WEDNESDAY, JUNE 2nd, 1897. -The Dominion Atlantic Railway has is sued its annual tourist's guide book to and through the Land of Evangeline. The work is from the pen of Charles G. D. Roberts, one of the cleverest and most entertaining of Canadian writers, and it is a charming story of the province, particularly as reached by the Evangeline route, its people and its attractions for the tourist and sportsman. From cover to cover, it is filled with inter esting matter, and is profusely illustrated. As a sportsman's guide it is invaluable, and who but Roberts, who has whipped practishot in every game cover in the province, could compile such concise and important information. The Dominion Atlantic Railway Co.'s "The Land of Evangeline and the gateways thither," and the Yarmouth amship Company's "Beautiful Nova Sco tia," of which mention has previously been made, are wonderful factors in the prosper ity of the province. Their value cannot be anderestimated, as through their influence thousands of tourists are attracted hither the laps of those who sit idly by and let the transportation companies do all the work Of course they are working in their own in terests, but they reap but a small proportion of the reward of their efforts. a prominent factor in the solution of the Cuban difficulty, is one of the great questions of the day. The Senate has recently ceolared in favor of recognizing Cuba's independence but President McKinley's recognition has been witheld, although there is every reason to believe that he is deep in the consideration of this weighty matter. Spain has now been arying to subdue Cuba for two years and her efforts have demonstrated her inability to accomplish her purpose; the insurrection shows no signs of waning. It is probable that the United States at this stage of affairs will interfere. American property and commercial interests have suffered to an enormous extent during the war and sufficient sause has been given to warrant that country in demanding a heavy indemnity from Spain.

There's a story in circulation that is causing considerable dismay in the ranks of the temperance advocates. It is, briefly, that the question of direct taxation is to be harnessed with that of prohibition in the harnessed with that of prohibition in the plebiscite soon to be taken. Whether the story is a canard or whether it really has a foundation is yet to be learned. A large portion of the Canadian press is treating it seriously, and it is indeed a subject for serious treatment, if true, as it will certainly have a disastrous effect on the main issue. Annapolis, Nova Scotia.

I have been requested to give my opinion of the coiled hoops made by the Annapolis Manufacturing Company, Limited, of Lequille. I have been in the coopering business for 35 years and have handled all kinds of hoops. I must say I never saw better hoops in every way than those made by the afore-mentioned company. I instructed my men to drive them to the severest strain in order to thoroughly test them and to my surprise they did not give way at all. The hoops were only 1½ inches wide, the usual width being 1½ inches. I prefer them to any elm hoop I have ever used. Mrs. Taylor and Miss Bertha returned to Halifax on Saturday.

On Sunday night the barn of Charles S. Vantassel near Digby, was seen to be on fire. In fifteen minutes after it was first discovered, it was a mass of seething flames. In the barn at the time was a yoke of working oxen and three cows, about 35 hens, two pigs and all his farming utensils, which were all consumed. Nothing could be saved. The loss is a heavy one for a farmer at this season of the year. There was no insurance.

Nictaux.

Rev. J. W. Manning, of St. John, N. B., preached at Nictaux and Torbrook on Sunday, May 30th.

The Nictaux Woman's Missionary Aid Society held a meeting in the Nictaux meeting house on Sunday evening last. Appropriate recitations were given by Misses Cohoon, Morse and Hogg, and highly appreciated. Mrs. Burdett, the returned missionary, related some of her own experience and sought to excite the interest of the audience in Foreign Mission Work. Rev. J. W. Manning, in his intensely earnest manner, sought to convince his hearers of their responsibility in giving the gospel to the Telegues on the field occupied by the missionaries of the Maritime Baptists. Mrs. J. W. Brown, on behalf of the Aid Society, presented Mrs. Albert Beckwith, President of the Society, with a certificate of life membership in a neat little speech expressing the Society's appreciation of Mrs. Beckwith's long continued services. Mrs. Beckwith responded in a few words suited to the occasion. The audience responded by such a collection as Nictaux knows so well how to give, and the choir contributed their full share to the interest and success of the occasion.

A VERY SUCCESSFUL MEETING HELD IN DIG BY LAST WEEK. The eighteenth annual meeting of the Teachers' Institute of Inspectoral District No. 4, embracing the counties of Digby and Annapolis, convened in the Academy Hall at Digby on Thursday, May 20th, and was duly called to order at 9.30 a. m. by the president, Inspector L. S. Morse, M. A. The minutes of the previous meeting held at Bear River were read and declared approved.

