POSTAL WORKERS RECEIVE ORDER

Work Stops at Five o'Clock Unless Settlement Is Reached.

TELEGRAM ARRIVES

One hundred and twenty-six postal employees in London held themselves ready for a general walkout at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

"Strike" was the word passed from man to man late this morning when definite orders came through from Dominion headquarters of the postal unions.

Only the bare possibility that an eleventh hour despatch would arrive, rescinding the strike order, offered slight hopes against a business tie-up.

From Dominion headquarters the following wire was received at 10:30 o'clock this morning:

"Strike called 5 p.m. June 18, unless orders to contrary. Have strike committee ready. Be prepared to go out or back to work when ordered."

The telegram, a copy of which was received by the Dominion secretaries of the postal clerks' association, was signed by the Dominion secretaries of the respective bodies. They were dated from Toronto, headquarters of the executive.

Many Affected.

By the impending postal strike, a walkout of 56 postal clerks was feared. By the same order 70 letter carriers were affected.

Only a mere handful of employees in postal services here are not affected. Several of the letter carriers.

Walkout of Thousands of Government Employees Is Set For Five o'Clock This Afternoon—Final Conference Between Government Officials and Union Executives Called For in Final Effort To Avert Strike.

MURDOCK CALLS MEN TO LAST PARLEY

Ottawa, June 18.—After two hours in private conference, officials of the Postal Federation of Canada and members of the Dominion government stated shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon that they had as yet no announcement to make on the threatened postal strike.

Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, who called the conference in an effort to avert the threatened strike of postal workers throughout Canada, said that the situation would be discussed at a meeting of cabinet to be held immediately and that negotiations with representatives of the postal workers will be resumed at 2 o'clock. This will, it is understood, be the final conference, and if it is unsuccessful the strike order will go into effect.

Representatives of the workers stated at the noon adjournment that they had not submitted any new proposals to the members of the government. As the large number of newspapermen gathered were not admitted to the office of the minister of labor, where the conference took place, it was not possible to ascertain either the spirit of the conference or the nature of the discussion.

Both sides had apparently agreed that there would be no statement of any kind made before a final decision is reached.

FOUR CABINET MINISTERS PRESENT.

The members of the government present at the conference were: Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor; Hon. Charles Stewart, acting postmaster-general; Hon. J. H. King, minister of public works, and Hon. Mr. Copp, secretary of state. The delegation representing the postal workers was headed by G. R. Jackson, president of the Postal Federation of Canada, and included B. B. Redditt, Dominion president postal clerks; J. Archer, Hamilton, Dominion secretary; E. V. Browning, Dominion president letter carriers; W. Brown, Dominion president postal workers; A. Beauchamp, Dominion treasurer postal clerks; I. A. Brown and R. E. Hall, R. A. Stapells, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, accompanied the delegation from Toronto and was present at the conference.

Committee Not Ready.

A sub-committee of the cabinet has been formed to take up the threatened postal strike. Results of this morning's conference between members of the government and representatives of the postal workers was submitted to a meeting of cabinet council which sat subsequent to the conference.

Following the cabinet meeting Hon. Charles Stewart, acting postmaster-general, stated that the sub-committee would "not be ready" to meet the representatives of the postal workers at two o'clock as had been arranged.

What will happen at five o'clock? Will there be a strike? Mr. Stewart was asked. "I do not know," was all Mr. Stewart would reply.

Instructions setting five o'clock this afternoon as the hour for the Dominion-wide postal strike, were wired to the several branches of the postal employees' federation by R. S. Bartlett, past president of the federation, on the strength of a message received last night from B. B. Redditt, the Dominion president, from the train while en route to Ottawa. "Have the strike," says all branches strike at five as arranged. Arrange all details with Hall, Beauchamp notify committee. (Signed) Redditt."

REORGANIZATION REPORT CREATES CRITICISM

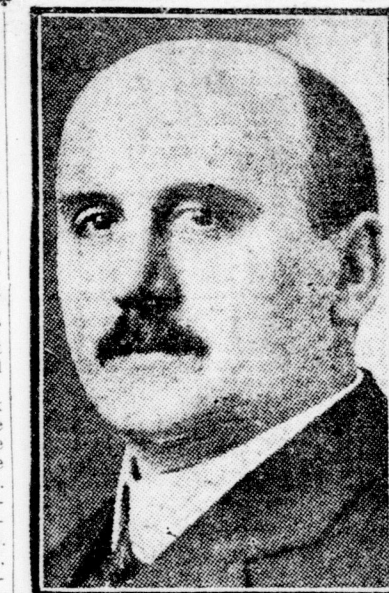

Dublin, June 18.—The report of the committee of inquiry into the recent mutiny in the army just issued, says the committee regards the reorganization of the Irish Republican Brotherhood within the army as a disastrous error of judgment, and declares that Richard Mulcahy, as minister of defense, ought to have informed the executive council of this development, and of his own negotiation with the group of mutineers headed by Gen. Liam Tobin.

Mr. Mulcahy made a statement to the Dail Eireann yesterday regarding the report, which he declared was humiliating, misleading and unfair to the three general officers deprived of their positions. Gen. McMahon, chief of staff, Gen. Sullivan and Gen. O'Murtha. He proposed to ask the Dail to pass a motion in favor of their reinstatement. The debate was adjourned.

PEPALL STAGING BITTER BATTLE

Former Toronto Broker Going To Legal Limits To Prevent Deportation.

Washington, June 18.—Andrew H. Pepall, formerly of Toronto, Canada, is now a prominent and busy man of affairs in Los Angeles, Cal., is making the fight of his life against deportation to Canada.

This one technical charge of violating the immigration laws of Canada, the Canadian authorities have made desperate efforts to carry Pepall back to the jurisdiction of the Canadian courts, where he is wanted as a witness in connection with the sale and retirement of some of Ontario bonds.

Appeals to Washington.

Under the spur of the Dominion authorities Pepall was arrested in Los Angeles for an alleged violation of the immigration law in crossing the Canadian-American line. A local court of inquiry at Los Angeles found against Pepall, and he appealed to Secretary of Labor Davis. One of the Dominion attorneys arrived in Washington and has been trying to obtain the immediate approval of the order of deportation without review or examination by either Secretary Davis or any of his assistants in charge of immigration.

Resort to Habeas Corpus.

Ben S. Hunter, of Los Angeles, Pepall's attorney, is here urging the secretary of labor to reverse the decision of the local board and refuse to deport Pepall on the charges alleged.

If the appeal fails in the Labor department, Pepall and his attorneys are prepared to resort to habeas corpus proceedings to bar any further action and, if necessary, appeal the case through all the federal courts to the supreme court of the United States.

SENATOR MAGNUS JOHNSON TO ADDRESS CONVENTION

St. Paul, Minn., June 18.—Faced with financial troubles coming on top of a communistic victory yesterday in the first open skirmish of the gathering, delegates to the national farmer-labor-progressive convention today began work in an uncertain state of mind.

Charles E. Taylor, state senator from Montana, who was elected permanent chairman of the convention yesterday, said he had no definite program in mind for today aside from the selection of standing committee and his own formal speech as permanent chairman.

Senator Magnus Johnson had been tentatively proposed as a speaking guest of the convention by William Mahoney, temporary chairman, but the final successes of the communists made his appearance before the convention doubtful.

CLARE CASE HELD OVER, BAIL BEING NOW SOUGHT

Prisoner Will Face Charge of Manslaughter in Death.

NEED WITNESS

Other Victim Is Still Confined at Victoria Hospital.

Thomas Clare, Central avenue, who was found guilty of negligence by a coroner's jury last Friday night in connection with the death on June 10 of Charles Lane, struck by a motor car driven by Clare on June 4, appeared in police court again this morning on charges of manslaughter and negligent driving.

At the request of Crown Attorney Albert M. Judd, Clare was again remanded a week in jail. Mr. Judd stated that Ernest Brown who was also injured in the accident, was still in Victoria Hospital and would not be out for four or five days.

Howard Cluff for the defendant, stated he had no objection to an enlargement of the case, but considered his client was entitled to bail. Mr. Judd agreed to this and the court suggested $5,000 in two securities. Mr. Cluff thought $2,000 would be ample and pointed out that Clare's home was in the city and he had a wife and family to provide for. It was not likely that he would jump any bail.

There is a possibility that bail will be provided this afternoon. In the meantime Clare is being held at the police station and if bail is not forthcoming will be taken back to the county jail.

Manitoba Liquor Act Condemned

Spending of $6,000,000 On Drink Called Criminal Waste.

Winnipeg, June 18.—The Manitoba liquor control act was condemned in a report adopted at the closing session of the Manitoba Methodist conference here yesterday. It was declared that $6,000,000 spent on drink in the province since the act was passed was a criminal waste of money, that the small net profit which the provincial government received was insignificant and the act was tantamounting to the business of the bootleggers.

Marsh, organizer and leader of the Marsh-Darien expedition, which for four months has been exploring the jungles of southeastern Panama, arrived in Colon last evening with what he believes to be complete proof of the success of his search for "white Indians."

The explorer brought with him three primitive white Indians and three brown Indians. A slower boat is bringing three more Indians from the San Blas coast, whence the party started for Colon.

Mr. Marsh said that the three whites he has with him appear to be primitive Nordics. They are a boy of 18, a girl of 16 and a boy of 10. Physically they are splendid creatures. They have a fine flaxen hair, blue-green eyes and white skins. The three are the son of Mr. and Mrs. James McIntyre, 353 Piccadilly street.

Eight Men Under Arrest With Women Companions, Face Holdup Charges.

