Tried To Save Brother And Both Boys Perish

Sons of London Men Sink in River Thames While Bathing Under Dundas Street Bridge - Parents are Grief Stricken.

(Canadian Press Dispatch) LONDON, Ont., June 28.—The River Thames claimed its first victims of the summer season this afternoon, when Alfred and Wilson Nichols, of 423 Ridout street, were drowned in a double tragedy while swimming under Dundas St. bridge. The boys, who were ten and twelve years old, respectively, had been repeatedly warned by their parents to beware of the water, but yesterday, the first of the summer holidays, stole to the river, only a block away and waded in. The point at which the tragedy occurred is in close proximity to the business section, but in his excitement a third lad failed to promptly raise an alarm. It is said that Alfred the younger of the two brothers, waded into the water, which is but four feet deep at the point, and, stumbling, fell. His shouts for assistance prompted Wilson to follow him in an effort to effect his rescue. He sank twice before Wilson reached him, and when he rose for the third time he clung to his brother desperately. The elder lad had not the strength to combat the struggles of his brother and shared his fate. The mother was hastily summoned and for a time after she reached the scene the impression was held that only the younger brother had been drowned. When the two bodies were taken out she was prostrated, and is in a serious condition in her home. The police responded to an alarm and first-aid men and physicians worked for two hours in an effort to resuscitate them. One body was taken from the water by divers after thirty-five minutes, and the other was located seven minutes afterwards.

M. H. ROBERTSON PASSED AWAY Well Known Local Druggist Succumbs at Hospital This Morning. Had a Very Successful Business Career in Brantford.

It is with deep regret that the Courier records the death of Mr. Milton H. Robertson, who fell peacefully asleep in the hospital shortly before eleven o'clock this morning. He had been ailing for some time, and after a consultation of medical men, an operation was decided upon as the only chance of recovery. This he bore with characteristic fortitude and cheerfulness, but it had latterly become clear that he could not rally, and now he has been called home. He was 45 years of age, and was born at Tiverton. He chose the profession of druggist, and stood exceedingly high in his calling, owning two stores in the city. A sad feature is that he had lost both his father and his mother quite recently, and the three have passed away within the short space of seven weeks. Mr. Robertson was a man whom it was a privilege to call friend. Always affable, always willing to utter the comforting word or extend the helping hand, he was the exemplification of a manly Christianity which earned the regard and affection of everybody. A member of the Park Baptist church, he was one of the most active adherents of that congregation, having taught for years in the Sunday school and instructed the men's bible class. In Y.M.C.A. and other kindred circles, he was also most prominent, and in addition all forms of clean sport always held his interest. It is seldom indeed that a more generally liked man has ever resided in this community. In his home and in his domestic and filial relations, he was of most winning manner. He was married to Miss K. Foster, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Foster, and in addition to his heart-stricken wife, he leaves two sons, Foster and Morton, to mourn his great loss. Brantford relatives, among others, include Mrs. Olive, Mrs. Sweet, Mrs. Ruddy, Miss Foster, and Mr. Frank Foster, Mrs. Duncan of Pittsburg, Penn., is also a sister-in-law. His brothers are W. J. Robertson, San Francisco, Jas. R. and H. O. Robertson, Kalamazoo, Mich., and T. Robertson, Los Angeles, and a sister, Mrs. Hayes of Ithaca, N.Y. "Milton" and the sorely bereaved are in the tender thoughts of very many during the sad period of earthly trial.

SCOTT WILL CASE ABSORBS LONDON

People Bring Luncheons to Court and Do Not Leave Their Seats.

(Canadian Press Dispatch) LONDON, June 28.—The Probate and Divorce Division of the High Court of Justice was fuller than ever yesterday of well-dressed people of leisure, especially women, when hearing in the contest of the will of Sir John Murray Scott, who left a $5,000,000 estate to Lady Sackville of Knole Park, Kent, wife of Baron Sackville, was resumed. The probate of the will is opposed by Malcolm Scott, a brother of the decedent, on the ground of undue influence. He has offered a reward of $50,000 for the production of an alleged codicil executed by Sir John after he had signed the original document, and a search for it is going on in Europe and the United States. The case is proving to be one of the biggest attractions of the season. People bring sandwich luncheons and do not leave their places during the recess for fear they will lose their seats. Lady Sackville, notwithstanding the warmth of the courtroom, wears throughout the proceedings a feather boa and veil, which almost completely hides her face. A feature of yesterday's proceedings was the testimony of Sir John's two sisters, the Misses Alicia and Mary, and his brother Walter. The brother Walter described how Lady Sackville had made love to himself. Miss Alicia Scott described Sir John as "exactly like a slave" in the presence of Lady Sackville. He seemed to be powerless before her, and would carry messages, letters and parcels at her bidding. Sir Edward Carson, counsel for Lady Sackville, in his cross-examination elicited the fact that the witness (Miss Alicia) and other relatives had destroyed various letters after Sir John's death, but had not destroyed any documents. The witness said Sir John had assured herself and her brothers and sisters that he would leave them well off, although they were aware when they destroyed the letters that he had left Lady Sackville considerable property, they had raised no question about it at that time. "Fairly handsome" The witness admitted that Sir John had treated his sisters and brothers "fairly handsomely" during his lifetime. He gave the sisters $25,000 each in 1890 and provided them with servants, horses and carriages. He built houses for his brothers, to whom he gave small allowances. She admitted that there had never been any disagreement between them except in regard to Lady Sackville. Miss Alicia also admitted that Sir John's legacies amounted to $1,500,000, apart from the $5,000,000 which he bequeathed to Lady Sackville, but she thought that with such a large fortune he ought to have given more to the family. In reply to a question as to whether the sisters had not received an ample supply of jewels from Sir John, the witness said in a lukewarm manner: "Yes, not bad."

Jury Agrees That Boy Did Not Shoot Mother

Evidence of the Calbecks, Father and Son, Unsatisfactory and Conflicting - They Are Allowed to Go - Investigation Will Be Continued

(Canadian Press Dispatch) COLLINGWOOD, June 28.—"That this jury, after hearing the evidence produced, agree that the young boy, James Calbeck, did not fire the shot from the rifle that killed his mother, Ida Calbeck. We are of the opinion, however, that the evidence of James Calbeck, sen., and James Calbeck, jun., is very unsatisfactory and conflicting, and our verdict is that the deceased came to her death from a bullet from a rifle in the hands of some person inside the house, but there is not sufficient evidence to show who fired the shot." The foregoing verdict was returned by Coroner McFaul's jury in the adjourned inquest into the death of Mrs. Calbeck, aged twenty five years, which occurred in the house of her husband, James Calbeck, in the early morning of Sunday, June 15. It was reported at that time that the fatal shot had been fired by the four-year-old boy, who had become restless in the night and had been given a .22-calibre rifle to play with. At that time it was decided not to hold an inquest, but, owing to the many rumors afloat, this was reconsidered, and an inquest opened on the next day. It was resumed on Wednesday, the 26th, and again adjourned, the jury not being satisfied with the evidence given. James Calbeck, sen., father-in-law, and James Calbeck, jun., the husband of the dead woman, gave evidence on that occasion. Rumors Not Substantiated. Since the inquest opened Provincial Inspector Reburn has been working on the case. The rumors of family disagreement were not established yesterday, nor her husband, James Calbeck, in the (Continued on Page 3)

UNIONISTS TIDE STILL RISING

Liberal Majority in Radical Stronghold is Greatly Reduced.

(Canadian Press Dispatch) LONDON, June 28.—The flow of the election tide in the direction of the Unionists which was exhibited at Altringham, May 29, when the Unionist candidate defeated his Liberal opponent in a by-election by a largely increased majority, was again shown to-day in a by-election at Leicester, made necessary by the retirement of the holder of the seat in the House of Commons, Elliott Crawshaw-Williams, having become involved as a co-respondent in a divorce suit. The Liberals retained the seat but by being: Howart—Liberal, 10,862. Wilshire—Unionist, 9,279. Hartley—Socialist, 2,280. In the general election in December, 1910, Crawshaw-Williams' majority was 5,691, over the Unionists candidate. In accordance with the agreement between the Liberals and Independent Labor party to divide Leicester's two seats, a Liberal candidate was at first nominated. The local Laborites refused to abide by the agreement, and put forward their own candidate. They were induced to withdraw him under the threat that Ramsay MacDonald, Leicester's other member, would resign. Afterwards the Independent Socialist candidate was nominated.

WHO WILL SETTLE BILL?

According to the statements made by a representative of the Weekly Labor News, a number of checks which were made payable to the Labor News, Limited, and made contracts which the newspaper cannot carry out. John Baird, the photographer, was given orders to take pictures of local buildings, and of course, he is wondering who will settle. The man was a guest at the Prince Edward for three or four weeks and was a good customer of the livymen and the dealers in wet goods. It is not improbable that the matter will reach the courts within a few days.

An Arrest

Is Made in Connection With Montreal Bomb Outrage.

(Canadian Press Dispatch) SHERBROOKE, Que., June 28.—I expected this arrest, it is just as well that it should be so, as I wish to clear myself of these suspicions," said L. A. Dufresne, the civil engineer being held in connection with the death of Mrs. A. O. Bilodeau, who was killed by a bomb which came through the mail on Tuesday, June 17. Dufresne was taken before Magistrate Mulvena yesterday afternoon immediately after his arrest. The hearing of the case was adjourned until this morning to allow the prisoner to instruct his lawyer. The man who has been arrested, L. A. Dufresne, is a civil engineer, surveyor, and patent solicitor of good standing in the town. He owns a three storey building in the centre of the town adjoining the Albion Hotel, the latter standing at the corner of Wellington and King streets. Bilodeau, husband of the murdered woman, and Dufresne, are mixed up in a law suit. Bilodeau sued Dufresne for $2,800, balance of a contract for work which the plaintiff is said to have carried out for Dufresne. Judgment was given in the Superior court here on February 20 last for $866, and against this judgment Dufresne appealed to the Court of Review. When the case came up last week it was laid over until the September term.

ALD. WARD COMES BACK

"The talk handed out by the chairman of the Public School Board in the King Edward matter won't go," said Ald. Ward to the Courier this morning. "If the state of affairs existing at the King Edward school requires a remedy, that remedy is the removal of the direct cause by the School Board, and it is not to be found in the resignation of teachers. In allowing themselves to be dictated to against their own common sense, the members of the board permitted a serious blunder to be made in connection with the recent appointment of teachers. The result that in a school where perfect harmony prevailed on the part of the teachers, and contentment reigned on the part of the people, discord and dissatisfaction have been rampant. No member of the lady teaching staff should be held responsible for anything that has appeared in the press of late regarding the troubles at the King Edward, for, as far as I know, such is not the case."

OLIVE BRANCH IS REJECTED

The moulders on strike at the Burrill Foundry Company don't intend to accept the settlement offered them by the head of the firm. The olive branch held out was that all non-union work would be set aside. The men state that they were asked that they would not be asked to take up non-union work again. They submitted an agreement to the company stipulating that all old work of the Westinghouse Company be discontinued and all new work refused until the differences between the Westinghouse Company and the Moulders' Union are settled. Mr. Burrill refused to sign this sort of an agreement and the strike is still on.

MONEY NEEDED FOR SCHOOLS

A Debenture Issue Will Be Asked For By the School Board.

A special meeting of the buildings and grounds committee of the public school board was held last night in the city hall. It was decided to prepare a memorandum of the probable amount of money required for a new school in ward four, and for increasing the capacity of the present manual training school. It was also resolved to call for tenders for the school desks and other supplies for the Dufferin school. The city council will be asked to consider the advisability of furnishing money by debenture issue for the new schools, which are urgently required. It may be that the council will desire to have the by-laws passed upon by the people, and in that case nothing can be done until the ratepayers give the necessary authority, as the school board has no power to borrow money for capital expenditure.

PREMIER BORDEN TO TAKE HOLIDAY

Leaves To-day for Vacation on the Coast of Maine - Needs a Rest.

(Canadian Press Dispatch) OTTAWA, June 27.—Premier Borden will be absent from the capital during the month of July. He left yesterday on a holiday trip to the Maine coast and will be away a month. The Prime Minister has been working under heavy pressure for many months, and, although his general health is good, is in need of a rest and recreation. He will devote a good deal of his time when away to his favorite game of golf. Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance, will sail on July 1, for London and will be away several weeks. His trip will be partially of a holiday nature, but while there the Minister will look into several matters of Government business which requires attention. Hon. W. J. Roche, minister of the interior, who has been in England for some time recuperating after a serious operation, will be back in the capital to-day.

NEW LEGISLATION IS A SUCCESS

Not So Many Hunger Strikes in the Old Land Now.

