REVISION OF THE WESLEY HYMN BOOK.—Early in July a special committee of fifteen (appointed by the last General Conference of the Methodist Church in Canada) will meet in Quebec for the purpose of considering what it is best to do with the hymn book now used by that denomination. It is understood that there are several proposals to be laid before the committee. These include the revision of the present book and the substitution of the book used in England. The members selected from the London Conference are Rev. W. W. Williams, pastor of the Centenary Church in Hamilton, and Rev. John A. Williams, of St. Thomas. The committee will report to the General Conference which meets in Montreal in September next.

GUELPH METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING.—The annual meeting was held in Preston May 21 and 22, Rev. E. B. Ryckman, M. A., Guelph, chairman, presiding, and R. W. Williams, Berlin, acting as secretary. There were from 25 to 30 clergymen, and nearly as many laymen. The finances of all the circuits and stations were reported in a very healthy condition—considerably in advance of last year. The meeting confirmed the division of the Berlin circuit as recommended by the official meeting. Rev. H. McLean was elected as district representative to the stationing committee, Rev. James McAllister, to the Sunday School Committee, and Dr. McIntyre to the Missionary Committee. T. Hilliard, Waterloo; W. H. Storey, Acton; and Donald Wallace, Ponsonby, were elected lay delegates to the general conference to meet in Montreal next September.

ELORA.—The pounding of cattle is carried on in a commendable manner. Some parties who released their animals in a surreptitious manner are likely to get into trouble.—Alex. Spalding has removed to Bracebridge.—There are forty-three candidates for the High School entrance examinations.—There is some talk of organizing classes for drill at the High and Public schools of this village.—The Express in giving an account of the damage sustained by the late thunder storm, says Joseph French, Pilkington, had a barn blown over; Mr. Samuel Webster, Elora, eleven large lights of glass broken; Mr. W. Polkinghorn, Pilkington, about five acres of standing timber blown down, and one heifer killed. Mr. Cotton Amy, of the same township, about five acres of bush blown down; Mr. James Gerrie, of Nicol, barn partially unroofed; an old unoccupied building in Salem partially blown from its foundation. J. & W. Watt, part of barn unroofed; Joseph Thomson part of barn unroofed. A large quantity of fencing was blown down.

ACTON.—Richard Hamilton has left for Bracebridge, where he has received the contract for building an addition to Mr. Beardmore's new tannery.——The congregation of St. Alban's church lately presented the organist, Miss R. Stone, with a purse containing $12.25 as a mark of appreciation of her services.——The body of the late Robert Fisher was buried with the honors of a Knight of Pythias, on the 17th inst.

The Temperance Men and the Tory Requisition.

To the Editor of the MERCURY.

SIR,—In your paper of Saturday the 25th, you very properly caution your readers against falling into a trap by signing a requisition now being hawked from door to door by a person whose name I need not mention, but who is evidently intended by the wire-pullers to pass as a representative of the great Temperance interests of this Riding.

Permit me to say that neither the party above referred to, nor any other member of the Temperance Association of this town is in any way authorized to convey such an impression. Indeed, I am satisfied in saying that the great bulk of the consistent Temperance people of the Dominion feel under a debt of gratitude to the present Government for their firm and timely legislation in the cause of morality, and it will certainly be passing strange if even a respectable minority of Temperance people can be found here or elsewhere willing to sacrifice their principles as Christian workers in a noble cause on the altar of party politics.

We all know, Mr. Editor, that this whole movement has but one object in view, that is, to lift John A. Macdonald and the Tory party back into office. Could any greater calamity happen to the cause we all desire to see prosper? I say no, and when the hour comes as come it will soon, when each of us shall have the right of aiding in deciding the question between honesty and dishonesty, between political morality and political corruption, such as the leader of the Opposition has more than once been convicted of, then, sir, it will be seen that Canada is still sound, and overwhelmingly in favor of the upright and honest men who have for the past five years safely guided the ship of State through the huge breakers and muddy waters raised by Sir John Macdonald and his party before they were hurled from office.

There can be no possible objection to any number of requisitions being signed, so long as it is done in a fair and honest way, but when we see a Tory requisition refusing Tory names, clearly because it would spoil the little game, then it is high time that honorable men on either party should frown down such a transparent piece of humbug.

Why the necessity of a requisition at all, except as a means to deceive by misrepresentation, as in the case of the sewing machines, and thereby obtain the signatures of certain unthinking persons, believing that they will afterwards vote the Tory ticket. Who has not known ever since the Tory Convention in Toronto, that the gentleman to whom this document is addressed has been the chosen of the party? and is to receive the "United Empire Club" support after a Reform nomination had been made. Then why go through all this humbug, for little else is it? Let the candidate come out like a man, and my word for it he shall have enough to do, as I trust there will be no fooling this time, and no cry, that both candidates are politically the same, but slightly differing on the Tariff. That dodge took in 1876, it cannot be repeated in 1878.

Yours &c.,
TEMPERANCE REFORMER.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE MEETING OF A CONGRESS.

Understanding Between Russia and England.

RUSSIAN PECUNIARY EMBARRASSMENT.

Austria's Attitude Causing Uneasiness at St. Petersburg.

LONDON, May 27.

Eugene Schuyler, Consul-General at Constantinople, who arrived at New York on Saturday, thinks war between England and Russia unlikely. He denies that he has been recalled, and says he asked leave of absence himself.

It is reported in Berlin that invitations to the Congress were despatched yesterday. If matters are satisfactorily concluded, a treaty replacing the modified treaties of Paris and San Stefano will be signed at Berlin. The first steps for a definite arrangement were due to the efforts of Schouvaloff and the German Crown Prince.

Accounts from every capital in Europe concur as to the certainty of an early meeting of the Congress; but considerable anxiety is still apparent about military preparations and the situation before Constantinople. The attitude of Austria especially creates apprehensions at St. Petersburg, and these will not be allayed by the occupation of Adakaleh, which is Austria's overt demonstration against Russia's settlement of the Eastern question, Russia having promised that island to Servia.

In St. Petersburg it is rumoured that the Russian Imperial Bank is so heavily indebted that the Government dare not continue the publication of the weekly returns. The bank's affairs are in an almost hopeless confusion. A continued issue of paper money to cover deficits will be necessary if the bank is to go on.

Great secrecy is still maintained at St. Petersburg about the process of negotiations. The unofficial press is beginning to attack the peaceful uttarances of the Agence Russe and Journal de St. Petersburg. The Golos calls upon the Government to abandon its reserve and tell Russia whether the reports about yielding to England's demands are true.

In the House of Lords this afternoon Lord Salisbury said that, whilst unable to enter into details or make any definite statement, he would confirm the statement made by Sir Stafford Northcote.

A Vienna despatch to Brussels announces that Andrassy has accepted Bismarck's invitation to a Congress on June the 11th. Andrassy proposes to leave for Berlin on June the 9th.

A despatch to London confirms the report Andrassy has accepted the invitation to a Congress.

A Vienna correspondent states that Austria has not yet received an invitation to the Congress. Baron D'Haymerele, Austrian Ambassador at Rome, is mentioned as the second plenipotentiary to accompany Andrassy. Doubtless there are still points requiring settlement. What has been already attained is merely a basis for a more detailed discussion.

The Agence Russe says:—The general impression is that the prospect is favourable for peace. The Austrian occupation of the Island of Adakaleh receives the sanction of the Powers, because it tends to obviate the difficulties touching the navigation of the Danube.

Vienna papers confirm the announcements that Russia has consented to lay the treaty before a Congress, that all the Powers have agreed to the proposal, and that invitations have been issued for a Congress in Berlin on the 11th of June.

A Paris correspondent says:—It is thought the Congress will come to an agreement on the chief points and leave the settlement of details to the resident Ambassadors and second plenipotentiaries, the principals meeting again to ratify.

A Vienna despatch reports that Austria has notified the Powers that if Adakaleh ceasses to be Turkish it can only become Austrian.

A Bucharest despatch says:—The Austrians have occupied the northern entrance of the Predeal Pass of the Corpathian Mountains.

A Vienna correspondent hears that Austria recently made advances for co-operation with England in a Congress.

A Copenhagen despatch states that five Russian steamers, including two iron-clads, have passed through the Sound within a week, and several others are expected.

A despatch from Bucharest says:—Roumania protests against a widespread Communistic propaganda by Russian soldiers.

A Bucharest despatch says:—Prince Charles returned to-day. 30,000 Austrian troops are expected shortly at Orsova.

A Pesth despatch says:—A disturbance occurred to-day in Belgrade, and the crowd pelted Prince Milan's palace and cheered for Karageorgevitch.

An Athens despatch says:—Only two and a half regiments of Turks now remain in Thessaly.

Primitive Methodist Conference.

LONDON, May 25.

On re-consideration the new station formed at Sebringville was attached to Mitchell, and a married and single preacher sent there.

Much of the session was occupied in the reception of reports of Committees, which are of little importance to the public.

Twelve candidates were recommended for the itinerancy, which were accepted, and were placed on the reserve list.

The resignation of Rev. W. H. Law was accepted.

The transfers of Revs. H. Parrish and A. Heyworth to England were favorably entertained.

A letter of condolence was ordered to be sent to Mrs. Lazenby, expressing sympathy with her in the loss of her husband by drowning during the early part of the connexional year.

The first draft of the stations was made immediately after the commencement of the session. The remainder of the session was occupied in considering the position of the Montreal station which was not passed before Conference adjourned.

Immediately at the close of the Conference a love-feast was held. It was largely attended; a very great many related their Christian experience, and a good meeting was enjoyed.

The Bank of Commerce intend to open an agency in Paris at an early date.

SOUTH WELLINGTON.

Large and Enthusiastic Meetings of Mr. Guthrie's Supporters.

According to notice given some days ago, a large and influential meeting was held at Ospringe last evening, in the interests of Mr. Guthrie. We noticed amongst those present many of the old Reformers who have fought the battles of their party in times past, and who are free from every symptom of weakness or protection fallacy. Messrs. Melvin and Johnston accompanied Mr. Guthrie. Mr. Geo. Martin was appointed chairman and Mr. Wm. Sunter secretary. The Chairman, in a few happy remarks, called on Mr. Guthrie to address the electors.

Mr. Guthrie on coming forward was received with applause. After some preliminary remarks as to the time the elections were likely to come off, he said that as he had been the steward of the people for the past year, it was but right that he should give an account of his service. In referring to the circumstances of the last contest, he might say that there were secret influences at work, not for the purpose of bringing out a Conservative candidate, but of splitting the Reform ranks. The same thing is at work now, and it behooves all Reformers to be careful and vigilant. There can be nothing but Tory or Reform candidates. There is no such thing as an Independent party in the House. The object of the contest is not to get an Independent party in the House, but to return Sir John to power. The No Party or National Policy cry, is neither manly nor honest. It is adopted by those who dare not bring out a Conservative candidate, as is now being done in South Wellington. Speaking of the wise legislation of the last two sessions, the first measure the speaker referred to was that introduced by Mr. Blake, to prevent bloodshed and trouble in the carrying of firearms, &c. The Maritime Court of Ontario is another of the progressive measures of the present Goverment, and places Ontario in that respect on the same footing as the Lower Provinces. The Insolvent Act was also amended, so as to prevent any miscarriage of justice. Then we had Acts consolidating the Customs. An Act amending the Mutual Life Insurance Companies doing business in Canada, and giving better security to our policy holders. An Act relating to Joint Stock Companies, and an Act passed as to the regulation of Weights and Measures. The Independence of Parliament Act was also remedied, and made more in accordance with common sense and equity. Not only were there many good acts passed since he was elected, but there were several important Committees at work as well. The Northern Railway Committee brought to light a scheme of the Tories by which they used the people's money to further their elections. The sum of $27,000 was paid back to the country as a result of the investigation. The Secret Service Committee did good work in exposing the fraudulent retention of the sum of $6,600 by Sir John. Another Committee, the one on the coal question, showed the hellowness and selfishness of the National Policy party. The vote showed the folly of the whole scheme. The majority of the Nova Scotians themselves voted against a duty on coal. The coal oil ring was instanced as a sample of the fruits of protection.

Mr. Wright here interrupted and asked if he would be allowed to reply.

Mr. Henry Dunbar suggested that the electors did not want any pamphlet throwing at this meeting, but if Mr. Wright wanted a discussion, there was material enough amongst the farmers of Erin to meet him. Mr. Wright thought he would defer speaking until the evening meeting at Erin.

Mr. Guthrie after stating that he had no objection to allow Mr. Wright every opportunity of replying, went on to say that as the consumer paid the duty every cent put on by the Government increased the price to the great bulk of the population. He instanced several cases to illustrate the truth of his position. If the producer pays the duty, all we have to do is to put on a high protective tariff, and make the Yankees pay all our taxes. Sir John himself had tried it in 1866 and repealed it in 1868. In 1870 it was tried again, and was repealed in the following year. After a clear exposition of the policy of the Government, Mr. Guthrie took his seat amidst cheers.

The following resolutions were then put and carried unanimously:—

That this meeting heartily endorse the policy of the Mackenzie Administration during the late term of Parliament, and believe that their course in regard to the tariff question, their economical management, their wise and judicious legislation are in the best interests of Canada, and deserve the support of every one who desires to see Canada a prosperous and progressive country.

That having heard our worthy member, Mr Guthrie, on the legislation of the last two sessions of Parliament, and also a clear statement of his views on the political questions of the day, that this meeting of the electors of Erin do hereby express their confidence in his ability and integrity as our representative. And do hereby pledge ourselves to use all lawful and honest endeavors to secure his triumphant return for the South Riding of Wellington at the coming election.

THE ERIN MEETING.

There was a large attendance of electors at Clark's Hall, Erin, an hour or so after the Ospringe meeting, for the purpose of hearing their representative in the Commons, Mr. D. Guthrie. The large hall was filled, and judging from the enthusiasm displayed by those present, the Reformers have no reason to fear any falling off from the old reliable township of Erin.

Mr. Hugh Milloy was appointed chairman, and Mr. Thos. Young acted as secretary. The chairman, after alluding to the nature of the present crisis and the position of public affairs in a forcible manner, then introduced Mr. Guthrie to the audience.

Mr. Guthrie was cordially received. In speaking of the nature of the last contest, a couple of years ago, he said it was a sort of mild protest against the fiscal policy of the Government, but now it is a question of whether we shall have Sir John or Mackenzie at the head of affairs. The present cries are for the purpose of returning Sir John to power. The whole affair is nothing but an election dodge, and it is shown to be a Tory scheme by the fact that Sir John is the father of the whole National League. The late votes in the House showed that the feeling of the country was against anything like a protective tariff, and that if such a move were made, it would create nothing but corrupt rings, monopolies, and sectional jealousy and ill-feeling. The speaker fully exposed many of the National Policy fallacies, and asserted that this is not the only question before the electors. He showed that there were many vital matters for the electors to decide upon, and he trusted that Erin would not be backward in giving expression to her opinion on the questions of the day. He then briefly gave a resume of the principal legislation enacted by the Government during the last two sessions, and sketched, in a graphic manner, the work and effect of the Parliamentary Committees. The Anglin case was dealt with, and the unfairness and disreputable tactics of Sir John and his followers clearly shown up. As to the financial expenditure of the Dominion, at Confederation, the yearly expenditure was about thirteen millions, but under the Conservative mismanagement it increased to something over twenty-three millions in 1873. The present Reform Administration have been able to keep it down to that figure. In dealing with the conduct of the Senate during the past session the speaker very forcibly pointed out the anomalous position that body occupies, and suggested that the constitution of that august assemblage should be amended conformably to common sense and justice. Many of the measures of the people's representatives were during last session either mutilated or thrown out by the Senate, which is responsible to no one for its acts. By its partizan spirit it deprived the people of Manitoba of railway facility by the manner in which the Pembina Railway Bill was treated. The Quebec crisis was dealt with, and the action of the Lieutenant-Governor shown to be both constitutional and expedient. Sir John's course in regard to the National Policy question in the past was clearly proved to be entirely different to that which he would lead us to believe he wishes to adopt now. The speaker concluded an able and enthusiastic speech of two hours' duration, and sat down amidst applause.

Mr. A. W. Wright followed and congratulated Mr. Blake on his great statesmanlike acts. He dealt principally with protection, and contented himself with replying to the National Policy speech of Mr. Guthrie at Ospringe. He did not deny the accusation of throwing a pamphlet at Col. Clarke's head at the previous meeting.

Mr. Johnston replied to some of his protective sophisims, and Mr. Melvin in an effective speech placed the whole question before the electors in a clear and concise manner.

Resolutions were then put by the Chairman expressive of the utmost confidence in the Mackenzie Administration, and of the satisfaction with Mr. Guthrie's course. The meeting broke up shortly after eleven, with three rousing cheers for the Reform candidate for South Wellington.

Daily Mercury.

TUESDAY EVEN'G, MAY 28, 1878.

The Campaign.

The first of a series of meetings in the interest of the Reform party in South Wellington was held on Mouday in the Township of Erin. The present opportunity has been taken by Mr. Guthrie to meet his constituents, and render them an account of his stewardship, and we believe no more fitting time could have been selected. The seeding is through amongst the farmers, and the opposition has made just sufficient excitement to whet the appetites of its hearers for something more substantial than vaporings about patriotism and national humbugs. In fact, we believe the fuss raised in this Riding by the emissaries of the League and a couple, or probably, three pliable tools seduced from our ranks by the blandishments and toadyism of a few Tories, has been productive of more good than harm to the candidature of Mr. Guthrie. Intelligent people, such as we find in South Wellington, are not likely to either trust or believe in the unbounded—we were about to say, cheek, but we will call it enthusiasm and fervor of some of the newly made converts of Toryism. The Tories themselves stand aghast at the wholesale way in which these unfortunate individuals swallow the formerly bitter and nauseous pill—Sir John and the Pacific Scandal. The result is, the people say, and very justly too, that the present opponents of the Reform policy are not and cannot be sincere so far as those who are at the head of the National Policy movement in Wellington are concerned. This alone has been sufficient to prevent the progress of political error to any great extent and the large and thoroughly enthusiastic meetings of Monday fully justify the assertion we have made in regard to the political feeling here.

The step taken by Mr. Guthrie is a proper one. We have nothing to fear from public discussion and investigation, and the present series of meetings will place the Reform party in a proper light, and enable it to assert its voice with a true ring in the political contest of this Riding, as it always has done in the past. And, as far as we are concerned, we have no hesitation in both saying and believing that this constituency is true to the core, and will shake off the unsanctified compact of uncompromising Tory and backsliding Grit, now attempted to be formed amongst us. We do not propose to shut our eyes to the present game of the Tories, nor do we intend to palliate the conduct of any man who attempts to blindfold the electors under an assumed cloak, and we advise the electors to be on the watch for those who perambulate the country with no other end in view than a selfish one.

We are authorized by Mr. Stirton to contradict in an unqualified manner the assertion contained in yesterday's Herald, as to his interference in political matters. It is without foundation, and is but another instance of the unscrupulous and mean policy of our opponents. Unable to meet Reformers on the square issues of the day, they resort to a scurrilous mode of warfare, in which neither the sanctity of privacy nor the personal honor of innocent men is safe.

The Pinkerton Woollen Mills, County of Bruce, have been purchased by a firm in Galt, who purpose to add to the business hitherto carried on there that of the manufacture of cloth knitted goods, etc., and it is certain the enterprise will prove successful.

The Toronto workingmen's reception to Mr. Mackenzie on Thursday promises to be of a most successful nature. A very large number of tickets, over 7,000, have been issued, and still there is an increasing demand for them. The speech of the Premier, it is understood, is to be a historical retrospect of the politics of Canada, since Confederation, in addition to which Mr. Mackenzie will entertain his audience on the trade question.

Messrs. F. E. Kilvert, Mayor of Hamilton, and Thomas Robertson, Q.C., were nominated on Monday evening at a large and enthusiastic meeting to contest Hamilton in the Conservative interest at the forthcoming elections for the Commons. The meeting was exceedingly tame throughout, little or no enthusiasm being manifested.

Dr. Orton in Trouble.

(From the Hamilton Times.)

"Government newspapers, especially the Fergus one, keep on repeating the falsehood that Dr. Orton, in the course of his remarks on the coal motion in Parliament, said he would not vote for it if he thought it would carry. Why cannot they have the honesty to add all the words, as a separate proposal, which he used?"—Guelph Herald.

Dr. Orton did not qualify his assertion as is stated in the above extract. He rose in his place and affected to treat the whole matter as a sublime joke. He indulged in some badinage, but it was so heavy and dull in quality that he was thought to be in earnest. He told Mr. Mackay, of Cape Breton, who moved for the duty on coal, that he was trifling with the question and trying to catch votes; that he was not, honest, and that if he (Orton believed that he (Mackay) were, and that the motion would carry he would vote against it, but as he was convinced the Government would vote it down he (Orton) would vote with him (Mackay). To be sure, it was an extraordinary statement for a sane member of Parliament on the floor of the House to make, that he was prepared to cast his vote as a sort of joke, and it was a pitiful humiliation for so fine a Riding as Centre Wellington, but such was the fact. As we supposed and hoped, the indignant electors are calling him roughly to task about it. Had Dr. Orton voted under the crack of the party whip he would not have made such a simpleton of himself or he would have had an excuse acceptable to his party, but for once he tried to be independent or something else and he is now suffering the consequences. Such exhibitions are perfectly natural in men who have no minds of their own, and entrust their consciences to the keeping of others. Centre Wellington should guard against this in future by sending a fit and proper representative to Ottawa.

The Tornado in Wisconsin.—Further reports from the tornado districts indicate the loss of life and property was far greater than at first reported. The reports indicate that thirty lives were lost, and fifty to a hundred injured, in this county alone. The track of the storm is every where marked by desolation and ruin. Its width was from a quarter to half a mile.

Mount Forest.—Mr. Coyne is now agent for Vicker's Express, in place of Mr. T. G. Smith, resigned.——A base ball club, under the name of Live Oaks, has been organized, and the following officers elected: —Capt. Winfield, President; W. Connor, Vice-President; Thos. Cross, Captain; D. Ross, Sec.-Treas. Match Committee—D. Davidson, S. A. Dunbar, and W. W. Winfield. A team was selected to contest North Wellington for the Champion Belt offered by Mr. J. Fraser for competition. ——David Jamieson, formerly a printer employed in the Examiner office, has passed his final examination at the College of Physicians and Surgeons without an oral.

Mr. McCarthy, an Irish architect living in London, had a pleasant surprise the other day. Whilst at breakfast a Government letter was brought to him announcing that $2,500,000 in cash awaited his order, being the first instalment of a fortune of $25,000,000 left by a deceased cousin in Australia, five-sixths of which will come to him in addition to an income of $750,000 a year from real estate. Four of his brothers get $1,000,000 a piece. Mr. O'Keefe, who had amassed this immense fortune, died without a will, and the heirs were advertised for. More than a hundred "heirs" put in their claims, Mr. McCarthy among the others, and it turned out that he was the right man.

Joseph Cunnington, a farmer from Peel county, lately lost $14 by the old cheque swindle. He loaned that amount to a gentlemanly sharper, taking as security a valueless cheque for $1,300. The trick has been tried time and again, and still people are caught by it. It is of little consequence whether the person has ever heard of a swindle before or not, if he has judgment enough to keep his money in his pocket.

Convocation week in connection with the University of Victoria College, Cobourg, commenced on Sunday in the Methohist Church. This morning Rev. Dr. S. S. Nelles, President of the Unversity, preached the annual sermon. In the evening the church was crowded to excess to hear a sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. Ormiston, of New York.

Mr. Robert Denny, of Erin, had three sheep worried by dogs one day last week.

Northwood, Iowa, has fixed the price of a saloon license at $10,000 a year.

During the recent fire in New Hamburg, while the proprietor of the Commercial Hotel was helping his needy neighbors, some one forced the lock of the bar-room and stole $19, from the till.

It is asserted that if Congress does not before adjournment make an appropriation to pay the Fisheries award, the President will call an extra session for that purpose.

The project of holding a Congress of Socialists at Gotha has been abandoned, owing to the determination of the German Government to enforce the existing press and sedition laws in the absence of a special measure against such proceedings.

A full overgrown wretch by the name of Blewin, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail the other day for striking a poor helpless cripple by the name of Carson, who is attending school at Georgetown.

At the recent meeting of Wellington district Canada Methodist church, at Gorrie, Robt. Hay, Maryborough; Wm. Tasker, Mount Forest; and J. E. Carson, Listowel, were appointed lay delegates to the General Conference which meets at Montreal in September. John Anderson, Arthur, was elected to represent the district on the missionary committee of the annual conference.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT BRUSSELS.

(By Telegraph.)

Brussels, May 28.

Last night the following places of business were consumed by fire:—

Parker's hotel and stables; G. Davidson's harness shop; T. Fletcher's jewellery store; Little Bro's bookstore; Canadian Express Office; Dominion Telegraph Office; J. Tate's grocery and liquor store; J. Couson's butcher shop; J. Mannell's livery stable; and Carson's shoe store.

Had it not been for valuable services rendered by the fire engine hardly a house in the business portion of the town would have escaped destruction.

The Arthur village Council has finally passed the By-law granting $12,000 to the Arthur Junction Railway.

Railway Meeting.—At a late meeting held in Palmerston, on motion of Mr. Rabb, seconded by Mr. McBain, and supported by Messrs. Thompson and McDermott, the meeting pledged the town to cooperate with Wallace, Minto and Harriston, in securing the necessary bonuses for locating the Stratford and Huron Railway in these municipalities.

Funeral of an Orangeman.—Mr. John Stone, farmer, of the 14th con., Maryboro', died on the 16th, of dyspepsia. The funeral of deceased took place on Saturday following, and was the occasion of a large Orange gathering. He was borne to the grave from his abode by members of the 14th Lodge, and was followed by the Rothsay and Moorefield Lodges, and the Rothsay O. Y. B., numbering together about three hundred, besides a large number of friends.

A Warning to Emigrants.—The Winnipeg Free Press gives this warning, which cannot be too extensively published here: "Over and over again have we warned poverty-stricken people of all kinds against coming to Manitoba; and our warnings have been very generally republished by our Canadian exchanges. But, while without doubt, this action has been to some purpose, it is evident that the effect is not what either the friends of this country or humanitarians might desire. Let us say once more, there is no room in this country for penniless people. We have too many of that kind here already. Manitoba is an inviting field for few besides farmers with a capital of at least from $500 to $1,000, and large capitalists. Most people who disregard our advice in this respect, will certainly wish they had heeded it before they have been in Manitoba a month.

Credit Valley Railway.—The Galt Reporter speaks plainly on this subject. In referring to it the question is asked:—"Is the present season to pass over as have the previous two? Is nothing to be done towards giving our people some return for their expenditure on behalf of the enterprise? Is timber to be left rotting on the ground, embankments to be washed away with every rain that falls, cuttings to be gradually but surely filled up with the debris of their sides, for another season? If so, let us know it at once. We have passed the stage of timidity in regard to this enterprise, and now only ask that we may know what the Directors have in store for us. Speak out, then, gentlemen, even if it is all at once. We will guarantee to understand you."

Fergus.—The last monthly fair was fairly attended. The prices ranged from $3.50 to $5.50 per cwt.——Mr. Thomas Buckland, who was so badly injured by a kick from the vicious stallion, British Ensign, has been pronounced by Drs. Orton and Griffith, the physicians in attendance, to be out of danger.——The News Record explains the item copied into the Mercury a couple of weeks ago from the Manitoba Free Press, in regard to finding on the bank of the river at Kildonan a gun, books, papers, photographs, etc., which evidently belonged to one Arthur D. Cadenhead, formerly of Fergus. The Record says that on the 1st of April Arthur D. Cadenhead, son of Mr. A. S. Cadenhead, started from Fergus for Manitoba, in company with his uncle, Mr. John Cadenhead. They left their heavy baggage at Emerson, and instructed the captain of one of the steamers to carry it up and land it on the river bank, opposite Scratching River P. O., on the Red River. The luggage has been missing ever since; and at latest accounts although the Messrs. Cadenhead had made diligent search, they were at the time of writing unable to obtain any trace of it. These facts leave little room to doubt but the luggage, among which were the articles described, instead of being landed at the point directed, was carried on to Kildonan, which is far beyond.

Affairs in the States.—A young man who left Ottawa not long since for the United States, has addressed a letter to the Ottawa Herald, which throws some light on the Fenian movement. He says:—"It is but a short time since I left your city, and I am extremely sorry I ever left, as times here, as well as elsewhere in the United States where I have travelled, are very dull; which I believe is the cause of the contemplated raid on Canada by the so-called Fenians. From what I can learn, and what I can see there is no doubt but that there will be a raid ere long. Both employed and idle congregate every evening and drill—the latter class are, of course, the most numerous. There is to be a grand pic-nic held at Chicago, the time not definitely settled. As far as I can learn it will take place some time in July. There is no doubt that the raid will be on a gigantic scale. One half of the male population of the United States are starving for want of employment. Of course the ranks of this collosal army will be composed of different races and creeds."

Violent Wind Storm.—The wind that accompanied the heavy shower on Monday afternoon, 20th inst., in some places assumed the fury of a tornado. The Fergus News-Record gives the following particulars:—The scattering of fences was general in almost every direction, and in some localities buildings were also unroofed or blown down. In Garafraxa the neighborhood of Douglas suffered worst in this respect, while certain sections of the township escaped damage altogether from the storm. Mr. David J. Black's large frame barn was unroofed. Two frame barns belonging to Mr. John Esson were also unroofed. A log house belonging to Mr. Henry Hammill was unroofed. The doors were blown off Mr. Dobbin's barn, and carried over the fence and two rows of trees in the orchard. The roof of the driving shed connected with McGarvin's hotel in Douglas was taken off. On the first concession the new post barn, 52x24 feet, belonging to Mr. Wm. Warmington, jr., was completely levelled to the ground. The door was blown off Mr. Chas. G. Groves' barn and carried into the field. The roof of Mr. John Green's barn was taken off, torn to pieces and blown away in all directions. Mr. Wm. Gibson had one heifer killed and another animal injured by the falling limb of a tree. The damage done in the woods is extensive, immense trees being torn out by the roots, and others snapped off midway up the trunk, or twisted about like tender plants. In Pilkington, Mr. Josiah French's barn was unroofed. In Nichol, the roof of Messrs. J. & W. Watt's barn, though not carried away, was lifted up by the wind and let drop again, but as it did not light in the right place it might almost as well be off the building entirely. Mr. Jos. Thomson's barn was about one half unroofed. In Peel, about one half of the roof of Mr. Alex Burnett's barn was blown off.

Doerfling, the lost Baden man, has turned up, it is stated, at Listowel.

Who can sell the cheapest, those who pay thousands of dollars rent, or those who pay no rent? Those who have to support three or four partners and families, or those who have only one family to support? Those who lost thousands of dollars—by dealers in Toronto and other places—or those who did not lose one cent? Those who have had forty years' experience, or those who served no apprenticeship to the business they profess to follow? Please consider these questions before it is too late.

Harold the Outlaw
—OR—
The Gauger of Skene.

CHAPTER XLIII.

A DAY OF PREPARATION—NEW ARRIVALS—DEPARTURE FOR THE ISLAND.

After bestowing on each other a silent look which sufficiently expressed their feelings, Dixon hastened to assure Hamish that they did not mean to remain there—that, in fact, they were about to move away immediately to the west, and advised the drover with such earnestness to make the best of his way eastward before sunset that the soi-disant Hamish suddenly burst into a fit of laughter, tossed aside the black hair which encircled his head face, and revealed to their astonished gaze the smiling and triumphant face of Nip.

"Ha, ha!" he cried; "who said I could not disguise myself beyond recognition? You are not the only one, Mr. Logan, who can deceive people in this way. Confess now that you were wrong in what you said on the Eagles' Mount when I started for Benachray."

"Wrong!—I was a stupid, thick-headed fool," exclaimed Harold. "Did you go to Benachray in that character?"

"I did," responded Nip, who was now busily engaged in getting rid of the rest of his disguise. "I had the things in my bundle," he went on, "and slipped into them shortly after I left you. It was late when I got in sight of the mansion, and I went to the kitchen with the same story that imposed on you. I was at once supplied with supper, and told I might sleep for the night in one of the cow-houses. Of course, I had a long talk with the servants before going to my lair, and those of them who knew me well enough in the old days had not a single thought of my identity."

"And what have you learned—anything important?" asked Dixon.

"Yes," was the reply; "something very important."

"What?" was the general and breathless exclamation.

"The child is dead."

Dixon bounded to his feet as if galvanized.

"The child dead!" he cried. When?"

"Three weeks ago."

"Then Allan McPherson counts himself the heir?"

"No doubt of it."

"And he shall be disappointed," said Dixon, in a tone of intense, gratified vendictiveness. "Oh, the looked-for opportunity for a sweet revenge has come. The heartless wretch who destroyed the innocent, and blighted my life shall writhe beneath my avenging hand. This," he added, turning to Harold, "this removes all difficulty regarding Myra. We shall rescue her also."

"Of course we shall," returned the latter. "I never intended aught else. I hope you also mean to restore her child to her—I mean the child Gillespie has in charge."

"That," rejoined Dixon, "is the very essence of my cup of triumph. But for the existence and production of the child I would have no power against Allan. Why, that child is heir to all the lands within our view—the loch, the island, the surrounding mountains, woods, and valleys. If she lives all will be hers at the Colonel's death, for Benachray can be heired by females as well as males."

"Then the more need that she should be carefully tended," remarked Harold, as he once more took up the glass to watch the motions of Lizzie and her companion on the island.

"Where is the child now!" asked Kenneth.

"Oh, she's well enough cared for at present. Till lately, Gillespie had her in the keeping of a woman at Aberdeen—a woman who treated her kindly enough, though she was rather drunken in her habits, and not the best guardians for the heiress of Benachray."

"I should think not," remarked Kenneth, very decidedly. "I wonder you could bear to have the poor thing consigned to such unsuitable hands."

"Why, as to that," replied Dixon, "you see I did not know if ever she would be brought forward. There was no such intention when she was handed over to Gillespie. At the same time he got a large sum of money for the purpose of having her brought up respectably. He chose to apply the money to his own use, and put the child into a pauper's care, paying but a scanty pittance for her maintenance, and caring little, I suspect, whether the infant died or lived."

"Of course the gauger is ignorant of her parentage?" remarked Kenneth.

"Profoundly so. We took special means to keep the secret from him, though he has made many an earnest effort to fathom it, with the view, no doubt, of extorting more money to meet his needy requirements. All his efforts have been vain. He knows no more at this moment of the child's family than he did that day he got it from us on the moor above Stonehaven. Two or three months ago he took her from the keeping of the woman in Aberdeen, and had her brought to his own house at Skene, where she is now."

"You seem to have watched his movements pretty narrowly."

"I had cause," said Dixon, as a shadow of sternness came upon his brow. "As soon as there was a probability of the estate coming to Allan McPherson, who by a deed I dare not trust myself to name made me his bitter, implacable foe, I resolved to prepair myself for dealing a blow of vengeance, by producing Conrad McPherson's child, and cutting him out of Benachray. So long as another life stood between him and the estate I kept aloof and inactive. Now that life has gone, and he deems himself sure of the succession. A bitter disapointment awaits him, and it will be made tenfold more bitter when he knows to whom he is indebted for the loss. Oh! the reckoning for his past iniquity is yet to come, and he will find it a heavy one. Heard you aught of him at Benachray, Nip?"

The charges made by Western merchants of the perpetration of gross Customs frauds at New York have been substantiated by evidence produced at the investigation.

These goods are quite new.

In Ladies' Millinery, Hats and Bonnets

we excell in taste, style, and novelty all previous efforts. The young lady at the head of this Department combines the most refined taste with lofty artistic ideas, making at once her department the reception room for ladies who are in quest of all that is novel and excellent.

Jackets, Mantles.

We congratulate the ladies of this section in having so rich and excellent a lot of Ladies Silk Paramatta and Tweed Jackets, exquisite styles. Also an endless variety of the material and styles to select from.

Our stock of all classes of general goods is full and complete, and we remind our old customers and friends that we only keep new, fresh, sound and satisfactory goods, satisfying all who purchase them. We are straightforward in dealing, and represent goods just as they are. We wage war against old, motheaten, bankrupt stocks, kept by second class stores, and again warn the public against such trash. Call and see the wonderful man, and you will receive the best value for your money.

A Novel Insurance Case.—An important suit was tried on Tuesday at the Court of Chancery in London. On the 20th of July, last year, a farmer named Shaw, residing at Shedden, in this county, effected an insurance with Joseph Mitchell, a travelling agent of the Union Fire Insurance Company, of Ottawa. The amount of insurance was $1,000, and the premium of $17.50 was paid to the agent, a receipt being given on the Company's form. On the 30th of the same month a fire destroyed the structure insured. Mr. Shaw duly proved his claim with Mr. J. U. Lean, who is Agent-General of the Company in London. No defence was set up by the Company that this claim was not bona-fide, or that plaintiff did not suffer loss to the amount of the claim. But the Company based their defence on the fact that they did not take a license out, as provided by the Ontario Act, until the month of October following the time when the insurance was effected; and that therefore Mr. Lean was not authorized to take risks before that date. The plaintiff adduced the evidence of Messrs. Mitchell and Shepherd, agents of the Company, to show that they acted in good faith, under instructions from Mr. Lean. The Vice-Chancellor, while holding that the case was one of great hardship to the plaintiff, and that it was evident that he had sustained the loss, honestly believing himself to be well insured, held that as the defendants were not licensed, they could not legally contract. The bill was dismissed with costs.—St. Thomas Journal.

The people of Preston have organized a Horticultural Society in that village, with Otto Klotz, as President. The society starts out with a large and respectable membership, which augurs well for its future success. The Secretary, Otto J. Klotz, has issued printed prize lists in pamphlet form, for the first exhibition, which takes place on the 16th September and five following days.

The General Methodist Conference of the Dominion will be held at Montreal in September next.

The Edinburgh Review for April has lately appeared from the press of the Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay street, New York. This oldest of the quarterly reviews still maintains its high reputation, and keeps its readers well informed upon the principal subjects which at the time are attracting public attention. We have only space for a short sketch of the contents of the present number. "Sir Erskine May's Democracy in Europe." Taking this work for a text, the reviewer considers the history of European democracy under three heads—from the dark ages to the time of Henry VIII., the period of the French Revolution, and the rise of the United States—with observations on the capacity of democracy to perform well or ill, its province of governing. "Barry Cornwall's Life and Poems." A brief biographical sketch with extracts from and comments on the poems. "Scepticism in Geology." A short account of a work recently published under the above title, which impugns the accuracy of the scientific grounds of certain recent geological theories. "Three Scottish Teachers." Three notable Scotchmen—Thomas Erskine, John McLeod Campbell, and Bishop Alexander Ewing, are here commemorated. "Browning's Agamemnon and Campbell's Trachiniæ." "The Age of Bronze." Presents an outline of the neolithic culture in England and France, and discusses the phases of the bronze age. "A Noble Queen." Reviews the novel of that name by the late Meadows Taylor, which is quite a romance of Indian history. "The Naval Strength of England." A review of the armored fleets of Europe, and the actual and relative strength of England. "Torren's Memoirs of Lord Melbourne." "The Present and the Future of the East." The periodicals reprinted by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co. (41 Barclay Street, N. Y.) are as follows:—The London Quarterly, Edinburgh, Westminster, and British Quarterly Reviews, and Blackwood's Magazine. Price $4 a year for any one, or only $15 for all, and the postage is prepaid by the publishers.

Epps's Cocoa.—Grateful and Comforting.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"James Epps & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Sept. 28, d&w 9m.

Bond & Co. tell us that they have just received a large lot of the celebrated rubber paint ready mixed, all colors, instruction books given free of charge to any one requiring them.

No hard times there.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

A CARD.

Opposition Tactics.

Contemptible Conduct Towards Mr. Stirton—The Falsehood Nailed.

The Herald is always open to abuse and villify servants of the people that have not been in harmony with themselves in matters relating to the political affairs of the country. The following extracts from the Herald and contradiction will explain themselves. On the 27th of May the Herald says:—

"Reference was made in Saturday's Daily Herald to the conduct of a Dominion Government official, in canvassing for Mr. Guthrie. The official is Postmaster Stirton, and the Herald is prepared to give the name of the person canvassed, if necessary. Having apparently abandoned political life, to accept an office of emolument, Mr. Stirton owes it to his employers—the people—of both political parties, to abstain from interfering in elections, and to devote his attention to the duties of his office. If he does not do so, it will be necessary for his conduct to be brought under notice of the new Parliament as soon as possible after it assembles."

On the 28th Mr. Stirton wrote the following letter to the Herald, pronouncing the statement to be false in every particular:—

To the Editor of the Guelph Herald.

DEAR SIR,—My attention has been called to a paragraph in the Herald of yesterday, in which I am charged with canvassing for Mr. Guthrie, and it is also stated that the name of the person who makes the charge will be given if necessary. My reply to this charge is that the whole thing is a pure fabrication, and utterly false. I, therefore, call upon you to furnish me with the name of the party making the charge, so that I may take the proper steps to set myself right before the public. I trust that your sense of justice will cause this note to be published in the Herald of to-day.

I am, yours truly,
D. STIRTON.

Guelph, May 28th, 1878.

[The Herald is most happy to oblige Mr. Stirton. The name of the person who promised him to vote for Mr. Guthrie, is Robt. Wharton, west half of lot 2, concession 1, Eramosa. Mr. Wharton made this statement in the presence of Jas. Knowles and Geo. J. Haigh, of Rockwood.—ED. HERALD.]

Mr. Wharton, hearing of the accusation, and knowing full well that there was not a tittle of truth contained in it, was naturally very indignant, and has taken the earliest opportunity to give the matter his denial. The following letter, which that gentleman has forwarded to the Herald for publication, explains itself:

To the Editor of the Guelph Herald.

DEAR SIR,—My attention has been called to a short article in your issue of yesterday in which it is stated that I had told Jas. Knowles and Geo. Haigh that Mr. Stirton, of Guelph, had canvassed or asked me to vote for Mr. Guthrie. I beg to give the statement my unqualified denial. I never told those gentlemen that Mr. Stirton had spoken to me on the subject. I have also to state that Mr. Stirton never, at any time, spoke to me on the subject of Mr. Guthrie or the election, indeed I have not spoken to Mr. Stirton on any subject for the last three months.

Yours truly,
ROBERT WHARTON,
Lot 2, 1st concession, Eramosa.

HANDSOME WORKMANSHIP.—To-day we were shown through the now nearly finished splendid residence being got ready for Mr. Chas. Raymond, on Norfolk street, adjoining the old one. The building, if we can judge from its present appearance, will soon be ready for occupation. The ceilings, panelling, &c., of the various rooms are being finished in a superb manner, and will, when completed, be one of the handsomest residences in Ontario.

STONE THROWING.—Last night, a little after nine o'clock, as a young man and woman were going down the Waterloo Road home from the usual Wednesday night meeting at their church, and when about the neighborhood of the Pound creek they passed several young fellows who acted more like rowdies fit for Central Prison than inhabitants of a civilized community. Without the least provocation one of the crowd flung a large stone at the pair, which struck the young man on the back of the head, leaving a good-sized wound on the scalp. The two persons, seeing that remonstrance with such a gang was useless, walked on without saying anything, fearing that further trouble would follow. None of the parties are known, or some of them would pay dearly for it. We have called attention to this stone-throwing business at the same place before. It seems from what we can hear that a gang of rowdies regularly congregate on the sidewalk about this neighborhood almost every evening for the purpose of blasphemy and using obscene language, and it is about time the authorities brought some of them to task, and dispersed this crowd of blackguards before respectable persons are further insulted on this prominent thoroughfare.

BASE BALL.—The following games were played on Tuesday: Milwaukees 12, Providence 4; Stars 5, Worcesters 4; Uticas 15, Lowells 4; Bostons 10, Chicagos 1; Crickets 7, Rochesters 5; Cincinnatis 3, Indianapolis 11.

BASE BALL MATCHES.—Arrangements are in progress for the celebrated Tecumsehs, of London, to play with the Leafs here on Tuesday, the 18th of June. The Leafs will play at Markham, with the Iroquois, on Friday 14th, and in Toronto on the 15th.

THE Ladies' Aid Society of the Norfolk steeet Methodist Church have arranged for a strawberry social in the basement of the church on the 20th of June. They also intend to celebrate their annual festival in Mr. H. W. Peterson's grounds on the 4th of July.

THE funeral of the late W. H. Smith, which took place on Tuesday at St. George's Cemetery, was largely attended. All the Orange societies attended in a body, and wore mourning. Friends and acquaintances of deceased from Toronto, Hamilton, and elsewhere were present.

THERE was a lively discussion on the taxation advocated by National Policyists in the neighborhood of the Market Square to-day. Farmers evidently are beginning to believe that their taxes are quite high enough, and that an increase would not be favorable to their inerests.

CATTLE LOST.—It is has now been learned that Mr. Gordon and Mr. Geo. Hood have lost one hundred and three head of cattle, destined for the English market, while crossing the Atlantic. They were swept overboard. The vessel had been out about five weeks, and when the cattle were lost, the vessel had been previously damaged. There was an insurance on the stock.

SPLENDID GRAIN.—Mr. John Murphy, of Mount Tara, has shown us several heads of wheat, oats, and barley, which were sent him a week ago by his nephew, Mr. Thos. Murphy, who is farming near Fo th worth, in Texas. The wheat is well filled and of good quality, the oats very heavy and the barley a little on the light side. It was harvested about the 20th of May. We understand that Mr. Murphy is doing very well in Texas.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—At a meeting of ladies held in the Mechanics' Institute, it was decided to give a strawberry festival on Thursday, 13th June. Miss Davidson was appointed to the chair, and Miss Keating secretary. It was decided that the directors would arrange for the music to be provided for the occasion. Mr. Robt. Murray has kindly offered a donation of two crates of berries for the festival. There is little doubt but that this festival will be largely patronized. The object to which the proceeds will be devoted, the benefit of the Institute, could not be more laudable.

CRICKET MATCH.—On Wednesday afternoon the bankers encountered mercantile representatives on the cricket crease, and were successful by a score of 65 to 32. Fitzgerald lead the score at the bat, tallying 26 runs. Husband was the next highest batter with a single figure. Six of the merchants retired with eggs to their credit, and only two of the bankers. The game was an interesting one. The score follows:—

SOUTH WELLINGTON.

Mr. Guthrie has an Enthusiastic Meeting in Guelph Township.

On Wednesday evening a meeting of electors of Guelph Township was held in section 6 school house. There was a good attendance, the building being comfortably filled. From the feeling manifested the Taxationist party have made very little headway in that neighborhood.

On motion of Messrs. James Laidlaw and Robert Buchanan, Mr. William Whitelaw was appointed chairman and Mr. John McCorkindale secretary.

Mr. Guthrie was called upon to address the meeting. He pointed out the difference between the position of the Government at the present time and what it occupied two years ago when the last election was held in South Wellington. Then it made little difference whether an opponent of the Government was elected or not, as its fate did not depend on it. Now it was different. The elections, which in all probability would not take place till after harvest, hinged on the general policy of the Government. The question was, are the electors prepared to support the Government of the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, or should the Opposition lead by the Chieftain, be reinstated in their old place. The policy of the Government, as carried out by them, since they assumed office was dealt with, and explanations made showing that their sole object had been to benefit the people of this country. The hollowness of the professions of the Opposition in dealing with the question of National Policy which they knew full well would add to the burdens on the people and the general work of the Government was also briefly referred to. The expenditures of the present Government, compared with the late Government, which reflected creditably on the former, were given, and the speaker took his seat, after speaking an hour and a half, amidst applause.

Mr. Thomas Cowan, of Galt, was introduced to the audience. The speaker held that the great question was—are the trade relations between Canada and the United States as they should be at the present time—are they such as will best advance our interests. He wanted no cast iron rule. The people of this country were not afraid of change, If a seventeen and a half per cent tariff was not sufficient on some articles, why in the name of all that is Reform could it not be changed? He held that there could be no such thing as free trade, as countries could not be persuaded to have their ports all open. After turning over the Neebing Hotel, steel rails, Kaministiqua Harbor, &c., and falling foul of the Hon. Edward Blake and other members of the Cabinet, he asked if Reformers would be violating any principle by voting against any Mackenzie-Cauchon coalition. He held that Canada was made the slaughter market of the Americans, and this was owing altogether to the fiscal policy of the present Government. Instead of our neighbors across the line being cursed with a protective tariff, large meetings were held by workmen to petition and remonstrate with the Government when even a modification of the tariff was proposed. This showed clearly that the Americans desired no change in the tariff. After dealing largely in figures, the speaker however objecting to answer questions put to him, he concluded by pointing out the beauties and fertility of the great North-west, and stated that if we had such a national policy as he advocated, that tract of country would, in a few years, be settled, and Canada would have a home market and become a prosperous nation. The speaker occupied the floor for considerably over an hour.

Mr. R. Melvin followed and dealt, in a forcible manner, with the arguments brought forward by the previous speaker showing the insincerity of his protestations when he unfairly quoted figures. Reference was made to the parties who agitated the National Policy movement and the very "poverty stricken" position they occupied as owners of large factories and employing a large number of workmen. Those farmers who had taken an active part in the same movement were men who had made for themselves a competence under the present tariff. The fact that Mr. J. B. Armstrong was running his works overtime would not in his opinion lead sensible people to believe that he could not find work to keep him employed. The speaker before resuming his seat showed the inconsistency of Mr. Cowan, when that gentleman came before them on the "no party" platform and immediately therefore make a most partizan speech in support of his Chieftain Sir John Macdonald.

Mr. A. Riddell craved the indulgence of the audience for a few minutes. He said the reason that Mr. J. B. Armstrong's works were running night and day was because he had received large orders for a patented article.

Mr. Melvin asked of the two hundred waggons he was making to fill one order were patented. Had he seen it noticed in the newspapers that such was the case.

Col. Higinbotham was pressed by the audience to make a few remarks. He referred to the wonder expressed by the farmers in the North Riding that South Wellington, a constituency so much richer than they were, should be lead away by a cry that protection was the only thing that would save them from ruin. In speaking of the dissatisfied parties who were prominent in this National Policy movement the speaker stated that they were the dissatisfied ones of 1867, and had only been waiting an opportunity to renew their allegiance to Toryism. He had hoped to hear explanations from some of those new found zealots in a questionable cause in regard to the cause of their change, what they proposed to make as a National Policy and the effect it would have. Why did not the previous speaker inform the audience something in regard to the same?

Mr. Riddell—I had not time.

Mr. Higinbotham said he would willingly resume his seat, for Mr. Riddell to take the floor. Mr. Riddell, however, refused to do so. The speaker then took up several of the most glaring misstatements of Mr. Cowan, and by official figures proved that they had been quoted with the intention of throwing a glamour over the eyes of the farmer in order that they might be easily deceived. The speaker was followed by the audience with great attention, and those who had been halting between two opinions after hearing the misstatements of the Taxationists were set right when they clearly saw that Canada had everything to lose and nothing to gain if the people were burdened with grievous taxation, which would be sure to follow if those who were advocating Sir John Macdonald's claims in an underhand manner, had their way.

The following resolution was then put to the meeting:—

Moved by Mr. James Laidlaw, seconded by Mr. McLean, That this meeting desires to express its confidence in the honesty and integrity of purpose, and ability of the Government of Alexander Mackenzie to govern the country in accordance with its best interests; and also pledges itself to use all legitimate means to secure the return to Parliament of Mr. D. Guthrie, the nominee of the Reform party in this Riding.

The motion was then carried with only one voting against it.

Three rousing cheers were then given for the Queen, three for Mr. Guthrie and three for the Mackenzie Government.

National Policy at Acton.

A large and intelligent meeting of electors was held last night in the Temperance Hall, Acton, for the purpose of discussing the public affairs of the day. The greatest order and attention were observed, and from the feeling manifested, we are informed on good authority that, although called in the interest of the League, the meeting was largely in favor of the present tariff. Mr. Storey was appointed chairman, and in a few remarks introduced Mr. A. W. Wright, of Toronto, who ably addressed the audience for over an hour, referring to the condition of England, France, and America in regard to Protective and Free Trade Tariffs, and endeavoring to show that the National Policy would beneficially affect Canada.

Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, of Guelph, followed on behalf of the present tariff, fully exposing the National humbug, and showing that it would be injurious both to the farmer and the manufacturer.

Mr. Beattie repudiated the fact that a taxation would not benefit the farmer, and was followed by Mr. Massie, M.P.P., who dealt in a most forcible manner with the questions of the day and thoroughly anticipated the speech of Mr. N. F. Davin, and so completely answered it that the latter gentleman failed to make out a single charge of corruption against the Mackenzie Government. Mr. Davin, however, made up in amusing stories what he lacked in argument and kept the audience amused if not edified. The meeting then broke up at an early hour after a vote of thanks to the chairman.

There was withdrawn from the Bank of England yesterday for New York £100,000 gold.

The Washington Treasury Department experiences great difficulty in getting the new silver dollars in circulation. Not one million of the six million coined have been circulated.

Last week 78 interments were made in the Roman Catholic Cemetery, at Montreal, and 15 in the Protestant—13 from small-pox, 7 from diptheria.

ATTEMPTED TRAIN-WRECKING.—On baturday an attempt was made to wreck a Great Western train near Beamsville. White oak sleepers were laid across the track, and No. 5 express, due at Hamilton at 11:30, approached the spot at a rate of 35 miles an hour. Fortunately the engine-driver noticed the obstruction and made every endeavor to check the engine, which prevented the train from being thrown from the track, though a considerable shock was experienced. The cars were filled with passengers, and many owe their lives to the vigilance and coolness of the engine-driver.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Meeting of a Congress Regarded as Certain.

AUSTRIAN DEMONSTRATIONS CAUSING UNEASINESS.

MONTENEGRIN DIFFICULTY.

LONDON, May 29,

The peace feeling is not quite so buoyant as yesterday. While England agrees to the Congress, Austria is making demonstrations unfavorable to Russia. No doubt is felt that the Congress will meet.

A Berlin correspondent states that formal invitations to attend the Congress will be issued, as all the Powers have answered in formal communications in regard to the date and other particulars. Bismarck has been advised by his physicians not to take part in the Congress. It is probable he will attend at the close and give his formal sanction to the proceedings.

A St. Peterburg despatch says:—The Congress will immediately upon meeting at Berlin determine the basis of the treaty of peace and the regulations concerning its execution. It will organize several local commissions, being appointed and instructed by a conference of the Ambassadors resident at Constantinople. It is expected the session of the Congress will be short.

A Vienna despatch says the propositions which Schouvaloff took to London, and which appear to have been substantially accepted, were that the southern boundary of Bulgaria be the line from Burgas to Philippopolis and Vranja; Turkey to retain Batoum on condition of the demolition of the Danubian fortresses; the substitution of European for Russian control in carrying out the Treaty; and the remaining questions to be left to a Congres.

A Vienna correspondent explains that Russia will only accept a formula of invitation binding her to permit free discussion of all questions upon the condition that she can first come to an understanding with England as to the modifications to be proposed at the Congress. The correspondent concludes:—"The removal of the difficulties in the way of the Congress is anticipated here hopefully as before."

The Times says:—"It may be safely concluded that the prospects are more hopeful than hitherto, but some not unimportant points must be settled before the invitations are finally issued."

The only unpleasant feature of the morning's news is in the direction of Austria, for although Andrassy has been all along persistently in favor of a European settlement in a Congress, his utterances now and the Austrian preparations create uneasiness. He said that certain military preparations were necessary, because even if the Congress led to a European understanding complications might afterwards arise imperilling Austria's particular interests. Then, again, the Congress might fail when Austria must be prepared to look facts in the face. As to the actual employment of the sixty millions credit already voted Andrassy's explanation was extremely meagre, but from other sources it is gathered that the Fourth Army Corps is concentrating in Galicia, Eastern Transylvania, and Dalmatia; ironclad squadrons have been ordered to the coast of Albania and Macedonia; a military occupation of the line of Orsova Railway is in progress; and the occupation and fortification of Carpathian passes are accomplished facts.

A Cattaro special says:—The Turkish Governor of Scutari absolutely insists upon the Montenegrins immediately evacuating the strategic points near Podgoritza. The Montenegrins are temporizing, but show no intention of complying.

A despatch from Athens reports that the Cretans have refused the amnesty offered through the British Consul, but offered to accept a regular armistice.

Primitive Methodist Conference.

SEVENTH SESSION.

Conference opened at eight o'clock a.m., with praise and prayer, the President in the chair.

The Book Room Committee's report was the first thing of general interest before the Conference, and after a long discussion was variously amended and adopted.

The election of Book Steward was next in order. Four candidates were named, Revs. W. Bee, H. Harris, J. Milner, and T. Crompton. The result of the ballot was the election of Rev. W. Bee. Rev. J. Miller was elected Vice-Book Steward by acclamation.

EIGHTH SESSION.

All legislation from the different districts was read that the Conference might a clear view of what was coming before it.

The balance of the session was occupied in the discussion of the Union question. It was entered upon in a very dispassionate and friendly manner, and was not concluded when the Conference adjourned.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

The usual Conference Missionary meeting was held at eight o'clock p.m. The chair was ably filled by the President, Rev. H. Harris. The meeting was addressed by Revs. R. Cade and T. Guttery.

The following is the draft of stations for Guelph districts:—Guelph, H. Harris; Peel, J. E. Lidstone; Hawkesville, T. Auger; Minto, R. Hazzard; Brant, E. Crompton; Kincardine, J. W. Gilpin, one to be sent; Wingham, J. Smith; St. Helen's, T. Byraut; Arthur, A. Knapp; Gray, P. Flint.

THE LARGEST FARM IN THE WORLD.—The largest farm in the world is 170 miles square, and is situated in Ellis county, Kansas. Its proprietor is a wealthy Englishman named George Grant, who named the estate Victoria, in honor of his Sovereign. Vast herds of cattle, and a cavalry brigade of mounted stockmen roam over the face of this great farm, on which the only remedy employed for bruises, inflammation and the like, is GILES LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA.

GALT.—On Sunday morning, 26th inst., during the early service in St. Mary's (R.C.) Church, a portion of the ceiling suddenly gave way, and fell down on the heads of Mrs. Barrett and her daughter. The Reformer says that Mrs. Barrett was severely injured on the head.——The party of fifty-three children, under the charge of Miss Macpherson, who were on the Sardinian when the accident befel that vessel, and who were transferred to the Peruvian, have arrived at the Home.

Daily Mercury.

THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 30, 1878.

The Reply.

In dealing with any question, no matter how important it may be to the public, our contemporary cannot look at it in a broad and liberal spirit nor discuss it on its merits. The burden of his song is either the reflection of his own personal weaknesses, or an unwarrantable attack on the character of others. With such practices, the people have no sympathy, and it ill becomes the paper in question to cast one single stone at the reputation of any one else. This course only renders the party guilty of it liable to the condemnation of sensible men, and makes the lights and shadows of his own life even more painfully conspicuous. We therefore advise the editor of the Herald to restrain his energies until a more suitable occasion, and not to forget the point at issue in his childish anxiety to injure the private character of a political opponent by petty and spiteful allusions to the latter's high position in his profession. And a still further advice we desire to impress on him is, that the readers of this paper and his own care not who may write the articles so long as the matter written is true, logical, and worth perusing. Whether "amateur editors" supply a newspaper with articles, or subservient professionals fill its columns with falsehoods derived, for aught we know, from the inspiration of "Bunghole" contributors, if we may be pardoned for using the elegant language of the Herald of not long ago, is quite immaterial to the people. Let the editor of that sheet, if he wishes to retain any self-respect or merit the approval of his friends, drop such contemptible and debasing warfare and subterfuges as appeared in his issue of Tuesday, and discuss the matters before us without reference to the coat or creed of either contestant, and without the eternal and sickening intrusion of his own unlimited ignorance.

The only points alluded to by the Herald of above date are the private affairs of Mr. Guthrie, and the unfortunate individuals who have deserted their principles for the sake of their pocket. With the cajoling and patronizing air of that sheet in reference to these men we have nothing to do, but we are sorry to see the political hunger of once sensible Reformers now so easily appeased by the thin gruel supplied from the Conservative kitchen, and see them kissing the hands that would yet stab them in the dark did it serve a Tory purpose. We used strong language in reference to political renegades. We have no intention of calling a spade anything but a spade, and we think the language we used is but just and proper in regard to the conduct of those who can so readily forget their past professions and so ardently embrace their enemies for the sake of an imaginary gain. We are grieved, irrespective of party considerations, to think that there are persons in our midst so lost to all manliness and consistency as to trample under foot the sacred principles of a long political life, and to throw to the winds of Heaven conscientious scruples, political integrity and all that goes to make a man honored by his fellowmen and respected by himself.

We cannot drop this subject without calling attention to a very anomalous proceeding on the part of some leaders of a great moral cause in our midst. We heard it repeated time and again, and that not very long ago, that a certain class here should be expected to sacrifice a considerable amount financially, so that a grand moral movement might be carried practically into effect. What do we find these men doing now? They admit that the present Government has done more in legislating for the sobriety of the people than any other, and that as between the leaders personally there can be no doubt as to their individual actions and opinions. Yet these moral advocates of a few short months ago, now turn round and say, "Oh! well, the question of Protection affect our pockets and you cannot expect us to sacrifice anything in favor of a moral Government." So long as the pockets of others were in question, morality prevailed, but touch their own and morality may sink or swim. They care not.

Earl Russell.

The reaper, Death, standing with his scythe ready to mow down all classes, irrespective of age or position, has stricken one, the termination of whose life will cause throughout the civilized world, and particularly amongst lovers of reform, sadness and mourning. We refer to the death of John—first Earl of Russell, whose long career of usefulness has just ended, and who goes to his last resting place, honored and regretted by the people of a whole nation. We have not space to recount in detail even the more important works of this great man, and we will therefore have to satisfy ourselves with a general review of his political career, and the effect it had on the history of the world.

Eighty six years of age when he died, what a series of great events has Earl Russell not only witnessed but been with many intimately connected. While a mere child, he might have heard the cheers of victory ringing from one end of Britain to the other in honor of Nelson's glorious battle of the Nile; he saw, as a boy, the rise, progress, and fall of Bonaparte, and the victorious assertion of England's greatness and power on the field of Waterloo; his was the voice that was heard throughout the length and breadth of Great Britain in the cause of Reform, and it was through his almost superhuman efforts, that the British Parliament is to day one of the freest and best constituted in the world; his eyes witnessed the development of a few struggling States, through all the vicissitudes of fortune, into a great Republic, now occupying half the continent of America; he was personally cognizant, from his position in the English Government, of the rapid strides of India and Canada as British Colonies, and under his immediate observation they have attained a position in the scale of nations neither to be despised nor slighted. We might go on to show that his was the ruling and guiding influence in many of the remarkable changes which have taken place since he took an active part in public affairs, but we must content ourselves with briefly noticing one or two.

Foremost amongst the works of this leading Liberal is the Reform Act of 1832. By untiring energy and against fearful odds, Earl Russell succeeded in carrying this measure for the better representation of the people in Parliament, and for the cleansing, as it were, of the rotten boroughs, then so numerous in England. The nature of the measure is well known to all our readers, but we might be permitted to add, that its effect is one that only future historians will be able to rightly comprehend, and that future ages will reap a probably still greater benefit from the revolution in political thought which it brought about, than even we do ourselves. It was Lord John, who carried the repeal of the Test and Corporation Acts in 1828, and to his support and advocacy is largely due the Catholic Emancipation Bill of 1829.

In regard to his personal character, he was strictly moral and his honor was never yet doubted. Somewhat aristocratic in his manner, he was nevertheless amiable and courteous to his inferiors, and his unflinching integrity rendered him the idol and hero of the people. His mind never narrowed itself down to the confined limits of class or creed, but in all his actions and in all his thoughts, he exhibited those broad, liberal and unselfish principles, which were the ruling star of his life. Many of our friends of the present day would do well to take a leaf from his course in regard free trade, and follow his example in advocating a system which would tend to alleviate the distress of the working and manufacturing classes, instead of devoting their time to railings against the present tariff.

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

MR. JAMES YOUNG, M. P., has been presented with an address by the Reformers of Baden and neighborhood expressing confidence in the Mackenzie Government and conveying to him their appreciation of the able manner in which he has discharged his duties as their representative in the Dominion Parliament. They trusted he might long continue to lend his services for the welfare of the country. Waterloo will prove sound when the time comes.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Harold the Outlaw

The Ganger of Skene.

CHAPTER XLIII.

A DAY OF PREPARATION—NEW ARRIVALS—DEPARTURE FOR THE ISLAND.

He left the mansion more than a week ago. I gathered so much from the lips of the servants, but none of them know where he has gone. They look upon him, however as their future master."

"Do they?" said Dixon, with a grim smile. "Wait a little, they will know better soon. Come, Nip, and see the raft we have made."

He turned as he spoke and led the way—Kenneth and Nip following—to an opening in the wood, where lay the fabric which it had taken most of the day to construct. It consisted of number of fir saplings denuded of their branches, and laid parallel to each other, with a pole crossways at each end and another in the centre, the whole being firmly lashed together with cord. The raft was at least ten feet square, therefore large enough, they calculated, to carry them easily over the water. It lay finished and ready to be launched, with a pole for each, rudely fashioned like an oar or paddle. When Nip saw it his verdict was prompt and decided, that it would safely carry them to the island.

Meanwhile Harold was left by himself absorbed in watching Lizzie and his boy through the glass. She and Myra seemed to be conversing with grave and earnest sadness, and the theme he could easily conjecture. He doubted not they were mourning over the failure of their attempt to send secret information to Harold through the monthly letter, and resigning themselves as well as they could to the bitter disappointment. In truth the recess where they sat was their favorite seat on the island. It was the place whither they had gone on the very first hour of their acquaintance, and thither they generally repaired to spend a portion of the long summer day, receiving from each other strength and consolation, after having mingled their sighs and tears of despondency. This afternoon they sat, as they had done many afternoons previously, and to all outward seeming amid the same solitude and isolation. No sign was given them that friends and deliverers were near. The dark pine wood stretching opposite on the main shore of the loch kept from them its happy secret. Yet as they sat there in heaviness of spirit, a loving eye was resting upon them, and impatient hearts were waiting for the coming shadows to descend that they might fly to their rescue.

As the sun set behind the mountains they rose and quitted the place, to the deep regret of the unwearied gazer, who was loath to have them pass from his sight. It was consoling, however, to reflect that the approach of evening, which sent them indoors, brought near at hand the hour whose arrival he so panted for—the hour when under cover of the darkness he and his companions would cross the loch for their deliverance.

When all chance of longer them was gone, Harold shut up the glass and sought the company of the others, who were listening to Nip's more detailed account of his secret visit to Benachray. The approach of Harold did not disturb him in his narration, and the latter leaned his back against a tree and listened likewise.

Thus occupied, many minutes had not elapsed when a loud, shrill whistle from the lower end of the loch startled them all.

The three loungers on the groung sprang to their feet simultaneously, and gazed at each other with inquiring look.

"'Tis the signal to Joe," cried Dixon, in great excitement. "Nip, you have undone us. You have been recognized at Benachray. Their suspicions are raised."

"That can't be," replied Nip. "I'll take my oath on it."

"There, again," exclaimed Harold, as another though more distant whistle sounded over the loch.

"That's Joe's answer to the signal," explained Dixon. "Let us to the edge of the wood and watch."

Away they rushed in a body to a point where they could have a clear view of the north end of the loch. There was as yet no appearance of Joe and the boat; but they discerned two men on horseback approaching the loch from the east, by the bridle path which led down from the Eagle's Mount.

"See," cried Nip, who was greatly concerned on account of what Dixon had said. "See, these riders are not coming from Benachray."

"No," responded Dixon, "they are certainly not coming from Benachray."

"Who are they?' asked Harold, in a very anxious tone.

"Impossible to say from this distance; but as they have evidently some message for Joe, they are most likely to be Colston and Ranald on their way from Aberdeen. Oh!—the glass; yes, we should be able to make them out with the glass."

The telescope was already at Harold's eye; but hardly had he fixed it on the forms of the riders when he started violently, and an ejaculation burst from his lips.

"Who are they? Who are they?" demanded the others, on seeing his agitation.

"It cannot—surely it cannot be—and yet it is very like;—no, I am not mistaken. By heaven, it is Gilmour."

"Your brother!" echoed Kenneth, growing equally excited. "What should he do there?"

"My brother it is—that is certain," said Harold, his teeth setting hard and his brow darkening ominously.

"And the other!" exclaimed Dixon, "I'll wager the other is M'Garray."

"No, it is not M'Garray. The other is a stranger to me. He is a man as young as Gilmour, and of longer make."

"Not M'Garray, and a stranger. That is singular. But probably it is Colston. Give me the glass, Mr. Logan."

"In the fiend's name, what brings the scoundrel here?" muttered Harold, as he handed Dixon the instrument. "Can the wretch have been in the habit of visiting my wife? Damnable — maddening thought! What tortures may he not have inflicted on the poor helpless girl. But if he has, I shall——"

"Ha!" burst forth Dixon, so vehemently as to stop Harold even in the fierce intensity of his rage. The violence of the exclamation and the extraordinary change in Dixon's face proclaimed that he had made an important discovery.

"Do you recognise the other? Quick, tell me. Do you recognise him?" demanded Harold, hoarsely.

"Too well do I recognise him," was the answer. "It is the man whom I most hate—Allan McPherson. Heaven and earth! there's some dreadful villainy in contemplation.

"And we standing idle here," shouted Harold, making a spring forward with a wild, frenzied rush.

Dixon caught him as he passed and held him firmly.

"What would you do—where would you go?" he asked.

"To meet them—to prevent them reaching the island!" roared Harold. "Don't hold me, man. By heaven! let go if you would not have me strike you."

"Will you ruin all—will you destroy your wife and child? Follow out your intention, and you will most certainly do so."

"How? It is you who destroy them if you keep me from preventing these wretches getting on the loch."

"You cannot print that, do as you may. Fly at your utmost speed, and long ere you have reached the jetty they will have embarked. Look; yonder is the boat halfway across the loch."

"What of that?" cried Harold, struggling in his grasp. The distance is nothing. I will reach them ere they can embark."

"You cannot—you cannot. For God's sake, sir, be patient," said Dixon, in serious alarm, for Harold's strength, at any time equal to his own, was rendered greater by frenzy, and he felt he would speedily burst from him—an error which would, of course, produce ruinous consequences.

"Patient!" shouted the enraged youth; "patient in view of this!"

"Firm, then—firm and calm—for nothing else will suffice."

"Will you quit your hold?" foamed Harold, utterly beside himself, and making a restless and tremendous effort to be free of the other's grip.

"Kenneth—Kenneth—you see the great danger he would cause—you have some interest with him—help me to keep him here."

"Harold, Dixon is quite right, said Kenneth, whose first impulse had been to rush forward likewise, but had seen the folly of such a course. "We could not get half way to the jetty before they embark."

"Not if we stand here. But what care you—none of you have the life and honor of wife and child at stake."

"Harold, Harold, have I, have any of us, deserved this of you?"

"Hear me, Mr. Logan," added Dixon. "The memory of the wronged dead prompts me as strongly as does the love of the wronged living urge you to meet and baffle yonder men in their scheme of wickedness. One of them is as much an object of hatred to me as the other is to you, and my blood boils with equal eagerness to confront and crush him. But that very passion of hate which surges within me keeps me from doing and tries to prevent you from doing the very thing which would enable them to triumph in their scheme. Were we to do as you wish, the only effect would be to make them aware of our presence, and cause them to do more swiftly the deeds they meditate. For I tell you plainly, Mr. Logan, I suspect them of the fullest intentions. Allan McPherson is capable of any cruelty, of any crime; and when I see him here on the way to the island accompanied by your brother, who has the same interests to serve, my mind shudderingly bounds towards one dark belief. There is but one way to foil them, only one, and if you refuse to take it I have no hesitation in saying that you will imperil the lives of those for whose safety you would lay down your own. Now, will you still rush out into their view?"

"It would be useless now," answered Harold, whose bloodshot eyes had all the time been fixed on one distant spot. "The boat is nearly ashore. They will put off in her in a few minutes. Dixon, you, and Kenneth have consummated the ruin which my enemies have hitherto sought in vain to complete. Oh, God, the last and finishing blow has come from the hands of those I counted my friends."

"Harold Logan, perhaps ere this night is over you may have cause to believe differently," said Dixon, in a calm, yet significant tone.

"Differently," rejoined Harold, with intense bitterness. "How can that be, seeing you have destroyed my only chance of foiling my brother's dark design? Oh, ye powers of justice! yonder they pass into the boat, and here I stand, a raving, impotent idiot—fooled and paralyzed in action by the men who professed to aid me."

"Logan, by heaven, you do us injustice, and dishonor your manhood," exclaimed Dixon, becoming for a moment the loftier soul of the two. "You do, indeed, rave like an idiot, but impotent you are not unless you choose to be so. As Kenneth says, we have not deserved the unjust aspersions you cast on us, and you will be the first to acknowledge this when your better judgment returns."

"What signifies words in the facts," burst forth Harold, still passionately obdurate. "Have you not kept me back from seizing the one chance of preventing these murderers from reaching the island.

"No, we kept you back from giving them warning of our presence here, and by doing so we seize the better chance of foiling them which remains."

"What chance remains?" demanded the youth, in a tone of fierce incredulity.

"The chance of gaining the island on the raft."

"Ha! the raft. Good heavens, I forgot the raft. Why did you not rush to it? Quick. Let us launch it now. Not a moment is to be lost."

He was off at a bound back into the wood, and flew with the speed of a deer to where the raft lay. When the others reached the spot he had began to drag it frantically to the water.

"This is worse and worse," exclaimed Dixon. "It is not dark enough to push off into the loch. They will see us from the boat. Wait but a few minutes till the twilight has deepened, and we can cross unobserved. Really, Logan, you are not yourself at all. No one used to be so cool and calculative in a crisis or emergency. Now, you are rash and headstrong to the point of ruin. If your wife comes to harm this night you will be the destroyer."

These words seemed to penetrate to Harold's mind like a thunderbolt. For some moments he glared at the speaker, then quitting his hold of the raft he dashed down the slope to the edge of the water. They thought he meant to plunge in and undertake the insane attempt to swim across to the island, and under the influence of this fear they flew after him. But he had no such intention as this. Arrived at the brink of the loch he flung off his cap, and bending down laved his head and face plenteously with water, even ducking his herd several times beneath the surface till the cooling liquid saturated his hair. Then he rose, and turned towards them a changed man.

"My brain was on fire," he said, "and the heat of it made me mad. I am better now. I can think clearly. I now know that you have prevented me from ruining all. Forgive me, my friends—but I know you do.

"Thank God you are yourself again," said Dixon grasping his hand with fervent force.

"Kenneth, my brother, I wronged you; but we will speak of this another time. This is the hour of action, and of action alone. See the boat is fading in the distance. Let us bring the raft down to the water, and by the time we have it there it will be dark enough to launch unseen."

Cool now and calm in demeanor as but a little before he had been violent and impetuous. Harold directed the various operations. The raft was brought down to the side of the loch and pushed into the water, where it floated like a cork. Then, each seizing a paddle, they leapt upon it, and found that it bore them easily, though their weight caused it to sink about a foot under the surface. Harold had foreseen this, and caused them all to strip to the knees, thus keeping their clothes dry beneath.

The shades of evening had now fully descended. Joe's boat had gone quite out of sight, and the island had become but a dark mass on the water. Satisfied that now they could proceed on their voyage unseen, Harold gave the word, and, with a steady, simultaneous, pull, each man at the corner where he was stationed, they quitted the shore, and the rude, rough craft which carried them was forced slowly through the gurgling water.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

LATEST FROM THE EAST.

A Meting of Congress Settled Upon.

Collision of German Ironclads in the British Channel.

450 LIVES LOST.

LONDON, May 31st.

It is reported that Congress is definitely settled, and that an Anglo-Russian agreement is now an accomplished fact.

Two German ironclads collided in the English channel yesterday, one sunk and the other is badly damaged. Many lives are reported to be lost.

A despatch received at the German Embassy from Dover states 450 persons are drowned by the collision.

A Dover despatch confirms the worst fears regarding the collision of the German ironclads, which resulted in a most fearful loss of life. The vessels were Kaiser Wilhelm and Grosser Kurfurst. The weather at the time of the collision was fine and calm. The cause is unexplained.

St. George's Church Vestry Meeting.

A special meeting of vestry was held on Thursday afternoon, Rev. Canon Dixon in the chair. There was a good attendance. Mr. John A. Wood announced his intention of presenting a silver collection of plate to the Church, to complete the set, and a vote of thanks was passed to him.

The whole of the debt on the church having been cleared off, it was resolved on motion of John A. Wood and S. S. Walsh, that the resolution contained in the 4th and 5th clause of the report of a special committee adopted at an adjourned vestry meeting held 13th May, defining the mode amounts, and date at which debentures be issued for the payments of the debt remaining on the rectory buildings, and authorizing the mortgaging of the rectory buildings and the appointment of three trustees to whom the rectory buildings and land shall be mortgaged in trust for the security of the debenture holders, be confirmed, and that the incumbent and church wardens are hereby authorized to mortgage the rectory buildings and land 70 feet from the westerly corner on Woolwich street to the river in rear of the rectory in trust to J. M. Bond, Geo. Elliott, and A. A. Baker as trustees for the security of the debenture - holders — and the church wardens are hereby authorized to issue and dispose of the debentures at the times payable and amounts set forth in the report of the special committee adopted 13th May 1878, such debentures to bear interest at the rate of eight per cent., payable half yearly with coupon attached, and not to exceed the amount of four thousand dollars, said mortgage to be for ten years, and to contain a clause requiring the trustees to enforce the same upon application of a holder having a debenture six months in arrear for principal or interest unpaid, such mortgage shall contain the provision contained in the act respecting short forms of mortgages and clause of power of sale at three months' notice.—Carried.

A letter from the Bishop of Niagara with reference to various financial matters, was read and considered. Geo. Elliott, A. Lemon and Geo. Murton were appointed to draft a reply and submit the same at a special meeting of vestry.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. W. H. Marcon was presented with a valuable Bible and Egyptian marble clock last evening at a meeting of the Sunday-school teachers of the several churches in town, in St. Andrew's church school-room. Particulars will be published to-morrow.

THE policemen now feel comfortable in their new clothing, manufactured by Messrs. Guy & Husband.

A great drought prevails in Jamaica, and the cattle are suffering for want of grass.

Rumours of the dissolution of Parliament are again said to be current in England.

Hon. Mr. Laflamme has received requisitions from Jacques Cartier and Two Mountains asking him to stand for those constituencies.

The British Government has tendered a public funeral for Earl Russell and interment in Westminister Abbey. The Lords and Commons will be invited.

The Voltaire Centenary was celebrated in Paris on Thursday without disturbance. The Archbishop ordered expiatory services to be held in the cathedral during the celebration.

Great distress exists among the cotton operatives at Burnley. One mill in that town has re-opened, with its full complement of hands, at a reduction of five per cent.

The Royal Geographical Society is about to send an expedition into Central Africa—in the first place to the northern end of Lake Nyassa, and thence, if the funds admit thereof, to the southern end of Lake Tanganyika, the object being to make accurate maps of the lake region.

William Cullen Bryant was taken suddenly and seriously ill on Thursday from the effect of a fall, apparently resulting in concussion of the brain. His condition, although necessarily causing anxiety, is still such as to allow hopes of his recovery to be entertained.

Dr. Landerkin, M.P. for South Grey, will hold a series of political meetings in that constituency, beginning on Saturday, June 1, at Elmwood, 3rd at Neustadt, 4th at Ayton, 5th at Holstein, 6th at Griffin's Corners, 7th at Traverston, 8th at Durham. The meetings will be held in the evening at each place, except Traverston, which will be held at 3 p.m.

The cotton manufacturing industry in the Eastern States is in a very unsatisfactory condition, and a large number of mills have been closed, throwing thousands of people out of employment.

Local News.

THE potatoe bug nuisance is becoming prevalent again.

MODERATE to fresh north-easterly to south-easterly winds, and clear to fair weather, are the probabilities received today.

REMOVED.—As will be seen by advertisement Mrs. Kyle has removed from Quebec street to West Market Square.

ANOTHER of Irving's Canadian series of five cent music, entitled, "Angels Whisper Sweet Good Night," has been sent us by J. Anderson. Procure a copy.

A PORTION of the report of the Reform meeting held in the town hall last evening has been unavoidably left over till to-morrow.

CATTLE FOR ENGLAND.—Messrs. Hawes & Porter will ship seventy-five cattle to the old country next week. The lot is a good one.

IT is rumored that Mr. James Goldie has consented to come out as a candidate for the House of Commons in opposition to the Reform candidate, Mr. D. Guthrie.

THE wool offered on the Guelph market so far this season, has been of a very poor quality, with few exceptions. The price paid for such is not more than twenty-two cents per lb.

ACCIDENT.—Thos. McKennie was leading one of the Gold-dust horses last evening when, in a fit of playfulness, the animal reared and came down with one of its hoofs on McKennie's shoulder, knocking him down. He was not much injured.

"OUR man to oppose the Reform candidate in South Wellington, is likely to be willing to come out as a candidate," is the particular way in which Tories are talking about the position of political affairs in in this Riding at the present time.

MR. WRIGHT, the self-appointed saviour of Canada from ruin and pauperism, is a cheeky speaker. He, however, would carry more weight with his utterances if he would regard truth as a virtue instead of cultivating mendacity.

THREE to one in favor of Mr. Guthrie was the feeling of the meeting in the town hall last evening. But few Tories will admit this fact, however. The packing of the hall by them, as urged at a National Policy meeting the other evening, could not be done. Mr. Guthrie has more supporters in Guelph to-day than he had two years ago.

ACCIDENT.—Yet one more accident on the Eramosa Road. As Mr. and Mrs. French were proceeding home, on going up the Eramosa Hill, which is covered with loose stones, a part of the harness broke. Mrs. French was thrown out, and severely injured. It is said one arm was broken.

THE Tory tactics at the meeting in the Town Hall last evening so effectively disgusted some Reformers who had been partially lead away by the so-called National Policy cry, that they are now pronounced in their convictions that the sole object is one of selfishness, and that the unveiling of the question shows the Tory party behind manipulating the wires for the purpose of reinstating their Chieftain.

BASE BALL.—There will be a match played on the Maple Leaf grounds between the Leafs and a picked nine, commencing at half-past two o'clock. The match played in London between the Buffalo and Tecumseh Clubs was won by the latter team, by a score of 2 to 1. Games played on Friday:—Lovells 1, Stars 1—four innings; Uticas 8, Manchesters 5; Alleghenys 7, Forest Citys 1; Rochesters 6, Hornells 10.

CANADIAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of the Executive Committee was held at the Walker House, Toronto, on Thursday, to arrange for the annual meeting, which will be held in the town hall, Guelph, on Tuesday, July 9th, at two p.m. The party will proceed from Guelph to Detroit by railway, and spend a day there, thence to Chicago by steamboat, and home by railway. By direction of the Executive Committee, Mr. E. Jackson, of the Newmarket Era, in a few days will proceed over the route to complete arrangements. Members of the Press eligible for membership in the Association, and wishing to unite themselves therewith, should communicate with the Secretary, W. R. Climie, Bowmanville.

POUND SOCIAL.—The social given by the Ladies' Association of the Dublin street Methodist Church, at the residence of Mrs. Husband, last evening, was a most enjoyable affair. The attendance was good, and after an hour or two of pleasant intercourse was indulged in, a number of packages, each containing one pound of something unknown to all save the donor, were put up at auction and sold at such prices as could be obtained. The bidding at times was very spirited, especially on some package which looked as if it contained something valuable. In one instance a neatly done up parcel was knocked down at a good figure to a young man, who thought he had certainly obtained a prize, but on opening, it was found to contain beans. Another got some eggs nicely done up in an ornamental box, while others were more fortunate, getting articles that were really good and worth considerably more than the price paid. The goods were all sold and quite a sum realized therefrom.

SOUTH WELLINGTON.

Mr. Guthrie's Meeting in the Town Hall.

Very Largely in Favor of the Reform Candidate.

Contemptible Action of the Tories and Their Friends.

On Thursday evening a meeting of the electors of Guelph, called by Mr. Guthrie, was held in the Town Hall. The hall was densely crowded by those anxious to hear the present member explain his course in Parliament during the past two years, and to hear discussion on the fiscal as well as general policy of the Government. The meeting was quite orderly during the delivery of speeches by Mr. Guthrie and Mr. Wright, but when Mr. David McCrae wished to contradict some misstatements of the latter gentleman in regard to the woollen exhibits made by Messrs. McCrae & Co., at the Australian exhibition, it was clearly seen who had the cloven foot and who evidently had resolved at all hazards to prevent free discussion. It is almost needless to say it was the Tories, and those particularly who sat on the front seats. Mr. McCrae was interrupted with hisses, such as could only emanate from partizans who appeared to have an idea that rowdyism was a virtue, and that to listen to the truth was incompatible with their political creed.

During the whole of the discussion, which lasted until half-past twelve o'clock, it was obvious to those seated on the stage that the great majority of those present were supporters of Mr. Guthrie—at least three to one.

When Mr. Guthrie and his supporters ascended to the platform the applause was simply deafening—a perfect ovation being tendered him. On the platform were seated Lieut.-Col. Higinbotham, M.P., Mr. James Massie, M.P.P., Mayor Howard, Messrs. George Ellictt, J. C. McLagan, D. McCrae, M. J. Doran, D. Kennedy, Richard Fyfe, E. F. B. Johnston, William Hart, J. P. MacMillan, Caleb Chase, John Murphy, Robert Melvin, and George Bruce, sen., as well as A. W. Wright, of Toronto, and Thomas Goldie.

On motion Mayor Howard was chosen chairman, who, in a few words, explained the object of the meeting, and then called upon Mr. Guthrie to address the audience.

Mr. Guthrie was received with tremendous applause. He said he appeared before them as he had before other audiences in the Riding to give an account of his stewardship as their representative. He was glad to see such a large turnout, and also pleased to know that the audience was composed of reading men who could intelligently understand and reason on the great political questions of the day. When he was elected two years ago as representative of South Wellington he found two political parties in the House, one lead by the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie and the other by Sir John Macdonald. There was no third party there, and strictly speaking no third party could exist. The speaker had felt it his duty to give the present Government a fair support, believing as he did that their sole object was to promote the best interests of their country to the advantage of the people. The affairs of the country had been conducted by them in an honest and economical manner, notwithstanding the futile attempts of the Opposition to destroy them. He would like to bring the financial condition of the country as it was and as it is before their notice. By the late Government the annual expenditure was increased from fourteen millions in 1867 to about twenty four millions in 1873. The salvation of the country therefore depended upon Sir John and his party being hurled from power. From the time Mr. Mackenzie assumed office the increase in the expenditure had only been some $200,000, and this too in the face of the large undertakings which had been left them by the late Government to carry out, besides such exceptional expenses as the Northwest mounted police, the Supreme Court and other measures. Notwithstanding those exceptional expenses the Government has stopped the country on the road to ruin, and reduced their expenses one and-a-half millions of dollars. Much of the expenditure of the Government was beyond their control, as out of the twenty-three million dollars only seven millions were under their control. The expense of carrying on the Government by Sir John A. Macdonald was eight millions. Although the Pacific Railway was not progressing as rapidly as some might wish, still the Government did not wish to impose heavy burdens on the people by borrowing money for that purpose; but instead to carry out its construction as fast as the position of the country would permit. The letting of contracts were spoken of, and in answer to the cry of favouritism, it was shown that the old Government only gave about one-half the contracts to the lowest tenders, while now nine out of ten contracts had been awarded the lowest. The measure for the extradition of criminals from Canada to the United States was referred to, as well as the measure to put the workman on an equal footing with his employer. Under the old law the workingman who broke a contract with his master was placed in the position of a criminal, and had no means of securing redress against a master. The speaker had the honor of supporting this measure which placed workingmen on the same footing as other classes. As to the Weights and Measures Bill, whatever fault was to be found with that should be laid at the door of the proper parties, as it was the late Government who had passed the measure. It had, however, been so amended as to make it more like what it should be. The speaker had found the Government introducing good measures which were to advance the interests of the country, and for that reason he had accorded them a liberal support. The fiscal policy of the Government was taken up by the speaker. They had settled views on the question, while the Opposition had none. Let any person take Sir John Macdonald's resolution and what does it mean? Simply anything you like. If you are a free trader you can read it over and pronounce it in favor of free trade. If you are a Protectionist, it will also suit your case equally. The resolution was skillfully drawn, so that his supporters in the Maritime Provinces could vote for it on one ground, and other Provinces on ground directly opposite. Members could then go before their constituents and interpret the resolution to suit themselves, as Mr. Pope, of Prince Edward Island, voted for it, because he said it meant a lowering of the tariff—a judicious adjustment—which he held was meant to lower. So he tells his constituents, for that reason he supported it. The real truth of the matter is, while the Tories in the various Provinces were not united on a trade question they united in attempting to overthrown the present Government and return the Tory party. This accounts for the opposite views held. When, however, they are brought down to something definite Sir John and his party are deserted by whole Provinces. Quebec showed her feeling by such old Tories as Langevin voting against the tax on coal. The other Provinces, with the exception of Nova Scotia, voted against the tax to a man. Mr. Campbell, the owner of a mine, voted for it. This, in other words, was an individual's interests against those of whole Provinces—and this is what some are pleased to term a National Policy. But it is said by some, this was dealing with the matter piece-meal, and if the duty had been raised all round the vote would have been different. Well, Sir John voted for the motion, and it was strange that he was not astute enough to see that to put a duty on one article would be very wrong. It is said that the Nova Scotians would be willing to have a tax on wheat if a tax was put on coal. This is not the case, as a majority of six of the Nova Scotia members objected to a tax on coal, simply because they were unwilling to tax the people of Guelph for the benefit of a few in that Province. But a Mr. Lukes from Newmarket comes to South Wellington and tells the electors that a tax on coal would benefit you by raising the price of cordwood. Such men as Wright and Lukes were the men who were going to save the country, according to their own opinions. It was on such fallacious arguments as these the speaker held that petitions had been put in circulation, and appeals were made to the prejudices of men in order to try and cause the defeat of the nominee of the Reformers of this Riding. (Hear, hear.) This tax that is proposed to be put on coal would cripple every manufacturer in the country. Take the case of Mr. Inglis for instance. If a tax of seventy-five cents a ton was levied on coal you might just as well send the collector around every year and collect an extra tax of $150. Other manufacturers were in the same position. And what was it all for? Nothing less than to benefit three owners of mines in Nova Scotia; and Mr. Lukes would add for raising the price of cordwood. The National Policyists also advocated a tax being put on the poor man's bread. The operation of such a measure was graphically shown by the speaker in dealing with the state of affairs in England previous to the repeal of the Corn Laws. A tax on wheat in years of good crops would make no difference in price as then Canada did not consume the whole of her products, but in a year of scarcity when it is desirable that such should be cheap it would materially raise the price. He was very much mistaken if the farmers of this country or the people living in towns were willing to impose additional burdens on the poor in years of scarcity. Protection on iron was also advocated by these National Policyists. This means that every man who uses this article will have to pay a tax on it. He defied the taxationists to come down to particulars. They are not, however, prepared to do this, and will not do it. The meaning of the whole affair is that the Tories are pulling the wires to secure the return of their beloved Chieftain. The speaker saw before him lifelong Conservatives, who had hawked around petitions to bring out a candidate to oppose the Reform Government. The manner in which Sir John had dealt with protection while in power, was shown in plain terms. He had put a tariff on one year, and finding it was detrimental to the interests of the country, it was removed. And further, when the present Government raised the tarriff from fifteen to seventeen and a half per cent., Sir John Macdonald strongly protested against it, on the ground that it would increase the burdens of the people, and Dr. Tupper cried out against it as the insertion of the thin edge of the Protection wedge, and now they turn round and advocated what was injurious to the country at that time. Some say that times have changed and the Americans were now slaughtering their goods in Canada. What are the facts? Guelph manufacturers compete successfully with Great Britain and the United States, in Australia and other countries. Where do our sewing machines go?—(A voice—"Not to the United States.") Well, we will see and then judge for yourselves how much the Americans are hurting us. In 1877 Canada imported, principally from the United States, 5,280 machines; and we exported 36,618 machines, 5,703 of which went into the United States. Thus it will be seen that those who cry out the Americans are ruining our sewing mayhtne manufacturers know very little what they are talking about.—(Loud applause.)—We have sent more machines into the United States than they sent here. To show that the trade of Canada is not falling off, he would take the year 1872, considered a very prosperous year, and show them the exports. Canada then exported $227,664 worth of sewing machines, compared with $260,170 in 1877—an increase for the latter year of between $30,000 and $40,000. The furuiture question was next dealt with. During the late Government's term of office more money was sent to the United States for furniture than now. Last year Canadian factories produced over four million dollars worth of furniture, while the Yankees supplied us with $376,000 worth, of which Ontario received to the value of $101,609, and much of the furniture of a style that is not made here. Even manufacturers imported unfinished work and upholstered it here. Another fact, in connection with manufactured goods, he could inform those who took such special pride in defaming Canada and upholding the institutions of the United States, Canada to-day exports more manufactured goods per capita than the United States. (Loud cheers.) In 1860 when the United States had a revenue tariff she exported more manufactured goods than she did to-day according to her population. (Hear, hear.) Comparing the trade of Great Britain with the United States, the former with a population of thirty-one millions did an annual trade of six hundred million pounds sterling, and the latter with a population of forty millions, only two hundred and sixteen million pounds. Yet in the face of this we are asked to turn back on the policy of Great Britain and take up that of the United States. In the nature of things there had to be a certain amount of protection for the purpose of raising a revenue, but there was a mighty differenc between taxing the people for the use of the country and taxing them for individual interests. From figures quoted it was shown that the large increase in the trade of England had been since protection became a thing of the past. No protectionist country in the world could show the increase of trade that England could. The present tariff of seventeen and a half per cent. was protective enough to encourage manufacturers without increasing the burdens of the people. He demanded of his opponents to show what increase they wanted on the present tariff, and then the matter could be squarely discussed. If they say we want the same duties as the Americans, then he would ask them if on cloth for instance they wanted a duty of forty-five per cent instead of seventeen. Are you willing to be taxed as the artizans and farmers of the States, who are contributing, it has been computed, four hundred million dollars annually for which they received no benefit. Senator Beck, of Kentucky, in speaking of what protection has done for the States, holds that it has made the rich people richer and the poor infinitely poorer. In it there is no protection for the workingman's labor. The coal oil ring washdown up, which on account of the duty, people were made to pay double the price that they now do. (Mr. Riddell had been making interruptions, and Mr. Guthrie directed his attention for a moment to him.) The speaker said that two years ago when his policy was the same as now, that gentleman had supported him, but for some reason best known to himself, he saw fit to change round one day last March. The speaker said he did not wish to single any person out, but he had been driven to it on this occasion. It was shown how that a high protective tariff would have the effect of centralizing large manufactures and crushing out the manufactures of smaller places. The distilleries of Canada at the present time were instanced in support of this argument. The organ manufacturers asked two years ago a tariff of twenty per cent. and they would be satisfied, as announced in the address of Mr. McMillan who was first in the field. Since then the change in the value of Canadian and American currency gave them protection equal to nearly twenty-eight per cent. This clearly shows what is wanted by our opponents. If he was a supporter of Sir John, and holding the same views as he did now, they would throw their hats up for him. The parties who were pulling the wires were the Conservatives of this town with a few dissatisfied parties, who claimed to be Reformers. The men that were present at a meeting held in Bell's organ factory the other evening were such as Tom Hefferman, Joe Hefferman, and John Roche. Were those life-long Reformers, or had they not on every occasion been Tories of a pronounced stripe? At the time of Confederation Sir John reduced the tariff from twenty per cent to fifteen per cent to satisfy the Lower Provinces, and he would now have our whole policy reversed, and force on those people a high protective tariff. It would cause such sectional strife as to imperil the Confederation. The most important measures passed by the Government were referred to. The attitude assumed by Mr. Bowell, Sir John and his followers on the Anglin affair was shown up in its true colors, and these were men who claimed that they were not partizans. In speaking of his opponents, on the platform, he asked if they had ever been noted for advocating Liberal principles. Mr. Wright worked against the late member, Mr. Stirton, in 1874, and could see nothing wrong in the Pacific Scandal; Mr. Cowan did not cry "no party" at the meeting in Guelph Township, but boldly advocated the claims of Sir John Macdonald; and last of all, Mr. Lukes, who comes from no person hardly knows where. The speaker concluded his powerful address after clearly showing the unholy alliance that was existing between parties who claim to be National Policyists. He, however, had faith in the electors; that they would be true to themselves and true to their country, and would never be persuaded by a false cry to transfer their allegiance from the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie to Sir John Macdonald.

