It's them kindergartens. They git the kids afore they're old enough to go to school an' fill 'em up with notions so that as soon as they do go to school they break out an' sass the teacher an' go home an' talk back to their mothers—an' keep right on till they git into the police court. An' them there wimmies at the bottom of it all. They orto be spanked—yes, sic!"

WARSHIPS WITH WINGS LATEST

London, March 22.—Details of an entirely new type of seaplane which can either fly or cruise as a warship, have been made public by the Admiralty. They are larger and stronger than any seaplane ever constructed and each will carry a crew of seven with equipment for five machine guns.

THE ARCHBISHOP DOES NOT APPROVE

Objection to Wording of Appeal for Funds for New Church.

Toronto, March 22.—Rev. Father Luster, in a circular appealing for subscriptions from co-religionists in Quebec toward the new loan of Arc Cathedrale church here, said:

"Subscribe to our work. We wish to found a cathedral, both French and religious. We wish to show an example of one of our admirable Quebec parishes in the very centre of Oranienburg and fanatics."

An evening paper quotes Father Luster as explaining the words referring to which was printed in French, and stating Oranienburg and fanaticism in the circular, that no reflection on the people of Toronto was meant.

"You know when you want to get votes you make a strong appeal, and the same when you want to get money," he explained.

"The whole context concerns the subscription to funds for the church. The expression quoted (in the very centre of Oranienburg and fanatics) was used only for purposes of strengthening the appeal. The two words mean that Oranienburg is fanaticism, but that the former does exist here, and as to the latter I have often heard Protestants themselves speak of fanaticism and things said in speeches about the Catholic faith that are believed, but create enthusiasm just the same."

Archbishop McNeil is quoted in an interview by the same paper as saying: "I don't approve of that kind of an appeal, and its publication will only cause further irritation. French, and Father Luster's attention to it, and advise that he is a little more circumspect in future."

VAR ARTIST TELLS AMUSING STORIES OF EXPERIENCES

—Sir William Open's Book of Sketches Published in London—Marshal Haig's Modesty.

London, March 22.—"An Onlooker in France," by Sir William Open, which was published last week, gives, besides a large number of war sketches and portraits of famous warriors, a breezy and unconventional account of his experiences as a war artist. When Sir William was painting Marshal Haig the latter said:

"Why waste your time painting me? Go and paint the men, they're the fellows who are saving the world, and they're getting killed every day."

In August, 1914, Sir William went south to paint Marshal Foch.

"He would certainly sit; how long did I want him? For an hour and a half each day for four or five days? Certainly. When did I wish to start, the next day? Certainly, he would sit from 7 a. m. to 8.30 a. m. for as many mornings as I wished. Might he smoke while he sat? Yes, don't."

During all the time Foch was sitting great battles were going on and the Germans were being driven back.

"News was brought to him about every ten minutes. If it was good, he would say 'bon'; if it was bad, he would make a strange noise by forcing the air out through his lips."

Painting of General Plumer's portrait was enticed by the fears of his batman, that the artist would not do "the governor" justice. Sir William writes:

"When I got the general the way I wanted him, the batman leaned over my shoulder and said: 'Is the governor right now?'"

"Perfectly," I replied.

"No, he ain't," said he, "not by a long chalk," and he went over to the general.

and started pulling out the crosses in his tunic and said: 'Ere, you just sit up proper, not all 'unched up the way you are. What would her ladyship say if I let you be painted that way?'"

After the armistice Sir William was summoned to Paris to paint the Peace Conference. This is his impression of the scene at the Quai d'Orsay.

"For a seat I was usually perched up on a window sill. It was amusing to sit there and listen to Clemenceau, Le Tigre, putting the fear of death into the delegates of the smaller nations if they talked too long. President Wilson occasionally rose and spoke of love and forgiveness. Lloyd George just went on working, his secretaries constantly rushing up to him, whispering and departing only to return for more whispers."

Mr. Balfour, whose personality made all the other delegates look common, "would quietly sleep."

How other sitters impressed the artist is related with candor. Balfour came for a sitting at about 12.15 p. m.

"He was sound asleep by 12.35 p. m. but woke up sharp at 1 p. m., and left for lunch."

President Wilson "was very genial and sat well, but even then he was very nervous and twitchy. He told endless stories, mostly harmless and some witty."

"The Corn Gems you said were the best you had ever eaten, were made with a tablespoonful and a half of Crown Brand Syrup, instead of sugar."

ALL LIFE INSURANCE RECORDS BROKEN

The Metropolitan Had Its Greatest Year in 1920 and Leads the World in Assets, in New Business, and in Amount of Outstanding Insurance.

The annual report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on the business of 1920 shows that the new business placed on the books broke all previous records in the world. Neither the great amount of new insurance taken out, nor the percentage of lapses indicate depression in the business or industrial world. The amount placed in the United States and Canada was $1,651,950,151, which is a gain of more than two hundred and fifty million dollars, as compared with the previous year.

The income and assets increased proportionately, the income for the year being $268,519,770, and the assets making a gain of $116,010,262 for a total of $860,915,037. Dividends have been declared, payable to policy-holders in 1921, amounting to $10,819,869, of which $6,961,261 is to holders of industrial policies.

The number of policies outstanding at the end of the year was 23,999,987. The number increased in 1920 by 2,159,293. Claims were paid on 312,689 policies, an average of one every twenty-eight seconds for each business day of eight hours. The amount paid to policy-holders in claims, matured endowments, dividends, etc., was $31,337,393, or an average of $536.88 a minute for every business day of eight hours. Group insurance amounted to $214,547,572.

The company placed new business in Canada during 1920 amounting to $123,016,745, of which $48,484,114 was industrial. This is the largest amount ever placed in Canada by any company in any one year. The company closed the year 1920 with a total of $467,997,217 in force in Canada.

In 1920 the Metropolitan paid Canadian policy-holders $4,800,646.12. The work for improved health among Canadians was continued. Metropolitan nurses, in co-operation with The Victorian Order of Nurses, made 187,845 free visits to sick industrial policy-holders in Canada during the year and distributed 2,680,000 pieces of health literature. The confidence of the people of the dominion in the financial strength of the company and in the desirability of its policies is indicated by the fact that the number of policies in force in the dominion is 1,874,478. The company's investments in Canada are over $62,000,000.

Old Couple Defy Confiscation in Housing Shortage

Two old people have installed themselves in a wooden hut at Crays-hill, Essex, and the Billericay Rural Council, being of the opinion that the building is not a habitable one, they have decided that the couple must go, says an English dispatch.

SPAIN MAKING OWN CARS

Madrid, Spain, March 21.—The Spanish state railway administration invited bids some months ago for 3,500 railroad cars and several hundred locomotives. Spanish firms submitted the lowest bids and it is the first time such large orders have been placed with native companies.

each day to and from work, is indignant, and in a letter read at the council meeting asks: "Am I living under Magna Charta or in a reign of terror?"

"I have been forced to lie under my present conditions," he says, "because of the council's neglect to carry out their duties under the Housing Act, and I object to interference with people doing their best to provide their own accommodation."

The surveyor said when the old people got their bed in there was not much room left. They brought the hut down on a wagon, and slept in it the same night.

They have been given a month to find another home, but they say they will not leave without a fight.

QUEBEC SERVICES ON THE PRESENT TIME

Quebec, March 22.—His Eminence Cardinal Beaudry has written to Mayor Samson, stating that whatever the decision of the city council is regarding daylight saving it was the intention of the authorities of the Catholic church here not to change the time of the services and masses in the churches of the diocese.

Paris, March 21.—Paris hotels and restaurants are now officially allowed to serve meals of more than two courses, the last of the war restrictions have been thus removed.

REFORESTATION.

The comparative rapidity with which nature will restore timber growth is shown by experience of Wm. Keppy of Magnetawan, Ontario.

"Spruce trees planted on my place thirty years ago," Mr. Keppy said, "have since reached a height of forty feet and a diameter of a foot to sixteen inches. This was the result of artificial planting. It is surprising, though, what nature will do if left alone. A portion of our farm, unsuited to agricultural purposes, burned over twenty-eight years ago, is now thickly covered with spruce, balsam and pine, many of the trees twenty-five feet high."

GERMANY MAY NOT GET ALL OF UPPER SILESIA

Poland May Retain Portions Which Voted Polish, is French Opinion.

Paris, March 22.—In French official circles keen disappointment is expressed over reports from Upper Silesia, saying that Germany will retain the district as a result of Sunday's plebiscite, but the officials do not yet admit the area is lost to Poland. They say that the reports of the plebiscite were unofficial and came mostly from Berlin. It was said that in the event of the majority of the vote being German the territory probably would be divided, leaving to Poland those places which voted Polish.

Stress was placed by French officials on the agricultural vote, which it is hoped will prove to be largely Polish, but it was conceded the towns had voted German.

Oppell, March 22.—Disorders are reported at Bethuen, where the closeness of the vote has led to discord and charges of fraud. There has been some shooting reported.

A Sharp Speaker.

Mrs. Sheridan, a beautiful young sculptor who recently went to Russia and made busts of Lenin, Trotsky and other Bolshevik leaders, succeeded particularly well with her bust of Trotsky. Mrs. Sheridan, who was Miss Moreton-Freeman before her marriage, said at a dinner party:

"Trotsky, you know, is famous for his sharp speeches. When I exhibited his bust in Petrograd a lady said to Lenin: 'What a likeness! You can see the quiver on his lips.'"

"The Steam Coal of Salesmanship"

Man, by taking thought, cannot add a cubit to his stature.

But he can by thought, and by concerted action on accurate conclusions, do much to add growth and give rejuvenation to his business, particularly in these times.

On the high seas of business, with a fair wind aft and the barometer steady, progression is an easy matter.

In heavy seas and against a headwind, the consumption of fuel must be greater. Then he should pile on the Steam Coal of Salesmanship—Daily Newspaper Advertising.

Then is the time to crowd on steam—to use Daily Newspaper Advertising with the greatest degree of confidence.

The Daily Newspaper is the medium of the moment—the axis of opportunity; flexible, powerful and instantaneous in its ability to create Sales.

Advice as to the best ways and means of doing this will be given to those who inquire of us; or consult any recognized advertising agency—a list supplied on request.

Issued by Canadian Daily Newspapers Association. Head Office, Toronto.

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., TUESDAY, MARCH 22, 1921

The Evening Times and Star

The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury Street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by The St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

THE PUBLIC HOSPITAL

Dr. W. E. Rowley made out so strong a case for enlargement and improvement of the public hospital, in his address before the Rotary Club yesterday that there can be no plea in opposition except that the city is too poor to provide for the hospital needs of the citizens.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

"If Canada is to keep up in the commercial race, the technical school accommodation must be increased within the next ten years at least to equality with the present high school accommodation."

The Times desires to direct special attention to the fact that of 60,524 students enrolled in vocational classes in Canada last year no less than 51,227 were in evening classes, and only 9,312 in day classes.

