Wealth and Beauty at Stake!

CHAPTER XX.

"Oh, Dallas, what is that?" she asks, with open-eyed amazement. "A diamond ring! Oh, it is a splendid one. I know! Do let me see it, dear! It's yours, isn't it?"

"No—that is—it isn't mine—it's only a friend's—lent it to me—at least, to take to the jeweller's when I go up to town. Something's the matter with the setting of one of the stones." Dallas stammers confusedly, as he starts up and walks over to his dressing-case.

"Even so, why may I not look at it for a moment?" Yolande asks very quietly, a strange benumbed feeling creeping over her.

For, as by a lightning-flash, all is revealed to her; as she stands there, her angered spirit clearly perceives what her husband is trying to conceal from her. An icy shudder of wrath and excitement shakes her from head to foot.

"You might let me see it?" she persists in a cold, quiet voice, following him.

"Well, there!" he says, handing it to her in sullen desperation; and Yolande examines the ring attentively in silence.

"It is a beautiful ring," she remarks at length, handing it back to him—"a beautiful ring, and I should think a valuable one. You got that to-day in exchange for yours. I saw your red cameo ring on at breakfast-time. This is a pledge of future fidelity from your ladylove, I suppose?"

There is not a trace of anger or excitement in her voice; she even laughs—a cold, mirthless laugh—though a grayish pallor like that of death overspreads her face to the very lips.

Dallas, in his mortification and regret, cannot find a word to say. He is ashamed of himself, angry with Yolande, and humbled, before her, who has trusted and loved him only too well.

And Yolande, seeing that he has not a word to say in his own defense, turns away, with a disdainful smile and shrug of the shoulders.

"Rather a hopeless thing for poor Mrs. Murray, if she is waiting for my death!" she says, deliberately. "We are both rather young, you see, and she is five years older than I. Thank you for a pleasant visit!"

She laughs as she turns the handle of the door of her room; and Dallas, who has been standing stock-still, now starts forward, panting with excitement.

"Come back!" he cries, hurriedly. "Yolande, do you hear me? Come back. I tell you!"

"No thank you," she replies, with a slight, scornful laugh, closing the door. But the next moment it is snatched back from her hand, and her husband stands in the doorway, his eyes lurid with rage and excitement.

"Yolande," he says, slowly, "if you leave me now in anger and jealousy, refusing any explanation or any apology for—what has annoyed you, and attributing the worst motives to me, I tell you once and for all it is the last time that you and I shall be more than strangers to each other! You have had your warnings and have treated me with unwisely disobedience and injustice since the day we were married—"

It is my turn now! I have pleaded with you for your affection and for forgiveness for the trouble I caused you; now I tell you I will put up with your disdain and coldness, your airs and tempers, no longer—I am tired of them!"

"And I am tired of putting up with your neglect and unkindness, and your insulting admiration and preference for another woman—vanted before my face, and carried to the utmost lengths behind my back!" retorts Yolande, reckless and desperate. Dallas bites his lip to prevent his uttering stronger words than hers.

"You have heard what I said, Yolande," he says, speaking quietly, but with difficulty. "If you leave my room now, you shall never enter it again with my permission; you and I shall be strangers to the end of our lives, unless you come back to me now as my submissive wife!"

"I am to be your 'submissive wife' and Joyce Murray your beloved sweetheart!" Yolande sneers, though it appears to her she is thrusting a knife into her own heart as she utters the taunting words. "No, not if you went down on your knees to me!"

Dallas rejoins. "This is final, then. Good-night, and—good-by."

"Good-by!" Yolande says, very bravely, shutting the door and locking it with a decisive click.

CHAPTER XXI.

Yolande shuts the door between her husband and herself, and stands defiant, palpitating, smiling, flushed from her miserable victory, for the space of five minutes. Then she shivers as she looks all around the big, cold, gloomy room—her "mausoleum," as Dallas called it—and sighs—a weary, despairing sigh that is almost a moan.

"I am so wretched!" she murmurs, and bursts into tears.

She is standing close to the door still, and, laying her head against the wall, she sobs aloud. Dallas is sure to hear her, and sure, of course, to knock at the door to ask her what is the matter.

Five minutes later, Yolande is exhausted by her fit of weeping, and is shivering violently; but no notice is taken of her misery. Then she sits down and listens for a time. She can hear Captain Glynn moving about his room; by and by there is silence, and she can see the warm glow of the firelight through the key-

JOY OF HEALTH WOMAN'S RIGHT

Mrs. Evans Freed from Female Weakness by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"I had female weakness with pains in my back, and I could not stand on my feet for any length of time. I was working in a factory but had to quit as I was too much on my feet. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and I can hardly believe it myself that I am well. Oh, it is a grand thing to have your health! I feel well all the time and can go out like other women and not feel that awful torture. When I took your medicine first I thought it should cure after the first bottle, but I am glad my husband kept me at it. I have had nine bottles and now I am well."—Mrs. JANE EVANS, 124 La Fayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

If you are suffering from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or other forms of female weakness, you should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The reason is given in letters like these, and we have published thousands of them. You may expect that a medicine that has helped other women will help you. Try it.

hole and beneath the door. He is in bed and sleeping comfortably; and every one in the house has retired, for it is close upon midnight, and there is not a sound to be heard but the mournful wailing of the wind and the passionate beat of the rain in gusts against the windows, while in a distant stable yard a house-dog howls loud and long.

Yolande begins to think of the old earl on his deathbed, and to wonder whether the fading life will flicker out before the dawning of the next day, and how he will look when he is dead and lying in solemn state in his coffin, until superstitious terrors begin to creep over her, and the shadowy corners of her large room seemed filled with misty shapes of horror.

Oh, to see Dallas now! Oh to hear his voice and feel the warm clasp of his dear hand! He is her wedded husband, her very own, and not Joyce Murray's, and she will seek him humbly, meekly, dutifully—his "submissive wife"—as he has told her she shall be.

The satin frock will rival crepe for street wear, and black has returned to full favor.

Beitless dresses are in vogue, and to relieve any severity of line, the drapery is introduced.

The Lighter Side.

Why don't some one start long distant dish-washing contests?

Two boys saw a Bishop in the street of a town where a regiment of killed soldiers was quartered. One of them said, "That's a Bishop."

The other, retorted, "It ain't a Bishop; it's a Gordon Highlander going to a funeral."

"My chief trouble, doctor, is my breathing."

"Well soon put a stop to that, my man."

The fellow who flirts with the waitress may not be untrue to his wife. He may merely be playing for larger stakes.

NOTICE.—Lost, a gentleman's gold watch; $25 reward and no questions asked—unless my wife answers the door.

When it comes to bills—we give the Stork credit for having the longest.

There was an old man with a tooth, which ached till he said, "It's the truth. I neglected 'em young. And now I am stung. How I wish I had brushed 'em in youth!"

STRANGE BUT TRUE.

"This paper has a most remarkable picture of a woman swimmer."

"What's so strange about it?"

"It shows her actually in the water."

The laziest man in the village was running hard. On he ran, until—crash!—he went round the corner, nearly knocking the vicar over.

"What—what is the matter?" gasped the reverend gentleman, in astonishment.

"Can't stop, sir," came the hurried reply. "I've just 'eard of some work."

"And have you got the job?" asked the vicar.

"Don't know, sir; just goin' to see."

"What is it?" asked the vicar.

"Some washin' for my wife."

Of Course.

Miss Edna Best—who is really, of course, Mrs. Seymour Beard, and the proud mother of twins—tells a delightful little story of a young matron and her first baby.

A local welfare worker had called to see the new arrival, and after it had been duly admired the mother started to entertain her visitor with bits of local gossip.

"Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Brown," she began, "don't speak now. Each claimed that hers was the finest baby in the town."

"Indeed!" said the visitor. "And which was right?"

The young mother gazed at the questioner in mild surprise.

"Which was right?" she ejaculated.

"Why, neither, of course. My baby is."

An Extravagant Princess

The most extravagant modern woman would have gaped at the clothes of Beatrice d'Este, the famous Italian Princess who was at the height of her career in Milan about the time that Columbus was discovering America.

Eighty costumes went with the Princess on her diplomatic visits to Venice, and in addition to the pearls and diamonds that were embroidered on her clothing, she wore "The Ear of Corn," a ruby valued at $400,000, and "The Wolf," a decoration of three large diamonds and three large pearls, valued at $240,000.

Not Billiards.

I thought I knew all the two million or so golf stories floating about, but here is one that is new to me.

It was told recently by Lord Tweedmouth, whose devotion to the "royal and ancient" game is well known.

