Frank J. Reilly Returns For Trial and is Now in Jail.

After Much Legal Argument and Many Objections Court Proceeds With Ruttan's Trial-frue Bills Again Returned Against Reilly, Ruttan and Harryett-Phil Lott on the Sta. -Holds His Own in Cross-Exam-

Belleville, March 13.—Another surprise took place in the ballot box case yesterday when Frank J. Rélliy. whe, on Wednesday night left for parts unknown, returned and was arraigned in court. It was stated by some of Relliy's friends that he was coming back, but most people refused to believe it until they saw him. He came in at 2.30 from the east, accompanied by his Kingston lawyer, Mr. Ridley.

Reilly in Jail.

Shortly afterwards Relliy was arraigned in court and pleaded not guilty. His counsel, Mr. Johnston, asked that Reilly's ball be continued. Judge McMahon said he had ne ebjection, if the Crown Frosecutor was willing. Mr. Hellmuth, however, was not, the consequence being that Reilly departed in custody of Jailer Appleby, and is now in jail.

When Ruttan's trial started yesterday morning, Mr. Riddell, his counsel, objected to the indictment and claimed that his tilent should have been tried at the sessions last December. The Crown Prosecutor, he contended, had no right to try conspiracy cases at the present court.

Crown Prosecutor, he centended, had no right to try conspiracy cases at the present court.

Three True Bills.

After much degal argument, the three indictments were resubmitted to the Grand Jury, and again true bills were returned in the cases of Mesars. Ruttan, Reilly and Harryett. The trial of Ruttan was then proceed with.

The Crown Prosecutor addressed the jury, placing before them the principal parts he proposed to try te prove, and called Phil Lott as the first witness, Phil's story was substantially the same as at the preliminary investigation. Mr. Riddell, Ruttan's counsel, raised many objections, but the judge overruled them. Mr. Maybee, of Toronto, gave Phil a trying examination, but the quite held his pwn.

To Pretect Himself.

About the only new point brought out was when Phil said in answer to a question by Mr. Maybee that he had intended at the start to expose the matter, and had secured the letters written by Reilly, Shibley and his brother to protect himself. The court adjourned at 6 o'clock to 7.8¢, the judge announcing that hereafter he will hold night sittings.

In court yesterday afternoon Mr. Johnston called the judge's attention to the fact that certain papers had commented on Relly's leaving the city. If Johnston called the judge's attention to the fact that certain papers had commented on Reiliy's leaving the city. If there was any repetition, he said he would saik the court to punish them. The judge said that if Mr. Reiliy had not left the country, and had stayed to face his trial, it was altegether likely that the papers would have made no comment on him.

Ballot Boxes There.

The court convened again at 7.46 p. m., and all the famous ballot boxes which had been rescued from Sydenham Lake and elsewhere were in evidence.

The cross-examination of Phil Lott was continued by Mr. Maybee. Nothing was brought out. He said he had d under advice the best part of the

The Tinsmith's Evidence. H. M. Carscallen, a Watertown tin-smith, was the next witness. He told how a man, who he since learned was how a man, who he since learned was named Relily, had visited him in Watertown in regard to the manufacture of bogus ballot boxes. Relily had given him a paper which was the design for a bogus box. The witness told how he had been approached to manufacture boxes with false sides. He had turned over the matter to a Mr. Roof. Reilly as a Witness.

An argument then ensued as to whether or not Relily should be called as a witness. The Crown Prosecutor wanted to call him, and the lawyers quoted authorities by the yard. Mr. Johnston argued that it was not fair to try the defendants severally, and thus try te use their evidence one against the other. The court, he said, had no right to make Reilly give evidence which would tend to incriminate himself.

Mr. Hellmuth argued that the stat-

Mr. Heilmuth argued that the statutes did not uphoid Mr. Johnston's view, and quoted authorities.

After a long discussion, the judge decided that Reilly could be called.

Mr. Johnston said he was compelled te say that, if his client, Reilly, was called, he must advise him not to answer.

Mr. Hellmuth said that under the circumstances he would not call Reilly. Patrick Cotter, the Watertown lad, who gave evidence at the preliminary investigation, told practically the same stery as he teld then, incriminating Reilly.

story as he teld then, incriminating Reilly.

Thomas Whelan was next called. He told the same story as at the preliminary investigation. He thought at the time that the boxes he brought over from Ogdensburg contained something necessary to Mr. Reilly's studies.

The court adjourned at 9.20 till 9.30 Saturday morning.

To Stop Sunday Cars.

Toronto, March 18.—A large deputation representing the Ontario Lord's Day Alliance waited on Premier Whitney and the Cabinet yesterday afternoon to ask for legislation regarding the running of electric railways on Sunday and for the protection of the Sabbath in general. Special request was made for a measure that would enable the alliance to make a test case in the Supreme Court and Privy Council. The Premier, in his reply, said: "You may be assured we look upon the question with a sympathetic Eye, and in due time we will give it eye, and in due time we will give it the attention it deserves. Then we will announce a distinct decision upon the matter."

Alarming. New York, March 18.—Deadly cerepro-spinal meningitis is claiming scores of victims in New York. Children are killed swiftly by it, and adults are not escaping. The medical profession is aghast at its almost epidemic spread, for there is no known cure. Only a few of those stricken survive.

Czar-New Held Prisoner.

London, March 12.—All the St. Petersburg correspondents of Lendon newspapers are most pessimistic. The Daily Mail's correspondent thinks the central fact of the situation is that since the blessing of the Neve (Jan. 19), the Emperor has been a prisoner at Tserskoe Selo, and never ence has ventured to the capital. It says: 'In the moment of the greatest national emergency, needing the greatest sympathy between the Government and the people, the ruler remains secluded bepeople, the ruler remains secluded be-hind triple bars and bayonets, as re-mote and absolutely aloof from the peo-ple as if he were in another planet."

popular lacrosse and hockey player, met with a slight accident last night and unfortunately the incident was magnified by Dame Rumor until it was made to appear that Mr. Quesnel had attempted his life.

The athlete was talking with some friends and thinking he had the back of his knife he drew it across his throat. Only a slight cut was inflicted. Mr. Quesnel didn't want to take any chances and Dr. Bell was called upon, but he pronounced the nigury little more than a scratch. This probably is what gave rise to the report of attempted suicide.

The firemen were called out about twenty-live minutes to one o'clock this morains to a burning house on St. Clair street.

Mr. Hewson is building a new resissionce adjoining Dr. McKeough's property on St. Clair street, Yesterday workmen were engaged plastering the new house and when they left at six o'clock they left a small fire in one of the rooms to dry the plaster during the night. This fire caught on the wood work in the room and soon developed into a good sized blaze. Luckly it was noticed and the firemen arrived in time to save the new house from very serious damage. As it was a hole was burned through one side of the house.

Ottawa, March 18.-The first half Ottawa, March 18.—The first half hour of yesterday's sitting of the House was spent in the presentation of petitions for and against the educational clauses of the autonomy bill, the former predominating as the mails had brought in from many of the parishes in Quebec the petitions signed last Sunday.

The following bills were introduced and read a first time:

Sir William Mulock moved the following resolution:
"That a select committee, composed of Messrs. Burrews, Smith (Nanaimo), Johnston (Cape Breten, South), Grant, Demers (St. John and Iberville), Menk, Maclean (York), Royce, Reche' (Marquette), and the mover, be appointed to inquire into and report regarding the varieus public telephone systems in operation in Canada and elsewhere, as the committee shall determine; and to consider and report what changes, if any, are advisable in respect of the methods at present in force for furnishing telephone sarvice to the public. methods at present in ferce for furnishing telephone service to the public. Such committee have power to send for persons and papers, to examine persons under oath, to engage stenographers, elerical and other assistance, and to report from time to time."

Adjunct of the Post Office.

The Postmaster-General said that the wide extent to which the telephone was used demanded from Parliament considerations of the means by which its use might be still further extended. Next to the Post Office, the telephone was of the greatest use to the people, in a few years the telephone system in England would have passed under Gevernment control, and without prejudicing the future destiny of the telephone in Canada, the result of the committee's enquiry would at least enable the House to reach the safest conclusion as to the best means of dealing with this important question.

"If I were to confess to a bias upon this subject," added Sir William, "It would be this, that I cannot see why it is not as much the duty of the State to take charge of the telephone system.

it is not as much the duty of the State to take charge of the telephone system as it is to conduct the Post Office.".

The Postmaster-General moved to add the name of Mr. Zimmerman, of Hamilton to the committee.

Protests Against Stock Issue.
On the bill respecting the Ontario and Minnesota Power Co., Mr. Barker trew attention to one of the clauses and protested against the issue by di-rectors of paid up stock. If a com-pany, he said, wanted to pay promoters or others for their work it should pay pany, he said, wanted to pay promoters er others for their work it should pay them in hard cash, and ought to issue pald up shares to promoters, solicitors, engineers or others. An energetic man, he said, goes to a solicitor and an engineer and formed a company. Then they buy a small property for perhaps a hundred dollars. They sell it to the company for a million dollars of stock, and then offer another million dollars sto the public. The real value of the property is $1,000,000. The stock is sold for cash to people who think it is worth its face value. By this means the promoter is enabled to put in his pocket a lot of money he has not earned. Mr. Barker believed that if they abolished such a clause they would reduce by fifty per cent, the number of applications to Parliament. Mr. Barker declared that his criticisms were not directed specially against the bill before the House, but against the practice generally.

rected specially against the bill before the House, but against the practice generally.

