Wonderful Guarantee!

Of Over a Million Bottles of Carnol Sold, Only Four Have Been Returned

If you will read the second to last paragraph of the circular which accompanies every bottle of Carnol, you will notice the following guarantee: "If, after taking your first bottle of Carnol, according to directions, you find that it has not helped you, that its action is not already recognizable, and you can say so sincerely, take back the empty (or partly empty) bottle, and get your money back. Remember we refund the purchase price—he loses nothing."

Do you think the manufacturers would make this guarantee if they did not know that Carnol possessed properties of unusual merit?

But, would it be fair to say that Carnol does not possess merit when, out of a million bottles sold, only four were returned?

If the other bottles sold had not proved beneficial, they also would have been returned.

These four bottles were returned and the money refunded without question, the only explanation being that Carnol had not given relief.

As disease is of slow growth it naturally takes time for any medicine to eradicate it.

To get the full benefit of Carnol it is clearly stated in the circular that you should take a "Course of Carnol," although many people have been greatly benefited after taking one or two bottles.

Perhaps the reason why these people didn't benefit by taking Carnol was because they did not take enough of it—besides it is not claimed for Carnol that it will do the impossible.

Carnol is sold by all good druggists everywhere.

The Countess of Landon.

CHAPTER XXVII.

He wiped his hand across his mouth. Then his tone changed.

"Here, get me some money, sharp, d'ye hear? As much as you've got—the more the better. Come, gather those scattered brains of yours, my dear. I'm going to manage this business from this time forward. A poke, miserable hovel! D'ye hear? Some coin, quick! Don't shake your head. I know you of old. You've got a stocking somewhere, I'll be bound. You always had. Careful, Martha, eh?" and he grinned at her savagely.

She put her hand to her head as if half stunned, as indeed she was, then left the room.

Jake limped up and down impatiently, knocking the furniture about, and in a few minutes she came in again with a small box in her hand.

He snatched it from her, knocked off the lid against the table, and poured out the contents.

"Is this all?" he grunted. "Never mind; there's more, plenty more, heaps more where it came from; isn't there, my dear?" he added, as he flung the empty box in the fire. "Now, then, I'm going into the town. You needn't sit up unless you like; but make up the fire, for I shall take a snooze in the chair. Bring the lamp here and lock the door, and if any one calls, say I'm 'at the club.' By George! and it won't be long, too, before I belong to some of the swellest clubs in London, eh, Martha? Cheer up, old pale-face! Lord! you look as if you'd lost a fortune, instead of coming into one."

With a chuckle he went out, slamming the door behind him defiantly, triumphantly.

Martha Hooper sunk into a chair and almost fell across the table, her head upon her arms, low moans of fear and despair breaking from her at intervals.

Suddenly, as if nerved by the greatness of her despair, she rose, took down her bonnet and shawl from their hook on the wall, and treading on tiptoe, opened the front door and slipped out.

She had not reached the gate when a hand gripped her arm, and Jake's voice said:

"What! you would, would you?"

"Let me go!"

"Let you go!" he snarled. "Where to?"

"I want air!" she panted.

"Go on with you!" he retorted, with fierce derision. "Do you think I don't know where you were off to? You were sneaking off to the Towers—to her—to give her warning. Look here, my dear"—his grip tightened and he forced her backward to the house—"you go in and stop in; and if I catch you trying this game on again, I'll—"

he hissed into her ear—"I'll kill you! I'll wring your neck as if I would a jack-daw! What! You'll spoil my game, will you? Try it—only try it! I'm with you!"

Uncle Jake, having forced Martha into the passage, where she stumbled and fell, locked the door after him and left her.

As she sat, a couple of hours later, crouching beside the fire, she heard him come in, and, turning her head, stared at him in a dazed fashion. She scarcely knew him.

He had exchanged the fustian suit for a second-hand one, consisting of a black velvet coat and waistcoat and a pair of fashionable trousers. In place of the rough gypsy cap he had a curiously brimmed felt hat. His heavy boots had been discarded for a pair of Oxford shoes, and he carried a Malacca cane, and wore a crimson scarf. But the most marked alteration was in his face. A clean shave and a crop will do wonders at all times, and they had worked a striking transformation in Uncle Jake. It was not so difficult, to imagine him to have been, in his youth, a good-looking man of the florid, theatrical kind. Indeed, as he stood in the middle of the room holding himself as upright as he could—for he had paid a visit to the public-house as well as the barber's and ready-made clothier's—there was a distinct flavor of the strolling player about him.

"How's that for high?" he demanded, and in a tone that was somehow different to that of a couple of hours previous. "Have a look at me, old woman. It's the Gentleman Stroller come to life again, eh? Ah! it will only show you what tip-top clothes will do for a man. And I mean to wear tip-top ones for the rest of my days, my dear—and so shall you. I've bought you a silk dress if the money had held out; but it didn't, worse luck!"

He drew a bottle of gin from his pocket, and with elegant dexterity drew the cork with his teeth.

"Have a drop, Martha; it will do you good. No? All the more for me, then. And now for business."

"First—I mean first," he corrected himself, with a hicough. "I must look after my grammar now. In these tops, eh, Martha? Nothing shows the gentleman more plainly than his—his speech. Sure you won't have some more gin? Better. It isn't bad for a country pub. Well, just as you like. There's none too much of it. First of all, who's living at the Towers? You see, I know the name and the place. Mr. Jackson Hooper keeps his eyes and ears open, I can tell you. There's the countess, I suppose?"

She made a sign of assent.

"The countess! Lord! and it only seems the other day when—But never mind that. Life's a game of see-saw for most of us. And she's as proud and hotly-totly as ever, I suppose?"

Martha moaned.

"Ah! I'll fetch her pride down a peg or two, you'll see. Not that I mean to be anything but gentlemanly. No; once a gentleman, always a gentleman. That's my motto. If she acts fair by me, I'll act fair by her. Don't you be afraid, my dear. You'll see how I'll work it,—and—hic—your'll be proud of me. And who else is there? Who's that fair-skinned, delicate-looking girl I've seen?"

He kicked the chair with fierce playfulness.

"Miss Trevelyan," she murmured, "her—her ladyship's ward."

"O-h, one of your 'out-and-out nobbs, she is!" he commented. "I could tell that at a glance. Got the rhino—the money, I suppose?"

"She is rich," she answered in the same reluctant, weary way.

"In-deed! And what's her ladyship's game with her, now?"

He thought a moment. "Going to marry her to one of her sons, eh? Let's see! The young 'un's married already. Pretty girl that, old woman!" and he looked at her keenly; "but not a nobb like the other, eh? Never mind. So there's only the other, the earl—the Earl of Landon." He leaned back and laughed noiselessly. "Oh, Lord! it's like a play, ain't it? And to think that I've got her under my thumb—that I can bring her down on her marrow-bones with a word—with half a word!" He poured out some more gin and drank it, chuckling. "And the young lady with the golden hair is to marry the young earl, eh? Well, they'll make a handsome couple. Don't you think so, my dear?" and he leaned forward and laughed in her face.

"She shrank back, shivering."

"Well," he said, with tipsy gravity, "that's no business of mine, I ain't going to spoil sport—hic—if I'm treated fairly. But I must be so treated, my dear. None of her hotly-totly tricks with me. Treat me fair, and I'm a gentleman to the core; but try and play it low down on me, and it's war to the knife. Now, look here—Are you asleep?"

She raised her heavy head.

"I mean to play this game out of my own—hic—hand. All you've got to do is keep your mouth shut—hold your tongue. See? You can do that, easy enough. If any one wants to know who I am, say—hic—that I'm a long-lost brother come back. You might say so, for I'm hanged if you don't look old enough to be my mother. I'm going to keep you company, my dear. You find it—hic—lonely in this out-of-the-way spot, don't you? Very well, then I'm your dear brother as you thought lost forever. You play that part, and that's all you've got to do. The rest is for me. And now you'd best go to bed, my dear, or you'll lose those roses in your cheeks." He laughed—a cruel, heartless laugh—and nearly fell off the table.

She got up and went slowly, wearily from the room, and Jake tumbled into her chair.

Half an hour afterward she stole into the room, and fearfully and on tip-toe went to the door.

It was locked. She went up to him where he lay back in the chair in a

And I mean to wear tip-top ones for the rest of my days, my dear—and so shall you. I've bought you a silk dress if the money had held out; but it didn't, worse luck!"

He drew a bottle of gin from his pocket, and with elegant dexterity drew the cork with his teeth.

"Have a drop, Martha; it will do you good. No? All the more for me, then. And now for business."

"First—I mean first," he corrected himself, with a hicough. "I must look after my grammar now. In these tops, eh, Martha? Nothing shows the gentleman more plainly than his—his speech. Sure you won't have some more gin? Better. It isn't bad for a country pub. Well, just as you like. There's none too much of it. First of all, who's living at the Towers? You see, I know the name and the place. Mr. Jackson Hooper keeps his eyes and ears open, I can tell you. There's the countess, I suppose?"

