VEGETINE.
J. Bentley, M. D. says,
It has done more good than all medical treatment.
NEWMARKET, ONT., Feb. 9, 1880.
MR. H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.:
Sir—I have sold during the past year a considerable quantity of your VEGETINE, and I believe, in all cases it has given satisfaction. In one case, a delicate young lady of about 17 years was much benefited by its use. Her parents informed me that it had done her more good than all the medical treatment to which she had previously been subjected.
Yours respectfully,
J. BENTLEY, M. D.

Vegetine.
GOOD FOR THE ACID.
WILL YOU READ THIS?
CLIFTON, ONT., Jan. 16, 1880.
H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—I advise you of the good results of your VEGETINE. My wife's father, now nearly eighty five years old, was attacked with erysipelas in its worst form. His head and face were swollen so that he was blind, and one of his limbs was badly swollen and discolored. His physician said there was no remedy that could cure him, as he was such an old man. To gratify a son-in-law, he was persuaded to take your VEGETINE. Seven bottles cured him, and he is now healthy.
Last Spring I was troubled, with a disordered stomach, with a swollen head, and appetite, cold extremities, headache, &c. Satisfied that this condition of things arose from poverty of the blood, I took two bottles of VEGETINE; it cured me, and I am satisfied it is the best tonic and blood purifier in the market, and an only too happy to make known these facts to the world.
Yours very truly,
A. MENZIE.

Vegetine.
I have Much Pleasure in Testifying to its Efficacy.
TORONTO, ONT., Feb. 23, 1880.
MR. H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.:
Dear Sir—I have much pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of your VEGETINE in the cure of Rheumatism. Having been cured by a friend to try it, I took four bottles, and was completely cured. I can strongly recommend any person suffering from the same afflicting malady to try a course of VEGETINE.
Yours respectfully,
JOSIAH GREEN, Chemist,
604 Queen St. and Cookville, Ont.

Vegetine.
It Has No Equal.
MONTREAL, JAN. 29, 1880.
H. R. STEVENS, Esq.—Dear Sir: I do not like to write advertisements for medicinal medicines, but the great benefit that so many of my customers have obtained from the use of VEGETINE, has induced me to say that with an experience of over 25 years, both in Great Britain and this country, I have never known such a useful remedy placed before the public.

