Successful Meeting of County Farmers' Association at Paradise

Instructive Addresses Given by C. O. Allen of Kentville and Prominent County Farmers, Followed by Profitable Discussion.

The Eighth Annual Meeting of the A. C. F. A. was held at Paradise, Tuesday evening 3rd inst.

The afternoon was mostly taken up with business. The president F. W. Bishop gave an interesting address advocating more mixed farming, more attention to dairying and a four mill to accommodate the largely increased crop of wheat harvested in the Valley.

The Secretary L. W. Elliott gave a most encouraging report of the past year's work. The membership had increased from 177 to 277. Forty-six farmers' meetings have been held with a total attendance of near 3000 and much more attention given to scientific farming. The meetings were addressed by Mr. Drummond, Mr. MacLay and Dr. Hewitt of the Agricultural Department Ottawa. W. H. Woodworth, L. D. Robinson, I. H. Clute, Capt. C. O. Allen. Expenses reached $125.00.

The directors for the past year were re-elected and Messrs. Geo. Brown, E. C. Schaffer, R. S. Leonard and A. F. Gordon were added to the list. A. Owen Price was appointed auditor. L. W. Elliott, E. C. Schaffer, F. Miles

Chipman, A. H. Bishop, Geo. Brown and F. W. Bishop were named as delegates for the Provincial meeting on the 24th inst.

E. C. Schaffer gave a very instructive paper in which he laid particular emphasis on the excessive prices charged by fertilizer companies for their products. He advocated a greater use of barnyard manure supplemented by whatever proportions of nitrogen, potash or phosphoric acid, the soil and crop might require.

A discussion followed in which Messrs. Brown, Chipman, Allen, Whitman, Purdy and Hall took part.

In the evening papers were read by Capt. C. O. Allen on "Line Sulphur", Mr. S. Spur, on mixed farming, and F. M. Chipman on the delegation of western farmers to Ottawa.

The discussion which followed was very instructive and closed the most successful annual meeting the society has yet held.

Officers chosen by the director for the ensuing year are:

President, F. W. Bishop, Paradise
Vice Pres. Walter Purdy, Deep Brook
Secy. Treas. L. W. Elliott, Clarence.

Hockey Match at Bridgetown Rink

The hockey match which took place between Middleton and Annapolis on the Bridgetown Rink Saturday afternoon resulted in a victory for the Annapolis team with a score of seven to one. Although the score looks one-sided, the game was far from being so, for up to the last ten minutes of the second half the Middleton boys held their opponents down to a score of one to two. At the end of the first half honors were even, each team having to their credit one goal.

Considering it was the first game of the season for each team, good sharp hockey was played, and when these two teams meet again it should be a game well worth seeing, for with a little more practice each team will improve in their team work, which was lacking in Saturday's game considerably.

In the first half the Annapolis forwards were able to keep the puck well into Middleton's territory, but they seemed to run up against a stone wall when they struck their defence; the first twenty minutes of the second the puck was kept well on the go. Both teams were out to win, and their forwards worked hard.

Buckler, of Annapolis played the star game for his team, and Putnam, of Middleton was probably their strongest man, although Lewis played a good steady game. It is hoped these two teams will play their return match here.

A gentleman of Granville Ferry, renewing his subscription to the Monitor-Sentinel for his boy away from home, says:—"I have pleasure in renewing subscription to Monitor for my boy. He seems to value your paper very highly and looks forward to receiving it as a friend from home." Would not YOUR BOY away from home appreciate such a weekly reminder of your thought of him? It is worth while to try to keep him in touch with home and friends.

Dr. Armstrong Completes Lecture on Tuberculosis

The concluding portion of Dr. Armstrong's paper on the subject of "Tuberculosis" was given under the auspices of the Epworth League in the lecture room of the Methodist church Friday evening. Principal H. L. Bustin occupied the chair, and with well chosen remarks, announced the speaker and his subject. A brief review of the subject was presented a few weeks ago was given and then the doctor took his large audience into new fields of thought in connection with the important matter in hand. Several contributing factors to the cause and spread of tubercular troubles were considered, and the importance of providing a impressively placed before the meeting. Among the many contributing factors the lecturer emphasized the matter of ventilation, clothing, food and exercise as of particular importance. A suitable vote of thanks moved by Councillor Burns, and seconded by Councillor Craig was presented to the genial Doctor. In responding the doctor's thanks Councillor Craig made reference to some of the Doctor's recent public ministrations, such as the splendidly written account of his "Across the Continent trip" printed in the Monitor-Sentinel, the "Ocean to Ocean" Views and lecture thereon, etc., and intimated that the people of Bridgetown and surrounding communities were indebted to him for these interesting and profitable occasions.

