The whole truth of the matter is simply this: that as to Portland Channel, the case of Great Britain before us has been demonstrated to us to be unanswerable. By unanimous vote of this tribunal it has been so declared. It was, therefore, impossible to avoid awarding to Great Britain the islands called Pearse and Wales. It was equally impossible upon any intelligible p, inciple for a tribunal acting judicially to hold that Portland Channel, immediately an passing Wales Island; makes a turn at right angles to itself and runs between the Islands of Wales and Sitklam. The whole question presented to us for decision on this branch of the case was whether the Portland Channel of the reary lay north of the lour islands or south of the four, and until to-day it has been uniformly admitted by everybody that all four of these islands belonged altogether either to Great Britain or to the United States. Instead of so finding, the majority of the triburnal have determined to make those islands valueless to

Some five carloads had been placed on the main line, and the engine had been taken back to the quarries for more cars, when an east-bound double header freight crashed into the standing cars with such force as to shove the front engine through a flatear and on top of a coal car loaded with stone. The freight was in charge of Conductor Mc Quade of Sarma, with a crew of Sarma and Windsor men. Fireman Alkens, on the first engine, was caught while attempting to jump, and died about midnight as the regult of his injuries. Driver Morrison of Sarma had his leg broken, but the others escaped without injury. The accident occurred about 6.15 p.m., and it is alleged that Conductor Frost had been given right of way, while the freight from the west was warned of the stone cars on the track. A flagman thred to stop the moming fram, but, owing, it is said, to the brakes refusing to work, this could not be done. Had the double header been fifteen minutes later the stone train would have been gone. Mr. Alkens was quite a young man, and married. Boston, Nov. 2.—On the arrival of the Mayshower at het dock yesterday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Aylesworth went direct to the Hotel Essex, where they reated somewhat during the day before leaving by the 6 o'clock train for Toronto, where they will arrive about 11 o'clock on Monday morning. When seen at his hotel by your correspondent, Mr. Aylesworth did not leel tree to discuss what occurred at the secret meetings of the commission, but on a numhis hotel by your correspondent, Mr. Aylesworth did not feel free to discuss what occurred at the secret meetings of the commission, but on a number of points on which there was doubt on this side of the ocean he offered valuable explanations. The first suggestion of the agreement of the three British commissioners on the Canadian contention respecting the location of the Portland Channel was made on Monday, October 12, at the first secret meeting after the argument had concluded. The matter was then discussed by the commissioners, and the Canadians were given to understand that Lord Alverstone agreed with them that the Canadian contention was "absolutely unanswerable." No further opinion was to be sought or given after that. The first intimation the Canadians had that Lord Alverstone had changed his mind was on the following Sutrday, October 17, the meetings having continued daily meantime, and the final decision was made on the following Monday. The Canadians at once took issue and expressed themselves strongly.

Mr. Aylesworth did not care to discuss any further Lord Alverstone's change of mind, but would let the matter rest where it was, having issued a signed statement and a dissenting judgment. The latter appears in life London Times of October 22, which arrived to-day. From this it seems that there is an important discrepancy between Lord Alverstone's official paper his Lordship's answer to the question: "What channel is Portland channel?" is "The channel which runs to the north of the islands of Sitklan and Kannaghunut, and issues into the Pacine between Wales and Sitklan lands." In The Times the words "islands of Sitklan and Kannaghunut, and issues into the Pacine between Wales and Sitklan lands of Sitklan and Kannaghunut, and issues into the Pacine between Wales and Sitklan lands of Sitklan and Kannaghunut, and issues into the Pacine between Wales and Sitklan lands of Sitklan and Kannaghunut, and Kannaghunut" were omitted. The London Daily were omitted.

lands. In the times the words islands of Sitkian and Kannaghunut" were omitted. The London Daily Mail, which has strongly supported Canada's case throughout, pointed out that this was a serious discrepancy, and boldly hinted that it indicated Lord Alverstone had changed his mind after writing his judgment favoring Canada's contention, and had neglected to go over the judgment and make it correspond at all points. On this point Mr. Aylesworth had no information, and he would venture ne opinion whatever.

The dissenting judgment of the Canadians as printed in The Times contains these comments:—"How can such a determination be reconciled with our duty to decide judicially upon the question submitted to us? It is with our duty to decide judicially upon the question submitted to us? It is no decision upon judicial principles, it is a mere compromise dividing the field between the two contestants. The formal answer which the President's memorandum makes to the question submitted is alone sufficient to condemn the boundary the tribunal is making.

"Question—What channel is the Portland Channel?"

"Answer—The channel which runs

"This language," the dissenting judgment continues, "simply disregards entirely the relative position of the islands in question. The whole truth of lands in question.