Not So Essy to Fool.

Mr. Campbell, the premoter of the bill, thought it was not so easy to fool people, and claimed that custom sanctioned the practice.

Then Mr. Fielding justified the clause by saying that such arrangements as it authorized were necessary to enable enterprises to be foated, the men behind them holding the stock so issued to recoup them for the risks they ran. "It is a gamble," said Mr. Maclean. "They are betting on their intelligence," answered Mr. Fielding.

The hour for discussing private bills ended before the matter was settled. Hands Across the Border.

following three nights the "Imperials" will appear in the Grand Opera House. The Simege Reformer says:

Don Leno's Imperials played to big business here this week, and the show put up was well worth the money. The opening first part was staged and costumed as "Col. Gilhooley's Reception ha Board a Ship." The singing by the chorus was bright and tuneful, and the solo work was good. The time honored round of stale jokes were replaced by work of the comic opera class, and the change was a delightful innovation, the specialties being high class. The colio was good in every act, comprising among others Ethel Fleming and Kitty Brockton in songs: Eddie Moore, the peer of any, in clog dances; Kenealle in lightning crayon work and oil painting, also coon songs and sither work; George Foster, comedian, song and dance arist; the Millar Sisters, in banjo duets, and song and dance work; and Leno and Ridley in operatic singing. The chorus girls showed to advantage in a baseball act, a Spacish Dance, and in a skit from the opera; "A Madcap Prince," all appropriately costumed to character. Art. Millar has a moving picture machine of exceptional merit, and these views conclude the show. Louis Kuhn is the taleated musical director for the company. Don Leno's entire show was clean, with nothing offensive to anyone, and it is creditable to his ability as a gramatic arrist and manager. There were no waits and the entertainment was wholesome in the best sense of the word,

The bottle shakers of France form a somewhat unique set of expert wage All the larger firms of champagne makers at Reims use only the juice from the first pressing of the grape for champagne.

The juice is taken in barrels to the cellars and poured into large vats. The wine remains in these vats from Oc-tober until January, when the mixing takes place. This mixture is called the cuvee, and it stands again until April or June, when the great opera-tion of filling the bottles takes place.

First, the bottles are thoroughly test-ed and well cleaned. Then the long pipes are extended to the bottles from the mighty vats that hold the cuvee, and as the bottles are filled, corked and wired they are lowered in baskets to the caves below, where they are stack-

As soon as the hot headed citizens of Paris learned in September, 1870, that their emperor, Napoleon III., had surrendered to the Prussians-at Sedan these Parisians rose in a riotous mob and made posthaste for the Tulleries. They were armed and after royal blood and plunder. The empress had to fiee for her life. Assisted by the Austrian and Italian ministers, she made a hurried flight from the palace, but found the mob ahead of her in the garden; back again and then out by a secret way into a side street, where they entered a cartiage. A street gamin recognized the empress here, but the shouting of the mob was so great that the boy's cry of warning was not heeded.

Once the carriage was stopped by a mob, but the party alighted and managed to escape. Finding themselves near the residence of Dr. Evans, the American dentist, they took refuge there, and the doctor took upon himself the responsibility of Empress Eugenle's safety. The empress put on a dress belonging to Mrs. Evans and, with Mme. Breton, her friend, was driven by Dr. Evans to be suburbs. Dr. Evans explained that the women were a patient and her attendant whom he was taking to a sanitarium. Two days later the fugifives reached a coast town, whence they escaped to England.

Men and Women and Their Attitude Toward the Mirror,

If is not always for the mere gratifi-cation of personal vanity that we should attentively study our mirrors. Socrates advised all young people to look often in their looking glass to ascertain if they were good looking; that if they were so they might strive to make their mental attainments corre-spond, and if they were not then they might endeavor by the superior accom-plishments of their minds to make up for their personal shortcomings.

This is excellent advice for vanity possessed moderns, but it is improba-ble that the high mental attitude of Socrates is appreciated by them. How the elaborate toilet of today could be accomplished without the aid of the mirror it is impossible to imagine. It is popularly supposed that the mirror is the woman's pet possession, but man is by no means averse to contemplat-ing his manly charms as reflected thereing his manly charms as renected therein. A woman frankly confesses her interest in the alluring combination of glass and quicksilver, but the man, while voicing his scorn, proves his superior vanity by his concealed and secretive study of it. He jeers at his wife's cheval glass. But was anything more entirely proporative of human more entirely provocative of human vanity ever invented than the many sided shaving glass?—London Chroni-

RUSES OF BANKERS.

Devices Used to Either Gain Time of Inspire Confidence.

Some amusing anecdotes are told of the devices resorted to by bankers to gain time and inspire confidence. On one memorable occasion the excited subscribers, much to their indignation, were only able to enter the bank one were only able to enter the bank one by one except at the cost of spoiled coats, as the cute manager had caused the door posts to be freshly painted. Another bank prevented a crisis in its affairs by exhibiting in the windows large tubs apparently brimful of sovereigns. These tubs, however, were simply upside down and a small quantity of gold only piled up on their bot-

But the most ingenious dodge of all was successfully carried out in Buenos Ayres. There was a run on a large bank, and for several days subscribers besieged the premises, withdrawing money and placing it in another bank on the opposite side of the road. It happened, however, that these two in-stitutions had a private understanding, and as fast as the "safe" bank receiv-ed the deposits they were returned to one by an underground passage, with the result that every one marveled at its continued ability to meet its demands.—London News.

A CAMEL'S STOMACH.

The stomach of a camel is divided nto no less than four compartments, into no less than four compartments, and the walls of one of these are lined with large cells, every one of which can be opened and closed at will by means of powerful muscles. Now, when a camel drinks it drinks a very great deal. Indeed it goes drinking on for such a very long time that really you would think that it neves meant to leave off. But the fact. never meant to leave off. But the fact is that it is not only satisfying its thirst, but is filling up its cistern as well. One after another the cells in its stomach are filled with water, and as soon as each is quite full it is tightly closed. Then when the animal becomes thirsty a few hours later all that it has to do is to open one of the cells and allow the water to flow out. Next day it opens one or two more cells, and so it goes on day after day until the whole supply is exhausted. In this curious way a camel can live five or even six days without drinking easily through the desert, where the wells are often hundreds of miles

Oath That Binds the Burmese Perjury having been rife in Rangun courts because no form of oath exist-ed which the Burman considered binded which the Burman considered binding, the government prescribed a formula which is a queer admixture of Buddhism, Brahminism and Shamanism. Here are phrases from it, picked at random: "If an untruth passes my lips, may all the gnats that live in lakes, ponds and brooks and the gnats of the five great rivers of India destroy me. May curdled blood pass my lips rather than a lie, and may I die vomiting blood, my body bent in two."

A Caustle Retort.

Prince Herbert Bismarck had the reputation of having a decidedly brusque manner in society. Once at a royal reception he bumped roughly against an Italian prelate, who looked at him indignantly. "You evidently don't know who I am," said the German prince haughtily. "I am Herbert Bismarck."
"Oh," answered the prelate, "If that doesn't amount to an apology it is certainly a perfect explanation!"

Mrs. Fondmar—Doctor, my daughter wits and gazes into that mirror for hours at a line. I can't get her to take exercise. Dr. Brun—Well, I prescribe another mirror at the other end of the root. of the room.

Coddling the Stomach.

THE SO-CALLED "SCIENTIFIC FEEDING."

In this 20th century of advancement, people are too apt to listen to new theories and put into practice new-tangled notions of feeding. Not only do adults follow so-called "scientific systems," but they cram down the mouths of their children such scientific soft foods that require no exercise of the digestive organs, that the children are apt to become fragile and their stomachs too week to take in strength-giving food and be able to assimilate it. This is a hothouse condition that no man, woman or child should permit. The muscles of the stomach require exercise just as any other muscles of the body; neglect them with too much ease and inaction and you raise a dyspeptic. Use a tonic made of medicinal herbs which will stimulate the stomach into greater activity—a remedy which will do that is one which the recent the stores. mai neros which will stimulate the stom-ach into greater activity—a remedy which will do this is one which has stood the test of public approval for nearly forty years, containing no alcohol or narcotic. Toth and Temperament. "I don't suppose many people stop to think that the formation of their teeth is an indication of their temperament, said a dentist the other day.

"Did you ever see a person with long, narrow teeth who had not a very nervous, high strung temperament broad teeth who was not somewha phlegmatic and cheerful? I often wonder when the pretty girl opens mouth to show her ivory white teeth if up her disposition.

