NEIGHBORS IN A WARM MIX-UP
OVER CHICKEN-FED CANINESAn Alleged Set-To of Epic Proportions Which Stirs Up Peaceful South London.

A "sensational scrap" took place in South London on Saturday afternoon, as a result of which a decidedly interesting police court case will result. It seems that a certain contractor prides himself on raising dogs, and has two canines which have achieved considerable reputation in the vicinity. The neighbors go for chicken-raising, that is, when these dogs give them a chance. Lately, however, it is alleged that these dogs have developed a particular fondness for chicken, as a result of which many fowls have come to an untimely end.

On Saturday afternoon a neighbor, whose feathered flock, it is stated, suffered considerably by reason of the depredations of the dogs, went over to remonstrate and give a little paternal advice.

When he mentioned the subject of dog and chicken, the contractor, it is said, hit him. Immediately there was a general mix-up, and the two men fought all the way around the house and down through the yard, until they came to the barn. Here the fight was fiercer than ever. In the meantime the contractor's wife, it is said, got the two dogs, and came out behind the barn, when she urged them to attack the chicken man. From the condition of the latter's legs and trousers, the dogs seem to have been most willing. In the meantime, a lady who lives near, and who has had numerous chickens killed, came over to see the fight. Immediately there was another fight, in which the two women were the central figures. The story is that the fight was finally settled by the contractor's aged mother, who is almost blind, separating the two men.

As soon as it was over, Dr. Cowen was called to attend to the injuries done by the dogs, and he found it necessary to cauterize six wounds. When the case comes up, it is stated that there will be enough witnesses to fill the courtroom, many of them being persons who have had chickens killed.

GETS NASTY FALL
WHILE HUNTINGHon. Adam Beck's Mount Comes a Cropper, Throwing the Minister Heavily.

Hon. Adam Beck had a narrow escape on Friday last while following the hounds. He and several other members of the Hunt Club started out for a cross country run. Mr. Beck had the mount on his splendid hunter, Kakabeka, the international winner. The hunter took a large number of the fences in perfect style. The party was going along nicely when they came to a zig-zag fence. Several members of the hunt took the fence cleanly, but Kakabeka hesitated, and when he came to it he barely raised six inches. He stumbled into the fence, and Mr. Beck was thrown violently over it. He alighted on his face and shoulders, and was quite severely shaken. Mr. Beck's nose was bruised, and his face scratched. Kakabeka came a nasty cropper, but was not badly hurt.

The other members of the hunt came to Mr. Beck's assistance, and after a few moments he was able to continue the run.

GRABBED HIS
FORTY-FIVE CENTSCollector Claimed It Was Owing Him, But Thought He Would Not Get It.

An amusing case was settled in the police court this morning, when Wm. Reynolds, charged by James A. Wilson with stealing 45 cents, was dismissed. Mr. Reynolds worked for Mr. Wilson, and on Saturday they got into a dispute over some money, which had been brought in on some bills. Reynolds claims that Mr. Wilson owed him the 45 cents, and being afraid that he would not get it he grabbed some money and took his 45 cents out of it. Mr. Wilson had him arrested, but on the advice of the magistrate, the case was withdrawn without prejudice to Mr. Reynolds, who was advised to take his troubles to the division court.

Joseph Tait was fined $20 or 10 days in jail. He will take the days, and the court told him that if he comes up as often as he has been doing lately that he will be sent to the Central Prison.

FOUR ARE LOST ON LAKE ST. LOUIS

Montreal, Nov. 10. — Word reached the city on Saturday of a drowning accident near Beauharnois, on Lake St. Louis, by which four men last night were lost. During a severe storm three Poles and two French-Canadians tried to cross the lake, but their boat capsized, and the Poles and Mr. Valois, owner of the boat, were drowned. Another occupant, named Perron, was rescued by a fisherman named Fortier.

SMOKERS WILL NOT FEEL PINCH
IF TOBACCO PRICES ADVANCE

Local tobacco dealers, as a rule, were much surprised at the statement published this morning to the effect that the prices on cigars would advance 25 per cent.

A well-known Dundas street tobacconist was much surprised when the item was brought to his attention, and declared that it was news to him.

Just what effect a raise would have on the retail trade he was unprepared to say until he was notified that such was to be the case.

Another leading tobacconist stated that he had heard nothing of the reported raise as yet, but would not be surprised if such should prove to be the case very shortly.

The difference in the prices would, however, not come out of the consumer's pocket, but would be a direct loss to the retail merchants. Were there a retailers' association in the city a standard price might be set on cigars, but as there was not, no action of that kind could be taken, for the reason that where one dealer would raise, the others might not.

High-grade tobacco, said the last speaker, has been very scarce for a long time. Two years ago the tobacco crops were failures, and the market has never been able to catch up with the demand.

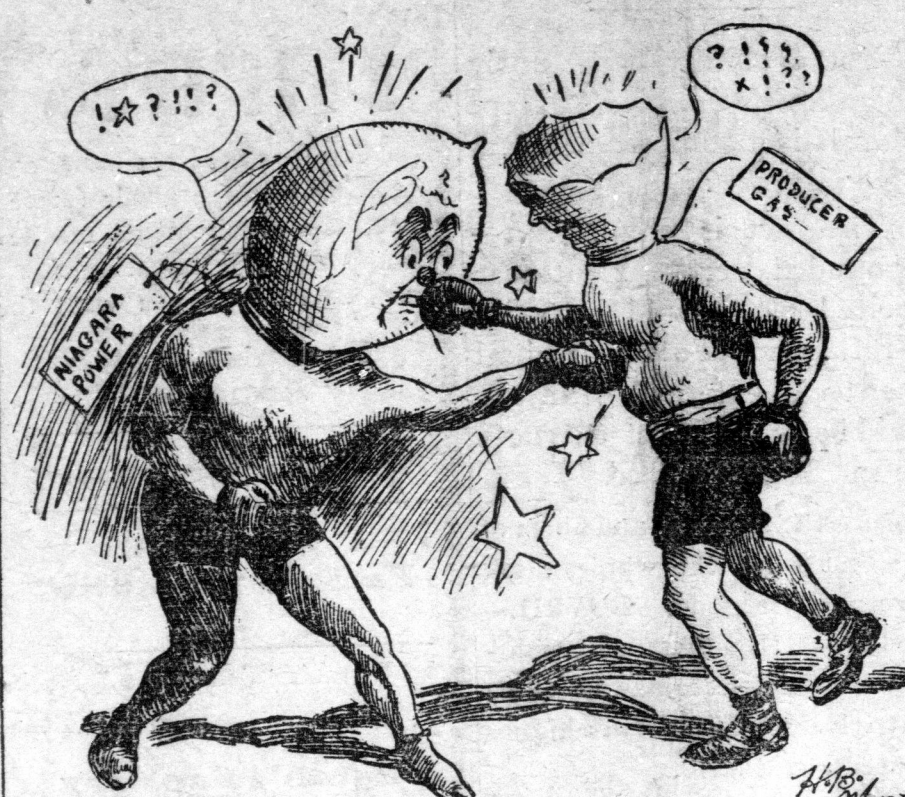

This gentleman also thought that only ten-cent cigars would be affected, but there was no assurance that such would be the case.

A FOG KEEPS THE KAISER AT SEA

Portsmouth, England, Nov. 11.—The German imperial yacht Hohenzollern, having on board Emperor William and his party, who are to visit King Edward, has been further delayed by fog. The yacht, with the escorting fleet, anchored last night off Chelsea Bill for the night, not having been able to enter Sandown Bay, Isle of Wight, according to the programme. This morning the Hohenzollern could not reach this harbor in time to cross the bar with the early tide, and therefore the landing of the imperial party was postponed until this afternoon.

Portsmouth, Nov. 11.—Owing to a chilling, impenetrable fog which made a passage from the Isle of Wight impossible, the German imperial yacht, Hohenzollern, having on board Emperor William, the Empress and the other members of the party who are to visit King Edward and Queen Alexandra, was unable to cross the harbor bar here on the early tide and did not reach the jetty until three hours after the appointed time this afternoon.

The Hohenzollern, with the escorting fleet anchored last night off Selborne Bill, for the night having been able to

"POWER"-FUL RIVALS

Fiction, Fact and Poetry
And the Practical ManDr. Moulton Addresses Winter's Inaugural Meeting of the Canadian Club.

The inaugural luncheon of the Canadian Club for the season of 1907-8 was held today in the banquet-room of the Masonic Temple. The speaker of the occasion was Dr. F. G. Moulton, professor of English in the University of Chicago, who spoke on "The Significance of Poetry to the Practical Man." There was a very large attendance, and the affair was one of the best ever given by the club. The lecture of Dr. Moulton was splendid one, and was much appreciated.

Dr. John D. Wilson, the new president, was in the chair. There were many visitors from out of town present, among them Mr. W. S. Calvert, M. P., Stratford; Mr. Thomas Long, Toronto; Mr. Matthew Wilson, K.C., Chatham; Mr. N. H. Stevens, Chatham; Mr. John Davis, Windsor, and Mr. Malcolm McGugan, of Stratford.

Poetry and Practical Man.

Dr. Moulton took it for granted, he declared, that he was talking to a number of practical men, professional and business men, who were dealing at all times with practical things. Their attitude was generally dubious towards poetry. They would declare that they found enough in real life to task the intellect and test the emotions. Poetry has nothing to do with verse. It had to deal with the imagination. Fiction is the experimental art of human science, as experimental art is to chemistry and the physical sciences. The novelists, poets and fiction writers are largely dependent on what the Grand Trunk does.

MARQUETTE CROWDED FOR SPACE

The Pere Marquette Railway Company have decided to enlarge their present roundhouse to accommodate the big new engines that are now being used on the line between here and St. Thomas. It is stated that the company intend removing the building to Chelsea Green as soon as suitable arrangements can be made. At present they are very short of yard room, and would gladly purchase from the Grand Trunk some of their property. The Grand Trunk people, however, are just as short of room as the Pere Marquette, and do not wish to sell. It is rumored that the company have bought a section of land immediately east of their present roundhouse, and will use it for a yard. The officials in this city say that nothing definite will be known regarding the matter for some time yet, as it largely depends on what the Grand Trunk does.