Great Britain or to the United States. Instead of so finding, the majority of the tribural have determined to make those islands valueless to Great Britain or to Canada by giving to the United States the islands called Sirklan and Kannaghunut. #### WHAT HART SAYS

There is much difference of opinion about the cause of the grand Conservative victory in Muskoka. When we may that we mean that the difference in opinion is in expressed opinion'there is no difference whatever in real opinion. Our friends the Grits attribute their defeat to everything but the real cause-Gamey. But Dr Hart, the Liberal candidate who was defeated-and who apparently includes honesty in his long list of good points -and who has had ample opportunity to know, and does know, what went on in the riding during the campaign and election, does not hesitate to attribute his defeat to the speeches made by the much abused Man from Manitoulin. Dr. Hart, interviewed by

"There can be no doubt but that the influence of that man Gamey had considerable effect on the result.

the Toronto Telegram, said:

"He came in here in his bombastis way and made his charges to many in the rural districts. They were new, and these were carried away before there was an opportunity for us to make explanations or expose the author of the infamy.

"I believe myself that his charges are a lie from the beginning, and had we had more time to answer him the result would have been different.

"I believe the visit of Hon. J. R. Stratton had a beneficial effect, lut at the same time it must be admitted that in many places where we had speakers to follow Gamey, it did not seem to do much good. Where he spoke the vote was heaviest against me. In the north end of the riding I made my canvass early, and even Conservatives admitted that I would get two votes to Mahaffy's one. Then Gamey went into these places and the falling off was evident. Men told me that they would do anything for me, but that it was the government they were after. They said it had been in power too long, and there were the Gamey and other charges, and they could not 'go it.' They thought they were going to carry the Soo, and North Renfrew as well. I do not think the Crossin affidavit had any effect. It came too late. People ask ed why if these wild statements of Gamey's were not true he was not arrested and put in jail, and before we could explain, it was too late.

"I am convinced that if the people had more time to consider and investigate the charges the results would have been different. I must confess that the result surprised me, but there were other influences at work, influences which contributed to Mahaffy's majority, at Bracebridge and surrou ading districts which I will not mention. At the same time it cannot be denied that the Conservatives made gains in the lists, and there are grave doubts as to the impartiality of Judge Mahaffy, the candidate's brother, in their revision."

The doctor added that he did not think there would be a protest. His name is already mentioned in connection with the Liberal nomination for

WHAT IT MEANS

The British empire may be regard-Citizen. In that partnership the investment of the several partners may be put down in billions as follows: Billions

Great Britain	75
India	3
Canada	1	1.
Australia	1	1.
South Africa		1.
Other colonies	1
Total,	82

The colonies pay their own particular running expenses while Great Britain expends enormous sums an nually for her own and the general running expenses of the concern. This year the naval expenditure is about $160,000,000; army $365,000,000 foreign and colonial civil service $18, 000,000; total $548,000,000. Under the usual business equity the partners in a firm contribute to the general expenses in proportion to their in terest in the concern. On the present working basis it would be fair for the colonies to deduct from their proportion of the general expense the amounts that they expend the same services at home and of which the empire generally secure a benefit. If, however, the pro rata post of the service's above mentioned were apportioned to the empire ac cording to its stake in the general community of interest it would work out roughly as follows:

Great Britain ..... $487,000,00 8,600,000

This is chiefly interesting	ng as an example of the distribution of obligations from a purely business standpoint under the present relations. And to the manner in which these obligations should be discharg ed it is quite another matter. Most Canadians would prefer to have the money, if if was expended, spent in Canada and there is no doubt that It could be expended to much better advantage here than by contributing it to the imperial treasury, even the vital principle of taxation without representation were not involved. This year the total expenditure of Canada on its militia will be $3,750,000 including public works such as the erection of armoriles, etc. The comparison will prove of value as illustrating in a measure what would be meant by Canada paying its share of the cost of empire.

Liberal Candidate Hart puts it exactly right. He says that the Muskoka people said to him, "Personally you are all right, but we can't stand for the Government you support." And that is exactly what the matter

Before the election the Toronto Globe said:

Montreal, Que., Nov. 2.—(Special).—
The illness and ture of Mr. George Robertson, of 39 St. Antoine street, this city, is further and convincing proof that Rheumatism and Dropsy are both the results of Diseased Kidneys. Mr. Robertson had Dropsy and Rheumatism for five years. He cured his Kidneys by using Dodd's Kidney Pills and both diseases departed for good. Speaking of his case Mr. Robertson says:

"I had been troubled with Dropsy and Rheumatism for five years. I am now well and it is all owing to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before I started using them I could hardly put my feet to the floor they were swollen so much from Dropsy. My arms used to swell at times so that I could not put my coat on.

Burdock Blood Bitters CURED THEM.