A clergyman was playing a round of golf with a very strenuous but bad player, who was an actor. Presently his opponent fired off a round of lurid language.

"Look here," said the clergyman, "even if you don't respect me you might respect the cloth."

"Hang it all," said the actor, "we're not playing billiards, are we?"

FRANCE WILL NOT EVACUATE THE RUHR UNTIL FULL PAYMENT IS MADE.

Death of Chief Justice of Ontario--Japanese Submarine Sinks with all Hands--Maritime Provinces Storm Swept--Anthracite Miners Determined to Strike.

FRANCE REFUSES TO MODIFY ACTION.
PARIS, Aug. 22. The French Government's reply to the recent British note asserts that France refused to withdraw from the Ruhr except she is paid, and that she rejects the plan for international estimates of Germany's capacity to pay. The French position remains unchangeable and they declare French occupation of the Ruhr is legal. The note repeats determination of France not to give up the pledges she holds until after complete payment of reparations has been paid.

THE FRUITS OF VICTORY.
PARIS, Aug. 22. The reparations note to Britain in answer to that of Lord Curzon declares "France will not change her attitude on evacuation. To ask her to do otherwise would be to justify the attitude of Germany and in the words of Lloyd George before the Supreme Council in March 1921, it would be the victors who would pay the cost of defeat and the vanquished would harvest the fruits of victory."

STRIKE IN ANTHRACITE FIELDS LIKELY, SEPTEMBER FIRST.
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Aug. 22. The parley between Anthracite Operators and Miners over the new wage contract, designed to prevent a cessation of work in the hard coal fields September 1st, broke up today. Adjournment was taken subject to call of the joint conference. John L. Lewis, President of the United Miners of America, declared that unless something unforeseen intervened the miners would consider themselves out of employment September 1st.

STRIKE NOT TO INTERFERE WITH FUEL SUPPLY.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 22. Failure of anthracite operators and miners to reach agreement at their Atlantic City conference will not be permitted to initiate a fuel shortage on the consumer, it was declared last night at the White House. While no indication of the Government programme was given, it was announced that President Coolidge wished to assure the public normal requirements for fuel would be met.

JAPANESE SUBMARINE SINKS, DROWNING HER CREW.
TOKIO, Aug. 22. The newest Japanese submarine, just returned from a short trial trip, sank yesterday at Kawasaki Docks at Kobe, and eighty-five members of the crew are missing, and are believed to have lost their lives.

CYCLONE SWEEPS OVER ST. CECILE LEVARD, QUE.

BALTIMORE, M.D., Aug. 21. The British steamer Betwa, which sailed from this port yesterday with a cargo of coal for Leghorn, went ashore on Middle Ground, between Cape Henry and Cape Charles, in a dense fog this morning.

ORSOLETE GUN BOAT SUNK IN THE GULF.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. The United States training ship Gopher, attached to the Ninth Naval Reserve District was sunk in the Gulf of St. Lawrence in a northwest gale, but with no loss of life. She sank in thirty-six fathoms of water in Latitude 46.47; Longitude 82 west. Advice of the loss came from the United States steamer Wadnak through the Radio Station at Grindstone, Magdalen Islands, thence to the Signal Service at Quebec, whence it was forwarded to the Navy Department here. The Gopher was an obsolete gunboat, 840 dead weight tons, of wooden construction, built at New York in 1871. She carried three six pounders.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 21.
Ohio Naval Reserve officers declared to-night the Gopher was not on a grudge, but was being towed from Montreal to Boston Navy Yards, officered and manned by regular navy officers and men. The boat was being towed into the yards because she was no longer suitable for salt water cruising, since she had not sufficient fresh water tanks.

PREMIER MASSEY AND BRITISH NAVAL POWER.
WELLINGTON, N.Z., Aug. 22. Premier W. F. Massey, referring to the question of defence in speaking at a banquet given by the Wellington Chamber of Commerce, emphasized the importance of Great Britain's naval effectiveness. He said a second class navy would mean a second class Empire. Great Britain was bearing an unfair proportion of naval expenditure for the Empire, Premier Massey said.

The Moors have succeeded in closing in their position, but the Spaniards declare they will die to a man rather than surrender.

DEATH OF CHIEF JUSTICE SIR WILLIAM MEREDITH.
MONTREAL, Aug. 21. Sir Wm. Meredith, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario, died this evening in Royal Victoria Hospital, aged 83.

SOME BAD EGGS.
DUBLIN, Aug. 21. The election campaign is being continued peacefully throughout the Free State, except in a few cases of minor disturbances at meetings, taking the shape of rowdiness in which candidates are pelted with eggs.

BERLIN WORKERS CAN'T MAKE BOTH ENDS MEET.
BERLIN, Aug. 21. Retail food prices in greater Berlin have reached levels out of all proportion to revised wage scale agreed upon last week, causing added suffering among the poorer classes. Dominion's View of Ruhr Question.

(Saturday Night.)
It is announced that the Prime Minister of Great Britain, Hon. Stanley Baldwin, has received messages from the Prime Ministers of all the British Overseas Dominions urging direct settlement of Britain's relations with Germany. While the text of Hon. W. L. M. King's assurance has not at the time of writing been made known, it is quite certain that it was representative of the more influential order of sentiment in this country. Canadians, as a whole, are opposed to the British Empire's sitting back as the passive spectator of French aggression and folly, especially since that folly involves the sacrifice of the interests of the nations who fought side by side with France to conquer Germany. Premier Poincare has candidly and cynically admitted that he cared not one iota for the interests of any other nation but France, and that if they do not like French policy they can lump it. It was in an entirely different tone that as President of France, he wrote his famous appeal for British assistance to King George in July, 1914. And it is on record that his tone toward Germany was extremely polite at that period, an evidence of statesmanlike qualities. Poincare is evidently the type of public leader who is most valiant when the opposition is weak; and if the assurances of the Dominion executives have no other value they will at least give him an intimation of the world-view of France's policy.

The world-view is pretty well consolidated, but in the Overseas Dominion it is not based on any love of Germany, but rather on a general hatred of war. To Canada policies which make for war and for the perpetuation of those conditions which for half a century have made Europe an armed camp, seem stupid and intolerable. The soldiers of the Dominion were sent overseas with the inspiration of the belief that they were fighting to end war. That belief consoled countless thousands of bereaved parents. Now the people of the Dominions feel that if they were not hoaxed by France they were certainly hoaxed (innocently no doubt) by the friends of France. They discern in the policies of France every quality of Prussianism that in thousands of sermons, speeches and editorial articles they were taught to detest. They have no use for any policy or any statesman whose courses do not run toward peace. Moreover Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders and South Africans are not fools. They know the Germans well—better perhaps than they know the French—and they have not the remotest belief that France can ever hope to hold the German people in permanent subjection. Hence the conviction that every step that is taken with that end in view, is merely storing up the vials of wrath—the seed of future wars.

An Alliterative Love-Letter.

"Adored and Angelic Amelia—Accept an ardent and artless amorous affection, alleviate an anguished admirer's alarms, and answer an amorous applicant's ardent ardour.

"Ah, Amelia, all assumes an awful aspect! Ambition, avarice, and arrogance, are, alas! attractive allurements, and abase an ardent attachment. Appease an aching and affectionate adorer's alarms and anon acknowledge affianced Albert's alliance as agreeable and acceptable. Anxiously awaiting an affectionate and affirmative answer, accept an ardent admirer's aching adieu.

"Always angelic and adorable Amelia's admiring and affectionate—
—ARTHUR ALBERT."

A Fellow Feeling.

While enjoying the new film play, "Lily of the Alley," in which that delightful character actress, Mary Brough, takes a leading part, there came into my mind a story she once told me.

It concerned a certain humane society which secured a shop window for its campaign, and proceeded to fill it with attractive pictures of wild animals.

In the middle of the exhibit a placard was placed which read as follows: "We were skinned to provide women with fashionable furs."

Presently a man with a very worried expression stopped before the window and read the notice, when a mile of sympathy spread over his face.

"I know just how you feel, old hing," he muttered. "So was I."

Young Mr. Bendorbury landed home late from a whist drive. He brought a prize—a large oil-lamp. He handed it proudly, if unsteadily, to his sister.

"It's so like you," said his sister, and Mr. Bendorbury looked pleased. Then she continued: "It's good looking and wants a lot of attention; instead on its legs, and when heated inclined to explode; burns up recklessly; out at bedtime and makes too much."

MARKET REPORT

indicate that there is no plus of Anthracite Coal in the U.S. The shortage caused by the strike of Anthracite Miners last year has not been made up, and American hard coal will, in all probability, be hard to get and priced. Coke is an excellent substitute for hard coal. We have on hand a stock same that will soon be disposed of, because a shortage of hard coal invariably creates an increased demand for our product. We advise our customers to book their requirements as soon as possible.

