The Helmet of Navarre

BY BERTHA RUNKLE. GROSSET & DUNLAP Publishers: New York.

Mademoiselle being given into Dame Verrey's motherly hands, Gilles and I were ordered to repose ourselves on the skins in the saddle's shop. Lying there in the maddening gloom, I could see the crack of light under the door at the back and hear, between Gilles's snore, the murmur of voices. The king and his gentlemen were planning to save my master. I went to sleep in perfect peace.

Romy took Monsieur's hand in a silent grip. "Maximilien," the duke said, smiling down on him, "what a pity you are a scamp of a heretic!" Again he winked at God-freud, and we gathered up our reins. As we turned the corner I glanced back to find him still standing as we had left him, gazing soberly after us.

The man who was going into the lion's den was far less solemn over it. By this and starts, as he thought on his son's great danger, he contrived a gloomy countenance; but Monsieur had ridden all his life with Hope on the pillion; she did not desert him now. As we entered steadily along in the fresh, cool morning, he already pictured M. Etienne released. However mad he acknowledged his errand to be, I think he was scarce visited by a doubt of its success. It was impossible to him that his son should not be saved.

We entered with perfect ease the gate of Paris, and took our way without hesitancy through the busiest streets. No where did this guard spring on us, but, instead, more than once, the passers-by gathered in knots, the tradesmen and artisans ran out of their shops to cheer St. Quentin, to cheer France, to cheer peace, to cheer to the echo the Catholic king.

"You are no slouch, St. Quentin," the young councillor called. "I deserved to see you. Fear not! I come not to hinder you, but to wish you God-speed."

"Now, this is kind, Romy," Monsieur answered, grasping his hand. "The more that you do not approve me." Romy smiled, like a sudden burst of sunshine in a December day. Another man's embrace would have meant less to me than this. "I approve you so much, St. Quentin, what I cannot composely see you putting your head in the lion's jaw."

"My head is used to the pillow. Do the teeth close, I am no worse off than my son." "Your death makes your son's no less."

"Why, what else do you, Romy?" Monsieur exclaimed. "Mishandle the lady? Storm Paris? Sell the Cause?" "I would we could storm Paris," Romy smiled. "It would suit me better to seize the prisoner than to see for him. But Paris is not ripe for us yet. You know my plan—to send for Villeroi. He believes he could manage this thing."

"I am second to none," Monsieur said politely, "in my admiration of M. de Villeroi's abilities. But to reach him is uncertain; what he can or will do, uncertain. Etienne de Mar is not Villeroi's son; he is mine."

"A lackey came for me," I said, "Louis, Monsieur, that's where we shut up Louis." I ceased hastily, for I knew the step in the corridor.

"Monsieur sprang up, his hand on his sword. But at once the quick flash passed from his face, and he, too, laughed. Mayenne sat as he sat, in somewhat lowering silence. My Duke made a step nearer him, and spoke for the first time with perfect seriousness.

"My Lord Mayenne, it was no outlandish brought me here this morning. There is the Bastille. There is the axe. I know that my course has been offensive to you—your nephew proved me that. I know also that you do not care to meddle with me openly. At least, you have not meddled. Whether you will change your method—but I venture to believe not, I am popular just now in Paris. I had more cheer as I came in this morning than have met your ears for many a month. You have a great name for prudence, M. de Mayenne; I believe you will not molest me."

GRAND DIVISION S. OF T.

Harcourt, N. B., June 27.—The semi-annual session of the grand division, Sons of Temperance, met here this afternoon. Grand Worthy Patriarch Rev. Charles Flemington in the chair. The delegates present were from Dover Grand Division, No. 322, Rev. J. H. Hooper, James W. Washier, Moncton, No. 183, Grand Worthy Associate J. H. Forbes, Port G. W. P. Edward McCarthy, A. C. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Steveson, B. Dalbois, No. 2, Robert W. Beers, Albion, No. 14, St. John, Grand Scribe Edward A. Everett; Westmorland, No. 40, Point de Bute, Rev. Flemington, Bas River, No. 41, A. E. Pearson, John D. Walker, Grangeville, No. 440, Henry W. B. Smith, Harlock, J. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver, S. Jones, Thomas Holen sr., J. Irvine Blakesey; Harcourt, No. 438, Andrew Dunn, Leslie J. Washen, William G. Ther, Henry H. Stuart, Miss Lela E. Ingram.