It is well-known to all that bad blood is the direct cause of all skin diseases and it is necessary for the blood to be cleansed before the eruptions will disappear. For this purpose there is nothing to equal Burdock Blood Bitters as the thousands of testimonials we have on hand will testify.

M. Willard Thompson, McNeill's Mills, P.E.I., writes us as follows: "I wish to state to you what Eurdock Blood Bitters has done for me, Some time ago my blood got out of order and many boils appeared on my neck, legs and arms. They were so painful that I could not sleep at night. After having tried many different remedies without any success, I finally decided, os the advice of a friend, to use Burdock Blood Bitters. Before I had quite used two bottles the boils had completely disappeared, and I wish to emphasize tha fact that I think Burdock Blood Bitters the best blood purifier on the market to-day."

THE WELL UNESSEU MAN

Writer of Feminine Fashions Discourse on Masculine Attire-Ulive Harper a Clese Dress Student.

Like the well dressed woman, it is cless breas stadeat.

Like the well dressed woman, it is not so much the cost of the garments as the suitability for special occasions and the way they are worn and cared for that make the well dressed man, writes the well-known New York fashion correspondent. Olive Harper. From shoes to hat the well dressed man is clean, and his garments always look neat and fresh, but how much of the apparent freshness is due to the creases in his trousers and careful brushing we neither know nor care. It is the general effect that we respect. The well dressed man respects himself and his clothes. He remembers Shake-speare's advice, "Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy," and then he takes care of what he gets.

What he gets this season or what he should get to be in fashion makes rather a formidable list, though still very far behind that considered necessary for lovely woman. He needs first for business a covert or oversack overcoat, with a jacket or cutaway coat, and his vest in this case should match the coat, though many prefer one of different material. There is no hard and fast rule about this. Trousers may match or be of quite different material, with a business suit a derby or alpine felt hat is the best style, though if it is an elderly gentleman and he wears a cutaway suit a high sijk hat is suitable. Colored shirts are proper for business wear or general morning wear. The collar is an important part of a man's attire, and immaculate freshness is the first consideration. The shape may be wing, poke or high band turndown. The proper cravat for business suits is either the ascot, the tie, the once over, the four-inhand or culross. I hope the gentlemen will recognize these shapes by their names, which I must confess are all Greek to me, but that is what the obliging clerks at different places told me. Gloves for morning or business should be tan or dark gray. It seems that shoes are also prescribed in these several outfits, and with business or morning suits califskin shoes are worn with the sack suits and patent lea generally like that of the ceat, but may be of fancy duck or other linen. Vests for this purpose should be double-breasted, and the trousers should be of striped worsted, light or dark, as the wearer prefers. Only a high silk hat should be worm with this sort of suit, and the collar must be either poke or bat wing, while the cravat is only allowed to be ascot or culross. The gloves should be tan or very light gray suede and the shoes patent leather buttoned boots. buttoned boots.

For afternoon visits, receptions, matinees and day weddings the frock coat and Chesterfield overcoat are de rigueur. Vests are the same, and trousers are of dark gray cheviot or worsted in striped design. The high state hat is here, too, and, as for afternoon wear, the shirt must be worsted in striped design. The high with hat is here, too, and, as for afternoon wear, the shirt must be white and the collar lays front, wings of poke. The cravat could be white, black or light toned ascot or culross, the gloves gray, and patent leather shoes complete this costume.

We all know that an evening dress coat is necessary for all evening functions, and this season the Chesterfield or skirted overcoat is used.
One may wear a white or a hlack vest, another double-breasted or single. Trousers are to be of the same material as the coat, and this is of fine broadcloth in preference to anything. Of course the shirt must be white and stiff as tin, with the cuffs sewed to the sleeves. The collar is to be as high as one can wear it without danger, and it may be lap front, standing or poke. The tie and the gloves white, glace or pearl. The shoes must be either patent leather button tops or pumps.

For informal dinners, club, stag and home dinners an evening jacket is the newest thing. A covert or raglan is worn with this when one is going out. Vests are double or single breasted, of the coat material or white with gold buttons. The trousers are of the same stuff as the coat. A white shirt with plaited bosom and with the cuffs fastened on is right for this, and a standing high band turndown is the collar, while only one cravat is suitable, a broad end black silk one. For this informal affair a derby or black alpine will do, but for full dress an opera or a high silk hat with a cloth hand is demanded.

When General Joubert and Senator Butler called on President Diaz and explained to him what they had done and proposed to do and had secured his indorsement the president, after listening for a time president, after listening for a time, interjected a characteristic remark. He send, "We have a great country full of nuts, but no teeth to crack than."

rie said, we have a great country full of nuts, but no teeth to crack them.':

General Joubert is very democratic and has a massive frame. His height is about 5 feet 10 inches, and he weighs about 180 pounds. Apparently he is about forty years of age, and his expression is one of great determination. General Joubert's father was one of the first Boer officers captured by the British. The general had five brothers in the army. These brothers were neither killed nor maimed. General Joubert was taken prisoner three months before the surrender of the Boer forces. He expresses himself as having great hopes for a permanent settlement of his people in Mexico.

hopes for a permanent settlement of his people in Mexico.

