CATHOLICS RISE AGAINST POLICY

Many Meetings of Protest Held in French—Clash With Reds.

Associated Press Dispatch. Paris, Jan. 19.—The Catholic movement throughout France in protest against the government's policy of forcing foreigners to learn to speak English, has been continued yesterday and at Aix-en-Provence a clash occurred between adherents of General de Castelnau and the National Catholic Federation on the one hand and the local communists on the other.

The Catholics held a procession during which they chanted anthems while the communists also paraded singing the "Internationale" and other revolutionary songs. The two factions came to blows as the Catholics were wending their way toward the cathedral. Reinforcements of police prevented the incidents from becoming serious.

Monsieur Riviere, archbishop of Aix, took an active part in General de Castelnau's meeting, which called for a close union of the Catholics for the defence of their rights and liberties.

Nancy was also the scene of a Catholic manifestation in which Mgr. Ruch of Strasbourg, Bishop de Lascelle of Nancy, Senator Michaut and Deputy Comte Eduard de Warren took part.

Bishop de Ruch declared sectarian hate was being expressed against Alsace-Lorraine's religious sentiments, whereas the religious leaders of the province had kept alive loyalty to France during the province's separation from the country.

The conclusion of the meeting was marked by the adoption of resolutions protesting against sectarian laws for Alsace-Lorraine in disregard of solemn promises made by the highest authorities and despite the solemn will of the great majority of inhabitants of the recovered provinces.

CRONYN MEMORIAL ENDS BANNER YEAR

Budget of $11,000 Met in Full While $27,000 Is Raised For New Hall.

Cronyn Memorial Anglican church members will receive a most satisfactory annual financial statement at the vestry meeting tonight concerning the activities of the parish during the past year.

The pastor, Rev. G. Quintin Warner, B.A., B.D., announced this morning that Cronyn Memorial church had met its budget of $11,000 in full and had a surplus of $3,800. The diocesan budget of $1,800 is also paid in full.

The notable achievement of the parish during 1924, however, was the raising of $27,000 for the new parish hall, a plan which is to cost the congregation in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Amongst the different church officials to be appointed tonight are the people's and rectors' wardens. Mr. Warner stated this morning that there would be no change made in the present incumbents of those offices. W. H. Robinson and George Hayman, respectively.

Discussion is likely to be an assistant for the pastor, Rev. W. R. Pearson of Ottawa, who held that position until he was forced to relinquish it last April, owing to ill-health, is still recuperating at his home.

The meeting will be held in the parish hall, which is partially completed. The formal opening of the hall is scheduled for the second week in February.

MERCHANDISING EXPERT TO ADDRESS CITY CLUB

Thornton Perkins of Toronto, an admitted authority on merchandising, will be the speaker of the evening on Tuesday night, Jan. 27, at the London Sales and Advertising club. The large dining-room of the Tecumseh house will be used, and the topic of the meeting will be "Newspaper Advertising," and, apart from members of the club, a large number of outsiders interested in the subject have asked for reservations for the evening.

FINE MOVING PICTURES ARE SHOWN AT Y.W.C.A.

Moving pictures were shown in the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday night. The first film was called "The Silver Trail," which was a picture depicting the splendid system of roadways throughout the province of Ontario. The second picture, "Prospecting for Gold," was also interesting for boys. The last picture showed Niagara Falls in winter. About forty-five boys were in attendance.

RETURN TO CITY

Eric MacAmmond and Adjutant Spooner of headquarters of the Salvation army here returned to the city today, following a ten-day trip of inspection over the London division of army corps.

COMPULSION PLAN FAVORED IN STUDY OF LANGUAGE

Col. C. M. R. Graham Favors Forcing All Foreigners to Learn to Speak English.

REFUSE WORK

In an effort to assimilate foreigners more quickly than is now the case, Col. C. M. R. Graham would like to see a compulsory English classes compulsory. At least, he would have manufacturers offer a premium in the shape of employment to all foreigners who attend these classes regularly.

"The chief difficulty in the matter of quick mixing in of our foreign-born population," said Col. Graham, "is that the newcomers do not pick up the language. All that many of them manage to do is to pick up the blasphemy and vernacular of the streets. As many of these people are young men, it is eminently desirable that they should be able to read and speak English as early as possible. It would be better for them and certainly better for us."

Force Attendance. "My plan is that manufacturers should be asked to employ only such men as can speak and read English, or such as are willing to attend a night school where there are English classes. There is at present a special class at the London technical school for new Canadians, and it should be made the fullest use of for the purpose of the community."

"Another thing I would suggest, which, in fact, I did suggest some time ago in Ottawa, was that papers and magazines published in this country in foreign languages should be prohibited. That would tend to make the newcomer take Canadian papers and journals, and get them into the way of reading English. It would also help them to get in touch with Canadian ideas of citizenship. It would not cut them off from news of their old countries, as they could still get the papers from home."

Eager to Learn. Principal Beal of the technical school stated that a class for new Canadians is held every Monday and Wednesday night, and that the attendance is about twenty-five each night. He says the people who do attend are very eager to learn, and are regular in attendance. The class was started in October last. Subjects for reading include articles on federal and municipal administration, and the arithmetic includes the use of Canadian currency.

ARMY TO BRING OUT 500 BOYS THIS YEAR

Many Are Placed on Farms Through Salvation Immigration Department.

Among other things that command attention at the present time is that of securing suitable help on the farms for Western Ontario. In this connection the Salvation Army immigration department has contributed no small amount of help during the past years, and the opening of an institution at Woodstock for supplying help to farmers, in the form of boys between the ages of 15 and 18 years, has been a welcome factor.

Over 300 boys were placed from this institution last year, and with a very few exceptions are giving good satisfaction.

The army will bring to Western Ontario during the present season about 500 boys, who have already received some preliminary training on the army farm at Hadleigh, near London, Ontario, before being placed in charge with family information as to when parties of boys will be received and other particulars.

KINGSTON WILL SPEAK ON ECLIPSE OF SUN

Phenomena of Sky Will Be Unfolded to London Audience.

The total eclipse of the sun, which takes place next Saturday morning and has been described as the grandest and most fascinating sight in the world by scientists. Popular interest in the heavenly show is so widespread that Dr. H. R. Kingston of the University of Western Ontario will give a lecture on the subject in the Central Collegiate auditorium Wednesday night at 8:15.

The lecture is open to the public and is being given by the extension department of Western Dr. Kingston said today that the lecture would afford an excellent opportunity to become acquainted with this greatest natural phenomena, which will not be visible in this district again for more than a century.

Prof. Kingston has excellent slides and speaks with authority on the subject having taken part in the scientific observation of eclipses in past years. Last year he was one of a party which went to the coast of California to make observations.

In view of the great popular interest in the subject it will not be possible to admit public school children unless they are accompanied by adults.

ADDRESSES BOY.

Howard O'Leary, deputy mayor of the local Boys' Council, spoke to the local Bible class yesterday morning. He gave the boys an interesting talk on "Co-operation." Seventeen boys attended and a very fine service was held. Walter Jacobs read the Scripture reading.

BOARD MEETS.

The executive committee of the board of education held its first emergency meeting of the year this afternoon. Chairman S. F. Lawson called the meeting primarily to discuss some salary questions not disposed of at the meeting of the committee last week.

MERCURY PROPS TO SEVEN BELOW

Thermometer Falls Forty Degrees in Last Forty-Eight Hours.

Falling 40 degrees in 48 hours, the thermometer in London is well on the way to establish another record. Official figures show that the highest figure on Saturday was 33 and that the lowest figure last night was 7 below zero. At 8 o'clock this morning it was still "frozen" at 6 below.

The depression was steady over the week-end. On Sunday the best that the official thermometer could show was 24 degrees, or degrees of frost. Then came Sunday night and this morning with its nose dive.

Early morning teamsters and railroad men knew more of the matter than the average business man who arrived at his office in the domestic elevator or on board a street car. The girls, of course, covered their ears with hair and their noses with turned down collars and looked more comfortable than the sterner sex.

Men have the benefit of knowing that they will have full ice houses in 1925 and as the weather has pressed an unusually hot summer on account of sun spots, they are hoping to realize on their cold weather exertions within a few months.

UNDERPRIVILEGED BOY THRIVES UNDER KIWANIS

New Club Booklet Tells of Work Accomplished in Last Year.

Being first in the field of doing work for the underprivileged boy, the Kiwanis Club has just issued a booklet dealing with its work in this connection. The work carried out in 1924 is thoroughly covered in the booklet, which is a handsome volume of 16 pages, and contains photographs of some of the boys and girls who have been helped.

A summer camp was maintained last year on the Sage farm just outside the city limits, where real camp life was introduced to the boys. Several of these boys besides being underprivileged in a social sense are also handicapped by physical defects. These are treated at the expense of the club and are all part of the regular work in behalf of the boy.

St. Andrew's receipts for 1924 are $19,040 in 1924

Deficit Lowered Despite Costly Installations During the Year.

Receipts for all purposes of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church during 1924 amounted to $19,040.32. Such will be the report of the church to the congregation at its annual meeting to be held on Wednesday evening.

Special collections totalled $1,372.55, while the regular plate collections and contributions by envelopes amounted to $17,667.81. The latter sum was slightly below last year's total of $18,845.12.

Despite the necessary installation of a new organ and the organ and new lighting rods on the church, the congregation was able to reduce last year's deficit of $1,558.93 to $528.42.

THE assets of the congregation, set at $101,866.55, the church property being valued at $100,000, exceed the liabilities by $1,866.55. The church has a mortgage of $11,000 standing against the property.

