The Central Drug Store Makes a Special Showing of Seasonable Gifts.

The Central Drug Store is the place. You will find the goods they offer in the Christmas present line the most desirable. There is nothing more pleasing to a lady than a nice bottle of French or American perfume, with which this store is well supplied with all the different grades and odors. Then again a very enjoyable present to a gentleman is a nice box of cigars.

Out glass bottles are also seen in every variety here, while manicure sets and gents' companions abound in the latest goods. Leather goods and miscellaneous fancy goods are also shown to good advantage.

The Central Drug Store is very popular with all classes and only the best drugs are sold. Give the Central Drug Store a call before purchasing; you will find the clerks very gentlemanly and courteous and it is not necessary to buy.

AWFUL BOER ATROCITIES

Unarmed and Wounded British Soldiers Killed at Close Range.

Result of Kitchener's Investigation—Canada's Noble 600 Sail Jan. 10.

London, Dec. 12. — The War Office issued a statement to-night dealing with the Boer treatment of Col. Benson's wounded at Brakenlaaghe, which is the result of a special investigation of the matter instituted by Lord Kitchener.

The statement sets forth that eighteen officers and men of Col. Benson's command were kindly and even carefully treated by the Boers, while the remaining 75 men, who were examined testified that they witnessed and suffered atrocities worse than those which followed the Vlakfontein disaster. These latter said the unarmed and wounded men lying around the guns were killed at close range, and that the survivors of the engagement suffered torture, being robbed and stripped of their clothing in spite of their wounds and broken limbs.

Lord Kitchener says that evidently the Boer leaders are no longer able to suppress murder and outrage on the part of their subordinates.

THE NOBLE SIX HUNDRED.

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—The militia department has been advised that the troopships Manhattan and Victorian will be at Halifax on Jan. 7th, and that troops will sail for South Africa on the 10th. Sixteen men left Ottawa to-day for Halifax, where they will meet other members of Col. Evans' six hundred. The men were given a great send-off by hundreds of people and the scenes enacted when other troops left the capital were re-enacted.

FOR CHRISTMAS

Miss Cooksley's Large Millinery Establishment on fete for Holiday Season.

Where are you going to buy your Christmas hat? This question should not be very difficult for any Maple City lady to answer when there are so many millinery stores to make their choice from. Among the first of these is that owned and managed by Miss Cooksley, who has one advantage over others in that she carries no other stock but millinery wear, and gives her whole attention to this one line of goods. She has also the largest and one of the best selected stocks in the Maple City, and persons wishing to purchase hats during the Christmas season should not fail to give her a call before they make their purchases. Already a large number of hats have been sold as Christmas gifts, and no one leaves the store without being perfectly satisfied.

Miss Cooksley has been in Chatham for five years, two of these years being spent in Ham's, the stand now occupied by the Northway Company. During the time she has been here she has established herself as a first class milliner and her hats are eagerly sought after.

As she makes a practice of never carrying over any of her hats from one season to another, the stock is at present greatly reduced. The hats this season were picked up faster than usual and those remaining are of the very latest styles. A large number of silk or satin ribbons are shown, suitable for neckwear or waist trimming. These are sold very readily. Also a large number of breast effects in all colors, which are very popular this year.

In children's hats a large number of wool hoods are still left and are being sold at remarkably low prices, the lowest price being 25 cents. They are reduced so that they will not be carried over. The ready-to-wear hats are also reduced in price and are perfection in style. These are all suitable for winter wear. Chiffons, jets, birds, etc., are also shown in large quantities.

Miss Cooksley's reputation as a milliner is so well established that it is hardly necessary to say that everything to be found in her store is stylish, up-to-date, seasonable and becoming.

READY FOR WORK.

A. M. Dowseley, of the Dowseley Spring and Axle Co., arrived in the city from Owen Sound yesterday.

"The factory here will be in full operation before the end of the year," he told The Planet in a short interview. "The work of putting in the plant has progressed with all possible despatch consistent with stability."

"The axle plant will now be running in a few days, while the spring plant will be ready next week."