Mr. Guthrie spoke for two hours and ten minutes and on resuming his seat was loudly cheered.

Mr. A. W. Wright followed, and although he stated that he considered life too short to discuss general politics, he did not consider it too brief to appeal eloquently and pathetically for the National Policy and through it his beloved Chieftain. We regret that we have not room in to-day's issue for a report of his speech. It will appear to-morrow.

Mr. David McCrae contradicted some remarks made by the previous speaker regarding the woolen trade with Australia.

It was when he rose to speak that the opponents of the Reform candidate commenced their rowdyism and it was only after Mr. Wright had appealed to his friends for fair play, that they were willing to concede to it.

Mr. Guthrie replied to Mr. Wright at some length most effectively, winding up at half-past twelve o'clock. The audience by this time had been present about five hours, and as soon as Mr. Guthrie sat down the hall commenced emptying.

Mr. McCrae's remarks and a brief synopsis of Mr. Guthrie's reply will be published to-morrow.

Had a resolution been put it would have carried in favor of Mr. Guthrie by three to one.

Cheers were given for the Queen, the Mackenzie Government, and Mr. Guthrie, the Reform candidate, and the chairman as the hall was being cleared.

THE CONTEST IN NORTH WATERLOO.—A large meeting was held in Hawkinsville on Wednesday night to discuss the political situation. Mr. J. D. Hilborn occupied the chair, and Mr. J. E. Bowman, M.P., Reform nominee for the Commons, made an eloquent and convincing defence of the Government in a speech of about two hours duration. Mr. Fraser trotted out the "national policy" for an airing, and was followed by Mr. Hillard, of the Chronicle, who disposed of his arguments in a brief speech. Mr. Kranz, the Opposition candidate, followed, and admitted that protection to farmers by taxing their products would be useless. Mr. Bowman wound up in a masterly speech, which appeared to carry conviction to the audience. A resolution of confidence in the Government was passed by a vote of over two to one.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 31, 1878.

The Workingmen's Meeting in Toronto.

A grand demonstration in favor of the present Government took place in Toronto on Thursday evening, when the skating rink on Adelaide street west was filled by an immense audience, composed mostly of the working men of Toronto, who got up the meeting in honor of the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues. The meeting was entirely conducted by working men, Mr. Jury, one of the most prominent promoters of it, being in the chair. The meeting was largely composed of artizans, but besides these there were merchants, bankers, lawyers and ministers of religion, all of whom eagerly embraced the opportunity of hearing the Premier on the questions of the day. Mr. Mackenzie was presented with an address by the workingmen of Toronto, and in replying made a long and able speech in defence of the present Government, and by their policy. During the delivery of this speech, which occupied over three hours in delivery, he was at almost every point interrupted by knots of Tories, who had posted themselves in prominent positions, and whose main object seemed to interrupt the speaker and choke off any attempt at free discussion. They succeeded to a certain extent, but thanks to the energetic efforts of the police comparative quietness was secured at a later stage of the meeting, and both Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Mowat got a fair hearing. Take it all in all the demonstration was a grand success, and the working men of Toronto may feel proud that their efforts were so successful, and that by their presence there they gave good evidence that they had no sympathy with the protection policy of Sir John Macdonald. It was essentially a workingmen's meeting, and as such it was a decided success.

The Meeting on Thursday Night.

Mr. Guthrie's meeting in Guelph on Thursday night was a decided success. The electors turned out in large numbers—in fact the hall was crammed—and the great question now uppermost in the public mind was thoroughly discussed in the long and able speech made by Mr. Guthrie. It was a most convincing one, and he put the whole question of protection in the clearest and plainest light, so that anyone who chose to follow him could not but be convinced that the policy of the Government was the wisest and most patriotic in view of the conflicting interests of the different Provinces of the Dominion. We venture to say that this speech has greatly increased his popularity, and that he is to-day a stronger man in Guelph than he ever was before.

Mr. Wright was put up to reply to him. The protectionists seem to be entirely lacking in native talent, and have to import such hacks as Messrs. Lukes and Wright, who are ready for a job at any time so long as the pay is sure. This Mr. Wright, we are told, devoted a good part of his time in abusing the MERCURY, which is quite congenial work for him, and which seems to be about the highest compass of his brains. He is quite welcome to do all he can in that direction. The highest opinion his own friends form of him is that he is a contemptible sneak, and if we were to examine his antecedents piecemeal we are afraid we could not furnish any evidence to change this opinion. Such being the case, we must leave him, like the half drowned dog, a victim to all the jeers and insults which are usually meted out to such a dirty breed, and which are looked upon as the inevitable and necessary pests of society.

In his address at Thamesville on Saturday, Mr. Mills emphasized one point that should not be overlooked. The cry of Toryism is that our manufacturers are suffering, and that they must be protected. But the statistics of insolvency show that the hard times do not press near as heavy on the manufacturers as on traders. Taking one year alone, from January 1875 until February 1876, the liabilities of insolvent manufacturers were $5,721,631, and of merchants and traders, $16,335,479—more than three times the amount. And it is only necessary for us to look at the lists of insolvents published from time to time to see that this disproportion is even marked at the present. More than that, we all know from personal observation that if the manufacturers are faring badly they have great difficulty in showing it. They live in fine houses and "fare sumptuously" as compared with many others. It is quite possible that their profits are not as large now as they were six years ago; then many of them could easily secure a profit of 75 per cent.; now they have to get along with a trifling dividend of twenty five or thereabouts. But on the whole they do better than the classes the Taxationists propose to tax for their benefit.

THE following will clearly show what protection meant when Sir John Macdonald, the present leader of the Taxationists, was in power:—"A fifteen per cent tariff means more than fifteen per cent. protection to manufacturers. There is the cost of transport of goods from the other side of the water, which amounts on an average to at least five per cent., so that there is now a protection equal to twenty per cent. That ought to be sufficient for any industry suited to the country; and as to the others, it would be unwise to attempt to sustain them by fiscal props." The above is an extract from a speech delivered by Sir John Macdonald's representative (Mr. T. White), at the Dominion Board of Trade in January, 1873. Comment is unnecessary.

The United States House of Representatives has decided by a vote of 164 to 93 to fix the final adjournment for the 17th proximo.

THE Perth Expositor says:—In this county we have eighteen woollen mills, apart from carding mills. They employ nearly 1,100 hands, and pay out in wages $250,000 annually in cash, besides $50,000 more in building and repairs. Not bad for a single county. The above figures show what is possible under our present revenue tariff.

AT a Conservative meeting held in East York, Mr. M. C. Cameron closed his speech by saying, "for the present he would give way for the greatest statesman, the noblest son that Canada possesses." He gave way, and was followed by Mr. Alfred Boultbee. Where is that gentleman's record not known?

SAYS a contemporary:—It would be a pertinent question to put to Mr. Hay, the Taxationist candidate for Centre Toronto, whether in securing protection he would be willing to advance the wages of his workmen." Can any workman believe that wages would be advanced by Mr. Hay, or any other manufacturer, one cent? They certainly would follow the lead of the protected manufacturers of the States, who are constantly cutting down the wages of their employees.

THE Reformers of South Huron have done well in again nominating Mr. Greenway as their candidate for the Commons. His course throughout has been marked by independence and manliness, and the Reformers in that Riding, in again selecting him as their standard bearer, have shown their appreciation of his services, and of his fearless and straightforward course in Parliament. We sincerely trust that Mr. Greenway will be re-elected by a large majority.

THE following from the Whig, published in Kingston, where the election contest is already "fast and furious"—between the papers at least—is very apropos, and should be kept for full consideration:—Sir John by his "National Policy" is committed to the policy of levying a tax on grain and coal. Such a tax would raise the price of every ton of coal the poor man has to buy, and every loaf of bread he eats. The tax on coal would increase the cost of production—an increase in the cost of production would reduce the profits of manufacturers—a reduction in their profits would lower the rate of the workingmen's wages. It at the same time would raise the price of fuel to the workingman, as would the tax on wheat raise the price of his bread. Sir John's policy then would weaken home manufacturers, lower the rate of wages, and increase the cost of living.

THIS is what John Joseph Hawkins said at a meeting at Brantford in 1876. And to-day the same John Joseph is Sir John's chosen candidate for Bothwell:—"He has been present at the firing of the last gun when the political sun of Sir John Macdonald went down forever in the winding up of the nefarious Pacific Scandal transaction. From a mistaken sense of honor, from a feeling that it was dishonorable to desert a man in an hour of misfortune, he had followed a falling man until the firing of the gun in North Huron, when the sun went down for ever. He did not say that the Opposition would never again get into power, but if they did, he believed it would be under the leadership of very different men than those who were at present seeking the suffrages of the people, and endeavoring to secure the reins of power in this Province, mainly with a view to again secure possession of power in the larger sphere of the Dominion."

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co,, are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. CHAPTER XLIV.

A PROPOSITION OF WHOLESALE MURDER.

Never, probably, had a craft of such construction been launched on the blue waters of Loch Benachray. Never, certainly, had voyagers ventured on its surface impelled by such feelings of torturing eagerness and impatient anxiety as surged in the breasts of the occupants of that rude raft, as they tried with frantic impetuosity to push themselves over the island. The excitement of one and all was prodigious. Even Nip, who had the least personal interest in the object of their efforts, was feverishly deprived of that coolness and self-control so necessary to the successful accomplishment of the undertaking. The others were simply wild in their vehemence—Dixon least visibly so, but his was the nature of the volcano, which rages with internal vehemence while the exterior is but little moved. He handled his paddle well, and did his work with silent superhuman calmness, but his soul was on fire nevertheless, as the blood coursed through his veins, with a desire to meet and baffle the man who years ago had robbed him of his heart's love and destroyed the idol which he had taken. The hate which has a source like this is measureless—it knows no limit, save the utter destruction, most ruthlessly effected, of the doer of such unatonable wrong. The engendered feeling of revenge will be allayed by nothing short of this. Dixon had waited long for it, nursing his wrath to keep it burning. Fate had now put the means in his power, and brought the hour of accomplishment with a dramatic completeness which he could neither have planned nor wished better; and, with the sudden and unlooked for occasion, there rose in all their first intensity the passions which Allan McPherson's deed had kindled within him. That bitter, blighting past was as vividly before him as if the events had been but of yesterday, and he longed with inexpressible fierceness to confront the destroyer of his life's bright hopes and have ample revenge.

As for Harold Logan, we need not attempt to describe the state of his mind. He could control himself in most emergencies, but this one it was beyond his power calmly to meet. Body and mind alike were hopelessly swayed by the frantic fears which agonised him, lest they should be too late to save Lizzie and the child from the peril which he doubted not menaced them. His bosom heaved and panted with the violence of his anxiety; his face—hard set and terrible to behold—was covered with the sweat of his agony; and his physical exertions to send the raft through the water were tremendous.

Kenneth Fraser fully shared in Harold's feelings with a foster-brother's devotion. He could not have been more influenced had the case been solely his own, or acted more vehemently in the struggle to reach the island with all speed.

Alas, their very eager impetuosity served in a great measure to defeat their efforts. This and their inexperience in guiding such a craft prevented anything like satisfactory progress. Their steering power was very defective, and, as they could not manage to use their paddles with unity of stroke, their irregular, spasmodic pulling caused the raft to go hither and thither, sometimes to this side, sometimes to that, destroying all attempts to make a steady course for the island. They got away from the land, but seemed to get no nearer the place they so panted to reach.

Meanwhile the precious minutes were passing all to swiftly. They knew that ere this the boat had carried Gilmour and Allan McPherson to the island, and what they might be doing there it was madness to imagine. At every abortive effort to advance Dixon ground his teeth till they cracked with the pressure, and Harold groaned and sobbed in the extremity of his anguish, now giving vent to an exclamation of despair, now calling vehemently on Heaven to aid them.

And surely if the fond idea of a special Providence be not a dream—as who but the atheist or the infidel will assert—seldom has there been an occasion when such Divine aid was more urgently required or might be more reasonably expected. They had done and were doing all that mortals could to defeat the machinations of the wicked and rescue the weak and helpless. If Heaven is on the side of justice, and pledged to exert its omnipotence against the workers of iniquity, are human faith and dependence too presumptuous when looking for such assistance as Heaven only can afford? It will be better for all of us when we realise the need of such help, and invoke it with that devout earnestness which such realisation will produce.

Further Confession of Jack Smith the Murderer.

BERTIE, May 29.

While detective Krenz was conveying Jack Smith, charged with the murder of Thomas Allen at Bertie, to Welland gaol, some eighteen miles across the country, the prisoner was very communicative. He gave some incidents of his personal history; said he was born on the reservation about five miles from Hagersville; his mother was French and the father a negro; is 33 years old; was married to a squaw who died two years ago; has a boy named Levi, seven years, and a girl five years, with their aunt on the reserve; had been a runner and fighter, had been in Brantford Gaol five times for periods ranging from ten days to four months; had been in the penitentiary at Kingston two years for stealing cattle; says he did not steal them but three fellows did and laid it on him. Said he killed a man near Winona last October; he was at work in the bush, making bows and arrows, when a man came in and tried to drive him off; they quarrelled, and the man struck him with a club; says he does not remember anything more except that he came to himself about half an hour after, and found himself sitting down about forty rods away, then went and looked at the man, who was all bloody, and breathed a little; took his things and went away, leaving the man lying there on the ground. Smith seems fully to appreciate his position, and says that in four months he will be hung. When going up the steps of the gaol he said, "This is the last time, About four months, and then all is over."

England Will Roar.

Russia—I want several provinces to square off my territory.

England—Now, I don't think that's right.

Russia—I'm going to take these Turkish ships.

England—Now, you shouldn't do that. 'Taint right.

Russia—Let's see. But that isn't near enough. I want two or three, or twenty, or thirty million of roubles.

England—By George, you'd better take Turkey and be done with it.

Russia—Don't know but that I shall. Now there's Egypt.

England—Now, if you touch Egypt I shan't like it. I'll roar, I can roar.

Russia—O, roar and be——! I think I'll cork up the Bosphorus, too.

England—If you cork up the Bosphorus I will roar. I've got 400,000 roaring men.

Russia—Yes, I'll put a fort on the Bosphorus.

England—Now, I'm going to commence to roar right away if you do that. Austria will roar with me, too, won't you, Austria?

Austria—I—I—dunno. I havn't roared for a good while. I got awful sick the last time I roared at Germany. Maybe I'll roar. I'll see. I'll think about it.

England—Well, I've a good mind to roar all by myself. I declare it's shameful. Why, the man has no more conscience than a bear.—Graphic.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Arrangements for the Congress.

Schouvaloff Going Back to St. Petersburg.

LONDON, May 30th.

An extra edition of the London Globe contains the following:—We have good reason to believe that the assembling of a Congress is definitely settled. England and Russia have arrived at an understanding subject to the decisions of the Congress on the following points:—Bulgaria to be divided into two provinces, one north of the Balkans under a Prince, the other south of the Balkans but not touching the Ægean Sea, with a Christian governor and and a Government similar to that of an English colony; Turkish troops to permanently quit Bulgaria. England deplores, but will not oppose the retrocession of Bessarabia or the annexation of Batoum, and reserves the right to discuss in Congress the international arrangements relative to the Danube. Russia promises not to further advance her Asian frontier or take an indemnity in land or interfere with the claims of English creditors. The question of payment is to be discussed by the Congress, which will also reorganize Thessaly, Epirus, and the other Greek provinces. Bayazid is to be ceded to Turkey, Turkey ceding the province of Kotour to Persia. Russia agrees that the passage of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus shall remain in statu quo. England will suggest at the Congress that Europe reorganize Bulgaria, and will discuss the questions of a Russian occupation or passage of troops through Roumania.

A St. Petersburg special says:—It is rumoured that Schouvaloff is again expected here in a few days. Public opinion and the press more and more disapprove of the Government's concessions. The army is specially excited by Andrassy's declaration.

A Berlin special says:—England and Russia are not yet agreed, but no feeling of despondency is apparent.

It now seems probable that some scheme for a British protectorate over Asiatic Turkey has really been put forward by the Government.

The London correspondent of the Edinburgh Scotsman says:—There is little reason to doubt that our Government is determined to exercise a control in Turkey which will to a great extent place the actual government in our own hands. Not that the Sultan's authority is to be interfered with, but we shall take care that under the new treaty the reforms and good government shall become a reality.

It is reported that fears are entertained in St. Petersburg of an outbreak or hostile collision at Constantinople. No Such apprehensions are felt in London. It is thought Russia is merely bargaining for the utmost possible concessions before a final agreement is made.

BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE.—The Leonard Scott Publishing Co., have issued their reprint of Blackwood's Magazine for May. The second report of "John Caldigate," which has the first place in the number, tells about the voyage to Melbourne and the fourth lady who has fascinated, or been charmed by, the hero, who so far seems to be prodigal of his affections, and to distribute them without the slightest regard to any prior claims. The serial "Mine is Thine" draws to a close with unabated interest. M. Tassot's book entitled "Vienna and Vinnese Life" furnishes the subject for a very pleasing article describing old Vienna, and the recent improvements brought about in part by the opening of the Exhibition, the dress and habits of the people, &c. The poems consist of an Irish legend, taken from the Chronicles of the O'Driscols, besides the translations from Heine, which are becoming a regular feature of the magazine. The review of the "Budget" is followed by a discussion of the position of England, and the Treaty of San Stefano. The periodicals reprinted by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co. (41 Barclay Street, N. Y., are as follows:—The London Quarterly, Edinburgh, Westminster, and British Quarterly Reviews, and Blackwood's Magazine. Price, $4 a year for any one, or only $15 for all, and the postage is prepaid by the publishers.

A BENEVOLENT WORK.—The Methodist Church of New York is constantly engaged in providing for the increase of its borders. To a separate organization has been committed the work of extending the influence of the church. Rev. Wm. P. Corbitt, the famous revivalist, is chairman of this committee of extension—and he used to be a martyr of neuralgia. His cure he ascribes to GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA.

PICTURES.—A splendid lot of oil paintings, cromos, steel engravings, lithographs, at half the usual selling price, at Anderson's cheap bookstore.

The Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., endorsed by eminent and distinguished visitors as a model establishment, will be an exception hereafter to the general complaint of high prices.

The Grand Central is now offering unusual inducements to business men, families and tourists. The prices for board have never been so low, and the table is still kept up to its first-class high standard.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

Bond & Co. tell us that they have just received a large lot of the celebrated rubber paint ready mixed, all colors, instruction books given free of charge to any one requiring them.

Four masked men boarded a west-bound Union Pacific Railway train near Salt Lake on Wednesday, and robbed the passengers of a sleeping coach with impunity until some one pulled the bell-cord and the train was stopped, when the robbers, who had secured considerable booty, made off. A reward of $1,000 is offered for the capture of each.

Special Attraction.

We offer during the balance of this month wonderful attractions to intending buyers and Staple Dry Goods, Millinery, Carpets, Silks, Mantles, Jackets, and General Dress Goods.

Our stock stands unrivalled in the Dominion. The taste is exquisitely beautiful, the value s the best to be found, the most polite and courteous attention, is paid to all ranks of respectable purchasers, and the best of satisfaction is guaranteed to all who make their purchases of us. We submit for this week the greatest bargains ever before shown to the inhabitants of Guelph in

Black Silks,

for ladie's Mantles or Dresses. We unhesitatingly say that we are offering an advantage of 20 per cent under any establishment in Guelph. We are showing a nice stock of Moonlight Trimmings, Moonlight Vellings and Floral Trimmings.

These goods are quite new.

In Ladies' Millinery, Hats and Bonnets

we excell in taste, style, and novelty all previous efforts. The young lady at the head of this Department combines the most refined taste with lofty artistic ideas, making at once her department the reception room for ladies who are in quest of all that is novel and excellent.

Jackets, Mantles.

We congratulate the ladies of this section in having so rich and excellent a lot of Ladies Silk Paramatta and Tweed Jackets, exquisite styles. Also an endless variety of the material and styles to select from.

Our stock of all classes of general goods is full and complete, and we remind our old customers and friends that we only keep new, fresh, sound and satisfactory goods, satisfying all who purchase them. We are straightforward in dealing, and represent goods just as they are. We wage war against old, motheaten, bankrupt stocks, kept by second class stores, and again warn the public against such trash. Call and see the wonderful man, and you will receive the best value for your money.

THE CONTEST IN SOUTH WATERLOO

Enthusiastic Meeting in Preston.

Mr. James Young Again Nominated.

The largest Reform Convention ever known in this Riding was held on Thursday in Turner's Hall, Preston. Every part of the Riding was fully represented, and the utmostunanimity and enthusiasm was apparent. Mr. James Young, M. P., was unanimously elected the Reform candidate for the House of Commons, on motion of H. D. Tye, of Wilmot, seconded by Ephraim Erb, of Preston.

The following resolutions were passed by the meeting:—

Moved by F. D. Woodstock, New Hamburg, seconded by John Hays, Wilmot:—

That the wisdom, honesty, efficiency, and fidelity which both the present Dominion and Ontario Governments have adhered to as the Reform principle in the discharge of the onerous and difficult duties incumbent upon them since their first formation, entitle them to the highest meed of admiration and the continuance of public confidence. That this Convention would regard as a national calamity the retirement of either of them from office, and the restoration thereto of those leaders of the Tory party who, for their corrupt extravagance and unconstitutional practices, were driven from power by the voice of an outraged people. To prevent so inauspicious an event, and to maintain and perpetuate the rule of the statesmen now at the head of public affairs of Ontario and the Dominion, this Convention pledges itself to use all legitimate means within the sphere of its influence.

Moved by J. P. Phin, Waterloo township, seconded by Dr. Lundy, of Galt,

That this Convention indignantly condemns the policy of slander and misrepresentation of the Reform Administration of the Dominion so steadily pursued by all those leaders of the Conservative party who forfeited the confidence of the country on account of their reckless and corrupt transactions, and who now by this policy, as well as other objectionable means, seek to lead the thoughtless and unwary into lending their aid at the coming general election to restore the Conservative party to power.

No resolution was passed in reference to Mr. Young, but an address of confidence was adopted to be presented to him at a public meeting, of which the date is to be fixed shortly.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Young delivered an address of two hours' length, contrasting the administration of the present and the late Dominion Governments, and dealing effectively with the question of protection. Mr. Masters, M.P.P., also addressed the meeting. Among those present were Messrs. John Watson, President, Ayr; J. Gordon Mowat, Secretary; James Livingstone and Joseph A. Laird, Reeve and Deputy-Reeve of Wilmot; Henry McNally, Reeve of Waterloo; Alexander Barrie and Thereon Buchanan, Reeves of Dumfries; R. Scott, Deputy-Reeve of Galt; Frederick Merner, T. D. Woodcock, J. Kitchen, New Hamburg; H. D. Tye, John Hays, Wilmot; J. P. Phin, Isaac Clemens, Jacob S. Betzner, Wm. Fischer, Joel Clemens, Waterloo, M. A. Abbey, Ephraim Erb, W. D. Hepburn, C. A. Ahrens, A. Z. Detweiller, A. Winter, Preston; Walter Renwick, Hespeler; David Goldie, Thos. T. Chisholm, W. Oliver, James Brown, Menno Hallman, George Simpson, J. D. Moore, Dumfries; Gavin Hume, John Goldie, John Cavers, Adam Ker, Chas. Roose, John Gourlay, Thomas Field, Dr. Brown, Galt; and many other leading Reformers from all parts of the Riding. Never before have the Reformers of this Riding been more enthusiastic in their support of the Government, and the prospects of success are most encouraging.

BOOTS & SHOES

A pious elder of the Scottish Kirk, on his way to service on a Sunday morning, saw a little girl and boy playing marbles. He wrathfully inquired, "Boy, do you know where children go to who play marbles on Sunday?" "Ay, ay," answered the boy, "they gang doun to the field by the brig" (bridge) "No," roared the elder, "go to hell and are burned." The little fellow looking shocked and frightened, called to his sister, "Come awa, Jeannie; come awa, here's a mon swearing awfully."

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Delay in the Meeting of Congress.

Earl Beaconsfield to be Present.

LONDON, May 31.

A Berlin special to Paris says some questions of detail between England and Russia in regard to fixing the date of meeting are delaying the convocation of the Congress, but it will certainly commence sitting by the middle of June.

The Daily Telegraph says it is not only possible, but even probable, that Lord Beaconsfield will be the chief British representative to the Congress.

A St. Petersburg despatch says:—The public are semi-officially warned not to believe the various reports concerning the concessions by Russia. The people nevertheless, fear they are too great.

The Daily News says:—We have reason to believe that early next week Parliament will be informed that arrangements have been concluded for the meeting of the Congress. The Standard gives a similar assurance, and states that everything is being arranged for the meeting of the Congress.

LATEST FROM THE EAST.

Rumoured that Earl Beaconsfield will be the English Representative at Congress.

INVITATIONS ISSUED.

LONDON, June 1.—An absence of positive news respecting Congress causes great uneasiness. It is strongly rumoured that Earl Beaconsfield will be the English representative at the Congress.

LONDON, June 1.—It is reliably reported that invitations for Congress were issued to-night.

Presentation to Mr. W. H. Marcon.

A Tribute from the Sabbath School Teachers.

On Thursday evening about one hundred Sabbath school teachers met in St. Andrew's Church school-room for the purpose of presenting to Mr. W. H. Marcon, who had acted as assistant at the late Provincial Sabbath School Convention, held in Guelph, some token to mark their recognition of his services and the esteem in which he is held by the teachers generally. The clergymen present were Rev. Dr. Wardrope, Revs. Messrs. Manchee, Smith, and Ball. The presentation consisted of an address, a handsomely bound Bible, and a valuable Egyptian marble clock.

Dr. McGuire occupied the chair, Mr. A. O. Bucham read the address to Mr. Marcon and Mr. David McCrae made the presentation.

To Mr. W. H. Marcon.

DEAR SIR,—The Sabbath school teachers of Guelph, entertaining a high appreciation of your services as Local Secretary of the Dominion Sabbath School Convention, held here during the month of October last, and the success of which was so largely due to your excellent management and painstaking labors, desire, in recognition of your valuable gratuitous services, to present you with this Bible and Clock, and ask your acceptance of them as tokens of the personal esteem in which you are held by your fellow-teachers in this field of Christian labor. Assuring you of our best wishes for your future welfare, and commending you, in the bonds of brotherly love, to the care of our Heavenly Father, we are, on behalf of the Sabbath school teachers of this town,

A. O. BUCHAM,
D. MCCRAE.

The inscription engraved on the clock was executed by Mr. Chas. Matthews, jeweller, Douglas street, and is as follows:—"Presented to W. H. Marcon by the Sabbath School Teachers of Guelph, in recognition of his services as Local Secretary for the Dominion Convention, 1878."

Mr. Heffernan Feels Aggrieved.

To the Editor of the MERCURY.

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in your report of Mr. Guthrie's speech, published in last evening's MERCURY, that you have not fairly reported that gentleman's elegant familiarity with my name. I know of no reason why Mr. Guthrie should speak sneeringly or disrespectfully of me. I have always endeavored to show towards him that courtesy due by one gentleman to another, even in the heat of a political campaign. Mr. Guthrie was evidently out of humor, the meeting was not all he had expected it to be, but he had better learn in time to control his temper. It seems strange that this political penitent should let such angry passions rise, simply because the Conservatives prefer to support an independent Reformer in opposition to himself. I remember only a few years ago Mr. Guthrie stumped this riding in favor of two pronounced Tories, in opposition to the nominee of the Reform party. He should not forget this, and if in the present campaign some of his Conservative friends wish to support a Reformer, he must not get angry and call pettish names. By kindly publishing this letter you will oblige. Yours truly,

THOS. A. HEFFERNAN.

GENERAL HOSPITAL.—Rev. Dr. Wardrope and Dr. McGuire will be on hospital duty for the ensuing week.

PRIMITIVE METHODIST CHURCH.—The Rev. J. W. Robinson, of Markham, will preach in the above church to-morrow, morning and evening.

SOCIAL.—A social will be held in the basement of the Primitive Methodist Church on Thursday evening next, 6th inst. Tickets of admission are ready.

LAWN CROQUET.—T. J. Day announces for the season, a splendid variety of lawn croquet, of excellent quality, and low price. See adv't.

THERE is in stock at Anderson's book store some very beautiful fret-work brackets, manufactured by Mr. Harper. All sizes and all prices.

THE Caledonians at St. Catharines will have a grand day on the 1st of July. Over two hundred dollars are offered in prizes.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—The Ladies' Association of Dublin street church will hold their annual strawberry festival on Thursday, the 20th inst.

METHODIST CHURCHES.—To-morrow Rev. Mr. McAllister, of Hespeler, will occupy the pulpit of the Dublin street church in the morning, and the Norfolk-street church in the evening.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S.—The first communion will take place in the above church to-morrow morning at eight o'clock. In the afternoon at three o'clock confirmation services will be conducted by his Lordship Bishop Crinnon.

MORE STONE THROWING.—We hear again of parties narrowly escaping being hit with stones on the Waterloo Road last night. We would remind offenders that the Police Magistrate, on conviction, can impose a heavy punishment, and it would be well to stop it ere they regret it.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH.—The offertory to-morrow at St. George's Church is to be devoted to the building fund, as has been the custom, and will be so continued until further notice. On Trinity Sunday there will be a collection for missions of diocese. At a special service on Friday, several infants were baptized.

DAILY MAIL.—The Erin stage commences to-day (Saturday), to run the daily mail between Guelph and Erin Village, calling at all intermediate post offices on the way, and will leave town punctually at two, every day, arriving at Erin at half-past six o'clock.

LARGE BANKRUPT STOCK.—Mr. Wm. Russell has purchased the large bankrupt stock of goods of Messrs. Macauley & Brown, of Palsgrave, which will be on exhibition next week. The figure paid was less than half the cost and the public is to receive the benefit. Advertisement next week.

PRESIDENT OF THE CONFERENCE.—The Rev. H. Harris has returned home from the London Conference, where he was elected President by a large majority. We understand the rev. gentleman was offered lucrative positions at other stations, but he preferred remaining in Guelph. It is hoped he will be able to remain here for many a day.

BY request of Mr. T. A. Heffernan we give the words used by Mr. Guthrie in the Town Hall on Thursday night in referring to the life long Tories in Guelph who were pulling the wires in the National Policy dodge: "Tommy Heffernan, Joe Heffernan and Mr. Roche." To what desperate straits the wire pullers must be driven when they urge their friends to consider the above an insult.

EARLY BERRIES.—Robert Murray has received his first sample of Canadian strawberries to-day, grown in the vicinity of Grimsby. The fruit was picked on the 31st of May, and is a thing almost unprecedented. Last year they were gathered on the 9th of June, and the year previous on the 20th of the same month. We have to thank R. Murray for a sample of the first Canadian berries. They are large and lucious. Mr. R. expects to be up to the knees in berries in a few days.

VEGETABLE MARKET.—Different kinds of vegetables were largely represented in our market to-day by the various growers for this season's consumption, and in nearly all cases the producers met with a ready sale. The supply of produce was remarkably fine, more especially parsnips, which has been seldom exhibited at such sizes for this season of the year. We quote prices from the leading vegetable growers, who are generally in attendance:—Potatoes, $1 per bag; carrots, 15c. per peck; parsnips, 15c. per peck; spinnach, 15c. per peck; radish, 5c. per bunch; parsley, 2c. per bunch; pickled cucumbers, 25c. to 75c. per 100; rhubarb, 5c. per bunch; young onions, 3c. to 4c. per bunch; tomatoes, 12c. per dozen. The following is the price of plants:—Celery, 60c. per 100; cabbage, 20c. per 100; tomatoe, 15c. per box. Chicken were selling at 40c. per pair, and eggs and butter, the former at 12½c. per doz. and the latter at 12½c. per lb. There were a number of flower garden plants disposed of.

SUICIDE OF AN OLD RESIDENT OF GUELPH.—Some days ago, in Toronto, Stephen Dadson, who lived at No. 83 Ann-street committed suicide by cutting his throat. Mr. Dadson had been suffering for a long while from softening of the brain, and the disease had gradually undermined his constitution until he was obliged to take to his bed. Medical aid was called in, but the case was one which could not be cured. Deceased was 70 years of age. Not a few in Guelph will remember Mr. Dadson, who was a hatter by trade, and carried on business here some years ago. He was a quiet, inoffensive and estimable man.

P. M CONFERENCE APPOINTMENTS.—The following are the appointments of ministers for the Guelph district made at the late London Conference:—Guelph—H. Harris; Peel, J. E. Lidstons; Hawksville, T. Amy; Minto, R. Hassard, A. M. Gay; Brant, E. Crompton; Kincardine, J. W. Gilpin, P. DeLong Wingham; J. Smith, R. J. Stillwell; St. Helens, T. Bryant; Arthur, A Knapp, T. Dudley, sup.; Grey, G. Baker. The following are statistics of the connexion, in 1878:—Ministers, 98; local preachers, 262; class leaders, 339; connexional churches, 214; other preaching places, 88; parsonages, 39; Sabbath schools, 154; S.S. teachers, 1,250; scholars, 9098; church members, 8,174; members died, 89; value of church property, $364,115; debt, $60,933; ordinary income, $30,144.

Terrible Collision in the English Channel.

GERMAN TURRET SHIP SUNK.

Over Three Hundred Lives Lost.

LONDON, May 31.

The German squadron, consisting of three ironclads, the Preussen, Grosser Kurfurst, and Koening Wilhelm, passed Dover this morning for Plymouth, whence it expected to sail for Gibraltar. When the squadron was off Ludgate, about five miles from shore, one of the ironclads was observed gradually heeling over on her beam ends, and men were seen crowding on the bulwarks. In about five minutes the vessel went down on her side. The Folkestone life-boat arrived too late. Several of the steamers have gone to the scene from Dover. It is believed the Koening Wilhelm, which ran into the Grosser Kurfurst, is badly damaged.

The German Embassy says it is feared 450 persons perished on the Grosser Kurfurst. A telegram to the Admiralty says about 300 perished. Two hundred have been saved. This comes from the Coast Guard at Folkestone.

A despatch from Dover says it is reported that Grosser Kurfurst carried a crew of 600, of whom between 300 and 400 are supposed to be drowned.

The Grosser Kurfurst sank almost immediately after the collision, the boilers exploding. Boats were sent from the other vessels of the German fleet to the assistance of the wrecked, and it is hoped more were saved than at first reported.

The latest Lloyd's telegram gives the total of saved in the disaster to-day at 23 officers and 160 men.

The First Lord of the Admiralty in a statement in the House of Commons to-day confirms the report that the collision occurred while the Grosser Kurfurst was endeavoring to avoid a merchantman.

An eye-witness states that the Grosser Kurfurst had starboarded her helm, intending to cross the bows of the merchantman, and the Koennig Wilhelm ported, apparently to pass the stern of the same vessel. The Grosser Kurfurst having somewhat lost speed in turning they thus met. The Admiral states that the Grosser Kurfurst sank quicker than the officers of the other vessels deemed possible. It appears the Grosser Kurfurst's officers also underrated the damage, as they commenced to attempt to turn the vessel's head shorewards. Some spars fell at the time of the collision, probably preventing the launching of the boats, one of which was filled with men and hanging from the davit's when the vessel sank.

THE regular Sunday gospel temperance meeting of the G. C. T. C. will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms every Sunday at four p.m. Short addresses will be delivered, interspersed with good music. All are cordially invited. C. Raymond, President; J. T. Mitchell, Secretary.

THE POPE CONTEMPLATING ABDICATION.—A Rome special says:—The Pope is ill in body and distressed in mind by the plots and cabals designed to prevent the reforms he proposes. It is reported that the Pope manifests a disposition to abdicate. Cardinal Franchi in doing his utmost to check the machinations of the Jesuits. The latter on the other hand, are striving to secure Cardinal Franchi's downfall.

THE LATE EARL RUSSELL.—The widow of Earl Russell has declined the burial of the deceased statesman in Westminster Abbey, as his will directs his remains to be interred in the family vault in Buckinghamshire. The Senate of Italy unanimously passed a resolution expressing sympathy with the family of the late Earl Russell. King Humbert also telegraphed his condolence.

Philip Wykeham Martin, member of Parliament for Rochester, England, died suddenly on Friday afternoon in the library of the House of Commons.

THROWN FROM A TRAIN.—John Gaffney, fireman of engine 47 on the Shore line Railroad of New Haven. Ct., was thrown from the engine against a rock, while the train was going at the rate of 35 miles an hour. He was all but killed, yet thanks to GILES LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA, recovered completely in four days.

MR. MACKENZIE IN SARNIA.—On Friday evening the Town Hall in Sarnia was crowded to excess to hear the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie deliver an address on public affairs. During the evening the Independent Band discoursed excellent music. The room was handsomely adorned with bannerets and appropriate mottoes. The chair was occupied by Mr. Daniel Mackenzie, President of the Lambton Reform Association. At eight o'clock the Premier entered the buildings, and was received with prolonged cheering. He was presented with an address, and in reply made a long and able speech. He was followed by Mr. Pardee. A motion pledging the Reformers to secure the Mr. Mackenzie's re-election was then passed.

PUSLINCH ALL RIGHT.

Mr. Guthrie Before the Electors.

On Friday evening there was a large turn-out of the electors of Puslinch at the hall at Aberfoyle to hear Mr. Guthrie speak on the political questions of the day. On Mr. Guthrie's arrival a number of the electors, headed by a piper, escorted him to the hall. The hall was nearly filled—fully two hundred being present.

On motion, Mr. Duncan McFarlane was appointed chairman and Mr. W. Ross secretary.

Mr. Guthrie was called upon, and on rising was received with enthusiasm. In the course of his remarks, he graphically sketched the policy of the Government, and compared their actions with the present Opposition, whom the so-called National Policyists wish to have reinstated into power. It was clearly shown what effect a high tariff would have, and who would have to pay the increase of taxes. After dealing very extensively with the tariff question, the speaker pointed out wherein the legislation of the present Government had been extremely beneficial to the country. Mr. Guthrie resumed his seat amidst loud applause.

Mr. Wright was introduced to the audience, and was informed by the chairman that half an hour had been decided for his reply.

Mr. Guthrie was willing that he should have any time within reason.

Mr. Wright made his bow to the audience by reading an extract from the MERCURY in which he was handled without gloves for a gross personal attack on the staff of that paper. He said that this article was used as a free trade argument by that newspaper. The speaker then launched on the subject of protection. He stated that Nova Scotia coal had been delivered in Hamilton in 1867 for $4 a ton, and the person that purchased it was in the room—Mr. Robert Higham. Arguments were advanced to support his views amidst an occasional interruption by some farmers. He concluded amidst applause.

Mr. Massie was next called upon. He received a very hearty reception. He spoke of Mr. Guthrie's position on the tariff two years ago and what he advocated now as being identical.

Mr. Riddell—May I ask a question? Did not Mr. Guthrie say in the town hall two years ago that he favored a readjustment of the tariff?

Mr. Guthrie—No.

Mr. Donald Ferguson—I heard Mr. Guthrie say at that time he favored a readjustment of the tariff so far as the interests of the country required it. (Cheers.)

Mr. Guthrie—That's what I said.

Mr. Massie continued and on the position that Mr. Wright took that Chicago controlled the price of wheat, showed amidst applause that it must be the country in the world in which the grain was bought that must fix the price and not the country that produced it. The speaker continued and dealt with the arguments, held to be fallacious, in a convincing manner to the audience, judging from the manner in which they were received. The speaker showed the difference of opinion existing among manufacturers on protection, and instanced one sewing machine manufacturer who was put to the cost of $1,000 a year on articles that he was obliged to import.

Mr. Riddell came forward to speak when Mr. Peter Mahon proposed to submit a resolution and asked Mr. Riddell if he would speak after the resolution had been submitted.

Mr. Riddell said he did not want to speak to the resolution, he knew what it was. It had been submitted at all meetings excepting Guelph.

Mr. Mahon said he hurled back the insinuation of Mr. Riddell with contempt, when he intimated that there was not brains enough among the farmers of Puslinch to frame a resolution to suit themselves.

Mr. Riddell continued amidst ironical cheers and interruptions, but on the whole got a fair hearing. He dealt with the barley question.

Mr. Jas. Glennie spoke on the barley question in reply to the previous speaker. In speaking of the manner in which the National Policy requisitions were being hawked about the country, he said Mr. Doyle had admitted that three-fourths of the Conservatives were working with them merely to get the Conservatives with Sir John at their head back into power. From what Conservatives have advocated in the past what would they care for the National Policyists afterwards, even if there was a benefit to be derived from it. Their object was attained—Sir John was in power and they cared very little for anything else.

An interruption from Mr. Wright caused Mr. Glennie to twit him about being challenged to discuss the question with him (the speaker) on any platform.

Mr. Wright—There will be a meeting in Guelph shortly and we will allow you an hour.

Mr. Glennie alluded to Mr. Wright as a coward when he, at Downie's school, pledged himself not to take up any new subject in reply, as on that occasion rubbish as well as new arguments were advanced.

Mr. Wright—I apologize to this audience for calling Mr. Glennie a gentleman. A mistake was made by me when I used the term.

Mr. Glennie, amidst great laughter, made an excellent point against Mr. Wright in return for the insult offered by tendering him the same advice as Robert Burns gave a young friend when painting angels on Jacob's ladder. The speaker concluded after dealing for a few minutes on the general phase of the question of protection to farmers.

The following resolution was then carried unanimously:

Moved by P. Mahon, seconded by W. Nicol, that this meeting desires to express its confidence in the honesty, integrity, and ability of the Honorable Alexander Mackenzie and his Cabinet, and in their financial policy and administration of the Government of the Dominion; and likewise in our member, Mr. Donald Guthrie, and pledge ourselves to use our utmost endeavors to to secure his re-election to Parliament.

Not one in the whole audience voted nay, although there were a few who were opponents of the Reform candidate. When the chairman urged upon those opposed to the resolution to show that they were, no sign was given. One farmer taking in the situation cried out "They are ashamed of their cause."

A vote of thanks was tendered the chairman, and cheers were given for the Queen, Mr. Guthrie, and the Mackenzie Government.

At the close of the meeting the piper present struck up a lively air, and those present left for their homes about half-past twelve o'clock.

SOUTH WELLINGTON.

Mr. Guthrie's Meeting in the Town Hall.

The following is the balance of the report of the meeting held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening:—

Mr. Wright was introduced to reply. He was received with prolonged cheering. He expressed pleasure at having the opportunity to address a Guelph audience, and he was glad to know that so many were prepared to help forward the Policy which he advocated. Life was too short to discuss general politics and he, therefore, would eschew them, and instead discuss the great question that was agitating this country from one end of it to the other. The question was not one of party politics, but, when you record your votes, it was whether you are not willing to lay aside party politics and go hand in hand for the good of the country? Mr. Guthrie had told the audience that he knew him away back in 1874, when he defended Sir John Macdonald; but this being the case it was surpassing strange that he (the speaker) was not known the other evening at Ospringe. If Mr. Guthrie thought by not knowing him to sink him out of sight he was very much mistaken. It was men who had risen above party strife that were sneered at by a partizan press. The MERCURY newspaper had been most vile, dastardly and disgraceful in its attacks on those who had seen fit to sever themselves from party ties. (Mr. James Anderson—"It will recoil on their own heads.") The speaker found a charge in the MERCURY against himself in accusing him of throwing a pamphlet at the head of Col. Clarke, at Erin Village. The person who penned the dastardly attack on a brother journalist, knew full well that he was writing what was a villanous falsehood, as he had heard Colonel Clarke say that the idea that he had been so assaulted was all nonsense. The speaker said he had also been called a needy politician. It was true he was poor, and he was quite as sorry for it as the MERCURY was. He had also been accused of failing in business. Well, he could say one thing, when his brain power had so far failed that he had to have recourse to the scissors and paste pot as the MERCURY had to, he would quit that too. (Oh! ho! and laughter.) If that rule was generally adhered to there would be a change made on the MERCURY staff. In answer to the charge that the National Policyists had not laid down, definitely, what was wanted, Robert Lowe, a great English statesman had laid down as a principle that a change advocated in fiscal policy should always be laid down in the broad, and not in detail, (Oh! oh!) as if it were not the small operators would be at the mercy of the large ones. The poor man would thus be put in an unfair position. He characterized the motions made in the House last session by Messrs. Brown and McKay as mean, petty partizan tricks—nothing but mere clap-traps. (A voice—"Why did Sir John vote for a clap-trap resolution?") Sir John voted for the resolutions as a step towards a National Policy. (Oh! oh!) He would like to know if Nova Scotia coal could not be laid down here as cheaply as American coal? The Grand Trunk has offered to carry coal from Nova Scotia for $2.50 a ton, and the coal could be purchased there for $1.25. This would make coal here only $3.75. (Laughter.) Can you get American coal for that price? (A voice—What do you want with protection then.) The speaker stated that no one advocated a tax on iron, and therefore Mr. Guthrie need not have troubled about it. (Mr. Guthrie—Mr. Fraser, Secretary of the National League, advocated in this hall a tax on iron.) Well, they did not advocate that now. Mr. Fraser's opinion had changed. (Ironical cheering.) Instead of protection raising the price of goods it will reduce it. If such is not the case how is it that protected America can undersell free trade England and Canada. In speaking of the Australian trade he held that Canada could not compete there with the United States. In a certain pamphlet issued by the Government is found the statement that the woollen goods sent to Sydney by Mr. McCrae, of Guelph, had been undersold. And by whom?—the Americans. In speaking of the importation of furniture, he said the reason the same kind was not manufactured in Canada was, that it was very inferior in quality. It was only a short time ago that furniture was brought to Toronto and entered on fraudulent invoices, and the Government very wrongly allowed the invoice to be amended. In referring to figures quoted by Mr. Guthrie, as used by Mr. John Macdonald, of Toronto, the speaker said they were absurd. That same gentleman had said that Americans never slaughtered goods in Canada. When a protection of $4 a box had been placed on glass, it afterwards sold for $3.50. Comparison was made by the speaker of France with England. The former country was highly protected and the people were all comfortably off—none very rich and none very poor—while the latter country had a few rolling in wealth and millions in abject poverty. Mr. Guthrie had been reported to say at his Eramosa meeting, that since a mill had been closed in Guelph he had been told by a farmer that a certain mill had taken advantage of it.

Mr. Guthrie—That's not so. I never said any such thing.

Mr. Wright—The party who heard you say it is now on the platform.

Mr. Guthrie said he had remarked, in speaking of the benefits of competition, that it had been stated to him by a farmer that since the closing of Allan's mill in Guelph, farmers complained that they did not get as good prices from a certain other mill, and in consequence were taking their grain to Georgetown and other places.

Mr. Thos. Goldie rose and said something, but no person a few feet distant could tell whether it was a contradiction of what Mr. Guthrie had said or a confirmation.

Mr. Wright resumed. He gave the figures of the balance of trade, which England had in her favor under protection, and a much larger balance against her was now the case. The country was beginning to live on its capital, and it was only a matter of time before ruin would overtake it. With the States it was entirely different. He held that no rule could be laid down as to who paid the duty. In some cases it was the producer and in others the consumer. If the fifty million dollars' worth of goods imported into Canada would employ so many more artizans they would help to pay taxes, and farmers would have a much better home market and, therefore, get better prices. In a short time the English market would be closed for our grain, and with this staring us in our faces, why should we not endeavor to get the teeming millions from the old world to settle here to consume the produce. In concluding, the speaker made an appeal to the electors to weigh the matter carefully in their own minds. If they believed in the present policy of the Government it was right that they should vote to sustain the Government, but if they were willing to throw off party ties and vote for the common good of the country they could see their way clear to join in with the National Policyists. (Loud cheering.)

Mr. D. McCrae rose and requested the privilege of a reply to the remarks which had been made by the previous speaker (Mr. Wright) on the shipment of goods by his firm to Australia. (The interruption here was very great, howling and hissing coming from little knots in different parts of the hall.) When quiet had been restored, the speaker said that the statement had been made that woollen goods manufactured by McCrae & Co., could not compete in Australia—were undersold. The statement was correct; but it had been added — undersold by Americans. This was incorrect. Protected America could not undersell them in Australia; but Free-trade England did. (Cheers) And why? Because they had cheap money and cheap labor. There was another matter which Mr. Wright had touched upon which he (Mr. McCrae) could not allow to pass unchallenged. The statement was made that Mr. John Macdonald had stated in his speech in the House of Commons on the tariff that "Americans never slaughtered goods in Canada"—Mr. Wright added—"we know that they do." He (Mr. McCrae) had the pleasure of listening in the House to the able speech of the member for Centre Toronto, and he would assure them that he used no such expression—he made no such statement—

Mr. Wright—It is in the report of his speech.

Mr. McCrae—Let me see it.

Mr. Wright handed up the pamphlet.

Mr. McCrae—Oh! this is a National Policy pamphlet. (Cheers.)

Mr. John Macdonald did not state that "goods were never slaughtered in Canada," and the attempt to make it appear that he did was a disgraceful attempt to cast a slur on the veracity of an honorable gentleman. We had heard a good deal about the taking of American cotton to Manchester, but we had not heard that the mill making a large part of the shipments was to-day closed—failed—owing thousands of dollars to its operatives. (Cheers.) He had never sent cotton to Manchester, but he had sent woollen there, and he would give his experience of the balance of trade which had been mentioned as a very good thing for the country when in its favor. He sent say $500 worth of goods there, that was out going value, but he had to sell there for say $300, losing the difference. With the $300 he purchased fine wools in Liverpool, and brought it to Canada. This was $300 incoming value. So on that transaction there was a balance of trade of $200 in favor of Canada, just the amount of his loss. He would very much rather have had the balance of trade against Canada, and $200 more in his pocket. (Cheers.) It has been stated that the balance of trade against England in one year was seventy-two million pounds; that the country was growing poorer and poorer; that in fact there was now in it "a few very rich men and armies of paupers." It was far from the fact. England is not made up of armies of paupers. (Cheers. It is; it is; no; no; no). On the contrary England had never been so prosperous as she had been between 1865 and 1875. He would quote from the figures of Mr. Robt. Griffin, head of the statistical department of the Board of Trade of the Conservative Government of England. He (Griffin) bases his calculation on the income tax—a good test—one not likely to be over stated. England's wealth increased in those ten years the enormous sum of two thousand four hundred million pounds sterling—three times the national debt—a sum never made before by any nation in the same period of time. (Great cheering.)

Mr. Guthrie replied to Mr. Wright. He challenged those who came before the electors of South Wellington crying for a change in the tariff, to inform him where the change was desired. They, however, shirk the question—have no answer to make, and instead of dealing with the question in a manly, straightforward manner, they want you to believe that it is all right—only return them to power with their old Chieftain at their head. Will they dare to tell you that they want a tariff equal to the American tariff, so as to make Canada have the same peculiar kind of prosperity enjoyed by the States. Compare Canada with the States, and which is the more prosperous? Have we thousands upon thousands reduced to the verge of starvation as there are in the large cities across the borders. Our opponents prate about the balance of trade, and instance the effect of free trade in England. Who has not heard, and perhaps many in the audience had experience of the fact, what England was with her starving population under protection. Every person knows the position she occupies now. According to Mr. Wright's argument it makes no difference whether the people of a country are really prosperous, or not so long as they hold what is termed balance of trade. If Mr. Wright can buy Nova Scotia coal laid down here at $3.75 what need is there of protection, as at that price the Americans could not begin to compete. He asked for proof that the freight on coal was only $2.50 from the mines to here.

Mr. Thos. Goldie said he had received a letter to that effect, but had not it with him.

Mr. Guthrie said he would very much like to see that letter. The Guelph Gas Company used some five hundred tons of coal a year, and it was surpassing strange that these cheap rates had been for so long time a secret. Mr. Myers, of Toronto, is endeavoring to work the iron mines in Marmora, and he says—put a tax on coal and you ruin me. Such being the case why have we not a right to demand of our opponents what alternation in the tariff they want. Mr. Wright stated that if no goods were imported but were manufactured here 100,000 more artizans could be employed which would benefit the home market. From a careful estimate made by a comyetant party it has been shown that the extra number of artizans who could find employment would be only 22,000, a number that the surplus produce of this County could feed. Protection would retard the development of the country. What would English artizans and agriculturists think on being urged to come to Canada because it was the best protected country in the world, after their own bitter experience of protection. Every argument advanced by the National Policy representative was taken up in detail by the speaker before resuming his seat.

The applause was tremendous.

The meeting afterwards closed as stated yesterday.

THE father of the "national policy," Dr. Tupper, denounced the addition of 2½ per cent. to the tariff, made by the Mackenzie Government in 1874, as the introduction of "the thin edge of the wedge of protection;" he told the world that this policy had swept the American flag from the high seas, and that the Canadian farmers, without protection, were in an enviably prosperous condition. Is it not strange that those who condemned the small addition to the tariff, which national necessities imposed upon the Government in 1874, should have then been condemned by the very men who are now, in 1878, crying out for a still larger increase?

Serious trouble is anticipated in the English grain trade in consequence of the heavy decline in prices, the splendid crop on this continent, and the quieter political aspect.

Daily Mercury.

SATURDAY EVENING, JUNE 1, 1878

Mr. John Macdonald and the Slaughtering Business.

The Herald took exception to the statements made by Mr. David McCrae at the meeting the other night in Guelph, when reference was made to the slaughtering of goods in Canada.

It is interesting to know what Mr. John Macdonald said in his speech in February, 1876. In discussing the tariff that year in Parliament he said:—"Several gentlemen who have preceded me have stated that American goods have been slaughtered in this country. That may be right. I don't pretend to express an opinion about branches of trade that I know nothing about, but I have reason to believe that American and other manufactues are not slaughtered in this country. I hold that the slaughter has come from Great Britain; I hold that the over production has been due to the cheapness of credit obtained in Great Britain; I hold that it is the excess of the goods of Great Britain thrown on our markets that has paralysed our manufacturers, and that the depression of trade has not been the result of the tariff, but of the injudicious use of credit and lack of business ability."

This is a very different story to that told by Mr. Wright at the meeting on Thursday night, when he sought to make his hearers believe that the Americans slaughtered their goods in Canada, and thereby gain the advantage over free trade England. Mr. Macdonald's words, as quoted above, are the best evidence possible that could be afforded.

The Orangemen and the Montreal Troubles.

Taking advantage of the visit of the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie to Toronto on Thursday, a deputation from the Orange County Lodge of Toronto waited on him at the Queen's Hotel, to solicit information with reference to the position of the Montreal Orangemen, who have decided to celebrate the coming anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne in that city by a private procession. Mr. Mackenzie in replying to the deputation said that the administration of justice and the maintenance of the laws in Canada rested, not with the Dominion Government, but with the municipal and judicial authorities of the respective Provinces. The Dominion Government had no power to order the Mayor of Montreal to do anything; nor could they interfere with anything he did. It was the Mayor's duty under the law of the Province of Quebec to call out such citizens as he might require for the preservation of the peace. He did not wish to presume to give the deputation advice; that would be perhaps to go beyond his proper sphere—for they had not come to ask advice. But for all that, he thought he might venture on the suggestion that the less display there was made in Montreal from remote parts of the Dominion, the greater security would there be for the preservation of the peace. People did not always reason in time of trouble and commotion. They acted on impulse, and if a mob gathered, they would not understand or appreciate the motives of Orangemen who might visit Montreal, though they went there, as the deputation had said, for the purpose of countenancing their friends. His belief was that if the Orangemen of Montreal were left alone, and there were no crowds from a distance, no breach of the peace would take place. The appearance of a crowd coming into the city from various parts of the country would be looked upon as an act of defiance, even if it was not so intended; it had an aggressive aspect about it, and when the passions of a mob were once aroused every one knows to what lengths they would go. What he was most afraid of—and it was a matter which had caused him great concern—was that when the passions of an unreasoning crowd of people were excited by plausible but foundationless stories being circulated among them, the coming in of large crowds who had no particular interest there, would have the appearance to them of something like an invasion of the city and a flaunting in their faces of what they rightly or wrongly considered—he was now speaking of prejudices—an emblem of offence.

After some conversation, Mr. Clarke expressed for the deputation their hearty thanks to the Premier for his courtesy, and begged to assure him that their sole object in calling on him was for the purpose of endeavouring to have the difficulty settled in a peaceable way. They had no desire, he could assure Mr. Mackenzie, to make it an embarrassing question to the Government.

Mr. Mackenzie said he was sure of that, and he would gladly do anything in his power to secure the maintenance of order.

THE Dundas Banner says:—Cotton manufacturing, which is in a fairly flourishing condition in Canada, to say the least of it, has reached so low an ebb in the United States that the celebrated Fall River Mills have at last been compelled to work on half time. The contrast is about as striking as could well be conceived, seeing that the raw cotton is produced in the United States, while it has to be imported into Canada. Our mill in Dundas is running on full time, and has plenty of orders ahead.

The Banner says:—"At a regular weekly meeting of the Dundas Temperance Club recently held, the Rev. Mr. Haskell announced that the friends of Temperance in the County of Wentworth purpose having a preliminary meeting very shortly with the view of making arrangements for the submission of the Temperance Act just passed in the Commons, to the electors of this County. He intimated that it was proposed that this County should be the first to lead off in the campaign for prohibition under the new Act.

Protection in 1874 Compared with that in 1878.

Mr. Guthrie stated, while discussing the tariff on Thursday night, that manufacturers who feared American competition, were in a much better position at the present time, in consequence of greenbacks being at par value than they were in 1874, under a discount of 15 per cent. Now, this protection exists to a much greater extent than the public are likely to suppose, and we base our opinion on the following facts which occur every day, and are well known to our business men. Let us put a case.

In 1874, before the present Government advanced the tariff from fifteen to seventeen and a half per cent., I purchased in New York goods to the extent of $100. The Customs discount at that time was fifteen per cent.

Cost in gold	$ 85 00
Duty in gold, at 15 per cent	12 75
Freight and other expenses to Guelph, 2½ per cent	2 50
Cost of my goods laid down here	$100 25
In 1878, under the present tariff, I purchase in New York goods to amount of	$100 00
No discount allowed, greenbacks being at par
I pay duty on above at 17½ per cent	17 50
I pay freight and other expenses, 2½ per cent	2 50
Actual cost in gold	$120 00

So that, even should there be a decline in the price of some kinds of goods, it is nevertheless quite clear that a very large margin is still lett in favor of the home made articles. We think the above figures should cause people to hesitate before rushing into a ruinous fiscal policy, which can have but one effect, and that is to add immense and unnecessary burdens on the people without any corresponding benefit.

THE Brantford Expositor has prepared the following appropriate epitaph for Tupper, "the great stretcher." "Let him lie."

THE Brantford Expositor says the second hand book case which was presented to Sir John in Brantford, on the 24th, and which is reported to have cost $400, just cost exactly $110, and that not a fifth of that sum was contributed by working men properly so called.

MGR. CONROY, the apostolic delegate, will remain in Quebec for a short time to hear those who have complaints to make against the clergy, who are accused of having interfered in an unfair and injudicious manner in the recent election. Those of the Dioceses of Montreal, Three Rivers and Rimouski, are specially mentioned.

EVERY farmer who thinks protection would help him must remember two things: first, his grain would not raise in price one cent by such action; and second, that manufacturers would ask protection too, and that he would have to pay a higher price for everything he purchased than he does now. How any farmer can be misled by the protection cry is more than we can comprehend.

THE Stratford Beacon says that the cemetery superintendent in that town states that the first interment in the Stratford cemetery for five weeks took place on Saturday. This speaks well for the sanitary condition not only of Stratford, but the immediate vicinity, as Avondale cemetery is availed of to a considerable extent by residents of the surrounding townships.

MR. F. W. GLEN, of Oshawa, on Friday received the unanimous Reform nomination for the representation of South Ontario in the House of Commons. The meeting of the Convention was unusually well attended and enthusiastic. This is one of the best nominations made in Ontario, and Mr. Glen, who is a strong man will have no difficulty in beating Mr. Gibbs. Mr. Glen received 136 votes out of the 182 cast.

MR. WRIGHT it seems squirmed over our reference to him in Thursday's MERCURY, and at the Aberfoyle meeting sought to make it appear that this was the only argument we could bring forward in support of free trade. We are not afraid to meet this miserable whelp in any argument he likes to bring forward. But we wish to say to our readers now, that but for the attack he made on us in public we would not have deemed him worth our notice. For months and months—during his connection with the Herald—he indulged in the lowest and most villainous personal abuse of the Editor of the MERCURY in editorials and correspondence, and during all that time we never took the slightest notice of his dastardly insinuations and no less cowardly attacks. But now that we expose this snivelling hypocrite and abject sycophant he gets up a hue and cry that we are persecuting him. We deny the impeachment. The fellow is not worth the powder and shot. His very mode of attack shows that he does not yet even understand the first principles of etiquette and courtesy due to the members of the profession to which he clings like a barnacle, and which he disgraces. After wasting his wind on the Editor of the MERCURY, he next falls foul of its reporter—a young man who belongs to the profession by right, and who is not an interloper like this Mr. Wright; who seeks to do his work honestly, fairly and impartially, and yet because he will not strain his reports to suit the views of this political pariah, is also made the subject of abuse and vilification. We feel like dirtying our fingers in castigating this fellow, and yet such disagreeable work has sometimes to be done in the interests of the public, but we would be very glad if he would not intrude his snake-like presence on us any more.

Nothing has yet been heard of John Kelly, of the firm of John Kickler & Co., contractors of section three Lachine Canal, who disappeared suddenly with $17,000 on his person, on the 16th inst.

CHAPTER XLIV.

A PROPOSITION OF WHOLESALE MURDER.

Leaving the occupants of the raft to continue their unflagging efforts to reach the island, let us go forward and note what is transpiring there. And the better to understand what is being said and done we shall go back to the moment when Gilmour Logan and Allan McPherson arrived on horseback at the side of the loch.

It was while descending the last portion of the slope that Allan emitted the shrill whistle which was the recognised signal to Joe, and by the time they had walked their hot, jaded horses to the edge of the water the answer had been made from the island which assured them that Joe was getting the boat to come across.

Never imagining that they were the objects of observation to any one in that solitary valley, and, least of all, that they were seen and watched by those whom they had most to fear, Gilmour and Allan dismounted, and allowed the sweating animals to refresh themselves by a moderate draught of the cooling water. For the last hour or two they had spurred them on unmercifully in their anxiety to reach the loch ere it was dark—galloping up and down rocky paths as well as level places—and the poor animals, being the willing servants of their riders, and also emulous of each other, had kept on at headlong pace till they come to the journey's end, covered with foam and breathing loudly.

Holding each his horse by the bridle while it drank, Gilmour looked across to the island and around upon the encircling hills with marked curiosity.

"So this is where our dangerous women have been secluded all this while," he remarked. "Upon my soul, McPherson, it is a rare place for the purpose. When I look at it, and see how perfectly it is sequestered, I am half inclined to think this night's work is unnecessary."

"Bah, nonsense," rejoined Allan. "We would be fools to leave the slightest chance unprovided for. Nothing like obtaining security, and that we shall have from the moment the deed is done. You are not wavering in the purpose that has brought us here, are you?"

"Not I," returned Gilmour; "I am not so fickle in resolution as that comes to."

"Squeamish perhaps, though," added Allan, with a keen look cast at his companion from under his eyebrows.

"No, nor squeamish, when I keep the object in view. I own I have no natural taste for the work we have got in hand, and neither, I daresay, have you."

"I have a taste for whatever furthers my interest," said Allan, curtly.

"So have I, if you put it in that way. Only, I have not sufficient liking for the work to do it without such a motive as we have now."

"That is, you wouldn't care to murder a woman—don't wince, man; I want to make the thing familiar by giving it its plain name. I say you would not care to murder a woman for the mere sake of murder. Nor I; but when there's a necessity for it, as there is with us, I have no scruple—not the slightest. The game of life is to be won only by the boldest and most skilful player. He who falters or hesitates in tabling the cards he holds is sure to lose. In yonder building are our winning cards; we are going to table them to-night, and secure the game. So I do it without a tremor."

Be it understood here that Allan McPherson was doing himself some injustice. He was not quite the monster he professed to be, only he suspected that the nerves of his companion were not screwed so tightly up as he wished, and as the occasion required. Therefore he sought to rally him to a firmer mood by declaring himself more brutally indifferent than he really was. His purpose was served, for Gilmour, believing in his companion's assumed indifference, grew less nervous and less full of compunction.

"Can we count on that man Joe?" he asked, nodding towards the now approaching boat.

"I should think we could," answered Allan. "Only wait till you see him and you won't doubt it. Meanwhile we must tether our horses, for we shall need them in an hour or two. Colston told me there are stakes and ropes not far from the landing. I question if we shall be able to find them."

In this, however, they had little difficulty. To the east of the jetty, and close by the side of the loch, there was a broad strip of level greensward suitable for grazing. There the stakes had been driven into the ground, and, being peeled of their bark, showed white in the twilight. A long rope was attached to each, so that a horse while fastened had ample room to move about and eat. To these the animals were tied, and forthwith began to browse on the virgin grass with eagerness and satisfaction.

By the time the two men returned to the landing place, Joe was approaching it, and was near enough to show to them his marked personal peculiarities. Gilmour's eyes were riveted on the strange object presented to them. Joe had been previously described to him by M'Garray, but from that description he had imagined nothing so hideous as the being he beheld.

"Good heavens!" he muttered. "What a frightful creature. He can't be human."

"I'd advise you not to let him hear you say so, whispered M'Pherson, in a warning tone. "Don't even show that you are impressed by his appearance, or you will incur his resentment in a manner which you may find unpleasant—not to say dangerous."

"Would he bite?" asked Gilmour, in a sincerely apprehensive tone.

"Bite! He would kill?" if roused to rage. A fellow would have no chance with him. His strength is tremendous."

"Why, he must have frightened his prisoners into fits. I wonder they have lived so long in his keeping."

"Ah! the Colonel gave him orders to treat Myra well, and I suppose he received the same instructions regarding Mrs. Logan. More's the pity. Had Joe been left to his natural inclinations this night's work would have been unnecessary."

"Well, he can be left to his inclinations now," whispered Gilmour, with brutal emphasis. "All we have to do is to take off the muzzle."

"More than that," returned Allen, "he has to be cautiously managed—leave the task to me."

"Ha! do you anticipate that——"

"Hush! No more. He is irritated already by seeing us whispering together. Be cautious; I have given you one cue."

The boat was now within a few yards of the jetty, and Joe was gazing at them very steadily, his distorted face expressive of surprise and curiosity. He recognized Allan; but as the latter had not visited the island since Myra was sent there, he wondered not a little on what business he had come. The other visitor he did not know at all, and this made him more curious still.

"Well, Joe, and how are you?" said Allan, in a conciliatory tone, as the boat touched the jetty.

"Oh, I'm well enough," was the gruff reply, and the speaker sat still looking at both of them at once, as it seemed with his squinting eyes.

"Ah, I'm glad to hear it. You didn't expect a visit from me, I suppose?"

"No, Master Allan, I didn't," was the blunt response.

"Of course not. How should you? And yet I don't know either. You are aware, I suppose, of the death of the boy?"

"Yes," said Joe, laconically, and looked hard at Gilmour. All noticed the look, and divined its meaning.

"This is Sir Gilmour Logan," he explained.

"Oh, ho!" ejaculated the hunchback, in a tone of sudden enlightenment. His wonder did not, however, diminish; it seemed on the contrary, to increase.

"Have you any directions to give me?" he asked.

"We are going to the island with you."

"To the island!—You! Both of you?"

"Yes. We have come on important business connected with your charge."

Joe said nothing more, but he sat aside to make room for them to step into the boat. Gilmour ran to the stern; Allan seated himself in the bow, facing the dwarf. The latter backed his oars, and out they went into the loch.

For a minute or two not a word was spoken by any of them; but Joe, while he rowed, kept his gaze fixedly and earnestly on Allan's face. And Allan as fixedly gazed at him in return. Thus they sat, gathering their thoughts and intentions from each other's eyes—the one guessing the truth, the other quite willing that he should guess it in this way, and making his look and expression tell it in plain and unmistakable fashion.

The silence was so long maintained that Gilmour, who sat in the stern, and was unaware of what was going on in front, grew weary at Allan's delay in opening their business to Joe. It was necessary that Joe should be taken into their confidence and join them in the murderous deeds they had come to commit. This would require some time to accomplish, and nowhere so suitable for it as on the loch. Yet, they had got nearly half way across, and Allan had not even opened the subject.

Gilmour made a signal to the latter over Joe's shoulder, as much as to say, "You are losing time." Allan, pretty sure that Joe had guessed their purpose, though determined not to show it, detected the sign, and resolved to break the silence.

The Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., endorsed by eminent and distinguished visitors as a model establishment, will be an exception hereafter to the general complaint of high prices.

The Grand Central is now offering unusual inducements to business men, families and tourists. The prices for board have never been so low, and the table is still kept up to its first-class high standard.

No HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

Bond & Co. tell us that they have just received a large lot of the celebrated rubber paint ready mixed, all colors, instruction books given free of charge to any one requiring them.

The Troubles of a Poet.

While Col. Bangs, editor of the Argus, was sitting in his office one day, a man whose brow was clothed with thunder entered. Fiercely seizing a chair, he slammed his hat on the table, hurled his umbrella on the floor, and sat down.

"Are you the editor?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Can you read writing?"

"Of course."

"Read that, then," he said, thrusting at the Colonel an envelope with an inscription on it.

"B——" said the Colonel, trying to spell it.

"That's not a B. It's an S," said the man.

"S; oh, yes; I see! Well, the words look a little like 'Salt for Dinner,' or 'Souls of Sinners,'" said the Colonel.

"No, sir," replied the man, "nothing of the kind! That's my name—Samuel H. Brunner. I knew you couldn't read. I called to see you about that poem of mine you printed the other day, on the 'Surcease of Sorrow.'"

"I don't rememberit," said the Colonel.

"Of course you don't, because it went into the paper under the title of "Smearcase To-morrow.'"

"A stupid blunder of the compositor's, I suppose."

"Yes, sir; and that's what I want to see you about. The way in which that poem was mutilated was simply scandalous. I haven't slept a night since. It exposed me to derison. People think I am an ass. Let me show yoh."

"Go ahead," said the Colonel.

"The first line when I wrote it, read this way:—

Lying by a weeping willow, underneath a gentle slope.

"That is beautiful, poetic, affecting. Now how did your vile sheet present it to the public? There it is! Look at it! Made it read that way:—

Lying to a weeping widow to induce her to elope!

"Weeping widow, mind you! A widow! Oh thunder and lightning! This is too much? It's enough to drive a man crazy!

"I'm sorry," said the Colonel; "but——"

"But look-a-here at the fourth verse," said the poet. That's worse yet. What I said was:—

Cast thy pearls before the swine and lose them in the dirt.

"I wrote that out clearly and distinctly, in plain, round hand. Now what does your compositor do? Does he catch the sense of that beautiful sentiment? Does it sink into his soul? No, sir! He sets it up in this fashion. Listen:—

Cart my pills before the sunrise and love them if they hurt.

"Now isn't that a cold-blooded outrage on a man's feelings? I'll leave it to you if it isn't?"

"It's hard, that's a fact," said the Colonel.

"And then take the fifth verse. In the original manuscript it said plain as daylight:

Take away thy jingling money; it is only glitterring dross!

A man with only one eye, and a cataract over that, could have read the words correctly. And your pirate upstairs there—do you know what he did? He made it read:

Take away thy jeering monkeys on a sorely-glandered hoss!

By George! I felt like braining him with a fire-shovel! I was never so cut up in my life."

"It was natural, too," said the Colonel.

"There, for instance, was the sixth verse. I wrote:

I am weary of the tossing of the ocean as it heaves.

"It is a lovely line, too; but imagine my horror and the anguish of my family, when I opened your paper and saw the line transformed into:

I am wearing out my trowsers till they're open at the knoss!

"That is a little too much! That seems to me like carrying the thing an inch or two too far. I think I have a constitutional right to murder that compositor; don't you?"

"I think you have."

"Let me read you one more verse. I wrote:

I smell the flying echoes as they roam among the hills,
And I feel my soul awaken to the ecstacy that thrills.

"Now what do you s'pose your miserable outcast turned that into? Why into this—

I smell the frying shoes as they roast along the hills,
And I peal my soul mistaken to the erertary that whirls.

"Gibberish, sir! Awful gibberish! I must slay that man. Where is he?"

"He is out just now," said the Colonel. "Come in to-morrow."

"I will," said the poet; and I will come armed."

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Base Ball.

Items of Interest on the Diamond.

The Hamilton Times refer to the kind manner in which Mr. Sleeman, President of the Maple Leaf Base Ball Club, treated the junior Live Oak team when in Guelph on the 24th ult. The Guelph Athletics will, in all probability, play the return match in Hamilton on Dominion Day.

A match between the Leafs and a picked nine was played on Saturday afternoon. The game resulted in favor of the Leafs by a score of 11 to 0. The Leafs made 11 runs, 8 base hits and 4 errors, the picked nine no runs, no base hits, and 10 errors. The following are the players and positions:—Maple Leaf- J. Hewer p., Hunter c., Hood 1b., Smith 2b., Reid 3b., T. Hewer s. s., Stapleton l. f., Maddock c. f., Burgess r. f. Picked Nine—Craig p., Sangster c., Fenwick 1b., Griffin 2b., Hardy 3b., C. Howard s. s., S. Howard l. f., Jones c. f., Biggars r. f.

The following games were played on Saturday:—Standards, of Hamilton, defeated the Mutuals, of Galt, by a score of 8 to 1; Buffalos 2, Hornells 3; Chicagos 2, Bostons 2; Indianapolis 6, Cincinnatis 5; Stars 3, Manchesters 0; Nationals 10, New Bedfords 8; Forest-City 4, Alleghenys 2; Tecumsehs 3, Rochesters 7.

The Tecumsehs, of London, will play in Guelph on Tuesday the 18th inst. The game will, doubtless, attract a large crowd, both from town and country.

Both the Rochesters and Stars of Syracuse want Guelph to play on the 4th of July. One of those clubs will play in Guelph on Dominion Day. On that day Guelph will have such a celebration as it never had before, if the programme now under consideration will be carried out in full. Games of various kinds, fireworks, &c., will be included.

MR. JOHN ANDERSON has sent us last week's Grip. The cartoon is an excellent one, and the reading is as spicy as usual.

FOR allowing a certain amount of manure on a lot adjoining the premises of Mr. George Bookless, that gentleman was fined one dollar at the Police Court this morning.

DEATH OF MRS. TELFER.—We record today the death of Mrs. Telfer, who for a long time was a great sufferer, and to whom at last death came as a great relief. The sympathy of the friends and neighbors is extended to the family in this their sore bereavement.

THE churches were largely attended by the different congregations yesterday, and communion was administered in all the Presbyterian places of worship, as well as that of the English Church. In the Paisley street Church (Primitive Methodists), the Rev. Mr. Robertson, of Markham, preached two very acceptable sermons, morning and evening.

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Word was received by Mr. J. C. McLagan, on Sunday morning that a young lad about nine years of age, son of Mr. James Green, of Listowel, was crushed by a waggon loaded with coal on the previous day and that he had subsequently died. The deceased is a nephew of Mr. McLagan.

MR. EPHRAIM STEVENSON, son of Mr. Wm. Stevenson of Guelph, has been awarded the prize over a number of competitors, for elocution, at the Victoria College, Cobourg. This prize is one in which there is always a close competition among divinity students. In 1872 and 1873 Mr. Stevenson carried off the prize for the same subject at the Toronto University.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH BAZAAR.—The ladies of St. George's Church congregation are diligently at work making all the preparations for the bazaar that will be held in the Town Hall on Wednesday and following days. There is no doubt that this exhibition will far outstrip any previous effort of the kind that has taken place here. The public are cordially invited to be present. Reasonable prices have been fixed for all articles. A quantity of fancy work, some of it never before seen in Guelph, will be offered for sale. A dinner will be served each day at a moderate charge. Music will be provided each evening to enliven all present. "My Mother-in-law," "That Husband of Mine," "That Wife of Mine," "Helen's Babies," and everybody's children will be there.

OBITUARY.—On Saturday Mrs. Nicholls, relict of the late Wm. Nicholls, passed away at the ripe old age of eighty-four years and four months. The deceased emigrated from Norfolk, England, with her husband in 1832, and came as far as Guelph before settling down—just forty-six years ago the 9th of June. Mr. Nicholls worked at his trade as a carpenter until 1845, when he went into the hotel business, and he was among the first hotel keepers in the place. He died in 1873, and the business had up to the present been continued by Mrs. Nicholls. The business carried on has always been in every sense most orderly and respectable. In the death of Mrs. Nicholls passes away one of the old land marks of the early settlement of the town. She leaves two sons and one daughter.

VENNOR ON THE SUMMER OF 1878.—In a late communication to the newspapers Henry G. Vennor, weather prophet, sometimes right and sometimes wrong in his predictions says:—My impression then is that the showery moist term will continue until close upon the middle of June, with, upon the whole, cool weather, but occasionally a couple or more days of soltry heat. The latter half of June will be intensely warm, with but little rain. July will enter with intense heat, which will continue up to the neighborhood of the 15th. After this date a cool and cold change will set in, with, very probably, frosts at nights. August will also enter exceedingly hot and dry, and continue so up to between the 10th and 15th days; after which cool weather with northwest gales, and frost at night, may be expected to extend through a large portion of the remainder of the month. There may probably be an approach to snow during the cold blustery period. This will end the dry term, which will have lasted from the middle of June. Rains will again set in with September and continue through this month and October, and it is my firm belief that there will be a considerable and very early snow fall during the latter month. This snow, however, will of course rapidly disappear, and will be followed by a brief period of summer-like weather again. At present I hold forth as almost certain a wet autumn, lasting in all probability through September, October and November.

THE people of Hamilton are again alarmed that the G. W. R. workshops will be removed to London.

THE Toronto Lacrosse Club beat the Shamrocks of Montreal, on Saturday.

FRESH to brisk southeasterly to south westerly winds and rain areas are the weather probabilities received to-day.

POTATOES have dropped in price to-day. On the market some lots were sold wholesale at 75 cents per bag.

THE International Railway and Steam Navigation Guide for June has been issued by C. R. Chisholm & Bros., of Montreal. It is compiled from official time tables.

MR JAS. PENELTON advertises potatoes, flour, feed, &c. He has just received a lot of Chili potatoes from the east which will be sold at the lowest market prices.

THE Durham by-law granting a bonus of twenty-five thousand dollars to the Georgian Bay and Wellington Railway Company was submitted to the ratepayers of that town, on Saturday, and carried unanimously.

RUNAWAY.—On Saturday Sole's bread van came to grief, and the boy, who was driving, had a narrow escape from being killed. The boy was driving along Kent street, when a train came along, which frightened the animal, and starting suddenly threw the boy from his seat over the front wheel, while his feet became fastened in such a manner that he could not extricate himself. The animal ran up to Dublin street and in turning upset the waggon, and the animal being somewhat checked, he was caught by some parties and further mischief prevented. The boy had a very narrow escape, as the horse kicked several times, but, fortunately, missed the boy. The van was considerably damaged.

THE ELORA-GUELPH LACROSSE CLUB.—In speaking of the match played in Elora on the 24th ult., the Express says:—The lacrosse match between Guelph and Elora Clubs, and which lasted close upon two hours, was a very spirited affair, at times. The clubs were not evenly matched at all, but, in order to keep up appearances, the home team kept up a system of tickling their rivals, until they fancied that they would get one game out of the three, but they were sorely disappointed, Elora taking three straight games and vanquishing their opponents with the greatest ease imaginable. Some hard knocks were necessarily given and taken, and although the Guelph men retired from the contest without a visible scratch, those of the home team were not so fortunate, thus proving conclusively that lacrosse playing if healthful is at least a dangerous exercise. The Guelph players were so vexed at receiving such a whipping that they went home, made straight for the MERCURY office, and complained through that journal that the Elora players were "a scurvy lot of fellows." We are sorry that our Guelph friends should have let their angry passions rise. We promise them, if ever they put in an appearance here again, that our boys will have more consideration for their feelings, and give them a game or two just to keep them from complaining to their respective mammas."

ROWDYISM.—On Saturday night about ten o'clock there was something approaching a row on the corner of Wyndham and Macdonnell streets in front of Mr. W. G. Smith's drug store. It was something akin to a faction fight. The sidewalk was blocked up and profane language and jostling of one another seemed to be the rule. Parties could neither get into Mr. Smith's store, nor pass it on the sidewalk and both ladies and gentlemen had to turn out into the street. This state of affairs lasted for some time and the crowd finally shifted their base of operations to the Market Square. During the disturbance on Macdonnell street several messengers were despatched to look up a policeman, but none could be found. It is a great pity that the force is so small that there is only one officer on duty at a time, and when that officer is wanted he seems to be in the wrong place. The policemen although considered efficient officers are not ubiquitons. Rowdyism such as was seen on the streets on Saturday evening must be stopped even if the police force has to be doubled.

CONFIRMATION SERVICES.—His Lordship Bishop Crinnon conducted a confirmation service at St. Bartholomew's Church yesterday afternoon. The building was crowded to excess. There was a large number of young people, besides a few adults, received the holy rites of confirmation at the hands of the Bishop. The ceremony over, Bishop Crinnon addressed a few brief remarks to the children and parents, advising them to be steadfast in all their connections with the Church, not forgetting that they are members of God's Church. To the parents rested the responsibility of keeping their children in the right path, by seeing that they attended to their devotional duties regular. The decoration of the altar for the occasion was very handsome.

The Bishop preached the morning service, and his excellent discourses was listened to with the utmost attention.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—In No. 1 District Division Court, Hamilton, Judge Sinclair on the Bench, the Gas Company sued a citizen for the balance of a gas account. By an escape of gas from the pipe, after it left the metre, the register showed 19,000 consumed for the quarter, the average quantity being only 500 feet for that period. The Judge held that the consumer was liable, and that he should pay the account, but owing to the great loss, advised a compromise. The company had already offered to meet the defendant halfway; and as the plumber who put in the gas acknowledged his neglect, and offered to pay a portion of the damages, the case was held over.

William Stickney, of Pilkington, recently lost two valuable cows. They lost the power of their hind parts, and in a few hours thereafter died.

Increase in British Shipping.

The enormous increase in the British merchant shipping since the time of the Crimean war is one of the most wonderful evidences of progress. According to the Pall Mall Gazette the total tonnage entered and cleared at ports in the United Kingdom for foreign trade in 1850 was 12,020,674 tons, of which 8,039,308 tons were carried in British bottoms. In 1877 the total tonnage was 43,326,980, of which 30,252,481 was British. The merchant shipping of the British Empire has increased from 4,232,962 tons in 1850 to 8,133,837 in 1877, or more than the oversea shipping of all of the rest of the world together, the United Kingdom supplying of this British total 6,336,360 tons. Notwithstanding this enormous increase, the number of seamen in 1877 has not increased since 1864, it then amounting to some 196,000. In 1877 the exact figures are 173,926 British and 22,636 foreigners enlisted in the British mercantile service. The cause of the non increase in men is attributed to the increase in the size of the vessels, and the adoption of steam vessels, which a proportionately smaller number of men are required to navigate. A glance at these figures and the very large amount of capital represented by them, gives some color to the reports of the consternation in English trading circles at the report of Russian privateering, and England's navy, large as it is, has not grown more rapidly than required to give the support necessary to this peaceful maritime service.

Mr. Mackenzie on the Butter Question.

To the Editor of the MERCURY.

SIR.—I read in Saturday's Herald that James Massie, M.P.P., stated at the Aberfoyle meeting on Friday night that he could buy the best Creamery butter in New York for twelve cents a pound. Now, Mr. Editor, in the interest of truth, and justice to myself and the farming community I declare the above quotation false and erroneous. Public quotation of the New York Butter Market, as well as private correspondence from parties engaged in the trade, in whose integrity and honesty Mr. Massie places much confidence, justifies me in making the above contradiction. I, as well as a great many more engaged in the trade, strove hard for years to improve the quality of Canadian butter, that we might compete with other countries at home and abroad, and obtain as good a price which would be to-day, less duty and freight, twenty cents, on New York market, instead of twelve cents, as Mr. Massie declares. Mr. Massie being capable of doing things things that others fail in doing, I am prepared to give an order to Mr. Massie to buy for me $50,000 worth of choice Creamery butter at fifteen cents a pound, which is three cents more than he quotes, and pay him five per cent commission for buying it. My object in writing this is to show the farmers if they make as good butter as the New York Creameries they can get as good a price in New York for their butter, less the duty and freight, of course.

JOHN MACKENZIE.

Guelph, June, 1878.

Exposition of Mr. Thomas Heffernan's Letter.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—Having observed in the MERCURY of the 1st inst., a letter over the signature of T. Heffernan, in which he apparently leads the public to believe that he feels sorely aggrieved from the fact that Mr. Guthrie in referring politically to himself and brother at the meeting held in the Town Hall on Thursday last, styled them by the awful and insignificant appellation of "Tommy and Joe." Now, sir, it is well known that they are commonly called by the above cognomens. I feel confident that Mr. Guthrie never intended to insult these two gentlemen when he mentioned their names in the affable way, which he did on the occasion referred to. That letter, in my humble opinion, was written for the sole purpose of rousing sectarian prejudice against the Reform candidate for South Wellington, but that ruse will not have the desired effect. Old times are changed, old manners gone. The little fiery ex-Councillor of the South Ward can no longer, on election day, lead the Catholic electors to the polling booths. I doubt very much, if I do not express the feeling of a very large majority of the Catholic electors of Guelph, when I assert that Mr. Guthrie will receive their support at the ensuing general election, from the consistent course he pursued in Parliament during the past two sessions, as their able representative, as well as from the manly stand he took in vindicating the honor of that talented patriotic Irish Catholic gentleman, the Hon. Speaker Anglin, when the Tory members, captained by the Hero of the Pacific Scandal, sought to blast his fair name and drive him for ever from public life in disgrace.

A CATHOLIC REFORMER.

June 3rd, 1878.

DANGEROUS.—In the neighborhood of the Grand Trunk passenger station there are some parties who rise very early in the morning and wander forth to practice target shooting with a revolver. This (Monday) morning a bullet whizzed in close proximity to the heads of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw as they were walking on Neeve street. There is a By-law which prohibits such work within the limits of the corporation, and those who are guilty of such practices would do well to stop it before being obliged to answer the charge at the Police Court:

GALT.—The assessment roll shows the following results:—Real estate, $892,896; personal property, $117,100; income, $40,630; being a total of $1,050,626.——Rev. Richard Bentley left last week for England. The evening previous to his departure a deputation from his congregation waited upon him and presented him with $100.——Wm. Quarrie, harness maker, has shipped some harness, which had been ordered to New Zealand.

ACCIDENT IN PILKINGTON.—The Elora Express says that a very serious accident happened in the township of Pilkington, on Sunday, 26th ult. Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McQueen were returning from service at Cumnock church, and when descending the rough and dangerous hill near the residence of Mr. Gale, the horses started off on the run, crossing the narrow and uneven bridge, and up the roadway, at the best of times requiring the most careful driving in order to escape obstructions. The waggon collided with a tree and the occupants were thrown violently to the ground. Mrs. McQueen had both arms broken above the wrist, and Mr. McQueen received severe injury about the head and shoulders. They had a narrow escape indeed from a terrible death. The Council of the Township of Pilkington would do well to expend a little money in bettering the condition of the locality indicated.

A PRETTY PHILANTHROPIST.—"The Prisoners Friend" of New York, is a very handsome and quite wealthy Western lady named Linda Gilbert. She supplies the poor wretches with books, papers, &c., and to those who are penned in the deadly and horrible Tombs, she brings GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA, which she says is the only real treatment for their neuralgia and rheumatism.

Another Attempt to Assassinate the Emperor of Germany.

BERLIN, June 2.—While the Emperor was taking a drive at 2:30 this afternoon some shots, apparently proceeding from a house in the Avenue Under den Linden, were fired at him. The Emperor was wounded in one arm and one cheek by buckshot and small shot. The would-be assassin is Dr. Nobling, occuping apartment at No. 18 Under den Linden. When his door was forced open he fired upon and wounded the hotel-keeper, and tried to commit suicide, but was secured. The Emperor's personal attendant jumped into the carriage and supported the Emperor until the carriage reached the palace. The Emperor was conveyed to bed, and several grains of shot extracted, causing great loss of blood. He suffered great pain, but never lost consciousness up to the latest moment. Nobling fired twice with a double-barrelled gun. The Emperor received about thirty small shots in the face, head, both arms, and back. The assassin is Karl Edward Nobling, a native of Kolno, near Birbaun, aged 32. He is a resident of Berlin, and a doctor of Philology, an agriculturist, and habitue of the Democratic Social clubs. He confesses his crime, but obstinately refuses to state his motives. A strong escort of police barely sufficed to protect Nobling from the mob. Nobling confessed he cherished his murderous design for eight days because he considered the Emperor's removal would be a public benefit. He declared he favored socialism. The latest account is that the Emperor is doing favorably.

Cyclone in Missouri—Great Loss of Life.

RICHMOND, Mo., June 2.—A terrific cyclone passed over here yesterday, levelling to the ground over half of the buildings in town. Over a hundred houses are totally destroyed, and the loss of property will reach a quarter of a million. Whole blocks were completely swept away, and the debris scattered for miles. The storm was preceded by a heavy rain-fall. Trees were uprooted and carried through the air like feathers, as were fragments of houses and everything storm-struck. The Shaw House, a large brick hotel, was demolished and the inmates buried in the ruins. The cyclone was the color of steam, and at times the funnel-shaped whirling cloud would emit what appeared to be black smoke, then gather together and move with increased force. The Mayor has called for aid for the sufferers. The remains of Capt. Wm. Jacobs were found this morning dead, making fifteen deaths. Forty are more or less injured, and much damage done to the crops.

Wreck of an Atlantic Steamship.

LONDON, June 2.—The Williams & Guion steamer Idaho went ashore in a fog last night near Koninbeg lightship, on the coast of Ireland, and afterwards foundered. The crew and passengers were saved.

The Idaho sank 22 minutes after striking the rocks near Saltee Island. The captain ordered the boats to be lowered immediately on the vessel striking, and the women and children were first embarked. No property was saved. The captain was the last to leave the vessel. The passengers remained on Saltee until Sunday morning.

Hon. Wilfrid Dorion, Judge of the Supreme Court, died in Montreal on Sunday. His death was very sudden, he having been in his usual health a moment before. He was a brother of Sir A. A. Dorion, Chief Justice of the Province of Quebec.

The new Manitoba license law, which limits the number of hotels in Winnipeg to 23, and abolishes saloons entirely, came into force on Saturday.

Mr. Andrew Moore, of the 6th line Wallace, has just completed the 100th year of his age. He is still hale and hearty, quite communicative, and pleased when friends call to see him. He cuts his wood and hoes his potatoes and walks to the post-office, a distance of four miles, every week, for his papers, in the contents of which he is always interested.

The greatest man is he who chooses right with the most invincible resolution; who resists the sorest temptation from within and without; who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully; who is calmest in storms, and most fearless under menaces and frowns; whose reliance on truth, on virtue, and on God is most unfaltering.

"Here's my wife and I," said a husband, with much complacency, to his silver wedding guests, "who have been married five and twenty years, and in all that time we have not had a single unkind word with each other." "By Jove!" exclaimed one of the guests, "what a stupid time you must have had of it!"

"I come to ask your hand," said a lover to his sweetheart. "You ask a great deal," replied she. And he thought so, too, when she finally succumbed, and gently laid in his a nestling, soft, white paw, two-thirds larger than his own.

MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 3, 1878.

A Protectionist Problem for Mr. Wright.

When driven to extremity Mr. Wright said the other night that Mr. Guthrie's only argument against a national policy was that he (Wright) was once a weaver. Of course this was a silly and childish evasion of the questions in dispute, but as he was once in the manufacturing business in this town, perhaps he will be able to solve this little problem:—If a manufacturing business in Guelph, with a capital of $4,000 lost in one year to its proprietors $2,700, and left the other $1,300 in the shape of unsaleable goods, and this too with a duty of 17½ per cent. in its favor, assuming the management to be capable and honest, how much protection would be required to make that business pay 10 per cent?

The History of the National Policy.

Those who talk loudest about the much vaunted National Policy seem to understand least about its origin—the manner in which it was brought into existence, and the way in which it was strangled by those who rejoiced at its birth, and who predicted for it a great and successful future. It was in the year 1870 that the Macdonald Government, at 5 p.m. in the afternoon, brought the infant to light, and its birth was then announced with a great flourish of trumpets. But Sir Francis Hincks, who was then Minister of Finance, changed his tune between six o'clock and half-past seven, and this delectable National Policy was changed by a proposition to modify it by imposing a tax on coal, salt and breadstuffs. This change was made at the instance of Dr. Tupper, who was not then a member of the Administration, but who argued for these modifications on the ground that retaliation would secure a modification of the tariff of the United States in favour of Canada. In other words we were to initiate a retaliatory policy, for the phrase, "reciprocity of tariffs" had not then been invented.

