TECHNOLOGY SCHOOLS FOR NOVA SCOTIA.

Nova Scotia is to have a system of technical education, with a central college at Halifax, the initial capital cost to be about $100,000. Premier Murray introduced his technical education bill, the first government measure to be brought forward this session. The premier referred briefly to the importance of technical education, quoting Germany as a country whose prosperity had largely resulted from its superior educational system along these lines.

The bill provides for the appointment by the governor-in-council of a director of technology who will have supervision over the entire administration of technical education throughout the province, but will work under the council of public instruction.

Provision is made for the establishment in Halifax, at an approximate cost of $100,000, of a central college of technology. This will contain departments in mining, metallurgy, chemistry and electricity. The director will act as principal of the central college.

Local schools of technology of a more elementary character than the central college may be established in various industrial centres throughout the province.

These will only be established, however, upon the recommendation of the director as to the needs of the locality and its willingness to contribute financially toward such an institution.

The existing mining schools will also be brought under the inspection of the director of technology and constitute a third department in the government's general scheme of technical education.

The premier contends that the provisions of the measure, when carried into effect, will place Nova Scotia ahead of any province in the Dominion in so far as technical education is concerned.

Agricultural STRONG LIGHT ON DAIRY PROBLEMS

(N. E. Homestead.)

A number of important points bearing on the problems of New England dairymen were brought out clearly in the recent address of F. R. Dawley, of New York, before the Massachusetts state board of agriculture which had its annual meeting in Springfield, Mr. Dawley gave a very comprehensive and interesting address on the subject of "Producing sanitary milk. Among other things he said: "There are five conditions which determine the value of milk for human food. Same may differ with me in the order in which I give these prominently, but I place first, the health and physical condition of the cow; second, the composition of the milk; third, its cleanliness and the cleanliness of the surroundings where produced; fourth, its flavor, taste and odor; fifth, its color and general appearance."

"I have found by costly experience that it does not pay in the long run to feed costly registered cattle as heavily as I like to feed my producing herds. This is not because the thoroughbreds cannot stand quite heavy feeding for a time, but the time is too short before injury is manifest. For our home supply we have always selected a registered Jersey cow, fed her moderately, known that she was free from tuberculosis and fed the children on such milk. The average test for our family cows the past fifteen years is 3.2 per cent butter fat."

Results show that the greatest source of contamination in milk is ordinarily produced in the milking and this is doubly important as it is the source which has given attention actual practice. The advantages of using covered pails with small openings in milking or handling milk should be thoroughly sterilized. It is not enough that the pails and cans be washed. They should be thoroughly scalded with steam or boiling water. In all dairy operations soda should be used instead of soap. "Some have thought that pasteurization is going to solve all the difficulties regarding our milk supply. However, pasteurization unless more thorough and complete than is usually given in a commercial way, kills only the lactic acid germs which are placed in the milk as a protection, while the pathological germs which are really a menace to health are left in an alkaline instead of an acid medium, already to multiply when other conditions are favorable. The fact that this idea of pasteurization has been exploited so greatly at our dairy and other conventions has led many farmers to believe that it is a cure for all evils."

EDUCATIONAL WORK

THAT COUNTED.

"In New York twelve years ago the average milk production for the cows in the state was only three thousand pounds and the average butter production was one hundred and twenty-seven pounds. In our institutes and through other agricultural agencies we began a systematic campaign of education. In season and out of season we urged the necessity of better cows, better feed, better price, and better care. Ten years later, returns showed that owing largely to this campaign, the average cow in New York was giving four thousand six hundred pounds milk annually and could make one hundred and eighty-five pounds butter. If the average cow twelve years ago was worth thirty-five dollars and gave three thousand pounds milk, how much is the average cow giving four thousand six hundred pounds milk worth?"

"While it is true that much clean milk goes to the market in cans, the bottles filled at the farm and securely kept are the most satisfactory. The equipment is quite expensive, but the extra milk which is lost in dipping, together with that which is spoiled, will, it is claimed by many producers, pay the cost of the bottles. It should be remembered, however, that unless they are properly cared for, the glass bottles may not be the most satisfactory way of delivery."

"The methods of milk delivery are still primitive and vexatious and the producer is obliged to travel too far to deliver his product and it is not in as good condition as it should be when the producer receives it. In a Massachusetts city I am told that on one city block a few weeks ago, seventeen different milk wagons traversed the block in one day and made deliveries. While there is a growing demand for certified milk, the amount sold is comparatively small. The demand is bound to increase."

HAS PROFITABLE COWS.

A return of two hundred dollars in one year from one cow is worth while. This is the record of Molly Fyffe, No. 16,061, the fine Ayrshire animal owned by Henry Dorrance of Windham county. The account for one year is: five hundred and forty-four tons milk sold to the Elm Farm Milk Co., Boston, one hundred and forty-four dollars; second prize Ayrshire home dairy test, 1904-5, twenty dollars; prizes at two local fairs, eleven dollars; a nice heifer calf, twenty-five dollars; total two hundred dollars. Her record in the advanced registry test is 5711 pounds milk, 433 pounds butter in one year. Her record at Valley fair milk and butter test this year was 391 pounds milk and 166 pounds butter in 24 hours. "My aim in breeding," writes Mr. Dorrance, "is to raise an animal of strong dairy type, but with an animal that will stand a life of hard work in the dairy without breaking down. The practice of breeding I consider sometimes necessary to accomplish desired results, but practice it to a very limited extent, and then the animals should be very carefully mated."

