AWAKENING OF INDIAN WOMEN

The Maharani of Baroda, who has lately written a book, in which she appeals to her countrywomen to awake and seek to share in the work of the world, says that if there were women teachers in India to teach the "mahad" ladies the advantages of exhibitions and the methods of organizing them, dozens of exhibitions for the display of artistic and industrial work would spring up all over the India. The Maharani, who is working hard for the emancipation of her sex, looks forward to the time when women will share in the industrial life of the nation, and regards the lecture and the exhibition as means to this end.

MRS. C. H. ELLIOTT, corresponding secretary of American Women's Club.

Home Hints

A scouring mixture for boards and tables is this: Work into a paste half a pound of sand, half a pound of soft soap and a quart of a pound of lime. Put it on the scrubbing brush with plenty of clean water.

To remove the smell of fish from forks, wash the forks in hot water, then remove from the water and rub over with a tiny piece of butter. Wash again and all smell will disappear.

To roast blanch shelled almonds, put in a bowl with two teaspoonfuls of olive oil and a tablespoonful of dry salt for each pound of nuts and mix in a greased paper bag, fasten and roast for ten minutes, shaking occasionally.

To insure cool butter put your butter in large jelly glasses with tin covers and set them in basin and let cold water run slowly around the glass. It will not melt in the hottest weather.

A FOOD CONVERT Good Food the True Road to Health. The pernicious habit some persons still have of relying on nauseous drugs to relieve stomach trouble, keeps up the patient medicine business and helps keep up the army of dyspeptics.

Indigestion—Dyspepsia—is caused by what is put into the stomach in the way of improper food, the kind that so taxes the strength of the digestive organs they are actually crippled.

When this state is reached, to resort to tonics is like whipping a tired horse with a big load. Every additional effort he makes under the lash diminishes his power to move the load.

Try helping the stomach by leaving off heavy, greasy, indigestible food and take on Grape-Nuts—light, easily digested, full of strength for nerves and brain, in every grain of it. There's no waste of time nor energy when Grape-Nuts is the food.

"I am an enthusiastic user of Grape-Nuts and consider it an ideal food," writes a Maine man.

"I had nervous dyspepsia and was all run down and my food seemed to go to me but little good. From reading an advertisement I tried Grape-Nuts food, and after a few weeks' steady use of it, felt greatly improved. A complete scheme of maternity insurance has been mapped out by a special commission which was called upon to investigate the need of maternity grants, but, owing to the absence of compulsory sickness insurance in the country, it was found impossible to do so."

"I am sure there are thousands of persons who suffer from this trouble who would be benefited by using Grape-Nuts. Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read the little book 'The Road to Wellville,' in packages."

"Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest."

AMERICAN WOMEN'S CLUB ELECT OFFICERS FOR NEXT TERM

Several New Members Have Joined the Club; Various Study Departments Now Fully Organized

The election of officers took place at the meeting of the American Women's Club, which was held in the public library yesterday afternoon. The officers for the next term are: President, Mrs. H. W. Ranlett; first vice-president, Mrs. A. H. Willis; second vice-president, Mrs. F. D. Beveridge; recording secretary, Mrs. M. Child; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. C. Higgins, and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Serple.

The following new members joined: Dr. Walker, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. J. W. Campbell, and Mrs. E. B. Reveron. Other names were proposed.

Each department has been completely organized and a full report of the various branches of study and their progressiveness is expected at the next meeting.

The meeting was well attended.

CUPID'S KNOTS

Colvin-Warren. A very pretty home wedding took place September 10, in Summerdale, B. E. L. when Miss Floyd Augusta, daughter of Geo. W. and Mrs. Warren, was united in marriage to Harry Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, of Calgary, Alberta.

Mr. Osmond Morse, pastor of the Baptist church, Summerdale, was the officiating clergyman. The ceremony was an impressive one. Simple and tasteful floral decorations adorned the home.

The bride wore a gown of white satin draped with white tulle and carried a basket of sweet peas. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo and carried a sword.

The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The bride and groom were the only guests.