Adventurers All.

DARING VOYAGERS WHO HAVE CONQUERED THE OCEAN IN BOATS LIKE COCKLE-SHELLS.

Lieut. Muhlbauer, who has just completed an adventurous trip round the world in a thirty-seven ton auxiliary yawl, with a scratch crew of one or two, often natives, is by no means the first navigator to make such a long voyage in a mere cockle-shell.

True, the modern sailor can enjoy such advantages as tinned and preserved concentrated foods, but such long cruises, often far from the track of regular navigation, require as much daring as that shown by the old explorers whose adventures have been chronicled by Hakluyt.

Probably the best known of these lone navigators is Captain Joshua Slocum, of Boston, U.S.A., who in 1895 started on a 46,000 miles voyage round the world, in the thirty-six foot sloop of nine tons, the Spray.

Not a Soul to Aid.

He sailed via the Azores and Cape Verde, where he was seen by Lord Milner and President Kruger, and touched, among other places, at Samoa, returning from the Pacific by the Strait of Magellan, which failed to daunt him. No wonder crowds flocked to see him and his little craft at the ports at which he touched. Once he was so ill he double-reefed the mainsail lashed the helm to keep the Spray on her course, and then lay down, delirious, in the cabin.

Another solitary sailor to suffer badly from delirium, brought on by his trials and privations, was Captain Andrews, also of Boston, who made his first voyage across the Atlantic in a fifteen-foot whalboat. He wrote a log which would discourage anyone anxious to emulate his feat. Some of his tinned meat went bad, so he lived almost entirely on biscuits and water, as his tanks gave out, he had to contrive a method of distilling water for drinking.

He spent his time "sailing, baling, pumping, repairing damages," and sleeping when he could. No wonder he complained it was "mostly uphill work." From time to time he fell in with vessels, which helped to cheer him on his way, and so far was he from being discouraged that he made other voyages, and actually set out on a honeymoon trip in a small boat built under his directions.

Attacked by Sharks.

This voyage was destined to end in the last, lone journey we must all take. After leaving Atlantic City one October, neither the couple nor their boat were ever seen again.

The risk of capsizing must always be faced, as more than one adventurous sailor has learnt to his misfortune. Amongst these was Alfred Johnson, one of the New England fishermen seized with a desire to cross the Atlantic single-handed. He was among the first, if not actually the first, to make the trip successfully; but his sixty-seven days' voyage to Liverpool cured him of all desire to repeat it. Captained in a gale, he managed to keep afloat by means of a life-buoy, and when the weather moderated he righted his boat. Another time he was knocked overboard by the boom, and attacked by sharks as he scrambled back.

A Boston voyager set out for Gibraltar via Madeira with a companion in a nineteen-foot boat, but the latter gave up the trip at one of the coast ports. Once, when he heaved-to in a gale, with a sea-anchor out, his craft was capsize, with the loss of all stores, the tiller, and his watch.

Better known to Britisheers is the lone trip of Captain Voss, of Victoria, British Columbia, who carried out the project of a Canadian journalist, who accompanied him as far as the Fiji Islands. The voyage was made in an old Alaskan canoe converted into a three-masted schooner, the Tillikum.

Voss' Adventurous Voyage.

It contained a small cabin with one bunk and was provisioned for two men for six months. In spite of adverse weather driving them back at the outset they eventually reached the Fijis, where the departing passenger was replaced by another. Five days later he fell overboard and he was never seen again, although the Tillikum remained on the spot and searched for many hours.

Afterwards the foremast was smashed, but Captain Voss applied and replaced it, though when picked up by a Customs launch off Sydney Head he was almost exhausted. Then, while sailing to Hobart from Adelaide, the second man he had signed on fell overboard. Captain Voss at once followed and managed to save the man.

Other adventures, good or bad, were encountered on the way to the Cape, via New Zealand and the Indian Ocean. Thence the intrepid voyager crossed the South Atlantic to Pernambuco, which he reached within the three years in which he had undertaken to make it. Finally, he completed his voyage of over 40,000 miles at an English port. Of this distance he had sailed 1,200 miles alone, and for part of the time he was without a compass.

Of Interest to Tourists.

The Keeper of the Gate.

Once again Great Britain stands close to "splendid isolation" in Europe. Russia is hostile, Italy is cautious and reluctant, France for reasons which we need not condemn and which are easily understood rejects British counsels, while any alliance with Germany against France would shame the dead and revolt the living. Thus even the alliances of the Great War are shattered and all the balances of Europe are disturbed. It is certain, however, that the great objects of Britain are to restore order and stability in Europe, give confidence to the exchanges and a free run to the world's commerce, and to give work and wages to her million of unemployed who constitute a material problem commensurate with that created in France by German devastation.

Sooner or later the two great English-speaking nations, the United States and Great Britain, will come together by the inevitable logic of events, by common understanding, if not by actual alliance, to steady the nations and establish peace and security upon enduring foundations. There are problems in China and Japan as well as in Europe. Still there are multitudes who have not yet learned the ways of peace and who will trouble Israel in the future as Israel has been troubled in the past if they are not restrained. The strength to restrain lies in the moral power of the English-speaking nations and since they have both lost the lust of conquest they can be trusted to act together, as the elect guardians of mankind. But meanwhile the burden of maintaining the world's peace and prosperity is resting mainly, as so often before, upon the broad unyielding shoulders of Great Britain.

Reports Show City Babies Have Best Chance to Live.

Chicago, Aug. 22. (A.P.)—Some urban communities, in spite of the crowds, are healthier places for babies than many rural districts, according to the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago. A study of the mortality charts for cities and for the country shows that babies born in crowded cities have a better start in life than children in the country, the society reports. "This of course is not because of the crowds, but in spite of them," says the report, "and is a condition made possible through the education of the mothers even before the babies are born."

"It is owing to the fact that we find organizations such as the Infant Welfare Society fighting a battle against ignorance, which has cost a heavy toll in infant lives in cities such as Chicago, and that we find health departments carrying on the work of instruction, that in spite of tenements, crowds and hot waves, through education lives are being saved each year. We must replace the old idea that the country is a healthier place with the idea that education may make almost any community a healthy place."

Australia to Inaugurate New Federal Capital.

MELBOURNE, AUG. 22.—(A.P.)—The next session of the Australian parliament will be in Canberra, the new Federal capital which, like Washington, D.C., is a city located and planned for the special purpose of being a national capital. The Australian capital was laid out by an American architect, Walter Burley Griffin, of Chicago.

Canberra is situated on a splendid undulating plateau about 2,000 feet above sea level, a little to the north of the highest peaks of the Australian Alps. The city site is divided by three large sheets of water, supplied by the sluggish Molonglo River, and adorned Fads and Fashions. Quite surprising is the fact that some of the fall skirts show a tendency for fullness in the back. Fall suits and coats show great colors of fur: badger wolf, platinum and beige skunk, red fox and beaver. In wearing the new blouses a great deal depends on one's adaptability in draping them on the figure. There seems to be no doubt that straight lines will prevail for fall, much to the delight of most women. Green in many soft shades is worn for afternoon and evening. Hydrangea and powder blue are also good. A wide flaring cuff finished with a band of embroidery or fur is used on the long sleeve of the afternoon gown. Draped gowns of satin are caught up with a rhinestone buckle or finished with a girle of these popular stones. The lace gown is good for even the most formal affairs, particularly if it is of a bright gold lace so popular just now. It is reported that shades of brown will be popular for autumn. Cocoa, karunk, cara and seal brown will share honors. A quite Oriental coat of blue velvet is embroidered in yellow, red, blue and green, in wide bands at the hem and cuffs. Small hats and tam shapes are being shown for autumn wear. Colors are gray, shades of brown, navy blue and a great deal of black.

SUCH A THING AS UNIVERSAL PEACE AIN'T POSSIBLE.

"Starving Germany" Plays Possum.

This morning's cable message emphasizes the determination of the French Government to remain in occupation of the Ruhr District until Germany has made complete payment of the amount of the reparations which were decided upon by the Allies.

That France is justified in believing that Germany can pay, or at any rate that her condition is not so desperate as she would have the world believe, is indicated in a measure by a series of photographs taken in one of the German seaside resorts and reproduced in a recent issue of a London daily pictorial.

Here the gentle Huns are shown gaily disporting themselves, and presenting a striking contrast to the dismal scene of the Jews in captivity weeping and lamenting by the waters of Babylon, as described by the Psalmist of old.