"I consider roots and silage two of the most important feeds for the practical dairyman. I think the dairymen of the present day should at least keep a pure-bred bull and raise their heifer calves, always from the best cows. The cheapness of spring scales and the willingness of the state agricultural colleges to test the farmer's milk leaves no excuse for not knowing which are the unprofitable cows. My standard for a mature cow is eight thousand five hundred pounds milk and three hundred and seventy-five pounds butter in one year. If the cow cannot do this her place is filled by another."

GROWING THE HUBBARD SQUASH.

The following article on "Hubbard Squash" taken from the columns of an exchange should prove useful—

I live on a sandy farm, which is good for vines of any kind. As frost comes early, I have the seed in the ground early. The ground is well manured, plowed and harrowed, or if old ground it is manured after it is ploughed, then harrowed until it is smoothed down and soot, ready to go.

The hills are made about eight feet each way and about a pint of phosphate put in each hill. Five seeds are placed in a hill and when they get up past the second leaf they are thinned to no more than three. As soon as the plants are up they must be weeded, or the little striped bugs will destroy the crop. They must therefore, be well started before they are thinned. I use a tablespoon of saltpetre in a pail of water to wet the hills. If this is done for a few nights the bugs will not do much harm, as the saltpetre makes the vines grow and also helps kill the bugs. Be sure to apply at night, as the bugs go in the ground at night and will not come out in the morning if well desiccated. I use it until the vines are growing very fast.

On cold nights I cover the squash plants with brass sacks. After the squashes have well set I clip the ends of the vines to send the strength into the fruit already formed and to make them mature faster. Before a hard freeze I gather and grade the squash in piles. I save only the best for market, as I am more likely to get a ready sale that way. The poor ones are carried to the hog house and there are fed as needed. The squashes can now be covered easily and after they are well ripened they are carried to a corner of the horse barn and there they stay until the ground begins to freeze or until they are in danger of freezing, then they are placed in a warm room over the kitchen until sold ready to use.

Squashes being a ready sale unless they are too plentiful. If they can be kept until spring a higher price is secured.

NOVA SCOTIA'S IMMIGRATION AGENT.

I. B. Oakes, of Wolfville, recently appointed an agent of the Dominion Immigration Department, has been at Ottawa receiving instructions, and expects to sail from here for England on Saturday on the Allan liner Victorian. On his arrival in London Mr. Oakes will report to Bruce J. Walker, General Superintendent of British Immigration for Canada. The new agent will devote himself exclusively to attracting settlers to Nova Scotia. The Province of Quebec has also an agent in the Old Country. Agriculturists are what Nova Scotia needs, both ordinary farm laborers and moneyed men who can buy farms and settle upon them. Men of these classes Mr. Oakes will try to interest in Nova Scotia, travelling throughout the farming districts of England and Scotland. Although lately a resident of Wolfville, where for several years he was principal of Horton Collegiate Academy, Mr. Oakes was for a period of seventeen years a school teacher and inspector in New Brunswick.

sure. I have learned never to put them in a damp or cold place or down cellar. I sold about sixteen dollars worth one year from about one-half acre of ground. In 1904, great pains were taken to get good seed and I have some of the best squashes I have ever raised.

A large farm under its owner's eye and brain today requires the masterful man as a trained student of nature and her laws, as an executive, as a buyer and seller, as a trained observer and a close student of mechanism. His outdoor life and varied habits and training will make of him the man best rounded mentally and physically of all the vocations. So far as I can see let the public welcome this larger man on the farm. He will enrich country life and the nation.—Prof. Sanborn, New Hampshire.

It requires about one-half as much grain to produce a hundred pounds of gain on calves as on two year-olds. The work of the Missouri Agricultural College has definitely demonstrated that the most profitable age to fatten cattle is while they are still young. The older the animal, the more food is required to produce a given gain. Other stations have also investigated this question and have arrived at the same results. Prof. Munford, Missouri.

PAYS TO REFORM BOYS.

In order to find out whether it pays a state to maintain reformatories for the care and training of bad boys, a writer in the "World Today" took at random eighty names from the list of boys paroled to Chicago from the Illinois State Reformatory during the last five years and found their earnings were nearly forty thousand dollars a year. The highest salary was one hundred dollars a month and the lowest twenty dollars and board. Many were earning eighty, seventy, sixty-five, sixty and fifty-two dollars monthly.

The average wages of the more than six hundred boys, who have faithfully kept their parole during that time can be safely estimated at the average above given, $500 a year. And as that number are now still steadily employed, so far as is known, their annual productive value is $300,000.

Making a very conservative estimate, the sixty-five per cent only of the more than two thousand boys who have been sent back to Chicago have become good citizens, and taking the average earnings just given, these thirteen hundred young men are annually receiving six hundred and fifty thousand dollars for their services.