After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Colvin left for a tour through the leading cities of the western United States before taking up their residence in Calgary. The bride travelled in a navy blue suit with hat to match. Calgary is a native of Calgary, and is at present a member of the firm of Colvin & Thorne, real estate brokers. The bride has been a lifelong resident of Summerdale, and leaves for her new home accompanied by the best wishes of her many friends.

Charlotte's Guardian.

Wright-Elliott. The marriage of Miss Lena Mary Elliott, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Elliott, and Dr. Victor Wright, of Calgary, was solemnized in Winnipeg, September 10, at the residence of the bride's parents.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Roy. The bride wore a smart tailored costume of navy blue serge, the coat opening on a blouse of white marquisette embroidered in white chenille and trimmed with lace.

Her smart little hat was of royal blue silk, showing an underfacing of black velvet, and was trimmed with white ostrich. She carried a bouquet of lilacs of the valley, and wore the bridegroom's gift, a necklace of pearls and diamonds set in platinum.

Her with attendant, Mrs. L. L. Wilcox, and by a bridesmaid, her sister, Miss Kathleen Elliott. The former chose a gown of white hand-embroidered muslin, showing a foot border of reseda green shot taffeta. The bodice was partly concealed by a coat of the silk, which was trimmed with clusters of green silk buttons and bordered with a puffing of the silk on the cutaway fronts.

Her hat of black velvet was trimmed with a single pink rose, with its attendant foliage. Her souvenir from the bridegroom was a gold bracelet, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, also his gift.

Leslie Wright of Calgary was his brother's best man. To him the bridegroom gave gold cuff links, and to Mrs. Wilcox, who supplied the music, a gold bar pin set with pearls. Dr. and Mrs. Wright will spend their honeymoon in Edmonton and Banff, and will eventually go to Calgary to reside. Mrs. Elliott, the bride's mother, wore a costume of black velvet with black lace and a black plumed hat.

A COMPULSORY INSURANCE

A compulsory insurance against motherhood is soon to come into force in Sweden, when industrial married women workers will be compelled to contribute towards a sick fund. A complete scheme of maternity insurance has been mapped out by a special commission which was called upon to investigate the need of maternity grants, but, owing to the absence of compulsory sickness insurance in the country, it was found impossible to do so.

William Dussell's Beauty Secrets

Broken Arches. The woman and girls who are wearing low shoes with flat soles, reminiscent of the ancient days of the pack carriers. Their feet never wear with any but a gymnast's dress.

High heeled shoes. Nothing looks more ugly than the white buckskin or canvas shoe with the high heel, reminiscent of the ancient days of the pack carriers. Their feet never wear with any but a gymnast's dress.

Flat shoes are made for tennis, croquet, and other more athletic games. The idea and adoption of such a shoe is to prevent cutting up the jawns with heels and to enable one to get around a gymnasium quicker on the toes.

Heelless shoes never were made for walking. For centuries civilized nations have worn shoes with heels. Therefore, the feet of women have changed from the flat soled top-skin carriage shoe to the high-heeled shoe, and gracefully shaped feet are now the exception.

Many women and even young girls are suffering from broken arches. The terms broken arches does not mean that any bone is broken, but the muscles are strained to the breaking point and the tissues are broken down.

ANXIOUS: If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I shall gladly send you formula for astrinient lotion for closing the pores. I am anxious of lack of space.

FRICKLES: If the freckles are not too deeply burned in they can be removed by bathing the face in buttermilk and allowing it to dry on. Give this treatment a fair trial, and then if the freckles refuse to come off send me a stamped addressed envelope and I shall send you a stronger bleach.

TRAVELER: Cocoa butter comes in a cake and is hard. You can get it at any drug store under this name. It has to be melted before using. Melt a little at a time and massage, using the rotary movement. If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I shall send you instructions for developing the bust.

THE HEART DEPARTMENT

SECOND HONEYMOONS. It goes without saying that this article is mainly intended for the man or woman who is about to join matrimony.

Have you been ill? You look so thin. I remember you when you were here before, you were so plump and pretty and...

A single man is apt to say to the girl whom he has chosen for his bride: "It's just as you say, dear, as to where our honeymoon shall be spent."

Order and groom stood not upon the order of their going, but fled precipitately from the shop.