If things tura out as General Joubert expects 1,000 families, he says, will be in Mexico within a year. These are not the usual class of immigrants, but are people of some means in search of homes in a new country and capable of any amount of hard work and application in the development of their holdings.

Tamaulipas, formerly New Santander, the future home of the Boers, is bounded on the north by Texas, from which it is separated by the Rio Grande River. On the northwest it is bounded by Cohahuila, on the west by Nuevo Leon and San Luis Potosi and Vera Cruz and on the east by the gulf of Mexico. Its atea is 32,128 square miles. The coak, fallow and fringed with lagoons and separated from the sea by belts of sand. Tamaulipas is said to be the richest state in Mexico, and two splendid rivers flow through it. The climate os temperate and healthful. richest state in Mexico, and two splendid rivers flow through it. The climate os temperate and healthful. The soil, which is free from malaria, is generally fertile. Most of the grains, fruits and woods of the temperate and torrid zones are included in the vegetable products. Cattle, horses, mules, sheep and goats are reared. A considerable trade both in them and in other articles is carried on. Iron, silver and salt are the chief mineral products. The population in 1900 was 218,948.

When the colony is established the Boers will recognize the sovereignty of the Mexican Government. It was originally their intention to locate in the western part of the United States, but owing to the high price of land and the fact that the Boer officers could not get exactly what was wanted they moved on to Mexico.

The Chamberlain.

An ideal coat for any man who wants a coat that while not extreme, has the character to it. Designed by one of leading designers of New York, it has all the little characteristics that generally distinguish the high priced custom made coat. It's out with a full graceful back, hung from specially made wide concave shoulders. The collar and lapels are narrow and lie in perfect fashion. The coat itself is 47 inches long. We show it in a fine range of the newest fancy overcoatings, in shades of brown, black and white mixtures, plain greys and black.

$10.00, $12.50, $15.00 and $17.50.

The "Grosvenor."

Here's a coat style that will always be a popular one. First to introduce in Chatham we've kept the leadership by constantly looking for ways to improve it. Now we've got a coat as near perfection as cloths can get. Built with good broad shoulders and perfect hangings, full box back, fifty inches long, collar and lapels, neat and small, that lie perfectly. Made with combination vertical pockets, finished with or without cuff sleeves. A half dozen of the best shades of grey, as well as plain black. Also vome nobby things in fancy overplaid in different shades.

Receipts in all lines were heavy at St. Lawrence Market this morning and trade was generally brisk. The feature of the market was the heavy receipts of poultry in nearly all lines and the consequent easier tone in prices. Eggs continue to hold their firm position. The grain receipts amounted to 2,100 bushels.

Wheat—Three hundred bushels of white and 200 of red soid at 82½ per bushel, 100 of inferior grade spring sold at 75c and 200 of goose sold at 74c to 74½c.

Barley—Five hundred bushels sold at 6c to 50½c per bushel.

Oats—Were about steady. Seven hundred bushels sold at 33½c to 34½c per bushel.

Rye—One hundred bushels sold at 55½c per bushel.

Dressed Hogs—There is a fair number of hogs coming forward and the market continues steady at $7.50 to $7.75 for lights, $7 to $7.50 for heavies and $4.75 to $5.25 for sows.

Eggs—The offerings were not large, but the demand was good and the recent high prices were well maintained. Quotations run at 25c to 35c per dozen.

Butter—Fair lots were offering and prices were about steady at 20c to 25c per pound.

Poultry—Receipts in all lines were prices were about steady at 20c to 20c per pound.

Poultry—Recelpts in all lines were large and in some cases they were sufficiently so to cause something of a glut, and prices were lower. There was a good demand for chickens and quotations are about steady at 9c to 11c per los &c, ducks ran at 9c to 11c, or 10c, Geese were elentiful and sold at 7c o &c, ducks ran at 9c to 11c, and turkeys at 12c to 14c. There was a fairly large offering of old hens and they were easier at 5c to 6c per pound.

Hay—The threatening look of the weather had the effect of lessening the receipts and only about twenty loads were offering. Prices were about steady. No. 1 timothy sold at 310 to $11.00 per ton and mixed or clover at $5 to 38.

