wards Calais Receives Most Severe Check.

Russian Advance is Slow but Sure, Say Despatches.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Nov. 16 .- 10.20 a.m. -The armies of the allies and of Germany remain deakdlocked in West Flanders to-day, along the battle line, where the snow is now ankle deep with the prospect of another week of intermittent artillry duels and infantry clashes, which for more than a month, have been swinging back and forth have been swinging back and forth and the adverse shifts of men in the trenches, and there will be an incrase of sickness, especially in lung and throat affections. In short, trench warfare, already la-borious and exhausting, will daily become a great ordeal.

The Germans have not abandon-The Germans have not abandoned their attempt to reach the French coast towns, and yet they have not advanced. To-day, according to the claims of the allies they are back on the right bank of the Yser, having been forced to release their grip on such points on the left bank held so stubbornly the them last week. described in the official communication given out in Paris last night as "the noteworthy incident of the day," and it shows how little change there has been elsewhere, either in Belgium or in France.

In the meantime the Germans are putting the finishing touches to the defences stretching row after row from Ostend to the Dutch border and should their present lines he broken they probably sent lines be broken they probably will endeavor to winter in these snug and carefully prepared posi-

In the eastern arena of the war, the Germans are making and ex-cuting similar plans in the face of the Russian advance. It is said that great German forces are be-ing concentrated at Thorn, Posen and Breslau with the idea of keep-ing the Russians out of important ing the Russians out of important districts in the provinces of Posen and Silesia.

A word of caution to the allies comes from Petrograd. This is that they must not expect the Russians to sweep onto Berlin, Russians to sweep onto Berlin, overnight, as it were, as this may take months and even longer. The Germans occupy the defences they have been prparing for years, and in addition to this they may be able to spare even more men for the operation on their eastern the operation on their eastern front. Russians armies seem to be gradually converging on Cracow, and the siege or investment of this place appears not to be far off. It is suggested that the Austrian garrison of Cracow might surrender to avoid a bombardment, but this can be called nothing more than a suggestion.

In East Prussia the Russian forward movement seems to continue and it is said that the Russian generals are imposing on the captured town fines in proportion to those levied by the Germans on the cities of Belgium. These fines correspond with the population of the town taken. The British operations against the Turks have the town taken. The British operations against the Turks have spread the conflagration to the southern entrance of the Black Sea, where Indian troops assisted by a British warship have taken a Turkish fort. In the Caucasus the Russians and the Turks are still at grips, both sides claiming victories.

The spy agitation in England again has flared up. To-day all persons leaving London for the continent must depart from a designated railroad station, where the person and baggage of every traveller is subjected to a search for maps and drawings and anything else that might be intended for the use of the enemy.

STRINGENT MEASURES

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The British authorities are adopting strongest measures to prevent the leakage of military news to Germany. Charing Cross station has been closed for continental traffic until further notice. All trains for Flushing or for Dieppe for Paris will start from Victoria station and all bassengers will be searched before they enter the trains and all luggage will be overhauled. It is understood that this step has been taken to prevent spionage and the passing of drawings, photographs and plans or information to the enemy. STRINGENT MEASURES

> [By Special Wire to the Courier] PARIS, Nov. 16 .- 2.51 p.m.-The French official announcement given out in Paris this afternoon says that yesterday along the Yser canal between Nieuport and Dixmude, the fighting was limited to artillery exchanges.

The text of the communication The text of the communication follows:

The Germans, who endeavored to cross the Yser canal between Dixmude and Bixschoote, were driven back, and a German regiment was destroyed south of Bixschoote. Allies Could Now Make Germans Retreat But Do Not Want to Sacrifice the Men-London's Opinion This Afternoon.

[By epecial Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Nov. 16 .- (2 p.m.) - Fast and furious fighting, both in the eastern and the western arenas of the war, is expected by English military observers to make this coming week memorable, even in a war each week of which has witnessed deadly fighting equal in carnage to the great battles of history. And at the same time hints from the front encourage them to expect that the present week will see also the beginning of the ebbing of the German tide through Flanders toward the coast towns of Dunkirk and Calais. The chief note sounded by the French official announcements of yesterday, indicating that Ypres, Armentiers, Bethune, Arras and other inland gates to the sea coast, remain so far impregnable barriers to all the German assaults, is doubtless responsible for this optimism. While the vigor of the German offensive may have slackened, there is at the present moment little, if any, indication of a resolve on the part of the German commanders to abandon the plans which already have cost them so dearly. At least one more comprehensive attempt to break through the allied lines, therefore, is expected before the next phase of the operations opens. This, it is thought in London, granted that the German advance is not continued, will be the siege of the trenches carefully prepared by the Germans in the rear of their present lines.