The grand worthy patriarch's report showed that he had represented New Brunswick Grand Division at the Nova Scotia division as fraternal delegate during the half year; traveled 2,000 miles in connection with temperance work, and written more than 100 letters. He had organized New Westmorland, Albert Division early in the year, resulting in reconstituting one dormant division there. Later he organized new divisions at Port Egin, Campbellton and Dalbois; Bathurst, Port Egin, Moncton and St. John divisions. Pursuant to the New Brunswick division of May 1905, he had helped organize the New Brunswick Temperance Federation, which had since obtained from the provincial government an act prohibiting liquor companies importing liquors into Scott act counties.

The grand scribe's report stated no regular organizer had been employed, but funds were placed at the disposal of the perpetuation committee, which had worked most thoroughly the worthy patriarch. A permanent organization was much needed. A permanent organization of the grand scribe and grand treasurer were read and handed over to the finance and audit committee. Messrs. Steveson, Pearson and Thaurer. Grand Superintendent of Young People's Work Mrs. George T. Armstrong reported and sent in her resignation because of her local superintendents. Mrs. Armstrong's resignation was accepted and Rev. Pearson elected and installed in her room.

PEDESTRIAN HOME

Jack McDonald, the transcontinental pedestrian, who, in company with Gilles and Cummings, left home on January 31 on a trip to San Francisco and return on a wagon of $800, arrived home Friday night. According to McDonald when he and Cummings parted from Gilles they kept along the road until, hearing of the big disaster at San Francisco, they boarded the first freight head toward the Pacific, finally landing in Frasco. They rode the blind baggage as far back as Toronto, and beat the remainder of the way to Montreal, where McDonald and Cummings broke up partnership, the latter remaining in the city, while McDonald kept along to Cape Breton. Jack looks pretty well after his trip, and apparently is happy to be home again.—Sydney Post.

Mrs. Robert Travis, of Douglas avenue, is improving rapidly, and has been able to take a trip to Nova Scotia.

BEARISH SENTIMENT ON THE STOCK MARKET A Feeling That Prices Will Work Lower—Course of the Trading—"Pegged" Issues—Exchange and Gold Imports.

(N. Y. Journal of Commerce.) For months sentiment has been uniformly bearish, the adverse features being emphasized and bullish factors minimized.

Money stringency and election agitation were yesterday the prevailing themes of discussion in brokerage circles, the general conclusion being that prices would work much lower.

Although it was admitted that trade conditions were favorable an undeniable fear existed that the trend here was toward reaction.

Wall Street in its usual manner discounting in advance. Along these lines it was pointed out that the decline in 1905 occurred at a time when business generally was prosperous and that the stock market reaction was followed by business depression.

Even those who were optimistic admitted themselves "short-visioned bulls."

A pessimistic attitude dominated Wall Street and nothing more than a temporary rally is looked for after the adjournment of congress.

It is to be wondered at that the public refuses to be enticed into buying stocks, even though dividends are increased.

Such baseness as the Interborough-Metro-politan pool makes outsiders suspicious of everything that is engineered in Wall Street.

But a comparatively few weeks ago stock market circles were flooded with bullish information on this Belmont-Ryan stock, which they were assured most positively would be supported around 20.

Yet the gentlemen's agreement broke of its own weight and today the pool are being asked to contribute 50 per cent. of their subscriptions.

It is estimated that the stock stands them in the vicinity of 33, which means a loss of over 15 points, or more than 25 per cent. It is not surprising that the bear party is trying to ferret out more "pegged" issues.

Sentiment, while mixed in Wall Street yesterday, seemed more bearishly inclined than any day yet.

Banking houses and bond dealers united with their brethren, the brokers, in the speculative division of the market in attributing the depression of investors to the continued reports of criminal prosecutions, investigations of corporations and the standard which develop along with these features.

The Stock Exchange bond market felt the effects of this decidedly yesterday, the volume of business shrinking materially in the speculative issues.

The counter business in bonds, which is by far the greater of the two, was reported as stagnant. Here, however, the money market conditions came into play. Entirely aside from the merits of the case between the Standard Oil Co. and the government, it is recognized that the cannot help but be highly disturbing to both investment and speculative markets in consequence of the company's enormous capital, its great investments and its interests in financial institutions.

Foreign markets were generally heavy with some specific heaviness in London, arising out of the heavy losses sustained in the mining division of that market, and the fears that trouble might arise there out of the mine settlement.

London sent prices, variously changed, for American stocks, but those averaged lower, and foreigners were reported sellers in that market.

The local market opened with heavy pressure developing in the Standard Oil group, particularly copper shares.