WAR OFFICE INSIDE

ENGLISH INSTITUTION BY ONE WHO WAS IN IT AND WELL POSTED.

tments-Always Friction Between the Civil and the Military Staffs-No Pride in the Work Done Obtains-Ter rible Waste of Stationery-Officers Whe Were Laughing Stocks to Humble

A London correspondent, who was formerly in the War Office, writes: The report of the Royal Commission on the conduct of the recent war has undoubtedly caused an immense sensation—outside the War Office; inside sation—outside the War Omce; insue the air is as undisturbed as ever. The employes are as nonchalant and as uncivil as ever and as indifferent to affairs, interior or exterior, as ev-er. In fact, there is no apparent change. War Office officials always change. War Office officials always did act as if they conferred an honor upon the country in drawing their salaries. They act in exactly the same old way still. The same old jealousies exist between the departments. If, indeed, the house is any index to the individual, then, of a surety, our War Office is not organic—not a whole, but a series of almost disconnected parts. It has grown with the national needs, no doubt, but it has not kept pace with them, and it retains many marks of its but it has not kept pace with them, and it retains many marks of its various origins upon it. It is full of useless survivals and absurd anachronisms. I fear that the more it changes the more it remains the same thing, and that what it was 25 years ago it is now, in spite of Lord Roberts and his newer methods. As a matter of fact, I have entered its sacred precincts a hundred times its sacred precincts a hundred times since I left the civil service, and little that I have seen in the departments where my work lay makes me imagine any very radical changes for the better have taken place.

Hole and Corner Intrigues.

One may imagine any form of hole-and-corner intrigue flourishing in its dens and caverns, in peculiar and sombre obscurity, any reforms might struggle to the light as uselessly as struggle to the light as uselessly as a neglected potato in a cellar. It lacks homogeneity; there is an old conflict within its walls. The civic staff still sneers at the military staff, and relates stories of the A. G. or the A. A. G., or the D.A.A.G. having spelt "accommodation" with a single "m," or of some soldier the suggesting the use of two a single "m," or of some soldier stylist suggesting the use of two teams of oxen "to surmount a ford." And the military staff still regrets that it cannot on passing occasions give the civil head of a department "sells," and decorate the Permanent Under Secretary with that C. B. which remains "confined to barracks." As long as the W. O. exists in its present form, such friction is likely to continue. The best one can say for it is that it represents a reasonable equality between the two elements which may prevent either getting absolutely on top as the military element has done in France. But it is sad business after all.

Over and Under-Manned Departments.

In my times (and even now I discern no great difference), some decern no great difference), some de-partments were overmanned and some were undermanned. The entire staff of some rooms idled and played for days, while another room was overwhelmed with work, half of which need never have been done at all. Evolution in its course might be studied to advantage by eminent naturalists in Fall Mall, for the W. O. is full of rudimentary appendages naturalists in Pall Mall, for the W. O. is full of rudimentary appendages which die very slowly of disuse. The members employed were supposed to compose a staff sufficient for emergencies, but when wars and rumors of wars arose, some gentlemen still continued, doing nothing with dignity, while others slaved at the unnecessary from 11 till 5, or perhaps later. Even when the office was in the agony of delivering half a brigade (with half its transport), a staff officer could still be found to write "No remarks" on papers with which his remarks' on papers with which his branch had ceased to have anything actual to do for half a century. The "writers," or copyists, who alone were paid for their overtime, con-tinued with a trained intelligence in Cassidy-What rint do they charge appearing busy, to put off working till overtime began. When they had till overtime began. When they had really done there remained no official to check them, and another hour's overtime at tenpence an hour was made, as they sat round the fine smoking and discussing their su-Casey—Sivinteen dollars. Cassidy—My, that's high! Don't ye hov throuble in gettin' it togither? smoking and discussing their su-periors or the music halls. In one room I was credibly informed boxing gloves were kept, in another foils. In one department, the juniors (sec-ond division clerks and writers) had invented a particularly entrancing game, which consisted in putting three or more candles in a row and extinguishing them by a cannon shot from a well-trained army rifle. The resulting destruction of candles was tremendous, but it never led to any complaint, owing, possibly, to the fact that some one below stairs made After all, happiness isn't a question of riches, pie, a good complexion or love and power, but of contentment. a little on the transaction

Where Friction Exists,

If there was always friction be-If there was always friction between the civil and military staffs, there was forever some subdued hostility between the different departments. A. G. 1, for instance, might be jealous of A. G. 2, and its members would explain to all and sundry that half the work done there was the merest surplus account and marking time. The ordnance people were at longerheads with average Period. the merest surplus account and marking time. The ordnance people were at loggerheads with every one. Business which should have been worked together was done through third parties. We went round the world to get from Pall Mall to Pimlico. Rooms next door were aliens; a man sometimes sat a quarter of a mile from those who were doing like werk. Papers were missing and were then described as "on transit," which meant that Messenger A was having a quiet smoke with Messenger B, or that Orderly X said the job was Orderly Y's. A room upstairs, which has something to do with the surveying department. Was a smoking No Pride in sueir Work

