CLOUD BUST DID $300,000 DAMAGE ON MILLSTREAM

A cloudburst, during the most disastrous storm in the memory of inhabitants of Kings county, caused damage estimated at more than $300,000 when a torrential rainfall early Saturday morning swelled the waters of the Millstream to a mighty flood which swept away bridges, tore 1,250,000 feet of lumber and stumps and ripped out the ends of Jones Brothers mill, besides cutting away the mill dam. The loss of lumber and damage to the mill will result in cessation of operations at an early date and will throw many men out of employment.

Hay and grain crops in the Millstream valley are ruined and communication by vehicle with the outer world is practically cut off as roads are impassable in many places.

Apohaqui residents said the freshet on Saturday morning, following the terrific electrical storm which began at midnight and which culminated in a tremendous tempest, was the most disastrous ever experienced in that section; industry has been suspended, houses destroyed and communication made difficult. The effects will be far reaching, they say, and will mean a great loss to the district. The sections most affected, Collins, Snider, Mountain, Kierstead Mountain and the Millstream valley.

The torrents of water from the cloudburst swept swiftly down the valley, tore the bridges and laid waste the grain and hay fields.

Jones Brothers Heavy Losers. The flood, unexpected and of singular proportions swept down the valley, tore the mouth of the Millstream where the mill is situated and tore out two piers which held the log booms, setting free 1,250,000 feet of logs which were held before the mighty head of water. The logs are scattered along the banks of the river. The mill dam was washed in by the torrent and the end of the mill was badly damaged.

W. H. Colpitts' farm, opposite the mill is less by half an acre, owing to the cloudburst as the flood cut into the bank at Colpitts' place with great force. Lightning augmented the disastrous effects of the storm, striking the mill and Jones E. O'Neill's barn at the head of Millstream were struck and burned while several other outbuildings received slight damage. Four dwellings at Collins were struck but no serious damage resulted.

Damage Widespread. Burr Mann, of Mannhurst, near Petticoat, suffered the loss of a large barn containing a harness and a pair of harness and valuable farming implements when a bolt set the structure on fire. The loss is $2,000, with $250 in insurance.

The home of Naman Hughton, Cornhill, councillor for Havelock, was struck by lightning and the roof badly torn. The members of the household fortunately escaped injury.

A bolt shattered the roof of a barn at Cornhill and split a yoke which was hanging on a peg back of two horses but did not injure the animals.

Mr. Charles Ryan, residing three miles from Sussex, was struck by lightning by a bolt of lightning and rendered unconscious while going to a well for water, at 7 o'clock being partly paralyzed on the right side. Mrs. Ryan, who was in a pool of water several minutes after the tremendous bolt had alarmed the other members of the family and when she recovered her senses it was found she had lost control of her right leg and arm.

Dr. D. H. McAllister, of Sussex, was called to see a patient and found the injured lady was suffering from nervous shock, resulting from nervousness of the bolt, and that the patient was found in a pool of water. Mrs. Ryan is rapidly recovering and while her right arm is still numb, she is otherwise well.

A barn near Bowick caught fire after having been struck by lightning, but the flames were extinguished before serious damage was done.

FLEMING GOVERNMENT UTTERLY DISCREDITED (Chatham World, Conservative).

Premier Fleming has again announced his intention to "come back" as soon as the enquiries are over. It is to be seen what the result of the enquiries is, his return to active participation in the control of affairs would be a serious blow to the government being swept out of power at the next election.

It is an old saying, and a very true one, that "pity will have its fall." The Roblin government in Manitoba, like the Fleming government in this province, had a tremendously big majority in the legislature, and they thought they owned the province and could do as they liked. They were under the impression that they would be able to do as they pleased, but public opinion could be defied with impunity, so they went on their way with a callous disregard to the property of the people. There is, however, a limit beyond which public opinion will not pass, and in Manitoba this has already been reached. Public opinion in New Brunswick is rapidly reaching that limit also.

THESE TREE PESTS MENACE TO PROVINCE

Organized Fight Against Brown-Tail Moth and Spruce Bud Worm Necessary to Save New Brunswick Forests, Writes North Shore Manager—Evergreen Shoots Touched With Frost—What is Being Done in Massachusetts.

Under the title "A city's tree work," there is a splendid article in American Forestry for July giving a history of the brown tail moth and bud worm which is now getting a foothold in the province. The report of the provincial forester is interesting in itself in this problem of the lumber industry and the hills in the province may therefore be of some value to others.

