On common fences the continuous wire stays are sure to bend and the locks to lose their grip under continual pressure of your horses or cattle. And once they do, the top wire, soon followed by those below, will sag and destroy the efficiency of your fence.

Nothing like that can happen to our Dillon Hinge-Stay Fence. The short, stiff hard steel wire in our hinge-stays cannot bend when the lateral wires are weighted down, owing to their being so short and jointed at each strand wire.

Pressure of a horse on the top wire brings the "hinges" in the stays into action and prevents them from bending, and when pressure is relieved the fence springs back into place again.

The lateral wires are High-Carbon Hard Steel and coiled to provide for expansion and contraction by heat and cold, and are also crimped at the intersection of the stays and strands to prevent the stays from slipping sideways—therefore no locks are needed.

Buy the Dillon Hinge-Stay Fence. It's "twice as strong." Twice as good an investment. Catalogue free.

Voters' List, 1907.
 Township of Carrick, in the County of Bruce.
 Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in Sections 8 and 9 of the Ontario Voters' List Act, the copies required by said Sections to be so transmitted or delivered of the list made pursuant to said Act, by all persons appearing by the revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at Elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal Elections; and that said list was first posted up at my office in Mildmay on the 25th day of July, 1907, and remains there for inspection. Electors are called upon to examine the said list, and if any omissions or other errors are found therein to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.
 JOHN A. JOHNSTON
 Clerk of the Municipality of Carrick.
 Dated this 25th day of July, 1907.

FOR THE WARM WEATHER.
 Do not be afraid of the night air in your sleeping rooms; night air is all the one can get after dusk until day dawn and should be admitted freely. The bed should not stand directly in a draught, nor should the wind be allowed to blow but the windows should be left open, and the doors should not be shut. Do not neglect to sun and air the bedding often and do not be in a hurry to make up the beds of a morning. Teach your family to throw back the covers and shake the pillows, opening doors and windows as practicable, and in this way allow the escape of as much of the impure air as possible. A good plan is to keep a set night clothes to be used in the bed, taking off everything worn during the day, and hanging over chairs or rods to thoroughly air and dry during the night. If possible to do so and with most of us it can be done, take at least a sponge bath or a 'rub down' with a towel every night before going to bed. Once having established this habit it will be hard work to break off.

 They are bringing out candidates for the provincial elections now regardless of the fact that after the redistribution of seats next year the candidates selected may not be living in their own ridings.
 Dr. Stewart of Chesley who has been in poor health for some time left last week for Banff, Alta., where he will spend some weeks.
 The Newark, N. J., Star states that a young man who attempted suicide by the carbolic acid route had his life saved by the prompt action of Rev. W. T. Lipton, who discovered the youth writhing in agony in a public park. Mr. Lipton rushed to a drugstore and procured an antidote which he administered pending the arrival of a physician. Mr. Lipton is an old Harrison boy and a graduate of our high school. He is now engaged at Trinity Church, Newark.

Clifford.
 Mr. Ben Kerwin has bought the acre lot on the corner of his farm in the village, and will probably build thereon.
 Mrs. George McCulloch, of the Elora road north, is quarantined at the home of a sister in Toronto, her little daughter Edna having contracted scarlet fever while on a visit to the city. They may be required to remain six weeks.

Under the bylaw for early closing, those merchants affected by it are liable to be fined for selling during prohibited hours. Customers can thus see that they place the merchant in peril by seeking admittance after six o'clock p. m. any night but Saturday and the night preceding a legal or civic holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyer, of the N. and M. townline, celebrated their diamond wedding (sixty years married) on Friday last, 15th July. They emigrated from Germany 59 years ago, and went through all the privations and hardships of pioneer life two miles from here, in the years gone by. Rev. F. A. Meyes is one of the sons, also John Meyer of Minto, and Henry Meyer of Southampton.

LAKELET.
 Mr. Chris. Binkle is at work on his job east of P. Dickett's, and expects to finish it on Tuesday night and get the money on Wednesday when the Council meets in Gorrie.

Geo. Hubbard finished his graveling job, and as he had it graded before putting on the gravel it is now an excellent job.

Many in the vicinity were at Mr. Laird's raising on Thursday and the rain prevented the completion of the job. On Saturday afternoon all turned out and finished it. It is one of the most wonderfully constructed barns in the township. It covers an immense lot of ground, and will hold all the stuff that will grow on 300 acres. John Graham was the framer and there was not a single mistake.

Mr. George Burnet bought a fine young mare off Wm. Scott the other day for $200. John Kreuger took a span to Wingham the other day for which he got nearly $400.

C. Binkle is adding a blower to his threshing machine, and will do the work up right this fall. Of course he always proved an efficient thresher.

Our lodge (L. O. L.) did not go out as a lodge on the Twelfth. The distance was too great and some of the older ones did not want to go.

When our grandmothers arranged to have chicken for Sunday dinner—for the preacher—they picked out the biggest and fattest and toughest old hen on the place Saturday afternoon and had the boys and dogs "run her down." A tough old hen that is chased all over the place and frightened out of her life is as tender as a spring lamb when cooked. Fright makes any animal, bird or fowl tender, so the books say, and it appears that our grandmothers knew what they were about when they had the tough old hens chased before killing.

Most men who own a watch think they know all about it. They have the number fixed in their memory in case it is stolen. They could probably pick it out from 50 other watches with their eyes shut. But how many men know that their watch is a compass and will tell north from south as accurately as it will tell the time of day? Stanley, the explorer did not know it until he had groped his way through the dark continent and met a Belgian sailor on the coast. Every watch is a compass. If you point the hour hand to the sun the south is exactly half way between the hour and the figure XII on the dial. Suppose for instance it is 4 o'clock. Point the hand indicating 4 to the sun and the II on the watch is exactly south. If it is 8 o'clock point the hand indicating 8 to the sun and the figure X on the dial is due south. No man need get lost if he carries a watch.

The Post Office Department is making rapid strides in giving free mail delivery in cities. But not a word is heard of free rural delivery of mails. Why do not the farmers take this question up and force the Department to look into it.

VACCINATION FOR BLACK AND ANTHRAX IN CATTLE.

The disease known as Blackleg in cattle, although entirely unknown in many extensive agricultural sections of Canada and not at all wide spread in any direction or province, annually causes quite extensive losses to cattle raisers. Anthrax, which is quite a different disease, although frequently confused with Blackleg in the minds of many cattle raisers, is also the cause of serious loss of stock. The former disease is almost entirely confined to cattle under 3 years and is generally fatal. The latter attacks other classes of farm animals and the human subject is not exempt from its infection which generally results seriously.