Pride in work or pride in smart-ness there was little. No real en-couragement was afforded to a work-er. The general scheme of the un-warlike operations was that of a naged school; men ended in trying to do as little as possible. The smartest staff officer was the most disliked—it was thought a good joke to hoodwink or puzzle him. Not a room in the whole office but was a foom in the whole office but was a fistinguished by some especial dunce, who probably drew £500 a year for doing nothing, and doing it badly. It was notorious that one man could not write out an original telegram with reference to the pattriest detail of the movement of troops without taking half an hour and half a dozen forms to do it on. Another's chief claim to consideration in his branch was that he could take longer to prepare any given return than any other clerk there, and yet keep up a sweetly dignified appearance of being enwrapped in necessary national business. When I was a new-comer in my own room, the absence through illness of one man threw the preparation for a certain return on my shoulders, and not having been posted in tradition, I did it in three hours and took it to the chief next door. So little did this gentleman know of the work of his own rooms that he positively declined to receive it on the ground that it could not be done under four days. This let me into the secret, and not wishing to be disloyal to the sick man, I, withdrew the return and kept it for a week. "Ah!" said my sapient chief, "I told you that it took time to do it properly."

Terrible Stationery Waste.

The Waste of His Malesty's etc. joke to hoodwink or puzzle him. Not Terrible Stationery Waste.

Terrible Stationery Waste.

The waste of His Majesty's stationery is an old story, but in the War Office it probably reached its maximum. Few men in the place ever dreamed of writing private letters on anything but the best War Office paper. Some men used it who did journalistic work during office hours, in the intervals of arduous toil; one man who wrote bool's used it. Nobody esteemed it wrong to screw up a sheet of extra superfine screw up a sheet of extra superfine foolscap to throw across the room at a friend. Any firm that wasted a square yard of expensive paper over every paltry memorandum would probably go into the bankruptcy court, but such waste is only a symp-tom of the general disease which affects all Government offices.

A real business man going into the War Office (as it was) would have torn his hair. I can imagine the clearance which would have been made by a real organizer if he had to do what the War Office did on what it gets, provided he was to receive the surplus as wages of superintendence. fects all Government offices. intendence.

Lost a Regiment for a Week.

Though the military staff was in many ways superior to the civil staff, there were some officers holding responsible positions who were laughing-stocks to the humblest clerks. One staff officer, who was pleasant, amiable and incapable, touched nothing that he did not disarrange. He was not fit to superintend the needle and pin department at a provincial drapery establishment. To him belonged the signal honor of having lost a British regiment in England so thoroughly that it took a week to find it. The story would read like fistion, but by ordering this and countermanding that, would read like flation, but by ordering this and countermanding that, by doing some things of his own and some through the W. O. and the Admiralty he hid the battalion so

A sed Tape Minetaur.

The building in which the nation's war business is done typifies the way war business is done typifies the way it is done. To go anywhere one goes up and down and round and round. The labyrinth holds a red-tape minotaur; the virgins of reform are strangled in high places. Like another Homer the Secretary of State gives back in flood what his subordinates send up to him in vapor. The military staff comes in fresh and goes out aspaying the way. por. The military staff comes in fresh and goes out asphyxiated. With the keenest sense of the evil lengths to which pure militarism can go it is impossible not to pity a service former face to face with War Office inertia and tradition.

Some will imagine this view exggerated. It is at least certain that an War Office official will admit that ao War Office official will admit that the present office is like what I knew it to have been 25 years ago. Fut few retired men will believe it very different. The younger men there now are at least sure that the other departments are all wrong, and I very much doubt if any one of them would not admit that even now at least half, his time is wasted by idiotic and antiquated methods.

Can't Referm Itself.

Can't Reform Itself.

Can't Referm Itself.

To expect reform to come out of the office itself is mere foolishness. It can no more reform itself than an old man can make himself young: than a confirmed alcoholic can break his habit. We call ourselves a husiness nation, and our War Office is proof of it! If it be business to do things a dozen times over, and to shirk every present difficulty, then that office does business, indeed. But what may suit the nation, which does not know the truth, would ruin any ordinary firm, and if the War Office were to compete with men of business it would be bankrapt before the year is out.

A Scotch minister in one of his parochial visits met a cowboy and asked him what o'clock it was. 'About 12, sir,' was the reply. 'Well,' remarked the minister.' 'It thought it was more.' 'It's never any more here,' said the boy; 'it is the begins at 1 again.'

NEEDLEWORK DESIGNS.

That Can He Used to Advantage In Various Directions. Needlework is always in vogue, and its beauty as a decoration in the home is always appreciated. Among the old time designs used in this dainty work there lingers an atmosphere of charm, and the colonial design shown in the accompanying illustration can be used in various ways. For chair backs and arms it is wrought on natural gray linen in colors of blue and green blend-ed in solid shaded Kensington stitch, making in effect what we call iri-descent work; berries in burnt orange Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Daughter and Father.