Chicago, June 18.—Much of the $3,000,000 loot obtained in the hold-up last Thursday night in the robbery of a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad mail special, has been recovered and Chicago policemen and postal inspectors expect to find an additional substantial quantity today.

Enough evidence has been obtained to justify charging the eight men under arrest in connection with the hold-up with the robbery, and the three women as accessories, according to the police. Three other men are sought.

Sixty-one mail bags, $100,000 worth of non-negotiable securities and $5,000 in $5 bills taken in the holdup have been recovered, the last item apparently having been overlooked by the bandits.

A check-up of pouches recovered indicates that the bandits took a package containing $500,000 in Liberty bonds shipped from a New York bank to St. Paul, more than $500,000 in Liberty bonds of denominations smaller than the $1,000 bonds in the New York package, and approximately $100,000 in currency.

J. H. Wayne, one of the suspects, found with five bullet wounds and thought to have been shot during the holdup, was reported dying.

Lake of Woods Indians Alege Treaty Rights Are Violated

RIBBON REQUESTS AN EARLY PROBE

Lake of Woods Indians Claim Treaty Rights Have Been Violated.

SEND PETITION

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 18.—While estimates for the department of Indian affairs were under discussion in the House last night W. G. McQuarrie (Conservative, New Westminster), in behalf of Hon. R. G. Manion, presented the petition of Lake of the Woods Indians asking for an independent investigation into what they claimed to be violation of their treaty rights. The petition stated that lumber had been taken off their reserves without permission, and there was a shortage of schools. Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, promised that a representative of the department would be sent to investigate these claims. The department promised a thorough investigation.

M. G. Senn (Haldimand) brought up the question of the status of the Six Nations of Indians and asked a series of questions.

Stewart Explains.
Hon. Charles Stewart explained that the nationalistic aspirations of the Six Nations Indians tribe had been a matter of concern to the government. The council and officials had not been paid its dues because the council had refused to accept the Canadian government's declaration of a separate nation in the League of Nations. The council had dismissed the former secretary-treasurer without consulting the department of the interior.

Mr. Senn said that complaints had reached him that the Indians were not even allowed to cut firewood on their own lands.

Mr. Stewart answered that he had not heard about that.

Hon. George P. Graham explained that representatives of the Six Nations Indians had been invited to Geneva at the League of Nations council and had made representations to delegations there against the Canadian government.

Mr. Graham added that it was only by a narrow chance that the Canadian delegates avoided the possibility of having to defend their treatment of the Indians in the full assembly.

Mr. Senn said that the Canadian delegates had been spending its time with such humbugs, possibly Canada might do well to consider dropping the vote.

ROMANTIC BOAT MISSION HISTORY TOLD BY VISITOR

Miss L. Ross, Missionary, Home on Furlough, Relates Work in China.

FLOATING PEOPLE

Novel Church Maintains Eleven Gospel Boats and Seven Stations.

The romantic story of the Boat Mission of China was told informally by Miss Leonora Ross, before an interested gathering of men and women at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Wilson, Richmond street, last night. Miss Ross, who is home on furlough from Canton, South China, is a guest with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson.

"The Boat Mission," explains Miss Ross, "is an interdenominational church with its headquarters at Canton. It carries on its work by means of eleven Gospel boats, nine missionaries and seven boat stations, including schools, dispensary and a boys boarding school, where the young boat students and their teachers reside.

"The story of the origin of the boat people, who dwell in a land of many rivers, is a very old and very romantic one. Tradition says that centuries ago the ancestors of these thousands and thousands of people who dwell upon the rivers, were tilters of the soil, living in villages and having as their most important industry the raising of chickens and eggs for sale.

Fled To the Rivers.
"When the government of the land, however, began to impose severe taxes on these people, they built boats and fled to the rivers, which form a network through Southern China. The government, deprived of its tax revenue, resented the return of these people on pain of death, to return to the land. This was the origin of the boat people.

"Who these people are, these people row make their homes in sampans, small boats about fifteen feet long and five feet wide. And part of the home quarters are still reserved for chickens. Sometimes they are known as the chicken people.

"In Canton alone these boat people form a floating population of 500,000. The waters of Southern China team with them, and they are constantly the objects of interest among tourists, although little is heard of them over here. Practically all of the transportation is carried on by means of the rivers. The men are engaged in shipping work, while their families live in floating sampans, small boats, which often serve as ferries, for there are no bridges.

Whole Cities Found.
"Whole cities, with their own policemen and other officials, are found floating on the waters of these rivers, and they have practically no connection with the land, except the people of the land nearby," said the speaker.

Miss Ross has been stationed on the Gospel boat in Kowloon for the past two years, spreading the news of Christianity among these people. There was only a severe attack of smallpox which interrupted her work there. And although she is now on furlough, she expects to return to her work in an American ship.

Miss Ross is an American, and will spend the greater portion of her furlough at her home in Oak Park, Ill. She is spending the week as a guest with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, whose daughter, Miss Henrietta Wilson, entertained her in China.

FINE IRIS BLOOMS SEEN AT SHOW

London Horticultural Society Opens Exhibition This Afternoon.

DELICATE TINTS

The London Horticultural Society opened their summer season today with the Iris Show. For this event, the society secured new and very excellent quarters, a section of the main floor of the Huron and Erie building. It is one of the most central and convenient places of exhibition ever secured by the society, ample evidence of which was the large number of visitors who attended the opening.

The Iris exhibition officially commenced at two this afternoon with the judging by S. F. Wood. Most of the notable varieties grown are listed under the various classifications, and Mr. Woods' comment this morning was that a number of them were unusually fine blooms.

The flowers with a tendency to rather longer stems than usual, and several of the flowers exhibited had a stem length of nearly four feet. Their graceful tallness and the exquisite coloring makes the Iris Show this year a thing of rare beauty.

Highly grown by Mr. Wood are exhibited the Iris of the year. They include some exquisitely lovely varieties, in all the shades of Iris being, with a number of exceptional color effects, as shown by the exhibition proper, delicate bluish-mauve tints deepen into a royal purple, and here and there the color effects are heightened by a group of variegated blooms, with colors ranging from a brownish-purple to paler colors with a suggestion of pink.

Howard Harry and W. E. Saunders of the Horticultural Society were busy this morning in arranging the blooms which by two o'clock were in splendid shape for the judging.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, June 18.—Fire caused by the explosion of a varnish can filled with varnish did extensive damage this morning to the large frame dwelling of Walter Williamson, ice dealer at Port Stanley. Miss Elsie Williamson was engaged in the kitchen softening a can of varnish over a coal oil stove when the can exploded.

Miss Williamson, who narrowly escaped being burnt by its contents, grabbed the can from the stove and threw it outside. When she returned the kitchen was on fire. The Cleveland Colonial, which was leaving on schedule time at 10:30, sounded the alarm while proceeding out in the lake. Villagers in large numbers crowded around the building and succeeded in removing a large part of the furniture. The back part of the house was entirely destroyed, while the front part, which was recently decorated, was damaged by smoke and water.

Two Explain Matters AND CASE IS DISMISSED

Stanley Arbutick and Wm. Kruger apparently mixed things up a bit at a ball game in Queen's Park in the evening of June 12. When Constable Clipperton arrived at the scene of all the excitement one crowd of enthusiasts were hanging on to Arbutick, while other men were holding Kruger from the fray. The latter had been on his face, the constable testified.

"It bit my lip," declared Kruger. The constable did not see any blows struck and when questioned by counsel for Arbutick, said it was a good game.

Kruger's account of the affair was interspersed with many chuckles. He said he was sitting on the top seat of the bleachers, when his foot slipped and he fell over into the crowd. Arbutick had been "chewing at him," and he guessed that they both got a little excited. That was about all that happened.

You apparently wanted to get at each other, the two lawyers," guessed the court. "All right, I'll let you go this time, but don't do it again."

B. C. POLITICAL FIGHT IS DRAWING TO CLOSE

All Parties Are Confident of Result in Friday's Election.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Vancouver, B.C., June 18.—With only one day to go before the provincial elections on Friday, the campaign is closing in an orderly manner. Eight political meetings were staged in Vancouver last night. Spokesmen in Vancouver for the provincial as well as the older parties are turned up to the usual high election optimism as to Friday's voting.

The suspense of some candidates may be entirely ended when the vote is tabulated on Friday night. There is a heavy absentee vote to be considered. While the prohibition association continues to assail the beer-by-the-glass proposal, which is entering edge for the establishment of something approaching the old bar conditions, the Moderation League, in newspaper advertisements is holding the liquor lobby up to the glass. Beer by the glass, they assert, is a temperance measure.

NO CHANGE IN CONDITION OF BOY HIT BY AUTO

The condition of George Burgess was reported by St. Joseph's hospital authorities as unchanged, the same. He spent a very restful night, although no change was noticed for the better.

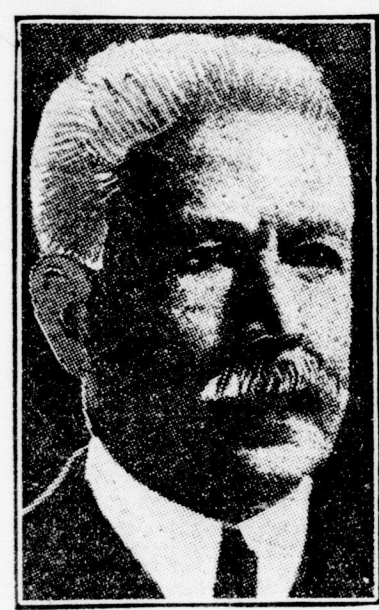

The boy was struck last Thursday afternoon by an automobile at Richmond and Victoria streets. His leg was fractured and he had shown signs of improving, but on Sunday took a turn for the worse. The blood supply in his leg has been cut off and a gangrenous condition has been forming.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Burgess of 140 Regent street.