The forecasts of these strategists point out that the Allies are under no compulsion to force the issue at the present stage, although they contend this could be done if the Allies were prepared to pay the price in men. They consequently anticipate a development of holding tactics, with the view of keeping the German armies in the eastern arena busy while the Russian masses, a thousand miles to the eastward, are moving forward to the struggle for the possession of Silesia, Posen and East Prussia.

Brant Dragoons to Send Strong Force

The 25th Brant Dragoons, 115 strong, will form part of the cavalry force with the second contingent to leave Canada for active service. This was the announcement made to-day by Lieut.-Col. Muir. The four officers chosen to go from Brantford with the contingent are Captain William Reginald Patterson, son of Mayor Patterson of Paris; Lieut. Harvey Cockshutt, Lieut. J. E. Lattimer and Lieut. Leonard Bishop, all well known to Brantfordites. Just when they will depart is hard to say, as definite orders in this regard have not yet been received.

In the meantime recruits are wanted for the Dragoons, and four officers are leaving for Stanley Barracks, Toronto, to secure their certificates. They are as follows: Lieut. J. H. Pearce, to qualify as a captain; Lieut. Tom Mintern, J. Stratford and Gordon Cockshutt, the latter three to qualify as lieutenants.

Heavy Rains in Flanders Have Stopped Fighting of the Germans-Reserve Forces Will Count For Great Deal.

GERMANS ARE DONE PARIS, Nov. 16.—The diminishing intensity of the German assaults in Flanders to due to assaults in Flanders to due to some extent to severe weather conditions. The flooded section is increasing in area as a result of the continuance of heavy rain, and the country between Nieuport and Dixmude is a vast swamp in which guns and ammunition wagons, abandoned by the Germans, lie embedded, and in which float countless corpses. The Germans have been washed out of their trenches in several places, says an eye-witness, who has just returned from the front, but they continue to send an occasional continue to send an occasional shell to the French trenches.

front, but a fierce effort is to be expected from Dixmude to Arras as soon as the German troops have recovered from their tremendous exertions of last week, and new men can be brought up to fill the gaps in the ranks.

The fate of the war depends now, says Col. Feyler, an eminent Paris military writer, essentially on the reserve of men that the armies are able to bring up, and in this respect, according to military opinion here, Germany appears to be in a state of inferiority. Not only does the Russian offensive prevent Germany from transferring men from the eastern to the western front, they point out, but troops that are now being instructed in the interior will necessarily be sent against the Russias.

It is also pointed out that Germany has to operate on fronts totallying nearly 1,000 miles with twenty-five active army corps, while the allies have at their disposal twenty-nine army corps

Germans.

So far as ruipment is concerned, the infinitry on both sides are equally well supplied. At the beginning the Germans were much better off with quick firers, but the allies have now caught up by intensive production in the arms factories. In the artillery, the allies are said to have the advantage as far as light pieces are concerned, but the German heavy artillery is incontespieces are concerned, but the German heavy artillery is incontestiably superior. They are not likely to retain that superiority long, since both the French and British arsenals are beginning to deliver big guns, and the allies have plenty of trained men to serve them, irrespective of the Japanese gunners: 'whose early arrival at Marseilles is announced by rumor.

Berlin Hears Cheerful News

BERLIN, Nov. 16 .- (By wireless to Sayville) .- According to information given officially to the press to-day, reports reaching Berlin from Geneva set forth that the British torpedo boat destroyer Falcon, the cruiser Brilliant and the sloop of war Rinaldo have been disabled by German guns on the Belgian coast.

September 30—was 2 contributory cause of death, although he had been in his usual health lately, which was exceptionally good for a man of his age.

His death will have purely a sentimental effect upon the situation. Since the outbreak of the present war he has been working hard imploring young men to realize their country's danger, and to effer their services in the present war. For wears he has been preaching the doctrine of British military unpreparedness, and when he retired from active service in 1905 he devoted his time in attempting to arouse all England to the urgent necessity of adopting compulsory military training and service. Several times since the end of last July he has conferred at the War Office with Lord Kitchener.

WAS ABOUT TO RETURN.