There are two things that can be done by a father for his daughter and Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The first is to gain the confidence of his daughter in her earlier years, and the second is to keep it unimpaired and to perpetuate it. If he be his daugh-ter's friend and chosen companion sharing all her little confidences and imparting to her much of what he knows, with the intuition of a woman and the breadth and sanity of a man, the girl will grow up with a mind unlike the minds of many women in whom femininity verges upon fatuity. From close association with a father the young girl quite unconsciously acquires something of the largeness of the man's nature and loses something of the pettiness and narrowness of the woman's. His tolerant, genial spirit will moderate her tense emotionalism; his sense of humor will rid her of sentiment and imbue her with a sense of Free medical advice, Men and women suffering from chronic diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Louis Globe-Democrat. Whooping Cough, Jacob Sobel gives the results of his own experience with the paroxysms of whooping cough treated by pulling the lower jaw downward and forward. Pulling the lower jaw downward and forward controls the paroxysms of whooping cough in most instances and most of the time. The method is usually more successful in older children than in younger ones and infants. In cases without a whoop the expiratory spasm with its asphyxia is generally overcome, and in those with a whoop the latter is prevented. It is as successful as any single drug, of even more so. Mothers should be instructed in its use, so that attacks, especially at night, might be arrested. The manipulation is harmless and painless. Its only contraindication is the presence of food in the mouth or esophagus. Patients thus treated are less likely to suffer from complications and sequelæ than those treated only medicinally. It is advisable to try this method in other spasmodic coughs and laryngeal spasms.—New York Medical Home Shampos freeds Earache. "One reason why women are troubled with earache more generally than men is their method of drying the hair after a home shampoo," said a doctor. "They dry it with a fan, which is quite proper, but the way they use the fan is entirely improper. Instead of wielding that so as to send the wind through the strands of hair they manipulate it in such fashion that they blow a regular gale right into the ear, and the consequence is that for several days after the shampoo he cleansed locks clothe a head that is the seat of a mighty assortment of aches and pains. If, instead of the ears, the hair itself were made the center of the artificial cyclone, the drying process would be effected more quickly and a severe attack of earache avert-

Lip Soreness From Thread Biting. Ladies who do a great deal of sewing frequently suffer a great deal from soreness of the mouth and lips and are ften at a loss to ascertain the cause of the trouble. Half the time it is simply the result of biting off thread instead of using a pair of shears for cutting. In the case of silk thread the danger is quite marked, because it is usual to soak the thread in acetate of lead, partly to harden it and give it a good surface and also perhaps to increase its weight somewhat. If this practice is followed regularly and very much silk thread is used, the results may be quite serious and even lead to blood poisoning. of the trouble. Half the time it is

LAUNDRY LINES. A few drops of ammonia added to starch. It is said that the linen will be given a gloss by this means and that the irons will not stick.

It is said that a tablespoonful of black pepper put in the water in which colored cambrics are washed will keep the colors from running.

In ironing handkerchiefs it is a good plan to smooth the center first. If the edges are ironed first the center will be found baggy and will fold in creases.

Stains of lodine may be entirely removed from white calice or linen by rubbing damp carbonate of soda into the marks and washing in cold water till they are removed. till they are removed.

When lemon juice or other acid has made a white spot on a colored fabric try applying ammonia to neutralize the same. Rub with a little chloroform, after which the original color should return as bright as ever.

For very yellow or very dirty clothes make an emulsion of kerosene, clear, limewater and turpentine in equal parts. Shake together until creamy, then add a cupful to every boilerful of clethes and beil for half an hour.

Sweet and Strengthening Baths. A lemon bath is wonderfully sooth-ing and refreshing after a wearisome day's shopping in town or after a strenuous country day with tennis and golf and walking on the programme. Squeeze the juice of three or four lem-ans into a tub of hot water. Throw the lemons, too, into the tub and allow them to remain for half an hour. When the bath is tepid or nearly cold and the water has been thoroughly permeated by the lemon juice it is ready for the bather.

A lavender bath is another exhilarating dip. To make the lavender lotion. which softens and perfumes the skin, mix four ounces of alcohol, one-half ounce of ammonia, one dram of oil of

A good bathing powder-to be used afterward, of course—is made like this: Seven and one-half ounces of starch, one-half ounce of powdered orris root, one-half ounce of powdered talcum. A Beauty Recipe. A Roman nose and a Grecian knot do not make a raging beauty or a gentlewoman. Something more than good features and perfect lines are needed to build up a temple of human loveliness. Sweetness of mind, gentleness of heart, manners that aren't of the Sunday order and a capacity for making other mortals comfortable—all these are actual necessities. A brain that has de relaped through reading and study and a tongue that knows how to run right without slipping into gossip clogs are helpers. Freckles are disfiguring, but one mildewed thought has greater pow-er for destroying beauty. If you will use orange flower skin food and grow a little fine cheerfulness the wrinkles will whisk away from your furrowed brow. The skin food builds up the tis-sue, while the massage stimulates glands and blood vessels. Before applying bathe the face well with warm water, pure imported castile soap and a complexion brush.-Chicago Record-