Let us now look at 1871, and see what a radical change took place in the views of these politicians. The much-vaunted National Policy was abandoned, having been voted down in a House, two-thirds of which were avowed supporters of the then Government. One year's trial was enough for them as well as for the Reformers who repudiated the National Policy humbug, and at the expiry of the year the miserable sickly bantling was strangled by Dr. Tupper himself with the slightest sign of regret or sorrow. From that time until the Macdonald party were for a time in the cold shades of Opposition not a word was said about protection. It was not till some time after they were driven from power that in their great desire to get something which would serve as a popular cry they at last laid hold of the policy of protection. It was not, however, till 1876 that the question assumed its present importance, when Sir John, with a far-seeing acuteness, laid hold on this as the chief lever for ousting the Government; and fell back on the old doctrine that the adoption of a retaliatory tariff towards the United States would be the salvation of Canada. He at that time laid down the absurd proposition that even if we had a surplus of products it would do us no harm to exclude American products from our markets.

We have had the same policy enunciated in 1877 and 1878, with this difference, that the last one is the most indefinite and shadowing of all—that it means anything or nothing as you please—and that it bears on its very face the marks of insincerity, being merely a cunningly devised scheme to catch all possible interests which are supposed to be affected.

MR. CHAUVEAU'S election for Rimouski was carried by the casting vote of the Returning officer. On the official count it turns out that he has three or four votes of a majority.

THE nomination of Mr. Bain by the Reformers of North Wentworth on Friday shows the great confidence they have in their old member, who has proved himself an able and faithful representative, and who richly deserves re-election. His opponent is Mr. Thomas Stock. We are also glad to notice that Dr. McMahon has again received the nomination for the Local Legislature.

IT is a matter of great regret that Mr. Blake, on account of his continued infirm health, has been obliged to decline the nominations for both South Bruce and West Durham. On this account the Reform Association of South Bruce meets on Saturday, the 8th June, at Riversdale, to take the matter into consideration.

AT the Conservative Convention of the West Riding of Durham Col. Cubitt, of Bowmanville, has been nominated. In South Ontario Hon. T. N. Gibbs has been nominated by the Conservatives. Twenty-three nominations were altogether made for the purpose of catching some gentleman whose names were proposed into declining in favour of Mr. Gibbs. This trick was only partially successful. Mr. Kerr has unanimously been nominated by the Reformers of West Northumberland.

ON Saturday the second of the series of meetings held by the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie in the county of Lambton took place in the handsome grove owned by Mr. James Gray, in the 7th con. of Moore. There were about two thousand of the sturdy yeomanry of the county present, with their wives and daughters. Mr. A. Watson occupied the chair, and the proceedings were opened by the presentation to the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie of an address by Mr. James Watson on behalf of the banner township of Moore. Able addresses were then delivered by Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Pardee.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

THE DATE OF THE CONFERENCE FIXED.

EARL BEACONSFIELD TO ATTEND IT.

LONDON, June 2.

A St. Petersburg despatch says:—The Agence Russe to-day announced that the Congress will hold but one session to settle a basis of peace and sign a definite treaty.

A New York Herald's cable despatch announces that the Congress will assemble on June 11th at the Radzewill Palace, lately constructed for Bismarck's official residence, and that Bismarck will preside.

The health of Gortschakoff is not sufficiently improved to give much hope of his attending the Congress.

The Agence Russe says:—If Gortschakoff is unable to be present Schouvaloff and the Russian Ambassador at Berlin will represent Russia.

The Post says affairs have been so far agreed upon in principle that it is estimated the Congress can conclude its labors in eight sittings. These would occupy three weeks.

It is announced that Schouvaloff started for St. Petersburg last night. From there he will go to the Congress.

The Post announces that Lords Beaconsfield, Salisbury, and Odo Russell will represent England. The two former intend to embark on Thursday in a man-of-war with an escort.

The Porte has prepared a memorandum for the Congress declaring that it was hurried into signing the San Stefano Treaty by the Grand Duke Nicholas, at each pause in the negotiations, threatening to advance on Constantinople.

A St. Petersburg despatch says:—The people are greatly dissatisfied at the secret negotiations now in progress. They fear that the results of the war will be nullified.

Invitations to Congress Issued.

BERLIN, June 3.

It is officially announced that the German representatives to-day prepared and delivered to the ambassador of the Powers invitations to attend Congress, which will be held on June 13th.

Higgins-Elliott Boat Race.

LONDON, June 2.—The great boat race between John Higgins, of Thames, and William Elliott, of Tyne, came off to-day on the Thames, the course being from Putney to Mortlake. There was an immense attendance. The race was won by Higgins with apparent ease. The weather was fair.

THE Herald, which for months, without the slightest symptoms of compunction, published Mr. Wright's low and scurrilous attacks on the Editor of the MERCURY, now professes to feel very bad over the drubbing the MERCURY gave that individual. So it seems to turn on the question, whose ox is gored. It will now be in order for the Herald to make its comments on the opinion expressed by this same Mr. Wright about the staff of the Herald, after he severed his connection with it. As Baillie Nicol Jarvie said, it was on the north side of friendly; but we suppose a common cause makes strange bedfellows.

ACCIDENT AT A WEDDING.—A very unfortunate accident happened in the Township of Wellesley on Tuesday last, on the occasion of the marriage of Mr. Anthony Starr to Miss Mary Walters, daughter of Mr. F. Walters, Reeve of the Township. The Galt Reporter says the bridal party were proceeding to St. Agatha for the purpose of having the ceremony performed, and had just reached the main road from Mr. Walters' farm, when the horse attached to the buggy occupied by Mr. Voll got frightened and ran away, coming into very violent collision with the buggy in which Mr. Starr and Miss Walters were seated. The shock overthrew the vehicle, and the wheels of the buggy struck Miss Walters on the face, cutting and bruising her severely from the chin to the forehead. The unfortunate lady was immediately picked up and carried home; and we are glad to state that although it was necessary to postpone the marriage for some hours, she eventually recovered sufficiently to allow of the ceremony being performed.

The late A. T. Stewart erected a magnificent building in New York for a Women's Hotel; but died before it got into operation. Since his death it has been opened; and now we learn that it has become a failure, and is to be turned into a general hotel for people of both sexes. Considering that it was sinking $1,000 a day, it is no wonder that the executors of the estate have decided to change its character. The result of this experiment seems to have been unavoidable. In order to preserve the character of the establishment and the reputation of its inmates it had become necessary to enforce a strictness of discipline and preserve a convent-like seclusion which women who could afford to pay a respectable sum for board would not submit to; and as they charged $1 a day, it was only the better class of women who could board there.

The scheme for the endowment of Queen's University, Kingston, was successfully inaugurated at a meeting held on Thursday evening in the City Hall at Kingston, when the needs of the institution were explained by Principal Grant, and the project heartily seconded by other influential speakers. A canvass was opened, and up to three o'clock yesterday over $26,000 had been subscribed.

Harold the Outlaw

—OR—

The Gauger of Skene.

"Ay, and so you did not expect me, Joe," he remarked. "That surprises me. After the intelligence of the child's death reached you I thought you would have looked for me."

"It never struck me to do so," replied Joe. "Why should it?" he quickly asked, casting a sharp look at Allan.

The latter had made up his mind to come quickly to the point, therefore did not shrink from or seek to avoid Joe's keen glance, nor to evade the question he so directly put.

"Because the boy's death affects my prospects so mightily. As you know, I am now the heir to Benachray."

Joe pursed up his lips in a peculiar way, and indicated a hesitation to speak, owing to the presence of a third party.

"Don't scruple to speak in the presence of Sir Gilmour," observed McPherson. "He is in full possession of everything."

"Now, what were you going to say?"

"I was going to say that you are the heir to Benachray only in the event of Conrad's child not being put forward."

"Who is to put him forward? Dixon, you would say. I believe Dixon is thousands of miles from this, and has lost sight of the child himself, even if he be alive, which I don't believe."

"You have no assurance of that, though?"

"Well, no."

"Ay, that's unfortunate. Nothing like making sure of things."

"Right, Joe, right," said Allan, emphatically. "I quite agree with you that there is nothing like making sure of everything when you can. Sir Gilmour is of the same opinion—so we three are agreed. More than that, Sir Gilmour and I have come here to make sure—each for himself—you understand?"

"Not a bit o' me," responded Joe.

"Make sure—how?"

"By taking the only way to do it effectually removing existing danger. Come, you are not so dull as not to understand me how."

"Is kill the word?" asked Joe.

"Hum—well—the process is one thing, the result another. 'Kill' has an ugly—a disagreeable sound, and means something equally ugly and disagreeable. Provided the result is brought about, we are not particular about the method. In fact, Sir Gilmour and I would rather incline to take the easiest way."

"The whole three of them are to go—are they?"

"Yes, it is necessary. Neither of us is safe without it."

"Isn't the island safe enough?"

"It has been so as yet, and might still be so; but we have no surety of it, and nothing like 'making sure,' you know. You said so yourself."

"Oh, I'm not meaning to go back from what I said; and I won't deny that both you and Sir Gilmour Logan would have less to be afraid of were the three out of existence."

"Our very idea. Now, Joe, that is just what we have come for, and we hope you will assist us. Stop your oars. Don't land us on the island yet, we can discuss the thing best on the water."

"But are we safe from interruption, even on the water?" said Gilmour. "I thought I saw a boat at yonder end of the loch."

"A boat? Nonsense," cried Allan, with a startled look around. "Is that possible, Joe?"

"No, it isn't. There's not a boat on the loch but this one. You must be mistaken, Sir Gilmour."

"Well, I'm glad to hear it. But I could have sworn I saw for a moment a black object on the water. I saw it but for an instant, when it vanished in the gloom."

"The shadow of a cloud," said Allan, lightly.

"It could be nothing else," added Joe, and such assurance coming from such a quarter banished from Gilmour's mind the idea that he had seen anything on the loch. So the three resumed their dark conference.

"You'll help us in this, Joe, as you have helped us in the past," remarked Allan, persuasively.

"The 'past' and 'this' are very different," responded Joe. It's one thing to set the jailor to prisoners, and another to help to murder two women and an infant. Not that I am too soft hearted for it, and not that I haven't thought of such a thing before, for I had a guess it would come to it at last. Me and Mother Barnacle have had the thing through mouth ere now, and we were in the same mind on it."

"Mother Barnacle is a sensible woman," said Allan, in a tone of high commendation.

"Of course, there's the risk to be run," went on Joe, "which isn't great, I dare say; for as nobody knows they are here, so nobody can ever find out they have been done for. Stop a bit—I'm going too fast. We'll be safe only by making it four, instead of three."

"Four," repeated Allan, leaping to the conclusion that he meant Mother Barnacle, and shocked—ay, even he was shocked—at the enormous brutality of Joe including his wife among their victims. "You don't mean to say, Joe, that—that—we would not be safe in trusting Mother Barnacle?"

"Who's talking of Mother Barnacle?" rejoinded Joe, angrily. "D'ye think I allow you to lay a finger on her?"

"N—no—certainly not. But you—you—said four."

"And I say four still—four or none. That mean-hearted, white-livered traitor Dougal McCallum is not to be trusted with such a secret.

"Ha! I forgot all about Dougal," exclaimed Gilmour.

"Who is he?" asked Allan in astonishment.

In a few words Gilmour let him understand Dougal's connection with the past and the reason why he had been recently sent to the island. This was an annoyance as surprising as it was great, and Allan had not pondered it many moments when he exclaimed—

"Joe is right. This man must be disposed of also. He is a traitor at heart and would betray us for his own advantage."

"Be it so," said Gilmour, callously consenting to the murder of the valuable instrument of his former schemes. An utterly selfish man like Gilmour Logan knows no gratitude. When his tool becomes a danger he sacrifices it without compunction. So it was now. He had no hesitation in dooming Dougal to death. The existence of his former spy had become inconvenient to him at any rate, and his murder would bring him a double advantage.

The question which now arose was, How should the fourfold deed of blood be most easily and speedily accomplished? The mere power of doing it had not to be sought, for the victims were helplessly in their hands and could be fallen upon unawares. But how could they accomplish it with least trouble—how perform it in a manner least disagreeable to themselves? The shedding of so much blood, the despatching of so many human beings, was horrible even to their ruthless natures; and they might have spent a good deal of time over this part of their diabolical project had Joe not offered an easy and satisfactory solution to the problem by remembering that there was an old well of great and unknown depth in the underground region of the castle. To seize and carry them down there and throw them into the black, circular opening was all that would be necessary. Death would be instantaneous and unseen. This method, therefore, was as merciful to the victims as easy to themselves, and they at once resolved to adopt it.

Their resolution being fixed, and their plan of operations settled, they no longer delayed to row on towards the island. They had been much longer than usual on the passage, the night was wearing late, they had little time to spare, and, above all, that which they had decided to do was emphatically among those things which require to be done "quickly." It could not bear reflection; even their wicked hearts had a natural, restless desire to have it rapidly accomplished.

They landed at the spot where the boat was always taken, at the foot of the water girt precipice where Joe landed Lizzie on the night of her arrival. They went up the steep, rocky, underground passage, leaving the door unfastened behind them, for they expected to return as soon as their bloody work was over.

By the aid of a torch which Joe lighted, the latter conducted them up to the cellars and dungeons which were constructed beneath the foundations of the old Castle. In one of these was the old well, with some worm-eaten boards covering the top of it. It had been for many years out of use; the machinery by which the water had been drawn was crumbled away; the thick, massive spindle of the windlass alone, remained, with an iron handle on each hand by which it had been worked.

Joe lifted off the rotten planks, and revealed the mouth of a black, yawning abyss. To prove its immense depth he threw down a stone, which they heard striking on the sides as it descended, then finally it fell with a sullen plash into water, far below. He looked up as they listened for the result, and a hideous grin showed on his fiendish features as the perfect capability of the place was thus evinced. It said as plainly as words could have done, and far more significantly, "Could anything be better for the purpose?"

Communism in the States—Lessons for Canada.

(London Advertiser.)

Demagogues out of office are very fond of pointing to the United States as a country which, having adopted the trade theories of the Conservative party, has prospered and flourished greatly. But we doubt very much if any honest person acquainted with the actual state of affairs across the lines would recommend the public as a model, or picture its social, political or commercial condition as at all desirable. And it is difficult to imagine that the Conservative leaders themselves, even though they knew no more about the States than they could learn through the newspapers, can really believe that our neighbors are to be envied.

It only requires a careful examination of the leading United States journals to see the ominous outlook over the border, and to recognize the dangers that beset the people. Not only is it that mills and factories lie idle; that thousands are unemployed; that business failures are frequent and extensive; not only do we see that the "protection" remedy for all a country's ills fails either to effect a cure or prevent an attack among the people where it has been long and faithfully applied. But while our neighbors suffer from these serious commercial misfortunes, there are greater dangers to be dreaded in the growing discontent of the unemployed, and in the advance of Communistic doctrines among them, encouraged as they are by the malign policy of demagogues, who, under the guise of the workingman's friend, are proving his greatest enemy.

VISIT OF TORONTO COUNCIL TO WALKERTON.—The excursionists from Toronto, including the Mayor, members of the Council, and the President Vice President, and several directors of the Toronto, Grey & Bruce Railway, reached Walkerton shortly after eight o'clock on Friday evening. At Orangeville several gentlemen were added to the party, which by the time Mount Forest was reached, numbered forty-five. At Mount Forest they were met by the Reeve of Walkerton and the authorities of the former place, who escorted them to the principal hotel in the village, where they had luncheon. They then drove to Walkerton, a distance of thirty miles, and were cordially received all along the route, bands of the several villages serenading them as they passed, and in some cases accompanying them part of the way. The reception at Walkerton was very hearty indeed. After driving through the principal streets, the whole party was conveyed to the various hotels. At night a grand banquet was held in Smith's Opera Hall, at which about two hundred guests were present. Speeches were delivered by Mr. Gordon, President, and Mr. Beaty, Solicitor of the road, the Mayor, Mr. Ginty, Mr. Ross, Mr. McLay and others. A very enjoyable evening was passed. It was with a view to showing the members of the Toronto Council the district of the country through which the proposed new railway is to run, and explaining to them the advantages which Toronto would derive in having direct communication through the Saugeen Valley, that they were asked to visit Walkerton. The Walkerton people, however, want to have the line from Mount Forest to that place a broad guage, and this is the present difficulty in the way.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT TO A HEIFER.—Mr. H. W. Mallett, of Wilmot, tells of a somewhat peculiar accident to a two year-old heifer on his farm. One day last week he noticed that the animal, which was in a yard adjoining his horse stable, did not eat as well as usual. An examination of the mouth proved that the poor brute had lost about two inches of her tongue. The cause of such an unusual occurrence could not be accounted for at the time, but in cleaning out the horse's manger Mr. Mallett discovered the missing portion of the heifer's tongue. The hypothesis is that she had been reaching through an aperture into the horse's apartment for the purpose of stealing his hay when the sagacious equine caught her by the tongue with the result above mentioned.

NORTH WENTWORTH NOMINATIONS.—A large and influential mass meeting of the Reformers of the North Riding of Wentworth was held in the Town Hall, Dundas, on Friday, representative men being present from every section of the riding. Mr. John Weir, jr., of West Flamboro', Warden of the county, was unanimously elected President of the Reform Association, and Mr. T. H. A. Bogue, Secretary. Mr. Bain, M.P., was first called upon to address the meeting, after which he received a unanimous nomination as the candidate of the Reform party for the Commons, the motion being moved by Mr. James McQueen, of Beverley, seconded by Mr. James McMonies, sr., of East Flamboro', ex-M.P. Mr. Bain having accepted the nomination, Dr. McMahon, M.PP., was called upon to speak, after which the meeting proceeded to the nomination of a candidate for the Local Legislature, when Dr. McMahon, M.PP., on motion of Mr. John Ira Flatt, of East Flamboro', seconded by Mr. Thos. Wilson, Mayor of Dundas, was unanimously nominated for the position. After the Dr. had accepted the nomination, Mr. Jos. Rymal, M.P. for South Wentworth, was called upon and delivered one of his best speeches. The meeting broke up with cheers for the candidates and for the Queen.

"How did you come to know her?" asked a mother of her little girl, as she saw her bidding good-bye to a poorly dressed child at the church door. "Why, you see, mamma, she came into our Sunday School alone, and I made a place for her on my seat, and I smiled and she smiled, and then we were acquainted," was the sweet answer.

The Grand Central is now offering unusual inducements to business men, families and tourists. The prices for board have never been so low, and the table is still kept up at its first-class high standard. eod

The Load on his Mind.

(From the Burlington Hawkeye.)

Some one, a figure arrayed in white, with frills around its head and blood in its eye, let him in, and he lunged with easy grace into the first chair that went past him, after he had made several vain attempts to seat himself on the piano. The reproachful figure of Mrs. Bosbyschell regarded him with calm severity, and her icy silence made him feel uncomfortable.

"Maggareck," he said thickly, but with grave earnestness, "Moggareck" (Mrs. Bosbyschell's front name is Margaret), "I've—hic—hic—gotta—gotta quickened coshnelsce."

"A what?" asked Mrs. Bosbyschell, in calm disdain.

"A quicked coshience," repeated Mr. Bosbyschell. "A quicked coshience. A—hic—I've got something ommy min', Moggart. I've gotta—hic—coffession—confession—gotacofession t'make."

"You can make it in the morning," she said, imperiously. "I am going to bed. You may sleep where you please, or rather where you can."

"Naw," protested Mr. Bosbyschell, with much vehemence, "can't—can't wait—hic—can't got'sleep 'ith th'sload ommy—ommy mind. Got coffession t'make, an' mus'—mus' make it. Done suthin' Moggart—hic—been—been a—beena load ommy mind long time. Been—hic—carryin' guilty secret 'round 'ith me too long. Quicked' coshience won' gimme—won' gimme hope—hic—no peace. Mus' tell you sumpin', Moger; sumpin 'll s'prise you. "I've"——

"Mercy on me, man!" exclaimed Mrs. Bosbyschell, startled from her composure, "what have you been doing? Tell me quick, tell me, for heaven's sake!"

"Moggart," said Mr. Bosbyschell, "it's somethin' ye nev—hic never suspec—suspected. It'll mos' kill ye. Hic! S'pec' it'll n— nigh drive me crazy. 'Sawful t' think 'bout it. Y'—y' wouldn't b'lieve it of me. Margart, y'—ye wouldn'. I've been"——

"Speak!" shrieked the almost frantic woman. "I'm wild with suspense! Speak, tell me all, quick! Oh, I could tear her eyes out! Tell me, you brute, what is her name? Who is she?"

"Wh—wh—hic! Who'sh who?" demanded Mr. Bosbyschell, in blank amazement.

"The woman, you wretch!" screamed his wife; "who is the woman?"

"Oh, shaw, Moggort," ejaculated Mr. Bosbyschell, "tain' th—hic—that. Wussun that. 'Smore dreadful. Hic. 'Smore crushin.' You—hic, y'won't hardly b'lieve it—hic—w'en—tell. Moggart"——

"Speak!" wailed the anxious woman, wringing her hands. "Speak; let me know the worst! What have you been doing?"

"Moggart," said Mr. Bosbyschell, solemnly, and with the air of a man upon whom a quickened conscience had wrought its perfect work, "Moggart," he said, nerving himself for the shock of confession, "Margort, I've—hic—I've been drinking!"

TALLY FOR DR. RYERSON.—A rich little episode occurred at the convocation of Victoria College in Cobourg the other day. The Hon. Wm. McDougall was referring in his speech to the stormy days which Rev. Dr. Ryerson had passed through, and said that he (Mr. McDougall), afraid that the Dr. was about to Prussianize our school system, had written against him, though he did not think Dr. Ryerson knew who the author of some of the letters was. The Dr. interrupted him by saying: "O yes, I knew very well, that was when young William was such a strong Republican." The mirth awakened by this retort was irresistible. Peal after peal of laughter was raised that "William," who now has such a dread of Mr. Mills and other Reformers being Republicans, was at one time "a strong Republican." But what hasn't "William" been?—London Advertiser.

The Dominion Line steamship Ontario, which arrived at Quebec on Monday last, had on board a number of immigrants for the Little Saskatchewan. They are pioneers from England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, and if their report is satisfactory, upwards of six hundred are to follow. Each of them possesses some means sufficient to start farming in their new homes. Mr. J. C. Wheelams, who is escorting them to their destination, has instructions to purchase for others who are following, altogether 4,000 acres, in lots of 320 acres. Mr. Wheelams believes that several thousands will make for the Little Saskatchewan during 1878 and next year, provided the pioneers' report is satisfactory.

ELORA.—Complaint is made about parties plucking flowers from plants planted on graves in the village cemetery.——The Council contemplates spending the sum of between three and four hundred dollars this year on roads, bridges and sidewalks.

PALMERSTON.—Mr. Smith, late track inspector on the Southern Extension, has been lately presented by the men employed under him with a handsome silver tea and coffee set, and a beautiful French clock under a glass shade.——Owing to increased attendance at the Canada Methodist church, it was found necessary to enlarge the building. On the 26th ult. it was re-opened for worship, and services were conducted by Rev. J. Forman, of Mount Forest. On Monday evening following a tea meeting was held, after which subscriptions were asked for, to pay off the debt ($1,700) on the church. Over $1,500 were promised, and the tea realized $70.

DEFENDANTS IN ASSAULT CASES AS WITNESSES.—The following is the Act passed at the late session of Parliament to provide that persons charged with common assault shall be competent as witnesses, and assented to on the 10th of May:—On the summary or other trial of any person upon any complaint, information, or indictment for common assault, the defendant shall be a competent witness for the prosecution or on his own behalf. On any such trial the wife or husband, of the defendant shall be a competent witness on behalf of the defendant. Where another crime is charged, and the Court having power to try the same is of opinion at the close of the evidence for the prosecution that the only case apparently made out is one for common assault, the defendant shall be a competent witness for the prosecution or on his own behalf, and his wife, or her husband if the defendant be a woman, shall be a competent witness on behalf of the defendant in respect of the charge of common assault; provided, that this section shall only apply to cases tried without the intervention of a jury. Except as in the next preceding section mentioned, this Act shall not apply to any prosecution where any other crime than common assault is charged in the information or indictment.

CANADIAN METHODIST MAGAZINE FOR JUNE.—S. Rose, Toronto. $2.00 a year, single numbers 20 cents. The number completes the seventh volume of this increasingly popular magazine. It contains a copiously illustrated article on Trenton Falls, with many cuts of their charming scenery, and an account of coal-mining and iron manufacture, fully illustrated. The brave life and tragic death of Commodore Goodenough, of the Royal Navy, are the subject of a stirring article. The July number begins a new volume. It will contain articles on Sea Bathing, the Chautauqua Sunday-school Assembly, and Lumbering in Canada, with twenty-four engravings. The wonderful Canyons of the Colorado, the striking scenery of the Lehigh Valley, the Northern Lakes of Canada, the Susquehanna and Schuylkill Rivers, and numerous features of much interest, will be copiously illustrated. This will be a favorable time for subscribing. Those beginning with the July number are promised gratis an illustrated extra of 128 pages, containing "The King's Messenger," the popular Canadian story.

An inquest was held last week on the body of Mrs. Jelly, of Lucknow, who was killed by a blow from a base ball, thrown by a boy. The post mortem examination showed that death resulted from an abcess in the brain caused by the blow. The jury exonerated the boy from all blame; but recommended the Council to prohibit ball playing on the streets.

Protests by the bushel are being entered all over the Centre Riding of Wellington, in consequence of names having been illegally placed upon the assessment roll. There are no less than thirty-one cases of this kind in the township of Pilkington alone, five in Nichol, and none in Elora.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Sept. 28, d&w 9m.

ICE chests, refrigerators, fly traps, ice tongs, toilet sets, hip baths, sponge baths, children's baths, bird's nets, bird's baths, sporting goods generally, wire dish covers, bird cages, new styles, flower pot baskets, moss baskets at John Horsman's.

The Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., endorsed by eminent and distinguished visitors as a model establishment, will be an exception hereafter to the general complaint of high prices.

The Grand Central is now offering unusual inducements to business men, families and tourists. The prices for board have never been so low, and the table is still kept up to its first-class high standard.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J.D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

Bond & Co. tell us that they have just received a large lot of the celebrated rubber paint ready mixed, all colors, instruction books given free of charge to any one requiring them.

Base Ball.

Items of Interest on the Diamond.

The Syracuse Stars still hold the first place for the International championship. They have now conquered eleven of the thirteen contestants with whom they will in the course of events come in contact, and out of seventeen games have lost but one. The clubs occupy the following relative positions :—

	Won.	Lost.	Played.
1. Stars	16	1	17
2. Buffalos	13	7	20
3. Uticas	13	9	22
4. Hornells	12	8	20

BASE BALL.—The following games were played on Monday :—New Bedfords 11, Nationals 4; Buffalos 4, Rochesters 2; Providence 5, Milwaukees 2; Auburns 5, Worcesters 4; Chicagos 3, Bostons 2; Manchesters 5, Stars 4; Tecumsehs 7, Crickets 0.

GEO. PATTERSON is about shipping eighteen find horses for the old country market.

WEATHER PROBS.—Brisk southeasterly to northwesterly winds, and fair weather, possibly thunder storms in some locality.

THE "WILTON" FARM.—One hundred acres on the Brock Road, about five miles from Guelph, has been sold under power of a mortgage, to James Blair, of Carlisle, for $2,400.

AT a meeting of the Temperance Club in Hamilton on Monday evening Rev. Mr. Haskell intimated that the temperance tent would be opened in Guelph on Sunday next; and a vigorous campaign be pushed for several weeks.

LARCENY.—On Monday three young lads went to the residence of Mr. J. C. Chadwick, and one of them asked for a drink of water. The servant girl, who was ironing at the time, left her work to accommodate the lad. She, however, had no sooner turned her back than two of the lads snatched several handkerchiefs which were on a table and made off. A policeman was notified of what had happened, and learning the names of the boys he found them in the vicinity of Holliday's brewery. As soon as they saw the blue coat and brass buttons they made off, and a foot race was soon in progress between the policeman and boys. Reaching the river they plunged in and got safely across, the policeman not caring to follow.

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say :—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co,, are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

GUELPH MONTHLY CATTLE FAIR to-morrow.

COUNTY COUNCIL in session this afternoon.

ST. GEORGE'S BAZAAR, at the Town Hall to-morrow.

LARGE RHUBARB.—Mr. Birney brought into the MERCURY office this morning an armful of rhubarb, of the Linnæus variety, which measured three feet in the stock. This is an extraordinary length.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.—During the storm which passed over Minto on Monday morning, Mr. Samuel Taylor, of Lea Hurst Farm, had a very promising heifer, two years old, killed by lightning while in the pasture field.

ST. GEORGE'S UNION.—At a late meeting of the Brantford St. George's Society, a handsome sum of money was voted for the purpose of assisting in defraying the expenses of entertaining the American delegates to St. George's North-American Convention, to be held in Guelph on the 27th of August.

ORANGE FUNERAL.—On Monday afternoon the body of Thomas D. Jennings was buried with the honors of the Orange body. The procession was headed by the O.Y.B. fife and drum band. Deceased, who was twenty-six years of age, had been suffering for a couple of years from an affection of the spine, and had been treated in the General Hospital, where he died on Saturday evening.

GUELPH ORGANS.—In a recent letter from Paris to the Globe we find the following :—"The organs in the Canadian Department of the Exhibition, belonging to the Dominion Organ Company, of Bowmanville, and Bell & Co., of Guelph, receive much attention, and I believe will sell well. Our goods are generally found to be cheap, and I think that more of our manufacturers would have done well to exhibit.

NEW BOOKS.—The Rose-Belford publishing Company have just issued "Chips from many Blocks," by Elihu Burritt. The writer in the preface to the work states that he never before put forth in one volume talks on so many different topics as will be found in this book, which he specially dedicates to Canadians, and begs them to receive it as if written by a native Canadian. The contents are of a varied character, as indicated by the title. The book will doubtless meet with a large sale. A pamphlet, one of the International Religio-Science series, entitled "A Vision of the Future," has also been issued by the same publishing house. These books can be obtained at Day's bookstore.

REFORM MEETING IN GUELPH TOWNSHIP.—Our correspondent writes :—At the call of Mr. Wm. Whitelaw, convenor, a large and influential meeting of the supporters of Mr. Guthrie was held at Lillie's hotel, Marden, Guelph Township, on Saturday last, for organization, and for the appointment of committees to act in the interests of the Reform party in the ensuing election. The greatest enthusiasm was manifested, and the prospects of Mr. Guthrie were found daily increasing, notwithstanding the hawking from door to door of a requisition in favor of Mr. Goldie, accompanied with all kinds of plausible statements to pull the wool over the eyes of some former supporters of Mr. Guthrie. Mr. James Laidlaw was appointed chairman, and Mr. John McCorkindale secretary, when a large general committee was appointed from every part of the township.

DAMPENED.—A Guelph gentleman was fishing for trout at Limehouse the other day. He had hard luck, for while his companions were landing the finny tribe at a brisk rate he only got nibbles. "Hope oft deferred," does not make every person's heart sick, but on the contrary often spurs men on to deeds of courage. So it was in this case. The bank was not a good place on which to stand while fishing. It would be better, far better to gain footing on a log, and gazing down in the limpid depths select the largest trout to tempt with bait. Acting on these thoughts, which rushed tumultuously through the brain of the fisherman, he gained a good position in the centre of the pond and prepared to fish. The haul was a great one—the fisherman being hauled off the log at double quick by catching his hook in a snag in the bottom of the river. The water was deep, but the unlucky party never lost his presence of mind, and reached shore without much trouble, where he was congratulated by his companions. Mr. F. J. Chadwick is the gentleman who met with the mishap.

ILLICIT STILL SEIZED.—On Monday morning, 3rd inst., Mr. Collector McLean, of Guelph, accompanied by officers McCord and Powell, seized an illicit still on Lot No. 1, in the second concession of Woolwich, on the farm worked by Joseph Brown but belonging to the estate of the late Mr. Lamphier. The still was fully at work, two mashes being in process of fermentation. There was a still, worm, stove, a number of tubs and other articles, which were seized and destroyed by the officers.

Presentation to Mr. D. McIntosh.

On Monday evening the teachers in Chalmers' Church Sabbath School, together with several of the elders and managers, met at the manse for the purpose of presenting Mr. Daniel McIntosh, Elder, Session Clerk, and Vice-Superintendent of the Sabbath School, with a token of their esteem previous to his departure for Toronto, where his firm, Messrs. Hill, McIntosh & Irnes, now carry on business. Mr. McIntosh has been connected with the congregation since its formation, and has been an active and indefatigable worker in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the congregation, who much regret his departure.

The Rev. Dr. Wardrope opened the proceedings with devotional exercises, when Mr. D. Guthrie, Superintendent of the Sabbath School, read the following ADDRESS.

Dear Mr. McIntosh,—On the eve of your departure from among us, we place on record this expression of our esteem and affection for you. You have been identified with our church since its formation. As a member of the session, and as Session Clerk, your attendance has been most regular, your counsel judicious, and your services untiring. The teachers of the Sabbath School have found you a faithful and diligent fellow-laborer. As President of the Missionary Association, you have ever sought to promote its efficiency; and it owes to your fostering care no small measure of the success which has attended its operations. You will be missed by us in every department of our Church work, but we hope and trust that, for our Lord Jesus Christ, there is work to be done by you elsewhere. We are assured that you will not be weary in well-doing. We ask your acceptance of the accompanying time-piece as a token of our loving interest in your welfare. It is our heart's desire and prayer that the Lord may ever bless you, your partner in life, and your family—that he may bless you and make you a blessing.

THOMAS WARDROPE, D.D.,
Moderator of Session.
DONALD GUTHRIE,
Sup't of Sabbath School.
GILBERT H. MCINTYRE,
Sec'y of Sabbath School.

Guelph, June 3rd, 1878.

Mr. Robert Flaws then presented Mr. McIntosh with a handsome French alabaster mantle-piece clock, under glass, on which, on a neat silver plate, is the following inscription :—"Presented to Mr. D. McIntosh by the S.S. Teachers and Office-bearers of Chalmer's Church, Guelph, June 3rd, 1878." The clock was purchased from Mr. R. Crawford.

Rev. Dr. Wardrope, in the name of the ladies, presented Mrs. McIntosh with a beautiful gold brooch.

Mr. McIntosh made the following

REPLY.

Mr. Guthrie, Fellow Teachers and Friends,—I can hardly express my feelings in regard to the kind address which you have just presented to me. You refer to the pleasant relations which have existed between yourselves and me in every department of our work as a church. I can honestly say that since the formation of our church, ten years ago, I have felt a deep interest in its welfare. That interest continues unabated to this day. It has always been a pleasure to me to co-operate with the Session, and I am thankful in looking back to remember that our action from year to year has been characterized by uninterrupted harmony. In the Sabbath School, too, I have found it most pleasant, along with my fellow teachers, to work for the welfare of the young. And in the Missionary Association, while rejoicing in its efficiency as an indication of the prosperity of our congregation, I trust that I, along with those associated with me, have had a higher view in the extension of our Redeemer's Kingdom. Notwithstanding what you have been good enough to say of my efforts in church work, I truly feel that some who are here now, and others not present, have, in their own spheres, done as much as I have done, or more. What I have been able to do has been done most willingly, and never with a view to any reward, save such as I might have in the confidence of the church, and, above all, in the approbation of our gracious Lord.

I thank you most sincerely for the handsome gift which you have bestowed upon me. I shall ever highly value it. When it strikes the hours it will remind me, as well as my family (in whose name I thank you for your kind allusions to them), of dear friends in Guelph. Nothing in view of our departure has pained us more than the prospect of leaving the congregation, our connection with which has been so pleasant and profitable to us all. And, for its continued prosperity, we shall pray.

After the presentations the company indulged in pleasant social intercourse and enjoyment. Some betook themselves to rambling through the spacious grounds of the manse, others entered into some quiet game with a zest and good will highly refreshing, while inside, amusements of various kinds were carried on with equal interest, interspersed at times with the sweet strains of music. This state of things was kept up till after ten o'clock, when refreshments were announced. After ample justice had been done to this part of the programme and a social chat all around had been carried on, with unflagging interest till nearly eleven o'clock, Dr. Wardrope announced a hymn, which was sung, and afterwards he engaged in prayer, thus bringing to a close a meeting which was highly interesting and enjoyable in its every feature.

Near the close of the meeting the Secretary of the Sabbath School, Mr. McIntyre, was instructed (being the evening of the regular monthly teacher's meeting) to put on record a minute of the proceedings of the evening, together with the acceptance of the resignation of Mr. McIntosh as Vice-Superintendent of the Sabbath School, the esteem he was held in by his fellow teachers in the school, and their regret at losing such a valued and efficient worker.

Special credit is due to the host and hostess for the excellent arrangements made for the accommodation of their guests.

Guelph Carriages in Paris.

As an evidence of the estimation in which Guelph carriages are held in Paris we give the following letter received from Mr. Perreault, Secretary to the Canadian Commissioners at the Paris Exhibition, to Mr. J. B. Armstrong, who sent over the carriage in question to the Exhibition not for exhibition but to show his patent springs for the European market :—

PARIS, May 21.

MR. J. B. ARMSTRONG,

I have pleasure in informing you that I have just sold for you your Park Phaeton Carriage, for $1,500, which I will send you in fifteen days. Your carriages are attracting considerable attention.

Yours truly,
E. S. PERREAULT.

The Arts Association of Montreal has presented to Lord Dufferin a bust representing Young Canada, the work of an artist of that city. Lord Dufferin suitably acknowledged the present, and speaks highly of the bust as a work of art.

The Indians on the Plains, and as far south as New Mexico, are beginning to be troublesome, and a general outbreak is feared.

It is estimated that about 32,000 bushels of wheat have been exported from Winnipeg this season.

The Live Stock Trade.

The following is from a letter just received from Liverpool :—

Mr. John Geary, of London, Ontario, who is at present on a tour in Europe, visited the great Horse and Live Stock Fair, held at Lincoln, England, recently, and secured a very valuable draft of pure-bred Lincoln sheep, comprising two shearling rams and fifteen shearling ewes. A piece of wool taken from one of these at Liverpool measured fourteen inches. They created great admiration whilst being shipped on board the steamship Ontario en route for Canada last week.

It is estimated that with the present facilities upwards of 3,000 head of Canadian cattle can be shipped weekly to Great Britain. The Cunard Line have commenced to carry cattle from Boston, as the steamship Liberia took 120 head of cattle for Mr. A. Wallace Aikine, of Toronto Township, purchased in the Counties of Peel, Grey and Bruce. They met with a ready sale at top prices.

A large number of horses have arrived from Ontario at Liverpool and Glasgow. Out of one shipment ten realized eleven hundred pounds. Others are selling at prices ranging from seventy to one hundred and fifty pounds each. This should encourage farmers to use good stallions.

The Attempt to Assassinate the Emperor of Germany.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A Herald's special says :—When the Emperor William was shot a chasseur sitting with the coachman sprang into the vehicle and threw himself over the Emperor, so that the slugs from the second shot touched only the Emperor's arm. The worst wound is in the wrist, near the main artery, from which the Emperor lost much blood. This renders his condition very dangerous.

LONDON, June 3.—All accounts from Berlin say the effect of the news that another attempt has been made on the life of the Emperor was astounding. The outburst of public feeling went so far beyond the manifestations of the previous occasion, as Nobeling's attempt exceeded that of Hoedel in seriousness. Vast crowds assembled around the palace, and forced its way into the building. It only dispersed on receiving satisfactory news of the Emperor's condition, and warning that theis manifestation might aggravate his suffering.

An official bulletin reports that the Emperor has passed a quiet night; pain alleviated, condition satisfactory.

A Berlin special says :—Nobeling's injuries are fatal. He refuses to allege any satisfactory motive for his crime. He is neither a Socialist nor an Ultramontane, but is a Protestant of good family and position, and fair means. Nobeling admits that his plan had been formed a long time. He had accomplices who had been in communication with him on the subject of the assassination of the Emperor for six months.

REDUCTION IN THE G. W. R. WORKSHOPS.—The Hamilton Times says :—On Saturday some 300 men in the Great Western workshops along the line were notified that their services, at all events for the present, would not be required, and the remainder were asked to choose whether they would accept a reduction of one-third wages or work four days in the week? They chose the later alternative. It is stated that on each of the track sections a man has been dismissed, and that over the whole road the dismissals in all the departments will reach nearly 400 persons. The Engineer and Carpenter shops in this city have been closed for the present.

THE ORANGEMEN AND THE 12TH.—It is said that the presence of Ontario Orangemen in Montreal on the 12th of July will depend upon the action of the authorities there. They do not expect the Dominion Government to take measures to protect the Orangemen after the Premier's recent declaration in Toronto. If they receive a guarantee from the civic authorities that steps will be taken to protect the Orangemen in procession there, they will urge the Supreme Grand Lodge to advise western Orangemen to remain at home. If not they will adopt other measures to prevent the procession being molested. It has been suggested on account of the difficulty the Orangemen have had in obtaining halls for their meeting that they raise a company to build a hall for their accommodation. A resident of Point St. Charles has offered a bonus of $100 a year towards the carrying out of the enterprise. It appears also that arrangements are being made to start a weekly paper in the Orange interest in the city.

GENERAL SESSIONS—GRAND JURY.—The General Sessions and County Court will open before His Honor, Judge Macdonald, at the Court House, Guelph, on Tuesday next. The following is the Grand Jury list :—John Armstrong, Chas. Hawes, Guelph Township; Joseph Astell, Hugh Shannon, Minto; Joseph Carter, John McKerlie, Eramosa; James Curry, James Lindsay, West Garafraxa; James Davis, Thos C. Thompson, Erin; Samuel Hotel, Clifford; Thomas A. Heffernan, Charles F. Leonard, John A. Wood, Guelph; Wm. Henderson, Isaac McIsaac, Maryboro'; Ezra Hawley, George Thomson, Peel; Henry King, Luther; Thomas Laidlaw, Elora; John Mewhort, Amaranth; Donald McKinnon, Orangeville; John Thomas Walker, East Garafraxa; Arthur Walker, Nichol.

Town Council.

Claims for Damages—The Press Association Visit.

At a regular meeting held on Monday evening there were present—His Worship Mayor Howard in the chair, Messrs. Elliott, Richard Mitchell, Sleeman, Chase, Bruce, Gowdy, Robt. Mitchell, Biscoe, Chubb, Melvin, Doran, Roehe, and Dr. McGuire.

Accounts were presented from J. T. Chapman, $20.10; Woodward, Grant & Co., $15.25; Alonzo Berge, $267; A. McBean & Co., $32.58; John Harris, against Relief Committee, $2; Tolton & Fox, against Relief Committee, $28.50.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Town Solicitor giving the following bill of costs in the case of Herod vs. Town: Damages, $92; taxed costs, $141.96.

From A. H. Macdonald, stating that he had been instructed by Mr. Johnston to claim $250 for damage done his property by water on Dufferin street.

John Risk presented a claim of $5 for damages sustained to a waggon on account of defective culvert on Quebec street.

From MacMillan & O'Connor, stating that they had been instructed by J. E. McElderry to sue for damages done to his property on Tiffany street by the removal of gravel, unless settled forthwith.

The following from Jas. Innes, President of the Canadian Press Association, was read.

"At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Canada Press Association last week, it was arranged that the annual meeting of the Association should be held in the Town of Guelph on the 9th of July. The members will meet at two o'clock in the afternoon, the business will possibly occupy about one hour, and thereafter until the members with their ladies leave by the one-thirty train on the Grand Trunk Railway on Wednesday morning, they will have ample time at their disposal to see the town and immediate vicinity. One great object of the members coming to Guelph is to see our town, and pay a visit to the Agricultural College. In all places they have hitherto visited their reception has been most cordial, and everything done to make their visit as pleasant and interesting as possible. I am sure that in bringing the matter before you, the Town Council of Guelph and the inhabitants generally acting in co-operation with you will see that these representatives of the Press from all parts of the country will receive such welcome and treatment in Guelph as will sustain its already well earned name for hospitality.

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

The following from Judge Macdonald, chairman of the Board of Education, was presented :—

"I am directed to lay before you a requisition by the Board of Education for $7,000, for the purpose of erecting a High School building in Guelph, according to plans and specifications prepared and approved of, subject to satisfactory contractors being found who will undertake to do the work within the amount appropriated for it. I am also requested to state to the Council, for the information of the public, the circumstances under which the Board of Education is compelled to make the requisition, which appear in a separate memorandum."

To the Mayor and Council of Guelph :

"I am requested by the Board of Education of the Town of Guelph to state the circumstances under which the Board is compelled to send in the requisition for $7,000, to defray the expenses of a suitable High School building in Guelph.

"The old Grammar School building having become untenantable temporary accommodation was found in the Public School buildings, after the completion of the Central School. This was the best that could be done at the time, although the arrangement was very inconvenient and unsatisfactory.

"The large increase in the attendance at the Public Schools renders it imperatively necessary to make arrangements for the High School elsewhere, as there is no more room now available in the Central School Building to accommodate any further increase, which is impending from the Ward Schools, some of which have again more than the proper number.

"The High School has been carried on by the sufferance of the Education Department, leave having been obtained to use the unoccupied part of the Public School buildings as a temporary expedient without forfeiting the Legislative grant. If this were lost the County grant would have to fall with it.

"There is, however, another and most satisfactory reason which compels the Board to make the requisition. The number on the roll of the High School is now about 130, and the Public Schools are doing their work so well that there are 100 applications for admission into the High School at the entrance examination in July next. The applications in July and December, 1877, numbered 146; 83 applicants passed the examination, being 57 per cent of the whole. The examinations are in writing, and the work of the local examiners is reviewed in Toronto, so that every care is taken to permit only those who are properly prepared to pass into the High School.

It should not be forgotten in dealing with the question, that if there was no High School, many of the pupils would have to remain in the Public School at an increased rate of expense to the town. Every pupil who passes the High School increases the Government and County grant, and there is a further increase for every pupil in the High School who passes the intermediate examination and enters the Upper School. There is also another allowance made by the Government, which is determined by the Inspector. Among the items to be considered by the Inspector in fixing the allowance is the extent of school accommodation and the school premises; the number of masters engaged as compared with the number of pupils, and general education appliances, &c. In the allowance to the Guelph school we have not yet been entitled to anything for school accommodation, school premises, etc. Some schools receive from $200 to $250 a year on this account, with an equal sum from the County. It is submitted that we should not rest satisfied until we elevate our High School to the status of a collegiate institute. This is within our reach at an early day, looking at the character of the work now being done in the High School, notwithstanding all the drawbacks and inconveniences attending the present temporary arrangement. Without approved accommodation and proper appliances, this advancement is out of the question. Financially, the attainment of that position for our High School means an increase of income from grants of $1,500 a year. Looking at the question in any way we choose, the present want of proper accommodation is a loss to the town; the improvement in the school so far has been very good, but there is no doubt that with proper accommodation the improvement would be still more marked.

The money required should be raised upon debentures payable in ten years. It will be observed that every increase of the government grant is just so much less the town has to be asked for in the yearly estimate, and it is believed that in this way sufficient can be saved in ten years to pay off the debentures.

While it is not advisable to put pupils into the high school before they are fully prepared, it is a great advantage to the pupil and to the school that they should get into the high school as soon as possible as they pass from the highest class of the public school, where they have only one teacher for all branches of study, to a school where the subjects are divided between several teachers.

PETITIONS.

The Directors of the Mechanics' Institute asked for the use of the Town Hall on the 13th inst., for a strawberry festival.

From H. W. Peterson, asking for improvements on Fergus street.

D. McGillvary asked for a remission of statute labor tax, having lost a leg, and being indigent.

From John Horsman, H. W. Peterson, James Watt, John Hogg & Son, James Goldie, John M. Bond, A. Hadden, John Harris, Peter Gow, Chas. Davidson, Wm. Reynolds, James Innes, David Kennedy, Geo. S. Herod, and one hundred and twenty-eight others, asking that T. W. Cooper be appointed Town Engineer.

It was moved by Mr. Richard Mitchell, seconded by Mr. Chase, that the petition of John Horsman and others, asking that T. W. Cooper be appointed Town Engineer be granted in accordance with the fifth clause of the second report of the Road and Bridge Committee.

The clause provided for the appointment of an Engineer only when required.

The motion was withdrawn, several members expressing a desire that the petition be referred in the usual way.

Walter Cook asked for a license to keep a bowling alley.

Moved by Messrs. Elliott and Sleeman that the Mayor give his order on the Town Treasurer for the amount of damages and costs in the suit of Herod vs. Town. Carried.

The various petitions were referred to proper Committees.

ROAD AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Rich. Mitchell presented the eighth report of the Road and Bridge Committee:—

1st. They have considered the petition of J. E. McElderry, asking for remuneration for damage done to his property on Tiffany street, by the removal of gravel from said property, and find that the Council only removed gravel from the street, and not from said property; and that the fourth clause of your Committee's seventh report provides for repairing said street when necessary, they, therefore, cannot recommend that the petition be granted.

2nd. Your Committee have considered the petition of Macmillan & O'Connor and others, in reference to widening the road which passes St. Joseph's Hospital, and recommend that it be granted, providing the residents and owners on both sides of said road move their fences back sixteen and a-half, thereby making the said road sixty-six feet wide, and the Township Council grant a proper proportion of amount required to improve said road.

3rd. In reference to the petition of John Jackson and others, for improvements on Palmer street, your Committee, having already obtained an appropriation of $60 for said street, cannot recommend any further grant at present, as they will be in a better position to judge what may be required after the aforesaid $60 has been expended.

4th. They have considered the petition of Wm. Cockburn and others, for improvements on Mercer street, and cannot recommend any further grant in that locality at present.

5th. In reference to the petition of D. S. Mitchell and others, asking a sidewalk on the London Road, south of Yorkshire street, your Committee recommend that $60 be granted for the purpose of filling up a gravel pit on said road, in that locality, as they consider this of more importance at the present time than a sidewalk, which can be put down at some other time.

6th. Your Committee obtained a plan—which they herewith submit,—of a wooden bridge, suitable for crossing the River Speed, near St. George's Church, and estimated to cost about $1,250. About $250 additional would be required for approaches, grading street leading thereto, and constructing a sidewalk from Arthur street to the bridge, and thence to Woolwich street, making a total of $1,500 for the entire work. Stone abutments may possibly be substituted for wooden ones without increasing the cost of the bridge.

MARKET AND DRILL SHED.

Mr. Melvin, chairman, presented the following report:

They have considered the petition of James Speirs, Lieutenant commanding the Guelph Rifle Company, and recommend a grant of $25 to repair armory.

The following accounts are recommended to be paid: Mr. Robertson $37.15; Geo. Pike, $9.60; Mrs. Stull $2; Gale & Patterson, $18.60.

Since the closing up of the stairway to cellar of Market House there has been much complaint of crowding on the sidewalk in front of the Market building. They therefore recommend that the front entrance be again opened, and accommodation be provided downstairs for the sale of butter, eggs, etc.

Moved by Mr. Richard Mitchell, seconded by Mr. Gowdy, that the Road and Bridge report be adopted.

Moved in amendment by Dr. McGuire, seconded by Mr. Chase, that the report be sent back, with instructions to recommend the granting of $100 instead of $50, for improvements on Palmer street.

The amendment was lost, and the original resolution was carried.

Moved by Messrs. Melvin and Bruce, that the report of the Market and Drill Shed Committee be adopted.

Mr. Robt. Mitchell objected to the opening of the stairway to the market cellar, after it only being closed a short time.

Mr. Melvin stated that the cost would not be more than $5 or $6. Standing in the hot sun with butter was not a very pleasant thing for those who had that article to sell, and they appear unwilling to go round the side entrance to the cellar. The proper thing to do, he believed, would be to erect sheds, if the finances of the town were in a condition to allow of it.

The motion was carried.

THE PRESS ASSOCIATION.

In reference to the communication received from Jas. Innes, the Mayor stated that it was usual to receive the members of the Press Association very cordially on their annual excursion, and he had no doubt Guelph would not be behind other towns in bestowing on them that attention that was due to that body.

Mr. Bruce was of opinion that the Council should act the part of guests of the Press Association while in Guelph. (Laughter.)

Mr. Biscoe got off a joke on the "press gang," and the "quarter" that was usually tendered in such cases.

Moved by Mr. Melvin, seconded by Mr. Doran, that Messrs. Elliott, Rich. Mitchell, Sleeman, Biscoe and the Mayor, be a committee to take into consideration the communication of Mr. Innes, relative to the approaching meeting of the Press Association, and report at next meeting.

In moving the resolution, Mr. Melvin thought the occasion was one when the town should make a special effort to entertain the members of the Association in a hospitable manner. The Press, which exercised such a great influence, would be represented from all parts of the country, and if there was a time when the Town should appear at its best it was on their visit here. Anything that was done he had no doubt would be heartily endorsed by the ratepayers of the town.

The motion was carried.

The Council then adjourned.

The June session of the Supreme Court opened at Ottawa on Monday.

Gortschakoff is better, and his complete restoration to health is anticipated.

Several prosecutions under the Dunkin Act are going on at Peterboro.

The Grand Orange Lodge of British North America was opened at St. John, N.B., on Monday.

The Prince Edward Island herring fishery has been exceedingly successful, and the cod-fishery promises well.

Difficulties are developing in the Liverpool corn trade. One heavy failure and several smaller ones are announced.

The workmen on the Departmental buildings at Quebec have struck on account of a reduction of wages, and appealed to Mr Joly.

A warrant has been issued from the Montreal Police Court for the arrest of ex-Solicitor General Baker on a charge of perjury in connection with the Golf-Stewart prosecution.

The late Commodore Graham; of Newburg, N. Y., left an estate of about $300,000, one-half of which he bequeathed to charitable purposes, mostly to institutions connected with the Episcopal Church.

Mr. John Feathers, of Clifford, has returned home from his trip to Great Britain. He was also at the opening of the Paris Exposition.

Napance is assessed on $750,066, and has a population of 2,894.

While driving to church on Sunday in Blyth, Mr. Robt. Laidlaw, his wife and son, were thrown from the wagon, and Mrs. Laidlaw severly injured, her hip being broken. The others escaped unhurt.

A new locomotive has been built and shipped from the Kingston works to Winnipeg, to be used on the Canada Pacific Railway.

The Beauties of Yankee Protection.

The Herald must be getting thoroughly nauseated with the ruinous policy advocated by the Taxationists, and has determined to chill those gentlemen, by the use of the wet blanket, which it used to an excellent purpose in Monday's issue. Had the question of "National Policy" versus "Revenue Tariff" been discussed through the papers for twelve months, the effect on the masses could not have been more telling than the course adopted by the Herald, in order to show the utter recklessness of those who want to grind down our people by taxing our bread, and everything we require, in such a way as few sensible men will approved of. The Herald gives the fair and just Canadian tariff, and in parallel lines publishes the Yankee tariff in all its deformity, and then, with more sarcasm than sincerity, heads the paragraph with "Is it fair, Figures which everybody should consider?" We can tell the Herald that a good many have considered these figures, and are prepared to pass a very decided opinion upon them, or on any candidate who may endorse such an atrocious swindle on the struggling people of the country. Adopt this Yankee policy, and charge 20 cents a bushel on wheat now free, and where we would like to know is Mr. Goldie or other millers to get the wheat to keep their mills going, and enable them to supply their customers, and compete in other markets? It is well known the large quantities of grain brought into the country by these gentlemen last year, and it certainly cannot be any one's interest that a duty of 20 cents a bushel should be tacked on, and their mills stopped such a season as last, when a deficient wheat crop was universal.

Then we are to have $7 a ton on pig iron now admitted free. What will Messrs. Mills, Robertson, Ingils, and others say to that. They are to be taxed $7 a ton on this iron, in order to complete the scheme of the National Policy gentlemen. Bar iron, which we admit at 5 per cent. is to be advanced to 35; woolen goods from 17½ to 70; flannel from 17½ to 60; alpaca goods 17½ to 85; cottons from 17½ to 40; coal now free, 75 cents a ton; potatoes 15 cents a bushel, etc., etc. Need we say more than to request the Herald to give a few items of this Yankee tariff daily, and there will be little doubt as to the coming elections, and where the working people will be found.

THE Mail now condemns the policy of the Government on the sugar question, but hear what it said about sugar refiners in 1874:—"It is not to the essence of Protection that it should lead to the establishment of a couple of monopolies, nor can it be successfully contended that sugar refining is a Canadian manufacture in the sense of which these words are generally understood."

THERE is an impression that the Government requires to give thirty or forty days notice after the issue of the writs before holding a general election. This is a mistake. In 1874 the writs were issued on the 2nd of January, calling for nominations on the 22nd and polling on the 29th of the same month, the writs being returnable on the 21st of February. In some of the far away constituencies the writs were not made returnable until the 12th of March.

MR. BOWMAN has commenced his canvass in North Waterloo. He held a meeting at Heidleberg on Saturday, when he made a speech of two hours' duration, in which he made a masterly defence of the Government policy. Mr. Kranz, the Tory candidate, also spoke a short time, as did several other Conservatives. The meeting, although held in what seemingly was a Conservative centre, was a successful one for Mr. Bowman, as was fully shown by the hearty cheers he received during his address.

HON. Mr. Mackenzie left Sarnia on Monday morning, and stayed over at London a short time. While there, an impromptu reception was got up in his honor by the Young Canadian Liberal Club, when he gave a short address.

The Elora-Guelph Lacrosse Match.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—In answer to the communication published in Saturday's Herald, from Mr. Perry, captain of the Elora lacrosse club—a communication which, for the sake of the clubs interest ed, and for Mr. Perry's own good name, I regret appeared—I have taken upon myself to answer briefly.

The character of any lacrosse club on the field necessarily hangs on the conduct of the captain. When Guelph players termed the Elora club "scurvy" when playing, reference was intended almost wholly to Mr. Perry. That gentleman accused our team of being guilty of using improper language. The first man that was guilty of swearing during the game was this Mr. Perry, and it was only after receiving very rough treatment that any of the Guelph players lost their temper. Some members of the Elora club stated openly that Mr. Perry was by far the roughest player in the club and created more dissension than all the other players put together.

As to the challenge laid down that Elora wanted to play Guelph and would only have ten men, I might state that we are prepared to play them at any time with their full number, on our own or any other grounds, providing they furnish a referee who understands the game. Should they favor us with a visit they may rely on receiving the best of treatment at our hands, both while playing and when not so engaged.

It is true that some from Guelph visited Fergus after the match was over, but while there they conducted themselves in a proper manner. Could Mr. Perry say as much for some from his village?

While not wishing to raise any ill feeling with the Elora players, nor lower the standard of the game by recriminations, I will simply add that the record of the Guelph club stands high with all the clubs they met in friendly contest last year—not one dispute arising. The whole blame and cause of the disturbance rests with the ungentlemanly conduct of the captain of the Elora club and with him let it rest. While the Guelph team is not by any means composed of such heavy men as their Elora friends, they are not "babies" in play either. In proof of which I might remind Mr. Perry that it took Elora two hours to defeat us. Hoping this will be the last of a disagreeable matter, and trusting that a game will be arranged at an early date, I am, yours &c.

A. ARMSTRONG, captain.

Harold the Outlaw

—OR—

The Ganger of Skene.

Gilmour and Allan were fully satisfied, and now it was arranged that they should remain concealed near the mouth of the well, while Joe should go and lure Dougal down on some pretext. So the latter shambled yway, carrying the torch with him.

Away he went, we say, on his dread and treacherous mission, thinking as he ascended the stair what excuse he could invent for asking Dougal to accompany him to that underground region which he had never allowed him to enter. On that very account the latter would deem the request a strange one, and his cowardly nature so easily alarmed might entertain a suspicion strong enough to cause him to refuse. In which case a desperate physical struggle would ensue, which would render him not so easily disposed of as they desired.

"I have it," muttered Joe to himself, as a feasible idea struck him, and he absolutely grinned with satisfaction at his ingenuity. The murder of Dougal was a business he liked rather than otherwise. He had always secretly hated him, and would ere this have shown his feeling in accordance with his savage nature had he felt himself at liberty to do so.

Dougal was in the kitchen lying on the wooden settle half asleep. Mother Barnacle was there also, busy over the fire making porridge for supper.

"Goodness gracious, Joe, what a time you have been," observed his buxom better half, speaking without looking round, for the stirring of the porridge demanded her attention.

"That confounded heavy box has kept me a precious time in the passage," growled Joe. "Dougal," he bawled forth, "I want you to give me a hand with it up the stair."

"What box is it?" demanded his wife.

"Brought it in the boat. Don't know what's in it; you'll see when we get it up. Come on, Dougal, and be quick, for I want my supper."

Dougal yawned, stretched himself, and rose to his feet without a word.

"Dougal hasn't got his supper any more than you," observed Mother Barnacle.

"Hasn't he? Well, I'll not keep him long from it," was Joe's sardonic reply.

One keen glance he cast at his victim as he turned away, and chuckled to see with what readiness he followed.

"This way," he called out over his shoulder as he passed within the iron gate at the top of the stone stair.

"Doon there" remarked Dougal. "That's a dreadfu' lookin' place tae enter. Is't far?"

"No; only a little bit; the torch will show us the way."

He purposely spoke in a loud tone that his confederates below might hear their approach and be prepared.

At the foot of the stair Joe and his intended victim got among the dark passages which led to the different receptacles, and Dougal, bewildered by the intricacies, followed blindly at the heels of his companion little dreaming that he was being led to his death.

'Mercy me, Joe, this is a queer and awfu' eerie place," he observed. "Hae we far tae gang?"

"No, not far. Here come along; this is the place," was answered back to him as Joe entered the fatal chamber, in the darkest corner of which Gilmour and Allan lay crouched. Joe held the torch so as to throw its light full in Dougal's face, and prevent him from seeing the surrounding objects.

"There's the box- forward there," said the treacherous hunchback, and Dougal groped his way in the direction indicated, which was straight to the mouth of the open well.

"Where is it?" he asked, stooping down, and feeling all over the floor.

"Farther forward — farther forward," answered Joe, and noiselessly he stuck the end of the torch in a crevice of the wall. This sent the light over his head, and caused it to fall on the floor, revealing to Dougal's horror stricken gaze the black abyss on the brink of which he stood.

With a loud yell he sprang back and turned to fly, but was caught in the strong arms of the dwarf, whose murderous purpose was now fully revealed in his face. The wretched spy read it there, and knew in a moment what the other intended to do. He did not speak, he uttered no sound beyond that one horrible yell, but he wormed his arms round Joe's body and grasped him with a despairing death grip.

The dwarf's strength of arm was prodigious, but it could not free him from his victim's clutch. If he threw him forward he would be dragged with him, and they would fall into the well together.

Had the struggle been solely between the two it would have been protracted and of uncertain issue, but at this moment the two lurkers sprang from their corner to Joe's help.

Down with him Joe, down with him!" roared out Gilmour, in his mad excitement.

Dougal heard the voice and turned his head round, recognizing his master.

"Mercy, mercy!" he wildly exclaimed. "Don't murder me. I served you faithfully. You know I did."

"Head him not—shake him off—down with him," shouted Gilmour.

"Tear away his hands, then," roared Joe, in a voice of thunder.

They leaped forward—Allan on one side Gilmour on the other—and each catching hold of a clinging arm dragged it away with ruthless strength. It took all their power to accomplish this, so tenaciously did the victim keep his hold, but great as was the strength which despair gave him it was no match for three men, each as strong and determined as himself. We cannot describe or even imagine the frantic horror of the wretch when he felt he was being overpowered, and about to be hurled down the abyss. He shrieked for mercy, yet knew he would not get it. His cries made the caverns echo; louder and more frantic they grew as his hold of Joe lessened. At length the latter felt himself free; and shouting to his accomplices to stand clear, he lifted Dougal from his feet, and with the strength of an enraged wild beast hurled him from him into the mouth of the well.

The Durham Chronicle says that a barn on the premises of Mr. Isaac Queen, 3rd con., Egremont, was destroyed by fire on Thursday night, 16th inst., about 8 o'clock. It is said the fire was caused by a horse kicking a lighted lantern and upsetting it.

SHEEP WORRIED.—A number of valuable sheep were worried in Arthur Township by vagrant dogs on Sunday night last. Mr. Geo. Duncan, of the 14th concession, had eight killed; Mr. Cochrane, three; Mr. Shanahan, two; and Duncan Stewart, two. Twelve other sheep were badly worried.

Nineteen tavern-keepers in York County have been summoned under the Dunkin Act for selling whiskey. A fund amounting to $6,500 to fight the act has been subscribed to.

Protection as a Party Issue.

(From the Toronto Tribune.)

It has been definitively determined by the Opposition leaders to adopt the cry of a "national policy" as their shibboleth at the next general election. For nearly three years the gradual ascendancy of Dr. Tupper's views has been made more and more manifest, and the Chieftain himself, while carefully avoiding the discussion of details, has fairly committed himself to the protectionist doctrine. "What he contended for," he said, as reported in the Mail, at Yorkville, on Monday evening, "is a reciprocity of trade, or a reciprocity of tariffs between Canada and America. * * * * He asked the support of the people of Canada for the 'National Policy,' which his party were prepared to carry out." Although the details of this national policy have never yet been fully, or even partially, explained by the Opposition leader, who has always confined himself to the bare declaration of "such a readjustment of the tariff" as would effect certain very desirable results, yet it can be readily ascertained what is its general scope, and what would, in some respects be its actual results:—

(1.) It would impose a tax on coal and consequent enhancement in the cost of fuel in every city, and in many towns, in Canada.

(2.) It would impose a tax on breadstuffs which would be particularly oppressive on the Maritime Provinces, without bringing a solitary dollar of profit to the Western agriculturist.

(3.) It would be oppressive to the agriculturists, by imposing upon them the payment of the duty upon the coarse grains which they find it more profitable to buy from the United States than to raise at home.

(4.) It would increase the cost of every article of consumption, by as much as the amount of the additional duty imposed upon the particular article, thus laying an additional burthen upon all classes, as all are consumers.

(5.) It would advance the cost of all the manufactured goods already in the country, whether imported, or home-made, the very moment that the higher duties went into force, to the amount to which these duties may be increased, thus compelling the whole country to pay higher prices before a single step could be made in the direction of stimulating native industry by the exclusion of foreign goods.

(6.) Admitting that it would create a few more manufacturing establishments, or give those already in existence better employment, it must follow that the consequent exclusion of American or other foreign goods would tend to still further depress the labour markets in the countries from which we import, and, as in the United States—the bete noir of our Protectionists—labour is already much more depressed than it is in Canada, the workingmen has no prospect of higher wages, for the reason that the labour of Canada and the United States is in constant competition, transferring itself from the one country to the other, according to the state of the labour market in each.

(7.) Admitting that the additional mechanics, artizans, tradesmen, and factory hands, who might be drawn to the cities, towns and villages, by this "policy," would make an appreciable advance in the price of potatoes, turnips, cabbage, and "garden sass" generally, which is doubtful, the advantage to the farmer would be counterbalanced, twenty times over, by the additional price he would have to pay on all his purchases, while the cash value of his staples—grain and stock—being regulated by outside markets, would remain the same.

(8) It would fetter the already depressed lumbering interest, so important to Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick, to a degree that would virtually lead to its destruction, or at least its diminution to the narrow limits of our home wants; for already it is barely possible for our lumbermen to conduct their business with even a small margin of profit; and an advance in the cost of all their supplies, with the necessity of paying higher wages, consequent upon the increased cost of living, would compel them to stop. Thus the "National Policy," would ruin the second great national industry of the country.

(9) Assuming that it would secure the manufacture at home of many articles now imported, this circumstance would operate disadvantageously on the shipping trade of the country, thereby giving a direct and severe blow to another important national industry, and indirectly injuring the agricultural interest, from the fact that the crippling of our import trade would throw our export trade into foreign hands.

(10.) It would undoubtedly put money in the pockets of a few coal owners in Nova Scotia, at the expense of Quebec and Ontario. It would probably do the same for some half a dozen millers in Ontario, at the cost of the whole people of Nova Scotia. And, of a certainty, it would enrich a few manufacturers, or manufacturing companies, at the cost of the whole people.

(11.) It would tend to create a plutocracy in Canada, such as that which has risen up in the United States, and the answer to which came partially last summer in the great strikes, and is likely to come, in a more emphatic shape, in the rise and spread of the Commune.

(12.) It offers protection to "Capital," but leaves labor open to free competition. It tends to glut the market by over-production, stimulated by fictious prices; and when the "glut" overtakes and passes the paying point, the "protected" manufacturer shuts down, to save his capital; and the unprotected workman is thrown idle—to beg, or starve, or eat up his little savings.

(13.) Finally, its whole tendency is to benefit the few at the expense of the many —"To make the rich, richer, and the poor, poorer."

This is our indictment, briefly stated, against the "National Policy."

These propositions are almost self-evident; yet there is an abundance of testimony that might be cited in proof of their correctness. Even Dr. Tupper himself, though a persistent advocate of taxing Ontario's coal and Nova Scotia's flour, the two propositions which at its inception were the Alpha and Omega of the "National Policy," at one time scouted the notion of agricultural protection. The coal and flour tax would have favoured the Nova Scotia mine owners and some of the Ontario millers, as well as a few Canadian forwarders. It was this triad of selfish interests which first begot the "National Policy," and for reasons which are too obvious, it was soon discovered that within such narrow limits it would be impossible to persuade the people at large, that there was anything in it beyond the scheme of a "ring," to put money into the pockets of its members. So the "Chieftain" hit upon the happy expedient of advocating "such a readjustment of the tariff"—without saying in what direction—"as would promote the mining, manufacturing and agricultural industries of the country." It is a waste of space to discuss such a vague proposition. But it is of interest to learn what Dr. Tupper thought upon some of the industries embraced in the general scope of this proposition, when the Mackenzie Government advanced the tariff from 15 to 17½ per cent. in the Session of 1874. He then declared that this advance was the introduction of "the thin end of the protectionist wedge." With reference to the ship-building interest, Dr. Tupper said: "Let the hon. member look at the neighboring Republic, and he would find that the policy (protectionist) of that country had swept their flag off the seas, and, given to others the carrying trade of the world." And as to agricultural protection, the great father of the "National Policy" then held the following language: "The only interest the Finance Minister pretended was suffering the slightest depression was the agricultural interest, and he (Dr. Tupper) would ask the great consuming population of this country whether they thought the great agricultural interest was suffering. He thought they would give a decided response, without any hesitation, that the agricultural interest at this moment was enjoying a condition of prosperity second to none in the world." The same words might be used to-day with even more truth, for the disposition in trade has interfered but very little with the interests of the Canadian farmer. He has suffered from deficient harvests, but he has been compensated by the opportunity of buying cheap goods; and of this the advocates of the "National Policy" would fain deprive him; that is, if they are sincere in their professions.

The Reformers cannot complain that the issue has been so fairly raised, in so far as their mere party prospects at the polls are concerned. But the electors at large may well regard with doubt the professions of sincerity in a policy which is not only unsound in itself, but which has been formulated under abnormal conditions of trade, merely to deceive those who, suffering from a depression which is universal throughout the world, are willing to grasp at any proposition, however delusive, that promises to extricate them from present difficulties. Those who believe in the policy of Protection can have very little faith in the sincerity of politicians who, at the beginning of the general depression, protested against the small addition of 2½ per cent. to the tariff as the introduction of the "thin end of the protectionist wedge."

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

THE CONGRESS TO MEET ON THE 13th.

LONDON, June 3.

It is said the Congress will be composed of the following:—Bismarck and Von Bulow for Germany; Beaconsfield, Salisbury, and Odo Russell for Great Britain; Schouvaloff and M. Doutril for Russia; Andrassy and Von Haymerle for Austria; Waddington and De St. Villier for France; Count Corti and Count de Launay for Italy. It is not yet known who will represent Turkey.

Berlin advices say:—It is officially announced that the German representatives to-day prepared and delivered to the Ambassadors to the Powers an invitation to attend the Congress, which will be held on June 13th.

In the House of Commons papers in regard to the Congress were laid on the table. The Chancellor confirmed the announcements that Lords Beaconsfield, Salisbury, and Odo Russell will represent Great Britain in the Congress.

In the House of Lords to-day, Earl Granville heartily congratulated the House and the Government that the San Stefano Treaty was about to be discussed by the Powers in Congress.

The Emperor of Germany's invitation to the Congress, presented by the German Ambassador to Lord Salisbury, and accepted by the latter, proposes to the Powers who are signatories of the treaties of 1856 and 1871 to meet in Congress at Berlin to discuss there the stipulations of the preliminaries of the Treaty of San Stefano, concluded between Russia and Turkey.

A St. Petersburg despatch says Earl Beaconsfield's appointment as representative to the Congress causes satisfaction here.

A correspondent at St. Petersburg says the attempt to arrange a mutual withdrawal from the neighborhood of Constantinople has been abandoned.

A Pera special says:—The agreement between England and Russia creates consternation here, because it is believed to involve a settlement which the Turks will resist forcibly.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Sept. 28, d&w 9m.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The Durham Review says that on Saturday week an old man named William Fee, of Normanby, was found in the yard of Mr. Hughson, in Durham, in a dying condition. He was at once taken into the house and medical aid procured, but he gradually sank and died on Monday forenoon. The deceased was one of the oldest settlers in this section. His death was caused by colic and inflammation, and probably injuries received about a month ago from a fall.

The Grand Central is now offering unusual inducements to business men, families and tourists. The prices for board have never been so low, and the table is still kept up at its first-class high standard. cod

Patrons of a first-class hotel justly consider themselves entitled to comfortable rooms, a bountiful bill-of-fare, and courteous treatment in the office. All these, combined with a notable degree of elegance throughout, are to be found in the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa. eod.

THE GREAT EXPRESS COMPANIES.—The three great express companies are the United States, Adams, and the American. They employ, altogether, an army of men and a host of horses. For their men and their horses, these three great companies use excusively GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA.

Sold by all druggists. Send for pamphlet.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

Bond & Co. tell us that they have just received a large lot of the celebrated rubber paint ready mixed, all colors, instruction books given free of charge to any one requiring them.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. The great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D. Bible House, New York City. Sept. 18, deodwly

A Regency Proclaimed.

ROUMANIA AND THE CONGRESS.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 5.—Gortschakoff is announced as recovering.

Gortschakoff, Schouvaloff and Doufrill represent Russia at the European Congress.

BERLIN, June 5.—The Emperor slept well. Condition satisfactory. Extraordinary precautions are being taken by the authorities. The German police are searching the Socialist Club rooms, arresting editors, and seizing papers with Socialistic tendencies.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 5.—The Russians are advancing on Shumla, and it is possible there will be some fighting.

LONDON, June 5.—A despatch from Bucharest says Roumania will defy the Congress if it sanctions retrocession to Bessarabia. Organized bands of Bulgarians have been pillaging, massacreing, and violating the Mohammedans.

BERLIN, June 5.—A decree has just been issued proclaiming a regency, nominating Crown Frederick William as Regent. Decree is signed by the Emperorand countersigned by Bismarck.

BEVERLY VOTERS' LISTS.—At a Court held by Judge Sinclair, the other day, at Rocton, for the purpose of hearing appeals anent the voters' lists for the township of Beverly, the result was that out of a total of 78 Conservative appeals 20 were allowed, 48 dismissed, and 9 reserved. The Reform appeals numbered 4 in all, of which 2 were allowed, 1 dismissed, and 1 reserved.

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionatly advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

An inquest was held last week on the body of Mrs. Jelly, of Lucknow, who was killed by a blow from a base ball, thrown by a boy. The post mortem examination showed that death resulted from an abcess in the brain caused by the blow. The jury exonerated the boy from all blame; but recommended the Council to prohibit ball playing on the streets.

Protests by the bushel are being entered all over the Centre Riding of Wellington, in consequence of names having been illegally placed upon the assessment roll. There are no less than thirty-one cases of this kind in the township of Pilkington alone, five in Nichol, and none in Elora.

ANTI-TAXATION.—There will be a meeting held in Acton this evening, at which several members of Parliament and others will be present, including Messrs. McCraney, Guthrie, Massie and Johnston.

A FASCINATING BOOK.—Mr. Thos. Cooley, of this town, is now canvassing Guelph Town and Township for the sale of H. M. Stanley's book on Africa. The book will contain about 900 pages and illustrated with 100 engravings and maps, forming altogether a most interesting work.

TEA MEETING AND CONCERT.—The Sons of Temperance of Nassagaweya will hold their annual tea meeting on Monday, June 17th, in the grove near Nassagaweya P. O. The Tuscarora Indian Cornet Band will be present. Mr. E. Corswell, the celebrated temperance lecturer, will deliver an address. In the evening a concert will be given in the hall, the Indian choir and others taking part.

BASE BALLS FOR THE SEASON.—The MERCURY boys acknowledge with thanks their annual present of a first-class Peck & Snyder base ball from Mr. John Anderson today. By advertisement it can be seen that he has received fifty dozen of these rotundities, which he will sell at "rock bottom" prices. All orders by mail from country clubs attended to promptly. See advertisement.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.—No doubt the readers of the MERCURY will be glad to learn that their newspapers will arrive a day earlier now, as there is a daily mail delivery at intermediate post offices from Guelph to Erin. The WEEKLY MERCURY hereafter can be obtained on Thursdays instead of Fridays.

ORGANIZATION OF REFORMERS.—On Tuesday, 11th June, meetings will be held in the various municipalities in the South Riding to organize committees to secure the election of the Reform candidate at the forthcoming election for the House of Commons. The meetings will be held as follows:—At Rockwood, Thos. Waters convener; in the Town Hall, Centre Inn, at four o'clock, p.m., L. Parkinson convener; at Onstic, John Rea convener; at Everton, Robert Royce convener.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—The monthly meeting of this Society will be held in the rooms, Bank of Commerce Buildings, tomorrow (Thursday) evening, at eight o'clock. Matters having reference to the proceedings of the North-American Convention will be brought up at the meeting, besides the renting of new rooms and the conditions relating to the same. On this occasion the attendance of all members is particularly requested.

ORPHANS AND THEIR HOMES.—Mr. Wm. E. Quarrier, of Glasgow, Scotland, is at present making a short stay in Guelph, the guest of Mr. J. D. Williamson. Mr. Quarrier is the originator and mainstay of the "Orphan Homes of Scotland," which have been the means of untold good to the bodies and souls of many hundreds of poor children, and he has just arrived in this country with his annual band of young immigrants. He has consented to give a brief account of the work in which he is engaged at Knox Church this evening at half-past seven, and we are sure there will be a very large attendance.

CANADIAN CAVALRY.—Lieut. Colonel H. Turnbull, of Quebec, has been authorized to raise one regiment of cavalry from among the present volunteer force, which will be part of the contingent of Lieut. General Sir P. Macdougall. Its title will be the "Royal Canadian Hussars," 600 strong, to be officered in part by regular cavalry officers from England, and the remainder by cavalry officers from the Active Militia Force of Canada. Pay and allowances excellent. The Regiment will go into the Royal Artillery Barracks at Quebec for three months training to embarkation for Europe. Each volunteer cavalry regiment will be privileged to furnish an officer recommended by the officer commanding. A captain must raise 75 men, a lieutenant 50 men, and a sub lieutenant 30 men.

G. C. L. & D. S.—The annual meeting of this Society was held on Tuesday evening, in the study hall of St. Ignatius College. There was a good attendance of members. Dr. Nunan, the retiring President, reviewed at some length the progress of the Society during the year just closed. He said in conclusion that it had been to him a source of pride to have had the honor of being the first President of the Society. The Society had so far proved itself to be a school for intellectual improvement to the members, and he hoped all would show the same zeal in the future as in the past. The Secretary, Mr. Jas. Wiley, read the annual report, giving in detail the number of essays, lectures, debates, dramas, readings, recitations, &c., given during the year; also the financial statement. The report was adopted. The election of officers was then proceeded with and resulted as follows:—President, Jas. Mays, jr.; 1st Vice-President, John L. Murphy; 2nd Vice-President, M. Piggott; Secretary-Treasurer, Jas. Wiley. Executive Committee.—J. E. McElderry, John J. Hazelton, J.C. Coffee, Jos. Harris, W.S. Heffernan. The Society is under the patronage of Father Hamel, S. J., and the other clergy of St. Bartholomew's church.

A MODERN MIRACLE.—It has long been stated as a scientific proposition by medical men that a third stroke of paralysis is necessarily fatal. What then shall be said of John Appell, of North Banford, Conn., who had twelve, and who is today a strong vigorous man? The phenomena is ascribed by Mr. Appell to his constant application of GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA.

TO-DAY'S weather probs:—Fresh to brisk north-westerly to northerly winds and fair, cool weather.

ONE contractor assaulted another on the street yesterday, and it is said will have to answer the charge at the Police Court tomorrow.

FARM SOLD.—On Wednesday Mr. W. S. G. Knowles sold a farm of fifty acres, near Brisbane, Erin, belonging to M. Leeson, for $1,500. Mr. Robt. Thompson, of Guelph, was the purchaser.

AT the strawberry social to be given in the Norfolk street Methodist Church on the evening of Thursday, 20th June, Mr. Ephraim Stevenson, the Cobourg University prize elocutionist, will recite several pieces.

THE Musical Union met on Tuesday evening for practice. There was a large attendance. It was decided that during the summer months the practices be discontinued. Practice will commence again about the 1st of September.

ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that Mrs. John Inglis, of Paisley Block, who is staying with her grand-son, Mr. John Hobson, on Tuesday fell and broke her thigh bone. As she is verging on her ninetieth year this accident may bear hard on her.

CHEAP SATURDAY TRIPS.—The G. W. R. Co. this year has resolved to issue tickets at reduced fares on Saturdays along the line of the Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway to Kincardine, Port Elgin and Southampton. These tickets will be good till the following Monday.

THE CROPS.—A gentleman who drove from Listowel to Guelph on Tuesday states that he never saw crops in Canada looking as well as are at the present time. As far as the eye can reach on either side of the road luxuriant vegetation is every where visible. On account of the late frosts the fruit crop will be lighter than was anticipated early in the season.

ACCIDENT NEAR THE ERAMOSA BRIDGE.—This (Wednesday) forenoon as Albert Wright, son of Mr. Jas. Wright, of Paisley Block, and Mrs. Thurston were coming up the hill on this side of the Eramosa bridge in a waggon the flapping of an umbrella frightened the horses, which shied off to one side, thereby breaking the pole in three pieces and overturning the waggon. Both parties were thrown out, and one of the wheels went over Mr. Wright's leg. Both he and Mrs. Thurston are otherwise bruised, but not to any serious extent, and shortly after the accident they were able to be conveyed to their homes.

COURT OF REVISION.—At an adjourned meeting held on Tuesday evening the name of Walter Laing was placed on the roll, with an assessment of $1,000; Chas. Collen, $200 assessment, and Wm. Christie, $250 assessment; E. H. Maddock was assessed as tenant of property on Garth street. The request of James Duffy to be assessed for a house on Mill street was not granted. An adjournment took place till the 11th instant.

BAZAAR.—The bazaar under the management of the ladies of St. George's Church was opened to-day in the Town Hall. There was a large attencance from twelve to two o'clock during which time lunch was served at a moderate figure. A large number of useful and fancy articles are offered for sale. The hall will be open this evening, when a programme of music will be gone through with. The public should pay the bazaar a visit. It will also be open on Thursday afternoon and evening.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.—The notorious "Buck" Rae was charged at the Police Court this morning with assaulting Samuel S. Donaldson, of Nassagaweya. The case arose out of a horse trade which the plaintiff had made with gypsies, and in which he had been cheated. The assault committed by Rae was an unprovoked and most brutal one, Donaldson's face being battered and bruised out of shape. Rae was fined $15 and $5.60 costs or eight weeks in gaol. Committed.

SUNDAY FUNERALS.—At a recent meeting the Guelph Ministerial Association had under their consideration the subject of Sabbath day funerals. All the members seemed to be of opinion that their resolutions and recommendations regarding these, adopted and published some time ago, had been productive of good in the way of diminishing the number of them, and they agreed to reaffirm them in the hope of abating the evil practice still further. A majority of them has agreed not to conduct funeral services unless previously furnished with a certificate that the death of the person had been duly registered.

PRESENTATION.—At the monthly meeting of the teachers of St. Andrew's Church Sabbath School, held in the manse on Tuesday evening, the teachers availed themselves of the opportunity of presenting at its close, through the President, Rev. J. C. Smith, to Mrs. Armstrong, who is leaving for California, a handsome silver jewel casket and card basket combined, as a souvenir of their appreciation of her kind, care and unremitting attention to the infant class for some years and as a memento of many pleasant hours of christian fellowship spent together. On the lid was the following inscription:—"Presented to Mrs. Armstrong by teachers of St. Andrew's Church S. School, Guelph, June, 1878." The articles were purchased at the jewellry store of John. Kennedy & Co.

ORDINATION AT MONO MILLS.—On Tuesday the 28th, the Rev. Mr. Tait was ordained and inducted into the pastoral charge of the united congregations of Mono East, Mono Mills, and St. Andrew's Church, Caledon. Immediately after the close of the ordination and induction services, tea was served in the drill shed by the ladies of the Mono Mills charge, after which the congregation again repaired to the church, and enjoyed the pleasure of listening to very instructive addresses, delivered by the following gentlemen: Messrs. Williams and Sidie, of Mono Mills; J. M. Cameron and D. J. McDonnell, of Toronto, and Mr. Warender, of New York.

O'Donovan Rossa is said to be dying of Bright's disease.

Wellington County Council.

JUNE SESSION.

The Council of the County of Wellington met at the Court House, on Tuesday afternoon.

Present—Mr. John Res, Warden in the chair, Messrs. Matthew Anderson, Miles Bateman, Geo. Bennett, David Brown, J. W. Burt, Caleb Chase, William Clarke, George Darby, J. J. Dobbin, George Duffield, George Elliott, John Gillespie, John Godfrey, Robert Gordon, John Green, Thos. Hamilton, John Harcourt, William Leslie, William Long, William Luxton, John Mair, Dr. Maudsley, Richard Mitchell, George McDonald, John McDonald, Robert McKim, S. H. McKittrick, James McLuhan, Charles McMillan, James McMullen, William Nicoll, John Prain, John Rea, Robert H. Reid, Robert Rudd, George Sleeman, George Swan, Matthew Sweetnam, Alex. Stewart.

There were absent Messrs. Broadfoot, Hunter, Landerkin, Roberts, and Robinson.

The Clerk announced that Mr. Alex. Stewart had been elected in place of Mr. Wm. Thompson, of Palmerston, resigned.

The Warden announced that it had been customary for the Warden to present an address to the Council, but as there was really nothing new to bring before them he would take occasion to depart from established routine at the beginning of the session. It would be useless to manufacture an address that would contain nothing.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The following report of Mr. Reynolds, County Treasurer, was submitted by the Warden to the Council, and referred to the Finance Committee.

Expenditure on the County Roads and Boundary Line Bridges from the 1st day of June, 1877, to date. For repairs of roads I have disbursed $9,-101.21, being $501.21 in excess of the appropriation. Culverts, $1,192.03, being $192.03 in excess of the appropriation. Boundary Line Bridges, $2,616.34, being $616.34 in excess of the appropriation. Total Expenditure on County Roads and Bridges $12,909.58, voted by Council $12,600, inclusive of $1,000, roads contingencies. This shows a total overdraw of $309.58. But if I deduct the sum of $400 for repairs of road between Alma and Bosworth, and $200 on the Glenallan road, advanced on the 27th ultimo, and which will be a charge against these roads out of the grant of $50 per mile for the year 1878-9, then there will remain at the credit of the roads an unexpended balance of $290.42.

Assets and Liabilities of the County up to and inclusive of the 1st day of July, proximo. Total Liabilities, $31,536.64, Assets, $25,909.40. Deficiency $5,627.24, to be carried forward and added to the estimates for the coming year. The cause of this deficiency (Poor House expenditure) was brought before you in paragraph two of my report of 22nd January last, and published in the Journal of the Proceedings of the Council. I therefore deem it unnecessary to again refer to the items.

On the recommendation of the Committee of the Industrial Farm, an additional sum of $2,000 was granted in January to cover the estimated cost of necessary improvements, and, the maintenance of the House till the present session. On the credit of this vote I have paid and charged to capital account (including $50 to Mr. Taylor for superintendance,) $250, and for maintenance, $1,816.67, leaving $66.67 overdrawn.

Remuneration of Members	$ 2,100 00
Salaries and allowances	2,920 00

This does not include estimates for Boundary Line bridges, the requirements of the County Property Committee, nor for repairs of the new Gravel Road, Amaranth and Garafraxa.

The grant of $150 for improvement of the road between Maryborough and Mornington, not having been called for, has been conveyed into the general fund.

On the 1st day of January the Debenture debt stood at $315,750. I have since then redeemed to the value of $3,300, and have on hand $11,700 to meet Debentures maturing on the 1st proximo. This will reduce the account to $300,500.

The Debenture debt for bonuses to C. V. Railway Company, now stands at $118,900. I have at the credit of the fund $5,550.90, out of which I will have to pay on the 30th inst., for interest, $3,560. This will leave a surplus of $1,990.90 to be applied, if the Council deem it expedient, to the reduction of $11,734, required to be assessed for during the current year.

I have to draw your attention to items of assets in Statement No. 3, composed of $951.02, due by the late Registrar of the South and Centre Ridings of this County, under Sec. 104, Chap. 111 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, and also to the sum of $781.73, due by the Registrar of the North Riding. I have been furnished with a certificate from Mr. Colson, acting Registrar, since the decease of the late Mr. Webster, certifying to $2,-327.50, as the gross fees of the office since the 1st day of January last, to the 18th day of April. Under the Statute there will be no tax on this sum, it being under the maximum of $2,500. In all probability this office will bring no revenue to the County for the year ending December 31st, 1878, whilst the North Riding office, will I presume, net about the same as, or perhaps a little over that of last year.

June Cattle Fair.

The cattle fair held in Guelph to-day (Wednesday) was largely attended both by buyers and sellers. There were about four hundred head of cattle on the grounds. Very many of them were in excellent condition, and would be classed prime in foreign markets. Several shippers were present—both local and foreign, and the finest animals were culled out by them early in the morning. The prices paid ranged from $3.50 to $5.50 per cwt. Animals in fit condition for exportation averaged nearly $5 per cwt. As usual there were any number of small animals, which, notwithstanding being in good condition, realized the lowest figures. A few milch cows were sold at prices ranging from $25 to $55. Some farmers who could not get figures expected held their animals over, having plenty of good grass to feed them. Taken on the whole the Fair was an improvement on the one of the preceding month. The following sales among the large number made will give a very correct idea of the ruling figures:—

Wm. Hughes, cow for $50.
Wm. Dow, 6 head, two years old, $211.
John Gibson, cow for $27.
Chris. Quarrie, 2 head at $5.
James Auld, 7 head at $5.25.
Henry Sunley, 3 steers and heifer at $4.
Geo. Millar, 7 head for $260.
Jas. Boys, 2 steers and heifer for $115.
John Fisk, 2 steers, at $4.75.
John W. Cleghorn, 2 heifers at $4 and 2 at $4.50.
Walter Swanston, 3 two years old, weighing 1,250 lbs., at $4.50, and 2 head weighing 2,660 lbs., at $4.50.
George Swanston, 2 head at $4.50.
Thos. Whitelaw, cow at $5.
Thos. Henderson, cow at $4.25.
Robert McIntosh, 1 head at $4.75, and 3 head for $122.50.
W. B. Telfer, 2 head at $5.25.
W. M. Armstrong, heifer at $4.10.
Wm. Hockett, cow and calf for $38.50.
Samuel Barber, milch cow for $55 and bull for $35.
John McGroggan, 2 steers at $5.
John Benninger, 2 steers for $50.
Peter Dunbar, cow for $40.
Wm. Whitelaw, 4 steers for $230.
Henry Clary, cow for $25, and 9 head at $29 each.
Alex. McIntosh, steer at $4.25.
Geo. Hadden, steer for $45.
James Loghrin, 2 cows for $68.
James Argo, 2 heifers for $70.
M. Duggan, cow for $40.
Wm. Duffield, 2 head for $72.
J. R. Hood purchased 5 head at $40 each.
Wm. Clair, cow for $50.
Wm. Jackson, heifer for $41.
Robert Brydon, two cows for $78.
Peter Dunbar, two steers and two heifers, $152.50.
Henry Dunbar, 3 heifers for $130.
Jos. Bechtel, 2 steers at $4.75.
Geo. McFarlane, 1 steer at $4.50.
James McCullough, 3 steers for $82.
John Gowdy, one heifer for $20.50.
Wm. Ramsey, cow for $36.
C. C. Dewberry, 2 cows for $50, and 1 milch cow for $40.
John Hobson, 9 head at $5.
John Bluebecker, 1 steer for $40.
John Murphy, Mount Tara, two cows for $90.
Geo. Jackson, 2 steers at $3.75.
Edward Tolton, 2 steers and 2 cows for $200.
John Layard, heifer and steer, $60.
John D. Smith, 1 cow for $34.
Edward Vine, 28 steers at $4.
Samuel Burnett, 3 steers at $4.50.
Wm. Haines, 3 heifers at $4.50.
Dennis Burns, 1 cow for $45.
Richard Pallister, 2 heifers and 2 steers for $75.
Robert Blyth, 3 heifers and 1 steer at $4.25.
Walter West, 1 cow for $27.
James Hawes, 4 heifers, 1 cow, and 1 steer, at $4.50.
Adam Hume, 2 steers for $71.
H. Young, 1 cow for $55, and 2 heifers for $125.
Wm. Dunn, 3 steers for $4.50.

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, JUNE 5, 1878.

The Quebec Legislature.

Mr. Joly has gained his first victory by the election of the Speaker by a majority of one. The likelihood is that after this first test vote he will have an accession of strength. We hail this first victory as a good omen of the continued success of the Joly Government.

The Congress and the Eastern Question.

All apprehensions of war have now happily been removed, and it is definitively fixed that the Congress shall meet on the 18th of this month. This so far peaceable solution of the difficulty is in consequence of the concessions made by Russia after the visit of Schouvaloff to St. Petersburg.

The deliberations of the approaching Congress will be watched with intense interest. An understanding has been come to as to the basis of these deliberations, and may be briefly summarized as follows:—The position of Bulgaria, whether it will be divided into two provinces, with the southern frontier to be pushed back from the Ægean sea. Whether the Balkans will form the southern limit of the tributary principality. Whether Roumelia will have a Christian Governor. As regards Asia Minor, Britain no longer opposes either the retrocession of Bessarabia or the occupation of Batum, Bayazid may be restored to Turkey and a small section of Arminia may be ceded to Persia. The fate of Kars and Ardahan and the outlying district as far as the mountains, is still uncertain, but we cannot believe that Russia has consented to surrender the fortresses. If Russia is permitted to annex Bayazid and the adjacent territory, she will strengthen her military position against Turkey, and interrupt British trade with Persia. In reclaiming Bayazid and in withdrawing its opposition to the cession of Batum, the British Government is acting wisely It can well afford to let Russia retain tain possession of the fortress as well as the roadstead. As to the question that may properly come under the head of European arbitration will be the opening of the Straits of Dardanelles, and the navigation of the Danube. The interests of the Greeks, which were practically ignored by the treaty-makers of San Stefano, are now promoted through British influence. A congress that will secure for Thessaly, Epirus and Crete some form of autonomy by which a spirit of independence may be fostered, will render a service to mankind as well as to Greece. The remaining questions which are to be discussed by the representatives of the Powers are but as yet vaguely outlined. The question as to the payment of the war indemnity may be settled by the Congress, but the great difficulty will be, how can Turkey—a bankrupt State—pay such a debt when she cannot even now pay the interest on her bonds.

