LIQUOR CASES

During the past week License Inspector Macnabb has secured convictions against several of the local hotel men for selling during prohibited hours. In one case the charge was for the conduct of an extra bar, the proprietor giving evidence that it was necessary during repairs going on in the regular bar-room. Inspector Macnabb secured convictions in all the cases.

S. S. EXCURSION

The Christ Church Sunday School excursion this morning was one of the best attended excursions of the season, about 75 getting on at the lighthouse. The trip was to Walpole Island and a more desirable or beautiful day could not be wished, with a pleasant breeze and delightfully bright, the pretty scenes along the St. Clair will show to best advantage. On arrival at the island the children will enjoy themselves in picnicking, bow-arrow shooting, and games, and on the whole a very pleasant day will have been spent.

BE ON GUARD

Chief of Police Holmes has received several communications from chiefs of police in towns and cities, where the Forepaugh and Sells Brothers circus has shown, stating that there is a gang of pickpockets and crooks following the show. In several cases the stores have been robbed while the parade was going by the front door the thieves would enter the back way and tap the tills.

Judge Houston says the ladies are the greatest sufferers from pocket-picking. At the last big circus here there were over twenty cases where ladies' pockets had been picked, and not one man's case was reported. The chaste purses are probably the easiest worked in the crowd of the circus day.

KNOW OUR COLONEL

Capt. Wm. Mowbray, of the 24th Regiment, has received a letter from Max D. Fraser, of the Coronation contingent, dated at London, June 28. At the time of writing he was still stationed under canvas at Alexandria Palace. The contingent had been reviewed by "Little Red-faced Bob," and found to be in good condition. He was greatly disappointed over the postponement of the coronation. The next day after that on which he was writing they were to go to Spithhead to see the fleet, and the following Tuesday to be reviewed by the Prince of Wales. Things were awfully quiet in military circles during the King's illness. Max was in his tent one morning when a man who knew Colonel Rankin, from the country around here, dropped in and had a chat with him. Max is expected here by Monday next.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The newly elected officers of Western City Lodge, No. 93, I. O. O. F., were installed last evening by D. D. G. M. Sam McCornock, assisted by Grand Officers Potter, T. Smith, A. Heath, W. Webb, and H. Winegarden. A large number of the members of the lodge were present. The following are the officers: V. G.—J. Kime. Rec. Sec.—N. C. Gibson. F. S.—A. M. Lafferty. Treas.—T. V. Challinor. W.—W. Owens. C.—H. Winegarden. O. G.—J. Northwood. R. S. N. G.—Sam McCornock. I. S. N. G.—Geo. Park. R. S. V. G.—N. Pritchard. I. S. V. G.—Jas. Pritchard. R. S. S.—H. Pratt. I. S. S.—Thos. Kime. Pianist—T. V. Challinor.

CLEVELAND GUESTS

F. H. Strauss, M. J. Strauss, Mrs. S. Strauss, and Mrs. B. Rosenfeld, of Cleveland, arrived in the city last evening and are registered at Hotel Sanita. They will remain in the city for a couple of weeks and will take a course of baths in the Mineral Bath House.

They are much taken with the Maple City and think there is no reason why Chatham should not be a very popular summer resort. They think there is no comparison between Chatham and Mount Clemens in this respect—Chatham being a far more beautiful city and a far more desirable place to live in. The only thing which they expressed surprise is that a large summer hotel is not managed in connection with the bath house. Manager McCole also came in for his share of praise on the manner in which the bath house is managed. The Strauss are managers of a large departmental store on Euclid Avenue, Cleveland.

MUCH ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTED BY CITY COUNCIL

Busy Session of the Aldermen Last Evening—Many Matters Dealt With—Civic Holiday Aug. 11—Fifty Dollars Towards Colored Celebration.

The initiative will be taken in regard to a number of sidewalks.

Mayor Sulman will proclaim Monday, August 11th, as civic holiday.

The city engineer satisfactorily explains why things have not been done.

D. W. Crow wants the city to buy pieces of sidewalk he built on Emma St.

The contract between Blight & Fielder and the city was ordered signed. Wm. Hall is the surety.

The Police reported, the Council re-mitted, and all other assessments for dogs stand as they now are.

The sewer on Van Allen Ave. was petitioned against, but it didn't have the requisite number of signers.

Tenders will be asked for the sewer on Delaware Ave. and for the brick pavements on William St. and Sixth St.

J. G. Kerr was appointed to look after the city's interests in the appeal of M. Wilson, K. C., against his assessments.

No action was taken re request of Graham & Co. for remission of taxes on the evaporating factory on Park street.

The Board of Works were given power to purchase lots that they may obtain earth for filling for cement sidewalks.

The colored citizens were granted the use of Tecumseh Park for their last of August celebration and $50 in money to assist in celebrating.

The engineer told the aldermen that the city had the following paving material on hand:—One car of crushed stone and some 3,000 vitrified bricks.

The petition for a granolithic walk on the E. S. Chatham St., from Grant to Thames St., was sufficiently signed and the walk will be proceeded with.

Ald. Waddell will present a resolution at the next meeting of the Council, asking the legislature to enforce compulsory arbitration where differences arise between corporations holding public franchises and their employees.

The broken flagstones in front of the Chatham Loan Co. will be replaced by the city. At least, the Council has so agreed. These flagstones were broken when the vitrified bricks for the King St. pavement were laid on the walk at this point. The Loan Co. notified the city to take the bricks off and, after the slabs were broken, the Loan Co. asked that the stones be replaced. The Council last year did nothing, but this year, when threatened with a law suit, the Council decided it was best to replace the broken stones.

Neither the heat nor the threatened rain prevented Mayor Sulman and the members of his Council attending on time. Ald. McCoig, minister of finance, was the only absentee.

The account of the Blonde Co. was referred to the Parks and Cemetery committee with power.

R. G. Fleming wrote that the Lawn Bowling Club had paid over the promised $25 for their share of maintenance of their lawn on the park.

Requests to trim trees were received from Mrs. Lawrence, Richmond St., James Shaw, Lorne Ave., S. T. Martin and Miss Tissiman. The requests were referred to the Chief of Police.