WILLS FUNDS TO FOREIGN MISSIONS

By the will of the late Martha Waterhouse, which was filed for probate today by Messrs. Purdon & Purdon, solicitors, the following bequests were made to charity:

Victoria Hospital, a number of pictures and household goods.

Aged People's Home, wearing apparel.

Southern Congregational Church, $1,000.

Southern Congregational Church, for foreign missions, $200.

First Congregational Church, for foreign missions, $200.

Children's Aid Society, South London, $200.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, for foreign missions, $300.

Teachers' Salary Tangle
What Increases Mean

No. 1 committee of the board of education had a meeting last week, when it was endeavored to straighten out the salary tangle of the board with reference to the lady teachers' salaries. The minimum was not changed, but will remain at $450, and the maximum was the same—$750. The committee desired to interpret the increase. At present the salaries range almost anywhere, and it was the aim of the board to start them right. The most important item was the recognition of the old teachers. Many of them are now receiving the maximum under the old schedule, namely $600. It was decided to raise them to $700, an increase of $100. They will receive the maximum next year.

LORD KILMAINE
SUICIDES AT PARIS

Paris, Nov. 10.—Lord Francis William Browne Kilmaine, representative peer for Ireland since 1900, who has been suffering from neurasthenia, threw himself out of a window of his apartments in Avenue d'Ena last night, and was instantly killed. He was born in 1843.

THE RUSS PARLIAMENT.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 11.—It was announced today that the Third Russian Parliament will assemble Nov. 14, at the Taurida Palace. An imperial decree was issued today instructing M. Geluboff, vice-president of the council of the empire, to open the session. There will be no reception of deputies by the Emperor at the winter palace.

"RED ARMS" SEIZED.

Vladivostok, Nov. 11.—Bombs, arms, ammunition and correspondence of a revolutionary organization including in its membership soldiers belonging to the local garrison, have been seized in the naval workshops here.

ENGINEERS REPORT
PLENTY OF SNOWUp Huron and Bruce Way the Beautiful Fell in Abundance.

London seems to have practically escaped the snowstorm, which has been sweeping the districts all around. Practically every train from the west, especially those coming from Michigan in the early morning had several inches of snow on them. The engineers say that a heavy snowstorm passed over the district west of here last night. Up on the Huron and Bruce snow is reported all along the line, and at Blyth over four inches fell.

STOLE A SWEATER
GIVEN SIX YEARS

Chatham, Nov. 11.—Henry Clay, a colored youth of 18 years, born near Dresden, parents dead, was sentenced to six years in Kingston this morning, after pleading guilty to the theft of a coat and sweater. His had previous record made a heavy sentence necessary.

SACRIFICES TO
AZTEC SUN GODRemains of Many Children Found Under Pyramid.

Mexico City, Nov. 11.—A sepulcher containing the remains of many children has been discovered near the Pyramid of the Sun at San Juan.

The sepulcher was covered by a huge tumestone, on which is carved the face of a woman, surrounded by many hieroglyphs. The body of one of the children was almost perfect.

SLIDES OFF ROOF
TWENTY FOOT DROP

William Bloke, of 392 Horton street, met with a very painful accident on Saturday afternoon last. He was working on the Grand Trunk freight sheds in shingling, when in some manner he slipped, falling to the ground, a distance of twenty or more feet. He was badly shaken up. One rib was broken, his face badly bruised, several of his teeth knocked out, and his leg severely strained. He was taken to his home in a cab, and Dr. Drake was called.

He is doing fairly well at present, although it will be some time before he is able to be about again.

BOY NOT ILL-TREATED
SAYS INSPECTOR

Inspector Sanders of the Children's Aid Society has returned from Essex, where he has been investigating the alleged ill-treatment to the boy, John Henery, who was put out with Mr. J. Westlake, of Essex. He made a thorough investigation, and found that the boy had not been ill-treated in any way. He had been given plenty of food, and had received all the favors that the other children there had received. He had not been in good health while there, and his emaciated condition was due to his illness. Mr. Westlake would have returned the boy to the shelter some time ago, but his health was such that it could not be done.

WILLIE SHOT HIS TOE
AND HE'S FULL OF WOE

Willie Curnoo, the 13-year-old son of Mr. John Curnoo, the well-known baker, of Wellington street, had a narrow escape from a serious accident on Friday evening. The little fellow obtained possession of an old rifle and went out into the yard to do some wild west stunts. He was apparently unused to handling a gun, for the first thing he knew the gun went off accidentally and the bullet carried off a large part of one of his toes. A physician was summoned and dressed the injury and in a short time, it is hoped, the boy will be around again.

London Conspiracy Case
Goes To Judge WinchesterAs Requested By Defendants, Case Will Not Be Tried Before a Jury.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—It was decided in the county criminal court this morning that John O'Gorman, W. J. Mulloy, Daniel Wiley and George M. Reid, who are indicted on a charge of conspiracy arising out of accusations of bribery at the Dominion by-election held in London in 1905, shall be tried by Judge Winchester in the county court without a jury, commencing at 11 o'clock next Monday morning. The accused men appealed through E. F. B. Johnston, K. C., to have their trial removed from the forthcoming criminal assizes and in its stead to have a speedy trial before the judge without a jury.

LONG-LOST CHECK
TURNS UP O. K.Sent From Vancouver to This City, But Comes By Way of Old London.

A $5,000 check, which has been missing for over a month, was returned to the office of the Canadian Fire Engine Company of this city a couple of days ago, and general rejoicing is the result. Early in the summer the firm sold a fire engine to the city of Vancouver, and at the recent tests held in that city the engine was found satisfactory and accepted. On Oct. 14 the city clerk of Vancouver was instructed to pay the account, and made out a check to the Fire Engine Company for the amount. It was mailed the same day. The firm were notified, but waited in vain for the money to arrive, and after a long wait notified the post-office authorities, and the officials at Vancouver. The postoffice men got tracers to work at once, but no clue as to where the missing money went could be obtained.

Postmaster Cameron thought that the check had been sent to England, and this proved to be right, for in the last English mail a much-stamped envelope was received addressed to the company, and bearing the postmarks of Vancouver, Oct. 14, London, England, Oct. 23, and London, Canada, Nov. 9. The envelope was plainly addressed to London, Ontario. The fire engine people were glad to get the money, but they would like the post-office authorities to make good something over $14 in interest that they have lost owing to what appears to be the mistake of a postal clerk.

LABOR MEN COMPLAIN

Appointment of Mr. Harry Clarke Not Agreeable to Trades Council.

Labor men are still doing considerable complaining over the appointment of Mr. Harry Clarke as factory inspector. Some two years ago when the matter of factory inspectors was mentioned the trades and labor council drew up a list of the men who would be agreeable to them. Among the names was that of Mr. Harry Clarke. Not long ago, however, the trades and labor council had a meeting and this meeting decided to change the names of those agreeable to it for the place, and the name of Mr. Clarke was left off. The secretary was instructed to forward the list to Hon. J. P. Whitney. This was done, but Mr. Clarke was there first and the matter was hustled through. Mr. Clarke's appointment was gazetted in time to prevent any further trouble on that score. Such is the story told on the street.

GREAT ACTOR HONORED

John Hare Knighted After Stage Career of 40 Years.

London, Nov. 9.—Mr. John Hare, the English actor, who will shortly retire from the stage after a working career of 40 years, today received notice of the conferring on him of the honor of knighthood. Sir Henry Irving was the only other actor so honored, and his title is a recognition of his profession.

"The point is, that we will not be at the mercy of the London Electric Company as some imagine. There will be competition in any case. That will help considerably."

A NEW DIOCESE.

Rome, Nov. 11.—The congregation of the propaganda has decided to raise the vicariate apostolic of Saskatchewan, a district of the Northwest Territories of Canada, to a bishopric and change its name to Prince Albert. Monsignor Albert Pascal will be appointed bishop of the new diocese.

THE NON-JURY ASSIZES OPENED
CASES OF UNIVERSAL INTEREST

The non-jury assizes for November opened at the court house this morning at 11 o'clock before Mr. Justice Riddell.

There are eighteen cases entered for hearing, but it is possible that some of these actions may be postponed. The total amount of damages asked, exclusive of those suits which call for unstated damages, is $85,451.

The suit calling for the largest amount of damages is that of Welch v. Esperanza, which was held over from the September assizes. In this action A. E. Welch, a local stock broker, asks for $70,000 damages for the alleged non-keeping of an agreement which caused him to lose a large sum of money on some options on mining property which he held.

The next largest suit is that of Mary J. Somerville, who sues the Aetna Life Insurance Company for $7,065 on the life of her husband, whom she believed dead, as she has not heard from him in many years.

Moore vs. Westminster, is a case that has been postponed several times and which calls for $2,000 damages for injuries received on the Pipe Line road some time ago. Ernest Moore, a local fruit dealer, is the plaintiff.

The Trudell case is attracting considerable attention on account of the fact that the litigants are husband and wife. They have lived together for seventeen years. W. T. Trudell seeks to restrain his wife from sending their children, four in number, to the Catholic separate school.

Another most interesting action is that in which Wellington Barnes, the Pottersburg hotelkeeper and his wife are the contestants. Some time ago it appears that Mr. Barnes placed his property in the hands of his mother-in-law and his wife for convenience. Now, it is alleged, they refuse to give up the property.

There are several cases of damages for alleged non-keeping of agreements, and one case where a large grocery store sues a creamery to recover damages for the sale of inferior and moldy butter.

Taken as a whole, the court this month is a most interesting one, and if all the cases are heard it should last out the week.

BETTER THAN FILTRATION.

