'That's easy to say, for people that are sitting on their sofus, and riding in their carriages—but let 'em be where I am, I guess it would come some harder. I wish I could be good; but my heart burns, and can't be reconciled any how. You couldn't in my place; you can't now, if I tell you all I've got to say. You don't know the whole yet."

"What can be coming now!"

"Well, lately Mas'r has been saying, that he was a fool to let me marry off the place; that he hates Mr. Shelby and all his tribe, because they are proud, and hold their hends up above thim, and that I've got proud notions from you; and he says he won't lot me come here any more, and that I shall take a wife and settle down on his place. "Why, but you were married to me by the minister, as much as if you'd been a white man," said Eliza, simply.

"Don't you know a slave can't be married! There is no law in this country for that: I can't hold you for my wife, if he chooses to part us. That's why I wish I'd never seen you—why I wish I'd never been bora; it would have been better for us both—it would have been better for be seen so wind!"

I tell you, Eliza, that a sword will pieree through your soul for every good and pleasant thing your child is or has—it will make him worth too much for you to keep."

The words smote heavily on Eliza's heart; the vision of the trader came before her eyes, and, as if some one had struck her a deadly blow, she turned pale and gasped for breath. She booked nervously out on the verandah, where the boy, thred of the grave conversation, had retired and where he was riding triumphantly up and down on Mr. Shelby a walking stick. She would have spoken to tell her husband her fears, but checked barself. I have a lind, mournfully, "bear up, now, and good by for I'm going, George!—going where!"

"Well, now, good bye," said George, holding a Eliza's hands, and gazing into her eyes, wittout moving. They stood silent: then there were last words, and sobs, and bitter weeping—such parting as those may make, whose hope to meet again is as the spider's web; and the hushand and wife were parted.

It is clear, however, that if the locality is to be at Kennington, where the government have recently made a large purchase of land with the surplus from the Exhibition, it will be too far west to be generally available or acceptable. Meanwhile, one of our societies has just resolved on sacrificing one-half of its income in a vain attempt to prove that the study of antiquities is a popular study. They will see their error by and by.

Not for many pears has a more worthy award of medals been made, than that of the Royal Society at their anniversary on St. Andrew's Day. One was to that estimable old man, Humboldt, to whom the whole circle of matural knowledge is so largely indebted. Though the veteran is in his eighty-fourtif year, it is a satisfaction to know, that the honor has not come too late. The second was to Professor Stokes of Cambridge, whose researches into the phenomena of light are among the most important of the day; the third to Mr. Joule of Manchester, for his not less important investigations of heat, and other branches of physical science therewith connected; and the fourth to Mr. Husley, a young and able naturalist, who was attached to the expedition that surveyed part of the Augible demonstration, the Society have chosen as foreign members of their angest corroration. tralian seas in the Rattlesnake. Besides this tangible demonstration, the Society have chosen as foreign members of their ancient corporation, Regnault and Brogniart of Paris, Lamont of Munich—of Scottish extraction—and B. Peirce of Cambridge, Massachusetts. The latter is a distinguished astronomer, and the first American who has figured on the foreign list of the Society, since Bowditch. He will not be the last, if the republican sacans continue their scientific labours with as much success as of late years. Apropos of America—Sir Charles Lyell has been engaged to deliver a course of twelve lectures, free, at the Lowell Institute, Boston; and to this fact may be added another equally lectures, free, at the Lowell Institute, Boston; and to this fact may be added another equally gratifying—the King of Prussia has given the cross of the Order of Merit to Colonel Rawlinson, one of our ablest explorers of Babylonian antiquities.

The question about Cleopatra's Needle may now be considered as settled, for the New Crystal Palace Company have got leave to fetch it from Egypt, and erect it in their grounds at Sydenham: and so may that of the clipper-ships, for the vessels built at Aberdeen came from Chima with a cargo of tea, and landed it, too, long before the Yankee Lightningstreak 'sighted' the Eddystone. British skill is not to be beaten so easily as some folk imagine. There is talk of a new line of ocean-steamers to start from Milford Haven: they will not want freight while the Swansea Copper-works endure. Some idea of the trade that already exists may be formed from the Report of the Peninsular and Oriental Company. They have forty-one steamers, comprising 52,000 tons, and 16,000 horse-power, and the sum of their voyages every year is fifty times round the globe! The Company employ, besides, 60,000 tons of sail-ships, and 3000 seamen, in carrying their coals; and they give occupation and subsistence to 100,000 persons and their families: and this,only one company among many.