As to College Women. Over 37 per cent of the woman graduates of the University of Michigan now living are teachers. About 28 per cent are believed to be keeping house; about 1 per cent are practicing medi-cine. The occupations in which the largest numbers are engaged and the figures for such occupations, as com-piled from the recently published general catalogue, are as follows: Teaching, 646; housekeeping, 485; practicing medicine, 289; missionary, religious and philanthropic work, 34; dentistry, 25; law, 23; pharmacy, 19. The figures given for those engaged in housekeep ing are obtained by including all married women who did not report some other occupation. Other pursuits in which Michigan alumnæ are engaged are engineering, clerical work, lecturing, stenography, art, business, etc.

The Nervous Baby. People who try to make baby "no-tice" and who exhaust themselves trying to entertain him might read with profit the following, clipped from an English magazine: "What does the nervous mother ask herself in moments when nerves are herself in moments when nerves are strained by pain or overexcitement of any kind? 'Rest!' she chiefly demands. 'Leave me! Let me have quiet, dark-ness, freedom from all effort.' We ac-cord the nervous baby exactly opposite treatment. We answer as if entreat-ed: 'Rock me! Toss me! Shake rattles at me! Sing to me! Shake rattles at me! Sing to me! Shout, jump at me! Show me a light—anything to keep me awake and excited!"

A White and Yellow Dining Room.
A white and yellow dining room is decidedly something of a novelty. It is difficult for decorators and home makers to get away from the idea that a dining room should be treated in a markedly dignified if not a somewhat subdued and heavy style. Yellow and white is not necessarily flippant, and when the room to be treated is in the country and has a green and shaded outlook the effect is really charming.

A Hint Regarding Rig Dinners.
When a woman is giving a big dinner party she seldom thinks of getting some of the dishes cooked and ready the day before and so lightening the work. Soups, gravies and sweets are asually better if made the day before. The wise mistress will give her cook the bill of fare a day or two shead.

AN EXCITING GAME.

AN EXCITING GAME.

One of the keenest and most exciting games ever witnessed in the Peninsula Bootball League series was played on Satturday at Darrell between the Darrell and Kent Bridge clubs.

Both teams played splendid football and it is a credit to Kent County that her young sons can hold their own in the fastest company. It was nip and tuck throughout. At the outset Kent Bridge took up the aktack and did some strong work, Clifford Langford being particularly effective in his clever playing. The Dannell defense, however, was excellent and French made some splendid stops.

At times the home team would break away with fine russes and the Kent Bridge bears and the style.

Kent Bridge, however, was not to be denied and shortly before half-time Langford carried the ball up the field and passed to Wescott, who Kent Bridge game formal notice of protesting the game on the grounds that Abraham fouled the ball through their goal with his arm.

At the conclusion of the match Mrs. Gregory entertained the visitors to a delightiful luncheon at her home and an exceedingly pleasant evening was spent.

The teams were as follows:

PROVINCE WILL GET $25,000. Estate of Late H. Cargill, M.P., Pays Succession Duties.

Toronto, Nov. 2.—The Prov ince of Ontario will realize about $25,000 out of the $25,000 out of the succession duties upon the estate of the late Henry Cargill, M.P., for North Bruce. The estate, which is valued at about $500,000, is nearly all left to the widow and children, and the bulk to one son. There are also a few small bequests, including one of $5,000 to a nephew. All the bequests come under the 5 per cent, succession duty tax.

THE MANNING WILL.

Estate Divided Equally After Gift of $50,000 to Charity.

Terento, Nov. 2. - The the late Alexander Manning divides the estate, estimated divides the estate, estimated at $700,000 to $800,000, equally between Mr. Percy A. Manning and Mrs. Hume Blake. It was made ten years ago, and besides a gift of $50,000 to the Home for incurables, included a large bequest towards founding an Old Man's Home. The latter was subsequently revoked, but it is understood that the former remains in the will.

OVERCOAT STYLE...

We are so proud of our New Overcoats that we fear, lest in trying to describe them, we be considered somewhat extravagant in our statements.

In the first place as we make and design our own overcoats, the styles and most of the materials are exclusive

They are all cut carefully by hand, made in our workrooms and personally inspected before being placed on sale.

Almost like getting an overcoat to order," you We know of no nearer way except getting it to order

We follow the fashions as closely as the high class merchant tailor, sometimes get ahead of him. Why shouldn't we? We have every facility he has and many