What a city or town may do in carrying out its tree work, says the writer in his article, is to have a committee of citizens to look after the trees. This committee should be organized in the early part of the year, before the leaves are out on the young larvae burrow into the buds for food, thus destroying many of them before they open.

As soon as the buds have really started to open or the young pupae have melted again and pass into their third stage of growth, from this time on until early June they continue to feed and grow, usually keeping the tree from leaving out. During the last stage of growth they become loamy and do not feed much, but crawl about looking for a place on which to form their cocoon. This occurs about the middle of last of June, and is known as pupation. From this time until early in July they remain in the pupae or cocoon stage. You will see that from early June very little feeding is done so that the tree has a chance to leaf out again. During the first week in July the cocoons open and the adult moth, a small white fly with a tuft of brown hair on its abdomen, emerges and in a few hours flies away. These white moths come from three to five days. At the end of the first day or two they mate and the female lays its egg and soon dies. These little moths fly only at night and are attracted by the lights of a town or city. This accounts for the large number of them seen after the Fourth of July covering the electric light poles. After the moth dies the egg remains on the leaf for the next ten days or two weeks, when they hatch out and the young larvae begin their work again.

Killing in July. There has been much comment on the flight of the moths during July, and many people believe this is the time to kill them. A number of methods have been devised and tried for doing this. Bonfires are built and thousands of moths are destroyed. Men are employed to go round every morning sweeping the moths from the electric light poles and burning them. Some have turned a hose on the poles, washing them off and probably drowning many of them. A large suction fan was constructed and set up near a powerful light. The light attracted the moths, they were drawn into the fan and when the light was turned off they were blown into a large bag. Another scheme tried was to construct large pans, fill them with water and place them under a powerful light. The moths, all they were drawn by the light, and when they were drawn to some extent, the water was turned on and they were drowned by the water. Do they really do much good? It is hard to say. It is a question as to whether the question for a minute. As has been explained above, the moths only lives for a few days. One-half of them are males and are harmless. The other half lay their eggs, which usually hatch in about ten days. Most of them mate and lay their eggs close to the place where they pass the pupae stage. There are exceptions, however, where a strong wind is prevailing, then they may be carried many miles away before mating or laying their eggs. However, it is a fact that this does happen, if the moths caught and killed under any method only one-half are females bearing eggs. Of this one-half, only one percent of whom are harmless anyway, as they have already done their damage and would die a natural death in a few days, if not a few hours. Does it pay? I do not think so.

Now on the other hand if the trees which you wish to preserve from being killed by the moths, you should within a month or six weeks after the eggs are laid it stands to reason that the young tender larvae who have got to feed for a few days, will easily succumb to the poison. Here you have a maximum of damage at a minimum of cost which it seems to me is the ideal way of handling this pest.

Recommendations. Mr. Colton makes the following recommendations: Spraying during the summer all roadside trees and street and also to do more spraying in the spring for gipsy moths. To clean up many of our back roads, removing superfluous trees and shrubs and those most likely to attract the moths. To obtain mounted specimens of gipsy and brown tail moths and their parasites for educational purposes. To put in an educational exhibit at the next agricultural fair and maintain the information bureau at the city hall office. Members of the commission emphasize the importance of forestry work in park development as well as in the care of shade trees in the streets as they not only make the city more attractive but make for a healthy and more contented citizenship. The commission's statement in regard to trees and shrubs we have set out a good many at the various parks and playgrounds and it is the intention to follow up on the order to plant about 400 on our streets and avenues the coming year. Our nursery has been and is an important addition to our department. We have a large and flourishing number of young trees growing and we shall be able to supply trees for the city at about one-third of the cost that we have been obliged to pay for them from time to time in the past as we have needed them. If we are to make our city streets and avenues attractive and our work must continue from year to year and we hope that we shall be enabled to do so.