"I unconsciously fall into the habit of looking at the teeth of the people I meet socially and choosing my acquaintances accordingly. That is one of the reasons why false teeth ought to be made exactly like the original set. They have to fit the temperament of the wearer."

First Jewelry Store. It may interest women to know that the first jewelry store was started in the city of Changon about 3,000 years ago, The Celestial millionaires of that period knew nothing of the fascination of diamonds, because not in vogue at that B. C. period. Pearls and jade and coral and other unpolished mineral substances had to content them, and as if to make good the glitter of rivieres and tiaras the princesses of Changon employed arti-sans to fashion them the most wonderful gold and silver ornaments, which in themselves were far more costly than diamonds.

Books and Their Making. "At present the American people are divided into two classes," said the head of a well known publishing house in New York, "those who forget to read and those who read to forget. A book was formerly a thing put aside to be read, but now it is a thing read to be put aside. I am not sure which is the better both for us bookmakers and the public, but it is certainly a fact that bookmaking is now a manufacture, while it used to be a science

GHOST GIVES SECRET.

Tells Bishop of Swansea Where to Find - Lost Treasure. The Bishop of Swansea had an inter

The Bishop of Swansea had an interesting conversation with a ghost on the last Saturday in February.

The spirit had taken up his abode in the house of Mr. Howells, the County Court Registrar at Lampeter, and manifests itself by weird metallic rappings and the rocking of beds.

It is fast becoming a local institution, and the street near Mr. Howells' house is thronged with people who want to hear the ghost knock.

The Bishop went to the house with Professor Harris of St. David's College and half a dozen other gentlemen. The spirit was coaxed with raps and questions, but it was coy and made no answer.

It was suggested that the presence of It was suggested that the presence of a sceptic in the room was the cause of the silence, and the party left, with the exception of Mrs. Howells, her two young sons and a London artist. But it was not until a servant, who, it was thought into the room that the ghost beinghed to speak—or, rather, rap.

It expressed a desire to chat with the Bishop, and when he returned told him that money was concealed in an attic chimney, and that it could be reached without much trouble.

A young lady who questioned the ghost interpreted its message that the house would have to be pulled down before the money could be found, but this is generally believed to be a misunderstanding.

The Queen's Violets.

The Queen's Violets.

All the country knows by this time the beautiful story, first told by The Daily Chronicle, of the Queen and the workman's child. The little girl, whose name is Violet Victoria Veiden, is suffering from consumption, and was taken to the Catholic Apostolic Church in Camberwell to be blessed before entering the Brompton Hospital. In church the Princess' lilness was announced, and prayers were offered for her recovery. On returning home the child wrote a little letter of sympathy to Her Reyal Highness. The reply was unexpected. One evening a carriage drew up at the door. What followed is told most vividly by our contemporary in Mrs. Veiden's words:

"Well, what should he do but knock at our door.

"Well, what should he do but knock at our door.
"Does Mrs. Velden live here? says he, taking off his hat.
"'Yes,' I said. For the life of me I couldn't make out what it meant.
"Then the Queen's sent this."
"And he handed me the basket of flowers you see standing in the window. For the moment I was too taken aback to understand.
"The Queen'? says I.

"The Queen?" says I.
"Yes, Her Majesty has sent these flowers and this note to your little girl.'
"Before I knew where I was he had gone, leaving me with the flowers in one hand, and the note from the Queen and Frincess in the other.

In a large white and gold-enameled basket was a perfect wealth of tulips, sweet-scented lilies of the valley, delicate ferns, and one perfect bunch of violets, the little invalid's name-flower. violets, the little invalid's name-flower. So, with the inclusion of Her Majesty's favorite lilles, an act gracious enough in barest outline was beautified into one of those delicately personal courtesies which have rooted the royal family deep in the hearts of the people. Mr. and Mrs. Veldon have distributed the violets among their friends as keepsakes of their little girl and her Queen.—London Dally Chronicle. -London Daily Chronicle.

George Meredith and Women.

Mr. Meredith has sent the following letter to Mr. Hugh W. Strong, managing editor of The Cornish Leader: "Since I began to reflect, I have been oppressed with the injustice done to women, the constraint put upon their natural aptitudes and their faculities generally, much to the degradation of the race. I have not studied women more than I have men, but with more affection, a deeper interest in their enfranchisement and development, being assured that women of the independent mind are needed for any sensible degree of progress. They will so educate their daughters that these will not be instructed at the start to think themselves naturally inferior to men because less muscular, and need not have recourse to particular arts, feliachiefly, to make their way in the world. I have no special choice among the women of my books. Perhaps I gave more color to Diana of the Crossways and Clara Middleton of the Egoist, and this on account of their position. A local curate who was passing the house after early service the week before heard an extraordinary noise. One of the servants came out and asked him in, and as he went upstairs he heard the noise again.

"In one of the bedrooms," says the curate, "I saw Mr. Howells and his son Jacky lying in separate beds. Mr. Howells and his son Jacky lying in separate beds. Mr. Howells told me that he had been distrubed all night by strange noises, and while I was looking at Jacky's bed I distinctly saw it move towards the wall and back again twice."

Mr. Howells is finding the knocking very monotonous. To vary it one night he rapped the fall to the time of "Say Au Revoir," and was surprised to hear responsive taps correct in time and measure. His son then tapped out "Bill Balley," and the spirit obliged again.

A solicitor who has heard the knocks says that they always occur when Jacky is in the room. Mr. Howells says that Jacky has been put to sleep in four different rooms, and in each the raps have been heard and the bed has rocked. It is stated, however, that ter coming in personal touch with our Lord Jesus Christ, is but a sym-bol of what takes place continually when men blinded by sin and the god of this world coming in contact with the enlightening, heart-changing the enlightening, heart-changing power, of the risen Christ, by His Holy Spirit and Word, and are willing to do His will-John 7, 17-soon know Him and the power of His resurrection and the fellowship of His sufferings-Phil. 3, 10,-for they east him out of the Temple sooner than accept his festiveny.

A SLIGHT CORRECTION

The slanderous reptile who runs the Potato Creek Vindicator, in his latest issue asserts that our wife has sued us for divorce on account of excessive and repeated cruelty. In order that, our readers may know how much truth there is in this story we will explain. Our wife has not sued us for divorce at all. We haven't any wife. We never had a wife. The whole story grows out of the circumstance that there is a report in circulation to the effect that we are to be married week after next. And there isn't any truth in this story, either. It is all we can do to support ourself in this durned town, let alone a wife. But if the lying old blatherskite of the Potato Creek sheet doesn't want to get into trouble, let him keep out of our way for the next month or two.— Skedunk Bugle.

DR MeKEOUGH TALKS

The series of art talks at the Central school had a very enjoyable number yesterday. Dr. G. T. Mo-Keough gave a delightful and interesting address to the senior grade and the staff on Michel Angelo's life and works. Beginning with a description of Florence, its beauty, its art galleries, its renown as the home of the great Dominican and Franciscian Orders of Friars, and its progress in art under the Dues de Medici as well as Michel Angelo's first rise as a protege of Due Lorenzo. Dr. McKeough followed the artist through his career throughout Italy and at Rome and Florence. He onlined his work and friendship for Pope Julius and the great work of decoraring the Sistine Chapel. His greater statutes of David, Moses and Pieta were explained and several large portfolios of photographs of art subjects, collected in Italy, were exhibited. At the close of the address Miss Nors VonGunten presented Dr. McKeough with a buanh of Shamrock, it being St. Patrick's Day. Seldom has the Central school had such a rare treat, as the votes of thanks and appleuse testified. The

THE JAPANESE ADVANCE

Russians Are Losing Heavily in the Rearguard Action.

Jap Columns Pushing Northward With Russian Forces - Linevitch Will Have 268,000 Men, and This Force May Cause Japanese to Exercise Greater Caution in Their Pursuit.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—No pause in the apanese advance is possible for some time. The Russians are losing heavily in the rearguard action. and the Japanese columns are reported to be pushing northward as fast as possible to complete the envelopment of the Russian forces. Gen. Linevitch, however, will have a considerable ac-cession of fresh troops in a day or two,

Military officials here declare there are now 268,000 men at Gen. Linevitchs disposal in Manchuria, and it is supposed this force will be sufficient to cause the Japanese to exercise greater caution in their pursuit.

Anxiety at St. Petersburg.
Decided anxiety is felt here regarding the fate of the army in Manchuria under its new commander, no news of military devolopment the last two days haying been received here. Only despatches from the front are the brief announcement yesterday that Gen. Linevitch had assumed command, and that Gen. Kuropatkin was departing for St. Petersburg, which disposes of a rumor that the latter had committed suicide. He left Changtufu last night.

that the latter had committed suicide. He left Changtufu last night.

Although Gen. Kuropatkin's downfall was inevitable from the military standpoint, nevertheless it arouses sympathy in circles familiar with the long campaign that has been waged against him by the general staff. Gen. Sakharoff was his open enemy, and Gen. Dragomiroff his most severe critic, and many of his own subordinates were jealous and grudgingly obedient.