Vice President, W. M. McVicar; Secty.-Press., A. L. Bishop; executive committee, Vice President, W. M. McVicar; Secty.Treas., A. L. Bishop; executive committee, J. H. Crowe, A. D. Brown, Miss Laura
Messenger, Miss Carrie Morse, and Miss Margaret Archibald.
It was thought advisable that persons be appointed to correspond with the press regarding the proceedings of the Institute;
accordingly, Mr. W. M. McVicar was appointed reporter to the Educational Review;
Mr. W. S. Phinney to the Morning Chronicle; and Mr. N. W. Hogg to the Halifax
Herald.

Herald.

The chairman of the executive committee suggested that the public meeting of the evening be held in Oddfellow's Hall, as the Academy Hall would not accommodate the audience. A motion was passed to this ef-audience. A motion was passed to this effect.

The regular preliminary business having been disposed of the programme was taken up. The first was a paper prepared and rendered by Miss Carrie Westhaver on "The Influence of the Home and the Section on the Work of the School." The writer set forth many important points which, judging from the remarks that followed, voiced the sentiment of the teachers on this subject. It is not necessary to attempt to outline this paper, as a motion was passed to the effect that the writer be asked to allow the paper to be published in the different local papers, that it may be examined more carefully.

After a short discussion of this paper, Principal J. A. Benoit entertained the Institute by one on Humane Education. The writer classified education under four general heads—instructive, disciplinary, physical and religious—and noted that all were of neffect without humane education. He next noticed how it could be attained. The subjects on our "Gourse of Study" contributing most to Humane Education were then considered under two heads; (1) those which foster a love for the beautiful, as, drawing, etc.; (2) those which prepare man for direct living. as agriculture, etc. No brief synop. foster a love for the beautiful, as, drawing, etc.; (2) those which prepare man for direct living, as, agriculture, etc. No brief synopsis of this paper could do justice to it, as it could be appreciated only by being heard. At the close commendable remarks were made by Principal McVicar, Schaffner, Woodman, and Shields, and a motion was passed asking the writer to allow the paper to be published in the local papers. It was thought best that the remainder of the morning session be devoted to the discussion of practical questions presented by the teachers.

The passing of the "Question Box" resulted in the gathering of an abundance of questions which were ably discussed by var-

Meeting then adjourned to meet at 2 p. m. AFTERNOON SESSION. Meeting called to order by president at 2 p. m.
The programme continued by Mr. N. W.

The programme continued by Mr. N. W. Hogg, of Digby Academy, teaching an illustrative lesson to a class of his pupils on insects. Those studied were the June Beetle and the Lady Bug. They were carefully examined under the direction of the teacher, and their history and their life studied. The lesson was exceedingly interesting, Mr. Hogg showing not only his superior ability as a teacher, but his thorough acquaintance with his subject.

At its close, Mr. McKay, superintendent of Education, who had come in during the lesson, was called upon for a few remarks. He expressed the pleasure it afforded him to be present again at a meeting of the Institute. He had been deeply interested in the lesson. Thought the grand point was toget the pupil himself to observe. He recommended the making of such nature lessons an amusement. Soon the pupils would be led to see and to observe what is around them.

Prof. Smith, of the Provincial School of Agriculture, was the next speaker. He admired the bravery of any person who would undertake such a lesson before the body of teachers. He also strongly advised letting pupils make the observations themselves. Again, nothing helps to impress the form of Again, nothing helps to impress the form of any animal or plant as much as drawing. He thought it best always to combine a drawing lesson with a science lesson.

The next was a paper by Miss Bertha Rice on "Kindergarten work," in which its benefits were demonstrated and showing the benefits were demonstrated, and showing the Kindergarten to be the connecting link be tween the home and the school. It would tween the home and the school. It would be useless to attempt a synopsis of this valuable paper. It called forth commendable remarks at its close from several members of the Institute, Professor Smith believed that the sooner Kindergarten methods were applied in the common school the better, and that in Kindergarten work the child gets education and not information. Principal McVicar spoke of the way of overcoming difficulties in crowded primary departments by introducing Kindergarten work. work.
Miss O. A. Smith, of the Normal school at Truro, who had been invited to attend the Institute and to give the teachers some hints on drawing, was then called upon for he lesson. It is needless to say that Miss Smith lesson. It is needless to say that Miss Smith was at home on her subject, and she showed how many of the difficulties that teachers had experienced in teaching this subject might easily be overcome. At the close of her lesson, Miss Smith favored the Institute with a few drawings on the blackboard which called forth expressions of admiration from many. many.