Eight new managers have been elected for 1925. These should have expired for various reasons on Jan. 1 last are: C. R. Eberhard, A. E. Silverwood, E. N. Gladman, G. T. Hair, J. S. Brown, G. M. Anderson, A. Robson and D. A. Curle.

EXTINGUISHERS SECURED AND INSURANCE REDUCED

Wm. A. Tanner, purchasing agent of the board of education, has purchased five fire extinguishers for the central collegiate institute from the Dunlop Tire & Rubber Company. The extinguishers, which will be delivered immediately, are secured at a low figure, the total being approximately $85.

The Fire underwriters' association has approved the type of Dunlop chemical fire extinguishers, and accordingly the board of education will benefit to the extent of a reduction of 10 per cent. Fifteen extinguishers are insured on both contents and building at the central collegiate. The reduced rate is, therefore, 40 cents per 100 lbs. contents and 30 cents on the building.

The board will effect a saving of $322 for a three-year period through installation of the nine extinguishers.

CLASSES ANNOUNCED.

Principal H. B. Beal announced this morning that special evening classes would begin this week at the technical high school in advertising and salesmanship, blue print reading and mechanical drawing, wood carving and wood carving. Registration for these particular classes will continue throughout the week.

CONSIDER MEETING.

There was a meeting this afternoon of the special committee of the board of education appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the annual meeting of the Urban trustees association to be held here the latter part of February.

ADJUTANT TO SPEAK.

Adjutant Spooner, young people's secretary of the Salvation Army here, will give a lantern slide lecture on the subject, "Joseph," at the Clarence street citadel tonight.

Warship Towed To Sea Grave

Associated Press Dispatch. Plymouth, Eng., Jan. 19.—Doomed to destruction by February under the Washington agreement the battleship Monitor was towed from her berth this morning under Plymouth to sea in a sort of funeral procession to a point 300 miles off the Selly Islands, where she will be battered by the guns of the British Atlantic fleet. Her sinking will be made the occasion of an experimental amusement interest.

During the last week hundreds of people have visited the Monitor's place of anchorage to take a last look at the great battleship, which in the hottest fire during the battle of Jutland escaped being struck.

HAMILTON RD. CHURCH CLOSING VOTE TONIGHT

Saturday Brings Total of Members Who Have Voted Up To 320.

Voting on the question of entering the United Church of Canada or of remaining out of the union, which has proceeded in Hamilton road Presbyterian church during the past two weeks, will close at 9 p.m. tonight.

The result of the vote will be announced by the pastor, Rev. M. Fraser Cree, B.A., at a congregational meeting to be held immediately following the counting of the ballots.

There has been a particularly large vote on the question, about 320 members having voted up until Saturday out of 380 members on the church roll.

The Hamilton road congregation is the tenth Presbyterian church in London to take a vote on the question of church union. Of the nine which have already voted five have voted to enter the United Church and four have voted to remain out of the union.

When it is consummated on June 1 next, the churches which voted favorable to church union were: St. Andrew's, First Knox, King street and St. Paul's. Those opposed to union are New St. James', St. George's, Chalmers and Knollwood park.

Members of Carpentel League Hear Sermon From Rev. R. D. Mess.

The members of the city carpentel league, under the leadership of their president, E. Ball, attended the evening service at St. David's Anglican church last night. The pastor, Rev. R. D. Mess, M.M., preached a splendid sermon, choosing for his text the words of the "Rule," saying it was an ideal for sportsmen.

He made reference to the three primary occupations of existence—education, business and recreation. He said that Christianity was expressed through these three channels. Mr. Mess stated that in this democratic age it was a tendency to separate these three things into watertight compartments, and this would eventually endanger the freedom of the individual, because the leaders were being over-ruled by the majority instead of standing by their own convictions.

In defining business, Mr. Mess said that it was the art of supplying the material need of the individual and stated that Christianity was an education in business, and that Christianity was the basis of all three.

A few words were also spoken on sportsmanship by the pastor. He said that it brought out the individuality of the player, each individual played the game in his own way. "It is easy to judge a man by the way he wins or loses—it is the acid test of life," Mr. Mess said.

LEADERS CORPS MEETS.

Junior leaders' corps of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a supper tonight at 6 o'clock. Following the supper they will continue their Bible study and also their course of parliamentary procedure, to be followed by their gymnasium work.

EDUCATION ESTIMATES PROGRESSING, SAYS GREER

The board of education estimates for 1925 are being prepared, it was stated this morning by Administrator V. K. Greer, and at least two weeks in advance of previous years.

The request made by the city council, that estimates be ready by Feb. 15, should thus be easily possible for the board, since the estimates, prepared by the advisory executive committee and passed upon by the executive committee, will likely be finally ratified by the board at its regular meeting on Feb. 12.

ASK FOR GRANT.

The trustees of Manor Park school have written the county council asking for the usual grant for school purposes. The matter will likely be referred to the educational committee of the council when the council meets next Tuesday.

HALF OF CHURCHES HAVE CAST VOTE

Union Ballot Taken in 28 Congregations Out of Total of 60 in District.

According to figures given out today by Rev. (Col.) W. M. Beattie, D.D., chairman of the presbytery's committee on church union, 28 congregations out of a total of slightly over sixty churches in the London presbytery have voted to date on the question of church union.

Of the 28 churches which have voted 17 have voted to enter the United Church of Canada, 7 of them unanimously, while 11 churches have opposed union.

Of the 4,824 votes cast on the question, 2,659 were in favor of union. (English settlement). St. Paul's (Hyde Park), Chalmers, and Mr. Bride's (Dunwich).

The vote in the congregations favorable to union was as follows: West (English settlement), 28 against; Melbourn, 58 to 16; Carlisle, 53 to 16; Riverside, 13 to 7; Wardsville, 33 to 12; Newbury, 70 to 24; Alisa, 33 to 19; 146 First, 366 to 58; Knox, 335 to 193; King street, 253 to 73.

The vote in the congregations opposed to union was as follows: Glencoe, 212 against to 156 for; Yarmouth, 70 to 10; Pottersburg, 107 to 13; Alma (St. Thomas), 120 to 31; Komoka, 27 to 15; Belmont, 112 to 24; Alisa, 110 to 41; London—New St. James, 526 to 236; Chalmers, 87 to 60; St. George, 107 to 13, and Knollwood Park, 79 to 1.

LOCAL RED CROSS EXPENDS $7,718 DURING PAST YEAR

Twelve Months of Progress Marked by Important London Society.

RETURNS PRESIDENT

Mrs. Ronald Harris was for the fifth term elected president of the London branch of the Red Cross society, at the annual meeting held this afternoon in St. Andrew's Hall. Her presidential address, outlining the progress of the work through the year, was the big feature of the meeting which was well attended.

The Red Cross, she said, seemed like a great corporation, working for good in a world at peace. It was inevitable that with the war years behind, the society would have undergone changes.

It was now an institution perfectly solvent, efficient, and ready to do its duty, and prepared to pay dividends of good percentage, in the form of continued care of ex-soldiers and the betterment of public health in the community.

The annual report of the honorary treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Cooper, showed that the total income for the year had been $11,589.40, with receipts of $8,309.03. The expenditure in soldiers' work amounted to $7,108.12. A special fund for disbursements for special purposes of $610.45. The bank balance of this special fund is $3,355.28, while the bank balance of the regular fund is $4,461.25.

The reports of the honorary secretary, Miss Ruth Robinson, and of Mrs. Pearl Allison, local organizer for home nursing classes, were received with interest by the members.

Presidential Address.

The year's accomplishment of the Red Cross society was brought out, however, in the presidential address. "Several important things have happened this year," declared Mrs. Harris. "The two principle ones being the formation of a soldiers' problem committee by the Ontario division of the Red Cross society and the establishment here of Red Cross nursing courses such as have been successfully held in Toronto and other places in the province, during the past twelve months."

"The membership of this soldiers' problem committee is composed of members of the Ontario division executive, who represent branches directly interested in soldiers' work, namely, Toronto, Kingston and London. To these are added Mrs. Plumptre, the president of the Ontario division, and Dr. Routley, the director of the provincial work."

"This committee," continued Mrs. Harris, "in conference with leading members of the D. S. C. R., was able to have established on a business basis, exactly what was due to the soldier patients from the department and from the Red Cross society."

"To Prevent Overlapping." "During the war certain amount of overlapping had been inevitable, but with re-establishment, it was only fair to the soldier patients and to the subscribers to the Red Cross funds, that definite principles should be strictly adhered to in order that the men in hospital should lack nothing due them from the government, and that the society should be free to provide those "extra" and comforts which it was the special privilege of the "greatest mother in the world" to provide.

"The Red Cross nursing courses are only in their infancy in London," said the speaker. "But I am glad to say that the beginning have been very auspicious. Our executive has appointed Mrs. Pearl Allison as organizer for a period long enough to establish these classes on a practical basis in London. These classes are being formed for the spread of knowledge on the subject of health and home hygiene, and are not intended to teach nurses as such."

"No certificates are given, but everyone who attends the ten lectures of this course, and becomes familiar with the Red Cross nursing manual, a little book which should be in every home, will be better qualified for the promotion of health and hygiene in the home."

Soldier Settlers' Work. The speaker also dwelt on the very excellent work which the Red Cross is carrying on at Christmas time in connection with soldier settlers. This year $100 was expended in making up Christmas parcels to send out to soldier settlers' families, the purchasing and packing having been done by Mrs. Harold Williams in the absence of Mrs. Slater. That this work was appreciated was evidenced in two letters from grateful settlers, read by Mrs. Harris.

