As Hiram Sees It

"What's all them members of parliament comin' down here to do this week fer?" demanded Mr. Hiram Hornbeam of the Times reporter.

"Comin' down to see what us farmers is goin' to do?"

"I have no doubt," said the reporter, "that they are here to see some soundings. As far as I can gather their coming is the result of a long and hard fight."

One member asserted that freight was hauled over the harbor ice from the railway to the steamer. "Bring up against the ice half way to Digby, and another decision will be made."

"I don't know," said Hiram, "but I don't often get the chance. If the roads were broke I'd ask some of 'em to go out to the Settlement. I went in to see Primer Foster this mornin', and I told him if he didn't prod the cow s'wan as revolutionary and an invasion a state's rights and defend by the government as a legitimate addition to the nation's basic law over, the court held no jurisdiction. Things attended the session of the court."

Herbert A. Rice, attorney-general of Rhode Island, opened for the opposition, and William L. Frierson, assistant attorney-general of the United States, replied for the government. Other arguments will be heard today, as well as appeals from Kentucky and Massachusetts involving the same question.

Mr. Rice charged there was in progress a "constitutional revolution through amendment."

"I see more danger in the doctrines urged by the government than any doctrine urged by the demagogues during the war," he said. He argued that the prohibition amendment resulted from a misconception of the law by congress and that the federal government had no authority to make such a change in the constitution as the amendment provides. Declaring that the "amendment" means a correction, he said the terms of the prohibition amendment were clearly outside the purview of the constitution.

Express Approval Of Proposed New Paving
Bill For The City

Delegation From Board of Trade and Rotary Club at City Hall

Will Father Bill If Council
Does Not — Mr. Agar Says That Council Has Been
"Fiddling" With Paving Question — Mention of Injunction if Council Opens
Tenders Now on Hand.

That the new improvement bill proposed by Mayor Hayes a short time ago was approved by a great many of the business men of the city was impressed on the members of the city council at a special committee meeting this morning.

A large delegation representing the Rotary Club and board of trade was present and it was declared that if the council did not see its way clear to take the bill to Frederickton, the organizations would do so and they would expect that the city council would stand behind them.

During the meeting M. E. Agar made some pointed remarks regarding the council's attitude toward paving matters, saying that they had been "fiddling around" without taking any definite stand in the matter. His remarks drew strenuous replies from Commissioners Fisher and Thompson.

The delegation consisted of W. F. Burditt, W. F. Hatheway, Mr. Agar, A. W. DeWolfe, W. C. Allison, W. J. Mahoney, D. L. Ledingham, E. J. Terry, A. Fred deForest, Kenneth Haley, G. E. Baskin, and others.

Mr. Burditt opened the discussion. He made the point that the payment by subscribers of a proposed bill of permanent paving was the only fair method as he said, the work improved the value of their property, whereas payment by general assessment threw the burden on the wage earner as well as he derived no direct benefit from the improvement.

Mr. Burditt said that to his mind the popular opinion was in favor of the proposed bill, but the council should not consider their individual interests before the good of the city as a whole. He was in favor of assessing abutting property owners for a proportion of the cost of street paving rather than taxing general assessment to such an extent as to make the tax rate so high as to cause such a panic that a stop would be called to paving, which was necessary for the city. He said if the council were not willing or preferred not to promote the bill as introduced by the mayor, the delegation was willing to take the matter up and promote it themselves.

Commissioner Fisher said that the bill would not be passed until the first of May and in the meantime nothing could be done with the present tenders.

Asked if he was in favor of a plebiscite, Mr. Burditt said he did not object to it but he did not think that a plebiscite was a good expression of public opinion where the pockets of some would be affected. He thought that the producers and working men of the city should not be called upon to pay for the benefit of property owners.

The city has been fiddling along in the paving matters," Mr. Agar said. Any member of the council should take the matter into consideration, put his views before the public, and stand by them.

Mr. Thornton said that the commissioners had taken a stand. He said he had expressed himself as opposed to the proposed bill, but he would not take an arbitrary stand should public opinion be contrary to his.

Mr. Fisher said that if Mr. Agar had applied the word "fiddling" to him, he wanted to pass it back.

The mayor said that industry looking towards St. John invariably sends the tax rate. He said other cities had a large revenue from people whose properties were improved by this work, but the mayor continued that this act would cover for the present the paving of Douglas avenue, Prince William street, City road, Brussels street, Haymarket square and Marsh road.

"Then, why should a people in forty or fifty other streets in the city be compelled to pay for the improvement of property on these four or five streets?" Mr. Hatheway asked. He was convinced that the majority of small owners were not in favor of charging all owners for the work done in all the streets.

The mayor said that $1,000,000 of work would push the tax rate up about 25c, as interest and sinking fund would cost about $125,000.

Mr. Fisher said that he estimated the cost of $1,000,000 of work would be only about $80,000 and there would be added revenue from the increased value of property.

Mr. Hatheway said that much of the land in Brussels and other streets was owned by estates on which renewal leases were granted favorably so that the valuation could be placed only on the amount of the income. Most of the houses were owned by workmen but he was sure the improvement would be paid for willingly by the property owners.

The mayor said that in Halifax half the cost was paid by the abutting property owners.

WANTS ALIMONY

Allegation and Denial in Case of Arthur E. Semple, Secretary of Ontario's Provincial Secretary.

(Canadian Press.)
Toronto, March 9.—Mrs. Kathleen Semple of this city is suing her husband, Arthur E. Semple, secretary to the provincial secretary, for unstated alimony. The action was to have been heard yesterday, but Mrs. Semple was in Grand Rapids, Mich., on a concert tour and the hearing was postponed.

The plaintiff alleges cruelty against her husband, and alleges that he has not provided her with sufficient money for her proper maintenance. She contends that in the summer of 1916, while she was in Muskegon, her husband joined her for the week-ends, and though she was in delicate health, he insisted upon her rising early in the morning and bathing with him.

The defendant denies his wife's charges and says that he was not cruel to her, but contends that she did not bestow sufficient care on their children and became possessed of an insatiable desire to go on the stage. He contends that his wife deserted him and is not entitled to alimony.

PROBLEMS IN THE DOMINION

(By H. H. Carter, Eastern Superintendent, Union Bank of Canada.)

Most men, whether engaged in manufacturing, importing or banking, for many months have been endeavoring to acquire some knowledge of present financial conditions, and at the same time come to some conclusion in their own minds as to what the near future holds in store for Canada.

We have had very many opportunities recently—more particularly as the commencement of the new year brings to the attention of the public many annual statements—of viewing different opinions, the majority of which have been of a very optimistic character. While it is impossible to counter the statement that this country is prosperous (for which we should be truly thankful), it is not true, now that the war has been over for more than a year, to take stock and ascertain to what extent such prosperity is founded on a solid basis, and, conversely, to what extent our present condition is due to our having mortgaged the future?

Previous to the outbreak of the war the funded debt of Canada was $308,000,000. At the present time the debt is about $2,000,000,000. Consequently the annual interest charge at the present time is between 25 per cent. and 30 per cent. of the total pre-war debt.

During the same period there has been an expansion in the circulation of Dominion government notes from $117,000,000 to $298,000,000, and in bank notes from $105,000,000 to $237,000,000.

Even the most conservative man must have long ago admitted the necessity of the raising of money and expansion of circulation. At the same time, are we not at least to some extent living in a "Fool's Paradise," and should we not, now that the war is over, adjust our affairs with a view to evolving some method which will in time bring us to normal conditions?

At present money is too cheap, in the sense that the great majority of people have lost sight of its value. Very many people—more particularly of the wage-earning class—are now making so much that when purchasing goods they apply as a standard the costs of such goods in dollars rather than their actual value.

As an instance of this, a man told me of being in a shop where a young woman asked for a pair of silk socks (presumably for her young man), and she was shown a pair at $2, said they were not good enough. The clerk then suggested she had a new shipment just in, and produced the same pair from another box and sold them for $3. Everything else is too dear—much beyond cost plus a fair margin of profit.

J. S. Williams, controller of the currency at Washington, in his annual report says:

It is clear that no country can be enriched by merely increasing prices of products produced and consumed by its own people. We might prosper for the moment if we could sell our products abroad at the higher prices and take payment in gold, or in goods at normal prices; but we gain nothing when we sell and buy at corresponding abnormal prices.

How, then, are we to set our sails so as to get back to something approaching normal conditions? Undoubtedly this is going to take a very long time, and unquestionably during the process we will get a contraction in what might be called the "good times" now being enjoyed. Inasmuch, however, as every one must admit that we cannot go on indefinitely as we are it would seem that the sooner such reforms as are necessary are instituted the better. To my mind there are three great factors to be dealt with:

(a) Deflation of currency.
(b) Increased production and greater exports.
(c) Increased immigration.