The Dominion director sees the need of better provision for trained teachers, and endorses the request of the New Brunswick and other provincial vocational boards that there should be a federal training school established through the co-operation of all the provinces.

GET BUSY ON THIS

St. John should unite with Halifax and Charlottetown in a determined protest against the scheme to amalgamate the offices of railway mail service and post office inspector's staff under one central head with headquarters in Moncton.

The Standard says there would be reduction in the staff and that quite a number of men would have to seek new jobs. There is no evidence to show that there would be any reduction in the staff, but undoubtedly many who are up in years would be compelled to leave the service.

It is said the whole scheme has been nipped out, even to the choice of the Nova Scotia official who would be the new chief of staff, and that it has been planned to effect the change at the end of this month. The people of St. John should get busy at once. The Commercial Club has already taken up the matter with Ottawa, and registered a strong objection in behalf of the citizens. Replies have been received from the premier, postmaster-general and Mr. Elkin. These answers give no assurance that the contemplated injustice will not be perpetrated, and further protests should go forward to back up that of the Commercial Club.

TIME FOR A CHANGE

The Telegraph's report of the meeting of the school board last evening says: "Due to the failure of the committee on kindergartens to submit any recommendation as the result of their meeting last Friday, the minutes of that meeting were read. They showed that a delegation of teachers of primary grades had appeared to oppose the incorporation of the kindergartens in the school system. Dr. Bridges said that his sister who was engaged all her life in primary school administration, reported that kindergartens were of small educational value."

The board went on record as being opposed to the adoption of the free kindergartens in the schools. Dr. Bridges stated he and the primary teachers who had reported on the matter were absolutely opposed to kindergartens in the schools. The existing kindergartens were detrimental to discipline in the primary departments of the schools.

Mr. Lloyd George sees in the attitude of the British labor party a menace to Great Britain. He said last week: "They are issues of such magnitude, they are issues which are threatening to the whole fabric of society. It is folly to quarrel about trivialities when you are confronted with issues of that character. I read the other day a newspaper which is subsidized by this party. This is what they say: 'No reform, no mere nominal preservation of even advanced money wages in a particular industry or locality will ultimately affect the issue. Capitalism means the beating down of the poor into further poverty, and labor will have to face this unless it goes out to overthrow capitalism.'"

It is said that some ten years ago, on motion of Ald. Frink, the city council voted to increase the salary of the police magistrate six hundred dollars, but nothing came of it. The magistrate has given thirty-two years service and the question of increasing his salary or giving him a suitable retiring allowance comes up every year. Is it not time the council settled the matter one way or the other?

The question as to who should or should not be admitted as visitors to the children's ward in the hospital should be decided solely in the interests of the child. It is there to be cured if possible, and should not be submitted to the feelings of anybody. If visits are helpful they should be permitted, but not otherwise.

NEW ONES TO BE MOST POWERFUL

Camden, N. J., March 22.—The super-dreadnaught Colorado was launched here today at the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Company, with her sister ship, the Maryland. The new vessels will rank as the most powerful United States war craft.

MOTHER

Edmund Leamy in New York Sun. Two bright eyes in the night time And a word in a kiddie's ear, The touch of her lips in the darkness And banished the tiny fear.

Pain, the sorrows of childhood And the hurt of a tiny one, And arms that are ready to shelter To prove that it all was fun; Aye, ready and eager to shelter, Nor waited till hurt was done.

Heart of gold and of sunshine, And as kind as the drifting day, And dreams that were deep as the heavens To bend to her simple sway The love of the little ones found her, And make for the child hours play.

Ever, ever the vision Through the weary long years between— The mother's dear eyes in the darkness Ah, then is the pain so keen? And oh, it is sweet in the workwood To know that her eyes have seen.

Lighter Reven. When Lars Meek. "You love my daughter?" said the old man. "Love her," he exclaimed passionately. "Why I don't mind telling you, I would hug myself from yonder cliff and perch—a broad mass upon the rocks 300 feet below."

The Real Thing. As two friends were conversing an old college professor passed them in the street. "The professor is a wonderful man," one of them remarked. "He's a great mathematician and boasts that he can figure out any problem."

No Use to Owner. Advertisement in a country newspaper, according to the Boston Transcript: "For sale, a second hand automobile, slightly used. Great bargain for a family of the name of Duffy."

Discouraging. Wife—I want you to sew today to get some new dresses, a hat, and a pair of boots. What's the weather forecast? Husband—Rain, hail, sleet, frost and thunderstorms.

"THE GIRL FROM NOWHERE" HAS GOOD RECEPTION. F. Stuart Whyte Presents New Musical Revue to Full House at the Imperial.

The fanciful dream of a store detective who fell asleep at the switch and wandered into the San Francisco district of California was taken by F. Stuart Whyte and woven into a new revue, "The Girl From Nowhere." The cast, presented to a packed house at the Imperial last evening. Several song numbers transplanted from London hits of the war period were sandwiched in between several new songs, dances and brief dialogues, the whole resolving itself into a not particularly brilliant but interesting piece of a revue and a musical comedy.

The piece is in two acts with a dozen numbers each. "The Girl From Nowhere" which ran through the show is a catchy song and "As You Sow" sung by Miss Clinton was a dainty number. The scenery was splendid, especially in the last act when two California scenes were represented. Costumes were attractive and the Imperial orchestra rendered the musical accompaniment in excellent style. The Girl from Nowhere will be repeated this afternoon and this evening.

WHAT'S YOUR HURRY

A Chat By G. A. Hodgson, Head of Ontario Motor League.

"Many accidents happen because people have not the point of view of other users of the roadway," said G. A. Hodgson, the 1920 president of the Ontario Motor League and a member of the executive committee of the Ontario Safety League. "If the motorist could get the pedestrian's point of view, and the pedestrian the motorist's point of view, I am satisfied there would be fewer accidents and fatalities. Each should respect those rights. We need throughout the whole country a campaign of safety with a new slogan, 'Courtesy First.'"

"Motorists pressed for years for increased speeds were finally granted a speed of twenty miles in the open country and twenty-five in the open country. If it can be shown that this speed is a direct factor in causing accidents, organized motorists would be the first to ask for a reduction of the speed limit. Statistics show that most automobile accidents happen when the speed is less than fifteen miles an hour, so that speed is not really a factor in these accidents. Safety education is the great thing; people must be shown that accidents can be prevented and that a better spirit of co-operation between all classes will bring about a real improvement in the situation. If a person alighting from a standing street car sees a motor approaching he should not take it for granted that the automobile will stop because of the law on the subject. It is within the bounds of possibility that the driver of the motor may not have his car under proper control and the law will not stop a skidding automobile. On the other hand, it is up to the drivers to study the situation continually in the street and be ready to stop the regulation six feet behind standing street cars. I am also opposed to the practice of some motorists of using the automobile horn as a form of harsh warning to 'get out of the way.' This has often the effect of making the pedestrian assert his rights, and again we have the unnecessary feeling of antagonism and the lack of co-operation."

"I regret," continued Mr. Hodgson, "that all motorists are not responsible drivers. I believe that the organized motorists are careful users of our highways and they will support all reasonable legislation. The existing regulations brought about in the interest of safety. I feel satisfied that the pedestrian will have to be regulated in the congested areas where large cities, as traffic must be kept moving safely. The pedestrian who crosses at intersections and refuses to cross between blocks is helping to keep down the accident toll."

"Playgrounds taken largely into the hands of the ecclesiastics and I am sure the firm opinion that money spent on playgrounds is money well invested. I am strongly in favor of the idea of setting apart certain streets as play areas at certain times of the day. The average child playing heedlessly on a playground develops the idea that streets are safe, and it is against human nature to think a child will play in the street. The idea of setting apart streets as safe, and it is against human nature to think a child will play in the street. The idea of setting apart streets as safe, and it is against human nature to think a child will play in the street."

"Automobile fatalities in 1920 totalled six thousand, four hundred and thirty-seven. This figure can be cut by seventy-five per cent. in 1921 if people will co-operate with this end in view. We are told that three-quarters of the fatal accidents happened to children. I tell you no legislation in the land will control the child and make him responsible. The shock is no less severe if it is the child's fault. Every driver of a vehicle must use good judgment when driving on the road or even when they are likely to be there."

"Again, I think the press is a big factor in this matter of co-operation. For motor fatalities gets a seven-column headline. 'Another Automobile Fatality.' The news may bring in a true picture but when the case goes before the courts and all the evidence is brought out, the motorist is usually exonerated, and the papers give this news a few lines. If the papers would show when the pedestrian is at fault and when the motorist is at fault, this publicity would do a great deal towards wiping out much of the existing ill-feeling between pedestrians and motorists. I am both a motorist and a pedestrian and I believe I can speak for both in making my plea for co-operation."

"Finally, I want to point out to you the vital importance of town planning in connection with street accidents. For instance, Toronto, with a population of 600,000, with more than 30,000 motor cars, with thousands of wagons and trucks, has narrow roadways designed for the traffic of fifty years ago. A city with narrow streets breeds traffic accidents unless drastic action is taken. I believe we shall come to the question of taking the street cars off certain main thoroughfares and laying one-way street-car lines on other streets. Above everything, though, may I plead with you for your co-operation in this question of preventing accidents, and let me bespeak your hearty support of the Safety League's campaign."

AH FOO KEEPS HIS WORD—DO YOU? (O. C. Roach in Forbes' Magazine, New York). Throughout the east one often hears the statement made that, until the advent of the Christians, no Chinaman knew how to tell a lie. Whether this is so or not, the fact remains that the word of a high-class Chinaman is accepted at its face value throughout the world that knows him. So high is the Chinaman's reputation for honesty in his business dealings that in the east it is not uncommon for a Chinese to borrow money from banks conducted by Europeans without signing a note. The first instance of delinquency by a Chinaman under such circumstances is yet to be recorded.

The story of "Ah Foo," a Chinese laundry man, with its interesting sequel, typifies the Chinaman's idea of a contract, and the esteem in which he is held by those who know him. Several years ago the manager of a trans-Pacific steamship company received the following letter from one of his captains: "Dear Sir,—The matter of the ship's laundry is one that I have thought for some time to bring to your attention. For one reason or another it has slipped my mind when writing to you. Several of us captains have discussed the question and think you should be acquainted with the conditions without any further delay. When the company first started trading across the Pacific they made an agreement with Ting Fao, the ship's laundry man at Shanghai to do all the company's washing for a fixed price. Since then, an account of the increase in the number and size of the ships, the laundry is many times larger than when this agreement was first made; yet Ting Fao's son, Ah Foo, is still doing it at the same price as in the original agreement. It would seem that he must be losing money on the work. "At the same time we would like to record the very satisfactory manner in which Ah Foo has carried out his contract, as well as the fact that, in its history, there has never been, to the best of our belief, any complaint concerning the work."