Carnival at Skating Rink

The first Carnival of the season was held on Monday night and was well attended considering the night which was extremely cold and windy. The ice was in excellent condition. A marked improvement over the carnivals of last season was the lighting. A number of tungsten lights have been added and colored lights were suspended from the flag pole over the building. Also the board walk which extends all around the rink gives the spectators a much better chance to view the skaters. Music by the band added to the enjoyment of the occasion. The costumes were good being both pretty and original. Mrs. (Dr.) Anderson as Butterfly got the prize for the prettiest costume which was a very nice miniature set. A fountain pen was presented to Mr. Harold Cosman, as Sydnaw, for the most original costume.

Owing to the high winds the speed contest was called off, and will be held on Wednesday evening next the 24th. Teams expected from Annapolis, Middleton and Lawrence town were unable to come over to the rink.

Vacant Anglican Parishes in Nova Scotia

"There are now about fifteen vacancies in the diocese. This is a very unusual condition of affairs, and hard to understand. There are few Canadian dioceses in which a clergyman could serve with so much satisfaction to himself and acceptance with his people as in Nova Scotia."

After inquiry, the Chronicle finds that the statement given above, and which appeared in the Canadian Churchman, is substantially correct. The number of additional priests needed at the present time to fill all the vacant Church of England parishes is twelve. Six of these parishes are, for the time being supplied with services by lay-readers.

A fairly large number of young men are in training at King's College, but few of them, it is said, will be ready for ordination for some time.

A prominent city churchman said:—"While it is true that the lack of clergy in the Church of England in Nova Scotia and for that matter, in all Canada, is due largely to the rapid expansion of the work of the Church at home, and in the mission field; yet the fact remains that in the Church of England, as in many other religious bodies, men are not offering themselves for the ministry in sufficient numbers to meet the needs of the hour."

Tuesday afternoon.
Council met at half-past two o'clock.
All councillors present.
Minutes read and approved.
Ordered that the report of the Health Officer as read be received and adopted.

The following is the report:—

REPORT OF HEALTH OFFICER To W. G. Clark, Esq., Warden of the Municipality of Annapolis Co. Sir:—

I herewith submit for your consideration my annual report as Health Officer. The past year has been quite free of the severe epidemic and contagious diseases. Only one case of the modified small-pox, such as reported the last four or five years, developed in the Municipality. This occurred in Torbrook in September, and was brought from outside the province by a workman in one of the industries in that district. The case was carefully looked after by the local Board and there was no further spread of the disease. A few cases of diphtheria and typhoid occurred during the year, but in no case were they epidemic or serious. Another infectious disease, that has been receiving considerable attention the past year or two, on account of its increased prevalence, is infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis). It is by no means a disease of infancy, its name in this respect being a mistake as it often occurs in children and also in adults. Quite a number of cases have occurred in the county the past year and as it is now believed, by those who have studied it, that every case has had contact with another, either direct, or through a healthy person, or by means of a house, and that it is mildly transmissible, and when a case occurs it should be isolated for a short time and its presence reported. One fatal case occurred in the county this year and quite a number in which there followed a paralysis of one or more limbs, that causes more or less lameness.

At the last session of the legislature the Public Health Act was amended and also consolidated, so the complete act may now be found in the Statutes of the year 1910. As it contains many features of importance regarding sanitary matters I beg leave to quote some of the important provisions that should be more generally known, by our health boards, and also the public.

First, then regarding local boards:—They shall consist of not less than five persons, of which the Councillor of the polling district, is one, and also chairman. These boards of health are to meet for organization in January each year as soon thereafter as possible, and it is the duty of the Health Officer to see that these boards are properly organized. A great deal of trouble and delay arises from the unorganized state of these boards when an infectious disease breaks out, that could be avoided if the machinery, the law provides, was in a condition to be turned into action.

Some new matter has been added to the act regarding the care of tuberculosis. Under these sections cases of this disease must be reported by the attending physician.

Lawrencetown Woman's Aid Society

The ladies of the Lawrencetown Aid Society extended an invitation to the South Williamston Society to meet at the parlour on Monday afternoon, Jan. 9th. At three o'clock a large number assembled and a very interesting program was carried out by members of both societies. The topic being "Praise The Lord" the opening hymn was "We praise Thee O God" followed by responsive scripture reading. Prayer was offered by Mrs. (Rev.) H. G. Mellick and Mrs. L. D. Hanley, after which the Roll was called on each sister responded to her name by a verse of scripture with the word "praise". The president, Mrs. L. R. Morse, gave the address of welcome. Mrs. C. Lenley and Mrs. E. Daniels sang a duet, "When Night is near" followed by a very interesting exercise by the Williamston Society. Next was a reading by Mrs. West, and an original poem by Mrs. L. D. Hanley. A duet was effectively rendered by Mrs. P. H. Saunders and Mrs. Clarence Longley. An exercise by members of Lawrencetown Society was given, after which a recitation by Mrs. Israel Erwin was listened to with much interest. A solo, "The Hymn that Mother Sang" was sung with feeling by Mrs. C. Longley, followed by a reading "A Pathetic Letter" by Mrs. S. E. Bancroft, after which the president gave a reading, followed by music.

