. London, Eng., Nov. 18.—The big guns of every political party have opened fire, either through platform oratory or by manifesto, this week-end, and although many private soldiers have yet to take their places in the line, the battle will be pretty well joined along the whole front to-morrow.

One or two things have become clearer over the week-end. Firstly, Lord Derby, the potentate of Lancashire, is obviously very uncomfortable, both because he does not favor an election at the present time and because on principle he does not like tariffs. However, he congratulates with the reflection that after Lord Birkenhead and Austen Chamberlain have been gathered in. As for tariffs, the party is asked merely to paddle in waters of protection, and that only till times get better. Secondly, it is evident that Lloyd George is entering the fray with his full old-time lust for battle. His Northampton speech on Saturday was quite up to his old-time form. True, it lacked downright vituperation where his speeches were often interlarded in the land tax campaign of 15 years back, when, for instance, he referred to the younger members of the noble houses as the "rest of the litter," but some of his sallies were calculated to rouse the loud cheers and laughter which enliven a packed meeting.

Shrewd Comment.
A shrewd comment and quite amiable one, for instance, was embodied in his reference to persons in the Unionist party, who have been rendered uncomfortable by the bringing on of an election. There is Lord Derby, Lord Robert Cecil and Lord Salisbury. You never can tell what they will do. They don't think quickly, and the Duke of Devonshire takes a long time to add figures.

Lloyd George is evidently going to use the offer of a preference to the dominions on canned fish to give point to his humorous views. "Can them quickly before they have time to crawl away," he urged, alluding to the obvious unwillingness of the Unionist party to discuss the tariff reform counter for sale." While Lloyd George's speeches often sound better when they read, Winston Churchill's usually read better than they sound, for a nasal impediment and a tendency to splutter puts him at a disadvantage on the platform. He apparently made an effective appearance at Manchester. The Sunday Observer (Unionist) professes itself shocked by both Churchill's and Lloyd George's style. "We said last week it would be a dirty election and here we have confirmation," declares the newspaper. "The paper concludes that Asquith is the best 'in all this familiar and boring business.'"

Not Conspicuous.
The Unionists and Labor members have not been conspicuous in election oratory, perhaps because Premier Baldwin's address and the Labor Party's manifesto are deemed sufficient for the purpose to digest over Sunday. Unionist headquarters are reported to be confident that their majority will not be seriously reduced and will certainly not drop below 50, their argument seemingly being that Liberalism and Labor can increase their respective holdings only at each other's expense. They profess to believe that Unionism is too stable a factor among the British electorate to be violently sundered even over the present issue. True, there has been some desultory talk about Liberalism and Labor combining to make common battle against protection, but such an idea is most unlikely except in isolated instances, for there is an undercurrent of jealousy both among the leaders and the rank and file. The more impartial observer views the situation the more likely is he to become impressed with the possibility of the three parties uniting with something like equal numbers.

Naturally the sudden harmony engendered among the Liberals provides the jolliest gossip. H. H. Asquith, grave and sedate, who took its distinction with imperturbable dignity, is once more at the head of a united body of followers, and the man who displaced him in the premiership is, professionally, at least, his devoted chief of staff, just as if nothing had ever happened between them. How will this work out? Well, one critic puts it thus: "Asquith is now head of the party, and Lloyd George knows he (George) soon will be."

STANLEY STREET WORK TO COST ROAD $6,000

Engineer Near Reports On the Progress of Paving to City Council.

City Engineer W. P. Near reports to the city council that the street railway's bill for the work completed this year on the Stanley street pavement would total nearly $6,000.

He reports that the figure now stands at about $5,500, not including the asphalt coats which will be added later after which the bill will be submitted to the company for payment. It is expected that the company will be billed at the same time for its share of the Richmond street pavement. This work should be fully completed and the regular car services restored by the end of the month. The laying of asphalt on the last section, the east side of the street from Central avenue to Fullerton street, is progressing favorably.

Churchill Seeks Leicester Seat

Associated Press Despatch. London, Eng., Nov. 18.—Winston Spencer Churchill has consented to stand for West Leicester where in the last parliamentary election a Laborite ousted the Lloyd Georgian Liberal candidate. While there is still no definite arrangement between the Liberal and Labor parties for allocating seats, it is extremely likely that Labor will put up a candidate to oppose Mr. Churchill. In this case an exciting contest may be expected, as Mr. Churchill has always stoutly denounced, and has strongly opposed a capital levy.

GRAND DINA'S WINE GETS SEVEN LADS INTO DIFFICULTY

Fined $2 Each For Disorderly Conduct on Regina Street, Wednesday.

VISITED CELLAR

Seven husky youths, who looked as if they were more familiar with milk than wine bottles, appeared in police court this morning, charged with disorderly conduct on Regina street, Wednesday night, and all were fined $2 with the exception of the "wine provider," a juvenile, who was turned over to Judge Warner's court. According to the evidence, the juvenile supplied the "gang" with two bottles of wine from his grandmother's cellar, and the four youths who had been drinking wine, two empty bottles being produced in court.

The constable's statement told of motoring to Regina and Colborne streets last Wednesday night, and stated that the boys ran away, three being caught. Some of the boys had been drinking wine, two empty bottles being produced in court.

The constable stated the wine had been taken from the cellar of the juvenile's grandmother and placed in a barn, and that Mason had taken it from the barn.

A married woman on Regina street told of being molested by the boys, who seemed to appear in a group, and that she was frightened. She was then accompanied down the block by her husband, and the boys said they had made a mistake.

Identifies Boys.
The woman's daughter, in giving evidence, stated that the same gang of boys stopped her father and herself a short time afterwards, and pushed one of them off the sidewalk, she stated, and then went home and phoned for the police. She pointed out Liller, Mason and Calhoun as being present at the time.

Mason stated he had gone to the house and apologized, and admitted he had been drinking out of the bottle. Liller said he didn't have much to drink, while Calhoun stated he didn't have a drink of the stuff. All the youths declared they had never been in court before.

"I am surprised at you boys," said Mr. Gladstone, "to look respectable, and it was probably an act of thoughtlessness on your part. However, this sort of thing cannot be allowed to go on. You are going to fine each of you $2 without costs, and hope this will be a warning to you."

STUDENTS TO DEBATE SPEECH FROM THRONE

Discussion On Several Bills Is Looked For at East Collegiate.

Tomorrow afternoon the debate on the speech from the throne, opened at the last session of the Students' Legislature of the London East Collegiate will be carried on.

The speech, which forecasted the introduction of many bills pertaining to the welfare of the student body, was read by Principal O'Neil, after which the debate was opened. The house sits at 3:30, and several bills and petitions will likely be presented.

The question of a social evening is likely to come up for discussion, and the proponents of the various suggestions will indulge in a verbal battle in favor of their schemes. Banquets, concerts, etc., will all probably be discussed before the matter is finally settled, and a close vote is expected when the question is finally put to the house.

Parents of the students have been invited to attend this miniature parliament, where everything is carried out as in the House of Commons, adopted in the House of Commons, Ottawa.

LITERAL "HELL" IS NEVER TAUGHT BY CITY CLERGY

Bishop Farthing's Opinion That Doctrine Is Obsolete, Finds General Agreement.

Bishop Farthing's opinion that "hell fire" is obsolete and should not be accepted literally is subscribed to without exception by local clergy. Representatives of the Anglican, Presbyterian and Methodist churches offered quite a variety of interpretations of the term, but all agreed generally with the Montreal bishop's sentiments.

Rev. John Garbutt, of the Dundas Street Methodist Church, said that "nobody teaches hell fire now," but declined to advance any specific opinion for publication.

Rev. A. A. Bice, of All Saints' Anglican, thought it was quite a debatable subject, however, but gave assurance he never had taught the doctrine himself.

"I do not teach literal hell fire," Mr. Bice explained. "The question of eternal punishment is more or less vague—that is to say, the nature of the punishment is vague. It really is too complex a question to discuss without figuring it all out. There are, of course, definite interpretations of the phrase 'hell fire,' but every man has his own point of view."

Merely Figurative.
"Merely a figurative form of speech," is what Rev. R. D. Mess, of St. David's Anglican Church, said.

Rev. J. A. Agnew, of the Ridout Street Methodist Church, thought the subject was worthy of earnest consideration. When defects in the policy of a commercial business were covered, they were speedily righted, and the same should be true of the doctrine of punishment. The "hell" doctrine should be fully discussed, so that an opinion approaching unanimity could be obtained.

The church, like a business concern, should rid itself of obvious defects. "Jesus in the Bible drew a comparison in the story of Lazarus and the rich man," Rev. Mr. Agnew said. "He showed there were two different states—one a place of happiness and the other a place of torment. It is a matter of the mind, and not of the body. Between the two, there is no intermediate course of one with the other. I believe in a hell and a heaven—at the end of the road, and I believe in a hell and a heaven."

The New Testament is explicit that the mind is the seat of the soul, and that the soul is the seat of the mind. It is through their material conduct, while others are denied happiness for infraction of God's law. You must appreciate what hell fire means to a behavior and conscience on earth.

Constructive Teaching.
"I think the time has come when we should be more constructive and positive in our teaching. A great many men in the church are more destructive than constructive. I have my own personal opinion, but I do not like to define the word hell. My opinion might be construed as being too dogmatic. There is a hell with certain specific qualities. What those qualities are is subject to the mind of the individual. I believe we should come to some real agreement in this regard for the good of the church."

Another minister who wished his name withheld said that members of the clergy for centuries had fought the gospel of hell fire. It inspired a religion of fear, which many men in the church are now trying to get rid of. If there is going to be any religion, it must be built on recognition and practice of the golden rule.

"Hell fire and brimstone is a crude opinion," he said. "There may be some form of eternal punishment, but it must reasonably be of a spiritual nature. It is too bad so many ministers are disagreed on this point."

Dean Approves.
The statement attributed recently to Bishop Farthing of Montreal, that he did not and never would preach a doctrine of actual hell fire, and that he could find no basis for such a theory in the Bible, was endorsed today by Dean Tucker, rector of St. Paul's Cathedral.

"Most people today hesitate to believe in a doctrine of actual fire as the punishment of the wicked," he said. "We must remember that much of the language of the Bible is figurative and that a great deal of the teaching of the Bible is conveyed through allegory."