She made a sign of assent.

"The countess! Lord! and it only seems the other day when—But never mind that. Life's a game of see-saw for most of us. And she's as proud and hotly-totly as ever, I suppose?"

Martha moaned.

"Ah! I'll fetch her pride down a peg or two, you'll see. Not that I mean to be anything but gentlemanly. No; once a gentleman, always a gentleman. That's my motto. If she acts fair by me, I'll act fair by her. Don't you be afraid, my dear. You'll see how I'll work it,—and—hic—your'll be proud of me. And who else is there? FARMERS FAVOURITE FERTILIZERS

Approved of by the Canadian Government Department and guaranteed free from pulverized sand or other adulterant. You can rely on their good quality.

The farmers who make money are those who use Fertilizers. They get larger and better crops.

Fertilizers will put into your ground the nutriment which your crops took out last year.

Just as you need food to do your year's work, so does your ground need food to produce good crops.

Putting Fertilizer into your ground is like putting money into the Savings Bank, you get back greater value in the Fall.

Try Farmers' Tested Fertilizers this Spring, remember, 10 additional barrels of potatoes or other vegetables will repay the cost of 5 or more bags of Fertilizer.

Farmers' Fertilizers have been favorites for years in Newfoundland, they'll make your garden grow.

Put Fertilizers on your ground now and let the Spring rains carry their goodness into the soil.

After your crops begin to show over the ground, put some Fertilizer on top of the ground near each plant and watch them grow.

Don't pay too much attention to "Analysis," you can be deceived. Remember we guarantee our Fertilizers.

THE ROYAL YOUNG PEOPLE REVOLT.

If you were offered the chance to give up the existence you now lead and suddenly become the king of a great nation would you accept it?

It would have its advantages, of course, that job, but it would have its disadvantages too. I think if one could get the Prince of Wales to speak frankly in one's ear on the subject it would make tremendously interesting reading.

But, at least, being king wouldn't be in some ways quite such a hampered existence as it used to be.

High As Well As Low.

We are constantly reading and hearing of the way the young people of to-day rebel against authority and against the restraints of convention. Have you noticed that the young people of royal circles are no exception to this general rule?

Of course a notable example is the Prince of Wales himself. He apparently is determined to prove that a man can be happy though king, if he asserts himself hard enough; and he has done a good deal to make life bearable for royalty.

And then there's the Crown Prince of Japan who recently insisted on contracting the first love match ever known in the royal circles of Japan.

A Prince Pleases Himself.

There is no country in the world where marriage is more a matter of family expediency than in Japan. Even among the ordinary people a man does not marry merely to please himself. As for the royal family, it is an absolute matter of course that its members shall marry the people who are chosen for them on grounds of family and political expediency. And yet when the Crown Prince of Japan fell in love with the Princess Nagako, nothing in the world could stop him from marrying her. Evidently the determination to live their own lives so strong among our western young people has infected even the east.

When Sultan Hussein of Egypt died

course it has its selfish side as have all the manifestations of the individualist. But it has its appealing human side. Its suggestion of a better idea of true values.

"Happy as a King" is a phase of which some recent royal experiences have made a mockery. (If it ever meant anything). And that fact the royal young people seem to be not only discovering but proclaiming to the world instead of keeping it as a family skeleton, as better behaved kings used to be willing to do.

The long printed scarf or handkerchief is worn knotted, like a man's cravat, and puffed out beneath the chin. For the tailored suit nothing is more chic.

A Message to Women

When you look for face powder you generally seek the best money can buy, for most ladies realize that in face powder the best is the most economical in the end. Therefore we suggest that you try Three Flowers face powder next time. Nearly all its numerous users say it is the most pleasing powder. It possesses a charming fragrant odor—it is soft and soothing to the skin, and it adheres to the face without being noticeable. Most drug and department stores have Three Flowers.

Double Wedding at Badger Brook

An event, unique in the annals of outport life, took place at Badger on the afternoon of Wednesday, April 30th, when Miss Vera Marion Cunningham, daughter of Magistrate and Mrs. Cunningham of Springdale, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Alcock of St. John's; and her sister, Miss Helen Chamberlain Cunningham, to Mr. Jesse J. Davis, of Peoria, Ill. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. E. Loder, Rector of Grand Falls, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The brides were given away by their father and were attended by their sister, Mrs. Andrew Porter, as matron of honor, while Mr. Porter acted as best man.

The brides were attired alike and looked very pretty in dresses of ivory satin and georgette, with bunches of orange blossoms at the side. Their bouquets were of carnations and maiden hair fern. The weather was most propitious for the happy event and the sun shone with unusual splendor as the wedding party motored to the church. The hymn, "Point of All Life" was sung at the opening of the ceremony and at the close the wedding march was played.

Following the ceremony the wedding party, amid showers of rice and confetti, motored to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Porter, where a reception was held. When the toast of the brides, proposed by the officiating clergyman, had been duly honored congratulatory speeches were made by several of the guests.

The presents received were many and included cheques and purses of gold, testifying to the popularity of the young ladies. Mr. and Mrs. Davis will take up residence at Peoria, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Alcock, after a sojourn in the United States, will return to their future home at Badger.

The writer joins in the felicitations extended and wishes the participants in the joyous event many years of wedded happiness.—Com.

Wolf Cubs will be seen in a most attractive little programme, after which they will display and offer for sale some of their work, consisting of hand painted blotters, bags, etc., also very pretty electric light shades together with other artistic attractions. The Cubmaster, Miss Steed (there are no Cubmistresses) and her packs of Wolf Cubs merit the hearty support of the public, and although there are other entertainments on that night (with which the Wolf Cubs unavoidably clash), there are none just so attractive. The Wolf Cubs are a happy band of little men preparing themselves for good citizenship. We hope that some of our Rogarian friends and prominent citizens will be able to be present. It is impossible for the Wolf Cubs to advertise widely, as the money at their disposal is simply what they earn. The movement is very much indebted to the daily Press, who are always most willing to give publicity to boy welfare work. Tickets for the entertainment can be obtained at the door. All Scouts who read this should make a special effort to attend and see the work of their little brothers. G.

Household Notes.

Chopped mushrooms mixed with soup stock and breadcrumbs make a good stuffing for roast pigeon. A very wholesome dessert for the children is rice boiled in milk and served with cinnamon and sugar. Boiled sliced carrots, buttered and rolled in finely minced parsley make a nice garnish for lamb steaks. If you are planning to make doughnuts for a church supper, allow about a pound of flour to every thirty.

Mushers in Arctic Must be Vigilant to Come Out Alive

NENANA, Alaska, April 24 (A.P.)—The "musher" in the Arctic Circle, where winter prevails about eight months out of the year, must never relax his vigilance if he would survive the perils peculiar to the region. To the explorer, prospector, scientist, trapper or hauler of mail and supplies who must go north of the Yukon river basin, one of the greatest winter hazards is the lack of timber for firewood. In some localities the only timber is aspen, commonly called poplar, scrub spruce and stunted brush. When a man faces 50 degrees below zero in sleeping bag and canvas tent, he requires a big log fire and abundant fuel to keep it going. When the Arctic blizzard sweeps down, man and beast are compelled to seek shelter.

In the bitterest cold few lungs can withstand the "scorching" atmosphere that appears to sear them like a flame while the blood is turning to ice. "Frozen" lungs are not uncommon, but there are certain precautions that minimize the danger.

The equipment includes three pairs of heavy woolen socks on each foot; underwear and short of wool, but of medium weight; mittens augmented by buckskin slippers and a duff parka, its hood faced with wolverine fur, which does not gather frost and freeze where the breath strikes it. The muskrat or beaver cap has flaps to pull down over the ears and under the chin. The shoes frequently are moose hock mukluks.

At no time must any portion of the flesh save the eyes be exposed to the frost, and even the eyes must be protected when facing a blizzard. Travelers usually augment this "light" equipment with a complete suit of reindeer furs.

Submission to the cold of the Arctic has a different effect than must be imagined. Instead of a shivering and a gradual agonizing process of freezing, the frost overcomes one suddenly and almost painlessly. There is a numbness in the more exposed portions, like the feet, legs and hands. Later the jaw becomes stiff, nearly immobile. A minute's exposure of a partly cold hand to low temperature causes the fingers to become stiff and without feeling. It is as if they had gone to sleep. The man in danger of death from freezing is overtaken by a rather pleasant lethargy.

