ANOTHER FAKE DEATH NOTICE

settled in what district his trial will take place until the inquest is ended at Port Hope. The trial will take place either at Joliette, St. Scholastique or Montreal, as the Attorney-General may decide.

The trip of Hooper and his wife extended from St. Ambrose de Kildare (in the district of Joliette) to Terrebonne (in the district of Terrebonne), where she died, and thence through Montreal to Port Hope, where she was buried. If the trial is fixed for the district of Terrebonne it will come off at St. Scholastique.

A despatch from Joliette states that C. A. Cornellier, Q.C., Crown prosecutor of that district, has not by the been instructed, but he expects to receive some Instructions at the close of the coroner's inquest at Port Hope. . THE LATE MRS. HOOPER.

Out Hope.
The despatch adds that there is "Very mportant evidence here, and the alleged offence is charged to have been committed in this district."

Another Death Notice.

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—On Saturday Detective Carpenter, with Inspector O'Leary, made an examination of the apartment lately occupied by John R. Hooper, at 220 Sparks street. The object of the search, Carpenter explained, was to take possession of all papers and documents to be found in the room in order to see if any of the papers contained reference to the deceased woman or had any bearing on the case:

The examination made by the detective was only of a cursory nature, as there is a great quantity of correspondence, and it would take too long to go critically over it into no. the just now.

The letters and other documents were simply collected together and placed in a small trunk for careful examination and John R. Hooper. It is dated May 19th, 1922.

What do you think about the case ?"
was asked the detective.

"I believe, and the evidence I will produce will support the belief, that Hooper poisoned his wife."

"All the circumstances point the one way," continued Mr. Carpenter, "that Hooper murdered his wife. I will be in Port Hope to-morrow with an array of evidence that, I believe, will satisfy the coroner that Hooper is guilty."

what a Brewer Says.

Hamilton, Oct. 9.—At Saturday's session of the Dominion Liquor Commission a number of witnesses were examined. Among these were J. W. Murton, exclicense commissioner, Governor Ogilvic of the county jail, Chief of Folice McKinnon, William Young, Magistrate at Oakville, Archdale Wilson, Rev. Thomas Geoghegan and W. H. Copp. The majority of the witnesses favored prohibition if it could be enforced, but they did not think it possible to enforce such a law. Mr. W. L. Cummer, secretary of Grant-Lottridge Brewing Co., was also examined. He produced figures showing the steady increase in the company's output since 1881, and said the Scott Act decreased sales and its repeal increases alace. He said his company controlled 31 of the 'licensed taverns in Hamilton and could closs them at any time. The plant of the company could not be used for anything else if a prohibition law were enacted.

Fatal Crossing Accident. Fatal Crossing Accident.

AGINCOURT, Ont., Oct. 9.—A fatal accident happened near the C. P. R. station on Saturday morning whereby one woman lost her life and another is not expected to live. Mrs. B. W. Matthews and her niece, Miss Richardson, left home about three o'clock this morning with a load of produce for Toronto market.

Miss Lawton, who was passing the C. P. R. crossing between five and six o'clock, discovered them lying near the track and gave the alarm. Mrs. Matthews died at 6.45 this morning, Miss Richardson's injuries were attended to, but very little hopes are held out for her recovery. It is supposed the horse backed the wagon into the ditch, where it was struck by a train.

Weather Probabilities.

OBSENVATORY. TORONTO, Oct. 9.—A moderate depression is moving eastward from the Northwest and is now central a little north of Lake Superior. Pressure is giving way in eastern Canada, and increasing in the Northwest. The weather is fair everywhere. Light snow has fallen in northern Alberta and frosts have occurred in this district and Assiniboia.

P.obabilities: Fresh southwest to northwist winds; generally fair and warmer, turning cooler; showers in a few places.

A Curious Action.

Hamilton, Das commenced suit against Undertaker James Dwyer for $3.000 damages. In his statement Fullerton alleges that defendant did clawfully out and mutilate the body of plaintiff's wife on or about July 18, when preparing the same for burial and performed his duties in a negligent, unskilful and unwarrantable maring.

A War of Extermination.

Madrid, Oct. 9.—The cable to Melilla has been repaired and despatches of the most serions import have. been arriving here since 10.30 yestorday moraing.

The Holy Men throughout Morocco are preaching a war of extermination. They exhort the Moors to drive out all European infidels and give no quarter to Spaniards captured in battle. The Kabyles coutinue to arrive at the camp of the tribesmen near Melilla. The Moors have now more warriors than can be fed from the district to which they have immediate access, and a famine threatens. They have kept up a desultory fire on the Spaniar fortresses for the last 24-hours. The Spaniards have replied occasionally, but without perceptible effect.