"In medieval times the belief in real flames and real fire in hell was universal and common. The vision of Dante was the expression of the time he lived in. Translating the allegory, we find that the punishment of the wicked shall have the same meaning to the spirit as fire has to the flesh in this world. Just as fire burns and scorches and pains in this life, so will the punishment of the wicked burn and scorch and pain in the next life. That is what I think the Bible means when it speaks of hell fire. It stands to reason that nothing material could be the instrument of punishment in the next life, which is a more spiritual one than this. It must be something more than a material force. This is what I believe Bishop Farthing meant and I think the generally accepted view by most people today."

COL. BROWN IMPROVING.
Lieut.-Col. Walter G. Brown, executive secretary of the University of Western Ontario, who has been quite ill for the past four weeks, is now well on the way to recovery and expects to be in his office in a few days. He is still weak, but hopes to be feeling himself again by next week.

Brain-Twisters in Arithmetic Which Grade 2 Pupils Must Solve in Eight Minutes.

Can you do this in eight minutes?

The school children in Grade II, young in years, are set this test in arithmetic, along with others, to be done in a certain time. This one is allowed eight minutes, and is simple addition. According to Chief Inspector V. K. Greer, the children in Grade II are remarkably proficient in working out their sums this way. The questions are given on a card, with the answer on the back.

WILL SPEND MONEY WHEN VALUE IS SURE

John A. Nash Points Moral From Success of Recent Watch Sale.

That the people still have money and will spend it when values are offered is the opinion of John A. Nash, jeweler, who in the past five days has sold more than 500 wrist watches.

Mr. Nash, who set the objective of 1,000 in 10 days, feels highly satisfied with the results of the sale, and stated this morning that money is not so tight as one might suppose. The watches, of white gold with ribbon bracelets, were priced from $11.25 to $35, and a few of the more expensive varieties were sold in less than five days. They were manufactured in Switzerland, and have proved a decided favorite among the people, not only of London, but of many other cities. Tourists from as far west as Winnipeg have purchased them.

Out-of-town customers have been particularly anxious to secure one or more of the watches. Mr. Nash stated that in many cases three and even four had been purchased by the one person, for use as gifts. The buyers are mainly women, although a fair sprinkling of men have also acquired one or two.

It was the intention of Mr. Nash, at the end of the 10 days, to sell the unsold watches to his Windsor store, but this morning he said there could be none to send, so well were they selling here.

"It's just a case of knowing how to get the money by giving good value and advertising," said Mr. Nash. "If the public can get a good thing if gone after the right way."

URGES GREATER ZEAL IN SPIRITUAL THINGS

Rev. A. A. Burgess Preaches to Large Congregations in Egerton Street Church.

A splendid congregation was in attendance at both services in the Egerton Street Baptist Church yesterday. The pastor, Rev. A. A. Burgess, preached in the morning and evening. Taken from the text, "Even so ye, for as much as ye are zealous of spiritual gifts, seek that ye may excel to the edifying of the church." The following is a summary of Mr. Burgess' sermon.

"There are some people who are contented and satisfied with the world's progress. The average believer is not given to striving and seeking to excel in the spiritual life. There are some who are zealous of the kingdom of God. Perhaps you believe that it is not right to try and excel the other fellow. There is indeed a lack of good competition, and people ought to be desirous of excelling not in worldly but in spiritual things."

"Many who don't seek to excel have stopped striving altogether. They have indeed made progress in the past, and their lives have been a blessing to the church, but their progress has been stemmed. When we stop striving to excel, we reach the danger point. Paul warns us of the danger point. We are not to seek to excel each other with regard to worldly things. It is not how little we try to excel, but how that counts. You may think this is a useless practice, but this excuse is foreign to God's kingdom."

"We have a great responsibility. Responsibility is something more than being able to respond. I'll grant that to be many who are striving to be equal, and as good as so-and-so. That is the setting of human standards, and is a wrong work for Christians to engage in. There is but one divine standard and that, Jesus Christ."

Obituaries
JOHN A. LONGE.
John A. Longe, a world war veteran, died in Queen Alexandra Sanatorium on Sunday, following an illness while serving overseas. He was born in Southampton. He was 34 years of age and was formerly employed as a cabinetmaker with the Bell Furniture Company. He was a member of the Anglican Church and the Canadian Order of Foresters. The remains will be in a few days from the Oatman Funeral Home to Southampton, where interment will be made.

SPANISH RULERS MAKE OFFICIAL VISIT TO POPE

King Alfonso and Queen Victoria Enthusiastically Welcomed by People of Rome.

HOLD PROCESSION

Associated Press Despatch. Rome, Nov. 19.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain arrived in Rome this morning to pay their official state visit to King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy. All Rome turned out to welcome "their Catholic majesties." Their train pulled into the station half hidden by bright streamers, and the national colors of Italy and Spain. The royal car was stopped immediately in front of the king's waiting-room, where King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena stood to receive their visitors.

After formalities had been exchanged in a rather lengthy ceremony, the royal party entered the semi-state carriages and the procession to the palace began.

The procession was a dazzling spectacle. On his way to Rome King Alfonso sent a telegram to Pope Pius, in which he expressed to the pontiff his filial affection and reverent greeting.

At 1:45 p.m. King Alfonso and Queen Victoria arrived at the ### British Free Trade.

The present election struggle in Britain almost harks back to the latter days of William IV. and the early Victorian era for the subject matter of its debate, free trade vs. protection.

It is notable too, that in that era some of the greatest free traders started out as apostles of privilege, protection and the landed gentry of England. The great Pitt, the man on whose political wisdom the Duke of Wellington relied, even if he were in the House of Lords, and Pitt a Commoner, was a convert. Gladstone was an intimate friend of Pitt, and Gladstone got his political start as a protégé of the Duke of Newcastle for the seat of Newark, who was so alarmed at the agitation for the Reform Bill that he was casting abroad for a young man of ability and reactionary views. Gladstone, who developed into a Radical, made his first parliamentary speech as a defence of charges laid against his father, who had large slave-worked estates in Demerara.

The Victorian era produced a brilliant school of parliamentarians. Cobden, Bright, Disraeli, Gladstone, the latter showing his first sympathy for the masses of the people by reducing taxation, making paper and textbooks cheaper, taking the tax off food and moving to give the franchise to the people so that they could elect their own representatives to parliament.

Gladstone took all his steps gradually and gracefully. He followed his convictions that led him the long distance from a Conservative to a positive Radical of that age. It is doubtful if the British House has ever seen such a duel as that of Disraeli and Gladstone, which lasted from 1852 to 1876. Gladstone was as great in opposition as he was as premier. The nearest approach to it was the passages between Fox and Pitt. Disraeli, light, sarcastic, humorous, of no deep convictions, a brilliant speaker, able to make phrases that stung and amused—Gladstone, ponderous, powerful, a great reasoner and with a wonderful grasp of every subject on which he spoke. These two giants of debate always answered each other. Disraeli, always willing to tackle Gladstone, fought shy of John Bright, an orator of the Gladstone type, but with a genius for apt phraseology that Disraeli feared more than he did the ponderous eloquence of Gladstone.

That age produced a school of free traders, probably surpassing in debating genius any group that the Commons of Britain has ever housed. The British politicians of today are on historic ground, but they will have to dip deep and go high to parallel the quality of the debating talent that went over that same historic ground in the early and mid-Victorian era.

A Great Chance.

Ku Klux Klan is a force to be reckoned with in U. S. presidential elections. That is the last word from Washington.

May we not yet see a president wearing a nightgown with a pillowslip over his head, and so garbed deliver his presidential address.

Not of Public Interest.

The Ontario department of mines has issued a book called "The Stratigraphy and Paleontology of Toronto and Vicinity."

Gripping, we call it. Besides potatoes, fortunes, trainless stations and handbills, the following are found in Toronto district: Actinoceras Cerebrileptum, Orthoceras Hamollosium, Endoceras Proteiforme, Pleurotomaria Umbilicata, Lophospira Tropidophora, Lumbroconeretes Dactyloides.

And so a book of 46 pages and cover, all coated stock, is printed and sent out to the regular mailing list, while not one in a hundred receiving the book knows anything of what it is all about.

The fact that rocks or soil or anything else of queer name and queer classification exist in or around Toronto or any place else is not a matter of public interest, because the public does not know what the book is talking about.

Homes and Homes.

Some boys in Windsor stole money from milk bottles and the magistrate sentenced them to be home every night at six o'clock during the winter.

The assumption is that the boys would be safe at home.

They would be if the homes were functioning properly.

The trouble is that we have some homes where the best thing that can happen is the absence of the children from them.

The Mayorality.

Nomination day was not an impressive affair in London. To be true we plume ourselves as a $300,000,000 corporation, and we are very ready to stop and tell the world that our burden of taxation is greater than we are able to bear.

Yet nomination day brings no unusual activity. A few residents attend, and sit patiently until the clerk rises, as he has done for years, and says "I declare," etc.

There were a number of nominations made for the position of mayor, but the prospects are that most of them, if not all, with the exception of one or two will retire. We still retain the habit of making complimentary nominations.

Mayor Wenige will certainly be a candidate for the second year, and he will in all probability be the mayor of London for 1924. Mayor Cameron Wilson was the first to register a break in the two-year term since the time of the late Dr. Campbell in 1905. Since then the following mayors have had two or three year terms: Joseph C. Judd, two; Samuel Stevens, two; J. H. A. Beattie, two; C. M. R. Graham, three; Hugh A. Stevenson, M.D., three; C. R. Somerville, two; E. S. Little, two. Practice has made the second year for mayor customary, although there is nothing in the law or in the general practice to hinder any man contesting the seat any year.

Even the opponents of Mayor Wenige must admit that he has given freely and generously of his energy and ability to the affairs of the city. He has never been afraid to take up the fight for the cutting down of expenses, and his aim is to pursue a similar policy in 1924. He is closely in touch with a large number of people of all classes, and he can appreciate their ability and their inability to pay the taxes for which they are asked.

His term as mayor has not been smooth sailing. There have been times when he should have had more support from the aldermen. His handling of public business has been on an honest basis; there is not even a hint that he has taken advantage of his position to better his own business. As a matter of fact his own business must run itself because the mayor is not often around his own premises.

Mayor Wenige will find 1924 a year of hard work, and yet it will be a year when there will be a chance to establish the fact that a tight rein is possible on municipal finance. We are at a turning point, or at least we should be, and our present debt should be set at that point, and from it we should recede and not advance. Mayor Wenige will find public opinion behind him in 1924 in so far as he adheres to that plan of business, but he will find that it will leave him as quickly as it came if he shows any tendency to depart.

Being mayor of London in 1924 is going to be a real man's job, and Mayor Wenige should have the support and consideration of citizens in the discharge of his duties. We place a man in the highest position we have to give, and he should have public feeling and assurance behind him in the discharge of the duties of that office.

