RAILWAY DISASTER
AT MINNEAPOLISSix Persons Killed and About Fifteen Injured.

SWITCH-ENGINE WAS THE CAUSE

The Ladv Passengers Gave Every
/eista to the Injured—
/ther Mishaps.

Minneapolis, Sept. 25.—Six persons are dead and fifteen or more are injured as the result of a rear-end collision between a passenger train and a switch engine in the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway yards at New Prague, Minn., 40 miles south of Minneapolis, today. The dead: Albert Lea, Minneapolis, salesman; D. D. Demarais, Minneapolis, salesman; F. E. Brown, St. Paul, salesman; George F. Klinkertus, St. Paul, salesman; Frank Wrabner, New Prague; Arthur Klimayer, freight fireman.

The most seriously hurt are David Green, residence unknown, reported dying; A. E. Kilroy, injured internally; Thomas McDonald, Minneapolis, engineer on switch engine, hurt internally; C. L. Laine, Minneapolis, lineman, hurt internally.

The accident was caused by a switch engine in the yards running on to the main line at the time of the passenger train, which was about fifteen minutes late.

Both engines jumped when they saw that the crash was inevitable. One engineer escaped, and the other broke his collarbone. All the express and mail passengers escaped unhurt. Apparently the passengers in the smoking car were the only ones hurt. The express and baggage car telescoped into the smoker, and practically every person in the car received some injury.

Miss Myrtle Wilton, of Minneapolis, and Miss Goldie Gerrell, of Marshalltown, Ia., did splendid work in caring for the injured.

They were passengers on the train, and when the crash came at once set about working. They tore their skirts into strips for use as bandages, and seemed to be everywhere that aid was needed.

Run Over By Engine.
At Winnipeg, A. Sarginson was killed in the C. P. R. yards on Sunday, being run over by a yard engine.

Two Victims at Nicolet, Que.
An accident happened Sunday night at 8:35 at the crossing of the I. C. R. half a mile west of Ste. Monique station, Que., which caused the death of Arthur Houde, of St. Celestin, and Dr. Lapierre. They were driving and were struck by the Nicolet express. Dr. Lapierre was instantly killed, and Mr. Houde died twenty minutes after. The horse was also killed, and the buggy smashed.

Dr. Cloutier, coroner, held an inquest yesterday, and the jury rendered a verdict that the deaths were caused by accident, as all the necessary signals were given by the engineer and fireman. None of the I. C. R. employees were blamed for the accident.

FIRE HORSES IN EAST END MIXUPNo. 2 Company Runs Amuck at Corner of Dundas and Adelaide.

The handsome new combination chemical and hose wagon of No. 3 fire station almost came to grief at the corner of Dundas and Adelaide streets, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

An alarm was sent in because of an insubstantial blaze on Clarence street. The brigades turned out promptly. The East London company took Dundas street on the run east. The roadway at the corner of Adelaide street is torn up, and in trying to avoid the danger Driver Riddle attempted to turn the team a little to the south. The horses were going at such a rapid rate, however, that they were forced over the curb, where they tripped and fell, in front of the Bank of Toronto.

The heavy wagon ran on them, cutting one horse on the hind legs, and badly scraping the other on the body. Both animals were soon got on their feet, however, and the firemen proceeded to Clarence street. There they found that the blaze had been extinguished.

The wagon came off lucky, only suffering a few scratches.

WILL MAYOR JUDD QUIT THE GAME?
RUMOR SAYS HE WILL DROP OUTHinted That His Worship Has His Eye on a Big Tory Job.

Will Mayor Judd seek another term? City hall circles are much worked up over a rumor that his worship has had enough of the game this year, and will be quite content to drop out and leave the field to new candidates for 1907.

The mayor will say nothing on the subject.

According to a story going the rounds today, his worship has his eye on a Whitney Government appointment, and

NEGRO STUDENTS
HELD RESPONSIBLEFor Recent Attacks on Police Officers at Atlanta.

MORE FATAL DISTURBANCES

White Woman Frightened to Death—
Nearly 300 Negroes Arrested in Brownville.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 25.—2:30 a.m.—Deciding that the negro students, 500 in number, who live in the campus of Clark University, are responsible for and executed the attacks on the officers in South Atlanta last night, the military authorities have sent 150 men, under the command of Col. Clifford Anderson, to the scene. They expect to surround the campus, capture and search all the students, and punish the guilty ones.

Following the killing of Police Head last night in South Atlanta, the force which accompanied him pursued the negroes. They captured ten of the attacking party. Four escaped, six were put aboard a street car under the guard of the police and deputies, and were started for the county jail in the center of the town. A waiting mob stopped the car in Crew street and two of the prisoners made a bold dash for liberty.

The mob caught them in the front yard of the house occupied by Mrs. R. C. Thompson, a white woman.

Frightened to Death.

The negroes were cut and beaten and left for dead. Mrs. Thompson fell dead from heart disease during the excitement. The police succeeded in locking the other four negroes in the county jail.

One negro was killed in Brownville, a suburb, by the militia early today, while trying to break through the lines.

Some 257 negroes have already been placed under arrest in Brownville. The majority of them were heavily armed. One other negro tried to get away and was shot.

The raid started shortly after 5 o'clock. Negroes were searched for arms and every one armed was placed on the cars to be sent to police barracks.

Postmaster Arrested.

One of the first arrested was L. J. Price, the negro postmaster, who is charged with supplying ammunition to the blacks. Negroes who tried to break through the lines were fired on, halting promptly.

Captain Wilson had a conference with the president of Gammon Seminary on the situation. The negroes are hemmed in by militia. Members of the governor's horse guards and mounted county policemen are anxious to avenge the death of Officer Heard and the wounding of other members of the force. The negroes are badly frightened.

Two More Fatalities.

Two negroes were killed today in a fight with officers mounted on bicycles. The negroes had barricaded themselves in a house on the edge of the city. The officers were not wounded.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S
SOCIETY FORMEDBy Congregation of King Street
Presbyterian Church at the Meeting Last Night.

The young people of the King Street Presbyterian Church met last evening to discuss plans for the winter.

There was a large attendance. It was decided to organize a young people's society, and the following officers were elected:

Honorary President—Mr. Elliott Grieve.

President—Mr. James E. Patterson.

First Vice-President—Mr. Charles Ross.

Second Vice-President—Miss Florence Wort.

Third Vice-President—Miss Laurie Maire.

Fourth Vice-President—Mr. Andrew Miller.

Secretary—Mr. Harry Roblys.

Treasurer—Mr. William G. Ross.

Organizer, Eh?

It is that of organizer for the Conservative party in Ontario.

It is said that in any place in Canada, a few years' residence in London entitles a man to a certificate in the bunch of political organization.

Thus the mayor of the Forest City is not without pushers in headquarters (Continued on Page Eight.)

ON SUPREME COURT BENCH

Mr. Justice Duff, of British Columbia,
Is Appointed.

Victoria B. C., Sept. 24.—Mr. Justice Duff, who since February, 1904, has been a member of the supreme court of British Columbia, has accepted the vacancy in the supreme court of Canada. He will leave Victoria on Wednesday morning for Ottawa in order to be sworn in time to be present at the sitting of the court on Oct. 2.

SUNDAY LAW IN ESSEX

Applied to Canning Factory—How About Electric Light?

Essex, Sept. 25.—For some time past the Essex Canning Company has been waiting the filling of a large order for cans by an eastern factory. Meantime the stock on hand was spoiling and the company was suffering a large financial loss.

On Sunday last the company decided to open its own can factory, and at once put men at work in it. They had no sooner started than Secretary Taylor, of the local branch of the Lord's Day Alliance, notified the factory people that if work was not stopped complaint would be laid against them for a violation of the act.

Mr. Taylor is secretary and principal stockholder of the local electric light company. The officials of the canning company say they will at once start proceedings to see whether the light company, which operates its plant on Sunday, has any special privileges.

Besides this the canning company are considering removal to some other town.

FOR FALL ASSIZES

List of Crown Prosecutors Appointed by the Government.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—The Government has appointed the following crown prosecutors for the various October assizes:

Sandwich—W. M. Reade, of Berlin.

Sarnia—F. W. Wilson, of Petrolia.

Guelph—E. Sidney Smith, of Stratford.

Chatham—Hume Elliot, of London.

Kingston—John McIntyre, K.C., of Kingston.

Goderich—F. J. Roach, of Toronto.

Belleville—Frank Arnold, K.C., of Toronto.

Stratford—J. J. Drew, of Guelph.

Woodstock—J. G. Wallace, of Woodstock.

Napanee—V. M. Wilson, of Napanee.

ELOPMENT PREVENTED

Soldier Forced to Leave His Girl
Behind Him.

Quebec, Sept. 24.—Shortly after he embarked on the G. T. R. train at Levis yesterday with a young English girl of about 18 years, and before the train pulled out, Pte. Sullivan, of the R. C. R., was placed under arrest by an escort from that corps, and brought back to Quebec.

The intentions of the couple to elope on Saturday evening leaked out during the day, and the authorities of the R. C. R. learning of the proposed flight, had an escort waiting at Levis when the couple boarded the train.

Sullivan was arrested for attempting to desert, and while the trip was consequently frustrated, the girl wept bitterly.

She is an English girl and had not been in this country long.

JAP CUSTOM REGULATIONS

The Provisions for Enjoying Benefit of Special Conventions.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—The Japanese customs authorities have issued a notice to the effect that on and after Oct. 1 the regulations respecting certificates of origin will be strictly applied with regard to imports under the conventional tariff.

All goods not accompanied by certificate of origin upon the invoice will be liable to the general maximum tariff. Persons wishing to enjoy the benefit of the special conventions are to furnish proof of the fact that the goods they are importing are the produce of or manufactured in the country to which such special conventions are applicable, but postal matter and goods the dutiable value of which does not exceed 100 yen are excepted.

The proof referred to must be by means of a certificate of origin issued by the Imperial Japanese consulate or commercial agency at the place of production, manufacture or shipment of the goods, or in the absence of such consulate or agency by the custom house or other government or public office or by the chamber of commerce of the locality.

The certificate of origin spoken of must contain the marks, numbers, descriptions and number of packages, weight or measurements of the goods, and the place of production or fabrication.

DUTCH REFORM

Tax on Sugar Reduced—That on Gin
Is Increased.

The Hague, Sept. 25.—The taxation reform bill was introduced in the second chamber of Parliament by the minister of finance today. It reduces the tax on sugar to 10 florins per 100 kilograms and increases the excise duty on Holland gin from 53 to 90 florins per hectolitre. The bill increases the revenue by 8,000,000 florins.

September Wedding Bells

Clark—Humpidge.

At St. Peter's Palace, at 1 o'clock this afternoon, the marriage took place of Miss Anna May Humpidge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Humpidge, of 124 Bathurst street, to Mr. Wm. J. Clarke, the well known and popular Dundas street tobacconist.

The bride was assisted by Miss Ruby Heard, of St. Thomas and Mr. Chester Clarke, of Toronto, supported the groom. Rev. Father Aylward, rector of St. Peter's, performed the ceremony.

When the happy knot had been tied, the party adjourned to the residence of the bride's parents, where a dainty dejeuner was served, and a number of relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties partook of the spread.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Clark left on a honeymoon trip to the east, and at its conclusion they will take up their residence in London.

Many valuable presents were received by the bride, including a handsome silver service from friends of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark have the hearty goodwill of a host of friends, who wish them every success in life.