Selected Literature.
How Can a Woman Tell
He told me his love this morning.
With his dear hand clasping mine,
And he said: "God speed the dawning.
When, sweet, I may call thee mine."
But my fond heart questioned so,
"Though loving him true and well,
Will his love last all changes?
Oh! how can a woman tell?"
When the years shall bring their trials,
And cares and pains outweigh
The joys in the little household,
As clouds may hide the day,
Will the hand that has held mine fondly,
When maidently his belief,
As earnestly shall from sorrow?
Oh! how can a woman tell?
When the silvery threads are creeping
Through my tresses one by one;
When I lose my youth and beauty,
As many a wife has done,
Will his heart be mine as true
As when in the dawning dell?
He gave me his trusted promise?
Oh! how can a woman tell?
I glance at my sweetest waiting,
His eyes they are clear and true:
"I will love him," my heart says gladly,
"I will trust him the wide world thro',
I will be his joy and comfort,
I will all other wiles excel,
I will keep him with love's sweet magic—
This much may a woman tell."
THE WIFE'S REVENGE.
"No strawberries!" What in the world is the reason why you didn't order some? exclaimed Edward Lester, as he entered his pleasant home in the suburbs of Boston. "You know, Maria, I am very fond of them, and you are determined to punish me in some way if you can."
"Punish you Edward? What do you talk so for?" returned the wife, a sweet little woman full of beauty and grace.
"You know I like them very much," added the petulant husband.
"But they taste too strongly of the money."
"Come, come, Maria, no more of poor Richard's saws. I am heartily sick of them."
"You would have me pay sixty cents a box for strawberries, would you?"
"Why not?"
"It is too much."
"You cannot afford it."
"Yes, I can. Isn't my salary fifteen hundred a year?"
"I do not think strawberries at sixty cents a box are very profitable; he replied the pretty wife, with a pleasant smile.
Edward Lester did not deserve such a beautiful, sweet-tempered wife as Maria, and he was not content with his lot. He was in the habit of showing it. He despised a thrashing for his hasty words, yet as he eventually learned better, it is not worth while to dwell on the little squabbles of the household. The first year after his marriage he had boarded, but desiring to have the comforts of home in all their purity, he moved to a house of his own. He had a wife and a young child, and he had decided to go to housekeeping.
Edward would have hired a large house at a rent of four hundred dollars a year if his wife had not persisted that such a dwelling would wear her life out. He then left the matter entirely to her, and she found a nice little cottage, seven miles from the city, at a rent of one hundred and fifty. The husband liked it very well and Maria furnished it in a very plain but neat style.
They were at home now, and for a time the novelty of the thing kept Edward in excellent humor. But he was a restless fellow and he could not have the quietude of the country. He spent all his salary and sometimes more.
Edward was out of humor because he had no new berries, and when he sat down to the table the tea was too weak, the bread tasted of saleratus, and the butter was strong. He snarled then at Bridget till the wife was almost discouraged. But she did not yield to the impulse of the moment and got out of temper. She kept sniffling, sniffling, cutting and severe the criticism of her husband.
After tea he was a little more mollified, for there seemed to be nothing more to grumble at, and even condescended to smile.
"Edward, I want fifty dollars to-morrow," said Maria.
This was rather a remarkable request for the careful little woman to make, for she had never before in regard to her private expenses.
"Certainly, Maria," replied Edward.
"I hope you are going to buy a new silk."
"I am."
He handed her the money, and hoped she would dress herself a great deal more modestly than she had done before.
"I am going to spend as much money as I can," she replied.
"No, Maria, do," added the reckless husband. And Edward soon had reason to repent the advice, for Maria now seemed to spend all her spare time in asking for money. He was too reckless, too magnanimous to deny her or to suggest that she was exceeding the bounds of reason.
She was merciful in her drafts upon him, and to supply her demands, for he had not the courage to refuse her request, he was obliged to contribute to her private expenses. On several occasions he had to borrow money to meet her requisitions upon his purse, and being an honest man, he had to cut off luxuries in order to pay this loan.
"What had got into Maria? She was extravagant, and yet she did not seem to be dressed much better or his household to be supplied with many additional luxuries. But he was too proud to complain. He did hint but she did not take a hint.
A year passed by and there was no improvement in the reckless woman. Fortunately for him, his salary was raised to two thousand, but it was scarcely done before Maria demanded a fifty-dollar bill.
"You spend more money than you used to spend, Maria."
"What is the use for me to pinch myself if you spend all you can get?" said Maria, so sweetly he could not say another word. "I want to have the good of the money while it is going as well as you."
Edward had some doubts as to the correctness of this, but he was too much of a man to know what became of the money. Another year passed by, and the danger of running in debt stared him in the face.
"Maria, we are living too fast, I am afraid," he observed in a melancholy tone.
"I am afraid we are, for yesterday you brought home a pair of chickens for which you paid twenty cents a pound," replied Maria, with her usual smile.
"Pooh, Maria, I don't mean these little things. We must have something to eat and while my salary is two thousand dollars a year I mean to live well."
"Great trees from little acorns grow."
"Let us stop the bang hole first," continued Edward warmly. "Would you believe me my dear, that I have given you six hundred dollars a year for the last two years?"
"What six hundred dollars a year for a lady? You were reading the other day that a great many ladies in New York spend two thousand dollars a year for dresses alone. You certainly cannot complain of six hundred."
"Oh, no, by no means. I do not mean to complain," replied Edward, at sixty cents a box. "Whatever I spend goes to a good cause."
"I suppose so; but I don't care anything about it, only that I am getting a little short. There is Dr. Smith's bill of sixty dollars. I don't see how I can pay it."
"Let it rest then. He will never ask you for it."
"But I don't like that way of doing things. I don't like to get in debt. I will go and see him."