Note and Comment.

College girls are an inch and a quarter higher than in 1884. But were all measurements taken in sock feet? Look at the heels '23 girls have to help them stand higher than the old-timers of '84.

It's just one thing after another. We've just got one jump ahead of the tax collector, and now the assessor peeks around the corner to see if we've shingled the roof or banked up the kitchen.

Chesley Enterprise draws attention to an ad, "All-Night Dance." The Chesley editor smites the idea, on the plea that it gives people an excuse to sleep all day, and many can do that without an extra excuse.

Mr. J. C. Freeman is on the way to America with a Stradivari violin which he expects to sell for $150,000. Antonio Stradivari made only 540 violins in his life, and never got more than $50 for any of them. It may be exploiting the work of a great man, but it is also a tribute to the fact that Antonio Stradivari did his work remarkably well.

TIRED OF HIM. Merchant Has Professional Meal and Ticket Beggar Ready to Operate On All Possible Victims.

Sir,—A man came into my store this morning about 9 o'clock and told me he had no breakfast yet. I was getting ready to attend to his case when my partner came in, and as soon as he saw who the man in the store was he ordered him out of the premises and told him if he came back he would call the police.

The visitor took short time to get out, and he has not returned. My associate in business tells me this chap has been making the rounds of the business houses in London for the last three months. He does not work at anything more than a day or so, but goes from one to another with the old story of having a job in the Thordale or Denfield or Komoka and wanting the price of a ticket to that place. I know now of four places in our block where he has secured assistance to go to some of these jobs.

WHERE ARE THE DEAD? Correspondent Quotes At Length As To What Happens After This Life Is Ended.

Editor of The Advertiser: Sir,—Will you please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words on that oft-asked question, "Where are the dead?"

If we go out in the suburbs of any of our cities and towns and glance around we will see for ourselves where are the dead, but that is the old body that once had life in it, that played a great part in the development of something that was bad or something that was good; even helped to destroy someone else's life, but innocent and guilty all meet on the same level. The angel of death has struck the blow. His command is "Dust thou art, unto dust thou must return." The soul that sinneth must die; man cometh up as a flower, he goeth to his long home where he is forgotten. God is not the God of the dead, but the living. The dead don't praise God; they lie silent; their tongue is sealed. Sin and disobedience have brought us to the place where a great ransom won't redeem us.

Whatever our hands find to do, do it with all our might while we yet live, for there is no work or device nor knowledge or wisdom in the grave, whither we go. The Spirit that God gave returns to Him. God Himself is spirit. While we have time to worship, let us all worship Him in spirit and in truth.

Heaven we speak so much about is a spiritual kingdom, where neither flesh nor blood exist; nothing evil can enter into that world, where saintly immortal reign. If a man live many years and rejoice in them all, yet let him remember the days of darkness for they shall be many. All that cometh is vanity. Who knoweth the spirit of man that goeth upward and the spirit of the beast that goeth downward to the earth, for who

MAN'S PLACE IN THE UNIVERSE.

"Thou madest him a little lower than the angels . . . and didst set him over the works of thy hands."—Hebrews ii, 7.

The chief design of the picture of the beginnings, drawn in the book of Genesis is to show that a personal Creator is the source and author of all things that are made.

Next to that, and almost, perhaps altogether, of equal importance, is the design to show that man is incomparably superior to all the other works of God—that the distance between him and the lower animals is not a difference in degree, but a difference in kind. Yes, the difference is so great that we must use a new word to describe the origin of humanity, and say, This is more than God's work, it is God's child.

"Man," says Pascal, is but a reed, the feeblest thing in nature; but he is a reed that thinks.

"It needs not that the universe arm itself to crush him. An exhalation, a drop of water, suffice to destroy him."

But were the universe to crush him, man is yet nobler than the universe, for he knows that he dies, and the universe, even in prevailing against him, knows not its power."

Now, the beauty and strength of Christ's doctrine of man lie not in the fact that he was at pains to explain and defend and justify this view of human nature, but in the fact that he assumed it with an unshaken conviction of its truth and acted upon it always and everywhere.

DENNY BROOKS

A STORY OF COURAGE

CHAPTER XXI.

His First Dance.

Denny's pulse quickened, for the girl extended her hand with a bright friendliness:

"Mr. Brooks and I have met before, Steve."

"Oh, fine! Take him in tow, Lou. You know he's a pretty stepper. See you later, Brooks."

Denny was writing his name on Lou's program. As he felt himself alone with her, a panic of misgiving seized him: his tongue was dry as a bit of parchment. Lou laughed with a soft, lilting gurgle:

"Isn't that just like Steve! He takes it for granted we were wheeled in the same perambulator and ate each other's mud pies."

Denny grinned, sought vainly for some bright response. "None came," Lou seemed not to mind. She was glancing at the card where he had written his name.

"What does the 'D' stand for?"

knoweth what is good for man in this life. All the days of his vain life which he spendeth as a shadow, for who can tell a man what will be after him under the sun. All the ways of man are clean in his own eyes, but the Lord weigheth the spirit. There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof is death, but the living know they shall die, but the dead know not anything, neither have they any more a reward, for the memory of them is forgotten, also their love and their hatred, and their envy is perished, neither have they any more a portion forever in anything that is done under the sun, even as I have seen they that plow iniquity and sow wickedness reap the same by the blast of God.

They perish and by the breath of his nostrils are they consumed. As the chaff is blown away by the wind, so he that goeth down to the grave shall come up no more, for we are but of yesterday and know nothing because our days on earth are a shadow.

The Lord gave, the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of God, our Creator, in business tells me this chap has been making the rounds of the business houses in London for the last three months. He does not work at anything more than a day or so, but goes from one to another with the old story of having a job in the Thordale or Denfield or Komoka and wanting the price of a ticket to that place. I know now of four places in our block where he has secured assistance to go to some of these jobs.

I think any man is willing to do what he can for a man who is down and out, but these professional bums certainly go the limit in trying to sponge an existence from the rest of the community.

WHERE ARE THE DEAD? Correspondent Quotes At Length As To What Happens After This Life Is Ended.

Editor of The Advertiser: Sir,—Will you please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words on that oft-asked question, "Where are the dead?"

If we go out in the suburbs of any of our cities and towns and glance around we will see for ourselves where are the dead, but that is the old body that once had life in it, that played a great part in the development of something that was bad or something that was good; even helped to destroy someone else's life, but innocent and guilty all meet on the same level. The angel of death has struck the blow. His command is "Dust thou art, unto dust thou must return." The soul that sinneth must die; man cometh up as a flower, he goeth to his long home where he is forgotten. God is not the God of the dead, but the living. The dead don't praise God; they lie silent; their tongue is sealed. Sin and disobedience have brought us to the place where a great ransom won't redeem us.

Whatever our hands find to do, do it with all our might while we yet live, for there is no work or device nor knowledge or wisdom in the grave, whither we go. The Spirit that God gave returns to Him. God Himself is spirit. While we have time to worship, let us all worship Him in spirit and in truth.

Heaven we speak so much about is a spiritual kingdom, where neither flesh nor blood exist; nothing evil can enter into that world, where saintly immortal reign. If a man live many years and rejoice in them all, yet let him remember the days of darkness for they shall be many. All that cometh is vanity. Who knoweth the spirit of man that goeth upward and the spirit of the beast that goeth downward to the earth, for who

Yet to Denny it seemed a miracle of cleverness . . . just this flapping back and forth of tongues. He wished someone would speak to him. Then a girl, brushing past, said:

"Where's Tom? Oh, I beg your pardon!" Even this mistake seemed to include him as one of those poised, disdainful fellows. Denny bowed gallantly.

There was another dance—an encore. At last Stephen came.

"Where've you been, Brooks? Thought you'd eloped with Lou. An old friend of yours? Come and meet some of the fellows."

Stephen, with a familiar, breezy remark to nearly everyone they passed, led Denny into a library, where a dozen fellows, some brawny and heavy shouldered, others slight and rather insignificant, but all sleekly tailored, were lounging, curtaining the room with smoke.

They greeted Denny casually. Stephen made a place for him, stayed a few moments, and left, saying: "It's my job to see that things go off right. I'll be back."

Denny tried to appear at ease listening to the conversation, but no effort was made to include him. The talk drifted from the party of the previous evening to a drinking escapade in the city. Everyone had something to say. He felt himself

Someone mentioned the fire. "It didn't reach Laguna," Denny volunteered in answer to a question. He went on to state where it did reach but interest was no longer on the fire. His discomfort grew. Then Merritt, the fellow next to him, quiet, thin-lipped, smoking a cigarette in a long amber holder, spoke:

"Saw it all? Where were you living?"

"On Octavia."

"Out for a walk?"

Denny looked before the image of the dingy, gray Broke house with its narrow alley, its broken gate.

"Near Hayes," he answered, flushing.

The other took a long draw through the amber stem:

"Your father is Brooks, the lawyer, isn't he?"

"No."

"I thought he was. What's his line?"

Denny was mystified by this curiosity but too polite to place him socially and financially.

"My father is dead," he answered. "That so? Intend to live on this side?"

"Yes, I'm here now." Denny didn't remember just how the scorching thing came out, but Merritt kept asking questions till finally he answered: "I've taken a place near Professor Smith's, on Piedmont."

"Fine, we're neighbors. Are you on the right or left of Smith?"

"Why, that's the Carleton home." "I'm between the two."

"Oh." It was abrupt as a slap. The conversation ended. A minute or two later Merritt walked from the room.

Miserably self-conscious, Denny looked swiftly over the group, wondering if any had overheard. No one regarded him. "What do I care?" he thought, wishing with poignant resentment he had said as much.

A friendly hand gripped his shoulder: "Lou's waiting for you. Sorry you didn't have the earlier dances, but you're all right from now on, aren't you?"

Denny sprang to his feet, thankful for Stephen's warm pleasantness.

"Yes, thanks. I hope I haven't kept her waiting long."

"Well? Lou raised her brows. "Am I being cut, Mr. Brooks? I shouldn't like that from such an old chum as you're supposed to be."

His rose pride drank that like wine. He laughed—a deep, humming laugh, saying boyishly: "This old pal wouldn't do it either. Not much."

Lou asked no questions; she accepted him for just what he was. So did Stephen Adams. He should worry about a thin-lipped fellow like Merritt!

Because Denny was the son of his mother—snatching always at the brighter, happier things, he tossed the unpleasant recollection aside, swung into the waltz.