Advocates of the Maury water scheme are wont to tell us that whether or not London adopts that plan at the present time, the city must sooner or later come to river water and filtration. Their attention should be directed to the city of Philadelphia, which is compelled to use water from the Schuylkill River. It is stated that the water of the Schuylkill contains 2,500,000 bacilli to twenty drops, and to render it pure, or as nearly so as possible, it is proposed to burn the germs by the introduction of a natural purifying agent, ozone. The quantity of this in the atmosphere is limited, but it is greatest after a thunderstorm, or in high altitudes, where the air is most charged with electricity.

A plant which is now being installed at Philadelphia contemplates the application of ozone in a most ingenious way, and one which it is believed will prove most effective. The modus operandi is thus described: Electric discharges are passed through air confined in tubes, changing the oxygen, a less powerful purifying agent, into ozone. The air is then driven into a column of water at its base. As it rises through the standpipe containing the water, the ozone seizes upon bacteria and other organic matter, uniting to form carbonic acid gas, which bubbles to the top and escapes. The process is exactly similar to burning coal, except that the combustion is perfect, and there is no ash. Foul water enters at the top of the standpipe, and a steady stream of pure water, clear as crystal, flows from the base.

The ozone process is superior to boiling, inasmuch as the latter expels the air and leaves the water flat, as well as tainted by the boiled bacilli, which, though dead, remain to spoil the taste. It is also better than filtration, because the best filter cannot remove all impurities, and filters require constant cleaning. The cost of the process is another important advantage, the figure being only $3.50 per 1,000,000 gallons. After passing through the ozone process, the 2,500,000 bacilli in twenty drops of water are reduced to 25 or less, as only one in 100,000 escapes. The method is a rapid one, being capable of supplying 75,000,000 gallons a day without difficulty. When the plant has been completed Philadelphia will have one of the best water supplies in the world.

What is being done by Philadelphia is of importance to London, inasmuch as it serves to remove the strongest argument advanced by filtrationists, and to show that finally should we be compelled to use river water for drinking purposes, there is at least one more thorough and evidently cheaper method of purifying it than by filtration. Meanwhile our position is far better than that of Philadelphia, inasmuch as we are not compelled to take our drinking water from a river, nor shall we be for many years to come, if the ratepayers are wise, and adopt the independent high-pressure system. Should we eventually be forced to go to the river, science may by that time have discovered a way of purifying better even than the ozone method.

THE NORTHWEST'S COAL SUPPLY. While the tightness of money is delaying the moving to market 100,000,000 bushels of grain in Minnesota and the Dakotas, word comes from Pittsburgh that the problem of supplying the people of the Northwest with coal for the approaching winter promises to be a perplexing one. The difficulty in the latter case, however, is not a question of money, but of transportation. Two million tons more are needed in the Northwest this season than last, but unless the railroads are able to get a larger supply of all-rail routes to that field than now seems possible, there will be a shortage of 1,000,000 tons in the amount held to be actually necessary to prevent suffering in that country. Coal operators say they have shipped as heavily as the supply of cars and boats have permitted them, but that with the best railroads and the vessels for the Northwest could do the supply is seriously short. At the present time every mine in the Pittsburgh district is operating to its full capacity, unless held back by a lack of cars. With shipments, heavier than usual, companies are behind in their orders and prices are the highest known in some years. The lake season terminates on Dec. 12, when insurance ceases on steel hull vessels, and will be partially stopped on the 25th inst., with the ceasing of wooden hull insurance. Just now the outlook for cars for lake coal is far from good, and operators are straining every nerve to get out as much coal for the Northwest as is possible during the brief period intervening.

The demand is by no means confined to the Northwestern States, for the wants of the Canadian west have greatly increased during the past year, the tonnage that has been called for each season having nearly doubled itself. It is estimated that during the summer an average of one thousand immigrants have daily passed through Winnipeg, bound for Canadian homesteads. Naturally, this enormous increase in population has been felt in the coal markets. With the termination of the lake season will come an end for the winter to the rush at the mines in the Pittsburgh district. Meanwhile orders for rail coal have been increasing, and some of the larger companies are preparing to make all-rail shipments to supplement the vessel tonnage.

The northwestern railroads meanwhile have their hands full in moving the enormous grain crops and in carrying back the coal on the docks at the upper end of the lakes. Nearly all the western grain elevators are filled to capacity awaiting cars, and in some cases money. Cars move too slowly to satisfy the impatient farmer, and the anxious householder, but so far as possible when grain is brought to the lakes for transshipment to boats, coal is carried back. But for the most part the cars are of the box kind for grain and the limited supply of these is far from sufficient to meet demands. Consequently the back haul of coal to the Northwest is most tedious, and the sudden advent of severe winter weather would make matters much worse.

Last year the inadequacy of freight cars and locomotives was sufficiently marked to induce the railroads to make extraordinary efforts to catch up with the prevailing prosperity, one road, the Northern Pacific, having, it is said, added 10,000 cars and 200 locomotives, to its rolling stock. Yet it seems the needs of the Northwest are by no means met. The problem would be hard enough for the railroads to solve under ordinary circumstances, but in a time of general curtailment of credits, following a season of over-speculation, it is complicated by serious questions of ways and means.

THE KAISER IN GREAT BRITAIN. The quidnuncs profess to see great political significance in the Kaiser's visit to King Edward. The attitude of the British people toward Germany is still one of distrust and resentment, and there are fears that the Kaiser's reception by press and public will emphasize this feeling. The Times has already given him the cold shoulder. It says the visit is a calculated stroke of policy, with the object of lulling British suspicions, and if possible cultivating British goodwill until Germany can better afford to do without it. Just now Germany finds herself checked by British diplomacy, and hemmed in by a ring of treaties and conventions, which strengthen the friendship between Great Britain and other European nations. Germany alone among the great powers stands outside these combinations, and is credited with a desire to remedy this state of unfriendliness and isolation. The temper of the British people is, perhaps, reflected by the Times, and by such incidents as the contemptuous signal sent out Sir Percy Scott when ordered to repair British warships in honor of the Kaiser, and by Sir John Fisher's reference at the Guild Hall banquet to a possible German invasion.

Granting that motives of policy have prompted the Kaiser's visit, it is no reason why Great Britain should not accept the olive branch held out by the Berlin Government. The relations between nations are often determined by personal amenities, such, for instance, as King Edward's well-timed visit to Paris some years ago, which paved the way to the Anglo-French entente. An appearance of cordiality on the part of the British people at the time may find a response in Germany. It is altogether likely that the proverbial hospitality of Britons will triumph over other considerations.

AMPLE PRECAUTIONS. [Cardiff Times.] Nervous Old Lady (on seventh floor of hotel)—Do you know what precautions the proprietor of the hotel has taken against fire?

Porter—Yes, mum; he has the place insured for twice what it's worth.

THE BIGGER MAN. [Hamilton Herald.] It looks as if Wilfrid Laurier is still a very much bigger man in Quebec than Henri Bourassa.

THE HORSESHOE. [Kansas City Times.] Dar's lunk to you In de ol' hoss-shoe, An' lunk dat kin neber fail, If de shoe's been los' From de foot of a hoss An' hit holds a rusty nail; But it kin't be a new Ez a boughten shoe. No, hit mus' be one dat's foun' An' it kin't keep de lunk If it ain't hung up. Wid de points turned upside down.

BUNGALOW HOUSES. [Boston Transcript.] The bungalow, the camp, or whatever its retreat in the wilderness or by the shore is called, is said to be influencing architecturally the building of an occasional all-the-year-round house in suburban and nearby country places. One big living room running the length and nearly the breadth of the house, with a small kitchen tucked away in an out-of-the-way corner, three or four sleeping rooms overhead, and a porch suitably screened to allow outdoor sleeping quarters, make up the ideal residence.

MODERN ANNOYANCES. [Literary Digest.] The following advertisement is published in the Kreisblatt, a newspaper published at Hoechst, near Wiesbaden: "Can anyone favor me with the names of the balloonists who, when passing over the village of Ried last Thursday evening, dropped a bag of ballast down my chimney and completely ruined a fruit tart which I was cooking?" Julia Schmidt, 14 Britzengasse, Ried."

A MIXED BLESSING. [Telegraph.] "Your husband will be all right now," said an English doctor to a woman whose husband was dangerously ill. "What do you mean?" demanded the wife. "You told me he couldn't live a fortnight."

"Well, I am going to cure him, after all," said the doctor. "Surely you are glad."

The woman winked her brows. "Put me in a bit of a 'ole," she said. "I've bin an' sold all his clothes to pay for his funeral."

A LAW THAT WORKS. [Ottawa Journal.] The Lord's Day Act has cut the volume of Sunday labor in Canada in two within eight months. It has made good.

A CAVITY. [London Public Opinion.] Cholly—The dentist told me I had a large cavity that needed filling. Bidel—Did he recommend any special course of study?

NEW AIDS TO BEAUTY. [Punch.] Professor Harvey W. Wiley, chemist-in-chief of the United States Department of Agriculture, in recommending cookery as an exercise, declares that it is as healthful as rowing or golf, and descends upon the beauty of the bluish that comes from bending over the stove.

Toil no more with cleeks and brassies, Wasty lassies; Toil no more, Oh, my sisters, Raising blisters. As you ply the painful car, Leave the racket bring to bear, Leave the motor in the shed, Leave the rein and leave the bride—Take to cookery instead.

Trust me, you will find the kitchen Passing rich in Health and grace; Roasting, broiling, Toasting boiling, Bring the color to your face. Sunshine mars the best complexion With a coarse and frothy tan; Would you blush in full perfection? Try, oh, try the frying pan.

Should you grieve to find your figure Growing bigger Than it ought; Blouses spitting, Nothing fitting, Hooks refusing to be caught, Cookly exercise will cure you, Setting every fault to rights, Cooks, I earnestly need assure you, Are invariably sprites.

Would you see your hands grow milky, Soft and silky, Soft and silky, Or a kettle; Rub the metal With your soda strong and hot, Would you have your fingers feeling Sleek as velvet, pray begin Instantly potato peeling—It is matchless for the skin.