A danger is found in becoming overheated and then tarrying to cool off. Even when the temperature is 50 below, one's body perspires if all orifices of the clothing are closed. If there are any holes in the equipment, the cold penetrates like the flame from a blowpipe, boring in rather than spreading. One may have a spot the size of a dime frozen on a finger where there is a hole in glove or mitten, and the rest of the hand then becomes numb. In stopping for rest, and on arising one wonders why the limbs refuse to function with their wonted suppleness. After several such halts, further progress becomes a struggle, and unless a fire is available immediately the chances of freezing are great.

Frozen hands or toes are treated in the time-honored way of rubbing them with snow until the circulation is restored.

Horses used to carry outfits into the interior of Alaska are protected from lung-freezing by a covering like a nose-bag, through which the air is filtered of its biting frost before it is breathed. Nature further guards these horses by causing the hair on them to grow until by spring they resemble fur-bearing animals.

Quakes and Heavy Rains Bring Collapse of Lisbon Houses

Lisbon April 25 (A.P.)—Lisbon threatens soon to become a city of ruins, unless something can be done to save its collapsing dwellings. For a variety of reasons, including poor foundations, the use of a soft clay, a series of slight earthquakes, and a number of falling chimneys, houses seem to be falling to pieces, with consequent injury to the inhabitants. Hundreds of families have been obliged to leave their unstable homes, and some 50 tenements have been declared dangerous. The dwellers have been moved into convents and barracks. The first house went down about two weeks ago, during a heavy rainstorm.

Queen Charlotte Islands

ATTRACTION FOR SETTLERS
VANCOUVER, B.C.—(Can. Press)—It is thought probable that one of the first places to which settlers coming from the Hebrides will be sent will be Graham Island, the largest of the Queen Charlotte group. Although there are many suitable islands all along the coast where the fisher folk of the Hebrides would find it comparatively easy for them to make their new homes, it is doubtful if any spot on the North Pacific Coast has greater attraction to offer. Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, under whose direction settlers are placed in this province, is well acquainted with conditions on the Queen Charlotte Islands.

During the past few years various attempts to settle Graham Island have been made by private colonizers with little success. Pre-emptors have also done considerable development at various places, particularly the south and north ends of the island.

Most of those who settled on the island and then gave up were western families, and during the years when it looked as if several large and important communities would be built up, there was very little work of the sort that would supply cash to the settlers in the early stages of clearing their lands in preparation for cultivation. Just about the time things looked best for the island, war came on, and nearly all single men left for the front; the remainder were attracted to industrial centres.

Production of airplane spruce, with which the islands abound, kept a considerable population there during the war, but the men engaged in that work were for the most kind not of the settler kind. So there came another period of lean years until at present, except for some lumbering, there is little doing.

The soil is extremely fertile when once the land is cleared of the heavy brush, which grows to almost tropical density. The climate is equable; the rainfall less than anywhere on the British Columbia Coast, except possibly Victoria. A little snow falls sometimes in the winter. Like Ireland, Graham Island has no snakes. The only animals there are black bears, deer and wild cattle. The blue-jays are the only pests. They steal anything that can be carried away. Wild geese and ducks sometimes make the sky black as they come down from the north and use Graham Island as a resting place.

The waters surrounding the island is team with halibut, salmon and other fish. One of the largest whaling stations on the coast is on Graham Island, for the sea to the north is a favorable haunt for the mammals.

500 Miles Divide Day's Meals for Army Aviator

SANTA MONICA, Cal.—(A.P.)—Breakfast in Los Angeles, luncheon in San Francisco, nearly 500 miles away; afternoon tea in San Diego, a jump of another 600 miles, and dinner back at home in Los Angeles, such is the outline of a day in the life of Lieutenant Corlies C. Moseley, commandant of Clover Field, the army air base at Santa Monica.

Lieutenant Moseley has arranged his daily meals thus not once, but several times. Pivoting a biplane, he leaves Clover Field early in the morning and wings his way to the Presidio of San Francisco by 10 o'clock, as a rule, snatches a bite to eat, confers with army officers and is off for San Diego, arriving there usually about 4 p.m. Long before summer dusk he drops down again at Clover Field, steps into his waiting automobile and rolls 12 miles to Los Angeles, home and dinner.

On a recent Sunday Lieutenant Moseley flew up to San Francisco, across to Yosemite National Park in the Sierra Nevada mountains, hovered over the mighty falls and returned to Clover Field, a non-stop flight of more than 1,000 miles.

Queensland a Cotton Land Her Premier Tells England

Manchester, England, April 24 (A.P.)—Queensland's premier, E. C. Theodore, told a meeting of business men here that Queensland had millions of acres of land suitable for cotton production, and that Australia is free from those terrible pests which have made such vast inroads into the prosperity of cotton growing in other countries.

In 1919 there were 72 acres under cotton cultivation in Queensland which yielded 27,000 pounds of seed cotton. This year the acreage was 180,000 and the yield 50,000,000 pounds. In 1922 there were 1,000 growers and in 1924 there were 3,300. Cotton growing, the premier said, was and would become a white man's industry, each man cultivating his 20, 30 or 40 acres.

GERMAN ELECTION RETURNS AS- SURE SUPPORT OF DAWES' REPORT.

BERLIN, May 5.
Parliamentary coalition comprising socialists, clerical, democratic, and the people's parties which will command a sufficient majority to put the provisions of the Dawes' report into execution has been assured by the general elections held throughout Germany to-day. This is the conclusion reached late to-night at Government headquarters after a competent appraisal of the returns already received. While the nationalists and communists show decisive gains it is not considered their increases will constitute a menace to the policies to which the four coalition parties are pledged. The Ultra-reactionaries led by General Luden-dorff failed to develop expected strength. The count of ballots is proceeding extremely slowly owing to the lateness of incoming returns, and complications arising through the presence of twenty-three party tickets on the official ballot. Only 150 out of the 2000 precincts in greater Berlin had reported at midnight.

he added "as long as we have such conditions, don't be peaceful, even for the sake of the labor government.
Politics is not a game now but a very definite and bitter class war which cannot be fought with kid glove methods."

SPANISH TROOPS DISPOSE OF MOORS ASSAILANTS.

MADRID, May 5.
An official statement issued yesterday, dealing with the military operations in Morocco, shows that the Moors are still attacking the Spanish convoys in Morocco. The statement says that the troops which left Quedant to fight the enemy were suddenly attacked near Sidi Messaud by tribesmen. A combined attack by Spanish troops and reinforcements was launched and the enemy was routed with heavy casualties, leaving 31 dead and many wounded on the field. Among the dead were three tribal chieftains.
The Spanish force lost two men and fourteen wounded.

HUDSON MOTOR.
Big Production—Why Profits Decline.
(Boston News Bureau, April 26th.)
The Hudson Motor Car Co. report for the quarter ended Feb. 29 last is illustrative of the general play of forces in the motor industry as a whole, viz., rapidly expanding production and declining margin of profit. Output in that period was over 30,000 cars, against 18,773 cars a year ago, a gain of 70% while net profits were $1,301,363, against $1,689,268, a decline of 23%. Profit per car dropped from $89 to $43.
Of course it is to be borne in mind that the introduction of the new Essex model involved some extraordinary costs, which practically wiped out December net. At the same time the relatively larger proportion of total output represented by Essex production this year would greatly pull down the per car profit.

Woman Sourdough Goes Back Home

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 21—(Canadian Press)—Miss Kate Ryan, who looks thirty and confesses to over fifty, a real charter member of the band of adventurers who made this Klondyke famous, is now in Vancouver en route to the north, after her first visit to the east in eighteen years.
In the early days of the Far North boom, when the lure of gold attracted men from the far corners of the earth, it was Miss Ryan who was the big sister to them all. She nursed them when they were sick, lectured them when necessary; darned their socks and sewed their buttons on.
The Far North is the only place to live, she believes, and she is going back to spend the remainder of her days.
Miss Ryan has the distinction of being the only woman who was ever attached to the old Northwest Mounted Police. During the boom when travel was heavy across the Alaska-Yukon border, she was stationed at Whitehorse, Y.T., in charge of the women who were constantly passing back and forth, and a part of her duties was to search them for smuggled gold-dust.
She now makes her home at Stewart, B.C., the thriving mining camp at the head of Portland Canal, where she owns mining property. Her first business venture was a junk store in a tent. By dint of thrift and hard work she now owns a modern building and other property. In addition to looking after her business affairs, she finds time to act as nurse in emergencies, and when Stewart was without a medical man her skill in case of accident or sickness was a godsend to the camp.

Export Metal Available at 13.40 Cents Alongside Ship.