His second choice overrules his mild protests and insists upon going to Washington to pockets his objection and off they go.

"Dear Miss Libbey: Is it proper for a young man to call at a girl's home after her mother doesn't object after a hockey game, which lasts until nearly 11 o'clock."

It seems rather a late hour for you to call. Most mothers would object seriously to have you come into the house at that hour.

It's All Right if She's Willing. "Dear Miss Libbey. I am in love with a handsome young widow who, I think, is very lovely and would make me a fine companion."

Before Deciding ON THE Wall Papers. For that drawing room, dining room, bedroom or den, we are sure and see us regarding prices and designs.

ARMED BANDITS INCREASE IN PARIS; SCHOOL FOR EDUCATING DETECTIVES IS ESTABLISHED

In Eighteen Years Not One Mistake Has Been Made by the Bertillon System; Minister of Justice Favors More Drastic Punishments

(By A. W. L'Amoureux)

PARIS, Sept. 11.—The increase in the number of armed bandits has made the government realize that the organization of the police is defective and no longer answers the requirements. After creating a "criminal brigade" specially charged with the pursuit of armed criminals, M. Lepine, Prefect of Police, has decided to open a police school whose chief aim shall be the professional education of detectives attached to that brigade.

Up to the present professional secrets have been transmitted from detective to detective. Experienced detectives have been in the habit of giving recruits the rules that have been set down in a regular manner. M. Lepine, though believing that the old method was an excellent one, decided to modify it to a great extent. In future Dr. Bertillon, chief of the department devoted to the identification of criminals, will be the director of the police lessons given to the future "Sherlock Holmes" of the French police. He will be aided by officers from the detective force who have distinguished themselves most in the capture of the famous criminals. The most effective means of investigation employed up to the present has been the examination of the fingerprints left by criminals at the place of crime. The important part of a fingerprint is the individual ridges of a hundred thousand records. The difficulty consists in detecting such imprints. Up to the present this has been done to a special service under the management of M. Bertillon himself, and only used in the case of important persons. The imprints thus obtained are superior to the best photographs. The criminal brigade will be composed of detectives capable of properly conducting such investigations and who are well acquainted with an album containing a description of all excommunicated criminals.

By a somewhat belated show of severity the government has ordered the dissolution of all the school teachers' syndicates in France on account of the scandalous proceedings at their recent congress in Chambéry, when a few of their delegates voted some very violent anti-militarist resolutions. The congress at Chambéry itself was a sort of sham representation of the school teachers of France, as only 100 delegates met, who pretended to speak for some fifty syndicates of societies. Hundreds of syndicates were not represented at all, and a still greater number of teachers' associations never joined the syndicalist movement. But the few bold-headed leaders, who imagined that they could speak for all the others at Chambéry, made themselves conspicuous by their violent opposition to the army. The resolutions, even as they were passed, were sham affairs, as only a few of the delegates were present and —watches, money and scarpins. The search over, the leader of the Apaches began to threaten his victims. "If you are unlucky enough to cry out or to announce us, we will do for you. We'll get you sooner or later, you understand. And now," this lucrative companion, "it's time to scoot." The brothers, in spite of the threats, lost no time in calling out for help. Soon the police were on the track of the fugitives, two of whom were run down and arrested. Taken to the station the policemen, their names, M. Lenoir, Lenoir, called the "White Rat," and Gabriel Crigod, residing in a number of Parisian nicknames. The police are on the track of the three Apaches belong to a band which makes a specialty of such night attacks.

It is an age of specialism. The doctors of the Ternes quarter have discovered that there is not only the profession in which it is lucrative to specialize. Almost every day the commissary of the quarter has received complaint from a medical man that his consulting room had been systematically and thoroughly burgled. The thief is still at large, but his method is known. Top-hatted and frock-coated, this ingenious specialist in medicine would ring the bell of a doctor whom he knew to be on his rounds. To the servant who answered the time he would give some imaginary address at which he wished the doctor to call as soon as he returned. He then left, and came back some ten minutes later. This time he would tell the servant that he had met the doctor, who had asked him to be kind enough to fetch his keys. While the servant searched for the keys the thief would have time to lay hands on everything valuable and portable in the doctor's consulting room. He has evaded arrest so far.