CAT JUMPS THROUGH WINDOW TO AVOID CARESS OF AIREDALE

Frantic from being chased by a rough-haired Airedale for a quarter of a block, a cat, early this morning jumped through a small cellar window of the City Gas Company's offices on the corner of Dundas and Clarence streets, breaking the glass in its hurried and forceful entrance.

The chase started from in front of the old Advertiser building on Dundas street, and as the posts thereabout are iron and the buildings built mostly from stone, the unlucky cat had little or no chance of escaping except in the manner in which it did.

To follow the Iris Show, which commences today, the London Horticultural Society has arranged four exhibits of summer flowers. Dates have been set only for the peony show, which is to be held in the Armories June 24 and 25.

Officers in charge of the peony show are: General chairman, J. C. Middleton; secretary, Edgar Jeffrey; treasurer, John Macpherson.

GRAY GETS TERM IN REFORMATORY

Found Guilty On Three Charges of Fraud—Pleaded Guilty.

Maxwell Gray of Lobo township, who last week pleaded guilty to three charges of fraud, was sentenced to the Ontario Reformatory for an indefinite period of not less than three months and not more than two years less one day, when he appeared before Magistrate Graydon.

Gray impersonated a railroad man at the tobacco warehouse of S. M. Jones and Schies and Roberts on three occasions and secured a quantity of tobacco from them on forged orders from Middlesex storekeepers, locally known as "smokes" locally.

He was on suspended sentence at the time, having been convicted last winter of stealing an overcoat.

Gray, who is a young man of good appearance and splendid physique, had nothing to say when asked by the court if he cared to make any statement.

"You have no conception of what is right," stated Mr. Graydon, in passing sentence.

COLEMAN FINED $50 ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Arthur Bradley Tells Court of Defendant Striking Him.

Arthur Coleman, Elm street, was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate Graydon today on a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm, laid by Arthur Bradley. Counsel for defence stated he would probably appeal the case.

According to Bradley's evidence, Coleman came to his home on May 20 last and assaulted him, hitting him on the face and then tripping him to the ground, injuring his knee. The defendant submitted that Bradley struck him first and he had retaliated. He had gone to see Bradley regarding some statements made to his little son. There was evidence in Coleman's house and something was said about the taps being removed.

The court stated that both men seemed to be respectable and suggested that he adjourn the case a week in order to allow counsel to reach a settlement. The adjournment was granted until June 24.

VICTIM OF EXPLOSION REPORTED UNIMPROVED

The condition of Mrs. J. J. Hill, who was stricken with a heart attack following an explosion of an oil lamp in her home last Monday night, is unimproved. It was unable to be seen today, but his eyes have now regained their normal vision. Mrs. J. Baker, who was also burned, is much better.

INSPECTOR GETS DOG AFTER LONG SEARCH

Inspector Tustin is one of the few officials of the city who does not agree that the dog days are here, and that things in general are slack. Mr. Tustin is kept as busy as possible with stray dogs without any visible owner attached, and though he has many dog days, he has no spare time or waste effort.

"I spent five hours after a dog this morning," he said, "and I tell you I was hot. I got it in the end, and I have it in my place now. I don't know why they call slack times dog days, I'm sure. I guess there are no dogs in the city anyway, and as for the ones in the city, the owners are the chaps who do the least worrying over them."

Suburban Residents Send Delegation To Toronto To Present Cause.

PARKS ALSO PROTEST

Signatures For New Contract Are Refused at Meeting.

Ratepayers of suburban districts of London are up in arms against increased hydro rates under the new regulations. Users of power for years have suddenly been relegated to the "hamlet" classification of consumer, which makes payable a rate of practically double that which they have been contributing.

A delegation of ratepayers from the Base Line road and Brick street vicinity of London South prepared this morning for a trip to Toronto to wait on heads of the Ontario Hydro Commission. They are carrying with them the protest of 100 ratepayers of their district who have been heavy consumers of hydro for the past 10 or 12 years.

The protest came as a result of a meeting last evening at the home of Samuel J. Amoro, Base Line road, when 100 ratepayers held a public meeting. Object was raised strenuously against the new class "1C" or "hamlet" classification, instead of urban classification which residents believe they are entitled to.

It was pointed out that the district was one of the best customers of hydro in or around the city. Every home had an electric stove and other hydro appliances. For years they had an urban type of classification and then suddenly the rates were boosted.

Leave For Toronto.

It was in an effort to have the authorities see eye to eye with them that the residents named C. R. Miller, D. H. McDiarmid and S. J. Amoro a delegation to go to Toronto today or as soon as arrangements could be made. Mr. McDiarmid left on an early train.

Parks Take Action.

In line with these steps was the decisive vote taken in favor of not signing new contracts by Hill, land and Manor Park ratepayers last night. Mr. Hughes of the hydro commission was present and explained the reasons for the new regulations to the meeting. The greatest objection noted was the 20-year clause and the high service charge. The new contract forms are the present conditions, it was found that the new service was costing the consumer more than double.

Mr. Hughes, however, said that this was the only way to get the system got into proper working order, rates would automatically come down.

MEETINGS TOO NUMEROUS, AID. DRAKE DECLARES

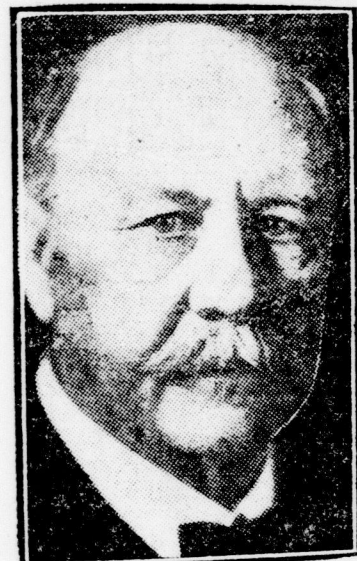

"There are altogether too many meetings of civic bodies, in my opinion," declared Alderman Drake in reference to the steady stream of meetings in the city hall, which have featured the last few months. "Why we have enough meetings to run the whole Dominion. There should not be more than two committees of the council—the finance and the board of works. The town planning commission and the city council are so much waste time, as anything they recommend has to go to one of the committees for ratification, and in many cases, the city is a hind and fourth between the various committees indefinitely."

ISSUES WRIT TO STOP USE OF WORD "MACK'S"

George G. Mackie of Port Stanley who makes the lakeside's favorite orange drink has issued a supreme court writ through Jarvis and Vining asking that an injunction be granted restraining Graham C. McKellar of Chatham, Jas. Marquis and the "Best Service Lunch" from using the words "Mackie's orange drink" in their business here. Mr. Mackie objects, according to the writ, to the defendants carrying on business under a name similar to that of his own, "Mackie's Orangeade," and besides the injunction asks for damages.

BOOM FOR M'ADOO HITS FINAL STAGE

New York Democrats Plan a Big Demonstration in Metropolis Today.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, June 18.—The campaign of William G. McAdoo for the Democratic nomination for president enters on its final phase with his arrival from Los Angeles today to take advisory charge of his forces. Several thousand in an anticipated, will be at the depot to greet Mr. McAdoo who will be accompanied by his wife and two daughters.

The welcoming delegation will form a procession and conduct the former secretary of the treasury to the Hotel Vanderbilt, which will be his home during the convention. National committeemen and delegates already in town are displaying a decided sentiment in favor of Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, leader in the oil lease investigation, as permanent chairman of the convention. It is generally agreed that inasmuch as the oil scandals are virtually certain to be one of the chief issues of the campaign, it would be a wise move to capitalize the Montana senator's national economic connection with the investigation.

PRINCIPAL GIBBS FETES CLASS BEFORE LEAVING

Forty-four children in Grade VIII of the Chesley avenue school spent yesterday at Port Stanley as the guests of Principal Gibbs, and enjoyed a farewell treat from this principal before they start on the high school work and a new chapter of life.

This is a custom that the principal of this school has introduced, and it serves as the pleasant memories in the minds of the English delegates with them through later years. Just a real picnic, with sandwiches, games and so on it is, and it serves as the valedictory of the schoolmaster to his last class. Each year he bids his senior class good-bye and bon voyage in this happy way and, as he has often afforded him an annual treat that he would not willingly miss.

CHILDREN'S HOME HAS BUSY MONTH

Supt. W. E. Kelly Reports 260 Children Dealt With in May.

PLAYHOUSE ASKED

Reception of a lengthy statistical report from Supt. W. E. Kelly was a part of the business of the June session of the Children's Aid Society at the public utilities commission board room yesterday afternoon. In his report, Mr. Kelly pointed out that 260 children were dealt with during the month of May, an exceptionally high number. In April there had been 195 dealt with and 184 in March. At the shelter 66 children received care, as compared with 41 in April and 49 in March.

Three cases, which required a great deal of the superintendent's time, were laid under the amendment to the criminal code concerning immorality in the homes of young children. Convictions were secured in each and 12 children were involved.

Executive to Act.
President A. E. Barbour was in the chair and a good attendance of members was present. It was decided that the business for July and August be left in the hands of the executive unless a special emergency session was necessary. This is the usual procedure during the summer months.