And he did go and see him. The doctor was a rich old man and offered to pay Edward's note payable any time he pleased which offer the latter eagerly accepted, promising to take it up in six months.
No change for the better appeared in the affairs of the young couple. Maria kept asking for money, and she was so pretty, so sweet tempered, and so gentle, that Edward could never refuse. If he demurred she coaxed it out of him.
At the end of six months the doctor's note was due, and Edward could not pay it. He borrowed money from Maria until he was ashamed to do so any more. But he had a nice sense of honor and instead of letting his creditor wait for his pay, he went to see him to procure a further extension.
"Doctor I am hard up."
"Sorry to hear it."
"My family is getting to be expensive."
"Be prudent then."
"I can't, my wife—"
He checked himself. He was impatient, did not mean to say anything about Maria.
"What of her? Is she extravagant?"
"Well, yes."
"Put the bill in her mouth then," laughed the doctor.
"Don't like to do that."
"Mustn't let her ruin you."
"I hope she will not."
"Be firm, Lester. There is only one way to do with an extravagant woman, shut down on her before she ruins you."
"I haven't courage to deny her."
"I'm sorry for you, what can I do for you?" asked the doctor, who seemed to be in the best humor.
"The little note of mine—"
"What note?"
"Why, the one I owe."
"But you paid that."
"Come, doctor, you are quizzing me."
"Pon my soul, I'm not. Didn't you pay it a few days after you gave the note?"
"No, surely," replied Edward, confounded by the statement.
"But I am sure you did. Here," continued the doctor, pulling an account book from his pocket, "here is where I entered the cash. You have got the note."
"No!"
"Look over your papers and you will find it. I will go home with you. They repaired to the cottage, and Edward all the time protesting that he had not paid the money, ransacked the papers for the husband and found it. "There it is," exclaimed the doctor, pointing to a paper.
To Edward's astonishment he read the note with the signature torn off. He was utterly confounded at the discovery. He had no recollection of having paid it, and Maria declared she had seen him pay it.
He was mortified, but satisfied with the result, though he could hardly believe it. If any one had paid it, it must have been his guardian angel, and he would not have charged him the amount.
Three years from the time of Edward's introduction to the readers has passed away, and his finances were in the best of health. By a great deal of retrenchment in his own expenses, he has contrived to keep out of debt. Instead of dining at Parker's at an expense of five or six dollars a week, he made a quarter of that sum suffice. His tailor bill had been reduced one-half, and all other bills in like proportion. He was only a few dollars behind in the matter of rent, a letter from James Kennedy, 23 years of age, and his daughters Kate and Lizzie, aged 19 and 17 years respectively, after brilliant success in their studies, had come to Nice, where James resumed his studies for the third year under Signor Lamperti, a renowned Italian teacher of music. Correspondence.

THE SOUTH WEST BOOM.

To the Editors of the Union Advocate. My two letters have driven the Editor of the Chatham Advocate to write a rather strange article on the same subject. His defence of Mr. Hutchison is beyond anything that can be called reasonable. His uncalculated attack upon Mr. Michael Adams as he styles him, as also his colleagues Messrs. Davidson and Gillespie in his Mr. Smith's usual style. In this matter at least Adams, Davidson and Gillespie obeyed the electors who were interested. Mr. Hutchison voted for "his own pecuniary interests," and should not be commended. He acted as a "false part" in supporting this Bill against the petitioners. He betrayed the people on the South West as its branches try to get their petition with contempt. He played the part of a "paid advocate," and he represented himself instead of the public. Mr. Hutchison never even his friend the "Advocate" should imagine he can "fool" the men who voted for him, petitioned him, prayed him, &c. The South West boom is but little about Mr. Adams and his "winning business" in 1878, what they now know Adams at least has lost his rights. The people against a powerful ring comprised of Hutchison, Muirhead's, Snowball and others and for the South West boom. It may be true and so it is to be regretted Mr. Hutchison carried this Bill, as the "Advocate" has done so in the past. He is the opposition of Mr. Adams. If he did we rather feel indebted to Mr. Adams for the interest he took in the country. The other statement of the "Advocate" is "false." Mr. H. did vote for the Bill, not only voted, but spoke, not only spoke, but led, not only led, but acted to the people and the petitioners of a part, a cowardly, betrayed, scorned, laughed at, was made untrue statements, while doing so was a "member" and a "stockholder or Director" in the Boom. I am more than anxious Mr. Smith should defend this outrage.