Mrs. Richardson gave an address "The Benefit of Union". A substantial offering was taken for the Persian Mission, under the care of Shabbaz, who visited and spoke at our aid meeting in October. At the close of this most helpful and inspiring meeting, tea was served in a very artistic manner. After an enjoyable social hour many present went to the evening service held in the Baptist church.—COM.

Money Value

Benjamin Franklin, who said this not only understood the value of time, but he put a price on it that made others appreciate its worth.

A customer who came one day to Franklin's little bookstore in Philadelphia, not being satisfied with the price demanded by the clerk for a book he wanted, demanded to see the proprietor. The clerk pleaded that Mr. Franklin was very busy in the press-room, but the customer insisted, and Franklin, summoned, hurried out.

"What is the lowest price you will take for this book, sir?" asked the leisurely customer.

"One dollar and a quarter," was the prompt reply.

"What! Why your clerk asked me only a dollar just now."

"True," said Franklin, "and I could have better afforded to take a dollar than to leave my work."

The customer thought him joking.

"Come, now," he said, laughing, "your lowest price for this book."

"One dollar and a half."

"Why, man, you just said a dollar and a quarter."

"Yes, and I could better have taken that than a dollar and a half now."

The purchaser paid the higher price. At that he had learned cheaply from the greatest philosopher of his day not only that he who squanders his own time is foolish but he who wastes the time of others is a thief.

This busy world does not wait for laggards.

Success will meet no man half way unless he is on time.

The habit of promptness is a priceless possession.

That Red Rose Tea is of surpassing quality is accepted everywhere it is used as an undisputed fact, but it is in the Maritime Provinces especially that it has by unvarying goodness so well earned the term "is good tea."

Prices: 30c., 35c., 40c., 50c. and 60c.

Apples of Nova Scotia Will Become a Great Money Asset

We are Here in Close Touch with the Greatest Market in the World and Balancing up the Disadvantages and the Advantages, the Expert's First Choice is this Province--The Industry will Develop the Ideal Type of Canada

(By A. McNeil, chief of the Fruit Division of the Department of Agriculture, in New Year's issue of Morning Chronicle.)

There is nothing so dangerous as posing as a prophet with reference to purely mundane matters. Printers ink and paper form almost an enduring record to rise up and perhaps confound the soothsayer. Nevertheless, I would hazard some predictions, accompanied by the usual warnings, and perhaps some few admonitions after the way of orthodox prophets. Making no pretensions to any supernatural gifts, I am obliged to rely upon the experience of the past and my knowledge of present conditions in foreign and domestic markets, and with reference to the soil, climate and people of Nova Scotia.

Following the plan of the small boy who is earnestly desirous of getting through his work, let us take the disagreeable side of the question first and mention some of the disadvantages, under which the Nova Scotian fruit grower follows his occupation.

There are also limitations in varieties. There is a fashion in varieties as there is in ladies' hats, and when one particular style has a world-wide advertisement it is only shrewd business to keep this style in stock, if possible, inasmuch as it can be sold practically without cost for advertising and may help to advertise other goods.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with La Grippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. When I dozed off I would awake with a sudden jerking of my whole body. Dr. Miles' Nerve, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

Restorative Nerve should be taken for some time to thoroughly restore nerve strength.

BEING SHORT OF STATURE. Many a man short of stature is long on brains. Many a man short of stature is broad in his views. Many a man short of stature is high on the road to riches.

GOOD ROADS. The government of Quebec is about to enter upon a systematic and scientific method of road improvement throughout the province.

CO-OPERATIVE SELLING. Here, I think, Nova Scotia is ahead of any of the provinces. The plan of co-operative selling in Nova Scotia was slow in starting for reasons that will readily appear to anyone familiar with the district; but having once started, the conditions are such that nowhere else can the principle be applied so easily and so economically.

WOULD CHOOSE NOVA SCOTIA. If I had my first choice, therefore, between rich land and a general climate, with isolation, as against the conditions such as I find in Nova Scotia with her prospects for successful co-operation, I would choose Nova Scotia.

WHOM GOD HATH JOINED. We have sipped the cup of sorrow, Thou and I; We have awaited a tomorrow, Thou and I; We have watched beside a bed, Bending o'er a little head, Crushed beneath a weight of dread, Thou and I.

SHALL WE BREAK THE TIES THAT BIND US. Shall we break the ties that bind us, Thou and I? Shall we put those days behind us, Thou and I? Shall we wed with grief and pain, Shall we prove that union vain, Shall we go our ways again, Thou and I?