However, practically everything was off but Southern Pacific. The market became very irregular, but showed some improvement under the leadership of St. Paul. Traders insisted that there were some evidences of supporting orders in conspicuous stocks.

Interborough-Metro-politan broke sharply in the later trading, and the signs of liquidation in the market became very apparent.

The whole lot was sharply depressed in the late trading, and bear leaders were active in forcing reactions at the close.

There was a further decline in clearing exchange, which sold off 20 points, to 4,800, recovering at the close to 4,525. The exchange market was reported by brokers as almost stagnant.

At the low price of sterling, the Street heard reports of possible gold import engagements, and advice from London seemed to indicate that some tentative proposals had been made in that market for gold.

Foreign bankers said that the country was very near to the gold importing point, but some of them remarked that there was no real necessity for gold imports at this time.

One international banker maintained that it would be foolish to import gold at this time. The stock market, he remarked, was suffering from money, but from "too much big stick at Washington."

However, elsewhere it was believed that some gold might be brought over early in July in an effort to help out sentiment.

(Lathrop & Smith.) "The troubles with pools and syndicates has been too serious to be overcome at once and a developed market is to be expected for some time to come.

There are developing, however, conditions which should soon ensure a return of the speculative buoyancy which has been lacking for more than six months."

(T. A. McIntyre & Co.) "We are always glad to see a rising market and legitimate bullish activity, because it helps to stimulate commission house business, but from our standpoint of the underlying conditions, technical, speculating, as well as outside influences, all indicate still much lower prices and the operator long of stocks might just as well take advantage of these conditions to get his stock back cheaper."

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B., THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 1906.

THE EVENING TIMES.

ST. JOHN, N. B., JUNE 28, 1906. The St. John Evening Times is published at 27 and 29 Canterbury Street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing & Publishing Co., Ltd. A company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

Circulation of The Times.

Table showing circulation statistics for the week ending June 23, 1906. Includes Monday (6,627), Tuesday (7,241), Wednesday (6,912), Thursday (6,840), Friday (6,882), Saturday (7,278), Total (41,780), Daily Average (6,963), and Average Daily Sworn Circulation First Three Months, 1906 (6,741).

APPLY THE ACT

"It shall be the duty of the mayor or governing officer to submit to the city council on or before the first day of July in each year a report of the number of children who have not attended school during the year."

This is the twenty-eighth day of June, and the city council has as yet taken no action to bring the compulsory school attendance act into force in St. John.

Any individual who goes about town with his eyes open at any time of day sees the need of this law. The mayor and aldermen know that it is needed.

It is of interest and value, no doubt, to turn out with hands and crutches, to stand around a man of three hundred years ago, but there is a more pressing duty to the little children of today, who ask of this city quality of opportunity in the struggle of life, and are denied it by the very men to whom they should look for justice.

The Times joins in the demand that the St. John city council better itself and apply the compulsory attendance act to the City of St. John.

LABOR UNIONS SHOULD ACT

The labor unions of St. John have an opportunity to do this city a great service. They can use their influence to force the head of the mayor and aldermen and induce them to put in force the compulsory school attendance act.

After long agitation manual training is to be introduced in our schools, and further reforms may soon be accomplished. Every child has a right to a share in the advantages of the schools, and to be saved from being sent to work in a factory when it should be at school.

THAT NEW BERTH

Whatever may be said about the quantity of dredging that has been done at Sand Point, the question that must be considered without delay by the city council is whether enough dredging can be done to ensure the completion of the new berth in time for next winter's traffic.

The city council can meet and in ten minutes declare the compulsory school attendance act in force. On the members spare the ten minutes in the interest of the children of St. John!

A SENATOR'S DISCOVERY

Senator Ellis, in his speech in the senate yesterday, is reported to have said that "there is proceeding in this country today another movement, natural and peculiar to our special conditions, a movement which is rapidly moving us towards absolute national independence."

NO MORE REBATES

According to a despatch from Chicago, the conviction of two men in Kansas City, and the punishment meted out to them in connection with the prosecution for giving railroad rebates, has resulted in somewhat startling conversations.