IDENTIFYING FATHER. [Lippincott.] "Where is your father?" asked the caller. "Down in the pigger," answered the son of the house. "He has a flat on."

GIRLS' NAMES. [London Chronicle.] In the eighteenth century girls were christened Sophia and Caroline; in the early nineteenth, Emma and Jane; a little later, Laura and Clara; then came a crop of Dorothys and Marjories, who are now all calling their own babies in a reaction against the "quaint" Elizabeth. The names of men suffer no such emphatic fashions; and yet it is a pleasure to note that there are certainly no more young men called Alf and Gus, as were the young men who walked with the crinoline in the days of Leech. Good is the sound of John, through all changes.

AS SEEN IN EUROPE. [Magendortler Blätter.] Friend to a count newly married to an American millionaire—I wonder how you managed to fix it up so quickly, as you cannot speak a word of English, nor she of German.

Count—Simplest thing in the world! I showed her my pedigree, and she showed me her checkbook.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT. [Cleveland Leader.] Courtesy is becoming so rare that the man who gives up his seat in a street car feels as if he were playing to the grand stand.

HIS DREAM DISPELLED. [Exchange.] Robertson (slightly deaf)—Darling, how your heart beats tonight. Is because I have proposed? Isabelle—What you hear, sweetest, is the cistern filling with water.

THE FOUNT OF YOUTH. [Pleigenda Blätter.] Extracts from Miss Evergreen's diary: "This is my eighth birthday. A new brother came. His name will be Fritz. (Twenty years later.) 'Fritz is twenty years old today, just a year younger than I. People always take us for twins.' (Ten years later.) 'Fritz will be thirty years old tomorrow, his wedding day. How the time does fly! Of course he is eight years my senior, and used to carry me about when I was a baby; still, it seems strange to think of the boy getting married.'"

BETTER UNSAID. [Minneapolis Journal.] "Looks like rain today," said the milkman, as he poured the customary quart from the can to the plover. "It always does," replied the housewife, compressing her lips with cold significance.

Sitting an oath, he took up his liquid burden and departed heavily.

PATHOS WASTED. [Christian Advocate.] "Professor," said a senior, trying to be pathetic at parting, "I am indebted to you for all I know." "Pez, don't mention such a trifle," was the reply.

COUNT BOWED IN GRIEF

Noble Finds Affairing Bride Killed Herself in Chicago.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 10. — Count Leonid Kazansky has returned from America, heartbroken over the discovery that his betrothed, the beautiful Vera Centonova Cherny, who strangely vanished on the eve of the day set for their wedding, had committed suicide in Chicago.

She was a revolutionist and took her life in the belief that she could never honorably marry the count and thereby possibly compromise him politically in account of his loyalty to the Government.

Count Kazansky, who had spent a large sum before locating his fiancée in America only to find she was dead, said she was the greatest and headstrongest woman he ever saw.

To satisfy himself of her identity he had her grave opened. He found in her coffin the golden cross and ring of rubies that he gave her the night she vanished from St. Petersburg.

The count opened an iron box and showed the cross and ring and also a bone of the finger of one hand. He shook with emotion as he displayed his relic, became excited and walked up and down, covering his face with his hands.

Count Kazansky announces his intention of entering a monastery and becoming a monk. He had laid the plus project before the Czar, he said, and had obtained the imperial approval. In a religious life, the count hopes in time to calm his mind and lessen his poignant grief over the loss of Vera. He has about determined to enter the Solovetsky monastery, which is entirely isolated from the excitements of society and the intrigues of politics.

His large estates and mines in Siberia, he says, he will present to the monastery, after serving for three years as a servant and taking the final vows.

IS THIS A HINT?

Mikado Talks of "Emergencies" to Subjects in Hawaii.

New York, Nov. 11.—A special from Honolulu says: Should emergency arise, offer yourself courageously to your beloved country, and thus guard and maintain the prosperity of our imperial throne. These are the words which the Emperor of Japan, in his birthday message, saluted his 110,000 subjects in the Hawaiian Isles. They have caused no little commotion throughout the islands, and Americans are asking what the Mikado refers to when he speaks of an emergency.

The position of a great body of Japanese in the islands, a population which is rapidly increasing, is regarded here as a source of danger in case of war between the United States and Japan, and the address of the Emperor has not added to the feeling of security.

Through the Hawaiian Islands, the Mikado is asking what the Mikado refers to when he speaks of an emergency.

MISSING CATTLE FOUND

C. P. R. Train Crew Had Gone Away With Them.

Windsor, Nov. 11.—The mysterious disappearance of nine head of cattle from the pasture of Frederick Marantette, a Sandwich East farmer, has been explained.

Early in the week a shipper in Toronto named Shourden consigned 100 head of cattle to London, Ohio, and it was while the cars containing the cattle were opened in the stockyards of the railroad at Sandwich East that the mix-up occurred. The cattle were taken from the cars to be fed. In some manner one of the fences became loosened, and the cattle swarmed into Marantette's pasture. They were hastily rounded up by the train crew and placed back in the cars.

The train conductor thought nine head were missing, and in order to make up the shortage a couple of men from the train crew went back into Marantette's pasture and selected at random nine of his beaves and placed them in the cattle cars. Marantette discovered his loss, an investigation was made, and it was discovered in Ohio that the train conductor had miscounted the consignment at Sandwich East. The missing beaves were sent back and the train crew severely reprimanded for negligence.

HAMMERSTEIN GOT HER

Tetrazzini Is to Sing for Three Years in America.

London, Nov. 9.—New York is to hear Madame Tetrazzini, who at the royal opera this week, won the title "the new Patti." She sings E in alto so easily that the royal opera management engaged her for three seasons.

On the strength of her great success Oscar Hammerstein cabled her an offer to sing in New York, offering for the first season of forty performances $1,500 each; the second season of forty performances, $2,000 each, and the third season of forty performances, $2,500 each.

Tetrazzini has accepted Mr. Hammerstein's proposition, and she is now booked for three years in America. In Europe her contracts aggregate $500,000.

Tetrazzini has sung in San Francisco, but never in New York.

TALKED BOILER EXPLOSIONS

Stationary Engineers Discuss Timely Topics at Semi-Monthly Meeting.

London Council, No. 30, of the Canadian Association of Stationary Engineers, has been holding meetings regularly in their hall, corner of Richmond and Carling streets, every second and fourth Friday of each month since they were organized last June. These meetings are constantly growing in interest, and are of great value to those attending. Friday evening the subject under discussion was "Boiler Explosions," during the course of which one of the members gave a very interesting and instructive black-board talk on boiler construction principles, setting forth the relative values in strength of the riveted joint as compared with the solid plate of which the boiler is made.

The above meeting was characteristic of every meeting held by this association, wherever organized, therefore manufacturers, steam users, as well as the general public, cannot fail to appreciate and see the value of having such an organization in the community. Communications from interested parties are always welcomed, and cheerfully received, by the local secretary, W. Norris, 47 Byron avenue.

FIGHTING WHITE PLAGUE

Prices Offered for Effective Means of Combating the Scourge.

Washington, Nov. 10. — The International Congress on Tuberculosis will be held from Sept. 12 to Oct. 21, 1908, in Washington. The committee has announced the offer of three cash prizes of $1,000 each, for the best evidence of effective work in the prevention or relief of tuberculosis, done by any voluntary association in the last international congress in 1905; second, for the best exhibit of tuberculosis sanatorium for the working classes; third, for the best exhibit of a furnished home for wage-earners.

Several prizes of smaller value are offered for educational leaflets, and for special exhibits, and the governors of all the states have been requested to arrange for representation for each state through one or more departments of state government.

A notable instance of the interest taken by the governors is shown of the letter of Governor Hughes, of New York, who has requested the state commissioner of health, the state department of agriculture, the agricultural experiment station, the Veterinary College and the College of Agriculture at Ithaca, the state hospital for incipient tuberculosis, the department of education, the commission of lunacy, the department of labor and the department of charities, to aid Dr. Porter, state commissioner of health, in the collection of suitable material for the state exhibit.

PIMPLES

ALTHOUGH, NOT A DANGEROUS DISEASE, ARE A VERY TROUBLESOME AND UNSIGHTLY AFFLICTION . . .

They are caused by either poverty or impurity of the blood and require the prompt use of a good blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters, for their eradication, which it speedily accomplishes, at the same time strengthening the entire system.

Pimples also often arise from dyspepsia and constipation, and in these cases Burdock Blood Bitters has the double effect of removing the pimples together with their cause.

Mr. D. P. Sammon, Osceola, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with pimples all over my face and hands. I paid out money to doctors but they could do me no good. A friend convinced me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using two bottles the pimples vanished, and I have not been troubled with them since."

Burdock Blood Bitters may be procured at all Druggists and Dealers.

SOCIALIST CREED ALARMS BRITAIN

Unionist "Victory" at the Polls Shows Little Call for Elation.

London, Nov. 10.—There is great unionist jubilation throughout the country over the result of the election. There never was a greater misnomer for the result of the national polling, and no broad-minded English politician is deceived by it—least of all the leaders of the unionist party.

What has happened or is happening is a complete change in the political complexion of the British electorate. Every form of radicalism in the country has been crushed. Socialism pure and simple began a widespread propaganda about a year ago, and its effects were first manifested in the result of the election in its work has pretended to be non-political and its doctrines have been preached in churches, schoolhouse meetings, open air assemblies, and under every possible guise and on every possible occasion.

So active have been its disciples that there now average 1,500 meetings weekly throughout the country. So-called non-political organizations have been formed everywhere. There are scores of these in London alone, with a membership of from 100 to 2,000, which did not exist a year ago. The leaders ignore or repudiate the mistakes of municipal ownership which caused the overwhelming defeat of the progress party and other cities last spring. These mistakes they account for by saying that they were made by amateur and impractical imitators of real Socialist principles.