PRANCE AND ITS EMPEROR NAPOLEON III The Empire has been proclaimed, and a mon-arch of France again mates with sovereigns of Europe—but how long will the companionship endure?

In France, where nothing is stable but insta-In France, where nothing is stable but instability—nothing certain but uncertainty—the proclamation of a new form of government is simply anannouncement that a change is "looming in the distance." The proclamation of Thursday merely ushers the advent of another revolution. We will give Frenchmen a couple of years for enjoyment of their present bauble, and shall be greatly disappointed, if we have not strained credulity by allowing them so long a term for endurance.

The new Empire has, however, been proclaimed. France, by nearly eight millions of votes,

The new Empire has, however, been proclaimed. France, by nearly eight millions of votes, has signified its acquiescence in the wish of an individual, and declared for an absolute ruler, whose patriotism, or ambition, or vanity, is thus gratified to the utmost extent of human aspiration. Napoleon III. has received the homage of his obedient satellites—the good folk of Paris have tossed up their caps amidst the booming of cannon and the cries of "Vive!" Empereur!" until they are deaf and hoarse with the excitement—but what will this do for France, that France might not have done without it!—without the disgrace of violated faith—of oaths trampled upon—and of recollections grievously disparaged by association!

As President of the French Republic, Louis Napoleon Bonaparte might have been the first max in Europe. As time had given weight to his authority, and the moral influence he might have exercised in his grand position had become perceptibly apparent, the most powerful of the sovereigns of the universe would have respected him, and he might have stood alone upon his pedestal for the admiration of future ages; but in condescending to step down from the moral influence he might have stood alone upon his pedestal for the admiration of future ages; but in condescending to step down from the moral influence he might have stood alone upon his pedestal for the admiration of future ages; but in condescending to step down from the moral influence he might have stood alone upon his pedestal for the admiration of future ages; but in condescending to step down from the moral influence he might have stood alone upon his pedestal for the admiration of future ages; but in condescending to step down from the moral influence he might have stood alone upon his pedestal for the admiration of future ages; but in condescending to step down from the moral influence he might have stood alone upon his pedestal for the admiration of future ages; but in condescending to step down from the moral influence he might have expected to the m peacessal for the admiration of future ages; but in condescending to step down from the moral dignity of the FIRST FREEMAN of the age to the petty level of a shadowy sovereignty, we can see nothing for him but mortification and annoyance. His every act will be compared with a possible parallel case in which his uncle might have been interested—his every word will be canyased for a meaning totally opposed to his intentions; and the throne to which he has des-cended will be to him a seat of interminable

44 So hard it is to climb ambition's ladder."

"So hard it is to elimb ambition's ladder."

As to the probable result of the act just consumnated in France, so far as the peace of Europe is concerned, we think there is little cause for apprehension. "The Empire," says its master, "is peace." Well, the world requires peace, and wee be to the power that shall first throw the lighted brand of war among nations! The foundations upon which the new government of France rests are so fragile—so entirely dependent upon caprice—so necessarily unsound, that from her hand, unless it be a suicidal act, we cannot look for interruption to the calm that pervades Europe. No; France will not wage war with others, however she may thirst for more bloodshed. While she has a progeny at home to feed upon, the vulture will not leave her nest for doubtful prey and certain disconfiture.

We repeat that we regret Louis Napoleon did not content himself with his high position as President of the Republic; as such, he might have gone down to posterity as Louis Napoleon run catar; as it is, future generations, associating his name with that of his glorious uncle, will look back to him as the man distinguished by the unavisable title of Napoleon run Latyra.