Boston—The sales movement in copper represents a moderate turnover, but to effect current business concessions of a few points are necessary.
The decline of a few shillings per ton in London quotations Thursday was reflected in keeping the domestic position easy. Slightly-easier prices are quoted for export on the basis of 13.35 cents to 13.40 cents alongside ship New York. Domestic buyers have been able to secure a moderate tonnage at 13 1/2 cents delivered.
Immediate requirements are pretty well covered for next few weeks. The position of the market is regarded as very healthy from statistical point, but while prices reflect an easier tone, potential buyers purchase cautiously.
More animation is expected after May comes in when actual shipments for April are known. Consumers are bidding below the market, but trade opinion takes the view that current levels cannot stand very much prolonging.

Panama Canal Dredge Deepens Channel of Golden Gate.

SAN FRANCISCO—(A.P.)—Night and day, calm or storm, the giant United States dredge Culebra carries on its task of deepening the channel outside the Golden Gate to make a pathway a ship of any size may enter or leave at any time.
The work will require eighteen months. The channel through the Golden Gate will be made 8,000 feet long, 2,000 feet wide and 42 feet deep at low tide. To accomplish this 2-000,000 cubic feet of sand must be moved, a hundredth part as much as was moved to dig the Panama Canal.
All this sand must be sucked up from the ocean bed, through the giant lungs of the Culebra, placed on scows, taken out to sea and dumped.
The Culebra was built to assist in digging the Panama Canal and was brought around Cape Horn from the Atlantic to work on the Pacific side.
When the canal was completed, the Culebra was the first ship through.

Treasure Hunters Disappointed

VANCOUVER, B.C. (C.P.)—Reports received here indicate that the treasure hunt of the little steamer Gunner which sailed from here last winter for Cocos Island in search of chests of gold supposed to have been hidden in that vicinity by revolutionaries many years ago, has been unsuccessful.
The expedition carried all necessary working implements, including a metal detector, an invention of a Vancouver man. Arriving at Cocos the first few days was spent in taking supplies ashore. The great waves of the Pacific boomed across the reefs and rain fell in a deluge.
Armed with maps and the "treasure-finder" the men worked cheerfully and long, sand and debris flew in darkness and daylight, though the rain continued to pour and the winds to moan.

One Issue--A Clean Up.

With the announcement made by the Prime Minister on Saturday that he had decided upon the personnel of his Administration the first move was made in the political fight, and within the next few days the struggle to decide the issue will begin in real earnest.

What is the issue? From the start there must be no doubt in our minds as to why the country is involved in an election at this time of the year, or what the real objective is. THE ONE AND ONLY ISSUE IS A CLEAN UP, and upon the thoroughness of this depends THE COUNTRY'S VERY EXISTENCE.

Let us go back to the very beginning of the trouble last July in order to refresh our minds. The complaints of irregularities in the Controller's and other departments made by the Opposition Party, and the scandalous extravagance of the Government which was revealed by their persistent questioning, resulted in certain members of the Administration forcing Sir Richard Squires to resign the Premiership. He was succeeded by the Hon. W. R. Warren who, with the sympathy and support of the Opposition led by Mr. W. J. Higgins, declared that he would undertake a full and searching investigation of the charges which had been made.

It was generally recognized that there were several members of the Warren Government who were by no means enthusiastic supporters of the pronouncement, and doubts were expressed of the sincerity of some of those most closely associated with him in forcing Squires' resignation. In consequence his position was as perilous as his policy was difficult to carry out, but carry it out he did, in spite of the indifferent support of several of his colleagues, which later developed into open opposition.

The astonishment caused by the downfall of Sir Richard Squires so soon after his success at the polls was only equalled by the relief which was felt when the public heard the pronouncement of the new Leader, and his determination to effect a clean up of the whole situation.

The Enquiry which was conducted by T. Hollis Walker, K.C., was followed closely by the whole community, and when eventually his Report was announced, it was received by all with a feeling of shame and dismay which quickly changed to burning resentment. Such were the findings that criminal prosecution of those indicted was begun, and it was decided that an even more searching investigation of the Public Service was desirable and essential in the interest of the Colony. With this decision the general public were in full agreement.

Not so, however, with certain members of the Government and with the opening of the Legislature it was anticipated that the Warren Administration would disrupt. So it turned out, but even among those who remained with the party when the want of confidence vote was taken were certain members whose loyalty was a questionable asset.

Instead of resigning, the Premier advised the Governor to dissolve the Legislature, much to the chagrin of those who had plotted his overthrow and incidentally frustrating their plans to burke the Enquiry.

The Premier was now in a position to comb out those of the old administration who had never been otherwise than lukewarm, and with the co-operation of the Leader of the Opposition, who had supported him when he first decided to hold an enquiry, he was enabled to form a representative party, which will with confidence appeal to the electorate for a mandate to carry out the task of proceeding with the investigations and thoroughly purging the public life of Newfoundland.

Although it is said that neither Sir Richard Squires nor Sir William Coaker will take the field in person, there is no gainsaying the fact that the virtual leader is the late Prime Minister and that to Sir William Coaker has been given the job of beating up supporters of this unnatural coalition. Already he has issued an order to the fishermen of the North to dance to his piping, but surely the lesson that he was taught in the election last spring was sufficient to make him realize that the fishermen are not his slaves. His egotism has blinded him on many occasions and has led him into making egregious blunders. Apparently in this case too he fails to realize that these men possess a sturdy independence which he has lamentably failed to crush, and that they have a keen perception of the difference between right and wrong, and all the bludgeoning in the world will not make them act against their conscience.

We can well understand that the fishermen as well as others will be somewhat bewildered by the letter published in the Evening Advocate on Saturday over the signature of Sir William Coaker, for it is impossible to reconcile his former bitter hostility towards all and sundry of the merchant exporters with his expressions of confidence in and loyalty to the prominent merchant who has been chosen as leader. Either the President of the Union was formerly acting a part and stirring up a class war for purposes of his own, or else to-day he stands exposed as a traitor to the very party which for so long he has misled and used for his own particular ends.

From the first, The Evening Telegram has taken a consistent stand in the matter which has shaken the fabric of our constitution to its base. Our demands for a thorough investigation of the scandals exposed last summer were immediate. With the decision announced by the Warren Administration and upheld by the Opposition Party we were in full accord, and we have never ceased to emphasize that the one and only way out was by a thorough and complete cleansing of the Augean stables, regardless of the consequences to anyone, and with one object only—the restoration of stability and confidence in our political institutions in order to enable us once more to face the world without fear and without reproach.

We are convinced that the Party which has been formed under the leadership of Premier Warren is fired by this one desire, and we feel certain that every individual in the country who places Loyalty above Self-interest, will stand by the Party to a man, and will allow no other question to blind them to the ONE AND ONLY ISSUE which is before the electorate to-day.

A Body That Inspires Confidence

The Ministry sworn in on Saturday is one which is not only representative of every branch of industry and enterprise in the country, but it also contains men whose success in private life has made them outstanding figures.

Hon. W. R. Warren, the Prime Minister, brings to his task many years of experience in public life, during which period he has served his constituents faithfully and well both in the District of Trinity and Fortune Bay. At the Imperial Conference last year he staunchly upheld the best traditions of the Oldest Colony and received the highest encomiums from the British Press. In the work of reforming the political institutions of the Island, he has shown courage and determination in the face of the strongest hostility to his actions by members of his party who even went so far as to frustrate his plans by treachery. They signally failed, and he makes his appeal to the country to defeat the machination of the conspirators and he relies on the sterling integrity of our people.

The name of Hon. W. J. Higgins, who takes the portfolio of Colonial Secretary, is a household word from coast to coast. His popularity is due to his real human interest in the welfare of his fellow citizens generally, and the fact that St. John's East have the utmost confidence in his ability and integrity is clearly shown by the fact that in each appeal which he has made to them during the last fifteen years they have elected him to the House backed by their strong enthusiastic support. In co-operation with the Prime Minister he makes a team in which the electorate can place the greatest reliance with the firm conviction that their confidence is not misplaced.

Messrs. Sullivan and Walsh have long been identified with the district of Placentia, which has always found them doughty champions of its interests and ever intent on advancing its welfare both in and out of Parliament. In their new sphere their services will be of even greater value, not only to Placentia but to the whole Dominion.

Hon. Mr. Hawco during the short period in which he has been in charge of the Postal Telegraphs Department has carried out several necessary reforms and has introduced many new ideas which are of the greatest practical benefit to the country and have tended materially to increase the financial returns of the Department. He can return to his district with the knowledge of the duties assigned to him well and faithfully performed and undoubtedly Harbour Main will acclaim their tribune with no uncertain voice as a man of energy and ability and of the type that they require to look after their interests.

The knowledge, experience and integrity of such men as Hon. J. Alex. Robinson, J. R. Bennett, C. P. Ayre, W. S. Monroe and W. C. Winsor are but too well known to require further introduction to the public. The enterprises with which they have been associated are monuments to their ability and foresightedness, and the public feel assured that under their watchful eye there will be an end put to the extravagance and waste that has brought the country to such a plight.