Madame Pagan, the wife of a farmer of Kerday, near Quimper, who during her husband's absence in a neighboring village, took her four little daughters, the eldest of whom was six, to a field near the house, to escape the bad weather. Suddenly she turned to her children and cried: "Since that is how it is, I am going to take you to a place where you won't suffer or need anything any more." With these words she took her daughters to a pond at the end of the field and threw them one by one into the water, finally leaping in herself. The eldest child managed to crawl out of the pond, which was little more than three feet deep, and made her way home and crept into bed. She was found in the evening by her father on his return. As soon as he had placed together the clothes of the father, with several neighbors, ran to the pond, where they found the four dead bodies side by side, a few feet from the bank. The tragedy can only be attributed to a sudden fit of insanity on the part of Madame Pagan, for the couple were happy in their married life, and comparatively prosperous.

its headquarters for collecting at Bailey Island, a resort of whaling vessels east from the Mackenzie river.

The feature of the collection from a popular standpoint, are the skins skulls and leg bones of nineteen-bare-ground grizzly bears ready for mounting. Only one bare-ground grizzly is in the museum. It is supposed that bears of two species are in the collection. One is a grizzly, which has taken on a four-inch layer of fat, burrows a hole in a river bank and permits himself to be covered by snow. Apparently the bear hibernates when it leaves its hole, the fat is still intact. However, in April and May were found of the bears, which were thin before the bears are obtainable in June.

AN ARCTIC EXPLORER DISCOVERS UNKNOWN TRIBES OF ESKIMOS

Norwegian Named Stefansson Has Returned to Civilization After Spending Four Years in the Frozen North

Seattle, Wn., Sept. 11.—Vilhjalm Stefansson, after spending more than four years in Arctic exploration, returned to Seattle yesterday by steamer from Nome, Alaska, and told of his probable discovery of the descendants of the Eskimos of the "Great Land," who was last heard of in 1412 and who, when trade was resumed in the seventeenth century, had disappeared.

Stefansson and his companion, Dr. B. M. Anderson, of Forest City, Iowa, made a valuable zoological and ethnological collection which is now on the steam whaler, Belvidere with Dr. Anderson and will arrive in San Francisco in the way to the Peabody museum of natural history in New York.

On leaving the Arctic, he made a leisurely journey alone with a dog team from Cape Parry to Point Barrow, 1,000 miles, visiting all the Eskimo settlements along the coast. He left Parry March 21 and reached Point Barrow June 12. The expedition made gether nine months as they could go more ground by separating. Stefansson and Anderson went to the Arctic in 1908 by way of Winnipeg and Edmonton and down the Mackenzie river to its mouth. They were bound for Coronation Gulf, a region marked on the Canadian maps as uninhabited and which they had been warned to avoid. Stefansson spent the first winter at the mouth of Colville river, the third on Coronation gulf and Victoria land, the fourth at Cape Parry.

Stefansson ascribes the success of his expedition to the fact that he had no food supply but went into the country with his rifle. He lives as the Eskimos do, and spent most of his time among them. Eskimo women sewed his garments but otherwise he needed no aid from Eskimos.

Stefansson believes that Hubert Darrall, an Englishman, and his family, who disappeared while on the Arctic shores east of the Mackenzie river, is dead.

"In September, 1906," said he, "Darrall went to a whaling vessel that was wintering in the Arctic. Darrall and his wife and children were with him. This way of travelling was not so foolhardy as it seems. Darrall and his family were in the Arctic in peril only when he is overtaken by accident or sickness. Then he is helpless and must perish."

A Lone Traveler. "On leaving the whaler, Darrall went southward to Liverpool bay, where his camp was. Eskimos saw which was determined from their tracks, but they did not see him when he left again and they do not know in what direction he went. He told the Eskimos he would return the next year to buy furs. This was his purpose of exploring the coast to learn of the trading possibilities.

"Darrall may have gone west along the coast, or south up the Anderson river, toward Fort Good Hope. As it was known that he had been seen at Fort Good Hope have taught the Indians to write."