It is by no means follows that Socialism is destined to capture England. On the contrary, the opposite prophecy is a safe one. It does signify, however, that the political situation in this country has entirely changed, and Socialism is to become a great national issue. The leaders of both the old parties realize this fully. Lord Balfour proclaimed it in his appeal a few weeks ago, when he called on citizens of all parties to organize to meet it. The machinery of both the Unionist and Liberal parties is in a condition of demoralization and disintegration.

The question of the hour is whether the leaders and the rank and file sufficiently understand the emergency to be willing to abandon old party lines and reorganize to meet the grave issue which the country must face sooner or later. There is less hope of this at the present time than there was a year ago. The average Englishman is not prompt to foresee political dangers, but he is more alive than usual to the emergency. No British political situation ever possessed more worldwide interest than this, and its development will command as much attention in other lands as in this.

CORPORATE REFORMS

Citizens' Association Ex-President
Favors National Control.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Eugene Prussing, the Chicago lawyer, for three years president of the Citizens' Association there, called on President Roosevelt yesterday to present his views on corporate reforms. At the end of the interview the President said:

"And now, my dear sir, I want to pay you a compliment. I did not expect you to give me a single thing—instead of that you have given me several practical suggestions. In concrete form, some of which are entirely new. I shall study them with pleasure. I may say you will soon see them reflected somewhere."

The suggestions of Mr. Prussing included the following:

"National control of inter-state commerce corporations, as distinguished from national corporations of all or most corporations."

"Compulsory publicity of accounts, the submission of books, papers and plans to inspection, etc., of Government officials."

"That the right to hold stock in any other corporation should be denied to all inter-state commerce corporations."

"The change of all state banks and trust companies to national banks, which can be accomplished by a single amendment of the national banking act."

This may be a utilitarian age, but the poets still have the call on popularity. Public school teachers see that abundantly demonstrated every time the birthday of a famous man is celebrated in the public schools. In case of a great nationalist, a scientist, an inventor, a patriot or a statesman the pupils take part in the exercises as requested, but they do it in a perfunctory manner which indicates that their hearts are not in the performance. But with the poets it is different. No need of urging them. The tributes of praise and affection are voluntary. More pupils than are wanted rush to the front with yards of poetry that they want to recite, and instead of wondering how on earth they can ever sustain enough interest to carry out an interesting programme, the teachers are driven to wondering how they can keep down the bubbling enthusiasm.

"When you think of Norway you see glaciers reflected in the sea, or the midnight sun sending its red rays over the landscape, whales ejecting water fountains in the fjords, or you see the winter with the glimmering frosty white snow, girls and boys in bright-colored dresses running in skis. This is all very pretty," writes William Peters in the International Studio, "but a picture of it is rather suggestive of Christmas cards. I will not say that it is unappealing, but it does not give place for art—it becomes vulgar. Why, I cannot shortly tell, but I am sure it would offer an interesting subject for examination. What is picturesque and what is too picturesque? I give this question to art critics."

The output of the Romanian petroleum refineries for 1906 was 2,077,091 tons, against 2,147,870 tons in 1905, and the value was about $6,000,000 in 1906, as compared with $5,500,000 in 1905. In addition 114,428 tons of heavy gasoline were produced.

Another member of the Glolitti Cabinet in Italy has fallen a victim to the fatality which seems to dog its footsteps. Signor Majorana, the Minister of the Treasury, the youngest and most promising member of the Government, who was publicly designated as his successor by Signor Glolitti last summer, has fallen ill, and has gone to Sicily, leaving his resignation in the premier's hands. Thus, in eleven months, no fewer than four out of eleven members of the Glolitti Cabinet have died or resigned from ill-health—a fact which has much impressed the superstitious who believe implicitly in the evil eye.

L. C. I. BOYS DEFEAT FAST SARNIANS

The London Collegiate boys celebrated the close of the local Rugby season Saturday by defeating the fast Sarnia fourteen by a score of 20 to 10. A small crowd witnessed the game, which was a very brilliant junior exhibition.

The local boys had things pretty much their own way all the way through, and showed much improved form over that of a few weeks ago, when Sarnia took a well-earned victory over them.

The teams lined up as follows:

ED. GEERS—A STUDY

Ed. Geers is a type of man that is fast becoming extinct. He reminds you of one of those old Marlborough sea captains who used to go down to the sea in ships, and often left their bones to the barometer. Men they were of unflinching courage, loyalty that knew no compromise, religious withal and believers in the god of battles.

Geers can never be bought, intimidated or turned aside when he thinks he is doing his duty. He is as mild and low-voiced as was Kit Carson and could shoot as quickly, if needs be.

On the face of this man is a look of reserve power, an elemental calm that carries conviction. The repose of the man is ominous and his pose is fearsome. No one takes any liberties with him. His look, his features, his silence, his attitude, his moderate movements, his economy of words are all as well-timed as the movements of a clock. Yet he is a kind neighbor, a good citizen and is thoroughly respected by those who know him best. If Geers is your friend, he is your friend in all weather, fair or foul. His silence is the silence of General Grant, and in many ways he is just as great a man, for please do not forget that Grant was a grocer at Galena when he was 35 years old, and not much of a grocer at that. It was opportunity that shook the reins over him and pushed his nose under the wire. Grant had gotten the flag in every race he had entered up to 1861.

Most of Geers' battles have been won by generalship, and I believe Pa Hamlin is right when he says that Geers is the greatest horse general the world has ever seen.

Geers is just 50, with a brickbat complexion, the result of wind and weather. I make this explanation because the man never touches intoxicants in any form. He is a trifle lame and a little hunched, like Budd Doble, Jack Spaul and Ed Marvin; for who wouldn't be after being in a score of mix-up runaways, upsets, six horses and six sulks piled as high as a haystack, like a game of football played by centaurs! Four times he has been carried from the track on a barn door for dead, but with nothing worse than a few broken bones sticking out through his clothes. And still Geers lives and works, and works in joy, for his perfect health is proof of that. His career has just begun, he says.—By Elbert Hubbard, in the Philistine.

SPORTING GOSSIP
BY SOUTHPAW

Wow! Did you note what happened to the two Ottawa teams? Blanked! Ottawa should be grouped with London next season.

And the Argos Intermediates got old tributes in that scheduled bout with the Hamilton Cubs. For a team which sports five seniors, the Argos certainly have little kick coming against a team which has only three—and not extra good ones, at that.

The McClarys "got to" the "Ya" Saturday on the Heights, and trimmed them by 3 to 1. In the second Soccer fracas the Western University team administered a coat of whitewash to the Bolt Works brigade by 2 to 0. Quartermaster Barney Dunlevy featured both contests and gave splendid satisfaction. A fair crowd witnessed the games, which were highly interesting.

Sarnia came here Saturday imbued with the notion that the local Collegiate team was made to order for them. There was some slight change in their opinion at the conclusion of the game.

GOSSIP OF THE HOCKEY WORLD

Brantford will enter a team in the junior series of the O. H. A. It is said that Wm. Rutherford will be the manager. An effort will be made to form a group consisting of Woodstock, Ingersoll, Paris, Brantford, and possibly Waterloo, although it is not thought that railway facilities will admit of the inclusion of the last-named town.

Markham High School will enter a team in the Junior O. H. A. series.

There was and is still talk that with an artificial rink Toronto might enter a team which would round off the E. C. H. League to better advantage than Quebec. However, the chances of Toronto coming in are slim in view of the fact that the scheme for the new rink is likely to fall through. Toronto has been a success in football and lacrosse, and would probably be the same in hockey, but there is the difficulty of ice.—Montreal Gazette.

The breaking of the International Hockey League seems to be but a natural sequel to professional hockey. It is a plain illustration that pro hockey is not a paying proposition even in a country where money is plentiful, and the people very enthusiastic in their support of the teams. The same result can be applied to Western Ontario, in the event of a professional league being started. It is a positive fact that the people would not support a pro. team in Stratford in the same measure that they do the amateur home-brews, and it is quite probable that these conditions can be applied to other cities.

At the beginning of every hockey season there are always a few promoters who are ready to float a pro league, but when the winter arrives the league has disappeared. The disorganization of the pro. league will throw a number of crack hockeyists out a position, the most of whom, however, will move further west—Stratford Beacon.

Just what series Stratford will enter is hard to determine. It is generally understood that the majority of the seniors have no intention of playing this season, and in such a case the Ross Robertson cup would leave the city undefended. But now there are one or two knowing ones in the city who predict that with the exception of one player the Indians will be out again this season.

It has leaked out that the 1908 champions of the Ontario Hockey Association will be taken to the Olympic games at London, England. This will surely entice the seniors out.

In France the doctor's claim on the estate of a deceased patient has precedence of all others.

RIDING THE SOUTH SEA SURF.

"I shall never forget the first big wave I caught out there in the deep water. I saw it coming, turned my back on it and paddled for dear life. Faster and faster my board went, until I seemed my arms would drop off. What was happening behind me I could not tell. One cannot look behind and paddle the windmill stroke. I heard the crest of the wave hissing and churning, and then my board was lifted and flung forward. I scarcely knew what happened the first half minute. Though I kept my eyes open, I could not see anything, for I was buried in the rushing white of the crest. But I did not mind. I was having caught the wave. At the end of the half-minute, however, I began to see things and to breathe. I saw that three feet of the nose of my board was clear out of water and riding on the air. I shifted my weight forward and made the nose come down. Then I lay, quiet at rest in the midst of the wild movement, and watched the shore and the bathers on the beach grow distinct. I didn't cover quite a quarter of a mile on this wave, because, to prevent the board from diving, I shifted my weight back, but shifted it too far, and fell down the rear slope of the wave."—Jack London, in Woman's Home Companion.

Bishop Sanford Olmsted, of Colorado, at a dinner in Denver said apropos of Sabbath breaking: "I was talking to an eastern clergyman the other day about his church attendance. I suppose," I said, "that in your district rain affects the attendance considerably." He smiled faintly. Indeed, yes," he said, "I hardly have a vacant seat when it is too wet for golf or motoring."