I mention deflation of currency first because in my humble opinion it is the most essential factor of the three. I repeat—a great many of our people; in fact the vast majority, no longer possess a proper sense of the value of money, and this can only be rectified through deflation. Obviously if in place of $100 one had $40—the $50 having an equal value with the $100 formerly held—the $50 would go further. In other words, with less money—even though of the same value—one would be more careful of it. Most people will admit that with less money in circulation prices generally will show some contraction. Consequently not only would deflation make people less extravagant, but at the same time help in some degree to reduce the high cost of living. Moreover, from the standpoint of our trade with other countries it is quite apparent the nearer our domestic currency is to a gold basis the better position will be in.

An American economist, writing in the Financial Chronicle recently, expressed the federal reserve board severely for the manner in which they had permitted their circulation to expand, and went on to express the opinion that their action had not a little to do with the prevailing high prices.

A New York banker commenting on this subject, after mentioning that paper money had increased 600 per cent. in the world since 1914, adds: "It is generally agreed that the present high prices are attributable partly at least to the inflation of our currency by the issue of currency notes." The same paper goes on to say: "It is customary to speak of the high price of goods rather than of the low value of money, but inflation of currency may be expressed either in terms of higher prices of commodities or lower money values. The latter is in fact more correct, because the amount of money in circulation has been artificially increased, and has thereby become of less value."

In so far as England is concerned a recent report indicates that by March 31, 1919, our total exports were $1,240,000,000, as against $1,190,000,000 in 1918. Great Britain is still our largest customer (224 million), although taking forty million dollars less of goods less than in 1918. The United States is next, with 454 million, or 21 million more than in the preceding year. These changes are significant. France shows the heavy falling off in purchases, from

EARLY SPRING OPENING

Our First Formal Showing of New Spring Styles Will Take Place Here Tomorrow, March 10, and Following Days

Only the Most Winsome of the Favored Styles Take Part in the Display

Every season, as you know, hundreds of different styles appear for recognition and acceptance by the feminine public. Some of them attain their desired destination while the others depart from the stage to sink into obscurity and forgetfulness. We scrupulously watched the weather-cock of fashion to see which way the wind blew before making the selections which we submit to you in this display. We chose only the idols of the hour—the cream of the prettiest presented—and it is these which we now solicit you to come and see. No attempt will be made to induce you to purchase any of them. We want you here as our guest on this occasion. If you choose to make a selection it must be of your own accord without any prompting on our part.

THE NEW SPRING SUITS HOLD PROMINENT PLACE IN SPRING STYLES FOR WOMEN AND MISSES

Once more the wheel of Fashion turns the indicating finger to New Spring Suits, and they arrive as blithely as though they would say—"We are new—you have never seen us before."

And they contrive to look very new with their various individualities of collar, cuffs, pockets, vests, trimming treatments of embroidery and of beading, with little pieces of bright color.

Suits that are dignified with long, slender lines—Suits that have a youthful box coat—Suits with all the newness of the New Season. Developed in Tricotines, Point Twills, Serge and Tweeds. Irreproachable as the fine tailoring of these models, every detail is as carefully fashioned as the individually made-to-order suit. Many individual models.

THE NEW FROCKS RUN THE GAMUT OF VARIETY.

One can't go wrong in one's choice of styles this year unless it is not knowing one's own type. Here are straight line frocks for the woman who would look slender.

There is a tunic or Russian blouse effect to minimize one's height. And for the petite Miss there are bouffancy and frills.

So charming are these spring arrivals that one cannot resist their fascinations. Embroidery is not missing or beading of various kinds and pleating, etc.

For immediate wear there is a selection of materials from worsteds such as Tricotine, Point Twill and Serge or the dignified elegance of Tricotette—or the facile grace of Satin—or the chic impertinence of Tafeta—or the soft suppleness of Georgette.

WOMEN'S SPRING COATS. SWAGGER NEW MODELS FOR IMMEDIATE WEAR.

In the 1920 Coats for spring are many versions of the new styles with just enough swagger cut and swinging lines to embody a breezy touch of the Sport Coat in demand by the woman of fashion. Coats—short, medium or longer, belted, semi-belted, or loose; the ultra-smart ruffled shoulders, convertible collars, roomy pockets, all splendidly tailored. Coats of velour crystal cord and polo cloths.

THE NEW BLOUSES SHOW MANY DISTINCTLY NEW NOTES.

For wear with the new costume-skirts tailored made suits for spring. Not only the tucked-in models with their frills and hand work, high or low collars, but over blouses too—just long enough to cover the skirt band or some such longer. Many with colored Oriental embroidery and real laces. Developed in Georgette, Nets, Crepe-de-Chenes; light colors and suit shades.

THE NEW SKIRTS.

Women who appreciate smart and attractive wear in a separate skirt will find great interest in the New Spring Styles we are showing for immediate wear in which numerous pleats and other novelties are expressed.

As to materials showing many in the popular Gabardine, Jerseys and Serge, besides a host of dainty skirts in Crepe-de-Chene, Baronette, Satin, Tricotette and other silks made up in unusual combinations; also some very smart plaid effects.

London House DANIEL Head King St.

HARD TO PICK OUT RICH ONES IN THESE DAYS.

(Lectures Pour Tous, Paris.) The other day a rather plain-looking couple entered the shop of an antiquarian in Rue de la Proverence. "Please show us some of your porcelain bric-a-brac," said the husband. "Your taste is perfect," said the antiquarian quickly scanned the callers and, persuaded that they would not buy anything, he set out some of his vases with rather bad grace.

"Here," he said languidly, "are some pieces of antique Vincennes and Sevres." "Josephine," said the husband, "which do you like best?" "Josephine made her choice. It was the Sevres piece of rare beauty."

The husband, without a ripple, pulled out a 1,000-franc note from his pocket and the antiquarian, realizing his mistake in judgment, suddenly became all deference. With great obsequiousness he begged his customers to be so kind as to look over his stock and he had long wanted to make her a present of a pretty coffee cup. Now my means permit it. War contracts have made me rich.

MOTHER'S PENSIONS. Brantford Examiner: Mother's pensions, as given in the United States, are in the Expositor is not mistaken, are in whole, a part, a change against the municipalities, and apparently the Ontario government contemplates placing responsibility in the same quarter. It is apparent, however, that the financial position of most of our municipalities at the present time is such as to make it impossible for them to take on this additional responsibility, therefore, the Expositor agrees with Mayor MacBride that if the funds cannot be provided by the province it would be better to postpone this greatly-to-be-desired legislation for the present.

LEFT DECISION TO DOG; HE BALKED

Test Case as to Ownership of Dog in Boston Decided But Other Action May Follow.

(Boston Globe.) An unlicensed four-year-old French pointer, of disputed ownership, held the attention of Judge Michael J. Murray and more than forty residents of the West End, principally from Allen street, in the warrant session of the municipal court this morning. After more than a dozen witnesses were heard and a test made by the handsome dog, Judge Murray, in open court, admitted the mate evidence of the people intimidated very strongly a draw.

It was only an application for a warrant against Mrs. Pollock, charging her with larceny of her property French dog. Each asserted she owned the dog, and both agreed the dog was four years old. That was about the only thing upon which they actually agreed.

The evidence was so conflicting on the part of the witnesses of both sides that Judge Murray remarked that the situation was like Solomon sitting to make the decision over the child.

Judge Murray ordered all to cease talking, calling upon Court Officer Fred Spargo to bring the dog forward. The judge ordered Mrs. Pollock to go to one part of the court room and Mrs. Sigal to the other extreme end. Then he requested all to remain quiet and Mr. Spargo to put the dog in the centre of the room.

Dog Answers Call of Bell. It was evident that the pretty dog knew both women as he turned his head and watched them as they walked to where they were directed.

"You call now," said Judge Murray to Mrs. Pollock and with a half suppressed bark the dog rushed to Mrs. Pollock and Mrs. Pollock, who picked him up.

"That is just a test," said Judge Murray. "Now you call the dog," Judge Murray said to Mrs. Sigal, and with a half suppressed bark the dog rushed to Mrs. Sigal, who also picked him up. It was plain the dog did not know his name.

Judge Murray decided to find out if the dog would run to any one that called and the test was made. The dog not even glancing in the direction whence the call came.

When Judge Murray himself called and snatched his fingers the dog only wagged his tail and again gave a suppressed bark.

500 For 50 Jobs.

(London Mail.) "Five hundred men and women, including many ex-soldiers, were standing in a queue at the Albert Hall, W., on Monday morning hoping to be engaged in temporary staff for the British Empire Ball tonight," writes a correspondent. After waiting for three hours about fifty were engaged.

"So these lucky ones will get one night's work at an average wage of 15s. The other 450 spent a fruitless day in travelling, scrambling, and waiting in the rain."

PURE VEGETABLE BUTTER COLORING

For Coloring Winter Butter and Oleomargarine

DIRECTIONS FOR USE:
Put the butter or oleomargarine in a bowl and drop on it for each pound ten drops from the bottle of coloring. If using the capsules, pierce one of these and squeeze contents over the butter. Work the butter with a spoon (a large wooden one is best), mixing color in thoroughly, and in a minute you will find the color of June grass butter. Do not heat the butter before mixing; but if it is left in a warm room for a while before mixing it will color more easily.