In appearance they are anything but skin and bone, anything but dressed in rags, anything but depressed, and anything but subsisting on the bare necessities of life. In fact they are surrounded with everything that money can buy.

In his comments the editor says, "Positively they remind us of the older Germans who used to throng every European pleasure resort before the war! What if they should be the same old Germans—still characteristically determined to make fools of a credulous world, while they escape the burden of their obligations?"

Sir Robert Horne in referring to Germany in the House of Commons said that she had been, since the Armistice, deliberately equipping herself at the expense of the Allies.

She had started on a pre-conceived policy of evading her obligations, and she stood to-day with all her great industrial organization reconstructed and in a position of efficiency with which the British has nothing to compare.

She had no external debt, and she had discharged her internal debt, and every public company had got rid of their debenture issues.

If reparations were wiped out to-morrow Germany would start in the competition for the world's commerce in a far more favourable position than she had been before the war.

Britain, he said, had been manfully facing her debt of $35,000,000,000, while Germany had none.

It would be unwise to give Germany too long a moratorium. In justification of Britain's attitude, Sir Robert Horne remarked, that because we had been meeting our expenditure by taxation, France thought that we were too wealthy to be considered. While we were struggling with about 70 per cent. of our pre-war trade, France was granting subsidies to all sorts of concerns.

There appears to be in England a marked diversity of opinion as to the attitude that Britain should adopt with regard to reparations question generally, and with reference to France in particular. Many are inclined to the belief that if we had supported France and compelled Germany to understand clearly that the occupation of the Ruhr was undertaken with our concurrence, her resistance to a settlement would have collapsed. In the disunion of the Allies Germany has seen her way out, and is making the most of her opportunity.

Lord Birkenhead and Mr. Austin Chamberlain, who advocate vigorous support of the French policy, are said to be the popular exponents of the Conservatives, whereas Mr. Baldwin is inclined to adopt a purely British policy which cannot but result in the collapse of the Entente Cordiale.

Mr. McKenna who was to have become Chancellor of the Exchequer declined the office in consequence of his being unable to associate himself with the policy outlined by the Prime Minister.

The statement that France has obtained no practical returns from the occupation of the Ruhr may be true to a certain extent, but the downfall of Cuno, the disturbed state of affairs in nearly every industrial centre of Germany, and the desire of Stresemann, as expressed recently in the cable message, to have a personal interview with Poincaré indicate clearly that the French policy has not been without effect morally and industrially, and that a continuance of the occupation would result in forcing Germany to bow to the inevitable. It will be most unfortunate if the Allies allow anything to stand in the way of compelling Germany to pay to the utmost farthing the amount of reparations demanded—an amount which is insignificant as compared with the losses inflicted by her upon the world, and the precious lives that were sacrificed to drive back into their stronghold the savage hordes that she let loose to wreak their vengeance on peaceful lands.

The Colonial troops during the war materially helped to bring Germany to her knees by methods which were not always conventional. It may be that in a similar manner the representatives of the Overseas Dominions, unhampered by political ties and unbiassed by ancient traditions, may help to find the solution of the problem that has delayed for so long the return of the world to normal conditions.

A statement which it is to be hoped is unfounded has been made to the effect that upon the arrival of the injured boy Walsh at the hospital there was no house surgeon available and that it was not until the arrival of Dr. Anderson in response to a telephone message that he could be examined. We shall be glad to publish a denial of this rumour or an explanation.

The Department of Shipping received a message from Capt. Bragg of the S.S. Watchful this morning to the effect that Hunter Seligrore, the Wireless Operator on board had met with a gunning accident, and had just arrived at Indian Harbor to land the patient for hospital treatment. Hunter received the contents of a load of shot in his right foot. Dr. Paddon, the surgeon of the hospital, made an examination of the man's injuries shortly after arrival, and stated that the wounds were not very serious, and that the patient will be able to come home by the next trip of the Sagona.

A detachment of police were on board the Watchful when she arrived at Indian Harbor. The ship returned to Stag Bay to-day to get everything in readiness prior to leaving for home.

Newfoundlander Killed in Boston.

BODY ARRIVED BY SILVIA FOR INTERMENT AT MOBILE.

The remains of the late Daniel Fitzgerald of Mobile, who was accidentally killed in Boston on the 16th inst., arrived by the S.S. Silvia this morning for interment in his native place, Mobile. The deceased who is a son of Mr. Thomas Fitzgerald was well and favourably known, and was one of the most popular young men on the Southern Shore. His kind and genial disposition, coupled with sobriety and industry endeared him to all with whom he came in contact, and his friends were legion. Undertaker Martin, who looked after the funeral arrangements, accompanied by his father and relatives left with the remains this forenoon for Mobile. The deceased leaves to mourn father, two sisters, one of the latter being Rev. Sister Carmell of Littledale to whom the Telegram tenders their sympathy.

Motor Accident.

NINE-YEAR-OLD BOY STRUCK BY MOTOR CAR IN HOLYROOD.

About 7.30 last evening a motor accident occurred at Holyrood, which almost added another victim to the list of motor calamities. This time a nine year old lad who was spending a holiday at Holyrood with his father, Mr. Daniel Walsh, of Cookstown Rd., was struck by a motor car, driven by Mr. Chesley Pipp, and now lies at the General Hospital, suffering from injuries to his head. It appears that previous to the accident the young lad left his boarding house after tea to go as far as the railway station to watch the outgoing train. As the train pulled out of the station the boy turned to recross the road. Three cars at the moment were approaching the main road by way of the Salmonier line. The leading car was apparently seen by Walsh but that he was not aware of those which followed close behind was evident, as he jumped from the railing immediately the first car had passed and came in contact with the tender of Mr. Pipp's car, which passed over the road. Shortly before reaching the city he had regained consciousness. He spent a very good night at the hospital, and the belief is that the injuries are not very serious.

An Incredible Statement.

A statement which it is to be hoped is unfounded has been made to the effect that upon the arrival of the injured boy Walsh at the hospital there was no house surgeon available and that it was not until the arrival of Dr. Anderson in response to a telephone message that he could be examined. We shall be glad to publish a denial of this rumour or an explanation.

Says Playgrounds and Beaches.

Municipal bathing places, parks and playground activities are responsible for the better moral fibre of children, Mr. Orpin says.

"Taxpayers seldom realize the good investment that is being made by providing facilities for recreational activities which furnish an outlet for the energy of the young," said Mr. Orpin, juvenile officer, declares. He estimated that misdemeanors among children have been cut down 20 per cent. in the last two years.

LESSEN JUVENILE DELINQUENCY. SIOUX CITY, August 22.—(A.P.)—Juvenile delinquency in Sioux City is showing a decided decrease over the records of previous years. C. H. CLONBURN CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE IN COLORADO. PUEBLO, Co., Aug. 23. Damage estimated at possibly one million dollars was caused by the breaking of the Apsalaps River Dam, due to a cloudburst. Tuesday night in the watershed of the river a huge wall of water from the broken dam has demolished the railroad and automobile traffic and all traffic communication in the flooded area is broken. The rushing waters swept houses, barns and other property with it down the valley.

PRECAUTIONS TO BE TAKEN TO GUARD AGAINST FUEL SHORTAGE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. A perfection of the system of distribution designed to insure an adequate supply of a substitute for fuel will be the first object of the United States Government in case of stoppage of the production in the Anthracite fields. A survey of the situation made by the Government bureau is said to show a reserve of from fifty to fifty-five million tons of soft and twenty-two to twenty-five million tons of hard coal on hand which could be rationed out.

GERMANY IS CONFISCATING FOREIGN CURRENCIES TO BE EXCHANGED FOR PAPER MARKS.

BERLIN, Aug. 23. Compulsory requisitioning of foreign currencies wherever found is provided for in the Government's program of emergency measures which becomes effective immediately. Chancellor Stresemann frankly informed leaders of finance and big businesses that Government would not countenance the slightest attempt to evade provisions. The forthcoming emergency ordinance would deal with all slackers in the most drastic manner. It is not proposed to be content with formal appeal to patriotism. All foreign monies will be gathered in without formality, the owners being reimbursed with paper marks. The funds thus obtained will be devoted in part in the effort to regulate internal financial chaos which is causing unwarranted advance in prices of food commodities and also to establish steady reserve from which food purchased abroad may be made. Government's money draft ordinance provides excessive money fines and confiscation of private fortunes for wilful concealment or possession of foreign currency and demands a voluntary declaration of such possessions. The extent to which holdings will be questioned depends upon whether or not the holder needs them for legitimate business purposes. The Government expects to realize between two and three hundred million gold marks from the initial raid, and expects the impending action will stimulate the desire to invest foreign currency in new internal loan in preference to having them confiscated and replaced with paper marks.