It is reported about town that Mr. James Goldie has declined to allow himself to be put in nomination for South Wellington, in opposition to Mr. Guthrie. If such is the case we cannot help saying he has come to a very sensible conclusion.

A CORRESPONDENT signing himself "Grit" says:—"Last fair day potatoes were selling at forty cents per bag; now they are worth over one dollar. Has the American duty been taken off, or what is the cause of this advance in price? Some protectionists please answer in next week's MERCURY."

THE N. Y. Tribune has a very poor opinion of the Present American Congress. Speaking of its resolution to adjourn on the 17th it says:—"Congress has been in session seven months and a half, and has passed only four out of twelve necessary appropriation bills, has neglected important legislation of almost every kind, has disgraced itself by incompetence and blundering, and by shameless partizanship has dishonored the country by bad faith, and has prostrated business, ruined thousands of enterprising firms, and turned many thousand needy workers out of employment by its meddling."

OUR protectionists talk about the balance of trade being in favor of the United States in consequence of its national protection policy, and from this argue that that country must be prosperous. But how is it that in free trade England, where the balance of trade is always against her, that country is yearly growing richer? But we deny that the balance of trade being in the State's favour that is any advantage to her, and this view is borne out in a letter which lately appeared in a New York paper from a leading manufacturer in Pennsylvania. This is the picture he draws of the state of things in this highly protection favored country. He says:—"There are at the present time honest men, suffering from want of the necessaries of life, who look the situation calmly in the face and deprecate acts of violence. The condition of the workingman was never as bad as now. Men who are competent to judge estimate the number out of employment in the anthracite coal region at fully one-third more than a year ago. The shipments of coal last year for the entire region were 21,000,000 tons; this year they have been only 15,000,000. Out of the twelve iron mills and furnaces in Schuylkill County only two are in operation, and one of these is run on short time. There are hundreds of men who pay no rents. Nearly all the storekeepers have been sold out at Sheriff's sales. Small deposit banks have failed. In the valley of the Catawissa, Schuylkill County, it is said that all the farmers except one have sold out. Sheriff's sales are made up of miner's houses which had been partly paid for; at a recent term 150 were on the list."

From Guelph to Australia.

Special correspondence of the Mercury.

MELBOURNE, April 16th, 1878.

On the forenoon of the 18th of February we went on board the steamship Australia, bound for the great southern continent The vessel was of the best on the line, and was commanded by Captain Cargill, son of the well known captain who ran between Aberdeen and London for many years. In the afternoon the anchor was weighed, and the noble ship passed the "Golden Gate" and the bar at the mouth of the bay. As soon as we crossed the bar the sea was rough, and at supper time very few were inclined to eat. All night it continued this way, and the decks were swept by the seas. One of the Canadians, Mr. Richard Allingham, of Napanee, was thrown to the lee side of the ship, and was picked out of the water completely drenched. It was found that his arm was broken, and his wrist put out of joint. He was at once attended to by the ship's doctor. All that night and the next day the storm continued, and in addition to most of the passengers several of the officers were sick, and they declared they had seldom seen it so rough on the California coast. On the Friday following the weather changed for the better, and an attempt was made to get up a concert in the saloon, the day being the 146th anniversary of Washington's Birthday. There were recitations, speeches, songs and music, and at the close the Canadians went on deck and gave "God Save the Queen," with full chorus.

On the morning of the 26th the cheerful cry of "Land" was heard, though we were then about twenty miles from it, yet in the clear atmosphere could be seen a group of gray, barren peaks, rising verdureless out of the sea. After a sail of 2,170 miles the sight of land was a welcome one. The mountain peaks began to show more distinct, and one could see, even far off, traces of their volcanic origin. Then the shore began to be visible by a long line of white surf, then the cocoa nut trees came in sight, and the promontory of Diamond Head, terminating the wavy line of palm trees. Early in the forenoon we were close to the coral reef, and soon after the pilot came on board, and we steamed into the harbour of Honolulu.

The city of Honolulu is built on a narrow strip of land very little above the level of the sea, and at the foot of a number of volcanic hills. These Sandwich Islands were discovered ninety-seven years ago by the famous navigator, Capt. Cook, and as late as 1830 the city consisted of only a few grass huts. It has now a population of 15,000, has good streets, fine hotels, and business places, which give to the place a very pleasant appearance. These streets are shaded by palm, bread fruit and other tropical trees. The retail stores are owned principally by Americans and Chinese. There are different manufactories, foundries, carriage shops, etc. It boasts of four weekly newspapers—two English and two native. It boasts of a free public library and reading room, fire companies and steam fire engine, Masonic, Odd Fellows and Good Templars halls, theatre, &c. Of the public buildings the Legislative Assembly Chambers rank first. They are built of concrete in the most modern style, and cost $120,000. Through the courtesy of the Hon. Mr. Jerret, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, I had an opportunity of going through this massive structure, which is elaborately furnished. I inspected also the Queen's Hospital, Court House and Palace, the latter being only a small, frame building, but plans are being prepared for a much finer one.

During our brief stay I was not only favorably impressed with the beauty of the scenery, but with the hospitality of the people. On the afternoon we set sail for New South Wales, and were soon steaming on over the golden tropical sea. The principal occurrence in this part of the voyage was crossing the meridian, which took place on the morning of the 3rd March, when we entered the South Pacific Ocean. The weather was very fine—the blue sky above, the deeper blue of the ocean, and the full moon overhead made up a scene of rare beauty. We passed an island—one of the Samoan group—on the 6th. In a day or two after we passed the carcasses of two whales, and before long came in sight of an American whaler, which had been sixteen months at sea. On the morning of the 10th March we passed the 180th degree of longitude, and missed a day, skipping from Sunday to Monday.

On the 12th we sighted New Zealand, and by night were steaming up the bay for Auckland. The city is built on high ground, and has a fine appearance. It was nearly dark by the time we got ashore, so that we had only a chance of seeing the city by gaslight. We took a drive round the suburbs, and among other rare sights, saw a whin hedge in full bloom. The trees are mostly evergreens, and some of them shed their bark instead of the leaves. The city has a population of about 25,000.

We left Auckland the same night, and continued steaming across the Pacific till the 17th, when we sighted land. We arrived in Melbourne just forty days after leaving Guelph.

My next letter will give some details of the trip from Melbourne to Dunedin, New Zealand, which is to be my future field of labour. This trip will take us past Tasmania and round the south of New Zealand, and will occupy about six days. R. B.

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.

Mr. Turcotte elected Speaker.

QUEBEC, June 4.

There was great excitemint in Quebec over the meeting of the Legislature. The Legislative Chamber was crammed, and immense crowds surrounded the buildings and lined the streets. His Honor the Lieut.-Governor was attended by a brilliant staff. When the members of the Assembly were summoned to attend in the Legislative Council, to their shame be it said, the ex-Ministers present in the House and some of their leading supporters evinced their disloyalty by refusing to obey the call of Her Majesty's representative.

His Honor having stated that the Speech would not be delivered until the Assembly elected their Speaker, the members of that body then retired to their Chamber. Every member of the 65 was in his seat.

Hon. Mr. Joly, seconded by Hon. Mr. Ross, moved the election of Mr. A. Turcotte, M.PP. for Three Rivers as Speaker.

Mr. Chapleau charged that the Government in seeking a member from the Opposition ranks committed an act of political corruption. He said that the member for Three Rivers had been elected upon the faith and his own written assurance that he would protest against the Joly-Bachand Administration, but the ink was scarcely dry upon the paper upon which that assurance was written before its solemn promise was broken.

Mr. Turcotte replied warmly to the attack of the Opposition leader. He claimed that he was a Conservacive, and would always remain one; that he did not desert his colors in accepting the offer of the Speakership; that he never had slavishly followed any party, and that he only satisfied the general desire of the country in supporting the Government. The country had pronounced in favor of the action of the Lieut.-Governor, and he saw no wrong, no cowardice, no desertion in the expression as far as lay in his power to the popular will.

The vote was then taken, when 33 voted for the motion and 32 against it, thus giving one of a majority for the Government.

When Mr. Price voted with the administration he was greeted with prolonged and ringing cheers from the House and galleries.

The House then adjourned.

The Governor on leaving the House was again cheered loudly. When the Cabinet Ministers left the House to proceed to Mr. Joly's residence, they were followed by a crowd of several hundred people, all cheering. At Mr. Joly's residence the Premier and Messrs. Ross, Marchand, Langelier addressed the crowd for over an hour, being most enthusiastically received. Mr. Price, on passing the post-office about an hour after the House adjourned, was loudly cheered by the populace.

CHAPTER XLV.

A RAPTUROUS DELIVERANCE.

Drowning men, it is said, catch at straws, which means that people in imminent peril of their life make an instinctive grasping effort, it may be at something, it may be at nothing. If it be at anything so weak as a straw, then their effort is of no avail; if it be strong enough to support they have a chance still. Add to this that men in these circumstances are capable of physical feats, which neither they nor any one can accomplish in a less critical position—mortal terror and the frenzy of despair seem to give them a spasmodic strength and agility which enable them to do extraordinary things.

Now, if ever any man was placed in a position suitable for the manifestation of such surprising action, it was Dougal McCallum, when flung by the hunchback into the mouth of the well. Accordingly he did not fail to act in the ordinary and natural way. He flung his arms out with a grasping motion, not that he saw anything to grasp, but just because the expectation of a horrible death impelled him to do so. Fortunately for him he did grasp something. With wonderful good luck his arms went round the beam of the old windlass, thus giving another direction to the motion he had received from Joe's powerful projection. The beam so caught formed an axle, round which it flew with a cart-wheel movement, which sent him clear of the well, and landed him on the other side.

You may be sure Dougal did not stay a moment there. Executing a jump which only terror could inspire, and which no spring-heeled Jack could hope to imitate, he made a leap back right over Joe's head, and was out into the passage ere any one had time to stop him. Being utterly ignorant of the windings of the passages he would soon have lost himself in these, but seeing a light shining in the distance he made directly for it. It came from a lamp in the hand of Mother Barnacle, who, attracted by the loud cries from below, had come to the top of the stair to learn what was the matter. Up the stair to where she stood Dougal sprang, taking three steps at a bound, and, before she could see who or what it was, a shock came which capsized her, lamp and all. Dougal was not gallant enough to stay and lift her up, but, leaving her lying on her back and kicking up her heels in the darkness, he flew on and made his escape into the open air, not slacking his speed even there, but rushing away across the island, whither he did not know or care, his one instinctive object being to get as far away as possible from his murderers, whom he expected to be pursuing at his heels.

In this latter supposition he was somewhat mistaken. They did rush forth in pursuit with fearful oaths the moment they realised the astounding fact that Dougal was gone—Allan first, Gilmour following, and Joe, who could not run, coming last. The two first were just in time to see Dougal ascend the stair like a flash, then the light at the top was extinguished from what cause they knew not, and their assent at headlong pace had to be made in utter darkness.

At the top an unexpected check awaited them. Over the big prostrate form of Mother Barnacle Allan fell with a crash and a curse. Gilmour, who was close behind, tumbled headlong over both. Then ensued a scene of indescribable confusion. Mother Barnacle, thinking she had been seized by wild beasts from the mountain, yelled "murder" vociferously, and kicked out with all her might, digging one foot into Allan's stomach, and fetching Gilmour a severe crack in the jaw with the other. The curses of the first, the imprecations of the latter, joined to the terrified cries of the old woman, produced a din seldom equalled out of bedlam, and this continued till Joe shambled up the stair with the torch in his hand, thus casting some light on the scene, by which they were enabled to recognise each other.

Amazement, chagrin, and disappointment succeeded to the former wild terror on one side, and rage on the other. The open door showed them that Dougal had effected his exit, and it would be a waste of time to go after him. For the present he had escaped his doom, but as he could not possibly escape from the island or even hide himself from observation when daylight came, they grimly settled it among themselves that his fate was only deferred for a very brief time.

Though this part of their programme of murder had so ignominously failed, their cruel purpose was not unaltered, and believing that Dougal was still in their power, and could be disposed of by Joe on the morrow, they were now in eager haste to effect it on their other victims. Mother Barnacle, having recovered from her fear and bewilderment, now demanded an explanation of the occurence which had just taken place, and had to be enlightened as to the object of the visit of Allan and Gilmour. These individuals had scruples about telling her what that object was, but Joe who knew her better was not so squeamish. The woman—being a woman—though, it must be confessed, a rough one—was shocked at first, but her pity and compassion were not strong enough to prompt her to interfere in behalf of the doomed prisoners. She declared that she would have no hand in it—a declaration of no consequence, seeing that they did not require her help. She also offered this tribute to the original humanity of her nature, that she went and shut herself up in a distant room that she might not see or hear aught of the dreadful tragedy about to be enacted.

DEATH OF AN OLD SOLDIER.—The Hamilton Times says:—Peter Leclair, one of the early pioneers of Canada and defenders of his country in 1812-14, passed the boundaries of time on Saturday afternoon, the 25th ult., at the ripe old age of ninety-two years. In 1807, when a young man about twenty one, he joined the Northwest Fur Trading Co., at the city of Montreal for the term of three years, at the expiration of which he returned and again rejoined, and was on his way northwest as far Detroit when the war of 1812-14 broke out; his services being required in Upper Canada, he was detained not only as a soldier in the field but as an interpreter for the Indians and guide for our troops through the bush. He proved to be of more than ordinary value on account of his active and natural talents which fitted and qualified him for the hardships and privations endured by soldiers. He fought under General Brock, Colonel Dixon and Captain Fraser. He was at the taking of Detroit and Black Rock, and was at the battles of Lundy's Lane and Queenston Heights. After the war, he married a daugher of old Mr. Clement Lucas, and settled on the Lake Shore in the Township of Nelson, where he remained until his death. He leaves behind to mourn his loss his aged wife, who was the partner of his joys and sorrows for over sixty years, besides one son, a widowed daughter and many grandchildren, as well as relatives and friends.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Invitations to the Congress Accepted by all the Powers.

LONDON, June 4.

Constantinople advices indicate a better state of feeling. The successful negotiations for the Congress have taken a great burden of anxiety from the public mind.

Consols touched higher prices yesterday in London than ever were reached before within twenty years.

A Berlin despatch says:—All the Cabinets have accepted Germany's invitation to the Congress, which is to meet in this city on the 13th inst.

The Times says:—"The Government deserve very great credit for the clearness of view and firmness with which they have adhered to the principle of a free discussion of the Treaty of San Stefano. Their success will have the legitimate effect of enhancing the authority with which this country will enter upon the coming discussion." The Times approves of the selection of Earl Beaconsfield and the Marquis of Salisbury, and says it will certainly conduce to the dispatch of business and add weight to the conclusions of the Congress, and that it is, in spite of some disadvantages, probably on the whole the best that could have been made.

A St. Petersburg despatch says:—Despite a large section of public distrust in the result of the Congress there is no indication of the Government's wavering or wishing to retract.

Puslinch Council.

Pursuant to adjournment the Council met in the Council Room, Aberfoyle, on Monday, May 27th, 1878, at ten o'clock, a.m. Present—Messrs. W. Leslie, Reeve; Wm. Nicoll, Deputy Reeve; Duncan McFarlane and John Isles, Councillors.

The members being duly sworn, were constituted as a Court of Revision. A few cases of appeal were heard and determined.

On motion of Mr. McFarlane, seconded by Mr. Iles, the Court was adjourned until Monday, June 10th, at three o'clock, p.m.

The Council resumed for general business at two o'clock, p.m., and instructions to pathmasters were issued.

On motion of Mr. Nicoll, seconded by Mr. McFarlane, James Bryden, John Milroy, John Fink and C. Raman were ordered to perform their statute labor on the Waterloo townline, and Mr. Bryden was appointed as overseer; Mr. James Steel was appointed poundkeeper in place of Donald Ferguson, at Killean, and George Martin, at Puslinch Lake; Donald McLarty was appointed pathmaster in place of Donald Ferguson, Alex. S. McKellar in place of James Bryden, Robert Little in place of Nathan Ellis, and John McCormick in place of John Kinsella.

Petitions were received from the undermentioned parties requiring aid for public road and bridges, and referred to the Road and Bridge Committees in their respective divisions:—Thos. Ellis and others, Donald Ferguson and others, William Hune and others, James Fulton and others, Henry Steffler and others, F. W. Stone and others, Andrew Monroe and others, William McKenzie and others, and Neil Campbell and others.

The Reeve and Mr. Iles were appointed a special committee to inspect some ditching required on the side line, between lots 15 and 16, in the 10th concession, and report at the next meeting of Council.

On motion, the following accounts were ordered to be paid, namely—Alexander McAllister, for extracting pine stumps on accommodation roads; Benjamin Gregor, for planting shade trees on Town Hall grounds, $7.50; James McPherson, digging holes, $4; Andrew Stahl, for maple trees, $3; Allan McIntyre, for three window blinds, $3; and for racks to protect shade trees on Town Hall grounds $30.50; and William Leslie, for superintendence, $2.

The Reeve was authorized to issue his order for two road scrapers, for the use of the municipality.

The Council adjourned to meet again on Monday, July 8th, at 2 o'clock, p.m.

JAMES MCLEAN, Clerk.

Guelph Township Council.

This Council met on the 3rd inst., for the transactions of general business, and Court of Revision. Mr. Geo. A. Darby, the Reeve, in the chair. Present—all the members.

The Reeve read a petition from Wm. Crichton and fourteen others, requesting the Council for assistance to open a drain on the North-east side of lot 5, in the 4th concession of Division C. Referred to Road and Bridge Committee.

An account was presented from Wm. Crichton for $5.40, for gravel. Ordered to be paid.

The Reeve read a petition from D. Hefferman and twelve others, showing that the hill on the boundary line between Guelph and Puslinch, known as Gordon's hill, is greatly in need of repair, and urging upon the Council to appropriate a grant for that purpose. Referred to Road and Bridge Committee.

The Reeve read a communication from Thos. Card, senr., relating to a quantity of gravel taken for improving the road, which he considers he should be paid for.

Mr. Sweetnam moved, seconded by Mr. Armstrong, that owing to the fact that the gravel referred to in the communication of Thos. Card, having been taken off one of the public roads in the Township, no remuneration can be granted to him therefor.

The Reeve read a memorial from Judge Macdonald, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Guelph County High School, which shows that the old Grammar School has become unfit for use, and the present building occupied for the High School, is only a temporary arrangement. The Trustees are, therefore, under the necessity of calling upon the municipalities interested to assist in providing funds for giving suitable accommodation for High School purposes. Laid over until next meeting.

The Council was then resolved into a Court of Revision. The members having severally taken the oaths required by the Statute as members of Court of Revision, proceeded to business.

The Clerk stated that the first appeal to be heard was from Messrs. John and Michael Murphy, for over-charge on real and personal property. Mr. Murphy was heard at considerable length. On the Court taking an average of a number of farms in the locality, it was considered the assessment was a fair proportion with other adjoining farms.—The assessment confirmed.

Mr. George Wilson was present, requesting that Joseph Jackson, jr., should have his name on the assessment roll with him, as tenant, as he has leased his farm.—Granted.

Messrs. James Downie, Wm. McCrae, James French, and D. Kennedy applied to have the dogs struck off the assessment roll, for which they were assessed, giving satisfactory evidence that they had been destroyed since the assessment was taken.—Applications granted.

The Court then adjourned till next meeting. The Council then resumed for general business.

The Clerk presented a communication from the Clerk of the Township of Waterloo, notifying that a Committee from the Council of that Township would meet the Committee from this Township at Mossborough Station, on Wednesday, the 12th inst., at nine o'clock, a.m., for the purpose of taking into consideration what action may be taken for improving the boundary road.

The Reeve read a communication from John Hassen, complaining that the road from Thos. Manderson's corner to the township line of Waterloo, is in great need of repair, and requesting that the Council would grant funds to improve it.—Referred to Road and Bridge Committee.

Mr. Hawes applied for leave of absence for six weeks.—Granted.

Mr. Sweetnam gave notice he would, at next meeting, introduce a by-law to provide for the liabilities and expenses of the township for the current year.

On motion made and seconded, the Council adjourned to meet for general business and Court of Revision on Monday, the 24th inst.

A. MCCORKINDALE, Clerk.

THE EMPEROR WILLIAM.—The Emperor William was, at a late hour on Tuesday night free from pain, and, all things considered, in a satisfactory condition, although the shock to his system was very great. It is stated that he entertains an idea of abdicating, or at least of having the Crown Prince appointed temporary Regent. All the Sovereigns of Europe, the Pope, and President Hayes, have sent despatches to Berlin expressing sympathy with the sufferer. Nobeling is defiant and it is said exultingly declared if they had not succeeded, others would. When questioned as to the motive, he exclaimed, "Germany is nothing; the Emperor is nothing; humanity and progress is everything. We have done away with God; and the people want no more kings." He refuses to name his accomplices. After his arrest a letter to him arrived from a prominent Paris Socialist, which proves a wide-spread conspiracy against the lives of the whole Royal family.

FIRE NEAR DUNDEE.—About one o'clock on Monday morning the village was thrown into a state of excitement by an alarm of fire. When first discovered a barn adjoining John A. Weber's carriage works was on fire, which was consumed, together with Weber's carriage works, one paint shop and barn. The total loss is about $4,000. Insurance $1,000 in the Berlin Economical. The origin of the fire is unknown.

KNOW THYSELF

By reading and practicing the inestimable truths contained in the best medical book ever issued, entitled SELF-PRESERVATION Price only $1. Sent by mail on receipt of price. It treats of Exhausted Vitality, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, and the endless concomitant ills and untold miseries that result therefrom, and contains more than 50 original prescriptions, any one of which is worth the price of the book. This book was written by the most extensive and probably the most skilful practitioner in America, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. A Pamphlet, illustrated with the very finest Steel Engravings—a marvel of art and beauty—sent FREE to all. Send for it at once. Address PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass.

THAT WONDERFUL MAN

SIGN OF THE GOLDEN MAN.

Upper Wyndham Street, Guelph

Special Attraction.

We offer during the balance of this month wonderful attractions to intending buyers and Staple Dry Goods, Millinery, Carpets, Silks, Mantles, Jackets, and General Dress Goods.

Our stock stands unrivalled in the Dominion. The taste is exquisitely beautiful, the value s the best to be found, the most polite and courteous attention, is paid to all ranks of respectable purchasers, and the best of satisfaction is guaranteed to all who make their purchases of us. We submit for this week the greatest bargains ever before shown to the inhabitants of Guelph in

Black Silks,

for ladie's Mantles or Dresses. We unhesitatingly say that we are offering an advantage of 20 per cent under any establishment in Guelph. We are showing a nice stock of Moonlight Trimmings, Moonlight Vellings and Floral Trimmings.

These goods are quite new.

In Ladies' Millinery, Hats and Bonnets

we excell in taste, style, and novelty all previous efforts. The young lady at the head of this Department combines the most refined taste with lofty artistic ideas, making at once her department the reception room for ladies who are in quest of all that is novel and excellent.

Jackets, Mantles.

We congratulate the ladies of this section in having so rich and excellent a lot of Ladies Silk Paramatta and Tweed Jackets, exquisite styles. Also an endless variety of the material and styles to select from.

Our stock of all classes of general goods is full and complete, and we remind our old customers and friends that we only keep new, fresh, sound and satisfactory goods, satisfying all who purchase them. We are straightforward in dealing, and represent goods just as they are. We wage war against old, motheaten, bankrupt stocks, kept by second class stores, and again warn the public against such trash. Call and see the wonderful man, and you will receive the best value for your money.

Grand Orange Lodge of B. N. A.

ST. JOHN, N.B., June 4.

The Grand Grange Lodge of B. N. A. remained in session until a late hour last evening. Grand Master Bowell made a lengthy report. Grand Secretary Keyes presented an exhaustive report. It stated that a greater interest is being taken in the workings of the Order than ever before. There have been since the last report 44 new warrants, as follows:—Ontario West, 17; Ontario East, 11; Quebec 10; Newfoundland, 2; Nova Scotia, 2; British Columbia, 2. Four renewals have been issued to Ontario East, a like number to Ontario West, and one to Nova Scotia. Of Orange Young Briton warrants, Ontario West has had 28; Ontario East, 30; Quebec, 6; Prince Edward Island, 3; and Manitoba, 1, besides two renewals to Ontario West. Of Royal Scarlet districts Ontario West has received two new and two renewals, and Ontario East one new and one renewal, and New Brunswick two. The reports of the various Provinces showed increased returns, especially Manitoba and British Columbia. The finances are reported to be in good condition.

The report of the Grand Secretary and Grand Treasurer show the past year to have been one of the most prosperous in the history of the Order, the number of warrants issued and the increase of membership being unparalleled.

The Grand Master last year gave notice that he would not again be a candidate for the position of Grand Master, and greatly to the regret of every member of the Grand Lodge he carried out this determination, and positively refused to be again elected. A resolution recognizing his valuable services was passed unanimously.

The election of officers took place this afternoon, when the following were chosen:—Henry Merrick, M.P.P., Merrickville, Ont., Most Worshipful Grand Master and Sovereign; Wm. J. Parkhill, Sandwich, Ont., Deputy Grand Master; Rev. James Norris, Omemee, Ont., Grand Chaplain; Thomas Keyes, St. Catharines, Ont., Grand Secretary; W. Anderson, Mountain View, Ont., Grand Treasurer; James Elliott, St. John, Grand Lecturer; Wm. Heeney, St, Catharines, Ont., Deputy Grand Secretary; Wm. A. Garrison, Halifax, Deputy Grand Treasurer. Deputy Grand Chaplains—Rev. W. W. Percival Miltown, St. Stephen, Senior Deputy Grand Chaplain; Rev. T. S. Chapman, Marbleton, Quebec; Rev. John Todd, M.A., Sussex, N.B.; Rev. L. C. Wurtele, Acton Vale, Quebec; Rev. Thomas Rump, St. Catharines, Ont.; Rev. Wm. M. Pattyson, Norwood, Ont; Rev. W. T. Smithett, Lindsay, Ont; Rev. Jas. Meadows, Jeddore, Cape Breton; Rev. C. E. Doudiet. Montreal; Rev. G. S. White, Elgin, Ont.

A South Yarmouth farmer's wife made a raid on the Dutchman's Hotel, midway between St. Thomas and Union, the other day, and routed all the inmates. Her husband, along with eight or ten others, were having a jolly time of it in the bar-room, and the crash of a large stone through a panel of the door was their first salute. Two or three doors were smashed through in like manner, and the crowd of drinkers and hangers-on were speedily forced to seek refuge on the street.

The Mount Forest Examiner says that it is rumored that the promoters of the Stratford and Lake Huron Railway have for the present abandoned their proposal to construct the line beyond Listowel. In that case the people of Normanby and Bentinck will be freed from liability to the scheme.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Sept. 28, d&w 9m.

The Grand Central is now offering unusual inducements to business men, families and tourists. The prices for board have never been so low, and the table is still kept up at its first-class high standard. cod

Patrons of a first-class hotel justly consider themselves entitled to comfortable rooms, a bountiful bill-of-fare, and courteous treatment in the office. All these, combined with a notable degree of elegance throughout, are to be found in the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa. cod.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

Bond & Co. tell us that they have just received a large lot of the celebrated rubber paint ready mixed, all colors, instruction books given free of charge to any one requiring them.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. The great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D. Bible House, New York City. Sept. 18, deodwly

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory." Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

Base Ball.

Items of Interest on the Diamond.

Messrs. McPherson or Mountain, of Toronta, will umpire the championship match between the Maple Leafs and Iroquois on the 14th.

The Bowmanville team want the Leafs to visit that town on their trip on the 14th and 15th. It cannot be accepted, but in all probability a game will be played there later in the season.

A CHECKER MATCH, in all probability, will be arranged between M. McKeuzie, of Guelph, and Wm. Fleming, of Markham, champion of the County of York, to be played in that village the same day as the base ball match between the Maple Leafs and Iroquois.

THE BAZAAR. — The sale of useful and fancy articles in the town hall on behalf of St. George's Rectory was very well attended, and financially the results were gratifying. There were great quantities of children's clothing, and goods useful in every family, disposed of at low rates, as well as articles of vertu and of a highly ornamental description. Among the latter were several exceedingly beautiful specimens of pottery ware nicely ornamented in very artistic style. Articles too numerous to mention—the works of lady's skill and good taste, abounded on every side, so that it was scarcely possible for the most fastidious taste not to be satisfied, while the prices were very low to suit the hard times. A first class mansion inhabited by dolls of a high social station, attracted the longing looks of the young folks. It is to be disposed of this evening by lottery, and many tickets have been taken. It is furnished in elaborate style. A photograph by Marshall, of the Rectory and Church is beautiful as a work of art, apart from the special interests in those noble structures. They were sold in considerable numbers and sent to friends at a distance. A great curiosity is to be disposed of this evening, being a picture worked on white satin, with silk threads, by the Royal Princesses, daughters of George the III. It is about eighty years old, and was presented to a favourite nurse by them, on her marriage. A descendant of this nurse presented this curious work of old time art to the bazaar. In England it would command a great price. A splendid dinner and tea was provided at a low rate for visitors, and are continued to-day. There was great amusement in voting for the medicos of the town. The one who receives the greatest number of votes is to be the recipient of a most comfortable office chair, presented by Mr. George Elliott. The voting is to be resumed this evening. Great bargains are to be given to-day, and this evening, as the sale is to be closed by an auction, we believe, to-night. Music, ice cream, lemonade, &c. in abundance.

A QUEER HEAD-PANTRYMAN.—The Jesse Royt, a famous New York steamboat, used to have her head pantry-man a bent and crippled darkey, whose face was as full of humor as his form was of kinks and knobs. His name was Robert Smith, and his malady was chronic rheumatism. He tried GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA, for a week of the present winter and next season intends to astonish his old acquaintances on the Hoyt by his appearance as a sound man.

Daily Mercury.

THURSDAY EVE'G, JUNE 6, 1878.

Local News.

THE vote for the dismissal of the County Board of Examiners stood 28 to 14.

THE County Councillors are visiting at the Model Farm this afternoon on invitation of Mr. Johnston.

THE plans and specifications prepared by Mr. John Hall, for the proposed alterations in the County gaol have been approved by the Government.

ALL ladies interested in the coming strawberry festival, in aid of the Mechanics' Institute, will meet in the rooms on Friday evening at seven o'clock, sharp.

LECTURE. — Arrangements have been made to have the Rev. Mr. Doudiet, Presbyterian minister, of Montreal, deliver a lecture in the Town Hall here about the 17th inst., or some night during the session of the General Assembly in Hamilton.

FROST.—Rather a severe frost Wednesday night. Potatoe vines were wilted around town, and other green things assumed a sickly appearance after the sun had been shining for an hour or two. The frost was more severe to the north.

LONDON CONFERENCE.—The Conference opened at St. Thomas on Wednesday, and the Rev. E. B. Ryckman, of Guelph, was elected President. Guelph holds the honour this year of having the Presidents of the above Conference and the Primitive Methodist Conference.

CHAS. BURGESS saved the life of a man at the Grand Trunk station on Wednesday evening who was attempting to board a train as it was moving west. The man grasped the hand railing of the car and he got between the platform and the car. Burgess seized him before he let go his hold.

A CENSUS enumerator once asked a young lady her birth place, and she replied that she did not belong anywhere as she was the daughter of a Methodist minister. We are reminded of this story, says the Brantford Expositor, by the fact that when Dr. H. S. Griffin, of Hamilton, son of the Rev. W. S. Griffin, carried off so many scholarships recently, he was at once claimed by Chatham, Guelph, Orillia, Penetanguishene, Barrie and we suppose half-a dozen other localities. It must puzzle the Dr. to know where he does belong.

CALITHUMPIANS.—A number of young men who have had some experience in the conducting of Calithumpian processions, met at the Mitchell House on Wednesday evening, for the purpose of organizing a squad for parade in Guelph on Dominion Day. Geo. W. Lamond was elected President and John Henderson Secretary. A very large committee was appointed to make necessary arrangements and work up the company, and who were instructed to get about one hundred recruits. A meeting will be held at a future date for the appointment of field officers. Handsome prizes will be given to the best and worst make-up.

ALLEGED FALSE PRETENCES.—The Hamilton Times says that on Monday afternoon two book agents, named respectively W. C. Ritter and John Brandon, both hailing from Guelph, Ontario, were charged with having obtained two dollars from Mrs. Jane Flowers on false pretences. The defendants, who were very, respectably dressed, are very sharp looking individuals, and one of them "explained" the whole affair very volubly and minutely to the Magistrate. It appears that the daughter of Mr. Flowers had ordered a book from the prisoners to be delivered in June. They called at the house, and the daughter being out got two dollars from Mrs. Flowers and then refused to leave the book—the price of which was $4. After hearing what both sides had to say, His Worship said that it certainly was very sharp practice on the part of the agents. He remarked further that poor, ignorant people do not know what they are doing when they sign those book orders. He then ordered the book to be left with the Chief of Police until paid for by the buyer and discharged the two men.

ELGIN GRANGERS TO VISIT THE O. S. A. —At the Granger's pic-nic held at Port Stanley it was decided that Elgin Division Grange visit the Ontario School of Agriculture on Monday, 17th of June. The following resolution was moved in connection with the same, by Mr. B. F. Hathaway:—"Inasmuch as the Grange organization is an institution claiming for its object the elevation of the farming class, and the increasing development of agriculture in accordence with more scientific methods than has hitherto obtained among farmers generally, and seeing that we have a School of Agriculture and Model Farm in the Town of Guelph, specially instituted for the purpose of educating and training our young men in the various departments of agriculture, I take the liberty of moving seconded by James E. Glen, that the farmers of Elgin county, under the auspices of Elgin Division Grange, make an excursion to Guelph for the purpose of visiting the School of Agriculture and Model Farm there, on Monday, the 17th of June, and that the Executive Committee of Elgin Division Grange be appointed to make the necessary arrangements with the railway authorities for the completion and carrying out of said excursion." The motion was carried unanimously.

THE County will pay all Wellington volunteers twenty-five cents per diem during their annual drill.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY meets to-night at eight o'clock, in their rooms, Bank of Commerce Buildings. A large attendance of members is requested.

AT the London races on Wednesday J. Peters' King George won the Queen's Plate, fifty guineas, 1½ mile dash. Time 2.49½.

MRS. ARMSTRONG, mother of Mr. J. B. Armstrong left on Wednesday for California. A number of her friends saw her off and wished her a safe journey.

WOOL.—3,000 lbs of wool were sold on the market on Wednesday. Prices ranged from 23 cents to 26 cents. The latter figure was only paid in a few instances.

MR. GUTHRIE held a meeting at Acton on Wednesday evening. There was a large attendance of electors. A report of the meeting has been crowded out to-day.

THE Guelph Catholic Choral Society meets this evening, tenors at eight o'clock sharp. To-morrow evening the second tenors meet at the same hour, and bass at nine o'clock.

THIS EVENING.—Remember the tea social and concert, in the P. M. Church, on Paisley street, tea served from seven o'clock. The usual interesting programme will be prepared, and in all probability the concert will be held in the body of the church.

THERE are nine applications for the offices of Inspectors and Examiners. If the Education Committee to which they have been referred read over all the testimonials, they have a six weeks' engagement.

THE Battalion Band visited Guelph on Wednesday and serenaded the County Councillors. Citizens began to think of the good old days when Guelph had a first-class band as the 30th band paraded the streets in the evening. The County is asked to give the usual grant of $300.

PURCHASED AT THE FAIR.—Walter J. Fairbank has made some good purchases this fair. Three extra steers from Mr. S. Burnett, at $4.50 per cwt., amounting to $168.75; two from Mr. Lewis, Paisley Block, for $100; thirty fine half bred Southdown lambs, from Mr. G. Elliott; four extra fat calves, and a quantity of pigs, which he intends to keep till Christmas.

THE ERAMOSA ROAD AGAIN.—Mr. G. Webber has found to his annoyance that some of the roads in Guelph are in a very rough state. He has been engaged during the last two days drawing staves from the station, and has been unfortunate to upset twice during that time. He thinks a corporation man with a hammer might be well employed in the vicinity of the Eramosa Bridge.

MILITARY ENTERTAINMENT.—On Friday evening, 14th June, No. 2 Company, 30th Wellington Rifles, will give a grand military entertainment in the Drill Shed, under the patronage of Lieut.-Col. Clarke, M.P.P. The entertainment will consist of a concert and ball. The best musical talent of the county will be represented. The volunteers are deserving of every encouragement, and there is little doubt but that they will be liberally patronized.

FIRE IN BERLIN.

(By Telegraph to the MERCURY.)

BERLIN, June 6th.

At half-past two this morning a fire broke out in the summer kitchen of George Underwood's residence, which soon spread to the main building, all of which were wooden, and were rapidly burned to the ground with all the contents. Loss about one thousand dollars; insured for four hundred dollars in the Economical Mutual. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective stove pipe or ash-box.

The stock of Hardware at John Horsman's comprises all the latest improvements in hardware purchased from the leading manufacturers in England and the United States, and includes the choicest variety and most perfect assortment ever offered in Guelph.

OUT OF THE PAN INTO THE FIRE.—Yesterday morning two brothers were liberated from the Central Prison, Toronto, after serving a two years sentence for forgery, and on their appearing at the door of the Institution to regain their freedom they were confronted by a detective who arrested them again on a charge similar to that for which they were first committed. They were at once taken away to another prison.

There have been heavy floods in Southern China.

Condition of the Emperor of Germany.

Deep Laid Schemes of the Socialists.

A decree has just been issued proclaiming a regency and nominating the Crown Prince, Frederick William, as regent. The decree is signed by the Emperor and countersigned by Bismarck.

A Berlin despatch says:—The evidence is increasing of the existence of a plot to assassinate the Imperial family. A printer at Posen has been sentenced to four years' imprisonment for using offensive observations with regard to the Emperor.

A Berlin correspondent has private information to the effect that the state of the Emperor's wounds is deemed satisfactory.

A despatch from Berlin says:—On Monday the Foreign Office received an anonymous letter, which was mailed in London on Saturday, warning the authorities that the Emperor, and, if possible, Bismarck, would be assassinated on Sunday. Ever since the attempt on the Emperor's life threatening letters have been addressed to the Crown Prince, Frederick William, Bismarck, and other prominent personages. In several places persons have been arrested who predicted the attempt.

A Berlin correspondent says thirty-seven persons have been arrested for speaking disrespectfully of the Emperor on the streets, &c.

A London special reports that on Saturday the London detectives informed the British Government that there was great agitation among the Socialists, and important events were imminent.

The Crown Prince, it is said, is opposed to a regency.

The condition of the Emperor is satisfactory.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

ST. THOMAS, June 5.

The fifth annual meeting of the above Conference convened at St. George's Church, here, at nine o'clock this morning. Rev. Jas. Gray, the retiring President, occupied the chair.

The roll being called, 171 ministers answered to their names;

Balloting for President then began, when Rev. Edward B. Ryckman, of Guelph, was declared elected on the first ballot. Rev. W. S. Griffin, of Hamilton, also received a handsome vote. Rev. John Wakefield, of Chatham, was elected Secretary.

A Committee on nominations resulted in the election of Rev. Dr. Rice, Dr. John A. Williams, Revs. W. Williams, W. S. Griffin, and James Gray.

The report from the Transfer Committee shows that to the London Conference the following ministers were transferred from the under-noted Conferences:—

From Montreal Conference—Rev. W.K. Shortt, M. A. Leonard Gaetz, and William Taylor. From Toronto Conference—Revs. John S. Evans, and Thomas M. Jefferies.

The examination of ministerial character commenced at 3 p. m., and still occupied the Conference when it rose and adjourned at 5:30 p.m.

Grand Orange Lodge of B. N. A.

ST. JOHN, N.B., June 5.—The Grand Orange Lodge Session was concluded at one o'clock this morning. The Grand Master was empowered to confer with the President of the Tri-annual Council to see if arrangements can be made to have the meeting of the Lodge and Council at the same time, and if such can be perfected the next session of the Grand Lodge will be held at Ottawa; if such cannot be arranged, to have the next session at Toronto at the usual time.

Deputy Grand Treasurers were elected as follows:—Ontario West, Eli Higgins, Lincoln; Ontario East, James A. Orr, North Hastings; Quebec, A. G. Bostwick, Sherbrooke; New Brunswick, George H. Parker, Fredericton; Nova Scotia, Stewart Copiting, Truro; Prince Edward's Island, Murdich, Charlottetown. Committees were appointed on several matters to be considered during recess. A Committee was named consisting of Past Grand Master Bowell, Grand Master Merrick, and County Master Francis Clemow, to receive the delegations from Europe and other places to the Tri-annual Council at Ottawa in 1879.

The Lodge then adjourned sine die.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.—A subscriber to the MERCURY, who resides in Elgin, Illinois, sends us the following: "A few Canadians in this place celebrated the Queen's birthday by having a pic-nic in the grove on the bank of Fox River. Boating, swinging, quoits, etc., were among the amusements. The following Canadians were present:—E. Kirkland, wife and family; F. Nutting, wife and family; W. Kee, John L. Kee, wife and family, formerly of Guelph; T. Stewart, wife and family, of Montreal; — Best and wife, of Ottawa; Mrs. John Gilfoil, of Lucan: Mrs. H. D. Woodward, of St. Catharines; Mrs. Ramsay, and three daughters, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Holden, and Miss Ramsay, of Dundas; also a few Americans, in all about thirty-five. After spending a very pleasant day, and singing "God Save the Queen," the party returned to their homes, all delighted with the day's enjoyment.

Wellington County Council.

JUNE SESSION.

WEDNESDAY, June 5.

The Council resumed at ten o'clock. The Warden in the chair. All the members present.

The following communication was received from Messrs. D. McCaig, James Kilgour, and Robert Torrance:—

In view of the many conflicting and contradictory statements which have gone forth to the public within the past few months, affecting our character as members of the Board of Examiners, we respectfully ask the privilege of a hearing before any definite action is taken on the By-law now under consideration relating to said Board.

Some discussion took place on the communication, several Councillors expressing themselves favorable to the Board of Examiners being heard.

Moved by Messrs. Sleeman and Chase that the present Board of Examiners be allowed to be heard before this Council at three o'clock to-day, and that one hour be allowed for such purpose. Carried.

The Warden intimated that he had instructed the Clerk to write to the several County Treasurers to find out the expense of the June examinations. Two answers had been received. The Waterloo Treasurer stated that the expense in that County was $215—seventy six teachers being examined. The Peel Treasurer reported expenses $122—with sixty-six candidates.

Several accounts were presented and referred to the proper Committees.

PETITIONS.

From ratepayers of Luther, asking for $400 to improve the county line between Luther and Proton, on condition that the County of Grey will grant a similar amount.

From ratepayers of West Garafraxa, asking for a liberal grant for improvements on the Fergus and Orangeville Road.

From ratepayers of Minto, asking for a grant of $500 for improving the townline between Wallace and Minto, west of Palmerston.

From ratepayers of Amaranth, asking for $400 for improving the townline between Amaranth and Melancthon, on condition that the county of Grey give a similar amount.

From over one hundred ratepayers of the County, asking the Council to assume the Waterloo Road, between Guelph and Waterloo, or grant such sum as would place it in an efficient state of repair.

From the Harriston Village Council, asking for an appropriation for Arthur street from the south-west side of Elora street to the westerly limit of the village.

From ratepayers of Peel, Maryboro' and Arthur, asking for $250 for repairing the road on the hill and flats, 17th concessions of Peel and Maryboro.

From ratepayers of Amaranth, asking for $125 to supplement a like sum granted by the Township of Mono to improve the townline between Amaranth and Mono.

From ratepayers of Nichol and West Garafraxa, asking to have a certain portion of the townline between Nichol and West Garafraxa opened up.

From ratepayers of Nichol, asking for $400 to improve the road on the north-westerly side of the Grand River.

From the Council of Arthur Village, asking for $500 to assist in gravelling the townline leading from the railway crossing to the village.

From the Council of Mount Forest, asking for $300 towards gravelling Main and Wellington streets.

The petitions were referred to the Road and Bridge Committee

From John Walker and ten others, asking for $100 to improve townline between Erin and Caledon, on condition that Peel county grant a similar amount.

From ratepayers of Peel, asking for a grant to assist the County of Waterloo to build a bridge between Peel and Wellesley, over the Conestoga river.

Referred to the Boundary Line Committee.

From Council of Mount Forest, asking for $400 to assist in providing High School accommodation.

From the Public School Teachers of the Second Inspectoral District asking for $50 as an equivalent to the Government grant, as provided for in the School Act—the money to be devoted for the establishment of a Teachers' Library.

Referred to the Education Committee.

The Council resumed at three o'clock p.m.

The Warden announced that one hour had been allotted to hear the Examiners on their defence, and he had no doubt the Council was now prepared to hear them.

POSITION OF THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

Mr. McCaig was introduced to the Council. He thanked them on behalf of himself and the Board of Examiners. He appeared to make a statement of the manner in which the Board had conducted their business since he was a member of it, and whether it would better the Examiners, position or not, it would be a statement of facts only. For his own part he could not see that that the Board had done anything wrong, and in proof of which he would give them an account of their work since 1871, the year in which he was appointed. As a new member he was willing to fall in with the condition of affairs as they existed at his appointment. By the law of 1871 it had however been materially changed. The work required at their hands was largely increased. Previous to that date the work required could always be finished in two or three days, and the expenditure of the Board during that time had been laid down. If any wrong had been committed it would have been clearly shown up. In 1871 the total expenditure for the whole work of the Board had been $663.74, and 156 candidates examined. This work was done for $2 per day. The expenses showed an average expenditure of $3.87 each candidate. Of the total amount there was $233.47 for incidental expenses—consisting in part of advertising in every paper in the county. In some counties where there were only two or three papers published the expenses would be much lower. The seating for the six years following 1871 amounted to about $50. The incidentals averaged about $200, and it was clear that the Board would have no interest in ruming up this account. During the first two or three years the Board had been to the expense of putting up stoves in order to have the building warm enough. At that time the examination were held in December. In 1872 there were 183 candidates, the Board received $4 per day, and the total expenditure was $874.48, or $4.78 for each candidate. The incidental expenses were $260. 1873—184 candidates; total expenditure $950.13; rate per candidate, $5.16; incidental expenses $249.93. 1874—125 condidates; total expenditure $610.05; rate per candidate $4.68; incidental expenses, $131.35. 1875—189 candidates; total expenditure, $866.64; rate per candidate $4.59; incidental expenses $187. 1876 — 210 candidates; total expenditure, $950.50; rate per candidate $4.52; incidental expenses, $188. All these examinations took place under the same circumstances in the examination of second and third class papers, and it will be observed that the expenditure per candidate was decreasing rather than increasing. There was no evidence that the Board had been trying to secure money not belonging to them. In speaking of the extra time charged the speaker said that it had always been regarded by those who had office work to do, that six hours was a fair day's labor. In all educational matters this was borne out. Up to 1874 the work required at the hands of the Board could be easily transacted within the specified time and make the returns to the Department. At the close of 1873 the semi-annual examinations were done away with. This brought more candidates into the field, and it was found that the work could not be transacted by the Board without working extra hours. The Examiners then found it necessary to work late at nights, and early in the morning before the examinations commenced. It was considered just that they should be paid for such. It had been said that the Council had not expected that extra charge would be made when the salary was increased from $2 per day to $4. This double time did not increase the expenditure per candidate, and if anything had been wrong the cost certainly would have been increased. In 1877 the cost per candidate was $4.37—lower than for any former year. In this year a change took place in the school law, which at first sight might lead one to suppose that there should be a decrease in the expense, but then while the second-class papers were sent to Toronto to be examined more work was entailed by the candidates for second and third class certificates being examined separately instead of together. The reason all members of the Board were present at both examinations was because they were all equally responsible. At the same time the forty-eight or fifty second class candidates were equal to the whole of the second and third class candidates in some counties. The number of candidates in 1877 were 233, total expenditure $1,019.16, and incidental expenses $218.30. The speaker then dwelt with the several items in the bill for 1877. One item had been left over from 1876. In that year the questions had been considered exceptionally hard all over the Province, and on account of the result many schools would have been left without teachers, had not the Government decided that County Boards were authorized to grant certificates to those who held certificates up to the time of examination. The Board was obliged to meet for the purpose of deciding on those who had held certificates previous to that date. The accounts of the Board were always closed in July or August, and it was therefore included in the account of 1877. In 1877 the incidentals had been largely increased by the necessity of advertising twice the date of the examinations—the first date having been changed by order of the Government. Another expense was the meeting to consider the Crooks' bill—a very necessary affair. Several amendments were recommended and much work was entailed on the members. The clause referring to school accommodation, which exception was taken to, would have entailed an expense of between $20,000 and $30,000 to the county. This meeting was called by power vested in the Inspector by law, and the expense had been $82 and milcage. The desks and chairs for the seating of candidates was next taken up by the speaker. He recounted how that in previous years the certificates issued by the County of Wellington had not been held of much value from the fact that seats were so arranged that copying from one another was easily accomplished. The reason desks and chairs were not purchased before was, because there was no hall or place in which they could be stored. At the meeting when the Crooks' Act was discussed, it was decided that desks should be secured, but that the chairs would be left for the Guelph Board of Education to purchase, as they would have to seat the hall anyhow. The Warden was afterwards interviewed by a Committee appointed for the purpose, in regard to the same. The order for the desks was afterwards given to a manufacturer. It was then learned that the Guelph School Board refused to purchase chairs, inasmuch as they did not require them. This was after the Warden had agreed that the Committee wait upon the Guelph Board. It was thought by that body if they were willing to allow the County the hall and room in which to store the desks and chairs, they were doing well. The Committee afterwards met the Warden on the matter. The speaker held the Board might have committed an error of judgment in charging those meetings, but there was no wrong intention when three of the four were charged. He did not consider it necessary to explain the Model School charges made by the Board, as no exception had been made to them. The Sunday charges were referred to and explained. They began as far back as 1871. It was held that inasmuch as only one mileage was allowed for all meetings held, even if the examinations extended over one week, and the members were obliged in the meantime to return home it was right that a charge should be made. In 1871, when the examinations continued over one week, the bill for mileage for each Monday morning was presented. The Treasurer objected to this, and at the same time remarked to the effect that mileage could only be charged once, but that the Examiners might occupy the same position as County Councillors or jurymen, and extend their time from the first day of sitting till the last. It was thought that the amount would only in reality be the same as mileage, and it would make no difference to the County whether the Examiners remained in town on Sundays or drove home. If this was wrong in 1877 it was then. No one on the Board thought they had done wrong. It might be wrong. The bills presented to the Treasurer were paid as they had been done during the past twenty years. The speaker then went on to make comparisons between the expenses of the Board of Examiners in this County and in others. He held that the average expense per candidate ranged at about $4.50. Halton, with 50 candidates—about a fifth what Wellington had—expended $160; and this was a county where the Inspector was not paid as an Examiner. Peel had 38 candidates, with an expenditure of about $300—a very high average per candidate. Oxford had 72 candidates, with an expenditure of over $300—an average of nearly $5 per candidate. Waterloo was a County where the expenditure was cut down very close, but notwithstanding, with 60 candidates there was an expenditure of $250—an average of about $4 per head. On the speaker concluding, he referred to the phase of the question as looked upon by outsiders, and to the injustice that would be done the Board if they were dismissed with the imputation that the Examiners had been guilty of some great crime. The speaker announced that he was willing to answer any question that might be put to him by members of the Council.

Mr. Roberts—How did it come that the Board of Examiners voted $100 to their Secretary?

Mr. McCaig—The School law provides that a secretary must be appointed either in the person of a member of the Board or an outsider. Under the old law the Secretary was paid $40 per annum, but as it was found that the work was almost ten times as great under the new law the Secretary's salary had been gradually increased. The work was done too before the examinations commence, and the Secretary does not receive pay as such and as Examiner for work done at the same time.

Mr. Mair—I understand that you said Sundays had been charged in lieu of mileage. How about the Examiners living in Guelph who had no mileage?

Mr. McCaig—The charge was made on the ground that it was right to count the days from the opening to the closing of the session.

Mr. Anderson—Did not the Board receive a circular from the Department which explained how all accounts were to be paid?

Mr. McCaig—I do not know whether a circular had been received by any member of the Board or not. I never, at any time, received any instructions from the Department.

Mr. McMullen—How much time was charged, and how much time occupied in the purchase of desks?

Mr. McCaig said the Warden had stated forty minutes. It took forty minutes of his time looking up the Warden, and besides a good part of the day was gone after driving into town and home again.

Rev. Mr. Kilgour wished to say a few words. He explained that when the secretary of the Board had received $40 per annum he had the trouble of preparing all the questions for the candidates. The speaker showed that while he had never at any time received more than $1,050, the Inspectors of Halton and Peel received $1,200 and $1,100 respectively. While acting as Inspector during the past twenty years he had not until 1871 received more than $240 per annum. He referred to the great feeling of sensitiveness he had on this question of dismissal on a charge of exorbitant charges. Would it be just to so drop an old servant. He referred to a document that had been circulated by some aspiring individual, with a view of injuring his standing, which drew forth a large petition in his favor from the teachers of Guelph, Puslinch, Erin, East Garafraxa, and Orangeville, testifying to his efficiency. He had always, and would continue, to discharge his duties honestly, and to the best of his ability. Although feeling keenly the position he was placed in he had never went round and button-holed the councillors for their support.

Mr. Roberts asked if the Inspectors received any pay from the Government?

Mr. Kilgour explained how that he received $5 from the Government and $6 from the Co. for each school inspected. He pointed out the alterations made by the new act in regard to not being allowed to count any school, no matter how many divisions there were in it, more than two schools. His last bill was 71 schools, and multiplying that by $11 would give how much he was receiving.

Moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Roberts, that the school question By-law repealing By-laws 183 and 253 be read a third time and passed.

Mr. Elliott asked if the By-law provided for the dismissal of Inspectors and Examiners? The Council had heard very lengthy explanations from two members of the Board, and after hearing the same he thought the Council should pause before taking such a step. He thought it would be much better for the Council to adopt some tariff by which the Examiners should make their charges, instead of dismissing them with a stain of something like obtaining money under false pretences—for the charge appeared to be little less. He could not vote for the motion under such circumstances.

Mr. Roberts would be very sorry to pass a vote of censure on any of the educational officers of the county. He was in favor of bringing in a By-law which would define the duties of the Board of Examiners and state the salary they were to receive. The same officers might be reappointed.

Mr. Anderson said it was the intention to define the duties of the Examiners. The old By-law was wrong and should be remedied.

Mr. Chase thought the Examiners should not be censured on account of the present By-law being wrong. Let the Examiners retain their places and the existing By-law be altered.

Mr. Darby considered the Examiners were on their trial. They should be acquitted or convicted. If they were dismissed the Council would have no right to reinstate any of them.

Mr. Gordon considered the members of the Council should look after their own characters as well as after the Examiners. He was opposed to appointing any one of the gentleman on the Board again, and would vote for the passage of the By-law.

Mr. McKittrick considered that it was as much a question of qualification as of any wrong doing. From what he had learned few of them had the necessary qualification. Some might have been competent to fill the office twenty years ago, but were not now. He would vote for the By-law for the purpose of establishing a new Board.

Mr. McMullen considered it unfortunate that the Examiners had not applied to the Council to be paid for over time; such a course would have been much better for all concerned, and they would have received the sympathy of the Council. He considered members of the Board who resided in Guelph had no right to make the Sunday charges referred to, but that nothing would be very wrong for those who accepted the charges in lieu of mileage. Some change was necessary to prevent accounts coming into the Council which they knew nothing about. He had no wish to stigmatize the Board in any way with fraud, but some change should be made. A By-law to define the duties and fix fees of the Examiners would receive his support. He would vote for the motion on these grounds.

Dr. Maudsley made a few remarks on the question. He did not know that the Board of Examiners had committed wrong sufficiently great to ensure their dismissal. Sunday was the day on which clergymen did the greater part of their work.

The By-laws proposed to be repealed were read by the Clerk.

Mr. Mair considered that Mr. McCaig had not made a very good case out for the Board of Examiners. The Board had not done what was right and had showed a bad example to the youth of this county who were attending school. It had been said that certificates from this county would not be recognized in other counties. If this had been known some time ago, he was sure the Council would have made some remedy. Although the Inspectors might have been very efficient some years ago, the speaker did not think they stood as relatively high compared with the teachers of the present day as they did with the teachers when appointed.

Messrs. Stewart and McMullen moved in amendment, that the third reading of the By-law be left over till to-morrow.

Mr. McKim said that Mr. Elliott had remarked that these gentlemen, if discharged, would have a stigma attached to their character. If they were of such high character as it was said, they would not have charged for Sundays, and such a state of affairs would not have existed. It would have been better if the Examiners had remained in Guelph over Sunday and attended church—with much profit to themselves. He thought if the amendment was carried, there would be nothing but button-holing from now till to-morrow.

The amendment was withdrawn, and the motion carried on the following division:—

Yeas—Messrs. Anderson, Bateman, Bennet, Broadfoot, Brown, Dobbin, Duffield, Godfrey, Gordon, Green, Harcourt, Landerkin, Leslie, Long, Mair, J. McDonald, McKim, McKittrick, McMullen, Nicol, Prain, Roberts, Robinson, Rudd, Sleeman, Swan, Sweetnam, Stewart—28.

Nays—Messrs. Burt, Chase, Clarke, Darby, Elliott, Gillespie, Hamilton, Hunter, Luxton, Mitchell, George McDonald, McLuhan, McMillan, Reid—14.

The motion was carried and that was all, as it required a two-third vote. Dr. Maudsley had left the room just before the vote was taken.

The Warden intimated that he would vote yea if necessary.

The By-law was then read a third time and passed.

Moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Roberts, that the Solicitor be instructed to prepare a By-law for appointing Examiners and defining their duties. Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

Daily Mercury.

THURSDAY EVE'G, JUNE 6, 1878.

The Quebec Legislature.

The speech from the throne at the opening of the Legislature on Wednesday is short, business-like and to the point. The Government through the Lieut.-Governor tells the House that "Our financial condition is the most important subject which you have to consider. It behooves us to finish the railways already commenced, so as to reap, with the least possible delay, the benefit of the sacrifices which we have made to build them; to carry out these undertakings with success and to meet all our engagements, it is indispensible that the expenditure should be brought down as low as is consistent with the efficient administration of the public service." To accomplish this he goes on to say that several items of expenditure will be dropped; the duties of the railway Commissioners will be transferred to the Commissioner of the Board of Works; the Magistrates' Courts will be abolished, and other useless offices will be done away with. In short the Government mean to make sweeping reforms so as to bring the expenditure within the compass of the revenue. For the past eleven months there is a considerable deficit.

We sincerely hope that the Government will be sustained. The Montreal Herald, speaking of the vote on the Speakership on Tuesday, says:—"As a result of Mr. Turcotte's election we believe it is not only a fact that Mr. Price gives loyal adhesion to the Joly Government, but that several other independent or nominally Conservative members with whom what is called the Constitutional question counts for little, will be ranged on the side of the new Administration. The result of the election yesterday is of very great importance at this juncture. It would ill become us to boast of an achievement which for the first time for many years anterior to Confederation has given the Liberal party predominance in this province, and we do not care at this moment to take credit for the party for obstinately fighting and finally vanquishing the most corrupt and incapable set of politicians that ever preyed on the vitals of any community. It has been up hill work, but it has been loyally and honestly done."

The Work So Far.

In the great majority of the constituencies the nominations in view of the forthcoming elections have been made, and the candidates on both sides are in the field, and actively at work. It is all but certain that the elections will not come off till the latter end of September or some time in October, so that in the interval candidates will have every opportunity of placing their views before their constituents, and they will have full time to discuss and make up their minds on the questions at issue.

Disguise it as Opposition organs may, the great question before the poeple is, whether the present Government shall be sustained, or whether they will lend their aid to thrust them from power and reinstate Sir John Macdonald and those who are equally guilty with him in the corrupt practices which disgraced his Administration and which led to his defeat. When such transactions as the Pacific Scandal are referred to, Sir John's organs and supporters tell us that these are now "dead issues," that Sir John has paid the penalty for his misdeeds, and that it is ungenerous and unfair to rake these up, and make them a plea for their continued condemnation. But has Sir John or his followers ever acknowledged their guilt in reference to these transactions? Have they ever expressed their scrrow for the Pacific Scandal, for making ducks and drakes of the Secret Service money, for their persistent milking of the Northern Railway cow, for the money paid to Moylan without any value being received, and for other questionable transactions? On the contrary have they not defended or excused them, and persist in doing so to this day. And what guarantee have we that were they in power again, and given the opportunity, the same or equally nefarious practices would not be repeated? What confidence can the people have in men who, on the strongest evidence, have been convicted of such wrong doing, who are yet unrepentant, and who show not the slightest signs of contrition?

As a set off to this heavy bill of indictment the Opposition and their organs have fulminated all sorts of charges against the Government. We have had the steel rails, the Kaministiquia harbor, the Neebing Hotel, the Goderich harbor, besides a host of others in connection with works in the North-west and in other parts of the Dominion—all for the purpose of withdrawing public attention from their own damning record. The Government from the first courted the fullest inquiry into all these charges, and when thoroughly investigated not a single charge of corrupt motive or action could be fastened on any member of the Government. Errors in judgment there may have been, for who, however honest, is not fallible. But nothing like intentional wrong doing can be proved, and to-day the Government can fearlessly appeal to its record—to its work done—to its honesty of intention—and to its earnest desire to carry on the Government efficiently and economically. Let any candid man compare its record with that of the preceding Government, and he cannot in his heart but come to the conclusion that the men now in power deserve the thanks of the county, and merit the confidence and support of the people at the coming election.

The different meetings held by Dr. Landerkin in South Grey have been well attended, and the resolutions passed at them express unequivocal approval of his past conduct, and pledge him the hearty support of the Reformers.

The Leader is candid and honest when it says of Mr. Blake, that "during his parliamentary career he has been without reproach. Amid the tempest of charges of corruption and the recriminations that have been hurled at this and that public man, nothing has ever been attempted in connection with Mr. Blake. The worst effort has been a somewhat feeble attempt in connection with the Goderich harbor business, but it has fallen flat and worthless."

Mr. Rymal in a late speech said, with great force and truth:—"He had noticed that men who failed from want of attention to their affairs always blame somebody else and grumbled. It was because they were not allowed to put their hands into other people's pockets and take money out of them. The best kind of Protection was sound health and minding one's own business."

Harold the Outlaw

—OR—

The Gauger of Skene.

CHAPTER XLV.

A RAPTUROUS DELIVERANCE.

In their chamber high up in the tower Lizzie and Myra sat together by the deepset casement, wholly unoognizant of what was transpiring below. None of the sounds had reached them—not even Dougal's shrieks of terror and cries for mercy. They sat amid the interior silence of the room and the exterior silence of the summer night holding sad communion together, as they often, often did. Alfred had been in bed for some time and was fast asleep, while the two girls, who had not even laid aside the things in which they had walked abroad in the afternon, spoke together in low tones on the theme ever uppermost in their thoughts—their long, weary, hopeless imprisonment. For hopeless they had now come to consider it, seeing that month after month had elapsed since Lizzie had begun to insert the invisible writing in her letters to Harold, and no result had followed. Myra was or affected to be more hopeful and expectant, but Lizzie's despondency was without mitigation.

"No, no," she moaned in saddest accents. "Harold has not discovered the writing. No deliverance will come to us. Perhaps he never gets my letters. He may be again in prison—nay, worse—worse—he may be—oh, Myra! my heart is sick with apprehension and anguish."

"Nay, dear, let us not yet cease to hope," responded Myra. "I was in despair once, but you taught me to cherish a spirit of faith, and it is so precious that I cannot yield it up. When I am tempted to do so the words of one of the hymns I have learned from you never fail to come into my mind, and I have only to repeat it to obtain new faith and courage. Here is the verse that rushed into my thoughts when you spoke so disconsolately just now—

"Cease ye, when days of darkness come,
In sad dismay to mourn,
As if the Lord could leave his saints
Forsaken or forlorn."

"Oh, I wish—I wish I could realise that," sighed Lizzie.

"You realise it in the very feelings of your maternal bosom," said Myra—"feelings so finely expressed in the verse that follows:—

"Can the fond mother e'er forget
The infant whom she bore?——"

A rush of emotion chocked Myra's utterance. She faltered, paused, and broke down in sobs.

"Oh, God!" she wailed; "I can answer that and say, 'Never—never!'"

She strove to recover firmness, and went on—

"Or can its plaintive cries be heard,
Nor move compassion more?"

A practical response was instantly given to this question by Lizzie starting to her feet at the sound of a loud cry from Alfred. She flew from the window towards the bed, and there, through the gloom, she saw a man making for the door with a child in his arms.

Lizzie utterred a piercing shriek, and flew after him, crying in heartrending tones—

"My child! my child! Do not take my child!"

Myria had seen the man likewise, and she, too, flew down the stair in Lizzie's wake.

Fast as the distracted mother flew, the dark form with the child in its arms ran faster. Lizzie's seared eyeballs were able to distinguish this figure in the gloom, and to keep him in sight; but with all her frantic straining she could not overtake him. Nor did he heed her wild and piteous shrieks for the restoration of her boy.

Myra was little less distracted than the other. It brought back vividly to her mind the scene of her own loss as she ran down that very same stair after the stealer of her babe. This was not her child, but she had come to love Alfred as fondly as if he had been, and Lizzie was dear to her as a sister. All these things combined to make her as frantic as her friend, whose cries she echoed along the passages they traversed, these being added to by the terrified screams of the child as he felt himself hurried through the darkness in the rough grasp of a strange man.

Lizzie, even in the wildness of her distraction, had her thoughts as she ran as to the author and object of this dreadful deed. She knew by the activity the man displayed that it was not Joe who was carrying off the child, and concluded that it must be Dougal M'Callum, or perhaps Colston; it was too dark to distinguish his figure with any clearness. The purpose, however, she doubted not, was to carry out the threat long and often made to deprive her of her child—perhaps to kill him. Oh, the agony of this conviction. It winged her feet to increased speed, and brought from her lips some piercing shrieks.

The man darted into the kitchen passage, but, instead of turning in thither, he held forward, and plunged down a stair which Lizzie recognized as the one she had ascended on the night of her arrival. This was a confirmation of her fears; it was the road leading to the boat.

She flew down after him, and followed along passages which would have been utterly dark but for a light glimmering in front. This light shone from one of the many chambers. To it the man directed his course. She gained upon it as he neared it, overtook him as he passed within the doorway, and flinging herself forward with distracted impetuosity clutched his arm with all her strength.

"My child!" she gasped. "Give him back to me! You shall not take him!"

By the light of the torch fixed in the wall she saw other forms in the place, but her gaze was only for the man she had followed. And when she looked in his face it was the face of a stranger, yet with features strangely like those of Harold. It was borne in upon her as with a flash of inspiration that it was his brother.

"You are Gilmour Logan?" she cried.

"And you are Allan M'Pherson?" exclaimed the panting Myra, who burst in at the moment and confronted the other man, who stood by the side of Joe.

"No words—no delay!" shouted Allan. "Throw in the child first."

Gilmour tried to do so, but Lizzie caught Alfred's dress with a grasp he could not shake off; while Myra flung herself on Gilmour, and clung to him in such a way as prevented him from moving.

"Monsters—devils—you mean to murder us!" she cried, as her flashing eyes turned on them from the dark mouth of the well, which she had noticed.

"Yes, we do," roared Allan with savage brutality. "Here, Joe, do your part; help me to tear them asunder."

Now ensued a terrible struggle between the ruthless murderers and their helpless victims, whom love and despair rendered desperate in their clinging tenacity. Joe, and Allan, inspired by the worst of murderous passions, put forth ferocious strength to seperate the group, and there could be no doubt that the struggle would soon terminate in the success of their hellish purpose. The girls felt this; despair was in their hearts; yet they kept their hold of Gilmour with all the strength which that despair gave them, and shrieked for help, though without hope that help would come.

Regicides are usually nobodies, representing only some little clique or club, or acting upon their own solitary and monomaniacal notions. Hodel, who tried to kill the Emperor William on the 11th ult., was a travelling tinker. Nobeling, who repeated the attempt on Sunday last, was an obscure frequenter of socialistic clubs.

Cleopatra's Needle is to be towed down the Thames this week and hoisted on a pedestal prepared for it at the Adelphi steps on the Enbankment.

Harriston Correspondence.

The usual monthly cattle fair was held last Friday. Not very many beef cattle were on the ground, but a great many milch cows, which realised fair prices, and mostly all were bought up. The day was beautiful, which had the effect of bringing a large number of people out, and business was in consequence very brisk. The novel feature of the day was the very large display of all kinds of agricultural implements, (the largest ever seen here on a fair day) which kept the agents busy rattling off the oft-repeated story about the superiority of their respective machines over all others. Quite a few sales were made during the day.

A large number of farmers and others turned out last Thursday to assist in raising the frame of Mr. James Howe's new saw mill, which they accomplished without accident. It will be remembered that the old mill was burned a short time ago.

Mr. A. G. Markle has now a large force of men employed demolishing part of the old building and cleaning up, preparatory to commencing his new hotel.

A horse and buggy belonging to an insurance agent was left standing one day last week in front of McDonald's hotel, while he went in to have a drink. The horse thought he would like a drink also, but it seemed he preferred another house, so he started off at a mad gallop for Markle's, which he reached with a pair of shafts behind him, but minus the buggy. That horse won the drinks.

Harriston is to have a big time on Dominion Day. A committee has been appointed to collect subscriptions, and carry out all arrangements, and it is expected, if the programme is carried out, that it will eclipse anything ever before attempted in Harriston. The Elora B.B club play the return match with the Browns, here, on that day, on the grounds of the latter.

On Tuesday last between twenty and thirty teams turned out and were busy during the day in hauling brick from Leeche's brick yard, for Mr. Welte's new cabinet factory. They did this in sympathy for Mr. Welte in his great loss at the late fire.

Mr. John McKenzie and Mr. Thomas Ovens, of this village, who have been in bad health lately, purpose visiting Bonnie Scotland shortly. We wish them a good voyage, and hope that the trip may be of great benefit to them, and that they return hale and hearty.

A meeting was held on Monday afternoon, in the town hall, of the councillors of the three municipalities of Palmerston, Harriston, and Minto, to consider the amount of bonuses that will be required to get the Stratford and Lake Huron Railway to run through here. The amount to be raised is $70,000, divided as follows: Palmerston $15,000, Harriston, $20,000, Minto, $35,000. No definite arrangements could be come to further than that each municipality was to do as they deemed fit in the matter. Minto is adverse to submitting a bonus for more than $20,000. In the evening a meeting of the ratepayers of the village of Harriston was held to consider the amount required of them, the Reeve in the chair. The following motion was put and carried without one dissenting voice. Moved by Alex. Meiklejohn, seconded by George Preston, "That this meeting is of opinion that another line of railway running through the township of Minto would be of great advantage to the farming community as well as to this village, this meeting therefore instructs the Council of Harriston to introduce a by-law for $20,000, to run twenty years, at six per cent., as a bonus to the Stratford and Lake Huron Railway, with a station at Harriston, and a flag station in the northern part of the township, and also to insert a clause in said by-law that such line of railway shall run by way of Ayton and Neustadt."

The Late Correspondence About the Board of Examiners.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—I feel that it is due Mr. McCaig, who I presume is the party blamed by your correspondent "Signum" in your issue of last week, with being "Teacher," that I should assume the responsibility of these letters, as I now do, which appeared so recently in your columns over the signature "Teacher." It is I think very much to be regretted that a teacher of South Wellington would so far degrade himself as to condescend so exclusively, as he does in his last communication, to such unbecoming personalities. Surely he must have been driven out of every other corner when he betakes himself to this one. I am, yours &c.,

ALEX. GORDON,
Everton, June 3rd, 1878. Teacher.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. MASON'S STUMP AND ROCK EXTRACTOR.—This powerful machine was on exhibition on the Market Square on Wednesday, and attracted much attention. It is very simple, and is so constructed that the strain comes longitudinally on the timbers, each acting as a brace to the other. It can be worked on any kind of ground by an ordinary team and with two men. The heaviest stump or rock can be removed with great facility, as the height of the machine or space between the wheels is governed at will to suit objects of various dimensions. It can do light or heavy work equally well, and it can be operated cheaper than any other machine of the same kind. In fact it is now the favorite machine for this description of work. Mr. W. M. Mason is the patentee, and it is manufactured by Mitchell & Teeple, of Harriston.

The Grand Central is now offering unusual inducements to business men, families and tourists. The prices for board have never been so low, and the table is still kept up at its first-class high standard. eod

Patrons of a first-class hotel justly consider themselves entitled to comfortable rooms, a bountiful bill-of-fare, and courteous treatment in the office. All these, combined with a notable degree of elegance throughout, are to be found in the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa. eod.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

TALK ABOUT THE CONGRESS.

LONDON, June 5.

The Agence Russe says:—The presence of the leading Ministers in the Congress and the spirit which animates the Cabinets give hopes that the Eastern question will be dealt with in a broad sense, with the object of reaching a common understanding, and consolidating the peace of Europe.

The Times says:—"Seldom has a more honorable triumph been won by diplomacy or rather statesmanship—by any country than that which, as recorded in the invitations to the Congress, has been definitely achieved by England. The Great Powers are summoned to Berlin by the German Government, not to consider a few details of the Treaty of San Stefano, but to discuss the whole Treaty in its relations to subsisting engagements, and thus practically to review the whole position of the Eastern Question.

The Porte has accepted the invitation to attend the Congress, and Safvet Pasha's new dignity will permit him to meet the other plenipotentiaries on an equal footing.

Earl Beaconsfield and his private secretary leave on Saturday by way of Ostend and Brussels. Lord Salisbury leaves on Monday.

An attempt was made at Constantinople on Monday to Murder Mahmoud Damad Pasha, because of dissatisfaction with the expected dismemberment of Turkey. Five of the conspirators who recently attempted a revolution have been executed. The trial revealed that the murder of the Sultan, as well as Murad's re-instatement, was contemplated.

A St. Petersburg correspondent says:—In consequence of the Turks endeavouring to provoke hostilities, Russia and England have agreed not to withdraw their forces until the end of Congress.

Our stock stands unrivalled in the Dominion. The taste is exquisitely beautiful, the value s the best to be found, the most polite and courteous attention, is paid to all ranks of respectable purchasers, and the best of satisfaction is guaranteed to all who make their purchases of us. We submit for this week the greatest bargains ever before shown to the inhabitants of Guelph in

Black Silks,

for ladie's Mantles or Dresses. We unhesitatingly say that we are offering an advantage of 20 per cent under any establishment in Guelph. We are showing a nice stock of Moonlight Trimmings, Moonlight Veilings and Floral Trimmings.

These goods are quite new.

In Ladies' Millinery, Hats and Bonnets

we excell in taste, style, and novelty all previous efforts. The young lady at the head of this Department combines the most refined taste with lofty artistic ideas, making at once her department the reception room for ladies who are in quest of all that is novel and excellent.

Jackets, Mantles.

We congratulate the ladies of this section in having so rich and excellent a lot of Ladies Silk Paramatta and Tweed Jackets, exquisite styles. Also an endless variety of the material and styles to select from.

Our stock of all classes of general goods is full and complete, and we remind our old customers and friends that we only keep new, fresh, sound and satisfactory goods, satisfying all who purchase them. We are straightforward in dealing, and represent goods just as they are. We wage war against old, motheaten, bankrupt stocks, kept by second class stores, and again warn the public against such trash Call and see the wonderful man, and you will receive the best value for your money.

Montreal Cattle Market.

MONTREAL, June 3.

There were about ten car-loads of cattle on the market to-day, with rather slow sales, and prices are again tending downward. H. Corby, of Belleville, sold eighteen cattle to R. J. Hopper for $683. A. Reeves sold a car-load of oxen and bulls to N. Taillefer, at 3½c per lb. G. Frotherston, of Toronto, sold a car-load of cattle to R. J. Hopper, at $50 each. R. J. Hopper sold eleven cattle to L. Mouette at $50 each, and twenty-four other cattle to different butchers at an average of $54 each, or from 3½c to 4½c per lb. Wm. Head sold 14 choice cattle at from 4½c to 4¾c per lb. J. Lunness sold two superior fat cattle beefers, weighing 2,340 lbs., at 4½c per lb. Thos. Bonner sold four cattle for $200. J. Lunness sold 60 Chicago hogs at $4.20 per 100 lbs. A few very large distillery fed hogs were sold by A. Reeves at $3.75 per 100 lbs.

BOOTS & SHOES

A pious elder of the Scottish Kirk, on his way to service on a Sunday morning, saw a little girl and boy playing marbles. He wrathfully inquired, "Boy, do you know where children go to who play marbles on Sunday?" "Ay, ay," answered the boy, "they gang doun to the field by the brig" (bridge) "No," roared the elder, "go to hell and are burned." The little fellow looking shocked and frightened, called to his sister, "Come awa, Jeannie; come awa, here's a mon swearing awfully."

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Patrons of a first-class hotel justly consider themselves entitled to comfortable rooms, a bountiful bill-of-fare, and courteous treatment in the office. All these, combined with a notable degree of elegance throughout, are to be found in the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa. eod.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

Daily Mercury.

FRIDAY EVE'G, JUNE 7, 1878.

Local News.

HOME AGAIN.—We are glad to see that Mr. John Mickle has returned to Guelph, after some months sojourn in California.

THE Toronto Councillors love to ride in carriages. Last year the livery and hack hire footed by the ratepayers for their representatives, was $1,300.

FRESH to brisk easterly to southerly winds, and cloudy and fair weather with rain areas are the probabilities received to-day.

NEW APPLES.—Mr. R. Murray, fruiterer, has received a small supply of this year's apples—ripe and ready for eating, from Bermuda. Murray is never behind the times.

OPEN AIR concert on Thursday evening, 13th inst. at Maple Bank, the residence of Mr. Wm. Stevenson. Besides singing, there will be ice cream, fruit and cake for sale.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—Mr. Francis Small was charged at the Police Court this morning with battering Mr. George Bruce. The affair took place a few days ago. The defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $1 and costs.

SEVERAL of the principal cheese manufacturers of Ontario are in Montreal making arrangements for the direct transportation of cheese from the factory to the English markets. Among the names given are those of Mr. Jas. Goldie and Mr. J. T. Brill, of Guelph.

H. KEOUGH'S bread waggon took a tumble on Suffolk street last evening about eight o'clock. The upset was caused by running one side of the vehicle on an embankment. The only damage sustained was a broken wheel.

THE young equestrian who was riding a livery horse down Wyndham street yesterday morning at a break-neck pace, will have to answer for his fun at the Police Court to-morrow. Policeman Dooley is bound to bring those to task who recklessly violate the by-law relating to furious driving.

WORSWICK ENGINE CO.—A meeting of the share-holders of this Company was held at the Royal Hotel, on Thursday night, when it was decided to wind up its affairs. Messrs. Smith of the Bank of Commerce, T. Y. Greet of the Federal Bank, and Messrs. John Crowe and Worswick were appointed trustees to wind up the estate.

THE County Council have decided by a large majority to make no alteration in the gaol building. Although there are very few prisoners in gaol at the present time, a few months ago there were some forty-two prisoners, and the cell accommodation numbered only twenty-four. How would a Councillor like to be confined in a gaol where he could not have a nice little cell to himself?

MR. JOHN GRIFFITHS was auctioneer at the bazaar last evening. The very correct naming of articles of vertu and garments of singular construction was marked, and the only trouble he had was to be satisfied that he had the article right side up. A handsome young man purchased enough goods to set up a variety store, and while buying he thought he was only making bids for some of his lady friends. Some party—clever according to their own gauging—thought it "Indeed a gorgeous joke, you know," to tack a card, intended for striking lucifers, on which were the words "Scratch my back," on the backs of parties in the crowd. Brilliant ideas do percolate through the minds of some people occasionally.

"NEW YORK MERCURY."—This old-established and influential American journal has taken a new and important departure, which will, no doubt, largely increase its circulation and place it on a still more popular basis. It will be the aim of the paper to furnish all the interesting and indispensable facts concerning the paper, stationery, jewelry, fancy goods, and grain and flour business. The great aim will be to have all news relating to these trades to be reliable. The MERCURY is $3 per annum in advance. Wm. Cauldwell, editor and proprietor, No. 136, Fulton street, New York.

VISIT TO THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.—On the invitation of Mr. Johnston the members of the County Council on Thursday afternoon visited the Agricultural College. Under the direction of Mr. Johnston and Mr. Brown they inspected the garden, greenhouses, experimental plot, and barn, workshops and the stock that were in the stables. They expressed themselves highly pleased with their visit, and with the marked improvement that had taken place in every department. The garden and grounds begin to look well, the experimental plot attracted much attention, and the sheep and cattle are doing remarkably well. In fact everything about the place bears evidence of progress, of careful management and assiduous labor. After partaking of refreshments the company left highly pleased with their visit, and with a reassured faith in the value and success of the Institution.

THE WELLINGTON HOTEL LEASED.—Mr. G. H. Comer, of the Norfolk House, Simcoe, has leased the Wellington Hotel on Wyndham street, and intends proceeding at once to furnish it. Messrs. Burr & Skinner, of Guelph, have the contract of furnishing. The hotel will be opened within a month.

CHECKERS.—The Guelph checker-players received a bad defeat in Georgetown on Tuesday evening. Nine played on each side and the result in favor of Halton was 34 games to 20. The score follows:—

HALTON.	GAMES.	GUELPH	G.	DRAWS

TEA SOCIAL.—The tea social in the P.M. Church on Paisley st. last night was pretty well attended. After tea, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Harris, appointed himself chairman, and conducted the programme. The choir sang a couple of anthems, and recitations solos, &c., were given by members of the church. Mr. F. Cooke sang a couple of pieces very nicely. Mr. Stockwell assisted the choir in the chants, and did good service. Altogether the evening spent was a pleasant one, and a sociable time was enjoyed. The chairman announced at the close that now the summer months were upon them, there would be no more tea socials for the present, but that the gatherings would take the name of strawberry, or ice cream festivals, with fruit in season. The first of these, a strawberry festival, would, he expected, be held as soon as the berries could be reasonably procured.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—The regular monthly meeting was held on Thursday evening. There was a large attendance. Mayor Howard, president, occupied the chair. The proceedings throughout were of a very interesting character. Mr. C. A. Burrows reported for the Committee appointed to make arrangements for renting new rooms. It was decided that the Executive Committee be empowered to lease the rooms over the store lately occupied by McIntosh, Hill & Innes, at a rental of $200 per annum. The question of incorporating the Society was discussed, and on motion of Messrs. James Hewer and Slater, it was decided that steps be at once taken to have the Society incorporated as the Guelph St. George's Society. A special finance committee has been appointed to look after all moneys contributed for defraying the expenses of St. George's Union, to be held in August next, was appointed. A communication had been received from a number of Canadian St. George's Societies, intimating that they were prepared to contribute liberally towards defraying the expense connected with holding the Union. A new style of badge shown by Mr. Widdicombe to those present, was approved of as decidedly neat, and an improvement on the old badge.

REFORM MEETING AT ACTON.—On Wednesday evening a meeting was held in the Temperance Hall, Acton, for the purpose of hearing the political questions of the day discussed, and particularly the tariff question. There were upwards of three hundred present, including a large number of electors of the Township of Erin. Mr. Archibald Campbell, of Nassagaweya, was appointed chairman. Addresses were delivered on the political questions now before the country by Messrs. D. Guthrie, M.P., McCraney, M.P., Lyon, M.P.P., James Massie, M.P.P., Robert Melvin, and Geyrge Howard, Mayor of Guelph. All the speakers dealt with the question as to whether the present Government should be driven from power and Sir John Macdonald reinstated. As the various questions were discussed, which vindicated the course of the Government their remarks were loudly applauded. An invitation was given to speakers opposed to the Government, but no person was present who felt like taking the part of the Opposition. Resolutions expressing confidence in the Government, and a determination to sustain it, and thanking the speakers for the addresses delivered, were carried unanimously. The meeting was very enthusiastic throughout.

THE BAZAAR.—On Thursday evening the bazaar given by the ladies connected with St. George's Church, was brought to a close, after a busy and very successful sale, continuing over two days and two evenings. All the articles offered for sale were either useful or ornamental, and, in most cases, a combination of both. The lunches prepared were marvellous in tempting the appetite, while the waiters could not have been more attentive. The ladies who had the conducting of the sales at the counters did their parts well, and if any visitor had a spare quarter it some way or another was always brought forth, and some pretty article substituted therefore. An easy chair was voted on, the physicians of the town being pitted one against the other. Dr. Herod was awarded the chair, and $57 were realized by the voting. $20.50 was the amount an Afghan realized, and it was voted to Mrs. Howitt. The articles drawn, a certain sum being paid for each chance taken, were won as follows:—Doll's house, Mr. Harry Murton; breakfast shawl, Mrs. McKenzie; valuable ancient picture worked in silk, Sheriff Gow. Rev. Canon Dixon drew the picture for the Sheriff. About half-past ten o'clock Mr. John Griffiths was pressed as an auctioneer, and he sold a large quantity of the remaining goods at fair prices. The bazaar has been on the whole an exceedingly successful one.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—All ladies having an interest in the welfare of the Mechanics' Institute, or who desire to see its advancement should meet at the Institute room this evening at seven o'clock sharp. Arrangements are to be made to give a strawberry festival, the proceeds of which will be devoted to books. The object is a good one and there should be a large turn out this evening.

Mr. John O'Donohue is spoken of as the probable Reform nominee for North Ontario against Mr. W. H. Gibbs.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

NOTHING NEW.

LONDON, June 7th.

A Vienna correspondent denies that England and Russia have come to a preliminary agreement in regard to the terms of the treaty. Schouvaloff is now taking to St. Petersburg information relative to Great Britain's views, which will enable Russia to decide about the instructions to give her plenipotentiaries. Both Powers will thus go into the Congress with their hands free, although there is, of course, a kind of moral obligation not to insist upon a one-sided settlement of the points which each has confidentially mentioned as susceptible of compromise.

A despatch from Berlin says no representative of Roumania, Servia, or Montenegro will be admitted to the Congress.

St. Petersburg despatches say that although the attempt to arrange a mutual withdrawal of the Russian forces and the British fleet from the vicinity of Constantinople has been abandoned, both England and Russia have sought to lessen the danger of a collision by giving stringent orders to their respective commanders.

A Vienna despatch says:—The time was when such a meeting as the coming Congress would have been preceded by a private communion of Gortschakoff and Andrassy with Bismarck, but the fact that Andrassy does not leave Vienna until the 11th inst., and that an order has been issued to mobilize a hundred thousand Austrians instead of 50,000, guarantee that the ghost of the Triple Alliance will not trouble the deliberations of the Congress.

LATEST FROM THE EAST.

THE CONGRESS.

LONDON, June 7.

In the House of Commons last evening Sir Stafford Northcote reiterated the statement that Salisbury's circular represents the general views of England on the Eastern Question.

It is announced that France will send Waddington to Congress; Russia, Gortschakoff and Schouvaloff; Austria, Andrassy; Germany, Bismarck; and Turkey, Safvet Pasha.

A Constantinople despatch says that serious apprehensions are felt for a revolutionary outbreak in city.

British Representatives off for the Congress.

The Emperor of Germany.

LONDON June 7.—Beaconsfield starts for Berlin to-morrow to attend the Congress, Salisbury starts on Monday for the same destination.

BERLIN, June 7.—The Emperor is progressing favourably. He slept well and has no pain. The arrests of the Socialist conspirators still continue.

The Condition of the Emperor of Germany.

BERLIN, June 6.—The Emperor's condition causes great anxiety among the doctors attending him. The pains in the right arm are very violent. He is very restless, and suppuration and fever are feared. The Crown Prince has definitely assumed control of public affairs.

Another despatch says:—The condition of the Emperor is more encouraging. He slept well during the latter part of the night, and is now more free from pain and fever. The swelling is subsiding, but his appetite is bad.

It is expected that an extraordinary session of the German Parliament will be convened to discuss legislative measures for the repression of the present dangerous agitation. The Prussian Cabinet is also considering the advisability of adopting special measures to prevent the spread of Socialism.

A Berlin despatch says:—Bismarck's nervousness has so increased since the attempt on the life of the Emperor, that it is expected that it will be necessary to appoint a colleague.

Sad Drowning Accident in Goderich.

An Old "Mercury" Apprentice Drowned

On Wednesday afternoon, about five o'clock, James F. Dickson, of the Huron Signal, and R. R. Carey, a student in M. C. Cameron's office, went out for a sail on the lake. Neither understood anything about the management of a boat, and it is supposed, that in attempting to tack round, the boat upset and they perished. They were missed late in the evening, and their friends at once went in search of them. At about two o'clock on Thursday morning the boat was found on its side, about four miles from the coast and over two from the shore. Nothing further can be traced of the sad affair. The probability is that both sank to the bottom and will not come to the surface for several days. This affair is the saddest that has ever taken place here, and has cast a terrible gloom over the entire community. Mr. Dickson was 24 years of age, and Mr. Carey 25.

Mr. Dickson served his apprenticeship in the MERCURY Office, and worked in the Office till about 1872, when he went to Buffalo, where he worked for a time. Afterwards he and Mr. Allan purchased the Huron Signal. He was a young man of excellent parts, with more than average ability, and had a bright future before him. His old associates here deeply regret his loss, and extend their heartfelt sympathy to his father and family, who reside in Goderich.

OPENING of the new grocery, next door to Hazelton's furniture store, Upper Wyndham street, to-morrow by Mr. John A. Cameron. The store is well stocked with new groceries. Read advertisement in another column.

Departure of Lord Dufferin.

On Thursday afternoon the Corporation of Ottawa presented an address to the Governor-General in the City Hall, which was crowded with citizens. Their Excellencies were received with the heartiest enthusiasm. The address read by the Mayor spoke in the highest terms of the brilliant success of His Excellency's administration, and closed as follows:—

"That the citizens of Ottawa will long and gratefully remember your stay among them, Your Excellency may assuredly accept as an undeniable fact; and while they cannot part with you without regret, they feel flattered by the conviction that the happy incidents connected with your sojourn, in our northern land, shall not be considered unworthy of a place in your memory in the green island home of your fathers. The citizens of Ottawa cannot say farewell without an earnest prayer that both your Excellency and your noble consort, who has contributed so much by her delightful courtesy as a hostess to their enjoyment, may long live in the possession of happiness and prosperity."

Lord Dufferin made a feeling and felicitous reply, in which he referred to the pleasant intercourse he and Lady Dufferin had had with the citizens of Ottawa. After alluding to the prospects of the city in the future, he said, speaking in both Lady Dufferin's behalf and his own:—

"I can assure you that no two people can have ever passed six happier years than we have done beneath the roof of 'Rideau.' The consciousness of the many friendships we have made, of the kindly feeling displayed to us by persons of all creeds, classes and professions, will serve to enhance for the rest of our lives the happy recollection of these times. And I trust from henceforth, not only shall I myself have many opportunities of being of use to you, both collectively but individually, but that it will remain a tradition in my house to love and serve Canada and her people."

After the presentation of the address a levee was held, at which all the members of Government in town were present.

MONTREAL, June 6.—The Governor-General and Lady Dufferin and family leave Ottawa to-morrow by the Prince of Wales, arriving here at six to-morrow evening via the Lachine Rapids. The Prince of Wales will bring the Vice-Regal party to the Richileau and Ontario Navigation Company's steamer Quebec, on board of which the Montreal branch of the Royal Canadian Curling Club will take the opportunity of presenting His Excellency with an oil painting entitled "Curling in Canada." The party will stop at Quebec until the arrival of the Scandinavian, by which a portion of His Excellency's family will sail for England. Lord and Lady Dufferin will accompany them for a little distance out to sea, and will then be staken off by the Government vessel Druid, which will land them at Tadousac, where they will spend the summer months.

Mysterious Poisoning Case in St. Marys.

Much excitement was caused in St. Marys on Wednesday morning over the sudden and unexpected death of Robert Guest, second son of the late Mr. Robert Guest, for many years a merchant of that place. Mr. Guest, it appears, had returned home about a quarter before twelve on Tuesday night, and seemed to be in a sort of stupor. His elder brother asked him what was the matter, and put a few other questions, which he answered. He told his brother that he had been poisoned. Dr. Wilson was immediately sent for, and from the symptoms immediately suspected what was wrong, and took steps to relieve the stomach of the suspected cause, but before he had time the deceased rapidly sank, and at a quarter to one o'clock he breathed his last. How he obtained the drug, for what purpose, or whether his taking it was accidental, the result of a mistake, or an act of deliberate intention, has not been made clear. Mr. Bethune, of the bank, is an important witness. He, it appears, met him on the way, and thinks he came out of a doctor's or a druggist's office. The young man was in a great hurry and called out "I am poisoned; if I don't run, I'll die before I get home." This was also overheard by Mr. Beattie, who is also a witness in the case. The stomach has been submitted to Dr. Croft, of Toronto, who, it is understood, has found conclusive traces of poison. There is great excitement in town over this mysterious affair.

Deceased was a fine healthy young man, with a robust constitution, and a body remarkably well developed. Dr. Harrison, Coroner, being notified, gave notice of the holding of an inquest, which was opened at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The coroner informed the jury that on examining the body in the morning he found that decomposition had already set in, and he ordered a post mortem examination to be held, which had been done, and he had allowed the friends to place the body in the coffin, as an early funeral would be requisite. Several witnesses were examined, but owing to the strong suspicion of foul play, and in the interests of justice, the coroner and jury requested the evidence to be withheld until completed, which cannot of course be done until the analysis of the stomach has been made.

FROM THE SOUTH.—Mr. James Middleton, of New Orleans, Louisiana, and formerly of Guelph, is staying a few weeks in Ontario, visiting his friends here and elsewhere.

Not Quite So.

"It is among the most savage and debased tribes only that the condition and comfort of the horse have been neglected," but we believe there are many in civilized countries who are guilty of the same neglect, and without the excuse of the former; here all may avail themselves of the use of an article which has done more than anything else heretofore known to improve the condition and relieve the suffering of the horse. Those who will not use it will be the losers, their horses the sufferers; to avoid both use "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy," and you will be satisfied with the result. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

Daily Mercury.

FRIDAY EVE'G, JUNE 7, 1878.

The Socialist Movement.