"Making up for lost time?" Lou asked.

"I may. You'll see!" She had put him so completely at ease, he talked in the boastful way Kitty permitted.

Denny had danced with Violet in the kitchen and in the "boudoir"; he had danced in Foley's basement with Sade. But here on this polished floor with its living color, swaying to the enchantment of music, perfume drifting from gowns and hair, his senses awoke in a sea of new delights. He looked down at Lou's golden hair.

He no longer worried what he should say; no longer felt an aching rigidity in his tongue at each pause. The dance was over. They sat in a little alcove, talking like old friends.

"You're not living here at the house, are you, Mr. Brooks?"

"No, I don't belong here."

"But you're pledged, aren't you?"

"No, not at all."

"I thought Steve said you were. Well, she added with an air of finality: "They're a fine crowd. I think they're dandy fellows."

"Do you?" Denny evaded, for he had only a vague idea of fraternity pledges and rushings.

"Yes—about the best." She glanced at his program. Steve told me to look after you. Have you all the dances you want?"

"Have you any you don't want?"

With a sparkling lift of her eyebrow, she drew a line through a name on her program, flushed: "Want it?"

She was cutting a dance for him—for Denny Brooks, who lived in a barn and had cleaned bricks. He was a conqueror.

POOLED STOCKS GAIN IN NEW YORK TRADE

Advance in Industrials Reflects Rally in Foreign Exchange.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Stocks continued their upward movement today, the most substantial advances in the afternoon, but the market generally rose to higher levels in response to more favorable dividend announcements. United States Steel advanced five points and Schulte's the latter touching a new high figure for the year. A considerable number of shares ruled from two to three points beyond Saturday's final figures. The sharp rally in sterling exchange which followed the announcement that a break between France and Great Britain had been averted, at least temporarily, at today's meeting of the council of ambassadors, celebrated short covering throughout the last and resulted in some material gains before noon. Declaration of an initial dividend on Calumet and Hecla was also regarded as a constructive factor. Ann Arbor, preferred, jumped 6½ points in response to the report that the directors had referred to the executive committee the question of inaugurating dividends on the preferred stock. Lorillard advanced four points, and Baldwin, Compacting Tabulating and Recording, United States Cast Iron Pipe and Fittings, and Electric Solid three or more points above Saturday's closing figures. Call money opened at 4½ per cent.

Exchange

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Nov. 19.—Sterling exchange, after dropping 1½ to 4.25½, advanced to 4.25½, the opening of today's foreign exchange market, later jumped over 50 on the announcement of a break between France and Great Britain apparently had been averted at today's meeting of the council of ambassadors. Foreign exchange traders described the movement as a "flight from the pound to the dollar" which has been under way since the announcement of the forthcoming British elections, on the tariff as the chief issue. The heavy speculative selling, liquidation of sterling investments and a transfer into dollar securities, and a large volume of commercial bills, all contributed to today's reaction.

New York, Nov. 19.—Sterling exchange strong. Demand rates: Great Britain, 4.25½; France, 5.30; Italy, 4.25½; Canada, 2.15½ per cent discount. Bar silver, 64½ per cent.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Nov. 19.—Trading was quiet on the stock exchange today, and prices moved irregularly.

Money, 2½ per cent. Government securities, 3½ per cent. Three months bills, 3½ per cent. Six months bills, 3½ per cent.

Many Honors for Colored Artist.

Notwithstanding his color, which is regarded by some as a handicap, Henry Ossawa Tanner is one of the greatest artists in the world today. He resides in Paris.

Good Jazz and Large Room, Making of Costume Ball

Makeshift Costumes Are Not Fair to the Hostess—Offering of Prizes Tends Toward Better Costumes.

By JULIA HOYT.

Fancy dress or costume parties are not only amusing, but they are very adaptable things. They may be truly magnificent and, at least at the beginning, have an air of formality, or they may be very simple and informal from the moment the orchestra begins.

The sensation of stepping out of one's own character for a few hours seems to endow everyone with a sense of freedom and to banish self-consciousness immediately, and consequently this form of entertaining is always a safe one with which to live up to the more informal ball or the more sumptuous affair, it seems imperative that it be understood by all the guests beforehand that they wear fancy dress. One modern ball gown or a dress suit can spoil the flavor of a costume party. I remember attending a ball in New York last year (it was not a private ball but one for the public), at which not one "civilian" dress appeared; not even an ordinary costume was admitted. By ordinary, I mean any one of the makeshifts to which men so often have recourse—an evening suit, for instance, and an Oriental turban. I remember too, that one of the group with whom I had gone was a domino. Fancy his chagrin when he was turned from the door and told to hunt a real costume before he could be admitted!

Prizes Lend Incentive.

I feel that the hostess who wishes her party to be a particularly picturesque one, will stipulate in her invitations that the guests are to represent a certain period. This will eliminate excuses for costumes. Then, too, it often proves that prizes, let us say three prizes for the best costume, are an incentive to achieve something beautiful and out of the ordinary. On the other hand there must always be taken into consideration the economic status of one's guests. If insistence upon a certain period would necessitate on the part of the guests the expenditure of more money than was comfortable, the plan should be abandoned. Thus, with the expenditure of very little money, and with the aid of imagination and originality, even the simplest costume may prove the hit of the evening and carry off the coveted first prize.

One amusing way of establishing a certain style of garb, is to ask the guests to come representing well-known characters from books of all ages. Then, too, they might represent characters from current or bygone plays. I recall an amusing party attended at which all the guests were asked to represent a current monthly and weekly magazine or daily newspapers.

Bal Masque Is Fun.

The bal masque is not very generally given nowadays, and yet it may be as amusing fun if everyone enters into the spirit, not only remaining masked until the hour for removing the mask, but playing the game and trying to conceal his identity. One of the most amusing hours I ever spent was in a Pierrot costume, well masked by the huge ruff about my neck and the domino. I cultivated a French accent for the night and it proved most successful. I engaged in a long and quite flirtatious conversation with a man who had practically watched me grow up; in fact, he had held me on his knee when I was a child. He spent a most intriguing hour thinking he had discovered an unknown (at least to him) continental in New York. Almost choking with mirth, I took good care to be in a position from which I could see his face when the hour for unmasking arrived, and truly his expression, when he realized the identity of the French lady, was worth the effort it had cost me to keep from making myself known.

In concluding, I would suggest that the decorations for any sort of costume party, either simple or sumptuous, should be so designed that they will bear out the spirit of abandon and mirth which the occasion demands. Good jazz, good food, and of course, a large room for the dancers, coupled with the hospitality of the good hostess, all go to make the costume ball a huge success.

Wednesday: The One-Maid Hostess. (Copyright, 1923, by U. S. and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

HOLDS TALENT TEA.

Mrs. J. Cambridge, 244 Dundas street, was the hostess of a talent tea given recently in aid of the bazaar being held in the near future at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, West London. The guests were by the sewing for the bazaar during the afternoon, and tea was served later by the hostess.

Prizes Lend Incentive.

I feel that the hostess who wishes her party to be a particularly picturesque one, will stipulate in her invitations that the guests are to represent a certain period. This will eliminate excuses for costumes. Then, too, it often proves that prizes, let us say three prizes for the best costume, are an incentive to achieve something beautiful and out of the ordinary. On the other hand there must always be taken into consideration the economic status of one's guests. If insistence upon a certain period would necessitate on the part of the guests the expenditure of more money than was comfortable, the plan should be abandoned. Thus, with the expenditure of very little money, and with the aid of imagination and originality, even the simplest costume may prove the hit of the evening and carry off the coveted first prize.

One amusing way of establishing a certain style of garb, is to ask the guests to come representing well-known characters from books of all ages. Then, too, they might represent characters from current or bygone plays. I recall an amusing party attended at which all the guests were asked to represent a current monthly and weekly magazine or daily newspapers.

PRESBYTERIANS!

DO YOU KNOW THE FULL MEANING OF THE PROPOSED BILL FOR CHURCH UNION?

The four main provisions of the bill are plain and simple. They are as follows:

- (1) It would create a new corporate body, to be called the United Church of Canada.
- (2) It would merge in this new corporate body the entire Presbyterian Church in Canada—its name, its ministers, its members, and its property.
- (3) It would provide that, within six months, a congregation may vote itself out of this new corporate body.
- (4) It would provide a commission to decide as to the equities of congregations voting themselves out in the general property and funds of the Presbyterian Church.

WHAT THE BILL MEANS:

- (a) If this bill becomes law, then the Presbyterian Church in Canada passes out of existence—her very name is abolished, Canada would be the only civilized country in the world in which there is no Presbyterian Church.
- (b) All the ministers and members, all the property and funds of the Presbyterian Church would, by law, become the property and form part of the United Church.
- (c) This would mean coercion, for many ministers and members of the Presbyterian Church would be compelled by law to become members, and become subject to the discipline of an organization in which they do not believe and which they do not desire to join.
- (d) A congregation must vote itself out within six months or ever after remain part of the United Church. If a congregation does vote itself out—it is out in the cold with a vengeance, for there will be no Presbyterian Church in Canada with which to unite.
- (e) Should a bare majority of a congregation at a meeting held within the six months, decide to remain in the United Church, they would keep the whole of the property and funds of the congregation. Thus, if a congregation of 401 members voted as follows: 201 to stay in and 200 to withdraw, the 200 would have no claim whatever either on the congregational property or on the general property of the Church. That is: a bare majority of one at a meeting, where many through sickness and such like causes cannot attend, may create this crisis and perpetrate this injustice—from which there will be no appeal.
- (f) This Bill, if it becomes law, will certainly create a serious disruption in the Presbyterian Church in Canada, for there is a very large body of solid, determined Presbyterian people who will absolutely refuse to be incorporated by law, against their will, into any non-Presbyterian organization.

These are the outstanding features of this Bill, and they show that Union, at this time, is out of the question. If Union can only be accomplished upon the terms of this Bill, then surely every true and loyal Presbyterian must conclude that Union should not now be consummated.

WOMEN and THE HOME

MISS KATHLEEN ENGLAND, who presided over Saturday's meeting of the London Girls' Cabinet, Miss England has just completed a most successful term of office as president of that body.

LONDON WOMEN CALL CIVIC MASS MEETING

Next Friday Night Set For the Hearing of Candidates in Central Collegiate.

A mass meeting of the citizens of London in connection with the coming election, is being called by the women of the city next Friday night, Nov. 23. This meeting, which has been arranged by the citizenship committee of the Local Council of Women, will be held in the Central Collegiate auditorium, and Mrs. John Rose, president of the Local Council, will occupy the chair. Opportunity to speak will be given all candidates for civic office, and it is expected that this meeting will be one of the liveliest held during the election. Men and women alike are invited to the meeting.