Lord Roberts left England on Wednesday with his daughter, Lady Aileen Roberts, and his son-in-law, Major Lewin. The party had a rough trip across the channel, but the aged General felt no ill-effects and went through with his programme on the Continent, In fact he was about to return home when his death occurred ent, in fact he was about to turn home when his death occurred.

Earl Roberts had motored to the British bases and camps, had reviewed the Indian troops and had conferred with the leading officers. It was not until about dinner time, Friday evening that he complained of a slight chill. As he was subject to more or less trifling chest troubles, he followed his usual course and went to bed early. As his temperature increased medical men were called in and pronounced his condition critical. They relieved the general of what pain he was suffer ing, and he fell asleep. His death occured during sleep.

The passing of the great warrior has created profound grief throughout the country. At all churches, and in camps where the soldiers are training, touching references were made Sunday to his death, and the "Dead March inSaul" was played.

PARIS, Nov. 16—It is learned here that the end of Lord Roberts was glorious; that, although he contracted a chill almost immediately after his arrival in France, he insisted on going to the front to see the troops. He shook hands with the men, and in moving about crossed what is now a veritable bog. An affection of the lungs developed, and Lord Roberts returned to Boulogne.

"I don't expect to recover," he is quoted as saying after his arrival in Boulogne, "but I am glad to die near many of my old comrades."

The Poets on "Bobs"

The following verses are taken from Kipling's famous ode to Lord Roberts, which was so often quoted and pubshed during the Boer war:

"There's a little red-faced man,
Which is Bobs,
Rides the tallest 'orse 'e can—
Our Bobs,
If it bucks or kicks or rears,
'E can sit for twenty years,
With a smile round both 'is ears—
Can't yer, Bobs?

"If you stood 'im on 'is 'ead,
Fightin' Bobs,
You could spill a quart of lead
Outer Bobs.
'E's been at it thirty years,
'An' amassing souvineers
In the shape of slugs and spears,
Ain't yer, Bobs?

"What 'e does not know o' war,
Gen'ral Bobs,
You can arst the shop next door,
Can't they, Bobs?
Oh, 'e's little, but 'e's wise,
'E's a terror for 'is size,
An' 'e does not advertise,
Do yer, Bobs?

'E's a little down on drink, But it keeps us outer clink,
Don't it, Bobs?
So we will not complain,
Though 'e's water on the brain,
If 'e leads us straight again,
Blue-light Bobs!

"Then 'ere's to Bobs Babadur,
Little Bobs! Bobs! Bobs!
Pocket Wellin'ton an' 'arder,
Fightin' Bobs! Bobs! Bobs!
This ain't no bloomin' ode,
But you'ye 'elped the soldier's load,
An' for benefits bestowed
Liless you, Bobs!"

GRANDMA USED SAGE

Restore Color, Gloss, Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into heavy tea with sulphur and alshol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxurant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at durg stores, known as Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus voiding a lot of muss. While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after anther application or two, your hair ecomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft

LONDON, Nov. 16.-The Prime Minister is expected to make to-day a statement in Parliament concern-ing the British attitude on the taking of reservists from neutral vessels on its treatment of copper and oil as contraband, and on the closing of the North Sea. These questions have been laid before Mr. Asquith with the statement that they have been agitating the American public and arousing a great deal of comment in the American press. It is therefore with a view to explaining the situation to America that the Premier makes the pronouncement.

LONDON, Nov 16-Followers of rofessional football in England are reatly agitated over a statement isued last night by Under Secretary or War, H. J. Tennant, relative to for War, H. J. Tennant, relative to the attitude of the military authorities toward this sport.

Asked whether football should be played in time of war Under Secretary Tennant is reported to have replied: "The military authorities have no objection to the game as an occasional recreation, but professional football is not within that category, and it is more desirable that professional football players should find employment in His Majesty's forces."

The secretary of the Football Association declares that the stopping of the game would mean a loss to Worcester of $10,000,000 yearly.

This new expression of opinion is totally different from that given by the powers that be at Whitehall when asked for their advice on this identical point very early in the season. They then advised that the sport go on as usual and help keep the mind of the people as much as pos-go on as usual and help keep the mind of the people as much as possible from the tragedies attendant upon the war. The different clubs then ofered their grounds for centres of drill, but when the War Office could find no use for the fields, players in many centres banded themselves into military corps of a kind and under reservists and Territorial officers began to learn the rudiments of miligan to learn the rudiments of mili-tary drill. Of discipline they knew plenty as obedience to orders is the first lesson a well trained footballer taught. public use as well.