Taking the same average of sixty-five per cent of the six thousand boys already paroled from the institution, and of the earnings just enumerated, we have two million dollars as the amount annually paid them. Applying the same low average of relocations and earnings to the more than thirteen thousand inmates discharged from the Elmira Reformatory, we find the annual sum paid them to be more than four million dollars.

Thus the graduates of two out of the ten adult reformatories in the United States are being "paid out" more than six million dollars a year. They are earning an amount equal to the entire annual expenditure of all the reformatory and industrial schools in the United States.

things to the fair-haired little girl who brided the mats that no one wanted, for Aunt Eunice had a wealth of strange and many colored rugs she had made herself.

But Cyrilla longed to be of some use, and in the intervals of braiding rugs she knitted innumerable socks and mittens. She looked almost with envy at her cousin Flora, moving swiftly here and there all day long,
for motion like that was impossible to Cyrilla, with her lame and crooked back.

Her Uncle Nelson had brought her home when her mother died, and her Aunt Eunice had made her welcome.
But she knew it was an added burden;
and she tried eagerly to make the burden less, loving everybody, and desiring feverishly to help her aunt about the work, and her uncle, whom she adored, about the farm. They were fervent prayers she whispered in the meeting house, and bitter tears she shed at home. Her arms were strong; she could beat eggs and chop the mince-meat; but on the whole she felt she was useless.

The farm lay on the edge of the marshes behind the sand-dunes. Sometimes she heard at night the roar of the distant surf, but the loam of the breakers and the glow of the lighthouses were hidden by the dunes. Cyrilla loved the summer odors of the deep-green levels melting into violet, the mist, the little white sails skimming through unseen channels, and the gundalow with its dark square canvas above the load of salt hay winding up the wider stream between the sand-dunes, the haycocks still waiting to be brought home.

ting the sheaf that grew twelve feet high, and low tides and strong summer suns having made it dry underfoot. They had carried baskets of peas and cake, and all had floated home on top of the hay of the big gundalow, singing and calling, laughing and silent, in the broad moon light. And at the landing her uncle had lifted her in his arms and carried her home.
This year had been a fine one for the grass, and a great deal of what on the salt meadows had been left stocked on the stables to be hauled off when the marsh should freeze over.
"Will, wife," said Uncle Nelson, one raw winter night, "I guess we'll be going down to the Big Sand tomorrow
morn'g, and bring' off the salt hay.
The cold spell has frozen the marsh pretty stiff. There's a couple of down-steps waiting there. There's been a little more sun today than I just like, and it's setting in a bank of cloud with the wind to the southward. I guess I shan't be any too soon."

"But father, it's going to be melting, I don't believe the marsh will hold."

"Guess I'll have to risk it. If the thaw gets hold, it'll just flood the meadow and sweep the hay out to sea."

"But father, it's going to be melting, I don't believe the marsh will

"Guess I'll have to risk it. If the no further question with him, but there were the men. "You and Dan might take part of the teams and hay and get back to the barns," he said.

"Not by a long chalk!" said Parks.
"I guess we won't leave all that's down there to swim out to sea."

"I'll take the boys with it if it does," said John.

"I don't know," said Mr. Nelson.
"It looks now as if the storm was bent on mischief. Perhaps it'll need us all to get the boys off."

"It was still early in the afternoon when they reached Black Creek; but the gale had brought twilight with it instead of finding the tide falling, as they expected, they found the wind blowing it in again at a rate which would flood the whole marsh island before morning and sweep the hay
out of sight."

"Since we put our shoulders to the plow," said Mr. Nelson, "it doesn't seem just the thing to look back."

LA GRIPPE

This distressing and unfortunately very common malady easily takes rank among the very "meanest" of the diseases to which people living in this climate are liable.
La Grippe is no respecter of persons; it attacks the young and the old, the rich and the poor with the utmost impartiality.
Except in the cases where Pneumonia develops, La Grippe is seldom directly fatal; the real danger lies in the after effects. Even when the patient has fairly well recovered from an attack (and it is very hard to tell just when he has fully recovered), the muscles are relaxed, the nerves unstrung, the heart and lungs weak, the throat and bronchial tubes irritable and tender and the whole system depressed, run-down and in no condition to resist the attack of any other disease to which it may be exposed.

FERROL

a scientifically prepared emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus, palatable, digestible and effective.
FERROL contains just what the run down system needs and all it requires. Cod Liver Oil to restore the lost flesh and make what is left firm and healthy, Iron to enrich the impoverished blood and restore elasticity and firmness to the relaxed muscles, Phosphorus to tone the nerve and brain as nothing else will.

Two or three bottles of FERROL, taken after the acute stage of La Grippe has passed, will do more to repair damages than can possibly be accomplished in any other way. Try it and see.

Looking back and laughing.
Poor little Cyrilla did not feel like laughing. She would like to go to Mrs Dunton's, too; but of course that was not to be thought of. She had sent mittens and socks, but it was not because she stayed away that she did not feel like laughing. She thought of her uncle and the boys.

"They'll catch awful colds," said Cyrilla.

"They don't catch cold so much,"
said Mrs. Nelson. "But something must have happened. Why, see how early it's getting dark! And the storm's grown worse instead of better.
I declare, I'm worried!"

"There was a long silence. It seemed as if the clock had never ticked so loud."