"It looks as though the scullion had come in the railroad world. Shippers have not only ceased to ask for rebates, but refuse to take them, regarding them as tainted paper. The shirring up that has come from investigations into rebate giving has thrown the lawbreakers into a panic. They are suddenly experiencing a change of heart and want to be law-abiding citizens—since the conviction of Tager and Thomas at Kansas City. Traffic officials have suddenly discovered that a large number of secret tariffs existed, of which they had no knowledge. It was convenient to forget them as soon as others were issued. Now they are going around among the large shippers of grain and flour, lumber, oil and steel with searchlights. One traffic official recently discovered that a big shipper had a secret rate. They removed it, and discovered that it increased the road's revenue $300 a day, the tonnage being 3,000 tons daily. In the future the railroads are to be operated more on strictly business principles, where there is to be but one rate for all shippers, big and little. No more transportation is to be given to influence shipments. Henceforth the stockholders are to get all the benefits, earnings are to be divided, and there may be better prospects for dividends."

The Boston Herald makes these terse comments on the political situation in Massachusetts, resulting from the bribery charges in connection with state legislation:—"The sword of Damocles hangs near the Sacred Cow."

"And their right hand is full of bribes."—"It may be that Gethro, the barber, can tell how many men will have close shaves."

The playgrounds fund is now over $1,300. As soon as the Women's Council committee has got the Centennial grounds open and in use under supervision the question of a larger plan for playgrounds will be vigorously taken up. The movement has been successful far beyond anticipations, and should now attract the attention and command the aid of the city council.

One of the most interesting places to visit in New Brunswick at present is Sussex, where 2,500 stalwart men are assembled for military drill. The site of the camp is an ideal one, and if there were no men in uniform to attract attention the charms of Sussex and its surroundings would delight the visitor.

There will be a general feeling of relief that the mill strike is ended. It is now perfectly clear that the majority of the men were not in favor of a strike. They have lost a good deal in wages, and will have less regard for unwise leaders in the future.

South Africa will grant a tariff preference in Canada. The movement in the direction of preferential trade within the empire is steadily, if slowly, gaining ground.

If it be true that wedding fees go to the wives of the officiating clergymen, those ladies will be able to do considerable shopping this week.

Sunday is likely to be the busiest day in the week for people who will want to see the new observance law enforced.

A CHIP OF THE OLD BLOCK

The son of Adam, locked to stay From Eden's sacred sod, Still wanders in a dreamy way Throughout the Land of Noe.

He goes about avoiding trees And Woman's wiles serene, And shows as kin to heart disease The species serpentine.

Yet Woman peeps from shades and nooks, Or plain or picture-poster; He finds her in his games, his books, He finds her at his desk.

Until, poor man, he comes to know The yearning for a wife May make a Purgatorio Of Adam Junior's life.

They meet. Her glance, like heavy wine, Spurs Adam to suggest, "Eve, if you can't live with mine, Look back to Adam's breast!"

So they are wed. In bridal gown To Eden, where they settle down And start to raising Cain. WALLACE IRWIN.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

COULDN'T HELP IT. Mrs. Jordan—Did you ever hear my daughter sing, Mr. Johnson? "Oh, yes, I only live five houses away, you know."—Illustrated Bits.

ANOTHER THEORY. Another old Georgia dorky's theory of the spots on the sun is: "When lives in de sun, an' w'en you see a black spot dar it's a sho' sign de weather's too hot for him, an' he's holdin' a umbrella over his head!"—Atlanta Constitution.

HE DIDN'T WAIT. May Roxley (at the telephone)—That you, Jack? You know, you promised you'd speak to father today. Jack Lovett—Yes, I—er—spoke to him this morning at his office.

FALSE PROMISE. "No, madam," said Bridget, "I'll not have without two weeks' notice. That was the contract, and I'll howl you to it." "But," replied Mrs. Hiram Offen, "you broke the contract in the first place by representing yourself as a cook."—Pittsburgh Courier.

WHAT HE SAW. "I don't see what you admire in Binkley's new auto. Is it the steering gear?" "The limousine body?" "No." "The way it's finished?" "Nope." "Then, what do you see in it to admire?" "Binkley's daughter."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ON SUFFICIENT GROUNDS. "What can I do for you, madam?" asked the lawyer. "I want to bring suit against my husband," answered the fair caller.

"No, sir. For breach of promise." "For breach of promise? Your husband?" "Why, madam, that would be utterly impossible!"

"I know what I am talking about. He promised me when we were married that I could keep a girl, and that he wouldn't play the race. Instead of keeping his word, he played the races and I have to be my own girl."

"But what good would it do? It would only make a scandal." "And it is exceedingly doubtful whether you could recover anything, married that you get judgment. What satisfaction would there be in that?" "That's all right. It'll scare the life out of him."

A way out of the difficulty suggested itself to Mr. Sharpe. He sent her to a woman lawyer.—Chicago Tribune.