The opinion of the Under-Secre? tary for War will doubtless come as a surprise to followers of the game in general, but the footballer is not lacking in patriotism but will willingly bow the knee to the inevitable. Should enlistment of professional players of the game become able. Should enlistment of professional players of the game become general, as doubtless it will if the spirit of the new opinion is acted upon, the fighting ranks will be added to by thousands of the best conditioned men in the Old Country to-

Worcester's loss will doubtless be heavy, as it is in that quarter that & e bulk of the uniforms sported by the players are manufactured; but the loss to club managements and individual players will also be extensive. Crude as was the design of the ships of the ancients some of their salient points are to be found-in a highly developed degree, of coursein the battleships of the present day. The fighting ship, the historian: tell, originated in China. The Chin ese were the first daring navigators And so daring did they become and so many countries did they visit that the emperor, fearing that too many outside ideas would be conveyed into China, ordered that all ships should be modeled after the form of his

The ships of the Norsemen and the Mediterranean fleets were the next stage in the development of the battleship. Here sails were infrequently relied upon. Garley slaves with long sweeping oars propelled the craft.

Harsh drivers with long whips spurred on the oarsmen, who were usually prisoners of war, heathens in Christian countries and vice versa,

The top decks were for the fight ing freemen. Forward they fought with battle axe and catapult; af were the archers in solid phalanx about the ship's commander. A huge ram stood out of the ship's bows, prepared to sink any craft it crushed

The great fleet of Venice, which for a time ruled the seas, was cr ganized on this plan. The ships of the Vikings were smaller and not always manned with galley slaves. The rowers, freemen sat in plain view along the gunwales protected by their shields and took their part in battle.

The ill-fated Spanish Armada de stroyed by the English, offers the best connecting link between the ancient warshins and those of the present day. The Armada was equipped with cannon. After the Armada came the ester and better ships of the time of Drake.

GRAND BARGAINS FROM BRANT-FORD'S LARGEST LINEN STOCK

A GRAND SALE OF BEAUTIFUL IRISH LINENS

SALE STARTS TUESDAY MORNING

READ EVERY ITEM

SALE STARTS TUESDAY MORNING

E have special reasons for offering our stock of Beautiful Irish Linens at special prices. Here is a good reason:—Two weeks ago the representative for the largest "LINEN HOUSE" in Ireland (Yes; we might say, in the world, and be correct in our statement) called on us and when we asked him to send up his samples, he informed us that he had none. Here are his exact words:— "Owing to the scarcity of linen and the closing down of several large mills in Ireland, we are not selling any stock at all, but instead, I am commissioned to buy any good reliable stock of linens at an advance of 25 per cent., and I am here to-day to buy yours if you will sell." Naturally we turned the offer down as we knew we would not get such a stock again for a long time, and besides why not consider our customers? Then again we bought most of these beautiful linens at special low prices. Now in order to make this sale one GRAND SUCCESS, we are going to sacrifice the profit on some of the lines, not all mind you, as we could not afford to do that, and we promise you Grand Bargains. Below is a partial list. SEE WINDOW AND INTERIOR DISPLAY!

The only thing that has prevented wars from being massacres, and peace from being needlessly broken in the intervals between wars is the Law of Nations. Not in peace, but in time of war, is the paramount necessity of a Law of Nations most deeply and earnestly felt. Disobedience to that Law of Nations debars Germany from again signing any treaty with England.

The object of all war is to establish the ascendency of one or other or groups of nations. Germanys ideal is Germany over all. England's ideal is liberty.

Aylwara, having unstrung his bow, had remounted his horse during this conversation, and the two rode swiftly past the little squat Chapel of the Martyr and over the brow of the hift.
From the summit they looked back.
The injured archer lay upon the ground, with several of his comrades them. An instant later the curve of the ground had hid them from view. So, amid love and hate, Nigel bade adieu to the home of his youth.

And now the comrades were jour-

And now the comrades were jour-neying upon that old, old road which runs across the south of England and yet never turns toward London, for the good reason that the place was men were in parade order, and that in a poor hamlet when first the road front of them was a group of officers, was laid. From Winchester, the Saxon capital, to Canterbury, the holy city of Kent, ran that ancient high-way, and on from Canterbury to the narrow straits where, on a clear day, the farther shore can be seen. Along this track as far back as history can trace the metals of the west have been carried and passed the pack-horses which bere the goods which Gaul sent in exchange. Older than the Christian faith and older than the Romans, is the old road. North and south are the woods and the marshes, so that only on the high dry turf of the chalk land could a clear track be found. The Pilgrim's Way, it is called; but the pilgrims were the last who ever trod it, for it was already of immemorial age before the death of Thomas a Becket gave a new reason why folk should journey to the scene of his murder.