The manager wrote the company's representative at Shanghai, requesting him to see Ah Foo and make an equitable arrangement so that the company would pay standard rates for the laundry and Ah Foo would be assured his legitimate profit. The Shanghai agent sent for Ah Foo, who appeared with his son. The matter was explained to him and he was asked to name a price that would be agreeable to him. Drawing himself up, Ah Foo asked: "Is the company dissatisfied with my work?"

To which the agent replied: "On the contrary, they are so pleased with your services that they wish to make an arrangement that will be as satisfactory to you as it is to them." Ah Foo answered: "When this contract was made with my father he brought me to the company's office, as I now bring my son, and he told me, as you now tell my son, the work will be done at this price so long as the company is pleased to give us its laundry." With that he bowed himself out, and the incident was closed.

Be Suspicious of Tender Gums Be suspicious of any tenderness or bleeding of the gums. This is usually the first stage of Pyorrhea—an insidious disease of the gums that destroys the teeth and undermines bodily health. Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame, then shrink, thus exposing the unenameled tooth-base to the ravages of decay. Tiny openings in the gums form gateways for disease germs to enter the system. Medical science has traced many ills to these infecting germs in the gums weakened by Pyorrhea. They are now known to be a frequent cause of indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism and other serious conditions. So watch carefully for that first tenderness or bleeding of the gums. Try Forhan's immediately. It positively prevents Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) if used in time and used consistently. And in preventing Pyorrhea—it guards against other ills. Forhan's (For the Gums) cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps them white and clean. If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes in Canada and U.S. If your druggist cannot supply you, send price to us direct and we will mail tube postpaid. Legislation to Encourage Building Discussed by Municipal County Committee—Other Bills For Legislature.

A meeting of the bills committee of the municipal council was held yesterday afternoon in the office of the county secretary when various bills to be presented to the legislature were considered. Those present were Councillor O'Brien, chairman; Councillors Jones, Bullock, Schofield, Donovan, Golding, Campbell and Mosher and the secretary, J. King Kelley. The various sections of a bill relating to a municipal building for the city and county of St. John was considered section by section but no action was taken, further consideration being stood over until later in the week.

Another bill considered was that enabling the city and county of St. John to borrow money against taxes which had been levied. The bill also authorizes the General Public Hospital, Municipal Home and other public institutions within the county to borrow money up to eighty per cent. of the amount of assessment levied for their support.

A bill relating to the rates and taxes in the parish of Lancaster would authorize the parish to collect $3 for every horse in the parish. It also calls for the payment of a motor fee to the parish equal to one-third of the fee paid to the provincial government. The fees are to be used for highway maintenance and the bill contains clauses exacting penalties for non-compliance with the act.

An act was considered which would give the municipal council power at any general meeting to issue bonds to pay for improvements to the General Public Hospital, which may be made from time to time. This would mean a change in the present act. The council would also have the power at the time of issue of such bonds to fix the denomination, period to run and rate of interest.

An act which was read but not considered was one relating to exemption from taxation of new buildings planned for dwelling purposes in the municipality. The act would give the council power, by resolution, to exempt any rates and taxes, except local school rates, on new buildings for dwelling purposes, with the exception of hotels, until January 1, 1934. The exemption would not exceed $6,000 for a single family house; $12,000 for a double family house, and for a multi-

WOMEN'S RIGHTS AND MEN'S WRONGS

Divergent Views Expressed in Joint Debate at Brooklyn Academy.

New York, March 22.—Soft moonlight, breath of promise suits, alimony, millinery, clothing bills and other accoutrements of courtship, marriage and divorce, were discussed from divergent viewpoints at the Academy of Music in a debate on the question: "Have women's rights brought man's wrongs?" The Rev. William Carter, married pastor of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, braved the indignation of about 800 women, making up eighty per cent. of the audience, to argue the question, from the standpoint of the downtrodden male, while Miss Sarah Stephenson, borough secretary of Brooklyn, confident in the support of the majority, took the other side.

Dr. Carter dared to say some very strong things about women, remarks that elicited many murmurs of disapproval. The feminine contingent at the meeting fairly gasped when he told them that they haven't half the rights they used to have, and referred to the Roman woman Vestalia, who divorced ten men in one month, thereby establishing a world's record as a fast worker, which even Henry VIII had been powerless to equal.

"The man pays for a mistake made under a soft moon," he continued coolly. "Either he is sued for breach of promise, or if he marries he invites alimony which is never outlawed and is better than a Liberty bond."

"Women are never satisfied with being equal. A majority of women believe in having super-rights. She has been set on a pedestal by man to be endorsed by him. She has been lifted to such a height that man is not her equal."

There was another flutter when Dr. Carter said that whenever a man had entered woman's field he had excelled her. "Where do you go for a good meal?" he asked. "You go to a man chef. Even a woman, to get a good hat, has to go to a man modist. We have men butlers and men valets, and in everything a man excels a woman, except one—nursing."

Miss Stephenson, at the outset, quoted Genesis to prove that the earth has originally been given equally to man and woman.

Why man should prefer a clinging vine was more than Miss Stephenson could understand. She said that she was for the fifty-fifty basis of dividing the husband's earnings.

Take a Vote on Pies

Take a vote on pies in your home and you'll make mostly raisin pies. For this is the pie that men think most delicious.

Raisins furnish 1560 units of energizing nutriment per pound. They are 75 per cent pure fruit-sugar in practically predigested form.

So the nutriment of raisin pie is almost immediately assimilated.

Raisins are rich in iron also, which brings the bloom of youth to women's and children's cheeks. When you eat raisins you eat a "beauty food" as well as one that's healthful.

Try raisin pie tonight. You'll never have to ask men what pie they like thereafter. Every first-class baker has this pie, or if you wish to make it yourself, we publish here the tested recipe for the chief of pies.

AS MANY TECHNICAL AS HIGH SCHOOLS

Canada's Need, Says Professor Gill—A Year's Record

New Brunswick Used Only $4,561 Out of $89,897 Available—Out of 60,546 Students in Canada 51,827 are in Evening Classes—Striking Facts.

(Special to The Times) On March 22—The Canada is up in the commercial race, technical school accommodation increased within the next at least to equality with the school accommodation says the report to the department of technical education. The statistics also show that the total amount of technical school accommodation available for the year ending June 30, 1921, is $89,897. Out of this amount only $4,561 was actually used. The report also shows that 51,827 students are in evening classes in technical schools in Canada.

The report also deals with the difficulty of securing properly qualified teachers. Institutions which are equipped to train teachers for ordinary educational work are of no use for this purpose. An institution equipped and staffed for this purpose is needed. Professor Gill says that Ontario and Quebec are financially able to establish such an institution but that the cost would be too onerous for other provinces. Therefore he recommends a federal institution for the whole of Canada established through the cooperation of all the provinces.

Of the $700,000 available for distribution to the provinces under the technical education act only $278,757.99 was utilized. Ontario used $111,751 out of a possible $224,380, Quebec $93,710 out of a possible $180,190, New Brunswick $4,561 out of $89,897, Nova Scotia $14,079 out of $147,880, Prince Edward Island $10,000 out of $17,000 and so on for the other provinces. There are 189 vocational schools in Canada, twelve day, nine-eight evening, and twenty-three day and evening. There are 1810 teachers including 864 day, 1,428 evening and three correspondence. The pupils enrolled total 60,546; 9,519 day 51,827 evening and 207 correspondence. The New Brunswick vocational board in the course of an exhaustive and revealing report of development in its province especially speaks enthusiastically of the benefit of evening schools, stating its belief that "an evening school should be established in every community in New Brunswick." It also recommends that localities should be reimbursed for outlay on capital account for vocational education, using 25 per cent of Dominion grant for that purpose. It suggests that soldiers' civil re-establishment department equipment should be made available for educational purposes on favorable terms, and that increased aid should be given on the salaries of vocational teachers out of Dominion grants available.

THE HOSPITAL

Several Resolutions Passed Last Night by Board—Increased Insurance—More Comfort for Patients.

An adjourned meeting of the commissioners of the General Public Hospital was held last evening, with M. E. Assey in the chair. A letter from Dr. W. W. G. A. B. Addy and Dr. A. L. Davidson, Dr. Davidson being appointed as a resolution was passed that the commissioners deemed it inadvisable to make any change in the rules and that the work should be taken up by the other members of the staff. The report of the insurance committee was received and adopted. It showed that $26,000 additional insurance had been placed on the new nurses' home, bringing the total amount of insurance up to $125,000. A bill for $801, for use of a room by one of the early graduates of the hospital who had been ill and died, was ordered remitted as it was the custom to extend the course of the hospital to graduates. A letter from the Colwell Fuel Company, asking for a share of the coal business of the institution, was received and the coal question discussed. As this company has never been given any business and as the coal offered them when analyzed showed high quality the superintendent had ordered 100 tons from them. He was authorized to order an additional 100 tons and it is probable that further supplies will be purchased by tender. While the coal discussion was on it was shown that it cost the local institution $17,000 for fuel last year, while the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, about the same size as the St. John hospital, spent $27,000 for the same purpose. The local hospital burns about three tons a day in the summer and from seven to ten tons in the winter.

Recommendations. A comprehensive report was received from J. King Kelley, the visiting commissioner for February. He made several recommendations for improvements. The first section made recommendations as to certain changes in compiling statistics in regard to chronic and acute cases. The section was adopted after a lengthy discussion. It was decided to adopt the recommendation that patients be furnished writing materials and some one detailed to write letters for those unable to do so.

Mrs. McLellan drew attention to the fact that Dr. Abramson was using the food refrigerator for the storing of serums and cultures. It was shown that there was no danger of infection from this source. The matter was discussed at some length and consideration was given to the construction of a separate refrigerator for the laboratory but no action was taken.

nurse was made responsible that this is carried over to the Hospital Aid now do some of this but it was pointed out that some of the patients would be confined to nurses and those in authority in certain matters. The recommendation that visitors be excluded from the children's ward raised a vigorous discussion. Mrs. McLellan and others taking strenuous exception to the exclusion of mothers from their children. Mr. Kelley had retarded the recovery of the child and also said that visitors were a means of contagion. In all the best regulated hospitals, he said, such a rule was in effect. It was finally decided that this section be laid on the table until after the report of the visiting committee, which will be made next month, is received. The recommendation that printed forms be furnished to patients for the making of complaints was adopted. It was thought that this would have the effect of improving the service. The recommendation that a suction fan to gather fumes of cooking food and other odors from the kitchen be installed, was referred to the house committee to report back. The recommendation that both robes and slippers for men and children be supplied was adopted. The recommendation that a number of chemical fire extinguishers be installed without delay in the nurses' home was referred to the house committee with power to act. The noise of faulty radiators was also referred to the house committee with power to act. A recommendation that a campaign be instituted to do away with unnecessary noise in the hospital was adopted. IN PARLIAMENT

Sharp Debate On Resolution For Grant to Help All Thrifty Own Homes.