Mr. Dowseley has many good words to say of the Maple City and its enterprise. "Chatham has a future before it," he confidently declares.

GOES TO THE RATEPAYERS

A By-law Securing Welland-Vale Factory Secures Sanction.

City Council Promptly Pass Initial Readings—its Text Published To-day.

The by-law granting to J. D. Chaplin, representative of Welland-Vale Wheel Co., the loan of $25,000, exemption from ordinary taxes for 10 years and 6,000 gallons of water was passed at a special meeting of the City Council held yesterday afternoon.

There were present the Mayor and Aldermen Fleming, Edmondson, Marshall, Mounteer, McCaig, Scane and Cowan.

The Mayor, in opening the meeting, stated that it had been called to give the by-law its first and second readings. He also read a letter from City Treasurer Fleming stating that the Welland-Vale Mfg. Co., per J. D. Chaplin, had signed an agreement that they were willing to fulfill the terms of the by-law and that Mr. Chaplin had deposited a check for $500 as a guarantee.

Ald. Cowan stated that even if the company received inducements from other places that would more than repay their forfeiting the $500, the company could still be held by the agreement they had signed.

The Mayor called attention to the fact that although the debentures would have to be sold to the value of $1,839.55 per annum, still the company paid in each year the sum of $1,250 and all the city had to pay was the difference, namely, $589.55.

The Council was moved into a committee of the whole and the Mayor asked Alderman McCaig to take the chair. In filling in the number of gallons allowed Ald. Cowan stated that the company had asked for 3,000 gallons, but probably would not use half that quantity. Three thousand gallons would cost the city 30 cents so that even if the company do use the whole amount it would not cost the city very much.

The first debentures will be issued on October 1, 1902.

The by-law will be published in The Planet and a copy of the by-law will be mailed to every ratepayer.

WRITE IT CHRISTMAS.

The Planet is glad to see that potent and energetic journal, the Hamilton Spectator, come out in vigorous advocacy of the abolition of the use of the word "Xmas."

As well, as has been pointed out, talk about the Xian church, the Xian nations and the Xian religion.

Christmas has a sacred significance in its origin and observance. Why not seek to give this permanent prominence by embodying in full the holy title.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chatham has a great, big, hearty, grateful handshake coming to three of her splendid sons, Messrs. Manson Campbell, G. P. Schofield and John Pigott.

As a result of their personal sacrifice, indomitable energy and sterling hustling qualities, her Council yesterday passed a by-law, under the provisions of which a prosperous and enterprising firm have pledged themselves to erect and operate a gigantic factory here.

This trio of citizens — representatives of the Board of Trade — acted as soon as they learned of the intention of the industry to locate. They travelled to the present headquarters of the concern at their own expense and earnestly set before the gentlemen at head the advantages of this thriving city.

The result has been what they deserved. Chatham owes much to citizens of the Campbell, Schofield and Pigott stamp. And she is grateful.

CHRISTMAS CHEER.

The Planet is in receipt of the following communication from the lady president of the Hospital Assisting Society.

It should commend itself to the consideration of the citizens:—

"As the holiday season is now at hand and we all think of the Christmas cheer for our own homes, let us not forget those confined in our hospitals; and let each one send some little tokens of Christmas cheer. Nurses are there who would enjoy a happy home Christmas, but duty keeps them in the hospital with those who are more unfortunate in being ill during this festive season. Florists, do not forget the flowers. Grocers, groceries of every description. Merchants, sheets, pillow cases, towels, tablecloths, napkins, tray cloths, etc. From our friends in the country, fowl, meats, vegetables, dairy produce, etc.

"The above list is offered as suggestive of what we always need, and we hope that men may find it a help in their selection of donations.

"From our lady friends who have so generously aided us in the past, we suggest preserves, jellies, canned fruits, catsup, chili sauce, pickles, etc., as well as the ever welcome money.

"Owing to the recently increased capacity of the hospital, which necessitated a greater number of nurses, the Ladies Assisting Society were obliged this summer to enlarge the Nurses' Home, and as we still have a small liability to meet, money will be very thankfully received by this society.