Duel Awaits Kuropatkin.

Gen. Linevitch is distinctly a line officer, with a long record as a fighter. He is almost as cordially disliked by ficer, with a long record as a fighter. He is almost as cordially disliked by the general staff as is file predecessor, and there also is bad blood between Kuropatkin and Linevitch dating from a personal quarrel in the days when Kuropatkin was commander of the Transbalkal army, which led Linevitch to demand satisfaction, Kuropatkin assumed the position that he could not fight an officer of inferior rank. The succession of this officer will naturally increase Gen. Kuropatkin's discomiture.

Jap Infantry With Cavalry Move Northwest to This End.

Changtufu, March 16—(1 a fn. de-layed.)—The rear guard action is continuing almost unintercuptedly.

Soldlefs wounded in the last fight to the number of 1,700, were assauched north from Tie aus on March 13. The morning of March 15 the Japanese made their principal attack on the Russian left, and in the evening attacked the right also.

It is reported that several columns of Japanese infantry with cavalry after moving north a considerable distance west of the railway, with the intention of cutting the Russians from their base. It seems evident that the advance movement of the Japanese has continued for a leng time, and perhaps uninterruptedly.

ed for a leng time, and perhaps unin-terruptedly.

The Rugsiens, though fatiguel with three weeks of constant fighting, are offering a stubborn resistance in their withdrawal, though not attempting its hold a position, which is naturally open to a turning movement.

The wason trains are gradually be-ing brought into order, but many carts are missing, including those carrying private supplies of food. The distri-buting depot, which has done much good work at Kaiyuan, will leave to-sympathy is expressed by the British Press and public for General Kuropatkin, and there is strong criticism for the curt manner of his dismissal, without a word of thanks for past services. Gen. ## FOLLOWS LORD MILNER

LORD SELBORNE TO BE GOV.-GEN. OF SOUTH AFRICA.

Factors Which Show He Should Be Post-An Oxford Man, Who Har Been in Public Life Ever Since His

In choosing Earl Selborne to assume the duties in South Africa which ill-health obliges Lord Milner to relin-quish, the imperial Government has selected a man who should be amply qualified for the position. William Waldegrave Palmer, the second Earl Selborne, is a young man, although he has put in six comparatively useless years, according to Dr. Oster's theory, unless, indeed, he is an exception to that dogmatic rule. As First Lord of the Admiralty, he has displayed ability, and in the reconstruction of the British navy has played a leading part. From 1895 to 1900 Earl Selborne was Under Secretary for the Colonies, in which position he must have obtained a keen insight into the problems of South Africa, some of which, in new phases, persist to-day, and with which he must deal. He is an Oxford man, like Lord Milner, and since graduating has been in public life almost constantly.

Married Salisbury's Daughter.

Married Salisbury's Daughter.

Added to the ambitious impulses he must inherit from his father, the new Governor-General gained further political momentum in 1883 by marrying a daughter of the Marquis of Salisbury. His wife is, therefore, a cousin of Mr. Baltour's. When one takes into consideration these factors he is justified in predicting a distinguished career for Earl Selborne. His father, who got off in the race of life with no such flying start, became a very famous man, indeed, and was Lord Chanceller, a position which he had refused a few years before, because he could not agree with Mr. Gladstone on the question of the diseastablishment of the Irish Church. This first Lord Selborne, who was Roundell Palmer before the title came to him, was a distinguished lawyer, and represented the British Government at the Geneva Court of Arbitration. He was also Solicitor-General and Attorney-General at different stages in his career. He chose Selborne as his title, as it was the name of the country residence he had acquired from Gilbert White, the naturalist, whose "Natural History of Selborne" is a classic.

Milner a Great Statesman.

Milner a Great Statesman.

Milner a Great Statesman.

Of Lord Mifner, whose health has been falling for some time, it can truly be said that he is one of the foremost living statesmen. While he was yet a student at Oxford Dean Church said of him, "Milner's the finest flower of human culture which Oxford has produced in our time," a tribute which Alfred Milner's subsequent career has justified. In early life he served an apprenticeship at Journalism, and worked with William T. Stead. At the time he was a tall, thin, apathetic young man, aloof and reserved, whose only hobby was swimming, an art in which he excelled. He drifted into a moderate sort of Socialism, and then into Liberalism, finally evolving into that rara ayel an educated Liberal imperialist. About this stage in his career it is told of him that on one occasion, as he rose to address an audience, sometone shouted, "Sit down, you foo!!" This aroused Milner, and he made a really forceful speech, something he had never before accomplished. In later years, commenting on the incident, he said that he would be a good speaker if someone would hit him in the eye before he rose. if someone would hit him in the eye

Defore he rose.

At the Egyptian Tangle.

The official lite of this gifted man began with his service as private secretary to Lord Goschen, when the latten was Chancellor of the Exchequer. There he displayed a capacity for administration that was soon recognized by his appointment to the head of the Inland Revenue Department. Here again he won unstinted applause. When it became necessary for Great Britain to unravel the Egyptian financial tangle, Milner was chosen as the man in Egypt he mastered a very intricate and difficult situation. It is said that on that occasion he overcame difficulties by riding a high horse, and that that by riding a high horse, and that that fact disqualified him from service where gentler methods are required. But as Finance Minister in Egypt, Milner was successful, and that is the test of all tests. While in the land of the Nile, he wrote a book on the country, which was recognized as a standard authority. His official work commanded the highest praise on all hands.

South Africa the Climan

But the climax of the career of this Empire-builder was South Africa. Honors had been showered upon him. He had become Sir Alfred Milner, and more recently Lord Milner. A Conservative administration was looking for a man to grapple with a very dangerous situation. He must be firm, and yet not obstinate; he must strive for peace and yet face the possibility of war unflinchingly. Milner undertook his great task in South Africa with infinite pains. He traveled through parts of the country that had never before seen a High Commissioner. He learned the Cape Dutch, so that he could converse without the aid of an interpreter, and read the Dutch newspapers. He solved the crises in Basutoland and Swaziland, and installed the new constitution of Rhodesia. There never was any doubt or hesitation as to his attitude towards the Transvaal. He firmly presented the British demands, and when war was precipitated he set about to protect against invasion in Cape Colony, which had many sympathisers with the Boers. Invasions were successfully resisted. Surrounded by influences that were strongly anti-British. Lord Milner sustained through all the long and trying struggle the British cause. At the end he remained to restore order and harmony out of the political chaos that was the inevitable result of the struggle. South Africa the Climax.

COALING WARSHIPS

Modern Methods Do Not Require Reduction of Speed.

In the old days, said a retired naval captain recently, the coaling process adopted by warships was not only hazardous both to the collier and the manot-war, but a sad waste of time besides. For instance, a cruiser on her way to join the main fleet would perhaps run out of coal and the captain would anchor, hall the collier, who would come alongside, and also anchor, heavy tenders would be placed between the two vessels and the coaling would begin. If there was a smooth sea then the operation might terminate without any serious damage to either vessel, but with a heavy swell and a strong tide running the ships would grind and pound each other until it was a wonder sometimes the side of the weaker vessel wasn't stove in.

The process was a slow one, too, for with the best intentions the men seldom succeeded in stowing away more than 15 tons an hour, and in this way 30 hours would be spent in putting on board a matter of 450 tons. And this, mind you, could only be accomplished when Father Neptune was in his kind-liest mood.

I have known occasions when a man-In the old days, said a retired naval mind you, could only be accomplished when Father Neptune was in his kindlest mood.

I have known occasions when a manof-war and her collier have been together for the best part of a day, and at the end of that time the exchange of coal has been less than 50 tons. In times of war, of course, the question of coaling was a very serious one, and was often the greatest hindrance to the mobility of a fleet, but things have changed since then, and a warship may now coal without even having to reduce her speed.

How is it managed? Well, as you probably know, every man-of-war has its own collier, which accompanies her in all her trips, ever ready to supply the bituminous mineral as soon as she shall run short. Each warship is now fitted with a cable which enables her to tow, or be towed, by her collier, the general rule being that the bigger vessel supplies the motive power. As soon as the battleship expresses her desire for more coal, a cableway is run from the mast of the collier to a jury mast rigger on the battleship. When the connection is made, a small engine on the collier is constantly at work keeping the cable from sagging, for, as you can understand, the distance between the vessels (usually about 400 feet) is constantly varying. When the cable has been fixed, the man-of-war continues her journey at a speed of about 10 knots an hour, towing the collier, and thus assists the small engine in keeping the cable taut.

At a given signal a coal bag containing about 2,000 pounds weight is hauled up to the "traveler" or cradle, and then drawn from the collier to the battle-ship by means of a wire hawser wound on a steam capstan. In order to assist the traveler on her way the cable is ing about 2,000 pounds weight is hauled up to the "traveler" or cradle, and then drawn from the collier to the battle-ship by means of a wire hawser wound on a steam capstan. In order to assist the traveler on her way the cable is raised at the starting point so that the bags slip along with the maximum amount of ease.