The Moorish commander, with a small escort and a fiag of truce, called upon the Governor of Meilia Saturday evening and aud for peace. He assured the Governor that the Sultan's intention was to inflict exemplary punishment upon the belligenent tribesum. The Covernor replied that Spain could not and would not await the Sultan's pleasure in the matter, especially as he was taking his leisure in giving satisfaction for the attack on the forts.

The Moors fusiladed the Spanish gunboat Cuerva as she was leaving Meilila harbor after having landed troops and ammunition. The gunboat put about, and for twenty minutes shelled the Moorish camp. Twenty-four shells were sent into the centre of the Moor's position and their fire was silenced. One marine of the Moors is believed to have been considerable.

SERIOUS TROUBLE.

in Afghanistan-Arrival of th LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Calcutta correspondent of the Times says:—Lahore advices state that there was a serious disturbance in Cabul before the arrival of the British mission under Sir H. M. Durand on Monday. Malik Jan Khan, Assistant Commander in-Chief of the army, abused a Sepoy belonging to the Herati regiment, whereupon the Sepoys company fired a volley, killing Malik. The mutineers fled, but were oaught the same day. Eleven of them were hown from the cannon's mouth. All the troops were then sworn on the Koran to strict obedience of their commanders.

The Mission Well Received.
CALCUTTA. Oct. 9.—A despatch from Cabul from the special correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company with the Durand Mission, says the mission, escorted by horsemen, arrived safely at the Ameer's Garden at 11 o'clock. On the date the despatch was sent they were at the Garden and were received by a high official and saluted by a guard of honor in front of the reception room. The Ameer's son, dressed in a brilliant scarlet uniform, received the British officers and led the way to the reception room, which was a sort of open veranda with arches overlooking the beautiful gardens. Here the Ameer, surrounded by 50 of his most distinguished officers, was awaiting the coming of the visitors. The Ameer said he was convinced that the presence of the mission in Cabul would show the world that a true friendship existed between England and Afghanistan. After half an hour's conversation the mission retired. The Ameer said he hoped he would see the British officers often, and invited all to drive and walk where they pleased.

Five Deaths on the Voyage.

New York, Oct. 9.—The steamer Russia from Hamburg arrived at Quarantine station yesterday, and reported five deaths during the voyage. Two of the dead were cabin passengers and three were in the steerage. The deaths were all said to have been due to natural causes, but Dr. Jenkins decided to detain the vessel, disinfect the bagage and take every precaution against cholera. The ship belongs to the Hamburg-American Packet Co. and left Hamburg September 24 with a clean bill of health signed by Dr. White of the United States Marine Hospital service. She has 13 first cabin, 28 second cabin and 410 steerage passengers.

it shows therefore that the disinfecting properties of boffee have been long recognized by scientific people.

Numerous experiments with roasted coffee prove that it is the mess powerful means not only for rendering animal and vegetable effluvia innocuous, but of actually destroying them. A room in which meat in an advanced degree of decomposition had been kept for some time was instantly deprived of all smell on as open sofice roaster being carried through it containing a pound of coffee newly roasted. In another come exposed to the effluvium cocasioned by the cleaning out of the dung pit, so that sulphursted hydrogan and ammonis in great quantities could be chemically detected, the stench was completely removed in half a minute on the amployment of three ounces of fresh roasted coffee, whils the other parts of the house were prematurely cleared of the smell by being simply traversed with the coffee roaster, although the cleaning of the dung pit continued for several hours after.

The best mode of using the coffee as a disinfectant is to dry the raw bean, pound in a morter and then roast the powder on a moderately heated iron plate until it assumes a dark brown tint, when it is fit to use. Then sprinkle it in sinks or cesspools, or lay it on a plate in the room which you wish to have purified. Coffee acid by coffee oil acts more readily in minute quantities.

Machine Beits of Paper.

Paper belting for the purpose of transmitting power is the next thing which is going to astonish the manufacturing fraternity. The inventor was for five years assistant to the superintendent of power of one of the great factories in Lowell, Mass. It was while in this position, in which he had much to do with lacing and tightening belts, that he conceived the idea that belting made of paper could be made to do better work than either leather, rubber or cotton.

He argued that as a thick piece of paste-board can be made to take on a very firm, semooth and durable surface by holding the same against another moving surface for several minutes, that a larger giece of paper made in the form of a belt and permitted to run upon the surface of a pulley day after day would soon create upon its surface a firm, hard, shining coating that would last a long time.