ALLEGED CANAL SCHEME A JOKE;
SARNIA MAN DISCLAIMS KNOWLEDGEMr. Diver Says He Is In No Way Identified
With It.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, Sept. 25.—Mr. J. M. Diver, whose name has been prominently connected with an alleged scheme to build a canal from Lake Huron to Lake Erie, via London, was seen by an Advertiser correspondent today, and he most emphatically said that he was in no way connected with the undertaking.

"An engineer from London came to Sarnia a few days ago," he said, "and asked me to interest myself in such a scheme."

"Our conversation did not last over five minutes, and I told him that I would not entertain such a proposition. 'I looked on the whole thing as a joke. Not for a moment did I take it seriously. I did not authorize anyone, either, to make the statement that I had consented to identify myself with the alleged project.'"

RULES GOVERNING
THE "WIRELESS"Limitations Laid Down by the International Authorities at the Hague.

Ghent, Sept. 25.—The Institute of International Law yesterday discussed questions relating to aerostatics and wireless telegraphy, which will be adopted at the next meeting.

It was decided that the air is free is time of war and peace, and that the only control states have over air rests entirely upon the necessity of security of the state.

In default of special arrangements, the regulations governing ordinary telegraphy shall apply to the wireless system.

Every state has the right to oppose the passage of hertzian waves over its land and waters as far as practicable, whether transmitted by the state, by private apparatus, or from an airship or balloon.

In the case of one government prohibiting this wireless exchange, it must at once advise other governments of the step.

THE WEATHER

TOMORROW—FINE AND WARMER.

Toronto, Sept. 24-8 p.m.—Fine weather has prevailed today over the greater portion of Canada, British Columbia being the only Province experiencing unsettled, showery conditions. Temperatures of nearly the seasonal average have prevailed in Ontario and the Eastern Provinces, while over the Prairies the temperature has been high.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Dawson, 22-38; Atlin, 22-44; Port Simpson, 44-54; Victoria, 62-60; Vancouver, 60-63; Calgary, 38-54; Edmonton, 46-66; Moose Jaw, 52-68; Winnipeg, 56-78; Pelly Sound, 24-50; Toronto, 42-50; Ottawa, 38-50; Montreal, 44-54; Quebec, 38-52; St. John, 44-56; Halifax, 46-58.

Two Storms on the Move.

Washington, Sept. 24. Two great storms are moving towards the east from opposite directions.

Professor Garriot, of the weather bureau, said today that when they meet there will be general fall of rain in the middle and eastern states.

One of the disturbances is another West Indian hurricane, which was reported to the weather bureau this morning to be off the west end of the Island of Cuba. The other is a rainstorm now prevailing in the Northwest.

The hurricane is moving northward, and the Northwest storm is moving eastward, so that in the natural order of things they are expected to meet, and considerable damage is expected. The West India hurricane is expected to reach the Gulf coast tomorrow or Wednesday.

WAS NON-SUITED.

At the session of the division court this morning, the case of Knowles vs. Finch was non-suited. Numerous smaller cases were also disposed of. Judge Macbeth presided.

Dog Days in Police Court;
Owners Yield Up TaxOne Gentleman Keeps Five
Canine Luxuries, It Is Alleged.

Twelve more citizens appeared at the police court to pay their dog taxes this morning. Most of them paid their tax and the additional 85 cents costs.

One man had five dogs credited to his name, and had not paid any taxes, on the ground that he only had two dogs, one belonging to himself and the other to his wife. He explained that when the inspector had called and found the five dogs, two were his and the other three were the property of his next door neighbor.

His wife was sworn, and on oath stated that only two dogs belonged to her house, she accordingly had to pay taxes for two dogs.

Hugh McCurdy appeared for being drunk and disorderly and was fined $20 or 21 days. McCurdy has appeared time and again and has always promised the magistrate that he would reform and quit drinking, but evidently his good promises have not been straight from the heart.

Last night his wife sent for the police and requested that he be taken away, as he was causing her a great deal of trouble. He had gone upstairs, and when she came up she found him about to fall out of one of the windows, and pulled him in just in time to save him.

Jennie Brown is another person of excellent promises, with poor results. She appeared this morning after another drunk and was fined $10 or 21 days.

Timothy Sullivan was again remanded for one week on a charge of being drunk.

Two first-time drunks were allowed to go.

BRITISH RIFLEMEN
IN NEW YORKPay Touching Tribute to the Memory of Gen. Grant—
Match Arranged.

New York, Sept. 25.—The rifle team of the Queens-Westminster Volunteers, which will shoot against a team from the Seventh Regiment New York National Guards at Creedmoor, L. I., Oct. 21 to 23, yesterday placed a wreath of English oak and laurel, entwined with the Union Jack, on the monument to the memory of General Grant on Riverside Park. With the wreath was this inscription:

"To the memory of General Ulysses Grant, rifleman, patriotic statesman, from the Queens-Westminster Volunteers of His Britannic Majesty Edward VII. The rifle team of the Queens-Westminster Volunteers, who have the honor to be your opponents in the match arranged for the 21st, 22nd and 23rd inst."

In the international match at Creedmoor range the Seventh Regiment hopes to regain the Sir Howard Vincent challenge shield, which it lost to the Englishmen last year by a narrow margin. Capt. Montague Shattuck is in command of the British team.

LOAN BYLAW TURNED DOWN.

Leamington, Ont., Sept. 25.—The by-law for the loan of $30,000 for an automobile factory, defeated yesterday by a large majority, 52 for and 126 against.

MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT MADE
HANDSOME PROFITS ON LAND DEALHon. George E. Foster's Refusal to Produce Stock Book.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Before the royal insurance commission yesterday Dr. Orshyatekha concluded his evidence, and Supreme Councillor Elliott Stevenson was called. A feature of the day was the refusal of Hon. George E. Foster to produce the stock-book along with the other books and documents of the Great West Land Company.

In April, 1903, Mr. Rufus H. Pope, ex-M. P., and Mr. George W. Fowler, M. P., obtained an option from the Canadian Pacific Railway for the purchase of 200,000 acres of land in the Northwest at $2.50 per acre.

Subsequently Lieut.-Col. John A. McGillivray, supreme secretary of the I. O. F., Hon. George E. Foster, managing director of the Union Trust Company, and Mr. Matthew Wilson, K. C., director and solicitor for the Union Trust Company, appear to have become possessed of a one-half interest in the option, which was transferred by the original owners to the Union Trust Company at an advance of $1 per acre.

Ultimately the option and the lands it covered were turned over to the New Ontario Farm and Town Sites Commission.

GRAND BEND DEER

DOES THE CIRCUIT

Escapes from Park and After a 100-Mile Run Returns to Its Mates.

Mr. George Heaman, of this city, owns a deer park at Grand Bend. A week ago a deer was frightened by a dog and jumped over a seven-foot wire fence, making its escape from the inclosure.

The deer was advertised, and shortly afterward Mr. Heaman was notified that the animal was seen in the neighborhood of Zurich. A few days later, the deer was seen at Arkona. And today Mr. Heaman was notified that it had returned to Grand Bend and had jumped the fence and was once again in the park with its mates. The animal, had eluded its pursuers for nearly a week, and had covered over 100 miles on its trip.

170 LIVES LOST;
DROWNED IN INDUSBoat Was Capsized in Midstream While Crossing the Big River.

London, Sept. 25.—In a dispatch from Lucknow, India, the correspondent of the Standard says that a boat containing 170 persons was capsized in midstream while crossing the River Indus at a point where it separates the Northwest Frontier Province from the Attok district.

The passengers were swept down by the stream and only 20 were saved.

They are supposed to have been traders going from the Province to the interior.

WELLMAN AT PARIS.

Paris, Sept. 25.—Walter Wellman, leader of the Wellman-Chicago Record-Herald Arctic expedition, arrived here last evening from the north. He will remain here several weeks to superintend the reconstruction of his airship, which will contain important and new features.

ANOTHER EFFORT TO SAVE PATRICK

Brother-in-Law Makes Appeal to Gov. Higgins.

DID NOT HAVE A FAIR TRIAL

Accuses Expert Witnesses of Being Influenced Against the Prisoner.

Albany, Sept. 24.—Supplementing the petition of more than 3,500 physicians which Governor Higgins received during the last week in behalf of Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer under sentence of death for the murder of William Marsh Rice, in 1900, is a letter written to the Governor by John T. Milliken, of St. Louis, a brother-in-law of Patrick, and the man believed to be the financial backer of the condemned lawyer in his remarkable fight for life. The letters was made public tonight, and while it necessarily involves much that is already known, the writer attempts to show that Patrick did not have a fair and impartial trial.

After pointing out that nothing suspicious was revealed at the autopsy held two days after Rice's death, and that ten days later Patrick and Jones, the valet, were arrested and held on a charge of forgery, the writer continues: "In February, 1901, there was deposited $10,000 cash bail for release of Patrick, who was immediately rearrested upon an affidavit sworn to by Jones, charging that Patrick had, with his own hands, administered to Mr. Rice mercury and other deadly poisons unknown to Jones, from the effects of which Mr. Rice died. Therefore, it is quite evident from the affidavit of Jones that from the holding of the autopsy, on September 25, 1900, to February, 1901, the chloroform theory of death had not been suggested or thought of by Jones or the prosecution, for Jones himself swears that to be the case when he claimed that Patrick had killed Rice with mercury and other poisons unknown to him."

Jones' Testimony.
"In April, 1901, Patrick had a preliminary examination for murder and then Jones swore that he himself killed Rice by administering chloroform to him at Patrick's suggestion and instigation."

"At the examination Drs. Donlin and Williams, who performed the autopsy for Coroner Hart, swore that the cause of death was the inhalation of an irritant gas and that chloroform vapor was an irritant gas. They took the lungs, which at the time of the autopsy did not reveal the cause of death, as a basis to corroborate Jones, and in a shameless manner swore the case through regardless of the fact that at the autopsy six months before they could not then see any evidence by carefully examining the lungs of the cause of the death of Mr. Rice. In order to convict Patrick it was absolutely necessary that these men swear as they did. They were introduced by the district attorney at Patrick's trial as disinterested, public officials, who, in pursuance of their official duties, had discovered the cause of the death of Mr. Rice. Yet they each presented extra bills to the city chamberlain for pay as experts; Dr. Donlin asked for $2,500, and Dr. Williams $7,500 for their services, thus drawing double pay, which District Attorney Jerome endorsed and recommended be paid to them. Therefore, you see they were not disinterested, but only masquerading as such."

"I ask you, as a fair-minded man, is it on the level to place a witness before a jury on the trial of a man for his life and misrepresent his status as a witness?"

The Embalming Question.
It appears from the letter that the importance of the embalming question was not appreciated by the defense until after Patrick's conviction, when he began himself the study of anatomy, "and became aware that embalming fluid so injected would reach the lungs." Then it was that the Medical-Legal Society took up the matter.

"Five eminent physicians of New York City," the writer says, "testified upon the motion for a new trial before Recorder Gott that embalming fluid injected through the right tracheal artery would reach the lungs and congest them, and their testimony was newly discovered so far as this case is concerned. Two doctors for the people testified that it could not do so."

"It is a well-known fact," continues Mr. Milliken, "that expert testimony is the most unreliable of all testimony. I am assured by 3,000 able, disinterested reputable physicians of this state that the medical testimony given by the experts for the people in both the trial of Patrick and the motion for a new trial was false."

DIAMOND DYES

Made Especially for Easy and Successful Home Dyeing.