BERLINERS WOULD HAVE THEIR CITY AS GAY AND AS WICKED AS THE FRENCH CAPITAL

All Night Cafes About in Berlin; Big Gambling Establishments Thrive; Pessimists See in All This Portentous Signs of National Decay

(By Carl Waldemar)
BERLIN, Sept. 14.—Two or three recent events in Berlin and several revelations that have followed may tempt many observers to ask themselves whether, after all, some great change is not working itself out in the inner mentality, if not of the whole German race, at least in the controlling element, in the capital of Berlin. Those qualities of steady perseverance, discipline, frugality, and method so generally accepted as inborn features of the Teuton psychology, are they not disappearing, and is not the profound and rapid change in outward characteristics being sharply reflected in the very centre of the organism?

Without wishing to answer the question with a direct yes or no, it may be to the point to recapitulate a few of the comments on modern Berlin made to me the other day by a traveling American, who had not revisited the capital since before the Franco-Prussian war. "I find," he said, "that one of the most flattered to hear is that one should find this capital 'more wicked' than Paris. The old discussion about the Brandenburg Gate is quite vixen, and as there is wicked and wicked, and in some uses of the word 'wicked' does not mean anything extraordinarily reprehensible, and as the adjective 'gay' is a Parisian monopoly, Berliners are pleased when they are told that 'Berlin is just as wicked as Paris.' And certainly they do a good deal to tempt in foreigner to say that it is so. No night restaurant in Paris has yet advertised as having its orchestra in full swing until six o'clock in the morning; and for two or three cabarets in Montmartre that open only in time for supper one may find twice or three times as many in Berlin opening their doors, and not merely to ventilate the rooms, a full two hours later. "And then, too, the high jinks are confined to no particular corner of the vastness of 'Great Britain.' A good stretch of the Linden is just as animated as the boulevards from evening until the night hours, and yet a third of a mile away Potsdamer Platz keeps far later hours than either the Place de l'Opera, or the Place Piquette. They always say the Berliners do more work in a day than any other German citizen, and possibly it is true; but it is more certain that he has more play. In what city can one find so many orchestras playing after midnight or after one o'clock in the morning? Nowhere in France is there such a show of wine, and in Berlin the cheap wine, the Algerian, does not exist; and in what city are there so many dancing halls, all much more luxurious keeping much later hours, twice as many. And this is not all. It is all very well to suggest that only the aspect and size of the capital have changed, or that the change in the ways of the people have been only superficial; Berlin as a city has altered more than any large town in Europe within the last two generations; but I think many of the new features I have mentioned suggest almost as important a change in the very core of the Berliners' character. ### METHODISTS CANNOT GET ENOUGH MINISTERS

Could Only Engage Twenty Instead of 100 for Work in the West

Toronto, Sept. 11.—Rev. Dr. Carman and the other Methodist general conference officials have had a crisis precipitated upon them by a telegram from England from Rev. Dr. Woodworth. The supply of preachers to fill up the shortage in Canada has vanished.

SUICIDE MANIA PERVADES ITALIAN CAPITAL

Rome, Sept. 11.—Suicidal mania has swept over Rome during the past fortnight. Each day new cases are reported, due, the doctors say, to the intense heat, causing temporary disturbances in the nerve centers. It occurs to some extent every year, but this year it has established a record. The most approved method where love is the underlying cause is to leap over the boundary wall of the Pincio, Rome's favorite pleasure resort since the days of the emperors. In this park a crowd of idlers is to be seen every evening when the setting sun glides the dome of St. Peter's and a glorious panorama is stretched in front of the visitor. On the other side, where the park joins with the villa Borghese, is a wall with a sheer drop of nearly 200 feet, protected only by a breast-high balustrade. To mount this parapet and jump off is an easy matter, in spite of the vigilant watch kept by the police over suspicious loiterers.

Two Filers Fell To Death

London, Sept. 10.—Capt. Patrick Hamilton and Lieut. A. W. Stuart of the Royal Flying Corps of the army fell one thousand feet today in a monoplane and were killed.