In making the belts links made from paper pulp are used. As soon as a belt is put into working order a hard, shining coating appears upon the surface next the pulleys, and this becomes harder and harder as the months slip by. It becomes so hard finally that only the cold chisel can cut into it. Such a surface works well on the pulleys.

The Question of Good Eyes.

Native Patagonians, like other savage people, have very keen eyes for certain things—things which their modes of life have made it indispensable that they should notice. In other words, they are specialists, and as a matter of course they excel in their own particular line. But it does not follow that they have better eyes than are possessed by men of civilized countries.

Set one of them to find a reversed "a" in the middle of a printed page, says Mr. Hudson, and the tears would run down his brown cheeks, and he would give up the search with aching eyeballs. Barcelona, Sept. 25.—An Anarchist tried to kill Captain General Martinez de Campos Saturday with a bomb. A soldier of the civic guard was killed and five others were wounded so severely by pieces of shell that they will probably die. General de Campos was thrown to the ground by the shock. He was ploked up by officers of the staff and carried to his house. He was found to be comparatively uninjured. The man who threw the bomb was caught by the crowd and delivered to the police. He is said to have caused many explosions here in the last year.

How a Clever Insurance Swin dler Was Exposed.

AN AMATEUR DETECTIVE'S WORK.

Ignata Palzek was a native of Poland and came from that faraway country and located in Chicago a dozen years ago. He was a Polish Jew, a fine, gentlemanly ap-pearing, well educated fellow, a very smooth talker, and had the knack of makwas a Polish Jew, a fine, gentlemanly appearing, well educated follow, a very smooth talker, and had the knack of making friends quickly. He was soon established in business on Milwauke averance in a "gent's" furnishing store. A year passed, and one night Palzek's store and stock of goods were wiped out by fire-ago loss of $5,000-which was fully covered by insurance. The cause of the fire was never discovered. Palzek obtained the insurance money and soon started in business again on North avenue. Everything prospered with him, and after a short time Palzek informed his friends and acquaintances that he was going to the old country for the purpose of marrying a sweetheart he had left in Warraw, and that he would soon return to Chicago with his wife.

Several weeks after Palzek's departure for Poland his new place of business, which he had left in charge of a couple of clerks, acught fire, and the stock of goods was quickly consumed, the loss this time amounting to $7,000. Word was sent to Palzek at Warraw, and he hastened back to Chicago, bringing a pretty wife with him. The insurance companies were convinced that the last fire was the work of an incendiary, but all their efforts to prove that Palzek had a hand in causing the fire were without avail. He finally obtained $6,000 to cover the loss he had sustained.

Palzek then retired from actual business for awhile. He rented a flat on North revenue, where he installed his bride, and they seemed to live as happy as a pair of turtle doves. He joined several benevolent societies and became a member of the Odd Fellows, taking out a number of mutual insurance policies on his life in favor of his mysterious manner from his usual nature in Chicago.

After a couple of weeks a bloated floater was found drifting about in the lake off Lincoln park, which was finally identified by Mrs. Palzek as the remains of her lamented husband. The body was burled in a north side cemetery, and at a later date the widow had a headstone placed over the grays. Mrs. Palzek now sought to obtain the widow had a headstone placed over the grave. Mrs. Palzek now sought to obtain the life insurance due her from the various societies to which Palzek had belonged Some of the societies were in favor of settling with the widow at once, but Jack Bronson, who happened at that time to be the secretary of the Odd Fellows' society, prevailed upon them to await further developments or until the manner of Palzek's death had been more fully investigated. Detectives were sent to Cleveland, Cincinati and St. Louis, in which cities Palzek was known to have frieads. Every clew was known to have friends. Every clew was run down, but no trace of Palzek could be discovered.

Mrs. Palzek brought suit against the different benefit associations, and the matter was fought in the courts for nearly two was fought in the courts for nearly two years.

Jack Bronson had never given up the idea that Palzek was still alive, and was ever alert to obtain clews to strengthen that belief. He saw a little item in a Minneapolis paper giving an account of a man named Kelmer, said to be a Polish Jew, whose place of business had been burned. He went to Minneapolis and spent a week hunting for the man Kelmer—in fact, hunted up every Polish Jew in the city, none of whom answered Palzek's description. Kelmer had obtained the insurance for the fire mentioned and had then disappeared.