Meeting then adjourned to meet at 8 p. n

EVENING SESSION.

The public educational meeting was, according to previous announcement, held in Oddfellow's Hall. The meeting was duly called to order at 8 p. m., and opened with a song by the pupils of Digby Academy under the able leadership of Miss Bessie McNeill.

The president, Mr. L. S. Morše, M. A., in a few well chosen remarks, expressed the pleasure it afforded the Institute to greet such a large audience of the people of Digby, and briefly spoke of the history of the Institute since its organization at Lawrence-town in 1880. The speakers of the evening were Dr. McKay, Prof. Smith, Principals McVicar and Schaffner, and Revs, Phillips, Harley, Johnson and Thomas. The address of Dr. McKay was listened to with the greatest attention. He expressed himself as being greatly pleased to be present at a meeting of this kind. His object was to find out difficulties of teachers. The authorities were striving to take steps they would not EVENING SESSION.

meeting of this kind. His object was to find out difficulties of teachers. The authorities were striving to take steps they would not have to retrace. It required time to bring about the necessary reform. His address was practical and well calculated to inspire an educational spirit in those present, and to encourage and strengthen the teachers in their work.

The other speakers mentioned made appropriate addresses which were interspersed with pleasing selections of music rendered by the pupils of the Academy under the leadership of Miss McNeill.

Votes of thanks were tendered to the speakers for the able and instructive manner in which they had entertained the meeting, to the people of Digby for the courteous manner in which they had received the Institute, and to the teachers and the children who had prepared and rendered the excellent music for the evening. The meeting, which closed by all uniting in singing the National Anthem, was one of the most enthusiastic ever held by the Institute.

FEIDAY MORNING SESSION.

FRIDAY MORNING SESSION. Meeting called to order at 9 a. m. Meeting called to order at 9 a. m.
The programme was continued by Miss Laura Mee inger teaching a lesson on the "Metric System" to a class of pupils from the Dighy Academy. The lesson proved considerably interesting, the teacher showing commendable tact and ability as a teacher, which called forth favorable remarks from
Mr. W. M. McVicar and Dr. McKay.
The next was a thoroughly practical paper on "The Present Methods of Teaching and the Description and Value of the School of Agriculture," by Mr. W. S. Phinney.
The writer set forth in the first part of his paper the way in which many schools are The writer set forth in the first part of his paper the way in which many schools are conducted at the present day, and he believed that too much memorising and reciting was done, and not enough real teaching. He then gave an outline of the Agricultural school at Truro, its excellent location, and an account of the work done there, advising all to take at least a short course there under the valuable training of Professor Smith.

Miss Jennie Atchinson followed with a lesson on reading, taking as her subject an extract from the "Deserted Village." Mrs. Atchinson illustrated the manner in which she would teach the ninth grade, and showed not only her thorough acquaintance with her subject, but also her superior ability as a teacher which called forth commendable remarks from Dr. McKsy.

Miss Smith was again asked to favor the institute with another lesson in drawing, which, judging from the deep interest taken in it by all, was highly appreciated. Miss Smith, among other things, explained how teachers could best use the prescribed drawing books, and how to represent by drawing, mountains, plateaux, rivers, etc.

Dr. McKay, whose business could not allow him to stay longer, arose to express his regrets in having to leave. He assured the institute that he never had enjoyed one as well as this. He congratulated Inspector Morse on having such a successful lot of teachers, and in departing left his best wishes for the success of the institute.

Meeting adjourned to meet at 2 p. m.

FEIDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.

Meeting was duly called to order at 2 p. m.
It was opened by Principal McVicar teaching a highly interesting and instructive lesson on the "Geography of Africa." His aim was to throw geography and history together to show how he would teach a lesson on this subject. It is needless to say that Mr. McVicar was at home on his subject, and for three quarters of an hour held the attention of the teachers. Many valuable points on the geography and history of Africa were set forth, and the pleasing and for rible manner in which they were presented could not fail to leave lasting impressions on the minds of all present.