The petition for a granolithic walk on the E. S. of Chatham St., from Grant St. to Thames St., was reported sufficiently signed and referred to the city engineer to report on.

A petition was received against the construction of a cement walk on the E. S. William St., from Murray St. to Stanley Ave. The petition was sufficiently signed. It was received.

The account of W. J. Kenny, $8.70, was referred to the Board of Works. The account of the Amherstburg Stone Co., $51.62, was referred to the Board of Works. James Cornhill's account, $7, was olitic walk on Stanley avenue cost $3 1/2c a square yard, while on other walks it cost 25 to 28c per square yard? How is it that the hydrant attachments for the street sprinklers are not in use? The stand pipes are an eyesore and nuisance. How is it that the intakes and traps throughout the city are in a wretched state. The stench and odors from them have been blamed for the sickness in the city last winter. The reason I bring up these questions is because I see the city engineer. While I am not one of those who are trying to cut the city engineer's head off, still I am satisfied that the ratepayers expect us to see that the engineer does his work. I would like to hear what the engineer has to say. If he is not doing what he should, there is no reason why we should pay him $900 per annum.

Ald. Waddell moved, seconded by Ald. McKeough, that the city engineer be heard.

The city engineer said that nothing had been done toward repairing the Wellington street macadam, because the material had only arrived yesterday. The difficulty had been in getting stone. He had asked for it three or four months before. The scraping of the streets had been out of the question on account of the rain. The holes had not been filled because there was nothing to fill them with. John Piggott had given a good pointer in regard to this, but he had not explained what was most needed, "how to fill the holes with wind." The earth that had been used cost $3 for six loads. This was too expensive, and it wasn't much good.

The earth for filling for Stanley avenue sidewalk had cost 53c a square yard. There was no place to get the earth except from the Fielder pit. The pit was deep and wet and it required a lot of work to get the earth. Six loads a day was all that could be hauled. The hydrant attachments for sprinkling carts had been asked for last summer. They were ordered, but were not here yet. The reason the sewer traps were not attended to was because the man who had the contract didn't have the material required. No other firm in the city kept the required material.

Ald. Cowan—There has been a general complaint about the work I don't believe in talking behind a person's back. Let him make an explanation, and if it is his fault, it is time for a change.

Ald. Mounter said that if the facts were that the people on Stanley avenue were paying 53 cents per square yard for their filling, they were paying far too much. If he lived on the avenue he would serve an injunction and stop the work. He asked the Board of Works to at once purchase lots and secure earth for filling.

Ald. McKeough said that some of the

A LIBERAL PROTEST.

There are Liberals still living, and they are not all the oldest inhabitants, who can recall the vigorous crusade when the tresson was sounded and the doctrine proclaimed that protection was legalized robbery and a surplus in the federal treasury a crime, yet it is only rarely that an echo of these doctrines can be heard from any quarter of the Liberal camp to-day. There is one Liberal writer who has the courage of his convictions and expresses them when so minded without regard to what the party leaders may think or how his outspoken opinion may affect the party's prospects; it is he of the Huntingdon Gleaner. He says:

"The Government organs are asking us to rejoice over the fact that during the financial year, which ended 30th June, the Dominion Government took out of the pockets of the people 5-12 million dollars more than any other preceding administration was able to extract. The total revenue was 56 3-4 million dollars, of which customs and excise contributed 13 millions. The people would need to be prosperous to stand such a drain in taxation. Even with so great a revenue it is doubtful if there will be an actual surplus. The expenditure has not been definitely ascertained. The 7-12 million surplus the Government organs boast of is a bogus one, obtained by ignoring the expenditure on capital account."

MORE TEXT BOOKS.

One of the features of the last provincial campaign was the fight of the electors against the school book monopoly. A general interest was taken in the matter, and the fact that the Ross government is clinging to office by a majority of one seat, and that seat retained on the strength of four spoiled ballots, shows how strong was the effort the people made to end the reign of the book ring.

The government claimed that there was no book ring in existence yet it is significant that the firm of Morang & Co., which was one of the first to draw attention to the existence of the iron-clad monopoly was permitted to place three text books on the market under authorization of the Education Department a few weeks ago. The books are a public school grammar, geography and phonics primer. This looks like a sop to the Morangs to keep them quiet.

The new text books are said to be an improvement over those in use. But as the department has within a year past had the book ring issue (a new geography, there is apt to be a want of uniformity and confusion in school books. Mr. Whitney's plan of the teachers in making the selection of matter, making the books thoroughly good, and having them published in government printing bureau, and supplied to the pupils at cost is the proper solution of the problem.

The Ross government's concession to the firm that kicked is a confession that monopoly exists and it dare not end it.

A CLEVER ADVERTISER.

"Marie Corelli has a talent for advertising that amounts to genius. Witness her new novel, yet unpublished, which, 40 says its author, is to deal with a subject never before touched by fiction, but uppermost in men's minds,"—New York Sun.

This reminds us of the two tramp fakirs in Mark Twain's book. They were infesting a village down on the Mississippi and got up a fake entertainment. In order to secure a full house they put on the bills, "Women and Children not Admitted." There was a crowded house.

The fair Marie certainly is a clever advertiser. She pretends to turn up her lovely nose at the newspaper critics, but she keeps in the papers as much as she can. She is like other people, only more so.

HER HUSBAND'S POCKETS.

A St. Louis, Mo., judge has decided that a married woman possesses the right of "visitation and search of her husband's pockets." In other words, a wife is justified in "going through" her good man's clothes.

In the case in question the head of the house was inclined to spend his substance in riotous living, and the court held that in order to keep the pot boiling she could visit his trousers as they hung upon the bedpost and transfer therefrom necessary household appropriations.

Nothing was said by the learned judge of the rights of the wife of a stingy man, but we think that he would probably have accorded her equal liberty with her who was wed to the wine-bibber. Any man who won't buy his wife an Easter bonnet or a St. John gown everytime she demands one, deserves to have his pockets picked every night. — Toronto World.

COURAGE ALWAYS PAYS.

Toronto Telegram.