Taking this view of the affair, and considering that the designation by which the ruler of France is to be distinguished from the inglorious mob of sovereigns that surround its territory, is a matter that concerns Frenchmen alone, we really see no ground upon which any foreign power could rest a plea for interference. If it is the will of France to crase from the tablets that record her history, the recollection of every past pludge in favour of liberty—if she prefers to hug the chains of despotism merely be they are covered with the imperial purple scatters to the winds of heaven the vor idelity she has in her moments of enthu proclaimed—what is it to us, or to any of her neighbours! It is true, liberty may mourn, honour fall prostrate, and patriotism expire, but France—imperial France—lifts-up its diademed brow, and the blush of her shame is forgotten in the dazaling brilliancy of her imaginary future.

passengers were severely bruised. Ten or 12 persons were more or less injured—among DUTY AND GLORY.—A French paper in noticing the death of the Duke of Wellington, states that in the twelve enormous vo lumes filled with his unrivalled dispatches the word glory does not once occur. How strange must this statement sound to Gallic ears! That the hero of Waterloo should never, in recording so many victories, once name that word which seems to a Frenchman to sum up and crown the aspirations of every military man! The fact is strikingly was not glory but duty that possessed the mind of Wellington.

This last assertion casts some doubt on the truth of the common ly received opinion concerning the vanity of Elizabeth. All the flattery those men could offer her, never succeeded in misleading her judgment, or controlling her sense of the duties of her station.

NIAGARA FALLS AND LAKE ERIE.-Professor

NIAGARA FALLS AND LAKE ERIE.—Professor Silliman, the eminent geologist, discredits the opinion advanced by some, that the gradual wearing away of the rocks of Niagara Falls may possibly result in draining Lake Erie- In a recent lecture he remarked:

"They will not halt at their present station, but retreat slowly and surely about two miles forther, where they will stop again for unknowe period, and probably for ever, since at this place the hard limestone will form both base and top of the falls, and thus stop the rapid destruction of the tock. Some have thought that they would finally reach Lake Erie, and that then the lake would be completely drained; such an event is impossible. At the point already mentioned, the torrent will gradually wear away the surface of the limestone, forming a rapid, and henceforth Niagara will be one of the lost wonders of the world."

with the tollowing pertinent remarks and cogent reasonings of the British North American, in favour of the union proposed.

"The condition of the present British Colonies illustrates one part of the Roman Fable of the bundle of sticks,—that which relates to the ease with which they were broken or handled when separated. The condition of what were once British Colonies, the Usited States of America, illustrates the remaining part, the moral of the same fable,—the strength, united, of what, separated, was weak.

A man may be rich, but unless he can centralize his wealth, of what use do his riches avail him.

Prudence and wisdom consist in forethought as to how we may best avail curselves of the advantages we possess in time of danger and difficulty. The difficulties of the British Colonies, more particularly of the British North American Colonies, are sdrely now sufficient to induce a concentration of their forces to act unitedly in resisting them.

The times indicate such a movement.—Canada, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Jamaica, and the other British West Indies, are putting out feelers to try the tone of their sympathies, and interest; they appear to converge—to coalesce.

It is time they should. The overspreading, overpowering Republican influences want a halance of power, or rather something to balance their power:

tion of the British West Indies ceases, and a premium is thus held out if the possession of Slaves. Canada supplies Flour, Pork, Wheat, Lumber, and Copper. Nova Scotia, Fish, Coal and Iron. The West Indies, Sugar and Molasses. These are the chief necessaries of life. Why can they not by the free interchange of their productions, and thus by a more united front, present a better opposition to the now overpowering influences of the United States; and be better able to make a more respectable demand of the mother Country, a mother whose first love of her natural offspring in the West seems to have wonderfully diminished since her parturitions in Eastern climates, which have been wonderfully fruitful.

The United States seek to absorb us. Whether the United States seek to ansorb-us. Whether they can or will, or not, is the great American ques-tion of the day. They don't care so much to have possession of us as of our productions. Reciprocal trade might ward off this result and keep us inde-pendent of their Government influences."