Mr. Roberts is new to the field of politics, but his standing in the community is well known. He has by his enthusiasm, by close application to his work and by his natural ability made for himself a reputation in his chosen profession. He brings new blood into the party, and his many friends are certain that wherever he goes he will be warmly received and returned by the people who are determined upon a clean up.

The Star Billiard Dinner

LADIES' AUXILIARY THE CATERERS.

A noteworthy feature in connection with the Star Billiard Dinner on Wednesday night last was the excellent menu catered to by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Association. The arrangements were perfect in every detail, and it was mainly due to their efforts that the evening was made pleasant and enjoyable for all. Thanks, Ladies!

Carcass Destroyed

We are glad to state that the carcass of the animal which was landed here last week in a sick condition was later destroyed by the owners themselves, as they were of the opinion that it was unsuitable for human consumption.

The Feildian Dinner

The Feildian Club dinner at the West End Restaurant this evening promises to be one of the largest gatherings of old boys that have ever been held by the Association. The dinner will be the occasion for tendering to the hockey team the congratulations of the club on their successful season and also to the members of the Bowling team who succeeded in winning the championship on Saturday night.

The First Card

Gentlemen! If it were necessary to open booths in order to take a vote to find out at what store in St. John's the very best Tobaccos, Cigars, Cigarettes could be had, every man entering the booth would surely mark his ballot in favour of—

Viking Returns From Gulf Poorly Fished

S.S. Viking, Capt. Wm. Bartlett, arrived from the Gulf sealfishery at 7.30 this morning, having for 3,000 old and young seals. The ship, which is the last of the sealing ships to arrive, thus closes down the sealfishery for the season of 1924. Capt. Bartlett states that a succession of N.W. winds prevailed for 28 days during the early part of the spring, which drove the seals over on the Prince Edward Island shore, and due to the ship being continuously jammed up in heavy rafted ice it was impossible to reach them. Had the prevailing winds been from the S.W. the chances are a saved trip of fat would have been secured. Despite the odds against them the Viking behaved splendidly, and after weeks of blasting and butting the ship's position was 50 miles N.W. of Byron Island, within 15 miles of the seals. The ship then became jammed up in a heavy barricade of ice, and during the next few days the wind increased with unusual velocity, and thick snow storm, which drifted the ship miles from her position, and all chances of getting into the seals were thus lost. During the early part of April the ice loosened up sufficiently for the ship to get about, and on the 8th of the month, the first seals were struck, in the vicinity of Deadman's Island, 800 of which were killed and penned and later taken on board. During the latter part of the voyage the ship steamed about searching for the old ones and despite the bad ice conditions 1,000 seal pups were shot and hauled on board. Coal running short the captain decided to abandon the voyage on Friday last and working south into open water from 30 miles North of Deadman's Island the run to port was accomplished without any interruption. The Viking is discharging at Bowring's upper premises and is expected to finish this afternoon.

Magistrates Court

Three drunks were each fined $2.00 with the option of 7 days.

Two drunks were released.

A husband given in charge by his wife for being drunk and disorderly in his home was bound over to keep the peace.

The plaintiff in an assault case failed to appear.

Body Recovered

A message to the Deputy Minister of Justice from Cook, Pogo of St. John's, the body of Stanley Gillingham, Gander Bay was recovered on Wednesday last. The man Gillingham, it will be remembered, was drowned on the Gander River about 8 miles from Gander Lake on April 28th by the upsetting of a boat in which he and a companion named Francis were sailing.

Knocked Down by Motorist

At about half-past eleven last night Eugene Curran driving east on LeMarchant Road in a motor car accidentally knocked down Mrs. Stick resident of Young Street. It was at first thought that the woman was killed. The driver promptly stopped his car, picked the woman up and drove her to her home. Dr. Fallon was called in attendance. He found that Mrs. Stick had received injuries to her arm and foot, but they were not of a serious nature.

Work on Memorial Resumes

Preliminary work in connection with the completion of the National War Memorial began this morning. The concrete base erected last fall is being fenced off and the work of setting the granite work will be started in a few days.

Salmon in the Market

Quite a few salmon taken in nets at Blackhead were brought to the city this morning and disposed of at 30 cents per lb. Salmon were also taken at Portuguese Cove but not in any quantity. A few of the fish brought in on Saturday fetched 40 cents per lb.

Silvia Sailed

The S.S. Silvia sailed for Halifax and New York at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The following additional passengers went by the ship:—Capt. E. J. Dixon, Frank Penney, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Aloock.

UNANIMOUS VERDICT—All critics unite in the verdict that the high water mark of local amateur theatricals is reached in "Abie's Irish Rose" and "The Chinese Puzzle." See them for the Orphans. To-morrow, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Shipping

S.S. Rosalind was due at Halifax at 2 p.m. to-day. The ship left New York at noon Saturday.

Schr. R. L. Borden has arrived at Grand Bank from the Banks halting for 600 qts. codfish.

TRAIN NOTES

Sunday's express left Norris Arm 8.59 a.m. The incoming express arrived, 12.50 a.m. The local Carbonar train arrived at 1.15 p.m.

The Opposition Formed up

We learn that quite a few of the old Tory regime have thrown in their lot with the Coaker Party led by A. E. Hickman. It is stated that Mr. A. E. Morine has not a district, but is being given a seat on the Executive. No definite announcement has yet been made of the Party's final lineup.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

May 3rd.—The names of the new Ministers given out this day; but what is most extraordinary no less than 5 of them, to wit, W. Monroe, J. R. Bennett, Dr. Robinson, Dr. Roberts and C. P. Ayre, members neither of the Commons nor the Council. W. Walsh to be Minister of Agriculture and Mines and Capt. Winsor goes to the Marine Office, but neither of these in the Cabal, and the first time the Marine Office has its head out of the Cabal in many years. Dr. Robinson, I learn, like to be appointed to the Education Office, being at one time a school master, albeit he has held divers offices since. The Liberal Party much advertised in the Advocate sheet, and seems like to make a mighty close thing of this election, having the support of the Fishermen. Pevy coming to gossip with me, he thinks Mr. J. Barrow will be a Hickman man in the West End of the city. To-day I did play a game of rugby football, the first for a twelve month, and am in the worst possible condition, so that I can scarce run 2 yards and am, I think, too old for such active games.

Scott Nearing Would Have U.S. Send Army to Conquer Canada

Radical Lecturer, Who Was Welcomed by Toronto University, Says United States Must Take Over Political Control of This Country.

MONTREAL, April 28.—(Financial Post)—The United States already has economic control of Canada. Great Britain has political control. This creates a situation that is bound to bring about an inevitable collision. The only remedy is political control of Canada by the United States.

This amazing doctrine is being preached in the United States by Prof. Scott Nearing, a highly radical writer and lecturer whose efforts to Sovietize students at Canadian universities have been exposed by The Financial Post.

Says Professor Nearing:

"The economic control of Canada has passed out of the hands of British bankers and into the hands of United States bankers. The political control of Canada remains with the British government. Such an anomalous (anomalous?) situation between economic and political authority creates a condition of unstable equilibrium which can be remedied only when the same group holds both economic and political control.

"There is no likelihood that the economic hold of the United States investors upon Canada will be loosened. On the contrary, there is every indication that it will grow stronger during the next decade.

"Britain will hesitate long before surrendering the political control of this greatest among British Dominions. The Canadian business men themselves are intensely patriotic, with strong imperial leanings; they sing 'God Save the King' with fervor; they are committed politically to a 'pro-empire' policy.

"There are two possible solutions to this social complex. One is to have an American army and navy take possession of Canada in the good old-fashioned way. The other is to have American bankers buy Canadian newspapers, subsidize Canadian colleges, make large gifts to Canadian churches, and through a careful manipulation institute a pro-United States campaign for Canadian public opinion which will justify peaceful annexation.

"There is of course a third possibility, namely, that the producers on both sides of the Canadian boundary might throw off their imperial masters, join hands, and organize an American-producers federation."

Something About Prof. Nearing.

This is the kind of propaganda that is being fed to the public by Nearing, a dangerous pro-Bolshevik, who is frowned upon by the older and staler universities of the United States but who is evidently welcomed at Toronto University where he has addressed groups of students without intervention from the university authorities, and for whose views a Toronto professor called for three cheers. Nearing tried to speak at McGill University, in Montreal, but did not get a chance to sew his seeds of sedition to the students at that university. In fact his talks in Toronto and their subsequent exposure by The Financial Post, led, it is understood, to a quiet survey of the situation at McGill by Sir Arthur Currie and others of the McGill heads to insure that no doctrine of unpatriotism were being taught the students of the Montreal institution.