There is truth, but not the whole truth, in the statement that the Spanish River Pulp crowd defeated the Conservative candidates in East Simcoe and Centre Simcoe, and thus prevented J. E. Whitney from becoming Premier of Ontario.

The courage displayed by Mr. Whitney and his followers in refusing to bow down and serve the Spanish River Pulp Conservatives was worth more to the opposition in votes delivered and constituencies carried than the friendship of the bolters in East Simcoe and Centre Simcoe.

The Conservative party is better off without the friends who can only be kept by the sacrifice of principle and the betrayal of public rights. It is to Mr. Whitney's everlasting credit that he and his followers did what they thought was right in regard to the pulp concessions. Their courage gained more constituencies for the opposition than the two Simcoes, which may have been taken out of the Conservative column by the Spanish River Pulp influence.

BULLER IN CANADA.

His Opinion of Colonialism—His Experience of Canada in the First Northwest Expedition in 1870.

In the second volume of The London Times' History of the War, the attitude at the beginning of the war of the British war authorities in respect to colonial troops is thus set forth:

Already in July some of the colonies had expressed their eagerness to send a contingent in case of war with the Transvaal. These offers were repeated at the end of September, and were welcomed with gratitude by the nation. In the War Office they were, however, by no means regarded in the same light. The military authorities believed that they had an amply sufficient force in every arm for their purpose. They thought colonial troops would be difficult to manage and little use, an encumbrance rather than a help. If they could have had their own way they would have accepted none of the offers. It was only in deference to the strongly expressed wish of the government that Sir Redvers Buller consented that small detachments representative of each self-governing colony should have the privilege of accompanying the army.

In explanation The Canadian Gazette (London, England) says: From our own knowledge we may say that this is an accurate statement of the case. We believe that a political member of the Ministry made an express visit to Aldershot to interview General Buller on the subject of these colonial offers. The general was somewhat contemptuous. What could colonial troops know about real warfare? Why hamper fighting men with a crowd of toy soldiers? It was in some such spirit as this that he put forward his views. It was represented to him that for political, if for no other reasons, the offers must be accepted. "Very well," he said in effect, "let us have then, as few as possible, fit them up into units of about one hundred and twenty-five men each—infantry, mounted infantry, or cavalry, but unmounted men preferred." The Times puts the official reply in these words: "In view of numbers already available, infantry most, cavalry least serviceable."

We are afraid that these facts will not tend to increase Canadian regard for the green old warrior who led the army against the enemy entrenched in the hills on the north bank of the Tugela river. But we are amazed that Buller had not a better opinion of colonial troops—at least of Canadians, for he had some experience of our boys.

In 1870 Wolsley's little army was crawling through "New Ontario" on its way to Fort Garry. Boats for the expedition were being taken up the Mattawa River. A company of the Fourth Saskatchewan (regulars) left Caledonia's Landing one day at noon with a brigade of boats. The next morning No. 2 Company, of the First Ontario Rifles—Canadians—left the same place with another brigade of boats. Shortly before noon the Canadians overtook the British regulars, and were amazed to see the "engineering" operations adopted by the regulars to get their boats up a swift rapid. The men were put in a boat with poles, to keep the course. A tracking rope, attached to the boat's stern, was passed around a tree, which had been hooked to enable the rope to slip, and the whole company of regulars were pulling back on the shore, end of the rope, wasting nine-tenths of their power in the friction that the tree afforded. This extraordinary operation was superintended by Capt. Buller.

The Canadians looked at the rapid, guessed they got out their poles, and walked their boats up the rapid without the least difficulty.

That was Gen. Buller's first defeat, and he should have been able to learn from the incident that Canadian colonists were not far behind the regular soldiers of Great Britain in some things.

Wolsley's men colonel in command of the expedition—learned to admire the Canadian colonists; but it seems that Capt. Buller was never able to overcome his prejudices and pipe-line soldier—Hamilton Spectator.

The Law of Compensation.

Yesterday a Toronto mother walked to church with her son. She was happy, for he had come many miles to visit her, and as he sat close by in the family pew, tall, erect, and like his father, now gone, mother felt the thrill of pleasure, the beginning of the recompense. The toll, the petty troubles and sleepless nights of babyhood, the further anxiety surrounding the years of youth and approaching manhood, were overshadowed yesterday by the presence of the son beside her.

Don't be forgetful, don't be trifling, the law of compensation runs through it all, magnificent in operation, as real as life, as sure as death, and as faithful as the morning sun.

And because of this universal law we in every walk of life find in our estate something to make us happier and brighter than we otherwise would have been.

So do not be envious, whatever your lot, for by this law of Compensation, the light and shade, the hills and valleys, the bitter and the sweet, will ever be part of our existence.—Toronto Star.

Mr. G. Mercer Adam.

Mr. G. Mercer Adam of Akron, Ohio, has been visiting his old friends in Ontario and Muskoka. He attended the Hildesheim memorial celebration in Queen's Park, Toronto, and renewed old association in talking over with old comrades the incidents of 1890, of which he is one of the veterans. Mr. Adam has in the press what promises to be an interesting volume, to be entitled "The Realm of Books and Authors: Papers historical, biographical and literary, culled from the everyday work of an editor, magazineist and reviewer." The book will be published by the Salsfield Publishing Company of Akron, O.

Sleeplessness

Is akin to insanity. Many a woman realizes this as she lies awake hour by hour, peeping the darkness with phantoms, starting at the creaking of the bed, or the rustle of the bedclothes.

Such symptoms in general point to disease of the delicate womanly organs, and a constant drain of the vital and nervous forces. This condition cannot be overcome by sleep, and the disease must be cured before the cause is removed.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which cause nervousness and sleeplessness. It is the best of tonics and invigorants, nourishing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep. Irregularity, weakness, drains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness are perfectly cured by "Favorite Prescription."

"My wife was sick for over eight years," writes Albert H. Fulte, Esq., of Allamont, Grundy Co., Tenn. "She had uterine disease and was treated by two physicians and got no relief. At last I read about Dr. Pierce's medicine and we decided to try his Favorite Prescription. I sent to the drug store and got one bottle and the first dose gave ease and sleep. She had taken the sixth bottle she was sound and well."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

Sir Walter Scott's Marriage. Sir Walter Scott was a genius of the very first order. He succeeded in every department of letters, but his greatest happiness was in his wife. He married her after a short acquaintance, and it was a genuine love match, lasting until the day of her death.