"Parties sending donations of money will kindly address it to Mrs. W. A. Thrasher, treasurer, L. A. S., or leave it to Mr. Macdonald's store, King St. All other donations sent to the Public General Hospital, in care of Miss Johnston, superintendent."

PIOUS WRATH.

The Hamilton Spectator says:—The Westminster of this week has nothing, directly, to say about its proposal that the premier of Ontario

YOUR FOOTSTEPS

By the depth of his footstep in the earth the Indians tell the weight of a man. Do you tread shallow or deep? Perhaps you would like to weigh more? If you are below weight and find that ordinary food does not build you up try Scott's Emulsion.

It is not a drug but a food that time has shown to have a real value in such cases as yours.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronto.

should refuse to do what he solemnly promised to do. But our glorious contemporary is worthy. The remarks of the secular press upon the Westminster's extraordinary attitude have annoyed it, and it pours out a vial of wrath. The Westminster finds that Canadian journalism—secular journalism, of course—is "degenerating," that "the forces are at work which make for the hell of the yellow journal;" that "the prostitution of a great privilege to personal or party ends is the darkening course of Canadian journalism." Our pious contemporary uses forceful language, and it is so intent upon castigating the bad secular journals that it does not see that almost every accusation it makes against them lies against itself. One of the most remarkable of our worthy contemporary's utterances is this: "No public journal can afford to bear the reputation of untruthfulness or of cowardice." That is true. But it sounds odd coming from a journal which has advised the Hon. Mr. Ross to "untruthfulness or cowardice," or both. Perhaps the Westminster thinks that while a secular journal cannot afford to be untruthful or cowardly, a pious journal may advise a public man to forget his promise and sneak out of the position into which that promise put him. Perhaps it imagines that while a newspaper may not profitably be a cowardly liar, the premier of Canada's greatest province may—indeed, should.

FAITHFUL CITIZENS.

The Jew always becomes a patriotic citizen of the country which he adopts. A service in memory of the Jewish soldiers of the King who have fallen in South Africa was held in London Sunday, and the whole Empire is surprised to learn that 2,000 Jews fought for England in South Africa. Some 325 figured in the casualty lists. Such a record of devotion ought to do much to abolish forever any silly prejudice that yet remains in the English mind against the Jew.

Strong citizens should be urged to candidature for next year's Council. The Maple City is going to have a big year and strong hands will be in demand. What a grand thing it would be to have Mr. Manson Campbell, Mr. G. P. Schofield or Mr. Jno. Pigott presiding as chairman of the civic industrial committee.

Stead is in very ill repute just now with his own countrymen. He lives at Wimbledon, where the poet, Swinburne, also resides. Not long ago the pro-Boer journalist went for a walk on the Surrey downs, and chancing to meet Swinburne, who is intensely anti-Boer, he accosted the poet. The poet stared at him, failing to recognize him, whereupon Stead said, "I am W. T. Stead." "Oh," said Swinburne in a tone of withering disgust, "Are you Stead? I thought it crawled!"—Toronto News.

Nay, Algernon, rather what should crawl walks in Stead.

Elect Officers and Hold
Brilliant Banquet.

At a Regular meeting of Wellington Chapter, No. 47, B. A. M., G. R. C., held in Masonic Hall last evening, the officers for the ensuing Masonic year were duly elected. Previous to the election considerable business of a routine nature was transacted and the M. M. degree conferred in a very creditable manner indeed. Wellington Chapter has had a most successful year, and is to be highly congratulated upon the progress made. The gentlemen who will occupy the respective chairs during 1902 are as follows:

Z.—L. E. Tillson.
I. P. Z.—W. B. Benson.
H.—George Massey.
J.—George Crumb.
S. E.—Alex. Gregory.

Treas.—Robt. Riddell.
P. S.—W. J. Kenny.
Janitor—Fred Bates.

Grand Superintendent Polson and a number of other distinguished Royal Arch Masons from all over the district were in attendance.

At the conclusion of the meeting the companions adjourned to the Hotel Merrill, where a magnificent banquet had been provided. The dining hall was tastefully draped and decorated with bunting and foliage and the menu was an exceedingly fine one.