MAWSON IN OTTAWA

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Thomas Mawson, the celebrated English landscape artist, who is in Ottawa today en route to Vancouver, for which city he has drafted a scheme of natural development, had a conference with Premier Borden today in regard to the government's plans to further beautify the capital. It is understood that Mr. Mawson made some suggestions which would improve the plans of beautifying the city by the setting up of a permanent commission. Mr. Mawson declined to discuss the report that he is likely to be engaged by the government to carry on the work for the present government.

WET SUMMER SEASON HARD ON SEASIDE RESORTS, BUT BOON TO LONDON

Money That Would Have Been Expended at the Watering Places Has Remained at Home; Smoking Habit Spreads Among Women; 1915 Exhibition

(By W. Hamilton Rhodes)
LONDON, Sept. 11.—The wet summer season has been a boon to London. While the holiday resorts generally are bemoaning their unhappy lot and metaphorically wringing their hands over the thousands of pounds which this year have failed to come their way, London, and particularly that part of West London which lies around Piccadilly and the great parks, is basking in damp prosperity. Many thousands of pounds which in a fine summer would have been carried away from the metropolis to the coast resorts and to the continent have remained "in town," where they are being scattered royally, and the beneficial effects are being felt by all the West-end shops, theatres, restaurants, and tradesmen. Particularly has this been the case during the last six weeks, during which a regular "spending wave" seems to have swept over London. Theatres have announced "standing room only" regularly night by night, the music halls report record houses, restaurants are packed to the last and most out-of-the-way table, and tradespeople of all sorts are doing as much business in a week as they usually do in a month at this period of the year.

The explanation of this unaccountable spending energy put forward by the manager of a famous West-end restaurant, was a very simple one. "People have been hoarding up their money to go away for their holidays," he said, "and now, after waiting in vain all the summer for a spell of fine weather, they have decided to give up the idea of a visit to the seaside and are having a good time in town instead. And so our theatres and restaurants are being filled, and our shopkeepers have unwittingly diverted the golden river which would otherwise have flowed down to the sea."

Of course the conditions which have operated to prevent people from leaving London have also to some extent resulted in a vast number of visitors coming to London. But the main reason has been all on the side of the capital, for a great many people have, after all, come to London for the very reason that "the four amusements" are plentiful.

The bad summer has also stimulated the sale of novels and general literature, and publishers are revelling in the rainy and dark evenings. St. Paul's cathedral is being fire-proofed. This great national fabric, whose safety from subterranean subsidence and fire has been the perpetual concern of architects and surveyors in the past, is today being equipped with a complete installation of fire preventive appliances of any public building in the world. It is noted that when the work is complete a repetition of such disasters as befell the earlier structures in 1293 and 1294 will be beyond the region of possibility.

An intelligent foreigner who visits London must frequently find himself puzzled by the many statues which he comes across in the parks and public squares, puzzled because in so many cases, if any information is obtainable from the inscription on the pedestal as to why the individual in question should be thus honored. "Viscount Palmerston," "Lord Derby, 1785-1869," "Clive 1725-1774," are the brief words of the inscriptions on the memorials which bear these names, and there the matter ends. To the foreigner London is full of mystery stories, and there are some which still baffle Englishmen. There is, for instance, the statue in Trinity Square, Southwark, said to represent Alfred the Great. The crowned figure of stone is over 110 feet high and is set in a niche with a griffin at the waist, the robes are made up in the left hand, and a mantle, fastened at the throat, is worn. Nothing is known as to its origin. It is supposed to represent Alfred the Great, but there is no valid ground for this assumption.

A large number of Americans have visited Cumberland this season to see the great grape vine, which is one of the largest and most interesting in the kingdom, being even larger and finer than the famous vine at Hampton Court. The tree stands between 500 and 600 bunches of grapes, averaging 4 lb. to 5 lb. each, and some even turn the scale at 6 lb. The vine is 120 ft. in length and 20 ft. wide, and covers a roof area of over 2,000 ft. It is nearly 150 years old, and is still reckoned one of the best in Europe. At one time it yielded as many as 2,000 bunches of grapes in a single season, but the quality was not nearly so good as since the number has been more limited. The grapes are of the black Hambourg variety, and they are sent for the use of His Majesty as required. The fruit is said to be of better quality than is produced in any of the vineyards in the royal gardens, and the vines are produced in the various hospitals by order of the King.

