HALF THE ILLS OF LIFE Are Caused By CONSTIPATION.

When the bowels become constipated the stomach gets out of order, the liver does not work properly, and then follows the violent sick headaches, the sourness of the stomach, belching of wind, heartburn, water brash, biliousness, and a general feeling that you do not care to do anything.

Keep your bowels regular by using Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills. They will clear away all the effete matter which collects in the system and make you think that "life is worth living."

Mr. B. W. Watson, St. John, N.B., writes: "I have been troubled with constipation, for the last three years; and during that time have tried several remedies, all of which failed to help me. A friend recommended Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills, and after using three or four boxes I am now as well as I can expect, still taking them, and am positively sure that I am on the right track."

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills are 25c per box, 50c for $1.00, at all drug stores of dealers, or will be mailed on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When the Back Becomes Lame IT IS A SIGN OF KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the aching back by curing the aching kidneys beneath—for it is really the kidneys aching and not the back.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a special kidney and bladder medicine for the cure of all kidney troubles.

Mrs. Louisa Goshaw, 683 Manning Ave., Toronto, Ont., writes: "I take great pleasure in writing you, stating the benefit I have received by using Doan's Kidney Pills. About three years ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back, and was so bad I could not even sweep the floor. I was advised to try your pills, and before I had used one box there was a great improvement, and my back was mine, better. However, I kept on taking them until my back was completely cured. I highly recommend 'Doan's' for lame back."

Doan's Kidney Pills are the original pill for the kidneys. See that our trade mark, "Maple Leaf," appears on the wrapper.

Easy to use, requires no tools and mends quickly. Every housewife knows what it is to discover a hole in a pan, kettle or boiler just when she wants to use that article. Few things are more provoking and cause more inconvenience, a little leak in a much wanted pot or pan will often spoil a whole morning's work.

The housewife has, for many years been wanting something with which she could herself, in her own home, mend such leaks quickly, easily and permanently, and she has never found it.

What has been needed is a mender like "VOL-PEEK," that will repair the article neatly and quickly and at the same time be always at hand, easily applied and inexpensive.

A package of "VOL-PEEK" will mend from 30 to 50 air sized holes.

"VOL-PEEK" is in the form of a stiff paper, simply cut off a small piece enough to fill the hole, then burn the mend over the flame of a lamp, candle or open fire for two minutes, then the article will be ready for use.

Dominion Parliament

Ottawa, March 7.—Let them stand in their places and make their charge in understandable terms and they shall have their investigation," said the Prime Minister, this evening, at the close of a powerful speech in reply to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's motion that an investigation should be held into the work of the committee.

The Premier's attitude was powerful and unanswerable, and no direct answer was attempted by Mr. Carvell who was given the task of following him. Sir Robert pointed out that there had been no complaint by the British government, and therefore he could not see why there should be an enquiry into expenditures which were not made by Canada.

Sir Robert also recalled that during the Crimean war there was an effort to hold an enquiry but it was bitterly opposed by Mr. Gladstone, and the result was that the attempt was a failure. The Premier took strong ground when he pointed out that the prices of the munitions in Canada, even at the beginning of the war were on the average rather lower than in any other country, and therefore if they were to enquire into prices they must also investigate the prices paid by the British government in the United States and Great Britain.

inquiry as full and as searching as possible. But—and the Premier was emphatic upon this point—without the approval of the British government they did not propose to make an inquiry. Sir Robert was not long in turning defence into attack. "I do not pretend," he began, "that the Shell Committee did not make mistakes, for being men they were fallible. And then he went on to declare that to undertake a business of this kind, new to every man on the board, and to make the success of it they had done should have commanded the commendation and not the condemnation of the opposition. He was scathing when he remarked that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had asked to be given the opportunity to "probe and remedy" but he did not touch upon that Imperial Munitions Board, the development of the Shell Committee.