CHILDREN WIN PRIZES.

Prizes were offered by the Talbot Street Mothers' Club to the children of the eighth grade for the best poem illustrating the sale of home-cooking held recently by the club. The first prize was won by Arthur Freeman and the second went to Dorothy Coles. The regular meeting of the club will be held tomorrow evening and will take the form of a sewing meeting.

GIRLS' CABINET ELECTS OFFICERS IN DECEMBER

Makes Plans For Christmas Work at Meeting Held Saturday.

Election of officers for the coming year will feature the next meeting of the London Girls' Cabinet, a nominations committee having been appointed at Saturday afternoon's meeting of this body. The committee is comprised of the retiring executive, Miss Kathleen England, the president, was in the chair, and an important part of the meeting was the registration of club groups.

Christmas work by the clubs this year will include the provision of Christmas cheer for needy families in the city, and the supplying of a personal Christmas gift to each man in Westminster Hospital, who would otherwise not receive one.

A report concerning the needs of the London Day Nursery was given by Miss Helen Clark, the secretary. Miss Vera Jones, Miss Douglas, and Miss Selma Spence were named to the committee to make arrangements for the Christmas work of the cabinet. Interesting reports of the Religious Education Council meeting in Stratford recently were given by Miss Kelsoe Knox Church, and by Miss Campbell of the First Presbyterian Church.

PARENTS' ASSOCIATION UNDER WAY SHORTLY

South London College Committee Meets Tomorrow Afternoon.

The London South Collegiate Institute is taking a move in regard to definite organization of a college parents' association in connection with the school. Principal T. S. H. Graham announces that a meeting of the South Collegiate committee appointed for this purpose will be held tomorrow after 4 o'clock, when the date and place of the organization meeting will be set. The chief feature of this organization meeting, which will take place at an early date, will be the election of officers for the association.

HOLDS BAZAAR.

A successful affair of last week was the White Shrine bazaar, held in the Alma Block. The many attractive booths were decorated in yellow and white, and a large sum was realized from the affair, which was convened by Mrs. Alex. Wootton and Mrs. Arthur Borland.

ALMA DAUGHTERS TO MEET.

A meeting of the Alma Daughters will be held on Tuesday night at the home of Miss Minnie Hawkins, Huron street.

65 NURSES REGISTER AT NEW HEADQUARTERS

Board of Directors Meet Tomorrow Night To Make Further Plans.

Already 65 nurses have given their names to the nurses' registry, which was opened recently at 489 Dufferin avenue, by the nurses of the city. The directors of the registry are very much encouraged at the manner in which the new institution is proving its worth to the city. Miss Jessie Mortimer, the registrar, reports that the registry has been able to do a splendid amount of work since it was opened within the last few weeks. Victoria Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital are co-operating with the nurses in their latest undertaking.

A meeting of the directors of the registry is being called for tomorrow night at the registry office, when further plans concerning the institution will be made. Already 150 nurses have been sent out to the doctors throughout the district, asking their co-operation in the placing of nurses through the registry.

MISS K. CRONYN HEADS "ALLIANCE FRANCAIS"

Meeting Called For Thursday at Home of the New President.

Miss Katharine Cronyn was elected president of the Alliance Francaise at a recent meeting held at the home of Mrs. H. E. Gates. This was the first meeting of the Alliance for the season, and was well attended. The club is planning an interesting program for the year and promises to have even a larger membership than hitherto.

A meeting of the Alliance has been called for Thursday evening of this week at the home of Miss Katharine Cronyn, to discuss a delightful program is promised.

Other officers are: Vice-presidents, Mrs. H. E. Gates, Mrs. Ibbotson, Leonard; secretary, Mrs. Lionel Elliot; treasurer, Miss Zimmerman.

JUNIOR ELOCUTION RECITAL.

The junior pupils of Miss Jean Walker appeared in a clever program at the Institute of Musical Art on Saturday, assisted by Miss Edith Brown, pupil of O. L. Herbert, Miss Marcella Robinson, pupil of Miss Edith Irvine, and Miss Jean Hueston, pupil of Miss Nell Burnip.

Miss Christine Myers was heard in a delightful little reading, "Miss Cornelia Makes a Call," while Miss Mary Tichborne gave three enjoyable short numbers, "Invictus," "Earth's Voices," and "Wonderful Hairpin."

A one-act fantasy formed the second half of the program. It was a Doris Holsworth production entitled "When Mr. Sun Stayed In Bed," and was cleverly played by Rita Johnston, Viola Leff, Jean Hynd, Jean Nichol, Gine Giesburg, Jean Nelson, Kathleen Giesburg, Jean Nelson, and Mary Leff. Eleanor Pollock at the piano.

Danny and Nanny Have a Close Call With Reddy Fox In the Meadow

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Nanny Meadow Mouse had ceased to be afraid of the aeroplane resting on the Green Meadows just a little way from her home. That is, she was not afraid to run around it and under it. But nothing that Danny Meadow Mouse could say would induce her to climb up into it. It had taken Danny away once, and Nanny never forgot that. She didn't intend to give it a chance to do so again.

Danny liked to climb up into it. He liked to run all over it and poke his inquisitive little nose into all parts of it that he could reach. Nanny was satisfied to keep down on the ground. Every day Farmer Brown's Boy and his cousin, the man who flew the machine, would come to it and worked around it. Always they left some food for Danny and Nanny. They left it on the ground close to the man-bird. It was such good food that Danny and Nanny could hardly wait for them to leave. Farmer Brown's Boy and his cousin had worked around the aeroplane later than usual one afternoon. In fact, the Black Shadows were already creeping out from the Purple Hills across the Green Meadows when they finally left and tramped away up the Long Lane toward the house.

They had hardly turned their backs when Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse were over by the man-bird to see what treat had been left for them this time. They were thinking so much of their stomachs that they didn't think of anything else. They had grown careless. Yes, sir, they had grown careless, which is something the little people of the Green Meadows cannot afford to do. They found the treat they had hoped to find, and really expected to find, and at once began stuffing themselves.

Now, Reddy Fox knew all about that man-bird. That is to say, he knew that it was a machine made by man. He was suspicious of it, as he is always suspicious of new things. With his usual caution, he had studied it from a distance. But at last he had made up his mind that as long as it remained motionless and noiseless on the Green Meadows it was harmless. On this particular night he had decided that he would go over to it and look it over at close range. So Reddy came trotting along the edge of Farmer Brown's cornfield shortly after Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had settled down to their feast.

Reddy trotted along until he reached the private little path which Danny and Nanny used in running from the cornfield over to the man-bird. His nose told him at once that they had been along that path just a short time before. He knew they must be out in the grass of the Green Meadows. He lost all interest in the man-bird. His interest right then was in a Meadow Mouse dinner. He began to steal forward very softly, following that private little path.

It was Danny who discovered Reddy. He happened to look up just in time. Reddy was almost within jumping distance. "Reddy Fox!" squeaked Danny, and because there was nowhere else to go he scrambled up into that man-bird. Nanny looked up, saw Reddy and realized that Danny had chosen the only place of safety. She scrambled up after him, and she was only just in time. She was more afraid of Reddy than she was of being carried away by that man-bird. To make matters worse, she was actually in that man-bird, where she had said she would never go. (Copyright, 1923, by T. W. Burgess.)

Quoted Modern Girl Who Wouldn't Let the Dead Rule

Dorothy Dix

Don't Ruin Your Wife by Ancestor Worship.

Ancestors Should Be An Inspiration, Not a Dead Weight, to the Living—Make the Most of Your Life, as They Did of Theirs, and Don't Be Ruled by Ghosts.

A girl came to me in distress the other day. The gist of her tale of woe was that she was in love with a young man whom her mother considered her social inferior, and would not hear of her marrying him. "If mother has any just objection to John," said the girl, "if she could say that he was intemperate, or immoral, or a ne'er-do-well, I would listen to her, and obey her when she tells me that I must never see him any more, and that it will kill her if I marry him. But she can't bring a single charge that is worth paying any attention to against him. He is everything that is fine and upright in a man, and he has already made a place for himself in the world, and is going on to be big and successful. "And what are we to do about ourselves? The tag end of an aristocratic old race that has run to seed.

"Mother is always talking about our blue blood, and, believe me, it gets bluer and bluer all the time from anemia because we are so poor that we are half fed. Mother is always telling me how my great grandmother wore a point lace dress and danced with Lafayette. That doesn't mean a thing in my young life. I want a decent frock for once and to be able to dance myself in smart restaurants. Mother is always bragging about our ancestor who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence. I'd swap him off any day for a man who could sign a check that commanded respect at the bank.

"I don't mean to disparage my ancestors. I honor and respect them, but I don't feel called upon to fall down and worship them as mother and the Chinese do. No doubt they were worthy and energetic people, and made the most they could of their lives and opportunities. I want to do the same with mine. If they had sat down and worshipped their forebears, and been afraid to make a move lest they should shock their august shades, they wouldn't have got anywhere, either, and we wouldn't have been called upon to make sacrifices to their memory.

"And, anyway, I am alive, and I don't want the dead to rule me! Why should I, who lives in a new world, with new traditions, new standards, be dominated by ghosts of the past? It's absurd. It's idiotic.

"We are as poor as Job's turkey. We were half starved and went about looking like figures of fun in patched up old finery, yet I simply had to defy mother and go to work in spite of her, because no lady of my family had ever earned an honest dollar, and she went to think what great Aunt Clarinda would have said about it.

"She thought it so much more elegant to be hungry and shabbily genteel than to make a comfortable living and be independent by my own labor. And when anybody called me a working girl she nearly died of shame. But she would have been as proud as Punch if I had sold myself to a rich old man who could have given me pearls and a limousine.

"Both of my brothers are failures. In reality they are nothing but loafers, because they are too proud to be the kind of work they are fitted for, or to make an humble beginning. They are the kind who would accept a situation as a bank president, but who scorn a job. "John, the man I want to marry, started out as an office boy when he was fourteen years old, and now he is vice-president in the firm for which he started to work. He has energy, enterprise, ambition and initiative—every quality that my brothers lack.

"He has not only not asked a dollar of anybody, nor a helping hand, but he has supported his widowed mother, and educated his younger brothers and sisters, while my brothers have depended on their family name and their family influence, and felt that because they were my grandfather's grandsons special places should be made for them. And to my thinking, the man who stands on his own feet and fights his way through is ten times more a manlier man than the one who is just a leech.