Diamond Dyes are the only package dyes made especially for easy and successful home dyeing. They re-color faded feathers, plumes, scarfs, ties, silk sashes, blouses, jackets, dresses, skirts, stockings and other articles of wearing apparel.

It is as easy to dye a faded garment—small or large—with Diamond Dyes, as it is to wash it with soap, and the colors are forever fast in washing or sunlight. Bright and economical women save many dollars each year by the use of Diamond Dyes, which make old things look as good as new.

Users of package dyes will please bear in mind that vile and worthless imitations of Diamond Dyes are sold by some dealers. Every time you purchase dyes be sure you ask for the "DIAMOND" dye. Other makes if you would avoid trouble and loss of money. Write to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., for New Direction Book, Diamond Dye Cook Book and Illustrated Booklet, entitled "Diamond Dye Longjohns' Winter and Summer Sports; sent free to any address."

trial is unscientific, untrue, and can be shown to be utterly worthless and that a commission of disinterested, unbiased, high-grade physicians will so find."

Those Texas Relatives.
Mr. Milliken next alleges that Patrick's failure to accept a compromise offered by certain persons in Texas was the means of making these persons especially active in his prosecution. On this feature of the case the letter says in part:

"Since the death of Mr. Rice, his estate has doubled in value. Inquiry at Houston, Tex., will prove to you that some people are feathering their nests out of the estate. It is to their interest that he put out of the way. If you desire me to do so I can give you good authority for this statement. Justice demands that if there is a reasonable doubt of his innocence, his life be spared."

"The letter declares that 'No crime was committed except by the prosecution,' intimates that through the use of money and the promise of immunity, Jones was induced to swear away Patrick's life; charges that the coroners' physicians were influenced to swear the way they did, and alleges that one of them has given up the practice of medicine and has lived in a state of affluence ever since he appeared in the Patrick case, and concluded with the following appeal to the governor:

"I believe that when the history of this case is written, it will go down as one of the most shameful perversions of justice that was ever attempted in the United States. I do not want to see anything but justice meted out to Patrick. If he is guilty, beyond a doubt, he should suffer the penalty, but if there is any doubt of his innocence, he should have the benefit of that doubt. I know that your fair mind will agree with me upon these two propositions. Nothing can better establish the fact that the medical testimony introduced by the people with the purpose of convicting Jones' confession is unscientific and false, than a commission of unbiased and unprejudiced high-grade physicians."

Not Seeking Commutation.
Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer condemned to die for the murder of William M. Rice, does not want a pardon, but vindication, says the American. The paper gives a brief interview with Patrick, in which it quotes him as saying:

"I would rather die in the electric chair than spend a year in state prison under a commutation of sentence."

Patrick, in his cell, is directing the last fight for his life. His chief reliance is based upon what he calls, in a brief prepared by him for submission to Governor Higgins, the uncertainty of expert medical evidence as exhibited in his case.

EVADING THE CUSTOMS
Commercial Traveler in Trouble—$10,000 Worth of Jewelry Seized.

Montreal, Sept. 25.—When the Allan liner Virginia arrived in port on Saturday night a traveler for a London, England, jewelry house had in his possession about $10,000 worth of jewelry. Shortly after the arrival of the traveler the goods were seized by the local officers, who claim that an attempt was made to smuggle them into the country without paying duty.

There is, however, a portion of the jewelry which he brought over upon which he made the required declaration, and these, of course, will be released, but at present it is not known what the proportion is.

After the usual declaration was made the officers had reason to be suspicious and the traveler was watched.

Among his personal effects were found the goods upon which no declaration had been made, and as a result the whole valuable connection of samples were placed under seizure.

No definite action has yet been taken, but there is no doubt the loss to the English firm will be heavy.

INTERESTING POINT IN LAW.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—An interesting point in international law was brought up in a case at the division court yesterday.

Sydney Smith, of Ogdensburg, N.Y., sued J. C. Macher, of Ottawa (formerly of Ogdensburg), for the amount of two notes.

Macher acknowledged the notes, but heid that they were outlawed according to the laws of Ontario. It was held that the laws of Ontario did not apply as the notes were signed in Ogdensburg.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff on both notes, which amounted to about $50.

SUCCESSION DUTIES.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—The Provincial treasury department has received in succession duties $5,764, being dues from the estate of the late Mrs. Ella G. Canorton, wife of Mr. John Canorton, M. P. Up to date this year the aggregate amount of succession duties is almost equal to that of last year.

It is estimated that the total for 1906 will reach at least $68,000, the amount received for 1905, without depending on the dues from the Fulford or G. Goodenham estates, which may be turned into this year's receipts.

DOING THE HONORS AT 91.

New York, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Rebecca Lawrence Farrington celebrated the 91st anniversary of her birthday at 603 Hancock street, Brooklyn, today. Her husband was the late Thomas Oakley Farrington, of Tonkers, who was the grandson of Thomas Oakley Farrington, of Mile Square Manor House, of Westchester County. Her grandfather, Major Samuel Lawrence fought through the war of the revolution. He was a first cousin of the father of Captain James Lawrence of the good ship Chesapeake, whose remains lie buried at the head of Wall street, this city. Her mother was Jane Gulon, whose ancestors were Huguenots, and founded New Rochelle in Westchester County.

Her daughter, Mrs. Francis Wayland Glen, wife of the former member of Parliament, died in South Ontario, Canada; her granddaughter, Mrs. Oakley Farrington Glen, her great-granddaughter, Miss Alice Renwick Glen Young, Miss Helen Dorothy Elaine Glen Young, Miss Helen Margaret Glen Gant and Miss Julia Dorothea Glen Gant, received with her. She enjoys excellent health and met many friends, who honored her with a call.

TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF JUSTICE STREET

Paid by Chief Justice Falconbridge at Toronto Yesterday—A Good Judge.

A glowing tribute was yesterday paid to the memory of the late Mr. Justice Street by Chief Justice Falconbridge in the divisional court at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, when his lordship made the following reference to the deceased:

"Since I last had the honor of sitting as president of this division a grievous loss has been sustained by the court and by the country. We have been bereft of one of the ornaments of the bench in the person of my late lamented brother, Street. I use the phrase advisedly, because he had by nature and by cultivation all the qualities necessary to make a good judge."

"In the first place, he was very much in earnest about anything he undertook, whether it was work or play. Then, he was patient and courteous, and he never made up his mind until he had heard the whole case. When one adds to this a fine knowledge of law, a good insight into human nature, and both an intense love of abstract right and great capacity for recognizing it, the combination was rare as it is felicitous. Such and so great was he as a judge."

"But when I come to speak of his characteristics as man and citizen, what shall I say? No one is better able to speak than I, who for more than eighteen years sat beside him on this bench, and lived with him in daily affectionate intercourse within and without the walls of this building."

"He was always the same. He seemed to have no moods. He had not, as some men are said to have, one face and one temper on one day, and another face and another temper on the next day. Always he was the same, amiable, gentle, peace-loving, sincere, and truthful man—always the same loyal and active citizen of the state. After the chief justice had concluded, Mr. W. R. Riddell, K. C., added a few words on behalf of the bar."

A SAXON SUNDAY IN GAY PARIS

French Capital Is Swinging Slowly Into Line With British Cities.

Paris, Sept. 24.—This city of gaiety, which has hardly been ready to acknowledge the possibility that it could ever have an English or American Sunday, is slowly swinging round to an attitude in which it is seriously regarding such a metamorphosis. More business places were closed today than on previous Sundays, and the papers, which have hitherto ridiculed the possibility of Paris tolerating a Saxon Sunday, print more or less accurate accounts of Sunday observance in England, Germany and the United States in connection with the news of the day.

The representatives of the working people yesterday went on the principle that their employees should have a day of rest, even if they had to fight for it, and they made demonstrations before stores remaining open. The "entertainment committees" did not seem like men looking for an opportunity to hit a man in the back, but were composed of large bodies of men, who attracted attention to employers who kept open, and tried to influence them or compel them to close.

The cry of these committees was "Close, in the name of the law!" They had only one collision with the police and that was not serious.

One tragic incident occurred. An aged merchant, who sympathized with those who want the law of Sunday rest enforced, saw a body of workers approaching his store, which he had kept open only because his fellow-traders had their places of business open. He suffered from heart disease, and on seeing the mob coming, and fearing that they would maltreat him, he exclaimed: "It's all up with me!" and expired.

CHOLERA and all summer complaints are so quick in their action that the cold hand of death is upon the victims before they are aware that danger is near. It is attacked do not delay in getting the proper medicine. Try a dose of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, and you will get immediate relief. It acts with wonderful rapidity, and never fails to effect a cure.

Prince Henry of Russia has been appointed commander-in-chief of all the squadrons in active service. He succeeds Admiral Von Koester, who retains the post of chief inspector of the navy.

Up-to-Date Cure for Skin Disease

The day is past when people will be satisfied with an internal treatment for itching skin disease. It is more satisfactory to apply an ointment and witness the beneficial results, instead of taking medicine and hoping that in time the desired effects will be obtained.

This change of opinion has come about largely through the extraordinary cure being brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Eczema, salt rheum, psoriasis, tetter, scald head and all the dreadful itching skin diseases, which torture children and grown people alike, are not held in such terror since the merits of this great ointment have become known.

By its healing, soothing, antiseptic influence Dr. Chase's Ointment cleanses the sores, allays the inflammation, stops the itching and heals the raw, flaming flesh. In the most simple as well as the most aggravated skin irritation or eruption this ointment is certain to give highly satisfactory results; 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

BLAME STENSLAND FOR ILLNESS

Former Assistant Cashier of Looted Bank Dying in Norway.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—A special cable message from Stavanger, Norway, says: Another grim chapter in the Stensland tragedy is fighting a pathetic end in this remote port on the west coast of Norway, where Ulric Daniels, former cashier of the wrecked Milwaukee avenue bank, lies dying from apoplexy and inflammation of the kidneys. The end is expected daily. His mind is gone, and when he regains a momentary consciousness his tongue rambles incoherently about strange topics. The bank worries are preying heavily on what remains of his intellect. He has told the nurses and doctors he is innocent of any misdeeds in connection with the bank, but he lives in deadly fear that fresh revelations may cause suspicion to be turned against him.

Ulrich Daniels originally came from Stavanger, and Paul O. Stensland had been from the immediate neighborhood. The dying assistant cashier came home to Norway early in the summer to attend the coronation of King Haakon. He had been a sufferer from apoplectic troubles in America, and intended to visit a German cure before returning to Chicago, but the news of the bank failure completely unerved him. His probably fatal illness dates from the time that the fact of the crash was communicated to him. He professed the utmost astonishment and said he had no inkling of the trouble when he started for Europe.

"Stensland has practically killed my uncle," said Erling B. Johnson, a nephew of Daniels.

During the occasional conscious moments he has had in the past three weeks he has asked for the latest news from Chicago, but we have not dared to tell him, fearing that the shock would be fatal. He does not know of Stensland's arrest or any of the late developments. I read him a list of the forged documents published and the only remark he made was that he was sorry his friend Herold figured therein.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR TEACHERS

Qualifications That Will Be Required by the Board of Education.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—The education department has issued the following new regulations governing the examination for first-class teachers' certificates.

"At present the senior teachers' examination is divided in two parts, each with six subjects," said Dr. John Seath, superintendent of education, "and public school teachers, with only a second cannot pass it while teaching. In order to encourage the procuring of higher certificates, and to encourage teachers to make their calling a life work, the department has decided to divide this examination into four parts."