South West, 16th April, 1881.

"POOR EARNIE"

Messrs. Editors.—The "Advocate" has at last announced he does not intend defending "little Earnie" any further. This is as it should be. Mr. Smith can take an effort to dispute a point like this, and should recommend "Earnie" to be more careful in future. A few more lessons during the winter season will do "Earnie" good. And now Sir, I thank you for giving me so much of your valuable space, and would be glad to see the first act of the "Advocate" when he attempts to "lie" as he has done. A far better for him to condemn our members when they do a public wrong, than defend them. This is a lesson Mr. Smith can take to heart, and "Earnie" can feel his quarrel with Smith has done him little good. I was bid Mr. Smith and "Earnie" a farewell. Yours etc.

PACIFIC RAILWAY MATTERS.

It is a pleasing task for any paper supporting the Macdonald administration to be in a position to show the hollowness of the party cries indulged in by the Opposition with reference to the Canadian Pacific Railway Syndicate. Those of our readers who watched the course of affairs in the Commons last winter, must have been impressed with one of two things regarding the tactics of Mr. Blake and the Opposition agent Pacific Railway matters—either that they had reliable information touching the future movements of the Syndicate respecting the tolls on the carriage of grain and the future disposition of the lands obtained as a bonus, or that Mr. Blake and his followers knowingly and willfully misrepresented the Company in order to strike a blow in the interests of the ORGANIZED HYPOCRISIT. The events which have transpired during the past few days point to the latter as the true interpretation of the course pursued. The Montreal Gazette says it is informed that the Pacific Railway Company have completed their arrangements in England, and that the leading members of the Syndicate will be back in a few days. The Company give evidence of their intention to enter vigorously upon the work of settling the lands obtained from the Government, by issuing large numbers of circulars in England headed "Emigration to Manitoba and the Canadian Northwest Territory, the future wheat-field of America." The circular reads as follows:—

"The Canadian Pacific Railway Company, authorized by the Dominion Government for the purpose of completing a continuous line of railway through British territory from the present Canadian Pacific terminus at the North Pacific Ocean, have a grant of twenty-five million acres of the best farming lands situated between the Red River of the North and the Rocky Mountains, in what is known as the Fertile Belt of the West, and contiguous to the main line of the projected railway and its branches. The Company intend to complete and have in operation 250 miles of the railway west of Winnipeg, by the end of the year, and to carry it to the foot of the Rocky Mountains, 600 miles further, by the end of 1884. The work of construction will during the next ten years, afford employment to a large force of men and boys. To encourage the rapid settlement of the country, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will prepare, until further notice, to sell its lands at the low price of $2.50, or ten shillings sterling, an acre, payable in instalments, and will further make it possible to buy of rotate from this price, of $1.25, or five shillings sterling, for every acre of sold lands brought under cultivation within three to five years following the date of purchase, according to the nature and extent of the other improvements made thereon. Contracts at special rates will be made for lands required for cattle raising and other purposes, involving immediate cultivation. Intending settlers and their effects, on reaching the Canadian Pacific railway will be forwarded thereon to their place of destination on very liberal terms. The third paragraph in the circular is a complete answer to the charge to be circulated by Mr. Blake and those associated with him, that the Syndicate would hold their fine farming lands in the Northwest for high prices, and thereby retard the settlement of that portion of the Dominion. What are the facts? Let us compare the prices at which these lands are offered with those asked for and obtained in the United States, and it will then be seen that the P. R. Company are instituting a policy of liberality which is vastly more favorable to emigrants than the terms upon which lands can be obtained over the border—a policy which, while effectually silencing the unwarrantable deductions drawn by the Blakelites, will be eminently satisfactory to the people of Canada. It is well known that the lands held by a rebate of Government being allowed, at $2.50 per acre, with no other cost to settlers, and this is the lowest figure at which lands are sold in that country. The lands held by the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway Co. are sold at $5 per acre, a rebate of Government being allowed.