By the aid of science cattle raisers are now enabled to protect their stock against these maladies. As the human family is vaccinated against small pox, in the same manner cattle are rendered immune from Blackleg and Anthrax. The Department of Agriculture at Ottawa through the Health of Animals Branch is now in a position to supply preventive vaccine for each of these diseases at the nominal cost of five cents per dose. Until recently, by special arrangement with extensive manufacturers in the United States, these products were secured at a reduced cost, and were placed in the hands of Canadian cattle raisers at 10c dose for Blackleg vaccine and fourteen cents per dose for Anthrax vaccine. It is due to the fact that these preparations are now being made at the Biological Laboratory in connection with the Health of Animals Branch that they can now be supplied at five cents per dose.

The vaccine for Blackleg may be administered by any intelligent person by means of an instrument supplied by the Department at fifty cents.

Mr. Andrew Schenk, reeve of the Township of Normanby, was served with two notices, claiming damages in the accident to Mr. Harry O'Brien and his mother while returning from town on Dominion Day. The amount of damages is not stated, but a settlement is asked for injuries to buggy, and to Mrs. O'Brien who received a fractured arm. The claim is that a deep ditch along the roadside was not properly guarded. The matter will be brought up at the next meeting of Council and arrangements made to settle or defend a suit.—Ayton Advance.

The Rev. C. N. Wright, Wardie vicarage, Rochdale, for a personal reminiscence, writes: "In my third living there was a very crowded congregation the first morning I officiated. The parishioners were evidently curious as to the build, color of hair, etc., of their new vicar. As a matter of fact I was, though a young man, very bald. A little thought would have caused me to make my first appearance on any morning but the 8th, but it was the 8th, and, in the Psalms, which were read and not sung, I had to say: 'My sins are more in number than the hairs of my head.'"

ATTEMPT TO KILL PRESIDENT

Maniac Fires Two Shots at the French Chief Executive.

A despatch from Paris says: The national fête day was marred by an attempt on the life of President Fallières by Leon Maille, a naval reservist, of Havre, who, it is believed, is suffering from a mania which causes him to imagine himself persecuted. Maille fired two shots at the President, but did not hit him. He was at once placed under arrest.

On account of the activity of the anti-militarists, who tried to organize a demonstration against the army throughout France on Sunday, exceptional precautions were taken to safeguard the President. The attempt on his life occurred on the Avenue des Champs Elysees while the President was returning to the palace from Longchamps, where he had reviewed the garrison of Paris in the presence of 25,000 enthusiastic people. Premier Clemenceau and M. Lanes, the President's Secretary, were with the President in his landau, which was escorted by a squadron of cuirassiers. The carriage had safely emerged from the Bois de Boulogne, where the anti-militarists had stationed themselves, with the intention of hooting the soldiers, and was descending the broad Champs Elysees amid the acclamations of the crowds thronging the sidewalks, who were shouting "Vive Fallières," "Vive L'Armée," when Maille fired from the curb at the corner of Lesseur street fired two shots point blank at the President in quick succession.

ATTEMPT TO LYNCH PRISONER.

As by a miracle no ope was hit. President Fallières was cool and collected when the cortege stopped. The diplomats, who were following the President's landau, alighted from their carriages and hurried to his side. Finding that nobody had been injured, the President ordered the cortege to move on. In the meantime two policemen seized Maille, who made no resistance. But the police, with difficulty, prevented the irate crowds from lynching the prisoner, until a cordon of reserves came up and conducted him to the station. There Maille refused to give any reason for his act, saying: "The revelations I have are so grave and serious that I will only make them before a Magistrate for transmission to the chief of State. It is a matter between the Government and me. I am the victim of many villainies."

THOMPSON RELEASED.

A Pardon Granted to the Railway Conductor.

A despatch from Kingston says: Conductor Thompson of Guelph, sentenced to penitentiary for three years for disobeying orders, which resulted in a fatal railway accident on the G.T.R., near Gourock, has been released. The Minister of Justice granted him a pardon. He was in the penitentiary about one month. Thompson soon after 2 o'clock on Saturday walked out of the penitentiary a free man. He was heartily congratulated by the prison officers and others. He had little to say beyond the remark: "I don't want to see this place again." His home is in London.

DROUTH IN MANITOBA.

Southern Sections of the Province are Suffering.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Private advices received during the past few days from southern Manitoba indicate that the drouth is having disastrous effects on the crops, and failure is staring many districts in the face. Rain has fallen in streaks along the creeks and rivers, and others have got no rain at all. Many farmers are reported to be ploughing up their fields. North of the C. P. R. main line, extending to the boundary of the Province and west into Saskatchewan, there are excellent crop prospects.

STRYCHNINE IN BUTTER.

Dose Intended for Rats Nearly Killed Addington Family.

A despatch from Kingston says: The family of George Lee, living near York, had a narrow escape from death by strychnine poisoning on Thursday. Mr. Lee had placed in the cellar a pound of butter well dosed with strychnine to kill rats. By mistake it was used on the table, and all the family were poisoned. Medical aid was secured in time to relieve them.

A MURDER AT HAMILTON

Jacob Sunfield Shot Mrs. Radzyk, Then Killed Her Husband

A despatch from Hamilton says: A tragedy occurred here on Friday afternoon about 2.45 by which Andrew Radzyk lost his life by a bullet. Mrs. Radzyk was shot in the breast and Jacob Sunfield stands arrested, charged with murder. The husband and wife resided in a small cottage on Sherman avenue north, within 100 feet of the International Harvester Works, and Sunfield was boarding with them. The night was dark and the sound of the three shots, and Mrs. Radzyk was seen to fall towards the factory. Upon arriving there she was found to be bleeding, and whilst being attended by the resident doctor the police were telephoned for. Sargent Walsh and Constable Clark were despatched to the scene and upon entering the house found Radzyk stretched on the floor of the bedroom in pools of his own blood, whilst the poor condition of the sheets and quilts showed that he had been lying there when shot. In a rear room was found Sunfield with his head buried in his hands and apparently in a stupor. When roused and told to hold up his hands to be manacled he showed an inclination to resist, but when finally handcuffed he seemed quiet enough. In the meantime an ambulance was summoned, and the injured man, who was conscious, was placed in it and hurried off to the house of Dr. Cummings. He could not speak English, but mentioned a name once or twice before relapsing into unconsciousness. At the doctor's house the X-rays were put on him, and a bullet was discovered lodged in the man's brain. He was then transferred to the hospital. Sunfield was taken down to No. 3 police station, and when asked what had happened, would only reply: "You will find out. It will be cleared up in the court." When searched an Iver-Johnson revolver was found with three cartridges exploded. The woman was wounded in two places, but not dangerously. According to her story, Sunfield shot her husband, who was lying on the bed asleep, and then came out and shot her. Radzyk was operated on on Friday evening, but all efforts to save his life were futile, and he succumbed at 8.30 without making a statement. Judging by the half-empty whiskey bottles lying around and the fact that Sunfield was intoxicated when found at the house, the shooting seems to have been the result of a carousal and jealousy.