"All teachers who secured their present certificates not later than 1900, may take English literature for Latin as some did not take Latin, and others in five years may have forgotten it."

"These changes," Dr. Seath added, "are made largely upon the suggestion of the deputation from the public school section of the Ontario Education Association."

The official announcement is as follows:

Section I.—The senior teachers' examination may be taken in four parts at different times, as follows:

Part I.—English composition and rhetoric, algebra, geometry.

Part II.—English literature, medieval history, trigonometry.

Part III.—Modern and British history, Latin, physics.

Part IV.—Biology with chemistry and mineralogy, or French and German, or Greek and German, or Greek and French; provided always that candidates take at least three of the four parts while actually engaged in teaching; and that they pass a practical examination in addition to the examination in the papers in biology, chemistry and mineralogy.

Section II.—(1) Candidates qualified under section I, preceding, who have failed in one subject, but who have made 40 per cent of the marks on each of the other two subjects, and 60 per cent of the total on said two subjects, may carry over to the examination in a part subsequently taken the examination on the subject in which they have failed.

(2) Candidates qualified under section I, preceding, who obtained junior leaving standing not later than 1900, may substitute for the course prescribed in Latin for the senior teachers' examination, the following courses in English literature and the history of the English language and literature:

English literature—I. Familiarity with and intelligent appreciation of the following texts:

Chaucer, The Prologue; Spenser, The Faerie Queene; Book I.; Milton, Paradise Lost; Book I.; L'Allegre; II. Penserose; Pope, The Rape of the Lock; The Prologue to the Satires; Goldsmith, The Traveller; The Deserted Village; Wordsworth, Ode on Intimations of Immortality; The Reverie of Poor Susan; Lucy Gray; Hart Leap Lines composed of a few lines above Tintern Abbey; Yarrow Unvisited; Yarrow Visited; Yarrow Revisited; Tennyson, In Memoriam (one paper).

Section III.—The History of the English language and literature—By O. F. Emerson (The Macmillan Company). The history of English literature as developed in the lives of the following in the English Men of Letters Series:

Autumn Millinery Opening

Wednesday, Sept. 26

And Following Days

"Dame Fashion's" whims and fancies for 1906 are charmingly defined in a comprehensive collection of Millinery conceits which portray that rare delicacy of conception and refinement demanded by our large and critical clientele.

It is with great pleasure we extend to our friends and patrons a most cordial invitation to attend our Fall Millinery Opening. Our showrooms present a scene of bewitching beauty. The large showcases and tables are taxed to their capacity to accommodate the large and brilliant assemblage of new millinery styles which will be introduced this week to an immense coterie of "Fashion's" followers.

This showing is in every sense of the word an authoritative one.

Only the styles, which "Dame Fashion" has touched with her wand of approval and proclaimed correct for autumn wear, are permitted a place in this collection.

Just think of it, ladies! All sizes of hats—large, medium and small—are correct for fall wear. Isn't that reason for congratulation? Makes it far easier for everybody to get a becoming hat.

The SHAPES this season have a tendency towards irregularity. Brims have short fronts and long backs. When the right side is wide the left is generally narrow. The turns and twists have every appearance of irregularity—the idea seems to be to escape entirely from any degree of uniformity or stiffness—to secure an artistic effect that looks natural rather than designed.

On several hats we noticed transparent brims of lace and chiffon. This is an ultra-fashionable note in millinery—favored by the leaders of fashion in the American and Continental style centers.

Low, medium and high crowns are all fashionable. Dome-shaped hats are very conspicuous.

The most favored materials are OSTRICH VELVETS for dress occasions, SILK BEAVERS for both street and dress wear, FELTS for street wear, principally.

TRIMMINGS are almost in endless variety. Handsome feathers, beautiful plumes, captivating flowers, gloriously-tinted ribbons, light, airy maline, small and large buckles—all are favored, and used with telling effect by our clever milliners.

Burgundy and wine shades are among the most fashionable colors. Pink and old rose will not be denied. Dark reds of the cardinal order will be the choice of many careful dressers, while others will favor navy or lighter tones of blue. The new "Stella" blue must not be overlooked. Hunters' green, reseda and olive hold strong positions. Browns and grays also popular. Blacks and whites always correct—black this fall being extremely fashionable.

DRUNKENNESS A DISEASE

Remarkable Results Following the Orrine Treatment.

There are but few families who have not one or more members afflicted with this terrible disease, for such it is. Will power alone cannot cure the drink habit, but the scientific Orrine treatment is a tested and absolute cure. This treatment destroys the desire for liquor, so that the drink is not missed. We seek the worst cases, and cure them with Orrine. It can be given secretly. Orrine is sold and guaranteed by C. McCallum & Co., corner Dundas and Richmond streets.

Marion, Ill., Sept. 25.—A. E. Farley, of Kentucky, shot and killed his personal friend, Adolph Williams, Sunday night by mistake. The coroner's inquest developed that Farley and a negro in a camp six miles from here had had trouble. Farley left, and with a shotgun, it is said, to have lain in ambush for the negro. Williams, who was a white man, came along, and Farley, believing his friend to be the negro, fired both barrels of the shotgun at him. Men with bloodhounds followed the trail, caught Farley and brought him to the county jail.

A MEDICINE FOR THE MINER'S PACK.—Prospectors and others going into the mining regions, where doctors are few and drug stores not at all, should provide themselves with a supply of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It will offset the effects of exposure, reduce sprains, and when taken internally will prevent and cure colds and sore throat, and as a lubricant will keep the muscles in good condition.

THE CANAL JOKE.

Isn't it about time the Free Press dropped its Huron-Erie canal non-sense? Having been hoaxed itself, why continue trying to hoax the public?

The whole affair is a practical joke, the invention of a little coterie of wags in this city, who probably wished to test the limits of newspaper and public credulity. The use of the name of a prominent citizen of Sarnia, to give an appearance of good faith to the story, was, however, unwarranted, and he has disclaimed all responsibility.

Of course it would be a bonanza for this city if some one would build a $60,000,000 canal past its doors. It would be also a capital thing if ocean steamers could sail right up the Thames and tie up at the foot of Dundas street. There are a lot of things the people of London would like to have, but they have some practical questions to deal with and are not flying kites.

IMPROMPTU LAWMAKERS.

The British North America act is a fetish, like the American tariff. We are, all of us, "standpatters," afraid to change it, for fear that there will be no end to the needed amendments. Is it not time to wipe it out altogether?—Toronto World.

If all the fathers of Confederation were alive today they would say that they builded better than they knew. The B. N. A. act has done its work well. It has not outlived its usefulness, and might not be chloroformed so easily and cheerfully as the World assumes.

The B. N. A. act is a contract, but solemn obligations of this sort do not weigh against the great designs of the impromptu school of statesmanship. The World could no doubt produce at a moment's notice a brand new constitution, with all the modern improvements. A genius for improvisation is one of the gifts of a heaven-born reformer like Mr. W. F. Maclean. Other men have to grope their way through problems which are illuminated for him by the flash of intuition. His specialty lies in finding short-cuts to the millennium; he is well for him that the invention of an up-to-date organic law for this country is a matter of inspiration, instead of reason, or he might halt before the task.

The fathers of Confederation thought they had made a watertight, copper-bottomed, fireproof, time-lock constitution, but they were soon disillusioned. The B. N. A. act has been in the courts, off and on, ever since, and it has been gradually licked into working shape, until the federal and provincial governments know pretty nearly where they stand. Now after spending forty years in getting it to fit snugly, Mr. Maclean coolly asks us to throw it on the scrap-heap, and go through the same performance again. No one doubts his ability to improvise the most impeccable constitution ever put on paper, but it would have to go through its legal jumps just the same, and the Maclean wouldn't be the ringmaster.

Mr. Maclean is asking the people of Canada to do many new and wonderful things all at once, but they draw the line at letting him throw the B. N. A. act into the melting pot.

THE POWER COMMISSION'S THIRD REPORT.

The report of the first Ontario hydro-electric commission, dealing with the water powers of the Georgian Bay district, cannot be squared with the policy of the Ontario Government, as applied in the lease of Healey's Falls.

The commissioners make these recommendations in their report to the Lieutenant-Governor:

"We respectfully submit that in the thickly-settled portions of this district water powers are scarce and limited, and valuable. A demand exists now for all the power which can be conveniently produced; in the near future demands will be made, in all probability, on the water powers of the Muskoka River for transmission to supplement the available power of the Severn and Beaver Rivers. It therefore is imperative that the water powers of the Severn, Muskoka or other rivers not yet leased by the crown be retained for the use of the many municipalities which must for all time depend on these sources for whatever electrical energy they may require for town water power, and should any lease of water power be granted in the future, such lease should specify the rates at which the hydro-electric power can be obtained and quantity at the generating plants ready for instant use, or at the point of delivery in the various municipalities.

"This is particularly applicable with respect to the Georgian Bay towns, where, if any widespread benefit is to be obtained, the concerted action of all the municipalities interested is necessary, as a private company would be interested in selling as much of the power as possible in those towns located near the water power, at rates which would approach as nearly as possible to coal-produced rates; thus giving a maximum of profit to the company, and a minimum of benefit to the customers, leaving the more distant towns for all time without any benefit."

The recommendation that any person or company leasing water powers in the district shall reserve electrical energy for the municipalities at a stated price, suggests the agreement between the Ross Government and the Electrical Development Company. The latter, in consideration of a second franchise for the development of 125,000-horsepower, was required to set apart half of that amount for the use of the municipalities, at a rate to be fixed by the Government. This arrangement was canceled by the present administration.

In the Healey's Falls lease there is no reservation in the interests of the municipalities. The developing company may distribute the electrical energy without regard to localities. If factories should be erected in the vicinity of the falls, capable of using all the power developed, the towns in the district must do without, or one town might consume the full amount, to the exclusion of the others. The present hydro-electric commission, the Premier now explains, is given power to fix the rates, but the commission is merely a sub-committee of the cabinet.

It is anomalous that the report of the first hydro-electric commission on the Georgian Bay water powers is signed by a member of the very Government which has adopted a different policy. The only explanation must be that Mr. Beck was not consulted, or was overruled, in the framing of the Healey's Falls lease.

The addition of "new provinces to Confederation will make the Canadian emblem on the British flag look more than ever like a quarter section of a crazy quilt. It is time that a simple and intelligible device replaced it.

The manager of the Industrial Exhibition explains that the American flag was not hoisted on the official flagstaff, but on a staff constructed by the Canadian branch of an American firm. He points out that the royal standard is hoisted down at Buckingham Palace, and the Stars and Stripes hoisted in its place, as a method of honoring the United States. Some Canadian newspapers and political organizations have been positively childish in their treatment of an insignificant episode.

PROSPERITY'S SHORTAGE.

[Hartford Times.]

Probably no such widespread shortage as was ever known in the United States as may now be found.

The agricultural interests of the country have been experiencing a great shortage of help and the total supply of farmhands is far below the demand. Many of the great manufacturing concerns, notably in some of the steel and iron districts, are handicapped by a shortage of labor.

The railroads are embarrassed by a shortage of cars, and the facilities for the prompt moving of the great crops are strikingly inadequate.

The money market is suffering from a shortage of funds with which to conduct the tremendous commerce of the country. These various shortages, which are all pronounced and which might be supplemented by others, are born of the abounding prosperity which the United States is experiencing in this record-breaking year. The volume of agencies and of accommodations needed to handle the business which this country is now transacting from day to day is enormous.