Upon recommendation it was decided that a new outdoor playhouse be constructed for the children at the South London Shelter. It has been noticed that kiddies there find time to amuse during bad weather and a playhouse with roof, concrete pillars and a wooden floor is expected to give them both protection and pleasure.

Statistics Given.
The following statistics indicate in some measure the volume of the work for the month:
Applications for children 8
Children brought to Shelter (not wards) 16
Received from the courts 42
Children returned to parents (not wards) 4
Children involved during month 260
Children sent to Industrial School 1
Complaints received 42
Investigations made 45
Mail received 263
Mail sent out 302
Interviews 238
Parents or guardians prosecuted 5
Visits outside of city 25
Court attendances 25
Foster homes heard from 28

The following figures indicate the nature of the cases in which the 260 children were involved:
Neglected and dependent children 137
Delinquent children 13
Children of unmarried parents 22
Wards of the society 79
Adoptions (other than wards) 5 34 at Shelter.

There are 34 children in the shelter at the beginning of May, and 32 were admitted during the month. Four were placed in foster homes, three returned to outside society, four went back to parents or guardians, two to the industrial school, and nine were disposed of through the juvenile court. At the end of May, 43 children remained at the shelter. The total number of days for children at the shelter during the month was 1,022.

TWO STILL IN RUNNING FOR BOY MAYORALTY

Harley Upshall, Askin Street Methodist, and Cecil Kemp, Knox Church, are the only majority candidates for the Boys' Council, the election for which takes place today. The final results will be made known on Tuesday, when the ballots will be totaled at the Y. M. C. A. office.

There are eleven boys running as members of the council, which consists of nine members. They are: Hiles, Templeton, Knox, Howard Obeyes, Dundas, Centre, Hugh Scratch, Dundas Centre; Bob Parr, Knox; Willard Gray, Knox; Allan Johnston, St. Andrew's; Charles Gladman, St. Andrew's; Douglas Henderson, Askin Street Methodist; Douglas Henderson, Colborne Street Methodist; Stanley Ashby, Ridout Street Methodist, and Jack Martin, New St. James.

ONLY TWO SURVEY PLANS COME BEFORE COMMITTEE

Only two plans of surveys will come up for consideration at the town planning committee's meeting this afternoon. Last time there were four and as the fees came with them the city was richer by some $300 than before.

The fees have not been forwarded in the case of these two plans, but they can be collected in the future. They are accepted by the committee. Alderman Drake is the chairman of this committee, which is one of those that he thinks is a needless adjunct to the welfare of the city, and he believes that the work of the committee might just as well be carried on by the board of works.

The Minute That Seems A Year. By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

Bobbed Hair Is Forbidden For All Nurses In London; Said To Lower Efficiency

Victoria, St. Joseph's and Bethesda Heads Unanimous in Attitude.

MUST GROW MORE

Claim Made It Is Unprofessional and Appearance Not as Good.

Efficiency and bobbed hair don't go hand in hand according to local hospital authorities. The question of bobbed hair seems to have divided nurses, but locally training schools seem unanimous that it doesn't fit in with the approved dress and capable appearance of a professional nurse. The superintendent of the General Hospital at Toronto has recently issued a decree that no nurse should wear a bobbed hair. The rule was already observed by other Toronto hospitals, and it is put into practice, as far as possible, in the hospitals here.

Taboo at St. Joseph's.
Bobbed hair is absolutely taboo at St. Joseph's Hospital and at the Bethesda Hospital Training School. It is taboo also at Victoria Hospital, but not absolutely. The authorities are sufficiently lenient with those whose hair is already shorn to allow them to finish their training, but they do not sanction bobbed hair or any other style of hair.

Miss Dewar, acting superintendent there, is in cordial agreement with the Mother Superior of the St. Joseph's Training School, and with Adjutant Holland of Bethesda Hospital.

"It decidedly doesn't add anything to the professional appearance of a nurse, so necessary in a sick room," Miss Dewar says. "The nurse's costume is a uniform, and as a part of that uniform, bobbed hair is not becoming."

Same Reasons.
Adjutant Holland for the same reason states that those who are anxious to become officers in the Salvation Army on the completion of their training course must wait until their locks have grown in. No girls are accepted as student nurses with bobbed hair, nor are any members of the class allowed to have bobbed hair.

At St. Joseph's Hospital the same situation prevails as in the Toronto hospitals. Several nurses, who have been sufficiently indiscreet to part with their tresses, are obliged to wear switches and hair nets until they are once more properly adorned. The mother superior considers bobbed hair neither sanitary or efficient.

WORTLEY ROAD L. A.

Following a short business session last evening, in which the members of the Wortley Road Ladies' Aid decided to hold a joint picnic with the songs. An official communication issued by the commander of the militia, says the concentration is in no way connected with a necessity for the maintenance of public order, but that the militia was ordered to Rome to render honors to Ras Tafari, regent of Abyssinia, who is expected to arrive tomorrow to be received by King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini, and by Pope Pius on Saturday. At several places the province there were demonstrations growing out of the Matteotti case.

International Kiwanis Convention Gets Down to Real Business.

Associated Press Despatch.
Denver, Col., June 18.—The eighth annual convention of International Kiwanis Clubs got down to business yesterday and adopted new bylaws, which were the subject of battles between various clubs.

Saginaw, Mich., and Cincinnati delegates fought a bylaw which would require newly-chartered clubs to pay a $25 membership fee and $15 annually thereafter, which was passed.

The second contest was over the question of reducing the international dues of members from $2 to $1, which was lost.

Thousands of Fascisti Come For Abyssinian Event.

Associated Press Despatch.
Rome, June 18.—Several thousand Fascisti militia from the provinces of Rome and Tuscany marched into Rome yesterday singing their war songs. An official communication issued by the commander of the militia, says the concentration is in no way connected with a necessity for the maintenance of public order, but that the militia was ordered to Rome to render honors to Ras Tafari, regent of Abyssinia, who is expected to arrive tomorrow to be received by King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini, and by Pope Pius on Saturday. At several places the province there were demonstrations growing out of the Matteotti case.

DOCTORS MAKING TOO MUCH MONEY?

Many Think So, One Doctor Tells Ottawa Medical Convention.

PRIVATE PARLEY

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 18.—Medical politics, propaganda and problems were discussed at a round table conference held by the members of the joint medical convention now in session in Ottawa last night. Although the meeting was private it is understood that matters of great weight and importance were discussed, says the Citizen in its news columns. The matter of public sentiment toward the medical profession was gone into and a report was presented of a canvass of 8,000 people. It is authoritatively stated that a large percentage of these people reported adverse sentiment. One doctor said that many of the people had declared the doctors were making too much money.

Some proposals were made and a policy of having lawyers, dentists and other prominent men speak to gatherings of medical associations to show wherein the doctors failed in keeping the public behind them was mooted.

About 250 doctors attended the gathering, which was preceded by a dinner. Mayor Champagne will officially welcome the distinguished visitors at a luncheon at noon today.

CHANGES IN MARKET BYLAW PROBABLE

Question Comes Up on Thursday—Duty Is to Housewife, Says Douglass.

On Thursday night amendments to the market bylaw will be discussed at a special meeting of the finance committee. The farmers and the hucksters have both been heard by the committee on the question, and now their suggestions will be discussed by the members, with a view to incorporating such as can be introduced in the bylaw. As in the existing bylaw there are some changes necessary in the opinion of many people intimately concerned with the regulations of the market, the hucksters, and the farmers and the hucksters, it is to get fair treatment for both the farmers and the hucksters, and at the same time the best shopping conditions for the city housewife.

"After all, the market is the city market, and it is the city housewife who has to do her shopping there. She is the most important person to be considered in any discussion of the bylaw, and the revision of the law is for her benefit. The suggestions of the people interested, which we have collected in the last few months, will be used to make such changes in the bylaw as will give the woman the best chance to buy fresh food of good quality at the cheapest way."

"ROTARY IDEA DAY" AT BIG CONVENTION

Business Methods Dealt With in Various Subjects by Delegates.

DIRECTORS ELECTED

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 18.—Today is designated "The Rotary Idea Day" on the program of the Rotary International, for which approximately ten thousand Rotarians from some 25 countries are gathered together in Toronto to attend the forty-day convention, which opened yesterday. The many addresses delivered during this morning's session had as their theme the "Rotary Idea" coupled with business methods.

The wide field of Rotary International was probably the best illustrated by six addresses on the subject "Business Methods and Rotary." Donald A. Adams, New Haven, Conn., dealt with North America; Marcel Franck, Paris, France, with Continental Europe; Vivian Carter, secretary Rotary International, British Isles, with the British Isles; Dr. Julio Hernandez Miyares, Washington, Latin-America; Arthur J. Hutchinson, Auckland, N. Z., with the antipodes; and T. Miyazaki, with Asia.

"What is business methods?" was the subject of an address by Ramond M. Havens, Kansas City, Mo., chairman of the business methods committee, while Merle Thorne, Washington, D.C., editor of the Nation's Business, used as his subject "Business in Bedlam."

The afternoon was devoted to special assemblies for smaller groups, while ten district dinners and the British Empire dinner are scheduled for six p.m., with the president's ball tonight.

Directors of the Canadian advisory committee elected at the Rotary Club this morning for the coming year are: J. S. Royer of Quebec; James H. Beatty of Victoria; Arthur E. Johnston of Winnipeg; and H. L. Strangler of St. John; Andrew H. Wallace of St. Catharines.

Arthur E. Johnston of Winnipeg was announced chairman of the Canadian advisory committee which is a semi-covering body for the Rotary International.