(Canadian Press Dispatch) LONDON, June 28.—The Daily Mail states that the government is perfectly satisfied with the efficiency of the bill recently passed for dealing with the suffragist hunger strikers by means of a temporary discharge. The number of offences by militants and the number of hunger strikers have both diminished. Some of those released under this act escaped, but in each case it is established that the fugitive left the country.

ASQUITH MAY BE CHIEF JUSTICE

Latest Rumor in Regard to Position in the Old Land.

(Canadian Press Dispatch) NEW YORK, June 28.—A London cable says: The latest rumor in regard to the Lord Chief Justiceship is that Premier Asquith is likely to accept the post himself. It was rumored a few days ago that Sir Rufus Isaacs, the Attorney General, would probably be appointed to fill this high office, although it was expected that such action would arouse sharp criticism of the Prime Minister because of the connection of the Attorney-General with speculation in Marconi shares.

Museum Was Resting Place

(Canadian Press Dispatch) HAVANA, June 28.—The garrote has been recited from the National Museum, where ex-President Gomez had placed it as a historic curiosity, to serve in the Havana jail again for the execution of two persons under death sentence. The Secretary of the Government, on inspection of the jail yesterday, learned that the warden was without an official instrument of death. Then followed the grimly humorous discovery that it rested in the National Museum, ex-President Gomez during his administration having commuted all the death sentences and presented the garrote to the museum. The Government Was Sustained. A battle royal took place on the Pastime Bowling green last night between two risks one composed of government officers and the other representing the Gould Shapley and Muir Company. After 18 ends had been played, it was found that the Bordettes were 8 up. The victorious organization were composed of J. Ryan, A. Harley, H. McIntyre and Fred Corey, skip. The G. S. and M. Company were represented by Messrs W. Muir, J. Muir, A. Burnley and Alex. Aitken, (skip). Mr. Ryan started last night that the Government forces would challenge the Triumph (Heather-Husband rink) to a game.

WATCHING OUT FOR BIG TROUBLE

Suffragettes Have Threatened Henley on the Thames.

(Canadian Press Dispatch) LONDON, June 28.—In view of the fact that members of the Suffragette party threatened houses at Henley-on-Thames, Scotland Yard, has sent 30 plain clothes men into that vicinity to guard against any outrages, while the regular number of uniformed men at that neighborhood has been doubled. Four big bonfires are kept blazing all night and many spring guns are set ready for use. Heavy insurance has been put on many buildings and houseboats.

First Case Under New Marriage Act is in Progress at Sarnia

SARNIA, Ont., June 28.—One of the first cases of importance to come up under legislation passed at the last session of the Ontario Legislature to prevent clandestine marriages is now engaging the attention of the authorities here. The parties concerned are Carl Brand, a Chicago brewer, and Miss Ida M. Spitzer of Berlin, Germany, and they are in jail on a charge of "immorality" while at the same time they are refused a marriage license under instructions from Hon. W. J. Hanna. The couple met on an ocean liner and subsequently went to Montreal. When they tried to cross into the States at Port Huron, they were stopped by the United States immigration officers. Later a Dominion officer authorized the couple in under the White Slave act, while the legislation requiring three months' notice of marriage was being passed.

Want Information

Messrs Wilkes and Henderson have written the city clerk, requesting to be supplied with copies of the Morrell St. school property, which was taken over by the public school board when the city boundaries were extended in 1901-02. The city solicitors also request copies of the contracts for street paving between the city and the Westrumite Company, in view of the legal proceedings which the city propose to take against the said company.

A Gallant Attempt

KINGSTON, Ont., June 28.—Thos. Mills and Michael Parle made a gallant rescue at the C.P.R. wharf during the night. An Indian from Northport, Prince Edward county, who was acting as groom for Lieut.-Col. Putnam of Northport, at the military camp, rode his horse off the wharf. The two men heard the splash and hurried to the scene. The Indian and the horse were floundering in the water. The Indian could not swim, but was soon pulled in, and with the aid of a rope the horse was also saved.

Tennis Results

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 2. C. Park, Irish and Scottish champion, beat B. Watson, the English player, by three straight sets in the fifth round of the All-England lawn tennis championship to-day. The score was 6-4, 6-1, 6-4. Matrice F. McLoughlin, the American champion, beat W. Ingram by three straight sets, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Struck by Lightning

FREDERICTON, N.B., June 28.—While reclining on a couch, conversing with his father, William Parks, the eighteen year old son of Erastus Parks, of Keswick Valley, was struck by lightning last night and instantly killed. He passed away without uttering a single word. A dog lying beneath the couch, was stunned.

Communication Received

WANT AD HOROSCOPE June 28. A woman born on this date should be most careful in selecting her friends. She will be so difficult to understand, because of her changing moods, that few people will have patience with her. She should not marry early in life, for, being of a restless, changeable nature, she would not be happy long at a time. If she does marry; it had better be a man whose birth date falls between October 23 and November 22, or with one who was born between February 1 and March 22. A man born on this date has a tendency to indolence, and making changes in his occupation, thus losing much valuable time and energy. Awake to the great truths of life; these people may attain power and influence. Business chances this coming week will be eagerly sought through a Want Ad, and office positions will offer many advancements. Jury Agrees indeed was there much evidence in this direction. Some of the reports that have been floating around were confirmed by the evidence adduced although some additional witnesses gave evidence. Mr. John Birney, K.C., was counsel for the Calbecks.

The Calbecks, who were present during yesterday's hearing, from which the general public were excluded, were told by the coroner that they might go home, and they, at once left the room. At the close of the hearing Foreman Carmichael said that one of the jurymen would like to see the boy, who was brought into the room by his father. The little chap cried and was taken out again.

The Medical Evidence.
 Dr. J. R. Arthur, who performed the post-mortem, was examined at length as to the direction the bullet passed through the body. He thought it possible that the bullet might have entered while the victim was sitting, and the rifle lying on the table, or it was quite possible that the bullet would take the direction found if the rifle were in the hands of a man standing.

Said He Did Not Shoot Her.
 Mrs. Mitchell said there was no hole in the nightdress or the underdress. The husband was in the kitchen while she was laying out the body, making a great noise. She tried to bace him up but failed. He said the mother gave the child the gun, and must have seen that it was loaded. Whoever shot her, it was not he. He did not know who did it. Calbeck said he went to bed about 11 o'clock and heard the child up with the toothache. "He" was sitting at the end of the table with the gun. She thought he meant the husband. He said the child could load the rifle as well as an old person.

Calbeck Was Crying.
 Mrs. Lillian Robertson came in after 2 o'clock, and saw what she thought was the bullet in the back, but not through the skin. Calbeck, jun., went into the back room and brought out the gun.

"A man there took it from him, and Calbeck was crying," she said. "Did you hear anything about how this happened?" she was asked. "I heard somebody say the child shot her."

Other Neighbors' Testimony.
 David Swain went over on Monday. The old man said the boy had been in the habit of taking the rifle out in the bush to shoot blackbirds. He knew of one ruction about a cow or horse in which he took part. The son and the father used to quarrel at the quarry.

James Richmond, when going home, saw Jas. Calbeck, who seemed to be eating, but since the inquest James told him the little boy told the detective his father pointed the rifle at his mother. James Calbeck gave the boy the rifle that night. His wife stayed up for a while, took him to bed, and she would look after the child.

NO DRINKING MAN NEED DESPAIR

The Neal Cure—Greatest of All Modern Discoveries—Offers a Means of Escape from the Curse of Drink. A cure of the Drink Habit is Guaranteed in Three Days, no Matter Whether the Patient is a Hard and Constant Drinker, Social Tippler or Goes on Occasional Spree.

There was wandering in the streets of Toronto lately a homeless man, who at one time held a splendid position, but drank was his downfall. To-day his wife, a cultured woman, works out by the day, endeavoring to support herself and little family. Think of it, you wives and mothers, who have homes of comfort and all that makes life worth living, what it would be to you to be deprived of these and forced to face the wash tub for an existence, as this poor wife has to do to-day?

But this home which was made a hell on earth through strong drink—as every drunkard's is—may be made into a heaven upon earth, as many have been made, as a result of the Neal Treatment. Three days only—the wonder of it—to effect a cure and make the victim of strong drink a new man, physically, morally and mentally.

We undertake to guarantee to effect a cure of the Drink Habit in Three Days, no matter whether the patient is a hard and constant drinker, social tippler, or goes on occasional sprees. Are you interested in a peer fellow going down, down, through the curse of drink? Then bring your influence to bear on him and bring him to the Neal Institute for treatment, drunk or sober, and we will undertake to remove the awful appetite for strong drink and deliver him to you a new man.

Here is an opportunity for REFORMATION SOCIETIES for INEBRIATES or any institution for the reformation of the drunkard, to test our ability to change the hard drinker into a new man, physically and mentally, in THREE DAYS' treatment.

We invite these Societies or any institution interested in the poor drunkard and the problem of dealing with him, to send us for treatment any victim of the drink habit, it makes no difference how much enslaved, and we guarantee to effect a cure in each and every case. Can you spend your money to better advantage or in a way that will bring in greater returns than in redeeming these victims of strong drink and giving back to their families kind fathers, brothers, husbands, and to the country most desirable citizens?

BRANTFORD'S FINE POSITION

The Monetary Times devotes a special article to a number of municipalities which have recently found difficulty in selling their bonds. Berlin, to get money, has had to increase the interest rate from five to six per cent, and other places have had a like experience, or else are practically keeping out of the market for the present.

Brantford is in a very good position, having recently sold $250,000 of bonds at a satisfactory price, under present conditions, the money costing a shade under 4 1/2 per cent.

This issue covers the cost of all local improvements, and other works finished last fall, and provides funds for hospital and public school, now in course of construction.

The Brantford City Council and their keen treasurer, Mr. A. K. Bunnell, appreciate the importance of confining any capital expenditure this year to works of actual necessity, and fortunately they have funds on hand from the sale of some real estate owned by the city, to an amount which should take care of the cost and obviate borrowing.

For ordinary requirements they have an arrangement with the Bank of Montreal to advance what is required, pending collection of taxes, and as the first instalment is payable on July 31st, they will not require any large sum.

The $250,000 issue, to which the above has reference, was well placed; in fact, on the present rates effected a saving to the city of about $10,000.

FRANCE AND ENGLAND

The marked enthusiasm which was shown over the visit of the French President to the Old Land was exhibited from royalty down to the humblest subject.

The friendship of the two countries has not always been such. To the direct contrary, during the entire career of Napoleon Buonaparte the relations were of an actively strained nature.

Napoleon constantly referred to perfidious Albion, and always depicted John Bull as a pledge-breaker. In return it used to be the fashion in Great Britain to sneer at "frog-eating" Frenchmen, while popular songs in each land were aimed at each other's foibles.

All that has most fortunately changed, and for much of the better feeling the late King Edward can be thanked, for he was a frequent visitor to the land of the fleur-de-lis, under a nom de guerre, and mixed in a democratic way with the people.

The great naval force of the Old Land and the fine standing army of France make a combination calculated to give pause to any other nation, or even group of nations.

MOTOR CARS

The motor car has not only come to stay, but also to develop in use; in fact, this propelling power for trucks and other vehicles is likely to be quite general in the not distant future.

For this reason crossing a main street in any centre is much more hazardous than formerly, and will become increasingly so.

There should in this essential be hearty co-operation between pedestrians and motorists, and parents should especially warn their children against the far too prevalent plan of "daring" a car by running immediately in front of it.

AUTHORITIES SHOULD GET BUSY

The sad record of drowning fatalities continues to pour in from all over the Dominion, as it always has done during the summer period.

that this healthy sport was carried on under safe auspices as far as humanly possible.

SPLIT ELECTORAL VOTES.

California Leads in Dividing Its Presidential Ballot.

California has the habit of dividing its electoral vote to an extent that is not always remembered by the average person. Or rather than any other state in the Union the Golden Gate commonwealth split its vote. In 1880, according to the figures, California gave Garfield one vote and Hancock five.

Twelve years later Cleveland received eight votes and Harrison one, a result duplicated in the memorable campaign of 1896, when McKinley received eight and Bryan one, the state having swerved into the Republican column.

Maryland is second in the frequency with which it has divided its electoral vote, having given seven to Roosevelt in 1904 and one to Parker and in 1908 giving six votes to Taft and two to Bryan.

Five other states have divided their electoral votes once, North Dakota having the unique distinction of being the only state ever to divide its vote among three candidates. In 1892 it gave one each to Harrison, Cleveland and Weaver.

The other states which have split their vote once are the following: Michigan in 1892, the campaign which was the most prolific in divisions giving Cleveland five and Harrison nine, Ohio in the same year giving Harrison twenty-two and Cleveland one, and Oregon, also in 1892, giving Harrison three and Weaver one.