MAKING IT FIT.

[Harper's Weekly.]

When Dean Swift was called to the living of Laracor he inaugurated the custom of reading prayers on Wednesday and Friday. At the first Wednesday service he waited in vain for any one to appear except his clerk, Roger. At length he began, "Dearest beloved Roger, the Scriptures moveeth you and me in sundry places," and so proceeded to the end of the service.

WOE IN OTTAWA.

[Hamilton Times.]

There is woe in Ottawa. Six o'clock dinner, the last remaining mark of distinction between the true aristocrat and the vulgar Canadian who gaze at "Sassley" from without, has been obliterated, abolished—cooked, so to speak, seen that the "cockades" and "waistcoats" and "dishwashers" objected to fuddling over dinners when they should be titivating themselves to welcome Willie dear, and they delivered an ultimatum. Henceforward Ottawa will dine at noon. Some time parliamentarians will do their work in the daytime, too, instead of getting to work when people should be getting ready for bed.

THE BRITISH AUTOMOBILE BOOM.

[New York Sun.]

In the British automobile industry $30,000,000 is now invested and 20,000 operatives are employed. The present demand is unprecedented; so great indeed that the home factories cannot fill it, and supplement their output by importing foreign cars and parts. In the first seven months of this year more than 3,000 foreign automobiles were imported, costing $5,000,000, and also $5,000,000 worth of parts of machines.

In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1906, the United States sold Great Britain $348,995 worth of automobiles, but did not import any from that country.

THE DOMESTIC HELP PROBLEM.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Evidently the modern servant girl won't wash; she won't clean house; she wants $5 a week and "found," she insists on staying out nights; she plays the "piano;" must entertain her beaux in style and won't sleep in the attic. The reason is not far to seek. Side by side with these "wants" are flamboyant "ads." calling for girls at grobe wages while learning to operate sewing machines in modern factories; girls to put up pills at good wages; girls to do this and to do that in well-lighted, humanely-conducted factories with all the glamor of factory life thrown in.

GRAY HAIR IS POPULAR.

[New York Dispatch.]

New York society women and stage folk are taking kindly to a robe which has been quite busy during recent years. It is the chromophage. He makes your hair white before your time. In other words, he will turn your October brown hair or your raven locks into silvery threads before the wrinkles begin to appear on your brow. The handsome actor who has those white hairs on his temple that the women admire so is full of the chromophages. Bald-headed men are immune from the microbes. He only attacks the hair, and a man without hair need not worry about the chromophages. For several years it was thought that a process of the blood killed the coloring matter of the hair cells, but scalpologists in New York combat that theory. They say it is the chromophage. The microbe does not like heat, and for that reason the woman who uses the curling tongs is less likely to have gray hair than the one who puts her hair up in papers. Gray hair and white hair are now very popular, and it would not be surprising were some enterprising person to cultivate the chromophage.

MODEST.

[Tit Bits.]

"I'll give you a position as clerk to start with," said the merchant, "and pay you what you are worth. Is that satisfactory?"
"Oh, perfectly," replied the college graduate; "but—do you think the firm can afford it?"

"FIGHTING BEFORE LADIES."

[New York World.]

The Hon. Thomas Sharkey, refereeing a lightweight bout at the Englewood carnival, rebuked a too-energetic pugilist. "Remember," he said, severely, "you are fighting before ladies!"

The refining influence of women upon all conflicts, from polo to politics, is a pleasant theory. A greater man than Sharkey once disputed it. Telling how the wife of an opponent had been admitted to a famous ring-side, he said: "Refin'n' influence of woman, huh! I'd got him good and licked when he sings out 'Give it to him!' and in less'n a minute he'd spiked me in the shin."

Women watched the fiercest jousts of helmeted knights in the days of chivalry, when broken necks were not uncommon. They witnessed the combats of gladiators, as they still do the bull-fights in Spain and Mexico. They take joy from the hot fights of the football field, a more prolific source of serious injury than the prize-ring. Women are the cause of most private warfare, as land is the cause of most national wars.

As for glove fights, did not Theodore Roosevelt when a student in Harvard spar before galleries containing many women, and have not others continued to do so? Mr. Sharkey's caution was perhaps an excess of delicacy.

EMPIRE BUILDERS.

[Hamilton Herald.]

RAINS DAMPEN ARDOR OF CUBANS

Insurgents Incline to Seek Shelter in Armistice—Taft's Proposals.

Havana, Sept. 24.—Heavy rains are prevailing and the insurgents are inclined to seek the shelter of the armistice during the continuance of the peace negotiations. Heretofore there was merely a verbal agreement without any definite terms, but a document was prepared and taken yesterday to the camps of Gens. Guerra and Castillo, and these chiefs attached their signatures to it.

The document was signed today by acting Secretary of the Interior Montalvo, in behalf of the Government.

Alarming rumors of the lack of the discipline in the insurgent camps were brought to Secretary Taft and Assistant State Secretary Bacon today, at a time when the prospects of peace looked the brightest.

These reports came from the most confidential sources, and whether full credence is placed in them or not, the confidence of the American mediators in the insurgent leaders and their ability to guarantee the conduct of their forces has been shaken.

Despite the truce the insurgents unquestionably are preparing for continued warfare.

The following is the text of Secretary Taft's armistice, as agreed upon absolutely by the insurgents, and on one condition by the Government officials:

"A truce or suspension of arms having been decreed by the President of Cuba, and proclaimed to the forces of the Liberal party by their leaders, I, as intermediary for the purpose of arranging a permanent peace, have the honor to request the opposing parties specifically to agree during the truce to refrain from all acts of hostility, and to desist from all military operations of a hostile character, and all preparatory movements or maneuvers which could not have been performed during the continuance of hostilities, or which would have been performed under the flag of the opposing party."

1. No movements of troops shall take place on either side without a notification to the opposing authorities, viz., the secretary of the interior of Cuba, Alfred Zayas, representing the Liberal party, and the American peace commission.

2. This peace shall be effective throughout Cuba.

3. If either party violates any of the expressed conditions, the opposing shall not take hostile action until after a complaint notification to the peace commission.

4. Hostilities shall not be resumed for at least 24 hours after notification to the peace commission.

It is requested that acceptance of these conditions be made in writing to me (Signed), Very respectfully, Wm. H. Taft, secretary of war of the United States.

The condition which the secretary of state, Montalvo, made to signing the document was that he should notify Secretary Taft instead of Senator Zayas (president of the Liberal party), if the Government desired to move troops.

WIVES OF BARON MEET AND WEEP

Incidentally Another Spouse and Two Children Are in Germany.

New York, Sept. 22.—The two wives of "Baron" August Franz Eugene von Waldeck Soteld, arrested for bigamy, faced each other yesterday in a lachrymose conversation vowing vengeance.

The meeting was both dramatic and sensational, bringing into the light a 3-year-old boy, said to be "the very image of his father," and a third wife in Germany, reputed to be the mother of two children.

The women met at the home of "Baroness No. 1," Mrs. Katherine D. Voss, Newark, N. J. "Baroness No. 2," during the conversation, having been satisfied that her marriage was null and void, pulled off her wedding ring and announced that in future she would be known by her maiden name, Miss Blanche Weston Jewett. She said she was through with the "baron" and would return to her home in Boston. She was born in Lowell, Mass. Her grandfather at one time was mayor of that city.

"Baroness" No. 1 greeted her husband's second spouse cordially. In comparing notes they found that Soteld has a wife in Germany and two children by her.

The conversation had barely begun when Mrs. Moss left the room and returned a few minutes later with a curly-headed little boy of two and a half years.

"Baroness" No. 2 thought he was a "living image" of his father, and said so.

"Baroness" No. 1 told how her husband had borrowed $100 from her and $300 from her mother, which he had not returned.

"Baroness" No. 2 met that tale by declaring that in the few weeks of their married life prior to his arrest the "baron" has used several hundred dollars of her money, besides taking her valuable diamond ring.

As a result of their meeting, both women will testify against the "baron."

Having tasted the flesh of various animals, a Northampton gentlemen declares that a donkey makes the most excellent of any animal, the flavor resembling that of a young turkey.

PRINCESS HENRY FEARS FOR ENA

Sorry That Her Daughter Made the Match With Spanish Monarch.

London, Sept. 24.—The intimate friends of Princess Henry of Battenberg declare that she is now beginning to regret more than ever that her daughter, Princess Ena, made the Spanish royal match. Under the glamor of the brilliant doings in Madrid, and carried away more or less by the extremely apparent devotion of the lovers to each other, the after considerations did not loom very large.

When she left her daughter in Madrid, however, there was a most affecting farewell, and again at Cowes in August some of the scenes between mother and daughter were most touching. For it has been borne in upon Princess Henry that the opposition to Princess Ena at the Spanish court is not only not subsiding, but is increasing. This was prophesied by the Empress Eugenie.

Almost everyone of any importance in Spain was opposed to the union of King Alfonso with the British princess. Added to this there is the constant manifestation of an anarchistic feeling in Spain, and the question of the safety of her daughter is now giving Princess Henry frequent anxiety.

During the recent cruises with Sir Thomas Lipton the princess insisted upon being in frequent touch with the telegraph offices, and many of her telegraphic messages were exchanged between her royal highness and the queen of Spain.

In the Isle of Wight a good many visits from Queen Ena by yacht and by train are being looked forward to.

There are tangible grounds for the revival of rumor that a marriage is to take place next spring between the new Marquis of Anglesey and Princess Patricia of Connaught. The young people have met on several occasions lately, and they get on particularly well together.

The Duke of Connaught, father of Princess Patricia, is not only a keen-sighted man of the world, but also a good father, or he might have been tempted a little while back to try to coerce his daughter into marrying King Alfonso.

She was the first choice given the young King of Spain among British princesses. When the marriage was proposed to her she shuddered at the suggestion. She threw herself down on the floor and screamed and declared that she would "not marry that horrid little man." The Duke of Connaught is a man of sound common sense and he never pressed it.

But it isn't certain that you will find yours sins out if the police do not lend a hand.

DEATH MYSTERY AT SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Poisoning and Incendiarism Figure in the Case—Small Boy Victim.

Brewster, N. Y., Sept. 25.—A series of incendiary fires and the death of a baby by poison has caused a rigid investigation to be commenced by the county authorities.

The victim is Harry Washington Winslip, the 2-year-old son of Herbert Winslip, a wealthy farmer who has lived for twenty years at Cole's Corners. The members of the household were his wife and three sons, aged 15, 9 and 2 years old respectively, and Jennie Birch—a 14-year-old girl, who has been with the family for three years as a helper to Mrs. Winslip.

A few days ago Mr. Winslip went to Otego on business. The day after he left his cow stables and barn were burned to the ground. The next day someone attempted to burn the house. Six attempts were made throughout the day. One fire was discovered in a closet, one in bed ticking in an upper part of the house, and another blaze started in a trunk in the garret.

Jennie Birch discovered most of the fires and gave the alarm.

Jennie Birch yesterday came in from the yard with a peach, which she said she had just picked from a tree in the orchard. Harry Washington Winslip, 2 years old, asked for the fruit, and Jennie peeled it and gave him a portion, keeping part for herself.

The child had barely swallowed his first bite of the peach when he fell to the floor in violent convulsions. Jennie immediately began to complain of a pain in the stomach, and she, too, fell to the floor, and her body bent backward like a bow, her head and heels almost touching.