MR. KING HAAKON

(New York Globe) The Express of London prints an interview with the Norwegian king in which his democratic majesty is reported to have said:

I persisted that my coronation be limited to a religious ceremony in the cathedral. Some persons wanted a street procession to furnish a spectacle for the people, but I do not like taking part in popular spectacles. I receive the people, not an exhibition, and when I go walking in the streets, it is simply in the midst of the people.

The Norwegians seem to have foreseen the democratic spirit of their monarch some time ago, when it was reported that after passing their heads over what to call him it was suggested that he be styled "Mr. King," a title which, however strange to the ear, does not sound so in English. Mr. Justice or the American Mr. President.

In any event the King of Norway seems disposed to wear his honors with all modesty and make it clear that a king is only a man. He declares his desire to walk simply in the midst of the people. Is it a spirit like that of his own father or a Victor Emmanuel, the latter refused to abdicate the stately, which has become the constitution of Italy. And this firm stand was maintained despite the overtures and threats of the Austrians.

The Indians called him thereafter the King Honest Man—a title that would honor any man, king or otherwise. Let us hope Mr. King Haakon will have a more fortunate reign than a citizen king in France.

The Misses Elsie and Christina Estabrook are visiting at Ormiston.

R. K. Y. C. CRUISING RACE

Much Interest Manifested in Next Monday's Yachting Event from the Cedars to Millidgeville.

Next Monday's cruising race, from the Cedars to Millidgeville, is creating much interest amongst the members of the R. K. Y. C.

Ten entries have already been received, and it is known that more are yet to be filed. As there is an unusually large amount of preliminary work in connection with the start of this race, the sailing committee have decided that the entries close at 6 p. m., Friday, June 29th, at which time all entries must be in the hands of the secretary of the sailing committee, J. H. Ludlow.

In this race there is no limit to the number of the men allowed each yacht, but there must be sufficient damage and crew and each yacht must row her dinghy. The handicaps is given at the start, instead of being deducted from the time at the finish of the race. The smallest yacht will start first and will be followed by the other boats at intervals corresponding to the amount of time allowed the preceding boat. In this case the first boat to cross the finish line at Millidgeville will win the race.

The flag officers have offered as prizes various articles of yacht equipment, and it is understood that those are to be presented to the winners at the finish of the race, when the yachtsmen have assembled at the clubhouse.

The yachts may be readily identified as each one must carry a racing number at the peak of the masthead.

WEDDINGS

Tapley-Ring An event which has been anticipated with interest, especially in the north end, is to take place at 8.30 o'clock this evening at the home of John Ring, 106 Newman street, in the presence of a number of invited guests, when his daughter, Miss Alma, will become the wife of Daniel F. Tapley, Jr., son of Daniel F. Tapley, Sr., medicinal agent of the C. P. R. at Toron.

The drawing rooms have been prettily decorated for the occasion and the very money will take place under a beautiful floral arch.

The nuptial knot will be tied by Rev. David Lang, pastor of the Victoria street Baptist church, and the bride, who will be given away by her father, will be attired in a dainty costume of white organdy with trimmings of lace.

Miss Lizzie Craft, niece of the bride, will be maid of honor, and will wear a pretty white costume, also of organdy, with trimmings of lace.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a dainty supper will be served.

A goodly array of wedding gifts, including a suitable remembrance from the groom's fellow employees, attest the popularity of the happy couple, who will have the good wishes of a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

The young couple will take up their residence in Adelaide street.

Foster-McKenzie

TORONTO, Ont., June 28.—(Special).—At Chicago yesterday, Miss May Barber McKenzie, eldest daughter of Alexander McKenzie, of St. Paul, Minn., was married to Charles Beverley Foster, district passenger agent of the C. P. R. at Toron.

PERSONALS

Henry Stewart, of Henry Stewart & Son, New York insurance adjusters, is at the Royal. Alfred Porter, of Wm. Thomson & Co., went to the north shore today by the noon train. Mrs. Richard Dole and son, Harold, from East Florenceville, are visiting Mrs. S. Vaughan, Main street.

CARS WILL RUN DOMINION DAY

Fairville Line of Street Railway Will Probably be in Operation July 2.

In all probability the street cars will be running through Fairville on Monday, July 2nd, Dominion Day. The railway commission has granted permission to the St. John Railway Co. to cross the C. P. R. tracks and a large gang of men are now engaged in laying the rails so that the cars can be started immediately.

The railway commission will give a decision in three months' time as to what extent of the maintenance charge the street railway people will have to pay.