M. K. PIPER

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 18, 1910.

The paper of A. MacNeil, chief of the Fruit Division of the Department of Agriculture, as published in a recent issue of the Morning Chronicle, appears in this issue of the Monitor-Sentinel. Mr. MacNeil evidently sums up the advantages and disadvantages of fruit-growing in Nova Scotia and concludes with the statement that the advantageous situation of this province, with prospects for successful co-operation in marketing her crops entitles her to first place in the Dominion.

Among the disadvantages as compared with other fruit-growing districts he refers to the necessity for heavy applications of fertilizers as a peculiar condition of the soil of this province. As a remedy and offset for the fertilizer bill he suggests a system of mixed farming to include stock for the purpose of furnishing sufficient fertilizer to maintain the fertility of the soil, making apples the main crop. The reduction of the fertilizer bill and necessity for cold storage and co-operation in marketing he concludes would give Nova Scotia the most lucrative apple industry in the Dominion, if not in the world.

A sudden change from the mild weather of last week set in on Sunday night. Monday night the temperature dropped to eight below zero, and Tuesday night registered nine below. The river which was running free is fast bound again and the cold snap continues. A slight snow-fall accompanied the drop in temperature and a little more would give us good skating.

IN THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

(Continued from page 1.) To the County Health Officer, with in two days of the time he first sees the case. The Health Officer is to keep a register to enter these cases, which shall only be open to health authorities. In case of deaths from tuberculosis, or the removal of a case from a house, the physician aware of these facts shall report them to the Health Officer, that necessary cleaning and disinfection may be carried out. No person shall let or hire a house, or part of a house which has been occupied by a tuberculosis patient, until it has been cleaned and disinfected to the satisfaction of the Health Officer. A penalty of fifty dollars is fixed for the violation of the sections relating to tuberculosis.

A person suffering from the advanced stages of the disease shall not knowingly engage in the handling of food stuffs, or be employed in any business or occupation requiring the handling of food stuffs.

It shall be the duty of every physician attending any person with a contagious or infectious disease to give notice thereof within twenty-four hours to the local Board of Health, for the district where the disease exists.

Considerable trouble has arisen in several sections regarding the location of slaughter houses. The incorporated towns have objected to their being placed inside of the town limits, and they have turned to the bounds of the Municipality and in some cases they have been placed where they have been a positive nuisance and annoyance to people living near. Under the additions to the health act no person can keep a slaughter house, without first obtaining permission from the local board of health, such permission to be granted after approval of the premises, and subject to the condition that the slaughter house must be kept so as not to impair the health of those residing in the vicinity.

These are a few of the important provisions of the Act as it now appears in our Statutes, that should be better known.

As the Provincial Health Department has not yet provided the blanks and books for the registration of cases of tuberculosis, nothing so far has been done, but no doubt these sections of the Act will be very important. It is also of importance that the section requiring a disinfection of the premises where cases have been living, should be actively enforced. Tuberculosis is a preventable disease, and the lowered death rate in places where these sanitary precautions are strictly enforced proves conclusively that we cannot be too particular in these cases. We need conservation in the matter of life and health quite as much as a conservation of our forests and other resources. The annual report of the Registrar of Vital Statistics, of the province for last year says the Municipality of Annapolis County occupies a very favourable position, there only being two counties, Queens and Victoria, with a lower death rate from tuberculosis. We have every reason to believe that with greater care and vigilance in the way of destroying the contagion of the disease, still better results can be obtained. People have quite awakened to and accepted the open air or outdoor treatment for the disease and the results have been most satisfactory, but we have only half learned that what is good, as a treatment of the disease is also better as a preventative and therefore more care in ventilation of our homes, schools, churches, and everywhere people congregate would materially cut down the number of cases of all types of catarrhal diseases that so often lead or predispose to tuberculosis.

Faithfully submitted, M. E. ARMSTRONG, Health Officer.

MAKING HENS LAY

Methods for Overcoming the Handicaps of Cold Weather and Insuring a Dependable Fall and Winter Egg Crop.

(By Julian Burroughs, in Collier's Weekly.)

Because a hen, will lay naturally in spring and summer eggs are then cheap and easily obtainable; as a matter of both profit and price, therefore, we all want eggs in fall and winter. Now any one can have eggs any month of the year with mathematical certainty, a full crop and dependable. To do this you must have the right kind of pullets. Pullets will begin to lay at from five to seven months of age, according to their breed. I plan to have chicks out before April the tenth, therefore, and find them beginning to lay in November, just the time when eggs are getting scarce. I give them free range of the farm, cracked corn, skimmed milk and have them separated from the cockerels before September first. But few people give their poultry free range, and must therefore, take better care of their pullets during the summer. The yard must be as large as possible, and is best divided into parts, using each part in turn, and growing grass, grain, or some other green crop on the part not in use by the chicks, turning them into the growing part while the crop is tender. Shade, grit, fresh, clean water, ground-pink table scraps as well as grain must be fed. To stand the egg forcing during the winter the pullets must have the strength and size obtainable only from a range that is clean, roomy, and well-shaded.