Kentucky in 1896 gave McKinley twelve and Bryan one. In view of the fact that voters usually cast their ballots for their respective parties rather than scrutinize closely the personnel of the electoral candidates, even these few divisions are somewhat remarkable. — Kansas City Journal.

Some of the Improvements and Other Things They Brought Us.

Look at New York! Whoever it was that found Rome brick and left it marble did a less radical exploit than the last thirty years have seen done in New York.

They found it four or five stories high, and they have left it largely in the clouds; they found its shopping district below Twenty-third street, and they have shoved it up the hill and along two miles of Fifth avenue; they have brought to it its livelier part an astonishing physical reconstruction, tearing down the old, much of which was good, to replace it by new, much of which is magnificent; they have brought us the telephone, the electric light, the trolley car, the typewriter, the cash register, the bicycle, the subway, the graphophone, the kodak, the moving pictures, the aeroplane and the automobile; they found the business offices of the town full of men, and they have left them full of girls; they found beef 15 cents a pound, and they have left it 25 cents; they found coals at $6 a month, and now you pay $30 if you have so much, for a somewhat more accomplished artist and wish you could afford a better one.

What has happened in New York has happened more or less in all the cities. A great many people have been busy. The population of our country has nearly doubled in these thirty years, increasing by about forty-five millions. That increase alone is about a third more people than there were in all the country at the opening of the war between the states.—Life.

The Big Farms of Texas.

According to a report which has been issued by the census bureau, Texas has more large farms than any other state in the Union. There are in the state 11,123 farms which contain more than 1,000 acres of land. California has the second greatest number of large farms, or 4,893. There are 12,833 farms in Texas that contain between 500 and 1,000 acres, 59,049 between 175 and 500 acres, 94,574 between 100 and 175 acres, 98,583 between 20 and 100 acres and 29,371 under 20 acres. The most popular size of Texas farms is between 50 and 100 acres, there being 112,237 of this class. The total number of all sizes is 417,770.

When a damsel has a steady who's a decent sort of man, and who shows a disposition to perform the best he can, who is shy of sinful habits, and whose bosom holds no guile, and who labors in the vineyard with a gay and cheerful smile, then she shouldn't make him promise that he'll do a seraph stunt when they've stood up at the altar with preacher man in front; and she shouldn't bring a lecture when he comes around to court, for a man is only human and his wings are pretty short. When a maiden has a lover who is saving, making good, who is winning admiration, who is sawing lots of wood, then she shouldn't make him promise that he'll be an angel boy, when the wedding ceremony ushers in a life of joy.

DIED

ROBERTSON—At the Brantford General Hospital, at 10:45, Saturday morning, Milton H. Robertson. The funeral will be private. Time announced later. Kindly omit flowers.

KERN—At her late residence, 405 Horton St., London, on June 26, 1913, Esther Jane Kern, relict of the late John W. Kern, in her 91st year. Funeral private.

What the Other Fellow Thinks.

Mr. Bourassa Interviewed.

Ottawa Journal. In an interview given to the Manitoba Free Press of June 20, Henri Bourassa said the Ruthenian, Polish, German and other settlers in Canada have the right to be taught their mother tongue at the expense of the state. Fusion of people in Canada, he said, would simply mean that this country would become a replica of the United States. He would like to see Canada remain different from other countries.

Apparently he would. Canada would remain different from other countries and Canadians would face a task similar to that undertaken by those who tried to build the tower of Babel.

The French-speaking people in certain provinces of Canada, have the right, guaranteed by past treaties and legislation to have their language taught under the patronage of the state. Those of other nationalities who come to this country to profit by its advantages must accept its conditions.

And if there were none but Bourassa in this country, immigrants from other countries who might land here and ask for state countenance from the Bourassas for the promotion of their own foreign language and ideas would find a most surprising set of hosts. Some of the Bourassas would die of shock, and the rest would be certain that the immigrants were all crazy.

Forbes Robertson's Farewell.

London Paper: Sir J. Forbes Robertson took leave of the stage on June 6, when the curtain fell on "Hamlet" at Drury Lane. There was a magnificent audience, and the great actor and his wife, Gertrude Elliott, were called before the curtain.

Sir J. Forbes-Robertson made a brief speech, at the close of which he said: "I have now to bid you farewell. I cannot but feel great elation. I cannot feel sad. I cannot but rejoice at the tribute that has been paid to me. I have played to many audiences in many countries and many cities, and my own native town gives me that wonderful attention that is past speaking of. I only wish and hope that the younger generation will carry on the great tradition of this city and encourage the serious drama. We need not fear. Nothing can touch the spoken word upon the stage. The drama is going to be with us always. Do not listen to the pessimists who tell me we have on all sides all sorts of competitors in other forms of entertainment. Nothing can stay the drama. It will go on through time, as long as humanity exists. How shall I be sad when to this great London theatre people have crowded to bid me farewell? How shall I be sad when at a dramatic moment of my life my King honors me (Cheers). Ladies and gentlemen, I bid you all farewell. It is really my farewell. And yet I will not say that now. I would rather say, just frankly, God bless you, and good-night."

When Sir J. Forbes-Robertson ceased speaking there was another remarkable demonstration of enthusiasm, and the audience sang "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

As Previously in the Brantford Courier.

Guelph Mercury. The "Oster chloroform" yarn has gone the rounds so often that it will surprise some people to learn that Dr. Oster never gave utterance to the statements he is credited with.

For several years the improbable story has been circulated that the celebrated Canadian doctor had specifically advocated the chloroforming of people when they reached a certain age on the ground that they were superfluous to the time.

But not long ago the Hamilton Spectator had a note from one of the Oster family in Dundas in the course of which this plain statement was made: "The chloroform story had its foundation in his farewell speech at John Hopkins, when, referring to a fixed period in a man's life, he quoted Anthony Trollope in a charming novel much read in his young days, in which the scheme is discussed of a college into which men retired at sixty for a year of contemplation before a peaceful departure by chloroform."

"Dr. Oster declared a teachers' life should have three periods: Study, until 25, investigation until 40, profession-until 60, at which age I would have him retired on a double allowance. Whether Anthony Trollope's suggestions of a college and chloroform should be carried out, I am a little dubious, as my own time is getting short."

"In no other connection was the word chloroform used."

A Desperate Record

Stratford Herald.—The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad is at last feeling the lash of public criticism over its awful record of accidents for several years past. In the New York dailies it published a large advertisement declaring that in the eleven years from 1903-1913 inclusive it had suffered by six train accidents fatal to passengers, in which but twenty-nine passengers were killed. But Mr. Robert Hunter, of Noroton Heights, Conn., writes to the New York World quoting, from the railroad commission's report for 1911 the record was that 365 killed and 10,841 injured during eleven years of 1901-1911 inclusive; the latter not differentiating between passengers, railway employes and vagrants. The disparity is startling. If it be true that but twenty-nine passengers were killed in the first eleven years, then the slaughter of railway men must have been criminal, in any case the conditions cry for reform and the railroad is in a hard case. This is the road which President Mellon has controlled for some years, with methods little to his credit according to revelations which have been gradually coming to light. The year 1913 has been a serious one for "big interests" in the United States intent upon building up monopolies. In due time the attention of men ought to be turned to better things than the mania of piling up needless wealth.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Eradicates scrofula and all other humors, cures all their effects, makes the blood rich and abundant, strengthens all the vital organs. Take it.

The woman who wants to put the finishing touch of chic to her dainty summery costume, of white frock, picture hat and fetching parasol, will don buttoned boots of white buckskin, or the graceful buttoned oxfords which make the instep and ankle so aristocratic in line. The buttoned boot is a trifle more formal in type and is the accepted form of footwear with white blouses, gingham tunics and those white frocks which are intended for out-of-door wear, such as troutaboot frocks of agric or white cotton velour, loom-embroidered voile or crepe frocks for dinner at golf garden or beach restaurant; and lingerie frocks intended for wear at casino or country club in the afternoon.

The new white buttoned boots have the graceful lines demanded by fashion, and the New York top, as the new top with only twelve buttons is called. The white buttoned oxford has the same long slender lines as the buttoned boot, and its sole and heel are very dainty. The five-buttoned oxford is fashion's favorite of the moment.

Erus and beige tones are much favored in lingerie costumes of sheer fabric embroidered by machine—the greatest scope of lingerie costume this season; and esbioned, the new, is a very chic new boot, buttoned of course, and built of white buckskin foxed with a toe of brown Russia call. This boot is smart and pretty, and it is sure to prove a favorite for summer wear. For use with golfing sturdy tan boots of a new washable and out-going summer, tags there, are tan-leather which may be kept clean by wiping off with a moistened sponge. Wet turf and mud do not streak boots of this leather with dark stains, which makes them admirable for out-of-door country wear.

A colored man was brought before a police judge charged with stealing chickens. He pleaded guilty and received sentence, when the Judge asked him how it was he managed to lift those chickens right under the window of the owner's house when there was a dog in the yard.

"It wouldn't be of no use, Judge, said the man, 'to try to 'splane disting to you all. Ef you was to try it you like as not would get yer hide all 'er shot an' git no chickens, nuther. Ef you want to engage in any rascality, Judge, yo' better stick to de bench, whan yo' ant familiar." Chicago-Record Herald.

This Prosperous Place.

The Canadian bank clearing returns for the week ending June 26th, show decreases in very many places. Brantford as usual is among the centres showing increased figures, viz. $73,693.

Too Much Noise.

Bandmaster Frank Johnson of the Dufferin Rifles Band is indignant this morning because police officers were not on duty at the band concert given in Tutela Park to keep the youngsters quiet. It was hard to hear the music for the noise the youngsters kept up.

At Last.

At last the Parks Board have cleaned up the tablet in front of Brant's monument in Victoria Park which has been so covered with dirt that the letters could not be made out. It only required a good stiff scrub brush, some soft soap and a good elbow.

Hydro Electric.

Poles for the Hydro-Electric system are being erected in the city in territory bounded by Colborne Street, Park Avenue and Rawdon Street. Up to date 925 poles have been placed in position in the city.

Want Siding.

The Ham and Nott Co. have sent a communication to the City Council requesting permission to build another siding to their factory and enclosed a blue print of the same with their communication.

Band Notes.

On account of Dr. Pearce, conductor of the Brant Dragoon band having an important engagement last night, the band was excused by the City Council from playing their scheduled concert last night. The programme will be given later in the season.

Punctured Tire.

Mr. Gus Hogan, the Brantford man entering the Dunlop bicycle race in Waterloo, on Tuesday, while racing the Grand Valley 7 o'clock car from Paris to this city, had the misfortune to puncture a tire near the second toll gate, and the car beat him out. He will race the car again to-night. Gus is representing the Dufferin Rifles.

The Market.

There was a very large market this morning and an abundance of produce, meat, etc., was offered for sale. Prices asked were: Salmon, 18c per lb.; white fish, 15c lb.; bacon, 20c lb.; smoked ham, 20c lb.; round steak, 18c lb.; sirloin steak 20c lb.; mutton, 15c. and 18c lb.; butter, 27c; potatoes $1.25 per bag; eggs, 25c and 26c per dozen; Small stuff, such as onions, carrots, lettuce, beets, etc. 5c per bunch.

Enjoyed Band Concert.

Early yesterday evening Tutela Park had the appearance of a May-day festival. The spacious green was dotted with ladies in summer apparel, and the youngsters by the hundreds scampered around in their linen suits. It made Eagle Place park look like a Southern Madi Grass. It was a pretty sight early in the evening to see the people sitting on the brow of the crescent, which partially surrounds the park. The Dufferin Rifles band played a concert there, and they catchy music which they furnished was very much enjoyed by the immense crowd present. There was a large number of people of other parts of the city present.

MARVELOUS INVENTION FROM ENGLAND. TO BE DEMONSTRATED IN BRANTFORD

Machine That Cures Diseases to be Shown Working Next Thursday Evening, and Tested Free at the Victoria Hall.

A Chance of a Lifetime for Rheumatic, Paralytic and Deaf Sufferers. A popular lecture-demonstration of the wonderful British invention, the Veedee, is to be given in Brantford next Thursday evening at Victoria Hall.

Such an unusual attraction is certain to draw a large audience all the more so as the short visit which the Veedee demonstrator will pay to Brantford, is at the request of many of our citizens who after reading in the Hamilton Press reports of the remarkable cures recently effected by the Veedee in Hamilton sent numerous enquiries which have resulted in the Veedee Company consenting to send us here, at great expense, their best lecturer and demonstrator.

