LIBERALS CARRY NORTH BRUCE BY OVER THREE HUNDRED

Mr. Tolmie Elected and Incidentally Cuts Into the Strong Opposition Divisions.

Port Elgin, Oct. 30.—After a keen contest the electors of North Bruce, by a majority of about 350, today returned Mr. John Tolmie, the Liberal candidate, as their representative. The towns made a splendid showing. Port Elgin leading with a majority of 113, Kincardine following close with 112, and Southampton 106. Warton gave McLellan 25. The farmers of Bruce Township swelled up 275 of a majority for the Liberal candidate, and Saugeen 112, while the Conservative townships showed a marked decrease in their voting strength. The Conservative organization was under the direction of Hugh Clark, M.P.P., who marshaled the campaign especially in the southern municipalities. The result in the rural municipalities most reassuring, showing the adherence of the farmers to the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in spite of the fact that the Opposition candidate was a respectable and highly-esteemed farmer. The combined forces of Mr. Borden and Mr. W. F. Maclean, both of whom put up strenuous exertions, are tonight defeated and crestfallen. The appearance of Hon. A. B. Aylesworth at two meetings resulted in stirring up the enthusiasm of the Liberal workers to a remarkable degree.

The results by municipalities, some of them approximately correct, are given below. The riding is more than one hundred miles in length, and four or five divisions will not be heard from tonight. The figures are as follows:

Majorities for Tolmie.

Bruce Township	275
Port Elgin	113

Looks Prosperous

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 31.—The customs receipts of the Dominion show another large increase this month. The revenue from this source was $4,656,631, compared with $3,966,158, an increase of $690,473 over the same time last year. Receipts for the first four months of the fiscal year show an increase of $2,176,445 over 1905.

FRANCE TO ABOLISH THE DEATH PENALTY

New Ministry Decides to Put an End to Capital Punishment.

Paris, Oct. 31.—The cabinet held a meeting yesterday and approved a measure providing for the abolition of the death penalty. This means that Parliament, at its coming session, will enact a law to that effect.

Such action has been expected since the office of "Monsieur de Paris," or public executioner, was suppressed a few months ago by the abolition of the guillotine. The new Prime Minister, M. Clemenceau, the new Minister of Justice, has decided on taking a definite step to that end.

"ABSOLUTE ROT"

Senator Cox Specifically Denies Yarn of the Toronto World.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—The World story of Senator Cox buying a large interest in the Tretheway mine is absolute rot. The senator gives the yarn a specific denial.

GAS TUBE IN HIS MOUTH

Bell Telephone Manager at Port Hope Thought to Have Suicided.

Port Hope, Oct. 31.—J. F. Jackson, manager of the Bell Telephone Company here, is supposed to have committed suicide this morning by inhaling coal gas. He was found early this morning in the kitchen with the gas tube of the kitchen stove in his mouth. Drs. Forrest and Clemens were called in, but nothing could be done. An inquest will be held by Dr. McKinnley, the coroner. Mr. Jackson came to Port Hope about a year ago from Peterboro. He leaves a widow and three small children.

THE CHAMPION TYPEWRITER

Chicago Girl Writes 2,467 Words in Half Hour, With Five Errors.

New York, Oct. 31.—Rose L. Fritz, of this city, who won the world's typewriting championship in Chicago last June, came out ahead in the contest at the National Business Show in Madison Square Garden last night. She wrote 2,467 words from dictation in half an hour, making five errors. Of the other thirteen entrants, Paul Munter, who defeated Miss F. L. Fritz last fall, came nearest to her record. He wrote 2,466 words, but made 61 errors.

HEARST NOMINEES GO

Courts Say His Choice May Stand On the Ticket.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 30.—The court of appeals tonight handed down a decision affirming the right of the Independence League of New York City to make nominations by multiple petitions. The court also decided that in the judicial nominations the judicial certificate filed first had prior claim, and that the Independence League has the right to designate their own candidates.

POLICE RAID ANARCHISTS

Women Lead Attack on Squad of New York Police.

New York, Oct. 30.—A meeting of Anarchists was raided and broken up by a large force of police about 10 o'clock tonight at the Manhattan Lyceum, 68 East Fourth street. The wildest kind of riot followed when the police stormed the hall. Women screamed "Down with the police!" "Kill the oppressors!" and a few other such things.

When the men quailed the women themselves led a charge in the police. The officers were badly scratched and punched.

Ten of the Reds were arrested, among them Emma Goldman, who tackled a policeman, and was making good until other officers rescued their battered fellow-raider.

BACK TO WORK.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—The Jewelry Workers' Union, which had been waging a four-weeks' fight for an eight-hour day, voted yesterday to call the contest off, and the 800 strikers will return to work today.

EX-MAYOR JARVIS BURIED.

Stratford, Oct. 30.—The funeral of the late Ex-Mayor P. R. Jarvis took place this afternoon from his late residence, corner Nile and Cobourg streets, and the cortege was one of the largest seen in the city for many a day. After leaving the house the funeral proceeded to St. James' Church, where an impressive service was conducted by Rev. W. T. Cluff thence to Avondale cemetery, where interment took place.

London Election Investigation Resumed; Crown Switches to Brockville Contest

A Witness Swears the Ballots Were Illegally Marked at $10 Apiece.

Wm. Spence, West London, Denies Any Wrongdoing.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 31.—The investigation into the London election case was resumed today.

Messrs. George M. Reid, Dan Wiley, W. J. Mulloy and John O'Gorman, defendants, were all present.

Tom Lewis was also in court, having been subpoenaed by the prosecution.

The witnesses included Mr. Geo. C. Gibbons, K.C., Mr. H. C. McBride and other Londoners.

Antoine Wendling, of Brockville, was the first witness examined. He asked if he would be protected against any prosecution if he answered all questions, and the court replied in the affirmative. He then swore that one J. H. McNab had asked him to handle a couple of men in the Brockville election. He was told to give each man a duplicate ballot, marked for Comstock. The voters went into the booths, placed the marked ballots in the box and brought out the blank ballots to the witness, who paid $10 for each vote thus cast. This was in the election of 1899. When the blank ballots were brought out they were marked for Comstock and Wick. He asked again, "Was Tom Lewis there?"

"I never saw him,"

"Did Pritchett and Lewis stop at your hotel before the election?" Pritchett swears they did.

"No; it is not true, as far as I know,"

Showered Elliott lived six miles from Brockville. He remembered the White-Hay-Comstock election. He told of having been directed by a man at Mile Station's hotel to get a ballot marked for Comstock, put it in the box and bring back the blank ballot, and he would be given $10. Witness took a ballot, but he voted for White on the right ballot, and kept the crooked one. Later a stranger called on him and offered him $10 for the crooked paper, but witness refused it.

George Weatherhead, of Brockville, identified J. G. Pritchett, of London, as having been with the deputy returning officer in a subdivision in the White-Comstock election, where a row had occurred.

Wm. Stewart was a scrutineer at the polling booth referred to No. 1 of the east ward. He said that all had gone right at the booths until a man named James dropped a ballot on the floor, and the Conservative scrutineers attempted to get it. This is what caused the row.

Showered Elliott was recalled and produced the ballot for which he claimed he was offered $50. It was put in by the prosecution as an exhibit. Mr. DuVernet said the paper was a little thinner. Mr. Wikkie objected, but was overruled.

Mr. Spence Called

William Spence, of West London, was next called.

"You have been away?"

"Yes."

"Why did you go away? You were subpoenaed?"

"No; I was out of the country when the paper was left at my house."

"Where did you go?"

"To Detroit, to see my sons."

"You knew you were wanted?"

"Not when I went away."

"Who spoke to you about going away?"

"Nobody."

"You had been deputy returning officer in the past?"

"Yes."

"Who asked you to step down?"

"The first I heard of it was from my (Continued on Page Eight.)"

THE WEATHER

TOMORROW—WARMER.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—3 p.m. Light snowfalls have occurred today near Lake Ontario, and local showers in British Columbia, but with these exceptions fair weather has prevailed throughout Canada. It has been cold from Manitoba to Quebec, where maximum temperatures have been under 40°.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Dawson, 10-24; Ailing, 38-38; Victoria, 46-54; Vancouver, 41-52; Kamloops, 40-54; Calgary, 22-46; Edmonton, 32-52; Qu'Appelle, 24-46; Winnipeg, 6-33; Port Arthur, 20-36; Parry Sound, 20-32; Toronto, 30-36; Ottawa, 28-36; Montreal, 23-33; Quebec, 23-38; St. John, 34-44; Halifax, 36-52.

WITNESS WOULD NOT SWEAR THAT O'MEARA WAS THE BRANTFORD MAN

Crown Calls Number of Witnesses, But Much of the Evidence Conflicts.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 31.—John O'Meara, of London, charged with perjury in connection with alleged impersonation committed in the Heyd-Henry election in Brantford ten years ago, was again arraigned in police court this morning. O'Meara looked well, and was neatly dressed. He was represented by Mr. J. W. Curry, formerly crown attorney, of Toronto. Amongst the witnesses from London who was subpoenaed on the case was Major Beattie, ex-M. P. P. The conspiracy investigation was also resumed today.

The O'Meara case was taken up at 11 o'clock, Richard Taylor, of Brantford, was the first witness called.

Mr. Curry asked that all other witnesses in the case leave the room while Taylor was being examined.

Taylor lives in Brantford. At the time of the election he was outside scrutineer at polling subdivision No. 21. He recognised O'Meara as having been in Brantford at the election. O'Meara had appeared at the poll and stated that his name was Brown, and voted, although Brown had been dead a year.

"You are positive as to O'Meara being the man?" Mr. DuVernet said.

Mr. Curry then took the witness in hand.

"How old are you?" Mr. Curry asked.

Witness—Forty-nine.

"You were 39 when you saw the prisoner in Brantford?"

"Yes."

"You only saw O'Meara a minute at the polling subdivision, and you have not seen him until now—not until today. You ask the court to believe that you can recognize a man after ten years that you only saw a minute ten years ago?"

"Yes."

"Are you a detective?"

"No."

"You should have been. You have missed your calling."

The witness said O'Meara was a little grayer, and his mustache was a little darker.

"Did O'Meara have his hat on when you saw him?" asked the magistrate.

"Yes," replied the witness.

"How can you say his hair is grayer and thinner now than ten years ago?"

"You say positively O'Meara is the man?"

"I have no doubt of it," said the witness.

"How was he dressed when you saw him in Brantford?"

The witness did not know.

"Did he have an overcoat on?"

"Yes."

"How do you remember?"

"It was a cold day."

"That sort of evidence will not do," Mr. Curry said.

Witness said he had pointed out O'Meara in Brantford to Major Westbrooke. He had not talked over the case with anybody in ten years.

Says O'Meara Impersonated.

Wm. Bremner, of Brantford, swore to having seen O'Meara in Brantford at the election. Bremner was driving a carriage for Mr. Henry at the time. O'Meara had voted in Bremner's name, the witness said.

"How did you know he voted for you?"

"They told me in the booth he did."

"That's all you know about it?"

"I know he did."

Witness had seen O'Meara twice in Brantford that day, once after he had been let out on bail.

Cross-examined by Mr. Curry, witness said the first time he saw O'Meara he had no particular reason to mark the London man.

"You swore that O'Meara is the man who went into the polling booth ahead of you?"

"Yes."

"You didn't notice him particularly at the time?"

"I did."

"You just swore you didn't."

"I told him the time of day."

"Was there any reason why you should have noticed him?"

"Yes."

"You have contradicted yourself again."

"Well, I did notice him."

"You are ready to swear to anything, aren't you?"

"I'm ready to swear to what I know."

"Who did O'Meara go away with?"

"A man named O'Connell."

A Remarkable Memory.

"When did you see him again?"

"In the evening, driving with Jerry Dunn."

The witness then got badly tangled, and Mr. Curry said: "A man who could remember some things for ten years should be able to remember what he had sworn to two minutes before."

"How was O'Meara dressed?"

"He had a dark fawn overcoat."

"What kind of a hat?"

"A dark fedora."

"What color was his hair?"

"Light gray."

"That could be no mistake?"

BIG PLANS OF CANADA NORTHERN AS INSIDE STAFF

Road Applies for Right-of-Way in Many Points in Ontario and Quebec.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—The Canadian Northern Railway appeared before the Minister of Railways this forenoon with a batch of applications covering Ontario and Quebec. The first application was for an entrance to the city of Ottawa. Another application was for a line from Toronto to Ottawa and the French River line. The Quebec Province application was made for a line from the boundary of Champlain County to the St. Lawrence River, thence to Quebec Bridge. There was also the entrance to Quebec City near the Quebec Bridge. Mr. Ruel made all the applications and was assisted by Engineers White and Wickstead. The C. P. R. and G. T. R. of the Ottawa and New York, and other interests were all represented.

BUFFALO BILL SAFE

Famous Scout and Party Not Victims of Blizzard.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—A dispatch from Butte says the Buffalo Bill party, which was thought to have perished during a blizzard in the Big Horn Mountains has turned up all right.

THE KLEINGBEIL CASE

Belleville, Oct. 31.—The Kleingbeil wife-murder case was this morning submitted to the grand jury of the present assizes, in spite of the fact that a true bill was found against Kleingbeil last spring. Apparently it will be a conflict of medical experts. The case grew out of an assault committed by the prisoner on his aged and decrepit wife last March, when Kleingbeil, according to his own story, pounded the woman so badly with his fists that she died next morning. The grand jury brought in a true bill, and the trial will go on this afternoon.

GROPING IN DARK OVER NEW YORK

No One Able to Estimate the Strength of Candidates.

PARTY LINES ARE BROKEN UP

Both Sides Are Equally Confident and Afraid of What the Voters Will Do Next Tuesday.

New York, Oct. 30.—With the beginning of the last week of the campaign the mystery as to the outcome in New York state is quite as deep as ever. Betting people continue to give odds on Hughes, and the Republican state committee is pervaded by an air of confidence which seems to be genuine.

People who have no personal interest in the campaign, however, are much at sea because they find innumerable cross currents all over the state, and no one seems to be able to estimate the strength of these opposing forces.

There is every reason to believe the Hearst organization is groping in the dark so far as the country counties are concerned. It either has no reports at all or the stories which are brought into it are manifestly unreliable and are prepared for publication purposes only.

The general trend of sentiment everywhere in New York City, where the better class of people circulate, in the theaters, in the newspaper cars, and in the retail stores of upper Broadway, is that Hughes is certain of election.

On the other hand, everybody who makes a prediction of this kind invariably qualifies it by giving instances of strange lapses on the part of solid Republican candidates.

Party Lines Badly Shattered.

Hearst's undeniable possession of a large fraction of the Republican labor vote, and Hughes' sweeping capture of the silk stocking Democracy from Buffalo to the Battery, are now clearly established, but no man knows how far one will offset the other, and this is the uncertainty which has made the campaign the most remarkable in the history of New York politics.

On Broadway an hour or two ago I met a well-known and active Democrat. He has been associated in one way or another with the leaders of the party for years. He could not vote for Bryan in 1896, but he did in 1900. When asked for his opinion as to the likelihood of the silk stocking Democracy he said that leaders in whose confidence he was estimated that from 40,000 to 50,000 of the old line conservative Democrats in New York and Brooklyn would surely vote for Hughes. They would surely vote for Hughes, they did not even consider the possibility of bolting the ticket, because they took the ground that Hearst was not a Democrat, and that he had captured the Buffalo convention by methods which relieved regular Democrats of all obligation to vote for him. When Hearst ran as an independent against McClellan last year he alienated the old-time Democracy, and he completed the alienation by his use of his Independence League since then and his constant refusal in this campaign to make the slightest use of the regular Democratic organization.

Labor Men for Hearst.

On the other hand, an hour or two later in the lobby of the Hotel Victoria, where the deserted Democratic headquarters are nominally located, I met a Republican who has been associated with the party management in New York for twenty years or so. He said a friend of his had a factory up the country employing about 300 men. There had not been a strike or a lock-out there since the plant was put up fifteen or twenty years ago. The men were engaged in manufacturing a protected article and in one campaign after another they had gone to the polls and voted the Republican ticket almost unanimously. So well understood was this that the local party always lumped in the men of this factory in the Republican column. This year, because of the stories about the defection of Republican workmen, the head of the factory took a secret ballot in which the men were absolutely safeguarded. To his surprise he found that 167 out of 300 had recorded their intention to vote for Hearst.

