Our commercial contemporary sees much in the presence of coal in Canada's far west. The output of bituminous coal is steadily increasing. On the island of Vancouver the opening of new coal mines goes steadily forward. The island is 300 miles long and rich in mineral deposits. But at present interest in coal mining centres in the anthracite beds at Banff, in the interion, east of the mountains, in the Canadian National Park region. While its quality is so far somewhat uncertaint, the Banff coal is unquestionably fairly good anthracite. It appears likely to improve as the workings are extended, and it is not impossible that it may prove to be, what it is claimed to be, nearly asgeed as Liehigh coal. The discovery of genuine anthracite in the Rocky Mountains is, at all events, a matter of deep interest to a large area of country both in the Dominion and the United States.

It is the Wimanite argument that, the richer Ganada is shown to be in matural resources, and the greater her transportation facilities become, the less able is the to do business for herself, and the more dependent she must be upon her neighbors to do it for her. Well, and the greater her transportation facilities become, the less able is the to do business for herself, and the more dependent she must be upon her neighbors to do it for her. Well, certainly that was not the view taken some six months ago by the State Department as Washington. There it was laid down, as a thing settled—that by the adoption of a Protective National Policy, and the building of a National railway screek the continent, Canada had reduced immensely the chances of her being compelled to seek for admission into the American Union: These were to be looked upon as important steps in progress; which were rendering the country mere independent, to put it short. Canadian Wimanites cannot see this; but we fancy that we fancy that we fancy that we fancy the fancy that we fancy the fancy that the officers were unnecessarily velocity as the many series of the weapon, the comment was freely passed school boy and too advanced in year to offer resistance. The utility of the new patrol system is indisputable, but such an "uni-British" abuse of authority ought not to be tolerated. sees it all the while, nevertheless.

five broke out under the stairs of the City Hall, which was in the centre of Market square, and upstairs over the market. The five is supposed to have been caused by the stump of a lighted cigar falling under the stairs amongst some waste. A strong gale was blowing at the time and the fire spread with fearful, rapidity and in a few minutes the Oity Hall was in flames and smarks were showering on the small wools. sparks were showering on the small woo buildings in the vicinity. The wind was blow ing from the northwest and the fire fairly flew along the streets rinning north and east, and within fifteen minutes forty or fifty tenement were in flames.

The fire brigatle was practically useless, the

The fire brigate was practically useless, the small mains being wholly inadequate to supply the numerous streams ladon, and the fire nerely laughed at the sickly squirts which trickled on it, some of which scarcely wentwenty feet beyond the nozzle.

The wind blew directly towards the magnificent Roman Catholic Church, the largest edifice in the archiepiscopal diocese of Ottawa when the leading at Ottawa with his except the Basilica at Ottawa, and the in terior was soon in flames. The church was of solid linestone, with a sheet iron roof, which held the fire in splendidly, and had there been anything like a sufficient water supply the building would have been saved. As it was this beautiful structure, valued at over $150,000 was totally destroyed together with was this beautiful structure, valued at over $150,000, was totally destroyed, together with other church property in the vicinity estimated at $100,000 more.

The fire swept along, totally beyond control, and soon caught the convent, a quarter of a mile distant, totally destroying it.

By this time the Conqueror engine had arrived from Ottawa and had two good streams on the college, which was saved, and the Eddy and Union steamer had severa streams on Eddy's piling grounds south of the fire, the lumber piles in which were mostly saved, only the fence and a few piles bein destroyed. Mith the exception of the church, presby tery and convent almost all the buildings wer of wood and burnt like so much paper unde the impetus of the fierce gale which prevaile throughout the two hours the fire lasted, unt throughout the two hours the fire lasted, until fairly burnt itself out.

It is difficult to get at the number of house burnt, but a moderate calculation puts it a 250, which is more likely to be under the over-estimaced. Fully 1500 people are home less, most of whom are poor.

The loss will exceed $500,000, on whice there is little insurunce except $80,000 on the church, $4000 on the convent and $5000 on the City Hall.

The church was beautifully finished ins and contained many five pictures, none of which were saved. Not only were the con-tents of the church totally destroyed, but also a considerable quanity of furniture which ha been removed from buildings on fire or in dan ger and placed there for safety. This is the worst fire Hull has ever had,