"They'll be chilled to the bone when they do come," said Mrs. Nelson. "I guess I'd better have things hot for them." She built up the fire and then set the teakettle forward. "We may as well get supper early," she said.

"They'll be nearly starved. Where do you suppose they are? There's a light in Mrs. Brown's dairy—they've milked already. We'll have some dip-toast, anyway," she said, hurrying about to diverse her mind. "He likes that. And scrambled eggs—well, I won't scramble them till he comes; but I'll break 'em into the pan, and you might be betting 'em up Cyrilla; your arms are stronger than mine."

And although Cyrilla knew it was only to fill her thoughts for the time being, she beat the eggs with a will.
"I declare, I hate to light the lamp," said her aunt. "But I'll have to.
The dark shuts down like a dish cover. I can't sit in the dark not knowing what's become of your uncle and the boys this weather. And Billy's chest isn't strong. I know what's happened! They're lost on the marsh!
There isn't a light in sight there.
They can't tell which way to go."

She fell into her chair and threw her apron over her head, and sobbed aloud.

Cyrilla sobbed, too; but her thoughts were seeking some way to help. If only she knew how to build a bonfire! But no bonfire would burn in these floods of rain, even could one be lighted for the wind. And then her thought touched another point—if they could not have a light to guide them, they might hear a sound that would help them. And she thought of the horn her aunt blew to call the men to dinner; but the storm would blow the sound back, and nothing would be heard.

The Weekly Monitor

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13, 1907.

The election of a mayor for Bridgetown took place on Saturday last. The two candidates were W. J. Hoyt and W. D. Lockett. One hundred and forty-eight votes were cast, one hundred and seven being in favor of Mr. Lockett, giving him a majority of sixty-six votes.

The new mayor took his seat at the council board last evening. His associates are Councillors Longstre, Cahler, DeWitt, Chute, Freeman and Charlton.

Mayor Lockett has already served several times on the council board, and has proved himself an energetic and capable member. It was under his supervision that the sewer construction was put through last year. He will therefore bring to bear upon the present situation the tuition of experience as well as native tact and judgment.

One of the first things the new council will have to deal with will be the debentures issued for the installation of the water system which mature on July 1st. The necessary legislation however, was passed a year ago, so that a new loan will be negotiated probably at a lower percentage than the last which was at five per cent. The sum borrowed was twenty-two thousand five hundred dollars.

An economical administration of town finances is hoped for, as the outlay has been quite heavy since incorporation, but the town has gained advantages which it could not have without cost, and for which no farther outlay will be needed for years to come. If some effective and at the same time economical system could be devised for improvement of our roads and sidewalks the present needs of our town would be amply provided for.

BILL TO QUALIFY POLL TAXPAYERS TO VOTE

In the House of Assembly last week Hon. Mr. Drysdale introduced a bill to amend chapter 71 Revised Statutes the Towns' Incorporation Act. He said the bill was intended to increase the number of people required to procure incorporation of towns in the Province.

Mr. Tanner moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Towns' Incorporation Act. He stated that the object of the bill was to qualify poll tax payers to vote for Mayor and Councillors at town elections. At the present time there was a certain amount of confusion on the subject. The law was clear, when properly interpreted, that poll tax payers could not be registered but in some of the towns they were put on the list and voted, while in others they were not put on. He proposed to put them all on the same level, and to enable them to vote. Another reason for the change was that under present amendment of the law, poll tax payers were now liable to be taxed up to $6, and in some towns they were required to pay $5, and in others $3, and in others $4. The result was that a poll tax payer might now be required to pay a larger tax than a man who was rated in the ordinary way.

The bill was read a second time and referred to the committee on law amendments.

THE LOCAL MARKET.

There has been a slight change in the market prices of variable products since the first of the year. Feeds are scarce and high, and with the exception of corn meal have advanced $3.00 a ton at wholesale. Flour remains steady. Pork by the carcass has been high this winter, bringing eight and nine cents, ham and bacon ranging from sixteen to twenty cents. Butter remains at twenty and twenty-two cents. Eggs made a sudden drop the beginning of this week, following a drop in the St. John market, where some of our merchants have been selling them for thirty-two cents a dozen by the case. While the price here was thirty cents last week they are now bringing only twenty-two cents.

Following are the prices of some of the staples:
Eggs, 25c.
Butter, 20-22c.
Pork by carcass, 8-9c.
Ham by the lb., 18c.
Bacon, rolled, 16c.
Bacon, flat, 20c.
Cranberries, 10c.
Beef, roast, 12c.
Beef, steak, 14-15c.
Oats, bag, 55c.
Cornmeal, bag, $1.45
Bean, bag, $1.30
Middings, bag, 1.40-1.45
Cotton Seed, bag, 1.50

Yarmouth Times.—It seems to be a fact that McKenzie and Mann have purchased the steamer Senlac, the price named being $60,000. Delivery is to be made in May. It is expected will be put on the route this summer between Port Wade and the States. Eastport has been mentioned as the American terminus.

Fatal Accident

WILLIAM J. PIGGOTT INSTANTLY KILLED.