Only yesterday this Republican leader met two or three unimportant precinct captains from Brooklyn and asked in a perfunctory way how things looked across the river. To his surprise they told him that all the workmen they knew were going to vote for Hearst. To cap the climax, they informed the leader that they intended to do the same thing, in spite of their affiliation with the Republican organization, and gave as their reason that "Hearst makes good on some things he starts out to do, even if he doesn't get them all."

This same story of Hearst influence among the workmen is told not only in New York and Brooklyn but in every factory town of any importance throughout the state. In Albany, Troy, Rochester, Schenectady and towns of that class, wherever there are large manufacturing interests or extensive railway yards, Hearst certainly has cut into the Republican labor vote.

In the lower wards of New York city, not only among the foreigners, but among the English-speaking laboring men, he has made great gains. It is more or less easy to trace these gains by the area of the circulation of the various newspapers, daily and weekly, English, German, Yiddish, and perhaps some other nationality, owned or controlled by Mr. Hearst.

In the real agricultural sections of the state, Hearst has not only made no headway, but has suffered a certain loss which is relatively as large as (Continued on Page Three.)

WHO WILL LAND CHAIRMANSHIP?

Speculation Already as to Ex-Ald. Wyatt's Successor on Manufacturers.

City Clerk Baker today officially notified Mr. William Scarlett of the vacancy on the council caused by the resignation of Ald. Wyatt, and that if he desired to take the seat he would have to qualify within a week. It is supposed that Mr. Scarlett will do so in time to take his place at the council board on Monday evening next. Should he decline to qualify, the position will go to Mr. Alex. Stuart, K. C., who was fourteenth in the race for aldermanic honors in January last.

There was some speculation around the city hall today as to who will succeed ex-Ald. Wyatt as chairman of the manufacturers' committee. It is expected that Mr. Scarlett will be appointed by the council to act in ex-Ald. Wyatt's place on both the board of works and the manufacturers' committee, in which event the latter body will include the following members of the council: Mayor Judt, Ald. Saunders, Armstrong, Booth, Forristal, Stevenson, Cooper and Scarlett. The other members of the committee have no voice in the election of a chairman. It is said that Ald. Armstrong, who is a manufacturer, can have the chairmanship if he desires it, while it is also stated that Ald. Cooper would like the position.

A meeting of the committee may be called next week.

YORK LOAN AFFAIRS

Many of the Shareholders' Books Not Yet Handed In.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—Hundreds of shareholders of the York Loan and Savings Company are still withholding their stock certificates and books, and thereby hampering the efforts of the liquidators in endeavoring to get the affairs of the company straightened out. The staff of clerks who were taken over from the York Loan offices are still employed in the work.

The liquidators at first determined to withhold all statements of assets and liabilities until the shareholders' books were all in. In view of the difficulty experienced in collecting the books, however, it is not impossible that an interim statement may be presented for the shareholders in a few weeks.

In the meantime, the liquidators await the advent of a car line up Roncesvalles avenue before making a general effort to dispose of the vast areas of York Loan property in that district.

STARTLING STATEMENT

A Buckingham Striker Says Arms Were Gathered to Shoot Police.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—The inquest on the dead strikers, Belanger and Theriault, was resumed at Buckingham today, when about fifteen witnesses were examined up to noon. The most startling evidence was given by Bernard E. Bourassa, a striker, who swore that the strikers had gathered firearms with the deliberate purpose of using them on the police. Witnesses who testified at the Warner inquest related that Mr. Alex. MacLaren fired the first shot.

LOSES $200,000 IN ASSESSMENT

The New Act Cuts That Much Off Rolls for 1907—Total for City, $22,747,112.

Unless the county court judge should allow any of the appeals that are to come before him on Tuesday next at the court house the assessment of the city for 1907 will total $22,747,112.

The assessment as originally made by Commissioner Grant and his assistants during the past few months amounted to $22,951,558, but some reductions have been made from this. The court of revision whittled off $61,948, but the greatest slice was taken off by the new act which increases the exemption on income from $400 to $600, and reduces the minimum business assessment from $250 to $100.

Before the amendment to the assessment act was enforced the assessors had completed their work in the first and second wards, but the amendment was taken into consideration when the assessment was being made in wards three and four. The result was that the rolls for the first and second wards had to be carefully gone over again, and the income and business taxes of the owners of taxpayers changed to conform with the provisions of the law.

The total amount knocked off business and income assessments in the two wards named was $142,503, which, with the $61,943 allowed by the court of revision, reduced the total assessment of the city to $22,747,112.

Assessment Commissioner Grant said today that Nos. 3 and 4 wards had been assessed on the old basis as regards income and business tax it would simply have meant that about $60,000 more would have been struck off. This, with $142,503 allowed in Nos. 1 and 2 wards in round numbers, the city loses under the new act on business and income tax.

"The net increase in the assessment for 1907 will be $1,000,000," said Mr. Grant.

A number of appeals have been carried to the county judge, but the assessment department does not feel that they will be successful.

JAP EDITORS TO ACT

Will Arouse Public Over Anti-Japanese Acts at San Francisco.

Tokio, Oct. 31.—A number of journalists had a meeting yesterday for the purpose of considering the anti-Japanese action of the San Francisco board of education which the city loses under the new act on business and income tax.

The following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, that the action of the San Francisco authorities in segregating school children is a great violation of the existing treaty, and an insult to Japan."

It was further resolved that the journalists combine in an effort to excite public opinion, and cause the authorities to effect a solution of the difficulty. It was agreed not to advocate anything of a violent nature."

A UNIVERSITY CLOSED.

Moscow, Oct. 31.—The University of Moscow was closed today by order of the rector, until Nov. 13, in consequence of violations of the rule against open political meetings being held in the university buildings.

MRS. EDDY IS IN PERFECT HEALTH

Head of Christian Science Faith Puts End to Sensational Stories.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 30.—A representative of the Associated Press, who interviewed Mrs. Eddy, head of the Christian Science Church, told the press today, and was granted another interview by the same woman. Although Mrs. Eddy, who was born in 1821, shows her advanced age in some respects, her voice today was clear and strong, and she gave no evidence of decrepitude or any weakness not to be expected of a woman in her 86th year.

Concord, Oct. 30.—The interview, which was granted to half a score of newspaper representatives, who had assembled here after the publication of sensational stories in connection with Mrs. Eddy's health was arranged early in the day by H. Cornell Wilson, head of the Christian Science Publishing Committee, at the earnest request of the reporters. In addition to that there were present Edwin S. Herring, first reader of the local church; Edward M. Pearson, secretary of the state of New Hampshire; Mr. Wilson and Calvin A. Frye, Mrs. Eddy's secretary.

The newspaper men assembled at Mrs. Eddy's home, Pleasant View, and directly they had been seated, Mr. Frye announced Mrs. Eddy. The leader of the Christian Science faith walked to the doorway and stood, unassisted, before her interviewers. She did not advance beyond the threshold and when it was seen that she would not enter the room for a prolonged interview, a woman reporter, who had previously interviewed Mrs. Eddy, was delegated to talk to her.

Mrs. Eddy appeared to be more than anxious to demonstrate that she was in good physical condition than to answer inquiries. Just three questions had been asked by the interviewers when Mrs. Eddy turned abruptly, spoke a word to her secretary, and started for her carriage, to take her customary afternoon drive. The interviewers were left in the parlors with numberless questions on their lips but without an opportunity to ask them.

The brief interview consisted of the following questions and answers: "Are you in perfect health, Mrs. Eddy?" was the first question asked after Mrs. Eddy had made her appearance.

"I am," was the brief reply, given with distinct enunciation. "Have you any other physician than God?"

"No, indeed," answered Mrs. Eddy, with emphasis, and then she added slowly and solemnly:

"The everlasting arms are around and above me, which is enough." "Do you take a daily drive," was the next question asked, to which Mrs. Eddy replied as briefly and distinctly as she did to the first question.

"I do," she said. It was at this point that Mrs. Eddy terminated the interview. With another word she walked to where her carriage was waiting in front of the house. She was escorted to the carriage by Mr. Strang and Mr. Frye, and was then driven away while the newspaper men were escorted through her home which they inspected with interest.

HIS ALLY A PERJURER

Ally of Millionaire Falsely Testified Against Latter's Wife.

Pittsburg, Oct. 31.—Clifford Hoce, the negro, formerly coachman for Augustus Hartje, was convicted of perjury today in connection with a deposition against Mrs. Mary Scott-Hartje, and which formed the basis of the recent sensational Hartje divorce trial. The case was submitted to the jury at 12:30. Only one ballot was taken, and when the court convened at 1 o'clock the verdict was returned.

The closing features of the case were sensational and exciting in the extreme. The attorneys during the arguments attacked one another indiscriminately with accusations and during the address of Assistant District Attorney Robb the negro defendant jumped from his seat and shouted that the attorney lied.

Attorney J. Scott Ferguson addressed the jury for the defense, making an impassioned appeal for the negro and criticizing Assistant District Attorney Robb. Mr. Robb, in closing the case for the state, scored not only the defendant, but also his counsel, being interrupted time and again, on one occasion Mr. Ferguson giving notice that he would apply for a new trial because of Mr. Robb's remarks.

Judge R. S. Frazer's charge to the jury was an impartial review of the law and evidence, and thus ended a trial which for scandal has seldom, if ever, been equaled in Pittsburg.

According to United States Government returns 38,000,000 bunches of bananas were imported into the United States for the fiscal year ending 1905. The declared value of those bananas given on their entry into America taken from the invoices at port of shipment, averaged 25 cents a bunch. The selling price of the same bananas is about $1.50, thus showing that the banana trust has about $50,000,000 annually for transportation and profit, next morning flew away to get it; but the day proving somewhat cloudy the color given to her dress was not so brilliant as was that received by her mate.

Overtaken by Nausea

You don't know whether it's going to stay down or come up. You feel like thirty cents and look even worse. If one thing is quicker than another, it's "Nervine." Ten drops in sweetened water gives relief instantly. Almost like magic it changes your experience. The cause of the nausea is removed, every symptom of vomiting and indigestion is cured within ten minutes. When Poison's Nervine is so trustworthy and economical, a bottle at home wouldn't be amiss. Large ones for a quarter at all dealers.

FLEAS SKIDOOED FROM THE TOADS

Did Tree Hoppers Drive Them Off, Or Was It Merely a Nightmare?

McKeever, N. Y., Oct. 30.—If fleas trouble you while in the woods invite an army of tree toads to visit you and the pestiferous flea will soon take its departure, according to a statement made by James L. Bridge, of Buffalo. Mr. Bridge got rid of fleas that way except that he didn't invite the toads.

The fleas hit the Bridge camp two days before the advent of tree toads, and the way they bit the campers was a disgrace. They rolled in, hopped in and jumped in until the air was full of seething, swarming, undulating clouds that stuck, bored, bit and worked to vulnerable spots and almost drove the party insane. Mr. Bridge greatly disliked being driven off by fleas, for he had successfully withstood the mosquito, black fly and gnats, but he finally determined to vacate and began to break camp.

Then came the toads, whence no one knew. Half of the camp equipment had been packed when from a distance in the forest rose such a sound as might have been made by a couple of million whopping big crickets. It was a soft, purring, but far-reaching sound, the like of which no one present had ever heard and they marveled. Shortly the leaves of the trees began to rustle and murmur, the fleas sat up and took notice and a score of hawks and other reptile-eating birds soared overhead with querulous voices and keeping a sharp eye out down below. Now and then one would swoop to earth and ascend with a soft, gray object in its mouth.

The mystery was soon explained for through the trees and undergrowth and along the ground came an army of tree toads. They sang as they advanced and gobbled fleas as they sang. Mr. Bridge says that nothing like it was ever seen before. The fleas were instantly in a panic. If they kept to the shrubbery they were sure to leap into the open maw of a toad. If they rose to the trees they met a similar fate. If they burrowed into the ground the insect hunters promptly dug them out.

Any way you could figure, it out it was all up with the fleas, and away they went, as fast as their legs would carry them. Probably all would have met an untimely fate had not the help of the toads so sagged from gluttonous feeding as to impede their progress. Never did toads get so full. At the end of an hour thousands of them with overloaded stomachs toppled from the trees and scrawled with their brothers where they lay in a comatose state until the effects of their feast wore off. Then, with subdued singing, they set off after the diminished flea board.

Some folks think Mr. Bridge had a nightmare, but the above is the story as he told it.

FALSE DESCRIPTIONS

Will Shut Out Trade from Australia, Canada's Agent.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—D. H. Ross, Canadian commercial agent in Melbourne, reporting to the Trade and Commerce Department under date of Sept. 22, called attention to a clause in the Australian commerce act which declares that all goods to which any false trade description is applied are forbidden entry into the Commonwealth, and if imported will be forfeited to the crown. Where it is shown that the importer's infringement of this law has been unwitting fines may be imposed of $500, but the law is extremely drastic in its purpose and it will be well for all Canadians doing business with Australia to govern themselves accordingly.

The new Australian tariff has not been finally disposed of at the time of writing, but Mr. Ross mentions that a reduction was made in the fixed duties on agricultural implements and machinery as first proposed, the ad valorem rates on fertilizers and seed drills, however, being increased from 12½ per cent to 25 per cent. The new law fixes also a minimum price that may be charged by Australian makers for stripper harvesters and drills. It is proposed by the Commonwealth Government to take over the state debts, amounting to $226,680,739. To do so requires an amendment of the constitution, and if the Government succeeds in obtaining this the question will be submitted to a referendum at the approaching election.

Returns of last year's trade between Canada and New Zealand show a slight increase, which is due, however, entirely to the great growth of New Zealand exports to Canada, which increased three-fold during the last year. This year it is in wool, skins and sheepskins, a trade formerly done from Australia. The New Zealand returns show an apparent decline in exports from Canada, but Mr. Larke, Canadian commercial agent, thinks these figures are rather misleading, and that in actual fact this trade was about the same as in 1904. Still it is rather a pity that Canadian exporters have not taken greater advantage of the customs preference they enjoy in the New Zealand market, whilst the foreigner on the other hand has been able to strengthen his position in spite of the higher duties his goods are now required to pay.

In many of the Greek islands diving for sponges forms a considerable part of the occupation of the inhabitants. The natives make it a trade to gather these, and their income from this source is good. In one of the islands a girl is not permitted to marry until she has brought up a certain number of sponges and given proof of her skill by taking them from a certain depth. But in some of the islands their custom is reversed. The father of a marriageable daughter bestows her on the best diver among her suitors. He who can stay longest in the water and brings up the biggest cargo of sponges marries the maid.

ELOPING PRINCE FIGHTS POVERTY

De Broglie and His Princess, Whose Flight Stirred Europe, Are in Distress.

New York, Oct. 30.—In apartments on the top floor of the furnished room house at No. 235 West Fifty-first street a baby's petulant crying caused a swift exchange of glances of alarm between a young couple who sat in the combined bedroom and parlor yesterday afternoon.

On the mantel were signed photographs of the Duke de Broglie, of his grandsons, the Princes Broglie, of Sarlanof, the Russian composer, and of other distinguished Europeans. On a side-table was mounted stationery, Russian leather letter bags, embossed albums, all bearing the crest of one of the noblest houses of France.

The woman, crowned in a Parisian costume of blue cloth and Val lace, arose and hastened to an inner room, whence came the baby's insistent calling. The man, a young aristocrat, from the toe of his boots to the crown of a well-poised head, was alert for the reappearance of the woman. She came shortly, holding in the hand a child of two, whose face was still rosy with sleep.

"The Princess Jassemonte," murmured the man, bowing with playful deference to the child. She slipped in French a demand for "bonbons." Her mother went to the dresser, found a wafer of peppermint, and proffered it. The Princess Jassemonte, Estelle de Broglie took the sweet in her chubby fist, and was raised to her father's knee.

He is Prince Robert de Broglie; his wife the famous beauty Estelle Alexander. Their elopement from Paris was described there at the time as the sensation of the social world. The young man's father, Prince Amadee de Broglie, is now invoking the French courts to prevent the marriage from being legalized there. The mystery of the whereabouts of the elopement was solved yesterday by their appearance in the furnished-room house. Their titled relatives, court circles in Europe and socially distinguished families in this country will be surprised to learn that the dainty Princess Jassemonte has come to the cloister.