In Coggeshall Park we have planted over 22,000 young trees and during the coming season we shall reforest another section of our burned over area. In the spring 20,000 white pine seedlings, 4,000 red pine, 3,000 Norway spruces, 3,000 Douglas fir were set out. The cost of these was $200.46 or $6.25 per M. The white pine were purchased this year and the Douglas fir were set out by the firm we are doing our own sowing and grading. Only the best plants were used for the permanent localities. All the culls amounted to something over 15,000 were lined out in our nursery. Most of these were big, handle upward, in the shape of a cone and can be used in the future to fill

AN OUTSIDE VIEW

(Toronto Globe.) Mr. F. B. Carvell, M. P., has proved his charges in the New Brunswick boodle inquiry to the hilt. The lumbermen and the Dominion Treasury contributed the loot. Who got it?

THE TARIFF AND THE WORKMAN

(Toronto News, Conservative, July 16.) The moderate, incidental protection to Canadian industries and Canadian labor has been largely responsible for the enormous development of the Dominion in the last twenty years. In order to escape Canadian duties and enter to the home market from an advantageous position, American manufacturers in the last twenty years have invested $500,000,000 in the establishment of domestic factories on this side of the border. By expelling scores of young industries that created an unbridled competition from the capitalists combines, with which even President Wilson and General Taft have been unable to deal, the Liberal party would strike a deadly blow at hundreds of manufacturing businesses in eastern and western Canada, which give employment to the hundreds of towns in the progress of which their establishment has been the main factor, and of the extensive sections of the agricultural markets in conveniently-located Canada. The present check to business is partly a natural, temporary reaction from over-expansion. It is also due in part to conditions in the world's money markets. The only salvation of Canadian industries today is the tariff which protects their home market to some extent against wholesale dumping of goods from United States factories—themselves hurt, for the time being, by any rate, by the Underwood-Wilson changes in the tariff. It is not to be abandoned the Canadian National Policy at such a time as the present would banish all hopes of a business recovery in the next few years, and assure a continuance of hard times for ten years, or until a chastened country reverted to a well-proved fiscal policy.

FIVE DISASTERS ON NOVA SCOTIA COAST

Halifax, July 19.—Two steamers and two schooners were wrecked during the past twenty-four hours as the result of a heavy storm that swept over the coast. And fortunately there was no loss of life, all the crews reaching shore in safety, but some of them had a trying experience, as thick fog prevailed for several days. The Norwegian steamer Yngve, 1,022 tons. She was from Chester (Penna.), to St. Ann's (C.B.) and on shore at Barrington. The Cuban steamer Cienfuegos, 1,180 tons, struck at Scatarie (C.B.) She was bound from Mobile, with a cargo of pine for Montreal. Schooner Harold C. Beecher, (Am.), also struck on Scatarie. She was from Halifax to St. Ann's. Four-master American schooner Clarence H. Verner, struck off Cape Sable (N.S.) She was from St. Ann's to Halifax with 1,200 tons of hard coal. All the vessels are in bad positions and the prospects of floating them are slim. The Yngve is being towed to the coast and far out to sea during the last few days, together with a heavy load of lumber.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TRAPPING BEAVER. To the Editor of The Telegraph: Sir,—As storm clouds seem to be settling on the political horizon an investigation seems to be the order of the day. I would like to ask a few questions regarding the trapping of beaver in this province. First, the law says it is unlawful to hunt and kill any beaver until the year 1915. Now, I would like to know how it is that some of our men are trapping beaver and getting a permit to kill beaver when the law says it is illegal to do so before 1915. Perhaps the law which gives that privilege to anybody except natural history societies. Now, Mr. Editor, a number of three or four men are trapping beaver in this province who get permits to trap fifty beaver, paying $100 each. Two of these secured a number of beaver, how many I do not know. He skinned forty-two and disposed of the pelts; and kept the other eight alive. He got them after him and did spring sent them to the Sportmen's Show in New York and disposed of them for $88 more than he paid for them. The whole fifty he was permitted to catch. Some time ago an Indian from St. Mary's reserved himself an otter out of season and was fined for it. He was fined $100 and the skin from him. Whether they prosecuted him any more or not I do not know. The Indian broke out of the cage and was punished, but why not serve all alike? Is it British fair play to punish one who breaks the law and let another go free for the approval of the government officials because he has the money and can pay the price and get on the inside? Now, Mr. Editor, I would like someone to tell me, how and by what authority these permits were obtained. Did the surveyor-general, Hon. J. C. Bennett, know of the fact? Or did he in any way help to obtain those permits for these people? Did the money obtained for these permits go into the coffers of the province? The law says any guide who permits any of these laws to be violated or fails to report such offences shall be liable to a fine of $100 and loses his license and registration as a guide. Yet these assets of the province are allowed to be bartered away for a mere trifle by the officials who have been put there by the people's vote to protect the public interest. Verily, the law makers are a laughing stock. Perhaps the Hon. J. C. Bennett, which is so insistent that the Fleming government is clean handed can furnish the information and let it be fairly set out if it will consult the right party.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, Yours very truly, FAIR PLAY. York County, June 14, 1914.