We have read it all, with much satisit only as we may tank will prove most interesting to our readers. We have read it all, with much eatisfaction. It has evidently been written by a very sensible, observant, sober-minded, and truthful man. It contains not a single word which savours of romance or exaggeration. It is, in the main, a clear and simple statement of facts; and the few reflections with which it is interspersed, are well calculated to prevent any erroneous conceptions on the part of those who read the letter, concerning the state of things to which they refer. The whole is, indeed, well deserving the attention of all amongst our readers who are desirons of obtaining correct information concerning. UNION OF YER BRYENE NORTH AMERICAN.

COLORYSE,—With the Brillish North American, we are persuaded that, if the people of the British North American Provinces done to secure for the same solves a prosperity similar to that enjoyed by the people of the United States, they must took for it, and will find it, only in such a union of their interests as that which has been to largely productive of every arabitish and avantage and social benefit to the latter.

We are glad to find that each a union is now earsetly advocated by some of the most respectable and inflorestial journals in these colonier; and—as we can at think that the people of the complishment of it would bestoy upon them—we are strongly disposed to hope that, before long, their several legislatures, in compliance with public sentiment touching this object, will, with concurrent action, adopt preliminary measures for having their common views, concerning the window and necessity of sock a policy, laid, at the same time, before both the British Forliment.

Even now, were any of their legislatures, although it were only that of the least of them.—Prince Edward Island instelf—to take the initiative, with a view to such concurrent action, we have no doubt the other Chonics would at once gladly repond to the call, and give the project their hearty support; for surely all must perceive, that, long as a these Celonics contains and increasing population of the British North American Colonies would be discoonneased in a consumer, and are convinced that if Great British ir, so far as possible, as in tegral portions of the empire," and are convinced that if Great British ir to retain any suprement of the most respectation and the wisdom of treating them, as far as possible, as in tegral portions of the empire, and are convinced that if Great British is no testin and present to concerned to the concerned to the concerned to the contract of the contract of the contract of the contra

You appear resolved on leaving the Island. I hardly know what advice I should give in respect to this country;—many are disappointed with it; and others do well. I consider it a thuch preferable country to our part of America. In a business or trading way, it requires a long Colonial experience, for a person to work with even a probability of success. The generality of people who are now doing well, are those with began on nothing; or others, who have been made keen by adversity—perhaps by more than one failure in business. There are many sharp dealers to be encountered here. On this other hand, a person who means to live by the labour of his hands, can perhap get a living here as easily as anywhere; but to maintain his place and character, economy, industry, and strict sobriety, are more necessary here than any other place I know of. From my own little experience of the world, and every thing considered, I think if I had again to make a beginning, I would try some of the Western or Pacific States of America—perhaps California or Oregon. The business to be done on that coast, and about the Ishmus, shortly, must be enormous. Our neighbouring Colony of New Zealand will also. I think; econ he a thevine —perhaps California or Oregon. The business to be done on that coast, and about the lathmus, shortly, must be enormous. Our neighbouring Colony of New Zealand will also, I think, soon be a thriving part. Every one desires land—a home. Here there is little unoccupied worth having, without going into our hot northern parts, where the climate is not pleasant to those born nearer the Poles—(it is, however, all healthy as far as is yet occupied), and everything to be learned anew. I would not advise any one to try the gold digging; the work can only be compared to a lottery, in which there are many blanks; a person, to do permanently well, must be very circumspect, persevering, and steady; it has unsettled many here, and ruined some.

I will be glad to hear from you on receipt of this, if you do not come yourself; if you do, we will be happy to see you or yours, and give our best advice, and any assistance we can. Ma. G. T. Haskard;
Sir,—I have been applied to as Foreman of the late Grand Jury, by Daniel Brenan, Esq., to contradict the statement made in the presentment, of his having given a certificate for License in either of the cases of Marie Fair or James O'Reilly.

In explanation, I beg to state, that the parties themselves were in most cases our informants, as to the certificate were in most cases our informants, as to the certificate were in most cases our information, and in doing so, found that the certificates have not been regularly filed nor registered, either there or at the Celonial Secretary's Office. It is therefore very probable, that our information may have been incorrect in other cases, besides Mr. Brenan's.

