Harriman, posed to have a 1st of July celebration. They held a meeting in their usual prompt way, organized their committees, invited the cooperation of Chatham, Nelson and other neighbors, and, in a very few days, realised that they were in for a big time. The general result was a demonstra tion in every way successful, worthy of the Miramichi, creditable not only to Newcastle, but to Chatham and Nelson, both of which contributed to the display, and a proof of the fact that when the communities of the river pull together, they are worth more to the square inch in the way of enterprise, taste, originality, executive capacity and all the essentials of genuine popular success than any other place in the Dominion.

GETTING TO NEWCASTLE.

The town was out of bed before its usual waking-time, but it seemed that the country was ahead of it, for people came by all roads to greet the earliest risers of Newcastle and were a constantly increasing procession by foot and horse up to eleven o'clock. Four steamers were on the Steam Navigation Co.'s route between Chatham and Newcastle, etc., viz., the St. Nicholas, St. George, St. Andrew and Mascot, and they were loaded on all trips, running constantly, as a local and an intribute were acquired and P. THE SCHOOLS. The Schools must, however, claim attention here, and we may state that they held their first meeting to prepare for the celebration, on 25th June, when those of the Harkins' Seminary building elected Charles Mitchell, Sylvester McKeen, Robert McLellan and Charles Elliott, pupils of the High School, to act as their marshals. Through the week, the lady teachers, led by Miss McLaughlin and assisted by friends, prepared sashes for the children-blue for the girls and white for the boys. Each sash had the word "Grade" in large letters as well as the number of the department.

On Dominion Day at 9.30 a. m. the pupils repaired to the Masonic Hall, neatly attired in holiday dress, when the results | Howard Irving, A. Ruddock, of the late grading examination were announced, each child receiving a sash E McPherson, Ben Flood, with his new-won grade marked on it.