Dr. Birdsall, of Patterson, N. Y., was summoned by telephone. He found both children in strychnine poisoning, with all the symptoms of strychnine poisoning, and both physicians worked for hours.

The boy died, but by heroic treatment, the girl's life was saved, and she is practically well today.

When Dr. Birdsall was told of the mysterious fires that preceded the poisoning incident he notified Coroner Mitchell, who immediately performed an autopsy. Though both physicians agreed that the children showed unmistakable symptoms of strychnine poisoning, nothing was found in the boy's stomach to substantiate their diagnosis. The coroner gave Dr. Birdsall what was left of the peach for chemical analysis.

The mystery is complicated by the outcome of the autopsy. If strychnine had been placed on the peach before it was handed to the child, some trace of it would have shown in the child's stomach.

PASTORS TO WAR ON DIVORCE EVIL

The Omaha Ministerial Union Considers Sliding Scale of Pledges.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 24.—A sliding scale of pledges guiding the remarriage of divorced persons was recommended to the ministerial union by a special committee to which the matter was recently referred. The pledges presented with the suggestion that the ministers sign such clauses as agree with their convictions are:

To make careful inquiry of persons seeking to be married as to previous marriage, etc., in order that I may judge of the propriety of officiating.

To require, in the case of strangers, that their reliability be vouched for by someone in whom I have confidence.

To solemnize no marriage where I am convinced that either party is unfit for marriage by reason of age, ill-health, or vicious habits.

To marry no divorced persons within one year from the granting of the decree.

To refuse in every case to remarry a divorced person whom I have reason to believe is the offender against the former marriage bond.

To refuse to marry a divorced person where the divorce is obtained by collusion without adequate grounds on either side.

To refuse to marry any divorced person whatsoever, except the innocent party in a case where the best of my knowledge and belief the other party was guilty of adultery.

To refuse in all cases to remarry a divorced person.

The report of the committee will be discussed at a later meeting.

For Family Colds

A reliable cough and cold cure should be always in the house ready for use the moment the first symptoms appear.

It is always easier, cheaper and better to check a cold in the very beginning.

It is safer, too.

Shilo's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, has been tested for thirty-three years, and tens of thousands of homes in Canada and the United States to-day are never without it.

A dealer writes: "Shilo's Consumption Cure is without doubt the best remedy for Coughs and Colds on the market. Once used, my customers will buy no other.—L. Elmer, Nantawaga, Ont."

If it were anything but the best would this be so? Try it in your own family. If it does not cure you, get back all it cost you. We take all the chances. Neither you nor your dealer can lose. Isn't that fair? 25c. is the price. All dealers in medicine sell.

A MISSION FULFILLED

There was a moment's silence; and then he was aware that she was holding something out toward him with a trembling hand and white face.

"What is this?" she asked in a strange low voice, her dark eyes blazing with a new light, as they fixed themselves upon his.

It was a note, crushed and tumbled, which he had let fall on rising from his chair. His face changed.

"Give it to me," he said; "it is one of my letters."

But she made no appearance of returning it to him; and without force he could not have regained possession of it.

"No," she said, "it is not 'one of your letters.' It is a note from Lady Elizabeth. And why may I not see it? What has she to say to my husband that I may not know?"

"Keep it then!" he exclaimed, angrily.

He would not lower himself to tell a lie; he would not, weak and foolish though he were, try to deceive further the woman whose noble nature he dimly felt, even at this moment.

There was a short silence. Then with set face, she placed the paper on the table between them, unopened.

"Take it!" she said, her tone full of the bitterness of an ill-repressed scorn; "I do not want to see the woman's words. Is it not enough to know that you are no longer true to me?"

And she half turned to go, when by a gesture he restrained her.

He pushed away the missive, and

CHAPTER XXIII.

Lady Elizabeth Brought: To Bay. While pacing his room to and fro, Keith had not observed his wife leaving the house in the little pony-carriage which Mr. Ronaldson had placed at her own special disposal; nor did he happen to hear the noise of the wheels as they rattled swiftly over the frosty road toward Byfield Court. He had no presentiment that, while himself aimlessly popping at rabbits and inoffensive small birds in the fields, Margherita was standing in Lady Elizabeth's morning-room. Indeed, a knowledge of the fact would have considerably startled him.

It was a bold step on the part of the Italian girl; one which her English sister, under like circumstances, would probably have hesitated to take. But Margherita had been convinced of the truth of her husband's assurances; and believing him to be too weak, though willing, to effect his own deliverance, she had determined upon arraigning his evil angel before the bar of her own authority; and once for all to rid both herself and him of the woman who desired to divide them. She felt no fear, she entered the pretty boudoir, where, last week, she had spent so many mournful hours. Then she had been doubtful, perplexed—now she was resolute, courageous. No woman should steal her husband's heart from her so long as she had power to crush his temptress and to deliver him. It was strange, resolve, born of a still stranger line of argument; and it showed that Keith's half-educated foreign wife was beginning to act upon that superiority of nature and of will which was yet but dimly recognized—a superiority which even now inspired her love with something of a half-protective character.

The early call had a suspicious air to Lady Elizabeth, and at first she thought of refusing herself to her visitor. But, on second thoughts, she descended, greeting Margherita with an unusual cordiality by no means modified by the expression of the latter's truth-telling eyes.

"Ah," she said, lightly, "you are here to tell me your husband cannot come to lunch, as I asked him? There are one or two little matters of business I wanted to consult him about. Pray sit down."

But she changed color, cool as she was, when Margherita with a disdainful gesture, declined both the proffered hand and the seat.

"I have not much to say, Lady Elizabeth," she remarked; "and my companion admired her as she had never done before, as she stood, pale, beautiful, and upright, speaking her words slowly and clearly, with a dignity uninjured by their foreign accent—and I will say it at once. You sent, I think, this note to my husband this morning?"

"And he showed it to you?" asked the other, laughing, but with a spot of angry color on each cheek.

"No, Lady Elizabeth—not until I—asked it of him."

Lady Elizabeth laughed again, more scornfully than before.

"You are quite welcome. What a ridiculous fuss to make about a friendly little note like that!"

"Lady Elizabeth," said Margherita, with sudden fire, "this is useless talk. I know all—my husband has told me. Spare your words."

"What did he tell you, poor fool? There was nothing to tell. I wish you joy, Mrs. Keith, of your invaluable husband. I assure you I have no desire to rob you of him."

"That is enough—if you mean it," said her companion. "Promise me that you will leave him alone—that you will not meet him except when obliged. Lady Elizabeth, he does not love you! It is you who would lead him away from his wife and duty."

"Really?" asked the other, with consummate impudence; "did he tell you that, too, or did you find it out for yourself? You are a wonderful woman, Mrs. Ronaldson!"

"Promise me," repeated Margherita. "If, at least, such as you can keep a promise."

"Such as I?" echoed the other, shrilly. "And who may you be, Mrs. Ronaldson, to preach to me? You, a beggar-girl from Italy?"

"I am a woman, Lady Elizabeth; and, thank God, a better woman than you! For I am true to my husband. I will not again ask you to make me this promise. You might lie to me. But I keep this note of yours; and if you do not, I ask of you, as a respectable woman should, I will show it to your husband, Colonel Stockton. He, perhaps, will bring you to your senses."

For one moment Lady Elizabeth glared at her with the fury of a tigress. In her large, cold gray eyes; then, with lips pressed together, she checked her passion, and silently returned the bow with which her companion turned and left her—for the first time in her careless, heartless, reckless life, conquered by another, and that other a woman.

"He Wins! He Wins!" Cries She Who

New York, Sept. 25.—Ten times over a course of 64 turns, with 11 sharp curves in its 29.71 miles, at an average speed of 54.36 miles an hour for the total distance of 297.1 miles, was the sort of driving of the 90-horsepower Locomobile that "Dare-Devil" Joe Tracy had to do in the elimination trials for the Vanderbilt Cup to win—a bride. Tracy could easily have qualified by finishing second or third, and have loathed on the last two laps, and the men who had centered a fortune, their brains, ingenuity and care in the car he drove were not only willing but hopeful after eight laps that he would simply drive to qualify, and not take the risk of dashing all their hopes by piling the costly machine in a scrap heap beside the course.

Drove To Win a Bride.

But they did not know Tracy or why he drove the last two laps of the tortuous course as though he were making a dash for the mile record on a straight stretch of smooth beach, for he was playing for the greatest prize, good luck or bad luck betide, and pretty Miss Millicent Taylor, of Wichita, Kan., who had promised Tracy to become his bride if he won the elimination trials, was lending him every encouragement that modesty permitted from a seat at the finish line.

"Ah," she said, lightly, "you are here to tell me your husband cannot come to lunch, as I asked him? There are one or two little matters of business I wanted to consult him about. Pray sit down."

TWAIN FAVORS SPELLING REFORM

He Asks Assistance from the Associated Press.

REFORM WITHIN THREE MONTHS

Mark Says Whole World Will Adopt New System by End of That Time.

New York, Sept. 24.—The annual meeting of members of the Associated Press was held in this city last week. The members, who include publishers, editors and other representatives of papers taking the Associated Press service, met with several guests at dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Melville E. Stone, general manager, presided, and with him at the guests' table were Samuel L. Clemens, who discussed "Reform Spelling," Gen. Horace Porter, former ambassador to France, who responded to the toast, "Our Guests"; Henry A. Shute, the author, who talked of "Critics," and Prof. Geo. E. Vincent, of the University of Chicago, who spoke on "Purely Academic."

After the guests and members were seated the loving cup was passed, and each member drank, each in turn, being introduced to the other guests. The toastmaster then introduced Gen. Horace Porter.

Gen. Porter paid a high and graceful tribute to the work of the Associated Press and of newspaper men in general. In conclusion he said:

"We all criticize the press; we all abuse it, and we all take it. We can't eat our breakfast without it. We have no appetite for our dinners until we have seen its contents. If you wish to know the value of the freedom of the press we have just two examples like a teach us all. This country is the most prosperous in all the annals of history with a free press; that great empire in the east in which the red hand of anarchy is seen throughout its borders has a press muzzled by a censor."

First Club Launched on Jug.

Mr. Stone next introduced Mark Twain, who was greeted with enthusiastic and prolonged applause. Mr. Stone said of Mr. Clemens among other things that he was the "inspiration of the first press club in this country."

"The truth is," replied Mr. Clemens, "the inspiration was due to a jug that someone carried in. That club is still running."

Mr. Clemens spoke in characteristic vein. He said in part:

"I am here to make an appeal to the nations in behalf of the simplified spelling. I have come here because they cannot all be reached except through you. There are only two forces that carry light to all the corners of the globe—the sun and the Associated Press. I may seem to be flatter the sun, but I do not mean it so. I am meaning only to be just and fair all around."

"You speak with a million voices no one can reach so many races—many hearts and intellects as you, except Rudyard Kipling, and he cannot do it without your help. If the Associated Press will accept and use our simplified forms and thus spread them to the ends of the earth, covering the whole spacious planet with them as with a garden of flowers, our difficulties are at an end."

"Every day of the 365 the only pages of the world's countless newspapers that are read by all the human beings and angels and devils that can read, are those pages that are sent out from Associated Press dispatches."

Begs, Beseeches, Implores.

"And so I beg you, I beseech you, oh, I implore you—to spell them in our simplified forms. Do this—daily, constantly, persistently for three months—only three months—it is all I ask. The infallible result—victory, victory, all down the line."