Excellent Companion W. H. Benson presided over the following splendid toast list:

The King—God Save the King.
Grand Chapter of Canada—Royal Arch Masons—Com. Scullard and Sullivan.
The M. W. of the G. M., and G. O. of the G. L. of Canada—Com. Jamieson, Black and Bates.

GOOD STORY

It is told Concerning a Diminutive "Turkey" Purchased at Chatham Market.

A country official is telling a good story at the expense of his wife. The lady purchased a turkey, small but nice looking, at a cost of 40 cents. She was so surprised at the price that she asked the resident rural resident how he could afford to raise turkeys at that figure. The secret has been revealed. The alleged turkey was cooked on Monday, but it couldn't be carved. It was cooked each successive day this week, until to-day the discovery was made that the bird wasn't a turkey at all, but a Shanghai rooster of ancient lineage and birth. It must have been a pioneer in the chicken world and the only satisfaction that the purchaser has is that it was evidently healthy because it lived so long.

WELLSMAN-YUNCK RECITAL

Merr Weisman Yunk, concert violinist, will be the violinist at the Wellsman-Yunk concert on Tuesday evening next, Dec. 16th, at the Grand Opera House.

Mr. Yunk's name is known throughout the continent as an artist of the highest rank, and a rich treat will be in store for the many who will attend this concert.

For years Mr. Yunk was concert master in one of the largest orchestras in Germany, and since taking up his residence in America he has won the highest laurels as a violin artist.

Mr. Yunk's program will consist of a number of solos, and also ensemble pieces, piano and violin. The ensemble numbers alone will be well worth the admission, as two such artists as Mr. Weisman and Mr. Yunk will seldom be heard together again in Chatham.

Plan opens at Central Drug Store on Monday a. m., Dec. 16th.

The Times Correspondent at Pretoria, estimates the Boers in the field as still numbering from eight to ten thousand, but adds that for fighting purposes they must be estimated as numbering twenty thousand exceedingly mobile troops.

When you ask for a five cent cigar you want the best. Try our "King Buffalo" and you will smoke another.

TELEGRAPH

Riots of a very serious nature are taking place in Cadiz.

Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht, Shamrock II., was nearly destroyed by fire at New York.

Mr. Brodick, in a speech at Glasgow, declared that any future negotiations must emanate from the enemy.

Dr. P. S. Snider, of Waterford, was nominated for the Legislative Assembly by the Conservatives of North Simcoe.

The balloon used by Marconi in his wireless telegraphy experiments in New Foundland, broke away and was lost.

Another fierce gale is sweeping the English Channel. A Belgian fishing boat foundered in the North Sea and fourteen persons were drowned.

The coroner's jury at Quebec returned a verdict of murder against Odilon Gregoire for killing Edmond Landry at Thetford Mills, with a hammer.

Answering a protest against the export of horses to South Africa, the Hungarian Premier said that the British nation was entitled to esteem.

== IONE ==

A Broken Love Dream.

—BY—
LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

To Arthur Rochester those hours that passed were like the agonies of death.

Another week of torture passed, and again, upon being approached, Lyons refused to speak.

"I will use my last inducement," said the detective, as he started for Lyons' cell.

It was a shock to Lyons when he discovered the double charge on which he was to be tried — for that murder committed in Pittsburgh — on that bitter winter night, as well as for the abduction of Ione Lawrence.

"It will be all up with me anyhow," he told himself, with a laugh horrible to hear, "and if I have to face the gallows, it will be a glorious revenge to me that I will carry the secret down to the grave with me. Arthur Rochester will never find his darling."

The trial of Frank Lyons was one of the most celebrated that was ever tried in the metropolis, owing to his hitherto high social position.

He was found guilty of murder, and sentenced to be hanged.

On the morning the whole city was startled by the news of his daring escape. For time no one could find the slightest clue as to how it had been effected; and, at last, it came out that an old friend of Lyons' had aided him, by securing with influential aid, a position in the prison, and had slipped him the keys that had unlocked the doors to freedom.