By application at the Trassurer's and Secretary's Offices, since Mr. Brenan's application to me, I find that no certificate is on file for Maria Fair, since Feb. 5th, 1850, when George Dalrymple and John Morris, Esqual, granted the Certificate. Mrs. Fair does not occupy the same precises as prips that Certificate is was given. I also find that James O'Reilly's License was renewed on a certificate from Dennis Reddin, cation of which involves no betrayal of confidence, we have retained,—the aminbility of the natural feetings which they evince being such as can scarcely, we think, fail to produce in the minds of all who read them, exteem for, and, consequently, confidence in, the writer.

UNCLE TON'S CARDI; OR, LAFE ANONG THE LOWLY, BY HARRIET BERCHER SPOWE.—Of this work—of which the object, as stated by the authoress, in her preface to it, "is to awaken sympathy and feeling for the African race, as they exist in the United States of America; and to show their wrongs and sorrows, under a system so necessarily cruel and unjust, as to defeat and do away the good effects of all that can be attempted for them, by their best friends under it;"—the success has been unprecedented.

"The public," as the Rev. Mr. Shermen observes concerning it, "have done justice to its thrilling contents, by purchasing and perusing many thousands of copies; and, by the verdict of the people of England and America, it has taken its place as a standard work among the beauties of English literature."

It is indeed a work in perfect unison with the great master-chord of Christianity, "Goon Will, to Max;" and the authoress is doubtless one of those gifted writers, whose mission it is to prepare men's minds for the reception of the glorious light of that better day which is already dawning.

Although many copies of this work were imported, not long ago, there is not now, we believe, a single copy for sale in Charlottetown; and many individuals, wishing to purchase it, have been, and are still, much disappointed in not being able to procure it. In compliance, therefore, with the recommendations of several of our much respected friends, we have determined to publish the whole work, in the literary department of our paper, giving, at the least, one chapter at a time; and also to issue a cheap copy of it, in pamphlet form, as soon as the publication of it shall have been completed in the newspaper. e newspaper.

Sir,—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your Despatches No 31 of the 7th and separate of the 21st of June last, enclosing copies of a correspondence with certain Members of your late Council, relative to the retention by them of the honorary rank which they enjoyed during their tenure of office.

The delay which has occured in replying to these Despatches has arisen from unaveidable circumstances to which it is not necessary further to allude.

While I cannot but regret the unfortunate oversight in my office, to which the erroneous information communicated to Mr. Hawes on the 5th of April last is solely attributable, and the unpleasant consequences which have resulted therefrom, I regard with much satisfaction the temperate and dignified tone which characterizes your share of this correspondence, and the judicious manner in which you have conducted it.

After the fullest consideration which I have been able to bestow upon the subject, I am of opinion, that all retiring Members of the Executive Council should, as a general and fixed rule, retain the title which they enjoyed while in office. It may be that this extension of the privilege will, in some degree, lessen the value of the honor to be conferred; but on the other hand to limit the retention of the title to those Members only who have served either "for very considerable periods," or "with peculiar distinction"—qualifications of so indefinite a nature, also reader the selection a task at once difficult and invidious—is a course which I conceive to be open to grave objections. Such a rule must expose the Governor, with whom the selection rests, to frequentand unmerited charges of partiality, and must also tend to create felings of disappointment and isolousy, detrimental to the tranquillity and well-being of the community.

On the other hand, I consider it to be for the

On the other hand, I consider it to be for the
the interest of the Provine that every fair inducement should be heat out to men of ability the establishment of a general rule, whereby the political service of the Crown in the Colonies

I believe have the good effect of giving the head of the local Government a wider range for the selection of his advisors, by rendering men of standing and ability in the Colony, who would not otherwise be candidates for public employment, desirous of being selected for this mark of Her Majesty's approbation.
Unless, therefore, there exists any special grounds of objection, of which I am not aware,
I have to instruct you to inform the Members

OUR PRESS.