Bronson went to St. Paul and obtained information about a Mrs. Max Jerrish, whose husband had shot and attempted to kill her some months previously. He called upon the lady and learned that she had married a Polish Jew at St. Cloud, Minn. married a Polish Jew at St. Cloud, Minn. They had removed to St. Paul, and for a year or so her husband had done business both in Minneapolis and St. Paul. She stated that Jerrish had returned to St. Paul from one of his trips a couple of months before, became very jealous of his wife, and during a family row had shot her through the lungs. She came near dying, but finally recovered. Jerrish was arrested and tried for assault to murder, and had been sentenced to the penitentiary for five years.

Bronson went to Stillwater and visited Bronson went to Stillwater and visited the prison to see Max Jerrish. The prisoner was brought into the center of the room, directly beneath an electric light, and when faced about so that Bronson could see his face the Chicago man exclaimed, "Well, I'll be d—d if that ain't Ignatz Palzek come to life again."

The convict gave a frightened look at Bronson, and turning deadly pale grasped the back of a chair for support, and finally sinking into the seat buried his face in his hands. He would not talk to Bronson, refused any explanation regarding his criminal career and surlily demanded that the warden return him to his prison cell.

inal career and surlily demanded that the warden return him to his prison cell. Bronson obtained from Warden Horndeck a photograph of Conwict Jerrish, and with this valuable bit of evidence that Palzek was still alive returned to Chicago. Mrs. Palzek got wind of the affair and disappeared, and the insurance suits were dropped. Jack Bronson, who told this story to a reporter of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, is now a member of Captain Bonfield's force of detectives at the World's fair. His work in the Palzek case was his first venture as a Vidocq.

The newspapers declared that the oulprit eught to be punished more adequately than by mere dismissal.

**Making Only Perfect Goods.

"Yes," said, years ago, David Maydole, the well known hatmer maker," I have made hammers in this little village, my native home, for 28 years." "Well, then," and the late James Parton, historian and lecturer, shouting into the best car of the very deaf old gentleman, "by this time you ought to make a pretty good hammer." "No, I can't," was the reply. "I can't make a perfety hammer. I make the best hammer that's made. My only care is to make a perfect hammer. I make just as many of them as people want and no more, and I sell them at a fair price. If folks don't want to pay me what they're worth, they're welcome to buy cheaper ones somewhere else. My wants are few, and I'm ready at any time to go back to my black-smith's shop. That's where I worked 40 years ago, before I thought about making hammers. Then I had a boy to blow my bellows; now I have 115 men.

"Do you see them over there watching the hammers cook over the charcoal furnace, as your cook, if she knows what she's about, watches chops broilling! Mastering the Situation. Mastering the Situation.
The diffident young man had waited to propose to the girl, but for the life of him he did not know how to go about it. He read books on the subject and sought information from men who had experience, and while the theories were admirable in every instance he found that the practice thereof was a different thing. He was walking with her one evening, thinking over thereof was a differentithing. He was walking with her one evening, thinking over these things, when her shoe became untied. She stuck out her pretty little boot with a smile, looked down at it, and he fell on his knees and tied the lace.

How Tryon Floated the Ship.

The late Admiral Tryon was a very big man. Apropos of this fact, the writer of a biography of him tells a droll story. The admiral was once, apparently from his own ship, watching an attempt that was being made to float another ship which had grounded. By some mischance he fell overboard: Just, as he did as the ship which had grone aground foated. Accordingly the saflors aftergrand held that Tryon had, not fallen, but thrown himself into the sea, and that his object was to raise the level of the water so as to enable the stranded ship to come off. This object, they declared, he had undoubtedly achieved.—London Tit-Bits.

The Peach Was Once an Almond.

The peach is declared by a horticultural authority to be an improved variety of the almond. The almond has a thin shell around the stone, which splits open and exposes it when mature. The outer skin has simply become fleshy in the peach. It seems now clear from investigation in the history of ancient Babylon that in their gardens, now nearly 4,000 years ago, the peach was cultivated then as it is now, and this fact goes to show the great antiquity of the fruit.

The word "larceny" does not appear in the new criminal code, the word "theft" being used to cover all kinds of stealing, large or small. Notwithstanding this fact, there have been several peculiar occurrences in the vicinity of the "avenoo." The orchard of a non-resident landlord relatives.