Nearly all butter made in the winter time is colored in this way when it is made.

This color, which is the same as that used by the creameries, is purely vegetable and contains no harmful ingredients.

The snake speeds to colored objects, and when it is on the trail of a rabbit resembles a miniature rotary snow plow tumbling through drifts.

WOULD MUZZLE THE PRESS

The Toronto Globe features an extraordinary communication which is said to have been sent out last fall to Canadian manufacturers by one G. M. Murray, who is described as "formerly General Manager of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association." "Marketing" for March publishes the document, and the Toronto Globe quotes liberal extracts. The booklet has this heading:—"Muzzling the Moulders of Public Opinion. How a Safe and Sure Press can be Secured for Canada by the Careful Shepherding of Advertising Patronage." In other words, manufacturers were to control the press by granting or withholding advertising patronage according as the newspapers agreed or refused to play their game. Mr. Murray was very frank about it. The thing to do, in his opinion, was to secure editorial control of all the papers, so that they would say exactly what they were told to say. He was quite sure the scheme would work, because the publishers would be forced for financial reasons to bow their necks to the yoke. He says:—"The publishing of a newspaper is fundamentally a business proposition. It is a venture undertaken for the purpose of making money. Its salaries are paid by the shareholders on certain subjects, but its shareholders will permit him to ventilate those views only in so far as it is apparent that such ventilation will bring the financial success of the paper. What the shareholders are most concerned about is maintaining a comfortable excess of income over outgo. The income from the paper is all eaten up in the cost of paper, composition and printing. It is the income from advertising that counts, and no shrinkage ever takes place in that item without a searching investigation as to the cause. Should the shareholders find that the shrinkage is due to an editorial policy which the paper's advertising customers resent they will order a change of editorial policy. If their orders are not carried out they will secure a new editor. Dividends must be protected, but, more important than dividends, invested capital must be protected, and in the publishing game, as those who have tried it very well know, capital has a tendency to disappear with remarkable rapidity unless the paper makes a hit among advertisers."

Mr. Murray had the whole scheme worked out. A bureau would be established, and manufacturers would subscribe a stipulated sum. The bureau would keep them advised of the editorial policy of every paper, and also as to the desirability of putting on the news or doing the reverse. "The whole thing," he says, "can be put under way easily, quietly and safely, and the bureau would soon be able to 'exercise an influence which no publication could afford to ignore.'"

Of course the public was not to know anything about this precious scheme. Mr. Murray was to be paid in advance, and all information was to be regarded as strictly confidential. "Marketing" declares that many manufacturers actually signed the agreement, and if this be so the seed did not fall on barren soil. The Financial Post some weeks ago referred to the fact that there was a proposal to bludgeon any portion of the press that refused to support a tariff policy satisfactory to the manufacturers, and declared that the adoption of such a policy would react in the most damaging way upon its authors. "Marketing" now throws further light upon the most audacious proposal that has been made in regard to the muzzling of the press of Canada. It cannot be more fully characterized than in the words of the Toronto Globe, which says:—"The whole scheme, from beginning to end, is amazing. Clearly the kind of agency this man seeks to establish is designed to prosaize newspaperdom to dishonest public service. It aims to dictate economic policy for the press of Canada as Bismarck dictated political policy for the press of Germany. It unblushingly proposes to control and regulate the editorial utterances of every Canadian newspaper by the money its clients spend with it or withhold from it. It boldly champions a reptile press. The Globe mistakes the spirit and the principles which dominate the press of this Dominion if Mr. Murray's project proves effective to the least degree. It also doubts his ability to persuade any considerable number of reputable manufacturers that his policy can advance their interests. To enjoy large circulation and influence a newspaper must prove itself. It must have the confidence of its readers in the reliability of its news columns and their respect for its honesty and sincerity of its editorial comment. The relation of the newspaper to its advertisers is solely a commercial relation. The relation of the newspaper to its readers is something altogether different. It is the right of the reader to be assured that editorial influence and editorial convictions cannot be purchased. A good newspaper has been a sense of honor and as high a standard of ethics as has the right-thinking individual. Mr. Murray will find out what he apparently has not yet learned—that the press of Canada can neither be bought nor bludgeoned."

SIR THOMAS WHITE

Sir Thomas White is again in the spot-light. The man who retired from the government rose yesterday to sound his praises and to plead its cause. But Sir Thomas did more. He is thus reported:—"I say, if Sir Robert Borden will form a National Liberal-Conservative Party, consisting of the old Conservative party and the members of the Liberal party, who joined him in the coalition in 1917, and who think with him on public questions, I say he would sweep the country." If Sir Robert Borden should not be physically able to go on with this programme would Sir Thomas take up the task? He comes out squarely for the old Conservative policy, which is high protection. But why wait? Why not sweep the country now? Sir Thomas does not give any sound reason for delay. He must be aware that there is general discontent in the country, and if a "National Liberal-Conservative Party" is the remedy, why not apply it at once? One wonders how the renewed political activity of the ex-finance minister is regarded by the various aspirants for the premiership, in the event of Sir Robert Borden's permanent retirement. His pronouncement on the tariff is highly pleasing to the Conservatives, but will not make the position of Liberal-Unionist members any more comfortable.

THE JUVENILE COURT.

A Canadian Press despatch from Regina says:—"In the two years that the juvenile court has been established in Saskatchewan, out of a total of 481 children who have come before Judge Ethel MacLachlan only 22 appeared the second time and three the third time." It will be noted that the judge of the juvenile court in Regina is a woman, and that her work has been marked by wonderful success. It is only in difficult cases that boys or girls are brought before a properly constituted juvenile court, and when only 22 out of 481 returned a second time, and only three for the third time, the success of the system in saving the children is obvious. One St. John opponent of the juvenile court has quoted several sections from the Children's Protection Act as proof that we do not want such a court. Does not this critic know that the passages quoted are already the law of New Brunswick and that it is being carried out? It may be administered by a police magistrate, a county court judge, a judge of the supreme court, or any two magistrates. It is now being administered in St. John. The establishment of a real juvenile court, with probation officers, would ensure an infinitely better administration of the law than the present system, which is not locked up in police court cells as is done under the existing system in St. John.

Among those who are attending at the Social Service Convention in this city today is Mr. J. N. Bars, superintendent of that splendid institution, the Boys Industrial Schools of Shawbridge, Quebec. Mr. John Bradford, whom the Commercial Club has sought to bring to St. John to discuss the subject of juvenile courts, writes that no better man than Mr. Bars could be secured to tell of the beneficent work of these courts. Let us hope the Commercial Club, Rotary Club, Trades and Labor Council and others interested will hear Mr. Bars.

With Rotary Clubs in St. John, Moncton and St. Stephen, this province is getting on the Rotary map, and shaping up for a delegate to Atlantic City in June that will make at least two chaplains a necessity.

The spectacle of a citizen wrapped in gloom does not necessarily mean that his wife is away. He may only be a Rotarian who could not get away to Moncton this afternoon.

Sir Edward Carson's advice to Ulster to accept the Home Rule bill now before parliament is an olive branch extended to the south of Ireland. It should have a good effect in both north and south.

Notable speakers are discussing questions of great interest and importance at the sessions of the Provincial Social Service Council now in session in St. John.

President Wilson has once more made it clear that he will not assent to peace treaty reservations which would weaken the provisions of the treaty.

An American daily newspaper is now published in Jerusalem. The fact is significant of the new order of things in Palestine.

The sparrows and the pussy willow say spring is coming and we will not deny it. But—212—

THE CROOK.

In our quiet country village lived the prince of get-rich-sharks; and his dreams were all of pillage, and of skimming easy marks. Oh, his front was fine and stately, and he was a gorgeous gent, and he fooled the suckers greatly, with his promised ten per cent. But one morning he was missing, with his winning smile and glad, and his name's become a hissing in our melancholy grad. Oh, we do not see him trundle in his costly auto now, and he took away a bundle that would choke a muley cow. There are threats and there is wailing from the suckers, old and young; talk of lynching and of falling from the com-ones who were stung. Gosh the crook who did the dishing, and you know not where he went; he is doubtless busy fishing, elsewhere, with his ten per cent. Oh, I am a doubting Thomas, and I smell the scent of cheese, when the get-rich fakery promise more than safety guarantees. And the wise and cautious banker knows how much is safe and sane, and that's all for which I'll hanker while I have a working brain. Better have an income modest, and be sure it's always there, than to paw the sand and sawdust and to weep and tear my hair.

CANADA—EAST AND WEST

Domestic Happenings of Other Days

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

In the early days of discovery in North America, Prince Edward Island was known as the island of St. John. In fact it did not receive its present name until as late as 1799, when the Duke of Kent, who was commander-in-chief of the British forces in the West Indies, built a fort and established a garrison at Charlottetown. Thirty years earlier, when the island was under British rule, the population consisted of about thirty families who lived by farming and fishing. The land was divided in England in one day among military officers and others who had any claims upon the government. It was split into sixty-seven townships of 20,000 acres each, with the usual small reservations for military and religious purposes.