"For, by that time all eyes here and above and below will have become adjusted to the change in love with it and the present clumsy and ragged forms will be grotesque to the eye and revolting to the soul. And we shall be rid of phthisis and phthisis and pneumonia and pneumonias and diphtheria and peradactyl, and all those other same words which no man addicted to the simple Christian life can try to spell and not lose some of the bloom of

Qualities of the Best Food

Malta-Vita Is Wholesome, Delicious, Pure and Clean.

In all the recent discussions about food and food products, we have heard only the most favorable comment on Malta-Vita, the delicious malted whole-wheat food. Everywhere people are eating Malta-Vita and declaring that nothing could take its place, especially for breakfast.

Anyone who has ever eaten Malta-Vita knows how good it is. Anyone who has eaten it for any length of time knows how healthful it is. Persons who have seen it made know it is pure and clean. These three distinctive qualities make it the most popular food on the market.

Malta-Vita, best whole wheat, mixed with pure barley malt extract, thoroughly steamed and cooked and every flake baked to a crisp, is rich in nutrition and is assimilated readily even by the weakest stomach. Every one of its health-giving, strength-building elements is taken up by the blood to nourish and sustain life. No wonder that Malta-Vita is called "The Perfect Food," and that physicians recommend it for the sick and the well, the weak and the strong.

And Malta-Vita is so good to eat—not at all like the tasteless variety of flaked foods. A perfect breakfast is impossible without it and it's just as good three times a day. Eat it with milk, cream or fruit. You never tasted anything so good.

Malta-Vita is always ready to eat. No cooking. All grocers, 10 cents.

his plot in the demoralizing attempt. Do not doubt it. We are chameleons and our partialities and prejudices change places with an easy and blessed facility, and we are soon used to the change and happy in it. We do not regret our old yellow fangs and snags and tushes after we have worn nice fresh uniform store teeth a while.

Long Words at Seven Cents.

"Do I seem to be seeking the good of the world? That is the idea. It is my public attitude; privately I am merely seeking my own profit. I will do it, but it is sound, and it is virtuous for no public interest is anything other or nobler than a massed accumulation of private interests."

"In 1883 when the simplified spelling movement first tried to make a noise, I was indifferent to it. More, I even irreverently scoffed at it. What I needed was an object lesson, and I got it."

Here the speaker related an anecdote of having once been required to write ten pages of copy for a magazine where words of not less than from ten to twenty letters were employed, at 7 cents a word, thereby suffering great pecuniary loss, and continued:

"From that day to this I have been a devoted and hard-working member of the heaven-born institution, the International Association for the Prevention of Cruelty to Authors, and now I am laboring with Carnegie's simplified committee, and with my heart in the work."

"Simplified spelling can convey any fact you need to convey, and it can pour out emotions like a sewer. I beg you, I beseech you, to adopt our spelling and print all your dispatches in it."

Speaks for Newcomers.

"I have reached a time of life, 70 years, where none of the concerns of this world have much interest in me personally. I think I can speak dispassionately upon this matter, because, in the little while that I have got to remain here, I can get along very well with these old-fashioned forms, and I don't propose to make any trouble about it at all; I shall soon be where they won't care how I spell as long as I keep the Sabbath."

"There are eighty-two millions of people that use this orthography, and it ought to be simplified in our behalf, but it is kept in its present condition to satisfy one million people who like to have their literature in the old form. That looks to me to be rather selfish, and we keep the forms as they are, while we have got a million people coming in here from foreign countries every month, and they have got to struggle with this orthography of ours, and it keeps them back and damages their citizenship for many years until they learn to spell the language, if they ever do learn."

"This is merely sentimental argument."

In conclusion Mark Twain said:

"Now you see before you the wreck and ruin of what was once a young person like yourselves. I am exhausted by the heat of the day, I must take what I left of this wreck and ruin out of your presence, and carry it away to my home and spread it out there and sleep the sleep of the righteous. There is nothing much left of me but my age and my righteousness, but I leave with you my love and blessing, and may you always keep your youth."

STENSLAND SENT BACK TO CHICAGO

Bank-Wrecker Will Have to Face His Accusers—Has Made Confession.

New York, Sept. 25.—Paul O. Stensland, of Chicago, bank embezzler, who arrived from Tangier, Morocco, yesterday on the steamer Prinz Adalbert, was brought here at 6 o'clock from quarantine, and locked up at police headquarters. He will be taken to Chicago today.

Harry Olson, assistant states attorney of Illinois, who accompanied Stensland, stated that Stensland made a confession to him while en route from Tangier.

Theodore Stensland, the banker's son, immediately afterwards issued a statement in which he said that his father would plead guilty to certain of the indictments charging violation of the Illinois state banking laws after he had examined the indictments. He would not plead guilty to forgery, but would reveal everything leading up to the wrecking of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, and in so doing would implicate other men prominent in Chicago financial circles.

He added that if there was a shortage of more than $400,000 in the accounts of the bank his father would prove that Cassius Herring was responsible for everything above that amount.

Stensland arrived weak physically, and showing much evidence of the strain which he has attended his extraordinary flight through many countries, his desperate, but ineffectual try for freedom down the West Africa coast, and his final capture in Tangier, from which place the United States authorities were permitted to remove him by the Government of Morocco.

There was an affecting meeting between father and son on board a tug which the prisoner boarded at quarantine, and upon which he came to New York.

Stensland denied the report that he tried to commit suicide while in Morocco. He says that a sudden fainting spell there was interpreted as an attempt at self destruction by the Moroccan soldiers.

SHOT BY A COMPANION

John Kendrick, of the Canadian Soo Met Instant Death.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 25.—John Kendrick, 13-year-old son of Henry Kendrick, of this place, was the victim of a fatal gunning accident Sunday afternoon. With Ernest Quigley, aged 16 years, he was hunting partridge three miles from the Soo. They sighted a bird and followed it through the woods. Quigley went ahead with the gun cocked ready to shoot, and carried it over his shoulder. It was accidentally discharged, and the shot entered Kendrick's breast, killing him instantly. The body was brought to town, and Coroner McCaig decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Two Terrorisms HARRASS RUSSIA

One Bureaucratic, the Other Revolutionary.

BRUTALITY BEYOND BELIEF

Repression by Courtmartial is a Failure—Revolutionary Spirit Unanimous.

London, Sept. 24.—The story of revolution, day by day, in Russia, is best told at the present stage by a series of incidents. Three peasants, charged with mutilating ikons in a church window were last week courtmartialled and sentenced to death for sacrilege and lese majeste and hanged the same day.

The Times continues its remarkable series of articles from the interior of Russia showing that there is an almost unanimous revolutionary spirit among the peasantry. The following excerpt gives a vivid idea of the latest revelations:

"Two terrorisms are at the present moment striving for mastery in Russia and it is the bureaucratic rather than the revolutionary which strikes uselessly and capriciously and stoops to mean victims. The authors of the Viborg manifesto are at liberty, but those who print and circulate manifestos fill the jails by thousands, and miserable Jews, students and hysterical women are the mean victims of the Government. Even when punishment falls where it is due, it is often administered in a manner that leads to general palliation of the crime, and even sometimes to apotheosis of the criminal."

Making Revolutionists.

"I spent a few days among a household of which the younger members at least had been made revolutionists by having their feelings wrought upon by the sight of men with 'wolf' passports, to which I referred in my last article. Some of these unfortunate 'wolves' often present themselves at a door begging bread. They cannot be given work or shelter for more than a night, and their abiding Russian subjects are compelled to become participants in what they feel to be a crime against these men, however heinous their offenses may have been."

"I, myself, have seen another wolf since I last wrote. This one did not cry hands up, but he cried like a child as he showed his feet, which were sore with much travel, and complained that he must still move on. He had been sent to Perm, thence to Odessa, and was now tramping, under orders, to Kasaan, whence he may be sent to Vladivostok or anywhere else in the Russian Empire excepting always Nijni Novgorod, which is his home, where he had eaten the fruit of the forbidden tree of knowledge of political rights, and from which, paradoxically, he had been driven forth, his passport being a flaming sword forbidding him to return."

"It is said that M. Siplaguine, when minister of the interior, with perverse ingenuity, invented the wolf's passport and that it was for that crime that he was assassinated."

Brutality Beyond Belief.

"Or take the case of Marie Spiridonova. I have never heard of her before the other week when I was in the government of Tambov and there it is difficult to hear of anyone else. If the truth must be told, even I who have learned the wisdom of throwing many grains of salt upon popular tales and who am old-fashioned enough to place assassination from whatever motive in the category of cardinal sins, am strangely wrought upon by all that I hear of this girl who killed the vice-governor of Tambov."

I am told that Abramoff, a Cossack officer, and Zhetdanoff, a police officer, insulted and tortured her in prison, stripped her naked and branded her body with lighted cigarettes, broke the joints of her fingers and gouged out one of her eyes, so that when her mother saw her in jail she failed to recognize who an old-fashioned enough to place assassination from whatever motive in the category of cardinal sins, am strangely wrought upon by all that I hear of this girl who killed the vice-governor of Tambov."

The Pandora Thermometer

The thermometer on the Pandora range oven means precisely in accuracy to the cook what the square and compass mean to the draftsman. Without the square and compass the draftsman would have to work entirely by guess, just as you do without an accurate and reliable thermometer on your oven.

The Pandora thermometer reduces cooking to an exact science. You know precisely how much heat you have and what it will do in a given time. It is one of the small things which makes the Pandora so much different and better than common ranges.

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

Frank Gotch, the big wrestler, says he wants a belt at Hackenschmidt, with the padded mitts. We don't know just how fast Hack is with the gloves, but judging Gotch from his performance with "Boomer" Weeks, who, by the way was only a novice when the wrestler tackled him, we would say that if Hack is able to handle his hands at all he should have no trouble in punching the ambitious Frank full of holes. Gotch fought Weeks in Spokane, and, according to all accounts, Weeks hit him where and when he pleased. From here all this talk looks like press agent stuff. We're from Missouri; show us.

Eastern League players are off to their respective homes.

Good boy, McGinnis! 'Ere's 'appy days! Hockey is a good game, but it is not quite as interesting as matrimony.

Noses are even in the lacrosse union at present. Well, uncertainty is the life of sport.

"Kid" Sullivan, of Baltimore, and a member of crooked Al Herford's stable of boxers, is now being heralded as the one scrapper who can take Joe Gans' scalp. We happen to know something about the respective abilities of the two men in question, and if they ever meet we will soak our surplus cash on the ink-spot. Gans taught the "Kid" all that the latter knows about the game, and could put the bug on the "Kid" with one hand tied. Jimmy Britt made Sullivan look like the wrong side of a counterfeit bill in a "Fraco" ring not very long ago. Nelson made Britt yell "Enough!" and everybody knows what Gans did to the Battle.

Close race on in the American League. The Highlanders are tied for first honors with the Sox of the Windy City.

Huge Joseph Nealon may vanish from the National League after this season. Jack Glasgow, the San Francisco manager, is doing his best to make Joe year for year. If Glasgow has his way, Nealon will guard first sack at San Francisco next season, and Pittsburgh will lose a young man who cost a barrel of money, according to advices received from Chicago.

It will be impossible for San Francisco to get Nealon unless he is released or purchased from Pittsburgh. San Francisco fans would extend Big Joe a royal welcome, for the Sox could use him. Nealon may not want to return east this year, and in that case arrangements might be made with Pittsburgh whereby he could play here. Nealon plays ball more for the sport of it, and therefore is in a position to do some dictating.—New York Journal.