In her address she spoke of the splendid co-operation which she had received from the members of her executive, referring to the very fine work carried on at the Byron sanatorium under the convalescence of Mrs. George Fraser, to the splendid work done at the Westminster hospital under the general convalescence of Mrs. J. S. Ashplant, to the work at the soldiers' ward at Victoria hospital under the direction of Mrs. Edward Morley, and to the work among the few soldier patients at St. Joseph's hospital under the direction of Mrs. C. J. Kari. She further referred to the great work undertaken by Mrs. C. E. Morris in purchasing the Red Cross supplies during the year.

MRS. RONALD HARRIS, who was returned as president of the London Red Cross society at the annual meeting held this afternoon.

ELECT MISS DOUGLAS HEAD GIRLS' CABINET

Annual Meeting Is Held Saturday at Y.W.C.A. Residence, King Street.

Miss Charlotte Douglas was elected president of the girls' cabinet at the annual meeting held Saturday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. King street. Miss Verna Brazier, the retiring president, was in the chair. Other officers elected are as follows: Vice-president, Miss Ruth Watts; secretary-treasurer, Miss Alice Foote; pianist, Miss Lillian Barrett; Anglican representative, Miss Edith Ross; Presbyterian representative, Doris Rider; Methodist representative, Leona Shoebottom. The Baptist representative is to be chosen at a later meeting.

The qualifications upon which the cabinet cups would be awarded were discussed. An interesting report on the work of the organization during the year was given by Mrs. J. D. Deweller, president of the girls' work board. At the conclusion of the meeting, Miss Helen d'Avignon read the constitution. The next meeting of the cabinet is to be held on Feb. 14, with a supper in St. Andrew's church.

WEDDINGS

PIERSON-PATON.

A pretty mid-winter wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paton, Clarendon, on Saturday, Jan. 17, when their youngest daughter, Violet Agnes, became the bride of Walter G. Pierson, Jun., son of Mr. Walter Pierson, Sen., of Du Bois, Pa. Rev. C. Clifford, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated.

The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of evergreens and flowers. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming imported gown of Parisian pink ecru-ette over canary satin, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The dining march was played by Mrs. J. H. Paton. Little Miss Catherine Carley, carrying the wedding ring, preceded the bride, and during the singing of the register, Mrs. Edith Paton sang "O Promise Me." Mrs. T. Glendening attended the bride and Mr. E. A. Paton acted as best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the dining-room, which was attractively decorated in shades of pink and white. The bride's table was centered with a large wedding cake.

Later, amid many congratulations, the bride and groom left on their honeymoon, which will be an extended trip through the eastern states, after which they will reside in Detroit.

The groom's gift to the bride was a check. Mr. and Mrs. Pierson were also the recipients of many lovely gifts, checks and telegrams.

The youthful guests, after skating at the Victoria park rink, returned to the home of their hostess, where a delightful dinner was served, following which games and music were enjoyed. The guests included Misses Margaret Beard, Mary Beard, Katharine Dickinson, Patricia Grant, Lela McClellan, Marian Sweet, Rachael Lawrenson, Shirley Casselman, Beth Harkness and Margaret Steele.

The local Alma Daughters enjoyed a delightful afternoon on Saturday, when the executive of the London branch entertained the members at a bridge at the home of Mrs. C. R. Ead, Dufferin avenue. The pretty tea table, centered with daffodils, was presided over by Mrs. A. T. Edwards and Mrs. A. A. Campbell. The hostesses included Mrs. C. R. Ead, president; Miss Stella Venning, first vice-president; Mrs. Joseph Smith, treasurer; Mrs. W. F. Marshall, secretary; Mrs. J. R. LeTouzel, phone secretary, and Mrs. W. G. R. Bartram, corresponding secretary.

A number of the mothers of the Lord Roberts school are arranging afternoon meetings at their home to make the lovely costumes required for the big school pageant which is to be presented on Jan. 30. Mrs.

James Colwell was recently the hostess of one of these informal gatherings, entertaining the mothers at her home on Colborne street, the guests including the mothers of the "paper doll chorus." On Saturday afternoon Mrs. McClary Moore entertained the mothers of the daffodil children at her home on Dufferin avenue, when the gay little costumes for this pretty group were designed. The mothers included Mrs. John Daly, Mrs. E. S. Detweiler, Mrs. C. Grieve, Mrs. Howard Petherston, Mrs. Ernest Yeates, Mrs. Alfred Corie and Mrs. Thomas.

FINGAL W. M. S.

The W. M. S. of Knox church held its regular meeting in the church parlors recently, the new officers in charge. The different committees of the year were appointed, and delegates nominated to attend the presbyterial meeting in St. Thomas in February. Mrs. J. McDiarmid gave a splendid selection from the study book. A note of thanks and appreciation was read from Mrs. J. Lunn for a life membership certificate presented to her by the auxiliary in December. It was decided to postpone the February meeting for one week owing to the presbyterial meeting held in St. Thomas, on Feb. 18 and 19.

10,000 VISITS ARE MADE BY VICTORIAN ORDER

Annual Meeting Will Be Held in Dufferin Hall on Friday.

The annual meeting of the London board of the Victorian Order of Nurses will be held in Dufferin hall, Dufferin avenue, on Friday afternoon of this week at 3 o'clock. The reports which are to be presented by the officers and executive will show that the order has completed a year of work that has been most extensive.

More than 10,000 visits have been made to the sick people of London in their own homes, this being the special field of effort in which the Victorian Order is engaged. The meeting to be held on Friday afternoon will be open to the public and a cordial invitation is extended to anyone interested to be present.

VICTORIA MOTHERS' CLUB.

Mrs. M. Chalmers will address the Victoria mothers' club at the regular meeting held tomorrow night at the school. Her subject will be one of exceptional interest to mothers, "The Modern Mother and Her Daughter."

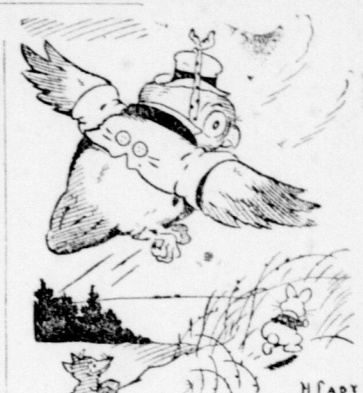

Winter Is a Bad Time For the Little Wild Folk To Be Absent-Minded

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

To be absent-minded is to be thinking so hard of one thing that you forget everything else. There are times when this may not matter, but there are other times when to be absent-minded is dangerous. It is best not to be absent-minded at all.

The great snow storm had been followed a couple of days later by a short, light rain, and then the weather had turned very cold and a crust had formed over the snow. Peter Rabbit was glad that crust. While the snow had been soft he had not dared leave the dear Old Briar Patch. He and Mrs. Peter had eaten most of the bark within reach. Now on this new crust he could get over to the Green Forest or up to the Old Pasture or over to the Old Orchard.

Peter decided to go over to the Green Forest. Making sure that the way was clear, he started out lip-perty-lip-perty-lip. As he drew near the edge of the Green Forest he tried to make up his mind where he would go first. There were several places he wanted to visit. First he decided to go to one place, then he changed his mind and decided to go to another place. No sooner had he made up his mind to this than he thought of a third place and once more was undecided.

"I don't know which place to go to first," said Peter to himself. "I want to go to all three first, but I can't do that and I can't make up my mind which one to choose."

It was then that Peter Rabbit became absent-minded. He was so busy trying to make up his mind that he forgot everything else. There he was right out in the open, easy for sharp, hungry eyes to see from quite a distance away because his dark coat showed up against the white snow so plainly. Yet instead of hurrying his fastest to reach shelter, Peter actually stopped once or twice as he tried to make up his mind where to go. He had completely forgotten everything else.

It was a bad time to be absent-minded. Yes, sure, it was a bad time to be absent-minded. There were too many hungry people out looking for a dinner. Hooty the Owl was sitting on the top of a tall, dead tree just within the edge of the Green Forest. He could look out over the Green Meadows, which, of course, were not green now, but a little brown spot bobbing along over the snow. His great yellow eyes grew fiercer-looking. "That looks Hooty," he said to himself. "He's coming this way, and he doesn't seem to be in any hurry. If he keeps on the way he's headed now he'll furnish me a dinner. Hello! There's that sly thief, Reddy Fox. He sees Peter, too. If I don't watch out he'll get that Rabbit dinner instead of mine. What's the matter with Peter Rabbit anyway? He acts as if he didn't think there was an enemy in the world. Well, I can't let Reddy Fox catch him."

With this Hooty spread his great, broad, silent wings and flew straight toward Peter.

C. E. F. CHAPTER.

A special meeting of the C. E. F. chapter, L.O.D.E., has been called for Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the "Dugout" city hall. A special request for all the members to be present is being urged.

This Range is known as Model E-36.F.

A New Electric Range—Specially Designed to Fit the Modern Kitchen

HERE it is at last! A complete, full-sized Moffats Electric Range, yet so cleverly designed and compactly built it takes up far less space in the kitchen. This newest in ranges is the result of the widespread need expressed by the women of Canada for a compact range to fit the modern small kitchen.

Study the lines of this new Moffat in the illustration above. Everything is so handy and easy to work with. Ordinary electric ranges are from 48 to 50 inches wide and take up a lot of valuable space. The new model electric range is only 41 inches long, yet it has a 20-inch oven which will take the largest size turkey or roast.

Every feature of value to cooking will be found on this admirable range, along with a number of exclusive Moffat features that will not be seen on other ranges for years to come.

Ask to See the Heat Deflector

Here's a new thing—the Moffats Heat Deflector in the oven (patent applied for). It directs the heat, distributing it evenly to all parts of the oven. When the oven door has been opened and closed the Heat Deflector directs the heat to the front of the oven, equalizing the temperature all over the oven.