SPANISH LOSSES IN FIGHTING IN MENDO NUMBER 300. MADRID, Aug. 22. The War Office Communication says the Spanish losses in the fighting at Tifariti approximated three hundred killed or wounded. The tribesmen were hard pressed and showed signs of demoralization. They left behind them a number of dead and wounded. Two Spanish columns are now encamped in the neighbourhood of Tifariti in readiness to meet the enemy should he resume the offensive.

MINE OWNERS DECLARE A LOCK-OUT IN RUHR AND OTHER DISTRICTS. DUSSELDORF, Aug. 23. A lockout has been declared by owners of seven of the largest mines in Ruhr and also in a number of state mines, according to German newspapers. The reason for the lockout was the failure of employees to come to a wage agreement. It is estimated that at least two hundred thousand workers in the Essen district are affected. Similar measures have been taken in the metal and textile and other plants at various places, where it is said something like one million persons have been locked out.

In Memoriam.

WILKINSON BUTLER.

Monday afternoon, Aug. 20th, at a long illness, extending nearly three years, from Consumption, there entered within the life of George R. Butler, aged 21 years, the only son of Mrs. Mary Butler, the late George W. Butler, 38 Water Street. Up to the time of his illness, the deceased had been a member of the Phone Clerk in the Post Office and by his sunny disposition, he made many friends. It is a great regret to hear of his passing in the bloom of manhood. He was much at times, but was never inclined to complain and entered into the common world with the fullest measure in his Saviour. The writer, who found him well and when visiting him was suddenly rendered the victim of his illness. All that the best skill and the nursing of a mother could do was done, but he did not stay the illness of the afternoon and was largely attended. The service at the house was conducted by Rev. R. E. Fairbank of George Street Methodist Church and was very impressive. The favorite hymn of the deceased, "Jesus Crucified on the Nightly Cross" was fittingly rendered. The remains were enclosed in a white casket which was covered with beautiful offerings, a last tribute of many friends who knew and loved him in life. Amongst the number was a wreath from the Young Men's League of Wesley Methodist Church of which he was a member. The service was made in the General Cemetery. At the grave, the message of hope—"Jesus Crucified on the Nightly Cross"—was fittingly rendered. The remains were placed in the casket with that blessed thought of his again on the resurrection. To the broken-hearted who support the sympathy of the community is extended. May she who does all things for the comfort and sustain her in this hour of sorrow.

It is at last, in that bright morning, the soul wakes, and life's shadows flee; that hour, fairer than daylight gleams, the glorious thought—He with thee." A FRIEND.

May Have Found Aircooled Flying Engine.

ST. JOHN'S, Aug. 22.—(A.P.)—The aircraft airplane builders, for some time, has been to produce a powerful multi-cylindered engine which would eliminate radiators, pistons and other impediments of air-cooled engines. Some of the difficulties of the air have been overcome to solve this problem. The Duke of Sutherland, in presenting the prize to the winner of the English aerial Derby, remarked that day was the triumph of air-cooled engine, and it is now known that he was revealing the confidence which is attached to the result of the race.

Large Decrease Noted

GERMAN BEER PRODUCTION.

St. John's, Aug. 22. (A.P.)—German beer production is less than it was in pre-war days. For the year there were only 28,000,000 bottles produced as against 70,000,000 in the period immediately preceding the war. The beer production for 1922 was only 27,000,000 gallons, or nearly 100,000,000 gallons for each inhabitant of the German republic. Experienced brewers manage to get eight glasses of beer out of every gallon, so at present every inhabitant of Germany has had 120 glasses of beer per year, or, roughly, one glass every five days.

The brewers say the decline in beer consumption is due to the poverty of the public. Temperate workers say that the work as to the evil effects of alcohol is responsible for much of the decline in beer drinking, and many doctors say the world-wide demand for women to be slender in order to wear prevailing fashions has made them abstemious.

Sweden Far From Home

ST. JOHN'S, Aug. 22.—Atlantic seaweed has been found in the North Sea, and crowded nearly all other forms of marine vegetation.

Twenty years ago this Red Sea product was unknown in these latitudes. It is flourishing everywhere. The seaweed is supposed to have been introduced on the hulls of ships.

TO-DAYS MESSAGES.

POINCARÉ'S REPLY SUPPOSED TO PAVE THE WAY TO ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Aug. 22. The general view here is that another Allied Conference is one of the principal objects that M. Poincaré is aiming at in the latest exposition of France's policy, but in this connection it is pointed out that Premier Bidwell in his recent statement made the assertion that the British Government was not in the mood for much further delay in settling the issue. John R. Clynes, one of the leading Labour Members of Parliament expressed the opinion to-night that taken as a test of France's desire to get reparations settlement instead of permanent dominion over a large part of German territory, M. Poincaré's note was disappointing. The Belgian Government's reply is expected to reach London to-day, and in view of Belgium's previous efforts to reconcile Anglo-French differences, hopes are expressed that Belgium's new views may further modify the situation. The morning newspapers commenting on Premier Poincaré's note, readily acknowledge and express their appreciation of his courteous and friendly tone. The majority of them however, are disappointed over the substance of the note, and declare that in effect it leaves things just where they are.

FRENCH PUBLIC APPROVE POINCARÉ'S REPLY TO LORD CURZON.

PARIS, Aug. 22. Premier Poincaré's reply to Lord Curzon's Reparation note seems to suit the French press and strike a popular chord in public opinion. The few members of Parliament in town united in approving the Premier's stand. The part of the note that appealed to political leaders was that in which M. Poincaré asked Lord Curzon whether France would be treated by her Allies more severely than Great Britain wanted to treat Germany, their former common enemy. Great stress was laid on the assertion that if British theory prevailed, Germany would emerge from calamity of their own making with no inferior debt and foreign debt of only fifty billion marks, with an annual interest charge much less than that France is made to bear. At the same time, it was declared, Germany has profited from the stoppage work in the Ruhr, by putting her industries in such shape that when settlement was finally reached she would be able to compete more sharply than ever with those countries which suffered at her hands. Comment in official circles indicated plainly that Premier Poincaré anticipates a continuation of the discussion with British Cabinet.

A Trip to the Humber.

The special train which brought the Assemblers to view the Humber Development, the biggest undertaking ever projected in Newfoundland, returned to the city at 9 a.m. today. Sunday at 4 p.m. the start was made from St. John's with the following making up the party: Prime Minister Warren, Sir Michael Cashin, W. J. Higgins, Hon. W. W. Halfyard, Hon. W. H. Cave, Geo. Grimes, P. F. Moore, Hon. M. Hawco, Messrs. C. J. Fox, N. J. Vincombe, W. W. Woodford, R. Hibbs, R. Winsor, Jno. Abbott, R. Cramm, J. H. Scammell, H. Small, W. Walsh, E. P. Sinnott, Hon. J. Downey, M. S. Sullivan, A. Targett, R. Walsh, Thos. Clouter, John Brown, C. T. James, P. J. O'Reilly, J. Baxter. Messrs. A. Calpin, K. Brown, Jas. Moore, B. Simons joined along the line. The first important stop going west was made at Grand Lake Station where Mr. Alexander, the General Manager for the Armstrong-Whitworth Co., was waiting to conduct the party over the scenes of operations. Sir Patrick McGrath and Major Butler joined the party here. Leaving Grand Lake Station the train passed over the new 10 mile diversion of the railway, constructed since last spring when this part of the line was covered by about four feet of water due to the backing up of the water of Grand Lake owing to the erection of the dam on Junction Brook. The building of this line was in itself a wonderful piece of work to accomplish in a short time. The rails span two trestles, one 900 feet long and another 1400 feet. The temporary crib dam holding back the waters of Grand Lake is also one of the sights of this section. Three miles along from Grand Lake, at 366, where the W. J. Bishop Constructing Engineers have their office, a stop was made to take on board Sergt. Ambrose Conway. Ten minutes' ride further along, at Campbell's Siding, a stop of fifteen minutes was made. A miniature town has sprung up here. Dozens of flat cars loaded with construction material and machinery were everywhere in evidence. On both sides of the line for the fifty miles from Howley Station to Corner Brook, works on a scale that could scarcely be conceived have been pushed with a speed that is surprising. Yet nowhere was there a sign of rush. Everywhere men were at their work with a sort of military precision. The ramifications of the project are so great that it will be necessary to deal with them in a later issue. Sufficient is it to say that marvels of engineering are being accomplished as it were, overnight. A new birth for the west has begun. There is a hum on the Humber.