They said yesterday that a wealth of happiness is theirs, but that their last penny is spent literally. That is why a poor peppermint wafer instead of a dainty confection served to appease the Princess Jassemonte for her baby, today, said the Princess Estelle. She glanced at her exquisite gown and continued: "These clothes seem a mockery in our surroundings. I would gladly wear poor, plain gowns, but we have not money with which to buy such things. The prince has sought to provide for us, but he cannot obtain employment. They look at his white hands, shrug their shoulders and exclaim, 'A French prince!'"

"New York has no use, apparently, for a nobleman who is eager to earn his daily bread," said the Prince de Broglie; "I go from office to office and receive scant courtesy. New Yorkers seem too busy to talk. It was accounted a skillful mechanical engineer while my father was in the French army at Brest. I have invented an automobile. In an effort to earn money I have invented a standard on which to polish shoes, and a practical sander buckie. I cannot sell my patents. My father has cut off every franc of my allowance. We are penniless."

Thus spoke the son of a house which dates back to the Roman empire. His younger brothers, the Princes Jacques and Albert de Broglie, were lionized when they visited this country five years ago. Frederick de Peyster began the entertainment for them with a dinner. Their grandfather was the late Duke Albert de Broglie, minister of foreign affairs and president of the council, minister of justice, ambassador to the Court of St. James, member of the French Academy, and one of the makers of French history. The Duke Albert's grandfather was the Prince Victor de Broglie, who served through the revolutionary war in this country as one of the principal lieutenants of the Marquis de Lafayette, and was afterwards gillotined by Robespierre in 1794.

Prince Robert de Broglie is twenty-six, and the estate of his family, which surrounds the Chateau de Chaumont, is considered one of the most magnificent in France. It was while Prince Robert was still a student in the naval academy that he first met the Countess Fleury. She is a daughter of the late Baron Deslandes, and was married when little more than sixteen by her godmother, the late Princess Mathilde Bonaparte, to a son of Gen. Fleury, master of horse to Napoleon III, and ambassador at St. Petersburg.

While the prince was telling of the elopement his wife regarded him tenderly.

"I adore the prince the more, if possible, when his conduct is compared with that of Count Boni de Castellane, whom he knows well, and with that of the Duke of Marlborough. They have only unhappiness, although their titles are secure of luster through the bounty of their wives. Prince Robert sacrificed his princely allowance, braved the displeasure of his parents, resigned a life of ease and the association of distinguished friends—and all for our great love. We are happy in that love, although we are poor, oh so poor. We have pledged our jewels, everything has gone to maintain the baby and purchase. 'But I have a plan by which we hope to endure,' said the princess, bravely. 'When I studied music with masters of Europe I never thought the time would come when I would be called upon to put my gift to practical use. I am going to try and earn money by singing at private entertainments. And do you know the way I have taken to resume my studies and again develop my voice?' asked the princess with animation.

She took from a stand a score of arias and ballads, whose yellow leaves proved they had been long disused. Then calling the Princess Jassemonte

BA'N' ON REAL KISSING

Miss Ashwell Declares Americans Are Too Ardent on the Stage.

New York, Oct. 31.—Realistic stage kisses grate on the artistic temperament of Miss Lena Ashwell, the English star in "The Shulamite," and today John Blair, who is skilled in "near-love," the kiss that is but a breath and the fond embrace that does not squeeze—will start playing the lover to Miss Ashwell.

Mr. Blair came post haste from New York yesterday in response to the telegrams to relieve Walter Edwards, who, in the person of Robert Waring, was putting so much realism into his lovemaking that the heroine was losing her talent of "acting" love.

Mr. Edwards acts the love that is intense, and Mr. Blair puts forth the style that does not require an answering magnanimity. Miss Ashwell maintains that the latter temperament of lovemaking is much less trying on the nervous system, and is quite as satisfactory to the audience. In England, Miss Ashwell is rated the nation's foremost actress in heavy emotional roles and according to the Britisher's idea is capable of reciprocating the tender emotions in any of its varying degrees. But the American style of lovemaking, she declares, is too heavy for her—a too vivid a surprise.

"What is love?" ejaculated the English actress, pressing a bejeweled hand on her auburn pompadour last night. "Love—the poets dream about it—and you want to hold it close and never let it go. But it's different on the stage. There we say 'I-o-v-e' in quotation marks, and you insist that a lover eat peppermint drops before he kisses you. Also put the 'kisses' in quotation marks."

An American knows how to make love only in one style. He wants to hold you close and kiss you with a loud "smack." He thinks when he holds you so tight that you lose breath, he is making love. He measures his love on the same principle as a lung-testing machine works. Of course, he means it, but then it is annoying, don't you know. The actors of the American school follow the same system, and it is entirely unnecessary."

"Don't tell me I don't know about lovemaking," she continued, pensively. "I have been married in too many love scenes—on and off the stage—not to know. But now we're talking about the stage love."

"The English lover on the stage is just like he is in private life. It is a very cool and businesslike protest. He puts his arm around you, perhaps a kiss fleets across your lips, but it is merely a matter of form and good breeding. For just the same reason the well-bred Britisher tips his hat when he meets a lady friend on the street. Now that is much more satisfactory in a stage scene. There is no wild trumpeting of hearts and throbbing of temples, no loss of breath and flushed faces, and when it is all past everybody is cool and self-possessed. The American style? It is distressing and disconcerting a woman from acting the lover scenes in the proper manner."

LEOPOLD DENOUNCED

W. C. T. U. Also Condemns Reed Smoot and Asks for Suffrage.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 30.—Resolutions denouncing King Leopold II. of Belgium as the author of conditions in the Congo Free State, which are characterized as "atrocities," calling for the exclusion of Reed Smoot from the United States Senate because of his relations with the Mormon Church; opposing the sale of beer or other intoxicants at army posts; advocating the making permanent of the temporary prohibition of the sale of beer at Vermont soldiers' homes; protesting against the issuing of liquor tax receipts in prohibition territory; declaring for the highest standard of purity for men and women alike, and declaring in favor of the right for suffrage for women, were adopted this afternoon by the National Women's Christian Temperance Union.

When the resolution dealing with the Congo Free State was first introduced the Belgian Government was the object of denunciation, but after some discussion the name of Leopold II. was substituted for that of the Belgian Government.

A resolution was also adopted urg-

THAMESFORD.

Thamesford, Oct. 30.—The storm of yesterday has made the housewives of the village huddle around their winter clothes, and husbands to take to their coal bins and woodsheds. There was considerable damage done by breaking limbs off shade trees, also of telephone wires, particularly along the local lines, which impedes the business of the stores and shops, as a great deal of business is transacted over the telephone.

Mr. W. J. A. McGregor has left Thamesford to branch out for himself as editor of the Lucknow Sentinel. He has been editor of the Star for two years, and had made many friends, who were sorry to hear of his leaving, but pleased to think he was going to better himself by so doing, and to us of course of study in his new venture. Mr. Brennan, his successor, comes to us of course of study in his new venture.

The Ladies' Association have issued invitations for an oyster supper and ball, to be held in the town hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 1. After the supper an interesting programme will be given, including the presentation of trophies to the fortunate winners. The remainder of the evening may be indulged in by the lovers of dancing, music for which will be furnished by Tony Cortesi's orchestra, of London. A grand time is expected, as this is the first social gathering of the season.

Communion services in connection with St. Andrew's Church were held on Sunday. Preparatory services were held on Friday and Saturday, conducted by the pastor of South Nisouri, with great acceptance. The attendance on Sabbath was small, on account of the very stormy weather. On Monday services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Lindsay, of Kintore, when the rite of baptism was administered to three babies.

A halcyon social in connection with St. John's Church is to take place tomorrow (Wednesday) evening, in the old rectory, where every person will be welcome, and a general good time is expected. Mr. John Bradshaw and Mr. Towle leave this evening for Muskoka to enjoy the shooting season. Mr. Bradshaw is Thamesford's champion in the Rifle Association, and no doubt will come home laden with honors and deer.

John Gordon and Mrs. A. Cawthorpe leave on Saturday to visit Dr. George Gordon, of Brimley, Mich.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 31.
THE LONDON ELECTION PERSECUTION.

It is time the persecution at Toronto was ended. London has been made to appear in the eyes of the country as a most depraved community, a cess-pool of iniquity, whereas no city in Canada, or for that matter, in the world, is a more ideal place to live in, or can show a larger percentage of inhabitants who own their own homes, or a higher average of morality. Its population of 45,000 is in the center of the best part of Canada. Among its business men are some of the leading manufacturers and merchants of the Dominion. Its bar is the second largest in the province, and has furnished many good judges to the superior court bench. Its pulpits are filled by strong men, some of whom are quite the equals of the best to be found in metropolitan churches. Its financial institutions rank with the best. Its educational institutions have brought it credit and renown, notably its medical school, which has established a medical profession not to be found in many cities several times its size. Whoever is responsible for what Scotchmen call "cauld kail" over again, now being served up at the Toronto police court, has done a great wrong to London.

The spirit, and letter, too, of the law provide that no prosecutions for infractions of the election act can take place after the lapse of a year from the date of the election. Contrary to this provision persecutions are instituted at Toronto under the guidance of the Attorney-General's department at Toronto. We cannot help thinking there is truth in the rumor that the Attorney-General is unwell, and unable to give personal attention to the duties of his office. His reputation for fairness stands out in marked contrast with these persecutions, for such they undoubtedly are. All right to prosecute was barred by the act, and that provision of the act should have been as much respected as any other.

It will be the duty of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature to see that the censure is placed where it most belongs. If all the acts of corruption charged were true they sink into insignificance when compared with this abuse of the process of the courts. Of one thing the people of Ontario have been justly proud. There is no country that possesses a purer administration of justice. No government, whether Liberal, Conservative or coalition, ever lost sight of the great importance of a pure judiciary, and an administration of justice above reproach. Yet we find over a month spent in the Toronto police court in proceedings, carried on by the department of the Attorney-General at Toronto, which, prima facie, belong to London. No attempt has been made to establish the jurisdiction of the Toronto court. A deaf ear is turned to every objection made to that effect. The crown should have first established jurisdiction at Toronto, then, if not barred by the statute, have offered their evidence. Some will say this is a technicality, but it is a very grave wrong that men are taken for weeks away from their businesses and subjected to great inconvenience and unavoidable notoriety by being compelled to appear before a court that has no more right to investigate their conduct than the police court of Buffalo or any other American city. The object of those in charge of the prosecution is not the attainment of justice, but its perversion. They desire to use that which should be the means of doing justice only to blacken and cripple political opponents, and give more publicity to scandals than would be afforded if the investigation were held in London. They are not so much concerned about punishing wrong as manufacturing material for future campaign use against the Liberal party. They are the greater offenders because a misuse of the process of the courts is a greater wrong than the purchase of votes. Let the matter be fully ventilated by discussion in the Legislature when the House meets, and let a stop be effectually put to this unmanly political warfare, which is probably the worst instance on record of striking below the belt.

THE LIBERAL VICTORY IN NORTH BRUCE.

The riding of North Bruce returned a Liberal yesterday for the first time since 1873. Its boundaries were altered by the redistribution of 1903, but the Conservative majority was increased in the general election of 1904, when the late Mr. Bland defeated Mr. Campbell by a majority of 107. Mr. Tolmie's majority in yesterday's contest is unexampled. A comparison of the figures with those of the preceding election shows that the gain in the Liberal vote was spread over most of the municipalities of the riding, so that no importance can be attached to the complaint of the Conservative press that that result is due to expectations of large expenditures for "harbor improvements." The townships, at least, had no interest in these public works. Mr. Tolmie's decisive victory is disconcerting to Conservative contemporaries that have been professing to find signs and tokens of a revolt against the Laurier Government. In West Elgin the Liberal candidate made a remarkable run, considering all the local difficulties under which the Liberal party labored. In North Bruce the Conservative forces were led by Mr. Borden in person, and Mr. McLellan had no lack of platform aid. In Queen's and Shelburne today there will be another test of the hypothesis that the star of Laurier is waning. The Conservatives have pitted against Mr. Fielding their ablest man in the Maritime Provinces, Dr. Weldon. Extraordinary efforts are being made to defeat the Minister of Finance and drive him from public life, but Mr. Fielding is a man that Canada cannot afford to lose. His mastery hand is particularly wanted at this juncture, when the revision of the tariff schedules is the work set for the approaching session of Parliament. In his canvass in North Bruce, Mr. McLellan placed the chief emphasis upon his opposition to the indemnity bill, pledging himself to agitate for the restoration of the previous allowances to members of Parliament. In Queen's and Shelburne, Dr. Weldon is playing the same card. There has been no conclusive evidence that the people of Canada regard the increase in the sessional indemnity as unwarranted, but in any event, the responsibility for the measure belongs to both parties. If Mr. Weldon is defeated today probably it will not figure again as a campaign issue.

Mr. Aylesworth proved a bonny campaigner in North Bruce.

The electors of North Bruce were not hoodwinked by scandal-mongering and side issues.

If Mr. Fielding wins today in Queen's and Shelburne it will be a famous victory.

Our local contemporary prints a story of a Lucan dog that can distinguish the Free Press from other newspapers. There is nothing surprising in this. Most dogs have a keen sense of smell.

Some Canadian newspapers are gleefully parading a statement by an English paper that disclosures of political corruption in this country show that there is "rottenness at the root of the constitution." Will somebody explain what this means?

The newspapers are calling attention to the appointment of Dr. Coughlin, of Peterboro a defeated Conservative candidate, as superintendent of the deaf and dumb institute at Belleville. The Whitney Government dismissed the division court clerk at Belleville, Mr. Ashley, because he had been a Liberal candidate before his appointment to office. Dr. Coughlin's preferent emphasizes the gross injustice of the treatment accorded Mr. Ashley and the glaring inconsistency of the Government.

The returns regarding the British tea trade show that the consumers of this beverage in the United Kingdom are most loyal to the British-grown article, as last year 92 per cent of the tea consumed in the United Kingdom was produced on British soil. The proportion contributed to the British tea cup by the various producing countries is interesting: India, 53.14 per cent; Ceylon, 34.6 per cent; China, 2.47 per cent; other countries, 4.94 per cent. British-grown tea is also making progress in Europe, while the consumption of other tea, especially China, is declining. The Canadians, like the people of the old land, now very largely consume tea grown in India and Ceylon, and use very little Chinese tea; but last year the Dominion imported nearly 7,000,000 pounds of Japanese green tea in a total consumption of about 30,000,000 pounds.

A MARRIAGE LOTTERY.

[Vancouver Province.]
Bachelors and men of all kinds and conditions all over Europe are inundating the mail with registered letters and money orders demanding tickets for the new marriage lottery, second of its kind, soon to be started in Milan. A committee of artists, men and women, are now engaged in selecting the victims—namely thirty unmarried women of good reputations, faultless figures and beautiful faces, says a cable despatch. These will form the prizes, together with dots to be granted by the lottery company. The largest dot of $200,000 will be attached to the most looking among the thirty girls selected; lesser dots, from $100,000 to $5,000, will go with the other twenty-nine damsels. Anybody and everybody has a chance to win—money at least. If the winner happens to be a married person, or a female, or an unreasonable being who refuses to marry the beauty selected for him by the committee—why, he may say so and divide the money—consideration—among the girls. The girls, on their part, have to sign papers agreeing not to sue the man who refuse them for breach of promise.

CAESAR'S REFORMED TIME.

Caesar had just revised the calendar. "I was trying to fix it so we would get steam when it was cold," he explained. Failing in this he sought the heat of battle.

REJECTED CONTRIBUTION.

[Muskogee.]
Editor's Servant Maid (announcing the advent of a baby to the father)—Herr Doctor, just come and see what the stork has brought you.
Editor (without looking up)—Stork? Stork? Oh, I don't want to see it. Throw it into the waste basket.

ONE THING NEEDFUL.

[Montreal Star.]
All that is needed to make the Bank of Montreal's ladies' bank scheme complete is to have a teller who can tell the beautiful depositors if their hats are on straight.

THE ENTOMOLOGICAL CLOWN.