Some disappointment, we apprehend, may have been occasioned amongst our friends, by the lateness of our issue, both last week and the previous one; and, therefore, that they may not attribute the irregalarity to any other than the direct cause, we beg leave to call their kind attention and consideration to the subjoined facts, in which they will find a full, and, we hope, satisfactory, explanation of it.

We had made arrangements to have our Power Press shipped from New York by the 1st Nov. last, in the Schoner Minnie. Had this been done, we should have had it here by the lat December; and should, consequently, have had sufficient time to by have it, and every thing in necessary connection with it, in order for the publication of our first number in January. Owing, however, to a break-down in some of the machinery of the Messra. Hoe, the engineers of whom the Press was purchased, they were not able to ship it before the 3d December, and we did not receive it until the 1st January. Had we been able to retain our large Hand Press, this delay would have occasioned and inconvenience; but, having agreed to sell and deliver that Press, in the first week of January, we anot that to fall back upon; and had, therefore, to put our Fower Press into immediate operation, and, without any time for experimental trials, patiently to, contend against the difficulties, incident to the proper adjustment of the parts of so complicated a piece.

Gleason's Pictorial Drawing Room Companion,

PUBLISHED IN BOSTON, MASS.,

Will commence on the 1st of January, 1853, a new Volume—being Volume IV—of this elegant illuminated Journal. It will appear with new type, new heading, and splendidly isaproved in every department, besides which, the price is to be greatly reduced. The publisher is regolved to commence the new year with a circulation of one hundred thousand, and, therefore, offers the most liberal inducements to clube. Realizing the spirit of the age, the great improvement in art, and the constantly increasing intelligence of the people, the publisher, with this change of prices, will vastly improve his already splendidly illustrated journal. Especially will a great improvement be manifested in the engraving department, as well as in the literary character of the paper; so that the Pictorial shall appear in a style, not only to merit all the encomiums of praise so layishly bestowed upon it, but also as to challenge, increased respect for its enhanced excellence and perfection. In short, the whole paper will be far superior to anything ever yet offered to the public by the publisher. By referring to the following list, which forms a part only of the regular contributors to the Pictorial, its high literary character will at once be understood.

Improvement of HASZARD'S GAZETTE. TWICE A WEEK! IMPORTANT TO TOWN and COUNTRY SUBSCRIBERS

TOWN and COUNTRY SUBSCRIBERS

THE management of the Newspaper which, for the last 30 years, has been successfully conducted by J. D. Haszard, Esq., is now transferred to the Subscriber, who will assume all the responsibilities thereof after the publication of the present number.

The circulation of Haszard's Gazette is, at present, and has always been, greater than that of any other newspaper in this Colony; and—availing himself of some of the greatest recent improvements which have been made in the art and machinery of the Printer,—its new proprietor and publisher hopes he shall be ablestill to secure for it the first place in the public estimation.

To this end, he has, at a considerable outlay, purchased a Power Press; and, on his premises, made the alterations and additions which were requisite for its proper erection. About the beginning of February, he expects to have it in perfect working order; and—that being accomplished—he will, afterwards, issue *loszard's* Gazette TWICE a week, of the same size as that in which it is at present published, and, to Subscribers, at the same price. The advantages which, from this Liberal arrangement, will accrue to Subscribers and Advertisers, are so apparent, that they require no comment, and a due appreciation of it, by the public, will, it is hoped, appear in the increased patronage bestowed upon the Paper.

The Editorial Department will be entrusted to the management of a gentleman, whose ability and experience as a writer for the newspaper press, combined with the liberality and moderation of his political sentiments, are such as to afford a good guarantee for the future utility and popularity of the Paper.

WESLEY AND WELLINGTON.

WESLEY AND WELLINGTON.

It is very remarkable, that the family of Wesley has given to Great Britain two of the most eminentmen of modern times,—the Greatest Captain of the age and the greatest Apostle of Evangelical truth, perhaps, eince the Reformation.