Experienced cooks know what a vital bearing this has in the proper baking of food or roasting of meat. The Moffat Heat Deflector also acts as a drip tray for the oven.

Another great forward step is the locating of the outside terminals at the front of the range, which makes them readily accessible and further makes it no longer necessary to move the range to get at all connections for renewals and replacing of fuse plugs. The switch terminals are protected from drippings which fall to the drip tray below.

Open Type Elements Positively Superior

Elements enclosed in cast iron, clay or other material heat much slower, use more power and double the cost of renewals, yet making it impossible to even toast a piece of bread properly.

Moffats therefore do not recommend closed elements, but should the purchaser specifically request them Moffats can install the covered elements. For domestic use Moffats open type elements are the fastest cooking elements on the market. With them you get quick service with toast, boiling the kettle, frying, etc.

In the oven you also get absolute efficiency with economy of power. Therefore Moffats open type elements positively lower your power bills. Moffats open type elements are noted for their durability. Our record tests show that the open type elements were run continually for 5,000 hours and more, as against only 500 hours for some types of closed elements.

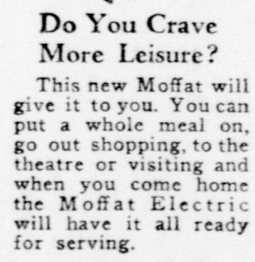

Take our suggestion and go and see these beautiful new ranges at your regular electrical store. You will be delighted with it, as many thousands of others will be.

Get all details from the electrical store, or if you are too busy, write us and we will mail a full description. Moffats, Limited, Weston, Ontario.

It Roasts to Perfection

There's a minimum of shrinkage to meat or fowl roasted in this oven, thanks to scientific and even heating. And the flavor—well, you'll have to try it yourself to find out!

Do You Crave More Leisure?

This new Moffat will give it to you. You can put a whole meal on, go out shopping, to the theatre or visiting and when you come home the Moffat Electric will have it all ready for serving.

"BRING HARRIS BACK," WAS MUSIC TO BUCKY

Two Failures in Minors Fail To Dampen Spirit of Youngster.

KEPT TRYING

CHAPTER XIV.

By STANLEY ("BUCKY") HARRIS.

Within a week of the opening game of the Central League season, I was stamped a failure. I, second base Myers bunched me for several days. Then he tried me out at third. He showed to better advantage. When we opened at Terre Haute I thought I had an infield job cinched.

The first day there I had to walk to the ball park. We all dressed at the hotel. I was ready to go, but the others, but they got out ahead of me and took a street car. Not yet having received a pay envelope, my money was low. I decided the walking was good, and that my legs could stand the strain better than my pocket. When I reached the park Myers said to me: "We've got a Johnny Ward with us."

I looked around trying to locate a new player. Not a strange face was there. The boys gave me a big laugh. The pitcher, however, was Johnny Ward, a fellow who all ways was showing up late. When I realized the joke was on me, I joined in the laugh. The pitcher, however, was Johnny Ward, a fellow who all ways was showing up late. When I realized the joke was on me, I joined in the laugh.

Joe Even, a brother of Johnny, the famous catcher, replaced me in the second. John Cieslewski, a brother of the American league pitcher, played in the outfield for Muskegon. Jack Compton, a former big league, was one of our pitchers. Paul Cobb, Ty brother, was with Terra Haute in the same league. Jesse Haines, who later entered the pitcher's hall of fame by twirling a no-hit game for the Cardinals, was Springfield's leading pitcher. He also had been tried out by the league. He turned him adrift as they did me. He won 23 games and lost only 12 that year, and was close to being the leading pitcher in the league. I don't believe I got much more foul off him in the few times I faced him.

I learned some things in such company. My feeling improved, but I still had a bad feeling about it. I hit a bad batting slump at the end of May. The harder I tried the worse I became. Finally I struck my stride and began to crash them. Then, after a perfect day at bat and in the field, I was released. Dowling, a Grand Rapids infielder, took my place. I was out of the league in mid-season and a long way from home.

I Decide to Stick on $20.

My bank roll consisted of $20. The balance of the few pennies I had been sent home. Expenses were not high in Muskegon. I had a nice room for $2 a week. I figured I could eat breakfast for $1 a day, and a cup of coffee and two doughnuts without a noon meal and fill up at night on an excellent table d'hôte dinner. The latter cost 25 cents.

So I made up my mind to stick in Muskegon as long as funds permitted. I didn't want to try for a job elsewhere. I didn't want to try for a job elsewhere. I didn't want to try for a job elsewhere. I didn't want to try for a job elsewhere.

Soon I heard the fans yelling, "Take him out, get him out, get him out." It was music to my ears. After a three weeks layoff, Manager Myers, finding Dowling would not do, signed me to another contract. In that I was the property of the Detroit club, I should have first consulted Jennings.

The Central League season then was divided into two championships, the first ending July 5 and the second on Sept. 10. Muskegon, making its debut in the league, was sent to Erie, Pa., finished in the cellar in the first half. I did my bit in putting the club there. The other cities in the league, Taylor, Grand Rapids, Springfield, Evansville, Wheeling, Terre Haute and South Bend.

I went along for a month on my second trial with Muskegon without showing any marked improvement. I did my best, but I was a buster of Owsenburgh. The members found a third baseman, named Whalen, who could play rings around me. Then I received my walking ticket for the second time.

At bat in 55 games, I hit for the puny average of .166. No wonder I was let out! This represented 169 times at bat, 28 hits, 3 sacrifices and 21 errors in 55 games. The average of .166 was the worst in the league.

What a Youngster Proved To Me. Jennings had previously written that he couldn't find me a berth. He would try again next season, he said. There was nothing for me to do but pocket my pride and return to Pittston. On the train home I made up my mind to stick to baseball. I yielded this decision while waiting in the Wilkes-Barre station for the train to Pittston. I was discouraged and downcast—a failure, not once but twice, in the minors.

My trouble was brought on by attention was attracted by the notice of a small boy. He wasn't more than ten years old and wasn't too big for his age. He was wrestling with a big cage of vegetables, trying to get it on an express truck. He refused to let any railway workers help him. He turned me down when I offered to give him a hand.

"Say, fellow," he greeted me, "I told my pa I was going to get this crate on a truck, by my bust. And by golly, I'm going to or bust. Mind your own business!"

And when that spunky kid finally landed the crate where it belonged, I got my trouble. He was to teach me the lesson of never giving up no matter how big the task, or how great the odds.

ONE OF BUCKY'S TEACHERS.

Bucky Harris big pitcher, Merle, like their father before them, was a semi-professional ball player when Bucky was scarcely a young hopeful. Buck learned a lot of things from Merle and the big brother finally helped him to get the chance that started him.

needed more experience. No one taught me anything in the Central League. What I learned I picked up by observation. Such knowledge didn't amount to much. Fortunately, I realized this. I went back to work in the mine because money was needed. Saturday night, I played with the Lehigh team, which I had been a member. Jennings had once been a member. Sundays I played with Pittston. My baseball education, such as it was, was won by the Lehigh team.

Jennings, in a reply to a letter in the winter, sent me my release from the Detroit club. He softened the blow by saying he would do his best to place me so that I would get another chance. He kept his promise by recommending me to Arthur Hughes, some time Giant star, who was managing the Norfolk team in the Virginia League.

Knowing the master he was at the position I told him I was a shortstop. I earned the berth. After we played sixteen games the league disbanded because of the declaration of war. I was out of a job again.

Willie Ritola Shares Honors, Setting Record in Five-Mile Race.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Jan. 18.—The flying feat of Paavo Nurmi, peerless Finn middle distance star, stretched their way a world's indoor record in the 2,200-meter special, the feature of the Fordham University A. A. games in the 102nd Regiment armory last night. Nurmi's mark of 5:33 will decorate the record books of world's marks together with the other epoch-making records he has established and broken during his American campaign. This was Nurmi's third successive race in as many nights, starting on Thursday in New York, on Friday at Chicago, and back in New York last night.

But Willie Ritola, Finnish teammate of the peerless Paavo, forced his rival to start from scratch. Ritola, who had established a record of 5:33 in the five-mile race, was defeated by Nurmi in a race that was a world's record for the five-mile race, negotiating the distance in 24:21.4-5. Ritola, however, was not discouraged. He established a new record for the five-mile race, negotiating the distance in 24:21.4-5. Ritola, however, was not discouraged. Standard and C. N. R. To Meet in First Game.

C. N. R. and Standard Hook up in what is expected to be the thriller of this week's Manufacturers bill Tuesday night at the arena. In view of the Galt-London senior game here Tuesday, the Manufacturers' league game will be played on Thursday.

C. N. R.'s took an unexpected fall out of the McClarymen, and there are plenty of fans who think they'll repeat with the McClarymen, generally conceded to be the pace-setters of the league. Johnny Burgess is playing one of the best games of his career since winter, and Gilles also is coming back to form. Defensively the railroaders are strong with Herb Smith back in the nets and Grainger and Pring out in front.

Standing out well is not being Bellefeuille, as Pete is too busy with the senior. Arthur and McKay, however, are doing well. McKay, who neither feels that it will do anything to help him in shape for senior duties, is doing well. Interview the Right Parties.

Dorothy Ellingson, 16 years of age, is in jail in San Francisco, charged with the murder of her mother, and the prosecuting attorney says he is puzzled to know what to make out of the case. It is already suggested that there be a board of alienists appointed to inquire into the sanity of the girl.

It would be more to the point to appoint a board of alienists to inquire into the methods of her previous existence, of the damnable influences that were thrown around her, of the manner in which she defied home restraint, and of the moral capacity of the lizards that reached out and pulled her down when she was not more than halfway through her teens.