GROWTH OF MANUFACTURES

Six and a Half Millions Is the Population of Canada.

A despatch from Ottawa says: A bulletin was issued on Wednesday morning by the Bureau of Census and Statistics, showing the growth of Canada's manufacturing establishments during the past six years, and giving the comparative average production per establishment in 1901 and 1905. The various industries are divided into three groups: First, those with products of between $200,000 and $500,000 per establishment; second, those with products of between $200,000 and $1,000,000 per establishment, and, third, those running over one million dollars per establishment.

Compared with the census of 1901, which was for the calendar year 1900, there were in the first class 178 works producing each $500,000 and over in 1905, as against 72 in 1901; in the second class there were 62 works producing $750,000 and over in 1905, as against 24 in 1901, and in the third class there were 17 works producing $2,500,000 and over, as against 6 in 1901. There were four works in 1905 producing each $5,000,000 and over, whereas not one factory had reached the amount in 1901.

SOME GREAT PRODUCERS.

The greatest volume of production by a single factory in 1905 was over $8,000,000, and the greatest in 1901 was under $3,500,000. The production of all works in the year 1905 was $481,053,371, and in 1901 it was $717,118,092.

In the third class there were four Canadian sugar refineries producing on the average $4,288,065 per annum, nine smelting establishments producing on the average $2,890,707, twelve slaughtering and meat-packing establishments averaging $1,687,481, six flouring and grist mills averaging $3,318,242, four cotton mills averaging $1,715,333, and three agricultural implement works averaging $1,725,737.

All told, there were in 1905 eighty-one establishments with an annual production of over one million dollars each, as compared with thirty-nine in 1901.

GROWTH OF POPULATION.

Canada now has a population of over six and a half millions. The department of Census and Statistics has recently made a careful and elaborate estimate of the population. It found that on the first day of April, this year, the population of Canada was, as nearly as could be estimated, 6,504,900. This is a growth of population in six years, since the last decennial census, of 1,133,585. The total population in 1901 was 5,371,315. If the present rate of growth is maintained Canada will show a population of over seven and a half millions when the next census is taken.

Since April 1 last the immigration has totalled over 100,000, so that the total population at the present date is in the neighborhood of $6,600,000.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

A Flash of Lightning Ignited Her Clothing.

A despatch from Moncton, N. B., says: During a severe electrical storm which swept this section on Tuesday afternoon thirteen-year-old Mary Trites was killed by a bolt of lightning in her home, two miles from Paines Junction. The child had gone upstairs in company with her little sister to lower a window, and had just placed her right hand on the sash when there came a terrific peal of thunder, followed by a vivid lightning flash. Almost instantly the clothing of the little girl sprang into a blaze, and she was hurled back against the foot of the bed which stood in the room. The other child, frightened by the thunder, threw herself on the floor, and cried out to her mother. When the latter rushed upstairs she found the eldest child on the floor terribly burned and lifted her onto the bed, where she expired a few minutes later. Her arm and breast had been fearfully burned, and it is thought that her back was broken by the shock. The child was a daughter of George Trites, I. C. R. section foreman. The house was quite badly damaged by the bolt.

PRISON BINDER TWINE.

Seventeen Carloads Shipped From Kingston to Alberta.

A despatch from Kingston says: Seventeen carloads of binder twine, comprising the output of the penitentiary factory, has been forwarded by steamers to Fort William and thence by train to the farmers' association of Alberta Province. The prices paid range from 10 cents to 11½ cents per pound.

DOUKHOBORS ON TREK.

Thirty-Six Fanatics Have Started on Pilgrimage to the East.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Advice received by the government are to the effect that 36 fanatical Doukhobors have started on a pilgrimage to the East. They have crossed from Saskatchewan into Manitoba and Swan River, and it will now devolve upon the Manitoba government to dispose of them.

TWO MUST DIE ON GALLOWES.

Cabinet Considers Three Appeals for Executive Clemency.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Three appeals for executive clemency in the case of men sentenced to death have been considered by the Cabinet. In two of the cases it was decided that the law must take its course. In the third, decision was deferred, pending the receipt of a further report from the judge who tried the case. The two murderers who must pay the penalty of their crimes are a man named Dale, who two years ago shot two Frenchmen in British Columbia, and Ching Lung, a Chinaman, who stabbed a man in the Kootenay District a year ago. The man who has a respite is Frank Capelli, convicted of the slaying of one, Dow, at Whiteside, in the Parry Sound District.

WHEELS CRUSHED OUT HIS LIFE.

Carload Lad Thrown From Wagon When Team Took Flight.

A despatch from Strathroy says: Harry, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John McWhinney, who lives about a mile and a half from town on the Ninth Concession of Caradoc, had his life crushed out at an early hour on Friday morning. While his father was hitching up a team to go for a load of lumber, the little fellow, who was six years old, climbed into the wagon. Suddenly one of the horses sprang forward and threw the lad. The hind wheel passed over his body, and he died in twenty minutes before the doctor arrived.

DEPORTING THE BAD ONES.

Two Undesirable Prisoners Will Be Sent Home.

A despatch from Kingston says: A prisoner named Harrison, who is serving a term in the penitentiary, is to be deported next week. He will be sent to Detroit, where the United States authorities will take charge of him and deal with him as they see fit. Another prisoner in the penitentiary here is also to be deported shortly.

THEY DIED OF STARVATION

Seventy-One Indians Perish in Woods Surrounding Lake Mistassini.

A despatch from Quebec says: Further details reached town on Tuesday in regard to the death from starvation of a party of twenty-one Indians in the woods, while en route from Lake Mistassini to Rebarval. On the 22nd of March last an Indian named John Boston found the remains of three of the victims, Thomas Bazil, Miller and Big John, about a hundred miles from Lake Mistassini. He interred the bodies where they were found. Another party of Indians from Mistassini is expected at Pointe Bleue, the Indian reserve near Rebarval, this week, when further details of the terrible tragedy are expected. Thomas Bazil was a Montagnais, from Pointe Bleue, where he leaves a wife and child. Miller was the son of a former chief of the Hudson's Bay post at Mistassini, while Big John belonged to Mistassini, but was making his second trip to Rebarval. The wife of Miller, who accompanied him, was brought to Pointe Bleue by John Boston after a trip of great difficulty owing to her extreme weakness. Boston reports that the Indians, driven to desperation by their hunger, devoured even their caribou moccasins and the leather straps with which the packages of furs they were bringing to Rebarval were bound up. The bodies of the other Indians who succumbed to privation, cold and hunger during the long three-hundred-mile trip through the forest, where no trace of habitation of man was to be found, have not been recovered, nor have their names been mentioned, but there were in all twenty-one, comprising five or six families, the heads of which had been hunting during the winter at the head of the Mistassini.