For a long time, under such a system of ownership, the island made little progress, and so it was not until 1769 that it was set aside as a separate province. Even at that time it had only a resident population of five proprietors and about 100 settlers. Walter Patterson, one of the five real estate owners, was chosen as its first ruler and provision was made for an assembly, which was planned in 1778. At first it was planned that the expenses of government should be met by a system of "quit rents," that is, the small sums payable annually by the settlers to the crown as rent for the land they occupied. But the plan was abandoned as a result for a long time the expenses of government were paid directly from England by the crown.

SPRING FEELING.

(Rev. George Scott.)
No use talkin' spring is here,
There's a throbbin' in the air,
Makes a little fellow queer,
Makes him feel he doesn't care.

Teacher is discouraged quite,
Gets as cross as anything,
Nothing seems to come out right,
Guess she knows it is the spring.

Honest Injun, I have tried
"Splittin' up the kindlin' wood,"
Mother can't be satisfied,
Sister says I can't be good.

Brother says I'm gettin' sick,
Talks of comin' and pickin',
Says he'd do me pretty quick,
Castor oil and nasty squicks.

No use talkin' spring is here,
There's a throbbin' in the air,
Makes a little fellow queer,
Makes him feel he doesn't care.

LIGHTER VEIN.

The One Who Suffered.
"Son," said old Kloseman, "you must give up smoking; it affects the heart."
"Don't worry, father; my heart's all right."
"That may be, but it gives me palpitation every time I see you light one of those expensive cigars."—Boston Transcript.

Alert Hubby.
"I had an awful scare this morning about 2 o'clock," said Mrs. Hupp. "I heard a noise downstairs, and I got up and turned on the electric light in my bedroom, and I found a man's legs sticking out under the bed."
"The burglar's legs?" asked Mrs. Hupp.
"No, my husband's legs," replied Mrs. Hupp. "He had heard the noise before I woke me."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

They are mighty proud of their one skyscraper up in Seattle.
It is a long skinny building that stands on one leg like a stork, and blinks down disdainfully from its thousand windows on ordinary fifteen-story shacks.
A San Francisco man recently in that city was incautious enough to express surprise.
"What are those posts sticking out all the way up?" he asked a Seattleite.
"Those are mile-posts," said the Seattleite.

The ragged little English boy suddenly sprang from nowhere, darted toward the taxi which the man in a hurry had just summoned and politely opened the door. Then he handed in the portmanteau, carefully closed the door and waited.
But the man in a hurry had no loose change. Moreover, his overcoat was tightly buttoned and he would have to squint considerably to get at his money. Therefore he gazed stolidly ahead at nothing and ignored the expectant child.
The youngster knew from experience that he had struck a hopeless case, and he smiled sourly.
"Nearest poor-house, cabby?" he called to the driver as he darted for another cab.

"As a rule I pay respectful attention to the man who starts a remark by saying, 'When I was in France,'" said Mr. Gadbury.
"So do I," replied Mr. Dubwaite, "but occasionally I make an exception."
"And on what grounds?"
"When the speaker happens to be a member of congress who went on one of those European junkets and got in the way of fighting men."

CONSTANTINOPLE.

Constantinople, which it has been decided to leave the Turks in possession of, is the capital of Turkey (Istanbul by the Turks, corrupted into Stamboul) and is situated at the junction of the Bosphorus with the sea of Marmara. It is about the same latitude as New York and with a climate not unlike that of the American city. It is practically an aggregation of three towns, Stamboul, Galata-Pera and Scutari, besides a number of suburbs scattered for a distance of about twelve miles along both sides of the town and on the European side and separated by the Golden Horn, the crescent-shaped arm of the Bosphorus which forms a magnificent harbor half a mile wide at the entrance and is nearly six miles long.

Stamboul, or Constantinople proper, occupies the site of ancient Byzantium, a highly built-up city on seven hills. The peninsula on which the city stands is the tip of the Bosphorus. The two districts of the city are separated by a narrow waterway almost of a triangle. It is surrounded by water on all sides except the west, with a total water front some twelve miles in extent. Galata, on the opposite side of the Golden Horn, is the banking and shipping district. The European banking and trading firms are located here, and here Europeans, Levantines and Armenians, and a highly mixed population reside, and in this suburb are situated the embassies and consulates. The two districts are connected by a bridge connecting Galata with Stamboul, and on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus is the site of the British and Turkish cemeteries.

Constantinople has few manufactures, and these are confined to articles in morocco leather, saddlery, tobacco, tobacco pipes, fez caps, arm perfumes, and gold and silver silversmithery. There is ample accommodation for shipping, the Golden Horn being deep, commodious and well sheltered, and able to accommodate 1,200 ships of large tonnage. Tied to its wharves may be seen such articles as the Golden Fleece, while alongside are moored numerous ocean liners used in exchanging the products of the west for those of the east. The Bosphorus, which is never more than a few miles wide, guards the narrow waterway through which passed the commerce of the world, and which will again be the highway for the great traffic now to develop between Turkey, South Russia and the west coast of Europe and America.

The imports into Constantinople include such articles as timber, tallow, furs, cottons, yarns, woolsens, silks, watches, furniture, jewelry, coffee, sugar, etc. The exports are chiefly grain, wool and goats' hair, madder, etc. In 1914 a tonnage of 12,000,000 entered, and cleared in 1915 a tonnage of 12,000,000. No exact estimates of the population of Constantinople are available, but approximately 1,000,000 people are said to be its inhabitants. One-half the population are composed of Mohammedans, and the other half of Orthodox Greeks, Roumanians, Armenians, Catholics, Armenians and other Uniates, and Jews, besides a large foreign population belonging to varied professions.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

(Thomas Adams.)
There is great opportunity in Canada to make our housing conditions right, better than England, attention is being devoted to the solution of a housing problem that has become a national one. It is obviously a much easier operation to prevent a housing problem than it is to remedy them after they have become established.

Some three of the enormous problem in England may be gathered from proposal to build under government agency from three hundred to four hundred thousand houses at a cost of from $2,000 to $4,000 each, involving a possible loss to the government of about $100,000,000. Here in Canada we are still in the formative stage. Rapid as our growth is, we have not begun to create the germs of slums in our big cities. Without a doubt the conditions already existing in our few big cities are comparable with some of the worst conditions in European cities.

In both the United States and Canada we have the beginnings of slums, and a similarity of conditions that enables us to compare them to our mutual advantage and the solution of the housing problem depend most largely on applying right methods of planning and developing the land and on the extent to which these methods lessen the evils that arise from land speculation. All our cities are surrounded by scattered and somewhat disorderly developments and one difference between a Canadian city and a city in the Mother country is that whereas our new suburban developments are among the worst we have, the slum conditions in the English cities have been mostly handed down from the past. If you want to see the worst conditions in Ottawa, for instance, you must go not to Lower Town or to the centre of the city, but just over the city boundaries in what is practically a "no man's land" between the city and the country and where there is a lack of sufficient control and interest, secure proper conditions.

PROGRESS IN BATHURST.

(Northern Light.)
That Bathurst would have a new rink next season was assured from the moment that disaster overtook the original building, but today it is possible to state that the new structure will be three times more valuable than the other, which places the capitalization of the new rink at approximately $60,000. If the present arrangements are carried into effect one of the new industrial ventures in the town of Bathurst will be the planning of a bath and door factory of the planning of a bath and door factory and associated interests of McLachlan, Jones, or a co-operative. Feeling that the town of Bathurst is more suited to the growing business the McLachlan brothers, who are well known here, in both business and social spheres, have acquired a property on the village side of the basin which they intend to develop along the lines of their Telegoche enterprise.

SCHOOL BOARD IN SESSION

Teachers' Salaries Dealt With — Heating of Centennial School — Rifle Range for Cadets — Property Offered for New Building.

At a meeting of the school board last evening the matter of teachers' salaries was dealt with and among other matters to come up was the authorization of the instalment of a rifle in the basement of King George school for the cadet corps. Sites of land for school buildings in West St. John and in Newman street were spoken of.

In the absence of the chairman, Dr. A. F. Emery, M. Coll presided. Other trustees present were: Mrs. Richard O'Brien, G. H. Green, J. P. D. Lewin, H. C. Smith, G. E. Day, E. R. W. Ingraham and Dr. H. S. Bridges.

The report of the finance committee on salaries was read and adopted. It fixed the salaries of grade teachers at a minimum of $700 with yearly increases to a maximum of $1,000 and drew up a schedule for other teachers. A letter from the male teachers expressed disappointment that only one half of their desired 25 per cent increase had been granted and asked for reconsideration of their request. On motion of Mr. Day, seconded by Mr. Smith, the matter was referred to the finance committee who will meet the male teachers and explain that the board had made the grant as generous as the finances permitted. The teachers' association asked for information as to the schedule of salaries of which it had received no notification and on Mr. Day's motion, the secretary was asked to forward to the association the schedule which had been approved. Mr. Lewin asked how long the board had been dealing with the teachers' association as a body.