The Veedee is not electrical and as it contains no electricity it needs no recharging, and gives no shocks. So far from giving any shock its action is always gentle and pleasant. It pours a stream of delightful thrill or pulsation right through any limb, muscle or bodily organ at will—a stream of health and strength-giving vitality, stopping pain in two or three minutes and permanently curing many bodily troubles in a few regular treatments at home. In most cases the effect of the Veedee seems almost miraculous.

The VEEDEE, given in NATURE'S way by sending largely increased blood circulation (and so nourishment) to the affected limb, is a cure of organ. It acts by stimulating the nerves and blood. As a NERVE TONER, it thrills new life into your power and pleasure. It gives back ever to aged of both sexes much of the vigor and health of youth. It is the best and safest "General Tonic" ever yet devised.

The Veedee is recommended and employed by thousands of physicians in Great Britain and all other countries. In one week 147 Veedees have been sold to MEDICAL MEN in the British Isles. Many leading physicians including Dr. Mortimore, Granville, Dr. M. F. Pilgrim, and others, have written valuable works strongly advocating "Veedee" as a means for stimulating blood circulation and for curative purposes.

The list of names of the thousands of private users of the Veedee who have cured themselves at home, who write enthusiastically regarding the relief obtained through this marvelous machine would fill the pages of a thick volume.

The Veedee is not recommended as a universal remedy capable of curing all and every disease. It will not replace a knee torn off by violence, or has been destroyed, neither will it cure permanently in one single treatment chronic diseases of long standing, which often require a course of treatments before a permanent cure can be reasonably expected. Yet many sufferers from rheumatism, paralysis, deafness, etc., who consider themselves incurable, experience a marvelous improvement and relief even after one short treatment of a few minutes' duration, and the Veedee is often successful and beneficial when all other methods of treatment have failed, and for many complaints which are seldom cured by drugs.

Local sufferers should certainly avail themselves of this opportunity to test this remarkable invention and obtain relief free of charge at the Victoria Hall, next Thursday, evening at 8.

They say that Earl Moore of the Phillies is the widest pitcher in either league. This is one kind of fame.

We note that the Browns have a scout named Rickey. No, his first name is not Gin.

Rube Waddell hands out a doubtful recommendation for recruit pitcher signed by one of the big league clubs. "He's just like me!" writes the Rube.

BRANT AVE. S. S. PICNIC

Yesterday afternoon the Brant Ave. Sunday school held their annual picnic to Grimsby Beach about 150 going down.

The party left the city by special radial cars about 1 o'clock and returned to the city about 12 o'clock after having spent a royal time at the old summer resort. The usual list of sports which are always the banner event at a Sunday school picnic, barring the lunch, were run off. The kiddies, especially had a good time taking in the numerous attractions at the Park.

Lunch was served by an efficient corps of ladies which was greatly enjoyed after the long car ride and events. The picnic was voted by all to be a decided success and much credit is due the superintendent, Mr. W. S. Brewster and all who in any way assisted him.

MRS. THAW AS A DANCER

Mrs. Harry Thaw appeared in the popular revue, "Hallo, Rag-time!" at the London Hippodrome on Wednesday night under the name of May Nesbit, and performed a glide-waltz with the dancer, Mr. Jack Clifford.

Mrs. Thaw, in amber and beetle green, with her dark brown hair streaming down her back, proved a lively exponent of the now familiar riot dance which was performed at the "Exhibition Ground" scene. The climax was a wild whirl round and round in the air by the beautiful young American, with her hands clenching behind her companion's neck.

Her appearance had not been heralded to the audience in any way, with the result that the hearty welcome usually accorded to a newcomer by a London audience was not forthcoming; but that the measure of applause given was not discouraging to Mrs. Thaw, was evidenced by her subsequent remarks to an interviewer.

She said she felt more than grateful for the fair manner in which she had been received by the audience. "I am here," she said, "not as Mrs. Harry Thaw—not as a 'freak' to be stared at because of my connection with a tragedy—but as a light stage artist, which has been my profession, and which, thanks to my meeting with a representative of Moss's Empires in New York, is my profession to-day.

"I was delighted when my efforts were greeted as they were to-night. I felt a little bit nervous when I

DYING FROM GALL-STONES

Doctors Said Only An Operation Could Save His Life—"Fruit-a-tives" Enabled Him To Pass Nearly 200 Gall-Stones.

46 Grove Ave., Toronto, Ont., Jan. 10th, 1913.

"I suffered untold agony from GALL-STONES, for the past three years, and tried many doctors without getting relief. I also paid $5.00 for one bottle of medicine which was useless. At times the pain from these gall-stones was so great that I lost consciousness, and my condition was desperate. I was quite satisfied that I was dying and the doctors said I must be operated upon.

"During one of these very severe, acute attacks, I was given some 'FRUIT-A-TIVES', and after taking a short treatment of this remedy, I passed gall-stones over an inch in length, and as many as one hundred and fifty or two hundred in number. 'FRUIT-A-TIVES' was the only thing that would relieve my pain. They are the greatest medicine in the world, and if there is anyone in Canada, or anywhere else, that suffers from gall-stones, I say 'Let them take 'Fruit-a-tives' and be cured'.

"If this testimonial will further the good work of 'Fruit-a-tives', publish it with my full authority.

J. B. HARDING, Esq.

Are you wondering how "Fruit-a-tives" medicine made from fruit juices, can cure Gall-stones? We will tell you. The Gall bladder is the reservoir for holding the Gall, or bile, secreted by the liver. If there is insufficient bile, then the bile in the Gall bladder is thick and easily forms stones. When the liver is weak, it secretes very little bile and then the Gall bladder is partially filled with a thick jelly-like mass of bile and thus forms into lumps or stones. "Fruit-a-tives" stimulates the liver to secrete more bile, and this increased bile softens the Gall-stones and by overfilling the Gall bladder, forces the passage of the stones through the Gall duct—and thus cures the disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices. By a wonderful process, the medicinal properties of certain fruits are greatly intensified—then valuable tonics and antiseptics are added and the whole made into the pleasant tasting tablets known in every section of Canada as "Fruit-a-tives". Each box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

A Story from Real Life

The Tattered Passenger and the "Ragamuffin Princess"

Copyright, 1913, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.

DRIVING a taxicab in New York has accustomed William Burman to a thousand and one freak situations, but there is one little episode in which he played a more or less involuntary part which for mystery and thrills throws all others into the shade. Burman is somewhat of a natural story teller himself, and this is the way he relates the drama in which he played a hair raising part, even if it wasn't the leading role.

After all was he trying to give me the slip without paying? He must have read my thoughts from my face, for he took a dilapidated wallet from his pocket and handed me a crisp five-dollar bill. "That's for your part so far," he said. "Now wait here."

Then he shuffled off into the crowd and I waited for almost an hour, arguing with myself that I was very stupid and that I should probably lose my supper and what might have been valuable time

LAD in tattered garments which seemed literally whipping from his back in the heavy wind, a man stepped up to my taxicab one afternoon last autumn while I was idle at an uptown station and said:

"I want to get to City Hall and I want to get there quick."

Before he had finished speaking he started to enter the car. I thought he must be intoxicated and had actually started toward him to lay a hand on his shoulder when he turned slightly so that I could see his face. It was the face of a man accustomed to get what he wanted and accustomed to a life which his rage belied.

"You will hurry," he said a little curtly, though not at all offensively, "and if you lose no time there is an extra dollar in it for you."

Somehow at the sound of his voice all doubt left me. I felt intuitively he was good for his word and I hurriedly cranked the engine.

Glancing back as I took the driving seat—I had the top of the car thrown back—I saw that he was tugging at one of the small folding seats in front of the main seat. I wondered a little at this, but if this strange fare, for some reason best known to himself, desired to ride backward it was not for me to interfere. It was enough, taken with his beggar's rags, to rouse my curiosity and several times I looked back at him.

He sat rather rigidly in the folding seat, his hands on his knees, his head bent slightly forward, and he seemed to be straining his eyes and craning his neck to see something behind us. The streets were full of traffic and I made out nothing strange, but my passenger continued to keep his vigil.

At a corner very near City Hall Park he called to me. I slowed down. "Wait right here," he said. "I can use you longer and you will find it worth your while."

My suspicions were aroused again.

"I've Had Enough of This! First Thing I Know We'll All Be Arrested!"

for taking his word. Still he certainly had paid handsomely the first time.

Presently, out of the gathering gloom, he shuffled toward me again. With him was a woman, even more tattered than was he. Moreover, her face was in accordance with her clothes, at least it looked haggard and worn, and told of hunger and privation. But withal it was not an unrefined face.

My ragamuffin passenger handed the woman into the cab as though she had been a princess, and stepped in after her. "Straight up Fifth avenue," said the man, "until I tell you to turn."

I ran up Broadway to Eleventh street, then turned west to Fifth avenue. Block after block we whirled uptown and all the time the man sat riding backward, peering out behind, while the woman crouched in a corner of the big seat, all huddled up, sort of drawn into herself, if you know what I mean.

Just above Fifty-ninth street my passenger told me to stop. He got out of the taxicab and told me in low tones to drive to the stage entrance of a certain vaudeville theatre. I had been getting nervous for some time and I couldn't quite understand the thing.

"Here," I said, "I haven't asked any questions, but I don't quite understand this business. What's your game?"

"Never mind that," he replied. "You were paid before and you'll be paid again. Just drive to that place I told you. I will go inside. When I come out a man will be with me. He will enter this taxicab and you are to drive wherever he directs you. As for her," nodding his head toward the woman, "don't pay any attention to her. Keep your nerve and say nothing and you'll be well paid."

I glanced a little nervously toward the woman. I had no intention of being mixed up in any rough play. She was still crouching in the rear seat, but I gasped with surprise to see her wearing an elegant silk cloak, something like a cape, and she had very pretty eyes and hair.

COLLEGE GIRLS WHO GOVERN THEMSELVES.

HONOR systems, self governing rules and generous privileges, indicating that college girls are as capable of independence as their brothers in college and quite as deserving of the confidence of the authorities, are becoming characteristic of all the colleges for women. No longer do the girls have to ask permission to go beyond the campus with what was formerly thought to be becoming feminine meekness, but not only may they go about their pleasures and business in the college neighborhood without approach, but if their work is up they may leave for out of town trips by notifying the authorities.

At this season, when thoughts of getting jobs for next year are pressing hard upon seniors, it is highly convenient to be able to leave college for a few days and have a personal interview with the principal of a school looking for teachers. "Fis L. where I got ahead of the girl who has a year's experience," chuckled a Smith senior who was on her way to talk over a position which she and a 1912 girl were rival candidates for. "Her year of teaching gives her an advantage, but she is tied as it now, while I take a pleasant little trip, and the job, I hope, and get back to alma mater in time for senior exams."

"I want to college too soon," sighed the old alumna. "Such privileges did not obtain in my day. But the thing that makes me realize more than ever before that I was born too soon was the number of automobiles rounded up around Smith when I was there recently on a visit."

"Oh, yes," assented the senior, easily. "Almost all the men came to the Junior Prom in their cars this year."

"Well, well," I said to myself, "after all, it's nothing but one of those press agent tricks. But there may be something interesting before we get through."

That, to my mind, seemed to explain the discrepancy between my passenger's shabby clothes and his pocketbook. At the theatre the man got out of the car and paused a moment to repeat my instructions. As he turned to go the lapel of his coat was thrown back for a moment and I saw in the electric light the glint of a detective's badge.

"Press agent nothing," I thought to myself. "This is a deeper game than mere publicity."

A glance at the woman showed her still drawn back in the shadows of the car. The top being up, it was quite dark and I could not see her features. In a moment or two my detective passenger came out of the stage door and with him was a man I recognized immediately as the leading actor of the stock company playing there. I had seen plays in that theatre a number of times and there could be no mistaking my man. For a moment he and the detective stood talking on the sidewalk, then my original passenger walked away and the actor stepped into the taxicab.

"Drive uptown slowly," he said, and then the door banged.

My curiosity, after all that had happened, was uncontrollable and I looked back from time to time. The woman still drew herself into the shadows in the corner and the man seemed to be leaning toward her, talking persuasively. I could not quite make out in the darkness, but I thought she had drawn some sort of a shawl over her head.

Suddenly I heard a little cry. I looked back. The woman had thrown the shawl away from her face. The silken wrap had dropped to the floor of the car. She was bending forward toward the man, pleading as I have never heard humane being plead before. He drew away from her. The tears in that woman's voice wrenched my heart. I didn't know what the game was, but I loathed that man for the way he shunned her, for the snubs he hurled at her from time to time.

I remembered what the detective had said about keeping my nerve, but I hadn't reckoned on anything like this. I could stand it no longer. I stopped the car at the curb and went to the door.