Of course, only one traveler is used, but this runs backward and forward at express speed, the bags being emptied and returned with marvelous celerity. To give you some idea of the rapidity with which the work is accomplished. I may say that by this method 50 tons an hour may be put on board, so that in 40 hours the biggest battleship affoat may have coaled and at the same time proceeded on her way a distance of some 500 miles.

Recently a clever invention has been patented by a stevedore named Louis A. de Mayo, whereby Atlantic liners are enabled to coal in an incredibly short space of time. The ordinary rate of coaling with these vessels is about 15 tons an hour, seven men being employed. By de Mayo's system, however, five men are able to handle 180 tons an hour. The frame and the machinery employed are made of malleable iron and steel, and a continuous beit runs over a wheel at the top. Specially shaped buckets, triangular in appearance, form the beit or chute. The plus on the belt trayel in channel irons so as to keep rigid on one point. In the wheel at the top are notches which catch these plus and throw over the buckets.

If the slanting side of the bucket were lf the slanting side of the bucket were In the stanting side of the business of the open chute that runs into the coal port of the ship it would catch and tear the machine to pieces. But the inventor coar in No. 1 sucaet into the open chute, while No. 3 assists No. 2, and so on.

The invention is a most ingenious

The invention is a most ingenious one, and should minimize considerably the present difficulty in coaling liners. I believe, however, the time will soom come when nothing but liquid fuel will be employed, and then we shall be able to say good-bye to bunkers and stokers and solve forever the perplexing questions regarding the speedlest methods of "coaling" our fleet.

An Antiquarian Hoax.

A great joke has been played on the Dumfries (Scotland) Natural History and Antiquarian Society.

There has been on exhibit a scrap of parchment labeled as a Greek charm. It was said to have been taken from the dead body of a Bedouin, in Egypt, and the writing to have been done with the blood of a young girl.

South Africa the Climax.

All this

But the climax of the career of this Empire-builder was South Africa. Honors had been showered upon him. He had become Sir Alfred Milner, and more recently Lord Milner. A Conservative administration was looking for a man to grapple with a very dangerous situation. He must be firm, and yet not obstinate; he must strive for peace and yet face the possibility of war unfinchingly. Milner undertook his great task in South Africa with infinite pains. He traveled through parts of the country that had never before seen a High Commissioner. He learned the Cape Dutch, so that he could converse without the aid of an interpreter, and read the Dutch newspapers. He solved the crises in Basutoland and Swaziland, and installed the new constitution of Rhodesia. There never was any doubt or hesitation as to his attitude towards the British demands and when war was precipitated he set about to protect against invasion in Cape Colony, which had many sympathisers with the Boers. Invasions were successfully resisted. Surrounded by infinences that were strongly anti-British, Lord Milder sustained through all the long and trying struggle the British cause. At the end he remained to restore order and harmony out of the political chaos that was the inevitable result of the struggle.

COALING WARSHIPS

Modern Methode Do Not Require Reduction of Speed.

duction of Speed.

In the old days, said a retired nayal captain recently, the coaling process adopted by warships was not only hazardous both to the coilier and the man-of-war, but a sad waste of time besides. For instance, a cruiser on her way to join the main fleet would perhaps run out of coal and the captain would anchor, haif the coilier, who would anchor, haif the coilier, who would come alongside, and also anchor, heavy tenders would be placed between the two vessels and the coaling would begin. If there was a smooth sea then the operation might terminate without any serious damage to either vessel, but with a heavy swell and a strong fide running the ships would grind and pound each other until it was a wonder sometimes the side of the weaker vessel wasn't stove in.

The process was a slow one, too, for with the best intentions the men seldom succeeded in stowing away more than 15 tons an hour, and in this way 30 hours would be spent in putting on board a matter of 450 tons. And this, mind you, could only be accomplished when Father Neptune was in his kind-liest mood.

I have known occasions when a man-board a matter of 450 tons. And this, mind you, could only be accomplished when Father Neptune was in his kind-liest mood.

I have known occasions when a manof-war and her collier have been together for the best part of a day, and at the end of that time the exchange of coal has been less than 50 tons. In times of war, of course, the question of coaling was a very serious one, and was often the greatest hindrance to the mobility of a fleet, but things have changed since then, and a warship may now coal without even having to reduce her speed.

How is it managed? Well, as you probably know, every man-of-war has its own collier, which accompanies her in all her trips, ever ready to supply the bituminous mineral as soon as she shall run short. Each warship is now fitted with a cable which enables her to tow, or be towed, by her collier, the general rule being that the bigger vessel supplies the motive power. As soon as the battleship expresses her desire for more coal, a cableway is run from the mast of the collier to a jury mast rigger on the battleship. When the connection is made, a small engine on the collier is constantly at work keeping the cable from sagging, for, as you can understand, the distance between the vessels (usually about 400 feet) is constantly varying. When the cable has been fixed, the man of-war continues her journey at a speed of about 10 knots an hour, towing the collier, and thus assists the small engine in keeping the cable from has a coal bag containing about 2,000 pounds weight is hauled up to the "traveler" or cradle, and then earlier way from the collier to the bays being and containing about 2,000 pounds weight is hauled up to the "traveler" or cradle, and then earlier to the bays being emptied and returned with marvelous celerity. To give you some idea of the rapidity with which the work is accomplished, I may say that by this method 66 tons an hour may be put on board, so that the 40 hours the biggest battleship afoat may have coaled and at the same time proceeded on her way a dis may have coaled and at the same time proceeded on her way a distance of some 500 miles.

Recently a clever invention has been patented by a stevedore named Louis A. de Mayo, whereby Atlantic liners are enabled to coal in an incredibly short space of time. The ordinary rate of coaling with these vessels is about 15 tons an hour, seven men being employed. By de Mayo's system, hewever, five men are able to handle 180 tons an hour. The frame and the machinery employed are made of malleable iron and steel, and a continuous belt runs over a wheel at the top. Specially shaped buckets, triangular in appearance, form the belt or chure. The pins on the belt travel in channel irons so as to keep rigid on one point. In the wheel at the top are notches which catch these pins and throw over the buckets.

ouckets. If the slanting side of the bucket were If the slanting side of the bucket were long enough to project over the open chute that runs into the coal port of the ship it would catch and tear the machine to pieces. But the inventor utilizes gravity and the force of the coal fiself. Thus, the contents of bucket No. 2 assist in conveying the coal in No. 1 bucket into the open chute, while No. 3 assists No. 2, and so on.

chute, while No. 3 assists No. 2, and so on.

The invention is a most ingenious one, and should minimize considerably the present difficulty in coaling liners. I believe, however, the time will soom come when nothing but liquid fuel will be employed, and then we shall be able to say good-bye to bunkers and stokers and solve forever the perplexing questions regarding the speediest methods of "coaling" our fleet.

APPENDIX JUST A TOY.

That Is, of Course, to Surgeons of Cleverness-In 1,000 There Was Not One Death.

One Death.

If, as was flippantly remarked recently in the editorial columns of one London paper, the removal of the appendix is an essential qualification for, entry into smart society, the meeting the other night of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society in London should have been the occasion of a smart gathering, for its interest centred, so to speak, round the appendix. Those present, numbering more than 200 surgeons and physicians, had two hours of appendix, and in the course of Sir Frederick Treves' lucid address, which opened the discussion, even a layman had ample occasion to improve his perfunctory acquaintance with it.

How thoroughly modern the subject is, was made manifest by a casual introductory remark by Sir Frederick Treves, when he mentioned that when, in 1837, before the same society which now had mustered in force to discuss complex problems at times presented by operations, he had first mooted the advisability of the removal of the appendix in cases of recurrent attacks, his suggestion had been received with poilte scepiticism, not unmixed with derision.

Since then a deal of water had flowed Since then a deal of water had flowed under the bridges. Sir Frederick had himself in private practice operated on more than 1,000 cases without a single death to mar the success of his record. One great London hospital records within a period of four years a total of exactly 1,000 cases of operations for appendictles, with a mortality of a little more than 4 per cent. Similar favorable results were shown by statistics furnished by several of the larger general hospitals.

In view of these astonishing figures it occurred to a lay mind to enquire of expert opinion as to the fate of those who, seeing the appendix was not a modern innovation in the interest of the mechanism of the human race, had suffered from appendicitis in the dark ages before the introduction of the Treves operations. He was teld in a hurried aside that they were reputed to be suffering from colic and other unpleasantnesses ending in "itia," and that in many of the cases the patient whose life would now be saved died of unrecognized appendicitis.

The greater part of Sir Frederick Treves' address was devoted to the consideration of the causes of relapse after the removal of the offending appendix, as shown by the recurrence of the attacks. A majority of these are of too as shown by the recurrence of the attacks. A majority of these are of too technical a nature to admit of appreciation by a layman, but one or two of them are of more curious interest.

The recurrence of the pain is at time due to the incompleteness of the operation, when the appendix had not been entirely removed. Often again the pain is due to a sort of neuralgia in the amputated stomach.

the pain is due to a sort of neuralgia in the amputated stomach.