For the present the train trip will be noted. When Corner Brook was reached, all detrained. Railway Manager Russell, Mr. H. D. Reid, Mr. Alexander and the manager of construction, Mr. Jones, started to show the party over the town site, but owing to rain coming on the idea had to be abandoned until next morning. The night was spent at Curling, where the train was put on a siding. During the night prominent people, including Magistrate Scott, Revs. Taylor and Angwin and S. Dunphy, paid a visit on board, chatting with friends in the party. After viewing at Corner Brook the immense works going on there, a start eastward was made at noon. Stops were made at all the operating points. A day full of wonderment quickly passed and at 5 p.m. Mr. Alexander bid good-bye, his with Sir Patrick McGrath again going west on a special trolley. Before leaving the Prime Minister gave a short address, thanking the Armstrong-Whitworth Co. through Mr. Alexander for the kind thoughts which prompted him to invite the Assemblymen to have a view of the works. Mr. Alexander courteously extended an invitation to the members to again pay a visit as his guests within a short while. After cheers for the host had been given, Premier Warren announced that a visit to Grand Falls plant would be made, as he had received an invitation by wire the previous evening from Director A. E. Harris of the Humber Co., Grand Falls. During the early hours of Wednesday morning it was raining and it looked as if a miserable day was in store. It proved otherwise. The hospitality of Grand Falls was made manifest. The directors, Messrs. A. E. Harris, Vincent Jones, G. F. Laycock, and Mr. L. R. Cooper, the town manager, were on the job. All the motor cars in the town were placed at the party's disposal. Headquarters were at the Grand Falls House, lunch being served at the Log House. All the forenoon was taken up in a visit through the paper mills. Three hours of the afternoon was spent in visiting the principle places in town. A large number visited the hospital and were shown over the place by Drs. Scott, Dwyer and Moore. All were much interested in the appliances, a particularly interesting event being a demonstration of the new X-ray. A splendid time was spent at the Erin Hotel, where Mr. Karl Trapnell was staying. In his generous way he gave ten or twelve songs for the company, which included many of the city footballers. Karl was certainly good to hear. He was accompanied on the piano by Mr. T. Clouter. At 6 p.m. it was all aboard for St. John's. The homeward trip was most jovial. A stop of about one hour was made at Norris' Arm. This place was once the terminus of the whole of Green Bay. Very little operations are carried on there now, except a couple of saw mills. One of these owned by Saunders & Howell sawed two million feet of lumber last year. It is operated by Mr. Freeman. Whilst viewing the scenery Messrs. Scammell, Fox and Cave conceived the idea of giving a "blow out" to a number of small boys who had assembled. They were taken to a store and given all the lemonade and candy they could stow away. Others, including the Prime Minister, John Brown and Mr. Vincombe, started a series of races. A regular programme was run off. All the boys in the settlement were quickly on the scene and competing for prizes of 50 cents to $1. The fun continued until 8 p.m. when a start east was made. At 9 p.m. a memorable meeting was held in the diner. Prime Minister Warren in the chair. The speeches of one and all gave visions of a great future for Newfoundland. The toast list is as follows:—

Logging Forests Not Real Motive Behind Embargo.

MORE EFFECTIVE MEANS OF REVENATION CAN BE FOUND.

ADDING TO WEALTH.
THE EMBARGO WOULD GIVE
MOST FOR WOOD WE CUT
—AMERICANS STILL DIS-CUSSING PROPOSAL.

MONTREAL—American newspapers daily the specialized papers in publishing and paper-making fields, giving a great deal of comfort to an opinion expressed privately by a "well-known publisher" that the idea has receded greatly from "its original idea" of prohibiting export of pulpwood. Other American parties interested in the question are considering a Washington despatch which states that in official circles the embargo will not be adopted. It is stated that officials of the Canadian Government have come to the conclusion that conservation of Canadian forestry resources can be had by other means than the imposition of an embargo which would cause friction in relations with the United States. It may be that the wish is father to the thought in these expressions of opinion from across the line. Ottawa has indicated nothing of its attitude on the question since the Government got legislation to permit the establishment of the embargo if found advisable and since the appointment of a Royal Commission was forecast. Ottawa is getting a lot of worthwhile comments on both sides of the embargo question and it may be that Premier King and Finance Minister Fielding are letting the pot bubble a while just to see what ideas and opinions come to the surface. But action on the matter has been promised and unless it is forthcoming in due course, those who have been promoting the embargo are likely to renew their efforts.

The motives that are imputed to Canada in this matter by American newspapers are varied. The most popular is one that has been widely quoted and says that "Canada's radical proposal" is provoked by hostility to the Fordney-McCumber tariff which has excluded Canadian products like wheat and cattle. Back in the heads of Mr. Fielding and some of his conferees at Ottawa there may have been the thought that an embargo threat would be an excellent club to bargain with in tariff matters. But when it gets down to the final analysis, Canada is not thinking about the American tariff at all in this matter, much as this country has been hurt by that tariff. There are broader and more important reasons why the embargo should go on.

Many American newspapers have hysterically proclaimed the embargo as a threatened unfriendly action. But the calmer ones are frank to admit that the embargo would be nothing of the kind any more than the Fordney-McCumber tariff which interfered with Canadian commerce as it was before the tariff, is an unfriendly action on the part of the United States to Canada. One newspaper, calling for better trade relations between the two countries, traces the present differences of opinion on many economic matters and the consequent lack of joint action, to Canada's refusal of the reciprocity treaty in 1911, a refusal that started a series of trade discriminations.

Is It a Conservative Measure.

Many Canadian newspapers, favoring the embargo, have declared it necessary to save Canada's forests from depletion. It may as well be frankly admitted that the embargo would not do a great deal to save Canada's forests from depletion. Canada is cutting about 4,000,000 cords of pulpwood yearly. Of this amount roughly 3,000,000 cords are used in Canadian pulp mills and paper mills and would not be affected in any way by the embargo. The remainder, about 1,000,000 cords, is exported to the United States and it is the exportation of this wood that would be prohibited. If its export were prohibited, the natural result would be the establishment of a further series of pulp mills in Canada of the enlargement of the capacity of the present mills to the end of converting this wood into pulp in Canada to be shipped into the United States in that form. The United States mills would require the excess over their own supply, whether in the form of wood or wood pulp. So the wood in some shape would leave Canada and would have to be cut. Moreover, the quantity of pulpwood exported does not cut much figure when compared with the depletion of Canada's forests from other resources. It is estimated that 200,000,000 cords of Canadian pulpwood have been destroyed by the barkworm in the past few years. Even allowing for a doubling of the quantity of pulpwood exported each year, three generations would not see as much pulpwood exported as has been destroyed in a few years by an insect that could be fought. It is foolish as more than one maxim-writer has pointed out, to turn off the spigot and leave open the bung-hole, and as a measure of conservation it will not get Canada very far to save 1,000,000 cords of wood each year that brings a revenue to the country, and to lose many times that in preventable insect depredations and forest fires. Let the word be repeated—preventable.

Justified On Broader Grounds.

Canada can justify its action in planning to prohibit the export of pulpwood but not first of all as a measure of conservation. Canada should prohibit the export of pulpwood on the ground that our natural resources should be made to return the highest possible revenue to the country, if we do not allow other nations to buy our pulpwood they will buy our pulp or our paper instead. We should then, manufacture the pulpwood into pulp and paper and leave that many more millions of dollars in the country to add to Canada's wealth and to help adjust the balance of trade.

Objection to the proposed embargo has come in Canada from several sources. Premier Taschereau, of Quebec, is opposed on the ground that it would be an interference with provincial rights. Another objection raised is that the embargo is a restriction upon free and unhampered business dealings. Such objections will have their chance for hearing at the sitting of the Royal Commission. These two are easily answered. Provinces are naturally jealous of provincial rights, but Quebec and the other forested provinces have subscribed to the pulpwood embargo by their own action in prohibiting the export of pulpwood from crown lands. That it is an interference with business is, of course, true, but so is the tariff an interference with business. The whole scheme of protection is an artificial fabric that aids many businesses but hurts many others and is justified, first, because it is believed to aid more than it hurts, and because it is believed to serve the national interests despite unfairness at isolated points.—Financial Post.

A Time Limit.

Ted Cowan, the comedian, fired off a story the other day that made us all laugh.

It concerned a profiteer who bought a magnificent steam yacht and went for a cruise. The yacht hit a rock and sank, and the profiteer was nearly drowned.

"Yes," he said, recounting his experience to a friend, "I had a narrow escape. I thought I was done for."

"Tradition has it," said the profiteer's companion, "that when a man is struggling hopelessly in the water he remembers every evil deed he ever committed. Did that happen to you?"