Deceased was 27 years of age and passed the early years of his life in this village. About twelve years ago he went to Potsdam, N. Y., where he child of nature) informed him that a certain citizen, whose reputation for honesty had hitherto been above reproach, was the thief. This charge was brought to the ears of the citizen aforesaid, and, being innocent, he felt deeply grieved that his probity had been brought in question, and resolved, if possible, to discover the identity of the thief. A few nights after, he heard a noise in the land-lord's orchard and providing himself lord's orchard and providing himself with a dark-lantern he stealthily invaded the premises. Arrived at the spot from whence the noise proceeded he flashed the lantern around and soon focuseed it upon a well-known and wealthy citizen of the west end, who was up in the branches of an apple tree. But a sweeter satisfacapple tree. But a sweeter satisfac-tion awaited him, for as he lowered the lantern its brilliant rays revealed the presence of two women, one of whom was the person who had whom was the person falsely accused him. The trio, though in no way related to each other, were acting in perfect accord and gathering the forbidden fruit in fine style, when the lanter, was introduced and the performers called off. Verily, the way of the transgressor, illuminated with a dark-lantern, is not pleasant to contemplate. No action at law has yet been taken to punish the thieves How to Get a "Sunlight" Picture.

Hamburg, Oct. 9.—Prince Bismarck's special train from Kissingen reached Friedrichsruhe.

Hamburg, Oct. 9.—Prince Bismarck's special train from Kissingen reached Friedrichsruhe at 11.67 o'clock on Saturday evening. Bismarck had hardly felt the fatigue of the journey, and as he stepped on the platform was apparently in better spirits than at any previous time since the beginning of his illness. With a gesture of impatience he declined Dr. Schweningers offer of assistance.

The Prince's old head forester in full uniform had been at the station two hours superintending arrangements for the reception of his master and mistress. He hurried up to inquire after the Prince's health and the whereabouts of the rest of the party, who were looking after bundles on the train.

"We are all here, thank the good God," said Bismarck, "and I feel better already." Only the head forester and the railway officials had been admitted to the station. Two carriages were waiting for the party.

From that short account we make the following extracts: "Joshua Warren was born in the year 1843 near Elgin in the county of Leeds, Ont., and had two brothers who counted their birth-days from the same hour, or, in other words, he was a triplet. The triplets were named Caleb, Joshua and David. David was killed by a falling tree, several years ago, in Pennsylvania, and the other baother, Caleb, lives at Chatauqua, N. Y. Joshua married a daughter of Justus Coon, of Elgin. The Telegraph of Friend, Nebraska, paid Mr. Warren, this tribute in an editorial last fall: "Mr. Warren is a public spirited man and his purse strings are always opened for the furthering of any object for the public good." The many friends of Mr. Warren in Athens, Elgin, Brockville, and throughout the county

Meilo's Demand.

New York, Oct, 9.—The Herald's Montevideo correspondent cables; information reached here last night that Admiral Mello, commanding the insurgent squadron in the bay of Rio Janeiro, had ordered Peixoto to abandon the city within forty-eight hours or the fleet will resume its bombardment of the city.

The diplomatic corps is in favor of Peixoto withdrawing from Rio Janeiro, as it believes such a course on his part would terminate the war. Peixoto, however, refuses to yield, and is making fresh preparations to carry on operations with greater vigor than he has yet shown. One of his new projects is to combat Mello's fleet with ships as well as the shore batteries. To this end the Government has ordered the organization of a naval division of the north, which will be placed under the command of Admiral Gonsalves Duarte. The Government has also opened a $5,000,000 credit to meet the expenses of the war.

a $5,000,000 credit to meet the expenses of the war.

Mello's ships, which, it was supposed, were plentifully supplied with stores of all kinds, are running short of ammunition. The diplomatic corps in Rio Janeiro has notified Mello that he must abstain from throwing shot and shell into the unde-fended parts of the town, otherwise the foreign ships in the harbor will be or ter-ed to prevent him from bombarding the town.

Peixoto has driven the inhabitants into a state of frenzy by planting batteries on a hill among private residences. When these guns open fire on the ships the fleet will direct its shot at them in an effort to silence them. These shells 'falling among the houses are sure to work irreparable damage to one of the finest residential districts of the city.

The diplomatic corps has notified Peixoto that if he will remove his batteries from the water front and other points where he has planted his guns and cease firing on the ships under Mello, the foreign warships in the harbor will combine to stop the bombardment of the city. Peixoto has declined to listen to this proposal, and declares he will continue fighting, as he believes he is able to crush the revolt in the squadron.

Affairs have assumed a serious aspect not only in Rio Janeiro, but also in Rio Grande do Sul, where the revolutionists are supreme. The city of Bage has fallen into the hands of the insurgent element of the Rio Grande do Sul, No Further Bombardment.