We drove rapidly to the theatre to which he had directed me.

thing I know we'll all be arrested. And as for you"—I turned to the man, though goodness knows I had no way of telling whether he was in the wrong—"you brute, if you don't get out of this car I'll pitch you out."

He started willingly enough to get into the street, but the woman clutched him by the arm and dragged him back.

"He's my husband," she moaned. "He's my husband and he shall come back to me and the kiddies. Oh, take me to her. She will understand. She will send you back to me."

"Let me go," growled the man. The woman thrust her hand into the folds of her ragged clothing and pulled out an ugly looking knife. It looked like a heavy kitchen knife. I sprang toward her, thinking she was going to attack the man. He shrank away from her, but she did not lunge at him. Instead she held the point of the knife to her bosom and, speaking between sobs, cried out:

"Now take me back to that theatre. Let me see this other woman. If you do not I shall plunge this knife into my heart."

Rather melodramatic, to be sure, and perhaps she was crazed for the moment, but there was no mistaking her actual intent. The man wilted and sank into the cushions. I sprang into the driver's seat and sped downtown toward the theatre. The actor got out, imply enough, and the woman, clinging to his arm, followed him into the theatre. In a few minutes the detective came out.

"You have done your work well," he said. "Wait around and you will have a chance to make a little more money."

Then he told me very briefly how the wife had confronted the woman for whom the actor had deserted her and his children; how she had declared she knew nothing of his former marriage and had figuratively blasted him with her scorn; how the man, stung and remorseful, had begged her forgiveness with such humility and contrition that a sphinx could not have withstood him.

I learned later that the woman had provided the wife with suitable clothes for that evening and that she had seen her husband not from one of the stage boxes. I waited till the play was over and then drove them to the humble flat where the detective had been living.

Who had engaged the detective I do not know, but it was he who paid me and the fee—well, the fee generously repaid me for my time, the wear and tear on my nerves and a bonus besides.

"I've had enough of this," I said. "First

MONTENEGRO'S QUEEN IN AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Queen of Montenegro and a Wounded Soldier.

ONE of the most picturesque features of the war between Turkey and Montenegro was the thanksgiving service to celebrate the victory of the Montenegrins at Scutari, which was held in the cathedral in Cetinje. The Queen, arm in arm with one of the soldiers who had been wounded in the attack on the city, headed the procession. Her Majesty carried a laurel branch in token of victory. Following the example of the Queen, all of the princesses and ladies in waiting who were in the procession to the cathedral walked with wounded soldiers.

The wonderful colors of the Montenegrin costumes and their rich embroideries added enormously to the spectacular value of the celebration. Many of the women, even among those who carried the branch of victory, wore also the signs of mourning, which meant that they had lost relatives or friends in the fearful struggle before Scutari, the last Turkish stronghold to fall before the Allies, which capitulated to the Montenegrins on April 23. The siege had lasted six months and it is estimated that the Montenegrin loss in killed and wounded was six thousand, a huge proportion of the small army.

The Montenegrin Queen is a woman of extraordinarily dignified appearance and as she walked in the celebration procession she was in reality "every inch a queen." Although she was dressed in the national costume, the embroidered jacket and general outlines of which might not ordinarily seem particularly well suited to a woman of mature years and royal state, her own dignity and gravity of aspect even in this picturesque attire made her seem a particularly stately figure. The flowing veil attached to her head dress added the last touch of distinction to her remarkably impressive appearance.

STARTLING BEAUTY OF THE WHITE PEACOCK

AMONG the birds that are used to stock parks and handsome gardens for decorative purposes there is none which arouses keener admiration or greater astonishment at first sight than the white peacock, that strangely lovely creature which looks almost like a being from another sphere, one more ethereal and delicately perfect than our own. When a white peacock strolls across a moonlit lawn or bit of park, its delicate, lacy, luminous, strange, dream picture is created that startles the onlooker and appeals irresistibly to all those who possess poetical instinct or aesthetic appreciation. Although the white peacock is not one of nature's own creatures of glade and forest, but owes its peculiar beauty to a sharp deviation from the usual type of highly colored birds, it has been three centuries since the original sport appeared, and since then the white peacock has become a distinct breed. A number of the large estates of England and the Continent proudly include specimens of the white peacock among the ornaments of their parks. The Parc Beaumont at Pau, Bessies Pyrenees, has some lovely specimens. Bronx Park, New York city, has had a number of these wonderful creatures for several seasons. It is said the birds live to a great age. A specimen according to the London Graphic, has lived in an English park for a hundred years.

Artists are always interested in the white peacock and to see the bird when it is spreading the van of the breast, as well as the curious devices, trail it skillfully and softly through the parks. The bird seems shyer than the ordinary peacock, and while those of the vivid tails are spreading beautifully in all directions, regardless of the onlooking visitors to the park; the more elusive white peacock steals off by itself and refuses to show its beauty to the passing stranger. To see a white peacock spread its tail is like coming unexpectedly upon a bed of blue fringed gentiana. The person who enjoys these privileges feels himself admitted to admire the choicest treasures of Nature's holding.

PRESENTATION

A very pleasing event took place in Langford on Thursday evening, June 26, when the pupils, young people and ratepayers of School Section No. 20, Brantford, to the number of nearly one hundred, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Watson, to say farewell to their teacher, Miss Mabel Willis, Mr. John H. H. Day occupied the chair in a very able manner and a varied programme was put on. Speeches were made by Messrs. Day, L. Ludlow, H. Greg, F. Langs and D. Westbrook, solos by Miss E. Westbrook, gramophone selections and readings by Misses Annie Pickard and Elsie Eile. At the conclusion of the programme, Master Lester Langs read an address and Master Harry Watson presented Miss Willis with a handsome cameo bracelet. Although taken completely by surprise Miss Willis replied in a few well-chosen words. Refreshments being served the company broke up, wishing Miss Willis health, prosperity and happiness.

THE EARTH

"A little sun, a little rain, A soft wind blowing from the west— And woods and fields are sweet again, And warmth within the mountain's breast. So simple is the earth we tread, So quick with love, and life her frame. Ten thousand years have dawned and fled, And still her magic is the same. A little love, a little trust, A soft impulse, a sudden dream— And life as dry as desert dust Is fresher than a mountain stream. So simple is the heart of man, So ready for new hope and joy; Ten thousand years since it began, Have left it younger than a boy." —Stapford Brooks.

GOOD LINES IN THIS PANAMA SOMBRERO

Agreeably shady for hot summer days, as well as very dashing and knowing in line, is this big sombrero shape of fine white Panama; and such a hat as this—made of real Panama—may not be picked up for a song. The big hat that accompanies an outing costume which includes a skirt of tailored white mohair and a cool blouse of white tub silk with facings of Bulgarian embroidery in tones of blue, pink and green. White buckskin buttoned boots add the final touch of smartness, and there is also a Mackinaw coat of white vicuna for use when the weather turns cool.

A SONG OF OTHER DAYS. Backward, turn backward O Time, in your flight, Make me a child again, just for to-night. Mother come back from the echoless shore, Take me again to your heart, as of yore, Kiss from my forehead the farrows of care, Smooth the few silver threads out of my hair. Over my slumber, your loving watch keep, Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep. Tired of the hollow, the base, the untrue, Mother, O mother, my heart calls for you. A famous beauty claim that in no other way so much as in jewelry she wears, does a woman so plainly reveal her artistic temperament. Be that as it may, it seems at present to be the barbaric instinct that is holding sway, overlooking not only the artistic temperament, but common sense as well. Nine-tenths of the women one meets might easily be mistaken for jewel vendors, and most of the jewelry rightfully belongs in the glass case of a museum. However, few women realize how telling every piece of jewelry they put on is. A slender neck chain or the finest, most inconspicuous of brooches is oftentimes sufficient to utterly spoil the long neck line. It is fatal to choose jewelry merely because it is in itself beautiful. The woman who really understands the art of dress wears her jewelry as she does her flowers. Flowers and jewels—their color and general character—must tone in and harmonize with the gown, and they must suit her. Jewels, no more than colors, are universally becoming. Pearls may be counted upon for the young, or for any one, if they are placed in juxtaposition to creamy faces, for which they seem to have a special affinity. They appear to clarify the complexion. Diamonds are individual. Their success is entirely dependent upon being placed properly. Jewels, unless they are set in a way that they will be seen, do not tend to hold anything of youthfulness to the wearer. Earrings should be avoided. Not one woman in a hundred has an aesthetic taste to wear them. The question of rings may seem a rather insignificant one in the toilette, but even as it is by your hands as well as your face you should be judged by the discerning, so it is by the way in which you adorn them that a whole toilette may stand or fall. FIRST BAPTIST LADIES' OUTING

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society and Mission Circle of the First Baptist Church, enjoyed a very delightful outing on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. Charles Wolfe, Mohawk Road. There was a large attendance, more than 50 ladies enjoyed a cup of tea together on the lawn. Mrs. G. S. Matthews is president of the Mission Circle and Mrs. E. Popplewell is president of the Ladies' Aid Society. Mrs. Moyle's kind hospitality was greatly appreciated.

CLOSING RECITAL

A large audience witnessed the closing recital by the pupils of Miss Squire's Dramatic Art Class, which was held at the Conservatory last evening and the close and sympathetic attention displayed in spite of the heat, speaks well for the enjoyableness of the occasion. The pupils were assisted by an orchestra consisting of Mr. H. Kent, (violin) Mr. Fred Pelling (flute) and Mr. Neil McLeod (piano). The sketch "A Difference in Clocks" was put on by Miss Emma Jackson and Mr. H. Wm. Kingerly, and was received with enthusiastic applause and the ease and naturalness displayed by these two artists was remarked on all sides. A comedy "The Scarlet Bonnet" was put on by the following cast: Miss Mercy Mather... Emma Jackson Miss Hope Mather... Lila Mason (Spinster sisters, who, having lost their fortune in a bank failure, start a girls' school). Mrs. Jane Gordon... Ina May Jones (With strict ideas and a soft heart). Jean Gordon... Edna Stover (Her orphan niece). Mattie White... Minnie Wyatt (A fee bencher)... Christina Peddie (Two pupils).

Nuptial Notes

On Wednesday afternoon, at 108 Chestnut Ave., Miss Annie Brown, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, was united in marriage to Mr. Harold Boat of this city. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes Brown. Mr. David Clark was best man. A goodly number of friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. James W. Gordon of St. Andrew's Church, assisted by Rev. T. E. Richards of Riverdale Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Boat will leave shortly for England on a wedding tour, after which they will probably reside in Canada. Congregational Church, corner of George and Wellington streets, Rev. M. Sunday school will meet at 12.15.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Tutela Branch of Women's Institute held its summer meeting and picnic on Tuesday last at the Bell Homestead. The meeting was a success in every feature. Miss Moody, a student of Toronto University, addressed the meeting on "Disease-Cause and Prevention." The speaker first dealt with children's diseases, showing in her talk how much to be feared and guarded against, measles should be, last years statistics showed deaths from measles had a much larger percentage than diphtheria and scarlet fever together, and a still larger percentage over the death rate from tuberculosis. Miss Moody warned the mothers how careful they should be not only to guard their own but in care of infection in their home to guard the homes of others. The notion that a child must have all these diseases has long ground within the last few years; this idea has given rise to the one that the freer from disease a child can be raised, the healthier he will be. A good disinfecting formula then followed. From this Miss Moody's talk led to tuberculosis, and showed how with care a patient with deadly disease might mingle with his own people and yet not spread infection. In closing Miss Moody said if the ladies forgot all else "Remember that, worry, fret, bad temper and tiredness were wide open doors for disease to enter him."

Y.M.C.A. WORK AT NIAGARA

Mr. Reg. Ciamond, Assistant Y. M. C. A. Secretary, returned to the city Thursday night after having spent four weeks in the post office department at the military camp at Niagara-on-the-Lake. Mr. Ciamond reports that the Y. M. C. A. did an excellent work among the men. The post office department handled a great quantity of mail and besides handling the mail, gave out paper and envelopes free of charge, and sold post cards, morning papers and souvenirs. The canteen run under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. were, ice cream, soft drinks and other refreshments were sold. A barber shop was also run by the "Y" and sports were run every night. Religious services were held each evening in a large tent with special music and the results proved very encouraging.

A victory for the Red Sox to-day would look good.

The Brantford club seems able to win more games away from home than behind the dyke.

Walter Johnson showed fine form yesterday, and not an Athletic reached third base, Washington won 2-0.

Kane's value to the club will be increased as a regular line-up man. Hitting is not a lost art with the Brantford manager.

The Red Sox are 10-1-2 games from St. Thomas, and between Sox and Saints there are five other clubs bunched. Guess it isn't a pretty nice race.