Macaroni Coquettes. Cook one-quarter package of macaroni in salt water until it is tender, then drain and wash in cold water. Heat 1 cup milk and when hot stir into it a paste made from 1 tablespoonful butter and 2 tablespoonfuls of flour. Boil for five minutes. Add the macaroni and cook until thickened, stirring all the time; beat the yolk of 1 egg well and gradually pour into the hot mixture. Return to the double boiler and cook for a few minutes longer. Add the chopped macaroni, remove from the fire and when cool, shape. Beat the whites of 2 eggs and add the macaroni. Beat the whites in the crumbs, then in the egg whites, then in the crumbs again. THE WOMAN'S CORNER

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING BY HENRIETTA D. GRAUHL (Domestic Science Lecturer) VASES AND THEIR USES.

A famous artist and decorator has just spoken concerning vases and the whole world has listened and, for the most part, have probably agreed with him. He says, "A vase should be so beautiful in itself that nothing in the way of flowers, or pieces could add to it. It should stand alone, unadorned, and all adornment, the most perfect vase ever blown from priceless crystal or wrought from pure gold, cannot, for one moment, equal the poorest flower that grows." These beautiful sentiments are perhaps correct but to me they seem all wrong, the most perfect vase ever blown from priceless crystal or wrought from pure gold, cannot, for one moment, equal the poorest flower that grows. To be beautiful a thing should serve some useful purpose and, though beautiful in its own excuse for being, become twice beautiful through service.

This artist, in the same breath, puts the taboo on all vases that are "out of dull, soft colors and rounded lines." But suppose you like garish things and bright, glowing spots of color. Dear me! Who wants "subdued tones and unobtrusive decorations?" Anyone can be subdued, anyone can be made quiet. Then she goes on about the Japanese vases, lamps and jardiniere and praises everyone of them though we all know that some of their dragons and storks would keep you up all night long for hours. From the beginning of time vases and pottery have been destined to hold something. The most beautiful we have are the Mexican water-jars and Indian maize crocks. This man calls them hideous! Yet they seem to be the most utilitarian articles ever shaped. What good button-holders they make. How easily odds and ends fall into them, made of their pipe and tobacco in one and a smaller one is just right for cigars. The taller, thin one makes an admirable hat-pin holder, since hat-pins are growing to a sensible height.

The jardiniere-shaped one in red clay, with the broad black wiggly line round it sets on the radiator in the winter hall, filled with water, to better the dry air from the gas furnace, and in summer we keep it on a pedestal against the folding door. Sometimes it is filled with sweet grass and flowers, but useful it always is.

Some of the prettiest shapes are modeled in imitation wares so if one objects to putting a small fortune into Etruscan glass or Bohemian crystal or Japanese cloisonne you can get exquisitely lovely things at the brick-barn counter in the notion store. Then if they break, your feelings are saved and you can replace the few-pieced treasure.

Because a thing is not costly is not any reason it will not brighten a dull corner or please a tired eye. The Japanese have imposed on us shamefully in the last decade, and many a vase, lamp and urn is marked "Japan" that was made in Paris, Kentucky or Illinois. There is joy in possession and in old associations, so whether your yellows, reds, and greens harmonize artistically, or no, enjoy their color and form all you can and keep them filled with bright blossoms.

Using All Bits in Cooking Means Variety and Economy

In a French kitchen everything edible is conserved and made use of in one form or another, says the Pictorial Review. With Americans, too, often, that fragment of meat or vegetable, or those few spoonfuls of sauce or gravy are not considered worth keeping, but to the French housekeeper each has its use. The best of the cauliflower may be reserved for boiling and for serving with one of a variety of sauces, but the outside leaves do not go into the garbage can, as so often is the case in America. A salad would be served with the next course would be reserved for a crumb or perhaps cut into small pieces and served with the next course. The variety of courses, such a dinner would actually cost less than our so-called plain cooking.