The late attempts made on the life of the Emperor of Germany has aroused apprehension in more than one of the capitals in Europe that the Socialist movement is more dangerous and widespread than many are willing to believe. Such dangerous proportions has it assumed in Germany that it is suggested that the European representative at the Berlin Congress should be requested to consider the dangers threatening society from Socialism. The first attempt made on the life of the Emperor, a few weeks ago, was by a fanatic, who seemed to have no special purpose in his murderous work, and who had not the co-operation or countenance of associates. But Nobeling, who a few days ago shot at the Emperor, is a man of a different stamp, well educated, a member of the Socialistic organization which has its ramifications all over the country, and deliberately planned and sought to carry out his purpose of taking the Emperor's life.

It is strange that murder seems to be the first instinct of these socialists wherever they exist—whether known as such in Germany, Communists in France or Nihilists in Russia. Royalty is their target where it exists, and where it does not, as in the United States, those possessing power or wealth are looked upon as legitimate victims. Whenever there is suffering or discontent to any great extent, then on the Government or the head of it is put all the blame, and assassination is regarded as the only cure. The fine spun theories of the more intelligent of these Socialists are totally unknown or misunderstood by their ignorant followers or dupes, who appreciate nothing but brute force and revenge, as illustrated in the use of the dagger or the revolver. France had a terrible proof of this during her first Revolution, and the atrocities that marked the Reign of Terror were repeated with undiminished ferocity during the days of the Commune.

It will be a difficult matter to unearth or root out these socialist organizations. They have the faculty of preserving their secresy to a remarkable degree. Their congenial element is darkness, and it is only now and again that their stealthy movements give place to the noon-day bravado of a man like Nobeling. The wild schemes of the leaders have always an attraction for a certain class of men who think that their mission is to reform the world by wholesale slaughter. or by reducing everything to anarchy and chaos.

This socialistic element is causing no small uneasiness in the States, and more than one of the great leading journals are apprehensive that this year will witness a repetition of last summer's mining and railway riots, which were partly the work of socialist agitators. Only a few days ago 700 miners in Western Virginia struck work, took possession of a steamer, went to a neighboring mine, and forced every miner there to stop work under fear of being killed. They then seized a railway train, and returned home in triumph. Nothing has yet been done to arrest these rioters, and it is feared that the leniency of the authorities will give encouragement to a more wide-spread movement.

EVEN the Leader admits that the nomination of Mr. Hay for Centre Toronto is certain to cause the loss of that constituency to the Conservatives.

MR. JOHN GILLIES has commenced his canvass with spirit in North Bruce. He had a rousing meeting at Port Elgin on Wednesday.

THE benefits of protection are exemplified in the following:—The May failures in New York city were twenty-two more than in April, when they numbered seventy-three. The liabilities of the greater number, however, aggregate about $2,000,000 less than in April. For May they were $5,686,306; assets, $955,488.

THE Reformers of South Brant on Thursday nominated Mr. Wm. Patterson for the Commons, and Mr. A. S. Hardy for the Local Legislature. Both gentlemen accepted the nomination and addressed in Convention in vigorous and eloquent speeches. Their election is sure.

THERE is much to be said in favor of the general principle laid down by the critic that "it is not good to nauseate the public with political charges, because the readers of a newspaper are supposed to possess common sense, and when they see a party accused day after without solid proof in support of the accusation being brought to the front, they are very naturally apt to think that the charges are vexations and merely partisan." The Mail ought to take the hint.

NICHOLAS FLOOD DAVIN and John Joseph Hawkins are at least plucky. One tackles David Thompson in Haldimand and the other Mr. Mills in Bothwell. Davin says he is one of only three who thoroughly understands the protection question in Canada. We are afraid that after the election he will need a little protection from the effects of his own excessive vanity.

SAYS the Hamilton Times:—The pure-minded and patriotic Conservatives are equally delighted at having Mr. Robert Hay as the Tory candidate for Centre Toronto and shocked at the awful wickedness of what they are pleased to call the "Neebing Hotel Job." It may interest those virtuous patriots to know that their Toronto candidate, Mr. Robert Hay, was, along with Mr. Adam Oliver, one of the stockholders in the Neebing Hotel Company. So that hereafter, when they pour out the vials of their wrath on that Company, they will remember that a portion of their vinegar slops must needs fall on the head of Sir John's pet Toronto candidate.

Wellington County Council.

JUNE SESSION.

THURSDAY, June 6.

The Council resumed at ten o'clock this morning. The Warden in the chair, and all the members present.

A communication was received from Mr. Wm. Johnston, President of the Ontario School of Agriculture, inviting the Council to visit the Farm this afternoon.

It was agreed to accept the invitation, and proceed to the Farm at four o'clock.

SCHOOL INSPECTORSHIP.

John Munro, of Ottawa, applied to be appointed Inspector of Division No. 2. Certificates and recommendations accompanied the application.

Parmenio A. Switzer, M.A., of Elora, applied for the Inspectorship of Division No. 2. Certificates and recommendations accompanied the application.

Donald McCaig, applied to be appointed Inspector of Division No. 1. Certificates and recommendations, and largely signed petitions, asking for the appointment, from the Townships of Puslinch, Eramosa, Guelph, and Erin, accompanied the application.

Robert R. Cochrane, of Ottawa, applied for an Inspectorship. Certificates and recommendations accompanied the application.

David P. Clapp, of Stratford, applied for an Inspectorship, and enclosed certificates, testimonials, &c.

George A. Somerville, of the Guelph High School, made a similar application, with voluminous testimonials.

C. Macpherson, Principal of Harriston Public Schools, applied to be appointed an Examiner.

Alex. Petrie, of Guelph Township, applied to be re-appointed as an Examiner.

A. Dingwall Fordyce, of Fergus, asked to be re-appointed an Inspector.

The applications were all referred to the Education Committee.

Several accounts were presented and referred.

Mr. Anderson read a petitions from Col. Clarke, asking a grant of $300 to the Battalion band.

Moved by Messrs. Anderson and Godfrey that twenty-five cents a day be paid to each volunteer for each day while in camp performing annual drill. Carried.

The following petitions were presented:

From Jas. J. Milne and others, for a grant to improve streets in Palmerston.

From George Duffield and others, for a grant to improve the townline between Erin and Eramosa.

From the Council of Maryboro, for a grant to a certain sideroad.

From the Council of West Garafaxa, for a grant to improve the line between that Township and Luther.

From John R. Cook and others, for a grant to improve county line between Wellington and Peel.

From the Council of Drayton, for a grant to improve a street in the village.

From Edward McCarson and others, for a grant to improve the centre sideroad of Peel.

From Wm. L. Gordon and others, for a grant to improve a sideroad in Pilkington.

From Alex. Smith and others, for a grant to a sideroad in Puslinch.

From John Mulloy and others, for a grant to improve road between Peel and Waterloo.

From Hugh Mulloy and others, for a grant to complete the road between Brisbane to Erin village.

From William Broadwood and others, for a grant to improve townline between Peel and Maryboro.

From the Council of Pilkington, for a grant to improve a portion of the Waterloo road in said township.

From Geo. Martin and others, for a grant to improve a sideroad in the Township of Erin.

From Geo. Gerrie and others, for a grant to the Fergus and Orangeville Road.

From the Council of Peel, for grants to improve roads in and adjoining said township.

The petitions were referred to the Road and Bridge Committee.

A petition was presented from the Fergus Board of Education for a grant to aid in the erection of a High School in said village.

A petition was also presented for a grant to the Northern Agricultural Society; and an application from the directors of the South Riding and Guelph Township Agricultural Societies for a grant to the Central Exhibition.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

On motion of Messrs. Anderson and Prain the Finance Committee were requested to consider the claims of the Centre and West Riding Agricultural Societies to grants, at the same time they consider the petition of the South Riding Society.

The Council then adjourned.

The Council resumed at two o'clock in the afternoon.

The Warden read an application from James Kilgour for the office of Inspector of Public Schools for Division No. 2. Referred to the Education Committee.

Moved by Messrs. Leslie and Nicol, that leave be given to introduce a By-law for raising money in advance of the assessment, and be now read a first and second time. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. McDonald and Robinson, that an appropriation of $100 be made to the commissioners of the County road from Teviotdale to the boundary of Minto, for the purpose of cutting down and gravelling a hill in the village of Clifford.

The resolution was referred to the County Roads Committee.

Moved by Mr. Leslie and Nicol, that leave be given to introduce a By-law to assess the several Townships in a sum equivalent to the Government grant, and that it now be read a first and second time. Carried.

The Council went into Committee on the By-law, and the blanks were filled with the following sums:—Amaranth, $400; Arthur, $500; Eramosa, $600; Erin, $800; East Garafraxa, $400; West Garafraxa, $480; Guelph Township, $700; Luther, $400; Maryboro, $600; Minto, $600; Nichol, $400; Peel, $760; Pilkington, $400; Puslinch, $700. Total, $7,740.

REPORT OF THE COUNTY PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

That the plans for the additions and alterations of the County gaol with a view to increase the accommodation have been submitted to the Inspector of Prisons and have been approved by him, and also have received the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council. They have submitted the plans and specifications to tender and find that the tender of Geo. Pike, for the whole work, $4,945 is the lowest, and he offering unexceptional security for the performance of the work, and recommend that his tender be accepted and that the work be proceeded with forthwith, and that the architect, Mr. Hall, be inspector of the works. With a view to inform the Council respecting the urgent necessity of the extension of the gaol, they have made the following copy from the report of the Inspector of Prisons, under date 20th February: "On examination of gaol register it shows that as many as forty-three prisoners have been in custody at one time during the past two months. This number not only overcrowded the gaol in every part, but renders classification or even proper supervision of the premises next to impossible. This state of things has demonstrated to the County Council the necessity of increasing the gaol accommodation; and I am glad to learn that plans are being prepared for the carrying out of that object." Farther, it appears that there are only twenty-four cells in the gaol available. The following statement shows that for the last six years the average days of prisoners' terms in the gaol, taken from the records: 1873—4,450; 1874—4,640; 1875—5,356; 1876—5,532; 1877—7,320; first half of 1878—4,748. The Committee recommend that the account of J. M. Bond & Co., $4.85, be paid. They asked that $500 be placed to the Committee's credit.

Messrs. Elliott and Sweetnam moved the adoption of the report.

Some discussion ensued.

Moved in amendment by Mr. McMullen, seconded by Mr. Bennett, that the report be referred back to the Committee with instructions to strike out all that portion relating to increase of gaol accommodation, as there are no communications from the Inspector of Prisons or other authority urging the erection of the same nor has there been any presentment by our Grand Juries complaining of or recommending additions to our present gaol accommodation.

The amendment was carried, only five or six voting against it.

The Warden read a report from C. J. Wheelock on a report of the Burwell line, between Peel and Maryboro. A plan was submitted which showed that the part taken off George Kidney's property, lot 19, 17th con., Maryboro, would be 19 perches. Mr. Kidney values this at $200, but Mr. Wheelock considered that $50 would be a high price for it, and would not recommend the Council to change the travelling road from its present position.

John Taylor, County Engineer, reported having examined the bridge on the boundary line between the townships of Guelph and Puslinch across the Speed. He thought a 60 feet span would meet the requirements of the position. The present structure cannot be repaired. The probable cost of a new bridge would be $500.

Dr. Maudsley reported that the bridge on the English Creek, on the town line between Arthur and Maryboro' was in a dangerous state.

The reports were referred.

The Council went into Committee on By-law for raising money in advance of assessment.

The blanks were filled with the sum of $40,000.

On the Council resuming the Warden read a petition from the Council of Maryboro' asking the County to assume and gravel a portion of the centre sideroad of the township.

A report from the Commissioners of the Elora and Saugeen road, between Alma and Bosworth was read and referred to the Committee on County roads.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

ST. THOMAS, June 6.

The examination of ministerial character was continued.

Under the disciplinary question, after a careful and thorough investigation, Robert Bell was declared separated from the ministry and membership of the Church.

The Sabbath School, Contingent, and Missionary Committes were appointed.

The representatives to attend the General Conference were elected. For the Guelph District:—Thos. Hillier, W. H. Storey, Donald Wallace. Wellington District—Robert Hay, J. E. Carson, W. Tasker.

The next question was taken up, viz., "Who are now recommended to the Conference to be received into foll conditions with the Conference and ordained?"

The following were recommended:—Joseph M. Hodson, B.A., Edwin S. Shibley, Hugh T. Crossley, W. C. Hackett, John W. Cooley, Samuel C. Sellery, B. D., Alfred M. Phillipps, B. D.

The annual Educational Society meeting in connection with the Conference, was held in the evening in St. George-street Church.

Rev. Edward B. Ryckman, M.A., President of the Conference, briefly pointed out that the Methodist Church of Canada is endeavoring to give every minister a broad liberal education, both theological and literary. This year no less than some seventy probationers were being educated in our Colleges at Cobourg, Montreal, and Sackville. Two things, said the President, we hope. First, that Methodism will ever keep in mind to aim at the best mental culture; second, to keep that higher mental culture in its own place. We insist upon its importance, but let it never be forgotten that there is something that must sanctify this mental culture.

Able addresses were also given by Rev. Dr. Burwash and Rev. Mr. Gaetz.

WELLINGTON DISTRICT.

Drayton, James E. Dyer, David A. Moir; Ezra A. Healey, supernumerary. Peel, John Hough (Glenallen), Samuel O. Irvine (Hollin); Henry Reed, superannuated. Howick, Edwin Fessant (Gorrie), Charles Deacon; E. Curry, supernumerary. Fordwich, Robert J. Husband. Mount Forest, Chas. Lavell, M.A. Kenilworth, R. C. Henders. Listowel, John G. Scott. Harriston, Jos. R. Gundy. Palmerston, Chas. E. Stafford. Clifford, James Whiting. Arthur, Wm. Mills, George Turk; John B. Williams left without a station at his own request. Holstein, Joseph Deacon, Richard Redmond. Trowbridge, Joseph H. Stinson. Moorefield, John R. Isaac. Wallace, Henry Berry (Listowel); John Armstrong, superannuated. Luther, John Sanderson.

Congregational Union.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Congregational Union began at London on Wednesday evening. A large number of ministers and delegates were present.

After devotional exercises the Rev. R. W. Wallace delivered an address of Welcome.

The Rev. J. A. R. Dickson, of Toronto, the retiring chairman, then delivered the address customary to the vacating of the chair. The address at first feelingly alluded to the vacancies which death had made in the ministerial ranks during the year. Four veterans had fallen—Rev. Wm. Clarke, the Rev. A. J. Parker, the Rev. E. J. Sherrill, and the Rev. M. Sanders. The address then took up the question of the "Elements needful to success in denominational work." (1) A pure ministry. (2) Strict conformity to the law of Christ in denominational work. (3) Fellowship in and between the churches. The address was brief, pointed, and couched in expressive language.

A short business session was held, at which the hours for meeting were named, and the nomination of the Rev. Charles Duff, M.A., of Speedside, and the Rev. J. B. Silcox, of Toronto, confirmed as minute secretaries.

THE Tory organs are now hot foot after Mr. Turcotte for supporting the Quebec Government. Their stock of expletives are nearly exhausted in denouncing him for his alleged treachery. Mr. Price also comes in for a share of their abuse. He was elected during his absence in Europe, and was telegraphed to by the ultra Tories to hasten back to Quebec and help by his vote to drive Mr. Joly out of office. He arrived on Sunday, and on ascertaining the true position of things he refused to countenance the factious schemes of the Tories, and now votes straight with the Government.

Two or three colds in succession will, with many constitutions, securely establish the seeds of cumsumption in the system, thus converting what was originilly a simple, curable affection, into one generally fatal. Ordinary prudence, therefore, makes it the business of every one to take care of a cold until it is got rid of. Fortunately "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers" are thoroughly adapted to remeve speedily all coughs and colds, and are equally effective in the primary stages of consumption asthma, and bronchitis. Harold the Outlaw

The Gauger of Skene.

These frantic cries, the screams of the child, the hoarse shouts of the brutal murderers, produced a din which drowned the noise of what would otherwise have seemed an approaching avalanche. None of the strugglers heard it, but presently it burst upon in the form of several men bounding into their midst. There was a fearful shock. Joe was dashed against one of the rocky walls; Allan against the other; Gilmour was felled to the earth by a blow sufficient to prostrate an ox; and Lizzie and the child were caught in a pair of arms whose very touch was safety.

"Lizzie, my darling, I am here to save you," where the ecstatic words which sounded in her ears. She looked wildly round, and saw the face dearest to her in all the world.

"Harold, oh, Harold!" she cried, in tones of indescribable joy—flung her arms round him, and swooned on his breast.

"Saved! saved!" ejaculated Myra, as she comprehended the truth, and sank on her knees, with her hands clasped, and her eyes raised to heaven.

Stunned by the shock, and paralysed by astonishment, the three murderers lay upon the floor where they had been hurled, each gazing up at the man who bent over him, with the muzzle of a loaded pistol pointed at his head. Dixon thus stood over Allan McPherson, Kenneth over Joe. Nip stood guarding the entrance, with Dougal McCallum cowering behind him, while Harold, as he held Lizzie to his heart, kept one foot firmly planted on Gilmour's breast. What a tableaux; what a scene of intense dramatic completeness the flaring torch-light fell upon, rendered more grimly terrible and significant by the black open mouth of the well. It lasted several moments; then came the deep, stern voice of Harold, hoarse with passion, as he pressed his foot with vehemence on the writhing form of Gilmour.

"Oh, villain—damned detestable villain—if your miserable, craven soul had courage enough you would end your vile life by plunging into that abyss where you would have sent your victims. By heaven, I swear that will be your portion if aught should come upon my wife from this last outrage. Lie there; stir not, if you would not have a bullet in your brains. Nip, you take charge of him while I carry my poor, unconscious wife to where her senses can be restored. If he attempt to rise, shoot him as you would a mad dog."

"I shall," said Nip, cocking his pistol, and taking Harold's place over the prostrate Gilmour, who lay trembling with terror.

Harold lifted the inanimate Lizzie tenderly in his arms, though hampered in doing so by Alfred, who also nestled there.

"Give the child to me. I will take charge of him," said Myra, springing up and holding out her hands to receive the boy.

"Thanks, lady. Come with us. You too, shall be protected and righted. Dougal, follow, and be on hand if I should need your help."

He gave Alfred to Myra's keeping, wound his arms still more tenderly round Lizzie, and bore his precious burden from that horrified place to the kitchen, where a lamp was burning. Myra accompanying them with heart bursting thankfulness and a wild tumult of hope and joy in her bosom caused by the words he had addressed to her. Her brain, too, was reeling, and it was only her firmer, more self relying mind which saved her from fainting, as Lizzie had done, when heaven's own light and salvation had dashed in as they had done on their utter despair.

When Harold and the rescued ones had left the underground chamber there was silence for a minute or two among those who remained. The baffled murderers lay still, being fully commanded by the pointed pistols in the steady hands and the resolute faces of the men who held them. Surprise and fear had cowed them utterly.

Dixon was the first to speak. Allan's fascinated eyes had been fixed on him from the first, and the face up to which they gazed was the face of a concious avenger.

"Now, Allan McPherson," he hissed; "the time has come for the past to be accounted for—the time has come for vengeance and retribution. You thought you had escaped both it and me—you thought I had gone with the life you had blighted to some distant shore, to die in exile of the misery you had caused. Fool as well as villain, you neither calculated the baseness of your cruel deed nor the measureless hate of the man whose dearest earthly hopes you destroyed. If I could not live for happiness I could live for revenge—and I have. I have watched for it, waited for it, and now is it mine. Listen. The child lives—lives to deprive you of Benachray."

"You lie!" shouted Allan, stung to a rage which made him forget the danger in which he lay. He made a motion to spring to his feet, but a significant motion of the pistol sent him back with a recoil.

"Take care," said Dixon, in deep and deadly tones, "If you value your life—worthless enough to every one but yourself—move not from your place. You say I lie; you think the child is dead. If that were so I would have had revenge on you ere now—if that were so I would scatter your brains on these walls at this moment. Let the fact that I spare your life now be proof to you that I have the means of striking you a heavier blow. I have frustrated your schemes; I have baffled your machinations to obtain Benachray, and in doing that I have taken the most effectual way to cripple you—henceforth you shall live a beggar and die a beggar's death, and feel in every pang of disappointment and remorse that you bear the punishment due to the destroyer of innocence and virtue. This, Allan McPherson, this is my revenge and your retribution—let it torture you by day and terrify you by night till you go to your last account, and meet her as your accuser at the bar of the Eternal.

A fierce and horrible curse burst from Allan's lips. But for the glittering rim of that pistol's muzzle he would have sprung like a wild beast at Dixon's throat; and even more fear-producing than the pistol was the menace in Dixon's eye, which spoke of a resolution fixed, rentless, and certain to be carried out if Allan dared to move.

Joe and Gilmour were kept in check in the same way—the one by Kenneth, the other by Nip. Joe's aspect and attitude were a study in themselves. He crouched in a corner much like a savage animal than a human being—glowering, growling, and writhing from side to side in the intensity of impotent rage. His face was bleeding from a wound received on the rock against which he had been hurled so vehemently by Harold. A softer skull would have been fractured; but Joe's was only indented to an extent sufficient to cause the blood to flow, and render his aspect the more sanguinarly ferocious.

Of the three, Gilmour was most cool and reflective. For a dozen times at least his inward thought was—"What cursed chance has brought them here to-night? He has me now, but I'll be even with him yet. If he puts the brat and its mother into Mount Cairn, I'll put him on the gallows. Gad, how fortunate it was they came before the deed was done. Had the brat been tossed down the well, he'd have certainly killed me. My cue is now patience, but my time will come again. He had his foot on me, too—ah, I shall make him rue it; d——n me, if I don't."

Unconsciously he gnashed his teeth in the bitterness of his hate—Nip thought he meant to make a spring. He wished he would, for then he would have had power to shoot him, and nothing would have given him greater pleasure at that moment than to blow out the brains of the man who had brought such mischief on them all. Nip thought Harold was a fool not to have done so at first, and his fingers twitched nervously about the trigger of the pistol, itching to press it with fatal purpose.

But Gilmour was too prudent to give Nip this chance of gratifying his feelings. Perhaps he divined what they were, and knew but a small movement on his part would serve as a pretext for the discharge of the pistol which was held so disagreeably near him.

It is no doubt a pleasure to find cruel, bloody, wicked men so signally baffled and humiliated those wretches were at the very moment of consummating their iniquity; but the spectacle is not a pleasing one to look upon, and we willingly change it for another far more interesting—viz., the scene which was taking place in the large, old-fashioned kitchen above, whither Harold had conveyed the inanimate form of his darling.

He bore her to the wooden settle; seated himself there—his arms still holding her with infinite tenderness, and bending over and gazing into her pale, still face. He kissed her passionately, and called her repeatedly by the endearing names which she had been accustomed to hear from his lips. "Lizzie—Lizzie, my darling Lizzie, look up. You are safe now, my own wee wife—safe, safe with me. Look up dearest, look up and speak to me. Oh, God! she hears me not. She is pale and white; she breathes not; they have killed her!"

"No, no!" exclaimed Myra, who with Alfred in her arms was tearfully watching the tender scene. "She is breathing. I see the rising and falling of her bosom. Speak to her again. The sound of your voice will bring her back to consciousness sooner than anything.

"Oh, how thin and wasted are her features," said Harold, as anxiously and earnestly he gazed on the motionless countenance. "What sorrow and suffering she has endured. And I have sought her every where in vain. I would be doing so still had accident not revealed the words in her letters. Lizzie, Lizzie! God of mercy, don't take her from me at the very moment I have recovered her! Lady, tell me truly, do you think she lives?"

"I am sure of it, sir. It was the sudden joy at your arrival that plunged her into insensibility. She kept her senses in despair, but the unexpected salvation overcame her. She will recover ere long. I can see the color returning to her lips. See, see, her cheeks are being tinged with red. Speak to her once more, sir. It is your voice which will soonest break the spell."

Again and again Harold kissed her lips, her cheeks, her brow, uttering in tones of love and tenderness all manner of endearment. The swoon must have been deep, deep that closed her ears to their heart-quickening accents. But there is a subtle power of reviving strength in the mere presence of the object of fondest affection. The breath from his lips had a restoring influence ere the tones of his voice were heard. Slowly, slowly, but with sure motion the dark cloud rose from her spirit, where it had settled in total night. Soon a struggling effort of her own physical nature was put forth; at length her ears heard the voice against which death alone could close them, she heaved a long relieving sigh, and opened her eyes.

"Lizzie, my love, my own; thank God you are returning to consciousness."

"Harold, Harold — oh, Harold, my Harold," she wildly exclaimed, flung her arms round him, and clung to him with hysterical intensity.

He pressed her to his breast, he fondly caressed her, he soothed her with a thousand assuming words.

"Is it true?" she gasped. "Oh, Myra, is it true? Has Harold come? Are we saved?"

"Yes, dear, saved! Is it true, quite true. A blessed deliverance has come to us."

They thought she would swoon again under the excess of joy. Then the loss of reason was apprehended, so wild and extravagent were her demonstrations. A happy thought struck Myra. She laid Alfred besides Lizzie on Harold's breast. The moment the mother saw and felt him the fountain of tears in her heart was opened, which calmed and relieved her, till gradually she realised the fact of their deliverance by her long expected husband.

"Where are they—oh, Harold, where are these dreadful men?" she shuddering-ly asked.

"In the underground chamber, where they carried you. Our friends are guarding them there till we are ready to depart."

"To depart. Oh, Heaven, to depart from this place of long imprisonment. We are ready; let us go, my love, at once—at once. I shall not be sure it is not a dream till we have crossed the loch and left the island far behind. Come Myra, let us wait not another moment."

"You must not go as you are, love," said Harold. "You and the lady and little Alf must have wrappings to shield you from the night air. You can find such, I hope.

"No, no. Do not let us waste an instant. These men may break forth and hinder us. For Heaven's sake, Harold, let us fly at once."

"My darling, you have nothing more to fear from them. They are overpowered, helpless, impotent. We shall depart as soon as you are properly prepared, but there is no haste on the score of danger—none—none; the power of our enemies is broken—for ever broken."

"But you will go with us to our room for the things," said Lizzie. "You must, indeed you must, for I cannot lose sight of you."

Harold smilingly agreed, and Lizzie began to drag him impulsively from the kitchen, Myra taking the lamp to light them on the way.

Notwithstanding the assurance she had received, and the presence of Harold, which was assurance in itself, Lizzie rushed about in nervous haste, snatching up here a shawl and there a cloak, and calling all the time to Myra to be quick in doing the same—Harold delighting himself the while by fondling his boy, and gazing at his plump and healthy loveliness.

"How he has grown, the rogue; how he has grown!" he joyously exclaimed. "Not a bit has he suffered from imprisonment."

Alfred looked at first rather dubiously at his father's glowing face. The intervening months had effaced the child's infantile recollection of the countenance he had once joyed to see and he gazed at it now as at the face of a stranger. But its bright beaming affection inspired his little heart with confidence, and he laughed to him so pleasedly that Harold declared he remembered and recognized him. So he tossed him in his arms as he had done at Glenroy, and the little fellow screamed with delight.

While thus the joyful father dandled and caressed his recovered boy, Myra and Lizzie hastily gathered together a few warm wrappings from their ample store of clothes. It took them but a few minutes to do this, so eager were they to be gone.

"Now, Harold, we are ready, cried Lizzie, breathlessly, and Myra appearing in the doorway also prepared, thus addressed Harold—

"I must beg your protection also for a little time. I have been fearfully wronged as my imprisonment here has been much longer than dear Lizzie's. Let me escape with you. Once I am a safe distance from Benachray I will not burden you further."

"Myra, don't say that," cried Lizzie, impulsively. "Harold will protect you always. I will tell him your story and he will see you righted."

"Lady, believe me, I will," said Harold, with respectful earnestness.

"Heaven bless you," sobbed Myra. "The worst of my wrongs are irremediable, but I have rights which can still be maintained. Oh, Lizzie, if I could but recover my child my joy would be complete.

Harold hearing this opened his lips to speak, but he checked the impulse, feeling that the time had not yet come for communicating the transporting intelligence which was in store for her.

They were now ready to go. Myra went first, carrying the light. Harold followed, with Alfred on one arm, and Lizzie clinging closely to the other.

On the threshold of what had been her prison chamber so long he kissed her tenderly, and whispered—"Come dearest, come to freedom and to happiness."

SERIOUS ACCIDENT NEAR ST. CATHARINES.—While Edward Nicholson was, on Tuesday, driving from the Mountain with his mother, a young woman named Richings, and a young child, and when nearing the 15-Mile Creek hill, his horse showed symptoms of restlessness, and Nicholson got out and led the animal down the hill and across the bridge. He then tried to get into the buggy, but the beast again became restive, and before he could reach its head and quiet it, the horse backed against the abutment of the bridge, and the animal, the buggy, and its occupants fell down into the valley, a distance of thirty feet. The horse was instantly killed and the buggy shattered. The child fell upon a heap of stones, and it is supposed received a concussion of the brain, which will probably cause death. Mrs. Nicholson had two ribs broken and her shoulder badly hurt, together with other bruises. Miss Richings had three ribs broken, her thigh bone dislocated and her shoulder blade broken.

A favourable reply to the application of the Orangemen of Montreal, for the use of a church on July 12th, for the purpose of worship, has been received from the officials of Stanley-street Presbyterian Church, of that city.

The Saskatchewan River is exceedingly low, and there is no reason to expect a rise, as there was little snow in the Rocky Mountains last winter.

Special Attraction.

We offer during the balance of this month wonderful attractions to intending buyers and Staple Dry Goods, Millinery, Carpets, Silks, Mantles, Jackets, and General Dress Goods.

Our stock stands unrivalled in the Dominion. The taste is exquisitely beautiful, the value s the best to be found, the most polite and courteous attention, is paid to all ranks of respectable purchasers and the best of satisfaction is guaranteed to all who make their purchases of us. We submit for this week the greatest bargains ever before shown to the inhabitants of Guelph in

Black Silks,

for ladie's Mantles or Dresses: We unhesitatingly say that we are offering an advantage of 20 per cent under any establishment in Guelph. We are showing a nice stock of Moonlight Trimmings, Moonlight Vellings and Floral Trimmings.

These goods are quite new.

In Ladies' Millinery, Hats and Bonnets

we excell in taste, style, and novelty all previous efforts. The young lady at the head of this Department combines the most refined taste with lofty artistic ideas, making at once her department the reception room for ladies who are in quest of all that is novel and excellent.

Jackets, Mantles.

We congratulate the ladies of this section in having so rich and excellent a lot of Ladies Silk Paramatta and Tweed Jackets, exquisite styles. Also an endless variety of the material and styles to select from.

Our stock of all classes of general goods is full and complete, and we remind our old customers and friends that we only keep new, fresh, sound and satisfactory goods, satisfying all who purchase them. We are straightforward in dealing, and represent goods just as they are. We wage war against old, motheaten, bankrupt stocks, kept by second class stores, and again warn the public against such trash Call and see the wonderful man, and you will receive the best value for your money.

The Quebec Legislature.

QUEBEC, June 5.

Mr. Gagnon moved the address to reply to the speech, and spoke strongly in favor of the retrenchment policy of the Government.

Mr. Nelson, of Montreal, seconded the motion, and alluded to the striking fact that $100,000 yearly would be saved by the abolition of the Legislative Council, Railway Commission, and district magistrates. He also referred to the significant fact that Mr. Bachand negotiated his last loan at six per cent., while Mr. Church was forced to pay seven. He held that this was conclusive proof of the confidence felt in monetary circles in the financial ability and economical principles of those at the head of the Government.

Mr. Chapleau moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Church:—"That this House regrets that the Government has seen fit to accept and continue in office though not supported by a majority of the House." While approving on the whole of the Government programme, he wished the House to establish that, while desiring to exercise the strictest economy in the public expenditure, it regretted that the actual Government had not seen fit to abdicate power in the face of a minority.

Mr. Joly, in reply, said that from the manner in which the amendment was brought forward, the Opposition wished to lay it down that all the measures of the Government were deserving of support, but that the Government itself should be kicked out. It was desired to vote no confidence in them. Where was the great constitutional question they were going to raise? There was not a word about it. Why had they dropped this point? Some of the most distinguished gentlemen opposed to the Government in the Opposition ranks, had made themselves prominent by their antagonism to the Government on this point. But it was notorious that the Government had been sustained, that the Lieut.-Governor had exercised his liberty, and had been fully justified, and that he, who had always been blamed even by his own friends, for his moderation, now, after brutal treatment by a packed House, and after appeal to the country, stood before them, the representative of a small majority, it was true, but a large increase from an infinitely smaller minority.

Mr. Molleur proposed in amendment to the amendment of Mr. Chapleau, that all the words after "that" in the amendment be struck out, and that the following words be substituted:—

That the House entirely approves of the economical policy inaugurated by the Government, and hopes that they will continue to put it in execution.

A discussion ensued upon a point of order raised by Mr Chapleau, who contended that the counter amendment of Mr. Molleur was simply an affirmative of the main motion.

The Speaker ruled that the motion was in order. A division then took place on Mr. Molleur's amendment, when 32 voted for and 32 against, making the vote a tie.

In response to cries of "chair," the Speaker announced that he could not but support his own ruling.

The debate was then adjourned.

It is expected that the present session of the Quebec Legislature will extend over a month.

In 1877 it cost Huron County $4,305.41 for the care of 78 indigents.

John Taylor, Brigham Young's successor, gets $445,000 from tithings this year.

J. Fleming & Co., of Mount Forest, are now shipping large quantities of butter direct to Glasgow.

The death is announced of Count Baraguay d'Hilliers, Marshall of France, one of the oldest and most experienced veterans of the French service.

The Dominion agent at Duluth, Mr. Graham, who had just returned from St. Paul, reported that he had induced the railway authorities to alter their arrangements so that freight and live stock will be forwarded to Fisher's Landing as quickly as passengers. This change will be greatly appreciated by emigrants to Manitoba, who formerly have met with some delay at Glyndon.

A despatch was received on Thursday by Hon. Mr. Huntington, conveying the sad intelligence of the death, at Boston, yesterday, of Mrs. Huntington, wife of his son.

Mr. Allan Gillmor, of Ottawa, has given $10,000 toward the endowment fund of Queen's College, Kingston.

The Ontario, from Duluth, has arrived at Goderich, and brings a number of farmers from Manitoba who have taken up land and are now returning for their families. They speak very highly of the Prairie Province. Business is reported brisk in Winnipeg, commercial travellers having succeeded in making large sales.

Dr. Falk, Prussian Minister of Public Instruction, has definitely withdrawn his resignation.

Nottawasaga on Thursday carried an extra bonus of $20,000 in aid of the Hamilton and North-Western Railway.

Mr. Layard, British Ambassador at Constantinople, has received the Grand Cross of toe Order of the Bath.

The United States Senate amendment increasing the army to 25,000 men has been agreed to by a vote of 39 to 19.

The Pope has appealed to the Powers to protect the interests of Roman Catholics while they are regulating the affairs of Turkey.

The Grangers of the counties of York and Simcoe held their pic-nic at Barrie on Thursday. Between four and five thousand people were on the grounds.

The proposal to group several of the townships of Bruce for the purpose of submitting a by-law to aid the Stratford and Lake Huron Railway has been voted down by the County Council by a vote of 24 to 9.

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

TERRIBLE COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

Two Hundred and Thirty-two Men Killed.

LONDON, June 7.—A colliery explosion is reported in Evanswood pit colliery, at Haydock, six miles south of Wigan. The number in the pit at the time is variously stated at from 200 to 250. Many have been brought out badly injured. The larger proportion are believed to be killed, but it is impossible to explore the mine in consequence.

The explosion in the coal pit at Haydock to-day shook the earth for miles. The first explorer descended the shaft five minutes after the explosion, and others followed. Ten men were rescued alive and were sent to the surface, when they died almost immediately, and others suffered much from after-damp. Eight other men are alive and have taked refuge in the workings of the mine. Two hundred and thirty-two men are dead. The explorers state that they found bodies decapitated reduced to shapeless masses, and some of them blown to pieces. It is expected the corpses will be brought up by midnight. Large crowds surrounded the mouth of the pit. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR. — The latest from Berlin is to the effect that the Emperor is progressing favorably. Arrests of Socialist conspirators continue. The simple fact about the rumored regency is that both of the Emperor's arms are wounded, and he is unable to write. Hence the absolute necessity of entrusting his ordinary routine duties to somebody.

A HAIR THIEF.—Sometime ago an agent from an establishment in London, visited Dundas and collected a large quantity of hair from ladies of the town, taking orders to have it put in fashionable switches, etc. but he has not since been heard from. No doubt the agent collected the hair and pocketed the profits himself, and this may prove a warning to those who have surplus hair to hang on to it in future.

Local News.

BRISK westerly to northerly winds and cloudy weather with rain.

THERE is a fine field of peas in pod on the Brock Road, a short distance from Guelph.

THE equalized assessment of the County, as struck by the County Council, is $20,477,661. Last year it was $18,698,237.

DURING the ensuing week Rev. Mr. Manchee and Dr. Cowan will be on duty at the Guelph General Hospital.

BEAVER LODGE of Good Templars intend holding a strawberry festival in their rooms on Monday evening, the 17th inst.

DELAPIDATED BRIDGE.—The Eramosa bridge is to-day ornamented with a large plank, stuck up end ways, to warn the travelling public of a dangerous hole in the wagon track. Mr. W. J. Little's horse and bread wagon had a narrow escape at the same place.

CORRECTION. — In a paragraph in last week's paper we stated that among those who waited on Mr. Goldie on the arrival of the train from Toronto on Tuesday, the 28th ult., was Mr. Duncan McMillan, Erin. We are informed that this is incorrect, as Mr. McMillan was not present.

THE Young People's Aid Society of the Norfolk-street Methodist Church have decided to hold their open air concert on Wednesday, 12th, instead of Thursday, as announced. Parties buying tickets will please notice the change of date on the programmes.

ALTERATION.—Tenders are asked for by Mr. C. J. Soule, architect for the work required on the premises lately occupied by Messrs. McIntosh, Innes & Hill. The second flat has been leased to the St. George's Society, to be converted into a hall, and will be the largest for entertainments, meetings, &c., outside of the Town Hall, when completed.

CHEAP FARES.—Mr. A. Burrows, of the Dominion Telegraph Company, Guelph, has been appointed agent of the Dominion line of steamers from Quebec, and the Hamburg Packet line from New York. The fares have been cut down very low. The tickets issued for both routes are good to return any time during the present year, and by any vessel of the respective lines. The first-class fare by the Hamburg line from Guelph to Paris and return is $134.10 and the highest fare of the Dominion line is $135.65, railway travelling across England and on the continent being included.

SCHOOL INSPECTORS AND EXAMINERS.—There was a large attendance of school teachers at the County Council this morning, watching the voting on the appointment of Inspectors and Examiners. The voting was done by ballot, and the following are the elected officers: Inspector for the first Division—Geo. A. Somerville, mathematical teacher in the Guelph High School; for the second Division—David P. Clapp, of Stratford. The salaries are $1,200 per annum each. Examiners—Alex. Petrie and C. McPherson. The particulars of the vote will be found in the Council report.

POLICE COURT.—There was a large batch this morning before the Police Magistrate to answer to charges of violating the law. Albert Stewart said his horse ran away, and that he had no intention to run a race against time on Wyndham Street on Thursday morning. Although not a usual thing to try and stop a horse by applying the whip, as one witness holds the defendant had done, the magistrate evidently considered it a proper method of holding a horse in, and so dismissed the case. "Buck" Rae and Wm. Henry were next called, charged with disorderly conduct on Wednesday evening. Rae was dismissed but Kennedy was fined $3 and costs. John Clayton charged John Hurley with assault and battery. The magistrate considered a dollar and costs sufficient to liquidate the bill against the majesty of the law.

VEGETABLE MARKET.—This market was largely attended both by dealers and others, and seldom has been seen such a large attendance of people who had various kinds of produce to dispose of. There were some very fine productions in the vegetable line, grown by several local gardeners. A cucumber, eighteen inches long, created some attraction as it is an instance of rare occurrence at this season. Everything in the vegetable line was offered for sale. In nearly all cases the growers disposed of their products pretty freely, as the prices asked were low. We quote the average prices as obtained from reliable sources: Potatoes, 80c. per bag; cucumbers, 25c. to 30c. each; pickled cucumbers, 30c. per 100; carrots, 15c. to 20c. per peck; parsnips, 15c. to 20c. per peck; beets, 15c. per peck; lettuces, 3c. to 5c. per bunch; raddishes, 3c. to 5c. per bunch; rhubarb, 5c. per bunch; asparagus, 5c. per bunch; parsley, 2c. per bunch; spinnach, 8c. to 10c. per peck; young onions, 2c to 5c. The following is the average prices of vegetable plants:—Cabbage, 20c. per 100; celery, 60c. per 100; tomatoes, 10c. per dozen. There was also a large quantity of dairy produce for sale, which met with ready purchasers. A large quantity of wool and potatoes were on the market to-day, and exchanged hands at prices to be found in the commercial column.

LATEST FROM THE EAST.

ENGLAND ABANDONS MOBILIZATION.

Serious Trouble in Constantinople.

LONDON, June 8.—The English Government has abandoned the intention of mobilization of first army corps at Aldershot. They have also informed the Indian Government that contingent troops are not required. Duke of Cambridge will start for Malta next week.

It is rumoured that serious troubles have arisen in Constantinople.

THE Guelph Rifles have been served with new arms.

TEMPERANCE TENT.—This tent has been pitched in the old place on Woolwich street, and will be opened to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock, by the Rev. Mr. Haskell. d1t

IN the absence of the Rev. Messrs. Brock and Ryckman, who are attending the London Conference now being held in St. Thomas, Rev. Dr. Carroll will conduct the services to-morrow in the Dublin Street Methodist Church—morning and evening, and Rev. Ephraim Stevenson the services in the Norfolk Street Church.

How to Form a Church Choir.

Rev. E. P. Cachemaille, M. A., writes:—"In an ordinary church like ours, the choir should be simply the leaders or representatives of the whole body of the congregation in the musical part of Divine worship. Now, as the congregation consists of both sexes, both sexes also should have a place in the choir, which should be composed of such members of the congregation, of whatever rank in life, as are gifted of God with rather more than the average of musical taste or ability. But as the choir undertakes to lead the worship of the congregation in singing God's praises, it is necessary that they all should themselves be devout worshippers, so that, as far as man can judge, they shall be singing with the heart, and the understanding as well as the voice. Therefore, all the adult members of a church choir ought to be regular communicants, and should feel it their duty and privilege to set a good example of general steadiness and consistency of conduct, or, at any rate, in those matters give no cause for offence. Upon such principles as these, I propose that our future choirs should be formed; and I earnestly trust that not a few of our congregation will bestir themselves, and do their best to make our church services what they ought to be, as far as the music is concerned. A church choir should not consist of children, nor, as is sometimes the case, of thoughtless young folks, whose behaviour during the service is very objectionable to sincere worshippers. The steady, sober-minded communicants should take the thing in hand, if only they have the requisite musical gifts, and should regard it as an honor and a privilege thus to use their talents in God's service."

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—The Ladies Association of the Dublin Street Methodist Church will hold their annual strawberry festival in the Town Hall, on Tuesday evening, the 26th inst.—not on the 20th as previously announced.

The first town site has been laid on the Little Saskatchewan. It is called Rapid City.

The annual convocation of Toronto University, took place on Friday, when degrees were conferred and scholarships awarded.

The Montreal Journal of Commerce states that from the opening of navigation till the 28th of May there were shipped from the St. Lawrence for the European markets 1,285 tons of phosphate. To this may be added 305 tons sent by rail during the winter months. It is estimated that the shipments via the St. Lawrence to Great Britain and continental markets during the present season will reach 7,000 tons. The current rate is $16.50 per ton.

The Intercolonial train going north on Thursday, when within four miles of Newcastle, ran down a fine moose, which was taken on board. It weighed 450 pounds.

EXTENSIVE improvements are going to be made sometime in July at the Elephant store. d1w1

Thursday, July 25th, has been fixed for the sculling race between Ross and Hanlan on the Kennebecasis river. Distance five miles, for $1,000 aside.

Hanlan, Luther, Johnson, Rielly, McKim and likely Morris, have all written that they will be at Brockville at the $1,000 race on July 1st. The race is four miles.

On Thursday evening about 10:30 a young man named John Mutton was run over by a train on the Grand Trunk Railway about two miles west of Stratford. He crawled some distance, and his shouts were heard by the trainmen, who picked him up and took him to Stratford. One of his arms and one of his legs were broken, and a large piece is torn out of his thigh.

A Word to the Road and Bridge Committee.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

DEAR SIR,—Would you please to allow me, through your columns, to ask those members of the Town Council, known as the Road and Bridge Committee, if they imagine that fifty dollars is all that the Loudon Road is entitled to as its share of the $30,000 loan, there being only about that amount expended there during the past year, or since money began to be squandered. And then to procure gravel to improve other streets last year there was an immense pit dug right in the centre of the said London Road, which has proved very detrimental to the interests of property owners, and a very great nuisance in that locality. And now this year the Road and Bridge Committee in their wisdom see fit only to recommend that fifty dollars be granted to fill said gravel pit. Just granting a small sum of money to repair the damage done to the street by last year's Council, and nothing for real improvement, and consider that, a just share for the said street, only about fifty dollars out of last year's appropriation of $300, while some other streets have had more than three times the amount of money appropriated in the schedule. How consistent! What honest Councilmen Guelph can boast of. Gentlemen of the Road and Bridge Committee, if that is what you call justice now toward the latter part of the nineteenth century, I think the time has arrived when we should consider life very unsafe in Guelph, and property still more so.

Yours truly,

A RATEPAYER.

Guelph June 7, 1878.

Meeting of the Grand Lodge, A. F. and A. M.

The Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Ontario, was held in the Masonic Hall, London, on Wednesday and Thursday, June 5th and 6th, A. D., 1878, A. L., 5878. After routine business, the Grand Master delivered his annual address, which gave a full and satisfactory epitome of the work done during the past year.

The following grand officers were elected and installed for the ensuing year:

Most Worshipful Bro. W. W. Fitzgerald, barrister, G. M.; re-elected.
Right Worshipful Bro. W. C. Moscrip, barrister, D. G. M.; re-elected.

Lively Times in the Toronto Diocese.

During the sittings of the Anglican Synod of the Toronto Diocese this week, there have been lively times. The High Churchmen and the members of the Church Association, who represent the Evangelical section of the church, have had a regular set-to, and the Evangelicals have come out best. The discussion originated in a motion brought up by Col. Boulton, representing the Mission Fund of the Diocese. It seems that since the Church Association was formed it has contributed largely to a fund every year for the payment of missionaries employed by the Association, but under the sanction of the Bishop, who is in accord with the broad and liberal views held by the members of the Association. While contributing to this fund several of the congregations, composed mainly of members of the Association, have given very little to the regular Mission Fund of the Diocese, and Col. Boulton in the interests of the High Churchmen on Wednesday moved a resolution that the several parishes and mission stations be assessed pro rata for the support of the Mission Fund.

This motion gave rise to a two days' lively discussion, in which High Churchism, as represented by the Sacramentarians, Sacerdotalists, and Ritualists were severely handled by the Evangelicals. The Rev. Mr. Langtry fought well for the High Church party, and enunciated views on baptismal regeneration, the Presence in the communion and the virtues of absolution that would have delighted the soul of Mr. Maconnachie. He was ably answered by the Rev. Septimus Jones, Rev. Mr. Sherraton, Vice Chancellor Blake and others.

A compromise was at last effected, a conference representing the two bodies was appointed, where it was agreed to apply the principle of assessment only to the Widows' and Orphans' Fund; that as regards the Mission Fund there shall be no assessment, but that the Church Association was prepared to pay over to the Mission Board the stipends of certain missionaries designated by the Board on the nomination of the Bishop.

Thus the difficulty has been got over for the present, and the Church Association, which has a majority of the lay element in the Synod, has triumphed. This victory, in conjunction with their previous one at the opening of the Synod, when they elected Mr. Hodgins lay secretary (who was defeated last year by the High Church party) is a good indication of the feeling in the Synod, and shows what an influence for good the Church Association is exercising in checking the spread and influence of High Churchism in the Diocese.

Wellington County Council.

JUNE SESSION.

THURSDAY, June 6.

Moved by Dr. Maudsley, and Mr. Long, that the conditional grant made last year for the improvement of the county boundary line between Maryboro' and Mornington be renewed on account of the impossibility of working on the said road owing to the light snowfall last winter.

The Special Committee appointed to examine the bridges on the boundary line between Minto and the County of Grey, reported that they had met a committee from Grey at Mount Forest, and after examining the bridges found that bridge No. 1 could be made safe by some certain repairs. The great obstruction on the townline was Pike Lake, which has never been bridged. The width on the townline is about ten chains. This lake appears to be a drawback to the settlers living west and south-west of Mount Forest, they being obliged to travel five lots in Normanby and down a like distance to reach that village. The Committee recommends that an engineer be employed to take soundings of the lake and estimate the cost of a bridge, as well as to survey a road round the lake in Normanby. The Committee thought a road would be much cheaper and not increase the distance more than twenty-five chains. The bridge over the Saugeen river requires to be rebuilt immediately. The probable cost is $1,000.

Moved by Messrs. McMullen and Prain, that the report be adopted, and that Hugh Wilson of Mount Forest be engaged to make the surveys and estimates, and report to this Council in December.

Moved by Messrs. Mair and McDonald in amendment, that that portion of report recommending a survey and estimates of bridging Pike Lake be struck out. Lost.

Moved by Dr. Maudsley and Mr. Harcourt in amendment, that the report be referred to the proper committee. Lost.

The original motion was carried.

Council adjourned.

FRIDAY, June 7.

The Council met at ten o'clock, the Warden in the chair.

Edward Poole, B.A., Principal of Fergus High and Public Schools, applied to be appointed an Examiner.

Rev. Robert Torrance, Guelph, asked to be appointed an Examiner.

Referred to Educational Committee.

A communication was read from the Treasurer of Grey, which said that there had been 58 Second class and 241 Third class candidates examined at the June examinations, at a cost of $778, being $230 in excess of the cost of any previous examination. The Examiners were paid $3 per day, and ten cents mileage.

Referred to the Education Committee.

Moved by Messrs. Chase and McDonald that a by-law be introduced for the appointment of all county officials by ballot. Carried.

The by-law to assess for a sum equivalent to the Government grant for school purposes was read a third time and passed.

The motion of Messrs. Duffield and Darby to suspend rule 39, in order that a petition might be presented from ratepayers for a grant for the York Road was lost.

On motion of Messrs, Leslie and Nicol the By-law to raise $40,000 in advance of the assessment was read a third time and passed.

Moved by Messrs. Darby and Broadfoot that the County Roads Committee be instructed to take into consideration the advisability of making an additional grant for the improvement of the Elora Road from Guelph to the Junction.

After considerable discussion had taken place on the question, the motion was withdrawn and the following substituted:—

That the County Roads Committee be requested to take into consideration the giving of additional grants to County Roads. Carried.

On motion of Messrs. Anderson and Clark a By-law for the appointing of Public School Inspectors and Examiners of Teachers were read a first and second time.

Several accounts were presented and referred.

Moved by Messrs. Elliott and Landerkin that Messrs. McKim, Roberts and Hunter be appointed to examine the County roads north of the Grand River, and Messrs. Darby, Leslie and Burt to examine the roads south of the Grand River and report at the December session upon their condition and the amount required to put them in a proper state of repair. Lost.

The Council adjourned.

Council resumed at four o'clock.

Moved by Messrs. McKittrick and McLuhan, that the petition of ratepayers of Amaranth, Garafraxa and Luther, asking for the assumption of a portion of the townline between Amaranth and East Garafraxa; also the petition of ratepayers of Arthur and Luther asking for the assumption of a portion of the Arthur and Luther townline (said petition being mislaid); also the petition to assume the 8th and 9th concessions in Minto; be referred to the Road and Bridge Committee. Carried.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE REPORT.

The report of your committee appointed to consider the petition of a large number of the ratepayers of school sections 2, 3, and 18, of the township of Maryboro', beg leave to report: That all members of your committee, except Mr. Hunter, Reeve of East Garafraxa, met at Mourefield, and there heard all the parties interested, and afterwards the committee met at Fergus to consider the matter; that after a full consideration your committee could not arrive at a conclusion to recommend anything likely to be a permanent advantage to the sections interested, under existing circumstances. Adopted.

EDUCATION COMMITTEE.

Mr. Anderson, chairman, reported: In regard to the applications for the offices of School Inspectors and Examiners, the committee recommend that the appointments be made in Council. They recommend that $300 be granted for the purpose of assisting Mount Forest to erect a High School building. As the Statutes make it imperative on the Council to give an equivalent to the Government grant for Grammar schools and as the Treasurer has already placed a sum in the estimates for the current year the committee cannot recommend any further appropriations.

The report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Chase the By-law to provide for voting for County officers by ballot was read a first and second time.

COUNTY ROADS COMMITTEE.

Mr. Mair, chairman, reported as follows:

They recommend the assumption and gravelling of two miles of road between the 12th and 13th concessions of East Garafraxa; also two miles of the 5th line of Amaranth commencing at the townline of East Garafraxa. That one and a half miles of the second line of Peel be assumed on condition that a surveyor appointed by the Warden report that portion of the road as fully graded and gravelled equal to the County roads. They recommend that no action be taken regarding the various petitions and resolutions regarding the assumption of roads. That repairs to County road bridges be carried out by the Commissioners on the several roads, on approval of the Warden. They recommend that an estimate of the amount required for the maintenance and repair of said bridges be furnished by the Commissioners to the chairman of Finances. That $50 per mile be granted to the Town of Guelph and the villages of Fergus, Elora and Mount Forest, to aid in the maintenance of County road connections in these municipalities. That $100 be granted to Commissioners of the road from Teviotdale to Clifford to enable them to grade and gravel the hill in Clifford; and that the Commissioners for the Fergus and Arthur road be allowed $300 in excess of the rate of $57 per mile.

Moved by Messrs. Hunter and Gillespie that the report be adopted.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Darby and Broadfoot that the report be referred back to the committee for the purpose of granting $200 to that portion of the Guelph and Fergus Road from the Junction to Guelph.

The report was amended in accordance with the resolution, and was afterwards adopted.

THE BALLOT.

Mr. Chase moved for the third reading of his by-law to provide for the election of all officers of the corporation by ballot. Carried.

The by-law was read and finally passed.

Moved by Messrs. Hunter and Gillespie that the county solicitor be instructed to prepare a by-law for the assumption of two miles of road in East Garafraxa, two miles in Amaranth, one and a half miles in Peel, in accordance with the report of committee. Carried.

It was proposed to proceed with the ballot for the appointment of School Inspectors and Examiners, but the Warden ruled that as the By-law was to take effect "from and after the 7th of June," the election cold not take place until after to-day.

ASSESSMENT COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Mr. Sweetnam, for the Committee, introduced the following report:—That they have received and revised the several assessment rolls, and submit the following schedule for adoption.

(Schedule will be published on Monday.)

Moved by Messrs. Stewart and McKim that the Assessment Report be amended by reducing the assessment of Palmerston be reduced $15,000 in consequence of a recent fire which destroyed $20,000 worth of property. Lost.

Mr. McMillan intimated that Erin was credited with a greater number of acres of land than was contained in the township.

Mr. Dobbin stated that the acreage return was the same as the assessors returned.

Mr. McLuhan found fault with the raising of the assessment of Luther.

Mr. Sweetnam held that the assessment of Luther was relatively lower than other municipalities.

Moved by Mr. McLuhan that the report be referred back to reduce the assessment of Luther. Lost.

Moved by Mr. Harcourt that the assessment of Peel and Erin be reduced to $23 per acre. Lost.

The Assessment Report was then adopted.

THE VOTE FOR INSPECTORS AND EXAMINORS.

SATURDAY, June 8.

The Council resumed at nine o'clock.

After the presenting of several accounts and other business being transacted, the balloting for School Inspectors and Examiners was proceeded with, and the folowing was the result:—

FOR INSPECTORS.

Sommerville 18; Kilgour 7; Switzer 6; McCaig 6; Munro 2; Clapp 2; Cochrane 2; Fordyce 1.

Somerville 26, Switzer 7, McCaig 5, Kilgour 3, Clapp 2, Munro 1, Cochrane and Fordyce 0.

Mr. Somerville receiving a majority vote of the Council, he was declared the Inspector for the South Division.

The vote for the North Division was then taken, with the following result:—

Clapp 17, Switzer 10, Cochrane 9, Munro 4, Fordyce 3, Kilgour 1, McCaig 0.

No majority for any candidate, the ballot was again taken, with the following result:—

Clapp 25, Switzer 12, Cochrane 6, Munro 1, McCaig, Fordyce and Kilgour 0.

Mr. Clapp was declared elected.

Petrie 30, McPherson 28, Poole, 26, Torrance 3.

On motion of Messrs. Luxton and Hunter, a By-law was introduced for the assumption of certain roads in Peel, and read a first and second time.

The By-Law for the appointment of School Inspectors and Examiners was considered in Committee and the blanks filled up in accordance with the decision of the Council, arrived at by ballot. George A. Somerville, Inspector for the first division; David P. Clapp, for the second division; and Alex. Petrie and C. McPherson as Examiners.

The first division comprises the townships of Puslinch, Erin, Eramosa Guelph Township, Pilkington, Nichol, West Garafraxa, East Garafraxa, town of Orangeville, and villages of Elora and Fergus.

The second division comprises the townships of Arthur, Minto, Maryboro', Peel, Luther, Amaranth, town of Palmerston, villages of Arthur, Mount Forest, Harriston, Clifford, and Douglas.

The members of the Board of Examiners, excepting the Inspectors, shall for their time, travelling, and other expenses, be paid –for every day of not less than six hours, $3, and ten cents per mile one way for every mile necessarily travelled. The County will supplement the Government grant to the Inspectors to the amount of $1,200 per annum, including mileage and remuneration for all duties in connection with the office. Salary to be paid quarterly by the Treasurer. All accounts and charges are to be certified by both Inspectors.

The By-law for assuming certain roads in East Garafraxa, Amaranth, and Peel, was read a third time and passed.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Preparing for the Congress.

France on the Situation.

LONDON, June 7.

A St. Petersburg despatch says:—Schouvaloff and D'Oubril had an audience with the Emperor to-day, and will start for Berlin on Sunday. It is still hoped that Gortschakoff will be able to attend the Congress, but it is uncertain.

A Versailles despatch says:—In the Chamber of Deputies the Minister of Foreign Affairs in answer to an interpellation on the Eastern Question read the reply of the French Government to the invitation to the Congress, consenting to participate on condition that the discussion be confined to the questions immediately raised by the war. The Minister assured the Deputies that the maintenance of peace was now almost certain. The Chamber unanimously expressed approval of the Minister's statement.

A Vienna correspondent says:—In consequence of the dread of Socialism Russia's present policy seems to be to make peace quickly.

A St. Petersburg despatch says:—The terms of the Russo-English arrangement are said to be more satisfactory than expected. Great confidence is felt in the result of the Congress. The most serious difficulty for the moment is Austria's objection to the cession of Antinari to Montenegro.

A Vienna correspondent says:—Roumania has just officially notified the Austrian Government that she will not cede Bessarabia even in obedience to the decision of the Powers.

IN consequence of the decision of the Magistrates at Eglington in the case of Morris vs. Beatty, virtually declaring the Dunkin Act not legally in force in York, nearly all the saloons and taverns in the county are open and dispensing liquor as usual. The decision will be appealed against.

THE London Advertiser is glad to learn that Mr. McMahon is meeting with great success in his canvass in Kent. The Retormers are solid in his favor, and numbers of electors who formerly supported Mr. Stephenson have signified their intention of voting and working for Mr. McMahon.

A despatch from Paris to the London Times says: "A private letter from Germany explains that though the Socials admit that there is not a kinder-hearted or more affable man in Europe than the Emperor William, or one more mindful of the sufferings of his subjects they regard him as the chief promoter and supporter of the present military system, and think that if he were out of the way a policy of peace and social development would be forced upon the Government, and the scourge of a great standing army be got rid of."

The St. Mary's Poisoning Case.

The Mystery not yet Cleared up.

Arrest of Dr. Ford on Suspicion.

The poisoning of young Guest on Tuesday night is causing great excitement in St. Mary's, as it is still involved in mystery. Strong suspicions are formed that Dr. Ford administered the poison, and he was arrested on Wednesday while at the races in London and brought back to St. Mary's From the London papers we gather the following:—The Free Press says:—

It is publicly alleged, that the suspected doctor had been mixed up in many scrapes with females, his name being unfavorably associated with young girls, and one theory drawn is that if Guest was poisoned by him wilfully, it must have been on account of knowledge possessed by him in regard to those matters which he was likely to use, or had used, to the doctor's disadvantage. Another theory is that the poisoning might have been quite accidental, or at least the result of a drunken mistake. The doctor is popularly represented as given to drink, and is said to have been fond of enticing young men into his office to drink, especially those who were correct livers. It is thought by some that he may have only intended giving Guest a strong dose, and put too much poison into the liquor by mistake. However it may be, the belief is firm that the poison was given by the doctor, though many are in strong doubt that such a thing could be possible; and think that however blameworthy Ford may be in other ways, he would not be guilty of an act so horrible, cruel and deadly.

The Advertiser says:—Our reporter endeavored by all means to find the motive which could lead the doctor to the prepetration of such a foul crime. None such could be discovered. That they were together for a few minutes before the poisoning of Guest is proved, but all the evidence goes to show that the meeting was accidental, and their companionship of short duration. They were together long enough for a man to poison, and there is not much reason to doubt but that the drug which caused the death of Thomas Guest was procured in the office of Dr. Ford.

The inquest was first held in private, but after the arrest of Dr. Ford it was made public.

Several witnesses were examined, who testified that deceased had been in their company till about 11 o'clock on Tuesday night, and was in excellent health. One witness said he saw Guest cross over to Dr. Ford's office about that hour, and heard him lift the latch of the door.

His brother said deceased came home near 12 o'clock, he came up stairs in a hurry—two steps at a time; seemed to be retching as if he wanted to vomit; he came into witnesses' room and said, "Tom, I'm drugged; he tried to vomit, but could not vomit much; he complained of great pain in his stomach, and groaned continually; his sister came into the room and asked him to go down stairs; he did so; she gave him salt and water, and he vomited considerably; asked him where he had been; did not answer at first; witness then told him he had been with Dr. Ford; he denied it at first, but afterwards acknowledged it by saying he was with him; told him to lie quiet for a little; and he might get better; he asked witness to go for Dr. Wilson; the Dr. arrived in a few minutes; when Dr. Wilson was in the room witness asked him who drugged him, and he replied, "That fellow, Dr. Ford."

Sarah Guest, the sister, described deceased's appearance after coming home; was attracted by hearing him say, "I am drugged, I am;" went to the deceased; he asked witness; to bring in a light; he took the light to the glass and looked at himself; he said, "Oh, my God, ain't I terrible," suppose he referred to the swelling of his face, and he was kind of purplish; he sat down on the bed and said again, "I am drugged; they have been trying it on me several times; took him up-stairs; he lay down on the bed, still vomiting; did not complain much of pain, but kept rubbing his face; he sat on the bed for a time; then he said, "Tom, you go for the doctor—I am not fooling;" shortly after he raised himself up in bed to vomit, and fell over, as if he had lost all power.

Dr. Wilson, who attended deceased, gave evidence substantially the same as above, and described the symptoms. He and the other doctors gave it as their opinion that the cause of death was some active irritant taken into the stomach; liquor could not produce death with such acute symptoms. Dr. Wilson asked deceased if he had been drinking in any quantity; he said he had not in any quantity; he said he had taken too much of something worse; then a spasmodic contraction coming on, he was unable to articulate again, and soon after died.

The inquest has been adjourned till the the contents of the stomach are ascertained from Toronto.

"GRIP" for this week gives an excellent cartoon of the starving Protectionists from Sir John down to W. H. Frazer. Copies for sale at Anderson's.

Mrs. Agnew, wife of William Agnew, of the Customs Department, Hamilton, was found dead in bed on Thursday afternoon. An inquest was held and a verdict found to the effect that the deceased came to her death from suffocation while under the influence of stimulants.

Harold the Outlaw

—OR—

The Gauger of Skene.

CHAPTER XLVI.

BACK TO GLENROY—A JOYOUS WELCOME—BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

When Harold and his charge descended the stair he picked up Dougal McCallum at the entrance to the kitchen. Dougal, not from deliberate choice, but from dire necessity, had rendered them essential service. But for him Harold and his companions would not have reached the Castle in time to save Lizzie, Myra, and Alfred from death. When he rushed forth in frenzied haste to save his own life Dougal came upon the party just landed from the raft. In the wildness of his terror he mistook them for coadjutors of Allan and Gilmour, and tried to escape them; but the fleet-footed Kenneth pursued, overtook, and detained him. When the others came up he was recognised, and summary vengeance would have been executed on him by a stone being tied round his neck and he hurled into the loch; but Dougal, in the extremity of his terror, had just sense enough left to recognise them in return, and in a vehement manner he told them what was going forward at the Castle—that the prisoners were being murdered by Allan, Gilmour, and Joe—and that he had by a miracle escaped from their hands.

This was sufficient to set Harold and Dixon off like the wind, Kenneth and Nip followed with like fleetness of foot, and Dougal, instinctively feeling that his only chance of safety lay in rendering them help, kept close at their heels. It was well he did so, for without him they would have wasted much valuable time ere finding their way to the underground regions. But Dougal was able to guide them thither at once, and so enabled them to burst on the scene ere the three-fold murder was accomplished, a piece of important service which he scored liberally to his credit, hoping that its immense value would cause them to condone his former treachery, and give him their protection as well as allow him to escape from the island in their company.

He was not mistaken in his calculations, Harold and the rest fully recognized the fact that he had enabled them to rescue the victims from the hands of their murderers, and from being the most hated and detested of men, he was become an object of grateful consideration. He was bidden to attach himself to their company, and proceed with them across the loch—an offer which Dougal was only too thankful to accept.

Of course they did not intend to leave the island in the manner they reached it—by means of the raft. Their purpose was to descend the secret passage to the recess among the cliffs, where they saw the boat was moored, and depart in it. Their way now thus led them past the wall-dungeon, where were the would-be murderers, still in charge of their armed bafflers.

As they drew near the dread spot, Myra, who was in advance with the light, suddenly faltered and resigned it to Dougal. Naturally firm and courageous, she yet had not nerve to pass unmoved the scene of such deadly peril, or the near vicinity of the men who meant to destroy them. As for Lizzie, she trembled so that Harold had to support her.

"Fear not, my love," he cheeringly whispered; "they have no longer the power to harm you."

"You will not go in," she pleaded. "You will not speak to them. Oh! the very sight of them would upset me again."

"It is not necessary I should speak to them, and I have no wish to do so—at present," he returned. "A day of count and reckoning must come ere long. I shall wait till it arrive. But I must tell our friends to follow us."

He raised his voice and gave directions for their further procedure. Dixon and the others he called on to follow them down the passage, with their faces turned back, and their pistols ready for instant use, should any one be mad enough to follow them.

This intimation was most welcome to the three who were keeping guard in the well-dungeon, for the torch which had hitherto given them light was about to expire, and its extinction would have given a dangerous advantage to their antagonists. But Harold came just in time to avoid the difficulty, and the last flickerings had begun to raise shifting shadows in the gloomy vault when they slowly, with backward step, and their weapons pointed at their prostrate foes, retired into the passage down which Harold and the ladies had gone.

Neither Allan nor Gilmour nor Joe changed their position so long as they were visible to the departing group. Doubtless they knew how useless it was to try to prevent their departure, and probably the loudly uttered order of Harold to shoot any one who dared to follow, kept them in their places. But scarcely had the moving party got into the windings of the passage leading to the beach, when Harold and the others heard the baffled plotters issue forth in haste, and rush with smothered exclamations up the stair towards the kitchen, Joe's heavy shambling feet being the last in the race.

The departing group accomplished their descent to the beach without difficulty, their only anxiety being least they should find the massive door at the lower end of the passage locked and the key gone. To their relief they found it not only unlocked, but standing open, ready, no doubt, for the exit of the murderers when their cruel work was done. Dixon was the last to pass out, and he took the precaution of locking the door, to give them, as he said to himself with a grim smile, some trouble in getting out.

Oh, how sweet to all their senses was the fresh breath of the morning air which met them as they crossed the channelly beach to where the boat was moored. To Lizzie and Myra it was delicious beyond expression, for it was the air of liberty—the first time one of them had breathed it for years, and the other for months. It brought a new accession of joy to their souls. It was an additional realization of deliverance.

It was now near to daybreak, as they saw by the streaks of light which had begun to brighten in the east. In an hour or little more the sun would be up, to shine and smile on their journey eastward. Their first task, however, was to cross the loch, and this required to be a matter of arrangement, for there were seven full-grown people, and the boat could only hold four people with safety. After a little deliberation, it was resolved that Harold, the ladies, and Alfred should go first, with Nip to row them. Then having landed his freight on the further shore, Nip would return for Kenneth, Dixon, and Dougal.

A very few minutes had passed from the time of reaching the beach when the boat shot out from under the deep shadow of the cliffs and began to skim the surface of the placid lake. It seemed to partake of the joy of its occupants, so lightly did it dance along, as if conscious of and rejoicing in the fact that it was performing nobler service than when propelled by Joe.

Who may picture the feeling of the two liberated ones as they gazed back through the dim light on the island they were quitting—so long their prison and place of exile—and so nearly becoming their grave? Myra sat at the bow with the now sleeping Alfred on her knee, her feelings being more mixed and modified than those of Lizzie, she not having the same reason for unbounded joy. To Lizzie, liberty meant all that her wrongs comprised; but not so to Myra. It did not give her back her child, and much she feared that child she should never see—never hear of. She dared not hope that it was alive; nay, if she was never to recover it, she could better bear the belief that it was dead, and not being reared to vice and crime among the offscourings of society. But, living or dead, its loss was a blank to her, which could never be made up by freedom or the attainments of her rights as Conrad McPherson's wife, therefore there was a residuum of sadness in her heart to modify the joy felt in leaving the house of her bondage.

New Publications.

The London Quarterly Review for April has been republished by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay street, New York. The first article entitled the "Crown and the Constitution," using for its text the third volume of the "Life of the Prince Consort" by Martin, and a pamphlet entitled "The Crown and Cabinet," published under the signature of "Nerax," assumes to consider the nature of constitutional government in general, and the character of the English Constitution in particular, as illustrated by its history and working. But the article has a peculiar significance just now, its main object being, evidently, to advocate the extension of personal power in the Government, and the leaving to the Executive just liberty in the conduct of foreign affairs. Then follows an article on "The Church in the West Riding," describing the condition of the church, and the prospects of the extension of religious and moral teaching in this large manufacturing district, containing upwards of two million inhabitants. Other articles are a dissertation on the importance of Naval Education; "The Legislation of the Commonwealth," which, in a review of the Acts of the Long Parliament, gives an interesting record of the opinions of the time on divers religious, moral, and social subjects; and "The Princes of India and the Proclamation of the Empire," glancing at the history from the year 1765, and introducing a few personal sketches. Lecky's History of England in the Eighteenth Century is reviewed at length, and we have the changes in government and society, and the causes by which they have been produced, graphically described. "The Aggression of Russia and the Treaty of San Stefano," defines the relative positions of Great Britain and Russia, and strongly denounces the action of the latter Power. The biographical articles consist of a comparison of the lives and characters of Giordano, Bruno and Galileo, and a sketch of James Maddison, considered as a representative man of his time. The periodicals reprinted by the Leonard Scott Publishing Company (41 Barclay street, N. Y.) are as follows: The London Quarterly. Edinburgh, Westminister. and British Quarterly Reviews, and Blackwood's Magazine. Price, $4 a year for any one, or only $15 for all, and the postage is prepaid by the publishers.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of the Living Age for the weeks ending June 1st and 8th respectfully, have the following valuable contents:—Constantinople; Russian Court Life in the Eighteenth Century,—Catharine Alexiewna I. and Anne Ivanowna; Count Waldemar, a Story; The Crown and the Constitution; The Coming Total Solar Eclipse, by Prof. J. Norman Lockyer; Within the Precincts, by Mrs. Oliphant, from advance sheets; On Keeping Silence from Good Words; Thurot, a Biographical Sketch; Lower Life in the Tropics; Conceit; Amateur Librarians; Advice to the Late Lord Macaulay on Entering Life, by Lord Brougham; Buddhism; Holidays; The Yeoman's Story; The Goorkhas, and the usual choice poetry. For fifty-two such numbers, of sixty-four large pages (or more than 3,000 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; or for $10.50 any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies is sent with the Living Age for a year, both post-paid. Littell & Gay, Boston, are the publishers.

Introducing the Phonograph in Two Continents.

Forty-nine phonographs are now in use in this country. They have been introduced in all parts of Canada, in the West Indies and three in operation in South America. In England, the introduction of the phonograph is intrusted to the London Stereoscopic Company. Continental Europe is given to another company to exhibit and bring into general use there the invention of Edison. The exhibitions of the phonograph in this country, which are under the charge of Jacob Readpath, now number at least forty-five every night. The whole country is mapped out in districts, and carefully divided up among the various exhibitors. Everywhere the greatest interest is shown in the new invention, and the large audiences crowd the halls to hear this novel instrumental repetition of well-known airs. In South and Central America numerous exhibitions have been held, and it is expected in about two weeks to have similar ones in Mexico.

In October Mr. Edison expects to complete his standard machine—a phonograph intended for the counting-room. He is continually perfecting the phonograph. At it he works at least seven hours a day. He is also now experimenting with a new instrument that he calls a teleoscopophone. It is a sort of ear trumpet which, when applied to the ear, enables one to hear distinctly the ordinary conversation of a man a mile distant. A gentleman who has tested one of these instruments said: "I applied one to my ear and could hear a man talking who was across a field, nearly a mile away. I heard every word he said. Afterward he seemed to raise his voice a little, and when I saw him afterward, he said that then he had shouted at the top of his voice. There is no connecting wire here, as in the telephone. Everything depends on the wonderful properties of the ear trumpet, which is constructed on a radically different principle from those that have been in use so long. By this instrument it is expected that deaf persons—except those who can't hear a cannon fired at their elbow—may hear anything said on the stage at the theatre."

Congregational Union.

LONDON, Thursday, 9 a.m.

An hour was spent in devotional exercises, when interesting information was given concerning revivals in many sections of Ontario.

The roll of membership was next called.

The Rev. R. K. Black, of Granby, P.Q., was elected chairman of the Union, and was conducted to the chair by the Rev. J. A. B. Dickson. The chairman briefly addressed the Union, thanking the brethren for the honor conferred.

Applications for membership were made from Rev. A. O. Cossar, Belleville: W. H. Warriner, B.A., Toronto; W. J. Cuthbertson, Southwold; H. D. Hunter, Newmarket, and J. L. Foster, Montreal. Also from the church in Kincardine. Dismissals were asked from Rev. E. Baker, of Nova Scotia, and from the Bond Street Church, Toronto. These were handed to the Membership Committee.

The Statistical Secretary read his report, of which we make the following summary:—No. of churches, 84. Regular stations, 113. Pastors in office, 58. Total adherents and members, 20,109. Additions to membership, profession 490; by letter, 179; total, 669. Losses—death, 79; letter, 258; excision, 183; total, 520. Net gain, 149. Total membership, 6,634. Sabbath schools, 150; attendance, 9,307. Total value of church property, $516,547. Total money raised for denominational objects, $107,210. The report was received and adopted.

In the afternoon the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Canada Congregational Missionary Society was held, Mr. G. S. Fenwick, of Kingston, in the chair.

After prayer, led by the Rev. J. Wood, the Sec.-Treasurer of the Society (Rev. Dr. Wilkes) read the annual report. This document referred to the need of sustaining the work of missions, and deprecated any langour regarding this work among our churches. Thirty-four regular workers and six students had labored in the Society's field the past year. The receipts had been over $5,000.

The Rev. H. Wilkes, D.D., then read an inspiring paper on "The future of the Society's Mission work." This signified the need of good business men to assist in furthering operations; referred to the value of an agency apart from any settled pastorate; and desired vigorous assistance.

A long, free and earnest discussion followed.

The open meeting was held in the evening, when excellent addresses were given by Rev. Thos. Hall, St. Johns, Newfoundland; Rev. D. McGregor, Nova Scotia; Rev. W. McIntosh, Melbourne, Quebec, and others.

Over 100,000 acres were recorded at the Emerson land office during the month of May. 6,000 were taken up on the first of June. Statistics of the whole Province of Manitoba show three times as many acres as were recorded during the same period last year have been taken up between the first of January and the end of May.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. The great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D. Bible House, New York City. Sept. 18, deodwly

Upper Wyndham Street, Guelph

Special Attraction.

We offer during the balance of this month wonderful attractions to intending buyers and Staple Dry Goods, Millinery, Carpets, Silks, Mantles, Jackets, and General Dress Goods.

Our stock stands unrivalled in the Dominion. The taste is exquisitely beautiful, the value s the best to be found, the most polite and courteous attention, is paid to all ranks of respectable purchasers, and the best of satisfaction is guaranteed to all who make their purchases of us. We submit for this week the greatest bargains ever before shown to the inhabitants of Guelph in

Black Silks,

for ladie's Mantles or Dresses. We unhesitatingly say that we are offering an advantage of 20 per cent under any establishment in Guelph. We are showing a nice stock of Moonlight Trimmings, Moonlight Veilings and Floral Trimmings.

These goods are quite new.

In Ladies' Millinery, Hats and Bonnets

we excell in taste, style, and novelty all previous efforts. The young lady at the head of this Department combines the most refined taste with lofty artistic ideas, making at once her department the reception room for ladies who are in quest of all that is novel and excellent.

Jackets, Mantles.

We congratulate the ladies of this section in having so rich and excellent a lot of Ladies Silk Paramatta and Tweed Jackets, exquisite styles. Also an endless variety of the material and styles to select from.

Our stock of all classes of general goods is full and complete, and we remind our old customers and friends that we only keep new, fresh, sound and satisfactory goods, satisfying all who purchase them. We are straightforward in dealing, and represent goods just as they are. We wage war against old, motheaten, bankrupt stocks, kept by second class stores, and again warn the public against such trash Call and see the wonderful man, and you will receive the best value for your money.

JOHN HOGG & SON.

HUB. HUB. HUB.

My old friends can, by calling at the Hub buy Boots and Shoes at the Lowest Prices.

Having selected a well assorted Stock of Boots and Shoes at the lowest rates possible, and dition to that we have purchased one of the many going at prices that defy competition, so that we are enabled to sell at figures that will suit all.

KNOW 'THYSELF

By reading and practicing the inestimable truths contained in the best medical book ever issued, entitled SELF-PRESERVATION Price only $1. Sent by mail on receipt of price. It treats of Exhausted Vitality, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, and the endless concomitant ills and untold miseries that result therefrom, and contains more than 50 original prescriptions, any one of which is worth the price of the book. This book was written by the most extensive and probably the most skilful practitioner in America, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. A Pamphlet, illustrated with the very finest Steel Engravings—a marvel of art and beauty—sent FREE to all. Send for it at once. Address PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass.

New Books.

CHILDREN OF NATURE.—A story of Modern London, by the Earl of Desart; Toronto Rose-Belford Publishing Co.

This is quite an engrossing story of London life, in which the characters are well drawn and ably sustained throughout the narrative. The author is well known from his previous popular novels, "Only a woman's love," and "Beyond these voices." He paints society as it really is, and does not deceive by trying to make it appear this is a rose water world. The book is for sale at Day's bookstore.

THE PHONOGRAPH.—This is a neat pamphlet issued by the Rose-Belford Publishing Co., giving an account of the phonograph and its future, by the inventor, Thos. A. Edison; also an account of the auriphone and its future. We have also Prof. Huxley's paper on the hypothesis that animals are automata. This is pamphlet No. 4, of the International Religio-science series. Copies for sale at Day's bookstore.

LECTURES BY THE REV. JOSEPH COOK.—These lectures are issued from the Presbytarian press, Toronto. They are of a high character, and being issued in cheap form, will command an extensive sale. The lectures before us are on Darwin's theory of Pangenesis or hereditary descent; unexplored remainders of conscience, and the first cause as personal.

CATHOLICITY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—This lecture, delivered some time ago by Prof. Campbell, of Montreal, is reprinted in pamphlet form at the Presbyterian press. It is an able exposition and defence of Presbyterianism.

All the above pamphlets for sale at Day's bookstore.

A BONE SPAVIN ON A VALUABLE HORSE.—Blistered, fired, rowelled, and did every thing without any benefit. A neighbor advised me try GILES' LINIMENT. I bought a quart bottle. To my intense satisfaction, the bony deposit disappeared, also the lameness.

H. B. EDWARDS, Park Hotel,
Oceanport, N.J.

Send to Dr. Giles, 451 Sixth Avenue, N. Y., for pamphlet containing full information.

Trial bottles 25 cents.

Bond & Co to-day advertise lawn mowers, refrigerators, and other seasonable goods at prices that defy competition. They have a number of remnants of floor oil cloth which they will sell at great reduction (almost anything) to get rid of them.

THOSE in want of a suit, hats, furnishings of any kind, should not fail to call at Rutherford's during his sweeping sale. d1w1

Patrons of a first-class hotel justly consider themselves entitled to comfortable rooms, a bountiful bill-of-fare, and courteous treatment in the office. All these, combined with a notable degree of elegance throughout, are to be found in the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa. eod.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

The Grand Central Hotel, New York, possesses all the requirements, in size, style, location and appointments of the modern first-class hotel, and keeps its reputation as a model house. eod

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post-office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

BASE-BALL.

Items of Interest on the Diamond.

On Saturday the lawyers and bankers met on the Diamond for the second time this season, and a beautiful "scooping" the latter got. The first game was won by the lawyers with a score of 28 to 18, and now unkinder than ever, and without a particle of pity in their composition, the lawyers out-batted and out-fielded their opponents in every instance and scored 31 to the bankers 17. In the early part of the game the renowned catcher for the lawyers, Hugh McMillan, received the ball in the vicinage of the right eye and he was obliged to retire, with W. Macdonald behind the bat, and C. Mickle taking a hand in. The former gentleman now conceals a blackened eye beneath a pair of green spectacles. This accident was about the only spicy affair that happened during the game. The score follows:—

LAWYERS	R.	BANKERS	R.

The Clippers, of Toronto, defeated the Mutuals of Galt, on Saturday by 14 to 7.

Wool is selling at 22 cents, and potatoes at from 75 cents to 90 cents on the market to-day.

PAT. CARNEY, a noted horse jockey, who at one time lived in Guelph, died in Ottawa last week.

A MEETING of the Guelph Caledonians will be held in the Society's rooms on Tuesday evening, commencing at half-past seven o'clock. The approaching gathering and games will be discussed.

COUNTY COURT and Quarter Sessions open at the Court House to-morrow before Judge Macdonald. The only case to be brought before the Grand Jury is one of child desertion. The civil docket will in all probability be small.

POLICE COURT.—The police have captured George Pearson, the alleged bad character, who is charged with robbing a canvasser named Smith of articles from the residence of Mr. Chesterwick. The magistrate remanded him to-morrow. Ed. Mulligan, a young who has already had considerable experience with the internal economy of the gaol, was charged with stealing a number of fowls from Mr. J. D. Williamson. Remanded till to-morrow.

CONDITION OF THE EMPEROR.—The Emperor of Germany is steadily improving. Several houses in Berlin have been searched by the police, and a number of persons arrested. Herr Most, a Socialist member of the Reichstag, has been sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment for addressing a meeting at Chemnitz, after the police declared it closed. Several persons for using disloyal language concerning the Emperor have been sentenced to from five to eighteen months imprisonment. It is considered certain that the proposal to dissolve the Reichstag will be adopted by the Federal Council. The new elections will probably be held towards the end of July.

Local News.

The Empress of Russia is seriously ill.

BOARD OF EDUCATION meets this evening in the Council chamber at 7:30 o'clock.

IT is said that between six and seven hundred dollars were realized at the St. George's bazaar held last week.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—Executive Committe will meet this evening, at half-past seven, in Mr. Vale's music emporium, Wyndham St.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES received this morning: Moderate to fresh winds and fair weather, possibly local rains in the southern portions.

THE rate struck on the equalized assessment of the county has been placed at three and three fourth mills on the dollar. This rate will levy $76,877.

CRICKET.—A match played at Paris on Friday between the Paris and Galt Clubs, terminating in an easy victory for Paris. Score—Galt, 52 and 71; Paris, 63 and 36, with 7 wickets to fall.

POOR HOUSE SUPPLIES.—The commissioners have accepted the following tenders for supplies:—J. M. Fraser, Elora, for groceries; Mr. Ritchie, Fergus, for bread; and Mr. Reid, of Elora, for meat, were accepted, being the lowest.

W. HUNTER, one of the Maple Leaf nine, saved a little child from being run over by the Hamilton stage, near the Grand Trunk station, this morning. The horses were being driven at a lively pace and the child standing in the road was unnoticed by the driver. Hunter, at considerable risk to himself, jumped before the horses and pulled the child out of danger.

GREAT preparations are being made for the strawberry festival, which is to be given in the Town Hall on Thursday evening next, for the benefit of the Mechanics' Institute. Make a note of the date, and be sure and leave that evening open to attend the festival. There is no institution in town that should receive a more liberal patronage.

THE TALLEST YET.—On Saturday there was brought into the MERCURY office a number of stalks of rye which had attained a remarkable growth. The tallest stalks were eight feet three inches. It was grown on the farm of Mr. John McQueen, 2nd concession of Beverly. The rye in the field in which the sample shown was pulled would average in height seven feet and a half.

OFFER OF A GOLD MEDAL.—We are glad to learn that Prof. Brown and the second years students at the Agricultural College have given to the South Wellington Agricultural Society a gold medal, to be offered for the best kept farm in the county of Wellington—the farm to be at least 100 acres; certain conditions as to the condition of the land, mode of farming, &c., to be considered. The Judges to be the President of the Society, Prof. Brown, and one of the students to be selected. This is is a handsome offer, and we feel sure the Society will be glad to accept it.

THE ESCAPED NUN.—Miss Edith O'Gorman, known to the world as "The Escaped Nun," who has been converted to Protestantism, and was for six years an inmate of St. Joseph's Convent, Jersey city, New Jersey, is coming to Guelph to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, and will deliver an eloquent, startling and thrilling lecture in the Town Hall, entitled "Life in a Convent," also relating "How she Escaped" and "How she became Converted." She has recently been lecturing to crowded houses in other cities, and is the first and only nun who has ever appeared before the public as a speaker.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.—This morning Wm. Hamilton, colored, started for the township of Peel with his wardrobe neatly done up in a bundle, which he carried on his back. When he got about a mile from town he was met by four roughs, who wanted to know what he had in his bundle. He states that he answered that he was carrying clothing, and that he was going to Peel. They remarked "That there were enough niggers up there," and at once commenced an assault. During the scuffle Hamilton received a blow on the head with a stick, inflicting a severe scalp wound. He was then left, and he afterwards returned to town and had the wound dressed by D. Nunan. A Police Court case will be the result of the difficulty.

THE CHURCHES in town were well filled yesterday both in the morning and evening. In the absence of Rev. Mr. Ball, Prof. Gregg, of Toronto, conducted the services in Knox Church. Messrs. Brock and Rykman, Methodist ministers, were absent attending Conference in St. Thomas. The Dublin street church pulpit was occupied by Rev. Dr. Carroll and the Norfolk street church by Rev. E. Stephenson. Dr. Carroll preached very interesting discourses, and his many friends and acquaintances in the congregation were pleased to see him enjoying tolerably good health, notwithstanding his long service in the church.

$1,000 has been granted by the County Council to the Central Exhibition; and $250 each to the Centre, Western, and Northern Societies.

LATEST FROM THE EAST.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 10.—Osman Pasha has been appointed Governor of the Palace, and still retains command of the army.

EMPEROR WILLIAM.

BERLIN June 10.—The Emperor's condition continues favorable; convalescing rapidly.

We notice the resignation, after a very long period of active service, and probably on account of prolonged weak health, of Mr. P. S. Stevenson, general freight agent of the Grand Trunk Railway.

The store of Mr. Hurst in Acton, was burglarized on Monday night, 3rd inst., to the extent of $50 worth of goods. On the following evening the cooper shop of John Coates was entered and $12 worth of tools taken.

The Toledo Blade announces the shipment of two and a half tons of frogs to Cincinnati from Sandusky. They were captured at Point au Pelee, and are intended to tickle the palates of the epicures of Porkopolis.

It is a noticeable feature of American Commerce that, how dull soever the times may be, railway passenger traffic keeps up to a much greater relative extent than freight. A desire to travel is certainly a feature peculiar to the American people.

The election for directors of the Canada Southern Railroad took place at St. Thomas on Wednesday. The election for president will take place in New York this month. It is said to be beyond doubt that the Vanderbilt interest has secured control of the Michigan Central, and that Vanderbilt, after the annual meeting of the Michigan Central, about the end of this month, will take the presidency of both roads.

From Wilkes' Spirit of the Times, Dec. 8, '77.

A. B. C., Mich.—What should be done to reduce an enlargement of tendon of forward leg, the back tendon, caused by grabbing it while young. It is sound now, I think it was from last spring, and the horse is good enough for anything. Answer.—Clip off the hair, and apply Cuss Liniment twice a day, until it irritates, when temporarily discontinue, and commence again. It is the only remedy that will permanently remove a chronic enlargement of that kind. Send to Doctor Cuss, 455 Sixth Avenue, New York, who prepares and recommends it.

The Colliery Explosion.

LONDON, June 8.

The explosion in the Evans coal mines at Haydock yesterday, occurred at eleven o'clock in the morning. Two hundred men were in Woodpit colliery, eighteen in the Ravenshead, and the remainder in the Florida mine. The men in the Ravenshead got out immediately, and one died. The two mines are connected by a tunnel. The explosion occurred in the working mine of the Florida, beyond the tunnel, and probably every man in that part of the mine is dead. The explorers found dead men and horses on every side fearfully burnt and mutilated. As no powder was used in the mine no reason can be assigned for the disaster. It will probably be several days before all the bodies are recovered. The explorers have suffered greatly, and have had to be constantly relieved. The chief agent of the Haydock colliery, where the explosion occurred on Friday, says the number of persons killed is fifty less than first reported.

Favorable Prospects for the Congress.

LONDON, June 9.

A St. Petersburg despatch says:—It is believed Russia will set more importance on the guarantees for the state of things to be established by the Congress than on the question of frontiers.

A Herald's Berlin special states that it is rumored Bismarck has elaborated a complete programme for the solution of the Eastern embroglio, and intends submitting it to the Congress instead of its adoption en bloc.

Lord Beaconsfield left London this afternoon to attend the Congress. Several hundred persons gathered at the station.

A Constantinople despatch says:—The Russians are retrograding at various points.

A London Times correspondent states that the Sultan becomes more capricious with his failing health. Rumours are prevalent that he was very seriously ill.

The Porte appears to have yielded to the Russian demands for the surrender of Shumla, but not for the surrender of Varna. Russia and Germany hinted that unless the fortresses were surrendered the invitation to Turkey to attend the Congress would be withheld.

A Pera special says:—It is stated that a recent council of Ministers decided not to surrender any fortresses pending the debates in the Congress.

Ritualistic Practices at Weston.

The Synod of the Anglican Diocese of Toronto had on Friday under their consideration a memorial from Mr. W. R. Wadsworth, of that village, complaining that those who belonged to St. Philip's Church there had no services, and asking the Synod to do something in the matter. From the discussion that followed it seems that the Rev. Mr. Johnson, the incumbent, had left the church, and opened a chapel of his own in the village. It will be remembered that in 1875 this clergyman boldly announced himself a Ritualist of the purest water, and conducted service according to that style. He was complained against, a Commission was appointed to enquire into the complaints made against him, but nothing came of it. He was requested by the Bishop to resign, and promised to do so, but afterwards declined, and now, in his chapel, continues his ritualistic practices to a handful of people, while there is no service in the regular church. It came out in the discussion that Mr. Johnson used candles on the altar, that he mixed water with the wine in the eucharist, that he partook of the communion for the whole congregation, that he celebrated mass, and that he wore the chasuble with a big cross on the back of it. The Bishop seemed to doubt whether he could do anything in the matter. He said Mr. Johnson was a good man, but eccentric. The majority of the Synod, however, took a much stronger view of the case, and passed a resolution strongly condemning these practices, if it were found that Mr. Johnson had been guilty of them. It also affirmed that the matter required prompt and serious action, and the Synod pledged the Bishop their support in taking the necessary steps to put an end to this state of matters.

THE TENT RE-OPENED.—On Sunday afternoon the temperance tent was re-opened for the purpose of forwarding the object of redeeming those who drink freely of intoxicating liquor. Long before the hour of commencing the proceedings crowds of people wended their way in the direction of the cold water rendezvous, and close on the time of opening the interior of the tent was filled. There was also a large crowd outside. Mr. Chas. Raymond, President, occupied the chair, and was supported on the platform by several of the ministers of the town, Rev. Mr. Hastell, and the Committee of Management of the Gospel Temperance Club. After a few preliminary remarks from the President, in which he stated that he was pleased to see such a large assembly, which showed that the subject of temperance was still uppermost in the minds of a great number of the inhabitants of Guelph. He hoped such meetings as this would continue throughout the campaign, and that good results might arise from what would be brought out regarding the liquor traffic. The speaker then called upon the Congregational choir, which was present, to sing a hymn which was done. The Rev. Dr. Wardrope was called on to say a few words, and he made a few remarks regarding the good work the Gospel Temperance Club had done, and how much he appreciated the movement for the Christian doctrines amalgamating with the cause, and on this point there was every hope of its being a success. Rev. Ezra Haskell spoke of the gratifying victories that had been accomplished in the vicinity of Hamilton, in the large number of people who had signed the temperance pledge and amongst them being some of the worst cases he had ever come across. He said that liquor sellers and liquor drinkers gloated over the defeat of the temperance forces in the late Dunkin campaign. He then referred to the audience some recent and sad scenes which he had witnessed, urging them to do their utmost in putting a stop to such degrading and poisoning traffic. Throughout the whole proceedings, which lasted a little over an hour, considerable interest was manifested, and to all appearances the tent will be as largely attended at the various meetings during the summer campaign as they were last year. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings are set apart for meetings.

Arctic refrigerators for keeping meat, &c., during the hot weather, wire covers to keep flies off food; croquet sets, lawn mowers, hedge shears and trimmers at JOHN HORSMAN'S, corner Wyndham and Quebec streets, St. George's Square.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

ST. THOMAS, June 7.

The question was resumed, "Who are now received into full connection with the Conference and ordained?" In addition to those reported yesterday, Richard C. Hender's was recommended.

The names of those continued on trial for the first, second and third years were read.

None were reported on the reserve list.