THE SECRETS OF FEEDING.

When the pullets are being given the old they should go into the permanent winter quarters and be gotten ready for the egg forcing. In the first place, it is best to keep no more than twenty-five pullets in one place and give them all the space possible. Above all things, the henhouse must be dry. Never use any water anywhere. The only moisture a hen should ever know is what goes down her throat. The best floor is concrete placed over loose stones and slightly higher than the surrounding soil. On this floor place quantities of leaves, adding a box or bag full from your autumn-gathered store from time to time throughout the winter. Never use sawdust. It is best to have the eaves on the south side project about two feet, thus keeping out the summer sun and driving rains. The winter sun will shine clear across the floor. The floor of such a henhouse need be cleaned but once a year. Hens must have fresh air. Because of their high temperature and rapid respiration it is even more necessary than for human beings. On the other hand draughts are fatal. There fore on the west, north, east, and south overhead the shelter must be airtight, but on the south large open windows fitted with drop sash of muslin or burlap. One large netted sash on the south or east will give enough light. The muslin windows will let in light and fresh air without making a draft and will let in no more cold than will glass. A scratching shed made of any old material and put up in the fall and taken down in the spring, in which the hens can exercise on sunny days, is a most valuable help. A dust bath of ashes or dirt is invaluable.

And now for the feeding secrets: In the first place, the feedings must be so arranged that the pullets are made to scratch. Exercise spells eggs. In the second place corn must be fed most sparingly, and what little is fed must be scattered widely in deep litter. Hens are crazy for corn and will work like demons for it, which fact must be taken advantage of every time. Wheat, unlike corn, can be fed freely to laying hens and they must be made to scratch for that, too. Green food, cabbage, alfalfa, frozen chickweed, oats or rye or wheat sprouted in the cellar, or some other kind of green food is necessary. The real egg forcer, however, is ground raw meat and bone. Strong pullets, if cared for as indicated above, can be fed all the ground meat they will eat. I have had a hen of pullets begin to lay and keep up a sixty-six per cent egg yield throughout the entire winter as soon as I began to give them all the ground meat and bone they wanted. Closely yarded old hens cannot stand this treatment for long, however.

An egg is about fifty per cent water—good, clean water in constant supply is most necessary. Yet how many people neglect this! Don't let your pullets eat snow. A little plain form on which the hens can stand to drink, and which at the same time keeps the water dish up where litter layers fast enough. The business pullets have red combs, bright eyes, are tame, and take a lively interest in whoever feeds them, and are always busy about something. Also they have the two pelvic bones wide apart. These can be felt just under the skin below the vent.

THE NECESSITY FOR STRONG PULLETS.

For best results it is best to start with nearly twice too many pullets and cull these down to the best layers. This is easily done. Trap nests are not only unnecessary for this, but do not pick out the good pullets have red combs, bright eyes, are tame, and take a lively interest in whoever feeds them, and are always busy about something. Also they have the two pelvic bones wide apart. These can be felt just under the skin below the vent.

La Praise of Apples

(Springfield Republican)

The impetus that is being given to the better culture of apples in all parts of the United States has become one of the most important developments of this time. New England has found the boomers of apples, as our readers have occasion to read. An American apple congress representing seven States, recently held a three-days session in Denver. Governor Shaw, welcomed the delegates, and told of the wonderful development in apple-growing that has taken place in the last ten years. Ex-Governor Alva Adams talked on "Apples as an asset" and declared that the apple was "a mortgage payer, a character builder, a conservator of home, and a patriotic incentive." Having tasted this much of the ex-Governor's quality as a singer of the song of the apple, let us give more of his program.

The apple is an asset, financially, morally and politically.

A little land and a living is the slogan of the hour.

The apple is the aristocrat of foods and the best medicine.

The climate and conditions that are best for apples are best for man. Anarchy never gathered fruit from its own apple tree.

Apple orchards are better nurseries of citizenship than the desks of patriarchy or military camps.

The men in the orchard is always a good citizen.

Horticulture is a science, not a guess.

The twentieth century is to be the age of the apple, and Colorado is to be the centre of its empire.

The apple barrel is Nature's medicine chest.

I would rather trust a judge that loves apples than one that hankers after bear meat.

Apples are an antidote for drink and tobacco.

Apples carry the pure food stamp of the great physician.

The road that leads to the orchard is the pathway to a simple, happy, prosperous life.

When buying a cough medicine for children bear in mind that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is most effective for colds, croup and whooping cough and that it contains no harmful drugs. Sold by all dealers.

CRUELTY IN CHILDREN.