Clermont fielded his position in wonderful style yesterday, having no less than nine assists to his credit. Although he was hit hard, he pulled out with a victory.

Judging by the box score line-up, this morning, Kane is evidently determined to do some switching to win ball games. The Brantford manager broke into the game yesterday with two hits.

The Brantford club plays here to-day with St. Thomas and Gero, the new pitcher, will be on the firing line.

The Saints will have to play good ball to win, as the Red Sox look better now than they have all year. The club will be here Monday, also Dominion Day, for two games. The series should prove a big one.

Evidently the Brantford club will travel quite a distance before it can secure a better all round man than Duff Slemm. He has improved in his hitting wonderfully in the last week and seems to have hit his stride. Slemm secured a three bagger and a two bagger at St. Thomas, scored two runs and started a double play.

IT DOES NOT SEEM POSSIBLE

But Brantford Beat the Leaders Yesterday by Score of 5-4.

ST. THOMAS, June 27.—Bill Reidy, formerly a pitcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers, but now drawing his salary from President Somers of the Cleveland Napslanders for scouting, occupied a seat in the stands at yesterday's games, and although the Saints were beaten, he saw the youngsters perform admirably. He stated that the Canadian league appeared to be fast for the Class C organization. He liked Eddie Wright at third, and was also impressed with Outfielder Kopp, who by the way carried off the batting honors of the day, when he smashed out a double and two single in four trips to the plate. Wright also had two bingles and fielded beautifully.

The visitors won out in the eighth. Reidy issued a couple of walks which resulted in runs. The Saints filled the bases in their half of the same innings. Craven and Kustus put up easy flies and the chance was gone. In the ninth Wright, the first batter up, singled, went to second on Ori's infield out, but Gurney flew out, and Powers lined one right into the second baseman's mitt.

Slemm had a three-bagger and also a two base hit, and crossed the plate twice. Manager Kane also came over with two hits.

Table with columns A.B.R.H.O.A. for ST. THOMAS and BRANTFORD. Includes names like Kopp, Craven, Kustus, Wright, etc.

TYRUS RAYMOND COBB Tyrus Raymond Cobb, of the Detroit Club, is without a doubt the greatest player of the age. The Georgia Peach, who is the highest-priced player in the game, is again leading the American League in batting, a position he has held for the past three seasons, always hitting 400 or better.

He stands 5 ft. 11 in., weighs 176 pounds, and is 26 years old.

Leach Cross admits that he is very likely to be the next lightweight champion. Leach was always modest and retiring youth.

There's one team that George Malin can still beat. The ex-Tiger can still trim Chance's Yanks.

PETERBORO, June 28.—Guelph and Peterboro broke even on a double-header yesterday, the Leafs winning the first 3 to 2, and the Petes the second 4 to 1. Dorbeck had the homers at his mercy in the first game and would have had a shutout had it not been for Hilliard's home run in the first innings. The Petes won the second handily, Sterling only allowing two scratch hits.

LONDON, June 28.—The Tecumseh were beaten 5-3 in the opening match of the series with Hamilton, the Kolts winning out in eleven rounds, thanks to the twirling of Smith and timely assistance from Heaver Donahue.

OTTAWA, June 28.—Ottawa shut out Berlin by 2 to 0 on a water-soaked field here yesterday. Rain came down in torrents during the first inning, but the storm quickly passed and the teams resumed, though the diamond was soggy.

THEY SAY IN HAMILTON That Horron can beat Hawthorn. That Calgary is about due to win. That Jockey Gross rode Hawthorn badly.

That the same rider's effort on Birka was not much better. That Carnbrook will have the time of his young life beating Red Hize.

That it is impossible to keep Harry Giddings from winning the Canadian-bred races.

That a searchlight would reveal flaws in the performance of J. H. Houghton at Hamilton yesterday.

That Tony Aste is a bad match-maker when he selects "Red" Walker for an opponent.

That the blonde product of Uxbridge Township is the original "bear-cut" when it comes to a showdown.

That the players who were looking for long shots at the track yesterday are still looking.

CINCINNATI, June 28.—"Rube" Benton celebrated his 23rd birthday yesterday by trimming the Cubs 5 to 1. The Cubs stole their lone run in the third on two passes, a sacrifice and an infield out. The score.

ST. LOUIS, June 28.—By bunching hits and lucky breaks in the 8th and 9th innings yesterday, St. Louis tied Pittsburg's lead of three runs, forcing the game into extra innings. Pittsburg won in the twelfth by a score of 4 to 3.

St. Louis0000001200—3 Pittsburg0200010000—4 Brooklyn Hammered Two Philly Pitchers

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—With Stack pitching in rare form the Dodgers had little trouble taking yesterday's game from the Phillies, 6 to 1. The Brooklyn pitcher struck out six men, allowed but three hits.

New Pitcher Completely Fooled the Baltimore Team—Bradley's Pinch Hit

BALTIMORE, Md., June 27.—Joe Kelley and his Leafs did not look like a bunch of tailenders when they sailed in yesterday and won the opening contest of the Baltimore series hands down by 5 to 1. The score scarcely appears like a cinch victory, for such it was for after Toronto hung up that trio of counters in the opening session there never was a chance.

Boosters Boosted in Vain. The Boosters' Club, a local organization for helping the squad along, was on hand with a band, but it failed to work. President Barrow of the league and President McCaffery of the Toronto club witnessed the game and left, respectively for New York and Toronto after the set-to.

Red Sox Took the Pair From Chance's Cellar Champs—Lajoie in a Pinch

BOSTON, June 28.—The Red Sox took Chance's tail-enders into camp twice yesterday, winning the first of a double-header 10 to 3, and the second 6 to 4. Keating was driven out in the fifth, when Boston scored seven runs.

Lajoie Made Good as a Pinch Hitter. CHICAGO, June 28.—The White Sox won from the Naps by a score of 3 to 2 yesterday. Russell relieved Cicotte, with two on and two out, and struck out Chapman. Falkenberg was relieved after six innings by Blanding.

Browns Gave Weilmann Sensational Support. DETROIT, June 28.—St. Louis had an easy time taking the second game of the series by a score of 8 to 3, making every one of their safeties figure in the scoring. Weilmann was lucky in having sensational support or the result might have been different.

Beginning of End for King Napoleon. CHICAGO, June 28.—Manager Birmingham of the Cleveland Americans, admitted yesterday that he might retire Napoleon Lajoie as "regular" second baseman of the team.

He said, however, that no such decision had been made, and that for a time Lajoie probably would continue to hold his old place.

Turner is slated to succeed him as second baseman, but there is no intention, Birmingham said, of letting Lajoie get away from the field, since he is hitting in his old-time form and is still a good fielder.

The benching of Second Baseman Napoleon Lajoie by Manager Birmingham, would remove from active service one of the oldest stars of baseball. He has been slowed up by injuries, which kept him out of the game several weeks after he had apparently started on another successful season.

This was Lajoie's 17th season in major league baseball. By many he is rated as the greatest batter that ever lived. Starting with 1897 his yearly averages have been: .303, .323, .320, .345, .422, .309, .355, .384, .328, .355, .299, .289, .344, .384, .365, .268, .323.

He is 38 years old.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CONCRETE ROADS A BIG SUCCESS

Results of Investigation of Ontario Deputation in and Around Detroit.

If any of the sixteen men who accompanied officials of the Canada Cement company of Montreal, on an inspection trip of public roads in and around the city of Detroit, Wednesday last, had any doubts concerning the relative merits of the various kinds of roadways, these doubts were certainly dispelled in favor of the concrete variety before they returned to their homes on Thursday.

Various Kinds of Roads.
A run of ten miles from Detroit out to Dearborn over highways constructed of macadam, asphalt, macadam and concrete, was the first trip of the day. Here it was found an easy matter while riding over the concrete roads which had been in use for three and four years, to make pencil notes or read a paper while riding in automobiles going at a speed often as high as forty miles an hour, because of the smoothness of the road, while the trip over macadam, or asphalt macadam which had not been in service half the time, was so rough that even at greatly reduced speed, instead of finding it possible to sit comfortably while making pencil notes, one had to forget everything else in order to hang on to the automobile seat to prevent being pitched overboard. In the Dearborn district gangs of workmen were engaged in laying continuation concrete roads, which already extend for many miles in that direction, and are being adopted exclusively as being the very best possible kind and as costing less money than the other varieties.

Another trip taken later in the day consisted of a twenty-six-mile run from Detroit to Trenton, the entire trip being almost exclusively over concrete roads which have been laid from one to four years, and are as smooth as the day they were first put down, the twenty-six miles, including stops, being made in 40 minutes, and the most pleasing feature of this trip and all others over concrete sections being the absence of dust and roughness of any kind. It was also noticed that while running even at high speed on concrete roads there was never the least evidence of skidding or slipping, the automobile tires seeming to hold safely to the concrete, while on macadam or asphalt macadam roads they did not.

Laying Concrete Roadways.
A very interesting feature of the trip was the privilege of watching workmen laying concrete roadways. Under the system now in use, the roadway is laid in sections, which are divided by thin steel strips in depth the same as the concrete, and in width sufficient to reach across the roadway. Two of these strips are placed together with a strip of tar felt between, allowing for expansion and contraction in heat and cold, the strip being removed to the end of the section later, when the next section is laid. From these steel plates small steel strips extend into the soft cement, and once becoming hardened or imbedded in the concrete, act as a firm holder to the block, thus preventing any possibility of its displacement. These plates are known as the Baker Armored Joints. They have been installed in one and a quarter million square yards of concrete pavement, and thus far they have never failed.

Merits of Concrete.
Geo. H. Bussey, former superintendent of Wayne county roads, in discussing the merits of concrete roadways, said among many other things that the advantages of these roads could hardly be estimated in their value to farmers along the line. "It increases the value of their lands, and develops rural districts into high-priced suburban home districts," said Mr. Bussey. "It gives the farmer better roads over which to team his products to market where, instead of being forced to sell to the commission man or huckster and give the profits to the express companies for hauling to market, he can deliver the goods himself, sell them cheaper to the consumer, and still retain a better price for his products than he was formerly getting from the commission man who brought them in by electric or express lines."

Adopted by Canadian Towns.
Among Canadian towns which have decided to adopt the concrete roads is the town of Berlin, which will try an experiment of laying side streets this summer with concrete, and if found satisfactory they will extend the plan to all other streets.

Heavy Traffic.
Referring to the Woodward avenue concrete roadway extending out to the Log Cabin Inn past the Hendrie surveys, it is also stated on reliable authority that the traffic on this particular roadway amounts to an average daily of 1,000 vehicles, many of which are automobiles, and even with this heavy traffic for four years the road still stands without a crack, a flaw or a blemish, and is as smooth as the top of a well polished table, and at the same time not slippery.

Cost of Concrete Roads.
Concrete roads 16 feet wide cost, under average conditions, about $24.00 a mile to build and practically nothing to maintain. Macadam roads of the best type cost from $8.00 to $9.00 a mile. It cost over $900 a mile to repair macadam roads of New York state in 1911. Concrete roads have proved so successful in Wayne county, Michigan, that hardly any other kind is now being laid.

It Costs Coin To Run Circus

Has any one ever figured out what a mint of money it costs to operate the biggest present-day circus? Wintering the Barnum & Bailey circus alone consumes $140,000, independent of repairs and building new equipment. But it's when the circus gets on the road that the financial strain is felt. Each day requires an expenditure of at least $7,500. Figure it out for yourself for a season of eight months and see how much money is put into circulation each year.

The equipment for this season's show represents an outlay of $3,500,000, of which $1,000,000 was spent for the parade paraphernalia. The railroad equipment is valued at more than $200,000. The horses and their decorations are worth $340,000. The menagerie is estimated to have cost $720,000, and to be worth more than that amount by reason of tricks drilled into the animals by trainers.

A tabulated list of the items needed for the daily sustenance of the cosmopolitan host will stagger you. For the animals, the daily consumption of food is seven tons of hay, 200 bushels of oats, 150 bushels of corn, 50 bushels of bran, 1-1/2 carcasses of beef for the lions and tigers and 200 pounds of vegetables for the other animals. Then are needed six tons of straw for bedding.

What about the foodstuffs for the 1500 men and women who comprise the human personnel of the circus? Here is an itemized list for a day, taken from the statement of the chef: Three hundred pounds of beef, 150 pounds of mutton, 200 pounds of pork, 550 chickens, 800 loaves of bread, half a barrel of syrup, 72 cases of eggs, 440 gallons of milk, 1200 pounds of butter, 1400 pounds of fish, 25 bushels of apples, alternating with California oranges, peaches and pears and other fruits in season.