It is a far cry to 1915, but arrangements are already well in hand for the great Imperial Exhibition which is to be held at Earl's Court. The date very probably has been carefully chosen, and 1915 will be one of the most memorable years in the century. In that year celebrations in connection with the centenary of the signing of the Magna Charta, and the anniversary of the introduction of steam navigation on the Thames and the seven-hundredth anniversary of the signing of Magna Charta, are being celebrated. Smoking is becoming far more common among women in society. The habit is indulged in more openly than in the past, and it is not uncommon to see a woman motorist who is making calls putting away at a cigarette between visits of a woman going doing the same thing. At many

ARE PREVENTING THE DEATH OF BABIES

Fort William Heads the Provinces in the Prevention of Infant Mortality

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—The report of deaths from cholera infantum during the months of June, July and August coming from Fort William demonstrates what an energetic M. H. O. and a staff of nurses are able to accomplish in preventing infant mortality. Fort William heads the province in this respect. For the last two years the number of breast-fed babies has largely increased, and it is to the efforts of Dr. Woodhouse, M. H. O. of Fort William, that the credit is due. In August, 1910, 29 were the total in the same month in 1911, and only three for the past month.

MANY CLAIMANTS SEEKING RAGPICKER'S GOLD

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 10.—Six hundred claimants began today in the probate court a legal struggle for the $44,000 estate left two years ago by Benjamin Ragpicker, an Illinois character known as "The Millionaire Rag Picker." The probate judge had rejected today what purported to have been a will in favor of an alleged son, Glen Adams Gilbert, of Galesburg, Illinois.

More than sixty of the claimants are in court. The first to be heard was Benjamin Foster Mowman, of Ottawa, Ontario, who believes he is a son of the late rag picker. An attorney for Robert Mowman, of Shannon county, Tennessee, put forth his claim as a brother of the deceased, and also presented the claims of twelve sons and daughters of Robert Mowman's brother and sister. An attorney for Mrs. Ruth A. Cross of Oread, Illinois, will support her claim that she is a daughter of Mowman.

The claimants are from all parts of the country, and the probate judge signified that eight sessions of his court would probably be necessary to expedite the hearing.

THE MARKETS

Winnipeg Wheat

Table with columns: Wheat, Open, High, Low, Close. Data for various wheat grades.

Chicago Wheat

Table with columns: Wheat, Open, High, Low, Close. Data for various wheat grades.

Montreal Cattle

Montreal, Sept. 11.—The feature of the local cattle market today was the break in the prices for lambs. There has been a shortage of lambs for a few weeks, and the prices paid have been up as high as six and three-quarters per pound owing to the good demand. Today the prices dropped 1 to 1 1/2 cents per pound on increased shipments which more than supplied the demand.

Chicago Cattle

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Cattle receipts, 12,000; market heavy, opened steady, closed weak; beef, $5.75 to $13.00; Texas steers, $4.75 to $5.10; western steers, $5.50 to $6.20; stackers and feeders, $4.25 to $7.00; calves, $2.00 to $2.60; calves, $3.50 to $12.00.

Toronto Stocks

Toronto, Sept. 11.—The share market locally was quiet today. There was nothing of special interest in the happenings of the day. The trade was chiefly in odd lots and the movements were irregular. Canadian Pacific railway was weaker at 272 1/2 bid, but the only transaction was a two share lot at 274 early in the day.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Sept. 11.—Demand for butter good. Cheese quiet. Eggs active. Choice—Finest westerns 14 to 14 1/2, finest easterns 13 1/2 to 13 3/4. Butter—Choice creamery 27 to 27 1/4, seconds 25 1/2 to 26 1/4.

Montreal Stocks

Montreal, Sept. 11.—The afternoon opening saw the local issues in fairly good demand, and with generally a tendency to maintain gains of the morning. Laurentide, however, after opening at 206 1/4, a quarter below the morning close, eased off to 205 on considerable of the stock coming out of Montreal cottons common was firm at 62 1/2, and Canadian cottons dull at 61 1/2.

