THE MAYOR'S DUPLICITY.

COMPELLED TO PRODUCE CHRISTOPHER ROBINSON'S LETTER.

Balking Mr. Blake's Amendments—A Short History of the Way in Which the Street Railway Legislation is Retarded—In the Mayor a Better Lawyer Than Robinson and Blake.

The more the street railway matter is probed the more certain does it become that Mayor Fleming is guilty of duplicity toward the council and the citizens, and that instead of withdrawing from his original mistake he has resorted to discreditable means to cover his conduct. If he claims that the council is backing him up in resisting Mr. Blake's amendments the claim is only made good by admitting that he deliberately suppressed Christopher Robinson's opinion in the matter, when he ought to have given it to the council and when he was possessed of it; that he, when he received that opinion in writing, refused to give it to the press and public; and that last night when he, with a delegation, memorialized the Attorney-General on the matter, it was only under compulsion that the letter was read, and even after that it was refused to the press. But The World is able this morning to present that opinion to the public and to the aldermen, and can judge of the duplicity for itself.

But let us first give a short review of the case:

A Short Chronology.
Monday, March 23: The bill was finally settled by Messrs. Blake and Bigger for the city and McCarthy, Moss and Kingmill for the Street Railway Company.

Mr. Blake on the same day wrote to the council and his letter was presented that evening to the council. Mr. Bigger, the City Solicitor, attended the council that evening and explained the amendments agreed to by council for both sides that afternoon, and they were adopted by a vote of 16 to 8 after a long debate.

Tuesday, March 29: In the morning these amendments, as passed by the council the previous evening, were presented by Mr. Blake and Mr. Bigger, on behalf of the City Council, to the Legislative Committee, in the presence of the Mayor and in the presence of Messrs. Kingmill and Laidlaw, on behalf of the company.

Thursday, March 31: A long conference took place between Christopher Robinson, S. H. Blake, Q.C., C. R. W. Bigger, and the Mayor. This was the conference to which Mr. Robinson in his letter further on.

Well met the same night. Ald. B. moved, seconded by Ald. Shaw, that the Mayor and Ald. Shaw be a special committee to submit a series of questions to Messrs. Robinson, Blake and the City Solicitor, to be answered by the council at its next meeting.

On this motion Ald. Crawford, Gowanlock, McMurich, Saunders, Venable, and Yon, all the rest of the council voted against it, and it was negatived by a majority of 11.

The Mayor spoke against this resolution, but he concealed from the council that after himself had a conference that afternoon with Mr. Robinson, Mr. Blake and the City Solicitor. It will be seen from Mr. Robinson's letter that such a conference had been held.

The resolution to strike out the amendments adopted at the previous meeting was then carried by the casting vote of the Mayor. Ald. Crawford, who voted for the reference of the matter to a special committee, was excused from voting on the ground that it was a question of law, and that he wanted the opinion of Christopher Robinson before he could vote intelligently. But the Mayor, though possessed of Christopher Robinson's opinion, did not supply it to Ald. Crawford or any of his colleagues.

If the Mayor had frankly and honestly informed the council that night of the conference between Messrs. Robinson, Blake, Bigger and the Mayor, and that Mr. Robinson fully concurred with Mr. Blake, and was of opinion that the amendments ought to be passed, the council would have been wiser in not passing the resolution to strike out the amendments.

Mr. Morat composed the production of Christopher Robinson's letter.

Last night the Mayor, the City Solicitor and several of the aldermen who voted with the Mayor on his change of policy waited on the Attorney-General and presented a memorial asking in effect that the amendments agreed to by Mr. Blake and Mr. Bigger be struck out of the bill.

The Attorney-General reserved announcing what the course of the Government would be, but requested counsel to furnish him with authorities on the point of power to withdraw from agreements entered into by council and embodied in a bill before a Legislative committee, and passed by that committee.

After the conference The World asked the Mayor for a copy of Christopher Robinson's letter, but he stoutly refused to give it. But The World got it, nevertheless, and here it is:

Mr. Robinson's Letter.

Toronto, April 1, 1892.
DEAR MR. MAYOR:—The matter discussed in my long conversation with you, and the Mayor and Mr. Blake may come up again, in some form, and while it is in my mind, and while it will not long remain, it may be well to make a note of the opinion which I entertained, and of what I believe in substance.

As you are aware I have taken no part in framing the proposed bill, or the specifications on agreement or in the negotiations leading up to them. I had, in fact, seen none of the papers until yesterday, nor have

A COMPARTMENT TRAGEDY.

SENSATIONAL OCCURRENCE ON A WELSH RAILWAY.

A Child Assaulted by a Male Traveller—Opening of the Deeming Trial at Melbourn—Awful Triple Murder in Belfast—Anarchists Still Active.