"We will capture him sooner or later," declared the chief, energetically. "Our men will be active in the search, the reward is so great."

"It will not matter much," replied Arthur Rochester, gloomily. "He would not divulge Miss Lawrence's whereabouts. He would take the secret into the grave with him." The chief smiled.

"Rest assured he has gone directly to Miss Lawrence," he said; "and by tracking him down, we shall be sure to find her."

But when a fortnight rolled by, and he was not yet traced—nor even the faintest clue to his whereabouts discovered—then, indeed, did Arthur begin to despair. His friends advised him to abandon the search, but he refused.

"Never!" he cried. "I shall never rest, day or night, until I have solved the terrible problem."

When Frank Lyons found himself free, he lost no time in leaving New York city; and, contrary to expectations, he did not go near Ione, but made his way at once to Boston, waiting there for an ocean steamer which he knew would sail early the following week.

"I can never take Ione with me. They are watching me too closely for that," he thought, as he watched the tall spires of the city fade away in the distance of the on-coming night. "I will leave her where she is for a month or so; and when the excitement has partially blown over, return for her. It is perfectly safe leaving her where she is. She cannot escape!"

Taking an ocean steamer had been a very clever plan; but executing it was not so easy. He found each and every one under close surveillance of the police.

"It would never do to remain in Boston," he concluded; and made preparations to take the evening train to an interior town, quite off the main line, and accessible only by stage.

He did not feel quite safe until the train was under headway, steaming out of Boston.

Perhaps there is no sensation in life more terrible than the knowledge a man has that there is a price on his head—the feeling that he is hunted like a wild beast, that the man who gives him to eat or drink looks in his face, and, if he knew him, would betray him. Lyons' bravery was lessening. He had grown nervous from continual pursuit.

And in that hour in which he was leaving Boston a terrible depression came over him. His vile, adventurous life, full of evil deeds, rose before him, and he owed to himself the truth of those words, that there was no hell so terrible to any man as the reproach of his own conscience.

Night was setting in with sullen sultriness, presaging a coming storm. Night fell over the beautiful city he was leaving, over the blue sea beyond and the golden sands; night, with a lowering sky and rising wind, in which the shrill whistle of the departing train was heard more plainly than ever.

Silence fell over the land, broken only by the boding voice of the coming storm.

More than one man on that ill-fated train felt the strange depression—a half warning—a presentiment of coming evil.

As the train reached the first station, it was by some unaccountable reason found to be twenty minutes behind time.

The fireman heaped more coal into the furnace, watching covertly out of the corners of his eyes the engineer, John Doan, who stands thoughtfully before the whist, with his hand on the lever, while the train, puffing and panting, dashes on through the darkness of the night.

And as he looked, the engine whirled with lightning-like rapidity around an abrupt curve. There was a terrible hoarse cry from the engineer.

"My God!" he cried. "Look there! There is a log across the track to wreck the train! In an instant we will be down upon it!"

with an effort born of intense horror, he whistled down brakes. Would it be too late? All the agony of a lifetime was crowded into the awful moment that followed.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

Quick as a lightning's flash the train whirled around the fatal curve where the dark object lay across the track, and terrible was the crash that followed.

It was the greatest holocaust known for years. People always spoke of it afterward with a shudder. There was fearful loss of life; scores were mangled, scores wounded unto death.

Luckily a village was near, and the unfortunates were quickly carried thither as soon as they were extricated from the debris of the wreck; among them was Frank Lyons.

He had been taken to the nearest house, a farm-house; and soon the farmer's wife was busy in making him as comfortable as his intense pain would permit him to be.

"Will he die, doctor?" asked the good woman, looking up into the physician's face as she followed him out into the hall.

"His head is not injured, but his spine is broken," was the answer. "Then there is no hope for him," said the farmer's wife.

"Not the slightest," was the reply. "You will have little to do," he went on, "but your work will be tiresome. The young man utterly refuses to believe that he lies in any danger. There is no earthly aid for him. There is nothing to do but to watch him, cheer him, soothe him. Give him wine, brandy, cordial, but make him understand, as soon as possible, that he has to die! Men hear such news better from women than from us. He may last till sundown to-morrow," he added; "not longer."