Professor Nearing's article appears in the April 16 issue of "The Nation," which is edited by Oswald Garrison Villard, in New York, and which appeals to thinkers along radical lines. Nearing points out that "the speedy shifting of economic control which has been one of the outstanding features of public affairs during the past fifty years is nowhere better exemplified than in the checkered career of Canada, a British Dominion, at the outset of minor importance, pushed suddenly into the limelight as the largest market for British overseas investments and then, even more quickly, deprived of this source of capital and forced to turn to the United States for needed economic supplies."

Imperialism Feeding Itself.

Nearing then proceeds to quote many familiar figures to show the excess of American capital invested in Canada over British capital. Referring to the effect of British preferential tariffs in inducing American manufacturers in particular to establish branch plants in Canada and quoting the example of the motor car industry, Prof. Nearing says: "Should the British Empire raise a higher tariff barrier with the aid of the Imperial Preferences, United States capital will be compelled to locate a still larger proportion of its plants in Canada."

"Thus," says Nearing, with amazing confidence in his own reasoning, "British imperialism is laying the foundations for American control of the strategic economic advantages of Canada." He quotes the "American Economist" as pointing out that "American capital is year by year obtaining a more complete grip on Canadian manufacturing and commercial

Little eyes that dance with glee,
Light the troubled way for me.

Little hands, so soft and white,
Make my heavy burdens light.

Little feet that patter near,
Carry oh, so much of cheer!

Little cheeks so soft to press,
Yet so plump with happiness.

Strange it seems, and yet so true,
I should care so much for you.

Why should I be big and tall,
Give my heart to one so small?

Why should I sit all the while Eager just to see you smile?

Why should all you do or say Comfort me throughout the day?

How has all this come to be
That you mean so much to me?

Can you guess, or do you know,
Why it is I love you so?

It's because my heart is glad
I was picked to be your dad.

Leper Population Gains

Manilla, April 24. (A.P.)—The annual report of the chief of the Cullion leper colony shows an increase of 213 inmates in the colony during the year 1923. On December 31, 1923 there was a total of 5,445 lepers confined in the colony, distributed as follows: Men, 2,697; women, 1,440; boys, 802, and girls, 506.

A luxurious coat of light tan crepe is elaborately trimmed with old-fashioned cording. It appears along the sleeve seams, at the hem and forms a high, standing collar. The coat is lined with a rich duvetyn a shade deeper than the coat itself. The effect is extremely smart.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGE TO MOTORISTS.

During 1923 the Red Taxi Co. operated under the hardest conditions Five Buick motor cars. The 7-passenger Six Sedan did over 17,000 miles in eight months of 1923, with 3 of its original tires still in use.

Two of the Buick Fours travelled 12,000 and over 14,000 miles respectively under the hardest of service on every kind of road. The cost of this service was low and after such strenuous work the Red Taxi Buicks are to-day performing the same reliable service as during 1923.

STAFFORD'S Sarsaparilla Blood Purifier

Skin Diseases, Anemia, Lack of Blood, Paleness, Impure Blood, Lack of Ambition and Vigor, Debility, Weakness, Tired Feeling, Boils, Pimples, etc.

THERE is no Remedy of more universal application than a genuine true-and-tried Blood Purifier and Blood Builder. A medicinal preparation that will truly purify, revitalize and renew the blood, restores hope and pleasure, ambition and happiness, vigor and vitality. It is of inestimable value not only as a strengthening of the system, fortifying it against invasion of disease, but also as a cure for Chronic Diseases which depend upon an impoverished condition of the blood. Diseases of this nature are usually caused by impurities in the blood deposited through the inactivity of the Liver and Kidneys.

These secretions if not removed from the circulation, gradually form poisons which deteriorate the condition of the blood and allow other diseases to obtain a more ready entrance to the system. In the effort of nature to throw off these impurities, frequently pimples, boils, carbuncles, etc., appear, and it is wise to respond promptly to the Warning of Nature.

THIS SARSAPARILLA

is a genuine preparation scientifically prepared from the best and purest remedies for the purifying and rebuilding of the blood. It should be taken every spring, as at this season the blood is more apt to become impure and impoverished. Keep your blood in perfect condition and you will be prepared to fight life's battles with greater success.

One Bottle of this Blood Purifier is all that you will need to take to produce results.

The Plimsoll Line

Samuel Plimsoll, who was born at Bristol a hundred years ago, was a London coal merchant, with no first-hand knowledge of conditions at sea, but he earned for himself the title of "The Sailors' Friend" by his genuine devotion to and valuable services for the cause of the mercantile marine, says the London "Observer."

Mr. J. Havelock Wilson, the founder and present president of the Sailors' Union, co-operated for a number of years with Mr. Plimsoll in his great fight. In a chat the other day Mr. Wilson described Plimsoll as a peculiar man, an enthusiast, one who spared neither himself nor those who worked with him. "He has made me get up at four o'clock in the morning," he said, "to go down to the docks to take snapshots of ships. And I have been at his house in Park Lane and seen Plimsoll's wife and daughter at two or three o'clock in the morning busy getting out pamphlets."

Mr. Wilson recalled how on one occasion Plimsoll asked him how many widows and orphans of merchant seamen he supposed there were in the country. He replied about 3,000. "Well, then," said Plimsoll, "on the day Parliament opens next week I want you to gather them all together on the Thames Embankment, and with bands and banners to march them round by the Houses of Parliament." "Of course," he added, "you know the penalty for a demonstration of that sort at Westminster is six weeks' imprisonment. But never mind that; you will become one of the most popular men in the country." Mr. Wilson did not seize this chance of achieving popularity.

Plimsoll first came before the public as the sailors' champion in 1872, when he published "Our Seamen: An Appeal," in which he showed that a large proportion of the merchant seamen who perished at sea lost their lives from preventable causes, such as overloaded deck cargoes and unseaworthy ships. This pamphlet was severely criticized on the ground that it contained gross exaggerations and inaccuracies.

The public conscience, however, was stirred and a Commission of Inquiry was appointed to investigate the allegations. In the ensuing years a number of legislative remedies for the evils of overloading, undermanning, and unseaworthiness of merchant ships were passed and were all consolidated in the Merchant Shipping Act of 1894.

In July, 1875, Disraeli announced that the Government proposed to withdraw a Merchant Shipping Bill which had been under discussion for some time. This so excited Plimsoll that he quite lost control of himself and made use of the most unparliamentary language in condemnation of the shipowners. He refused to withdraw his remarks and was asked to retire. A week later he apologized, and a motion for his reprimand was withdrawn. The effect of this "scene" was to direct public attention very pointedly to the abandonment of the Bill, and meetings of protest were held all over the country. After much excitement an Act was passed on August 13, 1875, to extend the powers of the Board of Trade to stop unseaworthy ships.

The "Plimsoll Line" is the mark painted on the hull of every British vessel, with the exception of certain small craft. It indicates that the ship may be loaded until the water reaches the line. The official line became compulsory in 1890, when the recommendations of the Parliamentary Committee of three years before were given effect through the efforts of Plimsoll and Havelock Wilson. Prior to that date every ship had to have a load-line painted on her, but it could be fixed wherever the owner pleased. One shipowner, Mr. Wilson told me, in order to show his contempt for the law had the load-line painted at the top of his steamer's funnel.

Plimsoll died at Folkestone on June 3, 1898. "The Times" obituary notice concluded with the words: "We forget his absurdities, we draw a veil over his lack of self-control, we almost pardon his exaggerations (which continued to the end), and his recklessness of accusation, when we remember the evil that he attacked was real and gigantic, and that the ferocity of his attacks was the outpouring of the indignation of a sincere if not always well-regulated mind."

Hair Seals Wanton Robbers

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 24—(Canadian Press)—The destruction of the spring salmon in the Fraser River has reached such alarming dimensions that the fishermen fear that the fish will become totally extinct and the enormous revenue lost. The culprit is the hair seal, and fishermen believe that from one-sixth to one-third of what should constitute the annual pack is actually taken out of the nets by these water wolvies before fishermen can get the fish into the boats.

Very few spring salmon have been caught in the Fraser this year, and fishermen are wondering if the hair seal is effectually cleaning up the entire run before any fish can get through. So clever and cunning are the seals that it is a race between the fishermen and the seals every time a bobbing cork on the net shows that a

The surest way to annoy a customer is to ask her to buy some other Soap, when she wants Sunlight Soap.

When a woman asks for Sunlight Soap, it shows that she is an intelligent woman, who wants value for her money.

When you ask such a woman to buy some other soap, it shows that you consider she doesn't know what she wants.

When you tell a sensible woman that some other soap is as good as Sunlight, she knows you are not telling the whole truth.

Naturally when she knows you are trying to fool her, she has a poor opinion of your judgment and veracity.

You cannot fool any woman regarding Sunlight Soap. Every woman knows Sunlight Soap to be purest and best.

This is why selling Sunlight Soap is the easiest thing any shopkeeper has to do. Every wise shopkeeper knows this.