Luck About Shoes.

A Yorkshireman will spit in his right shoe before putting it on when going out on important business, to bring luck, and many an English girl has been known to hang her boots out of the window on St. Valentine's night for love luck.

Cheap Labor.

Labor in Freetown, West Africa, costs only about $5 a head per month.

Shaving the Beard.

It is believed that the custom of shaving the beard was introduced at Rome in the year 300 B. C. According to Pliny, Scipio Africanus was the first Roman who shaved daily.

Wild Bananas Have Seeds.

Wild varieties of bananas have been found in Ceylon, Cochinchina and the Philippines. These of course have seeds, but they are inferior to the long cultivated varieties. The banana is cultivated by suckers, and it is in this way that the plant is perpetuated indefinitely.

TRAINED IN CANADA.

Sketch of the Bermuda-Born Ex-Professor of the University of Toronto.

The Rev. Francis Landey Patton, D.D., LL.D., has surprised his friends and Princeton University by retiring from the Presidency of that institution. He will not, however, resign entirely from connection with it, but will hold the chair in Biblical instruction, ethics and philosophy of religion. His reason for this step is that he wishes to carry out more extensively the literary plans which he has under way, and of which his duties as President withdrew too much of his time.

Canadian interest in Prof. Patton arises from the fact that he was trained at the University of Toronto, and at Knox College. He was born in Bermuda in 1843. After his course in Canada Dr. Patton studied theology at Princeton, and graduated there in 1865. He then obtained the ministry by the Presidency of New York in that year. He was then pastor successively of the Eighty-fourth Street Presbyterian Church, New York, for two years; the Presbyterian church at Nyack for three years, and the South Church of Brooklyn. In 1872 he became professor of didactic and polemical theology in the theological seminary, Chicago, now called McCormick Seminary. From 1873 to 1876 Dr. Patton edited The Interior, the Presbyterian denominational paper in Chicago. Out of the investigation of the famous "Swiss case," the controversy between Dr. Patton and Prof. David Swing, resulting in Prof. Swing's trial for heresy, and the active prosecution by Dr. Patton, his leaving the church.

Dr. Patton has written several books on religious subjects, besides contributing to the magazines. His Treatise on the Inspiration of the Scriptures, "A Summary of Christian Doctrine" and "The Doctrine of Future Retribution" are titles of some of his works.

Dr. Patton continued at McCormick till 1887, and was during the latter part of his stay in Chicago. In addition to his other employments, pastor of the Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church. He was the representative from the United States to the Pan-Presbyterian Council at Edinburgh in 1878, and in the same year he was Moderator of the United States Presbyterian General Assembly which met at Saratoga. In 1879 Dr. Patton was offered a professorship in the Presbyterian Theological College of London, England, which he declined. In 1881 he took a chair at Princeton Theological Seminary that was established and endowed specially for him. It is called the chair of the relations of philosophy and science to the Christian religion. In 1885 Dr. Patton was made professor of ethics in the university, and in 1888 he became President of Princeton.

HIS FIRST ADDRESS.

Late Prof. Halliday Douglas' Response to Canadian Welcome.

When the late Prof. Halliday Douglas of Knox College came to Canada about a year ago, he was welcomed by the great leaders of Presbyterianism here. Those who heard his reply were at once impressed with his thoroughness and his thoughtful, earnest and intellectual face was very generally commented on. He expressed his gratification at the kindness of his welcome and at the opportunity of personally professing his allegiance to the church in Canada, and to Knox College. He had known Canada as a great country, and that he would find the church of his fathers taking a full share in the religious and moral life of the Dominion, but it was another thing to come into the churches and observe the earnestness, the variety and magnitude of Christian activity which he had witnessed. Owing to the conditions which existed, the Presbyterians, he thought, perhaps, have been excused had there been a lowering of the standard of ministerial training. Yet he found they had not sent men to their life work untrained and educated men as preachers, teachers, shepherds and guides of souls, and appealed to the Presbyterians people to the Presbyterians people to the colleges men inspired by faith, love and zeal for the work of the ministry.

Canada's Forest Wealth.

From a point on the Atlantic seaboard some two hundred miles north of the boundary line reaching upward to the Arctic circle, and stretching across the continent to the waters of the Pacific, a vast forest, which contains a large variety of the most valuable trees of commerce, covers the land. The elm, ash, hickory, oak, beech, butternut and hard maple of New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario, give place as the forest swings west and north, to the immense pine woods of the Ottawa and its tributaries. Then from Nipissing to the Lake of the Woods, the hummocky soil is covered with thousands of rugged spruce and fir, which gradually merges into the white poplar and silver birch of northern Manitoba. Further west, where the warm Chinook winds temper the winters, cold, a mightier growth clothes the Pacific shores—the snow-capped peaks of the Rockies appear from amidst the giant trees of British Columbia.—Alaska's Magazine.

The Growth of Canada.

To-day the splendid results of Canada's commercial enterprise are parent even to the most casual student of affairs. Our foreign trade increases month by month and year by year; the population of Nebraska, the Dakotas and other Western States is being drawn up into her Northwest, and almost every day she advances the boundaries of her civilization towards the north. The results are apparent to all; the processes whereby they have been obtained are undetermined by few in this country.—London, Eng., Morning Post.

Charming Summer Resort

Two interesting little books of the illustrated folder type have been issued by the Grand Trunk Railway System, one being entitled "Songs of the Nipissing," and the other "The Eastern Coast of Lake Huron."

The illustrations are very numerous, are of all sizes, and are scattered through the pages to elucidate the text and appear to the eye just as the story told in the letter press does to the mind.

The prevailing note in these little works, upon which a profitable half hour may be spent by the reader, is the craving for change, and there can be no doubt that men and women who live in the stress and strain of to-day, and feel the throes of advanced and advancing civilization, do require change—complete change for mind and body.