MANSFIELD SPOKE TO HIM.

When Richard Mansfield produced "Cyrano de Bergerac" in Cleveland the production necessitated the use of a large number of supernumeraries. Most of these extra hands were Adelbert students, who greatly enjoyed the opportunity of supporting the eminent star. Of course, Mansfield's personality was the prime source of interest to them, and every super of the mob—Courtiers and Gascon cadets—mildly anxious to gain a personal recognition from the great Cyrano, but he appeared entirely oblivious of the presence of each and all of them.

But one night toward the end of the week a student-super who had strayed away for a few moments rejoined his comrades. His face was radiant.

"Well, fellows," he said, "the old man spoke to me."

"Mansfield spoke to you?" they cried.

"What did he say?"

"I was standing in the runway at the right."

"Yes, yes,"

"Mansfield was hurrying to his dressing room. I smiled and nodded. He saw me. Then he spoke."

"What did he say?"

"He said, 'Out of the way, you idiot,' and passed along."

And the envied youth remained the only super to whom the star extended a personal recognition during the engagement.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

CONFERENCE ABOUT
OLYMPIA ATHLETES

The C. A. A. U. Representatives Present Their Side of the Case.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 9.—A conference bearing on the Olympic games in England next spring was begun in Ottawa yesterday when the officers of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union met Col. Hanbury Williams and P. D. Ross, who are acting as Canadian representatives on the Olympic Committee.

The head half of the conference will be held on Monday, when the federation of athletes will present its case, the Montreal gentlemen having found its inconvenient to be present yesterday. The conference, of course, has to do with the status now existing between the rival athletic governing bodies in Canada, a condition which may materially affect Canada's representatives at the Olympic meeting.

It is understood that Col. Hanbury Williams has requested the representatives of the governing bodies to endeavor to come to some satisfactory agreement whereby the trouble which is cropping up over sending a Canadian team to the great athletic meet may be settled.

N. H. Crow, secretary of the C. A. A. U.; J. G. Merrick, chairman of the Registration Committee, and Francis Nelson arrived from Toronto yesterday and conferred with Vice-President Frank Grierson and Mr. Percy Lee, the local representatives. They afterwards had a session with the Olympic committee members. As to what passed at this gathering, nothing was given out officially last night. Col. Hanbury Williams, announcing that there would be nothing for the press until after the Federation had been heard on Monday.

Meantime, however, the C. A. A. U. men claim to have been successful, and to have scored a practical victory from their presentation of the case. A local Federation official, however, stated that there was nothing in this opinion just yet, and when President Buchan, of Montreal, and other Federationists were heard on Monday, it would result in their amateur rulings being accepted by the Olympic committee, otherwise there would be no representatives to the affiliated Amateur Athletic Union sent to England, which, he said, would mean disaster for the Olympian games. This is the status quo as far as can be learned.

GENERAL ADVISED
DISOBEDIENCEAuge of the French Army Told
His Men to Ignore Orders.

Paris, Nov. 11.—General Piquart, Minister of War, has succeeded in persuading his colleagues in the cabinet to consent that Colonel Auge should be reinstated in the command of the Fourth Infantry Regiment, stationed at Auxerre. He was one of the most popular officers in the whole French army, but one day he used impudent expressions in a circular to the soldiers, urging the importance of self-initiative. He said that whenever the necessities of military duty required the exercises of initiative they must act unhesitatingly, "even if you have to disobey your officers."

The last phrase was interpreted as subversive to military discipline and the opposition press made such a violent campaign that the Government deemed it advisable temporarily to remove him from his command.

Local Items

An exhibition game of Rugby football has been arranged to take place Saturday at Tecumseh Park between the London and the London Intermediates. From all accounts the teams are very evenly matched, and an excellent, well-contested struggle should take place. The local team will probably line up as follows: Full back, Hague; quarter back, Spry; scrum, Brown, Craig, Rau, wings, Sage, Brown, Duffield, McEwen, Moore, Bice; backs, Bole, Jackson, Whetter.

Recovers From Injuries.

Mr. John Wise, who was so seriously injured at the McClary works some time ago by falling down the elevator shaft, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home.

Interesting Lecture.

Empress Avenue Methodist Church have engaged Rev. F. J. Oaten, M. A., of Milverton, to lecture in the church on "Western Pioneer Experiences," tonight, and the lecture promises to be interesting and instructive.

Many Applicants.

Secretary McElhennan, of the board of education, is receiving applications for the position of alternating principal of the public schools of the city. Many first-class teachers are among the applicants.

$10,000 From Liquor Licenses.

London will receive about $10,000 from liquor licenses this year. The first installment has been paid and amounts to $4,775. Hamilton will receive about $14,800 from that source.

Goes to Sanatorium.

The case of Ray Mitchell, the unfortunate consumptive who was brought to Victoria Hospital recently, has been disposed of. Last night his brothers arrived from Guelph to take him to a sanatorium near Weston.

Want Wooden Tanks.

The Wolverine brass works of Grand Rapids, Mich., are creating a large plant in Chatham, and this morning City Clerk Baker received a communication from them asking if there were any firms in London who manufactured large wooden tanks, as they wish to purchase several for their plant. The communication will be handed over to the manufacturers' committee.

Wants Company Formed.

A communication has been received by City Clerk Baker from Mr. O. C. Little, of Kenosha, Wis., regarding the establishment here of a manufacturing plant for the sliding furniture shoe. He informed the committee that the factory in Wisconsin had only been in operation one year and the special machinery necessary for the plant had not all been manufactured. He suggests that a company be formed in London to manufacture this article, and he will sell the patents for the shoe to them. This communication will also be sent to the manufacturers' committee.

Death of Mrs. R. Marcus.

A telegram has been received of the sudden death, on the 7th inst., of Mrs. Robert Marcus, mother of Mrs. E. A. Taylor, of Richmond, and Mrs. Rev. N. Shaw, of Edmondville. She went last spring to visit her son, Mr. Alfred Marcus, of the Salem Iron Works, Salem, Oregon. She was spending a few weeks at Bay City, Oregon, on the Pacific Coast, when the sudden call came. Her many friends in Edmondville, Ridgeway and bothwell will hear the sad news with deep regret. Her life for many years was filled with good works which showed her sterling Christian character.

Bennett's Bill.

The new bill, which opens at Bennett's this afternoon, is headed by vaudeville's greatest sensation, Voltaire, the electrical marvel, whose amazing feats with deadly electrical current of high power has been a marvel to electricians and scientists throughout the country. The Mimic Four, a very strong comedy act entitled "The Day After," and Mme. Raffine, troupe of incomparable trained monkeys are also prominent features, while Rosaire and Doree, the international acrobats, have one of the best novelty features seen in London in a long while. Frank Whitman, the well-known dancing violinist, will offer a high-class specialty, while Roatino and Stevens have a particularly pleasing offering in "Scenes in a Wistaria Bower." Charlotte Coate and Little Sandover have a clever singing and comedy sketch in "Wanted an Errand Boy," and the Bennettograph will present a late film of intense romantic interest entitled "The Prodigal Son." Bargain matinees every day, with full orchestra will be held as usual.

COMEDIAN DEAGON LOOKS UP OLD SPOTS

Mr. Arthur Deagon the great Canadian comedian, who appears tonight at the Grand Opera House, in "The Time, the Place and the Girl," was greatly interested in London on arriving this morning, and as soon as he had registered he started to hunt up the old familiar spots. This is his first visit to London for twenty years, and the great improvement in the city in that time was favorably commented upon by him.

"Where are the old sulphur springs that used to be located on Dundas street?" he asked. "Are they there yet?" On being informed that they were still there, although not in the same spot as in the old days, he declared that he was going down to have a drink.

Mr. Deagon is accompanied by Pat Deagon, his brother, another well-known member of the family. Several old-time hockey players of London went down to the hotel to see him and talk over the old days. The real hockey player—no reflection on the others—was Chick Deagon. He used to come to London often with the Ayr team, and was a great player. He went into the theatrical business, too, and was manager for one of B. C. Whitney's companies. He left the employ of Mr. Whitney some year or so ago, and it is not known at present where he is. He was well-known to the sports in town.

"London has grown wonderfully in twenty years," said Mr. Arthur Deagon.

writers bring certain elements together, as the chemist does in his experiments, and then nature does the rest. Both money and matter are brought together. The description may be wrong, as they often are, both in fiction and science.

Fiction Truer Than Fact.

Fiction is truer than fact. Fact and truth are not the same. Fact is the raw material that may be worked up into either truth or falsehood. What is the opposite to fact? Merely other facts. Truth is the great general principle. The truth of his remarks, he declared, is proven by the great poet, Homer. Facts are brought together on both sides, and great truths of party, generally opposed, are brought out of these facts. Facts are particulars that happened to have happened. Truth is the generalization of facts. Many claim that they will confine their observations to facts; by this meaning that they will deal only with accidentals. In fiction selected conditions are always dealt with. A fiction biography always has more truth than a real biography. In biography there is a great mass of accidental, unrelated particulars that have no meaning in the presentation of the man's life. In fiction that is not the case. No accidental particulars are brought in at all; there is no need of them. In fiction is to be found the pure gold, gold from a thousand mines, while in ordinary biography gold is found, but it is generally mixed with much alloy. Emerson is 100 Englishmen balled into one. This may seem a paradox. Now what is a paradox? A truth standing on tip-toe to be recognized. Fiction, therefore, is either truer or false than fact, but it is a more potent instrument for dealing with and discovering truth from a thousand directions, and concentrating it. An astronomer never looks at the stars. He works on a diagram of the stars placed on a diagram. Poetry is a lens turning upon human nature. Some say that they do not care for telescopes or microscopes; they will look at nature as it is. Nine-tenths of nature is too far away to be seen, and the other tenth is so near that it is out of focus. The telescope and the microscope are both necessary for a right interpretation of nature. Dr. Moulton said he had studied the microscope for many years, but failed to see that he was a philosopher. His mind was a lens, and the whole of his work was a lens, and they become philosophers.