Ottawa, March 22.—(Canadian Press)—Yesterday in the House of Commons, the premier announced that a slackening of immigration restrictions was being considered by the cabinet. First reading was given a bill amending the dominion elections act. Sharp debate on a resolution moved by H. C. Hocken of Toronto West, to appropriate $10,000,000 annually for five years in order to enable "every industrious, thrifty and thrifty citizen to become the owner, in fee simple, of a house and lot." There was a divergence of opinion. No action was taken, and the debate was adjourned. When the House resumed in the evening, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux moved his resolution to permit cabinet ministers to sit in both houses. Rep. Hon. Arthur Meighen said he foresaw constitutional difficulties. The question should be thoroughly discussed in both houses of parliament and in the press. The resolution was finally withdrawn by its mover. The senate did not sit. Today in parliament, estimates of the departments of trade and commerce, labor and interior will be taken up. Replies to Questions. Replying to a question by J. F. Johnston (Unionist, Lost Mountain), R. H.

Hon. Arthur Meighen said the government did not contemplate legislation amending the present immigration laws with a view to improving conditions on the government railways.

Mr. Meighen was told by the prime minister that it was not the practice for commissions on the tariff to submit a report. The minister of finance would probably inform the house when the budget was brought down as to the information gathered.

Operating expenses of the Grand Trunk Railway during 1920 were fully met by current revenue, according to information brought down in the house.

Directors who compose the board of management of the Canadian National Railways were paid $18,000 in fees, plus traveling expenses to and from their homes during 1920, according to a return tabled today.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie introduced a bill amending the statutes relating to corrupt practices at elections. He explained that the amendment had to do with technical wording. The bill was given first reading.

Further grants under the Dominion housing scheme of 1919 were advocated by W. C. MacQuarrie (New Westminster), who read a memorandum from the G. W. V. A. of this city urging such action.

CHANGE PLANS AS TENDERS HIGH

Musquash Hydro Power Plant Alterations—Mr. Kensit's Data.

The tenders for the erection of the power house for the hydro-electric development at Musquash were so much in excess of the estimated cost that it was decided that the plans should be revised, so C. O. Foss, chief engineer of the N. B. Electric Power Commission, said this afternoon. Accordingly, the plans are now in the hands of the consulting engineers, the Mitchell Brothers of Toronto, who are making alterations in the plans which will reduce the cost. Amongst the prospective changes is the movement of the whole building about five feet down stream to reduce the amount of excavation, a reduction in the amount of the excavation in the tailrace, and a change in other minor details, none of which, however, will affect the power capacity of the plant. The tender for the transmission line has not yet been passed by the government.

Mr. Foss said that the report of H. E. M. Kest, who was in the city for the last few weeks investigating the cost of steam-produced power, would include not only this data but also a tabulated statement of the power produced in the city, whether by electricity or steam. Mr. Kest before he left St. John said that this city was in a much more advantageous position to handle hydro than Calgary was, and yet the electric power development was practically the making of the western city.

TRUE BILL IN GEO. DREW CASE

Court House Thronged; Door is Smashed

Nearin Case Not Passed Upon at Morning Session of Circuit Court—Judge Crockett's Address to Grand Jury.

A true bill was found by the grand jury this morning at the opening session of the circuit court. His Honor Judge Crockett, presiding, in the case against George Drew, charged with a criminal assault on Evelyn Northrup, on December 29, 1920, in a colonist car in the C. N. R. yard near City road. It will be remembered that the case where the accused is alleged to have given Pearl and Evelyn Northrup a ride on a city car, and a short time afterwards the little girls returned to their homes and told their mother of what had happened. An investigation was made by the police and the street of the accused followed, and at the conclusion of the preliminary examination in the police court he was sent up for trial.

The circuit court opened this morning in the court room, Germain street, and an indictment preferred against William Nearin was also dealt with, but a decision in this will not be reached until late this afternoon. An immense crowd thronged the hallway, and the court room was filled to its capacity, but the constables were successful in keeping back the crowd; and, as there was no chance to hear, they finally dispersed, but not before a glass door was smashed as a result of the constant surging which took place.

The members of the grand jury elected W. P. Hatfield foreman. The judge in his charge instructed them as to their duties. He said he regretted it was necessary to place before the jury cases of such a serious nature. He said the first bill was against George Drew, and it contained two counts, the first of which charged the accused with criminal assault on Evelyn Northrup, and the second charged the accused criminally assaulting Evelyn Northrup, a girl under fourteen years of age. He said in the first count the jury must be satisfied that there was no consent and that the act was committed, but in the second count even consent was not necessary and it was only for them to find whether the alleged offence had been committed according to the evidence. He said that the duties of the grand jury was not to render a verdict, but to say whether there was evidence enough to warrant placing him on his trial before a petty jury. The judge reviewed the evidence taken on the preliminary examination and said that in his opinion there was abundance of evidence to warrant a true bill.

The next case dealt with were two bills preferred against William Nearin, charged with criminal assault on Jennie Morris, aged eight, and Beatrice Morris, aged ten. In reviewing the evidence His Honor read the evidence of doctors in the case which showed a shocking condition. When the jury retired it was found that Evelyn Northrup was in the hospital suffering from scarlet fever and could not be present to give evidence, as the evidence of Dr. F. J. Dunlop was taken, which showed that the little girl was ill.

Detective Power stated that he was present and heard the evidence of the child at the preliminary examination and the accused was also present. The positions of the child were then allowed to be read before the jury. The little girl's girls were examined and the judge said he did not consider that they knew the value of an oath, so their statements were taken but were not sworn to, and it will be necessary that their evidence be corroborated in some material particular.

This concluded the criminal docket, and after the grand jury had been out after fifty minutes they returned, and the foreman announced that a true bill had been found against Drew. The court then adjourned for recess. The following is the docket:

Criminal Cases.
The King vs. George Drew, criminal assault.
The King vs. William Nearin, criminal assault.
Non-Jury.
Carmichael vs. Bowes—M. G. Teed, K. C.
The Royal Bank of Canada vs. Ready's Beverages, Ltd.—L. P. D. Tilley, K. C.
Globe Insurance Co. vs. Downey—P. R. Taylor, K. C.
Normandine vs. Wilson Chemical Co.—J. H. A. Patwardhan, K. C.
The jury considered the case of William Nearin this afternoon. It is expected the first case taken up will be The King vs. Drew. Nearin is defended by Scott E. Morrell, while the court will appoint a counsel to defend Drew.

BETTER RESPONSE

Mayor Now Has $140 Available to Carry on the Work of the Soup Kitchens.

A generous response is being made by local citizens to the master's appeal for capital for the soup kitchens. This morning His Worship received $25 from F. C. Beattay and $8 from S. Kerr, while the $10 received from "A Helper" yesterday, makes $40 in cash now in the mayor's hands. The mayor also received a telephone message from a citizen in which he said that he was sending $100 along to be used in this connection, but he asked that his name be not mentioned.

Mayor Schofield said this morning that the ready response guaranteed that the kitchens would be kept open until conditions in the labor situation were improved.

THE BUSINESS COLUMN EDITED BY MANSFIELD F. HOUSE

One Glance at Kelly and the Suit is Sold

"Where's Kelly?" "He's somewhere here in Kelly's." That's the way they pay Kelly in the Hilltop Co. clothing store at Forty-third street and Broadway, in New York, one of the new enterprises that recently took possession of the old Waldorf Hotel bar and proceeded to sell exclusive decorations almost as fast as the men in white aprons used to deliver inferior ones on the same spot.

"Kelly is something more than a salesman at the Hilltop store. He is the strictly modern version of a huckster, a first-class huckster, and he makes his money in a different way from the men in white aprons used to deliver inferior ones on the same spot.

"When a woman comes into the Hilltop store the salesman sells the woman rather than the man, even though the man must wear the trousers, and the woman like a suit it won't stay sold, and when the man has purchased in the face of opposition from his wife, she ridicules the purchases until he thinks himself a right. Then he sends the woman to buy the suit.

"The plot thickens at the point where the woman is undecided. It is then that Kelly is pured and proceeds to demonstrate that the way to a woman's heart is through her eye, just as surely as the way to a man's soul is through the alimentary canal.

"Kelly tries on the suit or coat and, having a distinct flair for clothes, he appears to advantage in anything and everything. But, of course, that is a trade secret, and, as the Hilltop store, it would be a shame to destroy Kelly's illusion that he is a man.

Unde Sam is Now the Delivery Man in Matha.

Retail delivery by parcel post, replacing the individual store presentations, is expected to be in full swing in Omaha, Neb., by the Christmas holidays, according to James W. Metcalfe, secretary of the Associated Retailers.

There are about 5,000,000 deliveries throughout the city annually, the retailer estimates. For the stores which are members of the association, the cost per package where the store is using its own delivery system amounts to between eight and one-half and four cents. It is estimated that the parcel post range will be between five and fourteen cents.

These retail stores which have tried out mail delivery report that it has many advantages provided, of course, the merchandise itself is suitable for delivery in this manner, and somewhat more substantial containers are provided for the rougher handling in the mail.

For one thing there is an actual saving in the cost per package. But, more importantly, the denominations of the stamps affixed to the parcels drive home to the patron as nothing else could the value of the expense and annoyance of maintaining his own wagons or trucks and permits him, if he so desires, to base his prices on non-delivery and yet accord the individual customer delivery service at cost.

Miller's System Corrects "Mistaken" Customers.

"Miller, here's a hat I purchased here that hasn't proved entirely satisfactory. I haven't given me the service I paid for," remarked a customer to the manager of the Butcher Shop, an exclusive men's wear store, on the corner of the street.

"Sorry," replied Miller. "When did you buy this hat?"

"About two months ago, if I remember correctly," answered the customer.

"You know our policy. We always stand ready to make good any purchase made here that doesn't give satisfaction," explained Miller. He then took the hat in question, turned down the sweat band, looked at it a second and then went to his desk, took down a book and ran up and down a column or two of figures, and, turning to the customer, remarked:

"Our records show that you bought this hat about two years ago. Here is the number, the brand, the style, the date sold, and I believe this is your name, is it not?" pointing to the record.

"Yes," replied the customer, seeing his name written upon the record, "but—"

"We keep a careful record of every hat we sell. Each one is marked with a number. See this one here underneath the sweatband? It corresponds with the number in the record book and when the hat is sold we enter here the date and the name to the purchaser, so there surely must be some mistake in this matter."

"I must have picked up the wrong hat when I left home," stammered the embarrassed customer with a sheepish look, apologizing for his error.

"You see, we would have been out a new hat if it hadn't been for our records," remarked Miller, as he explained his system.

"Every hat is marked with a sticker perforated about a half inch from the bottom, and all the information called for on the sticker is entered in its proper place. Then the stock number is entered below the perforated line. This sticker is placed in the hat so that the perforated line falls behind the sweat band. When the hat is sold the salesman tears off the sticker on the perforated line, leaving the number in the hat behind. The sweat band where the great majority of customers will never notice it. The part of the sticker which is removed when the hat is sold is turned by the cashier along with the sales slip itself.

"If we can't go to the right, to the left, or up," was the verdict of the brothers, "we'll go down." And down they went!