The Ellingson family was that of father, mother, son and daughter. The father rebelled at the life his daughter was leading, and apparently would have exercised his authority, but the mother defended the child.

The child went her way, and it led her to the house of vice, to wild parties where "smart" people did as they pleased, lived as they desired, made passion their god, and bowed their fat necks at the altar of lust.

When the pace became furious the mother intervened, but she was no longer dealing with a 16-year-old daughter. She faced the product of the fast pace, the model of the easy life; she had to deal with a woman who had slight regard for the sanctity of human life, to whom the old command about honoring father and mother was a joke to be taught to children. Her set defied their parents, so Dorothy defied her mother; her set carried revolvers, so Dorothy was likewise armed with the ornament of her class. When she came into the final struggle between maternal authority and desire and her own determination to cut across the corner and get once more on the primrose path as quickly as possible, it was quite natural that the revolver should come into action, and it did. Dorothy Ellingson, 16 years of age, shot her own mother dead, and then went out to another wild party.

And of course the nation is shocked that such a thing could take place. Of course the attorneys are perplexed that such an event could possibly be enacted. Certainly it's different to other cases. There was no desire to murder in order to get away with a large sum of money; there was no particular need for the mother to have been done away with.

Chicago threw the world into amazement when Loeb and Leopold killed Bobbie Frank, the 14-year-old lad. San Francisco has given the world a few thrills, too, of the Fatty Arbuckle type, but it has remained for the same cancerous disease to give the newest, and shall we say the worst, exhibition of what it is possible to produce in Dorothy Ellingson, 16 years of age, turning a gun on her own mother because she wanted her to get off the skids that were shooting her down to moral, intellectual, physical and spiritual ruin.

Instead of having the wise-looking alienists sitting in a circle around this 16-year-old girl, prying her with all manner of questions, it would be better for them to draw their seats around the circle of parents who have ceased to regard instruction and restraint as any of their business.

Lining Up the Barbers.

Organization proceeds apace. Russell Nesbitt, M.P.P., has viewed the barbers of the province, and considers something must be done for them and to them.

Hence a bill will probably be brought in at the coming session of the legislature to form a provincial barbers' association. The barbers apparently are to have no option in the matter; they are all to be enlisted and charged a $5 fee.

Then the young mind which seeks to enter the profession must be trained for three years, and before he's declared a real honest-to-goodness barber he must pass an examination by a board of examiners.

Seeing that there are barber shops scattered all over the country in every town, city, village and hamlet, there will be a sweet time for some officials scooting around seeing that the provisions are being lived up to.

Language Grows from the Bottom.

The most forceful part of our language consists of those words and phrases used by the uneducated. Correct speaking means uniform speaking. All cultured people speak alike. At least they are styled truly cultured in degree as they conform to a standard of usage and pronunciation. The more educated, travelled and polished a man is the less striking his elocution. The more one is provincial, uneducated and narrow, the more picturesque his talk.

The speech of a Louisiana negro who has had no education is fascinatingly rich in distinctive color. The dialect of a Kentucky mountaineer is as ruggedly unique as his native scenery and as masked in flavor as his moonshine whiskey. A Canadian habitant's everyday conversation is as original as a poem of Kipling's.

On the contrary, the words of a McGill graduate, of a University of Toronto graduate, of a graduate of the University of Western Ontario, and of a professor in the University of British Columbia might all be duplicates of the same phonographic record. As a matter of fact, if we drop all our snobishness and consider things as they really are and estimate human values with scientific accuracy we shall see that the street arab, the baseball fan, the backwoods farmer, the lumberjack, the "habitant," and the westerner talk poetry all the time. Their lingo is soaked with their locality and seeped with individuality. Educated persons taste of nowhere, and their talk is homeless. Language grows from the bottom. All the words that are rich, and vital, and strong spring from the soil and the gutter. They are the words that deal in action, in every fundamental of life and death. They are the expressions of elemental man.

Targets We Shoot At.

"Success is always a target," said the late Charles Francis Murphy of Tammany Hall. "History shows that the better and the more successful an organization and its leader the more bitter the attacks."

Success offers a shining mark. Failure arouses nobody's envy or cupidity. A man has only to lift his head above the general level of accomplishment to learn that someone is waiting to take a pot shot at it.

Thrift is another popular target. The imprudent do not always gladly suffer their more thrifty neighbors. They are quick to tag the careful ones as "pigeys" and "tightwads." The man who refuses to run with the pack and put up the accustomed "front" is left severely outside the charmed circle of good fellows.

Nonconformity is still another target to shoot at. It is another bull's-eye for the unthinking and the fool. To think out of the beaten track is to be termed a "nut." To refuse to be a 100 per center in dress, deportment and ideas is to be considered "cracked." Ready-made labels are slapped on without a moment's consideration or delay. So we have radical, bolshevist, red, stand-patter, spellbinder, reactionary, visionary, mystic, idealist and so on ad infinitum used to define all those who are independent enough to do their own thinking.

Yet the cranks are often the world's wisest and truest leaders. The piker proves a dependable anchor to windward in time of financial storm. The aristocracy of brains and leadership is the only class of the socially elect worth boasting about.

It's time we set up a few new targets.

Note and Comment.

Full reward is seldom accomplished in this life. The veal calf never dreams that some day it may become canned chicken.

Jack Dempsey will retire from the ring and get married. Still the newspaper heading that his fighting days are over seems a trifle too certain.

Los Angeles has made a law that horses cannot travel on the main streets. The pedestrians are not wiped out by a stroke of the pen; they are bowled over one at a time.

Nurni, the Finnish runner, has broken three world records. Hamilton Spectator considers his greatest feat, however, was when, according to reports, he "jumped from New York to Chicago."

St. Catharines Standard is not sure whether warning signs on the road should say "Go slow" or "Go slowly." About the same as arguing whether the funeral of the man who disregarded them went "slow" or "slowly."

One despatch says Mr. Trotzky has been killed, and a few days later the papers print pictures of him and his wife riding around in a big car. So let's sit down at the kitchen table and work out another crossword puzzle.

Hamilton burglar took a case of bottles from a cellar and found it was mineral water. From the same house he got a bunch of bills, but they were of the worthless Confederate variety. Hamilton is not playing fair with its boogymen.

It is probably the business of Guelph how its council conducts its affairs, but from here it does look as though shabby treatment had been handed to Sam Carter, ex-M.P.P., who for a quarter of a century has been light and heat commissioner of Guelph. With no reason given, Mr. Carter has been removed from the board. It is small reward for the years of faithful service he has given as a public servant.

How Is It Done?

Oil Springs man says his Barred Rock pullets hatched in April have been laying well for two months.—News item.

How great it is to have a flock of hens that cackle and screech, a-shown! that they're molting eggs when they is worth a nickel each.

This man from Oil Springs says he has a coop with speckled hens therein, and that they keep him on the job a-truckin' all the new eggs in.

Ah, lucky is that man indeed, I'll grab my pencil and a pad, and go unto Oil Springs at once and talk unto the chicken-lad. For there he many things to ask, I'd use up most a half a day a-primin' knowledge out of him on how he gets them hens to lay.

For on our farm we have a coop, 'tis fashioned in six different styles, you wouldn't see the like of it by walkin' forty-seven miles.

For in it's one piano box, six barrels, a packin'-case, and it's painted red to make it warm and cause the rooster to crow. Likewise there's roosts along one side for hens to park their weary legs, and six soap boxes sittin' there for them to go and make their eggs.

Yes in that plant there's twenty hens, and most of them is fappers too, what haven't learned that layin' eggs is quite the proper thing to do.

I go unto the feed store man and see the pictures what he's got of husky-lookin' hens what lay a-pranin' round a barnyard lot, and underneath I read a yarn of how they put them to a test, the hens they laid so many eggs it wore the bottom off the nest. The hired man went and quit his job, I find them sittin' on the perch and not a-layin' eggs at all. The rooster looks me in the eye, I threaten oft to carve his croak, he hollers that I'd better go and buy more fodder for his flock.

So when I get my chores all done, and fill the chickens' drinkin' pan, I'm grabbin' for my quill to go and listen to that Oil Springs man.—ARK.

Barred Rocks Laying.

Oil City Man Has a Pen of April Pullets That Are Making a Good Record.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—In answer to the challenge in your issue of the 13th re pullets laying, we have 107 April hatched Barred Rock pullets which laid 1,437 eggs in December, and in the first 15 days of January have laid 1,117 eggs. Their high mark is 86 eggs in a day, and their average 74½ for this month.

This is under ordinary farm conditions, no sprouted oats nor artificial light.

Londoner Was Watching Some of the Men Getting Out To Their New Churches On Sunday Morning.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I believe this church union business is going to do some good after all. For a while I was rather skeptical about it, but I am beginning to change my mind.

I was just looking around on Sunday at the array of men who were heading off to church some place or other, and among them were quite a number who had never gathered in any prizes for regular attendance. But just now they are bound they are going to go to church, if for no other reason than showing the world that they either approve or disapprove of the idea of union.

Some of them were from churches that had gone into union, and they were heading for places that had voted to stay out; others were from the churches that had voted against union, and the men were marching off to a place of worship that was in accord with the ideas of the United Church.

The vote has stirred a number of these people into the habit of going to church some place, why it has been a good thing in itself. It looks to me as though the result to date had been a slight shuffling around of members, with more of them getting out to church.

Mayor's Salary.

Reader Fears That Larger Amount Paid For Office May Draw Aspirants Who Look At Salary First.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I have noticed with much interest the discussion in regard to changing the salary of the mayor from $1,800 to $3,000 per year. When such a move is made it generally becomes a fixture. It will stay at $3,000 per year for a while, and then the next move will be to shove it up to $3,500 or $4,000.