The Southampton Furniture Co. of Southampton, Ont., has admitted its insolvency, and at Osgoode Hall last Thursday Judge Riddell adjourned for one week a petition to have it wound up. The Chippewa Lumber Co. petitioned, as the company owed them $5,328. The firm was incorporated with $200,000 capital, but only 86 shares have subscribed, and paid up, it is alleged.

In the transit of the Wellington stone crusher from Mt. Forest to Arthur Village nearly every culvert and b ridge in its track are laid up for repairs. The engine at last broke down the bridge at the four-mile creek and lay in the bed till rescued by the Township Council.

Doubled Up With Cramps—Stomach feels like an infernal machine and you want relief mighty quick. Nothing does the work half so quick as Polson's Nerviline. Why it kills the pain instantly. If your bottle is empty get another today. Nerviline keeps the doctor bill small because it cures little ills before they grow big. Nothing for indigestion, heartburn and cramps like Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles for 25c.

At this year's entrance exam. some local candidates answered the question on the Geography paper "What is meant by the term planet?" as follows: "Planets is a material used for making railroads." "Planets is the direction or slant of the earth on its axis." "Planets are the zones which the earth lies in." One student in answering what is meant by the term "constellations," wrote: "Constellations is the physical features of a country."

Let The Stomach Alone.—You can't cure catarrh by dosing the stomach. The disease is in the throat, nose and bronchial tubes. Inhale Catarrhzone to the spot where the disease really is,—it clear away foul secretions, stops discharges at once, purifies and heals the passages, literally annihilates every trace of catarrh. Nothing else is so direct and certain as Catarrhzone. Results guaranteed. Two sizes, 25c and $1.00 at all dealers.

Kincardine, July 19.—Mr. John Miller a farmer, living on the south line, Kincardine township, some three or four miles from this place, was accidentally killed last evening. While unloading some hay in his barn by means of a hay-fork the trip rope broke, throwing him backwards, his head striking the ground, fracturing his skull, death resulting in a short time. Mr. Miller was an old resident, a quiet, unassuming man, and very highly respected. He was about 60 years of age and leaves a widow and two children.

The boys on the peninsula have some funny and hair-raising experiences. Just imagine, Sunday evening, while looking for his cows in the bush, Mr. George Voght stepped over a log and landed on the tail of a big black bear. This is George's own report, and he further added that he didn't know which was most scared, for both made tracks in different directions. Mr. Voght further reported that deer are very plentiful this season. In the same tramp after those cows he saw two.—Warton Canadian.

Astronomers report that a speedy comet is now about 100 millions of miles away, and is approaching the earth at the rate of a million miles a day. It is being carefully watched at the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa. The comet is now visible through ordinary telescopes, but is increasing in brightness, and may become visible to the naked eye during August.

Included in the household effects disposed of at a sale in Toronto were a number of flower pots used for outside decorations. These pots were purchased at 25 cents apiece, and when the purchaser accidentally upset one he found a $100 bill at the bottom. As the original owner of the pots did not know how the bill got there, the purchaser was enriched by the amount of its face value.

The census and statistics department has figured out the population of Canada to be 6,504,900 on the first day of April of the present year. At the last decennial census the population was 5,371,315 so that in six years there has been an increase of 1,133,585. If the present growth is kept up the population of Canada will be over seven and a half millions when the next census is recorded.

Men Rule By Force, Women by Charm—And yet because they live less strenuously, women neglect the early evidences of failing vigor. The wise woman will not let her charms be robbed by ill-health. When she feels appetite failing, nerves getting on edge, color fading, she takes Ferrozone. How it sharpens the appetite! How quickly rich blood is available to restore color to the cheeks, buoyancy to the step. Better try Ferrozone. You'll feel like a new being, with new vigor and ability to confront life's difficulties. You are sure to bless the day you commence Ferrozone. Sold everywhere in 50c boxes.

Elsinore Methodist church was badly damaged by a stroke of lightning in one of the recent electrical storms. A heavy storm was raging at the time and this probably accounts for the fact that no fire followed the livid bolt. The chimney was damaged, lath and plaster were hurled to the floor and considerable damage done to the upper portion of the building, while the floor near the door was torn into splinters.

On the 21st ultimo Alex McDonald of Huron, had an operation performed on him by Doctors Secord and McCrimmon that was somewhat interesting as well as delicate. From his right hip was extracted a Boer bullet from a Mauser rifle. It was a little over an inch in length and about one sixth of an inch in diameter converging to a blunt point. It entered his body on the left side on the 31st of March 1902 during the battle of Harts River in which so many Canadians lost their lives. During the five years in which Mr. McDonald carried this bullet in his body he suffered at times and feels great relief now that he is rid of it.

DEATH FROM HEART DISEASE.

A CASE OF NEGLECTING A WEAK HEART AND-TIRED NERVES.

If your heart flutters, be careful. An attack is liable to come on at any time. Excitement, over-exertion or emotion may cause it.

If blood rushes to the head, if palpitation and short breath are noticeable, there's cause for alarm.

If you want a good honest remedy try Ferrozone. We recommend Ferrozone because we know it's just right for heart trouble. It cured A. F. Beattie, who lives at Allen Hotel, Bay City, Mich. See if your symptoms resembles these:

- Symptoms of Weak Heart.
- Nervousness, Palpitation
- Trembling, Dizziness,
- Sinking Feeling, Heart Pains,
- Short Breath, Weakness.

Mr. Beattie says: "I was weak and miserable. I was subject to heart palpitation and dizziness.

"As I grew worse I began to have trembling and sinking sensations.

"Ferrozone strengthened my heart, gave vigor to my nerves, soon made me well. It's a great builder."

By strengthening the muscles of the heart, giving proper circulation and causing a general rebuilding of the whole system, Ferrozone is bound to do grand work in heart trouble; try it, 50c. per box or six for $2.50 at all dealers.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.
TORONTO.

Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways, were 70 carloads, composed of 1037 cattle, 494 hogs, 937 sheep and lambs, with about 300 calves.

The quality of the bulk of cattle offered was of the unfinished class, that ought to have been left on the grass a month longer. Trade was bad, with prices lower than any time this season. Trade was dull and draggy, with many cattle left unsold, as drovers would not accept the prices offered, in fact, some drovers reported that they even did not even get a bid.

Few outside buyers were on the market, and none from Montreal, as trade there is also bad.