Principal A. Cameron, of Yarmouth Academy, then took up his literature lesson on Tennyson's "Dream of Fair Women." For nearly an hour he entertained the institute in his usual good manner on this subject, the lesson proving one of the most interesting and instructive parts of the programme. A communication was read from Mr. W. T. Kenney, of Halifax, in reference to the Teacher's Union. The constitution of the union was also read. A resolution was passed to the effect that the secretary of the membership.

The financial statement was then rendered FRIDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.

institute be empowered to receive fees for membership.

The financial statement was then rendered and all bills were ordered to be paid.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the Dominion Atlantic and Central railways, and the lnsular Steamship Co. for reduction in rates of travel; to the teachers of Digby whose efforts had helped bring the meeting to a successful issue; to the school commissioners of the town of Digby for the free use of their building, and to Miss Smith, Professor Smith, and Principal Cameron, for their valuable assistance at the meetings of the institute.

An invitation was extended to the institution by Principal McVicar to hold its next meeting at Annapolis, the time for holding such meeting being left in the hands of the Executive Committee.

It was moved, seconded and passed that the thanks of the institute be extended to Inspector Morse for his efforts in bringing the meetings to a successful issue.

Thus closed one of the most interesting, practical and largely attended meetings of the institute, from which much good must surely result to educational affairs in this district.

A Remarkable Case

DOCTORS COULD NOT AGREE AS TO THE TROUBLE.

A NEW BRUNSWICK LADY THE VICTIM-FERED FOR THIRTY YEARS—THE ATTACK CAUSED PARTIAL BLINDNESS AND A FEELING OF SEMI-PARALYSIS.

From the Woodstock, N. B., Sentinel. Mrs. E. P. Ross, of Riley Brook, N. B says:-"I have been a sufferer for thirty years, and I am sure I would still be in the same lamentable condition had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was married at the age of twenty and am now fifty on years old. I had always enjoyed good health until after my first child was born. About a month later the illness attacked me which has since made my life miserable. I consulted different doctors, but they did not agree as to the nature of my trouble. One said it was a species of paralysis, others said symptoms of fits. I would be feeling very well when I would suddenly have a sensation of partial blindness, and everything before me would sparkle. Then my hand and arm on one side would become numb, and after about ten minutes this sensation would pas to my lower limbs, then my tongue would Voices, no matter how close to me, would seem dim and far away. These symptoms would last for about forty minutes. I would

A Word to Boys.

What makes a boy popular? Manliness, says Hezekiah Butterworth in the Ladies Home Journal. The boy who respects his mother has leadership in him. The boy who is careful of his sister is a knight. The boy who will never violate his word, and who will pledge his honor to his own hurt, and change not, will have the confidence of his fellows. The boy who defends the weak will one day become a hero among the strong. The boy who will never hurt the feelings of any one will one day find himself in the atosphere of universal sympathy. Shall I tell you how to become a popular boy? I Be too manly and generous and unselfish to seek to be popular; be the soul of honor, love others better than yourself, and people will give you their hearts, and delight to make you happy. That is what makes a boy popular.

-An illustration of the popularity of the policy of really outlawing the grog shop, is the recent celebration in Cambridge, Mass., over a ten years' experience of prohibition. The bells rang merrily on the morning of Saturday, May 1st, and later meetings were cises were observed in all of the schools. First of all the children were looked out for, because the workers in the cause of no licens in Cambridge believe that it is only through the rising generation that the fight against license can be made more and more suc as the years go by. At one of the factory meetings the Rev. Charles F. Rice, speaking of the results of no license, said that ther has been an increase in material prosperity. Business men have begun to recognize that no license is a blessing. Then again, morality has increased, and while we have not stopped the sale of liquor entirely, all that we can do is to make it hard to do wrong and easy for a man to do right."

Mr. J. B. Armstrong, of Teeswater, Oat. publishes some pertinent remarks on country road making. He says: "I claim that good roads, whether rail or ountry, will do as much to lift a nation into ever." They are not only desirable to improve the appearance of our farms and the country in general, and to give pleasure and enjoyment to the traveling community, but also a necessity to enhance the value of our property, to lessen the cost of marketing our products and thus increase our profits. Every Canadian who has visited Great Britain is highly delighted with the excellent condition in which he found the highways there it is remarkable to a Canadian's eye because of the large amount of rainfall. On the other highway on this side of the deep. The prin hand our Old Country cousins on arrival here, are somewhat disgusted with the Queen's cipal reason for this is that we do our road making by statute labor. As statute labor is here to stay, for some time to come at least, let us by all means in our power try to im prove it. rove it.