The family of Wesley or Wellesley as it is now called, was very ancient in the County of Meath and had summons to Parliament among the Baronial houses of Ireland as early as the year 1389. The representative of the family at the commencement of the last century was Garret Wesley, Eq., of Dungan who married a daughter of Dudley Colly of Castle Carberry and was succeeded on his Estates by his only son Garret Wesley.—This person died childless and by his will, Dudley Cally of Casale Carberry and was succeeded on his Estates by his only son Garret Wesley.—This person died childless and by his will, dated 1727, gave all his estates to his cousin Richard Colly, his mother's nephew, on condition of his assuming the name of Wesley.—This Mr. Colly Wesley having obtained the property of Dungan, in addition to his own paternal Estate, became a large landed proprietor and being a young man of talents and energy, obtained a seat in the Irish Parliament, got into Government employment,—the great road to honours in Ireland at that time, and eventually was elevated to the Peerage by the title of Baron Mornington. He was the grandfather of the great Duke of Wellington. The Duke's Elder-brother, the late Lord Mornington about the year 1803, finding that in the ancient records of the family, the name was spelt Wellesley, and that Wesley was merely an abreviation, though it had been used by the family for nearly 200 years, assumed the name of Wellesley on his being elevated to the English Peerage as Marquis of Wellesley, and the Duke himself retained the name of Arthur Wesley, until some time after his arrival in India.

In the vear 1723, the old geatleman Garret

tained the name of Arthur Wesley, until some time after his arrival in India. In the year 1723, the old geatleman Garret Wesley, of Dungan above mentioned, being childless, wrote to his kinssman (probably a second cousin) in England, the Revd. Samuel Wesley, Rector of Epworth, father of the celebrated John Wesley, offering to adopt his youngest son Charles, and make him heir to his property, at this time young Charles Wesley was at Westminister School, and for several years the expenses of his education were defrayed by Mr. Garret Wesley, who eventually came over to England, and after who eventually eame over to England, and after much conversation and enquiry, asked him whether he would accompany him to Ireland. The youth decided on writing to his father before he would make up his mind,—the father left it to his own choice, and he preferred the prospects which the ministry afforded to the riches of this world; a own choice, says John Wesley in his account of his brother. The result of this choice was most remarkable, for Mr. Garrest Wesley returned to Ireland, and chose his mother's nephew young Richard Colly to succeed him, a gentleman whose worldly sagacity elevated him to the peerage, and laid the foundation of a family which now takes its place among the nobles of the land.

It will be seen that the Duke of Wellington elaims no blood connection with the Wesleys or Wellesleys, his ancestor was Mr. Colly, whose aunt, Elizabeth Colly married a Mr. Wesley. The Wesleys are an ancient noble family, the Collys were not, and the only patrician descent the great Duke had to boast of, was through his mother, who was a Miss Hill Trevour, daughter of Lord Dungannon, who claims alliance through junior branches, with some of the great English junior branches, with some of the great English Houses.

Solomen says, "He who gains a victory over himself is greater than he who taketh a city."

The family of Wellesley have as much to boast of in the Great, John Wesley as in their adopted son, the Hero of Waterloo and Sering-apatam. The latter through his great military talents achieved the peace of Europe and saved his country from a foreign foe.—the former by the Grace of God, was the instrument of achieving "that peace which passeth all understanding" in the hearts of millions of his fellow country men, and by heroic exertions in the cause of pure Gospel Truth has sent his name to posterity with imperishable fame in the history of the Christian Church. Which of those two men was the greatest? they have both gone to their account.

Several physicians have endorsed the efficacy of the application of fat bacon to those attacked with scarlet fever. Dr. Lindsay of Washington, says:—My plan has been to have the whole body rubbed with the inside rind of fat uncooked bacon, during the whole course of the disease, and to depend upon the tirecture of indires applied feest. during the whole course of the disease, and to de-pend upon the tincture of iodine, applied freely once, twice or three times in the twenty-four hours, to arrest the anginous affection. But one case (and that had left the city convalescent) ter-minated fatally, besides another one which I saw in consultation, in which this treatment was ap-plied. If there is virtue in this simple remedy it cannot be too generally known. It has this recommendation; it can do no harm.