"Well, not altogether," said the profiteer. "You see, I was only struggling about eleven hours."

CITY WINS FIRST GAME.
The City drew first blood on Tuesday evening, when they defeated the crack Grand Falls team on their own grounds by a score of 3 to 0 in the Inter-Town Series, for the Championship of Newfoundland. Edgar Ewing was the star performer and did all the scoring. The line-up was:—
Grand Falls—Goal, Lockyer; backs, N. Halfyard, Raynes; halves, Simpson, Hannaford, Rose; forwards, Brain, Frew, Halfyard, Pitcher, Balley.

City—Goal, Walsh; backs, Delahunty, Thistle; halves, Maddigan, Duggan, Vavasour; forwards, Coultas, Meaney, Ewing, Quick, Flynn.
Mr. Macpherson refereed the game splendidly, which was witnessed by an excellent crowd, which included His Excellency Sir Wm. Allardrye, Miss Allardrye, and Capt. Goodfellow. His Excellency did the honor of opening the series by kicking-off.

The City played good combination while Grand Falls spoiled their chances by wild kicking and bungling. Ewing was the goal getter for the City, and twenty minutes from the start he registered the first goal, which was followed by another goal. Grand Falls pressed hard during the closing minutes of the period, but were unable to get past Walsh who was in good form.

In the second period Grand Falls worked better, but without results, the City defence being impregnable.

while during the early minutes of the period, Ewing again did the needful for the City. Balley, Halfyard, Simpson and Raynes, did good work for Grand Falls, while Duggan, Maddigan, Flynn, Ewing, Quick and Walsh were the shining lights of the City.

A.A.A. MEETING.

A meeting of the National Sports Committee will be held at the office of Higgins, Hunt and Emerson on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, to make arrangements for the 3rd Annual Championships Meet, to be held on Sept. 5th. GUARDS SPORTS TO-NIGHT.

For the second time this season the Guards A.A. were obliged to postpone their Annual Sports Meet. The heavy rain and gales yesterday made this necessary. The football five between the Pelidians and the Saints, and Guards and Star, will commence at 7 p.m., and immediately after the tug of war will be held. The first pull will be between the Guards and St. Mary's, and the second between the Cadets and Truckmen. Extra chairs have been provided and everything is ready to cope with an overflow attendance.

Modern English Prison Adapts Many Reforms.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(A.P.)—Prison reform is popular just now in England, where it used to be regarded as purely an American notion. The latest thing in prison reform has been adopted in Wakefield Gaol, with excellent results, it is said. The prison, which was closed in 1916, has been reopened as a training centre for adult prisoners.

The underlying idea of training is to teach the prisoners to "play the game." Scarcely a warder is to be seen. To maintain order the prefect system of the English public schools has been adopted. Solitary confinement has been abolished, and there is no restraint on conversation at meal times.

The men all have allotments. They work in pairs—a man who knows a little of gardening being coupled with a man who knows nothing about it. Every prisoner who does well is allowed to grow a border of flowers to decorate his "room" as the cells are called. There is plenty of work done nine hours manual, two hours mental. Work is arranged under expert instructors in the weaving shed, foundry, building yard and other workshops. One hour a week is devoted to discussion of happenings in the outside world on all topics except crime.

Germans Seek Hartz Coal.

ELLENBERG, Saxony.—(A.P.)—Coal mines in the Hartz Mountains, neglected for twenty-five years, again are being operated as a result of the French occupation of the Ruhr. The Hartz coal field is 20 miles long, and it is estimated that one mine alone is capable of yielding 15,000,000 tons of coal.

Great Britain's Worn-Out Money.

In Great Britain all coins are withdrawn from circulation when they become so worn as to render immediate recognition in any way difficult, says a London paper.

Coins so withdrawn are paid for at their face value, but this is not the case with coins that have been fully lightened or mutilated. These are paid for only at their market value as old metal.

There is considerable variation in the amount of coin withdrawn each year. In 1919 (no later figures are available) silver coin of the nominal value of £142,379 was withdrawn.

The loss in value on this was £11,650 5s. 8d. This loss is not very serious, in view of the fact that in the same year the profit on minting new silver was £1,104,225 0s. 5d.

Worn bronze was first withdrawn in 1908. There were then so many old coppers in circulation that the amount called in was over £20,000 per annum. Of late years the amount has sunk to under £2,000.

The cost of replacing the coppers is, naturally, not very great. In 1919 this amounted to only £39 8s. 3d. on a withdrawal of £1,205, while the profit on the new bronze was £464,165.

When gold circulated the expense of keeping the currency up to standard was considerable. The Order-in-Council authorizing the Mint to call in light coins and substitute new ones at public expense was issued in 1892. From that date until 1917 gold to the value of £76,778,000 was withdrawn. The deficiency in weight represented a value of £982,929. This is equal to a loss of a little over two-pence in each coin called in.

This item of expenditure, of course, does not now occur, but Great Britain has instead the cost of printing new Treasury notes and of administering their issue.

Treasury notes are withdrawn from circulation when they become dirty and new ones are printed in their stead. The amount withdrawn weekly is somewhere about £5,000,000.

The standard of cleanliness maintained with regard to the paper money is much higher than that of many foreign countries. It is not possible to state the real cost of the currency note issue. There is, of course, the actual cost of paper, printing, and administration. Against this must be set the fact that the State has the use entirely free of interest of nearly £200,000,000 (the amount of Treasury notes at present in circulation).

ROMANCE.

The rich bootlegger's daughter Matilda Beryll Mae, eloped with Slocum Slaughter, who drives the village dray. And folks who marked this antic, exclaimed, "Love conquers pride! How lovely! How lovely!"

Three cheers for groom and bride! She was a pampered maiden, all luxuries were hers, and she was always laden with costly silks and furs. All this she has forsaken to wed a democrat who earns his eggs and bacon, and little more than that. Amid the gladsome riot of plaudits and acclaim, "I'm sitting sad and quiet, and forecast dire I frame. I'm sitting grim and sober, I'm saying, through my beard, "The seventh of October will see this marriage queered. For one who's basked in riches through all her giddy days will soon discover, hitches in countless, frugal ways." The stern bootlegger father is angry in his soul and says he'll never bother to help her with his roll. "She plucked the village drayman," he says, with pallid gills; "well, let her one-hoss-shay man make good and pay her bills." Her haughty heart will quiver, and grief her form will rack, when she is eating liver instead of canvas-back. She used to sit in raiment and care will gnaw her mind when she is making payment for stingham, cheapest kind. I wish her joy in batches, I'd see my fears intomed; but ah, these mist matches are nearly always doomed."

The Oldest Will.

Among the interesting documents of antiquity which have been discovered in recent years is a will made by an Egyptian named Uah.

This will was executed in 2648 B. C., antedating by more than a thousand years the time of King Tut-Ankh-Amen. The will was written on papyrus and was unscratched at Kahun, Egypt, by Dr. Flinders Petrie. It is now a part of the archaeological collection of the museum attached to London University.

When the will was found, it was folded vertically and sealed with the impression of a scarab, which typified the resurrection of the soul after death.

In his will Uah provided for the disposition of his property, named a guardian for his boy, provided a home for his wife and stipulated where he and his wife should be buried. The will is remarkable for the clear and definite way in which it expresses the wishes of its maker.

Translation of the Will of Uah.
I, Uah, am giving a title to property to my wife Sheftu, the woman of Geash who is called Teta, the daughter of Sat Sepdu, of all things given to me by my brother Ankh-ren. She shall give it to any she dresses of her children she bears me.

I am giving to her the Eastern slaves, 4 persons, that my brother Ankh-ren gave me. She shall give them to whomsoever she will of her children.

As to my tomb, let me be buried in it with my wife alone.

Moreover as to the house built for me by my brother Ankh-ren, my wife shall dwell therein without allowing her to put forth on the ground by any person.

It is the deputy Gebu who shall act as guardian of my son.

Done in the presence of these witnesses: Kamen, Decorator of Columns. Apu, Doorkeeper of the Temple. Seb, son of Seb, Doorkeeper of the Temple.

SIDE TALK.

By Ruth Cameron.

ON CREPE HANGERS.

There has been so much fun made of crepe hangers that one really wonders sometimes how people can do it without seeing themselves in a fit subjects for the cartoonist.

A machine struck one morning the exquisite tact of the engine, it stalled in the middle of a much travelled road and with a crowd of people in it whom I was to take for a ride. Instead of pushing the machine out of my way, we then telephoned for a man (who couldn't come for an hour) and while we waited the members of the party read with the following tale.