That will not do, some urge. Common sense is against it. Would you prefer the novel reader to one who reads histories and political movements and then Dr. Moulton pointed out that he had not said a word about novel reading. What is wrong with novel reading is not the novels, but the readers. Seventy-five per cent of the novel readers are literary gamblers. The love of money is not the root of gambling. It is some disease of the emotions. It is some titillating trug of excitement. The same is true of novel reading. This excitement is carried through thirty chapters. Very few read a novel twice. The poetry the more it is read, the better it is appreciated. The great institution of poetry is discredited because of literary gambling.

Modern education he regarded as medieval in the matter of literature. Science is up-to-date, but literature has not been brought up-to-date. The interpretation of fiction and poetry should be given a greater place on the curriculum of modern schools.

On the motion of Mr. Frank Lawson and Inspector Edwards, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Moulton.

PRODUCER GAS IS IN DEMAND

Two More Big Ontario Firms Decide To Use It in Their Factories.

Two more large Western Ontario firms have decided to use producer gas to run their factories. The Lukes Milling Company of Brantford are putting in a 150-horsepower gas engine, and putting out modern compound condensing engines.

The Frame and Hay Fence Company of Stratford are also equipping their new factory with a big producer gas engine.

Both firms are thoroughly satisfied, from what they have found out about producer gas, that it is practically unrivaled as an economical power producer.

"What I would like to know," said a prominent manufacturer in this city this morning, "is, where Mr. Beck proposes to sell his 5,000-horsepower after he gets it here? I have made a careful estimate of the power used in this city, and believe he will do well if he disposes of 2,000-horsepower. There are a large number of firms in the city who must have steam. Take, for instance, McCormick's and Perrin's firms, who have a large amount of boiling and steaming of their power is used in this way. Then there are firms like German & Eckert, who have a lot of cooking to do, who must have steam."

"Then there is another class of firms like the Columbia Handle Factory, the Globe Casket factory, Dymond & Baker and others, who would have comparatively little use for Niagara power, as they get their fuel for practically nothing. If being the waste wood used in the manufacture of lumber, these firms also do a large amount of steam drying in their dry kilns, and when they can get fuel at the price they pay they would be silly not to use it for operating boilers."

We do not say his words are pearls. But when his story's told, Mar we not say he gives the world A flood of molten gold?

URGES PRESTON TO RUN AGAIN

No Nominations Made at the Liberal Conventions at Brantford.

Brantford, Nov. 11.—Hon. A. G. MacKay, Liberal leader, addressed two meetings in this city Saturday, speaking at the Liberal convention in the afternoon and at the rally in the evening, when addresses were also given by W. B. Wood, Hon. William Patterson and T. H. Preston. The Liberal leader covered no new ground, reiterating his former stand on Niagara power, education, spoils, forestry, prison labor, the commission system.

He was well received. During the convention he made a strong appeal to Mr. Preston to reconsider his withdrawal. No nomination was considered, and it is not known who will be the standard bearer.

Mr. Preston repeated an address given in the afternoon at Hamilton, dealing with the general charges against the Government, and defending the policy of his own department. The minister of customs was in fine voice and aroused genuine enthusiasm among his former constituents.

The convention in the afternoon was well attended. Nothing was done beyond electing officers, the presidency going to Martin McEwen, a young barrister of this city.

MYSTERY ABOUT NEW YORK TRAGEDY

Butler of a Millionaire Broker Dead and Latter's Young Son Fatally Wounded.

New York, Nov. 11.—The mystery surrounding the tragedy of yesterday morning, which resulted in the death of John Bjorlin and the possible fatal shooting of Paul G. Thebaud, jun., the 17-year-old son of a millionaire broker who may never be cleared. That Bjorlin, who was butler and confidential man in the magnificent country home of the Thebauds in White Plains, where the tragedy occurred, shot his employer's son while the latter was sleeping and then killed himself is patent. Absolutely nothing as to what led to the act, however, has been learned. The only person who may be able to throw light on the case is young Thebaud, who was not certain that he may have recovered consciousness. The bullet which fractured his skull was removed yesterday, and several famous surgeons have been in almost constant attendance since the operation.

Bjorlin, who was a Dane, had been in the employ of the Thebaud family about four years, and appeared to be greatly attached to the children in the household. Paul was his favorite. The affection of the butler for the young man long has been noticeable, and when Bjorlin several days ago, and morose and began to drink heavily it was believed to be because the young man had called him to account sharply for some inattention to his duties. Some of the other servants have said since the tragedy that Bjorlin had been threatened to kill everyone in the house, and told them that he had made a written list of his prospects at the head. They paid no attention to him at the time, believing it was only the idle talk of a man who had drunk too heavily.

MILITARY TRAINING FOR N.S.

Minister Borden Arranges To Have in the Schools.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—An arrangement between the minister of militia and the Government of Nova Scotia for the introduction into the public schools of the province of a system of physical exercise and military drill will go into effect on the 1st of January next. School teachers will undergo special courses to qualify them for imparting physical training and military drill to the scholars in Nova Scotia until they qualify for this purpose.

Certificates for physical training and elementary drill will be issued to teachers of either sex. For school cadet corps the militia department will provide instructors, belts and caps, and a provision of arms and ammunition and drill books. Sir Frederick Borden is a strong believer that every lad, before he reaches manhood, should be able to handle a rifle. The minister is in communication with some of the other provinces and it is believed they will follow the example of Nova Scotia.

LIMITING THE SKYSCRAPERS

Nothing Higher than Twenty Stories To Be Erected Hereafter.

New York, Nov. 11.—The World says: The mad race among builders for putting up a sudden end by drastic regulations which will revolutionize building construction in this city after Jan. 1, provides that no building shall be over 220 feet in height. This law sounds like a decision in modern freak skyscraper, and means that hereafter no buildings of the Singer and Metropoli life class, respectively 232 and 268 feet high, can go up in this city. For the next ten years at least, if the new law regulations, the height of skyscrapers will be limited to approximately twenty stories.

At the Washoe smelting works, Anaconda, Mont., 13,000 tons are handled daily by 13 compressed air locomotives, 12 of which weigh 13 tons each and one 21 tons. Each locomotive carries two storage tanks for its air supply, the air being taken from a pressure system of pipes laid conveniently to the tracks, and having stations at which the locomotives stop to get their supply.

PATROLMAN SHOT AND MAY DIE

Detroit Officer Fatally Wounded By a Friend of His Prisoner.

Detroit, Nov. 11.—Patrolman George H. Wilson, while attempting to escort a prisoner to the patrol box, at Champlain and St. Antoine streets, was shot in the forehead, between the eyes, by an unknown assailant, at 1:15 o'clock this morning.

The wounded officer is at St. Mary's Hospital, where but little hope for his recovery is expressed by the attending physicians.

Wilson arrested one of a party of four men who were creating a disturbance just outside a Champlain street resort. The other three men followed the officer, and just before reaching St. Antoine street, one of them produced a revolver and fired three shots at the officer.

Wilson returned the fire, but when the smoke cleared the officer was found to have been critically wounded, while his prisoner and companions had made their escape.

A general call was sent to headquarters, and a corps of police was sent out at once to surround the district in which the shooting occurred.

At 2 o'clock this morning the hospital attendants announced that there was a very slight hope for the recovery of Wilson.

All three of the bullets entered his skull, and the brain matter oozed rapidly from the cranium before the surgeons began to work upon him.

FAIL TO ENTHUSE IN BUTTER SCHEME

Cheesemakers Say That Whey Is More Valuable for Use as Feed.

Woodstock, Ont. Nov. 10.—Local cheese men who were questioned regarding the practicability of the method employed by some cheese manufacturers of making butter from whey, were anything but enthusiastic as to the outcome of such an experiment. The consensus of opinion is that the manufacture cannot be carried on profitably.

On the question of the amount of butter in whey opinions seemed to differ. One very successful cheesemaker contended that under normal conditions the amount of butter fat in whey is 1-10 of 1 per cent. According to this estimate, out of 25,000 pounds of whey there could be manufactured 25 pounds of butter.

To make this amount it would take a man at least eight hours to run it through the separator, and two hours more would be required in the manipulation of the separated whey. The bulk of the separated whey would be useless as a food product. The time taken, the machinery required and the loss of the whey as a food product would thus not be compensated for by the amount of butter that could be manufactured.

In other words, whey as a food product for hogs is worth more than its intrinsic value applied in any other direction. Some cheese men say 1 per cent of whey is better fat. If this be the case 25,000 pounds of whey would produce 50 pounds of butter, but even so, it is argued that this quantity of whey used for feeding hogs would be worth more than 50 pounds of butter, because of the expense of its manufacture has been deduced.

KILLED IN END RUSH

Columbus Schoolboy Has Neck Broken in Fierce Tackle.

Columbus, Ind., Nov. 11.—Earl Ruddell, 18 years old, a member of the senior team of the Columbus high school, died yesterday of injuries received on Saturday in a football game between the Columbus high school eleven and the North Vernon eleven.

He was playing right end for Columbus. One of the visiting players attempted to make an end run, and he tackled him. The two came together with so much force that the head of Ruddell was broken, in which he died from the field unconscious, in which condition he remained until he died.

Major Coachman, who was on the field, said that he did not see the tackle, but that he saw the head of Ruddell broken, and that he saw the head of Ruddell broken, and that he saw the head of Ruddell broken.

NO ISSUE OF BONDS.

The bonds will have a par value of $100, and will be issued in the proportion of one bond for each three shares of stock already held.

The official statement of the intention to issue bonds was made today, following a meeting of the directors in this city.

FIFTY MILLIONS IN GOLD IMPORTS

The Week Opens on Wall Street With Cheerful Tone to Sentiment.