"My mother calls John uncouth and uneducated because he doesn't always know just which fork and spoon to use, and he is guilty of occasional lapses in grammar. He doesn't know anything about the Russian realists, and he likes phonograph music. She contrasts with horror his tastes with the cultured ones of my brothers, who know a lot more about the new movement in literature than they do about the last quotations in the stock market.

"What she doesn't grasp is that there are different kinds of education, different brands of knowledge, and that John may know little about books, but he knows a million vital, practical things that are really important.

"He isn't dull and stupid. He has a mind as keen as a sword, a mind that is marvelously balanced, a forward-looking mind, and a judgment that is almost unerring.

"John may not read novels, but all of life is an open book to him. He doesn't know a thing about the science of psychology, but he sees into the very depths of people's souls, and their motives are as transparent as glass to him. He goes to the very heart of the truth of every subject. Maybe all of this isn't culture, but it's wisdom. It's life itself.

"And John is on his way. He is going up, and he is going to arrive, not only in a material way but culturally and socially. He is learning from everybody with whom he comes in contact. He is acquiring polish, and his wife is never going to have occasion to be ashamed of him. And—said the girl, wiping her eyes, "I am going to be that woman, mother, or no mother. I'm not going to be like my Aunt Clarissa, who let the family keep her from marrying a poor young chap she was in love with and whom they called common, as they do my John. They lived to see him a senator and rich, and his wife's limousine splashing the mud on her as she trudged along the streets on foot."

"Good," said I. "Marry your John, and found your own family, instead of wasting your life worshipping at the shrine of dead and gone ancestors."

AT SOUTH COLLEGIATE

Orchestra Is Shaping Up Under the Direction of S. S. Fetherstone.

The London South Collegiate has an interesting program before it for the coming year, according to the reports of the sub-committees at a recent meeting of the Literary Society. Miss Donna Gracey, the president, was in the chair.

The orchestra committee announced that there were now twelve instruments working together, under the direction of D. S. Featherstone, and that it would not be long before the London south ensemble would be one of the finest in the city. One hundred and ten have enrolled in the Glee Club, under the direction of E. G. Quantz, and rehearsals have already begun. The choir is undertaking such interesting music as selections from Gounod's Faust and from the Elijah.

The paper committee, under the direction of Arthur Hill, editor in chief, reports that The Oracle will be out in about three weeks' time, and an excellent number is promised. Amendments to the constitution were read by W. G. McNeill.

WOMEN WILL DISCUSS IMPORTANT MATTERS

Mrs. John Rose Goes to Georgetown to Attend the National Council Women.

Mrs. John Rose, president of the Local Council of Women goes to Georgetown early next week to attend the meeting of the National Council of Women, which opens session there on Tuesday. Among the important matters which appear on the agenda are reports from the league of nations committee, the committee on soldiers' pensions, the National Council of Women participation in the British Empire exhibition, National Council of Women participation in a conference called to discuss the prevention of the causes of war, report on the Canadian Council of Child Welfare, public health and child welfare week.

The executive will also discuss the matter of asking the federal government to have a certain rural settlement scheme tried out in a few districts, with a view to discovering how it works.

The National Council executive is also being asked to make application to the federal government to forbid or regulate the use of old second-hand materials, known as "old quilt stock" and imported from across the border for filling mattresses for domestic use. The contention is that these second-hand fillings have led to disease in many instances.

Still another matter which will come up for discussion will be competitive examinations in the schools of Ontario. Certain members of the National Council body believe that such examinations are detrimental to the health of the children and in nervous cases are not a fair test. They would try to bring about a condition in which the pupils were judged on their full term's work and on regular monthly reports.

WEDDINGS

ROBERTS-PARSONS.

A pretty wedding took place Saturday at one o'clock, at Cronyn Memorial Church, when Sheila Violet, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Parsons, was married to Alexander Roberts, son of Mr. A. Roberts, Besse Line road. Rev. Quintin Warner performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a smart frock of sand georgette over satin, with hat and shoes to match, and carried a shower of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Kitty Parsons was her sister's bridesmaid and wore a gray satin gown, with hat and shoes to match, and carried Ophelia roses. Mr. Cecil Roberts was his brother's best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Edward street. Mrs. Parsons wore a gown of black satin heavily beaded. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts left later on a honeymoon which they will spend in Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a handsome beaver wrap. Upon their return they will reside in London.

MOISEY-BAKER.

St. Clement's Church, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when Ada Louise, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baker, was married to Edward Joseph Moisey of Rochester, N.Y., formerly of London. Rev. John Bushell performed the ceremony.

The bride, who is also a former Londoner, wore a gown of ivory crepe, trimmed with radium lace, and her veil of tulle was banded with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. Miss Dorothy Baker was her sister's bridesmaid and wore a smart gown of white and flame, with black velvet hat, and carried American Beauty roses. Little Miss Irene Evans made a charming flower girl, and the bride's cousin, Mrs. Ardie Evans, wearing blue altynne crepe, was matron of honor. Mr. Walter Graham of this city acted as usher. Following a reception at the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. Moisey left for their home in Rochester, N.Y.

Mrs. W. P. Foley, Wellington street, has returned from Montreal, where she spent the past three weeks. Foley was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Helen Foley, who will remain in Montreal, attending the St. Louis Academy, where she will study French and music.

A handkerchief shower is being given this evening in St. Peter's parish hall in aid of the "hankie" booth at St. Patrick's bazaar, which is being held later in the month. The Misses Groomer are acting as joint conveners of the shower, and a charming musical program has been arranged.

A delightful informal affair of Friday evening, Dec. 7, will be the "at home" being given by the Acadian Club in their rooms in Richmond street. This is the first affair given by the club this season, and the committee in charge includes: Messrs. Fred J. Walker, H. Sangster, D. Gerold and W. Benton.

Mrs. P. W. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. W. H. Darling are conveners of the tea room at the Sunshine Club bazaar being held this week in the Masonic Temple. The assistants will include: Mrs. H. B. Elford, Mrs. William Taylor, Mrs. Thomas Rowe, Mrs. J. A. Jackson, Mrs. Dan McArthur, Mrs. Jeffries, Mrs. C. B. King, Mrs. Arthur Whyte and Miss Walker.

Among the hostesses entertaining in honor of Miss Gwen Scandrett's popular bride-elect of early December, are: Mrs. Howard White, who is giving a bridge tomorrow; Miss Jessie Gillespie, who is arranging a luncheon Thursday, and Mrs. George Grange is giving a tea Thursday afternoon, and Friday Mrs. Russell Beattie will be a bridge hostess at her home in Victoria street.

Complimenting their guest, Capt. J. P. A. Bellefleur, M.C., L. de H. R.A.F. Assessment Commissioner and Mrs. Bennett, entertained last week at a jolly party. The guests included Capt. J. ## London Offers Petrolia Game Coming Saturday

Locals Seek To Rectify Thanksgiving Day Default of Game.

PLAYERS EAGER

It was decided to offer Petrolia a game next Saturday in lieu of the default on Thanksgiving Day at a meeting of the L.A.A.A. rugby committee held over the week-end.

The regular players have all signified their intention of turning out for several workouts this week in preparation for the game, providing the offer of the London officials is accepted by Petrolia.

Not only the members of the committee but several of the players who failed to turn up and therefore had their share in the holiday mix-up, expressed the most sincere regret with the developments. The fact, too, that Petrolia had been so decent about the affair was commented upon by the committee, and if this "turn the other cheek" attitude of Petrolia was deliberate, its object was achieved most admirably.

It is expected that Petrolia will accept the London offer. It will not compensate for a Thanksgiving Day game in the East End town, but it will go a long way towards proving that the local rugby club's intentions are four square even if they lapsed on that particular occasion.

The workouts will be announced later, but it is the local team's intention to put over a delayed victory if it is possible at all. Enthusiasm has not cooled down much—a fact that was apparent from the talk of the local players at the meeting—and, as enthusiasts never get cold in the field, it is hoped that the game will be every bit as bitterly fought out as it has been played a week ago. There will be no less at stake in this game than there would have been in the game played when it was originally intended it should be played.

Zev Choice For International

French Owner Sails Dec. 1 to Arrange Event.

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, Nov. 18.—The victory at Churchill Downs on Saturday of Zev over Memoriam has made Zev the choice of the United States horses which are being consigned to the international to be held at Longchamps course on May 3 of next year.

M. Wertheimer, owner of Espinard, the champion 3-year-old, will sail for New York December 1. He will get in personal contact with Mr. Sinclair immediately after his arrival, and arrange with him various details of the race.

Invitations to the British and Spanish jockey clubs and the Italian and Belgian racing societies are being drafted, and will be despatched in a few days. The French Racing Commission has agreed that before December 15 it will have secured replies from all countries interested in the race. It is the present intention of the French committee, which is headed by Henri Letellier, that the race be put up to the country from which the winning horse sails, and that it will be competed for annually.

U.S. ATHLETES TO TRY OUT AT HARVARD STADIUM

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 19.—United States athletes who propose to compete in the Olympic games next year will receive their first start, starting June 14 in Harvard Stadium, the National Amateur Athletic Union decided at a meeting here last night. It also was agreed to postpone the national track and field championship meet until after the Olympic games.

COLLEGE SQUAD BEATEN 26-0 BY LONDON C.C.I.

Woodstock Squad Proves Too Weak For Opponents in Exhibition.

FIVE TOUCHDOWNS

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Nov. 18.—London Collegiate playing under wraps, were not extended to any great extent by the Woodstock College rugby team in an exhibition game here Saturday. The visitors won by a score of 26 to 0. The Londoners ran wild around the ends when they were not plunging successfully, and had the play in their opponents' half of the field most of the time. On very few occasions did Woodstock make yards, but they put up a plucky battle against their heavier and more experienced opponents. The first quarter was fairly even, only five points being scored, Alkenhead plunging over for a touch after Ludegate had mis-kicked when punting clear from the Woodstock line.

In the second quarter Fitzmaurice was not converted, and Wanless slipped through a hole in the center to carry away for a thirty-yard run and touchdown. Fitzmaurice converted, making the score 16 to 0 at half time.

The third quarter had just started when Wanless again found that hole in the Woodstock line and skipped through for long run and a touch-down. Hunter repeated the trick in the final quarter. Neither of these touchdowns was converted.

The teams lined up as follows: Woodstock—Halves, Rodgers, Ludegate and Nye; flying wing, Brunnell; fullback, Easton; scrum, Kidd; middie, Fisher and Grantham; inside, Holdaway and Chambers; outside, Westaway and Creelman; subs, Morrow and Ludegate.