Bridgetown was greatly shocked yesterday to learn of the sudden death by accident of Wm. J. Piggott, of Centerville, a progressive farmer living on the Calvin Corbett place a short distance from this town.

Mr. Piggott in company with a neighbor, Edward Rice, was shedding wood and had a heavy load drawn by a pair of horses. While driving through the pasture, the horses turned slightly off the road in rounding a curve or passing some obstacle and the sled was overturned on top of Mr. Piggott who had been walking beside the sled. Mr. Rice, a short distance behind, saw the accident, and hurrying to the spot, found the sled lying upon the crushed form of his friend, death having been instantaneous. Unable to right the load he summoned help and finally the lifeless form was extricated and tender hands conveyed the remains to his home, the news of the catastrophe having been broken in as gentle a manner as possible to the buzzard family.

Mr. Piggott was the eldest son of John Piggott, and son-in-law of the late Calvin Corbett. He was highly esteemed by his neighbors and friends and enjoyed the confidence and respect of all with whom he came in contact. The deepest sympathy is expressed for his family, and especially for his wife, who with two young children, a son and daughter, survives him and who has been in ill-health for some time. Mr. John Piggott left on Monday to take a steamer at Halifax for a trip to England. The sad message was forwarded to him and he will return home today. The funeral will take place tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon.

Three Collisions on I. C. R.

PASSENGERS ON THE EXPRESS HAD NARROW ESCAPE—CRASH INTO A FREIGHT TRAIN AS IT WAS GOING ON SIDING.

North Sydney, March 10.—A series of railway collisions on the I. C. R. occurred on Friday night and Saturday, all of which, fortunately, were attended with no fatal results. The first to come to grief was a freight train, which left the track near Glenarry on Friday night, delaying No. 19 about an hour and a half.

The second, and what was a miraculous escape for many passengers on the fast express, occurred at Christmas Island, when the accommodation train was run into by the express. The accommodation which was running from Sydney to Point Turner had ordered to go on the siding at Christmas Island, in order to allow the express to pass. The accommodation was going in on the siding when the express pulled out, the latter crashing into the rear box car and van, demolishing both. For considerable distance No. 19 tore up the track, and the passengers on both trains received more or less of a shaking up in addition to a bad scare. The forward part of one engine was also badly smashed, but luckily was able to proceed on her way to Sydney after an hour and a half delay.

TWO FREIGHTS COLLIDED.

The next accident followed several hours later, when the incoming fast freight crashed into the rear of a special freight. The accident occurred near North Sydney Junction at a place called "Rabbits Siding," when a special freight was being shunted preparatory for a run westward. The van on the freight was demolished, but outside of a little damage to the track, the accident amounted to nothing.

Y. M. C. A. EXHIBITION.

That the interest of the citizens in the young men of the town is not dead, was quite evident from the number that attended the Y. M. C. A. exhibition, last Monday night. The program which was a lengthy one was successfully carried out. The work done was free from the individualism which is often a prominent feature in such exhibitions.

The calisthenic drill by thirty girls and boys was an example of the work of body building that is carried on every day. The racing, jumping, mat and box work, while lacking much of the fancy work done by many gymnasts, was work that will fit man for the many places in life that call for men of physical ability and endurance.

The relay race between the girls and boys was won by the former. The volley ball match between the business men and young men was won by young men.

The affair closed by torch swinging which was appreciated by all.

IN Newfoundland, Seven Lives Were Lost

St. Johns, Nfld., March 8.—A heavy blizzard has raged throughout Newfoundland for the past 48 hours, blocking railway lines and damaging shipping. An unknown fishing vessel with seven men, foundered on the South Coast of the Island and all hands were lost.

The high gale drove three vessels, all schooners, seaward and the crews were obliged to abandon the crafts to save their lives. On account of the blockade on the railway, six hundred sealers on their way to St. Johns to join sealing steamers for the purpose of sailing Monday are unable to reach here. Business in many places is at a standstill.

Sydney Mines, N. S., March 8.—John Brown, the eighteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, this town, perished in the terrific blizzard that prevailed yesterday. The young man was going from his parents' home at Bog Row to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lockman, about a quarter of a mile distant. The unfortunate young man left home during the height of the blizzard, and this morning was found dead near Mr. Lockman's gate. The body was immediately taken to the undertaking rooms of J. R. Francis, where an inquest will be held.

TWO SERIOUS ACCIDENTS.

In the blinding snow storm yesterday two men, named James and John MacLeod, employed at Sydney No. 1 Colliery, while coming from work were struck by an engine. James MacLeod's skull was fractured, and his condition is very serious. John MacLeod had a leg broken. Both men were carried to the general office, where their injuries are being attended to by Dr. L. W. Johnstone.

Two boys employed at Sydney No. 3 Colliery started to walk to their home at Sydney Mines yesterday morning, and an hour later men returning from work found them unconscious in a snow-drift. Both were conveyed to No. 3, and this morning were reported to be better and suffering from only slight frost bites.

PERISHED IN A STORM.

Antigonish, N. S., Mar. 8.—The worst storm for years raged here yesterday and No. 20 Sydney Express was 30 hours late. A young man, Angus McDonald, a resident of Antigonish Harbor, about five miles from this town, on his way from town at beginning of the storm lost his way. It is presumed on the ice, and his lifeless body was found today a few hundred yards from the shore just opposite his home. The deceased was in excellent health and his untimely end is regretted by a host of friends.