In the justly famous pot-au-feu, soup, the contents of the stock pot, and the best of the vegetables and the meat course are prepared together and while the cheaper parts of the pot-au-feu are served separately, the French, as a rule, do not eat a second course. The meat is served with the soup, and the vegetables are served with the soup. The French, as a rule, do not eat a second course. The meat is served with the soup, and the vegetables are served with the soup.

LIKE A FEZ IS THIS SUMMER THEATRE HAT. The mediet collar seems to have come to stay. The straight coats and bodices seem to have obliterated the waist line altogether. On the delicateness of the little muslin collars and waistcoats hangs all the success of the modern wardrobe. Lovely capes are made of the new silky plushes, a light color being used on one side and a dark one on the other. One of the newest headresses from Paris is a bandeau of black velvet with upstanding quills of velvet tipped with rhinestones. A wreath of long green velvet leaves held by a rhinestone bow at the back is lovely dressing for a woman of the classic type. A novel hat bow is made of many long loops of wide ribbon, all gathered into a central knot, which is placed on the very center of the crown. The blouse waistcoat with a back and sleeves is the one that "sits" best. Also it permits the coat to be worn in the loosest manner possible.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS. To extract the juice from an onion, cut a slice from the root end, draw back the skin and press the onion on a coarse grater, working with a rotary motion. In sugaring stuffed dates a great deal of time can be saved by putting a little in a jar, adding a cup of stuffed dates, sealing the jar and shaking the contents thoroughly. Hard sponges will soften if covered with a little cold water, to which a tablespoonful of borax has been added. Bring this slowly to boil in a saucepan. Then take out the sponge, rub some dry borax into it, and finally rinse thoroughly under the cold water faucet.

Hang Up Brush. Fasten a piece of tape or string to the end of your dressing brush, so that when finished with it can be hung up and allowed to drain, instead of the water soaking into the back and loosening the bristles and making them soft, says the Montreal Star. For the same reason do not leave the brush in the pail of water when the floor is being washed.

To Remove Rust. To remove rust from steel, the following is excellent, says the Philadelphia North American: Cover the rusted part with sweet oil, letting it stay on for a day. Then rub it with a lump of fresh lime and polish in the ordinary way.

When the hemstitched lunch cloth shows signs of yellowing, the hemstitching may be renewed by the following method. The squares are close to the stitching as possible. Then purchase a linen case heading for from five to ten cents a yard, shrink it, and use it as an insertion to join the hem and square together again.

The alarm clock is a valuable assistant to the housekeeper in the kitchen. If the bell rings, she can set her alarm clock and take a short nap without any fear of oversleeping. If she wants to guard against being absorbed in one duty to the extent of forgetting her bread in the oven, she will set her alarm clock. So in a dozen different ways the alarm clock may be used.

TORONTO GLOBE AND ST. JOHN GLOBE CALL FOR RESIGNATION OF PREMIER FLEMMING

Local Paper Which Supported Provincial Government Says There Should Be Change in Leadership and Appeal to People

Political Subscriptions "Must Not Be Levied at Point of Pistol," Says Ontario Paper—"What Premier Admits He Knew" Sufficient to "Blaspheme Career of One Who Was Trusted as Few Public Men Are Trusted," Says St. John Paper—Lieutenant Governor "Should Insist Upon Resignation at Once."

(Canadian Press)
Toronto, July 18.—The Globe says regarding the New Brunswick graft charges—
"When the premier of a province makes such admissions in the witness box as Premier Fleming of New Brunswick made on Thursday, there can be but one end to the story. AFTER THE ROYAL COMMISSION REPORT NEW BRUNSWICK WILL HAVE TO CHOOSE A NEW POLITICAL HEAD. Mr. Fleming is entirely too simple and unsuspecting to deal with the sort of people who are to be found around the lobbies of legislatures."
"There seems to be a feeling in some quarters in New Brunswick that the premier was only pretending that the fund was a political one, whereas the whole transaction was one of personal graft. In support of this view, it is alleged that even his own colleagues in the government knew nothing of the existence of the money or of the means by which it had been secured. It is probable that this does an injustice to Mr. Fleming, and that his object was merely to accumulate without attracting public attention, money to promote the interests of the Conservative party in New Brunswick, by such human devices, as are known to election workers."
"His passion for secrecy has proven fatal to his reputation. The Royal Commission may not find him guilty of extortion, but IT ASSUREDLY WILL RENDER SUCH A DECISION AS WILL MAKE HIS RETENTION OF THE PREMIERSHIP OR OF ANY PLACE IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE IMPOSSIBLE. LARGE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES ARE NOTHING NEW IN CANADIAN HISTORY, BUT THEY MUST NOT BE LEVIED AT THE POINT OF A PISTOL."
MR. FLEMMING SHOULD RESIGN.