A Cheerful Tale.
A man who had a new car and they told him not to drive too fast, and he drove it too fast. He was in an awful hurry to get to a place for a week-end. And instead of setting it to go to the garage, he put it in gear and drove it to the garage. He then got out and put it in gear and drove it to the garage. He then got out and put it in gear and drove it to the garage.

Waiting For The Doctor.
Or perhaps some member of your family is ill and a neighbor comes in and give you a little neighborly advice and counsel while you are waiting for the doctor. The encouragement runs something like this: "Yes, he certainly has a temperature and with that rash, I don't like to say it, but it does look a little like scarlet fever. You know, I feel as if I knew something about that for—I had it myself and both my children have had it. I never had such a siege in my life. I shan't forget it in a hurry. Yes, I hate to say it, but that rash and that high fever does look like it. I hope the doctor will be here soon, my dear."

Of Is She Disappointed?
When the doctor comes and says it is nothing but indigestion, she says she is so delighted. And maybe she thinks she is. But I have a suspicion that part of her is (subconsciously, perhaps) disappointed.

Tourist Traffic Will Suffer

IF ROADS ARE NOT MADE SAFE.

Some Suggestions of How to Deal with Auto Thieves, Bank Bandits and Motor Road-Agents to Prevent the Spread of Up-to-date Crime.

(Financial Post.)

Both in Canada and the United States, it is being properly urged that a more serious view be taken of motor car thefts, and that punishment of the thieves when caught, be exemplary. The preliminary to many desperate crimes is the theft of an expensive car, and while some of the men who steal cars do it for the fun and excitement of the game, there are enough of those who steal cars for other criminal activities to warrant stern measures to stop the practice.

Not very long ago in this city, during an investigation into motor thefts, it developed that there was a club of young men in Parkdale, candidates for which, in order to be eligible for membership, had to steal an expensive car. They could practice on Fords and other low priced machines, but could not be admitted until they got away with a big car. All they were after was excitement, and the courts are inclined to let such culprits off with a warning, but this has no effect on others, and the practice still goes on. Some judges would like to have these youngsters whipped, but there appear to be some legal difficulties in the way unless the parents consent. There should, however, be no trouble, for if the parents had the choice of seeing the boy get a sound spanking, or a stiff jail term, they would prefer the former for their erring offspring.

As to the present epidemic of hold-ups on the highways the business interests of the country make it essential that such measures be taken with men convicted of the crime, that others will be afraid of the consequences, and the lash is the only thing to put the fear of God into this type of criminal. The result of its application to those caught will be unpleasant for them, and they will undoubtedly be broken and brutalized, as sentimentalists claim, but it will drive them out of the country and the fear of similar punishment will prevent others taking up the same courses.

The business of the country demands the utmost protection to travellers on the roads if the motor tourist traffic is to grow. The province has spent enormous sums on roads, largely to encourage the tourist traffic, which admittedly produces satisfactory returns to every locality favored by tourists. Anything therefore which tends to discourage travellers reacts on the whole community in loss of profits.

Nothing will keep down road travel more than an impression that the roads are unsafe, and recent happenings are a poor advertisement for the country. The question after all narrows down to a business proposition. If measures are not taken to dissuade the minds of criminals that Canadians are easy, the country is going to lose a lot of money. The next lot of hold-up-men caught must be made an example of for the sake of the rest of the community. It will no doubt be rough on them, but when profits are at stake there is no room for sentiment. We need the money, and as for the crooks they invite the punishment deliberately, and have only themselves to blame if they get a full measure.

Cannot Condemn Canada

FOR CONSERVING PULPWOOD.

MONTREAL.—Among the less indignant comments in American publications on the proposed embargo on pulpwood shipments from Canada, is an editorial in "Editor and Publisher," which is a newspaperman's paper. The editorial calls attention to the need for immediate action on the part of American newspaper editors to force the filing by American officials of a vigorous protest at Ottawa. At the same time the editorial points out that the real solution of the pulpwood supply problem of the United States lies in reforestation of American forests "raped and ruined in a half-century of carelessness."

The editorial concludes: "The problem is our own and not Canada's, and the latter can scarcely be condemned for guarding her own resources from the fate that has overtaken America's. Swapping diplomatic notes may tide us over a few years, but they won't keep our children from facing the dangers that lurk in a press whose existence is at the mercy of a foreign power."—aug21.11

Miss Louise Delara Arrives by Silvia.
BRILLIANT SOLOIST WILL APPEAR AT NICKEL.
Miss Louise Delara, noted Soprano soloist arrived by the Silvia to open an engagement at the Nickel Theatre. Miss Delara comes direct from a concert tour of New York and makes her initial appearance to-morrow. This theatre is noted for presenting musical attractions of a high quality and in securing this talented vocalist the management feels confident that it is giving the public something that is well worth hearing.
One of the most interesting films you've seen for some time, is "Eden and Return" featuring Doris May, which is the week-end motion picture attraction at this theatre. The play itself reveals not only good taste in the selection of the story material and refinement in production, but it makes entertainment of the most engrossing sort. It is crammed with laughs. It sizzles with pointed humor. It is rich in human interest and delicious touch of romance woven through the fabric of the narrative will appeal to everybody who likes a love story well told—and who doesn't?

Midnight Burglars at Work.
Late Monday night or early Tuesday morning, some sneak thief gained an entrance to the West End Bazaar Store, Water Street, and rifled the contents of the till, which amounted to thirty dollars. The burglar apparently had his plans well mapped out, as he gained access to the building by a flight from the rear, and made a bold getaway without leaving the slightest clue behind. This is the third time this store has been broken into, and it appears to be the work of the same individual on each occasion. The police have the matter in hand and feel confident that some evidence will be obtained in order to enable them to make an arrest soon.

Just Folks.
BY EDGAR A. GUEST.

OUT IN THE OPEN.
Out in the open, away from the clamor,
The hissing of steam and the sound of the hammer;
Out where you speak to the passer-by, gladly,
Where Time isn't lashing and driving men madly;
Out where life isn't just money-paid labor,
Out where it's something to chat with a neighbor!
Out in the open, the wide-stretching spaces,
Where one can see more than pale, drawn, weary faces;
Where one can still get the sweet thrill of being lonely,
Oh, it is good to get out for this only!
Out in the open, long miles from your doorway,
Rejoicing to meet just one man going your way.
Out in the open, the sky's arch unbroken,
Out where the simplest of language is spoken;
Out where life isn't just plotting and scheming,
Out where the ploughboy is toiling and dreaming;
Out where there's distance and breadth to life's beauty,
And the days break to more than the burdens of duty.
Out where the minutes like pearls are not counted,
Out where a time-clock has never been mounted,
Where life can be more than the strife for possession,
And the soul of a man can have room for expression,
Where mountains and hill tops and trees are the tall things,
And man and his buildings are really the small things.

Boy Scouts Sports.
A good programme is provided for the Sports at St. George's field on Wednesday. We note a hurdle race is included in the list of events, and we are sure that some of our former champions will spend the next few days in "going over the sticks." Mr. W. J. Higgins, the Captain of the Field, will no doubt be pleased to see some of the old warriors come forward and teach the "young 'uns" an almost forgotten art in the realms of sport in the Ancient Colony. The handicapping of the flat races is a good idea, and being in the hands of the capable committee of the N.A.A.A., we are assured of well contested events. Entries should be forwarded to Secretary, P.O. Box 916 as early as possible, in order to enable the Committee to get to work. Music is being provided by the Mount Cashel Band under the baton of Mr. Arthur Bulley, which speaks for itself, whilst the Girl Guides Association have undertaken the task of providing and disposing of refreshments at a "fair market value." Transport for the Band from Mount Cashel to the field and return is required, and we are sure that those with motors will come forward and bring the boys along. There are thirty of them, and Messrs. Arthur Bulley or H. A. LeMessurier will be glad to hear from those willing to help. Cups and medals are on the way from England by "Digby," whilst other useful prizes are being purchased locally. It is hoped that the weather will be favourable, and that competitors will come forward and make the day a success. The Sports are under the distinguished patronage of Sir William L. Allardyce, K.C.M.G., Chief Scout, and Lady Allardyce, Inspector Commissioner Girl Guides Newfoundland.

Train Delayed.
ENGINE TROUBLE THE CAUSE.
When the excursion train left Topsail last night, coming citywards, engine trouble occurred, which caused a delay of over one hour. The cars were later attached to the incoming Shore train at Donovan's, and the city was reached at 11.10. Owing to the inclement weather very few pleasure seekers availed of the excursion train to spend the day in the country, but a large number of passengers were picked up at the various stations on the return trip, who had left the city on the previous day.