Louisburg, March 8.—From an early hour yesterday morning this town was in the grip of an unprecedented blizzard. The wind blew at hurricane force and the snow-drift was terrible. Captain Delaney, of the steamer Gloucester, says that yesterday's gale was the worst he ever experienced. At its worst the steamer was forcing her way through the ice.

The snow is the heaviest seen here since 1882. All traffic on the S. and L. and work on the shipping pier has been suspended. Gangs of men are working to-day clearing the tracks of the S. & L. and the streets. No mail has arrived here since Wednesday.

NINE PERSONS WERE INJURED.

Warren, Pa., Mar. 6.—Fast train No. 33, on the Western New York and Pennsylvania division of the Pennsylvania Railroad was wrecked tonight between Irvington and this place. The train plunged over a 25 foot embankment and nine persons were injured, none fatally.

CARS LEFT THE RAILS.

The train was running behind a freight from Irvington to Warren, and when three-quarters of a mile from Warren the freight ran on to a siding to allow the passenger train to pass. After the freight was on the siding the passenger train started through the switch which is set from a tower about a quarter of a mile away. The switch was not entirely closed and two cars were thrown from the rails and down an embankment into a pond of water.

Joker's Corner

NOT TO HER TASTE.

A charitable woman of Washington hearing that a young girl, who was in poor circumstances, was convalescing from a dangerous illness, sent out of the goodness of her heart some expensive California grapes and pears.

The charitably disposed lady herself took the fruit to the home of the girl, where the mother received her in a manner that appeared to the donor not indicative of much gratitude.

A few days thereafter the charitable woman again called. "How did your daughter like the grapes and pears?" she asked.

"Oh, pretty well," was the reluctant reply.

"Did she eat them all?"

"Oh, yes; she got away with 'em. But she's a good deal like me; she likes something nice and tasty—like canned corn."

ONLY OBSTACLE REMOVED.

The dear girl was entertaining the nine dollar per week clerk in the front parlor.

"For the last six weeks," she said, "I have lived on brown bread and water to improve my complexion."

"Indeed!" he exclaimed. "And how long do you expect to keep it up?"

"Oh, indefinitely!" she replied.

"That being the case," said the young man, "let's get married."

KINGSTON AFTER THE EARTHQUAKE

Ferdinand F. French, of Boston, has received the following letter from A. H. Bowley, manager of the branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Kingston. This letter throws some further light on the seriousness of the situation after the earthquake.

"The dust is beginning to settle and we can see things more in their normal light, albeit the view does not improve. From what people tell me who have arrived here since the disaster I am perfectly sure that no person who has not visited the scene can grasp the absolute demolition and completeness of the destruction wrought to about ninety per cent. of the business area of this city. It is one of the occasions where the newspaper capacity for exaggeration fails them, although many absurd and ridiculous stories were put in print, none of the accounts exceeded the realization of the havoc wrought to property and life. It may, however, be called, to a certain extent, a rich man's disaster, for whereas the great amount of 1900 destroyed to a great extent the growing crops and income of the island for a considerable period, in this case the loss falls on a few individuals, comprising the merchant class, and the earning power of the island is quite untouched. It is probable, in fact, certain, that Kingston will be rebuilt, but on what scale and when it will be completely restored will depend largely on the decision of the insurance companies, and whether we are to obtain Imperial assistance. We are endeavoring to obtain the latter.

"Personally the writer escaped without injury or loss to himself, family or any immediate connection, although with many others we shared some very narrow escapes. Our office building, in which were some nineteen people, was completely demolished and subsequently burned by fire. The safety of the inmates, however, was due to the facts that the walls fell out instead of in. After the shock all books, cash, etc., were put in our strong room, so that they escaped the subsequent fire. We are now comfortably established in an office outside of the burned area, constructed by Northern workmen; in fact, it is largely Yankee road-made, but none the worse for that.

"My residence was rendered uninhabitable and a considerable portion of my furniture damaged, but we consider this a trifling loss compared with that which many have suffered, and we are now building bungalow quarters, which we anticipate making both earthquake and hurricane proof."

Railway Scheme of MacKenzie and Mann.

An Ottawa despatch to the Sydney Herald says: Not to be outdone by the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., the Canadian Northern Railway is out with a new scheme to reach the Atlantic seaboard.

The Canadian Northern, of which McKenzie and Mann are the principal owners, have now in operation a line from Port Arthur to Edmonton. They are also building a line from Toronto to a point on Georgian Bay with the intention of building along the north shore of Lake Superior to the Port Arthur.

With this arrangement completed the Canadian Northern will start a through train from Sydney or Halifax to Edmonton and subsequently to a point they now own and operate on the Pacific Coast.

SHORT LOBSTERS FROM NOVA SCOTIA.

A Newport, Rhode Island, paper contains the following: When the Nova Scotia lobsters arrived last week the lobster police found more short ones than they remember in any previous shipment. There were 57 cases, containing 9,975 pounds of lobsters, let here and at Tiverton, and the number of short lobsters taken out and released was 2,196. One of the lobster officials of Massachusetts was in town when the local shipment was sorted out and something like 1,500 short lobsters were released. He saw more short lobsters set loose than he had ever seen before.