Nealon plays the initial sack for the Pirates of the National League, and is very popular with the fans.

And now Tommy Burns accuses Jack O'Brien of wanting to frame up a match. But that is rich! Tommy has been known to do the same thing himself. People in glass houses, etc.

Willie Hoppe, the youthful billiard sharp, is practicing daily for his match with "Wizard" Jake Schaefer, set for Oct. 18. Schaefer was Hoppe's teacher.

Mervin Hart has woken up with a start and has matched himself to box fifteen rounds with Mike Schreck at Bellevue, Ky., on Saturday next. The contest is slated to occur at 3 o'clock, in the afternoon, and will form part of an athletic carnival conducted by the local athletic club.

Mervin has been quietly rusticiating at his Kentucky farm ever since Tommy Burns slipped it over on him, and is said to be in great shape. Schreck has been vainly trying to get a match for several months, and was about ready to agree to fight six men at once, when the Hart proposition came in sight.

Mervin had better have stayed back to hum' on the farm. He is more of a farmer than a boxer.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the family residence to Ivan Cemetery.

The Wellington Street Methodist Church Epworth League room was filled last evening, the attraction being a lecture on music by Mr. J. W. Fetherston, who treated the subject from an historic standpoint, giving salient points up to the year 1400 A. D. At the close of the lecture a few words were given on the life of Mozart, and one of his masterly quartets, for flute, violin, viola and cello, was given in a masterly manner by the Mozart quartet, composed of Mr. Fetherston and his three sons. This quartet is a credit to the city.

"OUT IN IDAHO"
A REAL THRILLER

Western Melodrama Immensely Pleases Packed House at the Grand Last Night.

"Out in Idaho," a breezy, thrilling western melodrama, packed 'em in at the Grand last night. The gallery record was broken, and when Manager Stewart saw the crowds standing around the walls, he promptly ordered 100 or more down to seats in the balcony because he knew the fire chief was liable to come in at any time, and there would be a row in the camp if he saw the crowd in the gallery. The balcony was also packed, and the pit had only a few seats to spare.

"Out in Idaho" made good from start to finish. The audience went wild over it at times, and great was the satisfaction of the hurricane deck when the dainty little soubrette, Lou Lawrence, pulled guns on a bloodthirsty Mexican and fooled him to a standstill.

The play boasts of dozens of thrilling situations, and much really funny comedy. In fact, the role of the judge who does everything "according to the laws of the State of Idaho," is as funny as it is possible to imagine. Some very clever acting in the part is done by Mr. Harry E. Gage.

The role of the hero was given a good impersonation by Mr. H. Webb Chamberlain, and Miss Lawrence, as "Joe," the heroine, proved herself a bewitching miner's daughter. Some very fair work was also done by Mr. Art Rankin, as the stranded actor.

"Out in Idaho" will be seen at the Grand again tonight.

The discovery of a love letter of doubtful date, and the bewilderment of husbands Nos. 1 and 2 of the recipient, go to make up a series of laughable complications in "The Love Letter," which is being presented by Miss Virginia Harned and a star company, under the Shubert management at the Grand on the night of Tuesday, Oct. 2.

During the year, there have been 31 baptisms, 9 marriages, 10 burials, 19 persons confirmed, and 16 subscriptions of the holy communion; the subscriptions amounted to $1,221.59, while for missionary purposes $133.02 had been raised. The debt had been reduced by $200, and interest amounting to $150 had been paid. On Sunday the thankoffering amounted to $52.87.

MONEY IN A BUSTLE

Woman Leaves One Under Her Pillow Which Held $450.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 25. — The happy habit of sleeping with her bustle under her pillow saved Mrs. O. D. Fort, of Hankinson, N. D., $450 today. Mr. and Mrs. Fort arrived from Hankinson yesterday and were assigned to room 103 at the Vendome. This morning the happy couple arose in great haste and caught the 9 o'clock train for Bemidji.

About the time Mr. and Mrs. Fort were catching the train, Minnie Brown, chambermaid, caught sight of something under one of the pillows whose form and substance is familiar to womanhood.

Clerk and chambermaid carefully undid the article of wearing apparel and found therein $450 in Canadian bills and $10 in gold.

"The Canucks always have money," commented the clerk. "These Canucks" apparently did not have enough to spare $450, however, and frantically expressed their preference for taking the bustle along my telephoning from Anoka.

"Did you find anything in our room?" queried Mr. Fort.

"Did you lose anything?" was the response of the hotel clerk.

"No, but my wife did," was the answer.

"All right, we have it," replied the clerk.

"Thank heaven. Send it to Bemidji," exclaimed Fort.

MR. ALTHOUSE WAS NAMED FOR BOARD

Nominated by Local Teachers' Association for Advisory Council.

Principal M. W. Althouse, of Rectory street school, was last night nominated by the London Teachers' Association as a candidate for the new advisory council to be formed by the Ontario department of education.

Candidates are being nominated in all parts of Ontario, but only four can be elected.

The nomination of Mr. Althouse was unanimous. He has had 25 years' experience as a teacher, and joined the local public school staff in 1891. Previous to that time he taught in Alisa Craig, Strathroy and other points in Middlesex.

The association also formed a principle association last night for the purpose of bringing the teachers together, so that they may be able to discuss at different times matters pertaining to the welfare of education in London.

Principal McQueen, Victoria school, was elected president; Principal Wyatt, St. George's school, secretary, and the principal of Chesley avenue school, councillor.

ANNUAL BANQUET
OF THE Y. M. C. A.

One Hundred and Twenty-Five Members and Friends Participated.

The annual banquet of the Y. M. C. A. was given last night and was thoroughly enjoyed by the 125 people who attended.

After the spread had been partaken of, President John Macpherson made a short address, in which he stated that the past year had been a most successful one and that the prospects for the coming year looked even brighter. Now that Mr. Brent had joined the staff it was stronger than it had ever been.

The Y. M. C. A. was a more popular institution than ever and was constantly reaching out and covering more territory.

Mr. Macpherson said that the industrial classes, in his opinion, would in a few years play as important a part in twentieth century life as the modern educational classes did at present.

Mr. F. H. Heath, chairman of the committee in charge of social work, said that this branch was the foundation of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. George A. Gregg, international educational secretary, who had just returned from England, was glad to be in the Forest City again. He said that the Y. M. C. A. is making great progress in Great Britain.

Mr. E. H. Parker, chairman of the physical culture department, said that the business men of this city did not realize the practical value of physical culture or they would do more for it.

Mr. Brent, the new physical director, was given the reception of the evening. He said that it had been stated that the present methods of living, the race would soon become extinct were it not for the infusion of fresh country blood. There was much in our modern life that needed correcting.

School children were compelled to study in poorly ventilated rooms, and many teachers were ignorant of the most simple rules of hygiene. He thought more Christianity was needed in our everyday life and that we would never reach the state of perfection until we studied God's plan in placing us on earth and then following it out.

Mr. A. L. Wickett spoke a few words on the importance of the religious work played in the Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Dyson Hague spoke of the earnest support he had always given the Y. M. C. A.

Secretary Wilson said that the Bible classes would begin on Oct. 2. More attention would be paid to this work than in the past.

A new price competition will be carried on, similar to that of last year. The prize this time is a trip to Duluth or Mackinac.

Paris, Sept. 25. — The Duke Fitz-James died yesterday at the Chateau de Montjustin, department of the Haute-Saone.

CHEAPEST OF ALL MEDICINES.
Considering the curative qualities of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil it is the cheapest medicine now offered to the public. The only required in any ailment is small, and a bottle contains many doses. If it were valued at the benefit it confers it could be purchased for many times the price asked for it, but increased consumption has simplified and cheapened its manufacture.

Among the relics of famous men in the possession of Dr. John Dixwell, of St. Louis, is Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes' shoe horn. It is an ordinary steel shoe horn affixed to a cane handle about four feet long. Armed with this the doctor could put on his shoes without stopping or wasting energy.

SOME PERSONS have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking and green fruit is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed, no further trouble will be experienced.

NEW YORK MECCA FOR CRIMINALS

Chicago Clergyman Compiles Interesting Statistics on This Subject.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Chicago criminals seem to have a liking for little old New York. One-tenth of all those fugitives from Chicago justice who are overtaken and captured are arrested in New York.

Rev. Mr. Hembree, a Chicago clergyman, has been collecting information on this subject, and has prepared tables, giving the relative attractiveness of various cities to the unsavory gentry in question.

During the period covered by Rev. Mr. Hembree's figures 1,114 fugitives from justice, fleeing from the police of Chicago, were captured at outlying points.

Of these 1,114 criminals, 71 were murderers, 83 forgers and 111 embezzlers. The arrests were made in 36 states, 2 territories and 2 foreign lands, showing how small a proportion of fugitives ever reach foreign shores.

Seven-eighths of the arrests, or 729 out of 1,114 were made in six states, as follows: Missouri 175, New York 145, Illinois 117, Wisconsin 103, Michigan 99 and Indiana 90.

The 111 arrested embezzlers were run to earth in eighteen different states and one reached Europe. Of these arrests, 41 were made in five cities, namely, New York 16, Detroit 8, Milwaukee 7, Buffalo and Philadelphia 6 each.

The Chicago Tribune says that the attraction of New York for embezzlers is accounted for by the reverend criminologist, not by the premise that they were trying to get to Europe, but by the fact that New York offers a good place to spend money.

The 63 arrests for forgery were made in 17 states and 1 foreign land. Of these 63, 11 were caught in Missouri, 3 in Indiana and 3 in Michigan, the rest scattering, showing the forger to be more cunning than the embezzler as a criminal.

St. Louis, either from its geographical situation or its reputation for negligent police methods, also was chosen as the haven of a great proportion of the fleeing murderers. Of seventy-one murderers who fled thirty-one were captured in States nearby Chicago, as follows: Missouri 10, Illinois 8, Indiana 6, Michigan 4, Iowa 3.

Why the criminals avoid Iowa to such an extent is not explained.

Of these seventy-one fugitive murderers thirty-two were caught in nine cities, as follows: St. Louis 8, New Orleans 5, New York 3, Cleveland 3, Minneapolis 3, St. Paul 3, Buchanan, Mich. 3, Milwaukee 2, Indianapolis 2.

The tables compiled by the Rev. Mr. Hembree appear to show that the criminal usually flees by rail, and that the destination is in proportion to the number of railway trains from Chicago to that point. It destroys the idea that the criminal is cunning in flight and affords the police a valuable table by which to guide themselves in throwing out the dragnet for fugitives.

A study of these tables shows that it is a rare thing for these city criminals to take refuge in the country. Perhaps the town bred criminal cannot bear the solitude and the restraints of country life. He prefers to hide himself in some large city where he may find temize with the local criminal population. He finds companionship there, but no safety, for that is the first place the police officers go to look for him.

It is a curious fact, on the other hand, that the country criminal rarely goes to the city as a place of refuge. His instinct leads him away even from the larger towns. A negro fugitive from the cotton plantation will hide himself in the swamps. The rural murderer of the North will go at once to the big woods, where he will seek employment as a lumber jack, or on some little farm far in the interior.

A SMALL PILL, BUT POWERFUL. — They that judge of the powers of a pill by its size, would consider Parnell's Vegetable Pills to be lacking. It is a little wonder among pills. What it lacks in size it makes up in potency. The remedies which it carries are put up in these small doses because they are so powerful that only small doses are required.