[Daily Graphic.]
The relics of the famous clown Grim-ald, which are to be sold in London during autumn, do not bear any reference to his favorite but little known hobby. With his inimitable talent as a clown this popular favorite combined a passion for entomology, which he was able to practise amid fields and hedgerows which have long since been transformed into bricks and mortar. Indeed his energy and enthusiasm led him even further afield, and in the counties of Surrey and Kent the Camberwell Beauty and other species which have since become increasingly scarce fell victims to his net. Altogether the drawers of his well stocked cabinet contained no fewer than 4,000 specimens. Sadler's Wells, which is associated with some of his earliest triumphs, is still in existence, but Ashley's Amphitheatre has gone. A house bearing the sign of the clown, in honor of its distinguished patron, may still, however, be seen in the neighborhood of the first named theater, and "Joeys" remains he buried in the adjoining church of St. James', Pentonville.

HOW MARRIAGE HELPS.

[Illustrated Bits.]
She—Do you think marriage improves a man?
He—Certainly; all suffering does.

TRACKLESS TROLLEYS IN EUROPE.

[Engineering.]
In districts where the construction of permanent tramways would be out of the question owing to prohibitive initial cost there are in use in Germany and France electric transport systems running on the ordinary roads. These draw their supply of electricity from overhead wires similar to those in use in tramway working. Provision is made for passenger traffic by means of omnibuses run singly or with a trailer, while goods traffic is handled by motor vehicles drawing two or three trailers. The first of such lines was opened in 1901, and since that time quite a number of services have been inaugurated at different districts. The routes are for the most part comparatively short. One of the longest lines is that of the Charbonnières-les-Bains, near Lyons, which is worked with six motor cars of a seating capacity of 38 passengers each. A line is also working between the towns of Neuenahr, Walporthain and Ahweiler. A line is working regularly in connection with an industrial center in the neighborhood of Wurzen, Germany, over which some thirty wagons are taken either way daily.

ONLY A TRIFLE GONE.

[Success.]
The editor of a paper in Western Indiana declares it to be a fact that a "cub" reporter on an Evansville sheet, in describing the murder of a man in an adjacent town, wired his newspaper as follows:
"Murderer evidently in quest of money. Luckily Jones had deposited all his funds in the bank day before, so that he lost nothing but his life."

POETRY.

[London Speaker.]
So long as life stirs our imagination, so long as it is something more to us than grazing to a cow, so long we shall have poetry, for poetry is the overflow of man's energy, the song on his lips as he greets the morning sun.

WHY SAILORS WEAR BLACK TIES.

[London Court Journal.]
It is not generally known that Nelson's death was the origin of the black silk handkerchief which the sailor wears under his broad blue collar, tied in a loose knot in front. The scarf, or handkerchief, was first worn as mourning for the great admiral, and by some means or other it was retained and eventually became a part of the naval man's uniform. The white stripes around the broad blue collar are unintelligible to the average individual, but they have a very significant meaning. The Nile, Copenhagen and Trafalgar.

BECAUSE HE GROWLED.

[Cleveland Press.]
"Here, waiter, this beef is fierce. It isn't fit for a dog to eat."
"Then don't eat it."

Fruit-a-tives

OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

Fruit-a-tives will cure the worst case of Chronic Constipation and Biliousness.

Because Fruit-a-tives are the true liver tonic. They strengthen and invigorate the liver, cause the liver to give enough bile to move the bowels regularly. The bile is nature's laxative.

Fruit-a-tives are the finest Kidney and Bladder Remedy in the world.

Fruit-a-tives reduce inflammation and congestion—relieve the over-supply of blood—enable the kidneys to rid the system of waste and thus prevent the formation of uric acid. Fruit-a-tives take away that pain in the back—and quickly cure irritated bladder.

Fruit-a-tives completely cure Headaches and Rheumatism.

Headaches and Rheumatism both mean poisoned blood. Either the skin, kidneys or bowels are not riding the system of waste matter. Fruit-a-tives invigorate and strengthen these organs—the system of poisons—and purify and enrich the blood. That means away with Headaches and Rheumatism.

Fruit-a-tives are the ideal tonic for everyone.

Fruit-a-tives build up strength invigorate the nerves—enable one to sleep well—and keep the whole system in perfect health. They are fruit juices concentrated and combined with tonics and internal analgesics.

WORK AND STUDY IN ODD HOURS

EDUCATION GAINED ON THE SIDE HAS WON SUCCESS.

Many Advantages of Making the Right Use of Spare Time—Notable Instances Cited.

The average man, when he has worked hard seven, eight, or perhaps ten hours at his regular employment, has little disposition to devote additional time to study or to some other line of effort. He prefers to spend the rest of his day in rest and recreation. This preference may be wise or not, according to the conditions of the particular case, but it is a fact that many men have owed their success largely or chiefly to work they have done "on the side." Numbers, by studying during leisure hours have fitted themselves to rise to eminence in the callings they already were in, and others have by this means been enabled to leave the lines they were in and enter businesses and professions more congenial or profitable. Still others, while continuing in their original avocations, have by energetic and systematic use of spare time added to their incomes and even achieved lasting fame in altogether distinct branches of endeavor.

RIGHT USE OF TIME.

The lesson which the careers of such persons hold for those who are not advancing as fast as they desire to, or who are engaged in work that is not congenial, or who have a taste for some line of effort which they hesitate to enter for fear it will not prove remunerative, would seem to be obvious. There are few employments in this age of short hours of labor which don't leave a good deal of leisure which may be devoted to outside study and work. Methodical utilization of this time might in most cases—and in many instances does—prove the road to culture and the realization of cherished ambitions.

American history is full of examples of men who owed their success largely to the use of time which others would have wasted. Henry Clay got his literary and legal education by studying outside business hours while clerking in a small store and later in the office of the high court of chancery at Richmond. Thomas H. Benton and Stephen A. Douglas studied law while teaching school. The story is familiar of how Lincoln mastered grammar and Euclid by the light of a pine knot and of how he read law after his daily work as country storekeeper and postmaster was done.

CONGRESSMAN WAS BLACK-SMITH.

The case of James A. Tawney, chairman of the house committee on appropriations and one of the leaders of congress, shows it still is possible to become a lawyer and statesman as Clay and Lincoln did. He fitted himself for the bar while laboring at the blacksmith's forge.

Many men have climbed to the top of the business ladder in much the same way. It was Mr. Carnegie's constant study while as a boy he tended an engine while he was a messenger in a telegraph office, and while he was secretary to Thomas A. Scott, of the Pennsylvania Railway, that enabled him to become the greatest of steel manufacturers and philanthropists. Webster, he is asked how he was able to prepare his great reply to Hayne in so short a time, answered that he had prepared it years before when he was a young lawyer without clients back in New Hampshire. He equipped himself to be the "exponent" of the constitution by getting a firm grasp of its principles when he had nothing else to do. The secret of success is to be ready to seize opportunity when it comes. As J. G. Holland said: "Work seeks the best hands as naturally as water runs down hill."

CHARLES LAMB A CLERK.

It often is a practical impossibility for a man to leave the business or profession he is in and follow his bent into some other line. Perhaps his obligations to others require him to stay where he is. Many persons similarly situated have defied the untoward circumstances and realized their ambitions by careful employment of their leisure. Probably most persons imagine that Charles Lamb, most delightful of English essayists, devoted his life to literature. As a matter of fact, most of his best work was done during the thirty-five years he was a clerk in the office of the East India Company. The great philosopher, John Stuart Mill, likewise was for thirty-five years a clerk in the East India Company's offices, his two longest and most important works, "Political Economy," and "Logic," besides most of his essays, being written in his spare time during this period.

STEDMAN, THE POET, A BANKER.

Burns wrote his immortal poems while following the plow and tending cattle. The American poet and critic, Edmund Clarence Stedman, is a New York banker and a familiar figure in Wall street. Charles L. Pidgeon, the American novelist, is the capable secretary of the Massachusetts bureau of labor statistics. Edward Noyes Westcott, who won fame in a day by his novel, "David Harum," was a banker at Syracuse, N. Y. His untimely death just before his book attained its almost unprecedented popularity is the saddest event in American literary history. Among teachers who are also authors are Myra Kelly, Stanley Hall, and Brander Matthews. F. Hopkinson Smith, novelist and painter, is by profession an architect. Another painter-author is Kenyon Cox.

MINING INDUSTRY
IN THE WESTBig Operator Discusses the Possibilities and Limitations of the Lease System.

The following article appeared in the Canadian, of Nelson, B. C., September 11:

With the general renewal of the mining industry throughout the west, especially in British Columbia, the interest is again being centered in the one district that seems to feel the stimulus of all the activity.

The Silvery Slocan was at one time the hope of Kootenay, but for the last few years it has been a scene of depression, disturbed on rare occasions by reports of rich strikes, only to subside again.

The Slocan district is known to contain many, at least hundreds, of rich properties. They are well known to engineers as well as to prospectors. They are neither inaccessible nor difficult to operate. They are not idle for want of capital. On the contrary capital has been spent on many and there have been adequate returns.

Evidently the system on which they have been worked must be defective, and if the country is to revive a new system must be followed.

A new system has already been introduced—the leasing system—from which much is hoped by those who have watched it in operation.

S. S. Fowler, of Nelson, has so far been one of the most successful operators on the leasing system, and his views on the possibilities and limitations of the system should be of considerable value. Asked his views on the subject by a representative of The Canadian, Mr. Fowler said:

"The greatest and also the most obvious advantage of the leasing system is the great saving of expenditure. The mining operations of a big company necessarily involve an office staff of their salaried men, accountants, clerks, manager and engineers. Where the authority of the manager is limited it also involves frequently costly delays in obtaining consent and approval for projected operations.

"The system has been in vogue for some years in Colorado and has been successful there. The returns of printed contracts show that the lessees pay much higher royalty in Colorado than has so far been paid in British Columbia. There the companies usually pay a certain amount of development work, sink a shaft and equip it, and start drifts. Then they lease parts of the drifts, making it a condition of the lease that the lessee shall do a certain amount of development work before he begins to stope ore.

"As to the royalties paid, the figures have applied to two years ago, but I think there has been no material change since. The royalty is on a sliding scale, from 10 per cent on the gross returns in the case of $25 ore to 70 per cent on $200 ore, with the average of 45 per cent on $100 ore. In British Columbia the rate is usually only 25 per cent on $100 ore and calculated on the smelter returns.

"The first leases in British Columbia were generally taken on developed mines by former employees, who knew the location of small ore bodies and got leases merely to take them out, paying a small percentage of the returns. Such leases were usually, though not always, working mines.

"That condition, however, is rapidly passing. It had many defects. Such leases seldom had any capital. They had to work on credit, with a merchant sharing the risk, and they did no development work. The mine owners derived no benefit.

"The new condition is creating a class of lessees with small capital and usually with enough mining and business experience to satisfy the owners that the work undertaken will be well done.

"A recent contribution to the subject has advocated the formation of small syndicates, of 25 miners, each contributing $10 a month for development. Well, $250 a month will not go far to develop a mine.

"Few working miners have enough capital to really accomplish anything worth while. The lessees of the future will be men who can afford a few thousand dollars. They may then sublease special parts of the properties.

"It has been found that employees of a lessee do better work than men working for a big company. There is a definite object in view. They know that unless the work is successful it will stop and their occupation will be gone. In many cases, of course, where they are sub-lessees, they have a direct financial interest in the success of the work.

"Now, of course, the system cannot be followed with success in all fields. A big low-grade property—in which operation on a very large scale is necessary for profits, can only be handled by a company or individual with large capital. Even a high-grade property requiring big and costly development work, such as the long tunnel of the Ramble-Cariboo, will never, I think, be done by lessees.

But it seems to me that the Slocan is peculiarly fitted now for successful application of the leasing system. There are many small high-grade properties already opened up, with ore bodies definitely located if not actually in sight, and many of them are equipped with mills, or are near to concentrating plants of some kind. Such properties will probably never be able to pay expenses of company operation with its costly incidentals, and pay interest on investment too, but they may give excellent returns to working lessees. If it is granted that a company manager and a working lessee are equal in efficiency, the latter has an immense advantage in economy.

"With the close supervision that is only possible with a small force, many other economies besides the saving of superfluous salaries may be effected. It is possible to see that all ore taken to the mill is clean ore, and there is every incentive to do so, as the returns depend entirely upon what is mined.

"One difficulty in the way at present is the scarcity of miners. The general prosperity of the west on both sides of the line has created a big demand for labor, and good miners are hard to get even at the highest wages.

"So far mining lessees in British Columbia have enjoyed very favorable terms. They have paid a low royalty as compared with that paid in other districts, and little in the way of development work has been required of them. There are no indications of any increase in the royalties, but the mine owners are now becoming keener as to the financial ability of the lessees to fulfill their contract, and do work that will benefit the property as well as the small royalty, which amounts to little more, in some cases, than interest on capital already expended.

"With its limitations clearly understood and the need of economy and efficiency thoroughly appreciated, there is a splendid field in the Slocan for mining on the leasing system."

THE RHODES SCHOLARS

How the Great Trust is Being Successfully Worked Out.

Washington, Oct. 30.—In his will the late Cecil Rhodes—the empire builder of South Africa—created a trust for the perpetual support at Oxford University, with an annuity of $1,500 a year, of two students from each of the United States and the British colonies. The object of this provision was to bring the English-speaking peoples into closer intimacy and racial sympathy. In his own words, "the union of the English-speaking peoples throughout the world" is essential to their welfare; and in making this notable endowment he hoped and desired "to encourage in the students from the United States of North America—who will benefit from the American scholarships to be established for the reason given at the University of Oxford, under this, my will—an attachment to the country from which they have sprung, without withdrawing them or their sympathies from the land of their adoption or birth."

The Rhodes trust maintains headquarters at Oxford under the direction of F. J. Wylie, 9 South Parks road. He has supervision of the students, arranges for their admission, looks after their interests and is their adviser, counselor and friend. Mrs. Wylie, a beautiful American woman, daughter of Edmund Kelly, the well-known American lawyer in Paris, opens her home to them, encourages their enthusiasm, consoles them in their anxieties and disappointments, and gives them a cup of good tea and a slice of cake when they call.

Mr. Louis Dyer, an American scholar residing in Oxford, although he has no official connection with the Rhodes trust, takes a deep interest in the American students and is their next friend. He wants to have them called "Rhodians," because he thinks that is a dignified title, but the students call them "Roadsters," for most of the local slang words of the undergraduates end in "er." For example, they call breakfast "brecker"; they call a freshman member of a college crew a "tigger"; they call a student who does nothing but study a "slacker." In our colleges such men are called "pokers" or "digs," or "grinds." The Rugby game of football is called "Rugger"; the common game "football" and the association game "soccer."

The Bampton lectures of the university are delivered at frequent intervals by the most eminent theologians, statesmen and scientists. They are very heavy and learned, and the reluctant students are required to attend them. They call this part of their college tasks "doing a Bampton."

For these and other reasons I am inclined to think that the word "Roadster" will stick.

The Rhodes students were received with great cordiality and were rather over-entertained during the first term or two, but after they came to be a novelty they settled down to hard work, like the rest of the undergraduates, and have already made themselves felt in scholarship, in athletics and in society. There was a certain amount of friction at first, but the boys soon experienced a subtle change which brought them into fellowship with their fellow-students and rapidly took on the Oxford airs and adopted the Oxford ways. On the first Thanksgiving day after their arrival in 1904, when they were only a few weeks at the university, there was a dinner of turkey, cranberry sauce and mince pie which was organized and managed by Professor Dyer. Last year, however, the boys managed it themselves. Dr. Oster presided, but they made all the speeches.

THE DUKE GETS
$100,000 A YEARNew York World Correspondent
Cables That Marlboroughs
Have Parted.

London, Oct. 30.—The New York World correspondent cables today as follows: The separation of the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, news of which was cabled exclusively last week has now become public property and is openly discussed in Mayfair. The Onlooker declares that it constitutes the greatest society sensation in years.

King Edward used the utmost personal effort to bring about a reconciliation. Even an apparent reconciliation would have satisfied the King, but the duchess displayed what His Majesty termed "incredible obstinacy." The duchess's own friends, however, defend her attitude, declaring that she merely displayed proper determination in asserting herself. The failure of the King as domestic mediator was not due wholly to the duchess, as there was nothing more substantial than a colorable desire on the part of the duke for another patching up of their difficulties.