More extraordinary, even to the lay mind, are cases which have occurred where the pain altogether is neurotic, a question of nerves pure and simple. Again, mistakes in diagnosis do occur and before now man has been deprived of an offending around to see the second of an offending around the second of an offending around the second of an offending around the second of the the second of and before now man has been deprived of an offending appendix only to find that his trouble had its seat in quite a different part of his machinery. Sir Frederick did not, against all traditions, quote the familiar story of the man who, to guard against contingencies in the event of sudden loss of consciousness, wore tattooed on his abdomen, "Do not operate, have had appendix removed three times," but he told a no less remarkable story of a patient who had come to him with a relapse after having undergone an operation for removal of the appendix. In investigating matters, Sir Frederick In investigating matters. Sir Frederick was able to remove it for him a second time. On the first occasion, presum-ably, the surgeon had overlooked it. Much more formidable than the operation during the quiescent period after the attack are those necessitated atter the attack are those necessitated by local or general peritoritis during the attack, known as cases of "fulminating appendicitis," when every hour is of vital importance. In such cases it is always a question of touch and go, but even in these cases London is able to record of late a marked increase in the number of cases successfully treated.

From a layman's point of view, the discussion, which evoked too many speakers and too widespread an interest to be dismissed in a single session, and will therefore be continued next week, was decidedly reassuring. If he is fated to be deprived of his appendix, which in any case is of no value in the scheme of internal arrangements, he has every reason to face the prospect with equanimity.

What Sulphur Does

FOR THE HUMAN BODY IN HEALTH AND DISEASE.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the carty days when our methers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every sprine and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cureall, and mind you this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and impalatable, and a large quantity, had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effets of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoenful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health, sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and moclasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says "For liver, kidney and blood troubles expecially when resulting from some casualing from the support of the suppo superior to any other form. He says "For liver, kidney and blood troubles especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly see them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article, and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathart os and so-called blood "purifiers" will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers, a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

Four Boxes of

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills Effected a Complete Cure.

They are a specific for all troubles arising from a weak condition of the heart or from the nervous system. For troubles such as Palpitation of the Heart, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Faint or Dizzy Spells, Shortness of Breath, Starting in the Sleep; Cold, Clammy Hands or Feet, Brain Fag, etc., we would atrongly advise the early use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, as this remedy, taken in time, has been the means of saving many a life, and restoring strength to those who were weak, nervous, health-shattered invalids.

Mrs. E. Kilmer, Humberstone, Ont., writes:—"Allow me to tell you of the great results I have derived from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. For four years I suffered intense pain around the heart, and was very dizzy. After using four boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I was completely cured."

of Tyranny.

"It is not a whit better in England," declared Count Tolsiol, comparing in a recent interview the conditions of life in Russia with those in this country, says The London Dally Mall.

"Why," exclaimed the famous novelist-philosopher, "my friend Tchertkoff, who lives outside the Town of Christ-church, is compelled to pay a tax for the maintenance of a band which plays inside the town, and which he himself would much rather never hear at all."

The Russian victim of British bureaucracy thus referred to is M. Vladimir Tchertkoff, who seven years ago was banished from the liberty-rejoicing country of the Czar, and now resides in a handsome house, surrounded by picturesque grounds near the quaint and pretty Town of Christchurch. Unfortunately, the band towards the upkeep cf which M. Tchertkoff has to contribute compulsorily, performs at Bournemouth—a pleasant walk of about five miles from the Russian's house. M. Tchertkoff has suffered perhaps even greater hardships than this at the hands of the bureaucrats of his own country. When the Doukhobors, a Russian sect, originally numbering 12, 7000, refused to serve in the army because their religion forbade the shedding of blood, their lands were confiscated, their homes destroyed, and the people themselves scattered in starving groups throughout the barren plains of the country. Hundreds died of hunger. M. Tehertkoff, who was then an officer in the Imperial Guards, interested himself on behalf of these illtreated peasants. He took a prominent part in bringing about the emigration of 7,000 Doukhobors to Canada.

In this and other ways, M. Tchertkoff made himself disagreeable to Russian bureaucracy, and he was banished.

Tchertkoff has done much to make the great Russian novelist understood and appreciated in this country; it is but a small return for these services that Count Tolstoi should take an opportunity to point out how a strange country is treating his exiled friend by making him pay for a band he cannot hear.

"And yet," observed M. Tchertkoff, the state of Russia. There is the same the state of Russia. There is the same combination of oppressors and exploiters on the one hand, and the oppressed and exploited on the other. The laws in this country, as in Russia, protect the wealth of one man while allowing another to die of hunger.

England in comparison with a state of crude autocracy, such as exists in Russia. Whereas in Russia the evils produced by the Government are self-evident, and the Government are opposed by people enlightened in the least degree, in England, on the contrary, while the Government supports and encourages the same evils, they are not so obvious, and consequently not combated by the people. There is a kind of a show of justice.

As a parting shet, M. Tcherikoff de-lared that "religion in the English ashionable world is a mere matter of diquette." Dover's Chalk Cliffs.

Dover's Chalk Cliffs.

The white chalk cliffs of Dover, renowned in poetry and history, are said to be slipping slowly into the sea that for many thousands of years has dashed at their base. A portion of the cliffs fell some time ago, and recently a further portion at St. Margaret's Bay, Dover, has given indications that it is also slipping seaward. Cracks in the land have opened, and some portions of the cliffs have already fallen into the sea, where they form at low water a long causeway seaward. It has been suggested that the blasting operations at the Admiralty Harbor, Dover, may have loosejied the outer portions of the cliffs.

In addition secret agents watch the beauty days the land of the street days and the street days are street agents. the houses day and night, one being allotted to every four houses, and in every house is another spy—the porter. Go where you will, you are never out of the watchful e. e of the police. You brush against spies in your hotel, as in the theaters; in a restaurant, as in the drawing room of a friend. It is ridiculously easy to recognize those you meet in the fashionable resorts. They have evidently been instructed to disguise themselves as gentlemen, and for one of them the livery of a gentleman is a frock coat, a silk hat and always by rain or sunlight, an umbrella. The famous third police! A stranger might fancy that in an open cab, talking French or English to his friend, he would at least be safe from surveil-lance. But his friend will touch him significantly and speak of the weather. The fat cabby on the box, somnolent with white hair and good paternal eyes, may be a spy more skilled in the languages than the traveling stranger, and if the cabman has been found lottering near the great clubs, the ho-tels or the embassies the chances are strong that he is. Its mesh is over every man in Russia.

SECOND RENAISSANCE.

Another Revival of Art, if is Claimed, Is Needed.

In order to reform our present stereo typed methods of art we want a sec-ond renaissance. For long years we have done nothing but turn out from our colleges young men stoffed with useless scientific lumber, and they very quickly lose it all, and there is nothing to take its place. This is not to be won-dered at when throughout Europe there is such a neglect of art in our ed-ucation. It may be replied to me that the inventions of science compensate for the deficiency, but these inventions are almost exclusively if not quite a mere increase in the power of the bodily senses and faculities—the telegraph in that of the tongue, the telephone in that of the ear, the railway in that of the legs, the photographic science in that of the eye—and these inventions leave in imporance the more inventions. leave in ignorance the more intellectual part of the individual. Your portrait can be taken, your voice boxed up—this is extraordinary—but the soul which commands, the god which is in the commands, the god which is in the head, is forgotten.

And yet the means for altering this state of things is near at hand, is beneath our eyes. We have still the same nature that inspired those anonymous sculptors to give us the Gothle; we still have a sufficient number of Gothle masterpleces intact—so many epitomes of nature, as I have said—to show what can be done by the man who starts with his vision open to her teaching.—Auguste Rodin in North-American Review.

The Author of Our "Famous People" Series

We take pleasure in announcing to our readers that with this issue we begin a series of remarkable, illustrated, biographic sketches of famous people—men and women who are making the history of the times. This series is by Fannie M. Lothrop, the well-known author and the ablest writer in this line in America to-day. For several years she has been a writer and critic on the leading publications of New York and Philadelphia.

For this work Mrs. Lothrop has a double fitness; from the literary side her knowledge of the great people of the day and her original way of putting things, and from the artistic side, her close acquaintance with the world's famous people fits her pre-eminently to select the best possible views of her subjects. To her belongs the distinctive honor of possessing the largest collection of portraits in the world, now numbering over 400,000—a treasury of portraiture unapproached by that of any museum or library in existence. The time, patience, concentration of purpose, industry and systematic attention to detail expended in arranging such a collection is remarkable.

"Mrs. Lothrop," says a famous critic, "has unusual ability in presenting the vital elements of a man's character so eleverly, so deftly, and subordinating dates and details, that from her pen we get in a few lines living blographies that show the real man, his qualities and his life, more effectively than in whole pages by other writers. Some artists can give more in a thumbnail sketch than others can present in a panoramic painting."