We have all seen children who seemingly delighted in torturing animals, and especially flies and spiders. I have known boys who have deliberately caught the helpless things, only to pull off their legs and wings, throwing them away and die slowly. This is one of the surest signs of latent cruelty, and, if allowed to grow upon the child, will eventually blunt his finer feelings.

The best way in which to guard against this is through stories of their usefulness and importance in nature's plan. What child could ever wish to harm a spider, after hearing Miss Ligham's story of Mrs. Spider-Brown and her hundred babies?

Advice Concerning Stomach Troubles and How to Remedy Them.

Do not neglect indigestion which leads to all sorts of ills and complications. An eminent doctor once said that ninety-five per cent of all the ills of the human body have their origin in a disordered stomach.

CONTRADICTED

A tramp called at the house of a gentleman and said:—
"I've walked many miles to see you, sir, because people told me that you was very kind to poor chaps like me."
"Oh, they said so, did they?"
"Yes, sir, that's why I came."
"And are you going back the same way?"
"Then, in that case, will you be good enough to contradict this rumor?"
Small boy (excitedly):—"Some liniment and cement, please."
Chemist:—"Both for the same purpose!"
Small boy:—"Yes, farver's just broke 'is loving cup, so 'e wants cement for it; an' ma's wot it landed on, so 'e liniments 'er 'er."

He:—"When I marry I mean to have a pretty girl who doesn't know that she is beautiful."
She:—"Poor thing!"
He:—"Why poor thing?"
She:—"Because she will have to be blind and deaf, of course."

Mistress-Nora: I saw a policeman in the park today kiss a baby. I hope you will remember my objection to such things."
Nora:—Sure, ma'am, no policeman would ever think of kissing yer baby when I'm around."

"Did you say you were a month in your last place?"
"Yes, madam—a week with the family on the top floor, a week with a lady in the third floor, a week on the second and a week on the ground floor."

"Would you like a fine family cow?"
"Tat thaz? She can't give more than four quarts."
"Tain't the milk. She'll git right in front of an automobile, an' she's good for $200 damages a season to 'ny family."

When will the world turn on this nauseating sensationless in the press? A young woman from Cape Breton, whose behavior on going to the United States was questionable, was acquitted of murder for lack of evidence. She returns to her remote home, where she naturally has the reputation of the prodigal son. So far right enough. But here break forth the evidences of the social disease that is eating away the hearts and morals of the people. Instead of being allowed to hide away and recover her modesty, the poor girl is pilloried for the detection of a glowing populace. The village receives a host of newspaper men, who have come a thousand miles to ogle her, and her father gets two hundred dollars to parade her in print. Apart from newspaper lime-lights, but as a diseased result of them, the girl is showered with presents as though she were a nation's heroine, is offered lucrative engagements on the stage, and even receives offers of marriage, presumably from youths of unbalanced mind, all the intoxicating result of morbid publicity.— Montreal Witness.

MIRACULOUS RESULTS IN DUNVEGAN, C.B.

GIN PILLS Brought Relief

"I suffered untold misery even when under treatment from the best doctors for over ten months, and nothing seemed to do me any good or relieve my painful condition. My trouble was inflammation of Kidneys and Bladder. I finally determined to go to the Victoria Hospital, Halifax, for treatment.

Two days, however, before my intended departure, a neighbor called and happening to have a GIN PILL in his pocket, insisted on my taking it. I did so and six hours after taking it, the results and benefits I derived were simply nothing more or less than miraculous. Instead of going to the hospital, I sent for a box of GIN PILLS with the result that I am a cured man. I recommend GIN PILLS to everyone suffering from Kidney Trouble."

THE FORETHOUGHT HABIT FOR MOTHERS

This morning when I went to sweep the back piazza I found the floor spotted with white patches, the clinging, memories of yesterday's mite-making. The boy was off to school, troubled with no uneasy consciousness of the paste-daub left behind him; and as company was coming, there was nothing for it but to hastily remove the spots myself, meditating meanwhile on my lack of forethought, cheerfully the lad would have removed the traces of his work had I secured his permission to do so when I gave him permission to make the kite!

Then I thought of the litter of scraps often left by the little girl whose chief joy seems to lie in cutting paper dolls; of the playthings left scattered and forgotten in the statement of some new game; of the sticky dishes after the candy-making, that should at least have been filled with water and left to soak; and I concluded that a mother who had cultivated the forethought habit would have saved herself all the inconvenience and extra labor and oftentimes embarrassment of such negligence by securing, at the beginning, of the child's play, an agreement that no untidy traces should be left behind.

Generally speaking, when a child wants a thing, he wants it so hard that he will accept almost any terms beforehand; and children are naturally honorable about fulfilling conditions they have made of their own accord. If they should forget a simple reminder is all that is necessary, while, if no agreement has been made, there will not be the same sense of responsibility, and the child, absorbed in something else, will feel himself abused if compelled to come back to do the irksome task.