For the sake of appearances, however, the duke was prepared to sanction the terms, which were actually submitted to the duchess through the King, but they were decisively and summarily rejected.

The air of London drawing-rooms is now thick with stories affecting both parties. The duke's friends in society represent him as a much-wronged man. The truth, however, appears to be that he developed the same antipathy to his wife that his father did to the duke's mother. But whereas the father, aside from his marital relations, was a brilliant, charming man, the present duke is described by one who knows him well as "merely a pompous, discontented, ill-conditioned little jackanapes."

Acquaintances of the duke and duchess agree that he entirely neglected her. Each would claim her own way, and though she seemingly bore her position with equanimity, it is no secret that she was in fact a very miserable woman.

The duchess made a brave fight to hide her tears from the world. She had her own chosen society, being ambitious to belong to what is recognized as the intellectual smart set.

Though incompatibility was the original cause of their drifting apart, it was not, according to reports now freely discussed, the reason for the definite rupture.

It is declared that it is now more than a year since the duke's infatuation for a very beautiful society woman led to strong protests from the duchess, who at that time demanded a separation. One of her brothers, who came specially from America to intervene, succeeded in persuading her to refrain from carrying out her purpose.

Since then, in her absence abroad, it is said a theatrical party was given in Blenheim Palace by the duke, which set the whole countryside talking. Following this scandal the duchess again threatened proceedings for divorce.

Even this trouble was eventually smoothed over, but the couple, naturally growing more and more detached, were rarely seen together, and even abandoned all joint entertaining at Blenheim.

The quarrel, which culminated in the separation, arose from another incident of the same kind, which the duchess resolutely refused to condone.

The whole influence, not only of royalty, but of the Marlborough family, with whom the duchess has always been on the best of terms, was brought to bear, but without effect.

The arrangement for a separation without resort to the courts has now been drawn up, signed, sealed and delivered. The duchess under it has settled $100,000 a year on the duke.

In addition to this the duke has an income of $50,000 a year of his own, clear of all incumbrances.

The duchess retains possession of the two children, the Marquis of Blandford and Lord Ivor Spencer-Churchill, who are nine and eight years old respectively.

The duke, of course, retains Blenheim, the historic family home of the Churchills, while for a time at least the duchess will keep their town house—Sunderland House—as her home.

INDIANS INDEPENDENT

Those in British Columbia Need No
Government Assistance.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 31.—Rev. Thomas Crosby, the oldest home missionary of the Methodist Church, is in the city, after 44 years' work among the Indians of British Columbia. "It was in 1862 that I first entered British Columbia," said Crosby, "since that time I have traversed the Indian country many times and had personal acquaintance with hundreds of natives for many years. I was for twelve years among the Flatheads of the south, and then removed to the north and began work among the Tsimshians, making my headquarters in Port Simpson, the new terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific. The Tsimshians were not the only tribe in the vicinity, there being four or five other tribes in the surrounding country.

"All the Indians of the country are doing well at the present time, those of the north being the most industrious and prosperous. The Indians of the south are chiefly engaged in farming. Those of the Fraser River region are engaged in fishing, and those of the north in lumbering and in the canneries. You would be surprised to see the homes which some of the Indians of the province have built for themselves in these recent years. They would be a credit to any white village, being substantially built of sawn lumber and fitted up with all the conveniences of the modern house. These Indians are wholly self-sustaining, receiving no aid from the Government."

LITERARY NOTES.

MISREPRESENTATIVE WOMEN.

A clever little book with noteworthy illustrations comes from the pen of Harry Graham, entitled, "Misrepresentative Women." It is a good-natured satire written in excellent verse on some prominent women and institutions. An ode to Miss Marie Corelli is peculiarly apt. He asks:

"Mere ordinary mortals ask,
With no desire for picking quarrels,
Who gave her the congenial task
Of judging other people's morals?
Who made her flay her fellow-men?
With such a frankly feline pen?
Were she to mingle with her ink
A little milk of human kindness."

The humor in the verse of this book is undeniable. It is subtle and refined and often irresistibly funny. There is an originality in the conception of the theme, that makes it unusually refreshing. Dan Sayre Groesbeck has illustrated the book, and has caught the spirit of the text. It is a volume that many will enjoy. It makes an admirable gift book.

QUERIES ANSWERED

A. C.—A has been for years a county constable and never was dismissed, or withdrawn. He some time ago got a commission as justice of the peace. Can he retain both positions, providing he does not act as his own constable? ANS.—There is no law against it, but custom makes it infra dig for a J. P. to act as constable.

CUTTERS—Two young men desired to purchase a cutter each. They saw two at a dealer's shop, the price being $30 cash. Doubtless they both intended to purchase at that price, but one of them, by way of dicker to the salesman, said: "I want a child's seat in the front of the one I take. If you will put it in for me, we will take the two cutters at $30. The salesman agreed to do so; the seat was put in, and the cutters were paid for in a lump sum. Now as between those two men—both in law and equity—how shall the cost of the cutters be divided? One did the dicker and got the child's seat, worth $2; the other just took the cutter. Now, would $29 and $31 look to you as about right? ANS.—If the one who got the cutter only has paid $30 of the $60 it is now too late for him to claim part of the advantage gained by the other obtaining the child's seat. Nevertheless, the $60 was paid by the latter, the former may properly claim a share of the benefit derived from the dicker and $29 and $31 would be the right proportions.

UTES DEFY U. S. TROOPS

Declare They Will Not Return to Reservation to Starve.

Sheridan, Wyo., Oct. 30.—"We are going to visit Chief White Cow Bull, of the Cheyennes, at his camp and will not be taken back to Utah to starve. We would rather die first," is the substance of the answer of Chief Kannah to the soldiers.

The latest report from the front locates the main Ute band in the vicinity of Marysville, and rapidly toward the Cheyenne reservation.

Two more troop trains are reported out of Fort Robinson following the first train unloaded at Aravada this morning.

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER
THE ALL-
IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for many years under her direction, and since her decease, she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this great source of assistance.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me."

Our Great Annual
Mill End Sale
STARTS TOMORROW, THURSDAY

A Great Mill End Sale is an annual event with this store. It's the time of times to buy underwear, linens, flannelettes, etc. It's the time when your money does wondrous buying—when there's a mighty harvest of savings provided for the thrifty shoppers of London. Thursday we commence this year's Mill End Sale—the greatest in quantity of bargains, greatest in liberality of bargains, greatest sale we've ever attempted.

10,000 Garments in This Sale

That's a large quantity, isn't it? And every garment is an extraordinary bargain. So many bargains haven't been offered to the people of London since dear knows when—perhaps never before.

These garments come in both VESTS AND DRAWERS. Practically every size that's made is included in the immense collection. But the garments are all for ladies and children—no men's underwear in the lot. These garments were all manufactured in the up-to-date plant of the Puritan Mills.

Bound to be well made, carefully fashioned—faultlessly stitched and finished. They are perfectly sanitary. Absolute cleanliness is observed throughout every process of the manufacture. It would be hard to excel in any way the underwear turned out in this large, bright, airy factory.

Of course, such a quantity couldn't be sold all in one day. Possibly the sale will last ten days. There will be new stuff arriving every day from the mill—so if you come every day you'll always strike fresh bargains.

Ladies' Underwear

Odds and Ends of almost every line manufactured by the Puritan Mills. Vests and Drawers. All-wool and union. White, red and gray. Just an idea of the bargains.

Children's Underwear

These garments were not unpacked in time to get details for this ad. We might say, however, that they will be marked at manufacturer's prices or less.

Mill End Flannelettes

Just as cheap as at last year's great sale. That's a triumph for us, because market prices are much higher than last season, you know. Pinks, reds and whites. Various lengths.

Mill Ends of Table Linens

Lengths from ½ yard to 2½ yards. Amazingly low prices.

100 DOZEN LINEN NAPKINS. All perfect goods. Odd lines. Some marvelous bargains. Worth from $2.50 up to $6.00 dozen. Mill End Sale Prices. $1.25 to $3.50

MANUFACTURERS' PERFECT SHORT LENGTHS OF LINENS. Also other lines with a few selvedge faults. Going to sell them at manufacturers' prices—and in some cases less.

For your easy and quick selection the goods will be placed on counters with a ticket on each pile showing the sizes (or lengths) and prices of goods in each assortment. Come early Thursday, and as often as you feel inclined to during the next ten days. Every time you come you'll find wonderful opportunities to save money.

Trifles Make Perfection
But
Perfection Is No Trifle.

It is by the most careful attention to every trifling detail in the milling of "FIVE ROSES" FLOUR that we have been able to bring this brand up to its present state of perfection, and are able to maintain it.

Every single bushel of grain which enters our mills, every single bag and barrel of flour which leaves them is tested and retested at every stage of the milling in order to insure the absolute purity and uniformity for which "FIVE ROSES" FLOUR is noted the world over.

This attention to trifles is costly, but it enables us to maintain a reputation for perfection, which is no trifle, and users of "FIVE ROSES" can rely upon getting the "flour of perfect quality" for all household use.

Ask your grocer for it.

BRITISH EXPERT ON NEW SPELLING

Dr. Henry Bradley, the English Philologist, Advises American Reformers.

Oxford, Oct. 30.—Dr. Henry Bradley, the eminent philologist, who is associated with Dr. Murray in the editorship of the New Oxford Dictionary, spoke more gently than Professor Joseph Wright about the slight which he and his associates have suffered from the American board on simplified spelling for Dr. Bradley is a mild-mannered man. He said:

"Dr. Scott invited me to become a member of the simplified spelling board, and I accepted the invitation. He afterwards notified me that I had been elected. I wrote an acknowledgment of the honor that had been conferred upon me, and added that I was glad to see that the American scholars had taken up the matter, because spelling reform was necessary and must come sooner or later. I suggested that perhaps we in England, having once made an attempt in that direction, had a stronger sense of the difficulties involved and I hoped that the American committee would be more successful in overcoming them. I took the liberty to suggest that they must not disregard the main difficulty, which is based upon the fact that spoken language is the real language only in the elementary stages of civilization, when men speak more than they read. But when civilization progresses to a point where men print more than they speak, and read more than they hear, it is very different. In the one case it is natural for people to spell words phonetically; that is, by their sound. In reading and in printing people are not guided so much by the sound as by the derivation of the word; its original form is preserved in that way.

AN EXCELLENT COAT FOR ALL KINDS OF USE—4066.

The straight hanging box coat is considered the best style for small maidens, inasmuch as it will serve for any purpose, go on over any frock without crushing it, and is simple enough for young wearers. A vast amount of style is expressed in the well-cut box coat, and the one shown is double-breasted—a mode which gives the appearance of vigor and robustness to small wearers. The neck may be closed snugly to the throat with a shield, having a low standing collar, or it may be worn without this accessory as well as the rolling collar. The cuffs are of the smart turnback variety which appear grotesquely fetching about small hands. The buttons may match the trimming of collar and cuffs or the material of the coat itself. For the medium size 2 yards of 54-inch goods are needed.

the experiment of your simplified spelling board," continued Dr. Bradley, "hoping that it may ultimately solve the problem for which the philologists of this kingdom have thus far found no solution. Our hope is based chiefly upon the expectation that your committee will introduce phonetic spelling into your public schools your newspapers and printing offices. That, however, is but part only of the experiment. I told Professor Scott all this and asked him if he would accept one who is weak in the faith as a member of the board. He replied that the movement was purely experimental and therefore they would accept me on my own terms. There the matter stands. I have not heard from him since. I have not seen a list of the new words. I was not consulted about them, and therefore I cannot say whether I approve of the changes or not. I can only hope that the American committee will be more successful than we have been over here. I understand that Dr. Murray goes no further in the matter than myself. We are in no way responsible for the list which your President has commanded your Government printers to use. We encourage experimental and therefore the movement. We look upon it with interest but are not prepared to join it. We hope that it may be successful, but for important reasons must remain passive."

"Will you recommend the British Government to accept the recommendations of President Roosevelt?"

"I would not like to recommend the British Government to accept any such audacious and radical departure from the conventional spelling as the newspapers report President Roosevelt to have made. We have to go very cautiously over here because of the conservatism of our people. The written word is the real thing; the spoken word is the symbol. Pronunciation differs in different countries, even in different parts of the same country and our English literature is filled with words of classical derivation which cannot be lightly dispensed with or carelessly altered."

"Are you making any changes in spelling in the new dictionary?"

"No. We take words as they stand in current literature. That is the form of spelling accepted by the people, although it may not be as it ought to be. The English language is a very bad language in many respects. It is full of incongruities and absurdities. You are doubtless familiar with the humorous doggerels that are occasionally in the newspapers and magazines to illustrate the eccentricities of our spelling and pronunciation. Such words, for example, as 'through,' 'dough,' 'thought,' and others containing the same letters. These defects can be easily corrected, and it would doubtless be better to abandon some words which are not susceptible to correction, as for example:

knighly, nightly.
rights, rites.
read, red.
lead, led.

"The verb 'to lie' and the noun 'lie' come to my mind for the instant, as showing urgent need for reform, and many other words which are spelled exactly alike, have very different meanings. The English language would do very well without them, but the first step is to create and organize some competent authority to decide on behalf of the English-speaking people which words shall be eliminated from the language and how those that are retained shall be spelled. We must not forget that language is made by the common people, more than by the scholars; by people who talk, more than by people who write, and especially by people who never think of looking in the dictionary. New words are being added to the English language very rapidly, and most of them are being coined by the masses to express their thoughts in ordinary conversation rather than by the scholars, who coin comparatively few words. Perhaps this is due to the higher degree of respect which they regard language and literature. Most words are coined by thoughtless men that by thoughtless men, and new words are adopted very readily by the masses if they happen to appeal to the popular fancy.—Chicago Record Herald.

TO IMPROVE THE RACE

Dr. Hays, of the Agricultural Department, Takes Up a Difficult Task.

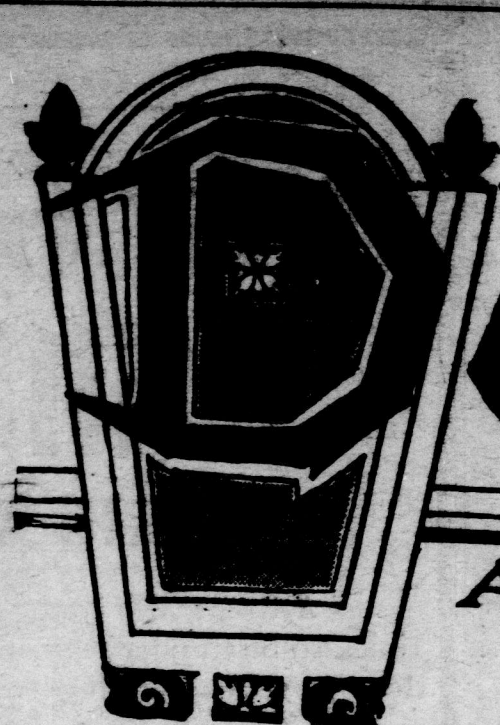

Washington, Oct. 30.—Willett M. Hays, assistant secretary of agriculture, has deserted the peaceful study of scientific farming and taken up the hereditary in its application to the human race. He has appointed a committee of eminent scientists and educators, who are to make an investigation of heredity in its application to the human species and make a report at the next meeting of the American Breeders' Association, of which Mr. Hays was the organizer. For many years, while he was the head of the Minnesota experiment station, Dr. Hays worked with plants and animals and gave his hereditary ideas full play. He now wants to apply his scientific deductions to human beings.

The committee will take up and devise means of recording the values of the blood of the different races. They will make an attempt to have the common people understand the value of superior blood and the danger to society of inferior blood. They will also suggest for improving the heredity of the family, the people and the race.

The committee's work will be entirely practical. They will suggest methods by which the laws of heredity can be applied to men, so that disease, vice and crime may be prevented. For instance, they will take up such concrete questions as whether two blind persons should be allowed to marry. If the investigations prove that their marriage would cause the transmission of their defect to their children, the committee will suggest some method to prevent such unions.

MCGILL'S DEFENSE

Ontario Bank Investigation May Establish a New Precedent.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—The officials designated by the Bankers' Association and the authorities charged with the duty are busy this week preparing the case against the two bank officials, Mr. McGill and Mr. Cockburn, who appear on Friday formally and on Monday for the real hearing in the police court.