The secretary, A. Gordon Leavitt, in his report gave the following statistics: pupils enrolled, 8,163; belonging, 3,902 boys and 4,039 girls; in daily attendance, 81.79 per cent; absent, caused by sickness, 137; at work, 15; died, 1; left city, 17; transferred, 8; kept home, 47. The board of health report gave the following particulars of illness during the month: influenza, 48; scarlet fever, 20; diphtheria, 5.

Leave of absence for two months with full pay was granted Miss Bertha A. Brittain, while Miss Forbes was granted leave of absence for four months with full pay instead of half pay as decided at the last meeting. In this matter of granting leave of absence Mr. Green asked if the board should not adopt a new system since the salaries have been raised. The request of Lieut.-Colonel A. B. Snow that the board sign bonds for $50,000 was also discussed.

THE roof, exposed as it is to nature's various moods, should receive the greatest consideration—a little extra thought spent on the roof more than pays in years to come.

N. S. MINE WAGES
MATTER TODAY
Halifax, N. S., March 9.—The Halifax Herald published the following despatch from its Glace Bay correspondent:
Glace Bay, March 8.—President Robert Baxter said to a Herald correspondent this afternoon that he hoped to arrive at a satisfactory settlement with the "Scotts" operators tomorrow. Superintendent Brown has made some concessions to U. M. W. executive, but these have all been turned down by the executive. The U. M. W. has accepted this rate. The rates offered by Superintendent Brown for contract and machine men were daily refused, being considered inadequate.
Superintendent Brown did not propose a dual wage for common labor, being satisfied to leave this in the hands of the Patterson conciliation board. The time agreement question will also be settled by the board. President Baxter is confident that the board will hand down a decision satisfactory to the miners.
The board will sit tomorrow morning. Four collieries are controlled by the "Scotts" Company, the Princess, Jubilee, Florence and Scotia.

erty owners. People owning land in Halifax were taxed $5.48 last year, while here owners were getting off much more easily. A. H. Wetmore said that while paving was for the general benefit of the city, the whole tax-paying public would contribute its share in paying for one-third. The property owners who desired a greater benefit should pay more. "Should this matter be decided in favor of putting the whole cost on general assessments," he said, "there will be a rush on city hall of abutters who have already paid a share for permanent paving, asking to have their money back."

The Tenders. Commissioner Fisher spoke of the tenders which he now had for the paving of Douglas avenue, City road, Marsden road and Prince William street. He said that he had hoped to be able to "open them at this afternoon's meeting, and then in order to be consistent," Mr. Agar said, "we would be compelled to apply for an injunction to restrain the council from granting the contract."

In closing the mayor said that he was not their way, but the necessary for the delegation to take the bill to Federation themselves, no obstacle would be put in their way. The proposed act provides for the right of the city to move on the fourth day the vote of the council and to charge one-third of the cost to the owners on each side of the street, the city paying for the other third, and also all street intersections and in front of commercial property. The residents of a street may ask the city to put down permanent pavement on presenting a petition signed by a majority of the property owners.

TO JOIN NEW BRUNSWICK WITH QUEBEC

Social Service Council Opens Annual Meeting

Rev. Messrs. Bishop and Dowling Chosen to Confer With Quebec Delegates in Montreal on Matters to Be Arranged.

The annual meeting of Social Service Council of New Brunswick opened this morning in the parlors of St. Andrew's church, Rev. H. A. Goodwin, the president, in the chair. The question of finances and the sharing of expenses occupied most of the meeting. It was decided to sever the arrangement with P. E. Island council and referred to the raising of funds. The suggestion was that Quebec pay three-fifths towards the annual expenses and the remainder, about $2,000, would be found by New Brunswick. Mr. Goodwin said the advantages to accrue were purely financial but that this was a very important feature. It was necessary that the work of the council have as strong financial support as possible. The secretary should not have to gather in his own salary—that had been an embarrassing feature heretofore—there must be some definitely established means of income to carry on the work.

Rev. Mr. Dawson moved that the proposal regarding joining with Quebec be accepted. This was seconded by Mrs. Hipwell and carried. He explained the local situation and referred to the raising of funds. The suggestion was that Quebec pay three-fifths towards the annual expenses and the remainder, about $2,000, would be found by New Brunswick. Mr. Goodwin said the advantages to accrue were purely financial but that this was a very important feature. It was necessary that the work of the council have as strong financial support as possible. The secretary should not have to gather in his own salary—that had been an embarrassing feature heretofore—there must be some definitely established means of income to carry on the work.

It was explained by Mrs. C. E. Whitton that the national council, in view of the local situation, had wiped off last year's tax. A vote of appreciation was passed to the council for relieving the indebtedness.

The question of services to be rendered by the field secretary was discussed and the suggestion was that New Brunswick should at least expect two-fifths of his time since that portion of the expenses was to be provided here.

A resolutions committee composed of Rev. G. F. Dawson, Rev. Canon Armstrong, A. S. Bishop and Miss C. O. McGivern was appointed. Among the matters upon which they will be asked to introduce resolutions are prohibition, child welfare, mothers' pensions, maritime home for girls, co-operation with the health department, and co-operation with the national committee on mental hygiene.

Owing to the small attendance at this morning's meeting it was decided to leave the appointment of a finance committee until later. Rev. J. C. B. Appel, J. E. Secord, Rev. Dean Sampson, Mrs. Hipwell and Mrs. H. Lawrence were appointed a nominating committee.

It was on motion decided to appoint two delegates to meet with the Quebec representatives in Montreal regarding the working out of the arrangements in Quebec province, the appointment of a field secretary and other matters. Rev. Mr. Bishop and Rev. Mr. Dowling were elected delegates with Rev. Canon Keating as a substitute.

Miss Whitton gave a short address dealing with steps taken towards a national conference on child welfare in Canada and a child welfare week for the whole dominion. She told of the week planned in other provinces of Canada and gave an outline of the week's programme which included a mothers' day, fathers' day, education day and other things. She said she would like to see a convention to help locally by going on record in favor of the ideas expressed, and the support of the child welfare committees. The matter was referred to the resolutions committee.

Just before adjournment the chairman said that an offering would be taken at all sessions and it was hoped that at least $500 would be secured. The meeting then adjourned until this afternoon.

Besides Rev. Mr. Goodwin, the other officers of the council for New Brunswick are: Vice-presidents, Hon. R. J. Mitchell, J. L. Sturgeon, St. John; W. B. Snowball, Chatham; G. L. Holyoke, Woodstock; secretary, Rev. F. Dowling of this city; treasurer, T. H. Estabrook. The latter is in California on a visit, while Mr. Dowling is in Halifax on denominational business.

"FLU" EPIDEMIC

No Reports to Provincial Health Board Since Saturday - Getting Ready for Session.

(Special to Times.) Fredericton, March 9.—The influenza epidemic in various parts of New Brunswick is apparently past. The department of health has received since Saturday morning no reports of any cases of influenza. The last reported was at Perfield, Charlotte county.

A report from Madawaska county gives but a slight indication of an epidemic in health. Small-pox, which occurs at various places in that county, is cleared up and influenza has not assumed any great proportions.

The condition of Moncton and St. John as far as the epidemic is concerned is greatly improved. The peak of the epidemic in both places was passed some time ago and the number of cases is rapidly diminishing.

TROUBLES AT SEA

Lake Elliotthope in Tow - The Canadian Warrior Chignecto's Long Trip.

(Canadian Press.) Halifax, N. S., March 9.—At nine o'clock this morning the Furness Line steamer, standing by the distressed Lake Elliotthope, reported that she had succeeded in getting another line aboard the vessel. The position of the Elliotthope at 4:04 this morning was twenty miles east of the Strait of Sube Island. A radio from the Lake Elliotthope reported at the United States Shipping Board office here at 10:04 this morning, read: "The tow of steamer Elliotthope. Very poor tow line. Request that another ship stand by in case tow line parts."

Officials of the United States Shipping Board here are endeavoring to obtain the necessary proceeds to the assistance of the tow.

The Canadian Warrior. Yarmouth, N. S., March 9.—The steamer Canadian Warrior, Captain Blissett, of the Canadian Merchant Marine, which left St. John on Sunday morning for the West Indies, put into Yarmouth Sound and is still here. After leaving St. John the ship developed engine trouble. Repairs are being effected. It is thought the ship will proceed soon. Chignecto's Voyage.

Halifax, N. S., March 9.—The Royal Mail Steam Packet Chignecto, which arrived at St. John on Sunday morning, has a hazardous passage out of the Bay of Fundy and along the south coast of Nova Scotia during the storm of Saturday and Sunday, so her captain reported today. Great head seas continuously checked the ship. The Clignette was fifty-one hours from St. John to Halifax. The usual run is twenty hours.