A low-ceilinged basement or cellar existed at the time, and it was through the hard concrete that they had to dig for more room. A square was cut in the centre of the main floor saleroom to make way for the staircase leading below.

No expense was spared in making the downstairs saleroom every bit as attractive as the upper floor. In fact, when it was completed, it turned out to be more desirable for selling purposes than the upper floor, and it was isolated from the bustle and noise of the outside traffic and it was easy to secure the concentrated attention of the customers.

Handsome cabinets were installed and all woodwork was finished in cream enamel. The floor, like that above, was covered with light brown linoleum. Sand-colored friar's cloth made attractive draperies, and a large plate-glass showcase in the centre of the room held feature trims of the newest creations in men's wear, exactly like the one upstairs. The basement was devoted to the showing of overcoats and sport coats and its success from a financial standpoint may be realized from the fact that after a single season's business the cost of the building alone had paid for itself.

LEGISLATION RE BUILDING ON SITE OF COURT HOUSE

Among the matters taken up at a meeting of the municipal council bills committee yesterday, was a proposed bill in connection with municipal buildings.

This piece of legislation is planned to provide for the preliminary work in connection with the proposed new municipal building on the site of the old court house.

It was pointed out by the county secretary that it required legislation to enable the council to expend money for this work, and for this reason the bill was drafted. It also provides for the appointment of a joint committee representing the province, the county and the city to get together on the matter of plans, and the result of their deliberations will be reported to the municipal council before any action is taken.

The proposed bill also empowers the council to go ahead with the erection of the building after the preliminary arrangements are completed.

The council has already received several plans for the suggested building, but was unable to make any expenditure for the work—hence the suggested bill.

TORONTO GRAIN MARKET. Chicago, March 22.—Opening: Wheat, March, 81.52; May, 81.41. Corn, May, 65 1/2; July, 68 1/2. Oats, 49 1/2; July, 42 1/2.

Boston, March 22.—The Boston American second team yesterday did what the Pittsburgh Pirates have twice accomplished in the present training season—defeated the Red Sox regulars. The score was 8 to 0. Orest Puller pitched a good game for the panigan. Al Clayton was in the box for the first team. Everett Scott, shortstop, was the only regular out of the line-up.

DECIDE AGAINST KINDERGARTENS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

That the school board was not now in position to recommend the adoption of the kindergartens in the city school system; that the two communications received from city teachers protesting against the initiative "Bolshevik" and "clock-watcher" applied to them by two trustees, be referred to the chairman of the school board for action; that the north end members of the board be authorized to institute appropriation proceedings to secure land in Newman street needed for school purposes and that the question of mental defectives in the schools be referred to the chairman of the board and the superintendent for report later among the resolutions passed by the school board at its adjourned meeting last night. A. C. Smith said that the finance committee would re-open the whole question of teachers' salaries at the next meeting of the board.

New School for North End.

Mr. Coll asked on behalf of the North End trustees for authority to proceed to expropriate the Simonds property in Newman street for a new school. Mr. Nagle thought the school act was not clear in the matter of granting the board authority to expropriate. Mr. Lewin said that the city solicitor had assured him that the board had authority. Permission to proceed was accordingly granted Mr. Coll.

The report by Dr. Bridges on the salaries received by women high school teachers precipitated a discussion on the whole question of teachers' salaries. Dr. Bridges reported that the question of the high school teachers' salaries ought to receive immediate and earnest attention. Mr. Nagle said he wanted to see the school get every dollar coming to them. He thought that the board could not assistly deal with one class of teachers unless the subject was re-opened in full. Mr. Smith said that he did not think the salary question was by means a deal issue. He believed the board could pay the salaries to teachers that had been recommended. Mr. Dayures in repairs and fuel. Mr. Dayures in repairs and fuel. Mr. Dayures in repairs and fuel.

The secretary was instructed to arrange a conference between the school board and the city council to discuss school affairs at an early date.

In the absence of Dr. Emery, the chairman of the school board, George E. Day presided at the meeting, which was attended by Thomas Nagle, Allan McIntyre, G. H. Green, M. J. Coll, J. P. D. Lewin, Mrs. R. O'Brien, Dr. H. S. Bridges and A. Gordon Leavitt, secretary.

MOSHER ADVOCATES HIGHER R. R. WAGE

Moncton, March 21—Speakers at a largely attended labor meeting tonight in city hall endorsed the appointment of John A. McDonald as senator. Mayor A. Chapman presided. Addresses were given by Alderman Laughlin McKinnon and Alderman C. Melanson, who spoke approvingly of the selection of Mr. McDonald as senator. A. R. Mosher, grand president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, who was one of the speakers of the evening, approved the appointment and discussed the question of railwaymen's wages. He was not satisfied with their pay. He would like to see them get more. He said ninety-five per cent. of the railway men were getting a living wage. J. E. Tighe of St. John, president of the New Brunswick Federation of Labor, heartily supported the choice of Mr. McDonald as senator. Already labor men had written to him asking him to obtain certain information at Ottawa. Party prejudices, he said, should be forgotten.

Senator McDonald, who was received with loud applause, expressed the hope that he would be able to justify the support he had received. He did not wish to see the spectre of want following working men to their homes. He promised to do all he could for them at Ottawa. Referring to the railway situation, he said it was very clear that something was wrong. He argued that this is a time for conciliation between employer and employee.

Attempt to Wreck Train. Amherst, March 21—The railway authorities are investigating an attempt made today to wreck a coal freight train, a mile from Amherst. A sleeper wired to the rails was hurled to the side of the track by the pilot.

WANT SIDEWALKS TO THE BOYS' CLUB

A meeting of the South End Improvement League committee was held last evening in the Boys' Club with the president, Frank White, in the chair. Matters pertaining to the welfare of the club were discussed and it was decided to make an endeavor to get the people of the South End more interested in the work that is being carried on there. It was announced that the Philites class of German street Baptist church would give a bean supper for the boys in about two weeks time and that the concert party of the steamer Minnedosa would stage a concert in the club on the next visit to this port. It was also decided to ask Commissioner Frial, in connection with the summer activities of his department, to lay an asphalt sidewalk from the corner of Carmarthen street past the front of the club and to lay a crossing, as the street at this point is at present in a bad condition. Water will be put in the building almost immediately as there is now no danger from frost. There was the usual large attendance of boys at the club last evening and they were put through their regular drills by Director Bentley.

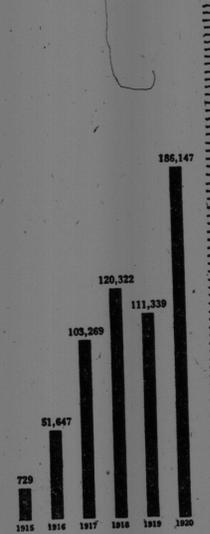

William Earle, a boy of eleven years of age, whose right hand thumb was badly injured by an explosion of dynamite while playing near his home at Brookville, was brought to the General Public Hospital last night where his injured thumb was dressed.

at present in a bad condition. Water will be put in the building almost immediately as there is now no danger from frost. There was the usual large attendance of boys at the club last evening and they were put through their regular drills by Director Bentley.

50,000 CHEVROLET "Four-Nineties"

THE production schedule of Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" Models for the seven months from January 1st to July 31st, 1921, is fifty thousand cars.

To each retail purchaser of a new Model "Four-Ninety" car at present list prices, we will make the following cash payments,— "Four-Ninety" Touring $70; "Four-Ninety" Roadster $70; "Four-Ninety" Light Delivery Wagon $70; "Four-Ninety" Chassis $70; "Four-Ninety" Coupe $100; "Four-Ninety" Sedan $100; provided the Chevrolet Motor Companies manufacture and sell fifty thousand new Chevrolet Model "Four-Ninety" cars between January 1st, 1921, and July 31st, 1921. This offer to be subject to the terms as set forth in full in the refund certificate which will be delivered to each purchaser.

This refund represents savings in material prices under present readjusted conditions, which savings can be made provided Chevrolet factories continue to operate on the estimated average quantity production basis.

It is in keeping with the Chevrolet policy to make the price of its product as low as quality manufacture on a large scale will permit. It is in keeping with the Chevrolet purpose of providing quick, convenient, economical transportation at a cost within reach of those who want an automobile.

Fifty thousand cars is the minimum which Chevrolet engineers estimate will secure substantial savings in cost in manufacture. These savings will be passed on to the purchasers of these fifty thousand cars.

Each purchaser of a Model "Four-Ninety" will receive a certificate from his dealer, or from the Chevrolet retail store manager. This certificate will be redeemed as indicated on its face.

The entire plan is a straightforward business proposition presented in a straightforward way. Whether you are in the market for a new car or not, you must not fail to learn the details of this unique and simple plan. It offers to every man of sound business judgment an opportunity to take advantage of the best automobile value obtainable.

Retail purchasers of Model "Four-Ninety" cars since October 1st, 1920, will receive their certificates through their local dealers or retail stores on application to them.

Production results will be announced not later than August 10th, 1921. Certificates will be subject to payment according to their terms, thereafter, up to September 15th, 1921.

In Matter of Great Oil Strike in the North—What Is the Government Doing?

(Montreal Herald.)
Astounding estimates are now being put forward as to the extent of the oil resources in the Mackenzie River Basin.
One expert says it is the richest oil field in the world. Another declares there is enough oil there to meet the world's needs for 600 years. What we do know is that oil in extraordinary quantities has been discovered, and that the great international oil trusts are so convinced of the importance of the discoveries that they are preparing for operations there on a large scale.

If the anticipations are as well founded as they appear to be, Canada has enough wealth in this one resource alone to wipe out the national debt many times over.
The federal government has revised the regulations applying to the region in view of the importance of the find. Do those regulations sufficiently safeguard the rights of the people in this great national asset? We hear of plans for great privately-owned monopolies for exploiting Canada's new-found wealth. What are the plans of the government for ensuring that the major portion of the profits shall flow into the national treasury?
The power and wealth which are about to appear in this great oil field are beyond computation. Are our statesmen measuring up to the occasion?
We ought to know. No great vested interests should be allowed to arrogate to themselves arbitrary powers where the rights of the people should be sacrificed.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)
Edmonton—A half dozen or more oil development projects in the Mackenzie Basin are now heading up for the coming season, and machinery and supplies are already moving to the end of steel en route to the north as soon as river navigation opens.
The Imperial Oil Company's two all-metal monoplanes have made an initial flight from Peace River to Great Slave Lake, carrying 1,000 pounds of gasoline
each for the supply depot at Hay River.
They have returned to Peace River, and are now preparing for a first flight to Fort Norman as soon as weather conditions are favorable. Both machines will be used exclusively for the transportation of the company's drills and equipment.
Some 900 tons have gone from here for a movement to the oil fields as soon as the Mackenzie River is open for navigation, and there will be more to follow.