In appointing men for path-masters they should, if possible, be only such as have a knowledge of road making; and when that class of men are found they should be re-appointed from year to year. This will not also have a tendency to create a more uniform have a violent pain over the eyes, which road. In some districts good roads have no doubt been built and maintained under the present system, but in a vast number of cases have too often been undone by a change of pathmasters. One of the defects in the present system is the want of uniformity of construction. This could in a great measure be remedied by making the "beats" larger over which path-masters have charge. Councils should enaot rules for path-masters' guidance and assistance, as they are unable or unwilling to say to their nearest neighbors (which in itself is demoralizing) how much gravel should be drawn in one load. Then farmers with a team of colts or lame horses for an exuse would not be permitted to trot off with a quarter of a yard of material, sometimes in box without any end boards, to be scattered along the road, very little reaching the place intended for improvement. The men that are generally appointed pathmasters are those who have the least number of days roadwork to perform; but while this may or may not be right, councils should make it imperative

Path masters after being appointed should lay plans for the improvement of the road over which they have charge, and should ab Williams' Pink Pills. There exists a great difference of opinion among the people as to the proper width of the road bed, but I consider it better to be safe than sorry. I would suggest, therefore, that it be wide enough for any person driv ing a spirited horse to safely encounter a traction engine or even an ordinary bicycle, not saying anything of the electric railways that we hear so much talk about. Municipal councils should inaugarate a system of tile draining to obviate the necessity of carrying off the water by deep ditches, which are not only dangerous but unsightly; and just here I may say that while crowning is necessary still it should not be overdone, and I consider that a rise of one foot on a thirty foot roadway is quite sufficient.

Another benefit undoubtedly is the use of wide tires, as they have a tendency to roll the road rather than cut into it. In conclusion I wish to emphasize the fact that good roads are admitted by all to be a boon to mankind, and therefore our motto should be -"To ever try and improve our country roads."

Cheap Poultry Houses.

The best and most successful plan of management to make fowls pay is to scatter them over a large range in field and orchards. For this purpose cheap, convenient and comfortable h ses are best. Build fowl houses le feet long. 8 feet wide, 74 front, facing south, and 44 back, boarded upright and battened, with a shed roof and shingled. Sills are 2 by 4 inch plank, halved together at corners Plates are of same size, rafters 2 by 2. Lay the sills on sleepers, on these lav a tight floor. which cover with dry earth 4 to 10 inches deep, removing and renewing twice a year. This keeps fowls warm, dry and healthy. Place an entrance door near one end on the front, and at least two windows. Divide in two across the middle. Fix ventilators at the highest point in each end, sheeted to ex clude storm and wind. Erect roosts 20 inches high, for 20 fowls, with a movable nest or two, and boxes partly filled with dust and ashes and you are ready for business. Forty large fowls can be thus accommodated. Sind the house is double, you are in shape to run two breeding houses .- Farm and Home.

Look to Your Wheel.

When your bicycle makes a noise it is a sure sign that something is wrong. The perfect-running machine is noiseless. Loose tools will rattle, and should be so wrapped that they will not be heard from; a jingling sound usually means that spokes have broken loose from their fastenings at crossing points a distinct click indicates spokes loo the rim; what might be termed a jogging noise is usually caused by a loose crank loud snapping almost invaribly comes from a dry chain, and a loose sprocket will thump. No matter what the noise is, or from what the noise is, or from what part of the machine it comes, it indicates trouble tha should be promptly attended to.

The Kousehold.

A few weeks ago, says a correspondent, chanced to meet an old acquaintance whom I had not seen for many years. The sight of his deformity—he is crippled for life, and hobbles about with difficulty—recalled to my mind his sad story, and created a resolve as a warning to thoughtless parents.

This man was born fair and well-formed, This man was born fair and well-formed, attrong, active and healthy. All went well with him until he was some nine or ten nonths old, when he heaven to the transfer of the well with him until he was some nine or ten nonths old, when he heaven to transfer of the well with black. nonths old, when he began to try to creep. Now he should have been put upon the floor to struggle and roll, squirm and kick, and to struggle and roll, squirm and kick, and grow strong in nature's own way; but this in so doing plainly intimate that your huswas not allowed.

Unfortunately his mother and grandmother were both far more neat than wise. They soon found that creeping rumpled and soiled the baby's white dresses. A high-chair was obtained, and into it the squirming, active little body was put, and there securely tied to prevent danger of falling. In vain the legs kicked and the arms wave in the air; there was no more creeping or other natural exercise for them.