Sir Wilfrid made no case for an investigation. He indulged in a number of generalities, but he avoided any direct statements. There was nothing more direct than the contracts had been handed out to middlemen. If that were so then, said the Premier, there must have been favoritism in the handing out of contracts. To this and to the statement that there was a patronage list for the manufacture of munitions he gave an emphatic denial. In support of this he declared that he had received complaints from political friends throughout the country that the friends of the Liberal members were getting the contracts. Conservative members of parliament had gone to the shell committee and had been able to get contracts for their political friends.

On the other hand Liberal members had gone and their friends had got contracts. There was some objection taken to this by members of the opposition and calls of "it is so" from members on the government side, but Sir Robert confounded the Liberals by stating definitely and with emphasis that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had gone to the shell committee himself with a constituent of his and had got a large order for him. There was an awkward pause for a moment when Sir Robert asked London pointedly to say whether or not this was the case. Sir Wilfrid, caught with the goods, blushed like a school girl, and shuffled in his seat before rising to answer the challenge made to him, but he had to admit it. He said that he had gone to see General Bertram with a constituent of his from Drummond-Arthabaska, but he had only introduced him. It was true that his friend got an order, but, said Sir Wilfrid "He was quite able to perform his contract." The Conservatives laughed loud and long over this exposure of the action of the leader of the opposition in using his influence and prestige to secure an order for munitions for one of his voters. This was the very thing he had been condemning in extravagant terms so long as Conservative members of parliament did it and it was not known that he himself had been doing the same thing.

Sir Robert pointed out that the leader of the opposition had met with more success than had Conservative members of parliament. The Premier then touched upon an alleged interview which appeared in Liberal newspapers throughout the country. The interview purported to be with D. A. Thomas and was to the effect that Lloyd George's representative had stated that there was too much politics in Canada, and that political influence was being used in the securing of contracts. This interview was a fabrication and the Premier read a letter from Mr Thomas in which he stated: "I never made such a statement as that attributed to me."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's attitude regarding the bringing down of papers was scored by Sir Robert. In brief the leader of the opposition took the ground that it was highly proper for the British government to refuse to bring down certain papers at the present juncture, but it was highly improper for the Canadian government to refuse to do the same thing. The climax of the Prime Minister's speech was reached when he declared that last year the work of the shell committee was interfered with by the members of the opposition. It was in the best interests of the country that the committee should have remained unhampered in their work of getting munitions for the troops who were fighting the battle of empire, but the fact was that the country's interests had suffered last year because the staff were employed attending to the business of getting munitions. "The business of the country was stopped for practically six weeks," declared the Premier warmly, "and I do not propose to stop the business of the Imperial Munitions Board."

The Premier has never appeared to better advantage in dealing with the leader of the opposition. He completely covered the case, and his supporters are jubilant. Sir Wilfrid and his followers have been caught with the goods. They have been interfering with the work of making munitions, and they have gone, from the leader down to the shell committee and used their influence as members of parliament to get contracts for their friends.

Progress of the War.

Paris, March 6.—The French continue to be absorbed in the situation around Verdun. The anxiety and doubts of the first days of the fighting have been replaced by quiet, joyful confidence in the strength of Gen. Petain's preparedness either for defense or a quick offense. The conviction regarding Verdun is that although the Germans may persist in their offensive, their power of attack has been weakened, as it is considered that it will be difficult for them to get the same dash out of the troops who have lost fights against the French in future attacks. The Germans, therefore, have put a great number of infantry men successively into the action, and now appear to be replacing their divisions. The weather continues unfavorable. The rain and snow keep the earth soft where it has not already turned into marshes. Automobiles near the front look like moving blocks of mud. The roads back of the French line, considering the weather and the use to which they are being put, are good. Twenty thousand automobiles daily pass over one thoroughfare behind the line, moving in opposite directions in two almost continuous lines.