Victoria, B. C., March 9.—The British steamship "Clignette," which was stranded on the rocks of Victoria Bay, March 1, is a total wreck. She is of 4,654 gross tons and was carrying a cargo of lumber. The steamer Cape Breton is a total loss on Scattered Island. The crew were brought to Louisbourg yesterday after a very thrilling trip.

FREDERICTON

TEAM ON TRIP TO NORTH SHORE

Fredricton, March 9.—(Special.)—The Fredricton hockey team will leave for the North Shore on Wednesday morning to play Chatham on Wednesday and Bathurst on Thursday, also at Chatham on Friday. The team is composed of: Goal, Titus; point, Jarvis; coverpoint, Jewett; centre, Colwell; right wing, Burgess; left wing, Lounsbury; substitutes, Hall, Williams, L. Wade.

Wade has played with Marysville during the season but was registered as a Fredricton player with the league secretary, and on that ground will be carried by Fredricton. Two hard matches are expected with Fredricton handicapped to some extent. An even break, however, is expected, as the supporters of the team believe that Bathurst can be beaten. There also is the possibility, rather remote, of beating Chatham, the league leaders.

Pius Michaud in Commons on Election Matter. Ottawa, March 9.—P. Michaud of Restigouche-Madawaska, N. B., speaking on the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the house of commons last night, said that government speakers had given the house much advice in the last few days, but he preferred to take advice from his electors, and he was sure that they were entitled to voice their opinion as to who should represent them in parliament. If the government would allow an appeal to be made, he felt that he could trust his constituents. The government for some reason seemed to be afraid of an election, however.

The speaker urged the necessity of encouraging immigration from rural districts of the old countries, who would develop the farms of Canada.

GOLOSH MARKET LIVERY. New York, March 9.—Sales here of articles, rubbers and goloshes this season have so far totalled 2,800,000 pairs.

FEW LAWYER M.P.'S AMOUNT TO MUCH

Most of Them Have Talked a Lot and Done Very Little at Ottawa.

SO WHY NOT FARMERS? Have the Ontario Institutions of Learning Failed to Develop Worth-While Public Men.

By JOHN GLADSTONE GRACE.
A NEW chapter in our political history was inaugurated by the acceptance of Premier E. C. Drury and his cabinet. The evidence by that act officially recognized the arrival of the agrarian movement. You will search the pages of history in vain for any clear definition of the national status of organized or unorganized agriculture. Probably in Denmark, Belgium and Britain is farming best recognized by the State.

The patron party, led by Mr. Joseph Haycock, had, I think, fourteen seats in the Legislature when Mowat was returned to power in 1894, but they had too many plans in their policy. The Farmers better known as the Populist party in the Western States of the neighboring republic, also had many desires, and decided to change the White House, the National Capitol, from Washington to Helena, Montana, or Seattle, at one of their conventions in the '90s. Saskatchewan is the banner wheat-producing State in the British Empire, but I have not seen it anywhere stated that the Hon. Thomas Alexander Crerar, M.P., that man of destiny, or Mr. R. H. Halbert, M.P. for North Ontario Co., who led the Farm movement in Ontario from exile to the promised land, were in favor of the abolition of Lieutenant-Governors at Regina, Edmonton, Winnipeg, or Victoria. New Brunswick is the only Province without a residence for the Lieutenant-Governor. Dr. Pugsley, who so graciously presides over its State affairs, threatened to resign last autumn when he learned that the Prince of Wales would make his first landing in Canada at St. John, N.B., and thence to Dr. Pugsley's private house at Rochesby. The Pugsley house instead was obviously inadequate. The Prince was delighted with Governor Pugsley's hospitality, and Senator Donville's reminiscences of 1890, when H.H.H.'s grandfather laid the cornerstone of the Parliament Building at Ottawa. In every other Provincial capital the Prince was entertained at the Government House.

The Drury Administration in Ontario is unique in many particulars. Here is a popular Government and party in power, in this great Province, with only one lawyer. There is no precedent for such a long stretch from John Sandfield Macdonald, in 1837, to E. C. Drury, in 1920.

Parliament of Lawyers
The strength of the Drury Administration is that they are not hampered by the class above referred to. The fact that there are very few barristers elected by all of the parties does not mean that the debates in the Ontario Legislature next session will lack diffuseness.

It is claimed that the Federal Parliament elected in June, 1896 contained more good lawyers than any other since Confederation, but there were no Blakes or Thomsons among them. The Maritime Provinces sent a large contingent of legal talent, including Andrew G. Blair, with whom I drafted the laws and jurisdictions of the Federal Railway Commission some time later, and George V. McInnesy came from New Brunswick, Robert L. Borden and Dr. Ben Russell from Halifax, and Colin M. Melrose of Antigonish. He was the first appearance of the present Sir Robert Borden. He was active, looked young, with golden hair, and was noted by his venerable leader, Sir Charles Tupper. He was not conspicuous in the debates on the Opposition side any more than McInnesy, Quinn (Montreal), R. H. Messer, Messer Hagart, E. F. Clarke, E. B. Ooster, Foster Clancy, C. N. Wallace or Montague, from Ontario. A call in 1909, when Sir Charles Tupper was defeated in Cape Breton, N.S., and announced his retirement from public life, that the Conservative party should get new leaders and be thoroughly reorganized.

Sir William Mulock was then the Liberal chief for the Toronto district, but lost almost every constituency in that zone, saving his own by a small majority. There were no leaders among the new Ontario Conservative M.P.'s chosen in 1909, however, and as the party was torn by internal strife, the managers looked for a man who had no past, and no future. Sir Charles Tupper was dead. Sir Dalton McGee was dead. Several capable men were barred by religion or race considerations. Sir Charles and Sir Hibbert Tupper suggested R. L. Borden as temporary chairman for the session. Sir Robert's leadership has been challenged three times since.

The whole Province of Nova Scotia went Liberal at the next election in 1901. Leader Borden went down to defeat with the rest of his party. His retention of the chairmanship of the Conservative would have endangered it not for the intervention of James P. Whitney of Montreal. Again in 1910, Sir Richard McBride could have the Federal leadership if he would entertain the offer in writing, duly signed by all but three of the M.P.'s, but as it involved the election of Leader Borden, he declined. With an invisible Government outside the Cabinet it is not easy to diagnose now who the old Tory party, so rich in Tory lions, will anchor.

Many fluent speakers who were known to be effective before Juries and turbulent audiences were failures at Ottawa. The stage lost a star in Sir Joseph Chamberlain.

Stephen Pichon

Minister of Foreign Affairs under Clemenceau, and resumed the work as political director of the Petit Journal. The most interesting revelation of the workings of the peace conference are expected when he returns to journalism.

bec, and probably Sir George Ross of Ontario. Joe Howe, the voice of Nova Scotia, in his day, and Peter Mitchell, the tribune of New Brunswick, added nothing to their name. Darcy McGeer was one of the few exceptions. The sweep of his vision and the wealth of his vocabulary, added to a charming voice, made him the idol of any old Assembly Hall of Upper and Lower Canada.

Successful Lawyer-Politicians
SIR WILFRID LAURIER told me when he proposed to increase the stipend for M.P.'s from $1,500 to $2,500, about 1907, that his motive in so doing was the hope of inducing a better class of men with moderate means, to aspire to Federal affairs. Sir Wilfrid was always picturesque in his statements and upheld the best traditions of parliamentary form and decorum. It is a matter of opinion whether or not the extra $1,000 brought to the arena of public life the superior type hoped for by Sir Wilfrid. The Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, the Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, the Hon. Sir James Macpherson, the Hon. Sir John G. Bourne, the Hon. Sir James Lennox, now Justice Lennox, Sir George, Samuel Barker, Hamilton, Ontario, one of the legal lights from Ontario on the Conservative side.

Husband Testifies She's "Best Cook in Canada" as Well as Trustee, Labor Delegate.

By C. A. H.
A little more than a year, Mrs. George S. Corse, of Calgary, has become one of the dominant political and educational figures of Alberta, and her appointment by the Provincial Government as a member of the Labor advisory committee is a tribute to her activities. This important committee is being formed under an amendment to the Alberta Factory Act, and besides that in Calgary similar committees will be organized in Edmonton, Lethbridge, and Medicine Hat. Mrs. Corse will represent the employers and N. J. Christie, the employers, on the Calgary committee and a third member will be appointed by the Attorney-General.

This month when the first public appearance in Calgary, when she accepted nomination for the Public School Board. She conducted so competent a campaign that she was elected by a gratifying majority. And so far Mrs. Corse has justified the trust reposed in her.

Two Western C.P.R. Veterans Retiring
Mr. Henry J. Cambie Has Stopped Out and Mr. Richard Marpole Is in Ill-Health.

Two of the oldest officials of the Canadian Pacific in the West—indeed, they are amongst the patriarchs of the entire system—are retiring. They are Mr. Richard Marpole, general executive for the C. P. R. in British Columbia, and Mr. Henry J. Cambie, chief construction engineer. Mr. Cambie's retirement was announced this week, and Mr. Marpole is now in California on account of ill-health.