According to the agreement made at the recent meeting with the local government an unknown man in view of the police and also with violently resisting the police. The prisoner pleaded guilty to drunkenness but stated that he could not recall what he did when he was under the influence of liquor.

Patrolman Hamm stated that between seven and eight o'clock last night he and Acting Sergeant Smith were passing Union Hall, north end, when they saw a man strike a man and throw him up. The police intervened and Downey, along with another man, were taken to the police station, where he put up a fight. He kicked, attempted to bite the officers and hollered loudly. The handcuffs were removed, and Downey was carried to the north end station. Officer Hamm has had a sore finger for some time and the resting of Downey did not improve it. Downey was remanded, and was told that if found guilty he would be liable to a year in jail, which would be worse than two years in Dorchester.

John Fernal was charged by Captain Hansen with absconding himself from his vessel without leave. He was remanded. Frank Powers, for being drunk and indecent exposure, was remanded. Peter Savage, for drunkenness, was fined $4.

Clement Duffley, aged 10 years; Bertton Duffley, aged 12 years, and Albert Goldsmith, aged 14, were arrested this morning by Officers Ward and Finley for lying and lurking in John E. Barry's back on Union street, and not giving a satisfactory account of themselves to the police. The case will come up this afternoon.

HIRE THE LUDLOW

Editor Times: Sir—I observe that six steamers have been chartered for the political picnic at Gaspoint on Dominion Day, and it is reported that the committee want several more to accommodate the crowd.

Now, sir, as a taxpayer and a stockholder, so to speak, in the new ferry, I would suggest that the committee communicate at once with Messrs. Chapman and Woods, and with Messrs. Chapman and Woods, and arrange for the charter of the Ludlow for that excursion.

It was proved on the trial trip of this great vessel that she had a large carrying capacity, but for the accommodation of passengers and the serving of refreshments, and the committee would jump at the chance to get her.

I have no doubt they would pay a handsome sum for an $80,000 steamer with $1,000 and $2,000 and $3,000 attachments more to accommodate the crowd.

For the picnic. Moreover the money paid to the committee would be very useful in paying for some of the repairs that are being done to the Ludlow every few days.

Even if she failed to return, if she were properly insured the city would be the gainer to a large extent. Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain, Yours truly, WEST ENDER.

CHEVERIE OIL

Active drilling operations have been going on for the past three weeks at Cheverie, Hants Co., N. S. The drilling was recommenced in well No. 3 under most favorable auspices. When it was decided last fall that it would be better to suspend operations until spring, the well was reamed and cased. When the well was re-opened and drilling recommenced everything was found in good order and the work of drilling is now proceeding very favorably.

The well is now down to a depth of 1,100 feet. Owing to geological differences in the elevation at this place, the bottom of this well is already below the ocean, or at least a corresponding depth of over 2,200 feet. It is considered necessary to go another thousand feet before the test can be considered at all adequate.

The funds of the company are low, but it is expected that the work will not be allowed to stop at this interesting and important stage. None of the other wells were deep enough to constitute a test.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The Jere McAuliffe Company played Confessions of a Wife at the Opera House last night to a good house. The piece was well put on and the audience were well pleased with each and every actor in the cast.

McAuliffe is always a favorite in this city, and his present company is one of the best that he has ever brought here. The specialties are exceptionally good. Tonight Up York State will be presented.

POLICE REPORTS

Officer Howell was called into Annie Donald's house on Carnarvon street to eject two men who were causing a disturbance.

Officer Silas Perry has reported James Collman for assaulting and striking Mrs. Keating on Mill street on the night of the 27th inst.

Real Panama Hats, Linen Hats 65c. up

$3.00 and $4.00 Free-and-Easy Summer Headwear at Low Prices.

THESE GENUINE PANAMAS were imported from the south especially for us. They are of excellent quality, possessing that desirable creamy tint and velvety softness. A lady with half an eye to tasty millinery will see how easily they lend themselves to innumerable trimming schemes. They can be "caught up," treated as flop hats, swathed in scarfs, finished with quills, etc., etc., in fact made to suit all faces and tastes.

THE LINEN OUTING HATS present an extensive range in Embroidered patterns. They are in pure White, some finished with Rosettes, Gilt Buttons and Quills. Others with a Satin Band and Bow in light pinks and blues. No cooler shade hat, or prettier accompaniment for a warm-weather costume could be hit upon. We have them for both women and misses, also some juvenile shapes.

Stylish Millinery for Dominion Day.