Exporters—Only one lot was reported as being on sale, for which $5.50 per cwt. was offered. Bulls sold at from $4 to $4.50 per cwt. for export purposes.

Butchers—George Rowntree, buyer for the Harris Abattoir Company, who bought 10 carloads of cattle, reported prices as follows: Best butchers, $4.70 to $5.10 per cwt.; fair to good, $4.35 to $4.60; light heifers and good cows, $3.75 to $4.25; common to medium cows, $2.50 to $3.75 per cwt.

Milch Cows—A western buyer, who wanted a few cows, being on the market, caused a little better feeling, which was only temporary. The trade in milch cows is slow, with prices ranging at from $30 to $52 each, with only one at the latter price.

Veal Calves.—Trade in veal calves was also dull, with prices off from 25c to 50c per cwt. Prices ranged at from $3 to $6, with an odd one of choice quality at $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs—Trade in sheep and lambs was reported fairly steady at following quotations: Export sheep, $4.50 to $4.75; bucks, $3.50 to $4; lambs, 73c to 81c, and a few selected lots at 83c per lb.

Hogs—Receipts were light, with prices steady to firm at last week's quotations. Mr. Harris quoted selects at $6.90 and lights and fats at $6.65 per cwt.

At least eight crushed to death and a score of people injured is the result of the worst disaster that ever visited London, when Reid's Chrystal Palace collapsed Tuesday afternoon. Of the dead, two have been taken from the avalanche of debris, and five, it is hoped, will be taken out before morning. That hundreds did not perish when the terrible which startled the whole district came without a moments warning is the greatest miracle.

The annual crop of noxious weeds, etc., on some of the streets and vacant lots—and, indeed, on some which are not vacant—are about ready for harvest. Is it not a crying shame that these weeds are allowed to go to seed year after year without anything being done to eradicate them?

The Canadian National Exhibition executive have taken the initiative in adopting a rule that all cattle competing for prizes at their shows must be registered in their respective Canadian herd books. The high standard to which the stock of the Canadian breeder has reached, is well worthy of this consideration, and it is an undoubted fact that the greatest exhibit of pure bred stock to be seen on this continent is at the Canadian National Exhibition.

HERE'S SOME SENSE.

The Parkhill Review is referring to the influx of Ontario farmers going West says:—If a man sells his farm, has a sale pulls up all his stakes and goes West, he is gone and seldom returns. The West receives him and holds him. He may be a willing captive, but he may long with an intense longing for the old Ontario home and he cannot return, for he has burned his bridge behind him. Another man is more cautious. He has a good thing here and he knows it; still if there is anything better to be had for the taking, he is going to take it. He will go and see. He arranges his affairs so that things can run pretty much as they are until his return and he goes West. Nine times out of ten he comes back, slips into his old place cured, contented, and the West can never tempt that man again. He has seen the golden wheat, acre upon acre, square mile upon square mile. He has seen the machinery, the innumerable teams, the crowds of men, the hurry, the rush, the waste, the big life of the big spaces. And he has experienced all the privations and discomforts and drawbacks, and he has concluded that the game is not worth the candle. He comes back to the comforts which he inherited from the efforts of our pioneer settlers, to the schools, to the churches, to the maple trees and variegated landscape and finds it is good and satisfying. He did not burn the bridge behind him, and he is glad for Ontario, the banner province is good enough for him.

THE BOY WITH THE HOE.

I'm hoein' turnips, consarn it all,
An' thinnin' em out likewise.
It's awful hard, fer the weeds is tall,
An' the dust gets in my eyes.
And the rows are so everlastin' long,
I feel like cussin' awful strong.
I'm out at six and I work till noon,
When only three rows is done.
I do four more in the afternoon,
But, Caesar, it ain't no fun;
It's enough to make any feller blue,
There's over a hundred rows to do.
Bill Taylor's fishing to-day, I know,
He is having a bully time,
His folks is pertickler what they grow
And thinks turnips is a crime;
And so they are—Oh, gee, my back!
I sometimes think it's goin' to crack.
Tom Jackson b'longs to the Methcye school,
Their picnic is held to-day
And I must work like a dad-blamed fool,
A cleaning the weeds away.
Our picnic's coming—Dad sez, pooh,
pooh,
My boy, there's a hundred rows to do.
Two solid weeks of this sort of thing,
And haying is close at hand,
Then the dad-blamed wheat'll be ripe,
by ging;
I wisht I could understand,
Why Eve didn't see the sea-serpent lurkin',
She et the apple—and here I am workin'.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, no treatment, no cure. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment, reaching throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, causes nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—asa general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

THE SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND AT BRANTFORD.

Dear Sir:—I ask your assistance to enable me to get into communication with the parents or guardians of all the blind children in Ontario, under the age of twenty-one years. The Institution of the Blind, maintained by the Ontario Legislature, admits as pupils "all blind youths, of both sexes, between the ages of seven and twenty-one, not being deficient in intellect, and free from disease or physical infirmity, being residents of the Province of Ontario." It is not necessary that the applicant shall be totally blind; the test is inability to "read ordinary type and attend a school for the seeing without serious injury to the sight." The initial difficulty is to locate the children who are eligible for admission, and it will be helpful in the future if your readers will send me the names and addresses of blind children under seven, as well as of those between seven and twenty-one.

Should you favor me by the publication of this letter, I would ask your readers not to depend upon the parents of the children with defective sight to attend to this matter. If all could witness the gain in health, happiness, knowledge and self-reliance that comes to those who, deprived by their affliction of access to the public schools, take advantage of the educational facilities afforded by this Institution, none would grudge the time and trouble required to widen the scope of the school's influence. Send me the names and addresses, and I will by correspondence or visitation do the rest.

A First Temptation

"I suppose there is no news of Mary Coverdale yet?"

"No, Jack; the gov'nor has not been able to trace her. It seems strange that she doesn't turn up, with a big fortune like that awaiting her."

"Oh, I suppose she'll turn up in time." "Perhaps; but it's very rough on you, Jack."

"Yes it is; and I can't understand why Uncle Geoffrey made such a will. Ever since he adopted me he has always led me to believe that I was his heir, and all he leaves me is £200 a year."

"Plus the Marley estate and £7,000 a year if you marry Miss Coverdale."

"As I have told you before, I cannot do that, Fred, and, in any case, it's absurd to suppose that I would marry, or contemplate marriage, with a girl whom I have never seen."

"You accepted the situation philosophically enough when the will was read six weeks ago."

"Ah! I had not met Miss Carson then." "But really, Jack, do you mean it honestly that you are going to marry Miss Carson without waiting to see what Mary Coverdale is like?"

"I mean it so much, Fred, that I am going to marry Miss Carson in two days' time, and then we go off on our honeymoon. You are coming down to Marley Hall to-night?"