Mrs. Lothrop passed her girlhood years in Wisconsin, her native State. Her father, I. F. Mack, a New England gentleman of that class we fondly term "the old school," was a lawyer, educator and thinker of rare power and singular clearness of mind. He founded the public schools of Rochester, N. Y., and was identified with all local movements during his residence there, removing thence to Wisconsin, where he became prominent and wealthy by reason of his legal ta Hits Turnkey With Brick.

Windsor, March 18.—Charles Jackson, a colored prisoner, confined in Sandwich Jail, made a desperate and successful break for liberty yesterday morning, but not until he had battered Turnkey Her about the head with a brick and rendered him unconscious, thus obtaining the keys to the jail corridor. The keeper struggled bravely, but the odds were against him, and he was finally left bleeding and unconscious, lying on the stone floor of the corridor. Owing to the early hour, no other guards were on duty, and Jackson calmly made his way out into the street, and soon disappeared. So far no trace of the escaped prisoner has been found.

Canada's Trail to Dawson.

Ottawa, March 18.—Yesterday a Northwest police detachment of 30 men, with 60 packhorses, left Edmonton for the Peace River, to cut a trail to Dawson City, entirely on Canadian territory. The trail will be ower a thousand miles iong, and will be provided with shelter huts at the end of each day's march, 20 or 30 miles apart. Parliament voted $25,000 last session for the work and it is expected to ask for a similar additional sum this season, it is hoped to complete the work this season.

Squeezed by Cars. Guelph, March 18.—Charles Gair, a teller in the Guelph and Ontario investment and Savings Society, was crossing restorday between two street cars standing at St. George's square when one of them backed and he was squeezed between the two. His injuries consist of two or three ribs broken. There are no symptoms of internal injuries.

Quickly taking in the situation, this captain of the rear boat cast anchor and won the race.

One Place Where You Must not go Home Till Morning-Interesting Glimpse of Habitant Life From the Pen of Will Houston Son of Judge Houston of this City

Will N. Houston, son of Judge Houston, Victoria Ave., writes the following interesting letter, descriptive of life in the Province of Quebec. Mr. Houston has been at St. Hyacinthe since last September learning to speak and write French. He is becoming quite proficient in the use of the soft, smooth, Gallic

I went out and the boys were playing with a pair of snowshoes. Of course I had to try them, but isomehow, to use a slang expression, 'my feet didn't seem to track.'' I wished ho see the sugar bush, so we hitched up the ox to a large sleigh and started out with half the family as passingers. One of the boys had to walk and drive the ox. We had no harness in him except a wooden yoke around his neck, to which the shafts were

DIPLOMACY

"Papa," the beautiful girl said, brushing the thin locks back from his temples, "I hope you'll never ask me to marmy that stupid young Mr. Gimpswich that comes here occasionally."

"Why, bless my soul, Edith!" he exclaimed, "I've never thought of such a thing. But now that you have mentioned him, I'd like to know what!" what's really the matter with young Gimpswich. Well, what is your objection to him?"
"Oh, nothing in particular. I only just thought—

"Look here, sis. You'll want to marry some day, and when you do, I don't know any young fellow I'd rather have for a son-in-law. He's in excellent circumstances and comes of a good family, is perfectly steady, well educated, no bad habits, fine looking chap—just the sort, I should think, that a girl would naturally take a fancy to, and you might consider yourself lucky if you got him. What's the reason you can't endure the idea of marrying him?" the idea of marrying him?"
"Well, because I can't—not before well, because I can't—not before next June, anyway."

Skipping away from him, she op-ened the door, and whispered to a young man in the hallway.
"Come in, Alfred! It's all right!"

MUSCLES IN TENSION

The Revue Scientifique has been asking what muscles tire soonest, with the conclusion that it is not the muscles in use, but those under the muscles in use, but those under tension, although doing no work. The writer urges us to use the arms and legs less and the back and neck more, for on them comes the great-est strain. He has been asking men of all occupations the same ques-tions:

when you have worked much, where do you feel tired?

Before you were trained did fatigue show itself in the same regions?

All the answers point to the same conclusions. The baker who kneads dough all night complains of fatigue in his legs:

The blacksmith is tired, not in his arms and shoulders, but in his back and joins.

and loins.

The young soldier, after a march, is especially tired in the back of the neck, even if he has carried no knap-neck, even if he has carried no anapsock.

The carsman who is in perfect training after prolonged exercis gets tired in his calves and insteps.

These facts point to the conclusion that in any continued effort we should try to alter the habit of contraction. That is to say, the body, like the mind, needs change of work.

From The Planet fyles from Aug. 1, 1861, to Aug. 10, 1861.

On Wednesday, the 31st of July, the Council of the town met in the Town Hall, the following members being present, viz., the Mayor, John L. Dolsen in the chair, Councillors Israel Evans, Thomas Holmes, Rafus Stephenson, James Heggins, Robert Duff and Robert O. Smith. The several items of probable assets and expenditure were brought up and discussed, and after several reductions had been made in the latter the rate for the ourrent year was struck at had been made in the latter the rate for the current year was struck at 12 cents on the doller. We might say that this rate does not include the amount to be collected for school purposes, the Council thinking it would be better for the town in the end that this sum should be collected under the immediate supervision of the Board of School Trustees themselves. Last year the rate was 24 cents on the dollar.

The New York Herald says: We have taken the trouble to ascertain the real facts of the case and although no official report has yet been made by General McDowell the returns so Iar as we have been able to obtain them of Bull's Run battle are as follows are as follows—

A meeting of the Municipal Council of the Township of Harwich was held at George Vester's inn on the Gravel Road. W. R. Fellows was the Township Clerk. The rate of taxation for the sity of London for the year 1861 was 18 cents on the doilar.

Mr. McKellar was removed from the Marine Hospital, Quebec, on Tuesday last and is now, we be-lieve, on his way west. It is not certain, we learn, that he will come immediately to Chatham, as it is thought by many of his friends that a few days sojourn at St. Catharines at the celebrated mineral springs will be of incalculable benefit in re-storing his lost strength of body.

OF BULL'S RUN.

The first Michigan regiment returned to Detroit on Friday, the 2nd inst., the citizens of that place greeting them with immense enthusiasm. It will be recollected some months since we mention that John R. Payne, son of our fellow townsman, R. K. Payne, had enlisted in this regiment. We learn that young Payne has returned and is quite a lion, it appearing that among all the trophies of war brought the best, a fine enfield rifle which he took from a Southerner during the fight at Rull's Run. It is said to be a fine piece, Southerner during the fight at Bull's Ran. It is said to be a fine piece, made in 1860. Payne is a bookbinder by trade and some few years since he lived in Chatham and was connected with The Planet Office. We are glad to learn amongst all the running which took place at Bull's Ran, on Sunday the 21st, that our Chatham boy proved at least that he enlisted to fight and was determined to let his opponents know it.

We are already receiving the good of Sir Allan McNabb's services in Parliament as representative of this division. At the present time two Government engineers are surveying Rond Eau harbor and will shortly proceed to Two Creeks. The names of these gentlemen are Messrs. Wise and Turner. They speak in the highest terms of this section of the country and freely admit the great necessity which exists for the estab-lishment of a good harbor on Lake Erie for the shipment of immense products of this section of Canada.

TEMPERED JUSTICE

A Virginia justice of the peace undertook to temper justice with mer-'petty larceny." The evidence was conclusive against the boy: but he was very young; it was his first offence, and there were some extenating circumstances. The old farmmer justice decided to give the boy a stern lecture. He looked at the oulprit severely through his spectacles and began his lecture. "Young man," said he, "this is awful, this is right down awful, and I want to warn you—I want to say—" Here the old man's sense of justice suddenly conflicted with the pity awakened by the sight of the lad, who stood trembling before him. He cleared his throat twice, and then half in merey and half in indignation at his own weakness, he cried, "Clear out o' my sight, you onery scamp!" and est down to mop his forehead amid the merriment of the court room. conclusive against the boy; but he Walking has the best value gymnastics for the mind. "You shall never break down in a speech," said Sydney Smith, "on the day on which you have walked twelve miles." In the English universities the reading men are daily performing their punctual training in the boat clubs, or a long gallop of many miles in the saddle, or taking their famed constitutionals—walks of eight or ten miles. "Walking," said Rousseau, "has something which animates and vivifies the ideas." And Plato said of exercise that "it would almost cure a guilty conscience." "For the living out of doors and simple "are and gymnastic exercises and the morals of companions produce the greatest effect on the way of virtue and of vice." Few men know how to take a walk. The qualifications of a professor are endarance, plain clothes, old shoes, an eye for nature, good humor, vast curiosity, good speech, good silence and nothing too much—Emerson, on "Country Life."

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal setens the breath after smoking, drinking, or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic. It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarris.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the must for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest power at asting lozenges, the sharcoal being mixed with honey.

Travel In the Old Days.