Every now and then shopkeepers are asked to buy soap,—said to be as good as Sunlight Soap.

Eventually such soap has to be sold at a loss, and the loss is always made by the shopkeeper. The soap agent gets his money, the shopkeeper is the goat.

When next you are asked to buy such a soap, ask the agent,—“Will it sell as well as Sunlight Soap?”

Soap which won't sell as well as Sunlight Soap isn't as good as Sunlight, it won't pay for its keep.

Don't let any slick soap agent load you up with soap which will stick to your shelves and lose money on you.

STICK TO SUNLIGHT AND YOU WON'T BE STUCK.

Fishermen have tried spreading a "blind" net so as to protect the actual fishing net, but the seals learned to solve the trick, so that it is now no use. They deliberately drive salmon into the net in order to make capture easier.

C. C. C. FOOTERS ELECT OFFICERS

A meeting of the C. C. C. Senior Football team was held in the Armory yesterday morning. Besides the team, there were present many friends and supporters, and much enthusiasm was displayed. The Captains, who won the championship last season, are determined to again come out on top this season, and practice will begin immediately. All of last year's team are available and, with many of the younger blood to fall back on, the team's supporters have no fear of this year's result. Mr. Michael Finn was moved to the chair for the election of officers which resulted as follows:

- Captain—Mike Maddigan.
- Vice-Captain—M. Flynn.
- Secy.—Treas.—J. Reidigan.
- League-Delegate—W. Caul.

HOW ABOUT IT BOXERS!

Editor of "In the Realms of Sport." Dear Sir.—In connection with "Earl Haig Week" we shall have in port a British and an American battleship (not counting two French) and this will give us an unequalled opportunity for a boxing tournament, and a chance for our local boys to try their mettle against outside talent. Incidentally it will provide a large source of revenue for the Memorial Fund.

A one-night tournament with four competitors in each class, one from each ship and two from the town, would be interesting, exciting, and easily workable. All warships have their men in training and readiness for circumstances of this kind, and are always only too delighted to fall in with any plans, so we may depend entirely on their part of the performance. A suggestion of James and Burgess in "Sweat, LaPousse in hantam, Brocklehurst in feather, Phelan and Marshall in light, and Stamp and Burridge in welter gives an indication that we have developed a force of boxers who in competition certainly have to be reckoned with.

Can we rely on public support, and get a representative crowd of competitors into systematic thorough training immediately? Without the wholehearted support of the general public, the athletic organizations, the trainers and the boxers themselves, we should not and cannot term ourselves as representing Nfld. against naval competition. Is the public and athletic prepared to combine jointly and severally in giving boxing this chance?

Yours sincerely,
ARTHUR JOHNSON.

Weight of MacDonald's Books

CLAUSE FLOOR TO COLLAPSE.

There is a delightful anecdote about the new prime minister of Great Britain. At a certain dinner-party during the war a well-intentioned lady sat beside him at table. She was charmed by his conversation and his courtly air, and before he parted she could not help sympathizing with him because he had the same name as "that dreadful member of parliament, Ramsay MacDonald." The story is told by "Iconoclast" in his—or should it be "her"—most interesting and able study of Mr. MacDonald, which, by some extraordinary stroke of divination or good luck, was published just before the recent general election under the title of "The Man of To-morrow."

All that myth of the burly unkempt, wild-haired MacDonald, of course, has been buried in the dust-hins long ago. Mr. MacDonald largely owes his success and distinction in politics to an "all-round" endowment, physical, mental and spiritual, such as given to few men.

"No prime minister of recent times has been better read," says Gilbert Thomas in the "English Bookman." Into his two houses at Hampstead and Loosmouth he has collected thousands of volumes, weighing several tons. Once, when he was changing residences, the furniture-movers piled so great a weight of books in the middle of an up-stairs room, instead of placing them round the sides, that the floor collapsed!

And Mr. MacDonald has not merely collected books; he has read them all and made them thoroughly his own. He is best read in "history, political economy, and philosophy, but he is a keen lover also of creative literature. His enthusiasm for Milton, Scott and Burns, and for the ballads and folk songs and—not least—the Puritan writers of his own land, knows no bounds; while his intimate knowledge of the Bible is constantly revealing itself. Among "periods" his chief love is the eighteenth century, while, among modern writers, he has a special affection for Thomas Hardy, with whom he recently stayed for a few days.

Nor is Mr. MacDonald only a great reader. He is also a bibliophile. He is never happier than when poring over a "secondhand" catalogue; and, since his work has taken him repeatedly into all parts of the kingdom, there are few secondhand bookshops of any merit with which he is not intimately acquainted. He has, moreover, all the true bibliophile's concern for the proper handling of books, and I once heard him lament the fact that he could seldom secure a maid who knew how to remove a volume from its shelf, for dusting purposes, without damaging the binding.

And if Mr. MacDonald is one of the best read of recent premiers, he has more writings to his credit than almost any other prime minister in our annals. Having once addressed envelopes for a living, he made his first real start in life as a journalist, and he has been a prolific writer ever since. Most of his books have, necessarily, been largely political, though he once wrote short stories under the pen-name of "James Ramsay," while in Ethel Margaret MacDonald he has given us a memoir of that splendid woman, his wife, that is a model of skill and good taste. It has been described by Mr. Masterman as "one of the most moving short biographies in the language." Even his political volumes bear evidence of having been written by one who is a rare combination of philosopher, poet and scientist; while most of his writings, political and otherwise, are shot through with that gleam of religious mysticism which makes Mr. MacDonald an aloof, though not a lonely figure.

Claim Chinese Explored America Before Columbus

PEKING, April 28 (Canadian Press)—More than a thousand years before the historic voyage of Christopher Columbus the American continent was explored by Chinese, according to Adolph Groesjean, Peking expert on Chinese antiquity.

Whether the early travellers made their way to America by way of the Aleutian Islands, Siberia and Alaska or ventured across the Pacific Ocean in their ships is a question which Groesjean does not attempt to answer, but he is convinced that many centuries ago both North and South America were known to the Chinese.

The antiquarian points out that a jade mask and ornaments have been found in America which are unmistakably of Chinese workmanship and that there is evidence to show that the masks were left possibly before the Christian era. He says that many other antiquities, notably bronze articles have been found in Mexico which are excellent specimens of Chinese art in the Chou dynasty, founded in B.C. 1050.

The earliest written document tending to support the claims of ancient Chinese settlements in America was written by Wei Chen, a Buddhist priest who journeyed to America and returned to China in 449, claiming to have returned via California, Alaska and Kamchatka. Wei Chen reports that he found in Yucatan Chinese images, sciences, books and customs which earlier priests took there, states Groesjean. "Modern scholars are divided as to whether Wei Chen actually reached America. Regardless, however, as to the veracity of Wei Chen, it is unquestionable that the works of ancient Chinese art have been found in America."

Coyotes Destructive

CLINTON, B.C. (C.P.)—Coyotes have been causing much loss to ranchers in the Lac La Hache district this season. On one ranch fifteen lambs were killed within two weeks. So bold have the coyotes become that they will rush into sheep pens and snatch up the best lambs and get away before a gun can be levelled at them. It is evident the coyotes are increasing in numbers alarmingly despite the fact that many are killed for the fur and bounty. One rancher shot forty this winter. Natives say it is noticeable that when rabbits are scarce that deer disappear. The reason for this, they say, is that rabbits are the natural and chief food of coyotes, but when rabbits disappear, as they do at the end of every seven years, coyotes turn their attention to deer as the source of food supply.

Deer are swifter than coyotes, but coyotes are more cunning and are able to trap deer. This they do by directing them into traps in winter and before the deer are able to free themselves coyotes have the sinews of their hind legs out and in a few minutes and have the deer prostrate on the ground.

Now that the rabbits are coming in again deer are beginning to appear, and it is said that in two or three years more, as rabbits all the woods, deer will become as numerous as they ever were.

B. P. O. E. of Grand Falls Hold Big Entertainment

The Elks of Grand Falls heard the echo of their winter barrage reverberate to their credit on April 22nd, when in the Town Hall one of the most enjoyable and successful dances ever participated in by that town was held under the auspices of Lodge 59, B.P.O.E.

The hall, artistically decorated in the Elks colours with its waxed floor and miniature forest of spruce, decorated with coloured lights at the lower ends, presented an alluring temptation to those who delight in a dance in a grand hall. The music, of a very high order, was supplied by a Jazzola orchestra, some fourteen instruments and piano, under the able direction of Bro. Prof. Goss. The dance programme featured waltzes, fox trots, one steps and lancers and commenced with a Grand March. Exalted Ruler Bro. J. Turner, leading, while in progress paper headgear bearing the emblem of the order was distributed.