"Yes, I say good-bye to Messrs. Foster and Arnold to-day for my usual three weeks' holiday, and as I suppose it will be the last vacation I shall spend at the old place I shall make the most of it."

"Then I shall meet you at dinner to-night, and as I am away again early to-morrow morning you will have the place to yourself."

"Oh, I shouldn't mind that; I can always amuse myself at Marley Hall." Jack Winter and Fred Blake were cousins, and until the death of their uncle Geoffrey Winter, their lives had run in very different grooves. When Jack was left an orphan he had been adopted by Geoffrey Winter and led to believe that he was heir to the old man's wealth, and had, in consequence, lived a life of ease and luxury. Fred Blake, on the other hand, had always had to work for his living, and was now a clerk in the office of Messrs. Foster and Arnold, a highly respected firm of lawyers.

As the two men parted on the steps of the fashionable restaurant where they had been lunching, Fred stopped and looked after his cousin.

"Poor fool—poor lovesick fool! Fancy giving up Marley Hall and £7,000 a year for the sake of Mary Carson and her pretty face. Why, for a fortune like that I'd marry Miss Coverdale even if she was old enough to be my mother and looked like a gargoyle on St. Paul's."

With which elevating reflection he walked back to his office. He had only been at work for a few minutes, however, when Mr. Foster, the senior partner, sent for him.

"I think I understood you to say, Mr. Blake, that you are going to spend your vacation at Marley Hall."

"That is so, sir."

"Shall you see Mr. Winter to-night?" "Yes; I am dining with my cousin this evening."

"Ah! Then in that case I will get you to take a letter to him. He will be glad to hear that I have been able to trace Miss Coverdale."

"Indeed! sir."

"Yes; and I have made careful inquiry, and have no doubt of her being the right lady; but in accordance with a promise made to Mr. Winter I have not informed her of her good fortune, as your cousin had a desire to make her acquaintance while she was ignorant of the terms of Geoffrey Winter's will."

"A good idea, sir."

"Perhaps so, perhaps so; anyway, he must make up his mind soon. Come to me for the letter before you go."

When Fred Blake was in the train on his way to Marley Hall he was in a very thoughtful frame of mind. He had in his pocket a letter containing the address of the lady who would be mistress of Marley Hall if Jack Winter refused to marry her. Jack was going to marry Mary Carson in two days, and Miss Coverdale was ignorant of the fortune coming to her. Jack would be out of the way on his honeymoon; it was possible for a bold man to woo and wed Miss Coverdale before she was made aware that she was Geoffrey Winter's heiress.

"It is the chance of a lifetime, and I'll take it. Jack Winter has had the best of things up to now, living in the lap of luxury, while I have been slaving away for a pittance. I am now going to have my revenge, and it will be getting married at all that I hardly think she'll hesitate; so here goes." And he straightway put his fortune to the test.

Miss Coverdale was silent for a minute. "Do you really wish me to marry you?"

"Would I ask you if I did not?" "No, I don't suppose you would. You have been very kind and attentive to me, but I did not expect this."

"You will not refuse me?" "No, Fred, I will marry you if you wish it. I know that I have not many attractions, and I only wanted to make sure that you were not asking me from some mistaken motive."

"So much am I in earnest that I will get a special license, and we can be married as soon as possible." "But why this haste?"

"Because in a fortnight's time my holiday will be up, and I want to spend our honeymoon at Marley Hall." "Having once obtained Miss Coverdale's consent, Fred Blake lost no time, and shortly after they were made man and wife.

Fred's first impulse was to drive to Messrs. Foster and Arnold at once and establish his wife's claim to the property, but after thinking it over he decided to proceed to the Hall, as there were many things he wanted to arrange. Half an hour after his arrival Fred received a wire from Jack Winter:—"Am bringing my wife down to see the old Hall; have dinner ready."

Fred had relied upon having a few days to get his arrangements completed, but he reflected that his wife's claim to the property was indisputable, and the sooner explanations were over the better.

At half-past seven Jack arrived with his wife, Mrs. Blake was upstairs dressing for dinner, and Fred was standing on the hearthrug with as much of an air of ownership as he could assume.

"Mary, this is my cousin Fred, one of the best fellows I know." "I am pleased to meet you, Mrs. Winter, and to welcome you to the old Hall."

"Thank you, Mr. Blake; I could not rest until I had seen the old place, so I made Jack bring me as soon as possible. I have heard so much about it."

At this moment Fred's wife, arrayed in a gorgeous costume, swept into the room. At the sight of Mrs. Winter she rushed forward with outstretched arms.

"Mary!"

"Aunt!"

"Who is this person?" asked Jack, turning to Fred.

"This person, as you are pleased to call her, was Miss Coverdale, but is now Mrs. Fred Blake, my wife, and owner of this house."

"What!" exclaimed Mrs. Winter. "My aunt the owner of this house! There is some mistake. I am, or was, Miss Mary Coverdale, and therefore Geoffrey Winter's heiress."

"You?"

"Yes; Geoffrey Winter was an old lover of my mother's, and he came to me some weeks before his death and told me the contents of his will, and suggested that I should take another name and make the acquaintance of Jack Winter. I did so, and to my surprise Jack fell in love with me, and was willing to renounce the Marley estate for the sake of a penniless girl."

"That is quite true, Fred, and Mary did not reveal herself to me until I was about to apply for the special license."

"Then—then who is this woman?" asked Fred.

"This lady is my aunt," answered Mrs. Winter; "she bears the same name as myself, and is one of the best in the world."

"Do I understand," asked Mrs. Blake of Fred, "that you married me in the belief that I was Geoffrey Winter's heiress?"

"I thought you were, certainly."

"And yet, when I asked you what your motive for marrying me was, you answered that it was nothing but love and affection."

"You seem to have made a mess of things, Fred," said Jack.

"I must admit that in marrying Miss Coverdale, I thought she was the heiress, but the fact that she is not does not lessen the regard in which I now hold her."

"That is right, Fred, my boy; we seem likely to settle things comfortably all round. I have promised my wife that her aunt should come and live with us, and as you are now man and wife we can all live at the Hall together—there is plenty of room; and, in order to stifle your scruples, you can act as steward to the estate."

"That will be splendid," said Mrs. Winter.

"You are very good to me, Jack," said Fred, "and I accept your offer gratefully. I have always led a straight life up to now, but the prospect of a fortune proved too much for me. Since I have been married I have learned to love my wife, and it is possible that in after years we may both look back with a certain amount of pleasure to my first temptation."—London Tid-Bits.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY

ROMANTIC HISTORY OF THE MARKABLE ORGANIZATION.

How a Company of Adventurers Held an Empire for the British Crown.