I have lived in London for a great many years, and I do not believe there has been a city that has had better men serving it for mayor. There may be a few exceptions, but the great majority of the men occupying the office have taken it because they wanted to be of some service to their city. They did not go in because they thought they were getting a pretty well paid position.

As I see it, the possibility is that now we shall have men looking on the position from the point of the money there is in it, rather than from the service they can render during their term of office. I do not believe we will get better men by paying $3,000 than we would by paying $1,800, and at the same time we run the risk of attracting men who see the size of the salary first.

Col. Currie's Views.

Lambeth Resident Thinks It High Time There Was a Complete Change At Toronto.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I read in the Free Press an account of the large distillery that Colonel Currie says was going to be built at Port Colborne right away. Now, Mr. Editor, I would like to know who is the use of taking a plebiscite on the temperance question and turning the liquor question down by a large majority, and then start building distilleries and have such men as Colonel Currie of the government as chairman of the board of directors.

Colonel Currie has aired himself quite frequently lately on the liquor question, and I think that the sooner we kick such men as him out of our parliament the better for the country. He says the department needs revenue, and they are not getting it from the reds, the uplifters, meaning, I presume, the temperance party. He says the government expects a big revenue from this property. He says for two years they can't sell any alcoholic beverages in Canada. Questioned as to whether they were going to ship this stuff to the United States, he says he didn't know anything about that, but they will use the broken grain from the Port Colborne elevators, which otherwise would be wasted.

Hence a successful soldier was almost as much an object of suspicion as an aristocrat.

Realizing this she observed the green-eyed inspection occupying an humble little house in the Rue Pot de Fer, where until lately she had had for companion a faithful old peasant woman named Leontine. But latterly Leontine had been ill, and in the end she had been forced to leave Paris and return to the country.

Since then Angele had been alone. The republic had abolished servants—or at least it had abolished the term, for in reality the republic's enactments of this nature seldom went beyond the name by which a thing was called. It is true that domestic servants were still to be procured, but they were now called "officiants" and for the most part they took the fullest advantage of this change in their designation.

In the main they were idle and indolent when they were not positively dangerous. To remove them or dismiss them, no matter how richly they deserved it, was to run the risk of being denounced by them for incivisme; and to be denounced, however groundless might be the denunciation, brought forth the word of innocence as it was easy to convince on the score of guilt.

Realizing all this, Angele had preferred not to call the place left vacant by Leontine's withdrawal to the country.

She preferred to be alone in that modest little four-roomed dwelling—the home of some respectable artisan in pre-revolutionary times. Its modesty in itself afforded her a certain security and a certain immunity from coming under the republic's ready suspicion.

IN THE SHADOW OF THE GUILLOTINE

By RAFAEL SABATINI.

CHAPTER I.
Paris of 1793.

Angele made her way briskly through the by-streets of the section—the section called after Mucius Scaevola by those noisome patriots who dreamed of imitating the glories of old Rome on the bloody dunghill they had made of Paris.

She came out into the more spacious Rue Vaugirard and picked her way daintily through the unscavengered filth of the street, the stench of St. Louis and the Luxembourg. The ancient and stately palace clattered and clattered how as if the force of old Vulcan himself were at work within it.

To this she paid little heed, accustomed to it as she was, since she lived day and night within the range of its unceasing and deafening activity.

It happened, however, that the wind was blowing from the south, so that the fumes of those four and fifty furnaces wherein cannon were being forged for the army of the republic, sweat, acid and stifling, across the street. They caught her in the throat, set her coughing, and impelled her to quicken her steps, so that she excited the mockery of a group of idlers who lounged about the gate-posts.

They were brawny, shaggy men, unsexually evil and savage of aspect, their bare heads hairy, their chests black with the grime of the forges, their garments foul, their matted heads crowned by the red bonnet of liberty. One, who pulled at a pipe, seeing her fastidious haste, deliberately blew a cloud of tobacco smoke in her face to increase her discomfort.

The English fellows chuckled with malicious mirth. Sudden terror of them seemed to turn her feet to lead, and it was only by an effort of will that she held at unslackened pace upon her way.

Beyond that mischievous puff of smoke, however, they made no attempt to molest her. If they were patriots and looked savages, yet they were toilers. They were men who spent about the forges that were to give arms to the soldiers of France, the energies of patriotism that many of their kind preferred to devote to the basting of unfortunate men and women.

She hurried on, breathing more freely, past the old stables of the Luxembourg, toward the Rue Pot de Fer.

She was young, of a good height, graceful of figure and carriage, and in itself was a dangerous asset in Paris. She had been bought by the Jacobin calendar—or August of 1793, style esclave. Her dress was scrupulously simple, yet scrupulously neat, of a dark gray with a low-cut bodice and a muslin collar for headdress, from which a heavy curl of brown hair escaped.

As if to counteract any impression of aristocracy that might be produced by her general air, she wore prominently displayed between her breasts an enormous tricolor cockade. She carried the daily ration of bread and meat doled out by the sections of the city, and she carried in the napkin that the law required for the purpose—since the viragoes in their bestial fights for food were addicted to employing their hands as weapons of offence to gain them an advantage of position in the waiting files.

She dreaded nothing in life so much as those daily visits to the baker and the butcher of the section; she dreaded insult in going, robbery and violence in returning; and such was her dread that on many a day she would keep the house and put her trust in some law-breaking accomplice who would be trusted to stand a deduction of the convention's enactment, or else go hungry, even, rather than venture forth to obtain the ration to which she was entitled.

She was well-known in the section; this young wife of the stalwart soldier, Vidal, just as it was known that her husband, colonel of the army, was barely thirty years of age, thanks to the rapidity of promotion possible in the army of the republic—was serving France in Holland with General Dumouriez.

But she built upon this fact no illusions or expectations of respect. Patriotic she knew, would bring no superiority. Their nightmare was the dread of militarism, which by force of arms could, if it were so minded, set itself against the republic.

Hence a successful soldier was almost as much an object of suspicion as an aristocrat.

Realizing this she observed the green-eyed inspection occupying an humble little house in the Rue Pot de Fer, where until lately she had had for companion a faithful old peasant woman named Leontine. But latterly Leontine had been ill, and in the end she had been forced to leave Paris and return to the country.

"Very well. If it is your wish it is also mine; indeed, it is I who shall be the grater danger and the more perilous to the republic. He kissed her, and she broke from him laughing. It seemed to her worth while to have endured so much for the sake of the happiness which this reunion afforded her.

While bending over the fire she stirred the contents of the stew-pot; he stalked to the window and looked out. "Pard!" he swore. "The stench and noise of those forges at the Luxembourg make the place unbearable."

"That is the least of the things I have had to bear," she answered. Then suddenly she drew herself up, alert and listening. "There!" she cried.

Above the clang and clatter of the cannon-batters came a shrill voice: "Lignes et dentelles! Lignes et dentelles!"

She opened a drawer and took from it a little roll of assignats, the paper money of the republic. "That is the accompa-

CREAM QUICKLY CHECKS A COLD

If the children are feverish, fretful from a head cold or catarrh with the nostrils clogged and head all stuffed up, just apply a little pure antiseptic cream into the nostril. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing and healing swollen, inflamed membrane, and they obtain instant relief. Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Nothing clears the head so quickly. Count fifty. All the stuffiness, dryness, struggling for breath will be gone. This is so much better than dragging children that every mother should use Ely's Cream Balm—Advt.

MUSSOLINI WINS DESPITE ATTACKS

80-Year-Old Ex-Premier Engages Fascist Leader in Verbal Warfare.

SAYS LIBERTY GONE

By HIRAM K. MODERWELL.
By Special Cable to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright.
Rome, Jan. 17.—The vote which Premier Mussolini obtained Friday for a new electoral law—the English version plus a plural vote feature—reveals that his parliamentary majority is compact even against the assaults of three ex-premiers, Giolitti, Orlando and Salandra, and the moral support of the other opposition parties.

His vote of 397 out of a total of 536 represents 260 Fascist deputies, 100 Liberals and Catholics still remaining loyal to the government out of a total of 140 non-Fascists who supported the government immediately after the elections last April.

Attack Is Vigorous.
The total vote which the opposition could poll if the communists and Aventine deputies had been present and voting was 185.

Signor Giolitti's 80 odd years did not detract from the vigor of his speech nor from the violence of his verbal interchange with the premier, who is scarcely half his age. Giolitti said bluntly:

"The present state of mind in the country would give the elections unprecedented violence, which might turn into civil war."

He charged that elections held under present conditions would be without guarantee of liberty of the press or of assembly for the opposition, adding: "Such elections could not represent the will of the country."

Premier Mussolini retorted: "In the matter of elections, we can go to school to you."

"You are too modest," Giolitti responded. "You got your majority last year which we never dreamed of."

Fall of Lira Halting.
Before evening the fall of the lira had been halted. The government had been demanding intervention by the Banca d'Italia, which hitherto had refused, presumably because it did not consider intervention necessary. How seriously the lira's fall may react upon internal politics was hinted in parliament by the demand of the extreme Fascist, Farinacci, for the arrest of President Togliatti, president of the powerful Banca Commerciale, which according to repeated insinuations in some of the newspapers, has been speculating in the lira for political purposes.

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 18.—Four children of Harry Loomis of Middlebury, near here, were burned to death in their beds tonight while their parents and grandparents were gathered in the downstairs part of the house, unconscious of the blaze on the upper floor.