From the hill of Weston Wood the south are the woods and the marshes

From the hill of Weston Wood the travelers could see the long white band which dipped and curved and rose over the green downland, its course marked even in the hollows by the line of the old yew-trees which flanked it. Neither Nigel nor Ayl-ward had wandered far from their own country, and now they rode with light hearts and eager eyes taking note of all the varied pictures of nature and of man which passed before them. To their left was a hilly country to the country of the country of the country, and now they rote with the country, and the country the country of try, a land of rolling heaths and woods, broken here and there into open spaces round the occasional farm-house of a franklin. Hackhurst Down, Dunley Hill, and Ranmore Common swelled and sank, each merging into the other. But on the right, after passing the village of Shere and the old church of Gomshall, the whole south country lay like a map at their feet. There was the huge wood of the Weald, one unbroken forest of oak-trees stretching away to the South Downs, which rose olive-green against the deep blue sky. Under this great canopy of trees strange folk lived and evil deeds were done. In its recesses were wild tribes, little changed from their heati who danced round the altar of Thor, and well was it for the peaceful traveler that he could tread the high open road of the chalk land with no need to wander into so dangerous a tract, where soft clay, tangled forest and wild men all barred his progress.

But apart from the rolling country upon the left and the great forest-hidden plain upon the right, there was much upon the road itself to engage the attention of the wayfarers. It was crowded with people. As far as their eyes could carry they could see the black dots scattered thickly upon the thin white band, sometimes single, sometimes several abreast, single, sometimes several abreast, sometimes in moving crowds, where a drove of pilgrims held together for mutual protection, or a nobleman showed his greatness by the number of retainers who trailed at his heels. At that time the main roads were very crowded, for there were many wandering people in the land. Of all sorts and kinds, they passed in an unbroken stream before the eyes of Nigol and Arlward alike only in the

Nigel and Aylward, alike only in the fact that one and all were powdered from their hair to their shoes with the gray dust of the chalk. There were monks journeying from one cell to another, Benedictines with their black gowns looped up to show their white skirts, Carthusians in white, and pied Cistercians. Friars also of the three wanderns orders— Dominicans in black; Carmelites in white and Franciscans in gray. There was no love lost between the cloistered monks and the free friars, each looking on the other as a rival who took from him the oblations of the faithful; so they passed on the high road as cat passes dog, with eyes askance and angry faces.

Then besides the men of the church there were men of trade, the merchant in dusty broadcloth and Flanders hat riding at the head of his line of packhorses. He carried Cornish tin, West-country wool, or Sussex iron if he traded eastward, or if his head should be turned westward then he bore with him the velvets of Genoa, the ware of Venice, the wine of France, or the armor of Italy and Spain. Piloring, were everywhere, noor people grims were everywhere, poor people for the most part, plodding wearily along with trailing feet and bowed heads, thick staves in their hands and bundles over their shoulders. Here and there on a gaily caparisoned palfrey, or in the greater luxury of a horse-litter, some West-country lady might be seen making her easy way to the shrine of Saint Thomas.

Besides all these a constant stream of strange vagabonds drifted along the of strange vagabonds drifted along the road: minstrels who wandered from fair to fair, a foul and pestilent crew; jugglers and acrobats, quack doctors and tooth-drawers, students and beggars, free workmen in search of better wages, and escaped bondsmen who would welcome any wages at all. Such was the throng which set the old road smoking in a haze of white dust from Winchester to the narrow sea.

They roared rude pleasantries at Aylward, who turned in his saddle and shouted his opinion of them until they were out of hearing.

Once, late in the afternoon, they overtook a body of a hundred archers all marching together with two confidence making satisfactory progress there.

German Agents Suspected of Business and Duty Demand Attempt to Embarass England.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Nov. 16 .- Gold is being hoarded in England at such a rate as to cause much discussion. About £30,000,000 sterling ($150,000,000) has been received in gold by England from other countries in the last three in gold by England from other countries in the last three months. Moreover, treasury notes have been put into circulation to the amount of £30,250,000 in addition to £5,000,000 in Bank of England notes. Nevertheless, the increase in gold holdings of the Bank of England has amounted to no more than the gold actually received from abroad. This proves conclusively, it is said, that there is a general hoarding of gold.