(St. John Globe)
"Hon. Mr. Fleming's testimony before the commission investigating the crown timber lands scandal charges has established the fact that he knew lumbermen of all shades of politics were contributing to an immense campaign fund for the benefit of his government. This fund was being raised at the very time the Premier in his official capacity as Surveyor General was determining the future policy of the province with reference to the crown lands, the contributing lumbermen were seeking to purchase. It is further made clear that the Premier himself designated a personal friend as the custodian of the fund and that he knew his chief scaler was taking a third in its collection. These admissions by the Premier, considered in connection with the evidence of his friend Teed and the stories of the lumbermen who contributed to the fund, must have convinced all fair-minded and right-thinking men that the time has come for action."
"ACCEPTING HON. MR. FLEMMING'S STATEMENT THAT HE DID NOT AUTHORIZE BERRY TO MAKE DEMANDS ON THE LUMBERMEN, DOES NOT MAKE MATTERS ANY BETTER. INDEED, THE REVELATIONS IN CONNECTION WITH THE CROWN LANDS AND THE SOUTHAMPTON RAILWAY SCANDAL, TO SAY NOTHING OF THE VALLEY RAILROAD, ARE SO ASTOUNDING THAT IT MUST BE APPARENT TO HON. MR. FLEMMING HIMSELF, AS WELL AS TO HIS PARTY, THAT HIS USEFULNESS AS A POLITICAL LEADER IS GONE. IF HE HAS NOT ALREADY TENDERED HIS RESIGNATION, THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR SHOULD INSIST THAT HE DO SO AT ONCE. UNDER A NEW LEADER THERE SHOULD BE AN IMMEDIATE APPEAL TO THE ELECTORATE, SO THAT THE PEOPLE OF THE PROVINCE CAN EXPRESS THEIR OPINION AS TO THE FUTURE MANAGEMENT OF PROVINCIAL AFFAIRS."
"Whoever is called upon to take the control will be expected to see that the province is put right in this matter of the crown lands. The lumbermen who paid money to the accredited agent of the Crown Land department and to the designated friends of Hon. Mr. Fleming, with a full knowledge that the money was not to reach the provincial treasury, cannot be continued in position of what they secured as the price of their part in a most disgraceful, most humiliating transaction. WHAT HE ADMITS HE KNEW, ASIDE ALTOGETHER FROM WHAT THE PUBLIC MAY BELIEVE HE KNEW, IS SUFFICIENT TO BLAST FOREVER THE POLITICAL CAREER OF ONE WHO WAS TRUSTED AS FEW PUBLIC MEN ARE TRUSTED. What the lumbermen admit they did should be sufficient to compel restitution to the people of what was secured from the people in such a disgraceful way?"
CHAIRMAN MCKEOWN SAYS, BRING BERRY; FLEMMING SAYS, "I WILL NOT."

Friday Premier Fleming refused to sign a telegram asking W. H. Berry to return and give evidence before the Royal Commission. In view of the premier's refusal the following extract from the proceedings of the Royal Commission at Fredericton on July 3 is of special interest.
Judge McKewen—For myself, I think that there should be an earnest effort on the part of everybody to get Mr. Berry here. I think if that were done, Mr. Berry would be here.
Mr. Carvell—The last time I saw Mr. Berry was at McAdam Junction, at some distance, the day before he went away, and the day before this commission was organized. I did not think then or have any idea that he was going away, and in answer to an aside from Mr. Carvell, if you want to know, I'll tell you who I saw Mr. Berry with, and in whose company he remained for some time later.
Judge McKewen—We will go on with the timber charges on the 15th, and if Mr. Berry is not here by that date, I for one would not feel like closing up the inquiry, without Mr. Berry's evidence.
Judge Wells—What on earth can we do to get Berry here?
Mr. Carvell—I do not think there would be any trouble about that, if my friends would produce a document that was signed the night after the charges were laid.
Both Mr. Fowler and Mr. Teed denied knowledge of any document which Mr. Carvell might have reference to.
Mr. Teed—I think this matter should be cleared up, as soon as possible, in justice to my sister, Premier Fleming.
Mr. Carvell—Premier Fleming is the man who can get Berry here, if he will only send him a telegram to come, and we can clear this matter up very quickly.