COOKE SEEKS DECISION ON CUSTODY OF CHILD
Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Jan. 17.—Following a decision of Mr. Justice Orde dismissing the action of Mrs. Hilda Betty Cooke, for alimony, application was made by J. H. Cooke, her husband, for a writ of habeas corpus requiring the mother to produce the child in court so that the question of custody might be determined. Armed with the writ which was issued on instructions from Mr. Justice Middleton, Mr. Cooke went to the apartments of his wife to find that Mrs. Cooke was no longer there. The furniture had been sold, it is stated.

WANDERS FROM HOME, MAN FROZEN TO DEATH
Associated Press Despatch.
Three Rivers, P.Q., Jan. 17.—Alfred Martel, 62 years old, was frozen to death in this city after having fled from home during last night without hat or shoes, wearing only a shirt and his pants. The temperature was 29 degrees below zero, and the old man, who is mentally unbalanced, was soon lost.

He went to the home of Frank Thiffault, and he knocked at the door and asked for help. As there were only two women there they were afraid of the appearance of Martel through the glass. The victim then burst through the door, and Thiffault's house, where police were called by the door the door was opened.

When a policeman came to the house, he found the man lying in the snow and paralyzed by the frost. Brought to St. Joseph's hospital he died this morning after much suffering.

BUILDING AT WARTON DESTROYED BY BLAZE
Special to The Advertiser.
Warton, Jan. 18.—Fire destroyed a large frame building and the machinery contained in it at the plant of the Warton Marine Railway about 10 o'clock this morning. As there had been no fire in the building since last Friday the management of the company cannot explain the origin of the blaze of this morning.

Despite the cold weather and the heavy snow, the firefighters were able to check the flames before they reached two trunks which are in the dry-dock.

The loss is placed at $3,000, partially covered by insurance.

Uneasiness and Talk in Britain Resented by Canadians, Says King.

TO STAY IN EMPIRE FROM SOUTH BRUCE

Prime Minister Scores Annexation Talk—Sees Revival at Election Time.

EXPLAINS ORIGIN

Asserts Commonwealth of British Nations Only Desirable Plan.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Jan. 18.—There has never been any serious talk in Canada either of annexation to the United States or of an independent existence apart from the "British Commonwealth of Nations" Premier W. L. Mackenzie King declared last night in the course of a speech delivered at the complimentary banquet to E. R. E. Chevier M. P. for Ottawa.

Touching on Mr. Chevier's recent visit to South Africa and the similarity of the constitution of that country with that of Canada, the prime minister went on to say that Canadians generally would resent any revival of the annexation cry or any talk of Canada's separation from the Empire. Such rumor had been given publicity in British newspapers of late and there was said to be uneasiness in Britain over the prospect. The Canadian people would resent and deplore any uneasiness on that score.

Mr. King said that Canada's refusal to take office in a British consulate building in New York had been used as a basis for a report that Canada was thinking of independence. The report, he said, was a "fantasy" which looked like a real estate speculation, said the premier. He was of the opinion that opponents of the government were unable to fight the administration on policy was getting ready to raise the annexation cry over again.

Discussing the inter-imperial relations Premier King said that neither an imperial federation nor an imperial council was practicable. The present system, he said, was the commonwealth of British nations was much more desirable. Twenty years ago Sir Wilfrid Laurier was charged with separatist tendencies because he called the British Empire "a galaxy of nations."

After twenty years, Laurier's views were vindicated by the public utterances of his majesty, the king.

SENATE TO FACE DOUBLE ASSAULT

Attack, Independent of Liberals, Is Planned by Progressive Member

FROM SOUTH BRUCE

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Jan. 17.—Another demand for Senate reform is contained in a notice of motion filed with the clerk of the House of Commons by J. W. Findlay, Progressive member for South Bruce.

Mr. Findlay's resolution calls for alteration in the rules of the Senate so as to change it to an elective body, or, as an alternative, it asks for abolition of the Senate.

His resolution suggests that the people of Canada be asked at the next election to declare whether they prefer total abolition of the Senate or a change to an elective Senate.

Premier King has already announced that legislation for Senate reform will be brought down this year. The premier proposed to give the upper house the same limited power possessed by the British House of Lords.

TALK ELECTION FREELY.
Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Jan. 18.—The return of Premier Mackenzie King and a number of members of the cabinet who accompanied him to Quebec yesterday marked the close of a week of pre-sessional speech making by the premier. This week the serious business of preparing for a very important session of parliament will be taken up in real earnest. The session is of special importance, not only because of the matters which it is clearly indicated, will come up for discussion, but also because it will probably be the final meeting of the present parliament.

An election in the fall is being talked of freely in political circles, and the cabinet members who accompanied him to Quebec yesterday, are pointed out as indicating an approval of the country in September or October.

Before the Houses of Parliament assemble, the government has a number of things to arrange, and the coming fortnight will be devoted largely to sessional preparations.

It is understood that practically nothing has yet been done in the direction of reviewing, revising and probably cutting down the estimates which will be presented to parliament last year. This work was well advanced two weeks before the opening.

Again the government has to map out a course of action on the freight rate situation in Canada. There is a vacancy on the railway commission, which probably will be filled shortly after the return of Hon. H. S. Balcanquhall from Europe, and there are five vacant seats in the senate. When these are filled, probably in the near future, the majority adverse to the government in the upper chamber will be materially reduced.

TWIN CITIES MAY GET WINNIPEG EXCHANGE
Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, Jan. 18.—Removal of the grain exchange from Winnipeg to Port Arthur and Fort William is being sought through joint action on behalf of the city councils of Port Arthur and Fort William. It is being learned today. The movement is being sponsored by F. H. Keefer, of Port Arthur.

Commenting on the proposition, members of the local exchange acknowledged the possibility of such a move and declared that there was a feeling in certain quarters that Winnipeg was not keen in its appreciation of the grain exchange and further that some relief would be welcomed from the "unjust impact placed on the trade by the Manitoba government."

FINED ON ASSAULT CHARGE.
Special to The Advertiser.
Wallaceburg, Jan. 18.—Ernest Gallon of Port Lambton, charged with assault and doing bodily harm to H. Lambert, was arraigned before Magistrate Carscaddon. The charge was changed to one of common assault, to which the defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs or a month in jail. The fine was paid. Gallon was represented by J. S. Fraser, K.C., and A. M. Lebel acted for the crown.

Fifteen Doors and Riflemen Fail To Stop Police In Raid
Special to The Advertiser.
by Staff Correspondent.
Detroit, Jan. 18.—In a spectacular raid on a gambling resort at 5521 Chene street early today, in which a dozen policemen took part, fifteen doors, one of them of steel construction, were forced before raiders succeeded in reaching the room where the games of chance were in progress.

Thirty-eight men found in the place were arrested as frequenters. In addition to an armed "look-out," the gamblers were protected by two sharpshooters armed with shotguns who were located in a steel-built "crownest," from where they could overlook room and players.

When the police rushed in, the capitulation was complete, the crestfallen guards meekly obeying orders to "come down out of that." Much money in silver and bills and gambling equipment was taken.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE NO. 83

It sounds like a challenge, so that should call for your best efforts to not only "get it" but get it in record time. No. 23 horizontal is Diogenes, and No. 2 vertical, rale, 23 vertical is diorama, and 49 elta. Each number in the puzzle indicates the position of the first letter of a word.

Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical) according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock. Each number in the white squares also refers to a definition in the accompanying table.

Each definition suggests a word possessing the exact number of letters to fit the white squares allotted to it. Each white space is to receive one letter only. Words start only in numbered squares.

WHEN TWILIGHT YIELDS TO LAMPLIGHT

NO other part of the house is more cheerful than the living room when the mellow sunshine streams in through the windows, and adds its own rich pattern to colorful rays and hangings. And no room responds more happily to the glow of the evening lamp. When the daylight is gone, the flick of a silken cord releases this modern sunshine to scatter the night at your bidding.

Portable floor and table lamps, equipped with the correct Edison Mazda Lamps, can increase the cheerfulness of your living room many times over.

To obtain the best results, choose lamps with wide shades which throw the light upward and downward. See that they are equipped with 50 or 75-watt white or frosted Edison Mazda Lamps.

Near you is an Edison Mazda Lamp store, recognizable by the yellow and blue cartons. There you can obtain real information about good lighting.

White Edison Mazda Lamp most suitable for portable lamp use, as the filament cannot be seen.

WRIGHT ELECTED BY INDEPENDENTS

Independent Labor Party Chooses Officers For Coming Year.

Donald H. Wright was elected president of the Independent Labor party in London at a reorganization meeting of the party yesterday. For the first time in more than a year the party has a properly elected list of officers, an executive committee, an organization committee and funds in the bank. Yesterday, at the call of John Colbert, president in 1924, the remnants of last year's party, together with enthusiasts who believe that 1925 is to be a year of growth and influence in labor politics in Canada, gathered in the labor temple and founded what is hoped will prove to be the nucleus of a live and vigorous organization which will conduct the educational side of the labor movement in the city and district.

Officers are: First vice-president, Aid. Frank McKay; second vice-president, W. Phillips; third vice-president, H. Laidie; secretary, Arthur Mould; assistant secretary, A. C. Avery; treasurer, John Colbert; and sergeant-at-arms, J. E. Thompson.

To Meet Every Sunday.
Meetings will be held every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Labor Temple, when some educational topic will be taken up and discussed. The first Sunday in each month will be the business meeting of the party. On Sunday, January 25, a C. Avery, who is familiar with the British labor movement within the last few years, will lead a discussion on the connection between the work of the British trades unions and the Independent Labor party. This is a subject of extreme interest to Canadian labor at the present, as the Trades Union movement in Canada does not hold with political movement, nor has the American Federation of Labor up to now agreed to allow politics to enter its efforts.