Not only is this forethought habit a valuable help to the mother in training her children in habits of orderliness, but it will often come to her aid in helping a child over some disagreeable duty. "May I go to the well, please?" asks the little fellow eagerly. "Yes, my son," when you have brought in the coal and kindling replies his mother, and the homely chore is illumined with the anticipation of the pleasure to come.

Most children who are untruthful begin to do so through the punishment or at least a scolding, and the forethought mother will beware lest the tones of her voice or the manner of her words in questioning the small delinquent betray her state of mind and prevent the punishment. Thus the habit of thinking out her course and her bearing beforehand will aid in establishing that pre-eminent quality, truthfulness in her children.

She will realize its worth also in securing obedience. What mother has not said to herself countless times: "O, why did I insist upon this matter? Now I've got to see the thing through." A wise forethought should have led her to avoid making an issue of a thing perhaps altogether trifling in itself, but which she has made too important to overlook by committing herself too hastily. And when there ever a mother who has not at some time chided herself for a hasty command or threat of punishment she would give a good deal to get out of honorably?

Most mothers of little children are dreading the time when the unfolding of the child's mind will lead him to ask questions hard for any mother to answer, but a wise preparation of thought will arm her to meet such questions when they come, so readily and naturally that the answer will be received in the most matter-of-fact way as if it concerned the most matter-of-fact subject.

In forestalling questionable amusements the habit of planning ahead will be of untold assistance to the mother, by preparing her to be able, not only to substitute something perhaps equally fascinating for that which is questionable, but also, to meet the boy's or girl's questioning with sympathy and convincing intelligence. True, she may deny it wiser sometimes to yield against her own better judgment than to meet the question with arbitrary decision. But is prepared for some course of action, and the boy or girl feels instinctively that in her very readiness to respond there is strength while resolution on her part might seem weakness.

The mother who cultivates the habit of forethought will treasure up this suggestion or that, this novel form of recreation or that, keeping her own counsel meanwhile and never spending all the small change of her resources at once.

Unlooked-for emergencies will, of course, come, and so, on the other hand, will occasional inspirations of the moment; but the emergency will find the forethoughtful woman the letter prepared to meet it, and the inspiration is more likely to come to her who has formed the habit of mentally creating and meeting her emergencies beforehand.—L.M. Allen.

HOUSE FLIES.

(Eastern Chronicle).

Last fall the subject of flies was very generally condemned by medical authorities and by the newspapers, the latter taking their cue from the former. In this paper recommendations were made to kill the flies. There are houses in town that have no flies, or hardly any. These houses have screen doors and shutters and in addition they that gets past is swatted with a folded newspaper and thereby does to death. There are only just so many house flies in the whole country and if every one that infests every house would be killed there would be no more. It would not be a hard matter for the people who live in these houses to kill the flies that infest many of them.

That house flies are a menace to the health of people is certain, for they will go outside in the hot part of the day and load their legs and feet with filth if they can get at it and straightway come in and crawl over the food on the dining table, in the pantry, and everywhere else they can get to it. It is simply disgusting to sit down to eat at a table in a room infested with flies.

But there is another source of contamination and that is in some grocery stores. There the place is often found reeking with flies which of course are crawling over all the foods for sale in the store. They go outside, back and front, and smear over with poisonous particles of all kinds, among them deadly fever germs such as typhoid, diphtheria, typhus and other infectious diseases, and then come back into the shops and foul the goods people take home to eat and for food for their children.

We are making these observations now because there are no flies and no place can feel that it has been singled out, and we make them for the deliberate purpose of advising people not to buy from any place or store in which food is not protected from flies.

Time and again we hear of one disease or another breaking out in a home and hear someone wondering who had been where or how it came. As likely as not the source of contamination was from the house fly, at any rate fevers and such sickness are more prevalent when house flies are plentiful. We are not pretending to give expert statements, but, nevertheless, we believe that fever and flies go together. However, it is safer to destroy the flies in our own houses and refuse to buy food that has been polluted, may be infected with a deadly disease, by house flies.

Out in the open there is another species of fly that comes from all points of the compass and from every dirty place in the neighborhood and alights on any food or similar substance, and pollutes, and as like as not, infects it with some bad disease, but these are not house flies and seldom or never come into the house. What we are after is the ordinary house fly. All last year's males are dead, the females are stewed away in cracks in the walls, in corners and in various places to be ready in the ordinary course of nature to give birth to next summer's swarms. These females should be sought during the winter and destroyed—for the death of one of these means the absence of thousands of its like next summer.

THE END OF THE DAY.