London Money

London, Sept. 11.—Money was easier today. Discount rates were firm, owing to fears of the hold demand increasing with lightning money rates abroad. The general settlement registered a chief attention of 4 1/2 per cent on the stock exchange. Carryover charge was higher; Americans being quoted at 4 1/2 per cent; business for the week was cheerful especially in home and Mexican rates, Persian stocks and gold mines. Grand Trunk Canada and Sao Paulo rails were quiet. American securities were quiet and featureless during the forenoon. Prices advanced a fraction after Wall Street opened.

New York Stocks

New York, Sept. 11.—Higher money markets and depressing influence upon today's stock market. Call money opened at 4 1/4 per cent. The highest initial price of the present movement at mid-day as much as 1 1/2 per cent was paid. Later the market related slightly, but not until a number of leading issues had suffered declines of 1 and 2 points. Local indications pointing strongly to a deficit of the excess cash reserves which went to such a low ebb last Saturday. Fervidness in foreign exchanges gave rise to rumors of impending gold imports, which lacked confirmation in reports later.

The market made its lowest price level in the last hour of the accompaniment of greater activity than at any previous time of the session; Canadian Pacific and Reading being the weakest of the railway issues, with a great deal of pressure against United States steel. Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting. Other less prominent issues, playing the tobacco group, were to be noted.

London's operations here were unimportant. The general settlement in London was marked by the higher carryover of the Americans being quoted at 4 1/2 per cent. There was more activity and a further shading of prices in the bond market. Total sales par value $1,000,000. United States government bonds unchanged on call.

CORN CROP OF UNITED STATES REACHES A COLOSSAL FIGURE

(Continued from Page 8.) grow because the seed is defective. Yet a test of its vitality is easy. The average production of the country is a more intelligent cultivation of the soil, through a right preparation of the soil, through proper fertilization, through a revivifying rotation of crops, through drainage, through right harvesting. There are many things with reference to corn growing that are the necessary accompaniment of the corn growing in the life business of many farmers there would seem to be a general neglect of the soil. This neglect of the soil might result in raising the present amount of corn on half the acreage, and allowing the farmer to use the soil for other purposes.

Family Pride in Corn

With an understanding of these things came the development of independent strains of corn. For generation after generation certain breeders selected their strains and bred to certain ends. Certain strains were built up that would produce more than other strains. There was much competition in the matter of the pedigree of a given ear of corn came to be recognized as of vastly more importance than the pedigree of a horse that was breaking world records. For the corn was producing millions of wealth, where the horse was merely gratifying the admiring tastes of fanciers.

In Illinois, Kansas, Iowa, and many other communities, were developed certain strains that were superior to all others. These were owned by seed men, who profited greatly by their highly developed strains. And here, again, did the mistake of agriculture find another partner to set right. The seed that produced most of the corn in the United States is all over the country. The Department tried it out in Texas, Virginia and other sections. It was exactly fitted for that climate and soil. It did not fit a different climate and soil. It was not a different climate and soil. It was not a different climate and soil. It was not a different climate and soil.

So the department set out to develop given strains in different sections, get them acclimated and into use among the farmers. It used its influence in inducing the farmers to do the same thing. Very rapidly indeed this is being brought about. The South is at present in need of better corn. The young men in the boys' corn clubs are doing the best work along these lines. They are selling the ears of their plots for $3 a bushel for seed.

Having thus developed many varieties of very excellent seed, a new plan was adopted in the field, and of considering not only the ear but the stalk upon which it stood. In this way not only a better ear but a better stalk was reproduced. An additional two bushels were borne by each ear. By this time a great deal of attention was being given to seed corn and new features began to develop. It was found that in corn as in other crops, the seed that is selected is of a better quality than the rest. growing four good ears to the hill is greatly increased. The necessity of getting soil in the proper condition, or preventing its exhaustion, of properly fertilizing it, of properly draining it, and of many other phases of soil care, are peculiar to each region and often to each farm. Intelligent taking thought may solve the given problem in the given place. There are representatives of the department of agriculture in every community in the United States. Most of the states have studied the problems that are peculiar to them. These authorities have worked out the problems that are going to present themselves to the farmer. There is no need in his spending years in learning from experience. The farmer should get in touch with these authorities.