The haunts described here minister to the intellectual as well as the physical health of judicious dwellers in cities. The physical exercises that can be obtained among the woods and waters create and promote a perfectly sound bodily condition, while the multifarious life that is to be found, stimulates the intellectual faculties and prompts inquiry and investigation into nature's ways and fauna. The maps which are in these pamphlets enable the visitor to the lake, to realize his bearings at what ever part he may be, and the general information given enables him to economize his time and spend it to the best advantage.

Copies may be had on application to W. E. Rispen, 115 King street, Chatham.

Prussian Oil
Is doing its work in this province where ever introduced as thoroughly and surely as it has been doing all over the Maritime Provinces and New England States where it is in universal use curing the ills that people are subject to.

Very quickly when used as directed. Many people in London, St. Mary's, St. Thomas, Ridgeway and Chatham, testify to its wonderful curative powers and say it is the best medicine they ever had in the house, etc. Use it and prove it.

THE CANADA PAVILION.

That at Wolverhampton Has a Colonnaded Front and a Lofty Gilded Dome—A Striking Building.

At Wolverhampton, Eng., the Canadian Government has a separate building, a pavilion with a colonnaded front and lofty gilded dome. It is one of the most striking and beautiful buildings on the grounds. It is rectangular in plan, covering an area of 8,000 square feet, and situated between the Industrial and Machinery Halls, the main front facing the park. On passing through the portico, which emphasizes the main entrance, one is immediately under the dome which gives an imposing and dignified effect to the interior, and which is further enhanced by a most pleasing color scheme in royal purple and white. Additional entrances are varied, the side facing the Industrial and Machinery Halls.

The first object to claim the attention on entering the Canadian Pavilion is the magnificent trophy of grain, grasses and cereals. This forms the centrepiece of the large circular dome, which rises to a height of 40 feet. The trophy is circular at the base, and rises almost to the top of the dome. It is the base of which, about 40 feet in circumference, four large arches are sprung to the walls, the whole being so arranged as to form a sort of temple of cereals. The grain and grasses are shown in sheaves and bunches, festooned and wreathed in many varied and artistic forms. On the immense stand in the centre are grouped hundreds of bottles of all shapes and sizes, containing specimens of wheat, oats, barley, rye, Indian corn, peas, flax, millet, buckwheat, and in fact all the leading varieties of grains, grasses and fodder plants which grow to such perfection in Canada. These samples are all carefully labeled, giving the name and address of the grower, yield per acre, etc. The collection contains thousands of samples, comprising over five hundred different varieties. The exhibit is probably the best of the kind ever seen in England. It is an object-lesson that cannot fail to impress every one who sees it with the fact that Canada is a country rich in agricultural resources of almost endless variety.

The grain shown is as follows: Oats 107 varieties, two-rowed barley 30, six-rowed barley 38, fall wheat 22, spring wheat 117, peas 61, Indian corn 27, millet 9, Soja beans, horse beans, flax and hops.

To the right of the trophy there is a splendid display of food products, in which many Canadian firms are represented.

Canada is celebrated for her fruit, and here we find four pyramids containing fruit of all kinds preserved in antiseptic fluid. A long table, artistically arranged, contains fifty varieties of apples, which have been preserved in cold-storage since they were packed last autumn.

The mineral section contains a great variety of specimens, suggestive of Canada's richness in mineral resources and the immense possibilities which will follow in the way of development from increased investment of capital. The exhibit is an extensive one, including gold nuggets, gold-copper ores, nickel and nickel products, various gold ores from different provinces, petroleum, graphite, coal, silver-lead ores, iron and steel exhibits, mica, asbestos, manganese, antimony, mineral paints, copper ores, ornamental and building stone, bricks and clays, corundum, etc.

Canada is famous for her richness in the wealth of her forests. The display in the forestry section in the pavilion is a most attractive and pleasantly varied in the large number of exhibits of different classes of timber, many being shown in the log, square, as well as finished and planed. The specimens are all labelled. Photographs of many varieties of Canadian trees are displayed in frames made from the wood which they represent. A few pieces of furniture are also here shown, illustrating the manufactured product. This section includes splendid specimens (stuffed) of some of the noble animals in which sportsmen take great interest and in which Canadian forests abound.

Prominently displayed on the walls of the Canadian Pavilion are some solid facts regarding Canada's varied resources: forests, mineral, agricultural, fruit, fisheries and dairying. These are so arranged that they can be taken in at a glance, and in a minute or two enable the visitor to judge for himself of the progress which has been made of recent years.

The fugitives from slavery.

We observe a paragraph giving the rounds of the press, originally published in a western paper, which estimates the number of colored persons who have entered Canada during the last three years at no less than 30,000. We have the very best means of ascertaining the truth of the matter, and we can state positively that the highest computation by well-informed persons does not make the number more than 3,000. There are not more than 30,000 in the country altogether, although so early as 1826 the American Government complained to Great Britain against her harboring of fugitive slaves in Canada, which shows that a considerable number must have come over even at that early day. In New York State, with its three millions of population, there are not more than 50,000 colored persons resident.

Canadian Arch in London.

The Canadian Arch in London, which is one of the novelties of the coronation. The structure of wood will be only a background for a representation of the career of the products of the colony. The leaves of the maple and other representative trees and flowers of Canada will figure on its surface, and beneath the archway under which the procession will pass will appear the motto "The Future Granary of the Empire."

Eight British commanders have been granted dukedoms.

THE DARRELL SCRUBS

Oh, have you heard of our fame! The "Darrell Scrubs" is our name; Old Darrell City is our town, While for Scrubs they set us down.

In our shining pants of blue, We will scrap like soldiers true, With our sweaters all so black, We will never turn our back.

O, the Red Caps think we're green, Say we never will be seen, But we'll get there just the same, For we play a grand old game.

For our forwards they are keen, And our backs the best you've seen, And our boys they all play fast, So we're sure to score at last.

But the girls they say we're proud, Say we're all a bunny crowd; And the boys call us very small, Say, in short, we "can't play ball."

We will fool them just the same, For they'll find us very game, We won't let them turn us down, For we do our job up brown.