Dickens' Advice to Young Authors.
There is another feature of Dickens' character which cannot be too often or too seriously insisted upon—and that is his intense earnestness and thoroughness in everything he did. He said to me more than once, "My dear boy, do everything at your best. If you do that, neither I nor any one else can find fault with you, even if you fail. For myself, I can honestly say that I have taken at great pains with the smallest thing I ever did as with the biggest."
In giving advice to a young author, he said on one occasion, "If you want your public to believe in what you write, you must believe in it yourself. When I am describing a scene I can see as distinctly as you now. So real are my characters to me that on one occasion I had fixed upon the course which one of them was to pursue. The character, however, got hold of me and made me to express the opposite to what I had intended; but I was so sure that he was right and I was wrong that I let him have his own way. Whatever he did, either in work or at play, he always gave of his very best. He hated slackness or half-heartedness in any shape or form.—H. F. Dickens, K.C., in Harper's Magazine for July.

In a report by the United States forestry service it is predicted that the whole United States lumber crop will be harvested by 1920.

There is no death! The stars go down (Edward Bulwer Lytton).
There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore,
And bright in heaven's jeweled crown
They shine for evermore.
There is no death! The dust we tread
Shall change beneath the summer

To golden grain or mellow fruit,
Or rainbow-tinted flowers.
The granite rocks disorganize
To feed the hungry moss that bears;
The forest leaves drink daily life
From out the vernal air.
There is no death! The leaves may fall,
The flowers may fade and pass away—
They only wait through winter hours
The coming of the May.
There is no death! An angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread;
He bears our best loved things away
And then we call them "dead."
He bears our hearts all desolate—
He plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers;
Transplanting into bliss, they now
Adorn immortal bowers.
The bird-like voice whose joyous tones
Mingle glad the scene of sin and strife,
Sings now an everlasting song,
Amid the tree of life.
And where he sees a smile so bright,
Or heart too pure for fault and vice,
He bears it to that world of light,
To dwell in Paradise.
Born into the undying life,
They leave us but to come again;
With joy we welcome them—the same
Except in sin and pain.
And ever near, as though unseen,
The dead immortal spirit tread;
For all the boundless universe
Is life—there is no dead.

CONDENSED NEWS; LOCAL AND GENERAL

A wild cat, big savage and ferocious, was shot by a party of hunters near the source of annoyance to residents in the Spruce Lake district and hunters have been out during the last three days trying to dispose of this dangerous animal.

The St. John bank clearings continued steadily to climb. In the week ended yesterday, the bank clearings, corresponding week last year, $1,968,156, a gain of $208,866.

Matthew Lodge of the Maritime Old Fields Company has written to the St. John Board of Trade to the effect that it will be a pleasure for him to give evidence here before the Dominion Royal Commission. Mr. Lodge will point out what New Brunswick has to offer in regard to sale of oil and its products.

Bounding on the rocks west of Chance Harbor, the staunch stern schooner Jeanie A. Pickett, Captain Richards, is hard and fast on dangerous ledge and will probably prove a total loss and her deck-load of puncheons of molasses has been swept away and scattered on the shore.

Another daring attempt at burglary was made in the city during the late hours of Saturday night, when the office of the City Engineer, at the corner of Market street, was entered and a desperate trial was made to break into the safe which contained $500. Fortunately the thieves did not succeed in their attempt, but their escape without being captured.

Charged with robbing three places in broad daylight yesterday, a youth, sixteen years of age, who gave many names, but eventually insisted that he was Matthew Lodge, of Eastport (N. B.), was locked up about 4 o'clock by Police Officer Williams. After he had been caught by Frederick Jones, 228 Brunswick street, before they were burglarized. A note similar to those which he is charged with stealing were found in his pockets when searched at central station.

The preliminary hearing against Frederick McDougall and Herbert Goodrich, charged with the robbery of the stores of the Clover Farm dairy, J. Major Howell and the homes of Major Harold Perley, Pagan Place, Arthur MacKenzie, and Mrs. S. B. Bustin, St. James street, was concluded yesterday afternoon and Magistrate Ritchie committed both for trial. Very little additional evidence was taken at the hearing. The boys pleaded "not guilty" when asked by the magistrate if they had anything to say.