The return of the spring fur sales in London recalls to the mind of a writer in the Winnipeg Free Press that it was during this season of the year, more than two and a quarter centuries ago, that there was consummated in London a most remarkable organization around which has been woven a wealth of fiction and romance coupled with narratives of daring achievements, fierce and bloody struggles, hairbreadth escapes and dauntless heroism often ending in tragedies. The Hudson's Bay Company started on a comparatively small scale, but in the course of generations it developed until it has risen to be the greatest fur trading corporation in the world, with half a continent dotted thickly with its trading posts, with innumerable white men and Indians in its employ, and with a name and prestige universal. Though the laws of the great West are not now made and administered by the Hudson's Bay Company, and the entire trade is not controlled by it, yet one-twentieth of the "fertile belt" was given to the company by the Canadian Government when the new Provinces were organized nearly forty years ago, and it is a very wealthy and influential organization.

ITS HISTORY.

On the second day of May, 1670, eighteen London merchants secured from King Charles, England's merry monarch, a charter granting them the privilege of exclusive trade in furs in that part of British North America drained by the streams flowing into Hudson Bay.

His Royal Highness Prince Rupert, nephew of the King, the dashing cavalry leader, who performed such prodigies of valor against Cromwell's invincible Ironsides, was selected by the merchants as the head of their company and the charter was granted to "The Governor and Company of Adventurers Trading into Hudson Bay." The organization of the great trading company was the outcome of a trading expedition which the merchants had sent to the Hudson Bay country a year or two previously. They had spied out the land and knew that it would yield a bountiful fur harvest, which would bring abundant returns to them when placed on the market in London. The charter gave not only the fur trade but the minerals in the district, the administration of justice and the power to "make war or peace with non-Christian peoples or princes."

KING CHARLES A STOCKHOLDER.

The charter provided that the return to the monarch for his magnanimous gift should be two elk and two black beavers, but the papers show that £200 of the original stock was placed in his credit and the payments of the dividends were made a matter of considerable importance. "Pro Pelle Cutem," the motto of the company, signifies skin for skin and illustrates that trading, and fur trading principally, was the prime object of the Hudson's Bay Company. The organizers at once fitted out ships which carried traders and merchants to the shores of Hudson Bay and opened up trade, by barter, with the Indians. Gradually the trade was pushed forward and covered British North America. As the company grew in wealth and power the partners on this side of the water made their headquarters at Montreal, where they lived in great splendor and their meetings with the wintering partners at the Western headquarters, on the shores of the great lakes, were occasions of much pomp and ceremony accompanied by wonderful feasts.

RIVAL COMPANIES.

The story of the secession of disaffected partners and the organization of the X. Y. and North West Companies and the sanguinary struggle which was carried on over the prairie country, culminating in the clash and bloodshed at Seven Oaks, now one of the suburbs of Winnipeg, is well known to all readers and requires no comment. It was followed shortly afterward by the amalgamation of the rival companies under the name of the pioneer company, and since that time has gone forward from success to success. Trade has always been by barter and the beaver skin was originally the standard by which the prices paid for other furs were regulated. At one time a species of token-money was used by the company, by which if the trappers did not wish goods in immediate return for their furs they received a due bill negotiable at any of the posts of the company. Owing to the systematic organizations of the Hudson's Bay Company it has been able to give a great deal of help to exploring and scientific parties travelling northern Canada for generations past, and has also been of great assistance to the Government at frequent times. The Arctic mails are carried by the company for the Government and their dog teams traverse thousands of miles over trackless snows with perfect safety.

IMPORTANT POST OF GOVERNOR.

During the years since the organization of the company the position of Governor has always been an important one, and among the men who have at different times controlled the destinies of the great trading company have been some highly-gifted men. The Duke of Marlborough was for a time Governor after the death of Prince Rupert, and when the amalgamation of the companies took place, in 1821, Sir George Simpson was chosen as its head. He was a young man, but possessed of wonderful organizing ability, and soon had all wounds healed. So great was his power that he was called the "Emperor of the Fur Trade."

The present governor of the company is Lord Strathcona, who spent many of his earlier years as a junior clerk of the company in the wilds of Northeastern Canada. The executive head of the company in Canada is Mr. C. C. Chipman, commissioner, who, from his office in Winnipeg, regulates the work of the company over a district larger than half a dozen European kingdoms, and it is through his energy and ability during the past fifteen years that the commercial enterprises of the company have been prosecuted successfully.

Times have greatly changed since Northwestern America was a fur preserve of the Hudson's Bay Company, and with the advance of the times the company adapted its work to the changed conditions. The company has now 250 trading posts scattered here and there from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the international boundary to the Arctic Ocean. The greater part of the shares of the $5,000,000 capital stock is held by shareholders in London. The country over which the trade is carried on is divided into districts and sub-districts. Over each district is a chief trader who controls the trade of that district, and under him are subordinates who report regularly. Each of these in turn reports to the office in Winnipeg, from whence the reports are made to the directors at the Hudson's Bay House in London.

STAPLE AND COSTLY FURS.

The staple furs are bear, otter, mink, fox and muskrat. Many others are secured, but these are the principal ones. Although there are other fur companies in North America, and also in the cold regions of Russia, yet the Hudson's Bay Company handles and markets more furs than any other company in the world.

The silver fox skin is the most valuable fur on the market, and skins of that animal have been secured which were worth $1,500 each. In securing the furs and transporting them to London, the world's greatest fur market, a great deal of labor is entailed. Some of the furs are carried on the backs of men for miles and miles. Some dragged on dog sledges, some in canoes are paddled long distances along the northern lakes and streams, and others are carried in sailing ships and steamboats. The company has a large number of steamers on all the large waters of the north, which carry supplies to the north during the summer, and in return bring back the winter catch of furs.

OPENING FARTHER NORTH.

When the railroads were opened up through Western Canada the only place where supplies could be obtained was at the stores of the Hudson's Bay Company, and with the inrush of settlers the trade rapidly grew. With the increase of trade the stores grew in size and number, until now the company has departmental stores in all the important centres of the West. The largest store is in Winnipeg.

In addition to the many other lines of work taken up by the fur-trading company they have shown the possibilities of the Peace River district as a wheat-raising country, and at Fort Vermillion, fifteen hundred miles north of the United States boundary, is located a flour mill from which flour samples have taken prizes when placed on exhibition at the great fairs of the world. It is found much cheaper to manufacture the flour in the North than to import it. In some of the Northern forts electric plants have been installed, and all modern conveniences have been utilized on land, lake and river to prosecute the work of the company. The history of the Ancient and Honorable Hudson's Bay Company is inseparably associated with that of British North America.

SUMMER COMPLAINTS.