The officials have come to the conclusion that while there may not be material to base a case against any one of them for collusion, there was knowledge on the part of a number of employees of the Ontario Bank with regard to the contents of the statement sent to the Government.

In this connection it is stated, a book kept by the bank, called a preliminary Government statement book, will figure largely as evidence in the prosecution. Some of the leading shareholders of the Ontario Bank in this city are arranging a meeting this week to discuss the bank situation and to decide either with or without legal advice, if there is anything for them to do.

E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., the counsel who was retained to defend Mr. McGill, said today that he had not yet secured all of the material necessary for the defense. He did not think, however, that the case would take up much of the time of the lower courts.

"The facts may be easily ascertained," said Mr. Johnston, "but the legal aspect may not be so easily settled."

"That means that the question will arise as to what legal bounds there are upon a general manager?" the counsel was asked.

"It means that the case may decide how much was left to the manager's discretion," returned Mr. Johnston.

It is understood that the defense will be offered that everything Mr. McGill did was for the purposes of the bank, and that a general manager's position is one which practically gives a free hand.

This point will alone make the trial the most interesting event from a financial point of view.

ST. PETERSBURG QUIET

No Disturbance on Anniversary of Constitution Manifested.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 30.—The first anniversary of the proclamation of the manifesto giving a constitution to Russia passed in undisturbed quiet. Disorder and bloodshed fortunately were avoided. Workmen complied absolutely with orders and abstained from any demonstration. The Putiloff iron works' employees worked as usual, in obedience to orders from labor headquarters. These works are the heart of the labor movement.

Disquieting signs were observed near the works last week, and today an adequate force of men was stationed nearby to cope with any emergency.

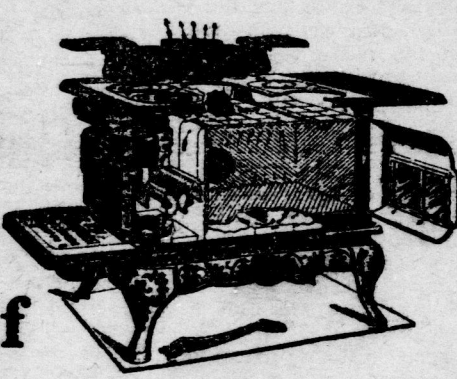

The men of a score of smaller factories had the day off, but work was performed in a majority of the shops. Several bands of "Black Hundreds," armed with staves, paraded in a remote street, but there were no collisions with them, nor have there been any conflicts between the workmen and the police.

Don't blame people for having silly thoughts; anything is better than a vacuum.

After Ten Years.

Mr. G. L. Stephenson, of Peterboro, says: "For over ten years I suffered constantly with Piles, first itching, then bleeding; pain almost unbearable; life a burden. Tried everything in vain till I used Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid.

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

Without the football teams, both Soccer and Rugby, sports in this vicinity would have been as dead as the proverbial door-nail. And yet many people are knocking the game.

Raymond, the game Barracks boy, is still laid up, as a result of the bumps he received in Saturday's game with the Tiger Cubs.

Bill Rodenbach, the greatest boxer that ever donned the padded mitts in the amateur ranks, is about to enter the squared circle again, and go out after the "mezzumani." Rodenbach won the middle-weight championship of A. A. U. in Boston and was never defeated at the weight. In the amateur goes in Pittsburgh held several years ago, "Rody" whipped a man who weighed about 230 pounds, and after running up three more big fellows in the same night, won the amateur heavy-weight championship. Big Sam Berger, who meets Al Kaufman tonight out on the Pacific coast, felt the sting of Rodenbach's mitts not very long ago, when Bill earned a decision against him in twenty rounds at Frisco. Berger had a shade on O'Brien, and was in turn trimmed by "Rody," who fights at 156-158 pounds.

Says the Toronto News: Montreal's victory on Saturday put the Rough Riders out of the running and placed the championship within easy reach. If they win one of their two remaining games, two of which will be played in Montreal, Montreal taking next Saturday's game from St. Patrick's, the result is determined. St. Patrick's beat the red and black in the opening game of the season, but the form shown since then indicates that the Irishmen have little chance to repeat.

Billy Amos, the local runner, who finished fourth in the Toronto Marathon race, has only completed in four long-distance races of any note, and this year is practically his first in the game. There were 74 entries in the Toronto race, and of these 68 started and 48 finished. Amos and Longboat, the winner of the event, raced step for step during the first six miles, and for a brief period at the outset the local boy led the redskin. Cummings, of the Toronto Y. M. C. A., set the pace for twelve miles of the fifteen, but did not finish in the first section.

Amos finished first in the London rugby race for a cup put up for competition by The Advertiser; fifth place in the Hamilton road race, held recently; first place in the Canadian Club race, held in this city Thanksgiving Day, and fourth place in the Ward Marathon. The local boy ran the latter race without having the assistance of a trainer, and while the other runners were being liberally besprinkled with oil, witch hazel and other liquids to freshen up their tired limbs during the run, Amos had to plod along in the ankle-deep mud with no stimulants at all to help him along. The cold, raw wind which blew in from the lake numbed the runner's legs so that he almost lost all sense of feeling in them. He knew his feet were speeding along at a good gait, but after a few miles he could not feel any other sensation in his lower limbs.

Cora Price, a 50 to 1 shot, won the sixth race at Jamaica yesterday. In all probability there was not a dollar down on the nag. It was ever thus in the turf game. The public scrambles madly to the bookies' stands to play a favorite, oftentimes a false one at that, while a long shot is discarded as an impossibility.

The McClary and the Collegiate Institute soccer teams were down for a game of football yesterday, but the "Colls" failed to show up, and the "Macs" claimed the game by default.

The Forest City team hopes to trim Dundas a week from Saturday at Valley Town. With Raymond in the line-up and with last Saturday's team intact it looks good for a realization of their hopes.

Frank Erne, the Buffalo pugilist, who held the lightweight crown for several years, is coming back for more glory—and bumps. Erne was one of the cleverest boys in the ring at one time, but several successive defeats took the heart out of him and he was a mark for "Jeems" Britt in his last big battle. Britt won in seven rounds at Frisco, Nov. 26, 1922. Erne fought one battle after that with Warren Zurbick, a third-rater of Buffalo, and won in ten rounds on a foul.

The local team will probably line up against Petrolia next Saturday at Tecumseh Park. A good game should be the result, and the event will no doubt be largely attended.

DISASTROUS FOR MANY PLUNGERS

Past Season Has Seen Several Drop Big Piles—Drake Among Them.

New York, Oct. 30.—The past year on the turf has been disastrous to many plungers. John A. Drake and friends, won a quarter million on Gen. Haley, at Gravesend, June 19, and it is believed Drake lost all he won then, and a great deal in addition. "Chick" O'Brien, who makes a specialty of betting on short horses, lost $30,000; John W. Gates attempted to break "Gad" Daggett, the well-known club house commissioner. They fought a duel throughout the season in the betting ring, and quit about even. George W. Langdon won $54,000 in one day, at Sheepshead Bay, and afterwards lost heavily on his filly Flip Flap. "Davy" Johnson was a big winner on the season, but lost $35,000 on Keaton, at Jamaica. George Wheelock is reported a $40,000 loser. So is "Packer" Ryan, of Chicago. "Johnny" Lyons, of San Francisco, left here several weeks ago a heavy loser, although he won big money at times.

RULED OUT OF THE TURF.
New York, Oct. 30.—At a meeting of the stewards of the Jockey Club here yesterday, R. L. Rogers, John Wilson and the horse Garish were ruled out of the turf. The following licenses were granted:
Trainers—Joseph L. Gladish, Ernest Utterback.
Jockeys—Richard Head, Charles R. Brady, Wm. P. Holmes.

Applications for licenses by the following were tabled:
Trainers—Thomas Miles, John Burrows.
Jockeys—Joseph A. Hogg, Ben Davis, William Vanderbout.

DOWLING.
LADIES FOR MEMBERS.
Stratford, Oct. 29.—At a meeting of Hamlet ward towniers held last night it was decided to organize a club to be known as the Hamlet Bowling Club, and a meeting will be held next Monday night to perfect the organization. Mr. J. A. Davidson was appointed secretary pro tem. Mr. G. G. McPherson, K. C., has offered the use of the spacious grounds surrounding his residence on Church street, and a grounds committee was appointed to take the matter in charge. One feature of the new organization will be the admittance of ladies as social members of the club upon the payment of a small fee. It is not desired to have the new club conflict with the Stratford club, and the Hamlet ward bowlers hoped that some arrangement would be made whereby they would still be associated with the old club.

HOCKEY.
NEW JUNIOR SERIES.
Kingston, Oct. 30.—The annual meeting of Queen's Hockey Club was held last evening, and these officers elected: Honorary president, Dr. W. T. Connell; president, George T. Richardson; vice-president, Hugh MacDonnell; secretary-treasurer, R. M. Willis. While the championship team of last season will not be together this winter, owing to the absence from college of the majority of the players constituting it, yet there is no scarcity of new material of a promising character. A junior intercollegiate series will likely be formed here, to consist of Queen's III, R. M. C. II, Collegiate Institute and Regiopolls College, the winner to compete with the winner of the Toronto Junior Intercollegiate group for the championship.

O. H. A. ANNUAL.
Toronto, Oct. 30.—The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association will be held in the Temple building, Toronto, on Saturday, Nov. 17, at 10 a.m. Notices of amendments to the constitution of the association on the rules and regulations of the game must be in the hands of the secretary, Mr. W. A. Hewitt, Star office, Toronto, on or before Saturday, Nov. 3. Officers to be elected include a president, first and second vice-presidents, secretary, treasurer, and four members of the executive. Nominations must be in the hands of the secretary on or before Saturday, Nov. 10.

THE RING.
HYLAND AND THOMPSON MATCHED.
San Francisco, Oct. 30.—Dick Hyland and Cyclone Thompson have been matched to meet at Ogden Nov. 16, for twenty rounds, weight 133 pounds. Thompson called the match off at Colma because he was sick.

FOUGHT A DRAW.
Boston, Oct. 30.—Dave Desher, of Cambridge, and Amby McGarry, of New York, faced each other for fifteen rounds at the Lincoln Athletic Club, Chelsea, last night. The bout was declared a draw. Desher had the advantage in the first part of the contest, but appeared tired towards the end, and was unable to land on his opponent.

REAL HARD KNOCK FOR OTTAWA IF THIS SHOULD COME TO PASS

Report That Some of the Star Athletes There Are To Be Professionalized.

An Ottawa dispatch says: It is generally believed here that such prominent athletes as Palford, Alf Smith, Moore, Lefeur, Phillips and Harry Smith will be professionalized, as the outcome of the meeting Saturday night in Montreal, of the Canadian Amateur Union.

Mr. Grierson, of the Civil Service League, asserts he has proof of some of these men having received large sums of money for their playing, and that he hopes to be able to place others under the ban for having competed either with or against these men.

When the Civil Service League was formed, invitations were sent broadcast to all departments; were naturally received by men who have figured on the leading teams in baseball, football, hockey and lacrosse, by which the capital was represented in many hard-fought battles. Later in the year, as the result of the visit of a Montreal man to Ottawa the suspicions of the director of the services league decided to ask those under the cloud to make affidavits that would be broad enough to prove them Simon pure.

When the men in most cases refused to take the onus of proving their innocence, and as a result they were returned their fees, which were purely nominal. In the lacrosse season the proposal to make professionals out of those who refused to sign affidavits did not matter much on account of the basis on which the game is conducted, but with supposedly amateur football, hockey and the big hockey matches looming up, the matter assumes a more serious aspect to sports in the capital. However, immediate action is expected as the Canadian Amateur Union will probably be slow to take the bull by the horns as its strongest membership is in the M. A. A. A., and that institution is already declared in favor of semi-professionalism.

The Ottawa clubs are strongly in favor of the formation of another association to assume control of all the major games, and allow field sports, etc., to the merces of the C. A. A. U. Mr. Grierson stated that the reason the M. A. A. A. was not suspended Saturday was that at the time this business was reached it had passed the midnight hour, and the suspension would not have been legal.

DRASTIC ACTION PROMISED.
The matter is not to be let drop, he contends, but another meeting will be held, at which he promises drastic measures will be taken. The date is not yet decided, but Mr. Grierson states it will be called as soon as circumstances permits of the directors all being present.

In the meantime the locals avow that there is no reason to worry, and that they are certain to be on the right side when the clouds drift by.

DEMANDED THE COIN.

Another wire says: By the action of the Civil Service Amateur Athletic Association, which recently excluded from its membership all those who were known to receive pay for their services, and forced the matter upon the attention of the C. A. A. U., several well-known Ottawa athletes will lose their amateur status.

It has been an open secret for years that some of them have demanded big money for their services, and have frequently refused to turn out until they received the coin in their hands.

The best known of those who will be professionalized as the result of an inquiry which has been set a foot: Harvey Palford, Frank McGee, Alf Smith, Arthur Moore and H. West. However, immediate action is expected.

ABE ATTELL DEFENDS TITLE.

Retains Championship in 20-Round Go With Baker at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 31.—Abe Attell, of San Francisco, who won the featherweight championship of the world, defended the title last night, and he made up his mind to try his hand at the game again. He has been thinking the matter over for a long time, and he made up his mind to try his hand at the game again. He has been thinking the matter over for a long time, and he made up his mind to try his hand at the game again.

BASEBALL.
NEW OUTLAW LEAGUE.
Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 30.—It was announced today on good authority that a new "outlaw" baseball league, to be composed of Tacoma, Spokane, and Seattle, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; Butte, Mont., and Salt Lake City, Utah, will be formed not later than Christmas.

This probably means the disruption of the Pacific Coast League, as it will bring about the withdrawal from the organization of Portland and Seattle, two of its best towns. Lucas, a former influential factor in Pacific coast baseball, is spoken of as the head of the new league.

The proposed league will not embrace the National agreement, preferring to get even in the future for some fancied wrongs. Seattle and Portland are desirous of withdrawing from the Pacific Coast League owing to the long jumpy necessary, and the loss of many days making these trips.

ED WALSH BADLY INJURED.
Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 30.—In the first inning of a baseball game here today Ed Walsh, the star spit-ball pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, was so badly injured that he had to retire.

Walsh stopped a hot liner from the bat of Buck Freeman, of the Boston team, and it split his pitching hand between the first finger and the thumb so badly that he will not be able to use the hand for some time.

MUST REFUND THE CASH.
Cincinnati, Oct. 31.—In a decision handed down by the National Baseball Commission here yesterday players Elliott and Neal, formerly from the New York Nationals, under contract to the Louisville American Association team, will be ineligible to play until each pays $100 alleged to be due the New York club in advanced salary.

THE TURF.
ONLY ONE FAVORITE WON.
Cincinnati, Oct. 30.—Lexoline was the only winning favorite at Latonia today. Ethel Day won the third event at four furlongs, the attraction of the card, in a drive, by half a length, from Meadow Breeze. The heavily favored favorite, Stoner Hill, an outsider, took third place. Aubuchon rode four of the six winners.

ERNE TO ENTER THE RING AGAIN.

Ex-Champion, After 3 Years' Lay-Up, Will Once More Don the Gloves.

New York, Oct. 30.—Frank Erne, ex-champion of the light-weights, is to try his hand at the game again. He has been thinking the matter over for a long time, and he made up his mind to try his hand at the game again. He has been thinking the matter over for a long time, and he made up his mind to try his hand at the game again.

He defeated in ten rounds, a few years ago, when he was in his prime, he had a hard road to travel. Never before in the history of boxing was there such a tough class of men in one division as were floating at the light-weight notch, and it is not liable to happen again in a century. To be a leader of the class in those days one had to be a great fighter, and if a "false alarm" happened to blow in from the west, he was taught how to take a joke in a hurry.

To give an idea of what a savage class it was, a perusal of a list of those who were boxing in the light-weight division during the days of the Horton law will show that there were over 30 first-class men. Recalling them from memory we have in addition to Erne, Mike Leonard, Willy Matthews, George McFadden, Young Ruffo, Jack Dwyer, Bobby Dobbs, Jack Bennett, Billy Ernst, Andy Bowen, Jimmy Handler, Frank Gerrard, George Kerwin, Charley McKeever, Otto Siefert, Jerome Quigley, Owen Ziegler and Jack Everhardt. There were many others who were as tough as a pine knot, but who did not have so much reputation. As a feather-weight Erne defeated George Dixon, Jack Skelly, and George Sildons, while his most creditable victories as a light-weight were over George Lavigne, Joe Gans, George McFadden and Del Hawkins. He won and lost the title at Buffalo, taking it from Lavigne in 20 rounds, and losing it to Gans in one.