Carpet Remnant Sale

We will continue to offer all shortends of carpets at 1-4 to 1-3 off—and remnants a-plenty will be found for all who can use short lengths—be sure to bring your room measurements with you—you cannot buy to best advantage without having them.

Event No. 5

The opening up of our Furniture Department, here you will find a well assorted stock of almost everything you need to furnish your home. We were fortunate in making our contracts for stock previous to the advance in prices. Everything is not only of the latest style, but is being sold on the CASH and One Price Principle that dominates our store. Pleased to show you through whether you think of buying or not.

Clothing

One of the Most Stirring Offerings That We Have Ever Made

Saturday, July 19th

A glance at the facts and figures below will tell you that better than the words here.

No matter what kind of clothes you want, no matter whether you are going away, or going to stay at work at home, here are exactly the clothes you need, at the lowest prices for which thoroughly good clothes were ever sold and there are plenty of them.

You never meet disappointment in coming to our clothing store. We never tell of a few dozen good suits in order to top you with buying suits of indifferent value when the good ones are gone. We'll do bigger selling than we dare hope for if we don't have plenty of all these garments for everybody who comes all day long Saturday. And that's the wonder of Austin's Clothing Sales. That's why this clothing store is famous in Kent County and round about. That's why thousands respond to such an offering as we will make Saturday.

The garments are handsome as man or boy could wish, as good as hand-made, and at prices better than you'd dare hope for, till this word came. Read on.

Thomas Martin, the good bread man, calls the attention of the Board of Works to a number of lots where the weeds have not yet been cut. There are two lots, one on each side of Edgar street, where Canada thistles are growing five feet high, and in full bloom. Both sides of Bedford street are lined with burdock. The vacant lot next to Terry's store on St. Clair Street, and the vacant lot on the river bank on Emma street give promise of an excellent crop of weeds.

No less than twenty-three champion bareback riders of the world are at the Adams Forepaugh and Sells Bros. Show at Thibodeau & Jacques. The management claims that this statement is no mere figure of speech, but is absolutely true. The riders are of the best of the world, and they claim to merit the distinction this year more than ever before. They will exhibit here on Saturday, July 19.

Rev. Fr. Thos. Roach, of Houston, Texas, who has been spending a few days with relatives in the city, delivered an excellent sermon at the St. Joseph's Church Sunday. He is a young man of about 30 years and is a first cousin of Mrs. D. J. McDonald. His brother was also here, but assisted in his services at Port Lambton yesterday.

The Growler editor says the City Engineer and Board of Works overlooked the large holes on Inches Ave., near the C. P. R. track, and at Harvey St., where a sewer has caved in, leaving a hole large enough to swallow a horse. He claims the reason he noticed it was because he nearly fell into it, and claims it would have been another Sanford case.

Chief Holmes has received a card from Detroit, asking the police to look out for Professor Donovan. Donovan found a mark in Mrs. Josephine Vaughan, and got $85 very easily. Donovan told Mrs. Vaughan that he could cure her if she put $25 in an envelope and let him rub it on his forehead. Donovan then left the envelope with instructions that it be not opened on the pain of death. Mrs. Vaughan opened the envelope and found the $85 missing.

OUT OF THE DEPTHS.

The Punishments of the Past—Conditions That the British People Have Outgrown in Treating Criminals.

Returning to the quaint diary of old Fisherton, Wiltshire, we find a note in 1826 of a pauper eighty-five years old being charged with refusing to work. On being convicted he was sentenced to one month's imprisonment and to be once privately whipped.

Marianne Moore was tried in 1829 for felony in the house of the lady milliner to whom she was servant, and had a narrow escape. The peculiarity in the case was that by an Act of Parliament passed in the previous year (Peel's Act) private stealing in a dwelling house was rendered capital, if to the amount of five pounds. When the five sovereigns were weighed one of them proved to be of light weight, and the capital charge was therefore abandoned.

Death penalties were then so common that in 1830 Baron Vaughan pointed out that of fifty-four cases to come before him there were only seven which were not capital.

A man believing that the sale of a wife publicly in the market place with a halter round her neck would have the full force of a divorce legally obtained, took his wife (legally willing to try a change of circumstances) into the public market at Melksham, and there disposed of her for two shillings and sixpence to a man named William Watts. The couple were committed to prison for the offence, but Watts was acquitted.

An extraordinary conspiracy was unearthed in 1836. Two brothers in association with a woman carried on prosecutions of felony in Dorset, Somerset and Gloucester. The whole of the evidence was fabricated, the alleged for such prosecutions.

A curious point of law arose in 1837. James Curtis and Ann Pontin were indicted for having stolen what was described as being mutton. The counsel objected that in anything stolen it was a sheep, of which there was abundant evidence to have convicted them. They were both acquitted on this plea.

An ordinary case of robbery obtained some importance in 1838, by reason of an underlying romance, as will be seen in the following story—

"George Thorne was indicted for stealing a quantity of bristles, the property of his employer, John Wilkins, of Westbury. It appears that Thorne was engaged by Wilkins as a foreman, and received £100 salary, profits of sale amounted to a certain sum he should receive fifty per cent. upon the profits. A great many parcels of bristles having been missed, Mr. Wilkins marked some packages and sent them with lavender water. These, being also very shortly missed, were traced to the possession of Thorne. (It is necessary here to premise that it is the custom in many shops to allow the employed to purchase anything they may want for their own use, without paying for it at the time, and at the cost price, in the day book, the credit of the master.) Thorne had kept company with a Miss Rymer, a young lady possessing considerable property, and to whom he was shortly to have been united, the wedding day being fixed, and a handsomely furnished house prepared. While in prison, Thorne bethought himself of the following ingenious plan (which had great probability of succeeding) to obtain his acquittal. He had received a letter from Miss Rymer, on a vacant corner of this he wrote an account of all the articles found at his lodgings, charging himself with them as a debtor to his master. This he privately contrived to send to Miss Rymer, with instructions how to act; and she soon after found means to have this paper placed among some other papers and things under the desk in Mr. Wilkins' shop. This being accomplished, it was then, for the first time, stated that he had charged himself with the various articles and had left a memorandum to that effect upon the desk. Search being accordingly made, the identical slip of paper was found; but suspicion arising, application was made to the governor of the goal, who caused all Thorne's papers to be seized, and among them was still preserved the letter of Miss Rymer, with the corner torn off, and to which the piece found in the shop exactly corresponded (that this letter had been destroyed in all probability the prisoner would have been acquitted). Miss Rymer's regard for the prisoner so far overcame every prudent or upright feeling as to induce her to swear that the paper on which she wrote her account was given her by the prisoner before he went to prison—that the letter was so mutilated when she wrote it—and that she remarked to her father that such was the case, and that when the letter was found it could be partly read which induced her consequently to make a parcel of it. The father also swore that he recollected his daughter saying she had written a letter on a sheet of paper much torn, and that she subsequently recalled the circumstance to his memory. The governor of the prison, however, swore that the letter was not so mutilated when he read it, previously to delivering it to the prisoner. The calm and attentive conduct of Miss Rymer throughout created unusual interest, cheering the prisoner with her looks and supplying the counsel with occasional information.