ARCHITECT'S FINE GIFT ACCEPTED BY BOARD

John M. Moore Designs Furniture For New "U" Board Room.

Equipment for the new board room forms the handsome gift recently received by the board of governors of the University of Western Ontario from John M. Moore, local architect, who designed the new university buildings.

At the last meeting of the board Mr. Moore's gift was accepted with a standing vote.

The board room for the university governors is in the new administration building, one of the finest rooms of the Gothic architecture of the university buildings. They are at present in the course of manufacture at Preston. The design has been especially made to harmonize with the interior finish of the board room, with its panelings of dark oak.

TOWE ASKS REASON WHY MANY CHANGED MIND

Alderman Towe, having taken much a courageous stand on the holiday bylaw, wonders why certain aldermen in committee voted against the measure. This applies to any when it came to a vote in the council. He says:

"We are all working for the interests of the city, and we are all ought to be. Ald. Towe declared, 'When the men who are paid for overtime receive two weeks' holiday with pay, their wages must be paid in part at least, I think many who are probably working for a lower wage than the city employees receive, but who do not receive any holidays with pay. I cannot understand why some of the aldermen voted, as they did last night, when I know their attitude is in opposition to their record of vote. I give Ald. Greer credit for having the courage of his convictions. But why did some of the others vote as they did. If any elected representative votes in opposition to his convictions because he fears any one class in the municipality, he is not fit to be a representative of the community. This applies to any question. I believe that any public man who fears to take a stand against liquor if he believes that it is right, or who fears to vote for those who are opposed to it, is not a fit person to be in public life."

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 18, 1924.

Confidence Must Be Respected.

The method of collecting and administering income and business profits taxes in the Dominion is to be reviewed by the public accounts committee at Ottawa. The government accepted an amendment to going into supply, brought in by W. C. Good, of Brant. It was a rather unusual procedure, but tended to show that the government is prepared to recognize the existence of other parties in the House.

Mr. Good, in the preamble to his charge, mentions no names, but bases his allegations on newspaper reports that there have been irregularities, and that favors have been shown to some firms by which the treasury department has lost money.

It is safe to assume that the great majority of firms are dealing honestly with the income tax and business profits returns. It would be an unfair and an unkind thing to suggest that the individuals and firms in Canada are not trying to carry on their business affairs honestly.

There is an element of secrecy and privacy in this connection, though, that must be recognized if there is to be continued confidence in the taxation department. A man goes into the taxation office, and there he presents a statement of the money he has earned, from his salary, investments, etc. He makes that statement knowing that he is dealing in confidence with that particular department of the government. He knows that the information he gives is not going to be made public property. The department is plentifully protected from false statements, and it has unusual powers in examining any records it may care to call for. In this way a mutual confidence is established, and it is something well worth while. This must not be destroyed.

On the other hand the individual or firm making an honest return and asking no favors must have the assurance that all others are doing the same thing in the same way, and that all are being treated alike.

If there is ground to believe that this rule is not or has not been complied with, then there is ground for the Good amendment. It is a matter for the public accounts committee to determine, but it should be determined in such a way that the man or the firm who has been dealing justly and in confidence with the department is not made to feel that his confidence has been misplaced or misused.

Parliament Must Be Supreme.

There has been no change in the situation that confronts the people of Canada in regard to having a strike of the postal service. At this writing events are drifting toward the calling of the men from their posts. A strike is something that no section of the community wants to see take place. An efficient mail service is at the bottom of practically all the business that is carried on in the country. There are plenty of business houses where the day's business starts with the opening of the morning mail. The disruption of business following a postal strike would soon run into totals that would be staggering.

The civil service commission is creating, and has created, the situation. If a strike comes will it be the civil service commission that will stand the brunt of keeping the mails moving? Will it be this commission that will answer to the business people of Canada as to why they were called upon to suffer loss by a serious interference with their operations? Not at all. The results will be visited upon the government, which has had nothing to do with the creation of the situation that it must now face.

Premier King was perfectly right in the stand he took that the powers granted to the civil service commission is not responsible government at all. It is the very opposite of it.

The public for a time entertained the idea that the premier or his cabinet could deal with the matter by a stroke of the pen; that he could simply write on a slip of paper that the civil service commission had to do certain things and they would be done. It has been shown, and evidence comes in a ruling from the department of justice, that the government cannot alter the powers or the rulings of the commission; it will have to be done by parliament.

In this case the civil service commission is greater than parliament. On two occasions its report on the rate of wages to be paid to the postal service was sent back for reconsideration, and the third report, still unsatisfactory, is the one which the government has had to accept. The commission, created by parliament to be an independent court in regard to government employment, has turned out in this case to be the dictator.

Parliament is not justified in taking the attitude that nothing can be done; it creates an impossible situation, one that, removed entirely from politics, cannot be justified on any grounds. The civil service commission has taken upon itself powers and authority that it was never intended to possess, and these powers, which, if abused, turn to be a menace instead of a service, should be taken from it.

Nurses and Bobbed Hair.

Matrons of hospitals in Toronto are gunning after bobbed hair as far as nurses are concerned. "Thou shalt not" marks their attitude toward those who would bob and nurse at the same time. They say the two things don't go together at all.

Bobbed hair is arraigned on several counts, but chiefest is that it is undignified and untidy.

Lesser charges are that it takes longer to fix up a bobbed head than it used to to wind up the network grown by the Seven Sutherland Sisters. And for the offending nurses who have bobbed, there is only one way back to the fold, wearing a switch—whatever that may be—and a net until the top knot is restored to its former bloom.

Of course a nurse must look dignified; that much can be taken for granted without an argument. As she approaches the sick bed of a dignified or a grouchy man she must do so in a way that stamps her as master of the situation. Imagine some bobbed hair slip of a nurse, fuzzy and pleasing to the eye, insisting that this man take down great gobs of castor oil, or that he can have only a sip of water when he wants a drink of something else. Why he would wave her out of court as a dictator—he would refuse the oil and probably get better as the result. It is too dangerous a situation to be handled by a bobbed hair nurse.

Let us have the dignified type, those whose hair is wound up in a spindle like that of Maggie, the life partner of Jiggs. It speaks of authority, it fairly shouts of that austere dignity that makes submission the better part of protest.

In the presence of such a setting of hair the patient swallows his castor oil for fear he might be asked to take something worse. He hugs the mustard plaster that takes his hide off, fearing that if he protests too much he'll mix a new and more powerful substitute.

Truly nursing as called for in Toronto is a life of sacrifice. No bobbed hair, no earmarks of the flapper. Dignity, dignity in the years of training, and great generous portions of it on the day of graduation, with avalanches and mountains of it in the hour of professional service. Surely the nurse in such surroundings must be entitled to hide behind the door and giggle when the day's work is over.

Western Ontario Man For C.N.R. Board

There is a vacancy on the Canadian National Railways board of directors. It may be that the appointment of John H. Sinclair, of New Glasgow, whose death has created the vacancy, was made in order to give representation to the eastern section of Canada. If such is the case the rights of the east will have to be considered in the next appointment.

On any and every other ground Western Ontario is entitled to consideration. This section gives a great volume of business to the road and, what is of equal importance, is the center of more sympathetic support for the general policy of public ownership than any district in Canada. In view of recent cannonading in the Senate and Commons this fact cannot be overlooked.

The naming of a Western Ontario man on the board of the Nationals would be good business for the railway and a recognition of the importance of this from the standpoint of a business and revenue producer.

Getting the Right Start.

Hon. Herbert Hoover, head of the U. S. government St. Lawrence commission, has gone over the proposed developments in company with representatives of Canada. Mr. Hoover has come to the conclusion that the development of the St. Lawrence as a deep waterway is something that must be done. He goes farther in his belief that it must be done by the people of these two countries, and that private interests must stand aside in this matter.

That is a fair and accurate presentation of the case, and it is exactly what the people of Canada want to see done. It is the only basis on which work can be carried on with the minimum amount of international friction.

Canada is particularly interested in the project, because we have already spent millions on the new Welland Canal, and without the project being carried right through to the Atlantic waters, the Welland expenditure would be in a large measure an unnecessary outlay.

It is not a question on which we can divide politically or nationally. It is so great a problem, and has within it so great a contribution to the business of the two countries, that its solution can be accomplished by bringing to its assistance a united front.

Note and Comment.

If the postmen go on strike the man who is slow at any time in sending out checks for his bills will have a brand new alibi.

There may be a strike of 50,000 ladies' garment workers in New York. Arbitration is being sought on the idea that a stitch in time saves nine.

Regina man of 70 skipped out on the day he was to have been married. He must have been terribly flustered, for he left behind a pair of spectacles and a plug of tobacco.

London magistrate was called upon to judge whether a hat pin was a more effective weapon than the kitchen chair. Rather than lay down a great legal precedent he dismissed the case.

Meteorologists say the weather has been cool because there's a crack in the sun. Surely with all our advertised brands of glue and cement we could find something to fix a little thing like that. It shouldn't be much harder than making the spout stay on the heirloom teapot.

Decoration Day in London was an impressive event, a worthy idea worthily marked. Few sentences have been penned that have greater beauty, force and fervor than those laid on a wreath at the Cross of Sacrifice in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

"Tell England, ye who pass this monument, we died for her, and here we rest content."

This time it was a curious truck driver from Toronto. He had got so far away from home when he pulled into Ingersoll that for the life of him he couldn't imagine he had any gas left in the tank. So he lit a match to find out. After the fire department squirted some water on his machine he was convinced that the tank was not empty.

NEGATIVES

Those who love negatives will love the long-exposure. The trouble with high colors is that they die out in their satisfaction.