We see it stated that a well has been sunk in Hocking Valley, Ohio, to the depth of six hundred feet, for the purpose of obtaining salt water. The object of the enterprising individuals has been fully accomplished, a supply of water having been reached, which requires but fifty-three gallons to make a bushel of salt of fifty pounds. The water rises spoutaneously to the surface, at the rate of 4.000 to 5.000 rallons per day. rises spoutaneously to the surfa 4,000 to 5,000 gallons per day.

ORIGIN OF WHEAT.—A most curious and able dissertation upon the origin of wheat completely justifies the views we have held; for, although it does not show, that oats change into tye, as many believe, and offers no support to some other speculations of the same kind, nevertheless it demonstrates, beyond all further question, that wheat is itself a teansmutation of a kind of wild grass. M. Espit Fabre, of Agde, well known to botanista as an acute observer and patient experimentalist, has made the discovery, which has been introduced to public notice by Professor Dunal of Montpolier.—

DISORDERED STOMACH, INDIGESTION AND DETERMINATION OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD. Copy of a Letter from Mr. John Lloyd, of Evausen, near Harleth, Mertonethshire.

To Professor Hollowar.

Sin,—I avail myself of the first opportunity of informing you, that, for a very long period, I was afflicted with a dangerous giddinese and frequent swimmings in the head, attended by loss of appetite, disordered stomach, and generally impaired health. Every means had failed to give me any permanent relief, and atlength it became so elarming, that I washreally afraid of going about without an attendant. In this melancholy condition, I waited personally upon Mr. Hughes, Chemist, Harlech, for the purpose of consulting, him as to what I had better do; the kindly recommended your Pila, I tried them without delay, and after taking them for a short time I am happy to bear, testimony to their wonderful efficacy. I am now restored to perfect health, and enabled to resume my usual daties. You are at liberty to publish, this letter in any way you may think proper.

I am, Sir, your obedient Servant,

Extract of a Letter from Edward Rouley, Esq., of India Walk, Tobago, dated April 8th, 1852.

To Professor Holloway.

Dear Sir—I deem it a duty I owe to you and the public at large to inform you of a most miraculous recovery from that dreadful disease, Dropsy, and which, under God, was effected by your invaluable Pills. I was tapped five times within eight months, and skilfully treated by two medical practitioners, but could not get cured, until I had recourse to your remedy, and notwithstanding all I had undergone, this miraculous medicine cured me in the course of six weeks. HEAD-ACHES.

Extract of a Letter from S. Gowen, Chemist, of Clifton, Near Bristol, dated July 14th, 1852.
TO Professor Holloway,
DEAR SIR—I am requested by a Lady named Thomas, just arrived from the West Indies, to acquaint yea, that, for a period of eight years herself and family suffered from continual bad health, arising from disorders of the Liver and Stomach, Indigestion, loss of Appetite, violent Head-sches, pains in the side weakness and general debility, for which she consulted the most eminent men in the colony, but without any beneficial result; at last, she had recourse to your invaluable Pills, which is a very short time effected so great a change for the better, that she continued them, and the whole family were restored to health and strength. Further she desires me to say, that she has witnessed their extraordinary virtues in those complaints incidental to children, particularly in cases of Measles and Scarlatina, having effected positive, cures of these diseases with no other remedy.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Bostock, Druggist, of Ashton under Lyne, dated July 31, 1852.

To Professor Hollowat, Dean Sir—I have much pleasure in handing to you a testimonial of the efficacy of your Medicines. A person in this neighbourhood, with whom I am well acquainted, was affected for a long time with violent spasmodic pains in the stomach and liver, arising from frequent colds, smells of paint, and the effects of a stooping position, which he was obliged to assume in his business. The spasms were of an alarming character, and frequently left himáf a weak and debilitated condition. At length he heard of the salutary effects of your invaluable Fills, and was induced to give them a trial. The first dose gave him considerable relief, and by following them up in accordance with your directions, they have acted so wonderfully in cleansing the liver and stomach, and strengthening the digestive organs, that he has been restored to the enjoyment of good health.

I remain, dust Sir, yours faithfully,
(Signed) WILLIAM BOSTOCK.