Saving His Cigars
WILLIAM J. BURNS, the noted detective, said in a lecture, "To a well-trained detective every incident is as full of meaning as well. I am reminded of a story: A young man sat in a parlor alone. To him a beautiful girl entered. Thereupon the young man arose, took six cigars from his upper waistcoat, laid them carefully on the piano, and then advanced toward the girl. His arms outstretched, he said: "But the girl drew back. "You have loved before," she said.

No Argument
A MAN stepped up to Henry Ward Beecher one day and said, "Sir, I am an evolutionist, and I want to discuss the question with you. I am also an abolitionist; I believe that when I die that will be the end of me." "Thank goodness for that," said Mr. Beecher, as he walked off and left the man dazed.—London Weekly.

THIS WOMAN M.P.P. IS OFFICIAL MOTHER TO LONELY WAR BRIDES

That Clever, Remarkable Feminine Publicist, Miss Roberta McAdams, Takes Up Interesting New Work in Alberta.

By GERTRUDE MACDOUGALL
AN interesting official in the Soldiers' Settlement Board in Edmonton is the distinguished Miss Roberta McAdams, M.L.A., who acts as a sort of "official mother," a real helper and friend, to those brave young lasses from overseas, who "for love and the world's best," have followed their soldier husbands to lonely homes in northland or on prairie, and whose difficulties in adjusting themselves to new lives under strange and stern conditions require a heroism which deserves fuller recognition.

ARTISTIC TASTE IN BUSINESS OFFICE

Some Big Business and Professional Men Make Their Hobbies Evident.

THE ENGLISH STYLE

Aemilius Jarvis' Horses and Boats—Robt. McLaughlin's Paintings.

By JOHN DUKE
A TORONTO manufacturer while in England on a business trip called at the offices of a big Regent street store, which has branches throughout the Empire, and asked to see the head of the firm. After being ushered from one man to another, he was finally brought to the private office of the gentleman wished to see. He was amazed by the gorgeous setting in which this English business man worked. The floor was carpeted with costly Oriental rugs, the walls were hung with beautiful paintings, and the desks and chairs were of the finest mahogany.

Boats and Horses
FOR instance, one but need peek inside the office of Aemilius Jarvis on Bay street, to know that he is a master of sailing vessels and a lover of horses. The walls are bedecked with dozens of photographs, and the usual effective scuttling yachts and pedigreed horses on the tables and desks around the room are models of art.

Robt. McLaughlin's Paintings
Another Toronto business man with an intensely interesting office is Ralph Connah, head of a Canadian Woolworth store and a leading member of the Rotary Club. The walls of his office are bedecked with autographed photographs of famous people. There are so many one does not like to choose from among them; let it be said that the list starts with General John J. Pershing, and includes many other whose names are in the papers every day.

Robert McLaughlin's Hobbies
Robert McLaughlin, founder of Canada's largest automobile manufacturing and distributing organization, at 43 is at his office in Ottawa every morning at 7 o'clock and in every office that is very typical of his owner. Mr. McLaughlin spends his leisure hours with a paint brush in his hand. He always has a dozen unfinished pastels in his office, which he dabs at during the day.

A Semi-Studio
AN architect might be pardoned for turning his office into a semi-studio. That is what Frank Darling, designer of the C.P.R. building the Bank of Toronto building and many other beautiful Canadian structures, has done. In his little office over the old Imperial Bank building on Wellington street are crowded paintings, drawings, exquisite bits of antique furniture, Chinese vases, statuary and bric-a-brac of all kinds. It is another of those offices that one likes to find an excuse to visit again.

Lord Fisher Uses The Bible English

If You Would Write Vigorously, Says He, Use the Bible Style.

LORD FISHER may not know it—and in any case probably would not care—among the landlubbers who regard themselves as men of letters, the style of his book and his communications to the Times are the cause of as much debate as his naval topics are among sailors, says an English writer.

(Montreal Gazette.)

McGill Political Economy Club, in advertising a discussion on "How Should Labor Unrest Be Dealt With," with no admission fee, and open debate, rather reckoned without possible results. One result was that Strathcona Hall was packed last night that few of the students were able to gain admittance. These were representatives of every brand of Socialism, Communism, and of the nationalization of all property, vociferous in their demands for those more able than the rest to make money, with provision that their wealth should be so adjusted by income tax and inheritance taxes that by the time they died the vast proportion of their fortunes should revert to the state. The advocates of almost everything else that could be thought of to take money from those who had it and secure it for those who had not. There was scarcely a syndicalist or communist "fan" that had not his special platform. The discussion was long, and would have been much longer had not the chairman, Prof. Leacock, eventually declared it ended.

It was evident that although English was the language of exchange, the majority of the debaters had come from Russia, Poland and all sorts of other Central European countries, where political theories as to communism flourish most, and the variety of racial characteristics and dialects offered a fine study in ethnology. Only one matter was left out of the debate, which was "How Should Labor Unrest Be Dealt With?" generally ignored by the debaters, although it was the advertised subject. Prof. Leacock took the chair, and with indomitable gentility kept the audience in good humor and the discussion within some sort of bounds. Naturally with such a public forum and wide open debate no decision was arrived at save the conviction of each speaker that he held the key to the solution of all the ills that post-war humanity lay to, and the conviction of all the rest that each person was entitled to his own opinion, wrong or right. Prof. Leacock, in view of the large number of ladies present, invited a lady to join in the discussion, but none of them ventured.

Prof. Leacock introduced M. I. Raphael, who read a paper on "Organized Labor in Canada." This Mr. Raphael characterized as the greatest question of the day since the end of the war instead of bringing peace had served only to intensify the disagreements between capital and labor, and the representatives in parliament were buying themselves out of their duties. The first cause of labor unrest, he considered was the profound distrust of the employer on the part of the workers, which had led to a disruption of labor from the moment of political activity, as evidenced by the I. W. W. movement, and the Winnipeg strike. As to the real question, he considered that change, if any, must come by constitutional means, not by revolutionary action. He was in favor of the latter, but not from organized labor, but from the masses of unorganized labor.

Following Mr. Raphael's address Prof. Leacock complimented the speaker highly on the manner in which he had presented these with many of which he (Prof. Leacock) disagreed.

Defends Dinner Jacket.

Prof. Leacock then threw the discussion open for debate, and for nearly two hours the discussion waxed back and forth. When one speaker criticized another, the other replied that college professors ought to be made producers, and compelled to add to their curriculum of some form of productive labor, a suggestion which found little favor with the chairman or most of the audience. From an application for a 15-story hotel building in Montreal, to cost $3,000,000. The reason given is that the city, having sound building laws, the commissioners are of the opinion they should be unkind.

Under the present by-law no building higher than ten stories is permitted.

SIR JAMES AIKENS BARRISTERS' GUEST

Quebec, March 8—(Canadian Press)—Sir James Aikens, president of the Canadian Bar Association, and Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, was the guest of the Quebec bar at dinner at the Garrison Club last night.

F. Roy, K. C., lieutenant of the Quebec bar, welcomed the guest, but voiced the opposition of the Quebec bar to proposed union of Canadian law, worth trying." For just about a fortnight now, he dazed mere words to win him, and then the ad completely landed, and he drifted in a daze and quietly expended a few big iron dollars for the stuff the ad commended. He found it filled a long-needed need; its excellence surprised him, and now he's glad because he so ad deftly hypnotized him.—James J. Montague.

Take her up tenderly

MIDNIGHT—the City Street—the Police Officer—the wayward girl—the patrol wagon—and then—

THE Desk Sergeant's a kindly soul. He reads human nature. He sees that sin is not yet given into the face of the girl—so he says to the Patrolman—"She's no wastra, Bob." "Better send her over to the Salvation Army, and let them see what they can do for her."

THE police know the work of the Salvation Army. God has blessed it, and those who come under its influence abound.

HYPNOTIC CURE FOR SHELL SHOCK

Restore Condition of Mind When the Shock Occurred—Release Pent Emotion.

London, March 6—Shell-shock patients can be cured by working off the emotion repressed at the time when the shock occurred.

All such cases show loss of memory of greater or less extent. They may have forgotten everything that has happened since the shell burst, and they will exhibit other losses of function. They may show loss of voice, of powers of walking, of hearing, or of the powers of voluntary control.

It will be found that such a person is very easily hypnotized; if it be suggested to him that he will remember the circumstances of his injury he will act again the whole circumstances, and in that process his various functions will return.

What has been done? We have brought up the lost memories, and with the memories the lost functions. But we have done more than that; we have given him an outlet for an emotion which was originally repressed by him with so great an intensity that he could not do full justice to it, and his mind split in the attempt.

While under shell fire the conscious personality was trying to suppress the emotion of fear, partly from a sense of duty—of a soldier—partly in self-defence—anything to get away from it in caring that patient we bring to the repressed experience once more. We encourage him to work off the emotion involved in it.

For example, take the case of a gunner patient of mine. He had been suffering for two years from a tremor of the arm, dating from the time he had been blown up at Ypres. I sent him to sleep. Then I suggested he lived again through his experiences at Ypres. He did so and began to shout at his own things which showed what had happened at the time.