Paris, March 6.—The following official statement was issued by the war office tonight: "In Champagne the Germans delivered an attack, accompanied by jets of liquid flame, on our positions between Mont Tetu and Maisons De Champagne, he succeeded in penetrating a small advanced section. "In the Argonne we exploded in the region of Courtes Chaussees, a mine which destroyed a German post and caused a vast crater, the southern edge of which we organized. "Between Haute Chavanche and Hill 285, after having exploded two mines, the enemy, by reason of the explosions, was able to gain a foothold at several points in our first line. An engagement ensued, in the course of which we drove our adversaries out of our trenches, and we occupied one side of the crater. Our artillery has been very active in the whole of this sector. "West of the Meuse, after a violent bombardment which lasted the whole morning on the front between Bethancourt and the Meuse, the Germans launched a strong attack against Forges, situated on our advanced line. In the course of a very lively struggle they succeeded in taking possession of the village. Several attempts to debouch on Cote De L'Oie were checked by our counter-attacks, which drove the enemy back into Forges. "East of the Meuse there has been an intermitted artillery action. "In the West an intense bombardment has occurred in the region of Fresnes, but was not followed by any infantry attack. "West of Point-A-Mousson our artillery caused heavy damage to the German organizations in the Bois Du Jury." The Belgian communication reads: "There has been the usual artillery action on the Belgian front. Our batteries south of Dixmude silenced German bomb-throwers."

London, March 8 (7.13 p.m.)—A German fleet, consisting of at least fifty big warships, followed by a large gray-painted armed trawler fleet, two big Zeppelins, and numerous submarines, was sighted Monday afternoon in the North Sea off Terschelling island, North Holland, according to the report of a steam trawler which has arrived at Ymuiden, says Reuters Amsterdam correspondent. The fleet was proceeding westward. The correspondent adds that Monday morning five large cruisers of unknown nationality passed Ymuiden at full speed.

London, March 9.—The German fleet returned to its base this morning, says Reuters' Ymuiden correspondent, telegraphing Wednesday. "A Dutch trawler searched by one of the warships," the correspondent adds, "reports that many of the vessels had a peculiar appearance. Those carrying several funnels had a sternmost funnel painted yellow or covered with yellow cloth, while the other funnels were grey."

Paris, March 8.—The French, by a strong counter-attack, succeeded today in driving the Germans from the greater part of the Corbeaux wood, which they occupied yesterday, and according to the official statement issued by the war office tonight the Germans now hold only the eastern extremity of this wood. The Germans, however, have recaptured the Hardaumont redoubt. Douaumont, to the north of Verdun, is again being heavily bombarded.

Paris, March 9.—Further progress for the French in the Corbeaux wood is reported in the official statement issued by the war office tonight, as well as a German repulse along the front of the Douaumont, to Vaux. Fighting between the French and the Germans northwest and north of Verdun has in nowise slackened. Particularly violent have been the attacks of the Germans to the north of Verdun, around Douaumont, the village of Vaux and Fort Vaux, but, according to Paris, they went for naught. The Germans were thrown in solid formation against trenches of the bordering the foot of the slopes of the ridge dominating Fort Vaux, which the latest German official reports said the Germans had captured, but the French brought their curtain of fire into play and drove back the attacking forces with "enormous losses."

Berlin, March 9, by wireless to Sayville.—The German government considers herself from this time at war with the Portuguese government, is the conclusion of a declaration made today by the German minister at Lisbon to the Portuguese minister, the Overseas News Agency announces. Portugal is the thirteenth nation to enter the war. Her regular army consists of 30,000 men, with 230,000 reserves. She is credited with a total available strength of about 870,000 men. Her navy is comparatively negligible, consisting practically of five second-class cruisers and some gun-boats and smaller craft. London, March 10.—Petrograd reports that Russia is preparing to use the recently captured harbor of Riga as a naval base for the advance on Trebizond, from (Continued on page three)

Paris, March 11.—There is violent fighting for the possession of the Fort at Vaux. According to the announcement of the French War Office this afternoon the Germans have made progress along the slopes leading to the position, but they have not reached the barbed-wire entanglements in front of the Fort. Thursday the Huns suffered their heaviest loss. Whole brigades were practically wiped out. German casualties at Verdun now reckoned at 200,000.

London, March 13.—The Daily Mail's Paris correspondent yesterday was Germany's bleakest Sunday of the war, because of the fearful losses at Verdun. For every man the French killed, the Germans lost, it is estimated 5 are missing from the Kaiser's army. Paris, March 13.—Kaiser is quoted as having said on February 20th, that he was ready to sacrifice 200,000 men but would get Verdun. He already lost fully that number. Military critics believe the separate fighting will continue some days.