It was stated in answer to the denunciations of the Opposition that the gentlemen composing the Syndicate would be working against their own interests by pursuing the very course which formed the ground of complaint by the Opposition. The Canadian Pacific never to become a profitable speculation, it can only become so by the speedy settlement of the land through which the line will pass, and there is only one way in which a revolution in emigration can be effected, and that, the offering of the lands at prices more favorable than they can be obtained for in the neighboring republic. This is the course now being pursued by the Syndicate. It may not be pleasing to the Grits to see their predictions so completely falsified, but it is a matter of great satisfaction to the country to know that the building of this great work has been entrusted to a number of gentlemen who are entering upon its prosecution with vigor, and in a manner best calculated to advance the interests of the country.

Death of the Rev. W. Morley Pannash.

The death of this distinguished clergyman of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, which took place at his home, Brixton, on the 14th ult., will be heard with the deepest regret, by members of other denominations than his own. The Dr. was a gifted speaker and pulpit orator, a highly holding as high rank in this respect as any other gentleman in that noble profession to which he devoted his life's labors. He spent, says the Times, the five of the busiest and most important years of his life in Canada, and it is not going too far to say that during those years he left his impress deep on the character and work of the Colonial branch of the Church to which he belonged. He came out to this country in 1868, and elected five years in succession President of the Wesleyan Conference. His capacity he traversed the greater part of the Dominion, and preached and lectured in almost every town of any importance. Wherever he went he drew crowded houses, enjoying as he did a widespread popularity throughout Canada. He was largely instrumental in the erection of the cathedral-like edifice erected on McGill Square, Toronto, a building which stands as an enduring monument to his memory.

In private life and intercourse he was remarkable for his gentleness and his conversational powers. He was a man of wit and humor. Though a firm adherent of his own Church, his attitude towards others was marked by the most liberal and catholic spirit. His attitude towards the Government in direct opposition to the course mapped out for them by the Opposition—proving two things, the utter unreliability of those who follow the leadership of Mr. Blake in all matters pertaining to the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the unwarrantable Government in entrusting the prosecution of this gigantic undertaking to a Company, whose interests are identical with those of the great North West, and who are not actuated by the greedy monopolists represented by the Blake-Cartright Company, in their aim to secure the disorganized and demoralized party.

New Advertisers.

In last week's issue we published the card of J. W. Hegan, St. John, a son of one of the members of the late firm of J. & Hegan, a well known to North-Western merchants. He is now engaged in business in all kinds of carpets and goods furnishing goods, curtains and carpets, of various designs, for which they are made to match any description of furniture, and have a really handsome appearance.

Messrs. TUNNELL & Co., of St. John, have been appointed to act as Exeter Hall lecturer, his subject being "The Prophecy of Horeb," and this appearance was followed by a second one in 1878, when he delivered his first time his admirable lecture on "John Bunyan." From this time forward he was occupied in his work in and around London, until his departure for Canada in 1880. Immediately after his return to England in 1878, he was elected to the position in his own church, that of President of the Conference. He has since filled the position of Exeter Hall lecturer, his subject being "The Prophecy of Horeb," and this appearance was followed by a second one in 1878, when he delivered his first time his admirable lecture on "John Bunyan." From this time forward he was occupied in his work in and around London, until his departure for Canada in 1880.