He was apparently serving the gun and someone else was handing him ammunition. Then I noticed he was moving the handle with his right hand; his hand began to shake violently and soon he was shaking all over. Then suddenly he became absolutely still. I suggested that he remember all that he had just gone through and that woke him up. He looked at his hand, which was absolutely still, with amazement.

His gun had been blown up and excited in him had been bottled up for two years. The next morning he was able to have himself with an ordinary rafter for the first time since his illness.

Another interesting cure was that of a flying Corps signaller who was blown up by a bomb and found on regaining consciousness that everything appeared twisted at right angles to its ordinary position. The first attempt at hypnotism effected only a partial cure. I was then informed that when he was a child of six he had shown similar symptoms after a fall.

After further hypnotic sleep he remembered that when he was three years old he had had some hot coffee down his right arm and had felt a pain in his left side. He remembered that when he awoke he felt the bed to be the wrong way round.

That was the first experience of his dis-orientation he could remember. It occurred to me that the scalding of his arm produced a fainting fit in which he fell to the left and everything twisted to the right. But I effected a complete cure on that man.

THAT LITTLE AD THAT MADE HIM MAD

He said: "I don't read from day to day, and missed, 'I defy it, their stuff may be just what they say, but I'm not going to buy it.'" His wife, however, he remarks it would not do to mention; for he was mad because that ad was forced on his attention.
But in a week, or two, or three, he said: "There's no denying, the way that ad gets hold of me, the stuff may be worth trying." For just about a fortnight now, he dazed mere words to win him, and then the ad completely landed, and he drifted in a daze and quietly expended a few big iron dollars for the stuff the ad commended. He found it filled a long-needed need; its excellence surprised him, and now he's glad because he so ad deftly hypnotized him.—James J. Montague.

HORSE WORTH HIS WEIGHT IN SILVER

£53,000 for Tracery Paid by Buenos Ayres Man—Some High Prices for Horse-Flesh.

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)
More English pounds, $5,000 of them to be exact, were paid for a race horse the other day than ever were paid before. The horse was Tracery, the seller was Major August Belmont, and the purchaser was Senor S. J. Unze, of Buenos Ayres. Since the horse was foaled in the United States, and was the property of an American, it is only natural that the price should be claimed as a world's record. If the pound were worth its normal price, it would be; but if the pound were at par perhaps the South American purchaser would not have needed to give so many of them. Figured at the present rate of exchange, Tracery cost about $180,000. Even at this rating only two horses ever cost more than Tracery. They were Prince Palatine, bought by J. B. Joel, the South African diamond miner, for $200,000, and Flying Fox, for $180,000. Moreover, to call Tracery an American horse is to take a liberty with the facts. He was foaled in the United States from a mare imported from England, and sired by a horse that had also been imported. He never raced in the United States. His exploits were performed on English tracks, and it was in England that he was retired to the stud. Incidentally it might be remarked that when he was retired, breeders "filled his books" or, in other words, agreed to utilize his services for five years, each year being worth $40,000. It will be seen then that Major Belmont, bar accident, had in the neighborhood of $200,000 in sight for Tracery.

Record Prices.
The following table giving the price in dollars paid for the thoroughbreds that have made sales records is supplied to the Brooklyn Eagle by W. C. Vreeland, the noted racing authority:
Tracery (American) $265,000
Prince Palatine (English) 200,000
Botafogo (South American) 200,000
Flying Fox (English) 180,000
Diamond Jubilee (English) 175,000
Cyllene (English) 151,200
Jardy (English) 150,000
Rock Sand (English) 150,000
Craganour (English) 150,000
Ormonde (English) 150,000
Val d'Or (French) 140,000
Cyllene (English) 125,000
Your Majesty (English) 125,000
Ard Patrick (English) 110,000
Galtee More (English) 110,000
Lancaster (English) 110,000
Duke of Westminster (English) 109,200
Governant (English) 100,000
Minora (English) 100,000
St. Blaise (English) 100,000
Medler (English) 75,000
Watercress (American) 71,000
Hamburg (American) 70,000
Hermis (American) 60,000
Nasturtium (American) 50,000
Medler (English) 49,000

How St. Blaise Was Bought.
Here we see Tracery listed as an American. Botafogo was by English parents while Val d'Or was bred in France from Flying Fox. Both Ard Patrick and Galtee More were bred in Ireland. Watercress was English bred, and it is not till we get down to Hamburg that we find a horse that carried two or three generations of any but the purest of English blood. We do not identify the "Duke of Westminster" but probably one of the numerous great horses owned by the former duke is meant. Apropos of record prices for horses, an amusing story was told by the purchaser of St. Blaise, who was a wealthy man, but by no means capable of bidding against men like Haggis, Keene, Lordford and other great breeders who were sitting about when the horse was put up for auction. His first bid was $100,000 and it so dazed the rest of the prospective bidders that the horse was knocked down to him. He explained afterwards that his only hope was to stun the opposition with one blow, knowing that if the others got bidding and their blood warmed to it, they would stop at no price. St. Blaise, by the way, was no brilliant success at the stud.

A Great Race Horse.
The duel is between Tracery and Prince Palatine for the record price, and sadly enough the duel for race track supremacy was between them in 1913. Tracery, as recorded, was not raced in the United States because of the anti-betting laws that made the sport unprofitable, but was sent to England as a yearling. He did not race as a two-year-old, and his earlier performances at three were not sensational. He ran in the Derby, and some thought that if previously he had been raced he might have won, since later on he beat Tagalie, the winner on more than one occasion. His best performance of the year and one that marked him as a very high-class colt was the winning of the St. Leger, at a mile and three-quarters. He led from start to finish, and among those that followed him home was Tagalie. It used to be said that once Tracery got in front there was no living horse that could catch him. The contrary happened on two occasions. Once Tracery was beaten by Cantliever, a horse of class to which he was conceded 38 pounds. The other was when Prince Palatine beat him for the Ascot Gold Cup, a purse of $50,000 besides the trophy.
The Ascot Tragedy.
Heretofore the two great champions had not met and there was lively difference of opinion as to which was the better. Tracery had got in front when they swung into the home stretch, was leading by three lengths. At this moment a mishap from the rails, made a leap for Tracery's bridle, caught it, held on and dragged down horse and rider on the track. The horse and the jockey escaped with a few bruises. The man, identified as Harold Hewitt, a weak-minded advocate of woman suffrage and an enemy to racing, was killed. A year or so before a suffragette had been killed in the running of the Derby when she attempted to stop the King's Amner. After this race, which Prince Palatine won, Tracery was retired and the question of the relative quality of himself and Prince Palatine was left undecided. The rivalry may be continued in the stud, and so far the Prince Palatine youngsters appear to have an advantage, though Tracery sired The Panther, thought to be a wonder. He has proved a striking disappointment. It may be observed in conclusion that though the thoroughbreds hold the records for all livestock, a Holstein bull sold as a yearling for $100,000. The highest price ever paid for a yearling thoroughbred is less than half this.

MISTOOK SKUNK FOR CAT, WITH PAINFUL RESULT
(Boston Globe.)
A large skunk stirred up residents of Appleton street, South End, this morning. Where he came from no one knows, but it is thought he jumped from a wagon carrying garden truck into Boston.

The index finger on one hand of a new policeman, Frank G. Bird of Station 5, was badly bitten by the animal. He was treated at the City Hospital, and his almost new uniform is now on the roof of Station 5, lying on the snow to be buried in the earth later, for Bird was viciously attacked by the skunk.

No sooner did Bird open the disinfectant tank was used with fair good results. Bird was ordered to the roof of the station house, where he disrobed, later took a bath and got back into his civilian clothes.

Policeman Bird said "Hello Pussy," and then stooped down to brush its back, as there was some muddy snow on the animal. The skunk turned and stuck its teeth into one of the policeman's fingers, drawing blood, and immediately there was a sickening odor.

Then the officer realized that he had mistaken a skunk for a cat. In less than two minutes, windows which had been left open to allow the entrance of fresh air were being closed, while several persons put their heads out of windows but could not see anything.

The policeman had left for the station house and the last he saw of the animal was headed toward Roxbury in the middle of the street. Going to the nearest patrol box, Policeman Bird notified Lieutenant Harry P. Burns of the a tank, and was called to the station house.

GREATER ST. JOHN

Editor Times-Star:—Sir—I beg to call your attention once more to the frightful condition existing at the Mill street railway crossing. During the recent heavy storms this section has been a veritable menace to the traffic and public generally and should have immediate attention.

It is plainly evident that as railway traffic increases this street is becoming a shunting ground and should be closed. It is a common thing to see traffic congested with trains of freight or long passenger trains are pulling in or out, or shunting on the street. For fifteen or twenty minutes the other day the street was blocked before traffic assumed normal conditions, and this is continually going on. How long is this condition to be tolerated, especially when it becomes one of the worst drawbacks in the rapid transfer of traffic in the city?