The Imperial Oil Company has four new California standard drilling rigs on the way, all to be set up in the Fort Norman field adjacent to its present well, a group of Canadian and Old Country syndicates, represented by James D. Tait, will also have three or four drills in operation during the season;
the Fort Norman Oil Company, which is headed by Joseph M. Altken, brother of Lord Beaverbrook, promises actual development to begin on its holdings in both Fort Norman and Great Slave Lake fields this summer.

The Eastern interests which J. Junkin of Toronto is representing are said to be arranging for the drilling of a well in close proximity to the Imperial strike at Fort Norman.

MAE MARSH APPEARS
IN HIT OF SEASON

"The Little 'Fraid Lady"
Gives Whimsical Star Best Vehicle of Her Career.

Mae Marsh, the popular, whimsical, modonal actress, took her audience by storm last night at the Unique Theatre, where she appeared in the stellar role of
"The Little 'Fraid Lady," a Robertson-Cole super-special picture. Miss Marsh has been absent from the silver sheet for some time and has been devoting her energies to playing the most wonderful role in the world—that of a mother. The audience last night loved her just as they always have. Notwithstanding the fact she has always occupied a most enviable spot in the calendar of stardom, Miss Marsh never before appeared to better advantage. John G. Adolfi, who directed "The Little 'Fraid Lady," is to be congratulated for his excellent work. Altogether, the picture is a smashing hit.

COMPANY 450 YEARS OLD

London Dyers Received Royal Charter
in 1471

London, March 22—This year marks the 450th anniversary of the grant of its charter to the Company of Dyers, which ranks first of the minor guilds of the city. Granted by Henry VI. in 1471, the original charter is almost the only early record of the company which survived the fire of 1666. English dyers are mentioned as a guild in 1188, while the existence of the industry at a still earlier date is shown by a clause in Magna Charter prescribing that there should be only one breadth of dyed cloth throughout England. The Dyers' Company shares with the King and the Visitors' Company the ownership of the swans on the Thames, and the early by-laws of the Company regulated the duties of the swan-herd and his assistants.

HEIFER EXPLODED

Munched Some Dynamite—Farmer Gets $125 for Shock.

Trenton, N. J., March 22—New Jersey, through an assembly bill, has awarded to Benjamin F. Hardisty of Hunterdon county $125 for "shock" and the loss of his pet Jersey heifer. Hard-isty was sitting on his front porch last fall admiring the heifer, which was in the road when she "blew up." She was there, then she wasn't. Small pieces were scattered over a big section of country.

Investigation of the mystery led to a belief she had munched some dynamite belonging to the state highways department. He filed a claim and now the state pays.

SAYS HEARTS DO BREAK

London, March 21—Poets and romance writers for ages have been on firm ground when they have pictured broken-hearted swains and maidens. Dr. Slick-land Goodall, a noted heart specialist, bears out their contention that hearts do break. But he says joy and not woe or hard work is more frequently the cause of a broken heart.

MAN NOT GUILTY
OF MURDER; WOMAN
NOW TO BE TRIED

Body of Babe in Milk Can at the Bottom of An Old Well.

Guelph, Ont., March 22—"Not guilty of murder, but guilty of concealment of birth," was the verdict of the jury here last night in the case of Col.
Laughran, who, jointly with Mrs. Nellie Beisel, was charged with murder in connection with the finding of the body of an infant in a milk can, filled with stones, at the bottom of an old well at the rear of the Laughran farm in the township of Maryborough.

Laughran testified that Mrs. Beisel told him she would smother the baby if he would get rid of it; that when they sached the spot at the rear of the farm where the well was located he took the infant from her and put it in the well.
The baby was dead at the time, he said,
as it made no sound and did not move when he handled it. Evidence was submitted to show that the prisoner was innocent, but that he knew right from wrong.

ORIGINAL "FATIMA" DIES—
WAS BORN IN CAIR, EGYPT

Venice, March 22—Funeral services were held recently for Mrs. Abdo Abnour, said to have been the original "Fatima," Oriental dancer, at the Chicago and St. Louis world's fair. She was born at Cair, Egypt, forty-one years ago, and is survived by a husband and a daughter.

TWENTY STRIKES ON

Boston, March 21—Twenty strikes and lockouts exist in Massachusetts at present, according to the state department of labor and industries. The majority are said to be directly traceable to attempts to reduce wages, to establish open shops or to both of these causes. The largest of the labor disputes is that of the Boston building trades.

WOMAN DIES AS BANDITS BIND HER

Four Robbers Invade Brooklyn Home and Truss Up
Two Women, One of Whom Dies of Heart Disease.

New York, March 22—While four robbers, described as Italians, were blinding and gagging Mrs. Henrietta De Pelice wife of a wealthy Brooklyn restaurateur, in the home of Mrs. Rosa Mendetto, Brooklyn, Mrs. De Pelice died while the robbers were relieving her of from $2,000 to $2,500 in money and jewelry.
The robbers, a few minutes before had seized and bound Mrs. Mendetto, who had been chatting with Mrs. De Pelice in the dining room of the four-room apartment, but it was not until the arrival of a policeman that she learned that her friend had been frightened to death.

According to the story told to the police by Mrs. Mendetto, the dead woman about a year ago had a quarrel with her husband, Andrew, who keeps a restaurant at 142 Conover Street, in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn, and left him and her nine children. Mrs. Mendetto said the pair had amassed money that the quarrel was over the disposition of some real estate.

Mrs. Mendetto explained that ever since she left her family Mrs. De Pelice had maintained secrecy about where she lived, but by agreement with her husband received all communications from him at Mrs. Mendetto's home, and on several occasions met him there to discuss their financial affairs. Mrs. Mendetto added that it was well known in the Italian colony that Mrs. De Pelice was accustomed to carrying a large amount of money and jewelry.

Soon after 1 o'clock, she said, Mrs.
De Pelice came to her apartment. They had been talking about five minutes.
Mrs. Mendetto said, when the four men entered. Without speaking to either of the women, they began to bind Mrs.
Mendetto with ropes, which the robbers had brought with them. Two of the men carried revolvers.

Mrs. De Pelice started to scream, Mrs.
Mendetto said, when the man who seemed to be the leader of the robbers, clapped his hand over her mouth, and with another bandit, pushed her into the kitchen. Mrs. Mendetto told the detectives she knew nothing more until after the departure of the thieves, for the remaining bandits trussed her arms and legs with the ropes, placed a gag in her mouth, and then threw her on a couch in a bedroom.

As she was being bound, she said, the robbers relieved her of some money and jewelry valued at $240. After the thieves died, she said, she rolled off the couch and into the dining room, where she freed herself of her bonds by working the knots against the leg of the table.
Her screams brought the policeman,
Dr. Carl Boettlinger, Assistant Medical Examiner, gave it as his opinion that Mrs. De Pelice had died about heart disease while the robbers were binding her.

Boston, March 21—Threatened strike of employes of the Revere Brass and Lynn Railroad, a narrow gauge line, was averted today when the men accepted a wage cut of about fifty-two cents a day. The company had proposed a reduction eighty-seven cents.

CANADIAN COLONELS

colonels associated with Canadian regiments in the war were speakers at a

Canadians here should do everything possible to prevent an estrangement between the United States and Canada.

Pringle, of the Seaforth Highlanders, who was chaplain of the first Canadian division, and Lt.-Col. A. A. Durkee, D.

clocks in the country home of King reason is unknown. It is surmised it had something to do with daylight saving when King Edward was alive.

IMPERIAL WEDNESDAY-THURSDAY'S SUPER-FEATURE

H. H. Van Loan's Spiritual Story 'THE GREAT REDEEMER'

PHOTOPLAYS OF SPIRITUAL POWER SUCH AS 'THE MIRACLE MAN' carry into the hearts of the household public an appeal that makes for good, refreshing to the better nature of watchers, sending them away edified, satisfied and much stronger for the experience. In H. H. Van Loan's story 'The Great Redeemer' to be given at the Imperial tomorrow and Thursday we have pieces selected by the following famous stars to portray Mr. Van Loan's leading characters—Malloy, the outlaw, House Peters; The Girls, Marjorie Day; The Sheriff, Jack McDonald; The Murderer, Joseph Singleton. The finished production has been selected by the director's selection. While the story is western in type its characters and locale are the vehicles for one of the most convincing denials of the power of God's Holy Word over hardened daredevils and the most daring world of crime. In fact watchers sit amazed at the speed and boldness of the action only to be softened into tears as Mr. Peters, the imprisoned murderer on the side of the barred partition. Marvellous illusionary effects are introduced into the story carrying conviction beyond the scope of the screen itself. The Great Redeemer is an uplift picture of the first magnitude, without being in the least mawkish or overly sentimental. It is missionary.

London, March 22—The Anglo-Russian agreement, carried through by Lloyd George and Robert Stevenson Horne, president of the board of trade, in face of determined opposition both from within and without the cabinet, is generally regarded as more important from its political than its economic implications, inasmuch as, although it does not recognize a Soviet government in the de facto government, and is most likely, according to the view held in well informed circles, to be followed in the not distant future by a regular political treaty.

CURRELLEY THE ARCHAEOLOGIST

Ransacker of the Orient, Who Has Built Up Ontario's Wonderful Royal Museum.

BEGAN AS PREACHER

Are Ancient Canadian Civilizations Being Neglected in Favor of the East?

BY ANGELOUS BRIDLE

WHENEVER an archaeological postbag in Cairo and all around the preparation of an auction sale of more remnants of pre-historic civilizations, he naturally looks through the hotel register to see if Charles T. Currelley, Toronto, is registered.

"Any word of Charles Trick Currelley? I seem to feel that he is on the way."

The clerk flicks out an aerogram. "Expected this day week, sahib."

"Alah be praised! We shall postpone the sale."

Twenty years ago or less, dating from a time when Egyptology was a fad even in Toronto, Currelley was born that way, in a small town called Exeter, not in Devonshire, though he is of Devonian origin.

How he came to begin business as a Methodist preacher is not set down in the minutes. But he seems to have done missionary work in Manitoba, where no doubt he stumbled across some remnants of the mound-builders and decided to be a missionary for museums.

For nearly two decades he has been America's prize collector of authentic curios illustrating the phases of pre- and proto-Dominion civilizations.

With the zeal of a Visigoth, he has pillaged the temples and the fane of the Near and Far East, excavating for kings, boring for stone gods, exhuming remnants of ancient dynasties up and down the Nile, in the islands of the Mediterranean, following the path of Moses across the Red Sea, into the land of the Tigris and the Euphrates.

He was studying labor conditions in England when he first felt the archaeological "bug" enough to join the staff of the Egyptian Exploration Fund. For thirteen years now he has been curator of the archaeological museum, which a few years ago grew into the Royal Ontario Museum, and never would have done so but for the wanderlust of Charles T. Currelley.

That the R. O. M. has not any yet known him. He has written their names on scores of checks. They have met many an "expert" who could be bunched. But here is an expert who does not confine his explorations to museums.