Local and Other Items.

The cabinet at Sydney Australia has decided to disfranchise all German-born electors for the duration of this war, following the arrest and internment of several hundred aliens who are considered of hostile disposition.

The testimony given to the American Consul at Havre by seven Americans on board and members of the crew of the Norwegian barque Siuius, which was sunk off the coast of France, is to the effect that the barque was torpedoed by a submarine without warning.

Paris advices say.—An enemy submarine is operating along the English Channel between Boulogne and Havre. The French line steamer "Louise" was sunk last night. All aboard were saved. The "Hermatree" also has been torpedoed.

From shortly after midnight on Saturday until six o'clock Sunday evening the men of the St. John Fire Dept. together with the harbor fire boat, were kept busy fighting a fire in the hold of the Australian steamer, Mata-tua, lying at rest at St John loaded with a valuable cargo and almost ready for sea. Damage to the value of $150,000 was done before the fire was got under control. On Monday the body of Capt. L. B. Gilman of the Matatan was found in his cabin. He was a young Englishman and leaves a wife at home. The vessel was submerged and the fire is now out. Officials believe she can be raised and that the explosions have not caused vital damage.

LENTEEN SERMON.—The opening sermon of the special Lenten series was preached in St. Dunstan's Cathedral on Sunday evening last by His Lordship, Bishop O'Leary. His text was from the XXVI. chapter of the Gospel of St. Matthew, 26th to 28th verses: "And whilst they were at supper Jesus took bread and blessed and broke: and gave to his disciples, and said: Take ye and eat; This is my body. And taking the chalice he gave thanks: and gave to them, saying: Drink ye all of this, For this is my blood of the new testament which shall be shed for many unto remission of sins."

His theme was the Holy Sacrament of the Eucharist. The discourse was eloquent and in every respect admirable. His Lordship pointed out, in the first place that the church has set aside the holy season of Lent as a time of mortification and penance. During this season we should in a special manner mortify our senses and appetites. On Ash Wednesday, said the Rt. Rev. preacher, the church begins the penitential season by placing the blessed ashes on our forehead reminding us that we are dust and shall return unto dust. This is intended to bring to our minds that we have not here a lasting city, and that we shall soon be called upon to give an account of our stewardship. All these solemn ceremonies and practices of the church, during the Lenten season, are calculated to remind us that our bodies are to be mortified and kept subject to our souls, the best and noblest part of our being. St. Paul points out that our bodies are to be kept in subjection, lest, as he says of himself, while we pass on to others we ourselves may become castaways. Prayer and the Sacraments are the salutary means provided by the church to obtain the necessary grace to mortify ourselves and our evil inclinations of all the sacraments, the greatest is the Sacrament of the Blessed Eucharist. His Lordship here explained the way in which the different Sacraments bring sanctifying grace to our souls. Why, said he, do we build beautiful churches and adorn them with the most precious ornaments? It is because they are to be the dwelling place of our Lord in the Sacrament of His love. There is no truth more plainly or fully expressed in the Scriptures than the institution of the Blessed Eucharist. The miracle of our divine Lord, in feeding five thousand people with three loaves and two fishes and all His expressions leading up to the institution of the Blessed Sacrament were graphically enumerated by his Lordship, and finally the Institution itself the night before He suffered, as set forth in the text of this sermon. That our Lord's words were to be taken in a literal sense, and no other was abundantly proved by his Lordship. The absurdity of attaching a figurative meaning to the words of the text, as well as the conduct of those Jews who left our Lord and walked no more with him were all explained and developed as incontrovertible proof of the literal meaning of the words used by our Lord in instituting the Blessed Eucharist. His Lordship went on to show that anything our Lord did while on earth was for love of man, and His love for us was not satisfied with all this: He wished to remain with us permanently, and for this purpose instituted the holy Sacrament of the altar. Surely this is the Sacrament of His love. We should return love for love and render ourselves worthy, after loving and serving Him here, to enjoy Him forever in His Heavenly Kingdom.