The Mail suggests that some of this gold being sent to Germany by means of secret agents, women as well as men, and it demands that a strict examination be made of all tourists to see that they are not assisting Germany to build up a large gold supply at the expense of England's holdings. It is reported that there will shortly be a transfed of £10,000,000 sterling in gold from Puscia to London The fed of £10,000,000 sterling in gold from Russia to London. The gold, it is believed, will be deposited in the Bank of England and ear-marked for Russian account to restore the exchange between England and Russia and to facilitate commercial and financial transactions between the two countries. The plan of treasury relief in relation to the $90,000,000 sterling advanced on loans to the stock exchange, provides that banks to which currency facilitates are open will not press for repayment of loans made on se-curities until after peace is con-cluded. The Bank of England undergovernment guarantee, will advance to other tenders sixty der government guarantee, will curities held by them on loans outstanding on July 29. Loans are to bear interest payable fort to bear interest, payable fort-nightly, at I per cent over the bank rate. When any of the se-curities reach the July 20 settle-ment price, the bank will have the right to call for repayment

The stock exchange will not reopen the exchange without the consent of the treasury. This is the first occasion on which the stock exchange has come under any sort of control outside its own committees. It is generally believed that the p'an will have beneficial effects, not only for its direct advantages to brokers, bankers and investors, but be-cause of the fact that it will release a large quantity of funds for use in general trade.

Another Turk Under Arrest

With $12.85 in his pockets, and a Turkish face and carriage, Ale Hassan, found it impossible to make Detroit when he arrived in the city from Boston. P. C. Pickells was the man who blocked the passage and brought the Turk to the enclosing arms of the law, with the result that another son of the Ottoman Empire is resident in our city for a few days before he is taken to his compatriots at Kingston. He does not care a great deal, but he earnestly endeavored to prove to his captor that his precautions were unnecessary. He land ed in on the 3.29 a.m. train which steamed in from Boston and his ticket had run out. Knowing full well that Brantford was no safe resort for was legally an enemy and as such was held. Chief Slemin has communicated with Colonel Elliott, and Ali will probably have company down to Kingston to-morrow.

That Imperial "Patriotics" Are Essential in Local Purchasing.

Imperial "patriotics" mean just ich business and as much business as the Linen sale of Ogilvie, Lochhead's will create this week. The world's linen industry, centered as it mostly is, in Ireland, is hard hit; napkins must be sold; kerchiefs mannapkins must be sold; kerchiets man-ufactured, and table cloths be in demand, or else for the Shamrock Isle hard days are in store. Interde-pendence has linked up areas of pro-duction and markets of disposal throughout every land on the "all-red route"

We, in Canada, are going to benefit; the "made in Germany" legend will be superseded by the Maple Leaf brand wherever manufactories will permit. Certain lands are famous for permit. Certain lands are famous for specialization in production in textules. Scotland for tweed, England for cotton spinning, and Ireland for those fabrics of the loom which are asked for in every clime, Irish linens.

The local firm has always extensively bought of these fabrics, ignoring the temptation of tenimes grasped. ing the temptation oftenimes grasped by greedy deparmental stores to sub-stitute for Irish "a green isle" variety or a somewhat similar legend whose label colered is in emerald hue, had a very small type this added note "made in Saxony." Unthinking people never looked till the goods were passed over, and the Irish linen industry was thus getting a decided se back. Such tactics are dispicable an unworthy of any house under the Union Jack—we have come to see it that our existence depends on our unity of commerce and our inter-colonial exchange. Within the hallowed circle of our Imperialism war has shown us just how-we can buy from Britain where they manufacture, and Britain can buy from us where the materials grow.

To follow up this policy every Canadian must buy in Canada first, then buy in Great Britain next never allowing one cast of cash to pass into lowing one cent of cash to pass into a foreign manufacturer's profits. Ireland and her sorrows have claime our sympathies; the beauty of the fabrics turned out from her looms our admiration, and nowhere else in the world can such work be executed for the Isle of Erin alone climatically can meet with the demands of re inement and taste.

You will be interested alone in th display at Ogilvie & Lochead's if alone for the great range of its exhibit—it is a unique and splendid showing well worth your visit. Go and see it, you will be instructed in "patriotics" of the real lasting var-