Messrs. C. E. BURNHAM & SOSS run an extensive Furniture Factory on Celebration Street, near the I. C. R. station, St. John. They do a large business in school furniture, and also in the manufacture of chairs, sofas, and other furniture, and have a large stock of goods on hand. The traffic in burning oils has grown to be a very extensive one of late years. In St. John a thriving business is carried on by Mr. J. BELLOCK, agent for J. L. Englehart & Co., and others, who handle immense quantities of various grades of oils, doing the largest business in that line in the commercial metropolis. Mr. Bellock has had considerable dealings with our business people, but realizing the importance and value of advertising, he comes to the front this week with the intention of presenting a witness constantly increasing list of shareholders would entail. The issue price of Preference Stock was fixed at three to one, and the present premium, equivalent, at a return of 7 1/2 per cent. per annum on the amount of the stock. The business of the Company justifies the sale of its stock at a much higher price, and the following issue will be made at a further important advance of forty per cent. has been paid in (Sgd.)—EDWARD LE RUYER, Managing Director.

School Examinations.

On Thursday last the examinations of the town schools in District No. 7, Newcastle took place. Very little interest appeared to be taken in the examinations, and the number present, and but three or four visitors. The date of holding the examinations was fixed in the middle of the month, and consequently the date did not seem to be known among the clergy, teachers and parents. We think such notice is necessary, if not for general information at least to give the information to the trustees, that they could not sleep ignorance in neglecting one part of their duties. One of our trustees, Dr. Smith, was absent from home at the time.

Grades one and two were taught in the schools presided over by Miss Parker and Miss Bell, and are attended by a very large number of scholars. From what we learn satisfactory progress is being made in these grades.

Grades three and four were taught by Miss Hanson in the Academy. We were not able to visit this school on Tuesday. The examination of the trustees, that they could not sleep ignorance in neglecting one part of their duties. One of our trustees, Dr. Smith, was absent from home at the time.

Grades five and six were taught by Miss Hickey in the same building. There were about 40 pupils present. They were examined in arithmetic, grammar and analysis, design drawing by imitation and from memory. The exercises in these subjects were remarkably good. Several of the scholars were given prizes.

Bay du Vin Bridge.

We have said but little about this bridge up to the present, choosing rather to wait until such time as we could obtain reliable information. The bridge is now nearly completed, and the work is being pushed forward with all possible speed. The bridge is a fine specimen of modern engineering, and will be a great benefit to the community. College Grants.

It is to be regretted the Nova Scotia Government has not been able to find a solution to the question of the award of political and sectarian politics into the higher atmosphere of a settled policy based on fixed principles. The announcement that the Legislative Council had determined to refuse to grant supplies which included the College grants, has been a great disappointment to the students and the public. Fire.

We regret to learn that the residence of Father Trudelle, at Hope River was totally consumed by fire last night. The fire broke out at three o'clock, and spread so rapidly through the building that the inmates, including Father Trudelle, were obliged to escape in their night clothing. The fire was narrowly escaped serious injury by the timely arrival of the fire engine, which held the fire from spreading. The loss of the building was a great loss to the community. General Brevities.