Credit for the success of the affair is due Bro. "The Original" Pop Dean and Bro. A. Crawley, Newfoundland's premier baseballer, who did much to exemplify the fact that an Elk is primarily a "good fellow." Elksdom seeks to make life sweeter, men better and the world happier, and its establishment in the larger centers of Newfoundland will materially assist in the building of a better citizenship whose delight will be to help those who cannot help themselves. Our local bard says:

For a man's good deeds are the only things that remain forever to mark His path through life when the last sup sets and he goes out into the dark; Far better a monument built of love than of sculptured and graven stone When we sail out over that unnamed sea to that land that is all unknown.

Germans Again Blame America

Berlin, April 8 (A.P.)—American prohibition is responsible for the high price of coffee in Germany, in the opinion of many contributors to local newspapers. Since the Americans cannot have alcoholic drinks they use more coffee, it is argued; hence the high price of coffee in Germany. Germany now uses only about 25 per cent. of the amount of coffee she used to drink. Coffee which cost 1.60 marks before the war now costs 3.20 marks.

Canadian Veteran in Mexican Prison

WINNIPEG, April 22.—(Canadian Press)—Langulshing in a Mexican prison in Vera Cruz, under conditions described as horrible, is a young Winnipeg ex-soldier, with a distinguished war record, condemned to serve a term of twenty years. His name is Arthur Patrick Hellwell. Mrs. A. Hellwell, the boy's mother, who resides in this city learned of his condition through the good offices of a kindly woman who saw young Hellwell on board ship, bound for prison.

According to Mrs. Jennie Ackerman, stewardess of the steamer "Monarcy," a passenger boat running out of New York harbour, Hellwell was sentenced for having shot and killed a man at Tampico, Mexico. His plea was that of self-defence. In her letter to the boy's mother, Mrs. Ackerman stated that Hellwell's plight enlisted the sympathies of those on board. Despite his terrible fate he had remained uncommunicative and at first had been too proud to divulge his real identity in order that efforts might be made to secure his release. He is known to his guards as "Jack Burnham."

Mrs. Ackerman warns Hellwell's mother that her son may be permitted to attempt escape after a year or two incarceration in order that some valid excuse be given the guards to shoot him down. This, she points out, is the Mexican way of avoiding the expense of keeping prisoners. Negotiations have been opened with Hon. E. M. McDonald, Minister of National Defence, Ottawa, and an attempt has been directed to the Department of Justice urging that proceedings be immediately instituted to bring Hellwell back to Canada. Veteran organizations are also lending their assistance in the matter, while communications have been sent to the British consul and Governor of the state of Vera Cruz requesting their intervention.

Everest Expedition Hopeful of Success

IN REACHING SUMMIT.

CALCUTTA—(A.P.)—"If we don't get to the top of Everest this time it will not be our fault," was the smiling assurance of General Bruce when he landed in Calcutta as the head of the new expedition to climb the world's highest peak. "I seldom felt fitter in my life, and all the members of the party appear to be in similar condition."

"What we are all praying for is a late monsoon. The question of whether we are successful or not will depend largely on this. If the monsoon comes early, our chances will be greatly reduced. On the other hand, if it keeps off until well in June it will do us an infinite amount of good." As may be expected, an excursion of this kind must inevitably depend up on luck in various forms, but particularly in the shape of propitious weather.

The general plans are similar to those of previous expeditions. The start is to be made from Darjeeling. Much care has been expended in the selection of equipment, numerous im-improvements having been made on the basis of former experience.

"The present expedition," continued the leader, "is intensively anxious to meet the Tibetan Government in every possible way. Every care will be taken not to go against the least detail of its wishes. We appreciate the kindly attitude of the Tibetans on this and on past occasions. On the last trip we could not have been better treated."

General Bruce stated that the scientific work of the expedition would be similar to that of previous years, except that on this occasion it was hoped to intensify observations and to secure a better photographic record. "We are as keen as mustard to be off," he said, "for all its hardships there is fun in it."

He asked the price and found that it was marked at $175. It was reasonable, but he drew only a small salary. Approaching the sales agent he said: "I like that picture. This waiter had no cultivated gift of sensing high art, but his native eye became delighted at a half-length figure of a young girl painted in the costume worn in the south before the Civil War. It was his first visit to the institute and the picture was one of hundreds on exhibition.

May I deposit $10 and give you something every week until it is paid for, you to keep the picture until his offer was accepted.

He has since paid for it in full. He has been offered twice the amount originally cost him.

As to Our Local Talent

Several Canadian and American visitors who were present at the theatricals presented lately by our local amateurs, expressed their surprise and pleasure at the finish and efficiency with which they were presented.

It is not presumptuous to say that in comparison with any visiting professional companies that have exhibited here of late years, our own amateurs in style, acting, deportment and elocution have proved themselves infinitely superior.

To-morrow and Wednesday night Prof. Hutton and his talented troupe present "Able's Irish Rose." Those who have already seen this play will see it again, and those who have not seen it had better secure their tickets. It will make you forget your cares, and as one critic expressed it "it will make you laugh till the tears come."

On Thursday they will present "The Chinese Puzzle." This is a more ambitious offering, but it has an all-star cast, and has already added to the fame of our local players. In conclusion, the greatest credit is due to the troupe for their very successful efforts in giving us refined and high-class theatricals. What it is added that they are giving their self-sacrificing efforts free for the benefit of the Mount Cashel Orphans, they will evoke the sympathy of the general public. The Brothers are quietly and unobtrusively doing a great work, in our midst, and their's is in the nature of a public recognition. If you want to do a real charity and at the same time get well the worth of your money, buy tickets for either or both the plays that are given for sweet charity's sake on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Obituary.

MRS. MARY TAYLOR.

At Charlottown, on April 23rd, at the ripe old age of 92, Mary, widow of Richard Taylor, who predeceased her some years ago, passed peacefully away, after a short illness, borne with Christian resignation, which was characteristic of her whole life. She was a woman of the old school, whose long life was full of usefulness and good deeds, and many there are who can truly say of her "I am the better for having known Mother Taylor." Her maiden name was Quinton, being the last of a family of twelve brothers and sisters, all of whom lived to a ripe old age. She leaves to mourn 1 son, 3 daughters, 21 grandchildren, 16 great-grandchildren. Five grandsons participated in the Great War, three of whom paid the Supreme Sacrifice, namely Lieut. Albert Taylor, M.C., D.C.M., C. de G.; Pte. George Taylor, Canadian Regt., and Harold Prince, R.N.R.

Laid to Rest

There passed to his eternal rest on Saturday, May 3rd, Thomas R. Cook, the well known farmer of White Hills, son of the late George and Susanah Cook in his 84th year. Left to mourn are a widow and five sons, Henry, residing at Sydney; Edwin, George H., Arthur, Thomas of St. John's, and two daughters, Mrs. Chaytor of St. John's and Mrs. C. Burce of Los Angeles, Cal. also three brothers, George R. and Henry R. of St. John's and James of Montreal; one sister, Mrs. George Hammond of this city; also 35 grand-children and 9 great-grandchildren. The funeral took place this afternoon and was attended by a large discourse of friends and relatives. Interment took place in the family plot at the C. of E. Cemetery.

There are many people who never use any toilet soap but Ivory and find this the most economical and satisfactory soap to use.

A Suggestion for the Railway Management

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—On behalf of a large number of trouters working as clerks in the city stores I wish to draw the attention of the Railway management to change the schedule of the evening train from 6 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. on the eve of a General Holiday. As all these clerks must work until 6 p.m. it is an impossibility for them to connect with that train. The railway management will surely profit by this change, and will also confer a boon to a large number of deserving men, the mercantile clerks.

Sincerely yours,
JACK POND.

Don't Say— "Just a Sore Throat"

In a few days, you know, "just a sore throat" may be something much more serious. For science has proved that the throat is not only the first spot reached by infectious germs, but also forms the ideal soil for them to multiply on.

Throat protection, therefore, means germ destruction and is a duty that you owe your health. It is easily achieved by the regular use of Formamint—the germ-killing throat tablet.

Formamint (which is endorsed by over 5,000 American physicians) is the scientific way of disinfecting the mouth and the throat. Handy to have with you—pleasing in taste—it frees an efficient germicide that mixes with the saliva and so reaches where gargles cannot go.

And a tablet taken occasionally during the day not only brings grateful and immediate relief from "sore throat"—but affords protection against even more distressing ailments that so often follow infection of the throat linings. At all druggists.

$181.42 Plus Hospital Expenses

A prominent Government official who sustained a severe injury some weeks ago, carried our Pilot Disability Policy costing him $27.00.

We have just handed him our cheque for $181.42 and will also pay his hospital bill. That's PROTECTION!

IT PAYS TO BE INSURED WITH A RELIABLE COMPANY.
WE PAID $97,000,000 SINCE 1896.