The esteem in which the late special police officer, Frank E. O'Leary, was held by the city council and the debt which the city owes to his memory, was amply attested at the meeting of the council yesterday. A resolution of condolence was unanimously passed and the mayor asked each of the commissioners to contribute to the man who died in the faithful discharge of his duty to the city and its citizens. As a concrete mark of appreciation of the work accomplished by the brave officer, the council passed a motion in which Mr. O'Leary, the dead hero's mother, will be provided for for the rest of her life—she will receive a pension which will be name will replace that of her son on the city's payroll.

There is no death! The stars go down (Edward Bulwer Lytton).
There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore,
And bright in heaven's jeweled crown
They shine for evermore.
There is no death! The dust we tread
Shall change beneath the summer
showers
To golden grain or mellow fruit,
Or rainbow-tinted flowers.
The granite rocks disorganize
To feed the hungry moss that bears;
The forest leaves drink daily life
From out the vernal air.
There is no death! The leaves may fall,
The flowers may fade and pass away—
They only wait through winter hours
The coming of the May.
There is no death! An angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread;
He bears our best loved things away
And then we call them "dead."
He bears our hearts all desolate—
He plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers;
Transplanting into bliss, they now
Adorn immortal bowers.
The bird-like voice whose joyous tones
Mingle glad the scene of sin and strife,
Sings now an everlasting song,
Amid the tree of life.
And where he sees a smile so bright,
Or heart too pure for fault and vice,
He bears it to that world of light,
To dwell in Paradise.
Born into the undying life,
They leave us but to come again;
With joy we welcome them—the same
Except in sin and pain.
And ever near, as though unseen,
The dead immortal spirit tread;
For all the boundless universe
Is life—there is no dead.

MRS. CARMAN FREED ON $20,000 BAIL

Mrs. Carman was arrested in the afternoon of yesterday before Justice Van Siceon on an indictment returned in the first degree for having caused the death of Mrs. Louise Bailey, a patient of the defendant's husband. She pleaded not guilty and was given two weeks in which to change her plea or demur to the indictment.

Counsel for Mrs. Carman suggested that she be liberated under $20,000 bail, and to that District Attorney Smith agreed. The prisoner looked very well and pale when brought from the jail to the court room. Her husband, Dr. Edward Carman, stood beside her. When the preliminaries of giving bail were adjusted he said he would take her out of the village at once.

It had been rumored during the morning that a superindictment, stronger than the one embracing the manslaughter charge, might yet be handed up by the grand jury on the strength of additional evidence furnished by Celia Coleman the negro maid in the Carman home. There had been no development along this line this afternoon.

ELECTRICAL STORM DAMAGED HOUSES

The severe electrical storm which broke over St. John at midnight on Friday and which continued until 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning, damaged several houses in different parts of the city and caused one fire which was extinguished without serious damage.

Torrential rains fell at intervals during the storm flooded the streets and blocked many of the gutters. Terrific claps of thunder at 7:30 a. m. accompanied by remarkable lightning, alarmed many people and those who witnessed the storm at its height said it was one of the most violent in years. The New Brunswick Telephone Company experienced a little difficulty with their lines, but no serious damage was done. The local system was not bothered.

George Bailey, of North End, an employe of Jordan's mill at Pleasant Point was sentenced to prison when he was charged with being operating a saw which was striking and two helpers with him were stunned. Bailey recovered an hour after he had received the shock.

Much damage was done in the house of E. M. Sprague in Adelaide street, when a lightning bolt went from the top of the house to the cellar, and in a house owned by the St. John Real Estate Company at the corner of Elliott row and Pitt street, in the flat occupied by S. B. Jack, where fire was caused by lightning. Entering at the front and making its way out at the side about twenty-five feet away, a lightning bolt set fire to a mattress and other bedding in the flat occupied by Mr. Jack. This was about 8:15 o'clock. An alarm of fire was sent in from box 57 to which the department gave a quick response, managing to check the blaze before much damage was done.

In the West End, a house in Albert street was struck and the shingles on the roof damaged and the plaster on the walls of the house cracked by the shock. Another dwelling was slightly damaged and a telephone pole was splintered at the top.