FOOTBALL.
DROPPED DEAD IN GAME.

Pittsburg, Oct. 30.—Leonard Hammer, aged 15, a student at the south side high school, and captain of the school football team, was killed yesterday afternoon during the progress of a game with the Heights team. The game had been in progress 15 minutes, when young Hammer, who had been playing hard for his side, suddenly pitched forward on his face, and when his companions picked him up he was found to be dead.

PLAYED WITH BROKEN LEG.
Kingston, Oct. 30.—W. Kennedy, captain of the Queen's rugby team, who was injured in Saturday's match with McGill, had his leg examined yesterday by X-ray, which showed that a small bone in it has not knit. There had only been a fibrous union between the fractured pieces. Last summer Kennedy, while boarding a street car in Ottawa, had his leg broken. He has been playing all month with practically a fractured limb. He is now out of the game for the rest of the season, as the doctors demand that he give his leg complete rest. Queen's loses its strongest wing player by his enforced retirement.

BOXER KILLED WHILE HUNTING.

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 30.—Johnny Riche, the well-known featherweight, was killed near here yesterday while out hunting with a party of friends. Riche fought Harry Forbes and others of his class. He once fought Terry McGovern.

VANITY

From time immemorial moralists have railed at the vanity of woman. Here is a woman, and a beautiful one at that, who says that vanity is an imperishable instinct; that vanity, like love, is one of the great forces that makes the world go round; that to be vain is a duty to humanity and an essential of success.

It's an original view; what is your opinion? This defense of an old time sin is set forth in our new magazine—

Talks on Orange Meat
(The Pure Food)

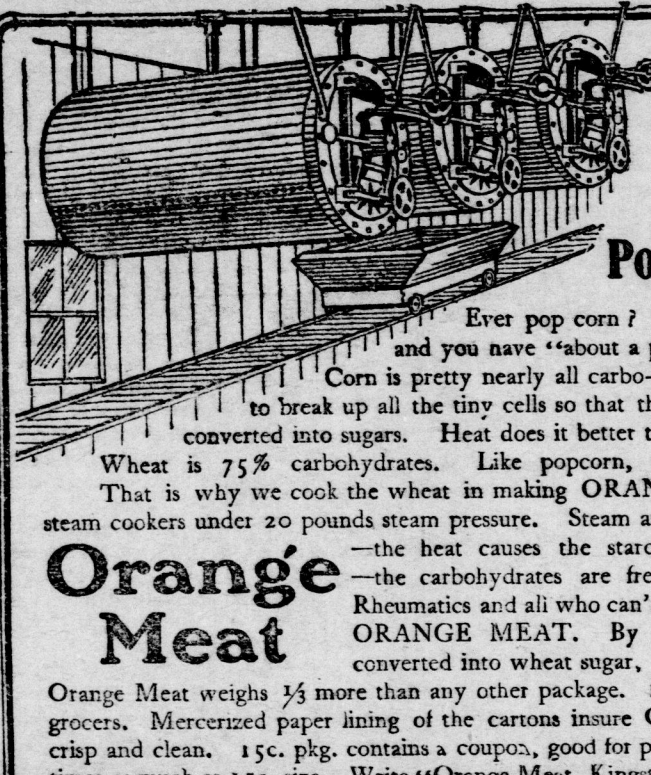

Popping Corn and Popping Wheat

Ever pop corn? Take a handful of tiny grains—heat them over the fire—and you have "about a peck" of pop-corn.

Corn is pretty nearly all carbo-hydrates, or starch. And it would take a lot of chewing to break up all the tiny cells so that the starch could be acted on by saliva in the mouth and be converted into sugars. Heat does it better than chewing.

Wheat is 75% carbohydrates. Like popcorn, the tough cell walls in wheat are broken by heat. That is why we cook the wheat in making ORANGE MEAT. It goes in huge steam cookers under 20 pounds steam pressure. Steam and moisture soften the cell tissues—the carbo-hydrates are free. That is why Dyspeptics, Rheumatics and all who can't eat "starchy" foods, may enjoy ORANGE MEAT. By adding malt, all the starch is converted into wheat sugar.

Orange Meat weighs 3/4 more than any other package. 15c. and 25c. a package. At all grocers. Mercantile paper lining of the cartons insure Orange Meat being always fresh, crisp and clean. 15c. pkg. contains a coupon, good for premiums. 25c. size contains 2 1/2 times as much as 15c. size. Write "Orange Meat, Kingston," for new premium catalogue.

JEFF VS. WINNER OF FINAL BOUT

A Series of Contests To Be Fought by Challengers for Heavyweight Title.

Buffalo, Oct. 30.—The report that Champion Jim Jeffries will return to the ring for at least one more battle will not dawn, despite the announcement by the big fellow himself that he is through with the game. A man who is pretty well posted on the fighting game, and who is in a position to know of the plans of the western fight promoters, assures me that everything is settled for an elimination tourney with a Jeffries fight to wind it all up, and that Jeffries has given Billy Delaney his promise that if everything turns out right he will come with his part of the programme. The first of these eliminating battles will be fought tomorrow night, when Al Kaufman and Sam Berger meet at Frisco. Another will be that between Tommy Burns and Jack O'Brien at the last of next month. Then if the horizon bears its present aspect the winners of these two contests will be pitted against each other, and the big fellow will take on the man that remains unbeaten. If this programme is followed we will have an end of this bickering over the title, unless, of course, Jeffries goes into immediate retirement again. That will leave a couple of claimants still unaffiliated and matters as badly mixed as ever. Now there are two men in the heavyweight ranks who are justly entitled to be counted in on such a proceeding. They are Mike Schrock and Jack Johnson. The German and the negro are good men—undoubtedly as good as O'Brien, Berger, Kaufman or Burns—and therefore should be given a chance to take a whirl at the game. And if these two men are put into the elimination trials the entire field will be listed and no flaw be left in the final award, for even if Jeff retires again after winning over the last man, that man will have proved himself the best of the others. Now there is plenty of time to fix up the schedule so that Mike and Jack can get in, and there will be no trouble in arranging it, for both of these men are dead willing to fight and bar nobody in their challenge to the heavyweights. Such a programme of bouts would draw the attention of the entire country and would do the game a lot of good.

With the immediate possibility of a Gans-Nelson fight destroyed, and a tentative match between the champion and Kid Herman arranged, there is some speculation among the fans as to whether any club will be able to see its way clear to offer a sufficiently large purse for the match. Several clubs have made bids, but, with the exception of Virginia City, they have fallen below the $50,000 figure set by Joe. This purse Gans demands before he will throw up his theatrical contracts and take on Herman now. He has promised to give the Kid the first

VARICOCELE CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would come on and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy and Kergan, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. He wrote them and got the New Method Treatment for me. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

BASEBALL.
GIANTS TURNED DOWN.
Cincinnati, Oct. 30.—The New York National League club has been denied the right to play exhibition games at the Elizabeth, N. J. The Newark club of the Eastern League is the objector. In the announcement yesterday the National Baseball Commission makes a wider ruling on the subject than any heretofore announced. In a former ruling application was made by the Elizabeth club and applied to the playing with one of the other balls after a season. In passing on the New York application yesterday the commission declared that at no time should such games be permitted, unless the club locally interested consents, and the club must have no ineligible players.

The application of Lewis D. Wills, a player who left the Baltimore club last season to join the York team in the outlaw league, for reinstatement was denied today. The commission declared there were no extenuating circumstances to warrant his reinstatement.

THE HALLOWE'EN SEASON OF FROLIC

A Night When the Young Folks Let Themselves Loose and Older Ones Laugh.

Hallowe'en, the night for which the hearts of the youngsters throughout the continent have been yearning for exactly 364 days, is here. The day preceding All Saints' brings happiness to young and old. It brings joy to the youngsters' hearts because it is the one day, or rather night, in the year when they can do practically as they please. It is the one occasion when the boys and girls are given free rein. And when the children are happy the older folks' hearts are glad.

Falsely in all styles will be worn by the kids as of yore; "Tick-tacks" upon the window pane will tick as in years gone by; door-bells will be given many an extra ring, ringing an extra household out of its warm bed at a late hour, only to find that there is no one at the door; gates will be found hanging on lamp-posts, and all of the other old-time pranks will be carried out.

Indoors there will be the customary Hallowe'en socials with their humorous and mysterious games, and the boys and girls will enjoy themselves to the utmost, as their forefathers have done.

Fond recollections of boyhood and girlhood days are recalled by the parents, as they witness again the games they used to play on similar occasions when they were happy, care-free lads and lassies, with nothing to worry or fret about, save the too quickly passing pleasures. "John," the sedate lawyer, will perchance doff his coat and bring the family wash-tub from out of the cellar, and fill it with water, in preparation for the old apple-in-the-tub game. "George," the prominent banker, will sport a $30 shirt and amuse his hands and face, trying to burn cork so that the youngsters may be able to array themselves as darlings out for a frolic. Mother will prepare chestnuts, so that the children may have a roast, and also bake the fruit-cake, without which Hallowe'en would not seem natural. "Sarah," the maid, must shine all of the mirrors in the house brightly, so that the young miss or master may see her or his future mate in the glass without the aid of a light.

The old gentleman in the corner house will be busy all afternoon nailing down his sidewalks with extra long spikes, boarding the house windows up tight as a proof against "tick-tacks" which make him nervous; chaining his gates and taking the handle off his door bell.

The spinster, who lives a little further on down the street will spend the day in fidgeting and stuffing her ears with cotton, for the din of the Hallowe'en horns with their shrill tones jar upon her nerves; while in her spare time she prepares a quantity of tea in anticipation of the need of plenty of the soothing beverage to quiet her nerves before the midnight bell in the clock-tower tolls out the passing of another Hallowe'en.

When the evening sports will have been concluded, and the tired, but happy, children, young and old, will have passed into dreamland, Father Time will make another entry in his annals of happy events, and another of earth's fleeting pleasures will have vanished into space.

THE BIRKBECK CASE

Appeal Against Mr. Justice Mabee's Order—Ruling of High Court.

In the divisional court, Toronto, before Chief Justice Meredith and Justices MacMahon and Anglin, a decision was given in the case of the London and Western Trusts Company vs. Luscombe. In this case W. E. Middleton for defendants, Wortman and Durand, appealed from order of Mr. Justice Mabee (8 O. W. R. 406), setting aside order of master in chambers giving directions as to trial of third party issues, and setting aside service of a third party notice upon Moorehouse and Watson, two shareholders in the Birkbeck Loan Company.

Plaintiffs are the liquidators of that company, and defendants were, with several others, the directors. The plaintiffs complain that the defendants depleted the capital stock of the company by $70,000 by improperly paying dividends not earned, and in other ways. The third parties were called on for relief over in respect of dividends paid to the company.

Mr. Justice Mabee held that the third party procedure did not admit of such a claim. C. A. Moss, for the third parties, opposed the appeal. G. C. Gibbons (London) for plaintiffs.

Counsel assenting, appeal dismissed with costs of the third parties to be paid by the appellants. The liquidators undertaking for the purpose of enabling the defendants to take such proceedings as they may be advised to be indemnified by third parties and other shareholders who have received dividends out of their share of the fund to be distributed, that there shall be no distribution made unless by leave of the judge of the county court of Middlesex, on notice to the defendants. As between the plaintiffs and defendants the costs of the appeal will be in the cause.

SOCIAL AT ST. JAMES'

A Hallowe'en social, under the auspices of the Young People's Society, drew a large audience to New St. James' Sunday school last night. The room was prettily decorated with shaded electric and pumpkin lights, and refreshments fitting to the occasion were served. A program was contributed by Mrs. Rotson, Misses MacLeod and McCrimmon, Messrs. Cutler and Parkinson, and the Young Men's Club Orchestra, was much enjoyed and appreciated.

WITNESS WOULD NOT SWEAR

"No. No man could make himself up to look like him."

"You are very sure, indeed," remarked Mr. Curry.

The witness said O'Meara's mustache was black ten years ago, and his hair was about the same as it is now.

"When did you cease thinking about O'Meara having impersonated you?"

"About four years ago."

"How do you vote?"

"Always Conservative."

"I thought so," said Mr. Curry.

Mr. Curry then asked that Constable Walsh, of Brantford, be removed from the room, and he was taken out.

Wm. J. Graham, of Brantford, swore to O'Meara being the person who was arrested at the Head-Henry election.

When he first saw the prisoner he did not get a very good look at him, and he went up the street to get a better look.

"How was O'Meara dressed?"

"He had a fedora hat and a dark brown suit and overcoat."

"Was he clean-shaven?"

"No; he had a mustache. It was darker then."

"Did you have any occasion to think of this man since?"

"Well, I hear he was arrested."

"And you couldn't be mistaken as to the man?"

"Well, I wouldn't say that."

"You are prepared to swear he is the man?"

"Yes."

"What is your occupation?"

"I am chief clerk of the Canadian Order of Foresters in Brantford."

"I think we made a mistake when we chose our detectives," said Mr. Curry.

"We should have got them from Brantford."

The witness further said the man arrested in Brantford had a peculiar cast in one of his eyes, which were dark brown. The witness could not explain what he meant by a peculiar cast.

"Would it be the man you spoke of if the eyes were hazel or any other color than brown?"

"No, it would not."

"You are positive."

"Yes."

"As a matter of fact, O'Meara's eyes are hazel."

Bremner here entered the room with the other witnesses and Mr. Curry again objected.

Harrie Walsh, of Brantford, was examined next. His father kept a hotel in Brantford ten years ago, but Mr. DuVerney could not make the witness say that O'Meara was a guest at the hotel ten years ago.

"How old are you?"

"Twenty-two."

"Then you would have been 12 years old when the election took place?"

"Yes."

The young fellow was allowed to leave the box.

Constable Wallace, of Brantford, was next called. He said he did not arrest O'Meara in London. He merely asked him to go to the station with him.

"Who was with you when you arrested him?"

"Nobody."

"Did Lewis and O'Meara pass while you and Egerton were standing on the corner, before you arrested O'Meara?"

"I didn't see them pass, but I suppose they must have."

"What is your belief in the matter?"

"I have none."

"How far past was O'Meara and Lewis when you looked?"

"About 30 feet."

"When did Egerton tell you?"

"I had left Egerton at the time."

"What did you do?"

"I turned back and called to Egerton, 'Here's my man.'"

"How far was Egerton away?"

"About as far away as O'Meara was."

"Had you seen O'Meara from 1897 until that time?"

"No."

"You have wasted your time on the Birkbeck case, force."

"Maybe."

"How was O'Meara dressed in Brantford?"

"He had on a brownish overcoat and a black stiff hat."

"How was his hair?"

"Turning gray."

"What were his eyes?"

"I think they were brown."

"You took no description of the man when you arrested him ten years ago?"

"No."

"If his eyes are not brown is he the man?"

"Yes."

"How did you know it was the man?"

"It was instinct."

"You smelled him out. What else was there besides instinct to aid you?"

"His form and his gait."

"Did you see him walk in Brantford?"

"Yes."

"You walked with him?"

"Yes."

"How could you see his gait?"

"I saw it."

"What are your politics by instinct?"

"I am an independent."

"You know where the corner of Carling and Richmond streets is in London?"

"No."

"You were standing on a corner, anyway?"

"Yes."

"And you and Egerton saw O'Meara and Lewis coming up?"

"No."

"They say you did."

"We did not."

H. J. Osborne, a barrister, of Brantford, said that O'Meara was very like the man who was arrested in Brantford ten years ago. He (Osborne) was secretary of the Conservative Association at the time. The witness admitted he had made mistakes as to the identity of people whom he knew well.

"Is it reasonable that after ten years you should be able to identify the man?" asked Mr. Curry.

"I have not identified him," the witness replied.

Robert Henry, of Brantford, who was the Conservative candidate in the election, next took the stand. He had seen O'Meara twice in Brantford in 1897—once in the Liberal rooms and once in the jail.

"How was he dressed?"