Rev. Dr. Fowler conducted the theological examination in open Conference of the young men to be received into full connection with the Conference and ordained.

The public service in connection with the reception of the ministers who have completed their probation into full connection with the Conference was held in the evening. The names of the candidates for the reception into full connection were:—Samuel Sellery, B.D., W. L. Hackett, Joseph M. Hodson, B.A., Samuel Shibley, Richard C. Hewers, John W. Cooley.

The President presided. With him on the platform were Revs. Egerton Ryerson, LL.D., J. A. Williams, D.D., Jas. Gray, ex-President, Alexander Sutherland, Dr. Rose, John Wakefield.

The President explained their method of introducing young men to the ministry. First, he must show himself in a local sphere to be useful in the cause of God. Secondly, the laity must recommend him to the Conference as a fit and proper person to preach the Word. No president or minister can supersede this. Thirdly, for four years the ministry has the oversight. He must show himself worthy of the ministry of the Gospel of Christ. Then, at the close of the period, he is received into full connection with the Conference and ordained.

Suitable addresses were also given by Dr. Rice, and Rev. Messrs. Clarkson and Sutherland.

SATURDAY, June 8.

Rev. Samuel Rose, D.D., book steward, presented to the Conference the annual report of the Book Committee. The circulation of the Church periodicals show in every case an increase. The increase in the circulation of the Christian Guardian was 762; Methodist Magazine, 919; Sabbath School Banner, 297; Sabbath School Advocate, 432.

The Rev. Alex. Sutherland, missionary secretary, stated that the increase in the missionary fund of the Conference is $1,297.

Rev. E. H. Dewart, chief editor of the Christian Guardian, and Rev. W. H. Withrow, M.A., editor of Church periodicals, both addressed the Conference concerning their departments.

The Elgin Farmers' Excursion to Guelph.

An excursion of the farmers of Elgin to the town of Guelph, for the purpose of enabling them to visit the Government Model Farm at that place, has been set on foot by the Grangers, and the time has been fixed for Monday, the 17th inst. This is really an excellent move, inasmuch as it will lead our farmers to take a new and lively interest in that institution, and at the same time inspire the manager and other officers with a fresh courage in the discharge of their important and responsible duties. The farmers may learn more than one useful lesson from their visit, and it is not at all unlikely that the example set by Elgin will be followed by many other sections of the country. In no better way can they manifest an interest in the welfare of the School and Farm. The train will leave Port Stanley shortly after six o'clock in the morning, and will reach Guelph without change of cars by 11:30. The fare is fixed at $1.25 for the round trip.—St. Thomas Journal.

Agricultural Union.

LONDON, June 7.

The Membership Committee reported, recommending that the Revs. J. L. Forster, of Montreal, and Hugh Pedley, of Cobourg, and the church at Tiverton, be received to membership.

A committee was appointed to confer with the Bond street church, Toronto, with a view to relation with the Union.

At the College meeting Rev. G. Cornish, LL.D., reading the annual report:—

From this it appeared that there had been sixteen students in attendance last session. Of these four, viz.: W. H. Warriner, E. A. Curzon Pedley, B.A., A. F. Macgregor, B.A., and F. Willett, have completed their course and entered upon various fields of labor.

Resolutions were passed appointing the Board of Directors, appointing Prof. Fenwick Vice President, with an increased salary. Exhibitions were passed at the increased number of students, and for the generous grant from the Col. Mus. Society.

THE PROPOSED CAMP GROUND.—On Saturday last Major Macdonalds, of the Welland Field Battery, and Captain McCrae, of the Ontario Field Battery, proceeded to Elora to inspect the proposed ground for annual drill and target practice. At Elora they were met by Col. Clarke and Adjutant Major McEldice, who accompanied them to a point on the Grand River some three miles west of Elora, known as the "big bend." At this place there were high banks sufficient to stop any ordinary projectile, and for greater safety the target will be placed as close to the river as possible, the ground in front being soft pasture ground, free from stones. Major Macdonald decided to accept it as satisfactory site for practice. The camp ground of the Wellington Field Battery will be at Elmsdales, on the wooded grounds belonging to the County, which have been granted by the Council for that purpose, just east of the County House and close to the road leading from Elora to Fergus. Col. Clarke purposes pitching the tents of the 30th Wellington Rifles on the vacant ground just east of that to be occupied by the Battery. The Grand River will be close in rear of the camp, and easy access for horse watering from the camping ground. The water supply for the men is ample, there being canal springs to the east, which will have to be brought to camp, a duty which will probably be performed by one of the neighboring municipalities. For drill ground, there is vacant land to the east, and at a short distance the Fergus Driving Park, which has been kindly offered for the use of the force. The ground is high and airy—in view of the W. G. & B. R. R.; easily reached from the Fergus station; healthy and convenient. Tenders for camp supplies will be called for by Col. Clarke at once, and it is expected that all will be in camp by the 18th June.

Protection Running to Seed.

Of all the absurd things written by the Herald about protection, its paragraph in Saturday's issue about protection to lawyers—as specially referring to Mr. Guthrie—is the most absurd. It says, Mr. Guthrie enjoys prohibitory protection in his profession, yet he is not willing to allow moderate protection to mechanics and farmers. We never knew before that people were bound to go to Mr. Guthrie with their cases, but this is the inference to be drawn from the Herald's remarks. No Yankee lawyer can compete with him in our law courts. Of course not. Neither can Yankee doctors, nor Yankee surveyors, nor Yankee dentists, nor Yankee School Inspectors, nor Yankee teachers come into Canada and practice without undergoing an examination and being properly licensed. And this is done to protect the public from quacks and other incompetent persons from flooding the country and imposing on the people. This is all the protection there is in the case. The profession of law, and all the other professions, are open to every one who chooses to fit himself for them, and the people are free to engage whom they choose in a professional capacity. The Herald can get its little law business done in Toronto, or Hamilton, or London, or in any other place over the whole country. It is not confined to Guelph, and least of all to Mr. Guthrie. Where then is the protection, unless it be those wise restrictions which the law has made in order to secure properly qualified men for the different professions? Will the Herald say that this restriction is wrong or injust, or detrimental to the interests of the people? It will not dare to do so, and yet it talks about lawyers being protected.

But if the Herald's doctrine of protection were logically carried out, we would not only have protection to lawyers but to every other profession and calling. We would have the Herald demanding protection for itself—that no Yankee papers shall come into Guelph—that no Canadian papers shall enter into competition with it—that every business man and every mechanic in town shall be protected from outsiders—that we shall have a sort of protectionist millennium in Guelph—everybody being protected from everybody else, and everyone seeking to make rich at the expense of his neighbor. Such would be the logical results of the protection doctrine as preached by the Herald.

THE Hon. Fernando Wood's efforts to reform the United States tariff have failed. His Bill was thrown out on Wednesday by a vote of 134 to 120—a majority of 14 against it. The smallness of the majority against the measure indicates the strength of the opposition that has grown up against the trade policy in the neighbouring country.

AT a meeting of the South Bruce Reform Convention, held at Riversdale on Saturday, it was decided to run Mr. Blake as the Ministerial candidate in the House of Commons, and a delegation was appointed to wait upon the honourable gentleman at Toronto and urge him to accept the nomination. We hope he will accept.

THE debate on the address in the Quebec Legislature was continued up to midnight on Saturday, and then adjourned. Should the Opposition succeed by any means in obtaining a vote hostile the Government, it is believed that the Government will not resign unless defeated on the measures. The action of Sir Robt. Peel's Government in 1835 orms a precedent exactly to the point.

Monetary Times: — "The cabinet makers of Canada are said to be ruined by the pouring of cheap American furniture into the country; the fact being that last year we exported within $140,-884 as much furniture as we imported. The truth seems to be that, some years ago, cabinet making was exceptionably profitable; the effect of which, as always happens in such cases, was to attract too many into the business. The competition in the business is mainly between Canadians."

MR. JAS. YOUNG held a meeting at Haysville on Thursday night. Addresses were delivered in the Reform interest by Messrs. Jas. Young, M.P., John King, of Berlin, and J. Gordon Mowat, of the Galt Reformer; and on the Conservative side by James Fahey, of the Stratford Herald, and J. A. Woods, of Woodstock. Mr. Samuel Merner, the Opposition candidate, also made a few remarks. This section of Wilmot will largely increase its Reform majority. Most encouraging reports are constantly coming in.

A MOTION has been submitted by Bismarck to the Federal Council, proposing a dissolution of the Reichstag. The motion points out that, in view of the second attempt on the life of the Emperor, the Government's responsibility for the maintenance of order does not permit them to rest content with having merely introduced the former abortive Anti Socialist Bill, but they cannot count upon another Bill which they intend to introduce meeting with better success in the existing Reichstag. The Government will, pending the new elections, take the most extreme measures allowed by law to meet the grave social crisis. It appears that a state of siege has been under discussion, but it will not be proclaimed at present.

THE debate on the Address, in reply to the speech in the Quebec Legislature, is not yet finished.

MR. BOWMAN, the Reform candidate for North Waterloo, had an excellent meeting at St. Clements on Friday.

Wellington County Council.

JUNE SESSION.

SATURDAY, June 8.

The Council met at nine o'clock; all the members present.

Several accounts were presented and referred.

A communication was received from Richardson, Bradley & Lumsden, in reply to information asked from them as to expense connected with reporting the County Court proceedings. It stated that for expenses, shorthand writing and transcription, up to twenty-five folios, $5 per day; for transcription above twenty-five folios 20 cents per folio.

BOUNDARY LINE BRIDGES.

Mr. Darby, chairman, reported as follows:—That two bridges on the line between Erin and Caledon be built, provided the Reeve of Erin and the Warden, on examination, conclude it is County work, and that the County of Peel bear one-half the expense. That the Warden and Reeve of Peel examine bridges on the line between the Townships of Peel and Wellesley, and have them repaired or rebuilt, providing Waterloo bears half the expense. That a bridge on the townline between Arthur and Maryboro' be repaired. That the bridge over the south branch of the Speed, townline of Guelph and Puslinch, be rebuilt. That the bridge over the Speed, townline of Eramosa and Erin, be rebuilt. That bridge opposite lot 1, 6th concession, Arthur, County line between Arthur and Egremont be rebuilt, providing Grey pays half. That the Warden and Reeves of East and West Garafraxa be instructed to examine the bridge opposite lot 8, townline of East and West Garafraxa, and have the same repaired or rebuilt, as is necessary. That all truss bridges built last year be coated with coal tar. In reference to the communication of C. J. Wheelock, recommend that Geo. Kidney be paid $50, on furnishing County with a clear deed of the land occupied. That Mr. Wheelock's account, $13.25, be paid. That $2,500 be placed to the credit of the Committee to complete the above works.

The report was adopted.

COUNTY PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

Mr. Elliott, for the Committee, reported, recommending that these accounts be paid:—J. M. Bond & Co., $4.85; C. Firestine, $1; W. H. Mills, $67.30; John Hall, for drawing plans, etc., for extension of gaol, $123.82; that Judge Chadwick's room be plastered, and the Sheriff's office painted and papered; that $1,000 be placed to the credit of the Committee.—Adopted.

Moved by Messrs. Sweetnam and Duffield, that leave be given to introduce a By-law with respect to the valuation of real and personal property in the several townships, villages, and towns in the county, for the purpose of county rates for 1878, and that it be read a first and second time.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Roberts and Anderson, that the Board of Examiners of Public School Teachers be composed of two members besides the Inspectors.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Mair and Prain, that the bush on the Industrial Farm be granted to the Wellington Field Battery in which to picket their horses during annual drill.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Roberts and Anderson that the Council proceed to elect Inspectors and Examiners from applications made.—Carried.

It was decided after much discussion to elect an Inspector for one division at a time.

The result of the ballot was published on Saturday.

Moved by Messrs. McMullen and Stewart, that the Warden, Messrs. Hunter, Gillespie, Hamilton, Bennett and Luxton be appointed commissioners on the new extensions of gravel roads in Garafraxa and Amaranth, and that the work be proceeded with forthwith.

Moved by Messrs. McMullen and Stewart, that the late Inspectors and Examiners be instructed to hand over to the County Clerk all papers in their possession belonging to their respective divisions, and that the Clerk hand the same to the newly appointed Board, and notify the department of the appointment.

The Council adjourned.

The Council resumed at two o'clock, p.m. On motion of Messrs. Sweetnam and Darby the by-law for the equalization of the assment was read a third time and passed.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Leslie, chairman, reported for the Committee, recommending the payment of the following grants and accounts: South Wellington Agricultural Society, $1,000; Centre Wellington Society, $250; West Wellington Society, $250; Northern Society, $250; Battalion Band, $200; aid to Fergus High School, $400; accounts of John Smith, gas and fuel, for office, $26.05. Judge Macdonald, school arbitration $26; John Mitchell, for coffin, $5; Guelph General Hospital, $9; John Smith, printing, $2.34; C. A. Burrows, printing, $98.59; J. W. Shaw, official assignee, $12; John Foley, printing, $15; Mrs. Lingwood, paid for teaming, $15.20; T. J. Day, stationery, $15.

In referring to the balance due by the Registrar of the North Riding as reported by the Treasurer, would recommend if the amount is not paid by the 20th inst., the account to be placed in the hands of the County Solicitor for collection.

With reference to the communication of Mrs. Webster they recommend that no action be taken till the December session.

In accordance with Section 104, Cap. 11, Revised Statutes of Ontario, that upon the Registrars of this County handing in their returns therein required he shall at once hand in the amount due the County, and if not paid within one month the Treasurer do hand the account forthwith to the County Solicitor for collection.

The report was adopted.

They recommended no action be taken on the petition of John Card and others, with reference to the Elmira road.

Moved by Messrs. Luxton and Gillespie, that the report be adopted.

Moved by Messrs. Swan and Sweetnam, that the last clause be struck out and a clause be inserted in the report, granting $500 for that purpose, provided that it be spent on the original township roads included in the Elmira Road.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Sweetnam and Duffield, that the report be laid over until the Solicitor's opinion be obtained as to the legality of making such grants.

The amendments were lost and the original motion carried on the following division:

YEAS—Messrs. Anderson, Bateman, Bennett, Burt, Clark, Dobbin, Gillespie, Gordon, Green, Hamilton, Harcourt, Hunter, Leanderkin, Long, Luxton, Maudsley, Geo. McDonald, John McDonald, McKim, McKittrick, McLuhan, McMillan, McMullen, Prain, Reid, Robinson, Rudd, Stewart—28.

The By-law for the appointment of School Inspectors and Examiners was read a third time and passed.

Moved by Messrs. Dobbin and McLuhan, that the money granted by the Road and Bridge Committee be expended by the Reeves and Deputy Reeves of the municipalities interested, and that the grants be paid by the County Treasurer to the Treasurers of the municipalities named in the report on the certificate of the Reeve of such municipalities that the work is in progress. Carried.

POOR HOUSE.

Mr. Mair, for the Industrial Farm Committee recommended that no child be admitted to the County Poor House under eighteen months of age, unless accompanied by its mother.

After some interesting discussion the recommendation was adopted.

Moved by Messrs. Harcourt and McKim, that the portion of the Glenallen road assumed by the County receive the usual grant of $50 per mile as soon as the Engineer reports the work completed. Carried.

The By-law for levying a rate on the County for the current year was read a first and second time on motion of Messrs. Leslie and Nicoll.

The By-law provided for the raising of $76,877. The rate to be struck is three-and three-fourth mills on the dollar.

It was afterwards read a third time and passed.

The Council then adjourned till December.

SUSPICIOUS.—Some time since the daughter of Mr. Samuel Henderson disappeared from her home in Burford in a very mysterious manner. Since then no trace of her has been found, and very disagreeable rumors are being circulated in connection with a young man with whom she was intimate. It seems very singular that a person can thus disappear and no effort be made to ascertain whether a crime, and, perhaps, a most heinous one, has not been committed. So says the Expositor.

The following Assessment Schedule was submitted for adoption at the County Council.

Harold the Outlaw

—OR—

The Gauger of Skene.

CHAPTER XLVI.

BACK TO GLENROY—A JOYOUS WELCOME—BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

Lizzie had no such remembrance to moderate her transports, and she was supremly ehappy with Harold by her side, his manly breast to lean on, his arm tenderly encircling her—his own joy as great as hers as he whispered words of fervent love in her delighted ear. It was too soon yet for histories to be exchanged; time enough for that by-and-by; passionate affection, overflowing rapture, were all that expression was capable of, and for the present it was enough.

Arrived at the landing place, Harold sprang ashore and assisted Myra and Lizzie to leave the boat, which put off again without a moment's delay—Nip making a quick passage back for those who had yet to be ferried across.

He found them where they had been left—sitting on the landing-place at the base of the cliffs—and hardly did the keel grate on the strand ere they sprang in, Nip resigning the oars to Dougal, who was commissioned to row for the passage.

By this time the gloom of the summer night was visibly giving place to the dawn of a new day. Objects near and far were beginning to come into form and outline, though their features could not yet be discerned. Shortly after passing from under the cliffs, and while yet but a short distance from the island, they were startled by a loud report, and one of the oars nearly leapt from Dougal's hand.

"It's that d——d hunchback Joe with his gun," said Dixon. "They are watching for us, and hope to hit some of us. Pull on. Pull like the devil; they may have another salute of like nature to send which may not prove so harmless. Ha! I knew it."

As he spoke, there was a flash and another report. A good aim had been taken, for a splinter flew off from the bulwark close to where Dougal sat, but as this was all the effect they were thankful.

Looking to where the smoke rose they could see three dark forms crouching along the shore, whom they greeted with shouts of derision, as intimation that their last act of malevolence had been as futile as the rest.

Very anxious and alarmed were those on shore of the mainland when the reports of the gun reached them, but their fears were soon set at rest by the approach of the boat with all its occupants untouched. The latter leaped lightly on the jetty, and some of them had begun to think what they should do with the boat when Dougal settled that point by taking up a large angular stone and sending it crash through her bottom. There being deep water close to the landing-place, she filled and sank immediately.

"Well, Dougal, you have done that business very summarily and effectually," observed Harold, who no more than the others had seen the deed, and was made aware of it only by the sound of its accomplishment.

"Ay, they'll have some difficulty to get it up, and more difficulty in mending it. But they have no means of getting off the island."

"The raft," suggested Kenneth.

"They may not find it, and if they do they'll hardly manage to cross in it. It was going to pieces by the time we got it over the sharp rocks."

"Let them stay and starve," said Dougal, viciously. "they deserve nae less, the murderin' monsters."

The two horses, which all this time had been diligently grazing, afforded a means of transit for the ladies too obvious to be overlooked; they were therefore secured, and the saddles, being covered with shalls, and other things, were turned into comfortable seats. Lizzie and Alfred were placed on one, with Harold at one bridle rein and Kenneth at the other. Myra was seated on the other, and Dixon and Nip constituted themselves her attendants, while Dougal followed by himself, and some distance away—his conduct in the past not entitling him to be received as a closer companion in the journey.

Thus arranged they moved away from the side of the loch in the grey twilight of the summer morning, and began to breast the eastern slopes as the last shadows of night were retiring before the coming day. The dim vague aspect in which all objects had hitherto appeared were gradually growing into that distinctness which the first hour after daybreak peculiarly imparts. The uprising mists were slowly ascending to the mountain summits; wood and strath, gorge and cliff were coming into view, each assuming its own separate identity, and displaying the features which were specially its own.

At the same time, and by the same process, the members of the party were becoming distinctly revealed to each other, and the moment was fast approaching to which Dixon had looked forward with great emotional excitement—the moment when he and Nip should be seen and recognised by Myra. Hitherto she had not obtained a view of their features, and they had taken care to prevent her recognising them till the time was suitable for the thrilling explanations which must follow. That fitting time had come now, and the two men raised the caps which had slouched their faces that these might be seen by her when her eyes chanced to fall on them.

Harold, who knew of this arrangement, purposely kept some distance in advance, that the exciting scene might have no interruption, and as they moved on he communicated to Lizzie the happiness which awaited Myra, to the intense joy of the former, who loved Myra with the strongest sisterly love, who had mourned with her in her heavy sorrow, and given her the deepest human sympathy. It wanted but this to render the happiness of their deliverance complete, and as she mused on the wonderful tidings there rushed on her mind a thrilling sense of the special Divine Providence which had worked so amazingly to bring good out of evil and light out of darkness. How abundantly had been justified that faith which they had cherished and clung to amid doubts and dark forebodings, and what a glorious fulfilment had been given to the lines of the hymn which had been their stay and comfort in the then unbroken gloom—

"God is his own interpreter,
And he will make it plain."

Plain, indeed, was all appearing now. The very wheels of the chariot of Providence were becoming visible in their strange yet beautiful track towards beneficent issues. All that had happened—so full of evil as it seemed—had turned out for good. The dark and dreadful cloud had shown itself big with mercy bursting in a shower of blessing.

GALT.—Walter Ford's resignation as a school trustee has been been accepted.——The Roman Catholics are now engaged in removing their old church, on the site of which a handsome brick building will be erected.——David Cooley has purchased the Sproule property, on Walter Street, for $855.——The new Methodist Church will be built of stone, its dimensions will be about 100 feet long by 68 feet wide, and it will seat about 700; the spire will be 150 high.——The Mutual base ball club was lately defeated by the Hamilton Standards by a score of 8 to 1.

At Berlin, Agnes Riddle was arranged before Judge Lacourse, charged with stealing a horse, buggy, and a set of single harness, the property of Peter Miller, from outside a church, in Waterloo, on Sunday, 2nd inst. She pleaded not guilty and was remanded.

It is rumoured that Earl Beaconsfield will be made a Duke after the meeting of the European Congress.

The Value of Agricultural Colleges.

Our Ontario College Highly Spoken Of.

We find in the North British Agriculturist of May 22nd, a lengthy notice of the last issued volume of the "Transactions of the Highland Agricultural Society," in which we find extracts from Mr. Jas. Macdonald's report on the Agricultural Colleges of America. Mr. Macdonald spent last summer in this country, visiting these Colleges, and among the others he paid a visit to our Agricultural College, which, as will be seen, he regards as a typical institution, combining and blending, as it does, the practical and theoretical. It is certainly gratifying to hear such a competent authority give such a high character to a College which it may be said is still in its infancy. The Agriculturist says:—

"Mr. James Macdonald's interesting report on the Agricultural Colleges of America, shows how keenly alive our Yankee cousins are to the benefits of a scientific agricultural education. Every one of the thirty-eight States in the Union except Nevada has already established educational institutions for the purpose of teaching subjects relating to agriculture. Each College has from six to ten professors besides assistants, and attached to each institution is an experimental farm, on which the students have to work daily, and are taught the elements of practical agriculture. Thirty-eight agricultural colleges in America and none in Scotland! Not overlooking what has been and is being done for agricultural education in this country Mr. Macdonald says:—"Nothing less than a fully equipped college with experimental farm, such as have been established in Canada, can ever suffice to meet the demands of this country; and surely it is not too much to hope that some day we will follow the good example shown us by our enterprising 'cousins' across the Atlantic. No one, it may be presumed, will deny that Scotland has more need for scientific agricultural education than either the United States or Canada; and if these countries can afford to establish colleges for their young farmers, surely we ought to be able to do so too. Let our farmers contemplate for one moment what a grand thing it would be for Scotland to have such an agricultural educational institution as that which Canada boasts of; let them think what a benefit it would be for the coming generations of farmers to have within their reach such a thorough professional training as that which has been offered to the young agriculturists in Canada; let them contemplate how much light and shade, and how much of that which is entertaining and attractive to the intelligent mind would be imparted to agriculture by a college training; let them remember that this typical college is not an institution that imparts to young men merely artificial ideas of things, as it is argued some agricultural colleges do, but an institution that combines the practical with the theoretical, an institution where the student listens to lectures the one hour, and handles the plow or spade the next, where he can witness experiments, and where, in all departments, studies and actions, economy rules supreme; let them consider and think over all these and many other points that connect themselves with the subject, and we shall very soon hear from our farmers a unanimous demand for a 'Scotch Agricultural College and Experimental Farm.' The inauguration of that institution, if we ever reach that stage of intellectual advancement, will be a brilliant event in the annals of Scottish farming.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Sept. 28, d&w 9m.

There was a violent shock of earthquake at Lisbon on Saturday night.

The condition of William Cullen Bryant has changed slightly for the worse.

The number of victims of the Haydock colliery explosion is now placed at two-hundred and eighty-two.

Bond & Co to-day advertise lawn mowers, refrigerators, and other seasonable goods at prices that defy competition. They have a number of remnants of floor oil cloth which they will sell at great reduction (almost anything) to get rid of them.

Patrons of a first-class hotel justly consider themselves entitled to comfortable rooms, a bountiful bill-of-fare, and courteous treatment in the office. All these, combined with a notable degree of elegance throughout, are to be found in the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa. eod.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

The Grand Central Hotel, New York, possesses all the requirements, in size, style, location and appointments of the modern first-class hotel, and keeps its reputation as a model house. eod

At his breakfast table the other day—
On it he has a little to say—
A little fine cheese from John A's lower store;
It was very good you may be sure.
One thing for Gay is better than all,
His love for mankind and peace for the soul.
His spiritual comforts he receives every day;
His sleep is as happy as the flowers in May.
Umbrellas and Parasols is his work every day.

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

THE regular meeting of the Guelph Lodge A.F. & A. M., will be held this evening at 7:30, for election of officers.

MISS EDITH O'GORMAN, the escaped Nun, lectures to-night in the Town Hall. See adv't.

CALEDONIAN SOCIETY.—Remember the meeting of this Society in the rooms this evening. Let there be a good turn out.

GENERAL HOSPITAL.—The annual meeting of the subscribers to the Hospital will be held this evening in the Town Hall for the election of Directors, &c. A full attendance is requested.

THE engine borrowed from the corporation of Toronto has arrived in Guelph, and will be taken out by the Fire Brigade for practice this afternoon, at Presant's dam.

THE KINNETTLES CAMP.—The Wellington Field Battery and 30th Rifles will go into camp at Kinnettles on Saturday, 22nd June, instead of 18th June as formerly intimated. The change has been made to suit the convenience of the Brigade Staff of this District.

A MEETING of the Executive Committee of St. George's Society was held in Mr. Vale's music wareroom on Monday, and was fairly attended. The question of renting the rooms was discussed, and some considerable time was occupied in making arrangements as to the kind of programme that should be prepared for the iorthcoming Convention. Sub-committees were formed, who will report at a meeting of the Society on the 29th inst. The special Finance Committee will commence their work at once.

THE ST. MARY'S POISONING CASE.—The inquest on the body of Robert Guest stands adjourned for fourteen days, or until Prof. Croft's report is received. It is reported that several women are connected with the case, one of whom is a married woman, and that Ford's office has been of late a den for them to gather in for the purpose of gambling and drinking. Ford has been sent to Stratford to await his trial.

SOCIALISTS ARRESTED.—A Rome despatch says:—The Vatican has decided to propose co-operation with Germany for the repression of Socialism there on condition that the Falk laws are modified. Le Temps learns that the French police, complying with a request of the German Government, made a descent on Saturday on the houses of several Germans in Paris suspected of complicity in the crime of Nobeling. Two persons were arrested, detained some hours, and released. The police are satisfied that no indications of a conspiracy exist.

ILLICIT STILL.—Last Friday Inland Revenue Inspector Hartley seized an illicit still, which he found in full operation in a swamp near Mono Centre, and also arrested Mr. Lundy, who was in charge of it. It had evidently been doing a large business.

BOYS AND FLASH LITERATURE.—The reckless rowdyism of the boys from fifteen to eighteen or twenty years of age are attracting considerable attention in New York. A gentleman was recently walking in a frequented part of the city on a Sunday afternoon, when he was deliberately fired at three times by some boys sitting on a fence. No doubt much of this growing "hoodlumism" may be attributed to the circulation of juvenile "flash" literature, which is now recognized as a grave social evil.

Local News.

G. C. L. AND D. S. meets to-morrow evening.

PROGRESS LODGE I. O. O. F. will pay a fraternal visit to Reliance Lodge on Monday evening next.

THE examinations for promotions in the Public School is in progress, and will continue during the present month. All pupils should be in attendance.

RETURNED.—Mr. McGillvary, a miller, who left for Manitoba with Mr. George Balkwill and party, has returned, and expresses himself greatly disappointed with the Prairie Province. He prefers Ontario as a place to live in.

THERE was a very good attendance at the temperance tent last evening. Rev. Mr. Haskell addressed the meeting, and one of those who had signed the pledge a year ago, and remainded faithful, spoke of the benefits he had derived from the step he had taken. A strong choir was present.

A BIG SHOW.—As two gentlemen passed Murray's yesterday one remarked "what a splendid show Murray has got!" No wonder. Murray had some one thousand quarts of Canadian berries yesterday, and being a printer sent a lot to his old chums in the MERCURY. The type stickers think it was the biggest berry they ever had.

He was seen on Waterloo Avenue on Saturday night, at 11:30 p.m., and he was embracing one of those beautiful trees. A property owner, thinking he might mean to destroy it, heard him murmur, as he approached:—

"Say—(hic) leaves have their time to fall!
And so (hic) have I,
The reason is the same,
We both are (hic) dry;
We fall, but in a different way,
'Cause (hic) I fall more frequently than they."

PIC-NIC.—The annual pic-nic in connection with the Sabbath School section No. 4 Guelph Township, will be held tomorrow Wednesday, in Mr. Joseph Jackson's grounds, Paisley Block. All friends of the Sabbath School are cordially invited. Admission free.

THE FAR WEST.—Mr. John Allan has received a letter from his step son, Edward Winstantly, dated 24th of May, which states that he and others are busily engaged in digging the race for the new mile in course of erection by Mr. George Balkwill.

FROM THE FAR WEST.—Mr. W. C. Macdonald, formerly with Messrs. W. Stewart & Co., and who joined the Mounted Police in 1874, returned to Guelph a few days ago, looking hale, hearty, and strong, after his four years' sojourn in the North-West. He liked the life on the plains exceedingly, and has half a mind to return, and either enter into the service again, or take to trading.

DOMINION DAY.—Messrs. Sleeman and Fielding are canvassing for subscriptions for a grand celebration on Dominion Day, and so far have met with great success. It is the intention to get up games and other amusements, and to make the celebration in every respect worthy of the day. The matter is in good hands, and we have no doubt that a first-class programme will be prepared, and it is expected to be in shape in a few days.

GREAT HORSE SALE. — Farmers and horsemen generally should bear in mind the great sale of horses which will take place in Guelph from the 18th to the 21st of June. The sales are conducted by Messrs. Davis, Hewett & Thompson. Those who have horses to dispose of will have ample opportunity at these sales, and the rates of commission are only five per cent. while the commission usually charged is seven and a half per cent. It is said a large number of buyers from the English and American markets have expressed their intention of being present. Those having horses to sell will not be detained longer than is necessary to complete arrangements.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION. — The second division of Wellington Teachers' Association held a successful meeting at Drayton on Friday and Saturday last. The subjects appointed were ably introduced and freely discussed. The public meeting on Friday evening was addressed by A. D. Fordyce, I. P. S., and G. W. Ross, M. P., Inspector of Model Schools. Mr. Ross compared the state of education now with what it was twenty-five years ago, contrasted our educational status with that of the United States and the various countries of Europe, and concluded an interesting address by urging upon teachers the importance of training children to be obedient, diligent, thoughtful, and energetic.

POLICE COURT.—To-day George Pearson was charged with stealing six handkerchiefs from the kitchen of Mr. J. C. Chadwick. It seems that he, in company with two others, went into the kitchen on the 3rd inst., and asked for something to eat, and while the serveant girl was gone for the victuals six handkerchiefs were stolen. Pearson was arrested on Monday evening. It transpired in the evidence that Pearson was only the receiver of the stolen property, and he elected to be summarily tried by the Magistrate. Sentence will be given to-morrow. John Brown, one of the supposed three with Pearson, gave himself up to-day. He was remanded till to-morrow. Edward Mulligan, for stealing Mr. Williamson's chickens, was again remanded till to-morrow.

Board of Education.

Tenders for the New High School Building.

At a regular meeting of the Board on Monday evening, there were present Judge Macdonald in the chair, Messrs. Harvey, Leonard, Innes, Peterson, McKenzie, Robertson, Inglis, Murton, Newton, Knowles, Wilkie and Dr. Keating.

Accounts were presented from T. J. Tovell, and were referred to the Finance Committee.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

Mr. Murton, chairman of the Sites and Building Committee, reported that tenders had been advertised for the building of a High School, in accordance with the plans and specifications submitted by Mr. John Hall, architect, and approved of by the Board at its last meeting, and submit the following as the lowest tenders:—

Bell & Son, mason work	$ 2,156 00
Steven & Son, carpenter work	2,949 00
Daniel Day, plastering	549 00
J. Sturdy, painting	235 00
Geo. Howard tinsmith and slating	887 00
	$ 7,776 00

On motion, the Board went into Committee, Mr. Knowles in the chair.

Mr. Murton stated the tenders given were the lowest, and as the total amount exceeded the sum decided upon to be expended in the erection of a building, the Committee had no recommendation to make. He believed, however, that the same building could not have been built five years ago for $10,000.

Mr. Peterson thought before any decided step should be taken in the matter there should be a consultation with the architect, on account of the great difference in some of the tenders. Either those who tendered the highest or those who were the lowest had made some mistake. The plans might be modified, so as to bring the total cost within the $7,000. It must be remembered that $7,776 for the bare furnishing of the building meant $10,000, when heating apparatus, etc., were purchased.

Mr. Murton held that it never was intended that the $7,000 would complete the building as far as erection and furnishing was concerned.

Moved by Judge Macdonald, seconded by Mr. Murton, that the report be adopted as far as the words "lowest tenders."

Mr. Wilkie spoke favorably to the adoption of the whole report, as it was imperatively necessary for the Board to proceed with the erection of a High School building.

Judge Macdonald could not see in what way the plans could be modified to any extent.

Mr. Murton asked who should receive the $50 premium offered for plans to be approved of that could be carried out for $7,000. In all probability a building could be erected in accordance with the plans furnished by Mr. Day for the amount decided upon. If such was the case would he be entitled to the premium? It was necessary for the Bcard to keep faith with the architects who prepared plans.

Some of the members thought the only person entitled to the amount would be the architect whose plans were accepted, providing the building could be erected for $7,000.

The motion was adopted.

Moved by Messrs. Leonard and Murton, that the tenders contained in the report be accepted.

Mr. Wilkie asked how much of the work was proposed to be finished this year.

Mr. Murton thought the work after being commenced should be pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

Judge Macdonald considered it would be advisable to leave the tenders over for ten days, before finally accepting them.

Mr. Leonard's motion was altered in accordance with the suggestion of Judge Macdonald—that is, the final acceptance of the tenders be postponed till next meeting of the Board.

The motion was carried, and the Board resumed.

The report was adopted.

Moved by Messrs. Murton and Inglis, that on account of Mr. John Hall's plans for the new High School will involve a cost of over $7,000 as agreed upon, that Mr. John Day be paid $50, providing he can show that a building according to his plans can be erected for that amount.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Wilkie and Peterson, that the question of compensation for plans furnished for a High School be referred to the Committee on Sites and Buildings, to report at a future meeting.

The amendment was carried.

The Inspector reported the number of pupils attending the Public Schools during May was 1,293—26 of whom are non-residents; 663 boys, and 630 girls—77 more than were in attendance during May of 1877.

On motion of Messrs. Harvey and Leonard the motion passed at last meeting of the Board granting $25 for the repairing of the Central School fence was rescinded.

Moved by Messrs. Peterson and McKenzie, that it be referred to a special committee, composed of Judge Macdonald, Mr. McKenzie and the mover, and the same to report at the next meeting of the Board on the general question of the fee and title of the High School property, and as to the position of the funds expended by the town in erecting and furnishing the High School in consequence of such title of the land being vested in Grammar School trustees or others as at present, and whether all possible future legal difficulty cannot be obviated and so that the funds laid out by the town will not be lost in the event of a separation of the joint Boards, and whether the title or tenure cannot be validly permanently secured to the joint Boards against such contingency. Carried

The Board then adjourned.

The Governor-General has presented Capt. Culver, of the Barlow Greys, of St. Albans, a company of which took part in the review at Montreal on the Queen's Birthday, with a volume as a souvenir of his visit to this city. The book was accompanied by a kind letter, in which His Excellency stated that he had written to Her Majesty acquainting her of the friendly spirit with which a United States corps joined with our troops in saluting her birthday.

The Examining Committee of Plymouth Church on Monday, in secret session, resolved to drop Mrs. Tilton's name from the roll. Mrs. Tilton sent a letter reiterating, it is understood, the statements concerning Beecher.

A little girl in Westminster eat a quantity of potato bugs one day last week, mistaking them for peanuts. She was taken violently ill, and was only saved from death by prompt medical assistance. Her illness was probably caused by Paris Green, which had been sprinkled on the vines.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Thomas Breadon Shoots Himself With a Revolver.

Family Troubles the Cause.

On Monday night about ten o'clock Thomas Breadon, a man aged thirty-six years, a painter well-known in town, deliberately shot himself in the head with a revolver in his own house, on Liverpool street, while his wife was looking on and this (Tuesday) morning, at half-past seven o'clock, the struggle was over, and he died a death none should wish for.

The deceased has spent the greater portion of his life in Guelph, and in his boyhood days his father kept a store on Cork street, in the building now occupied by Ker's tinshop. Thomas Breadon with a favorite with his acquaintances, and being a good singer his services were in demand at social gatherings. As a painter he was considered above the ordinary workmen in skill, and at one time he did a large business as a partner with a Mr. Gouck. Some fourteen years ago he married Miss Rickaby daughter of Mr. Wm. Rickaby, and a bright future appeared to be in store for him. Some two years thereafter he began to grow too fond of liquor, and almost from that time until his untimely death he was a slave to his appetite. At times and for a few months together he would almost give up the habit, but only to return to his cups to drink deeper and deeper.

Notwithstanding being of a kindly disposition, of late he has threatened to kill his wife and put an end to his own existence. His wife was afraid of him and on several occasions left him to go to her relations where she would remain several days, or until her husband begged of her to return to him, he promising to be more abstemious than he had been, and expressing sorrow for what he had done.

The last time that Mrs. Breadon left him through fear was about two weeks ago. On her return her husband did drink less it is true, but a feeling of melancholy seemed to have seized hold of him. On Friday last he wanted to borrow a revolver with which to shoot cats, and asked John Mitchell if he could lend him one for that purpose. Mr. Mitchell had a large Colt's navy revolver, belonging to John Henderson, and he let him have it; at the same time remarking that Walter Keeling had borrowed it before for target practice, and that in all probability he would have ammunition that would fit the chambers. Breadon took the revolver to Mr. Keeling and had it loaded with balls and capped. He remarked to Keeling that cats were a nuisance about his premises, and that he intended to make away with them. Where he kept the loaded revolver from Friday night until Monday morning, when he gave it to John Fields, hostler at the Queen's hotel, is not known.

From what can be learned Breadon drank very little liquor on Monday, but there is no doubt that his mind was fully occupied with the manner of committing the terrible deed he had in contemplation. He got the revolver from Fields between seven and eight o'clock in the evening, and shortly after went home. His wife wanted to get him some tea, but he stated that he did not want any. On being pressed to have a cup of tea he became annoyed and answered gruffly. He wanted to do some writing, and not being able to find writing material, called at Mr. McKenna's house, which is in the same yard as his own, and wanted to borrow pen and ink, but the ink only being handy, Breadon remarked that he thought a lead pencil which he had would answer for all the writing he had to do. He returned to his own house, and opening a blank book, commenced writing, and not getting on very quickly, his wife, who was sitting at the opposite side of the table, asked him what he was writing. This annoyed him; and shutting up the book, remarked in effect, that she would find out soon enough. She then said "Tom, you have been drinking again." This appeared to greatly enrage him and springing up he remarked "You will have no need to say that to me again. I will put myself out of the way of hearing any more." He then stepped towards the bureau and opened a drawer. This alarmed his wife who, knowing there was a razor in the drawer, and thinking he might intend to kill her, sprang to the door and holding it half open saw him take the revolver already mentioned out of the drawer and placing the muzzle near his right temple he pulled the trigger. He at once fell to the floor and blood gushed out of the wound. The whole deed was done in much less time than it takes to write it. Mrs. Breadon, horrified at what had taken place rushed out of the house and alarmed the neighbors. A crowd soon collected and a young man named Joseph Bruce did all that could be done for the wretched man until the arrival of Drs. McKinnon and Howitt. The bullet was found to have entered the head near the top of the right ear, and taking an oblique course came out at the extreme corner of the right eye. The doctors at once saw that the wound was mortal and ordered his removal to the General Hospital. All that could be done to alleviate the wretched man's sufferings was done, but he became delirious about midnight and kept gradually sinking until his death, which took place at half-past seven o'clock.

After Breadon had shot himself, although sensible, he did not feel inclined to answer questions. He would not give a reason for committing the deed, nor where he got the revolver. When he took it out of the bureau drawer it was the first time his wife had seen it.

The book in which the deceased had been writing was examined, and the substance of his thoughts as inscribed was:—That he and his wife could not hope to live agreeably together on account of the diversity of tastes; that he would therefore leave her to go to the realms of the unknown, and that she would hear of him when——

The sentence was abruptly broken when Mrs. Breadon asked her husband what he was writing about. It is supposed that he had not intended to shoot himself where he did, but to go off somewhere and commit the deed, and that his wife would hear of him after his body was found.

The father of the deceased, who lives in Toronto, has been telegraphed for.

The tragic end of poor Tom Breadon is very sad. The relatives and friends have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

The Inquest.

At one o'clock Coroner Keating held an inquest on the body at the Hospital.

The following jury was empanelled:—Messrs. Adam Weir, John Smith, Wm. Hales, W. P. Maddock, Walter Sayers, Chas. Watson, Robert Allen, W. H. Mills, Geo. Todd, S. Saunders, George Tolton, Wm. Arnott, John Berry, J. T. Waters, S. Saunders.

Mr. W. H. Mills was chosen foreman.

THE BODY.

The body had been removed to the dead-house. The jurymen according to instructions viewed it before the hearing of the evidence.

The head of the deceased presented a terrible and sickening spectacle. His eyes were set out and around them the skin was greatly discolored. The wound made by the bullet was sufficiently large for a finger to probe it. Around the wound the skin was burnt with powder. The features indicated that the death had been one of agony.

The steward of the Hospital, Mr. Hyde, states that he never saw such a great conflict when the deceased died.

John N. Mitchell was the first witness sworn. He is a bar-tender and knew the deceased Thomas Breadon. He had seen the deceased "a little off" once in a while, and he was in the habit of drinking regularly. He had seen him for the last time on Monday afternoon and was to all appearance sober then, and was in good spirits. He recognized the revolver exhibited as one he had lent to the deceased for the purpose of his killing cats. He did not think that deceased had wanted the revolver for any other purpose.

The inquest is in progress. Full report to-morrow.

TUESDAY EVE'G, JUNE 11, 1878.

The Prices of Farm Produce.

We are often told that if we had protection we would not only get a better price for our manufactured goods, but also for our farm produce. The Protectionists try to make the farmer believe that if we put a duty on American grain or produce the price of these articles would rise, and he would be a gainer thereby. They forge, however, to tell him that we have to export all our surplus grain and produce—that we raise far more of these than we can consume—and that in consequence we are at the mercy of the foreign markets, and the prices we are paid here must be regulated by these markets. In the article of butter alone we have clear enough evidence of this, and no stronger testimony in corroboration of our statement could be found than in the following review of the wholesale butter market for the first week in June, taken from a reliable New York commercial paper.

"The market is overstocked and lower. Exporters are taking lines of fine creamery make at 20 @ 21c cts., and are reckoning on the price going to 20 cts., for the extreme top next week. There seems to be no confidence at all in any ratings of value. We saw a buyer with a bill of old butter he had bought at 4 cts., and he had half a hat full of bills bought at 5@6 cts., that he said were all for first class, sound, solid old butter. We saw fresh Western sold at 10@13½ cts., and a line of Iowa dairy packed butter sold at 15 cts., that was well up in quality to arrivals from New York State. The market is clogged and glutted, and the only outlet for the surplus is at whatever price the great central markets of England can take it at. These Liverpool and London markets are the gauge of price for the United States, Canada, Ireland, Isle of Jersey, Denmark, Sweden, Holland, France and all the rest. This whole machinery of commercial exchange works together, and if there is a slow motion anywhere, it drops the balls of the regulator and sends down the gauge at headquarters. Just now the commercial fires of the world are, without doubt, down—motion is slow and fitful, the leading markets are over weighted with stock and the result may probably be a period of low prices everywhere for everything, and especially for dairy produce, which for a long period has been stimulated until its production is immense."

We would like to know what good protection would do the Canadian farmer in this case? And the same rule applies to every other article of grain or produce that we have to sell.

In his address to the Young Men's Reform Club of Chatham, on Friday evening, Hon. Mr. Mills referred to the demand of the sugar refiner in Montreal, Mr. Redpath, for an additional duty of one cent per pound on sugar imported into Canada. Mr. M. said a duty of one cent per pound would take out of the pockets of the people of this country $1,200,000; and to refine all the sugar used in Canada would afford employment to about 300 men. To pension these men at $400 each, would cost $120,000; so that the country would actually be the gainer of $1,080,000 by adopting the pension system instead of yielding to Mr. Redpath's demands. So much for protection on sugar.

The Montreal True Witness says:—"It is rumored that the Irish Catholic Union has invited the Ancient Order of Hibernians from the States to attend a pic-nic to be given in Montreal on July 11th. It is, too, rumored that the Irish Societies of Quebec, Ottawa, &c., &c., are to be invited as well, and that preparations on a large scale are being made to make the pic-nic a gigantic demonstration." Of course any one can see that this is in preparation for the 12th of July, should the Orangemen walk on that day.

Readers of the Mail are tolerably familiar with the name of R. W. Phipps, who has been deluging its columns with wishy washy articles on trade matters for several years. Some time ago Mr. Phipps compiled a pamphlet on "protection," which was published under Tory patronage, and extensively circulated in York as a campaign document. Its arguments were so fallacious, however, and it was such a weak production altogether, that agents were employed to collect all the copies they could get their hands on and destroy them. The Protectionists in South Wellington have also been industriously circulating this precious pamphlet in the Riding, but we suppose they will now like their friends in York recall them, and consign them to the flames. Mr. Phipps is not a success on protection.

Watson, Pilkington.

WHITE GLOVES.

His Honor Judge Macdonald announced that he had the pleasure of informing the Grand Jury that he had been the recipient of a pair of white gloves from the Sheriff, emblematical of their being no prisoners in the County gaol for trial. There was, however, a case of child desertion, which would be brought before them. The legal phase of child desertion cases was explained by His Honor. The usual duties of the Grand Jury were also explained.

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.—It will be seen by our report of the School Board in another column, that the lowest tenders have been accepted from the different contractors for the erection of the above-named building.

From the Christian Union, August 22, 1877.

EVER since Dr. M. Wm. Giles, 453 Sixth avenue, extended a frank invitation to owners of lame horses to bring their equine property round to his place of business for free treatment, the corner of Twenty-seventh street and Sixth avenue has come to resemble a horse fair. The Doctor's bold defiance, which if thus thrust upon the curious attention of his neighbors, is based on the earnest belief in his IODIDE AMMONIA LINIMENT, which is now preferred of all others by the chief stock raisers and sporting men in this country.

A valuable horse of the writer's was kicked on the hock. Swelling and lameness ensued, rendering the animal nearly worthless. We were advised to try GILES' LINIMENT, and are gratified to say it acted like a charm. About two inches of bone came away, the sore healed up, and the lameness and swelling are fast disappearing.

CHAPTER XLVI.

BACK TO GLENROY—A JOYOUS WELCOME—BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

Wrapt in her sad thoughts Myra sat on the horse paying little attention to the surrounding objects, and many minutes passed after Dixon uncovered his face ere her languid glance fell upon it—not until the horse gave a slight stumble, which was instantly checked by a firm hand laid on the rein. Myra looked down to thank the attendant who had proved so prompt and watchful, when instantly her countenance underwent a violent change—her features stiffened, her eyes dilated, and, unconsciously drawing tight the rein she held, she exclaimed, with wild, frantic vehemence—

"You are Dixon. You are the man who took my child."

"I am. Lady, I——"

"Wretch, monster, where is my babe? What did you with it? Did you destroy it? Oh, heaven! are my eyes blasted with the sight of my babe's murderer?"

"No, lady. I was cruel, very cruel, in what I did to you, but I did not harm the child."

"You did not harm it?"

"No, believe me, I did not."

"Answer me one word—but one. Does my child live?"

"It does."

"She lives!" shrieked Myra; "my Clara lives! You tell me she lives! Say it again; assure me it is true, and the curse which trembles on my tongue will change into a blessing!"

"I swear to you it is true. I have kept sight of the child all the time. She has been well treated, and is strong and healthy. You will see her soon. I will restore her to you."

"Great heaven, support me under this shock of joy!" gasped Myra. "My child lives—I will see her! She will be given back to me! But you mock me," she cried with sudden fierceness. "You are saying this to torture, to agonize me. You are the friend, the tool of Colonel McPherson. This other man is Nip; I remember him, too. You were both his tools in effecting my imprisonment. Ha, a terrible light breaks in upon me! You have separated me from Lizzie. You are taking me to some other prison-house. Miscreants, I have divined your fiendish purpose!"

"Lady, you do us wrong," returned Dixon, very earnestly, and with great meekness, for he was conscious that his former conduct warranted the suspicion she so readily formed. "We are not now," he added "in the service of Colonel McPherson—have not been almost for two years; not since shortly after I——"

"After you took my child—is that what you would say?"

"Yes, madam, that is what I mean. Something happened then—a quarrel—a deadly quarrel between me and Allan McPherson."

"I know, I know—I was told of it by Mother Barnacle."

"Then you will understand what reason I had and have to hate Allan. I swore to have revenge. I had the prospect of it through your child. I have waited for it till now, and the time has come for me to obtain it."

"But, my child," cried Myra; you say she lives, that you will restore her to me. Oh if you are a man—if you would escape heaven's direst condemnation—do not deceive me. Think of what I have suffered—think of the terrible wrong you did me. In the name of God, swear to me, Dixon, that what you say is the truth."

"I swear it—I solemnly swear it," answered Dixon, with an air of sincerity, which carried conviction to Myra's mind, and caused such a flood of joy to burst on her heart that she trembled in every limb and tottered in her seat."

Dixon hastened to assure her that he was now as strongly devoted to her interests as formerly he had opposed them—that he was resolved to do his utmost to secure her rights and those of her child, who was now, he added, the heiress of Benachray. But these intimations moved her little. It was of her infant she wished to hear—where he had taken it, who had charge of it, where it was now, and when she should recover it. He told her the whole story, to every syllable of which she listened with greedy attention, her eyes shining and beaming with the new light of her great happiness.

"Does Lizzie know of this?" she eagerly asked.

"She will by this time. Mr. Logan rode away in advance that he might tell her, and that I might have this opportunity of informing you."

"Let us press on and overtake them. See, she looks back—she knows all! She longs to speak to me. I long to have her share my joy, as she so truely shared my sorrow."

She waved her handerchief with impetuous motion, the group in front halted, and Lizzie waved vigorously back. Myra's horse was put to the trot, and in a few minutes the two friends were clasped to each other's heart in a fervent embrace, tears of joy bursting from both their eyes, but words failing to express the feelings they experienced.

RAILWAY MATTERS.—The Palmerston Telegraph says:—The Mount Forest and Durham papers are all astray about the Stratford and Huron Railway not going further than Listowel. At a meeting of the directors of that line, held at Woodstock, it was decided to adopt the Palmerston route if the required bonuses are voted. As there is no doubt about this last point, our contemporaries may expect at an early date invitations to witness the opening of the line to Palmerston. Instead of being abandoned, as the Chronicle says is the case, the scheme, since the Chesley meeting, shows greater vitality than ever. And at the last council meeting it was stated by Mr. Watson that the directors have so arranged their plans that the line will be in full operation to the Lake within two years of the present time.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. SIGN OF THE GOLDEN MAN.

Upper Wyndham Street, Guelph.

Special Attraction.

We offer during the balance of this month wonderful attractions to intending buyers and Staple Dry Goods, Millinery, Carpets, Silks, Mantles, Jackets, and General Dress Goods.

Our stock stands unrivalled in the Dominion. The taste is exquisitely beautiful, the value s the best to be found, the most polite and courteous attention, is paid to all ranks of respectable purchasers, and the best of satisfaction is guaranteed to all who make their purchases of us. We submit for this week the greatest bargains ever before shown to the inhabitants of Guelph in

Black Silks,

for ladie's Mantles or Dresses. We unhesitatingly say that we are offering an advantage of 20 per cent under any establishment in Guelph. We are showing a nice stock of Moonlight Trimmings, Moonlight Veilings and Floral Trimmings.

These goods are quite new.

In Ladies' Millinery, Hats and Bonnets

we excell in taste, style, and novelty all previous efforts. The young lady at the head of this Department combines the most refined taste with lofty artistic ideas, making at once her department the reception room for ladies who are in quest of all that is novel and excellent.

Jackets, Mantles.

We congratulate the ladies of this section in having so rich and excellent a lot of Ladies Silk Paramatta and Tweed Jackets, exquisite styles. Also an endless variety of the material and styles to select from.

Our stock of all classes of general goods is full and complete, and we remind our old customers and friends that we only keep new, fresh, sound and satisfactory goods, satisfying all who purchase them. We are straightforward in dealing, and represent goods just as they are. We wage war against old, motheaten, bankrupt stocks, kept by second class stores, and again warn the public against such trash Call and see the wonderful man, and you will receive the best value for your money.

MS. STEWART'S GREAT WORK.—We understand that the great national work entitled "Canada under the Administration of Lord Dufferin," from the pen of Geo. Stewart, Jr., the popular author of "Evenings in the Library," is in a far advanced stage of publication. The book, which will contain all of the masterly and terse speeches of the eminent Peer who guides the destinies of the Dominion, will be published very shortly, and in a manner unsurpassed hitherto by any publishing house in Canada. The Rose-Belford Company are sparing no expense, and we are promised not only an ably written work but also a sumptuous and massively bound book. It will be printed on rich, heavy paper, and a handsome steel portrait of the Governor-General will form the frontispiece. Prospectuses are now in the hands of agents, showing the various styles of binding, as well as exhibiting the quality of paper, kind of type, &c. The escutcheon of Lord Dufferin ornaments the cloth copies. A lithograph portrait of His Excellency also accompanies the volume, and is sold separately at the low price of 50c. each. A good experienced canvasser could secure many subscribers in this district for this important work, as the book is destined to enjoy an unprecedented large sale among the better class of people in our community. Applicants who wish good territory assigned them should apply early for an agency, and address ROSE-BELFORD PUBLISHING CO., Toronto.

Longue Point, on the Lake Erie coast has been provided with a surf life boat, waggon and other appliances necessary for a life saving station. This is the first station established on the Canadian side of the lakes and will be in charge of Mr. W. H. Leary, Steward of the Company, who will be captain of the crew of six men, who have had a comfortable house erected for them. This apparatus was granted by Sir Albert Smith, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, upon the representations of Mr. Mackenzie, who drew his attention to the fact that many wrecks take place at Longue Point, a dangerous place on Lake Erie, and that something should be done to alleviate the sufferings of the crews exposed to the hardships of shipwrecks and save their lives when in extremity.

ELORA.—Mr. Boyle, Principal of the Public School, annoyed at what he termed the parsimony of the Board in regard to the museum, has declined to have anything further to do with that institution.——The school buildings were entered last week. About $4 in change was taken out of Mr. Boyle's desk.——The roof of Dalby's tannery was on fire on Thursday morning last. The flames were extinguished before they had made any headway.——The June cattle fair was well attended. The Express says that during the past fifteen years there had not been as fine a lot of cattle offered at this season of the year. Prices, were considerably lower, however, than at last fair, and although a few good sales were effected many excellent cattle were driven home again.

COLLISION ON THE GRAND TRUNK.—The express train from Montreal for Toronto when near Brockville on Saturday night ran into another engine, smashing both engines and tenders, and making a complete wreck of the express and baggage cars, which were both thrown off the track. One end of the express car remained on the metals, and had the effect of checking the progress of the coaches, which, with their occupants, escaped injury; indeed, many of the latter scarcely knew of the occurrence for some time after. The fireman had one of his arms and shoulder badly crushed, and had to be left at Brockville. How the other men on the engines and in the express and baggage cars escaped being hurt seems almost a miracle.

PARTY FIGHT IN MONTREAL.—On Saturday afternoon while the Garrison Artillery were drilling, an encounter took place between an Orangeman named Jamieson and a Frenchman who were among the spectators. The Frenchman attempted to run through the ranks, followed by Jamieson, but they were both repulsed by the soldiers. They then ran down Craig-street, where a general fight ensued, about 100 men being engaged in it. The police attempted to disperse the mob, but being unable to do so Capt. Lees and his troop of cavalry were sent down to clear the street, which they did in double quick time. Jamieson was afterwards arrested.

Sir A. T. Galt has received the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in recognition of his services in connection with the fishery arbitration.

This is about the time of year when the old man knocks off work, and tells his wife he is going fishing, and he leaves home in the morning with a fishing rod and a lunch, and in the dim twilight he is trundled up to the front door in a wheelbarrow by a semi-sober coadjutor, who says the old man has been sun struck. Nobody ever finds out what becomes of the fish.

Bond & Co to-day advertise lawn mowers, refrigerators, and other seasonable goods at prices that defy competition. They have a number of remnants of floor oil cloth which they will sell at great reduction (almost anything) to get rid of them.

Patrons of a first-class hotel justly consider themselves entitled to comfortable rooms, a bountiful bill-of-fare, and courteous treatment in the office. All these, combined with a notable degree of elegance throughout, are to be found in the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa. eod.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

The Grand Central Hotel, New York, possesses all the requirements, in size, style, location and appointments of the modern first-class hotel, and keeps its reputation as a model house. eod

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows: —Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

Temperance Tent.

A Well Attended Meeting.

The meeting last evening was well attended and more interesting than any yet held, notwithstanding the shower just previous to the hour of meeting. Mr. Haskell opened with an address showing the need of special efforts in the temperance cause. He said there were those who objected to work of this kind, the church ought to do it, religion is the antidote for this and every kindred vice. Very true, but the church to a large degree fails to arrest or check this vice. It has worried its way into the church, and in many instances muzzled the pulpit; ministers of the gospel as well as others have fallen victims to the fearful appetite. In spite of all the machinery of the church in old England to-day intemperance has been steadily and fearfully gaining upon the people. The drink bill of Great Britain was $150,000,000 more in 1876 than it was in 1870. It was true the church ought to take the lead in this movement, but they are not doing it as a body. There are many notable examples of individual Christians and clergymen in the front rank, but there is room for a vast improvement. The time is undoubtedly coming when the whole church will see eye to eye on this important question, and there will be a tremendous power for the dethronement of King Alcohol. Mr. Haskell also referred in an amusing manner to the havoc drink was making, especially in disfiguring the bodies of men. He recently met four men in one day who had broken noses all in consequence of drunkenness, and one had been broken five times. He said the coarse features which many men wore were in consequence of being soaked in liquor. There is nothing that so mars the beauty of the human frame as drink. If persons would be handsome let them follow the example of the Prophet Daniel and let the cup alone.

Dr. McGregor was the next speaker. He joined this movement in Brantford. Previously he had been what may be termed a moderate drinker, though never drinking to intoxication. But he saw he had an influence, and it was on the wrong side, and he decided to change his position. He joined the movement, and for more than a year had not touched liquor. He hoped this movement would be eminently successful.

Mr. Cooper followed in words of encouragement to all to come forward and unite themselves with the cause.

Rev. Mr. Durkee made a capital address which was listened to with great interest. He narrated the instance of a man of prominence whom he knew, who became attached to drink, but who persisted in saying he was in no danger, who at last fell into a drunkard's grave. He warned all, the young especially, to avoid the cup.

Mr. Butler followed by giving his experience of the evil of drink and the great benefit of becoming a total abstainer.

Mr. Wilkie in a few earnest words commended the work to the approval of all. He hoped and believed good would result from these meetings.

The singing which was under the charge of Mr. Pilcher added much to the interest of the meeting.

At the close ten signed the pledge, making fifty in all since the meetings began.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday evening.

Local News.

FULL report of the Breadon inquest will be found on the fourth page.

EDITH O'GORMAN is giving a lecture to ladies only in the town hall this afternoon.

LIGHT to moderate winds and clear to fair weather are the probabilities received to-day.

AMONG the number ordained at the London Conference was Mr. J. W. Cooley, formerly of Guelph.

MEDICAL COUNCIL.—The annual meeting of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario opened at Toronto on Tuesday. Dr. Daniel Clark, President, occupied the chair.

OPEN AIR CONCERT this evening at Maple Bank, the residence of Mr. Wm. Stevenson. A good programme.

THE calithumpian crew are organizing for the great turn out on the 1st of July—Dominion Day.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE FESTIVAL.—Parties who have promised cakes, cream, flowers, etc., for the Festival will please bring them to the town hall to-morrow after nine o'clock, a.m.

THE father and uncle of the late Thos. Breadon arrived in Guelph yesterday. The grief of the aged parent of the deceased is great.

POLICE COURT.—This morning, George Pearson, the handkerchief thief, was brought before the Police Magistrate for sentence. Mr. Barber, employed in the Osborne sewing machine factory, gave the prisoner the character of being an industrious lad during the four years off and on he had worked for him. This had the effect of persuading the magistrate to inflict a light sentence. Instead of a five years' term in the Reformatory at Penetanguishene one week in gaol was the sentence. The magistrate gave the prisoner a few words of advice that it will be well for him if he heeds. Ed. Mulligan, a hard case, was sent to gaol for one month for stealing fowls from Mr. J. D. Williamson.

GUELPH LODGE, A. F. AND A. M.—On Tuesday evening the following officers were elected by this lodge:—

V.W. Bro. H. Walker, W.M.
Bro. Jas. Logan, S.W.
" Wm. McIlroy, J.W.
W. " S. S. Walsh, Chap.
" Chas. Davidson, Treas.
" W. T. Vale, Secretary.
" Geo. Smith, Tyler.

Brothers Davidson and Chas. Pettiford acted as scrutineers. Installation on the 24th.

GUELPH RIFLES.—On Thursday night each member will have issued to him his knapsack and cross belt. It has been decided that the company will proceed to camp at Kinnettles on the 22nd. Before going to camp each man is expected to provide himself with changes of underclothing and toilet articles. Each set of arms and accoutrements issued will bear the number of the man to whom issued, who will be responsible for their return to store. The Company will parade on the evening before marching out, when every man is to be present in marching order, and must then show his kit complete.

STEAMER PRACTICE.—The large Silsby engine which the corporation has hired from the city of Toronto, to have in readiness while the Guelph engine is undergoing repairs, was taken out by the Brigade on Tuesday afternoon and evening for practice. An engineer from Toronto was up with it. During the practice at the Eramosa bridge two lengths of new and one length of old hose were broken, and at Prasant's dam one length. The engine is more powerful than the one belonging to the town. The Mayor, Fire and Water Committee and several members of the Council were present at the trial of the engine.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—The festival to be held to-morrow evening in the Town Hall in aid of the Mechanics' Institute promises to be a great success, judging from the interest that the ladies of the town are taking in the matter. A pleasing feature of the festival will be the distribution of the prizes awarded to those young men who gained them at the evening classes during the winter months. The Mechanics' Institute has for the past few years been rather slow in coming to the front, but now that it has taken a step, and has removed to better and more convenient rooms, it is to be hoped that the kind people of Guelph will come forward and do all they can to help it along, and and make it one of the most successful places of resort in town. The subscription has been reduced to one dollar a year to suit the hard times.

DEATH OF AN OLD SETTLER IN PUSLINCH.—We have to chronicle the death of Mr. James Hewer Sr., which took place at his residence on Tuesday afternoon. The deceased had been subject to fits for some three months, and until that he was a remarkably healthy man, having scarcely ever required the advice of a doctor. On Tuesday morning about nine o'clock he went to work in his garden, when shortly after he was seized with one of these fits. He managed to get into the house, and lay down on his bed. Beyond complaining of his head he said nothing, and in a short time after died. Deceased came to Puslinch in 1831, with John Arkell, from Gloucestershire. In 1832 he returned to England, and in the following year came out again with Messrs. Stone and Thomas Arkell, and settled on the land he had taken up in 1831 on the Plains, where he lived for the rest of his life. He was a quiet and unobtrusive man, a great enthusiast in gardening, and was held in much respect by all his friends and neighbors. He died at the ripe old age of eighty-five.

AT the annual meeting of the subscribers to the General Hospital held last evening, the report of the Directors contained a clause referring to the loss sustained by the Board in the decease of Mr. James Webster. Reference was made to him as one whose kindly disposition caused him to enter warmly into all matters for the promotion of the interests of the institution.

EDITH O'GORMAN.

Lecture by an Escaped Nun.

On Tuesday evening there was an audience of nearly three hundred in the town hall, to hear Edith O'Gorman, who is reputed to be an escaped nun, give an expose of the secret working of Roman Catholic nunneries as learned by herself while six years wearing the habit of a Sister of Charity in the convents of St. Elizabeth, in Madison, and St. Joseph, in Paterson, New Jersey.

Edith O'Gorman is accompanied on her lecturing tour by her husband and agent. She is in height an average size, and quite fleshy. From the opening of the lecture to its close she displayed much intelligence in speaking, has a good command of language and expresses herself with considerable dramatic force.

Her lecture consisted altogether of a narrative of what she claimed to be her life from the time she entered a convent until she escaped in the habit of her order in January, 1867. In referring to the Church of Rome she held that its strength lay in auricular confession, and if that should be swept away it would become one inert mass. The manner of consecrating a nun was described, and the anathema pronounced by the Bishop against any party who would attempt to persuade one of the nuns in order to leave the paths chosen by her was repeated. The great lesson which a nun is taught is obedience to the Superior in every sense—physically and morally. The vows taken by a nun are the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience. The speaker then explained the meaning of these various vows. She said that poverty meant not only the giving up of all worldly wealth, but the surrendering of the body as well. She held that the name Sister of Charity was a misnomer, as one of the rules that must be observed is that no money shall on any account be given away, and while the Superior may give away a crust of bread no Sister can even do that much without having permission to do so. The Sisters own nothing, and it is considered a sin to use the pronoun "my." In speaking of shoes or dress of any kind, they were obliged to say "our shoes," "our dress," &c. Thus to indicate that they own nothing. After dealing with what she called the forced uncharitableness of the Sisters, she held that the priests were even more so and it was optional with them whether they bestowed charity or not. The charge for saying masses was referred to, and she held that many priests got paid for more masses than it was possible for them to perform. She said it was true that priests took a vow of celibacy but celibacy did not mean chastity. In her opinion there were some good priests of the same as some naturally good people could be found among the heathen, but unfortunately she never met one of that kind. The consecration of the wafer and wine was dealt with at length. After dealing with the other vows taken by nuns and giving numerous examples of penances performed by herself and others, she gave an account of her escape. After she had regained her freedom she thought her soul was lost, but she felt if she had remained, not only her soul but her body would have been ruined. She concluded her remarks which continued for two hours and a quarter amidst considerable applause.

A WEDDING STOPPED AT THE ALTAR.—There was a strange scene at Cincinnati one day last week. A respectable and intelligent young lady was engaged to be married, and made the discovery that her affianced was in the habit of drinking, and told him what she had learned. He promised never to drink again, and she forgave him. The wedding day was subsequently set, and all went well until the morning appointed for the performance of the ceremony. During the interval he made his usual visits, and though he drank at times, his betrothed never learned of his faithlessness until it was nearly too late to punish him for it. They were standing side by side, and a moment more would have made them man and wife, when he turned toward her and his telltale breath spoke of whiskey. When the minister propounded the usual question to her, the response came faintly, "No." In surprise the question was again asked, and this time the response was clear and decisive, "No." She then turned to her lover, accused him of drinking, reminded him of his promise to her and said a man who would break a promise so solemnly made could not be relied upon, and she feared to trust her future to such a man. Expostulations and entreaties were all in vain, and that little "Yes" still remains unsaid.

The Quebec Government.

The Joly Government have been defeated by a majority of one, but this vote having reference to the constitutional question as to the Lieut.-Governor's right to dismiss the late Government, the Premier intimated that his Government did not intend to resign, but would lay their policy before the House first, and stand or fall by it. A motion was brought up pledging the House to give the Government a fair and independent support on their measure, and this with an amendment expressing want of confidence in them, is now under debate.

County Court and Quarter Sessions.

Before His Honor Judge Macdonald.

TUESDAY, June 11.

Stuckey vs Sanderson—The parties live in Luther. Action for assault and battery. The defendant was convicted of the same assault on a criminal prosecution, and is now serving out a term of imprisonment in the Central Prison, Toronto. Verdict for plaintiff by consent for $41 damages and full costs. Mr. Guthrie, Q.C., for plaintiff; Mr. Macdonald for defendant.

Laird vs. McGill.—The parties to this case live in Caledon. Counsel for defendant called the attention of the jury to the fact that the plaintiff was seeking to recover damages for an alleged slander, and submitted that the County Court has no jurisdiction to try such a case. His Honor assented to this view. Counsel for plaintiff then asked whether, as the parties and their witnesses were present, the case could not in some way be tried before His Honor by consent. The judge held that he could not try it even by consent. The plaintiff's proceedings accordingly dropped. Mr. Doyle for the plaintiff; Mr. Guthrie, Q.C., instructed by Pattullo & Scott, for defendant.

WEDNESDAY, June 12.

Bell vs. Johnson et al.—Action on promissory note, in favor of W. Bell & Co., of Guelph. The defence was that the amount claimed had been paid to the original payee, whom they sought to make out to be the agent of the plaintiff. Verdict for plaintiff $67 31. Mr. Biscoe for plaintiff; Mr. Duff & Hamilton for defendant. The jury was out two hours.

Merchants Bank vs. Tuck et al.—This was an action brought by the bank against Dr. Tuck, of Orangeville, for the amount of a promissory note, $125. The defence was that the note was not properly stamped. Mr. Smith, the witness for plaintiff, swore that the note had been stamped by himself at the request of the plaintiff, and he had cancelled it. The defendant swore that Mr. Smith, who was teller in the bank at the time the note was discounted, had put on it an improperly cancelled stamp. The case occupied all day. Mr. Macdonald for plaintiff; Mr. Drew, Q.C., for defendant.

[The jury are out as we go to press.]

THE GRAND JURY MADE THE FOLLWING PRESENTMENT.

To His Honor Judge Macdonald:

The Grand Jury in the fulfillment of their duties have visited the gaol, and find i clean, and the prisoners make no complaint except as to their having no employment.

They think it is very satisfactory that they have had such light duties, only one case being brought before them, and on that they have found No Bill.

JOHN A. WOOD, Foreman.

The Judge thereupon discharged the jury.

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.

Defeat of Mr. Joly's Government by a Majority of One.

QUEBEC, June 11.

The debate was resumed on Mr. Molleur's amendment to Mr. Chapleau's amendment which was:—"That the House entirely approves of the economical policy inaugurated by the Government, and hopes they will continue to put it in execution.

Mr. Joly closed the debate, when the vote was taken, 31 voting for the amendment and 32 against it.

The vote was then taken on the amendment of Mr. Chapleau, which resulted in the same division reversed—Yeas 32, nays 31, majority against the Government 1.

The main motion, as amended, was thus put before the House.

Mr. Watts appealed to the Opposition, now that the constitutional question was settled, to give fair play to the Ministry, so that the affairs of the Province might be carried on. He moved, in amendment, that after the last word of the said resolutions as amended, the following words be added:—That nevertheless under present circumstances this House believes it to be its duty to give a general and independent support to the Government in such a manner that the measures which it proposes may be submitted to the judgment of this House.

Mr. Chapleau opposed the amendment as contrary to all precedent, and stated that such a course had never been adopted in the case of Sir Robert Peel quoted as a parallel by the other side of the House.

Hon. Mr. Joly said that he did not deem it his duty to resign upon this vote, which, by a majority of one, had condemned him on what he considered a theoretical question. He respected the will of the House, and would submit to it when manifested in the condemnation of his policy; but he would consider himself false to his trust if he did not make every legitimate effort to lay the policy of his Government before the House, where it could be judged and supported or condemned on its merits.

Mr. Loranger moved in amendment to the amendment that all the words after "that" be struck out and the following inserted in their stead:—

That this House is of opinion that the principle of responsible Government requires that the Cabinet during the administration of public affairs be supported by a majority of this House.

A debate then ensued, when the House adjourned without taking a vote.

THE Caledonian meeting held last night was well attended. It was resolved to give an entertainment on the anniversary of the opening of the rooms, and a committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements. A committee was also named to report as to games for this year. Wm. Mitchell, President of St. Andrew's Society, occupied the chair.

Guelph General Hospital.

Annual Meeting—Election of Directors.

On Tuesday evening the annual meeting of the subscribers to the General Hospital was held in the Council Chamber. There was a small attendance.

After appointing Mr. Elliott chairman of the meeting, the following report and financial statement were read.

DIRECTOR'S REPORT.

The Directors of the Guelph General Hospital in submitting their annual report have no matters of very special interest to refer to, the officers and servants of the institution performing their various duties to the satisfaction of the Board, and the Hospital being in a high state of efficiency in every department.

The number of patients in the Hospital June 10, 1877, was 10; number of admissions in the year, ending June 10, 1878, 12; number of births, 9; deaths 9. The thanks of the Directors are due to the medical gentlemen of the town for their unwearied attention to the wants of the patients without charge, and also to the clergymen for their attention to the spiritual requirements of the inmates.

The thanks of the Directors are also due to the ladies who gave a very interesting exhibition of tableaux vivants for the benefit of the funds of the Hospital, which produced $75; and also to those ladies who have been instrumental in procuring a book-case and books for a hospital library, and a very excellent organ to afford music to entertain and solace the patients in their weary hours of convalescence.

The Hospital being entirely dependant upon municipal aid and private charity for its maintenance, must look to the exertions of its friends in sending in and collecting subscriptions, as it will be seen from the Treasurer's statement that it is with difficulty the expenditure is kept within the income. The Directors therefore trust that a kind response will be made by the public to the annual call for subscriptions which will shortly be made.

As a large number of the patients in the Hospital are from the rural sections of the county, the Directors would call the attention of our country friends to this rule of the Hospital:—That the payment of $100 per annum entitles any municipality to the use of a bed for one patient for an entire year. They indulge the hope that the township municipalities will become subscribers in this manner, as upon making such payment the order of their Reeve will secure the admission of the patients, and the Reeve will be an ex-officio member of the Board.

It is with feelings of deep regret that the Directors refer to the loss by death of one of their number during the past official year, James Webster, Esq., whose kindly disposition caused him to enter warmly into all matters for the promotion of the interests of the Hospital, and which he showed in the faithful performance of his duties as one of the Directors.

GEO. ELLIOTT, Chairman.

On motion of John M. Bond and Dr. Keating, the report was adopted.

Messrs. T. W. Saunders and Chas. Davidson were re-appointed auditors.

On motion of Messrs. C. A. Burrows and John Horsman, a vote of thanks was tendered the retiring Directors.

Dr. Keating and Mr. C. A. Burrows were appointed scrutineers, and after balloting reported the following Directors elected for the ensuing year:—Messrs. E. Newton, F. W. Stone, John McCrea, W. Wilkie, J. M. Bond, Geo. Murton, Geo. Elliott, F. Biscoe, A. Lemon, Jas. Goldie, H. Hatch, C. F. Leonard. On motion of Messrs. Jno. M. Bond and John Horsman it was decided that in future all donations, &c., be acknowledged through the press.

Suggestions were made by Dr. Keating as to the best mode of raising funds in aid of the Hospital. Reference was made to the clause in the Director's report whereby Municipalities were accorded a bed in the Hospital on the payment of $100 a year. The doctor thought it would be well if a committee of ladies could be secured to canvass the town for contributions. He was favorable to allowing the relief societies of the town the privilege of having a bed for three months at a time on the payment of $25.

On motion Mr. Elliott left the chair, and a vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman and secretary which was acknowledged.

A meeting of the directors will be held on Monday afternoon at four o'clock for the election of officers.

The Wool Question.

The taxationist organs are trying hard to pull the wool over the eyes of Canadian farmers by representing that the American tariff on wool is the cause of the present low price of that article in Canada. What are the facts? Our wool can be carried to Liverpool—the great wool market of the world—and handled there at a cost of from a cent to a cent and a half a pound. The carriage from Liverpool to New York at present rates would be about half a cent a pound. The Americans can supply themselves with all the wool they require, therefore, at Liverpool prices, adding half a cent per pound for freight. Why should they pay the Canadian farmer more? If a Reciprocity Treaty covering wool was made, it would not increase our price to any extent, because of the competition of the world's market. But the American tariff while it deprives the Canadian farmer of nothing increases the cost to the American manufacturer, and so to the American consumer by at least the full amount of duty levied—in other words by the tax imposed. Were there no tariff, the American manufacturer could buy his raw material at Liverpool or Canada, and land it at his mill at least fifteen cents per pound less than at present. Under the circumstances, therefore, is it any wonder that he is unable to compete in the world's markets when he has to pay so much more than his English or Canadian rival.

South Bruce Election.

Mr. Blake and his Constituents.

A very large and influential deputation of Reformers from South Bruce waited on the Hon. Edward Blake at the Walker House, in Toronto on Tuesday, with a requisition signed by over 2,000 Reformers, asking him to re-consider the determination he had come to not to accept the nomination for that Riding at the forthcoming election in consequence of the state of his health. Mr. Malcolm Cameron, President of the Reform Association, was spokesman. He referred to the strong desire that Mr. Blake should accept the nomination, and to the fact that though they had brought with them over 2,000 signatures to that effect, little more than one half of the separate requisitions had been returned in time for the deputation. He assured Mr. Blake that if he would only consent to be their candidate—without engaging in the campaign at all or entering on a personal canvass—they would again triumphantly elect him as their representative for South Bruce.

Mr. Blake made a very appropriate and feeling speech, in which he referred to the pleasant relations that had existed between them during the eleven years he had represented them, to his reasons for declining the nomination tendered which were entirely on account of his health, and that he was totally unequal to the strain of a personal canvass. He concluded by saying:—

"If after due reflection, the Liberal party should come to the conclusion that the use of my name under these conditions is the best thing under these circumstances, of course they, as a matter of right, will take their own course. I have not said to you—I have not said to the party—I do not think it my duty to say—more than I was obliged to say in my letter, viz.: of declining your nomination, because I was unable to discharge the duties of a candidate. I do not know whether I should be able to discharge the duties of a member, but I think that after a period of relaxation and rest. I might in some small degree, however imperfectly, discharge those duties. My declinature of the nomination was not based on that, but was given for the reasons I have explained to you; but I did not think it right to become a candidate and accept the nomination when I was unable to discharge the duties of the candidate. If you choose to run me and to use my name I shall not decline the seat you provide for me (loud cheers); but it must be as in 1872. You must be content to take me as your candidate in no other sense than that you have made me your candidate." (Prolonged cheers).

Mr. Campbell thanked Mr. Blake for the answer he had given them, and assured him that on the condition he had named he would again be triumphantly elected as the honoured representative of South Bruce in the House of Commons. (Loud cheers).

Congregational Union.

LONDON, June 8.

In the afternoon the Rev. Wm. Williams presented the claims of the French Canadian Mission Society. The Rev. Dr. Wilkes also reported in reference to the mission work in Labrador.

A resolution was adopted concerning the sense of the great loss which the Union had sustained by the removal by death during the year of Revs. A. J. Parker, E. J. Sherrill, Wm. Clarke and Henry Sanders, of Hamilton.

Rev. John Wood was heard on behalf of the Canadian Independent. He intimated that the Directors of the Publishing Company were prepared to lease a weekly paper on January 1st, 1879, if the matter were taken hold of by the body with earnestness.

In the evening a social meeting was held, when addresses were delivered by Rev. C. Pedley, Rev. R. J. Black and Rev. J. B. Silcox.

At the annual meeting of the Indian Missionary Society, reference was made to the advantage of having the Rev. Mr. Lister as a permanent missionary in the north. Miss Baylis, who has passed seven summers at Spanish River, has again returned to that field of labor. Mr. William Walker, Indian preacher, was ordained to the work of the Gospel ministry in July last. His church in French Bay, on Lake Huron, now numbers nearly sixty members; and Christian work is vigorously carried on. At Mississagua River—Mr. Lister's station—there have been some machinations of the priests brought to light, aiming at the expulsion of Protestantism from the vicinity. But the mission is firmly established, and legal sanction obtained for putting up Mission buildings; and a recent order of the Government for all half-breed to remove from the reserve this spring, will take away the disturbing element and leave the missionary to close connection with the Indians proper, who are pagans as yet. The Society have their eyes on the Great Northwest, and would be glad to aid Mr. Lister as soon as means would admit. He is now proficient in the Ojibway language. Rev. James Howell, who has been collecting for the Society, had been appointed Secretary pro tem., in consequence of the removal to the Province of Quebec of the former Secretary, Rev. W. W. Smith.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Members of Congress Assembling.

June 11.

A Berlin despatch says:—Earl Beaconsfield arrived this evening. He was received by Lord Odo Russell and Count Von Burlow.

A Berlin despath says:—All the plenipotentiaries will have arrived here on Wednesday except the Turkish, who cannot reach here before Friday or Saturday. The plenipotentiaries will be received on Wednesday in a State audience by the Crown Prince. They will be conveyed to the palace in State carriages. On Thursday afternoon the Congress will meet for the first time, and after the transaction of the necessary formalities, such as the verification of the several powers of the plenipotentiaries and the appointment of officials, the proceeding will be opened by Bismarck as President, by submitting his memorandum of points, or resume of subjects to be treated directly by the plenipotentiaries, each of whom will receive a copy of this document. The business of the first sitting will be confined to the settlement of the question whether or not the Congress shall invite Greece to participate in its transactions. A State banquet at the castle will be given to the plenipotentiaries and their suits on Thursday or Friday evening. It is highly improbable that Roumania or Servia will be accorded direct access to the Congress either with full or consultative powers. The original anticipation that the Congress would complete its labors in a fortnight is thought likely to be realized. Commissioners will then be sent to Turkey to settle details. The result of the Congress, it is anticipated here, will not be unfavorable to Russia. She will probably get a portion of Bessarabia and Arminia, the latter including Kars and Ardahan certainly, and perhaps also Batoum, but not Bayazid. The Welhelm Strasse is in a great stir of anticipation. Newspaper correspondents from all parts of the world are already here. It is reported that the Bonaparte, Orleans, and Bourbon interests are to be privately advocated during the Congress by gentlemen deputed for the occasion, a hope being entertained by the monarchial parties in France that a Conservative reaction will shortly set in at Berlin, and that the monarchy may then have another chance at Paris.

A Vienna correspondent says the various Governments have agreed that the discussion in the Congress shall be secret. A Committee will be appointed to select what portion of the deliberations shall be published.

A Vienna correspondent says:—Russia has recently taken a very overbearing tone towards Austria. A rupture seems imminent a week ago in consequence of Russia's curt refusal to listen to Austria's representations relative to the limits of Bulgaria.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

ST. THOMAS, June 10.

On Sunday there was a very large attendance at the church where the ordination services were held. The Rev. James Gray conducted the introductory services, and the Rev. E. B. Ryckman, M. A., read the lessons. The Rev. Dr. Ryerson, President of the General Conference, preached the ordination sermon from the text Ezra xi. 8. The venerable preacher delivered a very impressive and forcible discourse. He was in the seventy-sixth year of his age, he said, and the fifty-fourth of his ministry. He spoke of the great changes which had taken place in the country since he had entered on his public work. Then there were only 36 Methodist ministers in Canada, now there were over 1,000; then there were only 6,000 Methodists, now there were over 100,000 members of the Methodists Church of Canada. His early circuits had from thirty-five to forty appointments, involving a journey of from three hundred to four hundred miles a month. He had no study but his horses' back, and received less than a $100 a year salary. At the close of the sermon the ordination service was conducted by Rev. E. B. Ryckman, President; the evening service was conducted by Rev. Edward. H. Dewart; and Rev. Dr. Williams presided at the administration of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The following are the names of the young men who were ordained: Samuel Sellery, B.D., Alfred M. Philips, B.D., John Wesley Cooley, L. Cooley, Wm. L. Hackett, Richard Chinders, Edward S. Shibley and Joseph M. Hodgson, B.A.

On Monday the Rev. Manly Benson presented the report of the Statistical Committee. The Conference was gratified to learn that despite the financial depression that has prevailed the total increase in the connexion funds is $2,219.23. The increase in the membership is 500.

The list of the superannuated and supernumery ministers was then submitted.

The resignation of the Rev. Wm. Webb was accepted.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR.—The recovery of the Emperor is progressing wonderfully. To-day he celebrates the forty-ninth anniversary of his marriage. Frequent arrests for treasonable utterances continue. There is reason to believe that repressive measures against the Socialists will be confined to what is absolutely required. It is stated that Socialistic pamphlets are being circulated in the Berlin barracks. Nobeling is likely to recover.

On Monday a small vessel was brought down from Port Dalhousie to Toronto, which is to be placed on Red River and Lake Winnipeg. She is of 30 tons burden and has a fifteen-horse power engine.

Quite a number of manufacturing houses in Toronto are having telephonic communication between their city offices and their manufacturies in the suburbs.

The funeral will take place on Thursday, to the burying ground at the Plains, at 3 p. m. Friends and acquaintances are requested to attend.

Another Old Resident Gone.

To-day's obituary contains the announcement that, at the ripe age of four score and nine, Margaret Lockie, relict of John Inglis, has been removed from among us. The deceased was born in the neighborhood of Kelso, on the banks of the Tweed. After being united in marriage to John Inglis, they were residents of Bowden, and on the estate of Douglas of Cavers, where their three sons and five daughters were born. In the year 1830, following the example of many others, they bade adieu to the land of their forefathers, and sought a home in Canada, settling on a lot in that portion of the township of Guelph known as Paisley Block, and occupying the homestead, Greenwells. Twenty years passed away, filled up in the faithful discharge of duties devolving on her as the husband's loving helpmate, the careful mother, and benevolent neighbor. In 1862, while residing on the farm of her son-in-law, Joseph Hobson, she became a widow. Since that event she has been the revered inmate of the household of her eldest daughter, and latterly of her grandson, John Hobson. Though Naomi-like she was left alone of her husband, and had been called in the inscrutable dealings of Providence to attend the death-beds of six members of her family, yet she was enabled to exhibit resignation to the Divine will in afflictions, peculiarly trying to a parent's heart. A week previous to her decease she sustained injuries, the result of a fall, of such a nature that notwithstanding all that medical skill, and the unremitting attention of kind relatives could do to alleviate her sufferings, she gradually succumbed, and entered, we hope, into that rest that remaineth for the people of God. She leaves a son who is now residing in the United States, and a number of grand-children and great grand-children.

I HAD a severe attack of chills and fever. I tried Quinine, Arsenic, and every remedy I could hear of.

GILES' PILLS and LINIMENT made a complete cure of me.

CHAPTER XLVI.

BACK TO GLENROY—A JOYOUS WELCOME—BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

No more sadness for Myra any more than for Lizzie, no more listless languor under the shadow of sorrow, but a restless impatience to press forward in the journey over the mountains, that she might the sooner reach her babe. In this desire all participated; but no amount of eager wishing could lessen the distance they had to traverse, and despite the diligence with which they travelled it was late in the afternoon of the second day ere they reached the head of Glenroy, by which time Harold had told Lizzie all the particulars of his vain search, and she in turn had rehearsed the history of her capture and imprisonment. These mutual narratives, so full of interest to all, served greatly to beguile the tedium of the way, which otherwise their impatience would have rendered—to use an expressive Scottish phrase—"ill to thole." Nevertheless, the sight of the dear old glen, and the near prospect of seeing her uncle and aunt, made Lizzie wildly happy. At every turn of the road her sparkling eyes sought for new objects of recognition, and these she pointed out to Myra with fresh exclamations of delight. Now it was a hill, now a wood, here a cliff, and there a tarn—every one of which was closely associated with her days of young and happy love. Myra entered enthusiastically into the feeling of her friend, for her spirit, too, had been made radiant by the hope which had been given her.

At last they came to the opening in the glen which led to the cottage, and here they parted with Dougal McCallum, though not before he had obtained a paper signed by Harold and Dixon, the exhibition of which would save him from the vengeance of their smuggling associates, should any such meet him. This was highly necessary, for without it Dougal's life would not have been worth much; but the paper set forth that for most essential service rendered, and future service promised, his treachery as a spy had been forgiven.

Armed with this precious security Dougal went his way, as Nip rather felicitously put it, "like Cain into the wilderness—with the brand upon his brow, lest anyone finding him should slay him." His departure was a relief to all. All through the journey his presence had been felt as a dark shadow behind them. Conscious of his delinquency and of the small reason to tolerate his society, he had travelled by himself though within safe distance of the party, and the sight of his crouching form brought unpleasant feelings to mingle with their gladness. Now he was gone, and with him went the one disturbing element to their joy.

"The cottage—the cottage!" was the joyous cry which burst from the lips of Harold and Lizzie as they obtained the first glimpse of the building, with the slanting rays of the western sun shining full on its gable. Another moment and the turn of the knoll revealed it to the general gaze, blue smoke curling up from both the chimneys into the silvery air—a very picture of peace, beauty, and welcome.

The door stood open, but no one was visible, till, from a green slope facing the west, a form suddenly started up. It was Daddy Duff, who had been employed in his favurite occupation of basking in the sun. One moment he sat gazing in silence, then with a wild shout he leapt to his feet, and, emitting a loud, frantic hurrah, tossed off his sou'-wester, waved his cudgel high in the air, and danced and capered with amazing vehemence, the extravagant demonstration being followed by a rush down the slope on his way to meet them.

Daddy's shouts and hurrahs brought Mysie running to the door, when up went her arms, forth burst a series of skirls, then, with the passionate exclamation, "My bairn, my bairn," she, too, rushed forward, as Thomas, her husband, flew forth to learn the cause of the uproar.

In her eagerness to alight Lizzie threw herself from the horse into Harold's arms, to be the next instant received into those of her aunt, who hugged her like one demented. Forward rushed the no less excited Thomas Morven, and as he could not clasp Lizzie to his heart by herself he flung his arms round her and Mysie both. A scene of such kissing, embracing, laughing, crying, never had been witnessd in Glenroy, and seldom anywhere else. Round the closely-linked group danced Daddy Duff with the most amazing agility, his long hair streaming out, his motley rags fluttering around him, the straw ropes flying from his legs in fragments, as he kicked up his heels and jumped to and fro, while his cudgel was sent round his head with many a wheeling flourish, and his loud hurrahs woke the echoes of the glen.

To complete the unparalled scene out came another personage from the interior of the cottage with astonishment and alarm depicted in his face, but at the first sight of the arrivals a fit of joy seized him likewise, causing him to give way to motions and actions hardly becoming the douce demeanor of an elderly Aberdeen lawyer.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Hæmœopathic Chemists, London. Bond & Co to-day advertise lawn mowers, refrigerators, and other seasonable goods at prices that defy competition. They have a number of remnants of floor oil cloth which they will sell at great reduction (almost anything) to get rid of them.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

The Herald's Paris special states that William H. Vanderbilt during his stay there purchased pictures by celebrated artists to the amount, it is said, of $200,000.

A meeting of shareholders of the General Mining Association was held lately in London, when the profits from working the Sydney and Lingan, N. S., mines in 1877 were shown to be £5,594, and a dividend of 2s. 6d. per share was declared. These are the people who want to tax the rest of the Dominion to make their profits still larger.

Statements of the business done at the principal Custom Houses for the month of May shows a considerable increase over last year. The dark days are going by.

The Breadon Suicide.

Coroner's Inquest.

The following is the conclusion of the evidence submitted at the inquest held on the body of the late Thomas Breadon by Coroner Keating :—

Dinah Breadon, wife of the deceased, testified that she had been married fourteen years. Up to two weeks ago did not consider the deceased of unsound mind. He then threatened to take her life. He had been a very hard drinker for many years. When sober he had always been very kind. One night about two weeks ago he had laid on the bed with his clothes on, and early in the morning he got up, seized a knife, and threatened to take her life. His looks indicated that he was of unsound mind, as well as his actions. After she had screamed her husband stated that he would not hurt her. She thought liquor had all to do with his feelings, as there had never been any disagreements. The only thing that would make him annoyed was when she asked him not to drink. After he had threatened to kill her she had left him for three or four days and went to her father's. On the Saturday night following he went for her and persuaded her to return with him. At the time she told him that the only reason she had left him was on account of his drinking. He said, then, "Try me once more; I won't promise to quit drinking, because I have done so many times; but try me once more." She believed he tried to quit drinking, but knew he drank a little all the time. On Monday morning she went home to her father's. When she left he remarked that he could get his own dinner, and that she might stay till evening. In the afternoon between one and two o'clock he went to her father's, and on being asked by her why he had come up he replied that he thought of going into the country, and wanted to let her know so, that she would not be uneasy by his remaining away all night. He then left and she returned home about nine o'clock. He was sitting beside a table when she reached home. He asked "Why did you not get home a little earlier," and she answered "I thought you would be away in the country, and there was no necessity for me hurrying home, and besides I did not feel very well. She then asked "Will you have a cup of tea." He answered that he did not care for anything, and she urged that he had not had anything to eat all day. She remarked, "I'm afraid you have been drinking again." The reason she said this was because he could not eat when drinking hard. He got up, saying "You will not have that to say," went to the bureau and took a revolver out of the drawer. She did not know what he had until she heard the explosion. He fell down groaning. She ran to him and said "Oh! what have you done?" He did not make any answer. She asked him "What made you do it—what is the reason? Do you know me?" He merely answered, mentioning her name. She afterwards told Mrs. McKenna—a neighbor—and a number came in. When the doctors arrived they ordered his removal to the Hospital. She did not go up then, but did in the morning. She saw him alive this (Tuesday) morning in the Hospital about six o'clock, and remained with him as long as he lived. She did not know what time he died. She saw the writing in the account book, her husband was writing in it when she reached home. Could not remember the words written, but the purport of them was that he intended doing something to himself. It commenced "Dear wife," and was not finished.

To a juror—Did not observe that he had been drinking much before she had arrived home. She said that she went to see the deceased in the morning without being sent for.

In the evidence being read over the witness stated that about six years ago her husband had threatened her life with a carving knife.

Edward McKenna, hostler at the City Hotel, was sworn. He had known the deceased during the past ten months, and considered him very unsteady in his habits. He was a very quiet man, and never heard a cross word spoken by him. He never heard of any disagreement between the deceased and his wife. He had heard Mrs. Breadon say that her husband did not treat her as he should do. The witness thought she referred to her husband's drinking. She had also said that her husband was very kind to her when he was sober. All the witness knew of the affair was that when he got home he was told by a daughter of Mr. Dietz that Breadon had shot himself. He went in the house of the deceased and saw him sitting on the lounge and two doctors waiting on him. He appeared sensible at the time. Witness asked him why he did such a thing and all he answered was, "I don't know."