New York, Nov. 11.—The week opened with a very cheerful tone to sentiment in the financial district. The two trust companies against which there had been severe runs were transacting business on a normal basis today, receiving deposits and paying out money on checks as though nothing had ever happened out of the ordinary.

The flow of gold from Europe to the United States continues. The first engagements of the metal for import announced today were by the Mercantile Trust Company, of St. Louis, for $500,000, and by the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago for $200,000. Both engagements are said to be the first since the outbreak of the currency crisis in that city has taken gold direct from London. The total gold engaged since the beginning of the financial stringency is thus brought up to $51,831,810.

SOCIALISTS MAY INSULT KAISER

Little Fear of Violence, But Unseemly Incidents May Occur.

London, Nov. 11.—It is seldom that such a great assemblage of reigning monarchs gathers under one roof as will be seen this week. The fourth day of the visit of the Kaiser to the British Empire, on Monday the Emperor and Empress of Germany, will join the royal party at Windsor and there will follow a week of unpretentious gaiety.

The programme, unfortunately, does not exclude a strong element of apprehension. The Kaiser will go in public procession through London on Wednesday to the Guildhall, where he will be the usual ceremonies connected with a royal visit. It is a matter of common knowledge that there is a strong feeling of prejudice and dislike of the Kaiser among a considerable section of the people. This has already found expression in public incitement to insult the visiting monarch on the streets next week. The Socialist organ, Justice, in its current number contains a leader by Hyndman, saying: "I do not see why the people of this great metropolis should welcome the chief promoter of the reaction in Europe, with any other greeting than hoots, groans and hisses. These, I trust, will be dealt out to him in full measure as he makes his royal progress from Windsor to the city."

This and other indications of impending trouble are giving the authorities great anxiety. They do not fear actual violence, or, rather, they fear it, but they are more concerned with precautions in this regard are entirely adequate, but the danger of unseemly incidents is considerable. The newspapers are busy pointing out that if they occur the Socialists will be solely responsible and that Wilhelm is already thoroughly acquainted with their venom, and will not give their demonstrations undue significance.

The English public and authorities also have been much puzzled by reported changes of plans in connection with the Kaiser's visit. The latest announcement is that the original programme will be adhered to. But rumors are rife concerning the Emperor's health and also political difficulties in connection with his visit.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stockbroker, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Chicago, and Cullington today:

New York, Nov. 11.—Noon.—Today's market has been a decidedly strong undertone, and there has been little pressure to sell, but before the opening London came higher, and that market has followed ours, so that arbitrage transactions have been on a very small scale. The market has been very buoyant by a floor trader, but it is not believed that he is acting for his own account, but that he has been induced by a considerable order from some important quarter. THOMPSON-SETON'S TRIP Author Traveled Over 2,000 Miles by Canoe in Canadian Wilds.

Edmonton, Nov. 10. — "We found plenty of material for our pens," said Ernest Thompson Seton, the animal story writer, describing the trip he took with Edward A. Peabody, of the United States Department of Agriculture, into the far north, "we will no doubt be able to write something interesting about the country we visited."

Mr. Seton stated that they had traveled over 2,000 miles by canoe, going from Athabasca Landing to Smith's Landing, thence to Great Slave Lake, and to Fort Resolution on the return.
They covered the entire trip in six months, something which Mr. Seton believes has never been done before.
When asked regarding the great stretch of country known as the Barrens, Mr. Seton stated that the country abounded in game of many kinds, chiefly caribou and musk ox. Although entirely barren of trees and of human habitation, it was covered with vegetation, but the season was too short for wheat-growing.

The country about Great Slave Lake and northwest was most beautiful, said the author, and grew an abundance of small fruits and flowers of every description. There were scarcely any white people in the region, however, the inhabitants being mostly Indians and half-breeds.

The author sees no reason why the southern parts of the country they visited should not develop rapidly into settlements. The climate is very desirable, and the land is good. Especially is this so of the Lower Peace River district, in which they spent some weeks.

London, Nov. 10. — Charles Dickens' alleged connection with the Druce case is one of the most amazing features of that amazing story. Members of the Dickens family here have issued a disclaimer to the effect that it is in their knowledge that Charles Dickens never knew the Duke of Portland, but the diary which has been stolen from Miss Robinson, a Virginia woman, who was the secretary of Druce for many years, contains numerous references to Dickens. It was Dickens, she said, who introduced her to Druce.

A long passage in the diary is devoted to the story he is alleged to have told of the duke's identity with Druce. A curious coincidence, unnoted here, in Dickens' last book, "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," is that it is a story of a man with a dual existence. Did Druce suggest Drood?

The present Duke of Sutherland is said to be furious because his friends will insist upon sympathizing with him on the prospect of his losing his title. He declares that the whole Druce claim is an imposture which may end in jail.

DR. MOULTON ON THE FAIRY QUEEN

A Brilliant Analysis of Spenser's Masterpiece—The Bible as Literature.

The pulpit of the First Methodist Church was occupied on Sunday by Dr. Moulton, of the University of Chicago. Large congregations were present at both services, and the lectures were much appreciated.
The morning subject was on St.
Matthew. He noted the difference between the gospels, a difference noted by every reader. Varied reasons had been given for that difference. He would give his opinion not as a theologian, but as a student of literature.
The gospel of St. Matthew differed from the other gospels in that it was not a history, but was wisdom literature after the style of Job, Ecclesi-astes, the Proverbs, and the Epistles of St. James. It was a singularly complete philosophy. Philosophy was meditation on things in general, and the philosophy of the Bible dealt with conduct and always had reference to that. An ordinary philosopher might be a good philosopher but a bad man.
That was not true of the philosophy of the Bible.

The Number Seven.
The number seven stood for completion and orderly arrangement among the Hebrews, and nowhere in the Bible is it more manifest than in the Gospel of St. Matthew. The seven-fold construction was very evident throughout the whole gospel. The parables were seven. The Sermon on the Mount was the seven-fold exposition of the law of the wheat and the chaff, and the building up of the church idea. This is carried out through twelve sections, and at the last, when the ascension of Christ takes place, the writer does not mention it. He is dealing with the development of the kingdom on earth.

The Bible as Literature.
The evening subject was "The Literary Study of the Bible." The Bible was a library of literature, containing poetry, both epic and lyric, dramas, history, wisdom, literature, and every form of literature known to men. It developed during the history of the Hebrew race. It should be studied as such. Sometimes quotations are made and on such quotations systems of theologies are formed and argument answered. Some even seek by such quotations to overthrow faith in the Bible. Such reckless use of quotations was wrong. The books should be studied as a whole. A gem of poetry, often it was dangerous. As an example, he quoted many extracts from the Bible, proverbs, and showed that they were not true absolutely any more than many present day proverbs.

As to the infallibility of the Bible, Dr. Moulton pointed out that it was a human book, written by men, and as such liable to error.

Spenser's Fairy Queen.

Dr. Moulton took Spenser's great masterpiece, "The Fairy Queen," for the subject of both his lectures Saturday. In the afternoon he spoke on "Temperance," to which over 7,000 lines of the poem are devoted. Dr. Moulton has made a special study of the poem, and the result of his analysis was apparent to his audience, which he presented it to his audience in a short address on the poets of the time of Shakespeare, Milton and Spenser, in which he contrasted their works, Dr.
Moulton explained that by temperance,

THE SHEEP INDUSTRY

Important Bulletin Issued by Ontario
Department of Agriculture.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—The Ontario department of agriculture has just issued a bulletin on the sheep industry of the Province, the first publication of its kind by the department. It contains the result of an exhaustive inquiry into the industry and the reasons for its decrease in Ontario. These are given as lack of profit owing to low prices for mutton and wool, losses from disease and at lambing time.

It is pointed out in respect to the first that prices are now such as to make the sheep industry a profitable one, provided the other drawbacks can be offset. Suggestions with this in view are given, including proposed amendments to the sheep protection act. Among the tables in the bulletin

TURNKEY TALKS OF BIRCHALL

Mr. James Forbes Gives Interesting Reminiscences of His Famous Prisoner.

Woodstock, Nov. 10. — Mr. James Forbes, for twenty years a turnkey of Oxford county jail, has retired. He has marked his removal from the turnkey's house by relating to a reporter some interesting reminiscences regarding the prisoners who have passed through his hands. He estimates that in the twenty years he has had charge of about 4,000 different prisoners.

Three years after he assumed the duties of turnkey, Birchall said, let us walk up to the end of the corridor and the prisoner was confined in the jail for eight months. Turnkey and prisoner got to be good friends, and about once each year Mr. Forbes received a letter from Mrs. Birchall, who went back to England after the execution, and writes to her at the same intervals. In one letter which he showed the reporter she wondered if it was possible that "six years and three months had passed since that terrible trial." Birchall was hanged on Nov. 14, 1890.

Mr. Forbes does not think that Birchall ever made a confessional to any person, though he believes that he was guilty.

Birchall's Self-Control.

"Birchall had the most wonderful control over himself of any man I ever saw," said Mr. Forbes. "All the time he was in jail he never once broke down in the presence of his wife. The last night he was alive his wife came up to the jail. I went to the cell with her and sat between them during the interview, for we were afraid she would assist him to commit suicide.
We sat there for a long time while they talked, and finally I said: 'Mrs.
Birchall, you've got to go now.' 'Oh,
have I got to leave him?' she cried.
The tears just streamed down my face. I couldn't help it. So we walked out into the corridor, I on one side of Mrs. Birchall and the condemned man on the other. We stood outside for a minute, and a confessional said: 'Let us walk up to the end of the corridor alone.' I just looked at him, and he said, 'Forbes, you can trust me.' I said, 'Birchall, I will.' They walked up to the end of the corridor and stood there for fifteen or twenty minutes talking together. I don't know what they said. After a time they came back and Mrs. Birchall left. That was the last time they saw one another. When Birchall heard the outer door close after his wife he broke down completely and went all to pieces. I thought he would never get over it, but finally he calmed down.