Currelley has explored the Oriental mind. No wily denizen of the mystic desert, no surrealist inventor of thoughts, no Pantheist nor "heavenly Chinese" nor inexplicable Arab can ever—at least twice—get the archaeological Ontario to a state of mind where he forgets what any particular specimen of archaeological art is worth in any translation of Oriental currency.

A man must have a subtle twist to his mentality to become the successful purveyor of pre-historic art and not be done out of his company's shekels. When Currelley goes expeditioning he not only goes to study the knacks of the natives and to endure the intolerable heat and the foreign grubstake and the hazardous methods of travel; he goes also to acquire.

Anybody who has taken hours to travel through the museum will appreciate the years that Currelley has trailed in the lands of defunct and convalescent civilizations to get f.o.b. in Toronto the astounding hoard of pre-Noahic and post-diluvian treasures that make even the mound-builders look like parvenus.

There he sits in his big office, where there is always something being done to set a new god pedestaled or an old tapestry restored, thinking himself almost a preacher again as he talks about the scenes of yesterday. He is always cheerful. He never declines to talk. He is very likely deciphering your own niche on the ancestral hall of fame.

Still a Young Man

LAD in corduroy, he takes you for a stroll along vistas of color in robes and gowns that represent the Ming dynasty, half a mile of others reflecting the dynasties of Jap imitators, great and gorgeous, tapestries from palaces that went out of veneration long ago; iron work scrolls that must have been wrought about the time Cyclops went to the oculist, and rugs whose exquisite patterns he yet hopes to see reproduced in Ontario. All the while you notice that Currelley talks about the past as though it were yesterday. He is still a young man.

There is yet time for Currelley to visit an archaeological museum three times as big as the one he has got. He has an insatiable appetite for the Orient.

Toronto's Second Woman Alderman Is From An Old American Political Family

Mrs. Sidney Small's Grandfather Nominated Lincoln for President—She Is One of Toronto's Most Active Leaders in Social Service.

By HILDA MIDLEY.

MRS SIDNEY SMALL, the new woman member of Toronto's City Council, is a Philadelphia by birth. She was brought up in the diplomatic circles of Washington, D. C. and she comes of political people. Her grandfather was Mr. Justice William D. Kelly of Pennsylvania, who for nearly twenty years was the leader of the Republican party, and father of the House of Congress. At the Chicago convention of 1860 he had the honor of nominating Abraham Lincoln for President.

Mrs. Small is well known in connection with the Big Sister Association—an organization which is peculiar to Toronto and unique in Canada—of which she has been president for the past two years. Under her regime, the Girls' Club at 21 Carlton street came into being. Here the "Big Sisters" and the "Little Sisters" meet for recreational purposes, and to get acquainted with each other. It is in the front window of the club house that there burns all through the night a lamp.

"It takes a soul to save a soul," declares Mrs. Small, and the lamp that sheds its kindly beams out into the night is a symbol of the friendship which stands ready to succor and to serve. There in the quiet house on Carlton street many a young life has been saved from the "tragedy of loneliness," and has found the friendship, counsel and protection that have been its preservation.

Prior to her presidency of the Big Sister Association, Mrs. Small did much practical work in the Evangelical Settlement, and she helped to found, and became vice-president of the Riverdale Settlement.

For six years, Mrs. Small was president of the club for the study of Social Science, and with her conferees she made a most exhaustive study of municipal, provincial and national questions. She has made a specialty of the study of the juvenile court systems of Canada, England, and the States, sitting on one occasion on the bench with an United States magistrate, and on another with Magistrate Wilberforce, at the old Police street court of London, England.

A strenuous year awaits Mrs. Small in the City Council, for she has been appointed to several important committees. She will serve on the Juvenile Court and Parks committees and on the Board of the Alexandra Industrial School for delinquent children, among many others. She has been appointed to the Board of Health, the part which women may play in constructive citizenship.

"I earnestly believe that women should devote themselves now to public service as heartily as they devoted themselves to war work," she declared. "Every woman should mean to go. Light and vision are hers, what does reconstruction mean to her? Light and vision are hers, what does reconstruction mean to her? Light and vision are hers, what does reconstruction mean to her?"

Of the charming personality of Toronto's new woman councillor one can only say that she impresses one as having an affinity with the French. She has, in truth, something of the vivacity, the wit, and the charm of the French woman—and it is really very delightful to find, in combination with such qualities, a woman of such practicality and attractiveness.

Mrs. Small has succeeded in making her name known to the public in a very good speech. Immediately there were cries for a song. He obliged, delighting the crowd with "I Love a Lassie."

Folks in the News These Days

SOUTH AFRICA'S GREAT STATESMAN

JAN CHRISTIAN SMUTS is only fifty years of age, but is generally regarded as one of the greatest statesmen of these clouded times.

He was one of the signers of the Treaty of Versailles.

But when he signed it, he filed a statement of protest against it on the ground that it was not economically sound.

He was one of the few who disagreed with the big four who put the treaty through. His objections to the treaty are exactly those points which have caused these various reconsiderations, international councils and consequent uneasiness and dissatisfaction.

But Smuts could not raise too loud a cry at the peace conference because of the awkward situation in his own land, South Africa. There, for political parties are at desperate odds: Boer party, a British party, Labor party and General Smuts' own party of moderates, who desire a dominion status within the empire for Africa.

This General Smuts is the same one we dubbed during the Boer War, twenty years ago.

Son of a Boer farmer, Smuts was sent to Cambridge University by Cecil Rhodes. He graduated in 1894 with distinction, returned to Africa, was made state attorney by Cecil Rhodes in 1897, and led Boer forces against the British throughout the Boer War.

After the war, he became one of Botha's right-hand men for the building of a nation in the British commonwealth.

In 1917, Botha sent him to represent South Africa at the imperial conference in London. There his remarkable qualities of statesmanship and diplomacy as well as his wide knowledge of economics and affairs were instantly recognized, and Lloyd George lifted him out and used him as a sort of cabinet minister. Smuts was the outstanding figure of all the Dominion statesmen assembled in England.

D. B. HANNA A SINGER

ONE may sometimes visualize public men as unending sufficiently occasionally to tell a funny story, but scarcely ever as singing a song. Not that there would be anything undignified in a cabinet minister or financial magnate singing, but the fact is few of them are much good at it. This is where D. B. Hanna has an advantage over most men in the public eye.

The president of the C.N.R. can sing well, and on occasion does. When he first landed, a young Scotsman, in Portage la Prairie, he took charge of the choir in the Presbyterian church. It is said that an amateur singer was quite rivals Sir Harry Lauder. He is a regular attendant at Massey Hall concerts. On the occasion of the banquet at Halifax some years ago to Sir William Mackenzie, who the first Canadian Northern liner arrived from Bristol, Mr. Hanna was present and made a

THE KING'S COUSIN GOES INTO BUSINESS

THE Marquis of Carlisle, who has been visiting the Vanderbilt family in New York and who is returning to England, is now engaged in business actively in the commercial world as a member of the board of directors of the British shipping firm of Lamport and Holt.

With ladies of the house, Princess Alexandra and a grandson of Queen Victoria.

He served as the Grand Master of the South African War, and in the war in Gallipoli and France, being wounded in the Dublin riots of Easter, 1916.

The peculiar feature of Lord Dunsany is that he claims to be an ardent Imperialist, proving it by serving in the wars. But he has frequently expressed his distaste for the English and all things English. He maintains that it is quite in keeping to be an ardent Britisher without loving the English.

He stated before the court that he did not think he is not in sympathy with the Sinn Feiners. His very ancient home, Dunsany Castle, in close proximity to the Sinn Fein party.

With ladies of the house in sympathy with the present government, his castle has been searched for guns, which he claims are the indispensable equipment of a sporting gentleman?

If, any rate, the incident will doubtless feature in his next satirical playlet or prose allegory.

HIS FATHER'S SON

M. J. AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN, British chancellor of the exchequer, has always, perhaps because people remember his famous father's "Joe," been regarded as a young man and yet he is only two years short of sixty. He has been in parliament for nearly thirty years.

He had completed his education in Germany and France and had returned to act as private secretary to his father, soon to be in the zenith of his power, when he was elected at the age of 29 Unionist member for East Worcestershire in the following year he delivered his maiden speech in the house of commons.

Among those who heard it was Mr. Gladstone, prime minister of the day, between whom and Mr. Joseph Chamberlain there was now the keenest political antagonism. At the time it was on the subject Home Rule, which had separated Gladstone and his father that Austen Chamberlain spoke, the Grand Old Man, with the fine courtesy that always distinguished him promptly offered his congratulations. "It was a speech," he said, "that must have been dear to a father's heart." Those who witnessed the scene say that Mr. Joseph Chamberlain was visibly moved by the words of his old chief.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain has lived through some stirring political times since then, the Boer War, the Liberal regime succeeding 1906, when Lloyd George brought in his radical financing and Austen Chamberlain was his chief antagonist of the opposition benches; the Great War, when he was secretary of state for India, and later a member of the war cabinet. He has been also postmaster-general and twice chancellor of the exchequer, first under Balfour and now under the leadership of his former opponent, Lloyd George.

LORD DUNSANY AND HIS ARSENAL

NOBODY who has read any of Lord Dunsany's tales of wonder can readily understand why he had in the law in Ireland, first in 1904, and then in 1905. He was arrested a few days ago and fined £25 for having at his castle in County Meath first-class arms, contrary to the new law in Ireland.

But what man whose imagination is peopled by such wild monstrosities as Lord Dunsany's would not keep a few bullet-holed lands handy about the house?

Lord Dunsany is the eighteenth oldest of title, being the third oldest peerage of Ireland. The original Lord Dunsany was created in 1488, during the Wars of the Roses.

Twenty-four years before Columbus discovered America, and only a few years after Joan of Arc and Aynhoff.

The present lord is famous in the literary world as a writer of poetic plays and weird fairy tales of beauty and mystery. He is also highly regarded in Ireland as a sportsman. He served through the South African War, and in the war in Gallipoli and France, being wounded in the Dublin riots of Easter, 1916.

The peculiar feature of Lord Dunsany is that he claims to be an ardent Imperialist, proving it by serving in the wars. But he has frequently expressed his distaste for the English and all things English. He maintains that it is quite in keeping to be an ardent Britisher without loving the English.

He stated before the court that he did not think he is not in sympathy with the Sinn Feiners. His very ancient home, Dunsany Castle, in close proximity to the Sinn Fein party.

AN IRREVERENT YOUTH SURROUNDING PULHAM PALACE

THE official residence of the Bishop of London, is a most fitted with not over-clean water in which the small boys of the neighborhood are accustomed occasionally to fish, using as bait, he it said, with very indifferent success.

Not long since, the Bishop, attired in muff, was strolling through the grounds when he came upon a boy, who was fishing flat upon the bank and staring down into the turbid water with big eager eyes, catching fish with little man.

"No, gov-nor, givin' 'em their ration," was the caustic reply of the irreverent youth.