Joseph H. Dietz testified to having heard the evidence of the preceding witness and could corroborate it. He had never seen the deceased real drunk and had never heard any quarreling between him and his wife. If there had been any quarreling he could have heard it from where he lived. On Monday night about ten o'clock saw the deceased sitting on a lounge and blood was running from two wounds—where he supposed the ball had entered, and where it had come out. Mrs. Breadon on being asked where the revolver was, said it had been sent into Mr. McKenna's house. Mrs. Breadon asked her husband if he knew her, and he answered by calling her "Dinah." The physicians thought it would be well to have the deceased removed to the Hospital. He was able to walk from the house to the cab, by a party having hold of each arm. Mrs. Breadon stated that deceased had been writing when she came home. The book was got and a short letter was found written on one page. The substance of the letter was:—"Dear wife,—It is better we should part. I am bound for realms unknown for better or for worse. You will hear more about——." The letter appeared to break off short. It looked as though two or three leaves of the book had been torn out of the book.

Mrs. Breadon here produced the book in which the deceased had written in before committing the rash act, having gone for it during the time of the examination of the previous witnesses. The following is a copy of the unfinished letter:

"GUELPH, June 10th, 1878.

DEAR WIFE,—I think it is the better way for us to part, as we do not seem to be suited to each other. I shall depart this life to realms unknown; be it good or bad I shall have to put up with it now. I shall let you know, if possible——"

According to instructions given by the Coroner the pockets of the deceased were searched, and the slips torn out of the book were found. The following are copies :—

"GUELPH, June 10th, 1878.

"DEAR WIFE,—

"When you will have received this I shall be no more. I am sorry to leave you, but I am unhappy and tired of life. I intend to get in some secluded place and end my existence by shooting with a revolver. I say this to save any person being accused of a deed of which I am guilty myself. I will say a last farewell. From your unfortunate husband

"THOS. BREADON JR."

"GUELPH, June 10th, 1878.

'DEAR WIFE,—

"I think it is the better way for us to part, as we don't seem suited to each other. I shall depart for my journey (to realms unknown, of which I shall inform you if allowed.) Be they good or bad I shall have to put up with them now."

The writing was in a legible hand, and did not in the least indicate nervousness. In penning the missive, the writer evidently was perfectly cool and composed.

The bullet which was flattened out was found by Constable Colson, at the house of the deceased, on the floor, and was produced. Small particles of the skull appeared embedded in the bullet.

Dr. Cowan was sworn. He testified to the condition of the deceased when he first saw him, and gave evidence in regard to the post mortem examination made by himself, assisted by Mr. Egleston, medical student.

This concluded the evidence.

The Coroner informed the jury that he considered the evidence sufficient to show that the deceased had come to his death by a wound inflicted by his own hand with a revolver, whether the deceased was sane at the time or not it was for them to find.

After a short consultation the jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased Thomas Breadon had committed suicide by a pistol shot fired by his own hand.

Something should be done with that man Edison, who makes phonographs. Not content with tapping every telegraph line for its secrets, and practically ruining the privacy of that mode of intercourse, he is now making an attack on the most sacred confidence of friends. He is said to be projecting an ear trumpet by which conversation can be heard a mile away. It would not add to the enjoyment of our fine, calm, starry evenings to be conscious of this new demon detective. If Mr. Edison invents such an instrument he must confine its use to newspaper reporters, who will, of course, use it only in the public good.

THE Reform Convention of East Huron will meet at Brussels on the 14th instant, to nominate a candidate for the Local Legislature.

PUSLINCH FARMERS' CLUB.—The regular monthly meeting of this Club will be held in the Town Hall, Aberfoyle, on Friday, the 14th inst., at six o'clock p.m. The subject appointed for the meeting is "The importance of a judicious rotation of Crops." Mr. D. Gilchrist to open the debate. Parties requiring sulky rakes or other articles through the Club, are requested to make application at once. w1

BOOTS & SHOES

A pious elder of the Scottish Kirk, on his way to service on a Sunday morning, saw a little girl and boy playing marbles. He wrathfully inquired, "Boy, do you know where children go to who play marbles on Sunday?" "Ay, ay," answered the boy, "they gang doun to the field by the brig" (bridge) "No," roared the elder, "go to hell and are burned." The little fellow looking shocked and frightened, called to his sister, "Come awa, Jeannie; come awa, here's a mon swearing awfully."

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co,, are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

Base Ball.

Items of Interest on the Diamond.

On Friday the Beavers, of Guelph, will play a match in Stratford with the Maple Leafs of that town.

A match game of base ball was played on Tuesday between the Irish Nine, of Gorrie, and the Browns of Harriston. The following is the score by innings:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Browns	4	1	1	2	5	0	3	4	0—20

It must be remembered that it is the Tecumseh professionals of London that will play here on Tuesday next with the Maple Leafs. The visitors now stand second for the international championship and is one of the best clubs in the world. Those wishing to see a good game should turn out on Tuesday afternoon.

The Leafs leave this evening for Toronto and Markham to play with the Clippers and Iroquois.

CRICKET.—A match between sides chosen by Messrs. Finlay and Greet was played on Wednesday afternoon—one innings each. The game was very closely contested as will be seen by the subjoined score:—

Magnificent stock of new black silks opening to-day at the Fashionable West End, by far the best value ever seen in Guelph.

Daily Mercury.

THURSDAY EVE'G, JUNE 13, 1878

Local News.

THE little steamer, Empress of India, is being repaired, and it is the intention of the owners to remove it from Galt to Puslinch Lake in a short time.

AT the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias, now being held in Hamilton, Mr. John Davidson, P. C., of Guelph, was appointed District Deputy for the Guelph and Acton District.

BOOTS AND SHOES.—Wm. Russell has just purchased the bankrupt stock of boots and shoes from John Stevenson, of Cayuga, which he is selling at cheap rates.

THE many friends of the Rev. E. B. Harper, formerly of Guelph, will be pleased to learn that he has been elected President of the Toronto Methodist Conference, now in session. We congratulate the rev. gentleman on this deserved honor.

THE programme of the military entertainment to be given in the drill shed on Friday evening, under the patronage of Lieut.-Col. Clarke, M.P.P., has been issued. It is in every respect a very good one. The Battalion Band will be in attendance. After the concert dancing will commence. Volunteers will appear in uniform.

REMEMBER the strawberry festival to be given in the town hall this evening in aid of the Mechanics' Institute. There will be luscious fruit, ice cream, &c., in abundance, and an interesting feature will be the presence of an excellent quadrille band. There is every prospect of there being a very large turn out. The Institute certainly deserves a very liberal patronage. Admission to the hall, ten cents; children half price.

OVER one hundred ladies were present at Edith O'Gorman's lecture in the town hall on Wednesday afternoon. No gentlemen were admitted. She promised to lift the veil higher—whatever she meant by that—at this particular lecture than she dare do before an audience of both sexes. The question now arises, will it be necessary for newspapers to employ dashing female reporters in order to legitimately secure reports from entertainments for ladies only.

COUNTERFEIT NOTES.—We have seen today in the Ontario Bank a well executed counterfeit of a one dollar bill on the Dominion notes. The paper compared with a genuine bill is greasy and dark, and a minute examination otherwise will show that the bill is a counterfeit. The figures in the number of the bill are also somewhat different. We hear that a person circulated a number of these one dollar bills in Rockwood on Monday. The public had better look out for them. We also saw in an exchange the other day that there are counterfeit four dollar bills on the Dominion Bank in circulation.

MILITARY NEWS.—The Militia Department has adopted a new pattern great coat for future issue to the active militia. It is similar to that recently worn by Imperial regiments of the line, and differs from the coat now in use to the extent that instead of a loose cape it has an extra thickness of cloth closely stitched around the upper portion of the body and sleeves, and has shoulder straps, slashes and a strap at the back piped with scarlet. A new pattern scarlet cloth tunic has been selected for issue to the infantry. It is neater and smarter in appearance, and will doubtless prove more serviceable than the serge jackets heretofore issued to corps of that arm. The cost of a suit of this uniform, including great coat, scarlet cloth tunic, serge trowsers, and Kilmarnock forage cap, delivered into store at Ottawa, is $11.05, of which the great coat costs $5.10 and the other articles $5.95.

GARDEN PARTY.—Among the most pleasing gatherings held for the purpose of raising money for church or other purposes are garden parties, and as a rule they are always pretty liberally patronized. The garden party with an open air concert given on Wednesday evening by the Literary Society in connection with the Norfolk St. Methodist Church, in the beautiful grounds of Mr. Wm. Stevenson, was successful in every respect. The concert programme was pleasing; the refreshments served to order were the best that freezers of cream could produce when manipulated by skilful hands, or that a mixture of syrups could possibly attain; sociability feigned on every hand, and those who were present and did not have a hazy idea that they were having a pleasant time must have an obtuse perception of what really constitutes quiet fun. The winding walks which extend from one end of the extensive grounds to the other were beautified by Chinese lanterns being hung from the boughs of a number of trees. On the lawn a stage had been erected, decorated with a large Union Jack unfurled in the background. The first half of the programme was rendered from the stage, but as the evening advanced the air grew slightly chilly, and a move was made by the singers to the piazza of Mr. Stevenson's house, where the second part was performed with excellent effect and much to the pleasure of those present. The programme was made up of instrumental selections, choruses, solos, &c. Those who took part and contributed so much to the success of the gathering filled their several parts in such a manner as hardly left anything better to be desired. "Maplebank" has long been considered an excellent place at which to hold church parties, and judging from the complete success of the entertainment last evening it will long bear that reputation.

DON'T forget the festival in the Town Hall this evening.

SOME parties having an eye to the comforts of a warm fire during the winter, has been stealing coal from St. Andrew's Church.

LONDON CONFERENCE.—This Conference closed late on Tuesday night. The Conference next year will meet in London on the first Wednesday in June.

CANADIAN CHERRIES.—Murray is as usual to the fore with the first Canadian cherries of the season. He says he sent half to Mr. Hoskins, librarian of the Mechanics' Institute, and half to the MERCURY office.

MR. S. L. HEAD has sent word from Liverpool that he arrived there safely with his stock in good condition, and that he had made satisfactory sales.

AN interesting service was held in Listowel on Tuesday evening in the Congregational Church on the occasion of the ordination and installation of Mr. A. F. McGregor, B.A., Dr. Wilkes, Professor Fenwick, Revs. Manchee, Wood, D. McGregor, Cox, Mackay taking part in the service.

IN a letter received in Guelph from Mr. George Hood, it is learned that he has a suit in the Courts in Antwerp, Belgium, for the recovery from the steamship company that owned the vessel he lost one hundred and three head of cattle off, the value of the animals. The cattle had been thrown overboard by order of the captain during a storm.

CATTLE FOR THE ENGLISH MARKET.—The German steamer Hermann Ludwig, of Anvers, is taking on board at Montreal a very valuable cargo of horses and cattle for the English market. She sailed Tuesday afternoon with 75 head of fat steers, the property of Hawes & Porter, of Guelph. These are for London. Patterson & Smart, of Guelph, have also 17 fine horses and 20 cattle, while R. J. Hopper, of Toronto, is sending 105 cattle. These beasts are Canadian fed, and are in the primest condition.

SINGULAR.—The revolver with which Thomas Breadon shot himself was returned to the owner after the holding of the inquest. The weapon is the old style Colt's navy, and is loaded at the muzzle. It had on several occasions been noticed that on account of the nipples being worn the revolver hung fire, and sometimes two or three caps would be snapped before a chamber could be discharged. It was found on Wednesday, in attempting to discharge the four chambers which followed the one emptied by Breadon into his head that they hung fire, and had the revolver been turned one chamber when he raised the hammer, the probability is he would have had time to think what he was doing before he had made five attempts to discharge the weapon.

General Sessions.

Before His Honor Judge Macdonald.

THURSDAY, June 13.

Merchant's Bank vs. Tuck. — The particulars of this case were published yesterday. Verdict for the plaintiff for full amount, $129.03.

Horsman vs. Bowley. — The plaintiff, John Horsman, of Guelph, brought suit to recover amount of a promissory note made by Philip Bowley, of Fergus, and Jesse Bowley, of West Garafraxa. The consideration was goods sold and delivered. The defence set up that the note had been given as accommodation paper. Verdict for plaintiff for $541.64. Mr. Macdonald for plaintiff; Mr. Monro for defendant.

Middleton vs. Brown. — This was an action on a contract for building a house, brought by the plaintiff, who resides near Fergus, against defendant who resides in Guelph township. No defence. Verdict for plaintiff for $112.93. Mr. Drew, Q.C., for plaintiff; Mr. Macdonald for defendant.

The case of Wiley vs. Thompson is in progress.

General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

HAMILTON, June 12.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met in the Central Presbyterian Church this evening.

The sermon was preached by the late Moderator, Rev. Dr. Topp, owing to the absence of the Moderator, Rev. Dr. McLeod, of Sydney, through illness. After singing, prayer, and the reading of the Scriptures, Rev. Dr. Topp announced that his remarks would be based on the last clause of the 27th verse, and the 28th and 29th verses of the first Chapter of Colossians.

The service having been concluded with the benediction, the Assembly was constituted by prayer by the acting Moderator, Rev. Dr. Topp.

The list of nominations for Moderator was then read, all the others being withdrawn except Dr. Cochrane and Dr. Jenkins. When the vote was taken Dr. Jenkins had 96, and Dr. Cochrane 61. The election of Rev. Dr. Jenkins was then made unanimous.

A vote of thanks was passed to Dr. Topp and regret expressed at the illness of Dr. McLeod.

After the appointment of some Committees the Assembly adjourned.

The following are the members of the Assembly from Presbytery of Guelph:—Revs. G. Smellie, W. Masson, Thomas Wardrope, James B. Mullan, James K. Smith, H. H. McPherson, Robt. Torrance. Elders George Barnet, J. B. Muir, Chas. Davidson. James Robb, Thos. McCrae, A. D. Fordyce, A. Campbell.

Twenty-five dozen choice rufflings, thirty dozen of our superior $1 kids, fifteen doz. ladies and misses' striped hose, six dozen new handsome linen setts opened yesterday. Our stock is the most attractive in the trade. A. O. BUCHAM.

The neighborhood of Lachine has been visited by a severe hailstorm, which for a time impeded traffic on the Montreal, Ottawa, and Occidental Railway.

ASSEMBLY OF CONGRESS.

Emperor William.

BERLIN, June 13.—The Congress assembled to-day and the afternoon session will be devoted to parliamentary matters. The Emperor is progressing favorably.

Burglary on Woolwich Street.

Mr. F. J. Chubb's House and Store Broken Into.

This (Thursday) morning, about two o'clock, two "knights of the jimmy" were endeavoring to make a haul at the store and residence of Mr. F. J. Chubb, on Woolwich street, near McTague street.

From the appearance of the premises after Mr. Chubb had learned that burglars had been in his house, it is conjectured that the two scoundrels, who were afterwards seen but not recognized, had made an entrance by a back window. They then went direct to the dining-room, and on a sideboard found the cash-box. It is thought they then left the house and pried the box open with a cheese knife, which they found inside. They found no money, and the papers which were in the box were taken out and scattered about. They must have then returned and went up stairs to Mr. Chubb's bedroom. They secured his coat and vest which was beside his bed and in going down stairs Mrs. Chubb who occupied a room alone heard them. She called her husband, but he was not aroused very quickly. As soon as he had learned what was the matter he awakened Frank West and another young man in the house and they started in pursuit. Mr. Chubb armed with a revolver. The store which is quite close was found to be opened, and Mr. Chubb going to the back door, thinking he saw some person inside fired. The sound of men running away was heard and hurrying through to the front two men were seen running up Woolwich street. They were again fired upon, when one of the two turned coolly around and returned a like compliment. Mr. Chubb and his men did not pursue farther.

The coat and vest were afterwards found in a lot adjacent. The burglars must have been disgusted with their ill-luck as the pockets contained nothing when the clothing were taken away. Nothing has been missed out of the store.

There was a valuable watch and chain in Mr. Chubb's room on a chair near where his clothes had been lying. The burglars doubtless expected to find a timepiece in the vest when they took it. The loss sustained therefore is little or nothing.

From the fact that Mr. Chubb felt stupid after being aroused, it is thought that he might have been slightly chloroformed by the burglars.

It would be well for citizens to see to the fastenings of doors and windows before retiring, as there must be some scoundrels in town who are determined to make a haul by means not honest.

By way of a monument to Thackeray, London is to get out a superb edition of his works. It will be limited to 1,000 copies. The undertaking attracts much attention in English literary circles, as nothing like it in cost or excellence of workmanship has ever been attempted. The paper used will be made expressly for this edition. Real China paper will be used for the steel and copper plates, and the very best articles, engravers and printers will lend their aid in producing the finest set of books ever published in any country.

A new manifestation has been made of the ingenious devilry of the Paris Communists. The project was daring and the attempt to execute it shrewdly planned. It was nothing less than an endeavor to fire the great buildings of the Exposition on the Champ de Mars by means of a small balloon which carried prepared petroleum and other combustibles, and after rising a certain distance in the air would come down again. In coming down it narrowly escaped falling on one of the principal buildings.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The Meeting of the Congress.

LONDON, June 12.

The Congress will doubtless choose its own President, but Bismarck doubtless will be selected. At the outset it will be announced that complete secrecy is to be observed. An oath to that effect has been imposed on the printers who are to print the private reports of the sittings.

A Berlin special says:—On his arrival here Gortschakoff was exceedingly pale. He was wrapped in thick furs, and had to be carried from a train to a carrige by his attendants. His condition causes some apprehension.

A Berlin correspondent says:—The Congress will probably sit on alternate days, each sitting to occupy about three hours. The first subjects considered will probably be the degree of secrecy to be observed, and the military position at and near Constantinople.

A Berlin special says in consequence of Count Andrassy's desiring time for the plenipotentiaries to the Congress to exchange views privately it is probable the second sitting will be postponed until Monday.

A Constantinople despatch says:—There are 25,000 Russian troops sick with typhoid fever and similar diseases in this neighborhood.

A Pera correspondent says:—Safvet Pasha is preparing a circular stating that the Bulgarian are systematically endeavoring to extirpate the Mussulmans.

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.

QUEBEC, June 12.

The debate upon Mr. Loranger's amendment to the motion of Mr. Watts expressing confidence in the Joly Government was resumed. After several members had spoken Mr. Chapleau concluded the debate.

The members were then called in, and the vote taken upon Mr. Loranger's amendment to the motion of Mr. Watts. The figures were called 32 to 32, and when Mr. Price divided with the Government the announcement was received with marked applause by the galleries, which, however, was promptly suppressed.

This being a tie, the Speaker said the duty devolved upon him giving his casting vote. He was not obliged, it was true, to assign any reasons for the manner in which he would give that vote; but in this instance he would do so, and would say though the questions of order had not been raised he nevertheless held the amendment to be superfluous, and consequently irregular, because it implied only a re-affirmation of the motion. Secondly, according to Parliamentary usage he wished to vote in such a manner as not to make the decision of the House final, so as to allow the House to proceed to divide on the motion of Mr. Watts. He wished to act impartially according to his conscience and to the best of his judgment, and would therefore vote against the amendment of Mr. Loranger. (Marked applause in the House and the galleries.)

Mr. Wurtele then rose and moved again in amendment to the effect that the House was prepared to consider and support all measures constitutionally introduced to promote the prosperity of the Province.

After some discussion the debate was adjourned.

LONDON CONFERENCE.—The following changes from the first draft of stations, for Guelph and Wellington Districts, published in another column, have been made: Guelph District—Ponsonby, John Stuart; Hespeler, J. W. Freeman, B. D.; Washington, I. Crane; Elmira, J. W. Cooley; Rockwood, Jas. Masson; Erin, Chas. Cozens. Wellington—Mount Forest, Geo. Buggin; Kennilworth, E. Teskey; Palmerston, Charles Lavell; Clifford, Wm. Savage; Holstein, V. H. Emery.

DISCIPLES' MEETING.—The annual June meeting of the Disciples of Christ, for this section of Ontario, will be held with the Church meeting in the stone meeting house, 6th line, Erin, commencing on Friday, the 28th inst., at 7 o'clock, p.m., and continuing several days. The meeting on Saturday will be for missionary and evangelizing business. Several ministers from a distance will be in attendance, and all are cordially invited.

BIBLE CHRISTIANS.—The 24th annual meeting of this Conference was held at Mitchell on the 6th inst. The Rev. J. J. Rice, of London, was chosen President by acclamation. Rev. S. H. Rice, of Hampton, was elected Secretary. In going through the list of ministers, it was a matter for thankfulness that only one of the number has been removed by death—Bro. Henry Ebbott, of Orono. There were eight candidates for ordination, and two were received as probationers.

AN OLD FRIEND HEARD FROM.—We are in receipt of a letter from our old friend Mr. John Smith, late of Elora, formerly Warden of the County, and who is now in Manitoba. He says he likes the country well, and has done well in leaving Ontario. All they want in Manitoba is railway accomodation. The farmers will not increase their acreage a great deal till they get the railway. Wheat is 55 cents and oats 30 cents at the Portage. Numbers of the new comers, he says, are settling fully 100 miles further west than the Portage, but he is afraid their prospects are not very good, as it will not pay to cart grain so far. He is strongly in favour of the Government giving lands or a bonus for the construction of railways west of Winnipeg. The Government wanted to do this, but the Senate killed the scheme, and thus deprived the settlers of a chance of railway communication.

REFORM MEETING IN ERAMOSA.—Our correspondent writes:—A meeting of the Reformers of polling division No. 4, Eramosa, was held in the temperance hall, Everton, on Tuesday evening 11th inst. Mr. Robt. Royce was appointed chairman and Mr. Hugh Black Secretary. The meeting was well attended by electors from every part of the division. The chairman in a few well chosen remarks stated the object of the meeting was to appoint canvassers and prepare for the coming election, and urged the importance of being true to Reform principles, and working faithfully to secure the return of Mr. Guthrie. The division was thoroughly organized. The several committees are men who will spare no pains to bring to the polls every Reform vote. Mr. Guthrie's friends feel certain of his carrying this division by a larger majority than last time. When the election comes the "Protectionists" will find that the snare laid by John A. Macdonald, and fired up by every Conservative, won't take with the Reformers of Eramosa.

Daily Mercury.

THURSDAY EVE'G, JUNE 13, 1878.

Who Increased Our Debt.

The Tory papers occasionally treat us to a long array of figures, in order to fasten the blame on the present Government for all the increase that has taken place within the past few years in our public debt. But when we examine into the facts what do we find. Why, that in 1867 the controllable expenditure was $8,680,000, but rose during Sir John Macdonald's administration to $8,824,076, while in 1877 it was only $6,835,078, showing a reduction of about $1,489,000 in favor of 1877, notwithstanding the obligations incurred as the legacy of the Tory regime. In order to provide for the expenditure chargeable to capital account the debt of this country has been increased during the present administration about $25,000,000. On the Pacific Railway alone $11,000,000 has been spent. Then there are the improvement of rivers, the construction of canals, harbors and piers, and public buildings, all chargeable to capital account. The interest on this is to pay. A portion of the public debt falls due every year, and a sinking fund is provided to pay it. The present Government saved the country a large sum of money by borrowing more cheaply than their predecessors. Sir John A. Macdonald went out of office in 1878, but the appropriation of $23,316,000 for that year was made by his Government, which was $4,000,000 in advance of any former expenditure. In 1867 the Dominion assumed a debt of $62,500,000, and a further sum of ten and a half millions was left to be paid by Ontario and Quebec; but the Macdonald Government finally assumed this, and in order to satisfy the other Provinces a subsidy was given them which brought the increase of debt up to $18,000,000, of which Ontario being the most wealthy pays five-ninths. Then, with regard to the increase in the cost of the civil service we find that when about to leave office Sir John A. Macdonald sat up night and day appointing their friends to office. No fewer than 629 new offices were created at an expense of $322,000, and the salaries of 1,381 more was increased by $152,350. It is said that Sir John stated on leaving office that "the Grits would not have an opportunity of making a new appointment for the next twenty years." This incurred an outlay to the present Administration of over $450,000. While the former Government increased the annual expenditure from $13,486,000 in 1867-8 to $23,316,000 in 1873-4, the present Government with all its additional obligations, increased it by only $200,000 in four years. When the present Administration took office the debt was about $108,000,000; now it is $133,000,000—this increase arising from the completion of the P. E. L. Railway, the Lachine Canal, the expenditure on the Pacific Railway, the Welland Canal, &c. The interest on the debt increased from $5,724,000 in 1873-4 to $6,796,000 in 1876-7. Thus the increase in interest alone is $1,072,000, whereas the whole increase is only $200,000.

These are only a few items, which will serve to show who is responsible for the increase of our debt, and what difficulties the present Government had to encounter in meeting the obligations and increased expenditure so recklessly contracted by the Administration of Sir John Macdonald.

Mr. Charlton's Meetings in Centre Wellington.

Mr. Charlton, M. P. for North Norfolk, will speak at a Reform meeting to be held in Fergus on Thursday, the 27th inst., and at one in Orangeville on Friday the 28th. Mr. Charlton is a pleasing and effective speaker, and is thoroughly posted on the tariff question, as was shown by his able speeches during the last and previous sessions of Parliament. We are sure the electors in the Centre Riding will turn out in large numbers to hear him.

Mr. Guthrie's Meetings.

Mr. Guthrie will hold a meeting in the Temperance Hall, Rockwood, on Tuesday evening first, the 18th instant, at 7:30 p.m., and another in Ballinafad on Friday evening, the 21st, when he will discuss the work of the last two sessions, and the leading questions of the day. The electors in and about these places are cordially invited to attend.

THE Reformers of Centre Huron have nominated Mr. H. Horton, their old member.

Mr. J. Lorne McDougall, Ex-M. P., has been appointed to the Auditorship rendered vacant by the superannuation of Mr. Langton.

THE Orangemen of Montreal have published a document stating that as "the streets are open to any body of men conducting themselves peaceably and without offence, they mean to proceed to public worship in a body on the 12th, but they intend first to comply strictly with the law embodied in the Blake Act, and will be unarmed. Secondly, while on the streets they will play no party tunes that can give any annoyance to others, whether it be reasonable or unreasonable for annoyance to be experienced at such demonstrations. They will thus trust themselves without means of personal defence to the protection which it is the duty of the civic and other authorities to afford to all persons without distinction until it becomes the duty of these authorities to interfere with them, which in that case must be done in accordance with the law and by the hands of legal officials."

GOLD IN THE OTTAWA DISTRICT.—An active and intelligent surveying staff in connection with the Geological Survey is at present in the Gatineau region engaged in examining the unknown rocks in that section of the country, under the direction of Mr. Vennor, already well known in connection with the development of the phosphate lands in Canada. It is satisfactory to know that within the past few weeks very important indications of gold have been found in quartz veins in the township of Wakefield, twenty-miles from Ottawa.

Death of William Cullen Byrant.

William Cullen Bryant, the distinguished poet and journalist, died at New York on Wednesday morning. On the 29th of May he delivered an address at the unveiling of a statue to Mazzini in the Central Park, and was affected by the full rays of the sun falling on his uncovered head. On entering a friend's door soon after he fell and struck his head on one of the steps. He fainted from the effect of the fall, and remained some time unconscious. He, however, soon recovered so far as to be taken home. Since then hopes were entertained that he would recover, but two or three days previous to his death he grew much weaker, and continued in a semi-unconscious state till he expired.

Deceased was in his eighty-fourth year, having been born on the 3rd November, 1794, in Massachussetts, having written some fair poetry at the age of eight. It was not till his nineteenth year, however, that he fairly earned the name of poet, when his great poem of "Thanatopsis" was published in the North American Review. While at college he wrote several poems, the most important being "The Ages." After leaving college he went to New York and edited a magazine for a time. While so engaged he wrote several poems of more than average merit. In 1826 he joined the Evening Post, and some years ago became its editor in chief, which position he held till the day of his death. The first volume of his collected poems appeared in 1832, and since that they have gone through several editions. During his connection with the Evening Post he wrote other poems, and published an account of his travels in Europe at different times. An account of his orations and speeches on a number of literary men was issued in 1873. His greatest work is a translation of Homer, which is acknowledged to be the best in the English language.

Mr. Bryant ranks among the best American poets, and next to Longfellow, his writings are the best known in Europe. As a writer and journalist he stood high, and the Evening Post has always been a model of a newspaper, and singularly from the personalities and coarse writing that disgrace many of the American papers. His life was a very happy one, and he died full of years and honors, and amid the regrets of his countrymen, who are proud of his fame as one of their best poets and most refined journalists.

Strikers' Riots in Quebec.

One Man Killed and Several Wounded.

QUEBEC, June 12.

The strikers' riots are assuming alarming proportions, and the authorities, who are never found when wanted, are loudly blamed for their cowardice in not taking more active measures to prevent further trouble.

This morning the B Battery were called out at St. Rochs, but not being authorized to use arms, were forced to retire into the Jacques Cartier Hall, being stoned by about 2,000 people, and some of the officers being wounded.

The strikers have not yet returned to work, and have succeeded in putting a stop to almost all the work going on in the city. Quite a number of boats upon which men were employed have been moved across to the other side of the river, where Levis men are engaged on them.

The strikers have been plundering Ranand's flour store on St. Paul street, stopping traffic on the street and forcing trackmen to assist them in carrying off the plunder.

LATER.—The riot is on the increase. The strikers now number some thousands. B battery were forced to retreat. Capt. Prevost, Adjutant, and some others of the men were badly cut with stones. The mob have broken into Renand's store and stolen therefrom nearly 200 barrels of flour compelling carters to take it away. The military are marching up and down St. Paul street. At 2:30 they are attempting to disperse the crowd, but without avail.

The Riot Act has just been read. The military is firing. One man reported killed and several wounded.

Several rioters and spectators are wounded and Captain Short and Prevost are badly cut with stones. Some bullets are also believed to have taken effect in their arms and legs. Two or three of the mob have received sabre cuts from the cavalry.

The troops and police were soon after 4 o'clock ordered to the Parliament buildings, and while there Capt. Heigham recognized two of the ringleaders outside, had them arrested and sent direct to gaol. The city and water police will remain on duty during the night, and B battery under orders in the citadel. The cavalry and 8th battalion are now on duty at the Parliament House. Large numbers of householders were sworn in this evening as special constables to assist in keeping the peace. Three battalions are expected here to-morrow morning from Montreal.

In addition to the three regiments from Montreal, one from Halifax is to arrive here in the morning. The rioters threaten to prevent them landing here. At a mass meeting of strikers held at 7:30 in St. Roch's it was agreed to meet at 7:30 to-morrow morning at Jacques Cartier Hall.

Several hundred rioters assembled at the gaol this evening, at 9 o'clock, and demanded the release of a rioter taken prisoner. They broke the windows, but did no further damage.

MONTREAL, June 12.—The following regiments left here at 9:45 p.m. for Quebec:—Victoria Rifles, Prince of Wales Rifles, and 5th Fusiliers. Immense crowds saw them off.

Nassagaweya Educational Association.

The second regular meeting of the Nassagaweya Education Association was held in the Union Hall, Brookville, on the afternoon of Saturday, 8th inst. There was a good representation of teachers, but very few ratepayers were present. The President, Mr. McPhee, occupied the chair. In the absence of Sec., Mr. H. P. Cooper, officiated in that capacity. After the opening address by the President, Mr. Wm. S. McTavish was called upon. He first explained his method of teaching penmanship, and afterwards illustrated the principles of writing upon the black-board.

Mr. Norrish read an excellent essay on "Self-culture." This essay was particularly applicable to teachers.

Mr. Day, teacher, Eramosa, was present, and explained an entirely new and original method of solving some problems in Natural Philosophy. Mr. Day did not claim the honor of inventing this method, but he remarked that it was due to Mr. McCaig, of Eramosa, whom he had heard explaining it to the Wellington Teachers' Association the previous week. The modus operandi was considered by all to be a most ingenious one, and highly creditable to the inventor.

After hearing the several essays, discussions arose, in which Messrs. McPhee, Norrish, McTavish, Cooper, and Moore participated.

The next meeting of the Society will be held in the same place on Saturday, June 29, commencing at 6 o'clock, p.m.

Party Processions.

The Montreal Star says:—"From present appearances it is probable that an Act will be passed during the present session of the Provincial Legislature for the suppression of party processions. The Bill will probably be founded on a petition from the Council and others in this city, which was presented the other day by the member for the Centre Division. We do not, of course, know what may be the scope of the Act, but it is obviously aimed at the procession which has been announced to take place in this city on the 12th of July. To be equitable in its operations the Act should provide that all processions of a party nature, whether religious, political or national, will be unlawful. It would be very unjust to single out the Orange demonstration and declare under the flimsy cover of 'party processions' that a special act was passed to suppress a procession in memory of the 'Glorious Prince of Immortal Memory.' But this, we firmly believe, is the intention and object of the proposed Act. The idea is to kill off in this province any public demonstrations in connection with the Orange Association. It will be a law of one-sided repression, and instead of putting an end to the present disturbances and bad feeling, will, we firmly believe, only aggravate the difficulties by causing one party to think that they are oppressed by a majority and deserted by those whom they think ought to support them."

PUSLINCH VOTERS' LIST.—Voters' List Court for the revision of lists for 1877, for the municipality of Puslinch, under the Voters' List Finality Act, was held by His Honor the County Judge, in the Township Hall, Aberfoyle, on Saturday the 8th June. Thirty-nine cases of appeal were brought before the Court; twenty-two of this number were applications to have the respective names added to the voters' list as farmers' sons; sixteen of the applicants appeared before the Court in person or by agent, to testify that their names should be added to the list, and were accordingly added. Six more names objected to as being improperly on the voters' list. The objection was sustained in three of the cases, and they were accordingly struck off; eight were applications for changes in the description of property opposite their respective names on the voters' list; six of the above appeared to give evidence before the Court and their applications were granted, and three more applications for changes in name incorrectly named on the voters' list, all of which were sustained by evidence, and the changes granted. Thus of the thirty-nine cases entered, twenty-eight were adjusted as above, and the remainder were either dropped or dismissed for want of sufficient evidence.

INSOLVENT ACT OF 1875.

In the matter of ORANGE CLARK, an Insolvent.

BY ORDER OF THE INSPECTORS and by virtue of the powers vested in me as assignee of the above named Insolvent, I will offer for sale by public auction, on the premises, in the town of Guelph, on FRIDAY the 14th day of JUNE instant, all the right, title and interest and equity of redemption of the above named Insolvent, and of myself as assignee of his estate, of in and to the following:

REAL AND PERSONAL ESTATE, VIZ:

1. Lots 119, 120, and 121, on Crimea street, and Catchart Place, in the Town of Guelph, on which is erected a large and handsomely finished two-story

STONE DWELLING HOUSE,

Containing—rooms, with large cellarage, yard, garden, and grass plot, hard and soft water, bath-room, &c., &c.

This property is under a mortgage for $1,800, interest at 8 per cent., payable half-yearly—which can remain.

2. Lots 122 and 123, on the same street, on which are sundry buildings, machinery and apparatus for oil refining purposes.

This property is under a mortgage for $600, at ten per cent. interest—which can also remain.

There is a second mortgage on these two properties to cover endorsement to the extent of $1,200, on part of which sum default has been made.

3. Lot 124 adjoining the foregoing.

4. Lots 135, 136, 139 and 140 on Grange Survey, opposite the Grand Trunk freight station. These lots are held by agreement, on which there is about $135 to pay to secure a deed.

5. Lots 89 and 90 on Sultan Street within a short distance of the foregoing.

6. A piece of land fronting on Cathcart Place and Crimea street, comprising one acre and two-fifths of land, or thereabouts, and just opposite parcel No. 1, on which is a small house and barn.

This parcel is encumbered with a mortgage of $500 and interest.

ALSO

A driving horse, handsome covered buggy, waggon, sleigh, family cutter, two sets harness, stable tools, etc., etc.

The sale of chattels will commence at one o'clock sharp, and the real estate at 2 p. m.

TERMS:—Cash for chattels on all purchases up to $20; 4 months' credit on approved endorsed notes for larger sums. On the real estate 10 per cent. will be required down at the sale, and the balance within one month with eight per cent. interest on the purchase money.

JOHN SMITH,
d 5 8 11 13 Assignee.

Insolvent Act of 1875.

In the matter of Catherine Drake, as executrix of the last will and testament of Patrick Drake, an Insolvent.

Harold the Outlaw

— OR —

The Gauger of Skene.

CHAPTER XLVI.

BACK TO GLENGOY—A JOYOUS WELCOME—BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

This was Walter Adamson, whose appearance there caused Harold no little surprise. It was not, however, a moment for explanations. Nothing but the rush of strong excited feeling could be given way to—nothing could be indulged in but vehement joy. The worthy lawyer, after shaking Harold by the hand with a force sufficient to wrench a weaker arm from its socket, tore aside the arms of Mysie and and Thomas, and embraced the blushing Lizzie by herself.

"My sweet, bonnie lassie, dinna be offended," he exclaimed. "Just think it's yer father that's kissin' ye. Losh, but ye are a bonnie cratur; and this is the little rogue—the young baronet. Certes, but ye are baith worthy o' the trouble we have taken to find ye. Come to me, my brave mannie, and pu' my whiskers if ye like. That's richt, Daddy; dance awa'—its an occasion that requires it. I wish I may be able to refrain frae dancin' myself. Hooch!"

And off he went round the green, tossing Alfred in his arms, till Harold, laughing heartily, came and put a stop to his extravagant notions.

"Why, Mr. Adamson, this is pretty conduct for an advocate. You have lost your judicial gravity altogether."

"Never mind. I am not on the granite pavement of Aberdeen, but among the heather hills of Glenroy; and never had I more cause to be elated. It just wanted this back-coming of yours to put the copestone on our triumph. Now we are made right on every point, and my exhilaration is pardonable, as you will presently allow.

"Indeed, sir, I can scarcely feel otherwise than pleased and honoured by so warm a demonstration of welcome."

"It's not that alone, Harold. I am certainly overjoyed to see you return with your pretty wife, whom the villians carried off; but there's a deal more than that to cause my rejoicing. I'll get the better of McGarray now, smite him hip and thigh, sweep away his web of falsehoods to the winds. The villainous plot hatched by your brother, too, we can now demolish. Listen, Harold. I have news for you—Black Dick is dead."

"Dick dead!" repeated Harold. "Has it really ended so? But I fail to see how that helps my cause. To me it seems rather to close any prospect I had of establishing my innocence."

"Ay, so it would had Dick been allowed to die in silence; but I took good care of that. So soon as Daddy Duff came to me with the intelligence of what had happened at the cave, and added that it was believed Dick wouldn't live long, I saw there was no time to lose. I set to work instantly; posted off to the residence of the Sheriff at Deeside; told him the whole story, which amazed him much and interested him more; got him to start at once with two officials to get Dick's dying declaration. Off we went to the mountains, Daddy being our guide; reached the cottage where Dick lay just a few hours ere he died, but in time to have his declaration emitted. And the Sheriff got it from him—the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. In two hours more the Sheriff was posting back with a paper in his possession which clears you of the charge of shooting Wanless, and Daddy and I came here last night to wait for news of you. There, isn't that enough to make both of us wild with joy? All you have to do is to give yourself up, get yourself reponed, the sentence of outlawry reversed. The interest of the Sheriff will get you bailed; after that all that is necessary is a formal appearance at the Circuit Court, where you will be declared innocent, and Gilmour Logan will be kicked out out of title and estate. Then will Sir Harold Logan reign at Mount Cairn, with yonder bonnie lassie as her ladyship and this blue-eyed rogue as heir-apparent."

"And a Walter Adamson as factor and prime minister," added Harold, as warmly and gratefully he shook the lawyer by the hand.

"Thank ye, Sir Harold. I'll not deny that I shall be proud to occupy my old position at Mount Cairn."

"Thank me, Adamson," returned Harold, with a tone almost reproachful, "thank me, when I have no words to express my indebtedness to you for all that you have done in my behalf. I have had few friends in my adversity, but those few have been devoted beyond all telling. Never had man friends more true and self-denying—laboring, toiling, suffering day and night to serve me. There is that old man—whom even the child has not forgotten—what anxiety, hardship, exertion has he undergone for me from the first to last. You saw how overjoyed he was at our return; you see how proudly Lizzie is presenting him to her friend."

"Ah!" cried the lawyer, "Daddy Duff is a prince among men. His rags cover a nobler nature than ever was adorned with purple and fine linen. I have learned more true wisdom from Daddy Duff among these hills than from all the books I have read or the men I have met. Daddy is a gem—an unpolished but veritable gem—of "purest ray serene."

"He is; and in that world where rank is according to worth his place will be a high one. But Daddy is not the only one who has manifested unmeasured devotion. There is Kenneth and Dixon, and Nip, and last, but far from least, yourself, who——"

"Me!" exclaimed the lawyer. "Don't credit me with entire disinterestedness. I would have done ten times as much to overthrow the schemes of that cunning old scoundrel McGarray! and faith! I have succeeded. We'll turn out the old Rudas your step-mother, your rascal of a brother, and McGarray in one bundle. But come, I am all anxiety to hear how you effected your wife's rescue, and now that the first madness of our joy is over we will have a little sober conference. This is the lady, I suppose, which Daddy told me about as being confined with your wife."

"Ay, ay. She is another of McGarray's victims. You must take her case in hand also. That will be another triumph for you, and a very easy one too. The factorship of Benachray may be yours for the taking."

"God bless me, you really don't say so; come and introduce me; no, don't, I'll get Mrs. Logan to do it. Lord, Lord, how my head spins. Daddy, you rogue, out of the way. I want to go back to the ladies."

There were more heads than Mr. Adamson's spinning at that moment. The intelligence which Harold had received nearly overmastered him. His innocence had at length been displayed, his position as an outlaw was at an end, his inheritance was coming into his hands, the past rough life was over, honor and happiness brightened the prospect before him. Well might he feel his brain reel under the weight of his good fortune. He had bravely borne adversity, but the blessings of prosperity could not be so firmly received.

It was a good half hour ere the excitement consequent on the return of Harold and Lizzie subsided; but about the end of that period, when hand-shaking, kissing, embracing, laughing, shouting, and dancing had served as a safety valve for the tremendous rush of joyous feelings, Mysie, who had been running about as if her old limbs had been set on springs, suddenly remembered that the travellers must be hungry, and forthwith she rushed away to set forth the best that the cottage contained for a feast of welcome, pausing every moment or two in her hospitable labors to took out of the window at the group upon the green, and exclaim, as she wiped the tears with her apron—

"Hech! that's the bonniest sicht my auld een hae ever seen, or ever will see."

Then the table being spread until it groaned beneath the burden, she commissioned Daddy Duff to bring them all in to supper.

Thus the ransomed ones returned with shouts and singing. They had obtained joy and gladness; their sorrow and sighing had fled away.

The "Times" on Canada.

The Globe's London despatches contains the following from the Times' article on Lord Dufferin's speech to the volunteers at Montreal:—

Earl Dufferin's viceregal career has been singularly brilliant throughout, drawing to a close amid events of historic importance. There is no manner of doubt that the speech reflects the feeling of the Canadian people, that the enthusiasm with which it is filled has been let loose by a true wakening to national life. To this growth of healthy, energetic patriotism Earl Dufferin's viceroyalty has largely contributed. Never before have the American colonies been ruled by a statesman who so well knew how to call forth the best qualities of the people by appealing to noble sentiments and lofty aspirations. Earl Dufferin's task, to develope a self-reliant spirit becoming a young nation with loyalty to its Mother country, has succeeded beyond all expectations. It is impossible to deny that the Domionion has recently given a signal proof of its advance in national dignity and strength, while it has placed on record by deeds and words its loyal devotion to the Empire of which it forms an important part. The review at Montreal represents forces which the most powerful Sovereigns might be proud to command, troops constituted of the first offerings of Conadian loyalty, the first fruits of Canadian patriotism. Their presence and the popular enthusiasm it evoked is evidence of the intensity with which Canadians cherish the ties binding them to the Mother Country. The danger of England being drawn into a European war called out all their latent regard for the Mother Country. No doubt the disinterested character of the offers of aid from the colonists impressed the Imperial Government, and the spirit which prompted them may rise to a still higher level under pressure. The devotion displayed constitutes a large reserve of Imperial power. This solicitude for the honor of England sustains the Imperial policy, visibly asserts the dignity and power of the Empire. This uprising is also most valuable practically, as securing the safety of the colonies themselves.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Sept. 28, d&w 9m.

TORONTO CONFERENCE.—The fifth annual session of this Conference commenced in the Richmond street Church on Wednesday, the President, Rev. George Young in the chair. The election of President was the first business. The Rev. E. B. Harper received the highest number of votes, who on being introduced expressed his thanks for the honor conferred. The Rev. Mr. Laird was elected Secretary.

Senator Conkling has introduced a bill in the Washington Senate, providing that Canadian vessels may render assistance to other Canadian vessels in distress in United States waters provided that a similar privilege be granted to American vessels in Canadian waters.

Bond & Co to-day advertise awn mow ers, refrigeraters, and other seasonable goods at prices that defy competition. They have a number of remnants of floor oil cloth which they will sell at great reduction (almost anything) to get rid of them.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

Guelph Markets.

GUELPH, June 13 1878.

The trade on the market during the past week, outside of wool transactions, has been light. From quotations it will be seen that the grain market has assumed a firmness which it has not possessed for some time back. The price for wheat has gone up a few cents. During the week some 25,000 lbs. of wool have been sold by farmers on the market, at a ruling figure of 22 cents per lb. The following quotations are correct up to the hour of going to press.

Fergus Items.

On Monday night or rather early on Tuesday morning, it being two a. m., some of our Fergus rowdies took off the buttons from the stores of Mr. Cope and Mrs. Sherrat, and broke the windows. They tried to enter the store of Mrs. Kemp, but she hearing them, spoke, and they ran off. One of them said he would get a stone and break in for the cigars. They looked in at an open window at Mr. Cremer's, but being unable to enter they contented themselves by breaking up a child's perambulator, which stood on the veranda. They then broke through the roof of Robert Steel's store at the back part, and coming to a half glass door broke four panes and pushed so heavily at the door that the frame gave way and about twenty boxes of matches were displaced. Had they fallen, it is likely they would have ignited and set fire to the whole frame block of buildings. It is true we have a constable, but if he is kept at work all day he must sleep at night, therefore cannot be on the look out.

A letter addressed from Toronto to one Gardner, of Fergus, was received by the only person here known by that name. He took it home, read it, and finding it was not for him took it back to the post-office, where he was advised to take it to the Reeve, by whose advice he took it among some few gentlemen of color who have lately located, but none of them would acknowledge the ownership. The letter stated that chickens were down just now in Toronto; that the last batch were received all right; that —— been had nabbed, brought before the Beak and sent to the judge; the Whites are down on the Blacks in Toronto; that —— of Fergus, was advised to lie quiet for a while, until notified. A bag containing several heads of chickens was found recently in the creek running from the brewery. Our advice is, look after your poultry for chickens are down at present in Toronto, but they may rise suddenly.

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

The Quebec Riots.

ALL QUIET AGAIN.

QUEBEC, June 13.—Things are quiet this morning. Six hundred volunteers arrived from Montreal and are quartered at the Citadel, and are treated very hospitably by the men of "B" battery. Arrangements are now being made to prevent the gathering of a mob in any part of the city, and it is hoped no further disturbance will take place. The police have made several arrests this morning without much difficulty or resistance.

The strike has the appearance of terminating quietly on account of the presence of so large a force of military in town. The Montreal troops, consisting of the Prince of Wales Rifles, Victorias and 5th Fusiliers arrived safely by special train about eight o'clock, and immediately proceeded to the citadel. The different regiments have been relieving each other ever since on duty at the citadel and Parliament House. The mob met at the Jacques Cartier Hall about eight a.m., and were addressed by one of the leaders, but refused to follow him in any numbers, and most of them dispersed quietly.

A small assembly of rioters marched as far as the Esplanade this morning, but then dispersed and hid their flag. A considerable mob has congregated however all day near Louisgate, principally, no doubt to watch the interesting movements of the troops back and forward from the Citadel. The Fusiliers were stationed for a time in the Skating Rink, but relieved other companies at intervals during the day at the Parliament House. Two or three arrests have been made by the detectives this morning of parties supposed to have been leaders in the riots, who were conveyed to jail by the military.

The inquest on the man Beaudoire, killed yesterday, commenced to-day before a highly respectable jury.

TWO CHILDREN BURNED.—On Wednesday night the residence of Mr. George H. Sprung, third con. of Ameliasburg, was burned to the ground. Two children, aged respectively twelve and nine years, were consumed, nothing but some of the charred remains being found next morning. Mrs. Sprung was also badly burned about the face and arms, but is expected to recover.

Harriston Correspondence.

The fire company were out for practice last Wednesday evening. The men were uniformed in their new belts and rubber coats. Captain Gray exercised them for about one hour, putting them through the different actions required of them at a fire, which they accomplished very satisfactory, considering the length of time they have been organized.

We had a very cold snap during Wednesday night last, which destroyed all early vegetables, but as far as can be judged did not hurt the wheat much.

The brass band gave the boarders at the Royal Hotel a grand serenade last Thursday evening. The band is worthy of support, and is in every way efficient.

One day last week Mr. Calderwood, late of Hamilton, who has lately commenced farming, in Minto, lost a valuable horse. An employee was working the team in the field with a land roller when they started to run. The neck yoke came off, and the tongue falling down broke, which caused the roller to tumble over and fall on one of the horse's legs. The horse had to be destroyed.

Mrs. Skelton, the talented authoress of Toronto, delivered her popular lectures here last Thursday and Friday evenings. Subjects—"Our Girls," and "Our Boys." Both lectures were well attended, and listened to with great attention.

The posters announcing the celebration on Dominion Day have just been issued. They contain great attractions for that day in the way of sports and games. The fire company is to join in the procession, and is to give an exhibition of their engine at work. They offer a prize of $2 to the one who will approach nearest to the nozzle of the hose when the engine is working. The Calathumpians are also to be on the march.

Daily Mercury.

FRIDAY EVE'G, JUNE 14, 1878

Local News.

REMEMBER the military entertainment in the drill shed this evening.

MR. H. K. MAITLAND is expected to sing at a concert in Palmerston on the 26th instant.

REV. E. B. RYCKMAN, President of the London Conference, returned home on Thursday.

JACOB COBER, of Puslinch, brought in to the MERCURY Office a sample of tall rye. It stands a little over seven feet.

AN Essex street dog is making affairs lively in his own neighborhood. During the past few days he has sampled the tender portion of the legs of two men.

PERSONAL.—Judge Cooney, of San Francisco, California, arrived in town on Wednesday, and will be the guest of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Carroll, Waterloo Avenue, during his stay here.

THE Roman Catholic pic-nic held at Kinnettles on Thursday was largely attended. A very handsome amount was realized, which will be devoted to church purposes.

THERE was a fight in the neighborhood of the Great Western Railway Station, yesterday. The threatening was terrible, but the execution amounted to very little.

THE Guelph Rifles were supplied last evening with knapsacks, canteens and all the requisites to make a thoroughly equipped soldier, in order that they may be in readiness for marching.

POLICE COURT.—The docket this morning showed a solitary victim of over indulgence at the maddening bowl. Wm. Perry, a cab driver, had been corralled by a policeman on Macdonnell street last night. He pleaded guilty at the Police Court to the charge of being drunk, and was fined $1 and costs.

CONTRADICTION.—The relatives of the late Thomas Breadon requests us to give a flat contradiction to the following which appeared in the Herald of Tuesday, and to state that there is not a word of truth in it:—"His mother, who resides in Toronto, said to a friend some years since, that she feared to take up a newspaper lest she should find that Tom had done something terrible." They also repudiate the statement that before his death he had been loafing about in a quiet sort of a way Of his faults loafing was not one of them.

CONCERT.—An entertainment of more than ordinary interest will be given in the drill shed this evening, under the patronage of Lieut.-Colonel Clarke, M.P.P. The band of the 30th Battallion will be present, and it has been placed on the programme for several selections. Immediately after the concert dancing will commence. Volunteers are particularly requested to appear in uniform. The entertainment is for the benefit of the Guelph Company, and doubtless the public will show their appreciation of the active militia by according a liberal patronage this evening. Children will be admitted to the concert for ten cents.

THE 30TH BATTALION DRILL.—The Wellington Battalion, which goes into camp at Kinnettles on Saturday, the 22nd, is composed of ten companies, and between four and five hundred men. The Wellington Field Battery, which goes into camp at the same time, is composed of seventy-five officers and men, with horses. The Battalion will be in command of Lieut.-Col. Clarke, Major McBride acting as Adjutant; H. H. Swinford, Quarter Master, and E. Harvey, Pay Master. Majors—Armstrong, of Guelph, and Hollinger, of Arthur. Surgeon—Dr. Orton. Assistant-Surgeon—Dr. Allan. The Elora Express says:—Having completed six days' drill at Kinnettles, the Battalion will put in the next six days at Elora, camping on Irvine Park. The Wellington Field Battery will put in their shell practice about three miles from Elora, down the river, using the clay exposure below the bridge as a base for the target.

JUST RECEIVED.—The undersigned has just received from the creditors of John Davis & Son, of Toronto, who have lately absconded, one thousand yards of Black Silk, to be sold at about one-half its value. GEO. GOULDING, Guelph Auction Mart, Market Square, d2

AFTER THE birth of my babe, one of my limbs became fearfully swollen. GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA, after all the K. Brown remedies failed, effected a rapid cure. MRS. B. LASK. 160 East 66th Street, N. Y. Sold by all Druggists.

STARVATION IN LABRADOR.—The news from the Labrador coast is disheartening. Last fall there was a failure of the fisheries, and the traders who used to supply the fishermen with provisions in exchange for fish and oil have abandoned the territory, leaving whole families to live through the winter on fish offal, for crops are impossible on that sterile shore. There have been many deaths from starvation. Of five families, containing forty souls, in one settlement, only five persons survived the winter. Scurvy is epidemic, and the women haunt the shores like spectres, picking up the dead seal, while the men and boys gather sea moss or shell fish. The people have been cut off from the outside world since last September, when they found death staring them in the face, but it was too late to make their wants known, for navigation had closed, and they were 200 leagues distant from Quebec without any means of overland communication in winter.

Base Ball.

Items of Interest on the Diamond.

The Maple Leafs, accompanied by Mr. George Sleeman, left for Toronto and Markham by the nine o'clock train last evening.

The Tecumsehs of London, a club that has always drawn a large crowd in Guelph, will play the Leafs on Tuesday next.

A game between the Leafs and a picked nine was played yesterday. Only five innings were played; the score stood 22 to 1 in favor of the Leafs. Full particulars of the game are appended:—

Outdone by Canada.

Points Wherein the Canadian Show at Paris is Better than Ours.

(Edward King in Boston Journal.)

Our Canadian neighbors occupy quite a large space in the exhibition; and so great is their enterprise that they would willingly have filled six times the room given them, if they could have got it. Canada has perpetrated none of that false economy of which the United States has been culpable in relation to the international show. In almost every department of the palace she is fully represented. She could obtain no place in the machinery gallery, and consequently is weak in that group. But she amply compensates for that by remarkable exhibits in other sections. The Canadian Commission has caused a large globe to be printed on the ticket appended to contributions, and on this globe Canada appears to swallow up the greater portion of North America. This is shrewd and one cannot help admitting that it is rather humiliating to find the United States outdone in shrewdness by her comparatively feeble neighbor. In the Canadian section great attention has been paid to one feature, which is always of prime importance at exhibitions, and which the United States almost entirely neglected on this occasion. I allude to the use of photography for displaying and explaining the resources and peculiarities of a country. A large space has been fitted up with walls, on which hundreds of photographs show the peculiarities of Canada in a very comprehensive manner. A Frenchman or German can step into this quarter for an hour and come out with such a comprehension of the character and capacity of the country as he could get in no other way save by travel. The Canadian photographs are illustrative, first of the national games. Enormous pictures showing the river opposite Montreal with all the male population engaged in the healthful sport of "curling" on the ice. Each face in the pictures is a photograph from a real personage and the effect is charming. Lord and Lady Dufferin are in the foreground, A second series portrays the "Snow Shoe Club," in their picturesque costomes, prepared for one of their astonishing marches up hill and down dale, from village to village, through snows in which were it not for the ingenious shoes they would sink down to suffocation. The third series exhibit the skating carnival at Montral, with hundreds of the principal ladies and gentlemen of Canada in costumes. Beautifully executed pictures show the huts where the hunters camp, the Indians who accompany them, the manner of striking the same, etc. Nothing could be more attractive; no way of absorbing information is more striking and effective. Suppose, for instance, that the United States had resolved to illustrate its industries and its sports in this manner. Each State would doubtless readily have contributed pictures setting forth its peculiarities and advantages, and we should have had delighted crowds constantly thronging to study the land of which they have vaguely heard so much. But in this exhibition we have nothing.

The German Emperor is still progressing favourably.

The Pope's health is failing, and his physicians insist upon his removal from the Vatican.

Leading Chicago railway men deny the correctness of the reports of an impending railroad strike.

No steps have yet been taken by the Mayor of Montreal for the preservation of peace on the 12th of July.

In consequence of the result of the Belgian elections, and the resignation of the Ministry, the Papal Nuncio at Brussels will be recalled.

A Senate Committee at Washington has decided to report adversely upon the proposed Sixteenth Amendment to give women an elective franchise.

The London Press Association contradicts the reports of an early dissolution of the British House of Commons, but it is understood in Parliamentary circles that such a proposition has been seriously discussed.

The Crown Prince of Germany has published a communication in the official organ at Berlin thanking the sympathizers with the Emperor, and declaring that the daily proofs of affection received by His Majesty restore his confidence in the fidelity of the people.

Lord Macaulay said that in his experience of men proficient in Oriental tongues, he had never found one who could deny that a single shelf of a good European library was worth the whole native literature of India and Arabia.

The Tent Meeting Last Night.

Last night witnessed the largest audience yet, and reminded one of the old time crowds of last summer. The interest in this great movement is evidently rapidly on the increase. An interesting feature was the coming forward of four well known young men at the opening of the meeting and signing the pledge. The services were opened by singing, reading the Scripture, and prayer. Rev. Mr. Haskell who occupied the chair, stated that the meeting was no holiday affair, we met here in deep and sober earnest, there were doubtless numbers present to whom the decision of this temperance question would decide their destiny for this world and the next. There could be no worldly success with drink, and certainly no prospect of spiritual life. Many anxious wives and mothers, and fathers too, were looking to these meetings and praying that through them their dear ones might be reclaimed and saved. Oh how important is this work.

James T. Mitchell, Secretary, was the next speaker. He said this drinking custom was very old, and it would take time to eradicate it. Moral resolutions come slowly. He believed the work before them at the present time was to elevate the people, to persuade men to leave off drink and by and by when we get a majority of the people on our side, then we can legislate the traffic out of existence, and it will be easy to enforce such a law. He urged the importance of all good people taking hold of this movement and giving it a helping hand.

Mr. Ainley took the platform next. He said he was somewhat surprised to be called upon, but he supposed he ought always to be ready to speak in the good cause. He referred to the three things which a clergyman is expected to be always prepared to do—to preach, to pray, and to die. He said he did not know as he was prepared to preach, but he felt he was always prepared to pray for this good work. He had been a total abstainer for many years, and had derived great good, and would most earnestly urge the choice of total abstinence on all. The evils of drink he had seen all through his life, but he never had seen any good.

Thomas Plant was introduced as a particularly healthy and growing plant in this new Temperance work. The change in his appearance and habits is most happy, whereas he was formerly known as Tom. Plant the whiskey sucker, he is now known as Thomas Plant the valient Christian Temperance recruit. On coming to the platform he was greeted by hearty applause. He said as he had often been taken by surprise, when called to the platform; he had made a little preparation to-night, upon which he drew from his pocket a sheet upon which he had written a brief outline of his life. He had at the first enjoyed a good bringing up, had kind care, a good education, and every prospect of success in life. Some years ago he came to Canada to seek his fortune. Not succeeding at first as he expected, in an evil hour he fell a victim to drink, and from that he dated his fall. In a short time he got as low as a man could be, and instead of getting a livelihood by the use of his mental faculties, he found himself compelled to do the most menial service. Many a time he had known in consequence what it was to live on the meanest fare, but he thanked God he had now got out of all this, and he determined by God's help to live and die a Temperance man. He said, in the Aunti-Dunkin campaign they exhibited Old Auntie, a shadow picture of whom he exhibited, but, said he, young men if you follow the drink you will ere long have a view of Auntie's Uncle, a shadow picture of whom he exhibited, which proved to be the evil one himself. (Applause.)

Mr. Haskell followed with a telling address, which held the audience in breathless stillness, as he portrayed the crime of drinking. A young man went from his christian home in New York to seek his fortune in the world. He found employment for a time in New Orleans; going from there he went to St. Louis, and thence to Cincinnatti, and so on to Buffalo. There he fell in with a company of old acquaintances, and though he knew the danger of drink, he indulged in the fatal cup. The company all got intoxicated. In the wrangling which ensued one of the young men lost his watch; it was found on the young man; he was arrested, could give no account of it, and was convicted of robbery, and sent four years to the State Prison at Auburn. After two years had elapsed, the chaplain of the prison received a letter from a gentleman in New York, enquiring for his wandering boy, saying for nearly two years he had been writing all over the country in search of his son. He was now writing to the prisons, fearing his son had fallen into bad company and got into prison. He described his son, but he might be under an assumed name. The chaplain thought of a young man who corresponded to the description. He folded the letter down so as to hide the date and signature, and then calling the young man he asked him if he knew the handwriting. "Yes," said Charles, "that is my father's." Why, exclaimed the Chaplain, have you not written before? Your anxious father and mother have taken all these years trying to get track of their lost boy. The father and mother did not drink; they had done no wrong, and yet those years of agony. Did not that son commit a crime worse even than robbery, when he drank that intoxicating cup. He was the means of bringing his parents' grey hairs with sorrow to the grave.

Other sad instances of the cruelty and crime of drinking were given.

The address made a deep impression on the audience. At the close a goodly number came to the front and signed the pledge—some very remarkable cases. The work is full of promise. Meeting again to-night.

KIRK OF SCOTLAND SYNOD.—The annual Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in connection with the Church of Scotland, opened on Tuesday night at the Primitive Methodist Church, Kingston. There was a large representation of membership present. The opening sermon was preached by the Rev. Gavin Lang, of Montreal, and was an eloquent discourse from Exodus xiv., 15. He made an able defence of the position assumed by the Synod. After the sermon the Synod was formally constituted by the election of Rev. John Davidson, of North Williamsburg as Moderator.

A number of Burnley and Todmorden cotton operatives resumed work on Thursday at a ten per cent reduction.

Strawberry Festival.

A Successful Entertainment in Aid of the Mechanics' Institute.

On Thursday night the festival given in the Town Hall, under the management of a number of ladies in town, for the benefit of the Mechanics' Institute, was largely attended, and a very social evening was spent by those who were present.

Fruit, large and luscious, was served at tables, and the lady waiters were kept busily engaged in attending to the wants of the crowd. In connection with this, it might be mentioned that Mr. Robert Murray is deserving of the warmest thanks of all who have the interest of the Institute at heart, for his exceedingly liberal donation of one hundred baskets of strawberries, for the benefit of the Institute.

McLaren's quadrille band was present and added great interest to the festival. The selections played during the evening [illegible]

The presentation of prizes awarded to the most proficient pupils at the evening classes, held under the auspices of the Institute, were made by Mr. William Johnston, President of the Ontario School of Agriculture, Revs. J. C. Smith, Canon Dixon, and Mr. J. C. Chadwick. Mr. Johnson spoke briefly on the great benefits to be derived from such Institutes as the one in Guelph, and the incalculable good that was accomplished by young men engaged at their several occupations during the day, having an opportunity to attend evening classes. The following is a list of the prize takers, with the amounts awarded:—

Drawing.—1st prize, S. McCrae, $3, 2nd, W. Watkins, $2.

Penmanship.—1st prize, D. Stewart, $2; 2nd W. B. Scott, $1; 3rd, F. Croft, 50c.

Neatness in keeping books.—1st prize, Walter Maddock, $2; 2nd, W. Sanders, $1.

The ladies have done a noble thing for the Institute, and the question now arises, would it not be a good idea to have both sexes represented in the management.

The proceedings broke up at a seasonable hour, all being highly pleased with the success of the entertainment.

General Sessions.

Before His Honor Judge Macdonald.

THURSDAY, June 13.

Wiley vs. Thompson.—Action by a tenant against a landlord for damages for having wrongfully evicted the tenant from part of the land rented, namely, the east half of lot 7, in 6th con., Erin. The plaintiff charged that the defendant and two men, named Robinson and Lawrence, had last fall, during the plaintiff's absence in Esquesing, gone on to land and had picked stones; that they had left his fences down, by which cattle and pigs had got into his peas and barley and injured other crops. The plaintiff admitted that defendant had a right to go upon the land to do fall ploughing, but alleged he had done much more, had removed one fence altogether, and built a shanty on the land. The defence was that there had been no eviction, that defendant had done nothing more than he had a right to do, that the loss of crop was trifling, and was caused by plaintiff's own cattle and the insufficiency of the fences. The case occupied most of the day and resulted in the jury returning a verdict for the plaintiff, damages $125. Mr. Guthrie, Q.C., for plaintiff; Mr. Dunbar and Mr. McDowell for defendant.

Campbell vs. May.—The plantiffs live in Caledon, defendant in Amaranth. Action brought to recover balance due by defendant to plaintiff for cutting lumber and shingles. The defence was that plaintiffs had failed to fulfil their agreement, and also that defendant had no set-off. His Honor suggested that the case was a proper one to be referred to arbitration. The parties then agreed to leave all their disputes to be settled by Mr. Thomas Jull, Orangeville. Mr. Doyle for plaintiffs; Mr. Guthrie, Q.C., for deft.

May vs. Hammond and Dick.—Action on a promissory note for $200 with 7 per cent. interest. Hammond, the maker, pleaded that the note was not properly stamped. Dick, the endorser, defended on the ground that he had endorsed "without recourse," and was therefore not liable. After the evidence was partly taken, counsel for plaintiff stated that he would take a verdict against Hammond for amount of note and interest, and a nonsuit as to Dick. Verdict accordingly. Mr. Guthrie, Q.C., for plaintiff; Mr. Macdonald for Dick.

Friday, June 14.

Thompson vs. Wiley.—This has been before the Court all day.

'Prentice Boys.

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of 'Prentice Boys, of British North America began its session in the Orange Hall, St. Catharines on Monday. The following were elected Grand Lodge officers for the ensuing year:—

W. D. Madden, G.M., Napanee, re-elected; T. Wilson, S.D.G.M., Toronto, re-elected; J. Brinson, J.D.G.M., Montreal; C. A. Pettet, G. Sec'y., Belleville, re-elected; J. Mallory, G. Treas., Kingston, re-elected. J. M. Doran, G. Chap., Ottawa; J. Brown, G. Lect., Hamilton; R. Baird, Ass. G. Lect., Kingston; H. Pearson, G. D.C., Guelph; G. Donald, Asst. G. Lect., Stratford; W. Tresom, G.I.T., Oshawa.

It was moved by Bro. McIlroy, seconded by Bro. Baird, and unanimously

Resolved,—That we, in Grand Lodge session assembled, do heartily endorse the action taken by the subordinate lodges who have resolved to celebrate the coming twelfth of July in Montreal; and further, that we will do all in our power to induce all lodges under our jurisdiction to attend, so as to have a full representation of our Order to assist our Montreal brethren in the assertion of a right which has been denied them.

A great deal of business connected with the Order was transacted.

The next annual meeting will be held in Oshawa, on June 11th, 1879.

Daily Mercury.

FRIDAY EVE'G, JUNE 14, 1878.

"Send Me Another $10,000."

[Such is the purport of a notice we have from Sir John Macdonald, asking us to send him another $10,000 in the shape of damages for a reputation which at the best was never very sound, and which to-day requires more bolstering than ever. We beg to inform our Canadian knight that we cannot respond. We have not the same command of money that Sir Hugh Allan had, and besides if we had we would not apply it in the way that he and Sir John did.

We, therefore, tell Sir John that we have no $10,000 to spare — that we have not even a dollar to give to the U. E. Club to pay the next house dinner in his honor; and that if he is bound to have the money he must first take it through the Courts. It will be a rare day to see "our Sir John" on the witness stand, giving evidence as to the high moral tone of himself and his old colleagues in the Government.

We don't see why we should be so favored in Guelph. Sir John has his own special organ here, which makes it a special mission to defend him from all and sundry attacks; shield him from the adverse attacks of political opponents, and generally play the sycophant when it is necessary. But, it seems he wants $10,000 out of us. We never received any favour from Sir John. We were never nominated to an office, and were never promised a pension. Why then should the Knight of Kingston ask us for the extravagant sum of $10,000? We have never received any value for the same. We never had any pap from John A. We never even got our share of advertising patronage. What then have we to fear? Nothing. But we intend to make it pretty hot for Sir John and his friends, and we wish now to announce to them that if this libel suit is gone on with, the defendants will raise a counter action against Sir John of endeavoring to raise money under false pretences. We know it will be greatly needed during the forthcoming elections, but we enter in our columns a solemn protest against paying over a cent to this secret service fund. We prefer rather to remain as we are—thoroughly uncommitted and without the slightest strain or pressure being brought to bear on us. No doubt Sir John would like us to pay up, so as to be done with him. But we can't do it, and we won't do it, and we consider it a piece of gross impertinence asking us to do it. In fact we think we have good ground for an action against him for endeavoring to obtain money under false pretences. In the innocence of our hearts and in the purity of our motives, we never paid any money away in this fashion, and we are not going to begin it now, even though Sir John should employ all the lawyers in the country to whip us into terms.

THE Tories in Quebec now want to carry out the reforms sketched by Mr. Joly, and they want him to resign in order to give them a chance. But the question is, why did they not carry them out before when they had a big majority at their back. 'Twas ever thus. When forced into it, and in expectation of office, they will shame the extremest Radical in their eagerness for reforms if they can only secure power for themselves.

A DESPATCH from London to the Globe says:—"There is the best authority for stating that when Earl Beaconsfield left for Berlin nothing definite was settled about Lord Dufferin's successor. The only two names considered at the Colonial Office have been the Dukes of Manchester and Connaught. The Duke of Manchester, I hear, will not be appointed, and if certain difficulties can be successfully overcome Prince Arthur is not indisposed to assume the office. The London Echo says it is proposed to extend the period of the appointment of Lord Dufferin as Governor-General of Canada twelve months on account of his popularity and ability. The Duke of Manchester would no doubt make a good Governor-General. The Duke of Connaught would be popular as a scion of royalty and the youngest son of Her Majesty, but he lacks the judgment and experience requisite for the efficient administration of the affairs of the Dominion. The difficulty with the Home Government is understood to be that it cannot put its hand upon anybody at present who would satisfactorily fill the position. The best thing they can do is to allow Lord Dufferin to remain another year, for that would please everybody.

AT the recent nomination of Reform candidates for South Brant, the Hon. Mr. Hardy showed the difference between Reform and Tory Governments by the following statement:—"In Ontario out of the surplus revenue of the Province, Mr. Mowat had, during the last six years, paid out for public works and buildings, $1,870,000, for aid to railways over $2,000,000, for colonization roads $1,000,000, for settlement of municipal fund, $3,250,000; while there was yet a surplus at the credit of the Government of $4,752,000. In other words Ontario had, under a Reform Government, given back to the people, including the surplus in the Treasury, over thirteen millions, while Quebec, under a Tory Government, had been compelled to borrow thirteen millions and had brought the Province to the very verge of financial bankruptcy. For the present year the Government of Quebec had been compelled to borrow a million from the banks at even per cent. interest to meet their egular engagements."

THE Tories in Lambton have nominated Mr. John A. Mackenzie, barrister, of Sarnia, to oppose the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie. The Sarnia John A. must have considerable courage if he accepts the nomination.

SOME of the Tory papers say John Joseph Hawkins is carrying all before him in Bothwell. He will be carrying all behind him after election day.

A LARGE political meeting took place at Hamburg on Wednesday evening. The meeting was addressed on the Reform side by Messrs. Young, Trow and Bowman, M.P.'s, and on the Conservative side by Messrs. Merner, Dr. Hainbrook, Fahey, and Oelschlager.

THE European Congress was opened at Berlin on Thursday. The real business will commence on Monday. The presence of the Earl of Beaconsfield seems to have created some enthusiasm in the German capital.

"SWEET WILLIAM" Macdougall is stumping Lennox for the purpose of damaging Mr. Cartwright's prospects of election. The Finance Minister is not terrified much—just about as much as Mr. Mills is at Hawkins in Bothwell, and Mr. Thompson at Davin, in Haldimand.

THE Address has been carried in the Quebec Legislature by the casting vote of the Speaker, and the policy of the Government will be laid before the House. As several Conservatives have stated that they would support Mr. Joly's measures, there is now scarcely any doubt but the Government will be sustained.

THE Mail now thinks Mr. Blake is a baby because he consents to let the Reformers of South Bruce elect him if they choose. A few days ago, when he declined their nomination he was quite a statesman in the Mail's eyes—now he has fallen into a state of infantile indecision. There is no pleasing the Mail, and Mr. Blake doesn't try, but this time his answer to the South Bruce Reformers has given great satisfaction.

THE first number of the new Irish Catholic daily in Montreal has been issued. It will be independent in politics. As to its main purpose, it lays down the following excellent platform: "We want no religious rancours in this country. We see no earthly reason why all denominations cannot live in harmony. Let every one go on their own way—let us go ours. The Catholic who insults the Protestant because he is a Protestant, will insult us, and the Protestant who insults a Catholic or ridicules the tenets of his Church, we shall not hesitate to denounce."

A CHICAGO Times correspondent writes:—"The Canadian exhibit at the Paris exposition is really a most creditable one. There is no attempt at displays of machinery, but only to place such things before the public as will best advertise the natural resources of the country. There is a fine representations of fruits done in wax. The leather, minerals, ores, woods, iron and copper are calculated to give the stranger a most flattering impression in regard to our Canadian neighbors. They have but a small space, but they have occupied it to the best possible advantage, so having selected their products and so exhibiting them that their limited area tells a much more effective story than many a far more pretentious department in other portions of the Exposition."

Never be ashamed of confessing your ignorance, for the wisest man upon earth is ignorant of many things, insomuch that what he knows is a mere nothing in comparison to what he does not know. But we apprehend very few are ignorant of the wonderful effects of the "Canadian Pain Destroyer," its a most sure and rapid cure for colds, rheumatism, pleurisy, colic, cholera morbus, and all summer complaints. Sold by all medicine dealers.

A toll-house at the west end of St. Marys, was broken into about eleven o'clock on Wednesday night by two masked men, who presented a revolver at the head of the gate-keeper and demanded his money. His wife spoke out and told where it was, and asked them not to shoot. The burglars drove up in a buggy to a short distance east of the gate and tied their horses to the fence while they committed the robbery. There is no clue so far of the burglars.

The National Medical Council on Thursday discussed the question of reciprocity with Great Britain. Dr. Campbell, the President, stated that he had papers from the Medical Council of England which led him to believe that they were willing to acknowledge Canadian degrees of good standing, providing Canada reciprocates.

"Take Off your Coat, Gibbs."

Judge.—Where did you find this colored man, officer?

Officer.—I found him last night hanging around Devlin & Co.'s clothing store. Mr. Devlin has had a good deal of clothing stolen lately and I brought this man on suspicion.

Judge.—What is your name, prisoner?

Prisoner.—Napoleon Bonaparte Gibbs.

Judge.—What is your occupation?

Gibbs.—I'se travelling agent for the new patent white wash brush, sah.

Judge.—Take off your coat, Gibbs.

Gibbs.—I hope you 'scuse me, sah. I'se been troubled lately with the 'fluency in de head, de 'zootic, sah. I'se very bad.

Judge.—Take off your coat, Gibbs. (Gibbs takes off his coat slowly).

Judge.—Ah! Another coat under that; nothing like being wrapped up well, as they say in Alaska when they go skating. Take off your coat, Gibbs.

Gibbs.—I isn't well, I isn't, sah. De doctor say, Napoleon, you wear plenty clothes. De 'fluency, sah. (Takes off his coat.)

Judge.—Ah! What have we here? A swallow-tail? Take off your coat, Gibbs.

Gibbs.—Dis yere won't do, Judge. I'se got a stuffness in the borax. I'se very bad. (Takes off his coat.)

Judge.—Ah! A double-breasted frock! Take off your coat, Gibbs.

Gibbs.—Dar's gwine to be a funeral here, dar is, sah; I feels de stuffness rising in the borax. (Takes off his coat.)

Judge.—What's this? A shooting jacket, by the soul of Nimrod! Take off your coat, Gibbs.

Gibbs.—I'se gwine for a corpus—I'se getting cold. Dis yer is murder in the fustest degree. (Takes off his coat.)

Judge.—A linen duster. I think I've got you down to hard pan, Gibbs. I shall commit you without bail. Take him down gently, officer, for he is a lily—a lily of the valley. He toils not, neither does he spin; yet Solomon, in all his glory, was not clothed like him.—New York Graphic.

Bond & Co to-day advertise awn mowers, refrigerators, and other seasonable goods at prices that defy competition. They have a number of remnants of floor oil cloth which they will sell at great reduction (almost anything) to get rid of them.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

After the Banquet.

(London Fun.)

The revel is over—the orgy is past;
And my lively companions have left me at last;
And the half dozen strokes of my ormolu clock
Are effaced by the strains of the shrill-crowing cock.

In its grave lies the laughter that burst from our lips
Over Honeyman's duties, and Funnyman's quips.
Not an echo survives in the dawn's chilly light
Of the mirth and the music that gleamed thro' the night.

There were dainties of every conceivable shape;
There was Bass—there was Alsopp—and blood of the grape;
There were spirits arranged by some cunning device,
To be not very noxious and yet very nice.
But the thoughts of the feast bring a gloom to my brow,
As I gaze on the wrecks that remain of it now;
And a few bitter sentiments enter my head,
While I swiftly but sadly prepare me for bed.
As I glance at yon blank and untenanted shell
Where it once was the pride of an oyster to dwell,
I can scarcely retain the too sensitive tear
And the wish to behold its inhabitants here.

Yonder bowl, I remember, held salad inside,
Where the herbs and the lobster in interest vied;
Yonder bottles, once brimming, look now so forlorn
That I trace through their bodies the advent of morn.
Yet why should I murmur? That sunny champagne
Was productive of Jones' most rollicking vein,
And I never believed that young Simmons could pun
'Till the serious drink of the night was begun.
Though the scent of tobacco still sickens the air
My cigars were pronounced a success, and they were.
Tommy Travers, who came to me down in the dumps,
Made a joke after three of them. There are the stumps.

Ah, youth is the gaslight, and age is the gray—
Will the follies of night bear the beams of the day?
It is hardly for butterfly poets to preach,
But at forty the learner may set up to teach.
Giddy boys, go along with your jokes and your song,
Which are all very pleasant and not very wrong
But the dawning of reason, Philosophy tells,
Only leaves empty bottles—and ashes—and shells.

Harold the Outlaw

—OR—

The Gauger of Skene.

CHAPTER XLVII.

"EASTWARD, HO!"

For more reasons than one, but chiefly on account of fatigue, it was impossible for the party to leave the cottage on the following day. Myra, in her consuming impatience to recover her child, would fain have journeyed eastward without further delay, and Lizzie, in the deep sympathy of her heart, with a mother's feelings, would have made no objection, though she would much rather have remained in the peaceful seclusion of the glen. Walter Adamson, too, was impatient to return to his office and his business. Specially was he anxious that Harold's case in all its phases should be at once energetically prosecuted. Knowing that success was now easy and triumph certain, he was restless in his eagerness to turn the tables on his unscrupulous professional rival, Jabez McGarray, and enjoy the exquisite satisfaction of paying him off for former mortifications.

But on no account whatever would Harold consent to quit Glenroy and proceed to Aberdeen, where Lizzie and Myra were for the present to be located, until one day of rest had been passed, and as there was everything to be said in favour of the decision, it was universally agreed to.

Nor was it any self-inflicted punishment, for the day was a very happy one, devoted entirely to physical repose and social converse of delightful character. Sweet is pleasure after pain—most sweet to them was the realization of mental and bodily rest after the exertions, the anxieties, the sufferings of the last few months. Brightness beamed in every eye, smiles rested on every lip, gay and light was every tone, and full of exhiliration every heart.

Though the hospitality of Mysie was far more than equal to the occasion, her domestic resources were taxed pretty severely to supply food to the largely increased household. The occupants of the henroost were reduced in number, the huge ham hung from the rafters dwindled rapidly. The contents of the flour cask and the meal barrel subsided to a very visible extent, butter cans and milk pails yielded up their treasures, and the kabbock in the cupboard suffered diminution till it became the attenuated segment of a circle.

But Mysie Morven grudged not this large consumption of her stores. Hospitable by nature, she would have fed a still greater number of visitors without complaint, and in the fulness of her joy at the return of Lizzie and the child, she was ready to lavish all she had upon her guests, her deep concern being that she had no delicacies to offer them, and many were the apologies she made to the "great toon advocate" for the homely fare which she set before him.

"My conscience, Mrs. Morven," was Mr. Adamson's response, "if ye only kenned it I wouldn't gie your scones and cheese and sweet milk for all the stomach-disordering stuff in Union Street. Upon my word, I should like nothing better than this fare every day of my life."

But the longest and happiest day passes by, the more quickly when its character is a pleasant one. The morrow came and once more there was a sadness in the cottage for the shepherd and his wife had again to part with Lizzie and the boy. This was an imperative necessity—not only that they might be placed in safety, but that they should be openly and publicly brought forward as the wife and child of Harold Logan, whose claim to Mount Cairn was now to be preferred. So the old couple, with many a sigh, had to let them go.

The mode of journey was the same as before—the two horses being made to bear the ladies, the rest walking on foot. Towards evening they reached Banchory, where they put up for the night, and hired a carriage to convey them to Aberdeen the following day.

When morning came Daddy Duff, who had accompanied them up to this point, made his appearance as they sat at breakfast.

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.

The Address Passed.

QUEBEC, June 13.

Mr. Wurtele resumed the debate upon the Address and upon his amendment,

That this House will consider and support all measures constitutionally introduced and calculated to promote the prosperity of the Province.

After speeches by the mover, Mr. Irvine, Mr. Loranger and others, the vote was taken.

The division was relatively the same as on the previous day—31 to 31, Messrs. Dupuis on the Ministerial side and Mathieu of the Opposition side having paired.

The Speaker decided the tie by voting against the amendment, giving as his reason for so doing that the amendment was irregular, as it was only a reaffirmation of the principle contained in the motion in another shape and other language.

The House then divided with exactly the same result upon the motion of Mr. Watts, the Speaker again deciding the tie by his casting vote.

The Address was finally adopted upon the same division amid loud and prolonged applause in the House and galleries.

Hon. Mr. Bachand moved that the House resolve itself into Committee of Supply on Monday next. (Hear, hear.) Also into Committee of Ways and Means. Carried. He also announced that unless some very unforeseen and grave obstacle interposed he would also on the same day make his budget speech. (Applause.)

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. THE EASTERN QUESTION.

THE CONGRESS.

LONDON, June 13.

A Berlin despatch says:—Yesterday was chiefly spent by the envoys to the Congress in paying visits of ceremony and in introductions and receptions. State carriages, with richly caprisoned horses, outriders, and footmen in state costumes rolled about the streets all the afternoon, conveying special envoys to and from the old Castle, where they were received in audience by the Crown Prince in the order of the time of their arrival in Berlin. The British delegates and suites dined with Lord Odo Russell, the British Ambassador. Prince and Princess Bismarck held a reception in the evening.

The London correspondence of the Manchester Guardian says:—Those persons who anticipate that Earl Beaconsfield is preparing a great surprise will not be disappointed. The control of the reforms in Asia Miner and the maintenance of the freedom of Constantinople will be undertaken by Great Britain, while European Turkey will be left to the control of the States whose special interests are there. To satisfy Austria and adjust the question of the indemnity will be the chief difficulties of the Congress. Earl Beaconfield's demands will involve even more than the forgoing outline, but they have already received the support of Germany and France, and to some extent of Austria and Italy. Should Austria's special demands be satisfactory met, Earl Beaconsfield will play a leading part in a dazzling peace. As, however, his diplomatic policy will be a clear departure from the doctrine of non-intervention he will probably make that the justification for the dissolution of Parliament.

It is understood that to-day's sitting of the Congress was merely devoted to the formalities of electing a President and Bureau. The presidency was conferred upon Bismarck at the suggestion of Andrassy, who advocated this selection not simply on the ground of traditional custom, but for the eminent services Bismarck was on all sides acknowledged to have rendered. Andrassy also expressed the warmest hopes for the recovery of the revered German Emperor. The first real working sitting of the Congress will be Monday. This long interval appears to be due to a desire to facilitate a settlement of the task of the Congress by preliminary negotiations between the plenipotentiaries. One such conference yesterday evening between Schouvaloff and Andrassy lasted until late at night.

The first sitting of the Congress only lasted an hour and a half, Earl Beaconsfield spoke in English, and Bismarck replied in the same tongue.

There were 160 persons present to-night at the banquet in honour of the plenipotentiaries. including a large number of German Princes and Princesses and all the members of the Congress except Gortschakoff. The Crown Prince thanked the Powers for the mark of sympathy with the Emperor, drank the health of the various sovereigns, and expressed a sincere desire for the establishment of an understanding which would be a pledge of universal peace.

The Turkish plenipotentiaries have arrived at Berlin.

A Berlin despatch says:—Monday's sitting of the Congress will be the most important. Bismarck will then present his memorandum. The first subject of discusion will be the limits of Bulgaria.

General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

HAMILTON, June 13.

After the Assembly was opened the Rev. Mr. Torrance, chairman, submitted the report of the Committee on Bills and Overtures, setting forth the order of business to be transacted, and the hours of meeting.

The Committees were appointed.

Rev. Dr. Nevin, of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, was invited to a seat on the platform, and he addressed the Assembly.

A motion conveying the fraternal greetings of the Assembly to the Presbyterian Church in the States was then passed.

The names of students asking for license, of ministers asking to be received from other churches, and of ministers who are allowed to retire were read.

The report of the Committee with reference to the Presbyterian Council held in Edinburgh last year was read, and several of the members who were present at that Council gave interesting accounts of its proceedings.

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

Base Ball.

Items of Interest on the Diamond.

On Friday the Maple Leafs played a Canadian championship match with the Iroquois at Markham. There was a large attendance—some seven or eight hundred spectators. The game of course resulted as every person expected—the Leafs won, and by a score of 25 to 4. The Guelph team was treated in a very hospitable manner and the greatest harmony prevailed. The ground was uneven and it was impossible for strangers to field with any certainty. This will account for the Iroquois scoring as many as four runs. Guelph did not send a scorer with the team, which accounts for the publication of nothing but runs and base hits. The other points in the game were not noted by the Iroquois scorer. The score is subjoined:—

The lawyers—or those of them who think they can play base ball, are playing at the Model Farm this afternoon with the students of that institution.

On Friday the Hornells defeated the Tecumsehs at London, by a score of 6 to 3; the Springfields the Auburns, by 11 to 2; Indianapolis the Lowells, by 6 to 5; Worcesters the Hartfords, by 12 to 6; Cincinnatis the Providence, by 4 to 3.

Springs are little things, but they are sources of large streams; a helm is a little thing, but it governs the course of a ship; a bridle-bit is a little thing, but we know its use and power; nails and pegs are little things, but they hold the parts of a large building together; a word, a look, a smile, a frown, are all little things, but powerful for good or evil. Think of this, and mind the little things.

ANOTHER VICTIM.—Another victim has to be added to the list of those who have lost through the recent steamboat accident in Galt. The Reformer says Mr. J. P. Young was one of the most untiring and useful in the unselfish efforts made to find the bodies of those who were lost in that terrible accident. In consequence of the exposure and fatigue endured by him on that occasion, he was shortly afterwards stricken down by congestion of the lungs, and died after two weeks' illness. He leaves a widow and step-son.

I HAVE had much experience among athletics, ball players, gymnasts, etc., and can testify to the virtue of GILES' IODIDE AMMONIA LINIMENT for discoloration, Bruises, and Soreness of the Muscles and Cords after violent exercise.

SATURDAY EVE'G, JUNE 14, 1878

Local News.

INSOLVENCY.—Messrs. Goulding & Henry have received their discharge.

PROGRESS LODGE I. O. O. F. will pay a fraternal visit to Reliance Lodge on Monday next.

BETTING.—The Master of the Rolls in the Court of Appeal of Great Britain has decided that a bet is not recoverable, but that money lent to pay a bet which has been made is.

MAJOR MACDONALD will inspect the Left Division of the Wellington Field Battery at Morriston this evening. Several of the members of the Division in Guelph will attend.

THE Toronto Police Magistrate the other morning sent five women, inmates of a disreputable house, to gaol without an option of a fine. He is determined to diminish the number of these houses in the city. The magistrate is acting wisely.

LARGE BERRIES.—Mr. Robert Murray had on hand this morning some of the finest strawberries ever seen in Guelph. They are the New Dominion variety, and were grown on Fairview farm, Grimsby. Mr. Murray expects to have a supply of these berries daily during the season.

MR. G. D. PRINGLE has made arrangements to attend lectures of Dr. Rosebrugh, of the Toronto Eye and Ear Infirmary, on the practical fitting of spectacles to the eye, and on the various kinds of sight. The knowledge Mr. Pringle will so attain will enable him to give greater satisfaction in his spectacle trade.

PROPERTY SOLD.—The sale of property belonging to the insolvent estate took place on Friday, and the real estate of Orange Clarke, comprising several lots and "Cathcart Place" on Crimea street, on which is erected a handsome stone building, was sold to Mr. Henry Cargill, of Nassagaweya, for $5,400 cash. The new proprietor is about becoming a resident of the town.

THERE is on exhibition at Mr. John Anderson's bookstore a mallet that was used by Hugh Miller, author of "The Old Red Sandstone," for some twenty years when working at his trade as a mason. The mallet belongs to Mr. Williamson, of Waterloo, who is brother-in-law to the author, and who received it from him as a present some years ago.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—On the evening of Sabbath first, 16th inst., the Rev. C. A. Doudiet, of Montreal, will (D. v.,) officiate in this church in the absence of the pastor Rev. J. C. Smith. Service will begin at seven o'clock. This eloquent preacher stands high in the Orange Order and has charge of a Presbyterian congregation in Montreal, and has proved himself a powerful advocate of civil and religious liberty.

THE CONCERT.—Although the late military concert was under the patronage of Lieut.-Colonel Clarke, on account of the pressure of business matters he was unable to be present. In a letter sent to Lieut. Speirs, who is in command of No. 2 Company, the Colonel expressed hearty sympathy with them in their efforts, and stated that he appreciated the Lieutenant's endeavours to promote the welfare of the Guelph Company.

GUELPH CHAPTER.—At a regular convocation of Guelph Chapter, No. 40, R.A.M., held on Friday evening, the 14th June, 1878, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Ex. Comp. H. K. Maitland, P.Z.
" " John Inglis, Z.
" " David Kennedy, H.
" " Hugh Walker, J.
" " J. Mimmack, S.E.
" " A. McBean, S.N.
" " Wm. Tytler, P.S.
" " Jas. Cormack, Treas.
" " Geo. Smith, Janitor.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—The ladies of Beaver Lodge of Good Templars intend holding a strawberry festival in their hall, lower Wyndham street, on Monday evening, 17th inst. An abundant supply of strawberries, ice cream, &c., will be provided. A quadrille band will furnish music during the evening. Also a number of songs, recitations, &c., will be given at intervals. A very pleasant time may be expected. Admission ten cents; children half price. The public is cordially invited.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL PIC-NIC.—The work at the exhibition grounds, making preparations for this pic-nic is progressing rapidly. All arrangements are now completed and the success that has heretofore attended these pic-nics may be considered certain for the one to be held on Thursday next. The games and amusements have received extra attention, and no pains will be spared to make this one of the most enjoyable gatherings ever held in Guelph.

THE TARGET.—The following are the individual scores made at the last two practices of the Guelph Rifle Association:

LATEST FROM THE EAST.

EUROPEAN CONGRESS.

LONDON, June 15.—It is universally believed that the Globe's announcement of the Anglo-Russian understanding is authentic.

The Times endorses the terms of agreement as published.

GLOVES.—Just arrived a lot of kid gloves for 30 cents per pair, worth $1, at Rowen's sales room, Market Square. d1

A VERY large order, amounting to thousands of dollars, for sewing machines, has been received by Mr. Chas. Raymond from Australia.

MR. A DUNBAR has sold a cottage and one acre of land attached, on Grange street to Mr. Vance for $930.

MODERATE to fresh south-easterly winds, increasing cloudiness at night, and possibly rain areas or thunder showers to-morrow, are the weather probabilities received this morning.

MR. CHAS COTTIS, an employee in the Raymond sewing machine factory will leave for his old home in the old country on Thursday next. He will be away two months.

ARRESTED.—A young lad named Frank McShane has been arrested on a charge of being implicated in the handkerchief stealing at Mr. J. C. Chadwick's residence about a week ago. He will be examined before the Police Magistrate on Monday.

GRANGERS' VISIT.—On Monday at half past eleven o'clock a special train on the Great Western will bring about four hundred farmers from the county of Elgin to Guelph, on an excursion to visit the Model Farm. This is an indication that farmers are taking a great deal of interest in the welfare of the institution, and are extremely anxious by personal observation to learn the working of the Ontario School of Agriculture, and examine the farm itself. No doubt this will be one of many excursions that will bring farmers from different parts of the Province here for the same object.

POLICE COURT.—At the Police Court this morning Alice Fitzsimmons was charged with allowing two cows to run at large. The wrong party had been proceeded against as the defendant did not own a cow. Case dismissed. Bernard McTague allowed a cow to graze for sustenance off the juicy grass on the roadside. This was wrong and being an offence against the By-laws of the corporation was obliged to contribute a fine of 50c. and $2.60 costs towards the funds of the town. Theodore Fenwick owns a cow. He was charged with allowing the animal to roam around wherever it was pleased to go. The defendant made a statement to the effect that the animal had only been out of his premises some twenty minutes after having broken from confinement, and that as soon as he had learned of its escape he sent one of his sons to look for it. Case dismissed. Matthew Bradley charged one Samuel Brown with assault and battery. The prosecutor was called three times but answered not. The Magistrate thereupon dismissed the case with costs amounting to $2 to be paid by the plaintiff.