Asked what would happen to the released fish, he was told that practically every one would live and add to the local supply of lobsters, and that the importation of Nova Scotia lobsters is adding materially to the supply in local waters.

TREATMENT OF JUVENILE OFFENDERS.

Legislation amending the existing provisions for the trial and treatment of juvenile offenders is soon to be introduced into the House of Commons. The present act has proved very inadequate in practice and the new bill, which embodies many marked reforms, should have the warm support of every Canadian interested in the reform of wayward children.

As summarized by The Ottawa Journal the proposed bill is founded upon three basic principles:

1. That children are not criminals in the sense that adults are, and should be treated as children even when they break the law. As the law holds that a child cannot deal with his property or enter into a valid contract, so the law should hold that a child cannot commit a crime to the same extent that an adult can.
2. That the best mode of dealing with juvenile delinquents is by endeavoring to reform them in their own homes or in foster homes, through probation officers.
3. That adults should be held criminally liable for causing delinquency in children.

Another feature of the bill is the recognition that children's cases should, where possible, be dealt with by one man as judge, in each locality, who should be chosen for his suitability, and should make a specialty of the work. Another is that children's incarceration or restraint is necessary, should be held in detention homes or private homes arranged for by Children's Aid Societies, as is now the law in Ontario under a provincial statute, and that when as a last resort something more than probation becomes necessary, the industrial school and not the jail or penitentiary should be that resort.

The act contemplates that the details of the system, establishment of courts, provision for the appointment of probation officers, etc., should be left to the provinces, and that the act should not go into force in any province until the necessary machinery has been provided.

The keynote is struck and its purpose made plain by the preamble and by section 27. The introductory recital of the act reads as follows:

"Whereas it is inexpedient that youthful offenders should be classed or dealt with as ordinary criminals, the welfare of the community demanding that they should on the contrary be guarded against association with crime and criminals, and should be subjected to such wise care, treatment and control as will tend to check their evil tendencies and to strengthen their better instincts."

And Sec. 27 reads:

"27. This Act shall be liberally construed to the end that its purpose may be carried out, to wit: That the care and custody and discipline of a juvenile delinquent shall approximate as nearly as may be that which should be given by its parents, and that as far as practicable every juvenile delinquent shall be treated, not as a criminal, but as a misguided and misguided child, and one needing aid, encouragement, help and assistance."

Dr. Grenfell, whose heroic work in Labrador is worthy of all praise, is now seeking to introduce the reform into that country. He wishes to secure a herd of fifty at a cost of one hundred dollars each. Labrador is full of the moss on which the reindeer feeds, and these animals would furnish food, clothing and means of transportation to the natives of this country. A supply of milk is also needed for the poor little half starved babies in that bleak wilderness. From the reindeer this meat would be furnished. Several persons in the United States have each subscribed one hundred dollars the cost on one reindeer.—News.

The greatest praise is given to Prince Henry of the Netherlands and the brave sailors, who manned the life boat, in their repeated attempts to row through big seas and save Surbein, wrecked at the Hook of Holland from the wreck of the S. S. Andromeda. The wreck was on the most dangerous part of the exposed coast of Holland, and with the whole sweep of the North Sea terrific waves were dashed against the ill-fated steamer. It required men with brave hearts and stout sinews muscles to take a seat in a life boat and face seas, almost mountains high, that threatened to swamp them every moment.

Household

EFFECT OF PLEASANT TABLE TALK

It used to be the custom in our house to talk over during meal time, whatever disagreeable things had occurred at any time preceding. I don't know just how it came about but we fell into the habit and kept it up as a great many people do such things, probably because it had never entered our minds that we were doing a very foolish thing.

One morning something especially irritating had happened, and the whole family was in a state of ferment. The breakfast had been a very uncomfortable meal, and one or two members of the household had left the table with scarcely a mouthful of food.

On the doctor's advice we made a hard and fast rule that under no circumstances should anything unpleasant be brought up at the table. Nothing short of a cyclone or a fatal accident to man or beast was sufficient excuse for breaking this rule.

The Ideal Laxative for Children

Mothers cannot be too careful in what they give children to move the bowels. Calomel, cascara, senna salts, cathartic pills, castor oil, and purging mineral waters irritate the bowels—upset the stomach—and eventually lead up to chronic non-action of the bowels—Constipation.

Fruit-a-lives are the finest medicine in the world for children. It's just like giving the little ones apples, oranges, figs and prunes—because "Fruit-a-lives" ARE the juices of these fruits—but so combined that the medicinal action is increased many times.

what would have seemed to an outsider extremely silly things. Sometimes we laughed simply because there was nothing to say, and the effort to think of something increased our merriment.

Within a few weeks there was a notable improvement in the health of the family. This was particularly observable in one of the children, a timid youngster who was pale, thin, exceedingly nervous, sensitive and irritable, and had given the family no end of uneasiness lest she were going into a decline.

DEVELOPING HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Growing boys and girls do not always appreciate that it is while they are growing that they are forming their figures for life.