LONDON, April 6.—Passengers in a compartment of a car attached to a train en route for Ruxton, a town of Denbighshire, Wales, were startled to-day by hearing piercing shrieks coming from the rear of the train.

Upon looking out they saw a girl about 15 years old standing upon the foot-board of the train, and in the act of being dragged by the hands with all her strength.

The train was running at a good rate of speed and it appeared as though she would be thrown to the ground.

With great difficulty and at great risk she made her way along the foot-board to the next compartment where she was taken in.

Her clothing was disarranged and she was in a terrible state of excitement.

She was quieted and then explained that she and an unknown man were the sole occupants of the compartment she had left.

The man had engaged her in conversation and finally had made improper proposals to her.

When she refused his advances, whereupon he had seized her and, despite her resistance and her cries for help, which were drowned by the rumbling of the train, had brutally assaulted her.

When she escaped from his grasp she jumped out of the train, and, fearing arrest, and fearing that she would be taken to court, she fled to the next station, where she was met by a friend.

The girl's name is Williams. She was when the man seized her she reached out and tried to pull the alarm cord, but found it was broken.

When the next station was reached police were notified of the occurrence and a search was made for the girl's assailant. No trace of him was found.

DISCUSSING THE CHARGES.

THE GOVERNMENT DECLINES TO SUPPORT EDGAR'S MOTION.

Sir Adolphe Explanatorily Denies That There is Anything in the Allegations—Sir John Thompson's Statement—The First Division of the Session Sustains the Government by 23 Majority.

OTTAWA, April 6.—The impeachment of Sir A. P. O'Brien was solemnly brought before the House this afternoon. At 4 o'clock sharp by the clock on his left, Mr. Edgar rose in his place, gracefully placing his right hand in his right hand trousers pocket, grasped the order paper with his left hand, and for two minutes by the clock on the right of the Speaker read the printed edition of the four pages of typewritten charges against Sir Adolphe O'Brien, of which he had given notice.

The first "word" of his was "I, Edgar, do hereby charge Sir Adolphe O'Brien with the following offences:

At five minutes past four Mr. Edgar concluded his motion, took his hand out of his pocket, placed the order paper on his desk, and, as an introduction to his motion, pulled them apart and set down rather suddenly a faint attempt at applause from his side of the House.

Then Mr. Speaker rose to read the motion and was met with prompt cries of "dispute," "dispute," but Sir John Thompson looked straight before him, Mr. Speaker read the motion, and, after a few minutes and a half to get through.

Then Assistant Clerk Renshaw arose and read an alleged French translation of the motion.

The final "word" of the Speaker's ruling Club, held in their spacious parlors last night, was a great success.

A large and varied program had been prepared and each of the numbers was well received. The vocalists who took part were: Messrs. W. R. Ramsey, W. K. Kain, A. Baker, Harry Barker, J. Bryon Munde, Charles Walters and John Linton.

For the last time this city and was endorsed to the echo. He used the handsome coat presented to him by Walsley, Joyce & Co. Mr. Ben Alderson gave a piccolo solo, and Messrs. McDonald and McLean performed on the harp and guitar.

Edward Hansen gave a first-class exhibition of his roving machine, which was greatly appreciated. A musical sketch by Messrs. Gill and Shelton was probably the most skillful and humorous of the evening.

Mr. Hues of the "Wilkinson's Weekly" gave a first-class exhibition of the "Pete Baker" troupe, which was the most amusing of the evening.

The Argonauts succeeded in winning the next two rounds, and the contest was a close one. The great event of the evening was the final pull in the tug-of-war between the "Dons" and "Argonauts."

Ned Hansen acted as referee and the contest was a close one. The Dons won the final pull by 14 inches.

Blocking Progress.
We direct the attention of the business men and of the property-owners of Toronto to the conduct of Mayor Fleming as revealed in our news columns, in dealing with the street railway question. Why is he and his organs attempting so determinedly to oppose progress? They do not want to take the advice of S. H. Blake and Christopher Robinson on matters of law, and they do not want to follow the true line of progress adopted though it has been demonstrated over and over again that it is the only line which will result in the speedy and complete solution of the problem.

Let the cool-headed men of the town think this over. Are we in the hands of cranks, and are there cranks to bar the progress of the city?

Two Great Men.
And now Senator Russell is likening himself to Sir Robert Peel, who "rattled" on the Protectionists. There are differences, however, between them two wonderful men, and there are between the circumstances of Canada and of Great Britain. We are proud to think that our country should have produced a Russell, and had he lived in England 50 years ago we are convinced, now that we have read his letter to Mr. Laurier, that he would have been in it with him.

What a mass of new and startling arguments! What a mass of new and startling arguments! What a mass of new and startling arguments!