So human lives are measured off. Then the doctor went away, and the farmer's wife returned to her patient, and, turning down the night-lamp, was about to resume her watch by his bedside, when he called out to her suddenly.

"Don't lower the light. I never could endure darkness. What was that I heard the doctor saying to you? It is their business to croak and make people miserable."

"He has left me a difficult task," said the farmer's wife, gently. "They always leave the hardest part to other people," said the sick man, grimly. "What is your task?"

"To give my message to you," she replied. "But, perhaps I need not fear. Brave men do not fear death. You may be brave."

"You look as though you believe me seriously injured," he said, impatiently. "Such nonsense! I would not believe the doctor if he said so; would you? Do I look like a man likely to die?"

"I cannot tell. The doctor is wiser than I. He believes you will. You are not afraid of death?"

"I am not quite sure whether I am or not," he said. "I have never troubled myself to think much about it. I have never realized it. If I thought, really, that I had to die, there is—"

He stopped abruptly.

"If you thought you had to die, there are matters you would attend to?" she said.

He nodded.

"Yes, if I were sure I was to die," he repeated at length; then he began to fail, and understood that it was indeed death.

HOMEMADE JELLIES.

HOW A CLEVER WOMAN CREATED A DEMAND AND FILLED IT.

A Profitable Use Made of the Farm's Surplus Fruits—She Has Become an Expert Jelly Maker and It Pays Something Now.

One city woman has found life on a small farm enabled her to add materially to her income by utilizing products that otherwise might have been brought but little. A few years ago Mr. and Mrs. H. H. S. Rowell moved to Vine Hill, near Lake Minnetonka, building their home on a small farm already well planted with fruit. They had a taste for country life and chose that to gratify themselves and as affording a desirable environment for their children.

Mr. Rowell's business in the city occupies his time quite fully, but with some hired labor he is able to look after his fruit trees and to keep up a fine garden in his leisure hours. The latter is wholly for his own use, but the former he could not utilize in the way except in small part. In most families, especially of suburbanites, when the men of the family are engaged in other pursuits and merely farm as a side issue and pastime the marketing devolves upon the women of the family.

Mrs. Rowell in considering the matter concluded that it would be easier and simpler to market the fruit product of the place in the form of jellies than to provide a team and take it to market daily. She had had no experience in making jelly except for use in her own home and sometimes found her undertaking a big one, but soon adjusted herself to its wholesale manufacture.

"Before making my first attempt at manufacturing jelly for sale," Mrs. Rowell said, "I went to see several of the leading dealers in this city to inquire if any of them would take homemade jelly and received no encouragement whatever. One seemed much amused at the idea of my thinking I could make enough jelly for him to consider the matter at all. 'You had better make your jelly first before you talk to me,' he said in a manner which implied he did not think I would make more than a dozen or two."

"Strange to say, that dealer has since been my largest patron. I have never seen him since my interview, and I do not think he is aware that he has ever conversed with the woman whose jelly he has been buying."

"I concluded to make the venture notwithstanding, believing a sale could be found for it among private parties if not with dealers. I made 1,121 one-half pint glasses (since then I have always used the one-third pint size), and by the end of November all was sold to private parties and dealers, excepting what was reserved for my own use."

"It was not an easy matter to convince the dealers that they needed any, for they would point to their piles of jelly, which they could buy at a few cents a pound. But ever since then one dealer has taken each year I had to sell him. The most emphatic refusal was from the leading hotel and restaurant, who said they could not afford to pay more than tub jelly prices. The pure food laws are now discouraging the sale of imitation jellies, and I think there will be a much greater demand for pure jellies."