Dayafter day this treatment was continu and in time the child became somewhat reconciled to it, sitting quietly in the chair, neat and prim, a constant delight to the eyes of the cleanly mother; but by and by it was thought that the baby ought to walk, and an attempt was made to have him do so.

Alas! the puny little legs were found t s almost helpless; they tottered and bent, and were quite unable to support the weight grow crooked and misshapen from hanging so long and so steadily over the edge of the chair-seat.

Alarmed at length, the mother called argeon to treat the little sufferer. But the are came too late: the mischief was too horoughly done, Various mechanical devices were applied, and at last a painful surgical operation was performed, but all in vain. The distortion grew steadily worse, and though with exercise the child became strong-er and could finally stand and even walk, it was in a crippled manner, pitiful to see.

Does she inquire, then, how she can economize her forces that they may last; how she can burn less fuel, that her little fire of life may burn brightly and long? My answer is, let women try to give to things their true importance. It will make no difference in a week's or a year's time how windows and woodwork look to-day, but it will make a difference whether the children are perfectly difference whether the children are perfectly nourished physically and trained mentally. swore in four languages and began to perspire, "Madam," said he, as he stopped to fas

The Bacteriological Review commends the practice of water drinking in typhoid fever, the importance of subjecting the tissues to an internal bath having, it appears, been prought prominently to the notice of the profession by M. Debove, of Paris, believed by some to have been the first to systematize ach a mode of treatment. The practice of that eminent physician consists, in fact, alost exclusively of water drinking, his reuirement being that the patient take from ive to six quarts of water daily, this amounting to some eight ounces every hour. If the patient subsists chiefly upon a diet of thin gruel, fruit juices or skimmed milk, the ount of liquid thus taken is to be subtracted from the quantity of water. The important thing is to get into the system, and out of it, a sufficient amount of water to prevent the accumulation of ptomaines and oxins within the body. Copious water

How Black Helped With the House Cleaning been having an April cleaning at his house and he volunteered to put up the curtain poles. His wife was in favor of hiring a man but he argued no. He had taken them down and he could put them up, although why he took them down no one could divine. He said he wanted the window casings painted and,

"If you want to squander my money,' said he to Mrs. Black, "go hire some small band knows nothing. If you want your car-pets dragged over and false screwholes in your finish go hire one of 'em. If you want it done easily and right in the family, as it should be, encourage me to do it."

Mrs. Black said that she had intended no covert or implied comparison. She knew, she said, the size of Mr. B.'s hat. Mr. Black looked at her sharply but her countenance were simply an admiring smile.

So Black waited until the baby was put to sleep and he dragged the stepladder out and went to work in the parlor. "Now," said he, "I don't want anyone hanging around or suggesting or bossing or fussing. I'm either to do this or not to do it. If you love me leave me." Mrs. Black went out into the sitting room and was deep in the Journal club column when she heard a grunt and a lurch and a cry for help. She went in and Black was bent up against the top of the window-casing with one foot wound round the other like a twisted doughnut; his nose jammed into the wall and his arms waving for support. All the while the stepladder was slowly but surely moving along the heavy nap of the carpet.

Mrs. Black saw the point and held the ladder, and, climbing up, put Black's foot on it and held him until he twisted around. "Yes," said he, "that was singular. My screwdriver slipped and 1 lost my footing

At any rate, just as he arose to reply scornfully to Mrs. Black, ne forgot that his position was so alevated. He is a good 5 feet, 11 inches in height and he was about five feet in the air and the ceiling is only 9 feet high, and Black arose too far. To be brief, he kept on arising in his dignity after he should have ceased. There was a tremendous whack. Black's head struck that ceiling with a sound like a duck's foot in the mud. His teeth came together with a snap. The plastering jarred. Black gave a yell; lost his balance, slipped; caught imself and fell sidewise. Over went the steps and he landed in the rubber plant and when Mrs. B. pulled him out he had a tuft of rubber plant sticking up behind his ear like a feather in the crown of a Sitting Bull. Mrs. B. picked up the screws and the remnants of the jardiniere; put Mr. Black to bed and bathed his head in "grandfather's liniment." And the next day a tall man with a slightly bald head and a leisurely hired-but-tired look in his face came up and put up the fixtures in one hour and forty-eight minutes.