The advantage of the commonplace is that it lasts longer. It is ever with us.

Those who love the green grass endure longer than those who love the pretty flowers. Man cannot go from drunkenness to drunkenness, from high spot to high spot. Most of the traveling is by way of the valley.

Therefore, those who love the more somber colors and sounds will get more satisfaction out of life than those who live from thrill to thrill. Nature herself has her birds-songs now and then, but all the time her winds are softly whispering, not sighing, and the bees are droning.

Always the unusual is on the background of the usual, and we must learn to admire backgrounds if we wish to have a permanent admiration for nature and her works.

Sometimes the wind blows and there is a high storm, but all the time there is some wind and the surf is beating.

The older one gets, the more one seeks the consolation of the drabs, for he learns that the high colors are the privilege of youth and that most of the sharp sounds and striking appearances are but delusions.

Nothing endures but the commonplace. After the day is done, the night comes on, and to those of contemplative minds the night is more splendid than the day. The day has its lights and shadows, its striking contrasts. The night has no shadow.

The light of the day, such as the sun, is to see withal, the lights of the nights, as the stars, are not to see by but to look at. They are rather an adornment of the universe.

The hours of the night are dear, soothing, healthy restoration hours. The hours of day are hours of energy.

The night, therefore, underlies the day just as rest and recreation underlie all activities.

Those who have learned to find their satisfaction in negatives shall not be disappointed, for, after all, life is made up mostly of them.

I think of all this as I look upon nature, which, in all her energies, seems to be so quiet and passive and yet so relentless and enduring.

I look upon the tree. It moves not as I do, is altogether unvoiced. It has not the high joys which I have, nor the poignant sorrows. Yet it was here before I was, and it shall be here after I am gone.

Whatever nature does and produces has the unhurrying stamp of eternity.

Worth While Livin'

The Blinks lived on a village street, and Blink he had a steady job, a cartin' stones and mortar up and ridin' bricks into a hod.

He was a thrifty, happy man, and when each week had spent its days, he trotted to the village bank and piled his coin in there edgeways.

And all went well until his folks they spent a week-end 'way from home, they got the city bug right bad, and all they did was whine and groan, they couldn't stand the sleepy place, they wanted sixteen kinds of clothes, and all the newest kinds of drills for plantin' powder on the nose.

And poor old Blink they camped on him and drove him from his spade and hod, they cheered the day he shut the gate and turned their face toward the mob.

Well, folks like them can have their fling and call for every fancy tune, old Blink he died in two short years, he faded like a Christmas prune.

I'd rather go and dwell back there where Blink he passed his happy hour, 'mong folks he'd tested out for years, who'd never turn up stale or sour.

Let's to the bush league turn our path, where folks has time to think a spell, and have a bit of gossip, too, with folks what ain't so mighty swell.

Yes, let us dwell upon a street where neighbors live in humble rank, where one'll say, "Hello, there, Bill," and Bill will say, "And how is Hank?"

There's somethin' good in terms like that, it's like a lemon pie at noon, it's choicer than a weddin' cake and sweeter than the finest tune.

I love to have a dwellin' where I know the folks and know them all, where men ain't bustin' in the dome to crowd some beggar to the wall.

It is a pleasant thing, it is, with neighbors on your left and right, to come and argue for a spell and sit upon your porch at night.

Unto some humble spot like that I'll pack my handbox and I'll go, where I can lean across the fence and say, "Hey, Bill, lend me your hoe."—ARK.

Both Need the Fines

(From the Hamilton Spectator.)

Announcement that Hamilton has been ordered to pay to the provincial government $11,000 on account of police court fines, which the municipality withheld pending protest, brings to a close an unsuccessful effort to bolster civic revenue.

It has been long felt that it has been unfair of the provincial government to appropriate to its own uses fines which result from convictions secured by the municipal police departments.

The municipalities maintain the police departments, and their contention has been that they should be permitted to retain the fines as a means of meeting costly administration costs.

The contention of the municipalities was sound, but the fact remained that the provincial government was equally hard pressed for revenue, and that if this source was dammed it would be compelled to increase existing taxation or dip its fingers into some hitherto untapped field of revenue.

I had two specially trained men with me, and special equipment designed by myself, an asbestos suit, gas mask, umbrella, or fire-screen, and fireproofed boots for wading in the molten lava."

"At the end of the second day I captured my first salamander, a beautiful, bright red specimen about ten inches long. I took his temperature, which registered 362 Fahrenheit. But I had reckoned without Nature."

"It may have been that my presence and that of the fire-dogs was like a tickling of the throat to the mountain, but at any rate she suddenly erupted with such violence that I, accompanied by forty tons of assorted debris, was hurled miles in the air. Only the quick use of my fire-screen-umbrella as a parachute saved me."

"I landed in the center of Lake Tiki-Nunu. My own weight was so high that I instantly inflated like a potato dropped in hot grease, and a gentle wind from the southwest wafted me ashore. And a curious thing happened to the salamanders, being accustomed to the terrific heat of the crater, when they came in contact with the colder air at the zenith of our flight they disappeared in the form of gas. But believe me, I never came so near possessing a real salamander."

Defective Curriculum.

Writer Believes That Our Educational System Must go Deeper Than Ever Before.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—Our schools are very defective. We should have included in our curriculum a study that would give the needs of the moral and religious nature.

Man's greatest concern is to know how he shall properly fill his place in the universe and understand what he must be in order to be a man.

Teach him his individual relation to man; youth is not complete with a knowledge of science and literature, but he must know the effects of a broken spiritual law on personality.

A liberal education should teach that man is a spiritual being and that he should live for spiritual ends. Teach him how to consolidate the elements that go to make a good and great personality.

We don't want superficial religion nor creeds. All creeds are man-made. What we need more than anything else at the present time is spiritual knowledge. Men today that are not identified with the church are placing emphasis on spiritual values.

Our schools are teaching material knowledge and they have developed the material side of man's nature at a wonderful speed for over a hundred years and his spiritual side has been starved.

How many students know the effects of courting the sins of the disposition has on the personality? How many know the difference between a human and a divine personality and how each is attained?

Every boy and girl should be taught that they are saviors of other boys and girls. In order to do this there must be brought into our group of studies something that will balance our material knowledge so that our head heart and hand will undertake the task together of building something that will endure.

When the high heart we magnify. And the sure vision celebrate. And worship greatness passing by Ourselves are great.

Sir,—I note with great interest an article in your valuable paper of 5th inst., in reference to a proposed announcement of a cancer cause and discovery of an agent for its eradication by Dr. T. J. Glover. Knowing the doctor personally and studying his attempts at combating this terrible scourge from a layman's point of view I wish him success.

Dr. Banding, discoverer of insulin, Box, with his pyhorrea treatments in dental science, are adding lustre to Canada in the hall of fame. These men worked under financial handicaps, and the results they achieved are worthy of all recognition given them.

Nevertheless, there is another great field for scientific skill from my point of view, and that is contagious and incurable diseases affecting domestic animals, which means millions of dollars lost annually. Veterinarians have somehow neglected this field, therefore I wish to draw your attention to a Canadian, in your city of London, who has been working alone, fighting against handicaps of time, bad equipment and finances, in veterinary research for five years or more, and by successful experiments, investigations and data gained has, or almost, discovered a successful method for wiping out contagious abortion in cattle and canine distemper in dogs. Millions have been spent in trying to combat their control. The gentleman referred to is Dr. W. T. Galbraith, veterinarian. It is interesting the information he can give in these subjects.

INTERESTED.

"Hello, Mrs. Brock, do you know who's speaking?"

"No, I haven't the faintest idea."

"It's Irene — we just had our telephone installed and I thought you would like to know our number."

"Why that's fine, Irene, I've often wished your mother had a telephone."

And so Mrs. Brock returns to her paper with a new and greater appreciation of the fact that "every new subscriber adds to the value of YOUR telephone."

Of the net gain of 52,018 telephones in Ontario and Quebec in 1923, over 36,000 (or 70%) were installed in residences.

Merchants and shop-keepers should not overlook this large addition to the number of householders they can reach by telephone.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR C. MATTHEWS

Police Begin Hunt For Missing Former Assistant Provincial Treasurer.

ORDERED BY NICKLE

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 17.—Upon instructions from Attorney-General Nickle, a warrant for the arrest of former Assistant Treasurer of Ontario Charles A. Matthews, Jr., has been issued by the Ontario provincial police. The charge is that of violation of the secret commissions act.

A thousand circulars announcing the issuance of the warrant and the desirability of Matthews' apprehension were sent broadcast to police departments all over the continent this afternoon.

The circular bears a reproduction of a recent photograph of the former assistant treasurer, a replica of his signature and his description.

Although it was on March 28, 1924, that Matthews eluded provincial police officers detailed to shadow him, this is the first definite move on the part of the government to secure his apprehension.

Assistant Treasurer Matthews left the Parliament Buildings about the middle of March, following sensational evidence at a night sitting of the public accounts committee, which he was accused of participating in a three-way split of an $11,000 profit on a provincial bond transaction. The evidence also involved L. C. Mason, a distant relative of Matthews, who disappeared about the same time and is believed by the provincial police to be with the former assistant treasurer.

ROTARY WILL ORGANIZE FURTHER FOR WORLD'S GOOD

Movement To Spread Throughout Non-English-Speaking Nations.