London—Halves, Hunter, Back and Sharp; flying wing, Wanless; quarter, Alkenhead; scrum, Rourke; middie, Freeland, Westman; inside, White and Chapman; outside, Johnson and Martin; subs, Fitzmaurice, Craig, Kelly, Jones.

Under referee, Major Wilcock, Woodstock players were not allowed to use their hands in making holes. But that, says, was one of the chief reasons for the Canadian Rugby Union's decision to introduce the three-yard rule.

The unfair part of the old rule was that a ball-carrier could not hit a team-mate on his way through the line, whether it was accidental or intentional. It mattered not, even if one of the players was carrying the ball, it was considered a foul.

Under the new rule, the wing players were not allowed to use their hands in making holes. But that, says, was one of the chief reasons for the Canadian Rugby Union's decision to introduce the three-yard rule.

Firpo Tells Compatriots Of Raw Deal He Received

Luis Says He Was On Floor Only 8 Seconds, When Counted Out—U. S. Cauliflower Ear Circles Annoyed at Firpo Statements.

Buenos Ayres, Nov. 18.—Claiming that justice had been denied him in his battle with Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight championship, Luis Angel Firpo arrived home last evening, and told a welcoming throng at the station that he was counted out when he was on the floor only eight seconds.

The Argentine fighter denied he ever had intended to become a United States citizen, and denied the step he had taken towards that end had been taken under misapprehension.

Firpo said he expected to get into communication with Tex Rickard, who would take place in the United States.

U. S. ANNOYED.

New York, Nov. 18.—Boxing circles are annoyed by the dispatches from Buenos Ayres saying that Luis Angel Firpo told newcomers there that he was treated unfairly in his world heavyweight championship fight with Jack Dempsey.

Although there were many outside his camp who did complain that Dempsey was not obliged by the referee to observe the rules of retreating to his corner when he had knocked down his opponent, and that on one occasion the champion hit Firpo before the latter was up from his feet, there was no grumbling from Firpo himself.

Four days after the fight he gave out the statement, reiterating what he said immediately after the bout—that he accepted the decision of the referee without cavil, and only wanted another meeting with the champion. He said then that he had read the criticism of the boxing commission, and of sport writers relating to fouls.

Weight is an important asset in football, providing too much is not carried above the ears.

Buzz Wetzel strongly favors the return of Brantford and Kitchener to professional baseball. Brantford and Kitchener fans probably think that Buzz should stick to winning pennants—not promoting.

Queen's victory over Argos Saturday, while not impressive considering Munro's absence, makes a clean sweep for the Collegians in their clashes with other teams this year and clears the dope somewhat on the Queen's-Tiger clash.

Queen's defeated Tigers once, and so did Varsity. And Queen's have beaten Varsity twice. It looks like a 100 to 1 shot against the Bengal Cats.

The London rugby committee's decision to offer Petrolia a game Saturday should go far towards making amends for the Thanksgiving Day fiasco. The fiasco has already taught the L. A. A. A. that committees must be better organized and more care taken in the selection of members.

Joe Jacobs has filed three suits against Mike McFigure. He will be listed in the clock and suit trade if he keeps it up.

Eddie Gallagher, the Hamilton boxer, is going blind. One of his eyes was injured during a bout, and the sight of the other has been affected. Several American boxers have lost their sight in the same way. Many more of the old veterans are wrecks, with wandering, vacant stares and of incoherent, wandering speech.

The English system of boxing may not produce so many champions, but neither does it produce so many wrecks. Willingness to take rocking punches to get one in has been a feature of the American style. It has produced a rugged school of fighters but few real boxers.

Floyd Johnson since his beating at the hands of Jack Renault will probably never be right. Bob Martin is probably lost to the fighting game for good because he wasn't a master of scientific boxing though he had everything else.

Tommy Wallace Has Another Good Bill For Fans at His Gym.

Alex Colvin and Harry Lazebny, welterweights, will feature Tommy Wallace's boxing card tonight, over at his Chester street gym.

Colvin has not been seen in action by local fans, who are anxious to confirm the splendid reports which have been going the rounds about him. He made an appearance at Sarnia last year, his first in a ring, and knocked out his man. Bill Friend had him in charge on that occasion.

Lazebny impressed the local fans in his exhibition here with Cy Cook some weeks ago. Cy fogged up the lights, and Lazebny, a professional, hit him with a punch, and he showed when stung several times by Cook.

The rest of the card brings together some good boys, and promises to be even better than the last.

GALT COLLEGE TAKES GALT TITLE FROM GUELPH

Special to The Advertiser.

Galt, Nov. 18.—In a sudden death game in the inter-scholastic series at Riverside Park, Preston, Saturday, the Galt Collegiate senior team defeated Guelph C. I. 13 to 5, and won the group championship. The two teams were tied at the end of the schedule and Saturday's game was a hard fought battle throughout.

Both teams had large followings of supporters. The Galt squad will now meet Oakwood School team of Toronto in the second round of the play-off.

George Beattie, who is attending school at London, spent his holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Beattie.

ST. THOMAS ATHLETICS SWAMP SARNIA'S 24-0

Blue and White Could Not Stop Heavy Attacks of Victors.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Nov. 18.—A thousand spectators turned out here Saturday to witness Sarnia's defeat by the Elgin Athletics in the semi-finals of the Junior O. R. F. U. championship, 24 to 0.

Before the first quarter was at an end it was seen that the Sarnia line could not withstand the bucks of Wilkinson, Shaw and Johnson, and three times during the period Johnson kicked for routes.

In the second quarter Shaw, backed by Logan and Wilkinson, went through for a touch. In the second half the game was entirely in the Sarnia field. The visitors made yards twice in the second half. Sarnia's speedy left end tried in vain to get away for a run, but he was stalled every time by Dyer and Blough.

The line-up: St. Thomas—Johns, Ellis, Wilkinson, Shaw, Blough, Martin, Searle, Lang, Dyer, Johnson, Dawdy, Skellding, Billingshurst, Rupp, spares, Robertson, Jewell, Lang, Wolliver.

Sarnia—Richardson, Varley, Cameron, Everingham, Roberts, Smith, Jacques, Barclay, Palmer, Lambart, McGraw, McPhedran, spares, Corlata, Lawrence, Williams, Oliver, O'Brien, Cook, Sarnia.

Referee—Cook, Sarnia.

Umpire—Bingham.

Line-men: Linsman, Palmer, Linsman, Baskwell and Simpson.

Headlinesman—O'Connor and Foland.

Sarnians Pile Up 15-Point Lead To Carry Into Galt

SARNIA GETS LEAD OF FIFTEEN POINTS OVER GALT TEAM

Tunnel City Intermediates Gain Edge in O. R. F. U. Semi-Finals.

APPEARED HEAVIER

Special to The Advertiser.
Sarnia, Nov. 18.—Sarnia intermediates completely overshadowed Galt in the first game of the semi-final O. R. F. U. series here Saturday afternoon by 17 to 2, and, by taking a fifteen-point lead to Galt last week, have perched themselves in a decidedly advantageous position. Galt was pretty to watch, but altogether too light to hold its own, and time and again the visiting line crumbled before the plunging of Sarnia. The locals gained yards until it became monotonous. Only occasionally did Galt make any headway. When "Red" Wilson and Carl Manore went off in the first quarter with permanent injuries, and Karn was nursing a sore shoulder, it looked as if Galt was fortune's favorite. It proved nothing of the sort, for the blue and white continued to make constant gains. Perry, on the home backfield, shone, and although he was closely watched, was continually plugging through the Galt line. Karn was another outstanding player. Raynor kicked in the style for Galt, but McPhedran of Sarnia wasn't lost in his adversary's shadow.

It was one of McPhedran's hefty kicks that Sarnia relied on for the first touchdown. The second came when Bending intercepted a Galt pass on the run and carried the ball from midfield over the line.

First Quarter.
Sarnia kicked off before 1,500 spectators and Galt, opening strongly, carried play to Sarnia twenty-yard line. Raynor kicked off for Galt. Wilson made yards. Galt, who had the advantage of a strong wind, took possession and kicked over the line for the first point. Karn made ten yards. Sarnia kicked to Tinning, who ran round the right end. Perry gained and recovered the lost ground. Sarnia made yards three times. Perry dashed through to five yards from Galt goal line. Sarnia kicked over the score. Quarter time, Sarnia 1, Galt 1.

Second quarter.—Perry broke through for yards twice, but Sarnia lost on a fumble. Manore and Wilson both off with ankle injuries. Perry broke through to Galt twenty-yard line. Karn gained yard and possession and kicked over the line for the first point. Sarnia lost on interference. Cowan kicked over Galt line, and Sarnia fell on fumbled ball for a touch. Sarnia 7, Galt 1.

Third quarter.—With Richardson, Wilson and Manore off for the game, Sarnia made yards twice and Perry kicked over the line for the first point. Galt ball. Sarnia, despite weakened line, more than holding its own. Galt lack of avoidpools telling its effect. Sarnia made yards twice and Perry kicked over the line for the first point. Sarnia made three points on a drop kick by McPhedran. Three-quarter time, Sarnia 10, Galt 1.

Fourth quarter.—Galt broke away on the half and ran clean through Galt defence for a touch down. McPhedran converted. Sarnia kicked over the line for another point. Galt kicked over for one point. Galt played desperately to further reduce the lead, but failed. Sarnia—McPhedran, flying wing; Karn, left half; Perry, right half; Fitzgibbon, center half; Richardson, snap; Cowan, quarter; Bending, inside right; Speers, inside left; Wilson, middle right; G. Smith, left; Manore, outside left; Bending, right; Collins, center; Smith, Parks, subs. Galt—Garkin, flying wing; Pitting, left half; Wiedman, right half; Raynor, center half; Hilton, snap; B. Bell, quarter; Gink, inside right; Shuttleworth, inside left; Stottman, middle right; Newlands, left; Goldie, outside left; Scott, right; Elliott, Raynor, Dalkin, Keachie, Martin, R. Bell, subs.

Referee—Dibble and Bailey of Toronto.
GRAND TRUNKS WINS.
Brookville, Nov. 17.—By defeating Brookville here by a score of 12 to 2, Grand Trunks of Montreal today won the championship of the Quebec Rugby Football Union and the right to enter the Dominion semi-finals.

Treat Sore Throat With Vicks

Follow the Example of This Nova Scotia Lady.