An experienced and observant woman declares that the most important moment of the day to a man's peace of mind is the ten minutes that follow his return from the work of the day. At that time one word may change his whole state of feeling. He comes home usually tired. Work or the vexations of business during the day have frequently brought him to a point of fatigue or nervousness, at which a very little thing may decide what his mind will be for the rest of the evening. Of course, the particular disposition of every man is going to tell here, just as it does everywhere else. But the rule will hold good for the average man. The most important thing for the tactful woman to do is to wait until she sees some of his temper before she makes any decided move. Don't, above all things, tell him that the plumber has sent in a terrible bill for merely making that little alteration. Don't talk too much in the beginning on any subject. Conversation taken torrentially at the outset is likely to upset every body who is a little tired after a day's work, and who wants the quiet enjoyment of the home.

The woman who follows this advice will find her evenings pleasanter than if she jumped at the beginning into the heart of things, especially disagreeable things.

EXPRESS RATES MUST TAKE A DROP.

Ottawa despatch.—A judgment has been given by the Railway Commission on express rates which declares that the rates are too high and orders the companies to file lower tariffs within three months. It also states that the express companies are owned by the railway companies, and there is no reason for the existence of separate companies in Canada, but that it could be done by the railway companies as it is in fact being done now. The judgment declares that the express companies overpay the railways for accommodation in stations and intimates that this is a convenient way of disposing of profits which otherwise might be so conspicuously large as to be inconvenient. It declares that the forms of contract which express shippers are compelled to sign are unreasonable, and are designed to enable the companies to escape responsibility for shipments lost or damaged in spite of the fact that their high charges are supposed to provide for this. The form of contract is abolished.

Important Suggestions for Fruit Growers by Inspector Fitch

The Outlook this week gives its readers the substance of an interview with Mr. Freeman Fitch. The subject of the interview was the question which is now receiving so much attention viz: "How can the development of the Valley be best promoted?" Mr. Fitch is a man of keen observation and shrewd judgment and being a life-long fruit grower, a government fruit inspector for the past nine years and for fifteen years a member of the Annapolis County Municipal Council, his opinions are worthy of attention.

Naturally, Mr. Fitch's interview dealt with the apple industry of the Valley. He would like to see the development of our fruit belt through development of our fruit and secondly by producing a finer quality of fruit to be handled.

Mr. Fitch says if the farmers could see how many of the apples that are inspected show the effects of bad handling they would use much more care in picking and packing. Picking should be done with more care than is generally practiced. It is best to place the apples in barrels without sorting and houses them the day they are picked.

In packing, the heads should not be pressed too tightly as in very many barrels there is a waste at the bottom through bruising when heading.

Warehouses should be carefully ventilated during the warm weather in the fall. Artificial cooling could be used for a few weeks in the fall in the warehouses our apples would do better. This is an improvement that will have to come soon.

Mr. Fitch is inclined to think that the box as an apple package should be used more extensively. The apples in barrels are bruised so much in packing and are being spoiled in warehouses, cars and steamers that there is an expensive waste through bruising from which the boxed fruit is exempt.

In reference to the production of a better quality of fruit Mr. Fitch believes we have not yet given as much attention to spraying as its importance demands. He also believes that far-sighted farmers will improve the quality of their fruit by planting more young orchards to replace the old, poor quality of fruit. Those orchardists who trust to their old orchard and fail to provide for younger trees to replace them will get left just as there are many cows in operation and fowls in our poultry houses that can with profit be replaced by younger ones, so there are many apple trees in the Valley which should be cut down, their place being taken by trees which will produce fruit would be larger and clearer. The cost of pruning, picking, spraying and thinning on the young trees is also much less.

Through the thinning is another way in which Inspector Fitch believes the quality of our fruit can be greatly improved. And quality is becoming more and more the important thing.

In a season like the last the thinning is not so important as w/a we have a full crop. It has been proved that by judicious thinning nearly the same number of barrels of fruit can be obtained while the quality is much better.

Under ordinary conditions about fifty per cent of the fruit is packed as number one, twenty per cent each of two's and three's while ten per cent remains as culls. By proper thinning the number one's can be increased to seventy-five per cent and the cull be practically eliminated. At the various kinds net from twenty-five to fifty cents a barrel for cull; from seventy-five cents to one dollar for number three's; one dollar and a quarter to two dollars for two's and two to three dollars for number one's, the value of the thinning can be readily seen. Not only has the value of thinning been proven outside but F. H. Johnson, of Bridgetown, R.S. Eaton, of Kentville, and others of our own horticulturists by actual experiments have become convinced of its importance.

Mr. Fitch is strong in the belief that the orchard area especially in Annapolis county should be greatly extended as the best means of increasing the wealth of our people. The example of such men as S. B. Chute, Berwick, A. Stanley Banks, of Waterville, and others that might be named, should be an inspiration to our young men to follow their example and enjoy like success in fruit growing.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. Sold by all dealers.