FASHION NOTES

Plaid materials are finding a wide acceptance in the trimming section. Smart street costumes of tailor-made gowns are fashioned of fine and silky mohairs in the most elusive and delicate tones, and those are strapped and piped with bias plaids of the same material to quite a considerable extent.

THE CARE OF THE HAIR

The various physical features which make or mar the beauty of a child are for the most part the gifts of Nature, and can neither be improved nor cured nor spoiled by neglect.

not so much to prevent disease as to render the child sweet and attractive. If frequent washing did not improve the growth of the hair (which it certainly does), and therefore claim attention on hygienic grounds, it would still add quite as much, or more, to a child's attractiveness as washing of the body, and hence become of highest importance from the purely aesthetic point of view.

The notion entertained by some mothers that delicate children are liable to take cold from having the scalp carefully washed is without foundation. Once a week the head should be thoroughly shampooed with soap and warm water.

Frequent and thorough brushing of the hair is extremely desirable. It not only improves temporarily the appearance of a child, but tends at the same time to keep the scalp in a healthy condition.

As usual, at the start of the season there are several radical departures from accepted styles that are tried, as it were, tentatively, and accordingly as they are met with favor or otherwise their future career is settled.

The Dominion, Lord's Day Act

offense is alleged to have been committed nor after the expiration of sixty days from the time of the commission of the alleged offense.
6. This act shall come into force on the first day of March, one thousand nine hundred and seven.
It will be observed that section fifteen says that no action shall be commenced without leave of the Attorney-General of the province in which the offence is alleged to have been committed. In view of that section, the Attorney-General of Nova Scotia has sent out the following:
Halifax, Feb. 25, 1907.

Sir,—I beg to call your attention to the Dominion Lord's Day Act, and to inform you that this act comes into force on March first next.
This act does not, in my opinion, supersede our local act relating to Sunday observance, but must be read and used as additional legislation on the subject.
You will observe that by the express terms of the Dominion Act, "no action for prosecution for a violation of this act shall be commenced without the leave of the Attorney-General for the province in which the offence is alleged to have been committed, nor after the expiration of sixty days from the time of the commission of the alleged offense."
As the intention of parliament, in passing this act, was to secure a proper observance of the Lord's Day, and as under the provisions of the act quoted above, the consent of my department is necessary before prosecutions under it are commenced, I deem it proper to call your attention specially to its provisions, and to inform you that if my attention is called to any violation of the statute, and the particulars therein furnished, prompt consideration will be given thereto and consent to prosecutions given whenever, in my opinion, it is necessary to carry out the intention of parliament.
I would also point out that under our local act, no consent of this department is necessary in order that prosecutions may be commenced for its enforcement.
I have the honor to be, Yours, etc.,
ARTHUR DRYSDALE,
Attorney-General.

The important section of the Provincial Act referred to which is in force and has been in force since before confederation, and declared not to be affected by the Dominion Act reads:—"Any person who shall be convicted before a justice of the peace of shooting, gambling or sporting, of frequenting tipping houses or of servile labor (except of necessity and mercy excepted) on the Lord's Day, shall for every offence forfeit not less than $1, nor more than $8, and in default of payment shall be committed to jail for a term not less than twelve hours nor more than four days."

DO NOT CROWD THE SEASON.

The first warm days of spring bring with them a desire to get out and enjoy the exhilarating air and sunshine. Children that have been housed up all winter are brought out and you wonder where they all came from. The heavy winter clothing is thrown aside and many shed their fannels. Then a cold wave comes and people say that grip is epidemic. Colds at this season are even more dangerous than in mid-winter, as there is much more damage Cough Remedy, however, and you will have nothing to fear. It always cures and we have never known a cold to result in pneumonia when it was used. It is pleasant and safe to take. Children. For sale by W. A. Warren, Fair B.

Ladies Frequently Suffer Losses through the Dishonesty of their Merchants and Dealers.

The women of Canada frequently suffer money losses and great inconveniences through the desperate greed of some merchants who sell substitutes and common preparations to buyers who look for standard and reliable goods.
This is specially true of the merchants and dealers who handle and sell the weak and adulterated package dyes put up by speculators and sold at ten cents, same price as is asked for the genuine DIAMOND DYES, so popular all the world over.

DIAMOND DYES are made from the finest and most expensive dyes, that can be produced, always guaranteeing uniformity in strength and coloring power. The crude package dyes are made from materials that cost about one quarter the price of dyes composing the DIAMOND DYES. These common and crude dyes are not of sufficient strength to give a decent color to a farm fence. Think of such dyes being used to color valuable dresses and other garments!

The safeguarding of your financial interests and home happiness depends upon the regular use of the DIAMOND DYES. Send your full address to Montreal, P. Q., and you will receive free of cost Diamond Dye Booklets, Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, and card of fifty Dyed Samples.

The Taking Cold Habit

The old cold goes; a new one quickly comes. It's the story of a weak throat, weak lungs, a tendency to consumption. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral breaks up the taking-cold habit. It strengthens, soothes, heals. Ask your doctor about it.
It had a terrible cold and nothing relieved me. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and it promptly broke up my cold, stopped my cough, and made every part of my throat feel wonderful very soon.—Mrs. J. V. Lorne, Toledo, Ohio.