Seek New Members.
Donald Wright in his presidential address emphasized the fact that the essential work before the party would be the education of all prospective members of the labor movement as to political conditions, and their effect on labor, and to give publicity to the fundamentals of the labor creed. He hoped members would do what they could to bring an increased membership to the next meeting on Sunday. Among the members are Dr. Hugh Stevenson, and Aldermen John Ashton and Frank McKay. A number of men and women in London, interested in labor, have signified their intention of joining this branch of the movement.

FOUR DAYS WITHOUT FOOD, CAUSES MAN TO COLLAPSE

Canadian Press Dispatch.
Toronto, Jan. 18.—Lying in a hospital cot here in a serious condition, George Thorgood, aged 34, who collapsed from starvation last night on the steps of the house of industry, stated today that the last food he obtained before being cared for here was four days previously at Whitby.

TOWNSHIP BOARD PLAN OPPOSED BY TRUSTEES

Middlesex Rural School Association Votes To Retain Present System.

CHANGE WAS SOUGHT
Dr. Karr, Director Rural Education, Urges Plan For Economy Sake.

OFFICERS ELECTED
J. E. Harrison, Parkhill, Is President, Miss Robson Is Secretary.

Members of the Middlesex rural school trustees association failed to see eye to eye with Dr. Karr, provincial director of rural schools, Toronto, on Saturday, and passed a resolution favoring the present section school boards as being the most suitable form of rural school administration. Just previously, Dr. Karr, in a lengthy address, replete with statistics, had made an eloquent plea for the township board form of administration, and had asked the convention to send a resolution in favor of his suggestion to Premier Ferguson, the provincial minister of education.

He based his plea on the greater efficiency, economy and equality which would be the outcome of a township board administration. His figures showed that there were a large number of schools in the province with a very small number of pupils, which raised the whole cost of education in the province to a ridiculous figure.

Change Grants System.
The trustees, however, made their stand on economy plain by passing a resolution after suggesting that the present system of provincial grants on teachers' salaries be done away with, abolishing the 20 per cent grant made on certain teachers' salaries and continue the 40 per cent granted on all salaries.

This if it went into effect would mean that a school board could hire a teacher at any salary which it could bargain for, and still get from the government the full grant. Under present conditions, the full 40 per cent grant can only be obtained where the teacher is paid not less than $1,000 a year.

A clause in this resolution favoring "competitive bidding" on the part of rural teachers was vigorously attacked by Arthur Mould, who declared it a "most immoral thing" to suggest. He deplored this attempt to treat the teacher down and to invite them to compete with each other in the matter of salaries. Another delegate regretted the fact that many rural schools in advertising for their teachers asked the applicant to state at what salary he or she would accept the position. He claimed that this was an entirely erroneous view of a teacher's responsibilities and duties in a community. Under fire from many angles, this clause was finally eliminated.

Elect Officers.
J. E. Harrison, Parkhill, was elected president for 1925, and the vice-presidents are: Allan McDougall and J. G. Stewart of Strathroy. The secretary-treasurer is Miss Ethell Robson of Denfield.

Directors for this year are: Charles Macle, Appin; J. J. Johnson, Belton; T. L. Scott, Iderton; H. Curry, Strathroy; T. A. McEvoy, Mount Brydges; A. C. Hodgins, Denfield; and Mrs. John Macle, Appin. T. L. Scott was appointed representative to the Ontario Educational association, and Mr. Scott and William Fuller will ask the county council for the annual grant, which has usually been $100.

It was decided to make the chairman of the educational committee of the county council ex-officio a director of the association. W. M. Morris, editor of the Canadian School Board Journal, asked the delegates for their support toward the Ontario Educational association, which, he said, was now facing its Waterloo. He urged support on the ground that its successful continuation was essential to the best interests of education in the province and that there was no other body so well equipped either in organization or in members of educational experience to deal with the matter. In answer to Arthur Mould, he said he was quite willing to see the annual convention of the Ontario Educational association go outside Toronto for once, but that he had nothing to do with the place of meeting. He advised the delegates to make some representation along this line to Toronto headquarters.

Dr. Karr Speaks.
Dr. Karr made the statement that costs in Ontario of rural school education were altogether too high, and advocated township school boards as the only solution of the evil.

He gave official figures to show that in Ontario in 177 rural schools, with five or fewer pupils, the cost per annum per pupil was $248.32, an appalling figure, he declared. In 321

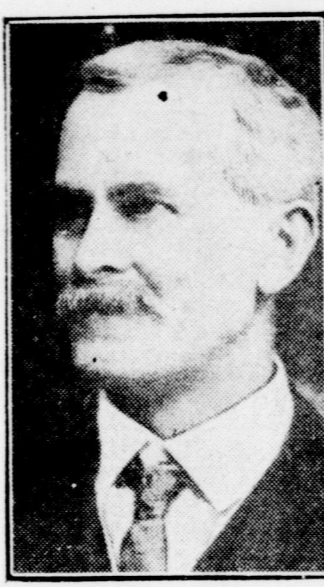

WHOOING COUGH IS A VERY SERIOUS TROUBLE HER 5 CHILDREN HAD IT

Mrs. S. H. Craig, R.R. No. 1, Palmerston, Ont., writes: "Two years ago, last winter, our five children had very severe attacks of whooping cough. We were recommended, by our druggist, to use which we did with the greatest of success. It cleared out the throat and bronchial tubes, and loosened the phlegm so that they were able to cough it up, and in no time I had quenched the 'whooping'."

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

J. E. HARRISON, of Parkhill, who was elected on Saturday, president of the Middlesex Rural School trustees' association for the year 1925.

rural schools, with fewer than ten pupils each, the cost per pupil each year was $155, also too high a figure. At the conclusion of his address, so sparkling discussion arose on the merits of the present section school board versus the proposed township boards.

Dealing with the county of Middlesex, Mr. Karr quoted official figures as well. He said that the county there were at present five school boards with 21 or less pupils, with an individual cost of $265 per pupil, and 14 schools with less than ten pupils, where the cost was $165 per pupil. All this he characterized as waste money and effort. He claimed that with township school boards in operation there would be a saving in schools, and in teachers, as these boards would have the necessary power to concentrate pupils in schools where they could most economically be educated.

He criticized the present section school board, and stated that in the most progressive of the states a section board was already giving place to the township board. In British Columbia township boards were proving a success.

Figures Startle.

Mr. Karr's figures for the whole province were even more startling. There were, he said, 20 schools with less than two pupils; 24 with less than three; 27 with less than four; 18 with less than five; 747 with less than nine, and 89 with less than ten. There were two school with one pupil each. In other words, 68.2 per cent of rural schools in Ontario have less than 20 pupils apiece.

Middlesex has officially five schools with five pupils or less, one with two pupils, one with four pupils, three with five pupils, and fourteen with from six to ten. The director maintained that this was a waste of children better than one, and that a larger class meant more enthusiasm among the pupils. He most strongly advocated the township board, and asked the trustees to make representations to the provincial minister of education to have these boards instituted in Ontario.

The Resolution.

The resolution dealing with school boards passed on Saturday was as follows: "That this convention having heard Dr. Karr speak on the merits of the township board as a unit in school administration desires to express itself, (1) as opposed to any change in principle of the present system of education through local trustees boards, believing this to be a sound educational principle and that (2) it is willing to co-operate with the provincial department of education in any constructive plan which it may submit whereby greater efficiency may be obtained in the administration of schools, and would also suggest a survey of this province to define school areas with a view to providing secondary education for rural populations."

MINISTER URGES TO FORGET PAST

Rev. E. D. Jones, D.D., Detroit, Speaks in New Church of Christ.

Yesterday's consecration services in the fine new edifice erected by the Church of Christ Disciples, Elizabeth street, were featured by eloquent, masterful and scholarly addresses by Rev. Edgar De Witt Jones, D.D., Detroit, the special preacher for the occasion.

Dr. Jones, pastor of Central Church of Christ in Detroit, delivered inspirational addresses of the type that have to be heard to be appreciated. His morning sermon constituted itself an exhortation to the members of the Church of Christ here to forget the things of the past and press forward to the future. In the evening he gave an interpretation of the Disciples of Christ, touching upon the original and proposals of the church.

Much To Forget.

"This church has been obsessed with one overwhelming passion for the past three years," declared Dr. Jones at the morning service, "and now we see the results of that commitment to one thing. But it is not possible to be so single-minded as yesterday, lest today suffer and we fall short of its possibilities. There are many things to be forgotten, the achievements as well as the failures belong to the past; we must press on to the things before. There is no place to stop in the enlargement of faith and the enrichment of hope. There should be struggle. It's war. We are struggling for that differentiates us—whether we are struggling for money, power, fame or the worthwhile things of life. The attitude of Christians should be one of humbleness of mind and a feeling that we have come only part of the way, that there should be to be possessed, much to be learned and that we have not yet apprehended. "Consecrate means to set apart," concluded Dr. Jones, "and this is my consecration message to you: Forgetting these things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before, press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ."

Movement For Unity.
Speaking on the Church of Christ, Disciples, at the evening service, Dr. Jones declared it to be "a movement within the church for the unity of the church." He stated that the Disciples ranked sixth among the American churches, having 1,350,000 adherents, 2,553 churches, 8,184 ministers, including missionaries, and

JAMES SUTHERLAND IS REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

Canadian Press Dispatch.
Toronto, Jan. 17.—James Sutherland, who was arrested some time ago charged with the theft of "about $1,000" from the Ontario government, was remanded for sentence today. Frank Hughes, defending counsel, referred to the transaction which led to the charge as merely an "overdraft." "Yes," agreed Mr. Jones. "He seems to have been more unwise than anything else." The other two men, Vernon Herron and John F. Smith, both officials of the provincial savings bank, charged with stealing $18,000, will come up before the court next week.