Some Chartists riots in 1840 sent a batch of prisoners for trial at the Lent Assizes, when the accused were ordered to be fined and imprisoned. Poaching was one of the most heinous offences. Three men were in 1846 transported for twenty years. Baron Rolfe, in sentencing them, remarked "That he saw enough to convince him that they were all idle fellows, spending their time in poaching and drunkenness. He would, however, take care that for the remainder of their days they should not taste a drop of liquor, or have one moment of their own. They should work in chains as slaves in a distant land."

PASSING OF OLD PLAYHOUSES.

London Theatres That Are No Longer in Existence.

Theatres and places of amusement are very like human beings—they have their births and deaths, and very often their marriages. The marriages (or amalgamations) and deaths are not as frequent as births. Some think the births are too prolific and speak of a surplus population of playhouses. Comparing the millions of to-day with the thousands of Shakespeare's time, the places where "stage plays" were represented were more numerous three centuries and a half ago than they are in the reign of King Edward VII., writes John Hollingshead in London Sketch.

Among the few London theatres that have left a substantial architectural record behind them to keep their memory green, the chief is the Pantheon, in Oxford street, which, after transforming itself into a bazaar of the Swiss type, was acquired by the great wine merchants, Messrs. Gilbey, and presents the same front as it did in the latter part of the eighteenth century.

The Pantheon was started to be the great rival of the King's Theatre, in the Haymarket, at a time when Italian opera had partly got over the narrow-minded prejudices of the London cockney, when the humor of calling every tenor or soprano Signor or Signora Spallini was getting a little threadbare, and Italian ballet dancing had almost ceased to be compared with the stalking of a pair of compasses across the stage.

Next to go was the Milton street (ancient Grub street) Theatre just outside the City Wall at Cripplegate, and at the back of old Morrison's great soft goods emporium in Fore street. It has a few interesting records worth searching for, and in one instance of a theatre turned into a chapel.

An opposite instance is that of the old Court Theatre, at Chelsea, now supplanted by "residential chambers," which was a chapel before it became a theatre under the late Miss Litton's tactful management.

Among the old theatres which have turned their backs on the drama and welcomed the tenancy of the Young Men's Christian Association ("Y.M.C.A.") is the "City of London" (so called), which clung to the borders of the city. It was largely used as a "starring" house, and here I saw Elton, the celebrated legitimate actor, a short time before his fatal voyage across the Atlantic.

"Astley's" after a long period of depression, finally fell into the hands of those very "superior" landlords, the ecclesiastical commissioners. They have left the public its broad (panem) in pure modern slang for the "staff of life," but they have taken away its circus. The site is now devoted to cheap boot stores, cheap tailors, cheap fruit stores, cheap hats and cheap food—

But alter and tinker the sight as they will, the scene of the saddest will cling to it still.

Within the last few years several familiar theatres have been doomed—the Olympic bought by private treaty by the London County Council, and the Opera Comique, bought after a semi-judicial investigation, "Foolie" (which has had more names during its short career than any other house) has been absorbed by the Charing Cross Hospital; the Tottenham street Theatre, with its unique record, the Amphitheatre in Holborn, which has become the chief depot of a general carrier, and the "Holborn" (also in Holborn), which is now a portion of the First Avenue (Gordon's) Hotel.

In a short time the Globe Theatre (34 years old) will be cleared by the London County Council for the new street subject. "Old Lyons Inn," which was cleared in the middle of the sixties for an Anglo-American Hotel that ended in a site half covered with a speculative builder's failure, would have afforded good house room for a spacious central theatre; but it was cut up into two theatres, built side by side, like Siamese twins, having many defects and few merits.

The Globe was the best twin—a house in which the "line of sight" was happy—the Opera Comique the original home of Gilbert-Sullivan opera, was a house that ought never to have been licensed.

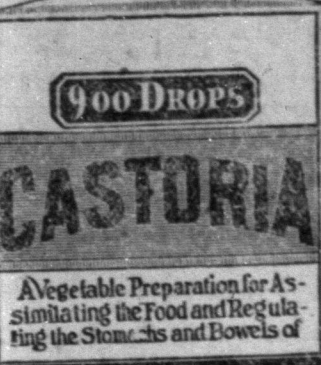

Side by side with the vanishing of the Globe Theatre (not without history) comes the transformation of Niagara Hall, in York street, Westminster, into a show bazaar for electric coaches.

Niagara began as a panorama building, and will end its amusement career as a skating rink. The King and Queen visited it a few weeks ago as a rink, having before visited it to see "The Falls of Niagara." It was opened in 1888. To build the hall five houses had to be bought and pulled down. One of these was the house in which John Milton lived and wrote for a time, which is now partially absorbed by Niagara Hall and the new block of Queen Anne's mansions.

This house came into the possession of Jeremy Bentham, the utilitarian philosopher, who let it first to James Mill, the historian of British India (the father of John Stuart Mill, the political economist), and afterward to William Hazlitt, the essayist and dramatic critic. There are about 14 York streets in London and Westminster, but probably not one with such an interesting record.

Unappreciated Dignity.