The Charlottetown Patriot will shortly be issued daily. A valuable quicksilver mine has been discovered within forty miles of Victoria, B. C. A new Baptist Church is to be erected at Fairville, N. B., to be completed in July next. The St. John Daily News has changed its time of publication, and is now issued as an evening paper. Conductor Berry, now at Truro, is recovering, but will not be in a condition to resume his duties until the 1st of May. The St. John river steamers plying between that city and Fredericton commenced their trips for this season early last week. Lord Dufferin has been appointed Ambassador at Constantinople, and is now probably on his way from St. Petersburg to that city. The schr. Madra recently left Moncton for Salem, Mass., with 100 cords of hemlock bark, shipped by Mr. Miller. The ladies' committee of the St. John Protestant Orphan Asylum are preparing to hold a bazaar in aid of the institution, in the early part of June. The ladies of the Baptist Church at Hampton recently presented their organ, Mr. Geo. Sharp, with some handsome pieces of silverware, as a recognition of his services. Mr. John Reid, President of the York Co. Agricultural Society, is the owner of a monster turkey weighing 41 lbs., which he brought from New York for stock raising purposes. The same authority says a "chill" will be fairly early, hot and dry, and the autumn promises to be open, dry and fine. There is a possibility of deal of snow during the winter, but the weather—except in a few isolated sections—will be favorable to agricultural pursuits. The winter of 1882 bids fair to be open and generally mild, but with few, and those short-lived snow periods.

London, April 10.—The Times

Chicago correspondent telegraphs as follows:—Have just arrived from Constantinople, and find a picture of desolation such as is rarely witnessed.—The town looks as if it had been terribly bombarded. The houses are in a mass of ruins, under which lie an unknown number of victims. The majority of the houses remaining on their feet are already cracked and roofless, and may fall at any moment. Nearly every building in the town has suffered. The inhabitants are in a state of great anxiety, and are looking for news of their relatives or lost property, but are afraid to risk their lives in the perilous work of clearing the streets. They are already cracking and roofless, and may fall at any moment. Nearly every building in the town has suffered.

destitute of fuel and coal, and is short of provisions. Winter still holds on, increasing suffering among the poorer classes. The market for farm produce is about one thousand and is making great efforts to supply clothing, fuel and provisions from her limited stores. As soon as the gorges breaks boats can be sent below for supplies. All the railroads North and West are snowed up. Damages to steamboat property amount to $60,000; losses to property in general cannot be estimated but are very great.

ARRIVAL OF DEPUTY ADJUTANT GENERAL.—Lieut. Col. Taylor, of the new Deputy Adjutant General, arrived here, his future headquarters, in the Northern train this morning from Hamilton. He put up at the Park Hotel, and was met there by Lieut. Col. Mansell, who is stopping at the Dufferin. Lieut. Col. Taylor has had a lengthened military experience and to judge from a short acquaintance, will soon become very popular among the military men of the Province by the sea. Like Col. Mansell he would at a glance be recognized as a military man who had seen a good many years of service. He is accompanied by the proposed aide, and Lieut. Col. Mansell will take his departure by the evening train from hence for his new headquarters at Ottawa. Adieu! —Globe.

DECISION SUSTAINED.—We announced yesterday that the Dominion Supreme Court had sustained Judge Duffin's decision in the case of Edward E. Lockhart, surviving executor of the last will and testament of Gilbert T. Ray, vs. the Annual Conference of the Methodist Church in N. B. Auxiliary Bible Society, James H. Ray and other heirs of the testator. The suit originally was brought on by the executor to obtain the ruling of the Court as to how the surplus remaining in his hands, consisting of $40,000 in personal property and real estate worth over $5,000, should be divided. The Court ruled that the real estate should go to the heirs and the personal property be divided between "The Annual Conference of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island in connection with the Methodist Church of Canada," and "The New Brunswick Auxiliary Bible Society." The sum of about $2,000 will go to the Bible Society.—Sun, 13th.

BETTER STAY AT HOME.—A young man in this city who thought of going west recently wrote to a relation in Minneapolis, asking him for advice. The answer was that though Minneapolis had grown up to be a large city at magic speed, that the people there were leaving in droves for Winnipeg, where times were better and work in more demand. The writer further advised the enquirer to stay at home if he could possibly exist, as the probable failure of this season's wheat crop would place many out of employment.—News.

The Common Expressions, "I feel so dragged," "My Food don't Digest," "I do not feel fit for anything," which we so often hear during the Spring and early Summer months are conclusive evidence that the majority of people require a medicine that will strengthen the organs of digestion, stimulate the circulation of the blood, and "tone up" the debilitated constitution.