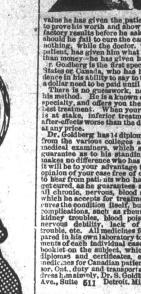

Before the days of the railroad travelers from Philadelphia to New York went by wagon. The following old advertisement outlines the process: "John Butler, with his wagon, sets out en Mondays from his house at the Sign of the Death of the Fox, in Strayberry alley, and drives the same day to Trenton ferry, where Francis Holman meets him and proceeds on Tuesday to Brunswick, and, the passengers and goods being shifted into the wagon of Isaac Fitzrandolph, he takes them to the New Blazing Star, where Rubin Fitzrandolph, with a boat well suted, will meet them and take them to New York that night." ----

Dourt held for the first division of the County of Kent in October next by order of his honor Judge Wells.

Died-In this town to-day at about 24 years and nine months,

Died-In Appleton City, Wis., on the 6th of July, Margarette, wife of William C. Griffis, formerly of this town, aged 30 years, Birth-At Dover East, on Thurs-day morning, the 8th inst., the wife of Peter Deloge, T. C., of a son.

We have been requested to state that a union camp meeting under the auspices of the British Metho-dist Episcopal church will be held in Mr. Solomoa Knapp's grove about one and a half miles below Chat-bam near the G. W. Railway, to com-mence on Saturday the 17th inst.

The following appears in the report of the council meeting. There were present Mavor Dolsen and Douncillors Evans, John Smith, R. O. Smith, Bufus Stephenson, Northwood, Holmes and Askin—

Holmes and Askia—
"Dr. Askia's by-law relating to the Meensing shows, etc., was brought up for a second reading and several values were to fixing the rate of dicense for circuses, menageries and hippodromes at $25 per day, and for side shows connected with such circuses or menageries 'he sum of $5. per day each. Another clause, however, was moved by Mr. Dolsen and seconded by Mr. Stephenson, to be finerted to, the effect that non-residents should be prohibited from selling temperame drinks on the ground on which any circus or menagerie of wild animals as exhibited without first paying a license of $3. To this clause Dr. Askin objected and upon it being put and carried he tore up the by-law before its second reading had been finally passed, alleging for having done so, that the Council had no authority by statute for imposing such license. "Other connecilors contend adequalfy strong that authority was given by statute and Mr. Stephenson quoted the 25tile section of the Municipal Act of Upper Canada in support of this," "Dr. Askin's by-law relating to the Derangement of the stomach or bowels is responsible for most of the ailments that afflict infants and young children. For keeping the stomach and bowels in order nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets, that is why children in the homes where these Tablets are used are bright, good-natured and healthy. Mrs. Joseph Wallace, Shanley, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my baby since her earliest infancy, and have found them to be a medicine that meets all the needs of little ones. They have kept my little one as bright and healthy as can be." These Tablets are sold under a guarantee to contain no opiate or poisonous "soothing" stuff. ### THE HOME DOCTOR

Dry flannel applied as hot as can be endured alleviates the agonies of neuralgia, An excellent remedy for hiccoughs

An excellent remedy for hiccoughs in young or old is granulated sugar moistened with vinegar. If you use iodine, don't fail to have glycerine mixed with it; otherwise you will blister the skin.

A solution of salt and water is a common and efficacious remedy for sore throat; also for a sore and cankered mouth.

Should anything get into the eye one drop of castor oil should be dropped in the corner of it, but if it be mortar or lime bathe with a weak solution of water and vinegar.

A teaspoonful of granular phosphate of soda in a tumbler of hot water drank before breakfast for a few days is a blood purifier. This salt agrees with delicate persons and cools the blood, besides promoting a flow of bile.

TAKE NO OTHERS.

000,000,000 COMBINATIONS AS FIG. URED BY CHESSMASTERS.

Expert Chess Players Do Not Require to See the Board-One Recently Engaged Seventy-Five Opponents at the Same Time-What Marshall Did in Chess and Pillsbury in Whist, Chess and Checkers.

Imagine being pitted against a mind that can visualize the portions of 20 pleces of tvory on as many squares, and every possible variation therefrom, and, building one picture upon another, can forestell not only the end of the game, but the exact number of movus required to bring it about, and, as Marshall did in London, proceed to accomplish it in spite of all an ordinary player and his pieces can do to prevent. Just what this means may be realized in view of the computation that there are 318,979,564,000 ways of playing the Imagine being pitted against a min are 318,979,564,000 ways of playing th first four moves on each side of the board. Yet, during the Cambridge Springs tournament I saw Pilisbury take a hand in a game at whist, and at the same time play two games of cheskers without looking at any one of the four boards. Mr. Pillsbury sat at the whist table, with his back to the chess and checker boards, and the moves of the players thereon were called out to him, and, without interrupting the whist game a moment he would call heak? game a moment, he would call back the name of his own piece, which he

the name of his own piece, which he wished moved in reply, specifying on which of the 64 squares it was to be placed. In this way he won the chess and checker games, and helped to win the game of whist

Pillsbury performs these blindfolded plays seemingly with comparative ease. He has played against as many as 28 different boards at one and the some time, without seeing a single board, and has won a large majority of the games. Seated with his back to the other players, and constantly smoking other players, and constantly smoking a big cigar, he is apparently able to visualize and to remember 22 different visualize and to remember 22 different pictures, in each of which 32 chessines, are being changed about in an indefinite variety of combinations. At each of these boards sits an expert chess player with every faculty concentrated on his own game, caring nothing for his neighbors' difficulties, bent only on the filing the memory of the man baffling the memory of the at the end of the room, at the end of the room, whose mind recurs to his particular game once only in 22 times. There is seldom any hesitation on Mr. Pilisbury's part in recalling the picture presented on any given board. The referee calls the number of the board and the move number of the board and the move made by the player thereon, and in-stantly the reply comes back from the master with a request for the move on the next board. Before Pillsbury's time the record for blindfold play was 16 games, played in two days by Zuke-tort. In Chicago in 1900 Pillsbury play-da 18 simultaneously blindfolded games. ed 16 simultaneously blindfolded games in 4 hours and 55 minutes, winning 12, in 4 hours and 55 minutes, winning 12, drawing 3 and losing 1.

Of course, Mr. Pilsbury has a system for memorizing the various games. By courtesy, he is allowed the first move on each board. So he resolves the various boards into mental groups. In a 12-game circuit, he would probably group boards 1, 4, 7 and 10 together. Boards boards 1, 4, 7 and 10 together. Boards 2, 5, 8, and 11 would comprise the second group. Thus he would need but three styles of openings on the twelve boards. If the standard, or what are considered the best replies were made to those openings, he would probably make counter replies that would carry him several moves into each game. After that he would probably begin to subdivide his groups, or, if a player tried a special variation, he would individualize that board and place it in a class by itself. Thus, eccentricity of play at any board presents no terrors for the blindfold master. Rather does he w.dcome it, since it gives that parhe welcome it, since it gives that parthe watcome it, since it gives that par-ticular board a character of its own, causing it to stand out in his memory. After a while, each of the boards takes on a character of its own, and then he is compelled to depend upon memory pure and simple, but that is so marvelous that it seldom fails him. As an instance of its far-reaching power, if any portion of a pack of cards is called pure and simple, but that is so marvelous that it seldom falls him. As an instance of its far-reaching power, if any portion of a pack of cards is called off to him he can successfully call the names of the remaining cards.

All of the masters indulge in blindfold, play, but none has equalled the Pilisbury feats. What is known as simultaneous chess is, however, a very popular recreation of the masters. In this, as in blindfold chess, one man plays many games, but with all the boards in sight. O. S. Barnstein of Berlin recently engaged 75 boards at one and the same time. Pilisbury has engaged as high as 50. The strain on the mind is not so great as in blindfold chess, and the master, walking around and around the circle of boards, is able to engage them one after another, with comparative ease. Nevertheless, a highly specialized mind is necessary for a successful performance. Naturally, such a mind concentrated on one board, displays the most precise foresight, for not only does the master know fairly well in advance just the kind of moves he will make throughout a game, but his knowledge of its technique enables him to divine the kind of moves his opponent will make. It comes very near to mind reading.

Marshall's play has all the brilliance demanded by the one school and all the modern science which has been the mainstay of the other. And as he is but 27 years old, his vogue must strengthen rather than decline, that is, unless he inadvertently overtaxes his powers. That, by the way, seems to have been the ultimate fate of most of the great chess players of the past. The emoluments of the game are not so great that ease of living is always to be enjoyed, even by a champion, and this fact, with the inevitable mental strain, has been productive of a number of sad endings to the lives of the masters of days gone by.

Morphy early went insane, although his financial circumstances was easy. Kleseritzky and Neumann both died in the asylum. Goring committed suicide and Buckle tried to. Labourdonnais and Leonard died o take several years to complete, each move being sent by postal card from one player to the other. Cable matches are of frequent occurrence, and many persons will remember the internation-al game that took place some years ago between a team made up of mem-bers of Congress and one composed of members of the House of Commons. members of the House of Commons.

During that contest one move was cabled across the Atlantic and a reply received in 40 seconds. And now that wireless telegraphy has become a feature of ocean crossing, there are few days when some big liner is not exchanging a series of moves with a sister ship. So that it is to be doubted if the sad fate of some of the masters has been any detriment to the game of intellect.