"In making my jelly I am very particular as to the condition and quality of the fruit. It must be either somewhat green or just ripe, but not the slightest degree overripe. Apples must be hand picked to avoid being bruised. Nothing wormy or stale is used. I always try to use fruit the same day it is picked and never use any picked over twenty-four hours. I keep the juice in earthen jars and do not cook in sixteen and eighteen quart granite kettles. I always strain the juice twice and never press the pulp in the least. My method is to cook the fruit with water in the afternoon, through a colander and then put all in a bag and leave it to drip over night. In the morning I strain the juice again and put up to boil. After boiling one-half hour (with any amount under four quarts twenty minutes is sufficient) I add heated sugar and again boil fifteen or ten minutes, according to amount. I stir constantly before jelly begins to boil, both before and after adding sugar; also skim well before and after adding sugar."

"I never need try to see if it has jelled. It is poured into glasses and allowed to stand a few days before covering. The past two years I have used paraffin to cover jelly, but concluded this year to again use white paper under the tin lids. I have heard of others complaining of jelly fermenting when covered with the paraffin and to a slight extent have also had the same experience. Two years ago I made 2,548 glasses and used the paraffin. About four dozen glasses fermented. If any one can tell me why those fermented and all the others did not, I would be very glad to hear of it."

Before her marriage Mrs. Rowell was an expert accountant and uses the same exact methods in her domestic accounts. She said:

"I keep strict account of all jelly made as to amount and cost of fruit, sugar and number of glasses and all other incidental expenses, as fuel, labels, cartage, etc., so that I know exactly each year the average cost per glass of each kind of jelly made. By so doing I am enabled to know just what I can afford to sell the jelly for, an essential point in making it for sale."

The maximum record Mrs. Rowell made in 1899, when she made 2,548 glasses. She began her work of jelly making in 1897.—Minneapolis Journal.

Kindness of Heart.

To be in touch with the finest etiquette is to have kindness of heart. Lack this quality, and no rules of behavior will do you any good. They will be followed while you are thinking of them and departed from in emergencies, says the Chicago Record-Herald. Politeness, after all, is only a matter of common sense. It is not a blind chiding against some one who does not know any more than any one else. Because the French and English never have asparagus any dinner than a heavy walking stick, eat it from their fingers, is no reason why Americans, whose food products vary with the diverse climates in the country, should cease to eat theirs from a fork. Imagine Europeans if they could get our corn on the cob picking it out grain by grain with a fork. It is senseless to follow any style in eating, entertainment or dress that has not for its basis a good, sound system of common sense. Frails of behavior are all right; but, like carving in architecture, they should have something solid beneath them. If they don't have, they will soon fall off, and then what a revelation!

Nervous and Sleepless

Two horrors crowded into one life, the product of poor digestion, and the poisons that are thereby formed within the body. There's just one method of cure for this terrible condition—plenty of food, but mind, food properly digested. That's the difficulty—the digestive power of the stomach which is improved. Rich red blood formed, strength given to the organs to drive out poisons; then comes strength, vigor and endurance. Ferrozone does all this and more; it makes sick people well; weak people strong; Sick Ferrozone and you reap health. Sold by McColl & Co.

Whoever looks for a friend without imperfections will never find what he seeks. We love ourselves with all our faults, and we ought to love our friends in like manner.

There's a story of a farmer and his son driving a load to market. Of the team they were driving one was a steady, reliable old grey mare, and the other a fractious, balky black horse. On the way the wagon was stalled and the black horse balked and refused to move. "What'll we do, father?" said the younger man. "Well," said the father, "I guess we'll have to lay the gad on the old grey." That homely compliment to women? The grey mare's the better horse," suggests how often when there's an extra strain to be borne it is laid on the woman's back. How often she breaks down at last under the added weight of some "last straw." Women who are weary along with life can gain real strength by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts back in concentrated form the strength making material which working women use up more rapidly than the ordinary processes of nourishment and rest. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are universal favorites with women because they are easy to take and thoroughly effective in curing the consequences of constipation.

The most satisfying things in life are love and sympathy; but these, like fame, must come spontaneously and indirectly, if they come at all, and not be sought as a specific end or direct aim in themselves.