COUNTERFEITS.—Information has been received at Montreal that two men have been arrested in Germany charged with circulating counterfeit Consolidated Bank bills of Canada. There have been received in some of the banks there to-day forged Dominion one dollar notes, many of which were collected on the railways or received into the city from other places. The bills are payable in Toronto. The bills imitated are those which have the red numbering. The figures are smaller than on the genuine bill, and the color not so bright. The length of the note is one quarter of an inch shorter than that of the genuine, and the paper is poorer and of a dingy yellow. The bank impression on the back is very much blurred. Provincial notes and Dominion counterfeits are in circulation in this neighborhood. Every person should keep a sharp look-out when receiving money.

VEGETABLE MARKET.—Crowds of produce sellers and buyers attended this important department to-day. There was an abundance of all kinds of vegetables, although there was a slight falling off of some articles, which have been noticeable in the market for the past two or three weeks. What produce there was for sale looked fresh and fine, and was easily disposed of. Everything of this season's consumption in the shape of vegetables were on hand. Prices asked for were quoted about the same as last week's market. The following are the quotations:—Potatoes, 70c per bag; new cucumbers, 20c to 25c each; pickled 25c to 30c per 100; carrots, 15c to 20c per peck; beets, 15c per peck; lettuce, 3c to 5c per bunch; radishes, 3c to 5c per bunch; parsnips, 15c to 20c per peck; rhubarb, 5c per bunch; asparagus, 5c per bunch; parsley, 2c per bunch; spinnach, 8c to 10c per peck; young onions, 2c to 5c per bunch. A large number of baskets of dairy produce was brought in the market, and the various contents of each were freely disposed of; with the exception of chickens, which were rather high for this time of year. Numerous waggons, laden with wool and potatoes, lined the Square from one end to the other, but as prices offered for the wool has been about the same figure for several weeks, farmers were rather loth to dispose of it at the price offered. A few of the farmers expressed their intention to take their wool to the mill rather than dispose of it at the present time.

Military Entertainment.

A Large Number Present and a Successful Concert.

The drill shed was pretty well filled with civilians and the military last night to hear the Band of the 30th Wellington Rifles, perform the various selections which had been set down for them, and also to hear the local celebrities who had proffered their talent.

The drill shed was tastefully decorated, and presented a really charming appearance. The background of the stage was draped with the Union Jack and at one side hung the Stars and Stripes belonging to the U. S. Consul here, while the entire front was gracefully festooned with evergreens. A neat arrangement of sword bayonets at the back in the form of a star caused a striking effect. Evergreens in profusion relieved the barrenness that would otherwise have been apparent.

No. 2 Company feels that their efforts to get up a first-class entertainment have been appreciated by the public. This will have the effect of increasing the interest which the men have already manifested in their duties. Lieut. Spiers who is in command is very popular with the men, and it is largely through his exertions that the Company is in its present efficient state.

The programme commenced with an overture by the band, followed by Mr. Humphries' singing "The Union Jack of Old England." The same gentleman also sang "Our National Defenders" in the second part pretty well, though at times his voice could not be distinctly heard at the end row of seats. The Harris Bros. and Prof. Philp gave a fine selection on violins and piano "La Somnambula," which was a piece of exquisite sweetness, the chording of the violins being very rich. The "Selection from Barber de Seville" in the second part was played with the same steady precision, though the first selection was by far the more popular of the two. Mr. W. Newby followed with a song "Le Chevalier" in good spirit; in the second part of the programme choosing for his piece "Barney Mavoureen." A chorus "Men of Harlech," by several members of No. 2 Company, might have been better sung had there been a little more practice, but as it was, was not out of the way for amateurs. The song and chorus "Red, White and Blue," by Lieut. Spiers and the same members, was much easier, and considering it being an old song known by most every one, a little better time might have been kept. Private Gillies, sang "Forward," and his singing was appreciated. An orchestra, composed of a sexaphone, played by Mr. Billinger, of the 30th, two cornets by Messrs. Dyson and Emery, a violin by Prof. Philp, and Master Lou Harris at the piano, gave a "Grand March," with very good effect, the only fault being that it came to the end too soon. Mr. W. Kennedy sang "True to the Core" clearly and distinctly, and in response to an encore gave a comic medley. Of the performances of the Band, it was remarked that they did very well. The band and its efficient leader, Mr. Gay, are to be congratulated on the progress made, and the public would be glad to hear them again, Color Sergeant McKenzie, the oldest soldier in the Company, thanked the large audience in a very happy manner for their presence, and also the gentlemen who assisted in the programme. "God Save the Queen" in good style, closed what was a very excellent entertainment. Dancing commenced shortly after, and continued for some time, to which a large number remained.

MR. R. J. MOFFATT, formerly employed in Petrie's drug store, died recently in Owen Sound.

SUDDEN DEATH.—About ten o'clock on Friday evening Thomas Kelly, a farmer living in Pilkington, on the Elora Road, died at the residence of Mrs. Bernard Kelly, in Guelph. He had been in Guelph all week as one of the petit jurymen. When he came to Guelph at the beginning of the week he did not feel very well; as in fact he had not been in the enjoyment of really good health for a number of years. He was subject to epileptic fits. On Friday afternoon, about three o'clock, he was stricken down with a fit, and notwithstanding that all that could be done was accomplished, Kelly died about ten o'clock the same evening. The deceased was a well-to-do farmer in Pilkington and leaves a family. His wife died a few years ago. He was a brother of the late Bernard Kelly, well known in Guelph.

Temperance Tent Last Night.

Another large meeting last night. Mr. Thompson, Vice-President, in the chair. Prayer by Bro. Ryan, reading Scriptures by Rev. E. Haskell. The chairman said, owing to absence from town this was the first meeting he had attended since the tent was erected. He was pleased to hear that the movement was meeting with so great success again, and hoped especially if there was any present who had broken their pledges they would manfully come forward and resign.

Rev. E. Haskell was introduced, who spoke of the waste of drink and its relation to hard times. He produced a vertitable bill, which a man now reformed gave him to show how fearfully it used up his money. Extracts from the bill were read, showing charges for almost every day in the month, and aggregating in the month of April $17.44, and in the month of May $18.66, and he a hard laboring mechanic. Mr. Haskell stated there was about thirty places in this town where liquor was to be had. The lowest estimate he could give them would be $5 per day, this gives a daily expenditure of $150, or $50,000 per year, worst than wasted, producing wrecked homes, broken hearts, and lost souls, and doing no good; for if one thousand persons can live and enjoy health and prosperity, and spiritual life by total abstinence, then the whole community can. $150 per day would furnish employment for 150 men, each man represents a family of five, here we have a population of 750 souls, comfortably supported on what is now wasted in drink. Sober men earn more money than drunkards, and if this waste could be stopped and the money expended in useful things, every department of business would feel the impetus. The farmer asks what could we do with our barley, we tell him in the place of barley the poor men who now are drinking away their substance, would buy more flour, beef, butter, and so there would be an increased demand for these things much more than the loss of the barley. Let drinking men become sober and they will want better houses, better clothes, better food and more of it, and so there will be an increased demand for the carpenter, tailor, wool grower, cotton manufacturer, and all the products of the farmer, business will come up, trade will flourish, and hard times be very much mitigated. The liquor traffic makes bad business, it makes lazy men, every bar is a school of vice, nothing good is learned, but always evil. Why longer tolerate such traffic, why longer use the intoxicating cup when its effects on the community are so disastrous? I appeal to the good sense of intelligent men and women; come to the rescue, and let us lift society out of the mire of intemperance, let us become sober men, and fear God, and keep his commandments.

Mr. Higham followed in a short address, in which he said he had now kept his pledge nearly a year, and his wife could tell what a blessing it had been to his family. He had, at one time, been possessed of quite a property, but through drink he had lost much. He thanked God he had now got on the rock of temperance, and he was prepared to do all he could to promote the cause.

Mr. Flaws next addressed the meeting. He said he did not speak as a reformed man though he had seen very much of the evil of intemperance. He was glad to give his assistance to this noble work. He said it had done great things for many men in the town.

Bro. Plurd said he signed the pledge a year ago, and by the help of God he had been able to keep it, previous to that he had been a drinking man for twenty years. It had brought him very low and caused him many a headache and heart ache, but he rejoiced in his escape, and urged all to follow his example and leave the drink.

Mr. Nelson was the next speaker. He said he was called to the town as a juryman he was happy to say now he was on the temperance platform, four years ago he joined the Good Templars in his town and had been safe from the drink since that time. The last time he was in Guelph he went home drunk, for many years he had been an intemperate man, but he thanked God he was not so any longer. He proposed this time for the first time in his life to go home sober, he said it did his heart good to see men in this meeting interested in the temperance work with whom he had drank in times past.

At the close of the addresses Mr. Haskell earnestly besought those present to make a choice of the life of sobriety now while everything favors. During the closing song many came forward and signed the pledge.

Meeting on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. Some of the new recruits are expected to speak on Monday evening.

General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

June 13.

At the evening meeting Rev. James Mitchell, of Mitchell, read the report of the Committee on the State of Religion. Principal Caven moved a resolution in reference to the same. Several ministers them addressed the Assembly on the subject.

June 14.

After devotional exercises, Dr. Reid read an appeal from the Presbytery of Sydney against a decision of the Synod of the Maritime Provinces.

The next cause brought up was an appeal from the Rev. Mr. McMaster, of the Quebec Presbytery, protesting against a decision of the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa.

The next was an appeal from the Rev. Mr. Cameron, of the Stratford Presbytery, for leave to complain to the General Assembly of a motion, which was carried in the Synod, when he was absent, to the effect that the services of the Church should be discontinued in the hall in the village of Shakespeare, in which other services were held.

The Clerk read the protest and appeal of Mr. McLellan against a decision of the Presbytery of Hamilton, dismissing his dissent and complaint against the MacNab Street Kirk Session, which session had resolved to submit a vote of the congregation, the question of introducing additional hymns in th public worship.

The consideration of the report on the state of religion was then resumed.

THE Fergus Lodge of Oddfellows will pay a fraternal visit to Progress Lodge, Guelph, on Thursday evening next.

Daily Mercury.

SATURDAY EVE'G, JUNE 15, 1878.

The Reeve and the County Council.

The Herald thinks the electors made a great mistake last January in electing Mr. Elliott to the Reeveship, and passing over Mr. F. J. Chadwick. We have yet to learn that Mr. Chadwick would or could have done more than the present Reeve. Mr. Chadwick's own paper blames Mr. Elliott for not selling his property in town. We might put the same question to Mr. Chadwick, and ask him why he does not sell his property in town. We might put the same question to any property owner in town and ask him why he does not sell his property to please the Herald, or why he does not manage his private business according to the rules and regulations laid down by a sheet whose impertinence leads it to deal with matters with which it has no business.

The Herald thinks Mr. Elliott is a most estimable citizen. It gives him a first-class character, and extols him for his liberality in church matters. But there is one great drawback. He opposed Mr. Chadwick; he beat him last January, and therefore he is pronounced a failure in the County County. On what ground? Because he was in the minority on the motion for the repeal of the By-law appointing the Board of Examiners. But it forgot to state that Mr. Elliott was supported in this vote by his colleagues Messrs. Mitchell and Chase, and that the only representative from the Town who voted the other way was Mr. Sleeman. Why then single out Mr. Elliott for special condemnation?

Again, the Tory organ lays the whole blame on Mr. Elliott for the defeat of the report recommending an extension of the jail. If there is any blame or any responsibility attached to any one in this matter, are not the Deputy-Reeves equally blameable with Mr. Elliott? But, then, we want to know how they could help it. It is well known that the representatives from the northern municipalities made common cause in this matter; but they were bound to defeat it, and that it was mainly done through the influence of rival villages in the north, whose representatives thought they were doing a smart thing in furnishing an argument to the Local Government for the erection of one or more new Counties. All the influence of all the electors in Guelph, though they had gone to the County Council on their knees, would not have changed a single vote in this matter, and even though the gifted Chadwick had been in the Council, he could not have done any better. The talk about Mr. Elliott springing the matter on the Council is all bosh. The Council at the December session gave its unanimous consent to the County Property Committee to go about this work. At the January session they authorized the Committee to procure plans and tenders, and then when these were submitted, through local jealousies, and for reasons already explained, they voted the whole thing down.

When the Herald is in the mood of fault finding, why does it not censure Mr. Sleeman, who is a member of the Assessment Committee, for allowing that Committee to increase our County rate by $1,600. That is a far more serious matter than the loss of a small contract. The Town of Guelph this year will have to pay over $8,000 for County rate, and yet it has not granted us a single dollar for repairs of our roads. All that we get out of the County is a grant to our Central Exhibition of $1,000, a large portion of which goes back to the farmers in the County. We have a grant also to the General Hospital, but every cent of that is well earned in the care of patients from the County. As the case stands, therefore, we are now paying into the County for more than our share of the taxes, for which we receive no adequate return; and it seems to be now a settled principle with the County Council that while they extort every cent they can out of the Town, they will give scarcely anything in return.

We have come to the conclusion that the sooner we get a special act of incorporation as a city the better. We will then get from under the power of a clique in the County Council, who run the whole machine, and who have steadfastly set their face against the Town and everything that would tend to advance its interests: At the same time they keep steadily increasing our liabilities until our County rate is now over $8,000, and the Town is thus drained every year of a large sum of money, while the valuation of property in the Townships is kept down at a ridiculously low figure.

The Herald goes out of its way to blame Mr. Elliott. But its animus is well understood, and its attacks are consequently harmless. It is impossible for Mr. Elliott and for all the members of the County Council from the Town put together, to overcome the tide of opposition in the Council, especially from the representatives from the north, and the sooner the Town shakes hands with the County and parts so much the better will it be for the Town. We can, at least, make good use of our $8,000 which goes into the County Treasury, and which would go a long way every year towards repairing our streets and sidewalks.

THE Ottawa Free Press is pleased to learn, by a special cablegram from London, that His Excellency the Governor-General is not expected to be re-called at the end of his term. It is semi-officially stated that his term of office will be extended one year. This will be welcome news to His Excellency's many admirers and well-wishers, and is acknowledgement tribute by the Imperial Government of the marked ability with which his administration has been conducted.

The wife of Israel Snyder, a well-known farmer, residing about two miles east of Berlin, died very suddenly of heart disease, on Saturday morning last. Up to half an hour before her death she was apparently well and healthy.

Two tramps boarded a freight train at Berlin the other day, and when a brakesman attempted to force them off one of them drew a revolver and fired at him, but fortunately did not strike him.

The Lucknow Division Grangers held their annual pic-nic at Kincardine on Thursday in the driving park. The proceedings were enlivened by the Kincardine brass band and a Highland piper. The pic-nic was one of the largest concourse of farmers ever seen in Bruce.

The United States House of Representatives on Friday carried, by 215 to 21, a motion for the suspension of the rules and the adoption of a resolution declaring Hayes and Wheeler duly elected, and setting forth the unconstitutionality of any attempt by any future Congress to annul or disregard the title of the President.

Two ragged little imps, aged six and seven years, were before the Toronto Police Magistrate on Friday on the terrible charge of having stolen three laths valued at three-quarters of a cent. Col. Dennison ordered the property to be carefully delivered up to the contractor, who is one of the largest in the city, and the poor boys to be discharged.

There appears to be some division among the Tory Associations of East York. Last evening a meeting of the Yorkville Conservative Association was held, and resolutions passed condemning the action of the Riding Association for calling a convention to nominate a candidate for the Legislature without consulting the branches.

On Friday morning a 300-barrel oil still exploded at the Victoria Oil Works, London. Immediately after the explosion the oil ran in all directions. The oil ignited, and before anything could be done towards removing the contents of the shop, the building, about 200 feet in length, was in flames and beyond all hope of being saved. Loss $5,000.

Another toll-house was raided upon by masked burglers on Thursday night, namely, No. 1 gate on the Brantford-road, the first on the Hamilton-road, east of London. The Keeper was absent, but his wife was knocked down. One of the ruffians then searched the house thoroughly, finding $3, while the other guarded the woman with a pistol. This is the fourth toll-house robbery reported in a few days.

On Friday morning about fifty unemployed labourers waited on Mayor Bangs at the City Hall, Ottawa, and made a demand for work. One of the men went so far as to say that they must have work by fair or foul means. In reply to this Mayor Bangs stated that they need not talk about trying the Quebec game here, as it would not work. They could make nothing by threats. All the work that could be got would be provided them.

Mr. Robert Nisbet, residing on the Troy Road, Beverly, went to bed the other night and left $105 in his pocket. In the morning he found the money gone, some person having walked into the house and stolen it. Mr. Nisbett will probably lock his door after this when he retires to rest.

THE EASTERN QUESTION!

REPORTED ANGLO-RUSSIAN AGREEMENT.

LONDON, June 14.

The London Globe publishes the full text of an agreement between England and Russia, which it asserts was signed at the Foreign office on May 30th, and which serves as a mutual engagement for Russia and the English plenipotentiaries. The conditions of agreement provide for a division of Bulgaria into two Provinces, and provision is made for their government and the departure therefrom permanently of the Turkish troops. England stipulates not to oppose the retrocession of Bessarabia, or the annexation of Batoum, but reserves the right of discussing in Congress any prospective changes relative to the Danube. Russia agrees not to take any indemnity in land from Turkey, or to advance further her Asian frontier, or to interfere with the claims of English creditors. The reorganization of Thessaly, Epirus, and other Greek provinces is to be left to the Congress. The province of Ketour is ceded by Turkey to Persia, and Bayazid is ceded to Turkey. The questions of the reorganization of Bulgaria by Europe, the passage of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus, and a Russian militrry occupation of Roumania are also submitted to the Congress.

There are some of the minor points not mentioned in the former summary, namely:—The rectification of the western boundaries of Bulgaria on the basis of nationalities; the superior officers of militia in Southern Bulgaria to be nominated by the Porte with the approval of Europe; the Turkish promises of reform in Armenia are not to be exclusively to Russia but to England also.

It is reported that Earl Beaconsfield will move for the admission of Greece. The Earl is still the centre of attraction, and crowds assemble to see him.

Despatches from Berlin says:—Earl Beaconsfield in his speech in the Congress on Thursday, called attention to the perils attached to the military situation at Constantinople. One correspondent states that Lord Beaconsfield demanded an immediate change that would remove from dangerous promixity the Russian and Turkish armies in Roumelia, and expressed hopes that the Russian delegates would be able at the next sitting to announce that the Russian troops had withdrawn.

A Berlin despatch states:—It is said that Earl Beaconsfield will depart from Berlin next week, while Andrassy has arranged to stay a month. This causes a belief, which is encouraged by the Russian and English plenipotentiaries, that the critical point between them will be much more easily settled than that between Russia and Austria.

A Constantinople despatch says:—Mukhtar Pasha and the general staff today visited the British fleet. The fleet will shortly remove from Ismid to Prince's Island for sanitary reasons.

GALT.—The Reporter says that when the frame of the Catholic Church a few days ago was removed from its stone foundation considerable interest was taken in moving of the corner stone, to see in what condition the contents were preserved. Singular to state, however, the cavity in the stone was found when uncovered to be filled with water, and as a necessary consequence all the papers therein were found to be totally destroyed. How the water got into the cavity of the stone is a mystery.——The June cattle fair was rather slim. The only demand which brought decent figures was for shipment to the old country, and for this good three year old steers 1,200 lbs. and 1,400 lbs. weight are wanted, and for these 4½c. to perhaps a trifle over 5c. per lb., live, was paid.

Harold the Outlaw

—OR—

The Gauger of Skene.

"Weel, leddies and gentlemen," he said with quiet composure. "I hae come tee bid ye a' guid-bye."

"Good-bye!" echoed Harold, in astonishment. "What do you mean by that, Daddy; you are going with us?"

"That canna be, sir. I'm nae able tae keep up wi' the carriage, and——

"No, of course not; but you shall ride in the carriage."

"Me ride in a carriage!" cried Daddy, mightily tickled with the idea. "You are jokin' noo, Maister Harold."

"Indeed I am not. Dixon and I shall ride the horses, Nip shall sit beside the driver, and you shall go inside with Adamson, Kenneth, and the ladies."

"Inside wi' the leddies! Lord save us! that's waur and mair o't. I'm a fit companion for leddies in a carriage, or else I'm no. I think I see the folk by the roadside lookin' and lauchin' as we hurled past."

"Never mind the looks or laughs either," returned Harold. "You have done service enough to entitle you to the best place in the carriage, and you shall have it."

"Bravely spoken and truly expressed," said Adamson. "If honor is to go by merit, as it should, Daddy Duff is worthy of all the respect we can show him, and I for one will be proud to sit by his side. So, I am sure, will Lady Logan and Mrs. M'Pherson."

Lizzie and Myra eagerly exclaimed that on no account must Daddy leave them, but the old man, however gratified by this kindness and the evident sincerity which prompted it, had his own notions of propriety, and was not to be turned from his intention.

"What for should I gae farrer wi' ye?" he asked. "There's nae mair wark that Daddy Duff can dee, sae far as I ken."

"No," returned Harold; "but there is gratitude to be shown, and acknowledgment made for the invaluable services you have rendered."

"Tuts, tuts; ne'r fash tae mention that, sir. Oor success is the best payment I could hae for onything I hae deen; and blythe am I tee ken that everything is noo in a fair way for the wrang tee be made richt. That's aneuch, quite aneuch, o' payment for me."

Harold had been seated till now, but he suddenly left his chair, and advancing to Daddy laid his hand on his shoulder and looked earnestly in his face.

"And do you imagine for a moment that I am such a heartless ingrate—such a base, selfish clod—as to allow your own noble feelings to be the only recompense of your devoted exertions in my behalf? If I am capable of that, Daddy, you should never have lifted a hand or moved a foot for me. What you speak of as contenting you is Nature's recompense, not mine; but mine you must also accept—not as an adequate return, for that is impossible, but in as far as it shows my sense of your self-sacrificing labours. You are one of these true souls, Daddy, who don't know their value."

"Whist, Maister Harold. Dinna praise mae up like that, or ye'll dae me muckle ill. But since ye will speak o' this, tell me what ye wish tee dae for me."

"I am going to keep you in ease and comfort at Mount Cairn all the rest of your life; and God grant that life will be extended for many, many years to come!"

Daddy stood like one transfixed, surprise and astonishment for some moments deprived him of motion, then, as he took in more fully the import of Harold's words, strong and varying emotions overpowered him, causing his lips to quiver, his face to flush and pale, his eyes to gather moisture, and a strange, almost sad expression to lie upon his features.

"This is kindness in you, sir," he replied, in a faltering voice, "great and wonderful kiudness—a thoosand times mair than I deserve, and maybe ye'll think me an ungrateful auld sinner if I dinna accept it wi' the eagerness and satisfaction which it micht weel produce. I prize it, sir—I prize it far beyond the pooer o' words tae express; but, oh, sir, dinna be offended if I rather prefer my ain auld way, where I can enjoy the maist happiness. I am sae constituted that the luxuries o' Mount Cairn would be bondage, and I would pine for my duds, my wallet, and my stick, the free air o' the hills, and the wandering life I hae followed sae lang. Dinna ask me tae leave off my wanderings, sir, for when I dee that my span will be run, and existence will hae lost its charms for me. Tae live in ae place, however grand and guid, wad be tee me utter meezry. The best kindness ye can show me is tee let me gang my gait and be happy in my ain way. Whan I hear that ye are in the enjoyment o' yer ain at Mount Cairn I'll be proud tee gie ye a ca' pretty often; but by a' that's guid, sir, dinna seek tae cheenge my habits, for I maun wander as lang as my auld limbs will carry me. And when the infirmities o' age pit an end tee that, maybe, sir, ye'll gie me a quiet corner tae dee in, and see me laid decently in a sunny spot in the auld kirkyaird, where the gowans will grow abune me, and the linties and the laverocks sing owre my grave."

The old man's touching words and the great earnestness with which he uttered them, brought tears to the eyes of Lizzie and Myra; Walter Adamson had to cough loudly and blow his nose with his handkerchief; and Dixon and Kenneth were moved to an extent which they would have been ashamed to confess; while Harold, grasping Daddy's hand with impulsive warmth, exclaimed—

"I understand you Daddy, and you shall be free to do exactly as you please. Come and see us as often as you feel inclined, and never forget that a home awaits you at Mount Cairn and such attention as love and gratitude can at all render whenever you feel inclined to receive it."

"Thanks, sir, mony, mony thanks. I'll gang awa' noo, if you please, for there's a lump in my throat that wull subside only amang the free air o' the hills when I am a' my lane. Gweed bye tae ye a', and my best wishes follow ye."

They crowded round him and shook his hand one after the other with such warmth of feeling, and bade him good-bye with such sorrowful regret, that Daddy fairly broke down, and burst away with final abruptness. When he gained the street he did not take his departure by such a public thoroughfare, but turning up a lane at the west end of the inn, he breasted the steep slope which lay before him, and after passing one or two small houses which stood on the eminence overlooking the valley, he struck into a bridle path which led across the hills.

Seated in a comfortable carriage of more than the usual size, drawn by two powerful horses, the party found the rest of their journey much more agreeable in a bodily respect than during their travel through the Highlands. There they had to make progress by their own exertions, now they were, without any trouble on their part, carried swiftly along a smooth level road, seated socially together, free to converse, and at leisure to survey the scene around them. The change was delightful and pleasurable in a high degree. The landscape was very different from that to which most of them had been accustomed. The rugged grandeur of the Highlands was not quite lost. Occasionally the blue mountain peaks of the Grampians could be seen in the distance, and masses of high, heather-clad hills rose quite near; but the features of the scene had softened very considerably, and were softening more every mile they went eastward. Great open spaces of flat country, well wooded, and divided into fields and pasturage by green hedgerows, testified to the fact that they were passing into the fertile districts of Aberdeenshire. Cottages, farmhouses, and mansions of a solid, substantial character met their eyes in various directions; the very sky seemed large in its vault, by reason of the absence of intercepting mountains; while at various points of its course the river Dee could be seen flowing brightly between foliage-fringed banks and smiling meadows of richest verdure.

The occupants of the carriage were, under these influences, full of happy animation; but presently a shadow and gravity came on their faces as they topped an eminence on the road and came full in sight of the Hill of Fare—a place of so many sad and serious memories to them, for it was closely associated with the beginning of all their troubles. The first glimpse of it sent the thoughts of Harold back to that memorable night when the convoy he headed was intercepted by the gauger of Skene, when Wanlass was killed by Black Dick, and he taken prisoner and charged with the crime. What momentous events had arisen from thence? What dark plottiags, dangerous adventures, anxieties, and sufferings? These were evidently now drawing to a close, and the chief injury they had caused was in a fair way of being redressed, but much of the evil flowing from that night's incidents could never be overcome, and none of it forgotten. It would leave a deep mark on all their after lives, and scars of wounds which would never disappear. Little wonder that the broad and lofty slope of that wooded hill brought a shadow to Harold's brow, and rendered the faces of all the others grave so long as it remained in sight.

An hour later brought the travellers to the vicinity of Skene—a most interesting and important point of their journey, for there they meant to have an interview with Malcolm Gillespie, and take Myra's child from his keeping. Dixon, who had never ceased to keep an eye on the infant from the day he consigned it to the gauger's care, knew that some months previously he had brought it from Aberdeen to his own residence, and there they expected that the girl was now to be found. In the matter of obtaining the child Dixon was somewhat anxious. Gillespie might refuse to give it up. He more than suspected that the gauger had been intensely anxious to discover the child's family that he might make gain by his advantage; he might seek to do so now; in short, he might present obstacles agonising to the poor mother, whose state of excitement was fast becoming uncontrollable. Dixon felt that he had a difficult and delicate task to perform, and one which it might take all his tact and firmness to accomplish.

THE RAYMOND CASE.—Mr. Chas. Bolding, Chief Constable of Mount Forest, arrived in London on Wednesday evening with a warrant from a local magistrate for the prisoner Jas. Raymond, who is in custody on a general charge of horse-stealing, etc. In the neighborhood of Mount Forest, he formerly operated very largely in horse-flesh, wool, hides, butter, and in fact anything that came within his reach. He is "wanted" in a great variety of cases, but eluded the local constables very cleverly. He will likely be taken to Mount Forest to undergo his trial.

EXPORT OF FROGS.—The Montreal Journal of Commerce says:—"We recently mentioned that frogs were being shipped from Carleton Place to the New York market. It appears quite a profitable trade is being done in this line. The pioneer of the business, and his son, recently made a trip down the Mississippi in a small boat, and after an absence of four or five days returned with 160 lbs. of frogs' legs. These are sold at 50 cents per lb., and are considered a great luxury."

Mr. D. Martin, wife and two children met with a serious accident on Sunday last while out driving. The buggy was upset and its occupants thrown violently to the ground. Mr. Martin and his eldest child were not injured, Mrs. Martin's left collar bone was broken, besides being injured otherwise, and the baby's head badly bruised.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Bond & Co to-day advertise lawn mowers, refrigeraters, and other seasonable goods at prices that defy competition. They have a number of remnants of floor oil cloth which they will sell at great reduction (almost anything) to get rid of them.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

KNOW THYSELF By reading and practicing the inestimable truths contained in the best medical book ever issued, entitled SELF-PRESERVATION Price only $1. Sent by mail on receipt of price. It treats of Exhausted Vitality, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, and the endless concomitant ills and untold miseries that result therefrom, and contains more than 50 original prescriptions, any one of which is worth the price of the book. This book was written by the most extensive and probably the most skilful practitioner in America, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. A Pamphlet, illustrated with the very finest Steel Engravings—a marvel of art and beauty—sent FREE to all. Send for it at once. Address PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. HEAL THYSELF

MANHOOD RESTORED. A victim of youthful imprudence, causing premature decay, nervous debility, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has found a simple self cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow sufferers. J. H. REEVES, 43 Chatham St., N. Y.

DR. WM. GRAY'S SPECIFIC MEDICINE

The Great English Remedy is especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhea, Impotency and all diseases that follow as a consequence of Self Abuse as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to INSANITY or CONSUMPTION and a PREMATURE GRAVE, all of which, as a rule, are first caused by deviating from the path of nature, and over indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating those special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail.

The Specific Medicine is sold by all druggists at $1 per package, or Six Packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing DR. WM. GRAY & CO., Windsor Ont.

BOOTS & SHOES

A pious elder of the Scottish Kirk, on his way to service on a Sunday morning, saw a little girl and boy playing marbles. He wrathfully inquired, "Boy, do you know where children go to who play marbles on Sunday?" "Ay, ay," answered the boy, "they gang doun to the field by the brig" (bridge) "No," roared the elder, "go to hell and are burned." The little fellow looking shocked and frightened, called to his sister, "Come awa, Jeannie, come awa, here's a mon swearing awfully."

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co,, are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

LATEST FROM THE EAST.

ENGLAND AND AUSTRIA.

They Demand the Withdrawal of the Russian Troops from Constantinople.

More Fighting Reported.

LONDON, June 12.—A Berlin despatch says it is rumoured that England and Anstria are jointly demanding the withdrawal of the Russians from Constantinople during the sitting of the Congress.

The reported fighting between the Turks and Montenegrins has caused a painful sensation.

It is believed that if Beaconsfield proposes, in Congress, autonomy for Crete the Russia-Poles will draw the attention of Congress to their sufferings.

It is reported the Turks from Scutari attacked the Montenegrins at Krava, and were seriously repulsed.

General Sessions.

Before His Honor Judge Macdonald.

June 17.

The following case was heard on Friday last:—

Armstrong vs. Ostrander.—In this case J. B. Armstrong & Co., of Guelph, sold to R. D. Boomer, of Erin, a phaeton for $170 on four months' time, taking an agreement that the property should remain his till the price was paid, though Boomer should have the right to use it. Before the expiration of the time agreed upon for payment he sold it to Abraham Ostrander without telling him anything about Armstrong's claim upon it. Boomer's note came due and it was not paid. Armstrong thereupon demanded of Ostrander a return to him of the phaeton. Ostrander refused to deliver it, and this action was brought to recover the price. Verdict for plaintiff for $140. Dunbar & Johnston for plaintiff; Pattullo and Scott for defendant.

HOW TO ADVERTISE.—Mr. Robert Murray had no less than six festivals to supply in northern towns last week, and shipped berries direct from where they are grown. He attributes his whole success to advertising in the DAILY MERCURY. He has several more festivals on hand for this week. Those of local interest are:—Beaver Lodge, Good Templars, to-night; Chalmers' Church to-morrow night; St. Joseph's Hospital, grand gathering, on Thursday.

Daily Mercury.

MONDAY EVE'G, JUNE 17, 1878.

Local News.

INSOLVENCY.—A writ of attachment has made by Mr. Chas. Mickle, lumber merchant, against the estate of Mr. F. J. Chubb.

THE fact that Mr. Chubb, one of the Councillors for the East Ward, has become insolvent, will necessitate the election of a member to fill his position.

YOUTHFUL DEPRAVITY.—A game of base ball was played on Waterloo street on Sunday afternoon. Some of the lads should be given an opportunity of cultivating the acquaintance of Mr. Taylor, turnkey of the gaol.

ACCIDENT.—A farmer drove his horses into the river at Neeve street the other day to give them a drink. In descending to the river the waggon upset, and the driver and his wife were thrown out, the latter receiving severe bruises on one of her legs.

PERSONAL.—There arrived in town today Mr. John Cameron, of the London Advertiser, Mr. Blue, of the St. Thomas Home Journal, Mr. Brown, editor of the Granger, of London, and Mr. Horton, of the Globe, who are visiting at the Model Farm with the Grangers.

A FINE lot of thoroughbred cattle was brought to Winnipeg on the 7th instant by Mr. Gerrie from Guelph, Ontario—a locality noted for the excellence of its stock. So says the Winnipeg Free Press.

PETTY BURGLARY.—Last Sunday morning between two and six o'clock some thieves entered the residence of Mr. William Day, plasterer, Waterloo Avenue, and decamped with a dozen silver spoons and a good assortment of edibles, including canned fruit, sugar, and other luxuries. The police should be on the look-out.

THE CHURCHES.—Notwithstanding the heat yesterday, the various churches in town were well attended by the several congregations. The Rev. Doudiet, of Montreal, Grand Chaplain of the Orange Society, occupied the pulpit of Chalmers' church in the morning, and that of St. Andrew's church in the evening, and on each occasion delivering interesting and eloquent discourses to large and very attentive congregations. Rev. Mr. Freeman, of Erin, preached in the Norfolk street Methodist church in the morning, and in the Dublin street church in the evening.

EXCURSIONS TO THE MODEL FARM.—The Lindsay Post in referring to the visit of a number of farmers of the County of Elgin to the Model Farm, says:—The visitors will no doubt pick up some new ideas, and we have no doubt the Professors will gladly impart many useful hints. It is thought the example set by Elgin will be followed by many other sections; and we beg to suggest that the farmers of this county should get up an excursion to the Model Farm. Will our Granger friends talk over the matter, and if we can in any way further the scheme we shall be happy to do so. We have one suggestion to make. If the Grangers decide upon the excursion, they might also make it an in-cursion. Wellington is famous for its fine cattle, and, like the Glengarry men of old, let every mother's son who goes there return with three or four of the choicest Durhams he can place hands on. Then Victoria county could rank A 1 as a cattle-raising county.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—We have been requested to publish the list of sub-committees appointed at a meeting of the Executive Committe lately held, to perfect all necessary arrangements to be carried out in connection with the holding of St. George's North American Union here, in August next. The morning following the meeting of the Committee, Mr. C. A. Burrows, Secretary, of the Herald, was asked on two separate occasions by MERCURY reporters, for a report of the work done by the Committee. When first asked he refused to allow the minutes to be seen, but instead gave just what he saw fit—a very bald sketch of what was done. When asked again for a full report of the meeting he replied that the MERCURY had received a full report—thus telling what was untrue. This is the action of the Secretary of the Executive Committee after having volunteered to furnish the MERCURY with a report of a meeting which no person is expected to attend unless a member of the Committee, when another member had proposed to do so. The attention of the Committee having been called to this matter, there is no doubt but that hereafter justice will be done. The list of the sub-committees follows:—W. T. Vale, G. Tolton, and Hugh Barry were appointed to secure tenders for furniture, &c. Billeting and reception—Geo. Murton, sr., T. Ede, W. S. G. Knowles, H. H. Swinford. Finance—Geo. Howard, Geo. Elliott, and A. H. Goodeve. Pic-nic and games—C. Pettiford, W. T. Vale, Hugh Barry, Jas Hewer, jr., and R. Parker. Printing—A. H. Goodeve, W. Reid, G. Toltour, John Griffiths. Lunch and banquet—George Howard, C. Chase, W. S. G. Knowles. Chas. A. Burrows. Cabs—T. Ellis, James Hewer, jr., and Alfred Burrows. Music—W. T. Vale, W. T. Stockwell, and Geo. Lawrence. The President, Vice-Presidents, and Chas. A. Burrows were appointed to confer with officers of sister societies on various matters of importance to the Union.

No less than eight brick stores, and a fine brick hotel, have been erected or begun in the village of Alliston since the opening of spring.

The Grangers.

About Two Hundred and Fifty of Them Visit the Model Farm.

To-day (Monday) nearly three hundred Grangers arrived in Guelph for the purpose of making a visit to the Model Farm and Ontario School of Agriculture. The greater part of the number are farmers, living in the County of Elgin, the others are from Middlesex and Oxford. A number of ladies accompanied the party. The visitors arrived in Guelph at eleven o'clock by special train on the Great Western—half an hour earlier than they were expected. Mr. Johnston, President of the College, had conveyances at the station for the use of the ladies of the party. There being such a large number of gentleman they had to walk. Most of them at once proceded to the Farm, taking in what sights were to be seen around town, as they walked through.

They are an intelligent looking lot of men, strong limbed and muscular—in fact just what the agriculturists of Canada are supposed to be—the "bone and sinue of it.

On arriving at the College the party was made welcome by Mr. Johnston and the officers of the Institution, and this afternoon the farmers are on a tour of inspection over the premises.

The object of the Grangers making this visit—to see for themselves what the Government has really done in the matter of establishing a School of Agriculture—is a good one, and the farmers present will be better able to form an intelligent opinion of what is in progress for their benefit by personal observation than by any other way.

POLICE COURT.—This (Monday) morning there was a commotion among owners of animals and fowls that occasionally stray on the highways. W. J. Loughren was charged with allowing two horses to run at large. The defendant made a statement that the animals had accidentally got on the street, and as soon as he learned they were out he went in search of them. Case dismissed. George Cross was fined 50 cents each for two cows, and 50 cents and $1.75 costs for a flock of geese that had been at large. Wm. Shaw was fined 50 cents and $1,75 costs for his geese pasturing on the roads. Mary Fitzsimmons was charged with allowing cows to run at large. It appeared that there was no person of that name in town. Case dismissed.

FORESTER'S DEMONSTRATION.—Through the exertions of a local committee from the Forester's Society in Guelph, a demonstration on a grand scale will take place at the Exhibition grounds here, on Dominion Day, when the Toronto United District Order of Foresters will be present, and take a prominent part in the demonstration, besides nearly all the Courts in Ontario being represented. A grand procession will start from the Market Square, and parade the principal streets of the town, thence to the Exhibition Grounds, headed by the Berlin brass band, and accompanied by other brass and fife and drum bands. The procession will bear a number of the beautiful banners of the Order. The amusements will begin about one o'clock, when a number of valuable cash prizes will be competed for. Athletic sports, dancing, and archery. A monster platform for dancing will be free to all. Professor Martin, the celebrated gymnast, from Toronto, with his troupe, will give an exhibition on the trapeze, and other entertainments in the acrobatic line. A baby show on a large scale will also take place.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS ON SHIPBOARD.—The Montreal Witness says:—"The steamship Herman Ludwig, which sailed for London had on board 205 cattle and seventeen horses, and was besides well laden with peas. Some of the cattle were stored in the stern hold of the vessel, and so tightly packed that it was almost impossible for them to move, while the ventilation was so poor that the owners, until the vessel sailed, were compelled to dash water on the sides of the vessel and over the cattle to prevent them from suffocating. It is possible that when out at sea the ventilation would be much better, but in case of a storm, when the hatches have to be closed down, the suffering of the poor animals will necessarily be intense—if they are not completely smothered. In the interest of shippers and the breeders, as well as for the comfort of the cattle, it is important that the greatest pains be taken to ensure the arrival of cattle in good condition. This cannot be done, however, without care being directed to their comfort while on board ship. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals might, with advantage, direct its attention to this matter." Twenty of the cattle referred to above were the property of Mr. W. Laing, of Guelph. He had decided on taking them to the old country market, but after receiving such treatment determined to sell them in Montreal before the vessel sailed. They were purchased by Mr. Geo. Patterson, of Guelph, who was shipping cattle at the same time. In Mr. Laing looking after his cattle previous to selling them he over exerted himself to such an extent as to cause him to be seriously ill for several days. In order that farmers may know that there is much risk and considerable outlay in shipping cattle to the English market, Mr. Laing gives the cost of shipping twenty head from Guelph to Liverpool. Freight from Guelph to Liverpool $600; feed, putting up stalls on board ship, attendance, &c., $225—total $825—this is independent of insurance. Each animal therefore costs a fraction over $41 for shipping.

The residence of Mr. Benjamin Willson, banker, of Wingham, was entered by sneak thieves on Friday night, and a gold watch, a chain, and pencil case were taken from Mr. Crowell Willson's pocket.

The press refers to the proposition of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher that the 13th Regiment, of Brooklyn, visit Canada on May 24th 1879.

The Rev. Father censured the Canadian for the manner in which the Separate School question had been dealt with by it, and concluded by recommending all his parishoners that were subscribers to the paper to return it, and that there was sufficient reason for their doing so from the fact that it had spoken very disrespectfully of the Archbishop.

The Liquor Traffic.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR.—Within the past week Guelph has lost another of its citizens as a terrible result of the legalized, but nevertheless iniquitous, liquor traffic that is tolerated in our midst. And terrible invasions of our hearths and homes will continue to take place as long as the evil traffic is allowed to continue. How long will it be? This is a problem, the solution of which lies chiefly with those who "profess and call themselves Christians." It is quite true, that some of the ministers and some of the members of churches in Guelph aid the Temperance movement, by example and precept, but it is equally true that a large majority of the members and adherents of the churches of the town, if not actually in antagonism to it, do not manifest any interest in it; and in the question of Temperance, as well as in the question of Spiritual Religion, the principle laid down by the Lord Jesus holds good, "he that is not for us is against us." The chief responsibility for the perpetuation of the evil traffic, and the dire results that are always and everywhere following from it, rests on the members and adherents of the churches. The legislature has placed the limitation or extinction of the traffic in the hands of the ratepayers, hundreds of whom in Guelph are connected with one or other of the churches. The License Commissioners merely have power to determine the question as to who shall have licenses. The Town Council determine how many licenses may be issued. When ratepayers who are members or adherents of churches vote only for men as Town Councillors who will not sanction the issuing of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, the day of deliverance from the drink curse will be near at hand. Until they thus act the chief responsibility and guilt of the evil traffic rest on them.

Hopmg they will take decisive action in this matter, at the Municipal election next January, and that the Council of 1879 will be composed of men opposed to issuing of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors;

I remain, sir, your obedient servant,

A CITIZEN.

Guelph, June 17th, 1878.

AN INTERESTING HISTORY.—The old Methodist Church which has been purchased by the town of Galt has many interesting associations connected with it. It formerly belonged to Knox congregation, who worshipped in it up to the time of the completion of the building they now occupy. The building about to be taken down was erected in 1845, and was necessitated by the fact of Rev. John Bayne and a large portion of his congregation having seceded to the Old Kirk at the time of the Disruption. After the erection of the building, Divine Service was conducted therein by Dr. Baynes, assisted in the later years of that gentleman's life by Rev. Mr. Geikie, who afterwards went to Australia. Upon Dr. Bayne's lamented death, Dr. Thompson, of New York, accepted a call from the congregation, and for several years occupied the pulpit of the church; but eventually the Dr. was wooed back to his first love, and accepted a call tendered him by his old congregation in New York. The present pastor of Knox Church, Rev. J. K. Smith, was the next choice of the congregation; and so rapidly did the membership of the church increase under Mr. Smith's care that a larger edifice become necessary, and it was decided to erect their present magnificent edifice on West Main street.

THE Conservatives of Selkirk, Manitoba, have nominated Hon. Mr. Morris as their candidate for the Commons.

Base Ball.

Items of Interest on the Diamond.

The Model Farm students engaged the lawyers on the diamond at the Farm on Saturday afternoon. The game was a very interesting one, and up to the sixth innings the lawyers lead. McMillan, the catcher, then met with an accident and had to be relieved. In the sixth, by good batting, assisted by errors on the part of their opponents, the students scored 13. The lead they then maintained, and the result was 38 to 31 in their favor. The lawyers were well treated by the students, and the kindness shown was appreciated. The Farm boys are a fine lot of fellows. The score follows:—

The public is again reminded of the game of base ball to be played in Guelph to-morrow (Tuesday) afternoon. The Tecumsehs, of London, will play here for the first time this year, and as they have always drawn a crowd there is little doubt but they will on this occasion. The Great Western will issue excursion tickets from all stations between Harrisburg and Palmerston to Guelph, and a large number is expected to take advantage of the cheap fares. Notwithstanding London having a stronger team than they had a year ago, the Leafs will be able to give a good account of themselves even if no one expects them to win the game. Go and see the game to-morrow.

The Maple Leafs played the Clippers in Toronto on Saturday. There was not a very large crowd present to witness the game. Hewer pitched during the game, and Smith played second base. There was nothing of particular interest in the game, excepting the terrific batting of the Leafs, they scoring no less than 30 base hits. The Clippers scored 6 base hits off Hewer's pitching. The boys were well pleased with their two days' trip. Particulars of the game will be found in the subjoined score:—

Communism in the States and Canada.

CHICAGO, June 16.

The Communists made a grand display here to-day. They formed in procession at about ten o'clock, and marched through the principal streets with red flags and socialistic emblems. About 8,000 marched in the procession, and 25,000 more took part in the exercises at the picnic grounds. The procession was headed by the Lohr and Wehr Verein, carrying about 200 rifles. They wore blue and white uniforms, and with thorough discipline and glittering bayonets made a very soldierly appearance. The Bohemian sharpshooters, forty muskets, also turned out. The affair was the most quiet as well as the largest picnic Chicago ever saw. The First and Second Regiments were under arms all day, but never left their armouries. Only twenty-five police were on the picnic grounds, and not a single arrest was made. The proceeds of the affair are to start a Socialistic paper, and amounted to about $8,000. The peacable manner in which the demonstration was conducted will be a great point for the Socialists here, and it is believed will lead to a victory for their ticket at the next municipal election. We already have one alderman a Communist, elected last fall.

MONTREAL, June 15.

It is rumoured that there exists a large body of Communists in the city, and that Montreal may be the scene of rioting similar to that of Quebec whenever occasion offers. The authorities here consider the rumour to have no foundation, yet fears are entertained by many that trouble of this kind may ensue.

THE 12TH IN MONTREAL.—It is stated, though not officially, that a small force will be under arms at the beginning of next month in Montreal, for the protection of the city and armories, and to preserve the peace. Several magistrates have stated that the city will be protected on the 12th of July under any circumstances. One of these expressed the opinion that the Mayor, owing to outside pressure, could be relied upon to do his duty at the approaching crisis, and that arrangements for the protection of the city were being secretly made.

MISS BERTHA VON HILLERN, THE CELEBRATED PEDESTRIAN.—The only remedy used by her, after long and continued exertion, and in fact, during her matches, is GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA. It not only relieves her relaxed muscles and cords but gives her strength and endurance. She is never without a supply of the Liniment.

Sold by all Druggists.

The tournament under the auspices of the Goderich Silver Cornet Band, took place on Friday, and resulted as follows:—Brantford, first, $100; Berlin, second, $65; Mitchell, third, $40; Seaforth, fourth, $25.

Readers and Literature.

The Toronto Globe pointed out the other day in a clear and forcible manner, the downward tendency of literary taste and morals in writers as well as readers. We were much impressed with our cotemporary's comments on this important subject, and we believe they were both timely and called for, and will not be without a healthy effect on those whose minds are not yet totally debased by the perusal of the demoralizing rubbish which at present floods the book world. It has been said by a great literary man, that it is easier to destroy an intellectual taste than to create one, and there is ample proof of this in our own town, where the facility with which mental culture can be tainted is every day displayed. Small urchins, who can barely read their second or third school manuals, may frequently be seen gloating over the bloodthirsty adventures of Texas Bill or some other equally uninstructive and undesirable acquaintance; young girls, scarcely in their teens, comfortably settle themselves in the cosiest corner of a sofa and devote the golden hours of life to a perusal of sentimental novels which are spiced with sufficient sensuality to make them, if not agreeable, at least exciting; grown men and women, too, occupy their spare time in wading through a literary mudhole, until they can relish neither purity of diction nor breadth of intellect. These evils are fed and multiplied by writers whose want of ability compels them to trade in all the filth and impurities of fallen humanity, so that they may eke out an existence, generally as demoralizing to others as it is morally destructive to themselves. Plays, in regard to which wit or humor is a stranger and a foreigner; tragedies, which excite the baser passions of man without vividly warning him of the ruinous effects of iniquity; poetry, bordering on the profane and disreputable; novels, in which the hero is a monster of depravity and the heroine, his sister in crime and wickedness; these form to a very large extent the perilous stuff which poisons the minds of so many of the present—day reading public. By poring over such matter, the intellect becomes enervated and weakened, the mind is filled with the wildest and most absurd vagaries, and the man himself soon loses all taste or appetite for the refined and beautiful in literature. And to such a depth have some people sunk in this respect that we are compelled to have on our Statute book a law for the prevention of the publication or importation of stuff similar to that to which we have referred.

It may, however, be asked: "What shall we read?" This depends so much upon the taste, the education, and the temperament of different people, that no general rule can be laid down, but surely from Chaucer to Longfellow, from Bacon to Tyndall, there must be sufficient variety and quality for all. Far back amidst the darkest ignorance and bigotry of the past, we find literary gems of the greatest value, and productions as varied in subjects as they are unrivalled in depth and splendor, and as we come down the stream of Time and glide out into the great ocean of modern thought, we find hundreds of authors, whose works will endure while the Saxon tongue is spoken. Those who care to drink at the Pierian spring will find in any period of the past, cooling and refreshing draughts, and will lay aside the author, whoever he may be, feeling his refining and instructive influence. Novelists, historians, poets, biographers, logicians, and a host of others crowd upon one's mind, each one claiming as it were undivided attention, and each one richly deserving of it! The comparison between these and the writers we have referred to as occupying too much of our people's time, is so marked that we cannot see how any one can hesitate in his choice. In historical novels, instead of the faithful and minute record of facts and the most correct description of natural scenes and important events told in the most chaste language, which we find in a Scott or a Lever, we have in our present novelists, a distorted and erroneous impression of everything, historical and natural. Where can the perfect touches of a broad human sympathy, the tender, though mute appeals to every godlike attribute we possess, the pleasing grace of pure affection, where, we ask, can these be found in their native modesty and naturalness, but in the productions of a Gœthe or a Dickens? Why spend one's time in tiresome or unremunerative intercourse with the venal followers of the Muse in this age and generation, when one can run riot among flowers plucked from the garden of nature and gems gathered from the rich harvest of humanity by a Shakepeare or a Burns, or can hold converse with the haughty splendor of a Byron, or the glooming magnificence of a Shelley? Let Canadians read the histories of Hume, Gibbon and Macaulay, let them peruse the biographies of Boswell and Lockhart, let them carefully study the philosophies of Bacon and Spencer, of Fichte and Tyndall, and, above all, let them ponder well the grand moral principles taught in the pages of Dick and Paley. Turn to the flowery fields of fiction, and nothing can excel the delightful and natural story of The Man of Feeling, by Mackenzie, or the simplicity of The Vicar of Wakefield, by Goldsmith. The student can also find a mine of literary wealth in the chaste and classic novels of Bulwer, the brisk business-like stories from the pen of Thackeray, or the charming pictures drawn by the master hand of that gifted authoress, George Eliot. Reviews, periodicals, and magazines are easy of access, and he whose time is limited can find in their pages the cream of everything worth reading. And in one's retired moments, when a piece of quiet humor is really relished, one has but to turn to the very core of all that is humorous and sarcastic in the never dying works of Swift or Sterne. It is needless, however, for us to multiply examples or give further directions to the follower of literature. We have merely thrown out a few hints on this subject, and we will feel amply repaid, if we have accomplished any substantial result in elevating the tone and correcting the faults of too many book devourers in our own time and country.

The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian says the Colonial Office wished Earl Dufferin to remain in Canada as Governor-General an other term, but Earl Dufferin declined, and returns to England in September.

The North Norfolk Reform Convention on Saturday renominated Mr. Charlton, M.P., as its candidate for the Commons.

One more vote for Mr. Joly. At the late election for Charlevoix Mr. Gauthier, a Conservative, was declared elected. On a scrutiny of votes it was found that Mr. Tremblay, the Reform candidate, had a majority of three good votes, and is, therefore, the legally elected member. Tally one for Mr. Joly.

The East Middlesex Reform Convention held their adjourned meeting at London on Saturday for the purpose of selecting a candidate for the Local Legislature in the event of Mr. James Armstrong declining the nomination. It was finally resolved to postpone the selection.

Prominent members of the United States House of Representatives believe that the Bill appropriating five and a half millions to pay the Fisheries Award will be passed without prolonged debate, or much oppositon. If the Bill fails to obtain final action by both Houses this session the President will immediately convene an extra session.

The Reformers of North Huron met at Brussels on Friday, and nominated Mr. Thomas Gibson, M. P. P., as their candidate for the Local Legislature. A resolution of confidence in the Dominion and Local Governments was passed.

The first real measure is now before the Quebec House for trial, the Premier having, on Friday, introduced his Bill for the abolition of the Railway Commission and the transfer of its duties to Commissioner of Public Works. An overtasked Province cannot do otherwise than most thankfully accept such a measure. The Legislative Council the same day met and passed amendments to the Address censuring the action of the Lieutenant-Governor is dismissing his late Ministry.

Says the Charlottetown (P. E. I.) Patriot:—When Sir John A. Macdonald holds the present Government responsible for the hardness of the present times, or when he takes credit to himself for the prosperity enjoyed by the Dominion in common with the rest of the world a few years ago, he acts the part of an unprincipled demagogue, and abuses men of intelligence to doubt whether he really possesses any of the qualities of a true statesman. It is to be regretted that the leader of the Opposition will not permit those who differ from him in opinion to respect him. He is perpetually doing something or saying something that lowers himself in the estimation of every Canadian who believes that the leaders of the great parties in the Dominion should be men of great ability, high principle, and unsullied character.

The Mail of Friday gets quite jubilant in announcing that Mr. Haggert, of Brampton, the well known implement maker, has gone over to the Conservative side. But the Brampton Times brings the Mail down from its high horse. It says:—The Mail of Friday is doing a little fawning to Mr. John Haggert, and insinuates that he has left the Reform Party. Mr. Haggert has done nothing of the kind, nor has he the idea of doing so, as he looks upon the cry that Mr. Frazer is spouting out as a purely, "political dodge," and he has not the slightest faith in Sir John A. Macdonald's "Protection Policy," because he believes Sir John A. will promise anything and everything to get into office. If a strong Protection party could be formed, with a reliable leader at its head, Mr. Haggert would no doubt join it and give it a hearty support, even should it be against Mr. Mackenzie, but he has no faith in the present Tory dodge.

The Gospel Temperance Meeting.

The tent was more than filled by at least one thousand people, yesterday afternoon. All of the exercises were unusually interesting. In the absence of Chas. Raymond, the President, Rev. E. Haskell occupied the chair. The meeting was opened by the usual devotional exercises, Rev. Mr. Harris leading in prayer. Mr. Haskell opened by saying that they had occasion to be exceedingly thankful and hopeful for the auspicious opening of the campaign. Eighty persons during the past week had enrolled themselves on the total abstinence pledge, quite a number of them persons whose efforts at reformation was hailed with pleasure. He stated that they had every reason to push on this work with vigor. No man felt so much his awful condition like the inebriate himself, when the chains of habit had bound themselves about him, the remorse at his hopeless condition is beyond description, he feels himself going down, as Chas. Lamb expressed it, with open eyes over the falls, and yet with all this unalterable anguish we find men of mind and character venturing out into these treacherous waters only to be deluded and led on to the same ruin. They say a man is no man who has not power enough to drink and stop, but acting on this theory they now find themselves in the rapids going on to the inebriates road, and bitter fate. There is no subject in which men are so slow to learn, in which they profit so little by the melancholy experience of others. It matters not how many go to ruin, there are plenty to follow with open eyes right into the awful vortex. Oh! the deceptiveness of the intoxicating cup, promising good always, but biting like a serpent and stinging like an adder.

After a song, Rev. Mr. Caldwell, of Alton, made a stirring address, in which he took occasion to congratulate the friends of the cause in this place of gospel temperance work. He believed it was rightly joined to the church of God, and must succeed. He narrated a case of an intimate friend of his who fell a victim to the cup, and so powerful did the appetite become that on a certain occasion he said he must have drink if he should drop into hell the next moment. Similar statements have been frequently corroborated. He closed by an earnest appeal to all now in time to break the serpent's power.

Another song and Mr. John Howie, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, was introduced. He said he had long been a worker in the temperance cause, and hailed with pleasure the movement. In England they had nothing of this kind. He thought it would be a grand idea to introduce tent meetings into England. He further stated that we could form no conception of the awful magnitude of the drink traffic in England. Bad as he thought it was here, it was far worse there. England's drink bill last year was one hundred and fifty millions sterling, or seven hundred and fifty millions of dollars, or an average of over one hundred dollars to every family of the United Kingdom. No wonder the times are hard. There by law the public houses are allowed to be kept open on the Sabbath. One afternoon, he with others, was deputized to keep watch of certain public houses in his own town, and in one hour he counted six hundred persons who went in between five and six o'clock Sabbath afternoon. And this is but a fair illustration of the fearful tide of humanity crowding the ways of intemperance. No nation can long live with such swing going on within it. He warned the people of this young country to strike for deliverance from this awful curse before it got such a hold as in the mother country. The whole address was deeply interesting. At the close thirty-five names were added to the pledge. Meeting again to-night.

Harold the Outlaw

—OR—

The Gauger of Skene.

We have hinted at Myra's excitement and eager impatience to receive back to her bosom her long-lost child. Every moment which lessened the distance from the gauger's residence made her more restless and agitated. Fast as the horses went they proceeded far too slow for the longing of her yearning heart. Lizzie, who knew well what must be her state of mind, strove to interest her in passing objects, that she might not dwell too keenly on the subject of her consuming thoughts. The affectionate and loving intention was but partially successful, and now that Skene was almost reached Lizzie's own excitement grew so strong that she could think or speak of nothing else.

"The Loch of Skene," said Harold, pointing to a sheet of water glancing on the south side of the road.

"Oh, heaven—at last!" exclaimed Myra, rising impulsively from her seat, and gazing wildly round, as if in search of some expected object. "I see nothing," she cried. "Where is the village—where is the gauger's house?"

"The village, such as it is, is some distance off yet," replied Harold, in the kindest tones. "Ten minutes or so will bring us there."

The ten minutes were ten ages to the mother's panting soul. She thought they would never, never elapse—that the long, winding road was interminable — that Skene must be receding before them as they advanced, in cruel mockery of her burning desire to reach it.

At length a house or two came in sight on either side of the road; but Myra knew that it was not any of these which contained her child, for Harold had told her that the residence of Malcolm Gillespie was two or three hundred yards from the highway, and would not be reached until they had passed Broadcastle Inn.

Myra was standing up in the carriage, it being impossible for her longer to keep her seat. Harold stood beside her, ready to point out the house the moment it became visible.

"There is the inn," he said, as at a turn of the road a group of buildings met their view.

"Yes; I see it—I see it. Now, tell me, dear sir—oh, tell me, where is the gauger's house?"

"To the left, beyond the inn, back from the road. You see several houses together?"

"I do—I do; but there is a mist before my eyes, and I see them but dimly. Is it there—is it one of these I am to find my darling?"

With strained eyes, blinded by tears, with parted lips, and suspended breath, she waited for the answer, but Harold was strangely silent, and Lizzie, who, greatly excited likewise, was gazing at his face, saw a change there which instantly alarmed her. Astonishment—nay, consternation—was depicted on Harold's countenance.

She grasped his arm, and tried to ask the meaning of his look, but ere she had power to open her lips Harold involuntarily ejaculated—

"Good heaven! what has happened?"

Myra uttered a scream of agony; Lizzie echoed it in terror; the others looked at Harold in anxious wonder.

"What is it—what is it?" was asked by every one.

"Dixon — look," whispered Harold, pointing in the direction where his gaze was fixed.

Dixon started up and looked round. Then he saw what had moved Harold so strongly. The gauger's house was a heap of blackened ruins.

"Gracious powers, Gillespie's house is burned," he cried.

"Burned!" shrieked Myra. "Oh, my child, my darling."

She made a wild effort to spring over the side of the carriage, but Harold and the lawyer grasped her in time to prevent the rash deed.

"For heaven's sake, dear lady, be calm. The child may by safe. We shall stop at the inn and make inquiries. Driver, pull up—pull up—quick—stop the carriage."

The order was obeyed with a suddenness which almost brought the horses on their haunches, and, as the carriage stopped in front of the inn, several voices shouted loudly in chorus—

"Landlord, landlord."

The vehement summons brought forth in hot haste a florid-faced, elderly man in his shirt sleeves, and one or two women appeared in the passage full of wonder as to what it might mean.

Questions were bursting from every lip, but Harold silenced them by an impressive gesture.

"What has happened here, landlord?" he demanded. "Has there been a fire?"

"Ay, has there, sir, and a big ane, too—Maister Gillespie's hoose."

"When?"

"Three nights syne."

"The child," whispered Myra, imploringly; "for pity's sake, ask if the child is safe."

"Any one hurt?" asked Harold.

"Weel, nae very sair, at anyrate."

"The lives of all the inmates were saved, I hope?"

"Barely. The girlie that's keepin' the we'an, her and it was clean forgotten in the confusion, and they were——"

"Not burnt—not killed!" shrieked Myra, her face white and ghastly with agony. The startled landlord recoiled in dismay, stricken speechless by the lady's wildness and woe.

"Oh, speak! speak! are they dead? If you have a heart of flesh and blood answer me quickly."

"Na, men; they're nae deid. They——"

"Not dead! Thank heaven, not dead! My da——"

Harold quickly and forcibly drew her back.

"Mrs. M'Pherson," he said, in a low voice, but with great emphasis, "for the sake of all that is dear to you try to command yourself. Be calm and silent, or our mission may utterly fail. The child lives—let that relieve you for the present. Do not betray yourself, or you may lose it for ever."

"No, no," returned Myra, intensely frightened by his words; "I will be calm; I will say nothing. Ask the man further questions. You know what I wish to learn. I will listen—only listen."

"That is right. I know you are brave and firm when necessity requires. Do as you have promised, and I will extract all the information we need."

"The lady is very nervous," explained Harold, turning again to the landlord. "The intelligence of such a calamity has shocked her sensibilities. She was afraid you were going to say that some of the inmates of the gauger's house had perished in the flames, and such a dreadful thing roused her feelings to the utmost."

"And that shows, sir, what a kind-hearted leddy she is. But dinna tak' on sae, mem. The burnin' o' teh hoose is bad enough, but a mercifu' Providence sae ordered that a' the lives were saved."

"But you said a girl and a child were in danger?"

"Sae they were, sir. The fire broke oot i' the deed o' nicht, and spread sae quick and raged sae dreadfu' that ilk ane, baith men and women, ran out like fouk demented, and quite forgot that the girlie and the bairn were sound sleepin' in the wee closet upstairs; and had I no ran wi' the first o' the neebours they wad baith hae suffocated, for naebody thocht o' them till I asked where they were. Then the cry was made that they were in the burnin' hoose. I kenned the closet where they sleepit, and the back window it had, sae I rushed for a ladder and got them oot nae a grain the waur. But anither minute wad hae dune for the puir things."

A Mechanical Devil.

An Extraordinary Fish Torpedo Boat in England.

Not satisfied (says the Naval and Military Gazette) with torpedoes of many kinds and torpedo launches, naval men are considering the practicability of a "fish torpedo boat" to travel under water in somewhat the same way as Whitehead's celebrated weapon. Its use is to intercept travelling torpedoes, and also to attack vessels itself, and some satisfactory experiments have been made by the British Admiralty with a model eight feet long. The boat, which, when constructed, will be 100 feet long, when originally designed by the late Lord Milton, assisted by Mr. Turner, of Wentworth, and the latter gentleman has recently taken up the idea again in conjunction with Mr. White, of Thorpe, near Rotherham, and several important improvements have been made. It is in shape like a fish, and is propelled by a tail worked by compressed air, and which in addition, will expel the foul air and any water which may get into the boat. In the forepart are two large eyes, through which an electric light is shown, enabling the occupants of the boat to see anything a long way off. In what may be called the nostril of this novel "fish" will be placed a gun of peculiar description. It is a rotatory, having four chambers placed like the spokes of a wheel, so that while one shot is being fired a second chamber is being charged, a third sponged, and the fourth cleaned, so that the discharges follow each other in rapid succession. The explosive used will not be gunpowder, but a new material, one pound of which in a recent trial displaced about 140 tons of ironstone. The head will also carry a ram capable of piercing in the bottom of an ironclad ship. There will be no masts, and the deck will be quite clear, and inside the boat will be divided into compartments, each of which will be filled with compressed air. An arrangement will be fitted at the bottom by which water can be taken in so as to cause the boat to sink to any required depth, and on pumping it out again the vessel will immediately rise. Three or four men will be able to remain under water from three to nine hours in this the latest "mechanical devil," and it can be driven at a speed of eighteen knots an hour.

Farmers' Sons' Act.

The following are the sections of the Act (chap. 180, Revised Statutes of Ontario) relating to the liability of farmers' sons' to perform statute labor:—

Sec. 84. "Every farmer's son rated and entered as such on the assessment roll of any municipality, shal, if not otherwise exempted by law, be liable to perform statute labor or commute therefor, as if he were not so rated and assessed."

Sec. 79. "Every male inhabitant of a township between the ages aforesaid (21 and 60) who is not otherwise assessed, and who is not exempt by law from performing statute labor, shall be liable to two days of statute labor on the roads and highways in the township and no council shall have any power to reduce the statute labor required under this section."

Sec. 81. "The council of any township may, by-law, direct that a sum not exceeding one dollar a day shall be paid as commutation of statute labor, in which case the commutation tax shall be added in a separate column in the collector's roll, and shall be collected and accounted for like other taxes."

A Test for the Capacity of Cows.

A Commission has been appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to examine and report on the merits of a system which undertakes to determine in advance the probable yield of milk cows by certain marks upon the animals. The marks are chiefly in respect to the disposition and mode of growth of the hair near the udder, and a prediction can be made with certainty, it is said, as to whether the future cow will be a large producer of milk, if the observation is made on the young calf, even shortly after birth. The discovery of this peculiarity was a French stock-raiser, M. Francis Guenon; he first promulgated it about forty years ago. Since then the theory has found favor with several French Agricultural Societies; M. Guenon has received medals and pecuniary rewards, and many stock-raisers in Europe are said to base their estimates of the value of cattle upon this system. The mark on the animal is called an escutcheon. The mode by which the value of the system will be tried in Pennsylvania is, first to have the State Commissioners inspect the marks on a series of cows in several stables, and make a record of the indications without communicating any facts that they observe to the owners of the animals. These records are to be sent to the Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture. The owners of the cows will make statistical records of the yield of milk of each animal, and send them also to the State Board. The two sets of records will then be compared and reported upon. Some of this work has already been done, and it is said that 95 per cent. of the opinions formed by escutcheon observation have so far proved correct.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London. Sept. 28, d&w 9m.

MARRYING IN HASTE AND REPENTING AT LEISURE.—A short time ago a lady engaged a painter to renovate her cottage near the mountain, In Hamilton. The work was nearly completed, when it came to the ear of the young man that the lady was possessed of considerable wealth, whereupon he professed love for her, and speedily gave her to understand that marriage would not be what he least desired at that time. The lady, who was past that interesting age of forty, consented, and the wedding was held with great rejoicings. One of the executors of the last will and testament of the new bride's lately departed husband made known to her new partner that in that document it very distinctly stated that upon the lady taking a second husband the cottage and acres should revert to their adopted child. In a moment all that was happiness now turned to despair. The wife was penniless and the husband disgusted. He left soon after for the land of Uncle Sam, utterly regardless of the fact, that he was leaving his better half behind.

REV. FATHER STAFFORD AND ONTARIO NORMAL SCHOOL.—Rev. Father Stafford, of Lindsay, publishes the following offer in the Canada School Journal: "It appears we have a very few Roman Catholic separate school teachers holding first-class A, Normal School certificates. I shall be glad to give a premium of $100 to any Catholic teacher who may win a first-class A. at Toronto. This offer to continue for ten years, but not more than one such premium to be given each year. I suppose it is our own fault if a Normal School into which so many thousands of our money has gone has yielded us so little advantage.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

MORE ABOUT THE CONGRESS.

LONDON, June 16.

It is universally believed that the Globe's announcement of an Anglo-Russian understanding is authentic. The Times endorses the terms of the agreement as published.

A Berlin correspondent says:—The sole question which might threaten the success of the Congress is the organization of Roumelia.

A Constantinople despatch says:—The Turkish delegates have been instructed to withdraw from the Congress and declare that Turkey prefers to execute the stipulations of the Treaty of San Stefano if the Congress decides to grant autonomy to Epirus, Thessaly, Bosnia, and the Herzegovina.

The London Observer says it has reason to believe that Austria and Russia have reached an understanding by which the interests of Austria-Hungary will be protected in the same way as English interests are protected by the agreement between Lord Salisbury and Schouvaloff.

A Vienna despatch says:—The mobilization of Austrian troops is assuming large proportions. A despatch from Berlin reports that Andrassy, in a private conversation, admits the mobilization of 10,000 men to enforce the decisions of the Congress.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS GRAND OFFICERS.—The Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias of Ontario have elected the following officers for the ensuing year:—Dr. John S. King, Toronto, G. C., by acclamation; J. H. Lumsden, Toronto, V. G. C.; Henry Bryant, Hamilton, G. P.; James B. Howe, Toronto, G. M. of E.; George H. Mitchell, Toronto, G. K. of R. S.; John J. Thomson, London, G. M. A.; William Williams, Sarnia, G. I. G.; P. C. Secord, Acton, G. O. G. The Grand Lodge is to meet next year at Windsor.

ELORA.—Messrs. A. Duncan, Elora; T. Black, Salem, and John Winfield, Pilkington, have left for Manitoba on a prospecting tour.——C. K. Clarke, son of Colonel Clarke, has passed his final examination in medicine.——A. S. Lown, formerly a pupil of the Elora High School, has secured the first proficiency, $75, in his second year attending the Toronto University.——P. O'Connell has purchased the homstead of widow Watson for $1,000.——Mr. Boyle has been asked to withdraw his resignation as Curator of the Museum.

FIRE INQUEST.—The Elora Express says that Dr. Paget, at the instance of Mr. Chas. G. Cremer, agent for the Manufacturers' and Merchants' Fire Insurance Company, held an inquest to enquire into the origin and cause of the burning of the ashery, in Arthur, in September last. The whole matter was gone into in a thoroughly systematic manner, and the facts, so far as could be gleaned, laid bare, when the following verdict was arrived at:—"That no cause of complaint could be found against the persons suspected."

THE TEMPORALITIES FUND SUIT.—On Friday Mr. Justice Papineau rendered judgment on the objections filed by the defendants in the case of the Rev. R. Dobie v the Board for the Management of the Temporalities fund of the Presbyterian Church of Canada in connection with the Church of Scotland, et al. The plaintiff had proceeded by a writ of injunction directed against the corporation and several individuals, alleging that they had acted illegally in the administration of the funds belonging to the Church meutioned. Defendants pleaded several objections to the writ of injunction which were entirely formal, and his Honour dismissed them with costs. This judgment allows the plaintiff to proceed in his action against the defendants.

A WIFE BEHEADS HER HUSBAND.—A horrible story comes from Burkesville, Virginia. On the 9th a couple named Anderson quarrelled about a fly that had got into the gravy at dinner time. The husband after great provocation ordered his wife to leave the house. She ran out and seized an axe which was in the porch, and rushing back to her husband, dealt him a heavy blow on the back of the head while he still sat at the table. He tried to get up, but she repeated the blow, which felled him to the ground. Then in her brutal rage she severed the head from the body. A guest of Mr. Miller's was upstairs while the bloody work was going on, and he got into the dining-room just in time to see the end of it. As he entered, the guilty woman held the head of her husband up, and with a hellish exclamation, dropped it to the floor and fell in a swoon.

BAND TOURNAMENT.—The band tournament at Goderich on Friday was a grand success. Seven bands competed—Brantford, Berlin, Mitchell, Seaforth, Saugeen (Indian), Kincardine and Clinton. Prizes were awarded:—First, Brantford, $100; second, Berlin, $60; and fourth, Seaforth, $25. The judges were Mr. Wilson, Major Thompson, of Goderich, and Armstrong, leader of the Goderich band. The utmost satisfaction was manifested at the judges' decision. About four thousands persons were on the grounds.

Andrew O'Mara, a well known meat merchant, of London, was jolted off the platform of a passenger coach at London station, on Friday last, and a car passing over his arm crushed it completely. He also received other injuries.

A gang of masked burglars has been operating with considerable success in the neighborhood of London. Already three outrages have been chronicled during the past week and now another two are heard of. On Friday evening a toll gate house kept by William Mapstone was entered by three men, and after abusing the inmates made off with $3 in cash besides other articles. A short time after the house of a man named Cooper was visited by the same parties, but they were beaten off.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—An accident of serious nature occurred at the residence of the Rev. J. T. Johnston, of Molesworth, a couple of weeks ago. Mr. Johnston purchased a small vial of hartshorn, during the day in Listowel, and on returning home gave it to his wife. Their two children were present. The oldest boy had no sooner taken the vial in his hand than it exploded, throwing the contents mainly into the face of the baby, who was seated in a chair by the side of the mother. Although severely injured the child's eyes are uninjured. The mother and eldest boy escaped with sore throats, caused by the fumes they had inhaled.

The Wentworth County Council have asked the Lieut.-Governor to appoint a short-hand reporter for the County Courts.

DUNKIN ACT IN YORK.—By a decision of Messrs. Jackes and Cann, Justices of the Peace, the Act is not now in force in the County of York. Beatty, a tavern-keeper at Eglington, was charged with selling liquor on the 29th of April, while his license from the Ontario Government extended to the 1st of May. Mr. Murphy, for defendant, admitted the sale to the informant, and put in a license under the Ontario Liquor Act, licensing defendant to sell until the 1st of May; and also specially put in issue the By-law of the County of York, passed under the provisions of the Dunkin Act, and the approval and adoption thereof by the electors. The magistrates decided that they would give judgment irrespective of the fact that the offence was committed before the license expired, as, if the Dunkin Act were in force at all, it came into effect on the 1st of March last. They decided to dismiss the case on the ground that under the B.N.A. Act and the legislation of the Ontario Legislature, the Dunkin Act was virtually repealed; that no proper notice had been given to the Collector of Inland Revenue, and that if the notice given to the Collector was a proper notice, he was not a proper person to receive it. They founded their reasons on the authorities that the spirit and not the letter of the Act should be regarded, and that where the Dunkin Act mentioned the Collector of Inland Revenue, it was only because he was the issuer of licenses at the time of the passing of the Act. The Acts of the Ontario Legislature had substituted the Inspector of Licenses in his place, and 39 Victoria, chap. 26, section 27, especially enacted that all the provisions of the Dunkin Act were in force and re-enacted as far as that Legislature had the power to re-enact them. The magistrates said they were there not merely to judge of the facts but also of the law according to their ability, and where their judgment on the law was in favor of the defendant they could not decide otherwise than in his favor.

LISTOWEL.—The June cattle was poorly attended. Several milch cows, a few fat cattle, and a number of inferior young animals comprised the offered for sale.——W. G. Hay has sold off from his survey on the Davidson property lots to the amount of $3,700, during the month of May.

Bond & Co to-day advertise lawn mowers, refrigeraters, and other seasonable goods at prices that defy competition. They have a number of remnants of floor oil cloth which they will sell at great reduction (almost anything) to get rid of them.

NO HARD TIMES THERE.—One hears very little now-a-days but the cry hard times. Judging from the constant rush in business at the Lion, Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co. never feel them. Their ruling principle is, make goods cheaper than any other store, and there is no trouble about selling them.

Arctic refrigerators for keeping meat, &c., during the hot weather, wire covers to keep flies off food; croquet sets, lawn mowers, hedge shears and trimmers at JOHN HORSMAN'S, corner Wyndham and Quebec streets, St. George's Square.

The Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., by its judicious reduction of rates will maintain its famous reputation as a model first-class house, alive to the demands of the time. cod.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. The great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D. Bible House, New York City. Sept. 18, deodw1y

MANHOOD RESTORED. A victim of youthful imprudence, causing premature decay, nervous debility, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has found a simple self cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow sufferers. J. H. REEVES, 43 Chatham St., N. Y.

DR. WM. GRAY'S SPECIFIC MEDICINE

The Great English Remedy is especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhea, Impotency and all diseases that follow as a consequence of Self Abuse as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to INSANITY OR CONSUMPTION and a PREMATURE GRAVE, all of which, as a rule, are first caused by deviating from the path of nature, and over indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating those special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail.

The Specific Medicine is sold by all druggists at $1 per package, or Six Packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing DR. WM. GRAY & CO., Windsor Ont.

BOOTS & SHOES

A pious eldar of the Scottish Kirk, on his way to service on a Sunday morning, saw a little girl and boy playing marbles. He wrathfully inquired, "Boy, do you know where children go to who play marbles on Sunday?" "Ay, ay," answered the boy, "they gang doun to the field by the brig (bridge) "No," roared the elder, "go to hell and are burned." The little fellow looking shocked and frightened, called to his sister, "Come awa, Jeannie; come awa, here's a mon swearing awfully."

An Impudent Lie.

Messrs. S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New York, have just issued a new edition of their Newspaper Directory for 1878. The list includes the newspapers published in Canada. As regards the circulation of papers the Publishers say:—"The circulations reported are, in all cases, those given by the publishers themselves. The circulations which appear in full-face figures have been sworn to, and the affidavits are on file in the office of the Directory. Turning to the papers published in Guelph we find the Herald's circulation given in full-face figures—being sworn to on affidavit as follows:—Daily 986; weekly 3,560.'

Now, we pronounce the above statement an impudent, unblushing and premeditated lie, and yet the returns according to Pettingill & Co., are sworn to on affidavit.

We beg further to state that the Herald's bona fide circulation is far, far below those returns given to the Directory, and we know whereof we speak; but even such barefaced lying shall not tempt us to betray confidence and give particulars or state what we know when doing thankless favors for that office.

We challenge the Herald to make good its statement and affidavit or confess itself guilty of a gross deception. Even admitting for a moment that it was true, what a vast difference must there be between the circulations of the MERCURY and the Herald, as is proven by our own authentic post office returns. On the 11th April we published a return, which can be sworn to if necessary, that the postage paid by all the papers published in this County from the 1st of January, 1877, to 30th September, of the same year was $413.38. Of this sum the MERCURY paid for that period for postage $194.41, being within $24.56 of THE HALF OF THE ENTIRE POSTAGE PAID BY THE WHOLE OF THE NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF WELLINGTON—and there are ten of these including the Herald—besides the MERCURY. The postage is fixed by the weight of the papers taken to the post office, so that there is no chance of deception or erroneous returns. And we have no hesitation in saying that since that time—September 30th, 1877—the postage paid by the MERCURY has proportionately advanced, which is a sure test of the growing increase of its circulation. The Herald has a peculiar weakness for blowing its own trumpet, but this last stretcher throws Dr. Tupper's efforts completely in the shade.

EXPLOSION OF "HERALD" GAS.

The Herald, with its characteristic low cunning, dodges the question about its circulation. We want to nail it to the one point, on which we challenged it, and on which we are ready to stake $100, that the returns it gives of its circulation to S. M. Pettengill & Co., for their Directory, on affidavit, are untrue, and a gross fabrication. When it has disposed of this challenge, then we will deal with its buncombe wager. We were first in the field with our challenge, and we want to nail this lie to the counter.

LATEST FROM THE EAST.

DOINGS AT THE CONGRESS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 18. — Andrassy has urged the Porte to refuse to surrender Widdin and Rustchuk.

The Russians are shifting their headquarters.

The Porte has invited foreign capitalists to develop the internal resources of the Empire.

The Russians are concentrating at Boulair.

The fighting between the Turks and Montenegrins is unimportant.

BERLIN, June 18.—The Congress has arranged the following order of procedure. It is agreed that the Powers speak in the following order:—Russia, England, Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Turkey.

In Congress yesterday Schouvaloff briefly explained Russia's policy, which led to the treaty of San Stefano.

Bismarck has proposed the simultaneous withdrawal of the British Fleet and the Russian forces from Constantinople during the sitting of Congress. Discussion is postponed.

Salisbury spoke in favor of admission of Greece, and was supported by Waddington. The case was not decided.

The Congress has adjourned till Wednesday.

Base Ball.

A base ball match took place at Erin village on Saturday afternoon between the home team and Georgetown Club, which attracted unusual interest. The Erin boys were victorious, the score being 26 in favour of the home team, whilst the visitors scored 19.

The Canadian Exhibit at Paris.

(Special to the Globe.)

OTTAWA, June 17.

The following telegram, which must be highly gratifying to Canadian pride, was received to-day by the Premier from Sir John Rose, one of our representatives at the Paris Exhibition:—

LONDON, June 17, 1878.

Hon. A. Mackenzie, Ottawa, Canada:

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales desires me especially to cable his gratification with the Dominion trophy, and to state that it reflects great credit on Canada and all concerned in its construction and arrangements. He went to the top and inspected it minutely and with great interest.

(Signed) JOHN ROSE.

Daily Mercury.

TUESDAY EVE'G, JUNE 18, 1878.

Local News.

MR. GUTHRIE holds a meeting in the Town Hall, Rockwood, this evening.

THE late festival given for the benefit of the Mechanics' Institute realized $136.97 over and above all expenses.

THE Free Press and Standard, published in the village of Shelburne, have been amalgamated.

THE resignation of Mr. F. J. Chubb as Councillor for the East Ward has been accepted.

THE weather probabilities for to-day indicate clear to fair weather, with rain areas.

THE TECUMSEHS and the Maple Leafs are playing their match game this afternoon.

LACROSSE.—The Guelph Lacrosse Club will play a match with the Orangeville team, at Erin on Dominion Day.

LEAVE of absence for three weeks has been granted to Chief Constable Kelly. He intends to endeavor to get rid of rheumatism by using the Turkish baths.

CATTLE AT LARGE.—The Police Committee have recommended a more vigorous enforcement of the By-law prohibiting cattle, &c., running at large. It is to be hoped it will be acted on.

YET ANOTHER.—It is noticed that Murray supplies the Norfolk street Methodist Church social for Thursday night. He says that is the fruits of advertising in the DAILY MERCURY.

SEVERELY INJURED.—Mr. Murdoch Mackenzie, blacksmith, and Guelph's famed checker player, met with a severe accident on Monday morning, whilst shoeing a horse. The animal kicked him on the left thigh, and the result of which will probably lay him up for several weeks.

GREAT SALE OF HORSES.—A great sale of horses is being conducted this afternoon at the Exhibition grounds, and will be continued to-morrow and Thursday. Parties who have horses to dispose of will do well to enter them according to terms of the sale. Already there are some fifty-five entries. There are several foreign buyers present.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Cole, a farmer residing on the Waterloo Road, about two miles from Guelph, met with a serious accident on Saturday afternoon, as he was driving a team to town. The horses were hitched up in such a manner as to leave the tugs too long. The pole dropped out of the neck-yoke, and this frightening the animals, they ran away. When opposite the Silver Creek Brewery the pole caught fast in the ground and broke. The up-raising of the wagon threw Mr. Cole out, severely injuring him. The horses were stopped by one of them falling a short distance further on.

PUSLINCH FARMERS' CLUB.—The regular monthly meeting of this Club was held in the town hall, Aberfoyle, on Friday evening the 14th inst. Mr. W. Rae, President of the Club, occupied the chair. There was a good attendance, all of whom manifested a lively interest in the debate, which was opened by Mr. Duncan Gilchrist reading an essay on the importance of a judicious rotation of crops. An instructive discussion followed on this important subject, in which most of those present took part. The committee appointed to draft rules and regulations to govern the semi-annual seed Fair, presented their report, which was, on motion, adopted. The subject chosen for debate at next meeting is, whether is the soiling or the pasture system the most profitable to the farmer, Mr. David McFarlane to lead. The next meeting of the Club will be held on the 12th July, at the usual hour and place.

COMMENDABLE.—We learn there is a movement on foot for the purpose of bringing together all the municipal corporations of cities, counties, towns, and villages in the Province, and to proceed to Quebec sometime in July or August next to present addresses on behalf of the various municipalities to Lord Dufferin before taking his final departure from Canada. This grand idea has originated with our townsman, Mr. J. P. MacMillan, who has already communicated with the heads of corporations throughout the Province, in order to elicit their views touching the project, and he is daily in receipt of replies which from their tone are most favorable to the project. We have no doubt if persevered in, it can be made a grand success, and it would afford another proof of the estimation in which our Governor-General is held by the people of this Province. The matter is in proper hands. The success attending the Kincardine trip of two years ago, and the part Mr. MacMillan took in it is a guarantee that he is just the man to promote the contemplated movement. For our part he has our warmest sympathy, and we might add that a similar feeling will prevade the entire people of Ontario.

POLICE COURT.—The police force is still waging war against those who do not observe the By-law relating to cattle running at large. This morning Michael McGunnigal was charged with allowing two cows to run at large. Fined 50c for each cow and $1.75 costs. Isabella Carmichael was too drunk to navigate on Monday, and in consequence took a rest on the sidewalk. Fined $2 and $3.50 costs, or fifteen days. Sent up.

THE very successful stock sale on the farm of Mr. Geo. McCulloch, Paisley Block, on Friday last was conducted by Mr. Jas. Taylor, auctioneer. He thoroughly understands his business.

PARTIES requiring loans on land property will do well to call on F. Gauhan, who has been appointed agent in this section, for the "Bristol and West of England Canadian Land, Loan and Investment Co. Limited." Adv't in future issue.

AT the meeting of the Council on Monday evening a By-law was passed for the raising of $25,000 by debentures—$18,000 of which is for defraying public school indebtedness, and $7,000 for the erection of a new High School building.

DISCHARGED.—The young lad McShane, who was arrested a couple of days ago on a charge of stealing handkerchiefs from the residence of Mr. J. C. Chadwick was discharged by the Police Magistrate this morning. He was innocent of the charge.

PROGRESS LODGE I. O. O. F., paid a fraternal visit to Reliance Lodge last evening. A very pleasant and interesting time was spent. Brief addresses on matters pertaining to the order were delivered by several of the brethren.

CHEAP TRIPS.—On Tuesday of next week the G. W. R. will run an excursion train from Guelph and other stations to the Falls. The fare from Guelph will be $1. Next week the G. T. R. will run a cheap trip train to Montreal, from Sarnia and along the line. The fare will be $6.50 from Guelph.

NEW HAIR-DRESSING AND SHAVING SALOON.—Mr. Jso. Mimmack has, at the request of his numerous friends, again decided to resume his old business, this time in the New Wellington Hotel. He has engaged the services of an artist in the line, and has also on hand several new features in the business. Circulars will be issued shortly.

THE STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL in behalf of Chalmers' Church, which will be held in the drill shed to-night promises to be of an interesting and attractive character. The ladies who have the management of the affair have provided an abundant supply of the best Dominion strawberries, and combined with the attendance of some good and choice music there is every prospect of the drill shed being well patronized.

I. O. G. T. STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—A very enjoyable evening was spent in the Good Templars Hall on Monday night, by the members and their friends, over one hundred persons being present. The delicacies were served up in good style, and every one seemed highly pleased with the affair. An entertainment of a musical character also took place in connection with the festival, and all those who assisted in the programme acquitted themselves in a very creditable manner.

The Hanlan-Morris Race.

On Monday morning the special car for Pittsburg took away fifty-four passengers, and they represented about $60,000, one gentleman taking with him $16,000 wherewith to back his opinion of the Toronto champion. A private telegram received by one of Hanlan's backers state that the Toronto man is in first-class condition and confident of success. The Pittsburgh folks are not particularly anxious to bet much, but are lying back to see what odds they can get. On Monday the Toronto men arrived by special at midnight. Both Hanlan and Morris are said to be in excellent form, and taking their work regularly every day in the presence of numerous spectators. The latest betting is quoted at $100 to $60 on Hanlan, but though the Toronto crowd brought some three hundred thousand dollars with them, they express a determination to take it home again rather than give any such odds.—Globe.

THE suit which the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie brought against the publishers of the Sarnia Canadian for charging him with betraying a Cabinet secret for the benefit of his friends, and with locating the Lake Superior terminus of the Canada Pacific Railway for his own advantage, has been finally settled by Messrs. MacVicar & McAdams apologizing. They say in their apology to the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie:—"When we published these articles we believed from information that we had received that the statements were true. Subsequent enquiry has, however, satisfied us beyond any doubt that our information was inaccurate, and that the charges already referred to were untrue. We very much regret their publication, and hereby tender you this apology for the wrong done you." It is to be hoped that all those journals who gave currency to the original statements on the authority of the Canadian will be equally prompt in publishing its retraction.

DOMINION BOUNDARY ARBITRATION.—The Committee for the settlement of the boundary between Canada and Ontario, which recently, for the second time, lost one of it members by the death of Ex-Governor Wilmot, of New Brunswick, has been again rendered complete by the appointment of Chief Justice Allen, of New Brunswick, as arbitrator on the part of the Dominion.

THE STABLE OF MR. ROBERT BONNER, Proprietor New York Ledger, is built and kept on the most improved and modern plan, both as regards ventilation, light, warmth, &c. Mr. Bonner's taste for horses is well known. The gentleman in charge of this valuable stable was Mr. Ross. By the use of GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA, he removed ringbones and bunches that had resisted all other treatment. Send for circular, giving full instructions, to Dr. GILES, 451 6th avenue, New York. Sold by all druggists.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

SECOND SESSION OF THE CONGRESS AT BERLIN.

CONFIDENCE IN A PEACEFUL RESULT INCREASING.

LONDON, June 18.

A New York Herald's cablegram says the secrecy regarding the proceedings of the Berlin Congress does not apply to private conferences among the plenipotentiaries. Andrassy has finally arranged an Austrian programme. Beaconsfield expressed his entire approval, Waddington received it warmly, and Corti also expressed concurrence. This accord is on the question of Bessarabia, which the delegates unanimously agree should be ceded to Russia. A conflict on a very delicate question is thus avoided. It is certain that in order to secure the retrocession of Bessarabia Russia will yield a great deal, both in Armenia and in the Balkan peninsula. She will therefore be more likely to satisfy Austria and England with regard to Bulgaria, seeing that on their part no opposition will be given to Russia's wishes regarding the province she lost by the Crimean war. The Turkish plenipotentiaries are treated with cold, formal politeness. Mehemet Ali, who is a German renegade, and proselyte to Mohammedanism, is called by his real name, Karl Derolt, by the German papers, and is treated with great coldness everywhere. The Turkish Government thought it was making a great stroke of policy in sending him.

A Berlin despatch says:—The Congress met at two this afternoon. The sitting lasted until nearly nine. Gortschakoff was present. The statement that the programme of proceedings for each sitting of the Congress has already been definitely fixed is untrue. The question of the admission of Greece to the Congress was definitely brought forward to-day, but no decision was reached. The question has assumed more importance than at first expected. France, England, Austria, and perhaps Germany will support the admission of Greece. Russia and Italy may possibly oppose it, from apprehension that Greece, under British protection, might become a great Oriental Power and a formidable rival to the Slavs. The confidence in a peaceful result which will assure the legitimate influence in the East of the Powers principally interested is increasing. An understanding between Russia and Austria is considered certain.

Grangers' Excursion.

How the Visitors Enjoyed Themselves.

The Grangers from Elgin, Middlesex and Oxford—principally however from the former county—who arrived in Guelph on Monday about noon, notice of which appeared in yesterday's MERCURY, reached the Model Farm shortly after eleven o'clock. They were met and cordially welcomed by Mr. Principal Johnston and the officers of the institution. The ladies of the party were made comfortable in the reception room of the College, and resting for a short time after their long journey, they then, in company with students detailed for that purpose, visited the conservatories, gardens, &c. After viewing the beauties contained in these departments until satisfied, a number of them amused themselves by playing croquet on the lawn. The sterner sex of the party, under the guidance of the various officers of the College made a most thorough inspection of the buildings, stock-yards, stables, &c. On every hand the utmost order prevailed. Judging from the various remarks made by the visitors it was plain to be seen that not a few had been impressed with the idea that an institution specially adapted for the training of those who purpose following a profession which virtually governs this country—the farming—they had an idea, that the Ontario School of Agriculture fell below what it should be. This visit has disabused their minds.

After such on examination as only would be made when parties are determined to find out for themselves, dinner was announced. The spread was laid out in the refectory of the College building. The luncheon was just what would tempt the appetites of those who were not very hungry. It was complete in every respect. In this connection it will be appropos to mention that to Miss Dunn, the housekeeper, belongs the credit of the arrangements. From half-past twelve o'clock until two was the time for partaking of luncheon, and there was not one in the whole assemblage of nearly three hundred who were not willing to give an opinion complimentary to the excellence of the viands.

On the conclusion of the repast another tour of inspection for about an hour and a half took place. The farm itself, several traversing over many portions of it, the gardens, and the stock, were visited. The experimental plot, the five acres set apart for instructing students unacquainted with the rudiments of practical farming, and in fact all other departments excited much interest, and many questions were asked and answered in a manner highly satisfactory to the visitors. The horticultural department looked exceedingly well, and Mr. Barron, who has charge, found pleasure in giving explanations. The cheese factory, mechanical department, and in fact everything worthy of note was visited, and many of the visitors carried away with them new ideas, and a much higher opinion of the profession of farming than they ever had before. If there were any among the young visitors who had had an idea that farming was not an ennobling profession, their views most certainly must have changed.

Quite a number took advantage of the opportunity to ascend to the top of the College buildings to obtain a bird's-eye view of the farm and the town of Guelph, and were well rewarded for climbing three flights of stairs. To the east, west and south was stretched out in beautiful panoramic view the entire farm. Its captivating green fields, and relieved by fields of fallow; certain portions of the land—rough in appearance—being re-claimed by a system of drainage; together with clumps of trees, formed a scene pleasing to the eye and not soon forgotten. While to the north and north-west, Guelph, with its many spires, fine stone residences, nestling amid trees on the hill to the east of the town, and its fine places of business, all added a charm that any citizen has an honest right to feel a pride in.