Condiments and canned goods are bought in cases by the gross. Sixty dining room attendants are served with varied bill of fare, and the high-salaried chef has a corps of eight assistants. The pastry cook has six assistants—New York World.

$3.50 RECIPE FREE FOR WEAK MEN.
SEND NAME AND ADDRESS TO DAY—YOU CAN HAVE IT FREE AND BE STRONG AND VIGOROUS.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, falling memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge in a plain, ordinary envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men, and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow-men to send them a copy in confidence, so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure acting, restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a fine line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 3782 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $8.00 to $8.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

A similar contract recently was signed with Columbia.

"The Mystery of Agatha Webb"

By KATHARINE GREEN
Copyright, 1900, by Katharine Green

"I thought I heard some one make a remark," she said and paused again for a half minute, during which her smile was a study. It was so cold and in such startling contrast to the vivid glances she threw everywhere except behind her on the anding waiter Free-erick stood listening to her every word.

"We are very much interested," remarked Mr. Courtney. "Pray go on." Drawing her left hand from the balustrade where it had rested, she looked at one of her fingers with an odd backward gesture.

"I will," she said, and her tone was hard and threatening. "Five minutes, no longer, passed when I was startled by a loud and terrible cry from the house, and looking up at the second story window, from which the sound proceeded, I saw a woman's figure hanging out in a seemingly pulseless condition. Too terrified to move, I clung, trembling, to the tree, hearing and not hearing the shouts and laughter of a dozen or more men who at that minute passed by the corner on their way to the wharves. I was not then wearing my hat, and only came to myself when sooner or later, I do not know how soon or how late, a fresh horror happened. The woman whom I had just seen fall almost from the window was a serving woman, but when I heard another scream I knew that the mistress of the house was being attacked, and, riveting my eyes on those windows, I beheld the shade of one of them thro'p back and a hand appear, flinging out something which fell in the grass on the opposite side of the lawn. Then she shade fell again, and hearing nothing further, I turned the object being out had fallen and, feeling for it, found and picked up an old fashioned dagger, dripping with blood. Horrified beyond all expression, I dropped the weapon and drew back, trembling, into my former place of concealment.

"But I was not satisfied to remain there. A curiosity, a determination even, to see the man who had committed this dastardly deed attacked me with such force that I was induced to leave my hiding place and even to enter the house where in all probability he was counting the gains he had just obtained from the price of such precious blood. The door, which he had not perfectly closed behind him, seemed to invite me in, and before I had realized my own temerity I was standing in the hall of this ill fated house."

The interest which up to this moment had been breathless now expressed itself in hurried ejaculations and broken words, and Mr. Sutherland, who had listened like one in a dream, exclaimed eagerly and in a tone which proved that he for the moment at least believed this more than improbable tale: "Then you can tell us whether it was in the little room at the moment when you entered the house?"

As every one there present realized the importance of this question, a general movement took place, and each and all drew nearer as she met their eyes and answered placidly: "Yes, Mr. Webb was sitting in a chair asleep. He was the only person I saw."

"Oh, I know he never committed this crime," gasped his old friend, in a relief so great that one and all seemed to share it.

"Now I have courage for the rest. Go on, Miss Page."

But Miss Page paused again to look at her finger and give that sidewise toss to her head that seemed so uncalculated for the situation to any who did not know of the compact between herself and the listening man below.

"I hate to go back to that moment," said she, "for when I saw the candles burning on the table and the husband of the woman above sitting there in unconscious apathy I felt something rise in my throat that made me deathly sick for a moment. Then I went right in where he was and was about to shake his arm and wake him when I detected a spot of blood on my finger from the dagger he had handled. That was the moment when he turned and let me wipe off my finger on his sleeve."

"It's a pity you did not wipe off your alppers, too," murmured Sweetwater.

Again she looked at him; again her eyes opened in terror upon the face of this man, once so plain and insignificant in her eyes, but now so filled with menace she inwardly quaked before it, for all her apparent scorn.

"Slippers," she murmured.

"Did not your feet pass through that blood in the grass, as well as your hands?"

She did not answer. She held him possibly in too much scorn.

"I have accounted for the blood on my hand," she said, not looking at him, but at Mr. Courtney. "If there is any on my slippers, it can be accounted for in the same way." And she rapidly renewed her narrative. "I had no sooner made my little finger a question of the old gentleman—when I heard steps on the stairs and knew that the murderer was coming down and in another instant would pass the open door before which I stood.

WOMAN IN TERRIBLE STATE

Finds Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cape Wolfe, Canada.—"Last March I was a complete wreck. I had given up all hope of getting better or living any length of time, as I was such a sufferer from female troubles. But I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am in good health and have a pair of twin boys two months old and growing finely. I surprised doctors and neighbors for they all know what a wreck I was.

"Now I am healthy, happy and hearty, and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies. You may publish this letter if you like. I think if more women used your remedies they would have better health."—Mrs. J. T. COOK, Lot No. 7, Cape Wolfe, P.E.I., Canada.

Because your case is a difficult one, and doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of women—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

BRIGHT SPEECHES GIVEN IN BRITISH PARLIAMENT

When The Home Rule Bill Passed Its Second Reading By 98 Majority - But Carson Was There With Gloomy Civil War Talk.

For the second time in twelve months the Home Rule Bill was accorded a second reading by the House of Commons, the division on Mr. Balfour's motion for the rejection being as follows:

For the rejection 270
Against 358

Majority for the bill 98
Mr. Asquith, moving the second reading of the Home Rule Bill—rejected last year by the House of Lords—in the House of Commons on Monday said that the measure had received quite adequate discussion.

The majorities for the Bill were on first reading 94, on second reading 101, and on third reading 110. At every one of these stages, if the Irish vote was subtracted from the one side and the other, it was carried by a very substantial British majority.

With regard to the feeling in the country at the twenty-one contested by-elections since the Bill was introduced, the voting for and against Home Rule was as follows:

Liberal and Labor (Home Rulers) 121,250
Unionist 105,568

Home Rule majority 15,701
Of these the Government lost four seats and gained Derry. Two of the lost seats were Crew and Midlothian.

Both the defeated candidates were strong supporters of Home Rule. The votes cast in these two elections for the Home Rule candidates were 12,281 and those for the Unionist candidates were 12,281. At Newark the prevailing issue was the Insurance act.

"Add to these figures the striking and significant circumstance that we have since the introduction of the Bill transformed the representation of the Province of Ulster from a Unionist to a Home Rule majority, it is impossible for anybody to say that there is any evidence that the verdict of the House of Commons pronounced in regard to this Bill is disapproved by the mass of the electorate."

No Compromise.
"The policy of those who are opposing this Bill is to meet it with an absolute non-possimus. The bill was met with a blank, summary, uncompromising negative. (Opposition cheers). There are precisely the conditions with which the Parliament was intended to deal."

"The minority in this House might be able to say, 'We don't like this bill, but the principle has been accepted by the House of Commons and it must pass into law. (Loud opposition cries of "No.") There are certain provisions which we would like to see amended. We have given the House the opportunity of making such suggestions, but if it does not like to make any suggestions the bill will go back to the House of Lords in its present state. (Loud Ministerial cheers)."

"We are asked: 'If you pass your Bill what are you going to do with Ulster?' (Opposition cheers). To the fact Ulster comes I would say: 'If we reject the bill what are you going to do with Ulster. Connaght and Munster? What is the alternative?'"

"A Unionist Member: A General Election. (Opposition cheers).
Mr. Asquith: Would that solve the difficulty? If you win, everybody knows it would. But suppose we were returned again! Is that going to get rid of the hostility of Ulster? (Unionist cries of "No.")
"I am neither an advocate nor a prophet of civil war. I do not disparage nor minimize in any way the dificulties inherent in any attempt to settle this problem by peaceful means, but the wisdom and partly by the misadventures of a most unhappy past. Our belief is that after the gift of a free local autonomy for Ireland as a whole, there will come as there has come elsewhere, a sense of responsibility and a spirit of tolerance."

Mr. Balfour's Forebodings.
Mr. Balfour, rising from the Front Opposition Bench, moved the rejection of the Bill. He observed that the heartiest and most obviously spontaneous cheer evoked by the Prime Minister's speech was when he indicated that nothing would induce him to appeal to the country—(Front Opposition cheers and laughter)—before forcing this Bill, under our present revolutionary system, on to the Statute Book.

"There is a firm and intense determination in Ulster, at all costs, to maintain what they regard as their inalienable rights, as members of the United Kingdom, and the subjects of the Crown, and the passages of this Bill is going to take you straight on to a great national tragedy."

"I remember a great national disaster during manoeuvres in the Mediterranean in which two great ships of war started upon a course in perfectly calm weather, and to the eye of the landsman moving in perfect safety, yet a point was reached when, to those who knew, it became perfectly certain that no skill upon earth could avoid a collision, between those two great vessels, and that one, or both, must sink with all her men to the bottom."

"I do not say we have reached the point at which this collision with Ulster is inevitable. God forbid, but I say you are moving in that direction. The hours are running out which will enable you to make the necessary change in your course."

"Was this a cause in which hon. members were prepared to shoot down Ulster? Ulster was to be placed under the control of a majority divided from it by ancient wrongs and existing religious differences. If it was Albania, would they treat it so? But it was the mistreatment of Ulster that she did not speak another language and was within eyesight of these shores."

"There were the following alternative courses:—
(1) Devolution, with provincial Houses all over the United Kingdom and one for Ulster. (2) Home Rule for the south and west of Ireland; (3) Ireland could be allowed to become a separate nation, asking nothing and getting nothing from the Empire. Ulster would hold her own then."

"I am perfectly willing to admit that the country was not stirred to its depths with indignation over the Home Rule Bill. As a nation we are perhaps somewhat sluggish in indignation. But what will be the condition of this electorate if you bring yourselves into conflict with the men of Ulster?"

"You may crush Ulster, nothing will be easier if all your forces are directed in a wholehearted manner against that small corner of the country, but you cannot do it if the present indifference of rural England is based on want of knowledge and imagination to realise the hardships of other people. When you bring those hardships home to the hearts of Englishmen there is no rhetoric which will enable you to face the in-ignation you will meet there. Under the guise of the Constitution, under the guise of respect for the will of the majority you are imposing a condition of things which no Englishman would tolerate for himself."

Mr. W. O'Brien blamed the Government, and still more their Irish advisers, for not having made any real bid for a peaceful arrangement.

The Leader of the Opposition had given a pledge that even if this bill were adopted by the people of Great Britain at a general election the opposition of the Unionist party would be at an end.

Mr. Bonar Law: What I said was that, in the event of the people of Great Britain adopting the Bill, at a general election, I, as representing the Unionist party, would not give any assistance or encouragement to armed resistance in Ulster.

Mr. O'Brien accepted this assurance as a separate, isolated, and the safeguards for Ulster in the Bill useless, and advocated the policy of a settlement by compromise.

Sir E. Carson's Warlike Speech.
Sir Edward Carson rose from the front Opposition bench on Tuesday amid a crash of cheers from Unionists. The House was crowded with members anxious to hear the Ulster leader. He said the present proceedings were a sham and a hypocrisy.

"Our duty is to help our own people to organize, and also to ask those people of Great Britain who would never be a party to your wretched, miserable and scandalous betrayal to organize for our assistance."

Referring to the Prime Minister's review of the by-elections, Sir Edward remarked: "I am sceptical myself about statistics. In the law courts we have three classes of witnesses—the barristers, the jurors, and the statisticians. (Laughter)."

Mr. Asquith: Experts.
Sir E. Carson: They are experts. (Laughter). I do not very much believe in the Premier's figures, particularly in regard to the manner in which they are put together to suit his particular view."

Continuing, he said that if armed resistance should be necessary, Ulster had behind them in that armed resistance in present circumstances the whole force of the whole Conservative and Unionist party.

"So long as we have the active cooperation and sympathy of certainly half the population of Great Britain there is no man strong enough, no government strong enough—certainly not this disgraced government—(prolonged Opposition cheers)—to put in force a single clause of this Bill against us."

"Do you, my party, with all my heart I will continue to support the movement in the North of Ireland. I will take full responsibility for every resistance they are able to organize. (Opposition cheers). You can seize arms, but you cannot destroy the spirit of determination. (Loud Opposition cheers). You may send your troops and you may probably prevail upon them to fire upon us, but you will fail."

As an obiter dictum he remarked that he had his own views about ecclesiastics of all kinds. He had been brought into close personal contact with cardinals of the Church of Rome and the Archbishop of Canterbury, and he commended them all generally to God. (Loud laughter and cheers).