STANDS FOR PEACE

Dr. Crawford C. McCullough Cites Duty of Club For the Future.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, June 17.—From the standpoint of Rotary, nationalism as such, has passed away. That was the leading message which the big convention of Rotary international sought to broadcast to the many nations of the world, when the business formally got under way here today. The hundreds of delegates who had gathered from the farthest corners of the earth listened to stirring messages of peace which are calculated to play their part in forestalling the possibility of another great world conflict.

The first day of the convention was labelled "International Day" and the general purpose of that was to listen to the prominent Rotarians from nations as far scattered as New Zealand and Uruguay, the United States and Belgium, and to gather from the stories of the progress of Rotary in the different nations a little of the inspiration of the new doctrine of business relations which has for its aim the fostering of an international peace which cannot be broken.

There were plenty of messages and plenty of Rotary inspiration, and perhaps one of the most cheering of them all, from the standpoint of continued peace, was the announcement of Dr. Crawford C. McCullough of Port William, past president of Rotary international, to the effect that the organization has high hopes that within the next year there will be twenty new clubs in non-English speaking nations. That, he declared, is what Rotary can hope to accomplish its greatest good, for now that the spirit of Rotary has caught on so freely in the United States, Great Britain and Canada, its greatest duty in the future lies in its spread into other nations. At present, four-fifths of Rotary are in the countries speaking the English language, and three-quarters are in the United States.

In addition there was the address of Guy Gundaker, president of Rotary international, who pointed out that the idea has spread rapidly through his country, and that it has accomplished great good in bringing

Phonofilm Demonstrates First Real Achievement of Talking Pictures

Invention Actually Records Sound As Film Is Being Produced.

AT THE MAJESTIC

New Wonder Will Be Shown At Each Performance During Week.

The program at the Majestic Theatre last night was of less than half an hour's duration, but it was as surprising as it was brief.

The DeForest Phonofilm, shown free of charge through the courtesy of the theatre management, is the first really successful achievement in synchronism of sound and action in "talking pictures." Other attempts have resulted only in a sort of gramophone accompaniment for the film, an arrangement by which it was possible to secure only an excuse for synchronism.

The phonofilm, however, actually records the sound as the film is being produced, and the difference between the finished product as demonstrated last night and previous attempts is as day and night.

The audience sees a moving picture of a man in dinner clothes, his lips moving in speech. From the moving picture comes a sound like that of a gramophone record of his speech. He is giving a scientific explanation of the DeForest Phonofilm. By watching the man's lips as they hear the sound, the audience can tell that the two come identically together. The program which follows is made up of orchestral numbers, dances, and instrumental solos shown in moving picture. As they are shown the sound is reproduced for the audience by means of the amplifier. As in the effect of the man's speech, the audience can plainly tell that the two are produced together.

Is Amazing.
The radio has left a modern audience almost so that nothing surprises it, yet the audience last night was amazed and bewildered. In every detail it could be seen without shadow of a doubt that sound and picture were produced simultaneously; the lip movements, speakers, or the fingers of musicians demonstrated it beyond question.

The future holds undoubtedly great development for the phonofilm. The spoken word may never be necessary in the silent drama, but it has wonderful educational possibilities. When one considers the clearness of actual speech, it is even conceivable that all our future orators and statesmen will speak through the film and not from the hustings. The saving in pulman expenses and public dinners would be enormous.

The phonofilm is a striking medium for dancing. Dancing on the screen is seldom, if ever, effective. With the Phonofilm and the musical accompaniment, it was vivid, as though the dancers were actually in the room. The pictures shown last night included three dances, a classic dance, "The Bubble," an Egyptian dance, and a Spanish dance. Other numbers were mostly of an orchestral nature, selected in the main to demonstrate the perfect synchronism, which is after all the most amazing feature of the discovery. Its develop-

Of last year's order, six were put on the Toronto-Montreal runs, and when the new engines are ready for regular service approximately nine more will be put in commission on the territory west of Montreal, and the old order of operation altered so that the entire Canadian run on Chicago trains will be made with but one change of engines at Belleville. It is anticipated that the change will go into effect in a short time, and in anticipation of it 120 miles of

EVIDENCE UPHOLDS SUICIDE THEORY

Pathologist Would Show Bullet Was Fired by Hand of Victim.

ADJOURN HEARING

Special to The Advertiser
By a Staff Reporter.

Listowel, June 17.—That the late William Hone, Elm Township, farmer and cattle dealer, who was found dead at his home on May 28, with a bullet wound through his head, committed suicide and was not the victim of foul play seems to be the consensus of opinion of those who listened to the evidence presented before Coroner James Moore and a jury here yesterday.

Following the exhuming of the body for the second time in order that Dr. George Wilson, pathologist from Toronto, might perform an autopsy, the inquest sat for the remainder of the day without all the witnesses being called. An adjournment has been granted until Wednesday, June 25, to allow the crown to call further witnesses and to continue his investigations.

Suspicions that the deceased had been murdered were considerably lessened by the testimony of Dr. Wilson, who declared positively that the bullet that killed William Hone had been fired from close range, despite the lack of any trace of singeing of the hair or of powder marks on the scalp. Also by the evidence given by Mr. James Bailey, who lives on a farm adjoining Hone's, who stated that his neighbor had spoken to him of domestic troubles and had made threats to take his own life.

Smokeless Powder.
The absence of powder marks on the head has been explained by the fact that the cartridge used might have been of the smokeless variety, although this has not yet been determined.

"If it was not smokeless powder and fired at close range I would expect singeing," declared Dr. Wilson. "If a smokeless powder was not used I do not think that the deceased would be able to fire far enough back to prevent singeing, but if the smokeless kind was used firing at close range would not necessarily cause singeing," he said.

The extensive fracturing of the skull which was found during the two examinations were all caused by the accident, declared Dr. Wilson. "Hone had an abnormally thin skull," he said. "It was not more than two-thirds the thickness of an ordinary man's skull." As to the size of the hole in the head being larger than the live bullet found in the gun which was supposed to have been used, Dr. Wilson stated that it was not unusual for a bullet to cause a larger wound than its own dimensions.

Mr. James Bailey told of several visits to his home of the late Mr. Hone, during which Hone urged him to buy his farm. "He told me he couldn't run his farm any longer, for his wife wouldn't come and keep house for him. He said the farm had been shovelled on by the evening before the mortgage, and unless he got rid of it before seeding time he would shoot himself. He seemed in very low spirits. In fact, he broke down while he was talking to me," stated Mr. Bailey.

WANT AD TIPS

GIVE YOUR ADDRESS, TOO

A great many people are not telephone subscribers, yet they may be just as interested in the article your Want Ad offers as though they were. The Jones family are just such folks. In need of a kitchen range a few days ago, they scanned the Want Ads. Two ranges were offered. The advertiser of one gave only her phone number. The second advertiser gave both phone number and address.

Mrs. Jones took the family car in the afternoon and rode out to buy a range. She went first to the advertiser whose Want Ad gave an address. Naturally, she did. Calling the other range advertiser would have meant troubling a neighbor or patronizing a drug-store booth. Also, like many who use the telephone infrequently, Mrs. Jones doesn't like phone conversations, and avoids them when she can.

She answered first the Want Ad with an address. The range suited, and the price was right. "Why look any farther?" Mrs. Jones reasoned. Ar. bought.

The advertiser's address takes up little space in any Want Ad, yet those few words often will be sales-makers. Buying any of various things, many readers take the attitude: "We'll go to see. We won't take the trouble to phone, because before buying we would wish to see the article anyway." So they jump into the car and are away—first, to the advertisers whose addresses are given. And, if your Want Ad gives an address, you are likely to receive a visit.

The name in addition to the address often helps out, too. Replying to your Want Ad, an inquirer finds as he gets to the block, that he has forgotten the exact number. However, he has your name, and his dilemma is easily solved. All he has to do is to stop at the first house and ask where "Mr. Stone" lives. That's a lot better than having to ask "Who has a kitchen range to sell in this block?"

Little things like these do increase Want Ad results.

CIVIC GOLF COURSE
WORK IS COMPLETED

Many Members Take Advantage and Commence Play For Season.

Thames Valley golf course, London's municipally promoted golfing grounds, has already experienced considerable popularity. Following the successful opening of Saturday, Monday and Tuesday brought out many members to take up the game.

On both Monday and Tuesday, there were some forty members out in togs playing at one hour or another. Most of the players so far have been members, and only one or two others have taken up the game at the city course.

Membership is slowly but rather steadily increasing, and non-members will be charged half a dollar a day for playing on the course.

The final work of clearing the course has been completed since Saturday, and further work will be chiefly maintenance. The trees, shrubbery and weeds cleaned out from the north bank of the Thames have made great changes. Besides being a fine course for golfing, the grounds are considered to have as pretty environs as any course in the country.

URGED AT CONFERENCE

Report at Toronto Gathering Leads to Interesting Debate.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 17.—An exchange of Canadian ministers with preachers from other countries was advocated in the report of the ministerial section of the Toronto Methodist Conference, which was carried by an overwhelming majority today.

The report caused a lively debate on the question of the importation
by Canadian churches of preachers from outside Canada. The conference made it plain that it had no objection to these ministers, but several speakers stressed the point that Canadians should be sent to other countries.

Rev. W. B. Smith of Saint Ste-
Marie and Rev. J. S. Cook and Rev.
I. G. Bowles of Toronto spoke along these lines. Rev. Mr. Smith said: "I welcome such men as Dr. Gafford and Dr. Trevor Davies of Toronto to our Canadian pulpits. They are an enriching influence in our ministry,
but I think we should have an exchange with other countries."

Dr. Wardie Stafford stated that a number of Canadians were already serving in British churches and missions. Some hymns were protested against the limiting of the rights of congregations to call in outsiders.