At the first sign of illness during the hot weather give the little ones Baby's Own Tablets, or in a few hours the trouble may be beyond cure. Baby's Own Tablets is the best medicine in the world to prevent summer complaints if given occasionally to well children, and will as promptly cure these troubles if they come unexpectedly. But the prudent mother will not wait until trouble comes—she will keep her children well through an occasional dose of this medicine. The Tablets ought, therefore, to be kept in the house at all times. Mrs. Chas. Warren, Nevis, Sask., says: My little boy was greatly troubled with his stomach and bowels, but a few doses of Baby's Own Tablets wrought a great change in him. I would not be without the Tablets in the house." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Peruna has done me a great deal of good since I began taking it and I am always glad to speak a good word for it."

"Three years ago I was in a wretched condition with backaches, bearing down pains, and at times was so sore and lame that I could not move about. I had inflammation and irritation, and although I used different remedies they did me no good."

"A neighbor who had been using Peruna advised me to try it, and I am glad that I did. I began to improve as soon as I took it and I felt much better."

"I thank you for your fine remedy. It is certainly a godsend to sick women."

CATARRH OF THE INTERNAL ORGANS.

Miss Theresa Bertles, White Church, Mo., writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, bowels and internal organs. Everything I ate seemed to hurt me. I never had a passage of the bowels without taking medicine. I was so tired mornings, and ached all over. I had a pain in my left side, and the least exertion or excitement made me short of breath."

"Now, after taking Peruna for six months, I am as well as I ever was. Peruna has worked wonders for me. I believe Peruna is the best medicine in the world, and I recommend it to my friends."

TO RESTORE HOLYROOD.

£40,000 Said to Have Been Guaranteed for the Purpose.

A sum of £40,000, or about $200,000, is said to have been guaranteed for the purpose of restoring the venerable pile of the Abbey Church of the Holy Rood, adjoining the Royal Palace of the same name, a little outside Edinburgh.

Holy Rood dates from the twelfth century. The exact year is uncertain, but 1128 is generally accepted as approximate.

According to the legend King David I, who was hunting in the neighboring forest, was attacked by a stag, which had been brought to bay by the hunting party. He was thrown to the ground by the furious animal and was in imminent danger of death.

Suddenly, says the Rosary Magazine, a cross arose from the ground between the form of the beast and the monarch; and the stag, affrighted, fled. The cross remained on the spot. Its material substance was a mystery to those who examined it.

The occurrence was looked upon as marvellous. In gratitude to heaven the King ordained that a shrine should arise on the ground adjacent. He decreed that it be called the Church of the Holy Rood, and gave it in the care of the Canons Regular of St. Augustine.

What remains of the abbey is called the Chapel Royal. It is only a fragment of the old building, but is yet considerable. The portion formed the nave of the great abbey. Its walls are lofty, its windows tall, and its western door of generous proportions. The carving is rich, though not florid.

The tombs within the abbey walls include those of King David I, King James II. (of Scotland), King James V. and his Queen, Magdalen, Henry, Lord Darnley, and many other members of the Scottish nobility. The grave of Riccio is not within the abbey enclosure but in a leading passage leading to the quadrangle of the palace.

KAID WAS IN CANADA

COMES OF A LONG LINE OF FIGHTING ANCESTORS.

Sultan of Morocco Gave Him 150 Wives for Valued Services to British Court.

Kaid Maclean the captured commander of the Moroccan forces, for whose safety the British authorities have required an assurance from Morocco, was stationed with the 69th Regiment for some years in Canada. He has relatives near Kingston, in Ontario, and Prince Edward Island.

Sir Harry Aubrey de Vere Maclean was born at Drimnin, Scotland, in 1840, and is a son of the late Gen. Andrew Maclean, a distinguished soldier. He comes of a long line of fighting ancestors. It is recorded in the history of the clan that, after the battle of Culpeper, one of them, lying stricken upon the field, declined to inform the Duke of Cumberland as to the whereabouts of the ill-fated "Bonnie Prince Charlie." The duke called upon a young officer to slay the wounded man, but this the officer, who afterwards became immortal as Wolfe, the hero of Quebec, refused to do.

WAS IN CANADA.

Sir Harry began his career in the army in 1869, when he obtained a commission as lieutenant in the 69th Regiment, which was sent to Canada shortly afterwards. The regiment shared in the defence of the frontier during the Fenian invasion of 1870, and he was decorated with a medal by Lord Strathcona in London a few years ago, while undergoing special treatment for wounds received in one of his innumerable skirmishes. Sir Harry's regiment was stationed for some years in Canada, and while he was in Quebec most of the time he was also posted for intervals at Toronto, Brantford and London.

WENT TO MOROCCO.

From Canada he was shifted to Gibraltar, where he had a staff appointment. The Sultan of Morocco was desirous of obtaining a British officer to drill his half savage army, and the position was offered Maclean. The prospect appealed strongly to his martial tastes and love of adventure, and he gladly accepted, resigning in 1876 to enter upon his duties of organizing the sultan's forces. He rapidly rose in favor by his daring, intrepidity and military genius, and became a prime favorite with the late sultan and inspired equal regard and confidence in his successor.

SCOTCH ALL THROUGH.

Maclean, whose headquarters have been at Fez, has maintained a band of 12 pipers, all Moors, in charge of Scot, and wearing the proud tartan of the Maclean clan. For some time Major Angus Ogilvy, of the 13th Hussars, was in command of his cavalry. Maclean was in Canada some years ago, and is known to a number of Canadian military men.

In 1893 Sir Henry visited England for the first time since he had severed his connection with the British army. He was on a special mission for the Sultan, who was anxious to obtain assurance of British support.

GIVEN A GUARD.

So apprehensive was the Oriental potentate that Maclean might be induced to remain at home, that he caused an escort of one hundred armed Moors to accompany him, with the injunction that unless the Englishman should return every man in the detachment would be beheaded. While away the guard never allowed Maclean out of their sight, and watch was kept unceasingly outside his chamber door and beneath his window while he slumbered. So successful was Sir Henry in his mission that on his return, the Sultan, as a particular mark of favor, insisted on presenting him with 150 wives.

Sir Henry was the victim of an unhappy marriage. He obtained a divorce from his Spanish wife several years ago, causing considerable sensation in London society. He has a son and several brothers in the army.

NEVER NO MORE.

Friend—"Noy look here, Nye, what are you going to repay me that five you borrowed from me last year? I asked for the return of it eighty-seven times; but remember this, I shan't do you for it again."

Nye (delightedly)—"What, you won't? You really won't? Well, that's what I call being a real, good pal, and no more. I wish there were more like you. Now, do you think you could possibly lend me—"

With a howl of derision, the creditor fled, completely routed by the Nye fillety.