Mrs. F. S. Myra, of Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, writes: "I am delighted to let you know of the good Vicks VapoRub has done me. A few weeks ago I had a very bad sore throat. I happened to have a supply of Vicks in the house, so I used it, and it did my throat so much good that I bought a bottle from my druggist. I cannot praise Vicks too highly."

Treat one cold with Vicks VapoRub and you will adopt this external treatment for all the cold troubles of the family. Vicks is a salve that acts like a plaster and stays on the throat at the same time. It is absorbed and inhaled.

When the children come in wet and shivering, apply Vicks liberally over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. Treated at bedtime, the child is usually better next morning, and all the bad after-effects of internal dosing are avoided. Croup attacks are kept away, too.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vicks Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

THE PANORAMA OF BASEBALL

A Pictorial History of the Growth of the Game.

FASHION PLATES IN BASEBALL

Do you recall W. S. Gilbert's song: "When I first put this uniform on, I said as I looked in the glass: 'This one to a million. That any civilian My figure or form will surpass.'"

When Harry Wright formed his "all professional" team in 1867 he gave them knickerbockers, and what is more, red stockings, and this was the first appearance of such a uniform on the diamond. In 1849 when

The latest sport fashions for men when grandpa was a kid. Observe the natty belted ankles: a nifty little the New York Knickerbockers went on the field they wore blue woollen pants, white flannel shirts and straw hats. The latter, in 1855, were replaced by mohair caps. "Father" Chadwick, in one of his articles, recalls the caps, which were blue. Thus doled up the baseball player of the past looked more like a Zouave or a hero out of the Arabian Nights than a ballplayer. Many records treasure the names of the seamstress or tailor who made the uniforms, as history treasures the name of Betsy Ross, who made our flag. Writing of early baseball history in Harvard, Ernst, of the class of '75 says: "The original uniform was gray, trimmed with magenta (the college colors from 1866-1874), with a magenta H (old English) on the breast of the shirt, and long trousers, tight-fitting about the ankle. We secured the money for the first short-trousered suits in 1875 by carrying a subscription list ourselves and asking for fifty cents from each person."

SOCCER GAMES PLAYED DESPITE SNOW AND SLEET

Match Between Bolton and Huddersfield Ends in Hailstorm.

50,000 AT HIGHBURY

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Nov. 18.—Football was played under very unpleasant conditions yesterday in the north, which has not yet recovered from recent bad floods. Conditions in Lancashire and Yorkshire were especially unfavorable, owing to snow and sleet. The Bolton-Huddersfield match ended in a hailstorm.

There were 50,000 at the Arsenal-Hotspur match at Highbury. The Arsenal halfback, repeated his recent feat of heading out a tremendous free kick taken just outside the penalty area, which stretched all but senseless on the ground. Mackie's head was only a couple of feet from the ground when he intercepted the shot. Arsenal was presented with an easy goal in the second half through a misunderstanding by Maddison. The Clapton leading United 2-3. Arsenal's six of their goal-scoring drives hitting Oldham's crossbars or uprights. Only one counted.

Victory Over In Memoriam Makes Zev Champion Colt

Rancocas Three-Year-Old Wins by Nose in Most Thrilling Finish in Racing History.

Associated Press Despatch.
Louisville, Ky., Nov. 18.—By virtue of a scant nose victory over In Memoriam, the Rancocas stable's Zev was en route to Baltimore tonight with the 3-year-old turf crown in his possession. In what today seemed destined long to hold a place as the closest and most thrilling finish in the annals of the American turf, Harry F. Sinclair's crack colt flashed past the wire at Churchill Downs yesterday apparently neck and neck with Carl Wiedemann's In Memoriam.

The time was 2:06 3-5, three and two-fifths seconds slower than the track record made by Woodtrap in 1911, and a second and one-fifth slower than the time for the distance made by Zev in winning the Kentucky Derby.

In defeating In Memoriam Zev gained new laurels by taking first place as the greatest money winning race horse in the world.

Mr. Sinclair received $25,000 as the winner's share of the $30,000 purse for the match race, swelling the total of Zev's winnings to $301,073, and putting him ahead of the two English cracks, Isinglass with $291,275, and Donovan with $277,215.

The son of The Finn-Miss Kearney goes to Bowie scheduled to meet Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own in a match race there on a date to be agreed upon during the week.

Zev's triumph in Saturday's match race here probably also means that he will represent the United States in an international race for a purse of 1,000,000 francs to be decided at Longchamps course near Paris next May. The international race is planned as a six-cornered affair and an invitation to the winner of Saturday's race to participate was received before the match was run.

SIXTH RACE, mile and a quarter:
Zev, 125 (Sande), $28.50, won.
In Memoriam, 126 (Garner), out, second.
Time, 2:06 3-5.

HAMILTON TIGERS QUALIFY TO ENTER CANADIAN FINALS

Rowing Club Goes Down To 24-1 Defeat At Hands of Bengals.

INTERFERENCE WEAK

Canadian Press Despatch.
Hamilton, Nov. 18.—The Hamilton Rowing Club proved no match for the Tigers today in the Canadian rugby semi-final. The score of 24 to 1 did not exactly indicate the relative merits of the clubs. Tigers had a distinct advantage in every department. H. R. C. showed little or no interference and could not cope with the Tigers' line.

First Quarter.
The game was under way only a few minutes when Gibb kicked over the line, and forced a rouge. This was followed in a few minutes by a try for the Tigers. Vanluven's kick was blocked and Tuck secured the ball and plunged over for the try, Gibb forced another rouge. Tigers 7, R. C. 0.

Second Quarter.
Fred Clark was hurt and taken out. Gear Elford failed to gain on an attempt to pierce the center and was laid out. Stuart met the same fate and Norton was forced to boot. He drove the ball into touch at Tiger's 30. Elford was thrown in his tracks as he took Gibb's kick and play was again at midfield. Evans made another great run of 20 yards, after taking Norton's kick. Vanluven went on for Norton. Gibb kicked for another point. Tigers 8, R. C. 0.

Third Quarter.
Kenny, replacing Vanluven, got the ball on the kick-off and was downed at Rowing Club 15-yard line. Kenny kicked to Evans at midfield. Gibb kicked to Kenny at R. C. line and he fumbled. Tuck kicked over the line over the line and Ed. Gibb fell on it for a touchdown. Manson was again called upon to convert from a difficult angle and failed. Norton's kick was blocked and MacFarlane dribbled it over for a touch in goal.

ASKIN SUNDAY SCHOOL

HOLDS ANNIVERSARY

Rev. Clark F. Logan of Hamilton Conducts Three Services For Children.

The forty-eighth anniversary of Askin Street Methodist Sunday school, Nov. 18th, marked a banner day in the annals of the church, when at the three services the church was filled to capacity by the children of the Sunday school.

The speaker was Rev. Clark F. Logan, M.A., of Hamilton, and the subject chosen for the morning service was "How to Get Rich." In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Logan gave an inspiring talk to the children, the topic being, "Why Violets Have Golden Hearts." "The Golden Age" was his subject for the evening.

In the morning and afternoon he preached particularly to the children, who numbered over 900, and by his winning personality and clear object lesson stories, won the heart of every child. In the evening he proved beyond a doubt that the Golden Age was before us, and not behind us. He stated that the world was getting better, and that the Christ belief was bigger, purer, stronger and more beautiful than ever before.

The musical program was given by the choir and orchestra of thirty pieces, under the direction of Dr. James Smith, Mus. Dir., and much credit is due to them for the splendid selections given. One of the most delightful numbers was "Wooler's 'Consider and Hear Me,' by Mr. A. McCulloch, with full orchestral accompaniment, the score written and arranged by Dr. Smith.

The success of the anniversary services was due chiefly to Mr. Chas. Walker, superintendent of the Sunday school, and his assistants.

On Tuesday evening the annual Sunday school entertainment will be given.

GROWING ATTENDANCE AT TECHNICAL CLASSES

With the advent of cooler nights attendance at the night classes at the Technical School is gradually creeping up, according to Principal H. B. Beal. Mr. Beal stated that the classes were well under way, and that good work was being done by the students who were now paying more attention to attendance, and showing the results of this in their work. Many of the classes have their full complement of students and record attendance are reported from many. It is expected that when the real cold weather sets in the school will be crowded every night.

WORKER MANAGER PARTLY RETRACTS RECENT EDITORIAL

William Moriarty Forced To Give Explanation by G. W. V. A.

BREAK INTO SPEECH

William Moriarty, business manager of The Worker, the organ of the Workers' Party of Canada, told the local G.W.V.A. that he did not indorse the editorial in his paper on "Poppy Day, One Hundred Per Cent." Mr. Moriarty, who was scheduled as the speaker at a meeting of the London branch of the Workers' Party, and who was to have spoken on "The Future of Canada," was prevented for over an hour from beginning his address by members of the local G.W.V.A., who were determined to have an answer from him as to whether he supported the article written in his paper by Malcolm Bruce or not.

In reply to these insistent questions Mr. Moriarty at length said: "I want you to know that I do not and never did indorse this article one hundred per cent. The essence of

I will never be a party in this or any country to any insult directed against any woman or child of the working party. The editorial quoted in the Toronto Globe, and if anyone says that I indorsed it one hundred per cent he is wrong. Harry Wray, speaking for the G.W.V.A., of which he is president, and for the 30 members who attended yesterday's meeting with him, said: "We have not come here seeking to cause any trouble or to prevent Mr. Moriarty from speaking. However, we are determined that he shall give us a plain answer, yes or no, as to whether the report in the Toronto Globe that he indorsed the editorial attacking the women of Canada for their work on 'Poppy Day' is right or not." Mr. Moriarty refused on the grounds of procedure for an hour before consenting to make his position clear. There was a great deal of commotion at one time and he was prevented from speaking every time he attempted to begin his address. The mayor, the chief of police, and four members of the force in plain clothes were present at the meeting.

"THE LAND OF SUNSHINE."
Why not go to California this winter? You know people who return there for their winter vacation each year, and who must certainly be satisfied with their experience, the Land of Sunshine or they would not do so.

Now that everyone travels more, distance means less than hitherto, and you will thoroughly enjoy both the trip and the change of climate. See Canada on the going or return journey, and the wonders of the Canadian Pacific Rockies. The Canadian Pacific Railway maintains a high standard of service, and your comforts will be well taken care of. The waiters (all white) and porters are selected and carefully trained. Any agent of the Canadian Pacific will gladly assist in planning a trip, or W. Fulton, district passenger agent, Toronto, will furnish all particulars, fares, literature, etc.—Adv't. N15,19,21,23