BOARD OF HEALTH WILL CHANGE PLUMBING LAW

Changes in Bylaw Will Be Made by Board of Health.

MANY OBJECTIONS

Measure Is Object of Animated Discussion At Special Meeting.

London's plumbing bylaw was the object of an animated discussion last night at a special meeting of the board of health and representatives of the master plumbers, the Real Estate Owners' Association and several aldermen.

For ambiguity this bylaw is now in the opinion of many of those present taking precedence of the franchise bylaw, and the interpretation of the 50 odd clauses was the cause of some acrimonious and some witty comment
last night.

The interpretation of the word plumber in the application form for a permit, around which a battle of philologists has already raged, was settled by John Eggett, of the firm of Eggett & Company, plumbers, who told the board that he had always taken it to mean a real plumber in the sense of the man who earns his living by doing plumbing work. There had been an impression before that the word plumber might be understood to mean the owner of the house in which the plumbing was being done.

Plumber Means Plumber.
"We have always considered that plumber meant plumber," said Mr.
Eggett, "and our firm never installs any plumbing fixture that we do not supply ourselves."

"Do you mean that you would refuse to put in a fixture unless you sold it yourself?" asked Alderman Bottrill.

"I certainly do."
"Then all I can say is that the sooner you are out of business the better. The city has too many of your kind already," returned the alderman for London West.

A large number of objections to the bylaw were registered and recorded by the board, which will go into them at some other time and make such changes as may be possible, keeping in mind the fact that the sanction of the provincial authorities must always be obtained to any amendments.

Alderman Towse suggested that a solution of the difficulty would be to retain the bylaw as written and have a board of revision or repeal with the power of granting special permission for certain work where the letter of the bylaw would work a hardship on any individual or serve no great benefit to the city.

Discussion Keen.
On the question of the venting of sinks the discussion was particularly keen. Clause 47 states that where a sink is moved from the kitchen to any other part of the house and used for washing purposes it must be vented and one of the master plumbers told the board that this meant what he considered an unnecessary expense of some $15 to $25.

The bylaw, however, goes on to say that where a sanitary washbasin is installed no vent is necessary, so that all the plumber has to do in this case is to sell the owner a new sanitary washbasin and that meets the requirements.

Alderman Bottrill asked the plumb-ing inspector whether he would pass the plumbing in the Institute of Public Health, as he understood that there were not as many vents on the fixtures as the bylaw demanded. Mr.
Young replied that he would not pass any plumbing in any building not in accord with the city bylaw requirements. Several plumbers present stated that the work in the institute was up to the requirements.

Pleads For Leeway.
Adam Palmer pleaded for a little leeway for the plumbing inspector in the administration of the bylaw.

"You have a cast iron bylaw," he said, "that hinders and hinders in the work of many a plumber in the city."
This was taken exception to by some of the master plumbers present and Chairman Mitchell.

Just why the bylaw should be at several points under the supervision of the officer of health was the question frequently raised by Ald. Bot-trill.

"What the city wants in this by-law," he said, "as in any other by-law, is economy together with safety, if Dr. H. W. Hill of the Institute of Public Health says there is no danger from sewer gas, then all these innumerable vents are just so much extra expense for which there is no need, and the public is paying for something they are as well without."

Inspector Young in answer declared that while there might be no immediate sickness in exposure to sewer gas, it would inevitably result in lowered vitality for anyone constantly exposed to it. Quoting from an authority he said that simplicity, good material, accessibility and good workmanship were the essentials of all good plumbing.

Former County Clerk At Hearst Rushes Into Bush.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 17.—Sized at midnight last Friday with violent insanity, J. L. O'Donnell, until recently county clerk and crown lands agent at Hearst, Ont., rushed shrieking into the dense northern Ontario
bush and has not since been found.

The case was reported in Hearst on Saturday and bands of district rangers made unsuccessful efforts to track the late official. Upon their failure, word was immediately sent to the attorney-general's department at the parliament buildings here, and provincial police will begin a thorough search.

giving of three cheers for her by the Patriarchs Militant.

WINNIPEG CELEBRATES 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Western City Will Assume Gala Appearance For Event Today.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, June 17.—Winnipeg celebrates its 50th anniversary tomorrow.
In honor of the event the city will assume a gala appearance, and with a civic holiday declared, its greater population of approximately 250,000 will in one way or another participate in the jubilee celebrations.

The citizen will be aroused in the morning with a boom of cannon,
which launches the day's festivities.
A profusion of flags and bunting are already in abundant evidence, and with business corporations, service clubs, fraternal organizations and other institutions joining in the parade, seldom unsurpassed for pomp and magnificence in the history of the city, the actual celebrations will get under way.

More than 150 floats, graphically depicting the growth of the city since the days of the Red River carts until the present time, will pass along Main street.

The afternoon will be devoted to sports, while in the evening an open-air dance, including reels and jigs, popular in the pioneer days, will be held.

The day's celebration will be brought to a close with numerous functions, the principal of which will be a civic banquet tendered to old-time residents of the city.

LABOR ADVOCATES CHANGE IN POLICY

J. H. Thomas Declares
Present Situation Plan Is Alarming.

PREFERENTIAL PLAN

Associated Press Despatch.
London, June 17.—The long anticipated debate on the imperial preference resolutions adopted by the last economic conference in London opened tonight in the House of Commons.
The preference resolutions come before the House in consequence of the undertaking given by the premier that they would be submitted to the free vote of the members.

The debate, which will continue tomorrow, was sustained through the greater part of the evening at a high level and was free from party bickering and irrelevant interruptions.
Sir Philip James, first Viscount, former president of the board of trade, opening the debate, devoted his attention to the first conference resolutions concerning the free importations of dried fruits, his first point being that this kind of preference would encourage small holdings in the dominions for ex-service men.

Oppose Subsidies.
Preference, not subsidies, was the right policy, he said, adding that subsidies had to be raised entirely by the British taxpayer. He maintained that they afforded less security to the dominion exporter and would also have to be given to the home producer. Sir Philip claimed that the Canadian government had increased the British preference as a reciprocal act, Great Britain raising the cattle embargo. There was some discussion when in his peroration he spoke of "the lost dominion of the United States," averring that the dominion was lost because Great Britain failed to give consideration to the best interests of the empire.

J. H. Thomas, secretary for the colonies, who followed, immediately fastened on what had been said about the cattle embargo. He said:
"If it means anything at all in the present connection it means that we who are free traders, brought tremendous pressure on the protectionists and did something to cheapen food here." As for the "lost dominion of the United States," it was the first time he had ever heard it connected with preferences. Any disappointment now felt by the dominions, he said, was entirely due to the deliberate actions of the late government. The dominion ministers were not to believe that the preference proposals represented the mind of the whole country. The verdict of the country was taken, he continued, but the Laborites did not precipitate that fight.

Passing on to ask what the dominions themselves thought of this question, the colonial secretary quoted Hon. Ernest Lapointe at Ottawa to the effect that Canada was giving Great Britain a preference of her own free will. He drew appreciative cheers from the Conservative benches. "But mainly because it suited Canada to do so," continued Mr. Thomas, still quoting Mr.
Lapointe. The finish of the sentence drew delighted cheers and laughter from the ministerial side.

Canada Not Insulted.
Mr. Thomas proceeded to quote
Hon. G. P. Graham in the same debate in the Canadian parliament that "Canadians believed, and it had turned out to be true, that a preference to the mother country would mainly benefit their own country. (Loud Labor and Liberal cheers.)"

"Does it not fairly indicate," asked Mr. Thomas, "that it is not only unwise but untrue to suggest that the dominions look upon the preference to the mother country as an insult to herself?"

Mr. Thomas, after deprecating the making of an empire development party matter, proceeded to speak of the necessity of improving the imperial conferences so that they would be really representative of all the opinion in the countries concerned.

Was it fair, he asked, to bring dominion statesmen here for weeks and months, and then when they returned to their own country to find that their proposals for some reason or other have been rejected by the people here? "Would it not help," he asked, "towards the real unity of the empire if we took into such councils, not merely the premiers and ministers for the time being, but also the opposition leaders?"

The first difficulty, he knew, would be to get the responsible leaders of the opposition to assume such cesponsibility, for they preferred to leave it to the government in power.

Situation Alarming.
Touching incidentally, but emphatically, on the Canadian side, the debate in the Canadian House of Commons.
Mr. Thomas urged: "There is no one who can read that debate without being not only disturbed, but positively alarmed. Some action to solve the problem must be found. I have discussed it with responsible people from the dominions, who are convinced that some change such as I have indicated is necessary to make the conference more real and effective than in the past."

Mr. Thomas passed on to mention the objections of Premier King to the proposals for establishing an economic committee of the empire because the terms of the reference were too wide. It would give the committee a roving commission. Mr. Thomas said the government was prepared, if the dominions wished it, to consider, to consider the appointment of a committee on different lines.

Sir John Simon, who spoke for the Liberal free traders, maintained that the preference system as practiced in the dominions was quite different from the preference Britain is now asked to adopt.

"We impose no import taxes except for revenue," he said. "But the dominions adopt a high tariff wall as the very basis of their fiscal system."
The preference given by the dominions, he said, "tended to decrease expenses to their own consumers, whereas the preference given by Great Britain tended to increase its own consumers' burden."
The food taxes were the most objectionable of each. He referred to the British chancellor of the exchequer was doing his best to get rid of them. To talk about preferring without food taxes was dodging the issue.

There was no such thing here now as an anti-dominion policy, but a great interlocking system of imperi-