"In dark clothes."
"What kind of a hat did he wear?"
"A stiff hat."
"What kind of hair?"
"Very little changed to what it is now."

"I am told O'Meara had a thick head of hair ten years ago?"

"He didn't have it when I saw him."

"If O'Meara had a heavy head of hair ten years ago he would not be the man," Mr. Curry asked.

"No, he would not."

Mr. DuVerney then stated that he was not prepared to go on with other witnesses, and the case was remanded until Thursday.

Mr. Curry asked for bail for O'Meara, but the magistrate refused.

"No matter how large or how substantial?" Mr. Curry asked.

"No, I am against it. There has been too much perjury going on."

"But O'Meara has not yet been convicted, nor should he be held responsible for the perjury committed by other people."

"You may apply for bail to a higher court," the magistrate said.

"Not so long as the case is in your hands," Mr. Curry pointed out.

Mr. Curry also said that the great difficulty in preparing the defense is that it is impossible to establish an alibi, as O'Meara nor any other man could recognize ten years from now the men they met today.

Mr. DuVerney stated that he may have to call the prisoner's father as a witness.

The Election Case

The alleged conspiracy case was called immediately after O'Meara had been remanded at 12:30. Before the case was taken up, however, Mr. Curry created a sensation by asking Mr. DuVerney why Major Beattie, ex-M.P. of London, who had been subpoenaed, had not been called to give evidence against O'Meara.

Mr. DuVerney said the major had told him that he was not prepared to swear O'Meara was the man.

Major Beattie Called

"Call Beattie," said the magistrate, "I want the truth."

The major took the stand. He said he knew O'Meara, but not personally. He had seen a man sitting far back in the cell at Brantford, but he could not say O'Meara was the man. "A man whispered to me that it was John O'Meara, of London," said the major.

"Who was the man who whispered to you?"

"He's now dead. His name was Joseph Pigot."

"You knew the O'Meara boys?"

"Well, I knew the family, but had not met the prisoner personally."

"You knew O'Meara had two sons. One drove a cab and the other worked in the postoffice."

"Yes, but I had not seen this boy. If this man is the same his head is whiter."

"You wouldn't swear that O'Meara is the man?"

"No, I would not."

The major was then allowed to leave the stand.

Moose Westbrook, a half-breed from Brantford, was again placed in the box. He swore that when O'Meara was arrested in Brantford he wore a stiff hat, and a light overcoat.

"What did you mean by a light overcoat?"

"It was dark fawn."

The witness also swore that the man addressed had a dark mustache and grayish hair.

"The people from Brantford are prepared to swear pretty closely," said Mr. Curry. "How did you recognize him now?"

"By looking at him. I am pretty clever in identifying faces."

The witness added that he had followed and watched O'Meara for an hour and a half in Brantford.

BACK FROM CONVENTION.

Mrs. Wright, president of the Canadian W. C. T. U., has returned from Boston, where she attended the world's convention of the union. She speaks in the highest praise of the gathering, which included many notable people from Greece, Japan, Austria, Scotland, Argentina, Bulgaria, Burma, Bahama Islands, Cape Colony, Egypt, Germany, India, Uruguay, South Africa, Cuba and Sweden.

KLUE-SIMPSON.

At the residence of Mr. Frederick Klue, 185 Bathurst street, last night, a pretty wedding was solemnized, when Miss Minnie Simpson and Mr. Christian Klue were united by Rev. James Livingstone, pastor of the Wellington Street Methodist Church.

Anderson officiated as bridesmaid, while Mr. Edward Klue, brother of the groom, was groomsmen. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Klue will reside in this city.

AFTERNOON TEAS STARTED.

A series of afternoon teas has been commenced by the Y. W. C. A., the first being held at the residence of Mrs. W. Allen, 88 Wolfe street, yesterday afternoon. It proved to be a great success. The event was in charge of Mrs. C. W. Leonard, Miss Davis, Mrs. Ellis and Miss Wilson, who deserve great credit for the excellent way in which the affair was conducted. These teas will be continued at intervals throughout the winter season, and if the attendance keeps up to the mark set yesterday afternoon, which was 75, the events will certainly be successful.

PRACTICAL FURRIER

RELAY RACE SATURDAY.

The one-mile relay race for teams from the townships of Delaware, London and Westminster, which was to have been held last Saturday, but was postponed on account of bad weather, will be held at Victoria Park on Saturday at 2 p.m.

CURTAINS WERE DESTROYED.

Two pairs of curtains were destroyed by a fire about 8 o'clock last night at the residence of Mr. W. P. Ray, 370 Princess avenue. The curtains were ignited from a gas-jet. The firemen were called, but on reaching the place they found the blaze had been extinguished.

LECTURED TO SCOTS.

Rev. James Livingstone delivered a most interesting lecture, entitled "My Inheritance," to the Scotchmen of the Sons of Scotland in Albion block, last night. Mr. Livingstone spoke of the influence such great Scotchmen as John Knox, Dr. Duff, Ian MacLaren, Henry Drummond, Alexander McNeill, and Robert Burns had on his life, and he went on to relate the different characteristics of each of the foregoing men that had been an inspiration to him. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Livingstone by the members of the lodge at the conclusion of his lecture.

HECTOR ON ABOLITION OF BAR.

Rev. J. H. Hector, the "Black Knight," addressed a large audience at the Dundas Center Methodist Church last evening on the "Abolition of the Bar." Mr. Hector spoke strongly on the duty of the Canadian people to abolish the traffic in strong drink. He went on to point out what he alleged to be an inconsistency in our present code of laws which cause the drunkard to be punished for the evil done by the proprietor of the saloon. Mrs. Hector and Miss Hector rendered a number of delightful solos during the evening.

DR. MOULTON'S LECTURES.

The opening subjects of the course of lectures to be given by Dr. Moulton under the auspices of the London Freebel Society deal with the most interesting of Shakespeare's plays. On Friday evening the subject is "The Character of Lady Macbeth," which Dr. Moulton interprets in his own way, and on Saturday afternoon he speaks on "The Tempest," generally regarded by scholars as the highest expression of Shakespeare's genius. The lectures will be given in St. Andrew's lecture hall.

PRESENTATION TO LEADER

Royal Helier Circle Makes Gift to Mrs. Thomas Heritage.

In spite of the inclement weather the usual monthly meeting of the Royal Helier Circle of King's Daughters was largely attended. The meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. Robert Greene, corner of Talbot and Mill streets. After business routine, the proceedings were pleasantly interrupted by the presentation of an address and a set of sterling silver spoons to the leader, Mrs. Thomas Heritage. The address expressed the deep regard and esteem in which the members hold their leader. Although taken entirely by surprise, Mrs. Heritage responded in a few well-chosen words, expressing her gratitude for the kindly thought of the circle.

A unique feature of Mrs. Heritage's leadership is the fact that she has retained that position, being re-elected each year by acclamation from the organization of the Royal Helier Circle in 1880. A leadership of seventeen years' duration is almost unparalleled, and speaks for the popularity of Mrs. Heritage.

The Royal Helier Circle is probably the oldest circle of King's Daughters in the city, and unlike the others, is not connected with any church. It is entirely un denominational, numbering among its members Anglicans, Presbyterians, Methodists and Baptists.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, and an enjoyable social hour was spent.

COUNCIL ACCEPTS THE RESIGNATION

And Hands Ald. Wyatt a Gold-Headed Umbrella as a Parting Gift.

The resignation of Ald. Wyatt was accepted by the city council at a special meeting held last evening for the purpose. At the same time the council showed its appreciation of the retiring alderman's services by presenting him with a gold-headed umbrella, suitably engraved, and an address, expressing regret at his retirement, and voicing the hope that at some future time he might see fit to offer himself again as a candidate for municipal honors.

When his resignation had been read by City Clerk Baker, Ald. Wyatt told the council that he did not know how long he would be absent on his trip to the coast, and as he did not intend to offer himself as a candidate for the council in 1907, he considered that his proper course was to tender his resignation. The vacancy, under the new act, could be filled without the trouble of holding another election, and thus the city's business would not be interfered with in any way. He thanked the members of the board for the courtesy shown him at all times.

"I do not envy the aldermen," said Ald. Wyatt, "they have their duties to perform, and they are always faced with a good deal of selfishness. People want their own way as a rule, and it is pretty difficult to be strictly independent in dealing with all matters. The aldermen do not like to make enemies, but at times it is very hard to avoid doing so."

Undue Haste Alleged.

Ald. Gillean told the mayor that it was all very well for Ald. Wyatt to tender his resignation, but he thought that undue haste was shown in calling the council together in special session to deal with it, especially when the meeting was to be held on Monday evening. "Probably you thought some of the members on one side of the council may have had something to spring on the meeting, and you wanted to be prepared for that," he said. "I can tell you that so far as I am concerned no such thing was thought of. I think it would have been wise to leave the resignation until the regular meeting."

In reply to Ald. Gillean, the mayor stated that he called the special session at the residence of Mr. W. P. Ray, and he was anxious to have the matter settled before he started. He (the mayor) had endeavored for the past two weeks to get Ald. Wyatt to remain in the city, but he was useless. Ald. Wyatt was bent on resigning, because he did not know how long he would be absent, and also because he did not intend to offer himself for re-election in January. The mayor did not want an idea that the question of his resignation would be brought up in connection with the matter. Had the thirteenth man in the running last January been a Liberal, instead of a Conservative, he would have done the same thing as he was doing now. The mayor declared that he had never taken a stand one way or the other, politically, while a member of the council. There was no concerted action between Ald. Wyatt and himself in regard to the resignation.

Wanted Resignation Withdrawn

Ald. Matthews and Forristal moved that the resignation be accepted, while an amendment was offered by Ald. Gerry and Cooper to have Ald. Wyatt withdraw his resignation, the council to grant him two months' leave of absence.

Every member present took occasion to express his regret at the action of Ald. Wyatt, who was unanimously declared to be one of the ablest councillors London ever had.

Pressure on the part of the members could not cause Ald. Wyatt to change his decision, and when the amendment to have the resignation withdrawn was submitted it was supported by only the mover and seconder. Then the original motion to accept was submitted, and it carried unanimously.

Presented With Umbrella.

It was at this stage that Ald. Wyatt was presented with the umbrella. An address was read by Ald. Matthews, referring to the fact that Ald. Wyatt had been a citizen for over forty years, had achieved success in business, and as an alderman had always been fair and upright in his dealings. As chairman of No. 2 committee he had devoted an unusually large amount of time to the service of the citizens, who had recognized his worth. The council united in wishing him a pleasant trip, that he might return invigorated in body, with a greater knowledge of his town, and see fit at some future time to seek a place at the council board.

Ald. Gillean handed Ald. Wyatt the umbrella, and the recipient thanked the aldermen for their gift and the many complimentary things said of him.

CHURCH OPENING

New Anglican Edifice at Broughdale Ready for Dedication.

The new Church of St. Luke, Broughdale, in the north end of the city, is to be opened for public worship with due ceremony tomorrow (Thursday) evening—All Saints' Day.

The Bishop of Huron will conduct a short dedication service, the city clergy generally will officiate, and Right Rev. J. Philip DuMoulin, bishop of Niagara, will preach.

A series of Sunday evening services will follow (beginning Sunday), during November, with various preachers, and on Sunday afternoon next a Sunday school and Bible class will be organized in connection with the church.

SIBERIAN EXILES BY TRAINLOADS

One Thousand Unfortunates Are Shipped to Arctic Desolation in One Day.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 30.—Exiles are leaving Russia by trainloads every day for Siberia. They are all political prisoners whose only crime is discontent with the way Russia is governed and trying to alter it.

Over a thousand prisoners were dispatched from St. Petersburg eastward on one day recently. They were carried in three trains and included a priest, several soldiers, forty-one women and many workmen, soldiers and sailors. The third train carried five hundred sailors who were engaged in the mutinies at Cronstadt and Sveaborg.

All but one hundred of the prisoners were bound for Siberia, the rest going to the cold northern districts of Archangel and Volodga.

The bleak settlement of Irkutsk and the salt fields of Ust-Kutsk are still the favorite points of the exile board, which from 1823 to 1888 sent 908,266 unfortunates to Eastern Siberia. Those seventy-five years registered the high water mark of the exile horror and then for a time the fever of deportation diminished.

Now, however, the exile board is busy again, and the record of the black times is in a fair way of being eclipsed.

Paul Tarasoff, just executed by a Moscow drum-head court martial, is the eighth member of his family to suffer for Terrorist or revolutionary acts.

Tarasoff's father was hanged in 1899 for plotting against the late Grand Duke Sergei; his uncle in the following year was seized on suspicion and was never seen again; one of his cousins was sent to penal servitude for life for killing a gendarme, and two other cousins were exiled to Yakutsk in Siberia. His younger brother died as the result of a blow from a Cossack during the student riots of 1894.

Marya Tarasoff, a sister, aged eighteen, shot at the governor of Voronezh and was sent to the mines. On her way across the Siberian Railway she escaped, married a peasant, and started a robber republic near Omsk. On the dissolution of the republic and the arrest of her husband she committed suicide.

The two members of the Tarasoff family remaining in Moscow have been put under permanent police surveillance.

WONDERS OF THE GUIANA FORESTS

Falls Over Seven Hundred Feet in Height and a Luminous Centipede.

London, Oct. 30.—A dispatch from Georgetown, British Guiana, states that Mr. C. W. Anderson and Mr. H. P. C. Melville, two officers of the department of lands and mines, sent out by the Government of British Guiana, have made some interesting discoveries in the country mapped out by the award of the King of Italy in the British Guiana-Brazil boundary dispute two years ago.

They started from Georgetown, Demerara, on Jan. 25 of this year, accompanied by an East Indian coolie and four Arawak boys, and after a most successful trip, returned safely on Sept. 13, their absence having thus lasted some eight months.

At the village of Kamalamang they found Jeremiah, a great chief, a character whose delight is to teach his people the alphabet and preach to them in a fine thatched church which he has built. Two of his sons were with the expedition.

He duly appeared, attired in a garment which at a considerable distance wore the aspect of a Roman toga, but on nearer inspection proved to be an ancient mackintosh. This was his robe of state, put on in honor of the whites men. His conversation, however, turned out to be confined to the words, "Morning, morning," and to a recitation of the letters of the alphabet.

Descending to Ireng in corials, or native "dug-outs," the travelers found insects because of the prominent feature of their life, and the Kabouras fly, or Plum, proved a great pest. The officers had provided themselves with veils and gloves, and so much inconvenience, and even illness, was avoided, for, as they named the Takutu and the Savannah country mosquitoes and sand flies, which had been entirely absent on the plateau, put in an appearance.

Moreover, June and July turned out very wet. It was noted by the travelers as a curious circumstance that the Kabouras flies ceased their attentions almost exactly at 6 p.m., but as the sand flies came on the scene at 5 and the mosquitoes at midnight, they al-

Our Drapery Department

Some years ago we discovered an opportunity in London for an EXCLUSIVE CARPET HOUSE. Our success in this line is well known, and from time to time other lines have been added, until our store is recognized as being one of the first of its kind in Canada.

Perceiving the growing importance of suitable Curtains and Draperies in the artistic furnishing of the home, we have enlarged our Drapery Department until we show a most comprehensive range of the newest curtain fabrics of the season.

Our Drapery Department is in charge of Mr. J. A. Fookes, late of New York city, one of the foremost decorative artists in America. If you are in doubt as to the best treatment of any of the numerous places in your home where proper draperies and curtains are indispensable, let us submit ideas, designs and sketches, and we are sure to please you, no matter what your requirements may be.

THE EXCLUSIVE CARPET HOUSE.

ways had plenty to occupy their attention.

A most curious luminous centipede was discovered in the forest country. The animal, which was two or three inches long, bore a red light in its head, and a series of eleven or twelve white phosphorescent spots along its body, one to each segment. Five or six specimens were secured, but were badly knocked about in traveling. They are now being examined and restored as far as possible.

Another sight was the great Kaleteur Falls, on the Potaro River, which were visited by the expedition on the way to Yakontup. The Kaleteur, where the Potaro River falls over a sheer precipice 741 feet high (the Horseshoe Fall at Niagara is only 154 feet), is the pride of the colony.

The fact that neither of the officers suffered from anything worse than a cold during their eight months' "roughing it" is a testimonial to the grand climate of the hinterland.