The Bill held the field now, and the Government would bate neither heart nor hope, but steer straight on. The House then divided, with the result stated above. Two Liberals voted against the Bill, Sir C. Cory and Mr. Agar Robertson. Last session the same Bill had the following majorities:

First Reading 94
Second Reading 110
Third Reading 110

On Jan. 30 last the measure was rejected by the House of Lords by 226 to 69—majority 257.

The enactment of this measure, backed by a majority of the British members and accepted by the Irish Nationalists, bids fair to establish goodwill amongst all English-speaking people. This has been prevented more than by any one thing by this unhappy feud between Ireland and England, a settlement of which I most earnestly hope and believe will be a powerful contribution to the peace of the world. I feel that the measure is as much in the interests of Great Britain as it is of Ireland."

The rebellion, said Mr. Redmond, of a portion of the population of four counties before any wrong had been done to them—(cheers)—would be a crime and a calamity. Rebellion by over three-fourths of the people of a country, directed and betrayed, condemned to a barren policy of coercion, would be too horrible a thing to contemplate. Therefore, he rejoiced with all his heart to know that this Bill was safe and that the future of Ireland was assured.

Lord Charles Balfour (C) said that if troops were sent to Ulster he would fight in the Unionist ranks and be among the first to be shot down.

Mr. Devlin (Nat.) said that all this talk about civil war in Ulster was nothing more than a device to mislead the English who had not been successful at the English Bar.

No Bargain with Irish Party.
Mr. Bonar Law declared that the "Suggestions Stage" was a famous idea, and the Opposition could take no part in it. He stated the Government with having struck a bargain with the Irish Nationalists over the 1909 Budget and Home Rule, and asked what it part of the bargain that

Doctor Said He Had Diabetes

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cleared Out Every Trace of It.
That's why Mr. David Heon, of Nicolet, Co. Quebec, is recommending the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy To His Neighbors.

ST. WENCESLAS, Nicolet Co., Que., June 22.—(Special)—I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills because the doctor told me I was threatened with diabetes. After taking ten boxes I was again examined by the doctor, and he told me that all trace of diabetes had disappeared."

This is the statement of Mr. David Heon, well-known and highly respected here, and he is only one of many in this neighborhood who have found a new lease of life in the Great Canadian Kidney remedy.

It is true, such as that have given Dodd's Kidney Pills their reputation. They are now known from the Atlantic to the Pacific as the remedy that never fails to cure kidney disease, no matter where or in what form it is found.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are no cure-all. They simply cure diseased kidneys. The reason they cure backache, rheumatism, neuralgia, diabetes, urinary troubles and Bright's diseases is that all of these are either diseases of the kidneys or are caused by diseased kidneys failing to do their work.

There should be no appeal to the country. This brought up Mr. Asquith, who was received with loud Ministerial cheers. He said "I wish to say, speaking for myself and the Government, that there never was a bargain of any sort or kind. (Liberated cries of "Withdraw.")

Mr. Bonar Law: There seems to be some little difference of opinion between the two parties. Some day when they are not united so closely as they are now, perhaps we shall have some interesting revelations. (Opposition cries and cheers of "Withdraw.")

In conclusion, he said the Government were compelling the whole of the Unionist party to take the side of Ulster if Ulster should choose to resist. If the Bill were forced through under present conditions by the Government, they would not be a Government, they would be a self-constituted revolutionary committee, and Ulster could only meet revolution by counter-revolution.

Mr. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, wanted to end the debate by an appeal for compromise and agreement. He said that the principle of an Irish Parliament and an Executive responsible to it were admitted.

As an obiter dictum he remarked that he had his own views about ecclesiastics of all kinds. He had been brought into close personal contact with cardinals of the Church of Rome and the Archbishop of Canterbury, and he commended them all generally to God. (Loud laughter and cheers).

Scout Notes

Brant Avenue Church Troop is holding a swimming gala at Wilkes dam this afternoon. Races and life-saving competitions are being held and prizes are being awarded to the most efficient scouts in this branch of scoutcraft. Horsemanship work will also be taken up, and after supper has been prepared and disposed of, the troop will return to headquarters.

Grace Church troop is now encamped on "Braidside" the property of Mr. R. M. Sheriff on Mt. Pleasant road. The camp is situated on an ideal spot in a wooded grove at the rear of the property. Scoutmaster J. E. Bentham has an interesting programme arranged for the Scouts which will include Woodcraft competitions and other branches of work.

Scoutmaster K. Lorimer returned to Montreal on Thursday night. He spoke very highly of the efficiency which the Scout Movement had attained in Brantford. He expressed great interest in the excellent displays which several of the troops and patrols had given while he was in the city.

Scout Morson Smith has just been admitted to the Headquarters patrol. He is an excellent swimmer, a swimmer and marksman and will be of great assistance to the patrol in all its work.

The Headquarters patrol will camp in St. Andrew's College Grounds, Toronto from the 11th until the 22nd of July. This is an officers' training camp and every interesting detail of scout work will be handled. Commissioners, scoutmasters and instructors will be present from all over Ontario and a most interesting and enjoyable time is assured.

The Headquarters Patrol will participate in a fruit hawk for a basket at Mr. Pleasant Road headquarters at 6:45 p.m., sharp, on Wednesday, July 2nd, for bridge building and pioneer work.

HEROINE IN A NURSERY.
The conspicuous heroism and self-sacrifice of a housemaid named Sarah Elizabeth Hosking, who gave her life to save two little children from fire, were described at the inquest at Marylebone on Thursday.

Mrs. Storey, who stated that she was staying at a private hotel in Park street, Regent, said the girl, who was twenty-three, had had been in her employ for some time. On the morning of May 21 the witness saw her before breakfast about half an hour later she heard a noise as of an explosion, and immediately afterwards the bedroom door was thrown open, and Hosking, with her clothing in flames, pushed in the witness's little boy, whose clothing was also alight.

The girl then rushed back to the nursery, and returned a few minutes later with the baby, which was also in flames. The witness and her husband extinguished the flames on the clothes of all three, and Hosking was attended by the firemen, who were called to the house, and afterwards, removed to the Middlesex Hospital.

Station-officer Linder stated that the hospital he asked the girl how the fire occurred, and she told him she was filling a spirit stove when the spirit in the pan caught alight. She did not think she said, at the time that the stove was alight.

The coroner commented on the girl's extraordinary self-possession and courage in terrible circumstances. Even though in flames herself, her sole thought seemed to have been for the children's preservation.

The jury returned a verdict of "Accidental death."

Just the Man He Wanted.
A Scotch tourist walking about the streets of Paris, some distance from his hotel, found he had taken a wrong turning, and, to make things worse, he couldn't, through ignorance of the language, ask the way.

Then a happy thought struck him. By dint of signs he concluded a barber and a fruit hawk for a basket at Mr. Pleasant Road headquarters at 6:45 p.m., sharp, on Wednesday, July 2nd, for bridge building and pioneer work.

Hints to Girls

I HAVE heard school girls complaining of their buttons all coming off. "I have to sew buttons almost every Saturday," complained one high-school girl. "I'd so much rather have the time for something more edifying or amusing."

Now, if the girls would sew buttons on more securely, they would not have to do this every Saturday so often. The thread used should be as heavy as will well pass through the eye of the needle; then, when the button is sewed on, it should be done in this way: Baste the button to a strip of piece of thin, firm cotton—white, of course. See that the point and design is in shape. Then sew it upon the cotton as closely, too, so that in washing points cannot become loosened thus stretched out of shape. Use lukewarm soapy water, not from the tap and white soap. Lift the tip up and down, squeezing with the thumb and forefinger on a washboard or in the hands. This will keep the cotton straight on a paper or iron on a thick piece of blotting paper. This will keep the cotton straight on a paper or iron on a thick piece of blotting paper.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT

Our Advocate With the Father
Only Approach to God is Through Jesus—
Divine Guidances Needed.

Sermon by Charles T. Russell, Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle

Vancouver, B.C., June 22.—Our City is once more honored by a visit from Pastor Russell. He reports one of his sermons which probes deeply a topic of vital importance to thoughtful people—How may sinners come into relationship with God? His text was, "We have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the Righteous."—John 9:1.

Authorized to lift up mankind from sin and degradation, and to restore all the willing and obedient to human perfection in a world-wide Eden. Then came the Gospel invitation to all believers in Jesus. The invitation is to become joint-heirs in that Kingdom which is to bless the world. I am convinced that many hearts are longing for God, or, as the Psalmist expresses it, "My heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God." It is one thing to know about God, Jesus, the Divine Plan of the Ages, the selection of the Church to be the Messianic Kingdom, and the Millennium in which the Christ, Head and Body, will bless and uplift mankind; but it is quite another matter to know how to come to God, how to get into this Church class. The general thought is, I want to know God—I will see God there. But alas, that is not to be found in every church. Nay, we cannot even say that every professed minister of Christ is able to point the way to the true way to fellowship and harmony with Jehovah.

Alas, too often it is the case that ministers have no knowledge of this way—have never come to God themselves! Alas, too many will be found full of forms and ceremonies, and some full of hypocrisy, and some full of superstition! In some instances, they will try to lead you to another church of another denomination—possibly finding themselves merely entertained by a talented choir, singing words not understood, or hearing an eloquent dissertation on politics, science or evolution. Often such conclude that their souls are in a helping hand, orally or by their pen, to all within his reach. And he invited correspondence from such.

At first it would seem to be a hopeless case, but the King of kings is very gracious, and has sent a message declaring His sympathy. He has pointed us to the Lamb of God and His sacrifice for our sins, and has sent a Father, fellow-ship and blessing, and are out of them from. How shall we overcome such barriers?

WORKERS FOR THE BLIND

Principal Gardiner Returns Saturday Evening From Conference.

Mr. Gardiner, Principal of the Ontario School for the Blind, returned on Saturday evening from Jacksonville, Illinois, where he spent four days in attendance at the twelfth biennial convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind, which meets in the year alternating with the years in which the State of Iowa is the headquarters of the convention. The convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind, which meets in the year alternating with the years in which the State of Iowa is the headquarters of the convention. The convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind, which meets in the year alternating with the years in which the State of Iowa is the headquarters of the convention.

At the convention there were delegates from such widely separated places as Maine and California, Georgia and Oregon, Texas and North Dakota. The topics discussed included pecuniary relief to the blind, intermarriage of the blind, work shops and industrial homes, etc., the one which aroused most general interest being the report of the Uniform Type Committee. It has long been thought that there is a waste of money and efficiency in printing books for the blind in two systems of letter type characters, but those who used New York type thought their system better than American Braille system. The Committee has got the length of deciding that both are susceptible of improvement, but a new system or a compromise system to take the place of both has not yet been perfected. Contrary to the expectations of some the debate on this question, though vigorous, was not bitter, and the Committee received leave to "sit again." The sessions of convention lasted from Tuesday until Friday.

Mr. Gardiner took with him to Jacksonville a small supply of the special appliances which he has designed and prepared to facilitate the literary and musical education of blind children and adults, and as usual he has promised to send a considerable quantity of these things to schools and individuals in the United States.

SCOTCH CASTLE WAS DESTROYED

One of the Largest in Scotland Totally Ruined by Fire.

GLASGOW, Scotland, June 30.—Balkinrail castle, at Balfour, Strathlingshire, one of the largest in Scotland, was gutted by fire this morning. Only the bare walls remain. The fire seems almost without doubt to have been of incendiary origin, as the private fire apparatus had been cut and rendered useless. The usual rumors laying the blame for the outrage on the militant suffragettes rapidly spread but the evidence was not found to connect them with the castle. The castle cost $200,000 and was built by Sir Archibald Ernest Erskine. It contained 100 rooms. It had been unoccupied for some time.

INDUSTRIAL DAY CLASS
Editor Courier:
Sir,—I find that some misunderstanding exists regarding the purpose and work of the industrial day class which is held in the Collegiate Institute throughout the session, and shall be glad if you can find space for this note of explanation.
The industrial class exists principally for boys who intend entering trades, or professions in touch with trades, and the pupils are taught with the purpose of fitting them for such. The work done in the class is for the most part technical. During the morning sessions the pupils take mechanical drawing, workshop mathematics, advanced woodwork or metal work. The afternoons are taken up with ordinary class work, history, geography, English, arithmetic, science, etc.
Only a limited number of pupils can be admitted. Those preferred are boys in the lower or senior fourth book, whose teachers consider that they have attained a satisfactory standard in English and arithmetic. There is no fee charged, but pupils are accepted on the understanding that they complete the full year's course.
Qualification in the industrial class does not admit pupils to the ordinary classes of the Collegiate Institute, such can only be obtained by passing the entrance examinations. Pupils may now be enrolled for the ensuing session on application to Mr. Burt, principal of the Institute, or to the undersigned.