STENOGRAPHER ARRIVES

TWENTY-THREE years ago Miss Ethel M. Sawyer entered a London office of advertisement contractors and printers. To-day she is not only a member of the House of Commons, but a member of the House of Lords.

"My success," she declares, "to hard work and a thorough knowledge of the business. But then, it happens to be one in which there is nothing to prevent a woman going to the top, as in some other professions."

Miss Sawyer received in 1918 the freedom of the city of London, an honor rarely given to a woman.

The Confessional!—Uncensored Talks With Big Men About Themselves

No. 21.—THE RT. HON. SIR THOMAS WHITE

By EMIL LONGUE BEAU

THE knickerbockered, silk-stockinged, blue-velvet-cloaked, and white side the Fitz-Carlton gate said: "Sir Thomas is waiting for you in his suite on the second floor. He wishes you to go up."

"Sir Thomas White? Sir Thomas, indeed—far removed from the lanky boy whose narrow the stubborn glebe so freely broke down Bronte way forty years ago, before he came to Toronto and worked for John Ross Robertson at eight dollars a week. Curiously, the knight was thinking of those times when he greeted me in his noble, condescending style?"

"True, and soon after the election, since I told John Ross that he mustn't expect Greek hexameters for a dollar thirty three a day," he said. "Here I am sitting on the Grand Trunk building with an expression of the United States, with 'Right Honorable and Sir' before my name and very few men to call me 'Tommy.' But I never forget my old friends."

"Even if you seldom remember them?" I ventured.

"My dear Longue-Beau," he replied, "don't make me sadder than I am. I'm a sensitive man, and though I remind myself of things occasionally, I don't care for other people to do the reminding for me."

"A beneficent exercise," I said, "I may do you good."

"You see, having once been a reporter, I know how remarkably things get into the papers."

"I won't print anything you don't say," was my rejoinder. "You can talk as freely as you choose."

"Yes, and perhaps, when I get the paper by a great deal more freely than I like. But it's good to have somebody to whom I can talk openly, for I'm a lonely man, my dear Longue-Beau."

"You're always lonely, Sir Thomas," I said. "You mustn't forget that you are the only Canadian who refused a premiership. Surely you are proud of being on 'that pinnacle.'"

"Not proud, but grateful," he answered, "though gratitude is not a common distinction of distinguished men. Would you be surprised to hear that very few people know me in fact, till quite lately, I didn't know myself."

"You've surely missed a good acquaintance," I ventured.

"Oh, I don't know. I'm not a small man, but I don't mind telling you I'm not nearly as great as I thought I was. I've been learning a good deal through my association with Taft. You'd never think he had been the head of the greatest republic of all history, if you'd met me not very long ago you'd never imagine I'd been anything else. I had so much confidence that I'd forgotten there was anything as big as the world of human wishes. I refused to succeed Borden, though for thirty-five years it had been my dream to become Prime Minister of Canada."

"You were a man, on and off for many years by men who were judges of ability. But they forgot something which I also forgot."

"That I am very chilly indeed. I had a cold heart and an enlarged head, and it was only when I found this out that I refused the premiership. Do you think I made a mistake?"

"This is your day of candour, Sir Thomas," was my reply. "But why did you refuse it, really?"

"To tell you the truth, I was afraid. The premiership in these days needs a man of supreme courage; and I'm not overly courageous."

"Well, my nerve isn't of that kind. Disraeli never fought so brilliantly as when he knew his cause was lost. When things are dead against me, I'm not afraid to give you a couple of inches. Five years ago in the house of commons, a fellow Kyrle from Cape Breton, launched his charges against the conduct of Sam Hughes's shell committee. Sam hated me and I didn't love him. But I had to reply to Kyrle. If ever there was a chance to shine it was mine that night. Meighen would have taken it with dazzling ingenuity. I simply floundered around like a hippopotamus trying to dance. At midnight they asked me to move the adjournment, as a score of our supporters with old Andy Broder at their head, were in revolt demanding a commission of investigation."

"The other time was on nomination day of the last general election—the conscientious election. You remember the Ontario farmers were ready to stampede against the government, and some of my supporters in Leeds and Brockville were badly scared. They had me even worse frightened. I felt rotten at the afternoon meeting. Hugh Guthrie was to speak with me at night. He found me in my room at the hotel, lying down, with wet towels and my head on a pillow. I was likely to be beaten by twenty-five hundred—and I believed it. He laughed, but he couldn't make me laugh. I have had to devote too much attention to the career of Sir Thomas White to be able to nourish my sally sense of humor. Guthrie afterwards told me my speech that night was one of the worst he ever heard; and I knew it was. I'm over six feet high, but six-foot-one of statesmanship in a funk is a fearful burden to carry."

"But you weren't well then?"

"I don't know so much about that. I went to California, and missed making the budget speech that session, in 1918, while Borden was at the Peace Conference. I led the house with remarkable success, though I do say it myself. They thought I was aiming at the premiership, and I was. It was during that session that the scheme of a new coalition with Gouin as the Quebec lead was half-broken. I was in the cabinet, and it didn't bring forth. But in June, when Borden was back, and it was clear he wasn't looking for an honorable discharge—his phrase during the war—I threw up my cabinet position and carried out a frequently recurring intention."

"Frequently recurring?"

"Yes, I'm temperamental, and I don't find it easy to support all the concentrated dullness that gets into some cabinets. During my first session I was warned against walking around Ottawa at three in the morning, as the boys were taking about Jack Currie, for instance. I was in a new job, and didn't like some aspects of it. Politics makes a big demand on you to suffer fools gladly."

"You've surely missed a good acquaintance," I ventured.

"Oh, I don't know. I'm not a small man, but I don't mind telling you I'm not nearly as great as I thought I was. I've been learning a good deal through my association with Taft. You'd never think he had been the head of the greatest republic of all history, if you'd met me not very long ago you'd never imagine I'd been anything else. I had so much confidence that I'd forgotten there was anything as big as the world of human wishes. I refused to succeed Borden, though for thirty-five years it had been my dream to become Prime Minister of Canada."

"That I am very chilly indeed. I had a cold heart and an enlarged head, and it was only when I found this out that I refused the premiership. Do you think I made a mistake?"

"This is your day of candour, Sir Thomas," was my reply. "But why did you refuse it, really?"

"To tell you the truth, I was afraid. The premiership in these days needs a man of supreme courage; and I'm not overly courageous."

"Well, my nerve isn't of that kind. Disraeli never fought so brilliantly as when he knew his cause was lost. When things are dead against me, I'm not afraid to give you a couple of inches. Five years ago in the house of commons, a fellow Kyrle from Cape Breton, launched his charges against the conduct of Sam Hughes's shell committee. Sam hated me and I didn't love him. But I had to reply to Kyrle. If ever there was a chance to shine it was mine that night. Meighen would have taken it with dazzling ingenuity. I simply floundered around like a hippopotamus trying to dance. At midnight they asked me to move the adjournment, as a score of our supporters with old Andy Broder at their head, were in revolt demanding a commission of investigation."

"The other time was on nomination day of the last general election—the conscientious election. You remember the Ontario farmers were ready to stampede against the government, and some of my supporters in Leeds and Brockville were badly scared. They had me even worse frightened. I felt rotten at the afternoon meeting. Hugh Guthrie was to speak with me at night. He found me in my room at the hotel, lying down, with wet towels and my head on a pillow. I was likely to be beaten by twenty-five hundred—and I believed it. He laughed, but he couldn't make me laugh. I have had to devote too much attention to the career of Sir Thomas White to be able to nourish my sally sense of humor. Guthrie afterwards told me my speech that night was one of the worst he ever heard; and I knew it was. I'm over six feet high, but was a hard saying, and I must confess, too true."

"Why should it be true?"

"Didn't I tell you I'm cold inside. The constitutional tendency to cold feet operated very strongly in my political infancy. I was one of the eighteen Liberals in Toronto who signed Lash's manifesto against the reciprocity agreement, and made my first political speech in Massey Hall, early in March. All springs it seemed as though Laurier would sweep the country, if he brought on an election then. Clifford Sifton thought so, and I guess he was right. Anyway, I didn't do another thing in politics till the last week in August, when I spoke again in Massey Hall with Borden. It was to be the only other speaker, but they crowded a gaggle of others in the old orthodoxy of a repetition of oratory having come into play after the engagement was made. That meeting threw me into the campaign, and I became finance minister."

"Please state it again."

"That I am constitutionally cold inside. At my service in finance, I am willing to leave it to the judgment of the future. As Lord Bacon said: 'For my name and memory, leave it to men's charitable speeches, and to foreign nations, and to the next age.' And now I must go to dinner with Taft."

"No trust in your word?"

"Lots of it," Sir Thomas vouchsafed, and I was outside the door.

The reader will not take too literally the observations of leading Statesmen, but will understand that they are what the speakers would be likely to say confidentially.

JEWELER FLASHES TIME BROADCASTS

Cuts It by Wireless and Wigwag, With Headlights.

EVERY day a jeweler in a small eastern town in the United States receives the correct time by wireless from a government station. He figured that his advertising should reach beyond his neighborhood, and so he arranged to distribute his wireless time to the surrounding country.

The courthouse tower is the highest point in his vicinity; he therefore secured permission to use for his purpose. With four large automobile headlights, each facing a different direction, he throws powerful rays that can be seen for miles.

On Saturday nights he flashes the time to the surrounding country beginning at 8.59 he flashes the headlights at one-second intervals until 10 seconds to nine o'clock, then he stops until the stroke of nine, when he sends out a long flash. Every Saturday night, clocks and watches for miles around are set by his time. A flash is given in front of the store for the crowds that have formed the habit of waiting there to set their watches.

The jeweler has also arranged the wireless code on a card. He distributes these cards among boys and girls.

Each week he holds a contest, offering a prize for the first one coming to his store with a correct copy of the message that he flashes in the tower. The messages, of course are worded as an advertisement. This has stimulated the sale of electric flashers with which the children practise the code.—System for January.

Fashionable Funeral

"DEBILITATED" said a husband's wife, as they were walking along the shore, that when I die I be buried in a plain coffin, without expensive trimmings.

"But, my dear," said she, "how much more fashionable it would be to have black walnut and silver."

"Possibly," he said, "but I was thinking of that for you."

Little Tales of Well-Known Folks

THE recent marriage of Sir George Foster to a distinguished lady, caused no small ripple in Canadian social circles. It is said that some of Sir George's bachelor friends near and less than his own age are looking around for similar course. One of these, a well-known Ottawa, dared to broach the subject to Sir George.

"At your age, my dear fellow," he said, "you surprise me."

"I realize," replied Sir George, "that I might have waited a little longer."

When Sir Sam Hughes returned to Toronto from England a few days ago he happened to meet in the lobby of the King Edward Hotel one of his stellar wartime officers, a man who has a real affection for Sir Sam. This friend very worth poured into the knight's ear some gossip that a local paper had printed about him.

"I have already heard about it," announced Sir Sam, calmly. "It was libel."

"I have no doubt. That editor and I are such good friends he knows he can take the liberty."