Andrew Lang tells this story: "As to asking for votes, one would feel like Abernethy—I think it was he—who stood for a professorship in Edinburgh. He had to canvass a ballie who was a grocer. The ballie had an attitude dignified. 'You have come, young sir, in this crevice of your career to ask for my vote for the chair of toxicology?' No," said Abernethy, "I have come to ask for a penny's worth of your figs. Put them up, and look smart about it."

AS OTHERS SEE US

A short time ago the press recorded the departure in the investigation of industrial phenomena by Sir Alfred Jones. He selected a number of intelligent and representative British workmen in various trades, and sent them to Canada and the United States to study conditions and report respectively. He was not restricting them to time or locality, but requiring a comprehensive report of their impressions. Most of the delegates have already returned, and a brief summary of their reports has been published in The London Times press. One of them, who is a man widely known through his influence among the men of his trade, devotes a large part of his report to conditions and prospects in Canada. He declares no ambitious youth need go elsewhere. The country is efficient

The Canadians he regards as a nation of workers, and he finds them very happy and highly contented, having congenial homes and being blessed with an exceedingly brilliant sky. The coal prospects of the Cape Horn region, "Sydney" attracted him very much, and he has one of the most favorable views of the regions in creation. Nature, both above and below ground, has been kinder and more propitious there, than in any place I have been. He regards it as more than probable that the exigencies of the trade will call for a new route to the Cape, and being a native of the United States, will make Sydney their port of call and departure, and Thillet is regarded by the British trade unionists as the crux of the industrial question. Harder work means the wearing out of the worker at an earlier period of life, or, severer weeding out of the less robust workers, and a more onerous condition of life.

Mr. Ben. Tillett, who is better known in this country through his prominence in the Parliamentary movement of the British working class, finds a very buoyant and cheerful demeanor on the part of the workers combined with a great deal of pusillanimity and originality. He also finds a franker and more businesslike relationship between capital and labor.

"I found an entirely different policy in operation in America to that obtaining among employers, in this country, a minimum wage being paid to the worker of average ability while the extra skillful and capital are paid an amount extra to the average man. The British employers who seek to compensate for the deficiencies as captains of industry by the reduction of both wage and standard of the workers should only is his wage increased, but that the American worker has not, like the British worker, to make a maximum of service for a minimum wage. What is in this country the highest quality of skill and energy is claimed by employers to constitute a wage ability, superior proportionately to America's receives extra remuneration.

The Impressions of Mr. Edward Washer, a delegate to the Bricklayers' Association, seem to be general effect, and he compares the two countries in the disadvantage of the United States. He regards it as strange that the workmen, in the United States, franchise, and control labor representation to Congress, and do not even elect representatives on local governing bodies. In his own town he finds that matters are in England, where the men are in England, the man who lays the stone.

counts and workmanship is not good. Mr. Washer seems to have found the same reason for quality differences. Every workman, he says, belongs to some union, and black, bakers, bakers and steel car men all have good unions.

Sir Alfred Jones intends to publish the reports of all the sections in book form. He says he has made a valuable contribution to the literature of industrial and economic research.

Condensation.

If science goes on discovering new means of condensing things for storage, there seems to be every reason to loids from the cradle to the grave. The great French chemist Berthelot declares it quite possible to exist without any of the foods we now possess, even milk being dispensed with, but at present the process is too costly to be of use, but he hopes some day that the cost will be overcome. And as another French chemist has invented a method of compressing sea air into tabloids it is obvious that life will not be worth living at all in the coming future if the nitrate system is adopted.

Canadian apples are cored, sliced and dried, sent to France and then converted into cider. With the addition of carbonic acid gas and yeast and a little flavoring powder the cider becomes champagne, and the name of it comes to England, and drunk under the delusion that it is of the best brand.—London Family Doctor.

MUCH ROUTINE BUSINESS

earth had been got from the Fielder pit. It had cost $10 per square yard. Lately, however, the earth had been obtained from the C. P. R. for nothing. He had been offered several lots but the Board of Works had not made a purchase yet. There was T. A. Smith's lot on Victoria avenue, Mr. Smith asked $800 for the property, which consisted of 2 1/2 acres.

He was also offered three lots on Dege street, and a number of others. On motion the Board of Works were granted permission to purchase a lot for the purpose of securing earth for filling in for granite work.

Ald. Mounter called attention to the fact that some of the lots offered were next to hard working citizens who had by industry improved their property. He advised the selection of the lot, so as not to hurt any one.

Ald. Cowan said he got his figures as to the cost of earth for the Stanley avenue filling from the city engineer's office.

Ald. Mounter said that earth had been used for filling for city works that had cost far more. Earth had been used that cost a dollar per square yard.

The council will take the initiative in regard to putting down new walks on Fifth street, on the W. S. Joseph street, from Amelia street to the city limits and on Queen street W. S. from the G. T. R. to Park avenue. The Board of Works will advertise for tenders for the Belvedere avenue and the Van Allen avenue sewers.

Ald. McKeough said that the Board of Works was taking initiative proceedings in regard to a brick pavement on William street. He asked the permission of the council to advertise for tenders for the pavement on Sixth street and on William street.

Granted. Ald. Mounter said that the colored citizens wished the use of Tecumseh Park for their celebration.

Ald. McKeough seconded the motion Ald. Mounter made, and it was carried unanimously.

Ald. Marshall said that the matter of a grant to the First of August celebration committee, had been brought up and referred to the Finance committee. The chairman of Finance was away, but Ald. Marshall thought the matter should receive attention. He moved that the celebration committee receive a grant of $50.

On motion of Ald. Mounter, seconded by Alderman Widdell, a deputation of the colored citizens was heard.

Elder Henderson was the first speaker. He had been requested by the committee to say a word. It was his pleasure and wish that the celebration on the 1st of August should be a success and prove beneficial financially and otherwise. Two bands had been engaged. As to the grant of $50 he was sure the bands cost $200.

The committee, however, were perfectly satisfied. All they wanted to do was to come out not in debt. The ecclesiastical duties of the speaker were so filling his mind that he hadn't had time to find out what really was going on here on August 1st.

J. B. Johnson likewise made an earnest plea for money.

Ald. O'Brien seconded Ald. Marshall's motion and $50 was granted the first of August celebration committee.