Just a Cold in the Head

But if followed by another cold, or some extra exposure, is liable to result in Nasal Catarrh. Unless a radical cure is obtained, the Throat, Bronchitis, and finally the lungs become affected. Nothing cures colds so quickly and pleasantly as Catarrhazine. The Inspector of Mines for Nova Scotia, Mr. Neville, says: "Catarrhazine cured me of Catarrh of the Head and Throat, and I am pleased to recommend such a satisfactory remedy." Catarrhazine is a safeguard against Colds, Coughs and Catarrh. It can be used while at work, in the church, theatre or street cars. Simply inhale Catarrhazine and it cures. Price, $1. CONVALESCENCE.

Convalescence is sometimes merely apparent, not real, and especially is this true after such diseases as pneumonia, typhoid fever, and the grip. To make it real and rapid, there is no other tonic so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

And still suffered the untold sufferings that are a part of some of the more violent phases of Kidney disease. Doctors wouldn't cure, but South American Kidney Cure put him to rights.

Adam Soper, of Hunt's Falls, Ont., was for five years a great sufferer from a most aggravated form of Kidney disease. To use his own words: "I decided to try some of the patent medicines I've recommended to use South American Kidney Cure. I received great benefit from one bottle, and five bottles completely cured me—and there has never been a symptom of kidney disorder since that time."

"BLOTCHY" FACES

How many have to say "My pimply face is the bane of my life." How few would have it to say if they gave Dr. Agnew's Ointment the testing that Mr. Lilly did.

"I have found Dr. Agnew's Ointment the best remedy for pimples and sore faces that I have ever used. I had three trying cases under my care and have cured them with this greatest of skin remedies. All traces of the sores in each case have been cleared off and the skin left as soft as a baby's. I recommend it everywhere."

One of the school trustee canvassers tells a good story on himself. He was calling on the voters the other afternoon and about the middle of the afternoon he discovered that he had a good pair of gloves that didn't belong to him. The candidate thought the must be from the hat house where he had been. The next day a man came into the canvasser's store looking for his gloves. It then became evident that the prospective trustee had carried the gloves nearly all the afternoon. They were secured from the place where they had been left and returned to their legal owner.

Theatrical

Marks Bros. had another bumper house last night, the bill being "The Wife or a Rash Marriage." Miss Esther Evans as Ruth Hedges captivated the house by her splendid acting, while Tom Marks as Old Man Hedges was, as usual, the fun maker of the play, and was all that could be desired. Arnold C. Baldwin and Chris C. Allen did their parts exceedingly well.

After the evening performance to-morrow night the amateur contest will be given. Already about sixteen applications have been received, for which $2.50 in gold will be given by Tom Marks.

NEWSPAPERS

They Form the Basis of an Interesting Debate at the C. C. I. Literary Society.

The Literary Society of the C. C. I. held a meeting yesterday afternoon, at which the following debate was discussed:—"Resolved that newspapers and magazines are anticipators."

The affirmative was taken by Messrs. H. Cockfield and Mr. McQuarrie, and the negative by Misses Ada Wrong and May Alger.

The affirmative won. The honor class acted as judges and Mr. Jewett acted as critic.

Besides the debate, vocal solos were rendered by Miss Burton and W. Hoig, a recitation was given by Miss Fields, and an instrumental duet was rendered by Miss May Taylor and Miss Lena McLean.

A ONE-SIDED BATTLE.

If attacked by a wild beast a man would try and defend himself. If afflicted with rheumatism fight the disease.

With Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure the battle is all one-sided. Thomas Todd, Lockmaster at Brewer's Mills, Ont., suffered for twelve years with rheumatism in his shoulder and at times could not work or dress himself. Eight bottles of Dr. Hall's with Climal Iron Tonic Pills, effected a permanent cure. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Clothing and Cash

Wherever you go, cash is king. Cash gets the corner lot, the fastest horse, the finest fruit. The dollar you pay on the spot has more energy in it than the dollar you undertake to pay next month. It's a law inherent in all barter the world round, and you know it so well that you wonder why we waste good ink talking about a thing so evident.

But how about your clothing? Do you buy it with the strong dollar in hand or the weaker dollar on the bush? One thing is certain—if we gave credit we should have to charge more for the same goods and work. Couldn't help ourselves.
